John Johnstone made one return voyage to the Coast on the HBC vessel Norman Morison. He would have stopped at Fort Simpson and Sitka before returning to England.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Johnstone, John [2] [variation: Johnston] (fl. 1853 - 1861) (probably Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Red River Settlement [Manitoba]

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman and labourer, New Caledonia (1853 - 1855); Labourer, New Caledonia (1855 - 1860); Untraced vocation, Western Department (1860 - 1861).

John Johnstone joined the HBC in 1853, possibly in Red River. He worked in the New Caledonia [British Columbia] area until the end of his contract in 1859. He still appeared to do odd jobs in 1859-1860.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1-8

Johnstone, Robert [variation: Johnson, Johnston] (fl. 1826 - 1831) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Aberdeen, Scotland

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1826 - 1830); Seaman, Eagle (brig) (1830 - 1831).

Robert Johnstone joined the HBC in London on September 20, 1826 and sailed to the coast on the schooner Cadboro.

He worked for approximately three years on the coast servicing coastal posts before transferring to the brig Eagle on October 1, 1830 and arrived back in London around April 1831.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 4; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-2; YFASA 7-10; YFDS 2b

Johnstone, William [3] (fl. 1849 - 1851) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Cook, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1851).

William Johnstone made one return voyage to the Coast on the HBC vessel Norman Morison. He would have stopped at Fort Simpson and Sitka before returning to England.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Jollibois, Jean Baptiste (c. 1796 - 1861) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably La Prairie, Lower Canada - c. 1796

Death: Victoria, Colony of Vancouver Island - October 1861

Fur trade employee

HBC Steersman, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825); Bowsman, New Caledonia (1825 - 1830); Boute, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1831); Boute, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1849); Shepherd, Fort Nisqually (1849 - 1852).

Jean Baptiste Jollibois joined the NWC around 1813 at the age of seventeen and went on to become a lifetime employee. In 1816 he was working somewhere in the Northwest and, just after amalgamation, in outfit 1821-1822, he was working at Isle a la Crosse. Some time between then and 1824, he began work on the Pacific slopes. He was likely involved in the cross-country brigade for a few years for, in outfit 1826-1827, for example, he was paid in Montreal. After working at a variety of posts throughout the Columbia/New Caledonia for twenty-eight years, he finally retired in either 1851 or 1852 and, before 1855, Jollibois moved to the Victoria region with his family. Although he worked at a bowsman's wages, he often worked in carpentry work. In 1859, the Company purchased for Jollibois twenty acres [8.1 ha] in the Victoria District and, in 1860 is listed as being at Baton, Burnside. On October 6, 1861 while he was walking along the Saanich Road in the vicinity of the PSAC Cloverdale Farm, he flagged down a lumber laden wagon to hitch a ride. As he was getting on, the horses became unruly and he fell off landing in the path of a wheel which ran over his chest. He died very shortly after and was buried in Victoria on October 7, 1861.

Jean Baptiste Jollibois appears to have had one wife, Susan (c.1820-1885), Tse-ka-ost aka Josette from the Nass area, as well as seven children: an unnamed child (?-1836), Sophia (c.1840-?), Julia/Julian? (c.1842-1880), Ester/Esther (c.1845-?), Catherine (c.1848-?), Jean Baptiste (1853-1855), Edward (?-bap.1855-?), and Susan (?-1885) or she may be the same as Josette. His descendants could not be found in the 1881 or 1891 Censuses and may have moved from the area.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA FtStjmsLS 1; YFASA 1, 4-6, 8-9, 11-15, 19-20, 24-32; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-9; YFDS 3a-3b, 4b-7; FtSimp[N]PJ 3-4; FtVicASA 1-2; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Lewis County; BCA BCCR StAndC; 1860 Victoria Directory, p. 31; Van-PL Colonist, Oct. 7, 1861, p. 3, Oct. 8, 1861, p. 3 PPS: E. Ermatinger, p. 105

Jomanno [variation: Iomanno, Jomano] (fl. 1845 - 1852) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands - 1826

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1847); Labourer, Cowlitz Farm (1847 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1850 - 1851); Labourer, Cowlitz Farm (1851 - 1852).

Iomanno joined the HBC from Oahu on May 7, 1845. For the next seven years he appeared to do farm work and deserted from the Cowlitz farm on August 21, 1852.

PS: HBCA YFASA 25-32; YFDS 23; FtVanASA 9; PSACAB 37; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Clark

Jones (fl. 1843 - 1848) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: probably Cape Disappointment, Oregon Territory - January 1848

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort George [Astoria] (1843 - 1847); Labourer, Cape Disappointment (1848).

The Hawaiian recorded as Jones signed on with the HBC from Oahu in 1843. He appears to have spent his entire career as a labourer at Fort George at the mouth of the Columbia. On January 31, 1848, he died at Cape Disappointment, likely from the measles epidemic at that time.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 8; YFASA 24-27; YFDS 16-18

Jones, Benjamin (fl. 1811 - 1813) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

PFC Hunter, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (1811 - 1812).

After spending two years at the headwaters of the Missouri, Benjamin Jones joined Wilson Price Hunt's PFC Overland Expedition about May 20, 1811, crossing the Continental Divide in late summer, 1811. He reached Astoria in either January or February 1812 and joined Robert Stuart's eastward expedition for St. Louis where he arrived on April 30, 1813.

PPS: K. W. Porter, Roll of Overland, p. 108

Jones, Daniel (fl. 1843 - 1851) (British: English)

Birth: probably Dover, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1843 - 1844); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1844 - 1845); Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1845 - 1846); Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1851).

Daniel Jones shipped on with the HBC vessel Cowlitz around September 20, 1843 for its voyage to the coast. He worked on coastal shipping and returned to the coast several times, with a gap of three years that has been unaccounted for. Generally Jones' career was uneventful except on July 24, 1844 when he and a group of others refused to work with the boatswain of the Cowlitz. As well, on August 25, 1845 at Fort Vancouver, when, as a result of Jones confessing to the mate, William Mouat that he was drunk, Jones was ordered below. He refused and only when Captain James Scarborough went to fetch the irons did Jones go below. He was on duty the next day and all was well after that.

PS: HBCA log of Cowlitz 2; YFASA 24-25; log of Cadboro 5; PortB 1

Jones, Evan (? - 1841) (British: Welsh)

Birth: probably Wales

Death: Honolulu, Oahu, Hawaiian Islands - July 1841

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1841 - 1842).

Evan Jones shipped on with the HBC in London on August 24, 1840 and sailed to the coast on the Cowlitz. Evans, who had been ill throughout the voyage to the coast, was taken ashore on a side trip to Honolulu and put in sick lodgings on June 29, 1841. Two days later, on July 1, 1841, he died and was buried the same day in a funeral attended by the first mate and crew.

PS: HBCA log of Cowlitz 1

Jones, Hugh (fl. 1854 - 1855) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1854 - 1855).

Hugh Jones made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Jones, John [variation: Johns] (fl. 1814 - 1815) (Undetermined origin)

Maritime employee

NWC Seaman, Columbia (schooner) (1814 - 1815).

Seaman John Jones (Johns) was a crew member of the NWC schooner Columbia when it was on the Northwest Coast in 1814-1815. In 1815, he returned to England.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 5

Jones, Joseph (fl. 1831 - 1835) (British: English)

Birth: probably in or near Hollowell, South Bates, Birkshire, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Eagle (brig) (1831 - 1832); Seaman, Dryad (brig) (1832 - 1834); Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1834).

Joseph Jones joined the HBC on September 24, 1831 as a seaman for three years. He arrived in the Columbia aboard the brig Eagle and began work in coastal shipping on October 26, 1832. He worked on the Dryad for two years but was ill for weeks and so was discharged from the vessel at Oahu on January 27, 1834 to recover. A month later, February 28, he joined the barque Nereide on its voyage back to the Columbia and continued on the same vessel on its return voyage to London, arriving back May 28, 1835.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 12-13; YFDS 5a-5b; log of Nereide 1; log of Dryad 1; ShMiscPap 14

Jones, Peter (fl. 1847 - 1850) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1847 - 1848); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1848); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1849 - 1850).

Peter Jones joined the HBC barque Vancouver in London on September 22, 1847 and sailed to the coast. As his vessel was wrecked at the mouth of the Columbia River in May 1848, the following month he joined the Cadboro. A few months after that at Fort Langley, he refused to load the schooner on a Saturday afternoon, which was normally a free time. As a result of this, he and two others who supported him were confined to a house on shore. They were replaced by five Sandwich Islanders but, not liking their new situation, Jones and friends returned to the ship and were once again taken back to the fort. Just what happened to him after this is unclear for the following month, Robert Campbell, one of the three was discharged and sent back to England on an American vessel. According to the Vancouver records, Jones “settled at Columbia.”

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 11; log of Cadboro 6; YFASA 29-32

Jones, Thomas (fl. 1855 - 1861) (probably British: Welsh)

Birth: South Wales

Death: possibly British Isles

Fur trade employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1854); Labourer, Nanaimo mines (1855 - 1856); Labourer, Bellingham Bay (1856); Assistant miner, Nanaimo mines (1856 - 1857); Labourer, Belle Vue Sheep Farm (1858 - 1859); Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1861).

Thomas Jones, who came to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal, was prone to striking. On July 29, 1854 on the voyage out, he stopped work with the passengers over the provisions. He appears to have stayed on to work at the mines for he was back at work in February 1856 having deserted the previous autumn. He left again in the summer of 1856 to work in Bellingham Bay but he was back in Nanaimo in August as prospects were dim. On January 27, 1857, he deserted once again from Nanaimo, was caught and put in chains but released the next day on the provision that he continue work. After Nanaimo, he worked for one year on San Juan Island and, by 1861 he was at Victoria and returned to Britain on the Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA log of Princess Royal 1, 6; FtVicCB 14; BelleVueSF 2; BCA NanJ 1

Jones, William [1] (fl. 1855 - 1856) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Cook, Princess Royal (barque) (1855 - 1856).

William Jones made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Jones, William [2] (fl. 1855 - 1856) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1855 - 1856).

William Jones, like his preceding name-sake, made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Joseachal [variation: Nootka Jack, Jose a' cha] (fl. 1811 - 1814) (Native: Salish)

Birth: Pacific Northwest

Maritime employee

PFC Interpreter, Tonquin (ship) (1811); NWC Interpreter, Packet or Forester (ship) (1814).

Joseachal was the sole survivor of those employed on the Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn]. The multilingual and astute Joseachal had previously acted as an interpreter in the maritime fur trade when he worked for Captains John Ebbets and Thomas Brown, both of whom had traded on the coast for a number of years. In June 1811, at Destruction Island, the enterprising Joseachal met the Tonquin in a canoe and hired on with the promise that he would be returned to the village that fall. By the end of June, the vessel reached Clayoquot Sound, and against the advice of Joseachal, the captain sailed into the Sound and prepared to trade. In the first evening, Joseachal and Alexander McKay, in exchange for six hostages held on board, went ashore and returned without incident. Consequently, the next day when they began trading, they let down their guard, even after the captain had insulted Nookamis, a principal trader. Joseachal's subsequent observations told him that they were in danger but his warnings went unheeded by both McKay and Thorn. The natives attacked and killed most of the crew. When the first explosion occurred on the ship, Joseachal, who had been trembling for his life in the mizen chains, jumped overboard and swam ashore. From there, he appears to have witnessed the second explosion that may have taken as many as two-hundred native lives. Joseachal was not killed, as a sister was married to a local native, but he appears to have been held prisoner for some time before he was able to escape and return to his Quinault. When the officers of the PFC heard about Joseachal surviving, they sent gifts to the Quinault chief and Joseachal as enticement for them to come to Fort Astoria where they could tell their story. After Joseachal told his story in June, 1813 he returned home and the following year, in March 1814, was an interpreter aboard the New England trading vessel Packet, under Captain Bacon or the Forester, under Captain Jennings, when they were at Queenhithe on the Washington Coast.

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria PPS: ChamSoc LVII, p. 708

Joseph (c. 1813 - 1853) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands - c. 1813

Death: probably Fort Vancouver, Washington Territory - June 2 or 3, 1853

Other

U.A. Prisoner, Fort Vancouver (1853).

In 1853 Joseph, for untraced reasons, was in prison at Fort Vancouver when he no doubt caught smallpox. (He could be Kaina, who jumped ship at Fort Victoria in 1850.) On May 23 of that year, in danger of death, he was given a Christian name and baptised by the secular Catholic Priest J.A.B. Brouillet then at Fort Vancouver. He died a few days later and was buried in the cemetery of the Mission.

PPS: CCR 1b

Joseph, Jean Baptiste Louis (fl. 1819 - 1823) (Undetermined origin)

Birth: possibly St. Francois, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Hunter, Pacific slopes (1819 - 1821); Boatman, Pacific slopes (1819 - 1821); HBC Milieu, Columbia Department (1821 - 1823).

Jean Baptiste Joseph was hired by the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray] on March 18, 1819 as a hunter and a boatman, if required. He was a member of a large group of NWC employees that transferred to the HBC in 1821 at the time of coalition. Joseph worked in the Columbia until 1823.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCBA 9; HBCA YFASA 1; FtGeo[Ast]AB

Joshua (fl. 1812 - 1814) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

PFC Labourer, Beaver (ship) (1812); Labourer, Fort George [Astoria] (1812 - 1814).

Joshua was brought to Astoria, probably in May 1812, on the Beaver as an employee of the PFC. By April 4, 1814 he was on the list of men going overland from Fort George [Astoria] and may have reached as far as Fort William on the Great Lakes. For possible scenarios as to how he got back to Hawaii, see Ben [2].

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria PPS: ChSoc LVII, p. 771

Joyalle, Etienne (c. 1795 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Michel de. Yamaska, Lower Canada - c. 1795

Death: probably Cowlitz area, Lewis County, Washington Territory

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1825 - 1826); Untraced vocation, South Party (1826 - 1827); Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1827 - 1828); Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1829 - 1830); Middleman, New Caledonia (1830 - 1839); Middleman, Cowlitz Farm (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Vancouver depot (1840 - 1844); Middleman, Snake Party (1844 - 1846); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1846 - 1847); Untraced vocation, Cowlitz Farm (1847).

A thirty-year old Etienne Joyalle joined the HBC in Montreal in the spring of 1825 and went to the Columbia via York Factory. He appeared as an active trapper several times throughout the Southern Party journals. In the summer of 1828, he returned to Montreal but soon made his way back to the Columbia, worked at several locations and settled in the Cowlitz area in 1841. According to Munnick, he served as a private in the Cowlitz rangers in the Yakima Indian War of 1855-1856 and was still residing in the Cowlitz area when he supported PSAC claims to their farmland.

PS: HBCA B.223/g/1-8; YFASA 5-9, 11-15, 19-20, 24-27; FtVanPJ 2, 4; FtVanAB 10; YFDS 2a, 3b, 5a-7; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 2-8; FtVicCB 30 PPS: CCR 1a, 1b

Juissau, Joseph Alexis (fl. 1822 - 1825) (Undetermined ethnicity)

Birth: possibly Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1822 - 1824).

Joseph Alexander Juissau is on record as having worked for the HBC in New Caledonia in outfit 1822-1824 and the following year was back in Montreal.

PS: HBCA YFASA 2, 4; YFDS 1a

Julien, Louisson (fl. 1821 - 1822) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822).

Luissou Julien worked in the Columbia Department in outfit 1821-1822.

PS: HBCA YFASA 1

Junion, James (fl. 1815) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Maritime employee

NWC Crew member, Columbia (schooner) (1815).

Hawaiian James Junion is listed as a crew member of the NWC schooner Columbia in 1815 when it was on the Northwest Coast.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 1

Kaau, John [variation: Ka-au, Kao'o, Kuau] (fl. 1834) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands - 1800

Death: possibly Puget Sound, Washington

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Simpson (1834); Middleman, Fort McLoughlin (1834 - 1836); Untraced vocation (high wage), Fort McLoughlin (1835 - 1836); Middleman, Fort McLoughlin (1836 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Victoria (1843 - 1844); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1844 - 1849); Passenger, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1850); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1850 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1852 - 1854).

John Kaau joined the HBC from Oahu in 1834 and spent the next twenty years at Forts McLoughlin and Victoria. In 1849, he took a trip to Honolulu and returned the following year for two more years. After his retirement, he had transactions with the HBC for two years before moving to Port Gamble on Puget Sound in Washington Territory. A fellow Hawaiian described in a letter a party he attended at the Kaau residence in 1865.

John Kaau was married to Mary Pau (?-?). A son was Philipo (?-?).

PS: HBCA FtSimp[N]PJ 3; YFASA 14-15, 19-20, 24-32; YFDS 5c-7; FtVanASA 3-8; SandIsAB 10; FtVicASA 1-2; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory Clark Co. SS: WWU E Momilani Naughton "Hawaiians in the Fur Trade, p. 49.

Kachetou (fl. 1844 - 1849) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Oahu, Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1849).

Kachetou, from Oahu, appeared in the Columbia in outfit 1844-1845 on a contract that ended in 1847. He worked as a labourer at Fort Vancouver and deserted in 1849, presumably for the gold fields of California.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-29

Kahaloukulu [variation: Kililukulu, Keakelukulu] (fl. 1840 - 1845) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: possibly Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Stikine (1840 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Victoria (1843 - 1844); Labourer, Beaver (steamer) (1844 - 1845).

Kahaloukulu joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840 arriving in April at Fort Vancouver quite unable to speak English. His first assignment was as a watchman at Fort Stikine, which he reached on June 13 on the steamer Beaver. During his three years there he also appeared to do duty as a miller. The competent Sandwich Islander was at Fort Stikine during the trying spring of 1842 when discipline broke down, the liquor flowed freely and John McLoughlin Jr., who was in charge, was not only drinking too much alcohol but also brutally flogging the servants, likely including Kahaloukulu. A plot was hatched, and McLoughlin was murdered, but Kahaloukulu appeared to be innocent of any complicity and stayed on at the fort until 1843. He testified at the investigation that he had seen McLoughlin drunk only a couple of times before the event (FtVanCB 31, fo. 162d). After leaving Stikine, he worked at Fort Victoria and spent his last outfit on the steamer Beaver until January 10, 1845, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 24-25; FtVanASA 6-8; YFDS 15; FtStikPJ 1-3; FtVanCB 31, McLoughlin to Simpson, Feb. 1, 1844, fo. 162d; SandIsAB 3

Kaharrow [variation: Kakarrow] (fl. 1817 - 1830) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands - 1796

Death: Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - June 1830

Fur trade employee

NWC Passenger, Columbia (schooner) (1817); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1817 - 1822); HBC Untraced vocation, Fort George [Astoria] (1822 - 1825); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1825 - 1826); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1827); Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1827 - 1828); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1828 - 1830).

Kaharrow joined the fur trade around 1817 from Oahu and appears to have spent his career in the Columbia District. Early on, he was attached to the Fort George store. On October 9, 1825 he, together with Harry Bell Noah, James Coah, and Marrouna, confessed to having stolen blankets from the trade goods of the William & Ann. Kaharrow must have redeemed himself, for in March 1828 he was part of the fur trade brigade heading out from Fort Vancouver. He died at Fort Vancouver in 1830. The cause may have been an unnamed disease that was brought in by vessels at the time.

PS: HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 10-12; YFASA 2-9; YFDS 2a, 3a-3a, FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-4; FtVanAB 28; FtVanAB 28 PPS: A. McDonald, p. 29; E. Ermatinger, p. 113

Kahela [variation: Kahile] (fl. 1845 - 1848) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: Fort Vancouver, Oregon Territory - 1848

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1845 - 1848).

Kahela joined the HBC from Oahu on May 7, 1845 on a two-year obligation. He died in 1848 at Fort Vancouver, probably from the effects of measles.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-27, 29; SandIsAB 3

Kahemehou [variation: Kahemehau] (fl. 1840 - 1843) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1843).

Kahemehau joined the HBC in 1840 from Oahu. He worked at Fort Vancouver until November 15, 1843 at which time he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 23; FtVanASA 6-8; YFDS 14

Kahetapou (fl. 1840 - 1844) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1844).

Kahetapou joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840 as a middleman. He worked at Fort Vancouver until November 12, 1844, at which point he returned to Oahu. His contract was to have ended in 1845, and no information has been located as to why he went back earlier.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 24; FtVanASA 6-8; YFDS 15

Kahinamia (fl. 1850) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1850).

Kahinamia shipped on board the HBC vessel Cowlitz in February 1850 at Honolulu and sailed to the coast on a voyage on which the captain was unhappy with the performance of the Hawaiians. The Hawaiian likely returned to Oahu on the same or another vessel, as he has not been traced on further records.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 10; log of Cowlitz 8

Kahoolanou [variation: Kahoolainou] (fl. 1844 - 1849) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1845); Labourer, Snake Party (1845); Goer and comer, Snake Party (1845 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1846 - 1847); Labourer, Snake Country (1847 - 1849); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1849 - 1850).

Kahoolanou joined the HBC from Oahu in 1844. Based at Fort Vancouver, he also worked in the Snake Country. On July 20, 1849, he deserted, presumably for the gold fields of California. He has not been traced after that.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-29; YFDS 16, 20

Kahoree [variation: Kahoore, Kahoorie, Kahoure, Kahourie, Kahouree] (fl. 1837 - 1848) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: possibly Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Umpqua (1837 - 1839); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1839 - 1841); Labourer, California Estate (1843 - 1845); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1845 - 1848).

Kahoree joined the HBC in July 1837 from Oahu and began work at Fort Umpqua around August 10 of that year. He worked until November 20, 1841, at which point he returned to Oahu. He appears to have reentered the service in outfit 1843-1844, when he was employed by the HBC in its California Estate in San Francisco. In 1845 he was transferred to newly constructed Fort Victoria as a labourer. His contract ended in 1848 and around mid November 1848, he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 1; YFASA 19-22, 24-28; YFDS 8, 12, 19; FtVanASA 4-8

Kai (fl. 1837 - 1846) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - October 1846

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1838); Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1838); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1841); PSAC Middleman, Cowlitz Farm (1841 - 1843); Labourer, California Estate (1843 - 1845); HBC Labourer, Columbia Department general charges (1845 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1846).

Kai signed on with the HBC in Oahu in July 1837 and began work at Fort Vancouver on August 10 of that year. He worked there, on the barque Nereide as a seaman, and at the Cowlitz farm until June 24, 1842, at which point he returned to Oahu, but soon re-engaged on a contract that ended in 1846. He was sent to the California Estate, then back north to the Columbia. He was engaged on a contract that would have ended in 1848; however, he died, after nine years service on October 10, 1846, at Fort Vancouver.

Kai's family, if he had one, has not been traced.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 1; FtVanASA 4-8; ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 19-20, 22, 24-26; YFDS 13;

Kaihi [variation: Kaihé] (fl. 1845 - 1851) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1849); Blacksmith, Fort Vancouver (1849 - 1851).

Kaihi joined the HBC in Oahu on May 7, 1845. He worked up to March 1, 1851 as a blacksmith and labourer at Fort Vancouver, and then disappeared from record. He may have returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 3; YFASA 26-31; YFDS 21

Kaikuanna (fl. 1843 - 1846) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1843 - 1846).

Kaikuanna signed on with the HBC in Oahu in 1843 as a labourer. As his contract ended in 1846, he worked until August 6 of that year and then returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 8; YFASA 24-26; YFDS 17

Kaikuauhine [standard: Kaikuauhiné] [variation: Kaikuawhiné, Kaikuawahiné] (fl. 1844 - 1850) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Willamette (1844 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1846 - 1847); Labourer, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1847 - 1849); Labourer, Fort George [Astoria] (1849 - 1850).

Kaikuahiné joined the Hudson's Bay Company from Oahu in 1844 as a labourer. He ceased working in 1850 but movement on his account indicates that he or his family was making use of the account possibly in the area.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-32

Kaikumakau (fl. 1844 - c. 1845) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Snake Party (1844 - 1845).

Kaikumakau joined the HBC in 1844 from Oahu on a three-year contract. He was employed in the Snake Party as a labourer, and likely returned to the Hawaiian Islands at the end of his term.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24;

Kailimai [variation: Kuilimai] (fl. 1845 - 1846) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: probably Fort Langley, British Columbia - October 1846

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Langley (1846).

Kailimai joined the HBC in Oahu on May 7, 1845 for three years. He died October 31, 1846, probably at Fort Langley, his place of work, and was likely buried in the fort graveyard.

PS: HBCA YFASA 25-26

Kaimaina (fl. 1844 - 1847) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1845); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1846); Labourer, New Caledonia (1846 - 1847); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1847).

Kaimaina joined the HBC from Oahu in 1844 on a three-year contract. He split his time as a labourer between Fort Vancouver and New Caledonia, working until July 1, 1847, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-27; YFDS 18

Kaina (fl. 1850 - 1853) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: probably Fort Vancouver, Washington Territory - 1853

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1850); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1853).

Kaina joined the HBC in Honolulu in February 1850 as a seaman aboard the Cowlitz. As the ship's captain was unhappy with the performance of the Hawaiians at shipboard tasks, Kaina and Jack Adams jumped ship at Fort Victoria in April. Kaina may have made his way to Fort Vancouver, for he is on its records as having died in outfit 1853-1854, during the time of a small pox epidemic.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 10; FtVanASA 9

Kainhewait, Ignace [variation: Kaienhieniat, Kaienhienrat, Kaenhienrat, Kaehenrat, Kaunhenrat, Karenhenrat] (c. 1815 - ?) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1815

Death: possibly Pacific Northwest

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1834 - 1836); Middleman, New Caledonia (1835 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Columbia Department (1841 - 1842); Middleman, Thompson River (1842 - 1845); Middleman, Fort Alexandria (1842); Boute, New Caledonia (1845); Boute, Fort Alexandria (1846); Boute, New Caledonia (1846 - 1847); Boute, Fort Colville (1847 - 1853).

Ignace Kainhewait joined the HBC from Sault St. Louis in 1834 or 1835. He carried on until 1853, at which time he retired in the Columbia. In 1846 he deserted from the A. C. Anderson's brigade of that year, was briefly imprisoned at Fort Alexandria and released after promising to return to duty. He wanted to take his wife with him on future brigades but was denied the request.

PS: HBCA YFDS 6-7; FtVanASA 3-10; FtAlexPJ 5, 7; YFASA 14-15, 19-20, 24-32

Kainoalau [variation: Kainoalue, Kaimoalau] (fl. 1845 - 1854) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1846); Labourer, New Caledonia (1846 - 1848); Labourer, Fort Langley (1848 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Rupert (1850 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Cadboro (schooner) (1852 - 1853); Labourer, Columbia Department (1853 - 1854).

Kainoalau joined the HBC in 1845 from Oahu on a three-year contract. Although he worked mainly at coastal posts until about 1854, his account showed transactions until 1856 indicating that he may have remained in the area.

PS: HBCA YFASA 25-32; FtVicASA 1-3

Kaipumakau [variation: Kapumaku] (fl. 1844 - 1853) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: Fort Vancouver, Washington Territory - 1853

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Snake Party (1844 - 1847); Labourer, Snake Country (1847 - 1851); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1853).

Kaipumakau joined the HBC in Oahu in 1844 on a three-year contract. He spent almost his entire career working within the Snake River country and retired on August 15, 1851. He remained in the Fort Vancouver area, probably living in the Kanaka village located near the post, which, by the 1850s, was beginning to deteriorate. He died in 1853 at the post.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-32; YFDS 22; FtVanASA 9-10

Kaiwaiwai (fl. 1845 - 1850) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Stikine (1845 - 1849); Labourer, Fort Rupert (1849 - 1850).

Kaiwaiwai joined the HBC in Oahu on May 7, 1845. He worked as a labourer at the northern posts of Stikine and Rupert until 1850 but movement on his Company account for the next three years indicates that he may have stayed in the area, although he cannot be traced further.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 3; YFASA 25-32;

Kakaio [variation: Kaikaio] (fl. 1850) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1850).

Kakaio shipped on board the HBC vessel Cowlitz on February 3, 1850 at Honolulu and sailed to the Northwest Coast on a voyage on which the captain was unhappy with the performance of the Hawaiians. The Kanaka crew rebelled on August 27 in Honolulu harbour, but most returned to the vessel on September 20 to finish their work. Beyond that, Kakaio has not been traced.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 10, 11; log of Cowlitz 8

Kakaraquiron, Pierre [variation: Kakaraqueron, Kakarakeron] (c. 1800 - 1832) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: possibly Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1800

Death: Tillamook Country, Columbia Department - March 1832

Freeman

NWC Middleman, Columbia Department (1818); HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (1822 - 1823); Milieu, Columbia Department (1823 - 1824); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1824 - 1826); Freeman, Columbia Department (1826 - 1827); Freeman, Snake Party (1827 - 1828); Freeman trapper, South Party (1828 - 1831); Freeman trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1831 - 1832).

Pierre Kakaraquiron joined the NWC on September 23, 1816 to work as a middleman at either Sault St. Marie or Fort William. He came to the Columbia at an unspecified time and worked through until the fall of 1821, when, after amalgamation of the HBC and NWC, he was sent to Fort George. During that year, he spent some time at Fort Okanagan. During his next ten years in the Columbia Department as a freeman trapper, he did not appear on any records which revealed his character. Pierre Kakaraquiron (along with Thomas Canaswarette) was killed in the Tillamook country by a "Killeamook" tribe in March 1832, the circumstances of which have not been traced.

Pierre Kakaraquiron's family have not been traced.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 2; 3, 9; HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 4, 10; YFASA 1-6, 8-9, 11-12; FtVanASA 1-2; YFDS 3a-3b, 4b; FtVanCB 8

Takepe [variation: Kakapi] (fl. 1840 - 1844) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: possibly Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Stikine (1840 - 1844); Labourer, Columbia Department general charges (1844).

Takepe, who learned to read and write from American missionary instructors at Oahu, joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840. He spent his entire fur trading career at the northern post of Fort Stikine. It was there, on April 20, 1842, that he was called to arms by John McLoughlin Jr., to protect him, but it was for naught when McLoughlin received a bullet through the chest. Takepe was among the witnesses sent to York Factory to testify about the event. He was employed until November 23, 1844, at which point he returned to Oahu and has not been traced beyond receiving his wages at the end of that year.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 24; FtVanASA 6-8; FtVanCB 30, 31; YFDS 15; SandIsAB 3, 5 PPS: ChSoc VI, p. 358

Kakua, Peter (fl. 1853 - 1869) (Hawaiian)

Birth: Honolulu, Oahu

Death: Nanaimo, British Columbia - May 1869

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver (1853 - 1854); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1854); Untraced vocation, Fort Rupert (1854 - 1859); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1859 - 1863); Untraced vocation, Labouchere (steamer) (1864); Miner, Nanaimo (1864 - 1868).

In 1853 Peter Kakua travelled from Honolulu to Fort Vancouver and then to Victoria, where he was hired by the HBC to work at Fort Rupert. In 1859 he returned to Victoria and, by his own account, worked for Governor James Douglas for a year and then for several others. After nine months on a steamer, he got a job with the Vancouver Coal Company in Nanaimo. Alcohol and violence proved the downfall of Peter Kakua. In 1862 this five foot eight [1.7 m], well built Hawaiian took as a wife, Mary/Que-en, a native. He first appeared on record on August 8, 1865, when he was charged with assault and sentenced to three months in prison. In 1868, his marital relationship began to sour and Peter's wife sent a message via her brother that she and their six-month old daughter were going to live elsewhere. Peter reacted to this by drinking for several days and on December 3, 1868, when he returned to his house, he was met by Shil-at-nord and Squash-e-lek, his father-in-law and mother-in-law, as well as his wife who had all come to collect her belongings. Peter reacted by leaving and drinking more whiskey. When Peter returned at midnight, he claimed he discovered his wife "in the act of committing adultery with her own Father." He tried to drag his father-in-law out of his bed and the house and a fight ensued - Peter killed his father-in-law, mother-in-law, wife and daughter with an axe in an alcohol induced mania. Remorseful, he told fellow Hawaiian Tamaree what he had done and then tried to persuade, a "coloured man" Stepheny, to take him to the mainland in Stepheny's canoe, but they made it only as far as Newcastle Island where they were captured. With William Kaulehele as interpreter, a jury of twelve men found Kakua guilty of wilful murder but "with a recommend[ation] to mercy on the ground that Kanakas are not Xtians [Christians] & killing men may not be such an offence in their eyes." The Hawaiian consul in Victoria, Henry Rhodes did his best to secure counsel for Kakua, since he was "perfect destitute," and then to represent his interests, but to no avail. Peter Kakua was hanged and buried on Newcastle Island in unconsecrated ground.

BCA BCGR CrtR Gaols; Attorney General, Peter Kakua Murder Documents, GR 419, BC Attorney General, Documents, Box 7, File 1869/2; HSA F.O. & Ex., Hawaiian Officials Abroad, Consul at Victoria, correspondence SS: W.J. Illberbrun, "Kanaka Peter," Hawaiian Journal of History 6 (1972): 156-66

Kalama (fl. 1837 - 1863) (Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands - 1819

Death: possibly Washington Territory, United States

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1837 - 1840); Middleman, Snake Party (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Nisqually (1841 - 1842); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1843 - 1844); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1844 - 1847); PSAC Labourer, Cowlitz Farm (1847 - 1849); Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1849 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1853 - 1854); Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1857 - 1860); Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1862 - 1863).

"Big burly", six foot [1.8 m] Sandwich Islander, Kalama, nearly lost an eye and a nose to the fur trade. Kalama joined the HBC in July 1837 from Oahu and began work at Fort Nez Percés and the Snake Country on August 10. In outfit 1840-1841 he helped transport people and goods in and out of the Snake Country. He returned to Oahu on November 10, 1842, but he appears to have been re-engaged again doing a variety of tasks. Good at any type of rough work, he did farming tasks until March 17, 1850 when he along with Cowie and Keave'hacow walked off the job. Just where Kalama spent all of the next couple of years is uncertain, but it is known that he worked for a time with former employee Charles Wren in the Nisqually area. In December 1852 he re-engaged for two years. However, at an August 14, 1853 party where too much alcohol flowed freely, a fight ensued and the Hawaiians squared off against the Natives. Kalama was attacked by Gukynun (Cut-face Charlie), the same person who had beaten up James Scarth, the blind, retired ship builder who lived at Nisqually. Kalama's face was badly slashed, his nose almost entirely cut off, one eye almost cut out, and his forehead badly injured. Dr. William Fraser Tolmie or a Steilacoom Military Hospital Steward sewed the nose back on, stitched the face, and sent the injured Sandwich Islander to the Steilacoom military hospital for two days before being brought back to the fort for recovery. The experience must have unnerved him, for Kalama drifted away from the fort and worked at former HBC employee Charles Wren's farm at Edgar's Lake, Muck, an outpost of Fort Nisqually in northwest Washington State until January 3, 1854, when he returned to the fort and turned in fellow Hawaiians Tamaru and Kupahi for their robbery of the Fort Nisqually store three months previous. Kalama, by the same token, admitted that he himself had stolen three sheep. All was forgiven by the Company, however, and Kalama was taken back on as an employee while turning states evidence against Tamaru and Kupahi. For the next six months, he did a variety of jobs around the fort, mainly in carpentry, until June 14, 1854, when he deserted once again. The disfigured Sandwich Islander disappeared from the records for another three years. By the fall of 1857, he had once again returned to employment with the Company. He got itchy feet after six months for, on April 8, 1858, along with fellow Hawaiian, Keave'hacow, he settled his account with the fort and set out to dig for gold at Thompson River. Both returned in June with little gold and began work again at Fort Nisqually and its outstations. Kalama was still working at Fort Nisqually in 1863 when the record on him ran out.

Kalama had two wives and one recorded child. His unnamed wife had a baby boy on January 15, 1850 at Fort Nisqually. According to family genealogy, Kalama had a son Peter (1864-1947) by Mary Martin (c 1840-), the daughter of a Nisqually woman. After attending Chemawa Indian School (1880-1886), Peter became the progenitor of the large Kalama family of Washington state.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 1; FtVanASA 4-8; YFDS 8, 11, 13; YFASA 19-20, 22, 224-32; PSACAB 22a, 38; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Lewis Co.; OHS Oregonian; HL Nisqually 1 PPS: Dickey SS: Huggins, "Reminiscences of Puget"; TacP-FtNis Muck, June 7, 1858
See Also: Cowie; Keave-hacow

Kalemaku [variation: Kalemaka] (fl. 1845 - 1848) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: probably Fort Langley - 1848

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1846); Labourer, New Caledonia (1846 - 1848); Labourer, Fort Langley (1848).

Kalemaku joined the HBC from Oahu on May 7, 1845 for three years and renewed for two more years. He worked as a labourer in several locations until his death in 1848, probably at Fort Langley.

PS: HBCA YFASA 25-29; SandIsAB 3

Kalenopale (fl. 1844) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844).

Kalenopale was likely hired on by the HBC from Oahu in 1844. After arriving on the coast, he worked at Fort Vancouver until November 12, 1844, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24; YFDS 15

Kalua (fl. 1850 - 1858) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1850); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1850 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1852 - 1854); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1854 - 1855); Labourer, Columbia Department (1856 - 1857); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1857 - 1858).

Kalua joined the HBC in Honolulu in 1850 and sailed to the Northwest Coast. His work record over the next eight years at Fort Simpson is unclear, and the intervals of ambiguity imply visits to Hawaii or just poor bookkeeping. In May 1852 it is known that he cut his finger with an axe dividing the knuckle, resulting in the removal of a piece of bone. There is a possibility that Kalua knew how to read and write for, in 1857, when he was recruited by Anglican missionary William Duncan for his Men's Night School, it was noted that Kalua could not read and write in English, implying that he could in Hawaiian. Kalua has not been traced after 1858.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 10; YFASA 30-32; FtVicASA 1-2, 4-6; FtSimp[N]PJ 7; UBC-SC Duncan

Kaluahe [variation: Kaluahi] (fl. 1850 - 1851) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1850); Labourer, Fort Rupert (1850 - 1851); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1851).

Kaluahe joined the HBC in Oahu early in 1850 to serve two years on the Northwest Coast. He worked as a labourer at the north posts of Fort Rupert and Fort Simpson, was discharged on September 8, 1851, and may have returned to Oahu at that time.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 10; YFASA 30-31; YFDS 22; FtVicASA 1

Kaluaikai, Pierre [variation: Kulaikai, Kalauaikai, Kalawataye] (fl. 1845 - 1853) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands - 1823

Death: Fort Vancouver, Washington Territory - June 1853

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1849); Labourer, Snake Country (1849 - 1850); Steward, Fort Vancouver (1850 - 1851).

Kaluaikai joined the HBC from Oahu on May 7, 1845 and spent most of his working career at Fort Vancouver. He left the Company around February 1851, remaining in the area of the post, where he died of smallpox around June 1, 1853. Smallpox, like other diseases, may have been brought in by the US Army from the Isthmus of Panama and took a large toll in the Fort Vancouver Kanaka village where Kailuaikai probably lived. He was quite likely buried in the Fort Vancouver graveyard.

On May 31, 1853, while Kaluaikia, Pierre Kalawataye of the Catholic Records, was on his deathbed, he married Marguerite (1835-?), the mixed descent daughter of another Hawaiian and of a Native woman. Together they had Julie (1853-?) who was four months old at the time of Kaluaikai's death.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 3; YFASA 25-31; YFDS 21 PPS: CCR 1b

Kamai, Kama [variation: Andrew Kanai, Komai, Comai, Kami Kano] (fl. 1844 - 1890) (Hawaiian)

Birth: Hawaiian Islands - 1830

Death: probably Coal Island, British Columbia - June 1890

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1846); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1846 - 1847); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1847 - 1849); Passenger, Columbia (barque) (1849); Passenger, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1850); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria depot (1851 - 1854); PSAC Untraced vocation, Belle Vue Sheep Farm (1854 - 1855); Untraced vocation, San Juan Island (1855 - 1872); IND. Farmer, Coal Island (1873 - 1890).

Kama Kamai, from Oahu, joined the HBC in 1844 at the age of twenty-four and worked as a labourer at a variety of forts throughout the Columbia Department. Although his contract was to have ended in 1851, he left prematurely for Oahu on October 20, 1849 but re-enlisted in 1850, when he was enumerated in the census of that year in Lewis County, Washington, possibly on his way to Fort Victoria. After he began working for PSAC on San Juan Island, he accidentally blew off his left hand. He was treated in Victoria at which time he retired. From 1854-1856, he carried on on-going transactions with the Company. Kamai took a native wife and his family lived on the disputed island of San Juan. The 1870 census described him as a farmer with $1000 in real estate and $300 in personal property. He lived there until 1872, or until the international boundary between the United States and Canada was settled. On October 3, 1873, having just moved north to British Columbia, Kamai swore out his British subject status, which gave him the right to pre-empt land. A month later Kama Kamai claimed 160 acres [64.6 ha], the western half of small Coal Island lying off of Vancouver Island, and began to farm. His countryman and son-in-law Alexander K  n   also moved to the island with his family. Kamai died on June 19, 1890, likely on Coal Island, and was buried in the cemetery of St. Paul's Church at Fulford Harbour on Saltspring Island.

Andrew Kamai, to use the name with which he was baptized in the Catholic church at the time of his marriage, had numerous children. The oldest was likely Mary (c.1851-?). On December 20, 1870 in a Catholic ceremony, he formalized his marriage to Mary Ann (c.1846-?), who was Songhees. The witnesses were his San Juan compatriots Joe Friday and Alexander K  n  , who was married the same day to Kamai's daughter Mary (c.1859-?). The Kamais' recorded children were John (c.1856-?), Joseph (c.1860-?), Mary (c. 1861-?), Susan (c.1861-?), Charles (c.1863-?), Louis (1866-?), Moses (c.1871-?), Catherine (1872-?), Agnes (1875-?), and Louisa (1878-?). Some members of the Kamai family opted for their maternal identity and identify themselves as Songhees.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-28, 30-32; FtVicASA 1-3; YFDS 20; SandIsAB 10; BelleVuePJ 1; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Lewis County PS: WSA 1870 US Census, Washington Territory, San Juan Island; BCA BCCR StAndC; BCCR StElizRC; BCGR-Crt-Naturalization; BCGR-Pre-emption; Van-PL 1881 Canada Census, Vancouver, sub-district, Saanich; Van-PL 1891 Canada Census, Victoria, Yates Street; StEdC Bapt/Marr

Kamaikalooa [variation: Kamoalow] (fl. 1844 - 1849) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1846); PSAC Labourer, Cowlitz Farm (1846 - 1847); Labourer, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1847 - 1849).

Kamaikalooa joined the HBC in Oahu on May 7, 1844 and worked as a labourer at Fort Vancouver and on the Cowlitz farm. In outfit 1849-1850, he deserted, most likely for the gold in California. He probably did so in the spring of 1849, as he received no wages for outfit 1849-1850.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 3; YFASA 24-29

Kamakeha [variation: Kamakkeha] (fl. .1840 - c. 1854) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: probably Victoria, Colony of Vancouver Island - c. 1854

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Fort McLoughlin (1841 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Victoria (1843 - 1847); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1848 - 1851).

Kamakeha joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840. He worked at coastal forts until November 10, 1847, at which point he returned to Oahu. He re-enlisted and began work again on July 15, 1848. In June 1851 he retired once again, remaining in the area. He carried on transactions with the HBC until outfit 1854-1855, at which point he was noted as being deceased.

Kamakeha chose an unnamed Native woman as a mate, and together they had a son, Joseph (?-bap.1852-?) who was baptized Catholic in 1852.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 24-27, 29-32; FtVanASA 6-8; YFDS 18-19; SandIsAB 7; FtVicASA 1-2; BCA BCCR CCCath

Kamako (fl. 1850) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1850).

Kamako shipped on board the HBC vessel Cowlitz in February 3, 1850 at Honolulu and sailed to the coast on a voyage on which the captain was unhappy with the performance of the Hawaiians. When the vessel returned to Hawaii that August, the Hawaiian crew rebelled, claiming their contracts were up but they nonetheless returned to work a further month. Beyond that, Kamako has not been traced.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 10, 11; log of Cowlitz 8

Kamano, George [variation: Kaumano, Camano, Kaumana] (fl. 1854 - 1918) (Hawaiian)

Birth: Hawaiian Islands - 1840 (born to Okerry/Okeli Cahoomana and Nainema)

Death: Alert Bay, British Columbia - May 1, 1918

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Rupert (1854 - 1868); Labourer, Columbia Department (1868 - 1869); Farmer and rancher, Harbledown Island (1869 - 1914).

Oldest son of Okerry/Okeli Cahoomana and of Nainema of the Sandwich Islands, fourteen-year-old Kamano most likely joined the Hudson's Bay Company from Oahu, Hawaii in 1854, although oral tradition persists that he was "shanghaied" (descendant) in Oahu and jumped ship in Victoria (or wrecked on a whaling ship), only to be smuggled by natives to Fort Rupert. Whatever method he used to get there, he worked at Fort Rupert for the next fifteen years (till 1869) as a labourer. There, at the Oblate Mission which was established in 1863, he may have learned to write as, at one time, was left in charge of the Fort Rupert post in the absence of the Chief Trader.

In 1869 Kaumana retired from the HBC and followed St. Michel's Mission which, by that time, had moved from the Fort Rupert site to New Vancouver, Harbledown Island, about sixty kilometres south of Fort Rupert, which was also his wife's home territory. At his new home he worked at, and was periodically left in charge of, the Mission, which eventually closed down in 1874; Oblate priest Father Foquet explained how "we are leaving all the affairs of the mission in the care of Kamano." The same year Kamano decided to throw in his lot with British Columbia, and was naturalized as a British subject.

Required to be self sufficient, the Kamano family developed on Harbledown Island a garden and orchard of several different kinds of apple trees, selling their potatoes, carrots and turnips to the local natives. Kamano had a lifelong fear of being sent back to the Sandwich Islands, and not wanting to return, developed a solitary posture on Harbledown Island where he raised a large family. Until the latter twenty years of his life he worked daily in the woods near his island home, returning only to eat and sleep at his house. Throughout his life, nonetheless, he did command a certain outside respect for, in McKenney's 1883-1884 Pacific Coast Directory out of San Francisco, he was listed as being an important man in the vicinity of Alert Bay. While he preferred the solitude of his working environment, his more outgoing wife, on the other hand, held potlatches throughout the area, some lasting for as long as a week. In his latter years, after the death of his wife, he lived with his daughter Lillian at Alert Bay and finally died of a pneumonia. He was buried on May 4, 1918 behind the Anglican church at Alert Bay along with many other members of his family.

Kamano had one wife and a dozen children. On December 25, 1866 at Fort Rupert, George Kamano formalized his marriage to Pauline Clahoara (c.1845-c.1893) of the Tenaktak/Taneukteuch/Tanakteuk band (Knight Inlet/Harbledown Island) of the Kwakiutls. Their children were George (1864-1895), Louis (1865-?), Charles or Carey (1866-1904), Mary Anne (1867-1905), William (1868-?), Lillian (1868-1955), Michael (1870-1956), Joseph (1872-1958), Emma (1874-1907), Maria (1876-1941), Harriet (1880-1904), and Maggie (1882-1902). The children learned Kwagiutl as their first language, but could also speak English.

Kamano Island of the Karlukwees Indian Reserve, near Harbledown Island, is named after Kamano.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 2-16; HBCABio; family information: Oblate Mission Records, Fort Rupert/Alert Bay; Information from Kamano family bible as written down by Maria Kamano; 1881 and 1891 Census; Burials, Alert Bay Mission, Anglican Church Records, Anglican Church Archives, Victoria, B. C.; Oblate records from St. Michael's at Fort Rupert at Oblate House, Vancouver, SS: McKenney's; SS: Barbeau, Totem Poles, p. 654; Pioneer Journal, May 9, 1956, p. 4; Dorothy (Dot) Myers interview with Elizabeth (Lizzie) Huson, Vancouver, B. C., August 1971; Nicholls, Margaret, "Kamano - A Kanaka", B. C. Historical News, December 1991, p. 12; Kamano descendant, Kamloops, Jean Baptiste [variation: Kamaloops] (fl. 1858 - 1863) (probably Native: Salish)

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1858 - 1859); Untraced vocation, Western Department (1860 - 1861); Untraced vocation, Thompson River (1861 - 1862); Labourer, Thompson River (1862 - 1863).

Jean Baptiste Kamloops worked for the HBC. He appeared on the 1863-1866 sundries accounts with a debt of £7.4.5 carried over from the previous outfits.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 7-13

Kanackanui [variation: Kanakanui] (fl. 1840 - 1852) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian IslandsDeath: Fort Simpson [Nass] [British Columbia] - July 1852*Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Stikine (1840 - 1845); Labourer, Fort Stikine (1845 - 1849); Labourer, Fort Rupert (1849 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1850 - 1852).

Kanackanui or "big Kanaka" joined the HBC in 1840 from Oahu and arrived at Fort Vancouver in April of that year. After noting his arrival at Fort Stikine around June when it was stated that all the Hawaiians could neither understand or be understood, he was not mentioned again in the surviving Stikine journals indicating, to his credit, a general competency in his work. Paradoxically, he had been taught to read the scriptures, probably in Polynesian, by American missionary instructors. Kanackanui was two years into his service there when, on April 20, 1842, some of the post's employees rebelled against the discipline of the post manager, John McLoughlin Jr., who, late at night, called Kanackanui and several other Hawaiians to arms to protect him. Kanackanui grabbed his gun and rushed outside, but another employee, Antoine Presse, wrested it from him. Nonetheless, Kanackanui followed the rest to the gallery. In spite of a modicum of protection, McLoughlin was killed by his own men who claimed they did it because McLoughlin was a brutal drunk. In a deposition, Kanackanui testified that he saw McLoughlin "tipsy once about the Holidays," (FtVanCB 31, fo. 162d) which countered other servants' stories. Kanackanui was probably one of the Hawaiians who took the body inside, washed and dried it, and threw Pierre Kanaguasse out for throwing the body on the floor. During his nine year stay at Stikine, he obviously learned English, probably French and a few Native dialects as well as the trading jargon of Chinook. When the HBC abandoned Stikine, he went to Beaver Cove on northern Vancouver Island to assist in the construction of a new Fort Rupert. After one outfit there, he went to Fort Simpson where, on the morning of July 8, 1852, he died from the lingering effects of venereal disease, the journal entry of the day stating that he had been a very good servant. His internment was not noted the following day but he was probably buried in the old graveyard on the hill behind the fort.

Kanackanui's family, if any, have not been traced.

PS: HBCA FtStikPJ 1; YFASA 20, 24-32; FtVicDS 1; FtVanASA 6-8; FtVicASA 1-2; FtSimp[N]PJ 7; FtVanCB 30, McLoughlin to Simpson, Feb. 1, 1844, fo. 162d PPS: ChSoc VI, p. 358

Kanackeha (fl. 1853 - 1854) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian IslandsFur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1853 - 1854).

Kanackeha's name appeared on the 1853-1854 Fort Victoria abstracts with no additional information.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1

Kanaguasse, Pierre (Peter, the Iroquois) (1839 - 1844) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower CanadaDeath: probably East of the Rocky Mountains*Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman and bouté, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Stikine (1840 - 1842); Middleman, Columbia Department (1842 - 1844).

Pierre Kanaguasse, a rogue in the fur trade, is best remembered for his role in the murder of John McLoughlin, Jr. at Fort Stikine. Kanaguasse joined the HBC on February 19, 1833; during his six years east of the Rockies, Kanaguasse appears to have been involved in a murder and robbery, a fact unknown to Dr. John McLoughlin when the former arrived at Fort Vancouver in 1839. There must have been some suspicion as Kanaguasse was assigned to the northerly Fort Stikine [Wrangel, Alaska], as McLoughlin knew that he could not desert from there. At Stikine, in June 1840 William Glen Rae thought he was a scoundrel and the following year John McLoughlin Jr. caught him stealing salmon and giving it to someone outside the fort. Pierre was flogged by John McLoughlin Jr. with fists and a stick.

McLoughlin's floggings grew worse and by the following spring when alcohol flowed more freely, discipline broke down. In February, 1842, at the instigation of Kanaguasse, the servants of Fort Stikine agreed in writing that if McLoughlin were not removed from the fort, they would desert. The following month, when Kanaguasse urged Nahua to poison McLoughlin by putting scrapings of copper in his soup when the steward was out of the kitchen, Nahua passed the information on to McLoughlin. Taking matters into his own hands, on the early morning hours of April 21, 1842, Kanaguasse took his position and fired at three moving targets (William Lasserre, François Presse and an unidentified servant) each of whom he thought to be McLoughlin. Each time the shots went wild when the nearby better-sighted Olivier Martineau pushed Kanaguasse's gun away as Martineau was able to identify each as not being their target. In frustration, Kanaguasse jumped over the pickets and went to an Indian lodge, pursued by McLoughlin and four men - who beat Kanaguasse with a gun. John McLoughlin Jr. was then threatened by Lasserre and Urbain Heroux. Young McLoughlin, armed with his own rifle, tried to find the hidden pair to either punish or kill them. Failing to find them, he rushed into the centre area yelling "Fire! Fire!" in a futile effort to flush them out and have his Sandwich Islanders shoot at Heroux, but four shots rang out, the fatal one entering his shoulder blades and exiting his throat. The fatal shot, then, came from Heroux rather than Kanaguasse. After the shooting, Kanaguasse tried to rob McLoughlin of his ring (it was rescued by Powpow and returned to McLoughlin's wife) and his vest before he threw the body, which had been taken in a room by the Kanakas, onto the floor. Kanaguasse was immediately dismissed from the service and delivered by James Douglas to the Russians in Sitka to await trial. However, the Russians washed their hands of the matter and Kanaguasse spent the next months moving from Sitka to Vancouver to Simpson to be held in semi-confinement. It was Kanaguasse's deposition, however, that revealed a conspiracy when Kanaguasse confessed that Thomas McPherson had drawn up a contract on McLoughlin's life in the winter of 1841. Also, he indicated that McLoughlin had not been involved in heavy drinking prior to the murder. In 1844 he returned east of the Rockies to Canada along with the rest of the servants implicated in the crime.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 19-20, 23; YFDS 10; FtVanASA 6-8; FtStkPJ 1; FtVanCB 29-31; log of Cadboro 5

Kanah, Frank [variation: Kanak] (fl. 1814 - 1831) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: Hawaiian Islands - 1792

Death: possibly Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

NWC Milieu, Columbia Department (1814 - 1821); HBC Milieu, Fort George [Astoria] (1822 - 1825); Cowherd, Columbia Department (1824 - 1825); Cowherd, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1831); Passenger, Ganymede (barque) (1831).

Frank Kanak joined the fur trade in 1814, at the age of about twenty-two and is on record as having transferred from the NWC to the HBC in 1821. He worked in the Columbia Department, likely spending most of his time at Fort George [formerly Astoria], eventually as a cowherd, before he was discharged to Oahu on November 1, 1831, sailing on the Ganymede.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 9; YFASA 1-9, 11; FtGeo[Ast]AB 10-12; YFDS 2a, 3b-4b; FtVanASA 1 PPS: McLoughlin, p. 230

Kanarikowa, Michel [variation: Kanarikown, Kanarikwon] (fl. 1851 - 1856) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia general charges (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1852 - 1854); Middleman, Columbia Department (1854 - 1856).

Michel Kanarikowa worked for the HBC in New Caledonia until 1855-1856. He may have stuck around for a short time afterwards doing casual labour for the company.

PS: HBCA YFASA 31-32; YFDS 22; FtVicASA 1-5

Kanataconda, Jean Baptiste [variation: Kanatakona] (c. 1826 - ?) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1826

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1846 - 1847); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1847 - 1849); Stoker, Beaver (steamer) (1849 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1856 - 1859); Untraced vocation, Western Department (1860 - 1861).

Jean Baptiste Kanataconda joined the HBC in 1846. On June 19, 1850 at Fort Victoria, he, along with fellow crew members Namotto, Jean Baptiste Dechamp and Samuel Pepper, deserted, taking all their effects with them. By 1855-1856 he was back in Fort Simpson where he worked both at the post and on the Beaver until 1861 and possibly on and off after that.

Jean Baptiste Kanataconda had one wife and at least one child (?-1858).

PS: HBCA YFASA 26-30; YFDS 21; log of Beaver 1; FtVicASA 3-12; FtSimp[N]PJ 8

Kanatagonet, Pierre (c. 1795 - 1828) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: possibly Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1795

Death: Priests' Rapids [Washington] - May 1828

Fur trade employee

HBC Bowsman, New Caledonia (1825 - 1828).

Pierre Kanatagonet joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] on June 1, 1814 to work as a milieu at Fort William. His movements for the next seven years have not been traced but in 1821, he was working in the Athabasca. By 1825 he was working in New Caledonia and drowned in 1828.

PS: ShdeSB Liste; HBCA YFASA 1, 5-8; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1; YFDS 3a

Kanatasse, Narcisse (c. 1828 - ?) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lac Des Deux Montagnes [Lake of Two Mountains], Lower Canada - c. 1828

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1847 - 1848); Middleman, New Caledonia (1848 - 1849); Boute, New Caledonia (1849 - 1850); Boute, Fort Alexandria (1850 - 1852); Untraced vocation (no wages), Columbia Department (1853 - 1854); Labourer, New Caledonia (1854 - 1855); Labourer, Fort Colville (1855 - 1856).

Iroquois Narcisee Kanatasse worked for the HBC as a middleman. On October 20, 1852, he deserted and may have temporarily gone to Jasper House. He re-enlisted and worked until 1856.

PS: HBCA YFASA 27-32; FtVicDS 1; FtVicASA 1, 3; FtAlexPJ 9; FtVanASA 10-13; BCA FtAlex

Kanate, Gregoire (fl. 1852 - 1855) (Native or Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Snake Country (1852 - 1855).

Gregoire Kanate, quite likely hired locally, joined the HBC as a labourer on October 1, 1852 to work either at Fort Boise or Fort Hall, on a contract that ended in 1855. He retired in 1854.

PS: HBCA YFASA 32; FtVicDS 1; FtVanASA 9-11

Kanatioha, Louis (fl. 1821 - 1826) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Death: possibly Canada, British North America

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1818 - 1819); HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1821 - 1826).

Louis Kanatioha first appeared on record in the Pacific slopes as coming west across the Rockies in a NWC group headed by Angus Bethune and James McMillan. He worked in the Columbia Department for the HBC until 1825, spending his time at both Fort George and Spokane House and returned to Montreal in 1825.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 2, 3; HBCA YFASA 1-5; FtGeoAB 10; FtVanAB 2a

Kane [standard: Kané] (fl. 1844 - 1846) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1843 - 1846).

Kané joined the HBC from Oahu in 1843 on a three-year contract. He worked at Fort Vancouver as a labourer until August 6, 1846 at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-26; YFDS 17

Kanelupu (fl. 1840 - 1849) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1843); Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1843 - 1844); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1845); Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1845 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1846 - 1847); Steward, Fort Vancouver depot (1847 - 1848); Labourer, Willamette Falls (1848 - 1849).

Kanelupu joined the HBC in 1840, beginning his work at Fort Vancouver on July 14 of that year. On September 30, 1849, after working nine years at coastal posts and in shipping, he deserted, presumably for the gold fields of California.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 24-29; YFDS 11-12, 18, 20; FtVanASA 6-8; log of Columbia 6; Vancouver 7

Kaneoukai (fl. 1840 - 1848) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: probably Fort Vancouver, Oregon Territory - January 1848

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1842); PSAC Middleman, Fort Nisqually (1842 - 1843); HBC Labourer, Beaver (steamer) (1843 - 1844); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1844 - 1845); Labourer, Columbia Department general charges (1844 - 1845); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1848).

Kaneoukai joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840 and began on July 1st of that year, receiving his wages from July 14. For the next seven and a half years, he worked in various locations in the Columbia as a middleman, seaman, and woodcutter. According to Thomas Lowe's Journal, he died on or about January 2, 1848, probably from the measles.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 24-27; FtVanASA 6-8; YFDS 11, 15; BCA Lowe 1

Kanetagon, Ignace (Big Ignace) (c. 1822 - 1823) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Freeman

HBC Freeman trapper with Miaquin Martin's band, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1822 - 1823).

Ignace Kanetagon joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] on December 15, 1818 as a hunter for four years in Indian Country. By 1822, he had made his way to the Pacific slopes and was part of an independently functioning band of trappers under Meaquin Martin that sold its furs to the HBC. After the band dissolved their partnership in that outfit, Kanetagon disappeared from record. He was likely a close relative of Louis.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 10

See Also: Kanetagon, Louis (probable Relative)

Kanetagon, Louis [variation: Kanetogan, Kanitogan, Kanitagon] (? - 1825) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Death: Idaho, United States - February 1825

Freeman

HBC Freeman trapper with Miaquin Martin's band, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1822 - 1823); Freeman trapper, Snake Party (1823 - 1825).

Louis Kanetagon may have joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] as early as 1813 and worked as a middleman and gouvernail in Fort William and Michillimackinac. On December 15, 1818, both Louis and Ignace signed on with McTavish, McGillivray & Co. to work for four years as hunters in Indian Country. His movements for the next four years have not been traced, but by 1822, Louis Kanetagon was a freeman trapper working in the Columbia with the Meaquin Martin band which sold its furs to the HBC. After the band dissolved their partnership in that outfit, Kanetagon continued to accompany Martin. Like many other members of the Martin gang, on February 10, 1824, Kanetagon joined a mutually suspicious Alexander Ross for his nine month trapping expedition through Snake Country. Ross, in turn, thought that Kanetagon, like the other Iroquois, was unfit for Snake Country and ranted throughout the journals about the Iroquois but Kanetagon was not singled out for criticism other than skulking off from the main party to be by himself on March 30, 1824. On December 20, 1824, after returning to Flat Head post, Kanetagon joined Ogden's subsequent Snake expedition. On February 6, 1825, when the party was camped at Horse Plains [Horse Prairie, Lemhi River area of eastern Idaho], Kanetagon's wife tried to cock his gun inside their lodge but the rifle discharged firing a ball into Kanetagon's chest. Ogden deemed it an accident but Kittson found it suspicious that a witness who claimed that it was an accident immediately claimed Kanetagon's woman as his wife as soon as Kanetagon was buried. He also found it peculiar that the brother of the "Pendent Oreille" wife of Kanetagon had, in 1821, similarly shot an Iroquois in the face. (That Iroquois, however, subsequently recovered at Spokane House.) Kanetagon's effects were purchased by the other members of the party the day after he died.

The name of Louis Kanetagon's Pend d' Oreille [Salish: Kalipel] wife has not been traced. No children were mentioned in the records.

PS: ShdeSB Liste; HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 10; SnkCoPJ 1, 2, 3a

See Also: Kanetagon, Ignace (probable Relative)

Kanhetara, Jacques (c. 1821 - ?) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: possibly Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1821

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman and route in Athabasca River, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1840 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Victoria (1843 - 1844).

Jacques Kanhetara joined the HBC in Caughnawaga in 1839. His contract ended in 1844 at which point he returned to Canada. In 1846, however, he appears to have re-engaged as a route at Lachine.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-8; YFASA 19-20, 23; HBCCont; YFDS 10

Kanoho [variation: Kanoha] (fl. 1845 - 1852) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1852).

Kanoho joined the HBC from Oahu on May 7, 1845 for three years. He worked at Fort Vancouver as a labourer until he deserted on January 11, 1852. This is probably the same person as the Joseph Kanako of the US 1850 Clark Co. Census.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 3; YFASA 25-31; FtVanASA 3; OHS 1850 US Census, Clark Co.

Kanome [standard: Kanomé] [variation: Kenome, Kanomi] (fl. 1847 - 1852) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1847 - 1848); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1848 - 1849); Labourer, Fort Rupert (1849 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1850 - 1852).

Kanome joined the HBC in 1847 as a middleman, the same time as his friend, Kealoha. They appear to have worked together as labourers at Forts Victoria and Rupert until Kealoha died in 1849 and Kanome inherited all his possessions. He wanted to return to Oahu in 1850 but, as an HBC vessel was not readily available, he continued working until around 1852 and may have returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 27-32; FtVicASA 1-2; BCA Diar-Rem Helmcken PPS: Helmcken, p. 108

Kanonswasse, Martin [variation: Kanonswase] (c. 1792 - ?) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: Lac Des Deux Montagnes [Lake of Two Mountains], Lower Canada - c. 1792

Death: possibly Canada, British North America

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1816 - 1821); HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] and Spokane (1822 - 1823); Middleman, Columbia Department (1823 - 1826); Middleman, Fort Colville (1826 - 1828); Middleman and route, Thompson River (1828 - 1829); Route, Fort Colville (1829 - 1833).

Martin Kanonswassee joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] on May 13, 1814 to work as a middleman at Fort William or Lac La Pluie [Rainy Lake] and the following year renewed his contract at Fort William. By 1816, when his wages were paid to his mother, he was on the Pacific slopes, probably with the cross-country brigade; in 1817, he came over the Rockies with Joseph LaRocque's party and in 1819 he crossed the Rockies in a party headed by Angus Bethune and P. S. Ogden. In 1821, he transferred to the HBC. By outfit 1830-1831 he became a comer and goer, travelling to York Factory and possibly Montreal, and back. He finally returned east of the Rockies to Canada at the end of his contract in 1833.

PS: ShdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 1-3, 9; HBCA YFASA 1-12; FtGeo[Ast]AB 10; YFDS 2a, 3a-5a; FtVanAB 10, 26FtVanASA 1-2 PPS: HBRS X, p. 12, 31n

Kanooe (fl. 1841 - 1844) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1842); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1842 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1843 - 1844); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844).

Kanooe joined the HBC from Oahu in 1841 and began receiving wages on July 9th of that year. He worked largely at Fort Vancouver until November 12, 1844, at which point he returned to Oahu. He received his final wages in Honolulu on December 31st.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-8; YFDS 12; YFASA 24; SandIsAB 3

Kanopee (fl. c. 1730 - 1750) (probably Spanish)

Birth: probably Spain

Other

U.A. Survivor, unknown shipwreck (1730 - 1750); Father, Cascade Mountains (1730 - 1730).

Kanopee may have been a very early Spanish survivor of a coastal shipwreck at the mouth of the Columbia. Possibly a crew member from an off-course ship from the Philippines bound for Central America as early as 1730, Kanopee was shipwrecked at the mouth of the Columbia and all but four of the crew were killed by the Clatsops. Kanopee, along with three others escaped to the Cascades where he lived for a short while, married and had a child before striking out overland for any European habitation. His mixed descent offspring, Soto, was discovered by Gabriel Franchere on May 8, 1811 living at the Cascades on the Columbia River as a blind old man who may have been born any time between 1730 and 1750.

After Kanopee struck out overland, he was never seen again.

PS: ChSoc XLV, p. 83 PPS: Ruby & Brown, The Chinook Indians, p. 29

See Also: Soto (Son)

Kanota, Louis (fl. 1816 - 1844) (Native: Abenaki or Nipising)

Birth: probably in or near "Abinachee" area [Abinakis, Quebec]

NWC Untraced vocation, Pacific slopes (1816); HBC Freeman, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1822 - 1823); Freeman, Fort George [Astoria] (1822 - 1823); Freeman trapper, Ross' Snake Party (1824); Freeman trapper, Ogden's Snake Party (1824 - 1825); Hunter and trapper, Snake Party (1828 - 1829); Hunter and trapper, Snake Party (1829 - 1830); Hunter and trapper, Work's Snake Party (1830 - 1832); Hunter and trapper, Snake Party (1832 - 1833); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1833 - 1834); NWC Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1834 - 1836); Trapper, South Party (1836 - 1844).

Louis Kanota was a long time employee of the fur trade. In 1816, he was in the Columbia when his wife received his pay. In 1822, he was a part of a group of sixteen, mostly Iroquois, who deserted after receiving advances from Fort George. Deemed a "good trapper" by Ross, he went on Ross' nine month Snake Party expedition in 1824. During that time, on April 24, 1824, he injured himself badly by cutting the "lid of his knee" with a knife (SnkCoPJ 1, fo. 17). He soon recovered and supplied Ogden's party in 1824 with food. On March 21, 1825 he helped Kittson to attempt to recapture some runaway horses. However, two months later, on May 24, in the Weber River area (south of the 420), he deserted Ogden's expedition for the American camp without paying his debts to the HBC and took with him the furs he had trapped. He appears to have rejoined Ogden's Expedition by September 1828, and by October parted with the main expedition with François Payette in a separate brigade trapping the Weiser, Payette and Boise Rivers. In spite of the desertion, Ogden found Kanota to be a leading man in that his movements were an indicator how the men of the group would act. He was also a hunter for Work's Snake parties where he was accompanied by his slave who was killed by the Blackfoot in a raid on September 25, 1830. Kanota may have contracted malaria when the group was leaving Fort Vancouver in August, 1831. He recovered but on January 30, 1832 during an attack by three-hundred Blackfoot, his horse was killed and he was wounded slightly in the foot. He remained in the Snake Country for one more expedition but in 1834 he joined the Fort Vancouver Indian trade.

Nothing has been traced on the family life of Louis Kanota.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 1; FtGeo[Ast]AB 4, 10; SnkCoPJ 1-3a, 9-10; YFASA 8-9, 11-16; YFDS 3b, 4b-5a, 5c-7; FtVanASA 2-8

Kanotahare, Pierre (fl. 1819) (Native: probably Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Freeman

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1816); Freeman trapper, Snake Country (1818 - 1819).

Pierre Kanotahare, was first recorded as being a NWC employee in the Columbia in 1816 when his wages were paid to his wife. By the fall of 1819, he was in Snake Country working under Donald McKenzie when he deserted. He likely stayed on the Pacific slopes for two more years for he went east over the Rockies in the fall of 1821.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 1; FtGeo[Ast]AB 4; FtVanAB 28 PPS: A. Ross, The Fur Hunters, p. 149

Kanseau [variation: Casseau] (c. 1794 - 1834) (Undetermined origin)

Birth: c. 1794

Death: Fort Hall, Oregon Territory - August 1834

Fur trade employee

CRFTC Employee, Fort Hall (1834).

Kanseau appeared at Fort Hall in 1834 belonging to Mr. McKay's camp. On August 26, he was killed while horse racing at the fort and was buried the following day near the Wyeth establishment. He had a three way service: a Catholic one performed by the Canadians, a Protestant one performed by Rev. Jason Lee and a native one performed by the Indians.

Kanseau left behind an unidentified native wife and family.

PS: N. J. Wyeth, p. 227 PPS: Townsend, "Narrative of a Journey Across the Rocky Mountains to the Columbia River and a visit to the", p. 108

Kaonasse, Michel [standard: Kaonassé] (c. 1815 - ?) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1815Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1834 - 1835); Boute, New Caledonia (1835 - 1837); Steersman on Montreal Pay List, New Caledonia (1837 - 1838); Boute, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1842); Boute, New Caledonia (1842 - 1843); Boute, Fort Alexandria (1843); Boute, Fort Vancouver general charges (1843 - 1844); Boute, Columbia Department general charges (1844 - 1845); Guide and Boute, Columbia Department general charges (1845 - 1846); Boute, Fort Vancouver general charges (1846 - 1847); Guide and Boute, Columbia Department (1847 - 1848); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department general charges (1848 - 1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Colville (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department general charges (1852 - 1853); Boute, Fort Colville (1853 - 1854).

Michel Kaonassé joined the HBC in 1833 or 1834, and on his way to the Columbia served as a bote in the Athabasca. In March, 1837, he is recorded as returning east over the mountains and in outfit 1839-1840 he was paid a gratuity for an extra trip to the Columbia. While stationed at a post, he did carpentry and other work and, in outfit 1840-1841, he received a gratuity for services between Jasper House and Boat Encampment. The death of Michel's wife in 1843 appears to have changed his pattern for he worked further south after that. On July 20, 1852, he signed a contract at Fort Vancouver to act as a guide for a return trip to York Factory. However, he became disabled and was replaced with Baptiste (?) Joseph Anawaronon and discharged on December 18, 1852. Kaonasse's contract ended in 1854 at which point he retired.

Michel Kaonassé's wife died April 19, 1843 having suffered from an undetermined illness for three months. She was "decently" interred the following day on the hill behind Fort Alexandria (FtAlexPJ 5, fo. 43).

PS: HBCA YFASA 14-17, 20, 24-32; YFDS 5c-7, 10-11, 23; FtVanASA 3-11; HBCCont; FtVicDS 1

Kapahu (fl. 1844 - 1849) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian IslandsFur trade employee*HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1849).

Kapahu joined the HBC from Oahu in 1844. He worked as a labourer at Fort Vancouver until he deserted and likely headed to California.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-29

Kapawa (fl. 1844 - 1849) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian IslandsFur trade employee*HBC Labourer, Willamette (1844 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1846 - 1849).

Kapawa joined the Hudson's Bay Company from Oahu in 1844 and began work at the Willamette saw mill on July 12, 1844. He deserted on October 10, 1849 and likely headed for the gold fields of California.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-29; YFDS 15

Kapoua [variation: Kapooa] (fl. 1844 - 1846) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian IslandsFur trade employee*HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1846); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1846).

Kapoua appeared in the Columbia in outfit 1844-1845 with a contract that ended in 1846. He worked as a labourer at Fort Vancouver and a woodcutter on the steamer Beaver until December 10, 1846, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-26; YFDS 17

Karae (fl. 1840 - 1846) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1843); Labourer, Beaver (steamer) (1843 - 1845); Stoker, Beaver (steamer) (1845).

Karae joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840. He worked as a middleman at Fort Vancouver and also as a labourer and stoker on the Beaver. As his contract ended in 1845, he worked until December 31 of that year, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 24-25; FtVanASA 6-8; YFDS 16

Karaganacon, Michel [variation: Michelle Karagancon, Karakagon] (? - 1822) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: possibly Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada

Death: Snake Country, Pacific Northwest - 1822

Freeman

NWC Gouvernail, Pacific slopes (1818); Freeman, Snake Country (1822).

Michel Karaganacon joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray] first on May 2, 1810 to work in Tamiscaming; on March 12, 1818, he further signed on in Montreal as a wintering gouvernail for three years. That year, 1818, he came across the Rockies in a NWC group headed by Angus Bethune and James McMillan and began work in the Columbia area. He may have stayed on in the area for, in late 1821 or early 1822, Karaganacon along with fifteen other trappers deserted after having been outfitted by the HBC at Fort George [Astoria] with articles for the spring and fall hunt. He made his way to the Snake Country and, in the summer of 1822, was killed there. Initially, it was thought that he had deserted but it was later determined that he had been killed.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 2; HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 4, 10

Karaganyate, Pierre (c. 1794 - 1830) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: possibly Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1794

Death: Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - October 1830

Fur trade employee

NWC Middleman, Pacific slopes (1816); Untraced vocation, Pacific slopes (1817 - 1819); Middleman, Snake Country (1819); HBC Middleman, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1822); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1822 - 1824); Middleman, Columbia Department (1824 - 1826); Middleman, Fort Colville (1826 - 1827); Middleman, York Factory Express (HBC) (1827); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1828 - 1829); Boute, York Factory Express (HBC) (1828); Middleman, Thompson River (1829 - 1830); Boute, Fort Vancouver (1830).

Pierre Karaganyate entered the NWC [Isaac W. Clarke] at the age of nineteen on July 20, 1813 to work as a middleman at Amherstberg by the Grande Riviere and on October 1, 1814 [Roderick McKenzie] to work in Michillimackinac for the administrators as a middleman. He was in the Columbia by 1816, a year in which he had his wages paid to his mother. He likely stayed on continuously and, by the fall of 1819, working in the Snake Country under Donald McKenzie, he deserted. He continued in the area for, by 1822, he was working with the HBC out of Fort Spokane. From that point on, he worked at a variety of locations and, in outfit 1827-1828 he was given extra wages for having gone to and from York Factory. Also, in 1829-1830, he was given an extra gratuity for his services to George Simpson, who had travelled through the area. Pierre Karaganyate died at Fort Vancouver in 1830, probably from malaria which had been brought in with a ship. He was most likely buried in the fort's graveyard.

PS: ShdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 1; FtGeo[Ast]AB 4; HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 4, 10; YFASA 2-9, 11; YFDS 2a-4a; FtVanAB 10, 28 PPS: E. Ermatinger, p. 105, 113

Karaquante, Rene (fl. 1818 - 1819) (Native: probably Iroquois)

Birth: possibly Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1818 - 1819).

Rene Karaquante (who may have signed a contract with the NWC on September 23, 1816 under the name Rene Karaguanon to work in Lac des Sables as a middleman) entered the Pacific slopes with a small NWC group led by Angus Bethune and James McMillan in 1818. He wintered over the following season.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 2, 3

Karatohon, Laurent [variation: Karahetohon] (fl. 1822 - 1824) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]Freeman

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1819); HBC Freeman trapper, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1822 - 1823); Trapper, Ross' Snake Party (1824); Freeman trapper, Ogden's Snake Party (1824 - 1825).

Laurent Karatohon joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] on December 15, 1818 for four years as a hunter in Indian country; that same year he appears to have crossed the Rockies with Angus Bethune and James McMillan, so he may have been employed earlier. In the spring of 1819 he came across the Rockies in the small NWC band led by Bethune and Peter Skene Ogden. He has not been traced for the next three years but, by 1822, Karatohon was part of an independently functioning band of trappers under Meaquin Martin that sold its furs to the HBC in the Columbia. After the band dissolved their partnership in that outfit, Karatohon carried on as a freeman trapper although he still travelled in the company of Martin. Considered "unfit for Snake Country" (SnkCoPJ 2, fo. 2) he nonetheless joined Alexander Ross' nine month HBC expedition into Snake Country. The feeling of suspicion over the new rules of trapping and payment after the amalgamation with the NWC was mutual with the Iroquois for Karatohon and Lazard Kayenquaretcha deserted two weeks after setting out from Flat Head post and had to be brought back by force. Both had sold their provisions to the natives, Laurent selling his lodge as he didn't want to leave Lazard alone. One month later, on March 23, Laurent deserted once again only to return on April 2 as he was frightened by the sight of some Peigan Indians. He completed the expedition and joined Ogden's Snake Country party on December 20, 1824, but when the expedition was in the Weber River area on May 24, 1825, he deserted for the last time to the American camp without paying his debts.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 2, 3; HBCA FtGeoAB 10; SnkCoPJ 1, 2, 3a

Karehoua [variation: Karehina] (fl. 1840 - 1852) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian IslandsFur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1840 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Stikine (1843 - 1844); Labourer, Fort Stikine (1844 - 1849); Labourer, Fort Rupert (1849 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1850 - 1852).

Karehoua signed on with the HBC in Oahu in 1840 and worked for the next dozen years at various northern posts. His contract ended in 1850, when he first expressed an interest at returning to Hawaii, but he continued at Fort Simpson until September 1, 1852 when he sailed from the post on the Mary Dare; he officially retired October 1, 1852. It is not known whether he returned to Oahu.

Karehoua had a family, the names of which are untraced. In September 1849, while he was employed at Fort Rupert, his wife gave birth to a baby girl.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 24-32; FtVanASA 6-8; FtVicDS 1; FtRupPJ 1; FtVicASA 1-3; FtSimp[N]PJ 7; BCA Diar-Rem Helmcken

Karimou, William [variation: Kariume] (fl. 1811 - 1814) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian IslandsFur trade employee

PFC Labourer, Tonquin (ship) (1811); Labourer, Fort George [Astoria] (1811 - 1814).

William joined the crew of the Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn] as a labourer around February 21, 1811 when the vessel operated by the PFC stopped at Oahu and took on a complement of twelve Sandwich Islanders. One month later, on March 22, the Tonquin arrived at the mouth of the Columbia, and on April 12 Paul was noted as helping to unload the vessel. The Sandwich Islander stayed on shore, helped to construct the fort and, on October 12 of that year, sailed up the Columbia River on the maiden voyage of the newly constructed vessel Dolly. He did a variety of tasks including smoking deer skins on May 21, 1813. He was last traced going overland in a brigade of canoes and likely made it as far as Fort William on the Great Lakes. For possible scenarios of his return to the Hawaiian Islands, see Ben [2].

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria

Karohuhana, Ignace [variation: Karahuhana] (c. 1813 - ?) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1813Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1832 - 1833); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1833 - 1834); Middleman, Fort McLoughlin (1834 - 1836); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1836 - 1850); Middleman, Fort Victoria (1850 - 1853); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1859 - 1861); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1861 - 1862).

Ignace Karohuhana joined the HBC from Sault St. Louis in 1832, spending many of those years in Fort Simpson. He was a tough individual for in October 1836, he had to recover from a fractured fibula, in January of the following year, an injury to the head and in January 1838 a cut foot. He is unaccounted for during the years 1853-1859 and may have been working casually along the coast. He deserted with his traps on March 29, 1862 and may have remained in the area.

PS: HBCA FtSimp[N]PJ 3-4, 6; YFASA 12-14, 19-20, 24-32; YFDS 5a-7, 22; FtVanASA 3, 6-8; FtVicDS 1; FtVicASA 1, 4, 7-11; BCA FtSimp[N]PJ

Karonhitchego, Laurent [variation: Kanokitchego] (c. 1794 - 1851) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: possibly Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1794

Death: St. Paul, Oregon - January 1851

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1816 - 1821); HBC Employee, Pacific slopes (1821 - 1822); Employee, Fort George [Astoria] (1822 - 1823); Employee, Columbia Department (1823 - 1826); Steersman, Thompson River (1826 - 1830); Bowsman, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1835); Steersman, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1835); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1837); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1842); Settler, Willamette (1842 - 1843); Settler, Oahu (1843 - 1844).

Laurent Karonhitchego joined the NWC presumably in 1815, for the following year his wages were paid to his wife when he was in the Columbia. He is hard to track but he continued working with the HBC after amalgamation. On April 5, 1827, Archibald McDonald, then clerk, wrote in his Thompson River report that Karonhitchego, who had a wife and children, was "a good Foreman, & obedient in other respects, [but] not adapted for horse driving" (HBRS X, p. 229). He worked with the Company until September 30, 1841 at which point he became a settler in the Willamette. He died in 1851 at St. Paul.

Laurent Karonhitchego had one recorded wife and three children. On March 28, 1840, he formalized his marriage to Thérèse Wahkaikom, Chinook, (c.1810-?). The recorded Karonhitchego children were Laurent II (c.1838-?), (Elizabeth) Marie Anne (1841-?) and Josephite (1843-?).

PS: HBCA NWCAB 1, 9; YFASA 1-9, 11-15, 19-21; FtGeo[Ast]AB 10; FtKamPJ 2; YFDS 2a, 3a-5a, 5c-7, 12; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 2-8; BCA BCCR-CCCath; PPS: HBRS X, p. 31n, 229; CCR 1a, 2a, 2b

Karoooha (fl. 1840 - 1854) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1842); Middleman, Fort Stikine (1842 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Stikine (1843 - 1849); Labourer, Fort Rupert (1849 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1850).

Karoooha, who entered the service of the HBC in 1840, worked at various places along the Northwest Coast before retiring to Oahu in outfit 1844-1845. He re-enlisted again, and his contract ended in 1850 when he expressed a desire to return to Hawaii. As there was movement on his account until 1854, he may have stayed in the area for at least that period.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 24-30, 32; YFDS 11; FtVanASA 6-8; FtVicASA 1; BCA Diar-Rem Helmcken

Karreymoure [variation: Karreymourie] (fl. 1844 - 1850) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: probably Fort Vancouver, Oregon Territory - 1850

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1849).

Karreymoure joined the HBC from Oahu in 1844 and worked as a labourer at Fort Vancouver. His contract was to have ended in 1850 but on September 20, 1849, he deserted, presumably for the gold fields of California. He returned and, in outfit 1850-1851, he worked for four months before dying.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-28, 30-31; YFDS 20-21

Kassawessa, Pierre [variation: Kassawesa, Kassawetta] (? - c. 1822) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: possibly Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada

Death: in a snow storm in Snake Country, Pacific Northwest – winter of 1822-23

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1817); Employee, Snake Country (1819); Employee, New Caledonia (1820); HBC Trapper, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1821 - 1822); Boule, Snake Party (1821 - 1823).

Pierre Kassawessa joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] on September 23, 1816 as a middleman destined to work in Sault St. Marie or Fort William. He continued on, however, as he is on record as crossing the Rockies to the Pacific slopes with Joseph LaRocque in 1817. He continued to work in the area and in the fall of 1819, deserted from Donald McKenzie's Snake Party. The following year he was in New Caledonia and, at the time of coalition in 1821, he transferred to the HBC. He spent most of his time in the Snake Country and, according to Ve-i-em, the principal Chief of the Snakes, Kassawessa went with the Snake Nation in 1822 but got lost in a snow storm.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 2, 7, 9; FtGeo[Asst]AB 4, 10; HBCA YFASA 2; SnkCoPJ 1

Kateman, George (c. 1804 - ?) (probably Canadian: French or Canadian: English)

Birth: probably St. Edouard, Lower Canada - c. 1804

Death: possibly East of the Rocky Mountains

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1834 - 1835); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1837); Middleman on Montreal Pay List, Columbia Department (1837 - 1838).

George Kateman joined the HBC from the parish of St. Edouard in 1834 and is recorded as returning east over the Rockies in March 1837.

PS: HBCA YFASA 14-17; YFDS 5c-7; FtVanASA 3-4

See Also: Kateman, Xavier (probable Relative)

Kateman, Xavier [variation: Katman] (c. 1812 - c. 1892) (probably Canadian: French or probably Canadian: English)

Birth: probably St. Edouard, Lower Canada - c. 1812

Death: probably Lewis County, Washington - c. 1892

Fur trade employee

HBC Steersman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1835 - 1836); Steersman, Fort Simpson (1836 - 1846); Settler, Cowlitz (1846+).

Xavier Kateman may have been a close relative of George Kateman as they were both born in the same year, both were from St. Edouard and both joined the HBC in 1834. They were either twins or cousins. Kateman spent virtually his entire career at Fort Simpson, working until December 31, 1846 at which point he settled on a 320 acre [129.5 ha] claim in Lewis Co. He claimed, however, he settled in 1845. In 1850 he was noted as being a farmer in on Cowlitz Prairie, Lewis Co., Washington. By 1892, Kateman had died.

Xavier Kateman had a wife and at least two children. On October 3, 1852, he formalized his marriage to Catherine in Lewis Co. They had an unnamed baby girl (1838-1838) and a son, George (c.1840-?). Other children have not been traced.

PS: HBCA YFASA 15, 19-20, 24-26; FtSimp[N]PJ 3-4; YFDS 6-7, 17; FtVanASA 3-8; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Lewis County PPS: Washington Territory Donation Land Claims, p. 147; Huggins, "Reminiscences of Puget", p. 243

See Also: Kateman, George (probable Relative)

Kauai (fl. c. 1847 - 1848) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably on Kauai

Death: Fort Victoria, Vancouver Island - July 21, 1848

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Columbia Department (1847 - 1848); Labourer, Fort Langley (1848).

Kauai joined the HBC in 1847 but had a short career with the Company as he died at Fort Victoria in 1848 of unspecified causes.

PS: HBCA YFASA 27-28; FtVicASA 1-2; YFDS 19

Kaucrassoak, Joshua (fl. 1821) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

NWC Milieu, Columbia Department (1821).

Joshua Kaucrassoak transferred from the NWC to the HBC in 1821.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 9

Kaulehelehe, William R. (fl. 1845 - 1874) (Hawaiian)

Birth: Hawaiian Islands - 1809

Death: Victoria, British Columbia - June 1874

Other

HBC Teacher, Fort Vancouver general charges (1845 - 1847); Teacher, Columbia Department (1847 - 1848); Teacher, Columbia Department general charges (1848 - 1850); Teacher, Fort Vancouver (1853 - 1860); Untraced vocation, Western Department (1860 - 1861); Assistant, Fort Victoria (1862 - 1869).

William R. Kaulehelehe joined the HBC in 1845 on a three-year contract as a teacher, unusual for Hawaiians who were generally hired for labour only. On the request of the head of Fort Vancouver, Dr. John McLoughlin, Hawaiian American mission physician Dr. G. P. Judd hired Kaulehelehe, then in his mid-thirties, out of the Kawaiahao church to act as chaplain to his fellow Hawaiians in the Columbia. Arriving with his wife, Mary S. Kaai, or Kaiapioop, on June 23, 1845 at Fort Vancouver, the Kaulehelehes set up residence in the Kanaka village.

The presence of the couple was somewhat resented, as it was felt that it would tone down the freedoms of the other residents and make them, for example, "observe the Sabbath, because on that day they did their carpentering, horseriding, agriculturing, and the like" (William's letter to Judd as found in The Beaver, p. 41). To alleviate the tense situation, Kaulehelehe was moved into a house inside the fort, but this move did not help him influence the whites who repeatedly abused the Hawaiians without cause. (His wife is not mentioned after 1845 and may have died at Fort Vancouver.) He was, on the other hand, more successful in getting them to observe the Sabbath although less so in curbing drinking among his fellow Hawaiians, who purchased alcohol from Americans just below the fort. His small congregation was made even smaller in 1849 with the large number of defections to the California gold fields.

Things did not go well for Kaulehelehe. Before 1850, he was moved back to the village outside the fort. The 'Owhyhee Church' within the palisade walls was torn down sometime between 1855 and 1858 and was not replaced. As the Hudson's Bay Company traditional area was gradually pre-empted by the US Army following the 1846 boundary settlement, the humble and undoubtedly deteriorated dwelling of Kaulehelehe thrust the Hawaiian chaplain into the international spotlight. Balking at the evacuation orders of the US Army, Kaulehelehe was told by John Work to hold his ground. This was to little avail, for, as Yvonne Klan writes in The Beaver:

But William [Kaulehelehe] and Work held fast. On March 12 1860, William watched the army remove the fences from around the Company's fields. On the 16th he saw the soldiers burn down a vacated house which had been used for store hay. On the 19th the soldiers destroyed the Company's old hospital and another house, and then they turned their attention to Williams' dwelling. When they removed the doors and the windows William finally left. The next day, March 20, the Hawaiian watched helplessly while soldiers set fire to the remains of his old home (Klan, p. 43).

The incident provoked British protests to American President James Buchanan who issued an order to cease interference with the employees of the Hudson's Bay Company. Kaulehelehe was then moved up to Fort Victoria where he was naturalized as a British subject on August 12, 1862. He lived in a house on Humboldt Street, Victoria, and worked as an "assistant" and interpreter until about 1868-1869. He died and was buried on June 22, 1874 at the Ross Bay Cemetery.

PS: HBCA YFASA 25-32; FtVanASA 9-15; FtVicASA 10-16; BCA BCGR CrtR-Naturalization; RossBayCem; Colonial Secretary, Vancouver Island, Death certificates, in BCA, C/AA/30.1/1; PPS: Atkinson, Diary of Rev. George, vol. 40, p. 181; SS: Klan, "Kanaka William" Beaver, vol.6 (1979), 38-43.

Kaumaia [variation: Kaumoea] (fl. 1845 - 1848) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Willamette (1845 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1846 - 1848).

Kaumaia joined the HBC from Oahu on May 7, 1845 for three years and worked in the Columbia district. He returned to Oahu in July 1848, where he was paid off.

PS: HBCA YFASA 25-30; SandIsAB 3, 6

Kawahinia (fl. 1850) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1850).

Kawahinia served on the HBC vessel Cowlitz from February 3 to September 17, 1850, travelling from Oahu to the Northwest Coast and back again. On August 27 at Honolulu, he and the other Hawaiian crewmen refused to work claiming their contract was up but nonetheless returned to work for another month while the vessel was at anchor.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 10, 11; log of Cowlitz 8

Kawationha, Louis (fl. 1821) (possibly Iroquois)

Birth: possibly Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

NWC Milieu, Columbia Department (1821).

Louis Kawationha was one of a large number of NWC employees who transferred to the HBC at the time of coalition in 1821.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 9

Kawenassa, Antoine (c. 1818 - ?) (probably Iroquois)

Birth: possibly Lower Canada [Quebec]

Death: possibly Canada, British North America

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1838 - 1839); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1839 - 1841); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1839 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Stikine (1841 - 1842); Middleman, Columbia Department (1842 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1843 - 1844).

Antoine Kawenassa joined the HBC from Lachine in 1833 and worked in a variety of jobs. Little is known of Kawenassa's character but he was at Stikine at the time of the killing of John McLoughlin Jr. and was said by John McLoughlin Sr. to have "besmeared himself with the blood of the deceased (McLoughlin Jr) and to have said laughing at it, that it was a deer they had killed" (FtVanCB 29, deposition, fo. 32).

He returned east of the Rockies to Canada in 1844.

PS: HBCA YFASA 19-20, 23; FtVanASA 4-8; FtVanCB 29

Kaweneguay, Pierre [variation: Kayenoquay] (fl. 1816 - 1819) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1816 - 1819).

Pierre Kaweneguay signed on with the NWC on December 31, 1816, coming to the Pacific slopes. In 1817 he crossed the Rockies with Joseph LaRocque's party and wintered over in 1818.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 10

Kawenion, Charles (fl. 1830) (Native: possibly Iroquois)

Birth: possibly Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

HBC Goer and comer, Columbia Department (1830).

Charles Kawenion was a comer and goer from Montreal into the Columbia in the summer of 1830.

PS: HBCA YFASA 9-10; FtVanAB 26

Kawero, Tom (fl. 1834) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver (1834); Passenger, Eagle (brig) (1834).

Tom Kawero worked for the HBC in 1834. He put in a brief appearance in the Columbia, being sent to Oahu aboard the brig Eagle on December 1, 1834. As the name and movements are similar, he may be the same person as Tom Keuvero.

PS: HBCA YFASA 14; YFDS 5c; ShMiscPap 14

Kay, William [variation: Hay] (fl. 1857 - 1858) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1857 - 1858).

William Kay made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA log of Princess Royal 4; PortB 1

Kayenquaretcha, Lazard [variation: Lazarde Kayenguarathia] (fl. 1822 - 1825) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: possibly Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada

Freeman

HBC Freeman trapper with Miaquin Martin's band, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1822 - 1823); Freeman trapper, Ross' Snake Party (1824); Freeman trapper, Ogden's Snake Party (1824 - 1825).

Lazard Kayenquaretscha joined the NWC on September 23, 1816 as a middleman to work in Sault St. Marie or Fort William and renewed his contract two years later to work in Indian Country. By 1822, he was part of an independently functioning band of trappers, under Miaquin Martin, that sold its furs to the HBC. After the band dissolved their partnership in that outfit, Kayenquaretscha continued to accompany Martin. On February 10, 1824, he joined Alexander Ross, who said that Kayenquaretscha was unfit to trap in Snake Country. In two weeks he and Laurent Karatohon deserted and had to be brought back with force by the party but not before Kayenquaretscha had sold his rifle and ammunition for a horse. As a result, Lazard and several others were called "Injurious to our party" by Ross (SnkCoPJ 1, fo 11d). After nine months with Ross, Kayenquaretscha left Flathead post with Ogden's Snake party on December 20, 1824. On May 24, 1825 at Weber River, Kayenquaretscha felt that he could get a better deal with the higher paying American party and so, without paying his debt, deserted with eleven others.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 10; SnkCoPJ 1, 2, 3a

Kayriow [variation: Kayriou, Kay-riow] (fl. 1837 - 1840) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1838 - 1840).

Kayriow signed on with the HBC in July 1837 in Oahu and began work at Fort Vancouver on August 10 of that year. He was later transferred to Fort Simpson, where he appeared to act as a gatekeeper, and was discharged on November 15, 1840, at which time he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 1; FtVanASA 4-6; YFDS 8, 11; YFASA 19-20; FtSimp[N] 4

Keagle, Antoine (c. 1803 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably La Prairie, Lower Canada - c. 1803

Death: possibly East of the Rocky Mountains

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1833 - 1834); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1834 - 1835); Personal servant, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1836).

Antoine Keagle joined the HBC from La Prairie in 1833 on a three year contract and is recorded as returning east over the Rockies in the spring of 1836.

PS: HBCA YFASA 13-16; YFDS 5b-6; FtVanASA 3

Keahanele [standard: Keahanelé] (fl. 1847 - 1854) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Columbia Department (1847 - 1848); Labourer, New Caledonia (1848 - 1849); Labourer, Fort Langley (1849 - 1854).

Keahanelé joined the HBC in 1847 on a three-year contract that ended in 1850. He began work as a labourer on August 12, 1847 and appeared to work until 1854 when he likely returned to the Sandwich Islands.

PS: HBCA YFASA 27-32; FtVicASA 1-3

Keahi (fl. 1840 - 1846) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1846).

Keahi appears to have spent his career with the HBC around Fort Vancouver. He joined the Company in 1840 from Oahu. As his contract ended in 1846 he worked until August 6 of that year, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 24-26; FtVanASA 6-8; YFDS 17

Keala [variation: Kehele] (fl. 1845 - 1849) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Willamette (1845 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1846 - 1849).

Keala joined the HBC in Oahu on May 7, 1845 and worked as a labourer. He deserted in 1849, probably before the beginning of outfit 1849-1850. Like others, he appears to have been smitten with gold fever.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 3; YFASA 24-29

Kealoha (fl. 1847 - 1849) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: Fort Rupert, Colony of Vancouver Island - December 1849

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Columbia Department (1847 - 1848); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1848 - 1849); Labourer, Fort Rupert (1849).

Although Kealoha joined the HBC in 1847 from Oahu on a three-year contract that ended in 1850, he may have worked at the Honolulu compound as early as 1846. He was in on the construction of Fort Rupert in 1849 but by December of that year had become very ill with a complaint of the bowels. He died of pneumonia and, on that same December day, he was buried at the Fort Rupert graveyard where prayers were read in Hawaiian by one of his friends. Kealoha gave all his personal possessions to his friend, Kanome, and any money owing was to go to a sister in Oahu.

No family on the coast has been traced.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 6; YFASA 27-32; FtVicASA 1-2; FtRupPJ 1 SS: Helmcken, p.108

Kearns, Thomas (fl. 1854 - 1855) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1854 - 1855).

Thomas Kearns made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Keave [a] [standard: Keavé] [variation: Louis Kiawet, Kiaret] (fl. 1840) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: Hawaiian Islands - 1824

Death: possibly Victoria, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1840 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1842 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1843 - 1848); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1849 - 1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1851 - 1852).

Keavé [a] joined the service of the HBC in 1840 when he was about sixteen and worked first in the far north at Fort Taku and then at Fort Victoria. He returned twice to Oahu, once in the spring of 1845 and around mid November 1848. His work appears to have ended around 1852, but he carried on transactions with the Company until about 1855. He most likely settled in the Victoria area with a family.

Keavé's family life is unclear. He may have been given the first name of Louis when he married Emelie, (c.1827-?), a Clallam woman, on August 29, 1849 in a Catholic ceremony at Victoria. They had one son, Jean Baptiste (1849-1850). Keave appears to have had another wife, Ursule (?-?), of unknown origin, and together they had one recorded child, Elizabeth (?-bap.1863-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 24-28, 30-32; FtVanASA 6-8; YFDS 24; SandIsAB 3, 9; FtVicASA 1-2; BCA BCCR- StAndC

Keave [b] [standard: Keavé] (fl. 1840 - 1845) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Umpqua (1842 - 1843); Labourer, Fort George [Astoria] (1843 - 1844); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1844 - 1845).

Keave [b] joined the HBC from Oahu in 1842 and worked in the Columbia district. As his contract ended in 1845, he worked until December 10 of that year, at which point he returned to Oahu and was paid his final Company wages.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 7-8; YFASA 22, 24-25; YFDS 16; SandIsAB 5

Keave, Tom [standard: Keavé] [variation: Thomas Kiawet, Kiavet] (fl. 1844 - 1860) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: possibly Vancouver Island, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Snake Party (1844 - 1845); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1846); Labourer, Snake Party (1846 - 1848); Labourer, New Caledonia (1848 - 1849); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1850 - 1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1851 - 1852).

Tom Keavé, from Oahu, joined the HBC in 1844 on a three-year contract and spent his time between the Snake Party and Fort Vancouver. In outfit 1848-1849, when he was based in New Caledonia, he deserted from the Columbia brigade at Fort Langley, possibly intending to head for the gold fields of California. However, he soon returned and appeared to work until 1852 at Fort Victoria, after which, for the next three years, he carried on transactions with the HBC. In 1857-1858 Keave was a member of the Voltigeurs, a special militia set up in 1851 in the Victoria area. He remained in the Victoria area raising a family until at least 1860, after which he has not been traced.

Tom Keavé's family records are not clear. His first recorded wife was Emelie (?-?), a Saanich woman, who he married in a Catholic ceremony, likely at Victoria. Their children were Louis (?-bap.1854-?) and Joseph (?-bap.1858-?). Emelie must have died, and Tom Keave's next wife, who he also married in a Catholic ceremony, was Louise (?-?), a Cowichan woman, with whom he had Helene (1858-?). A third wife was Marie (?-?), another Native woman, with whom he had George (?-bap.1860-?) and possibly Charles (?-1865-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-28, 30-32; YFDS 19; FtVicASA 1-2; BCA BCCR StAndC SS: Koppel, p. 70

Keave-haccow [standard: Keavé-haccow] [variation: James Keavé-haccou, Kiavi-ow, Kaverharea, Keave, Keheva, Kiav-how, Kai-ve-ou, Kiáve, Chowy?, Keavahow] (fl. 1844 - 1883) (Hawaiian)

Birth: Hawaiian Islands - 1819

Death: Saltspring Island, British Columbia - May 1883

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1844 - 1845); Goer and comer, Snake Party (1845 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1846 - 1848); Labourer, Fort Langley (1848 - 1849); Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1849 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1850 - 1851); PSAC Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1851 - 1859); IND. Farmer, Saltspring Island (1869 - 1883).

The life of five foot eight inch [1.7 m] Keavé-haccow, who joined the HBC from Oahu in 1844 when he was about twenty-five and spent the majority of the next fifteen years in and around Fort Nisqually, can largely be framed by his frequent but sometimes intermittent appearances in the surviving Fort Nisqually journals (April 14, 1846 to August 20, 1859). After starting at Fort Vancouver and the Snake Country, the Sandwich Islander worked regularly up to July 24, 1849. By this time Keave'haccow had a wife, who travelled with him. On November 1, 1847, at Fort Langley a man named Keavie took a woman named Katey Squinum for his wife. The head of the post, who officiated, had them make a written commitment "to have the marriage ceremony duly and evangelically solemnized on the earliest opportunity, when a clerical person may be had to perform the same." The witness was Ohia. From that point, the pattern of Keave'haccow's life seems to have changed for he appeared to inject a little variety into his routine and also become more ambitious. In July, 1849 Keavé-haccow left Fort Nisqually for Fort Vancouver for two weeks to see his friends, but not before signing on for two more years starting from November 1, 1849. On March 17, 1850, Keave'haccow along with Cowie and Kalama announced they were "leaving the service" (Dickey). Keave'haccow likely headed to Fort Vancouver, where he may have entered the 1850 Census as James Kaverharea (c.1824-?). Keavé-haccow went to work at Fort Vancouver on November 1, 1850.

Keave'haccow returned to Nisqually in September, 1851 and continued on with his agricultural work, doing a variety of jobs until March 8, 1852 when he left the employ of the company and began to work for a Mr. Chambers in the Nisqually area. He reappeared on June 7, 1852, erecting a dairy at Tlithlow and after that working at a variety of jobs, many requiring carpentry skills. Keave'haccow left again in August 1854, this time returning after just two months away. Keavé-haccow appears to have been a dedicated, sober, hard worker; however, on February 14, 1853, he was noted as being drunk and disorderly along with Tapow and Tawai. Similarly, on March 28 of the same year, Keavehaccow and a French Canadian employee Jean Baptiste Chailfoux were drunk and not able to work. Keave'haccow didn't always do carpentry or agricultural duties, for on July 7, 1853, he was out marking the boundaries of the Puget Sound Agricultural Company's claim. On August 17, 1854, he quit to take up employment under Charles Wren; however, by October 31, 1854, he was back working out of Fort Nisqually. The usually affable Keavehaccow had the unpleasant duty on November 10, 1854 in nearby Steilacoom City, of testifying against fellow Sandwich Islander, Tamaru, who stole from the Company's beach store.

On November 14, 1855, Keavé-haccow was sent to Muck farm and didn't reappear in the Fort Nisqually journals until November 4, 1857; at the end of that month and into December, he was ill. He returned to Fort Nisqually's Muck farm to work and on April 8, 1858, returned to Nisqually to announce that he and Kalama were going to Thompson River to look for gold. He was likely unlucky, for before July 18, 1859, he was back working at Muck farm and from that date worked at Fort Nisqually. He finally left the service of the Company on August 20, 1859.

In November 1865 a man recorded as Kiavihow, who signed with his mark, pre-empted one hundred acres [40.5 ha] in the outskirts of Victoria. By 1869 and perhaps earlier Keave'haccow was almost certainly living on Salt Spring Island. In early 1869 a man recorded as Kiav-how and Kai-ve-ou, who signed with his mark, took up 160 acres [64.8 ha] of land on the west side of Fulford Harbor. By 1875 he had cleared six acres [2.4 ha], fenced seven feet [2.1 m] high, and had "a good house cost $150, a wife & family." That year he applied for title to the still unsurveyed land. During this time, he may have made periodic visits to Victoria for, on September 13, 1871, the fifty-two-year old Kiavi-ow was found guilty of assault in that city and fined $10 or one month in prison.

Keavé'haccow likely had several children by one or more wives but his family records are unclear. If Keave'haccow is the same as the man named as Chawey and born variously between 1811 and 1815, then he would have been married to Mary (?-?) and their children would have been Lucy (c.1867-?) and Frank (1874-?).

Keavahow, so named, died on Salt Spring Island on May 29, 1883, apparently aged about seventy-five years although this makes him much older than other stated ages. He may have been as young at sixty-four. Two years later, William Fraser Tolmie, longtime head at Fort Nisqually, interceded on behalf of his widow, who he named as "Madame Kiáve." Remarried to a Songhees man, she sought title to "three or four acres [1.2 or 1.6 ha], cleared and long cultivated by her deceased husband, a Sandwich Islander, and long an employee of the Hudson's Bay Company" on Salt Spring. She wanted the property for "her little boy Frank Kiáve (the only survivor of her children)" against the claims of La-gamine, William Naukana, then on Portland Island (Tolmie).

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-32; YFDS 16; FtVanASA 9-14; PSACAB 22a; OHS 1850 US Census, Clark Co.; BCA BCGR-CrT-Gaols; BCGR-Pre-Emptions; BCCR-StAndC; Tolmie to Henry Fry, J.P., June 8, 1885, BCA, M552; VPL 1881 Canada Census, Cowichan; PubPS: Dickey, Journal of Occurences at Fort Nisqually; W.F.

See Also: Cowie; Kalama

Kee [variation: Ki] (fl. 1845 - 1857) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Colville (1845 - 1848); Labourer, Fort Langley (1848 - 1849); Labourer, New Caledonia (1849 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1850 - 1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1855 - 1856).

Kee joined the HBC in Oahu on May 7, 1845 and worked steadily as a labourer at various posts until 1852. He appeared to return to work in 1855-1856, for then he is noted as having received wages but in the following 1856-1857 outfit he was described as being at Fort Victoria and not receiving wages. He has not been traced beyond that point.

PS: HBCA YFASA 25-32; FtVicASA 1-5

Keea [variation: G. (George?) Kia, Kea, G. Keea] (fl. 1848 - 1858) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: possibly Vancouver Island, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1848 - 1849); Labourer, Fort Kamloops [Thompson's River Post, She-waps Post] (1849 - 1851); Labourer, Fort Langley (1852 - 1853); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1855 - 1856); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1856 - 1857); Labourer, Columbia Department (1857 - 1858); Steward, Otter (steamer) (1858).

Keea signed on in 1848 in Oahu with the HBC, with whom he worked off and on as a labourer at various posts for ten years. He began work on July 15, 1848 but deserted in outfit 1850-1851; he was back working in outfit 1852-1853 although he appeared to stop work in 1853-1854. From 1854 he worked until 1858 when he appeared to retire. By 1858, he had acquired an initial name starting with G. (George?). From that point on he is not found in the records again.

Keea/Kia had an unnamed Kwantlen wife and two recorded children, Basile (?-bap. 1856-?) and Jean (?-bap.1856). Both children were baptised Catholic on June 29, 1856 at Fort Langley.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 7; YFASA 28-30, 32; YFDS 19; FtVicASA 1-6; FtVicCB 7; log of Otter 1; BCA BCCR StAndC

Keeam, Charles [variation: Keean, Keian, Keeam] (c. 1835 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: York Factory [Manitoba] - c. 1835

Death: possibly New Caledonia

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Victoria general charges (1852 - 1853); Middleman, Fort Langley (1853 - 1855); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1855 - 1856); Middleman, Fort Langley (1856 - 1859); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department

(1859 - 1861); Labourer, New Caledonia (1861 - 1862).

Charles Keenan was hired on by the HBC around 1852 in Rupert's Land, the area of his birth. In 1861, after working for about eight years in the Victoria/Langley area, he went north into New Caledonia, likely the Bear Lake area. There he worked for an outfit and began raising a family. He likely did casual work for the HBC until at least 1864.

Charles Keenan had one recorded wife, Aseepattay/Atseppattay (?-?) a native from Bear Lake. Their recorded children were Charles (c.1864-?) and Betsey (c.1868-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 32; FtVicASA 1-11; BCA BCCR StPetStLk

Keekanah [variation: Keikanneh, Keekaneh, Keekany, Kekane, Tchikané] (c. 1798 - 1846) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands - c. 1798

Death: probably Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - August 1846

Fur trade employee

NWC Untraced vocation, Columbia River (1817 - 1821); HBC Untraced vocation, Fort George [Astoria] (1822 - 1825); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1825 - 1826); Member, McLeod's Umpqua Expedition (1826 - 1827); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver (1827 - 1830); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1830 - 1831); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1831 - 1843); Middleman, Fort McLoughlin (1843 - 1844); Labourer, Willamette (1844 - 1845); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1845 - 1846).

Keekanah joined the fur trade around 1817 with the NWC and worked many years in the Columbia Department. In 1835 he retired and returned to Oahu on the Ganymede, leaving Fort Vancouver on October 3, 1835. Upon arrival he was paid his final wage; however, he had a change of mind and returned to the Northwest Coast to work. His contact ended in 1845 and he died August 31, 1846, quite likely at Fort Vancouver.

Keekanah partnered with a Chehalis Native woman, their child being Cecelia/Cecile (c.1828-?), who was first baptised Anglican by the Rev. Herbert Beaver, and then, to ensure a passage to heaven, Catholic, by priest F. N. Blanchet.

PS: HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 10, 12; YFASA 2-9, 11-15, 19-21, 24-26; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-8; YFDS 2a, 3a-7; SandIsLonIC 1; BCA BCCR CCCath PPS: CCR 1b; W. F. Tolmie, p. 189

Keemo, James (fl. 1811) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Oahu

Fur trade employee

PFC Labourer, Tonquin (ship) (1811); Labourer, Fort George [Astoria] (1811 - 1814).

James Keemo joined the crew of the Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn] as a labourer around February 21, 1811 when the vessel of the PFC stopped at Oahu and took on a complement of twelve Sandwich Islanders. One month later, on March 22, the Tonquin arrived at the mouth of the Columbia and, on April 12, James Keemo was noted at helping to unload the vessel. Keemo worked at Astoria until the spring of 1814, when he returned home.

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria

Keene, John (fl. 1850 - 1851) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1851).

John Keene made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC vessel, Norman Morison. While on the coast he would have run supplies to Fort Simpson and Sitka.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; YFASA 30-31

Keharoha [variation: Kehaoroah] (fl. 1840 - 1845) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Snake Party (1841 - 1842); Labourer, Vancouver (barque) (1842 - 1843); Labourer, Fort McLoughlin (1843 - 1844); Labourer, Willamette (1844 - 1845).

Keharoha joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840 and began working at Fort Vancouver on July 15 of that year. He worked as a goer and comer for the Snake Party and subsequently in a variety of locations throughout the Columbia. As his contract ended in 1845, he worked until July 18th of that year at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 24-25; FtVanASA 6-8; YFDS 11-12, 16

Keharou [variation: Keharrow] (fl. 1840 - 1847) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Columbia (barque) (1841 - 1842); Middleman, Fort Stikine (1843 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Stikine (1846 - 1847).

Keharou joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840 and worked at Fort Vancouver and on the barque Columbia. He worked until November 10, 1847, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 24-25, 27; YFDS 12, 18; FtVanASA 6-8

Kehow [variation: Kehou] (fl. 1845 - 1851) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1845 - 1849); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1849 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1850 - 1851).

Kehow joined the HBC from Oahu in 1845 on a three-year contract. He worked at Forts Vancouver and Victoria until he deserted on June 30, 1851.

PS: HBCA YFASA 25-31; YFDS 22; FtVanASA 9

Kei (fl. 1846 - 1847) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1846).

Kei joined the HBC from Oahu in 1846 on a two-year contract. No further information has been located about him.

PS: HBCA YFASA 26

Keith, James [variation: Kerth] (1782 - 1851) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Netherthird, Auchterless, Scotland - March 12, 1782 (born to James Keith and Isabella Bruce)

Death: 101 Crown Street, Aberdeen, Scotland - January 27, 1851

Fur trade employee

NWC Clerk, Fort George [Astoria] (1813 - 1816); In charge, Fort George [Astoria] (1816 - 1821).

James Keith and brother George joined the NWC [Forsyth, Richardson, & Co.] on April 29, 1800 as apprentice clerks and served at various posts east of the Rockies until 1813. That year James came to Fort George [Astoria] with Alexander Henry the younger and Alexander Stewart, and wintered there. On January 3, 1814, Keith struck out for east of the Rockies along with Stewart and fifteen crewman. On the 8th, they were attacked and robbed above Celilo Falls on the Columbia River and Stewart was seriously wounded with two arrows but Keith escaped injury. In spite of Keith's insistence that they wait for elderly hunter Jean Baptiste Sakanakee, the Nipissing native was left to fend for himself while they headed back downriver. Eventually, by July 1814, he reached Fort William and became partner with four other clerks, two of whom were Angus Bethune and John McLoughlin. During the next few years while in charge at Fort George [Astoria], he travelled throughout the lower Columbia region. In 1817, fearing that the deserter from the ship Columbia, Joseph Carpenter, would incite the Clatsops to storm Fort George, Keith had the mutinous blacksmith banished from the area. In October, 1818, he was present when British and American commissioners aboard HMS Blossom exchanged documents legitimizing the surrender and return of American ownership to the buildings which had been seized by the overzealous Captain Black of the HMS Racoon in 1813. This agreed-to return was largely ignored by Keith and NWC business continued normally at the post until 1821 when he left the post. At amalgamation he was appointed Chief Factor but took a year off due to ill health. From that point on he served the HBC east of the Rockies. He retired and returned to Scotland in 1843, remarrying in 1845. He died in 1851 leaving a large estate which was divided amongst his Scottish relatives and North American descendants.

James Keith had two wives and at least two children. Early in his life he married the daughter of Jean Baptiste Cadot with whom he had daughters Helen (1811-?) and Mary (1814-?). He provided for them in a will written at Fort Chipewyan on January 19, 1820 with the following preamble:

It having fallen to my lot (a most lamented and almost unavoidable consequence of the situation and country wherein I have passed such a lapse of time and which I trust will be viewed with that Christian indulgence, due to human frailty and imperfection) to have two reputed children, Helen and Mary whom I have adopted (Wills, fo. 38).

He married his second cousin, Susan Angus on July 8, 1845.

PS: SHdeSB Listre; HBCA NWCAB 10; HBCA Wills; PSACWills PPS: ChSoc XLV, p. 136-39, 144, 182; Franchère, p. 92-95,

100-101, 164; ChSoc LVII, p. 628, 628n, 632, 634, 636, 638n, 672, 679, 701; Corney, Voyages in the Northern, p. 77a; Coues, p. 782; HBRs I, p. 444; HBRs XXII, p. 459; HBRs XXX, p. 177 SS: HBRs XXII, p. 459; T. C. Elliot, "The Surrender at Astoria", p. 278; Judson, p. 327; DCB Goldring
See Also: Black, Samuel

Kekahuna [variation: Kikuhanna] (fl. 1845 - 1848) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Willamette (1845 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1846 - 1848).

Kekahuna joined the HBC from Oahu on May 7, 1845 for three years, working in the Fort Vancouver area. He received his final wages in Honolulu in July 1848. He did not receive wages for outfit 1848-1851 although, for unexplained reasons, his name still remained on the books.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 3, 7; YFASA 25-30

Kekko (fl. 1853) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Pekin (ship) (1853); Seaman, Mary Catherine (ship) (1853).

Kekko shipped aboard the HBC chartered vessel Pekin in Honolulu probably in the summer of 1853 during the height of the smallpox epidemic, sailed to the Northwest Coast and arrived back in Honolulu September 27th, 1853 on the Mary Catherine. He was given the final balances of his wages when he arrived back.

PS: SandIsLonIC 3

Kekoa [variation: Kikoa] (fl. 1847 - 1855) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Columbia Department (1847 - 1848); Labourer, Fort Langley (1848 - 1849); Labourer, New Caledonia (1849 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Langley (1850 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Fort Langley (1852 - 1854); Labourer, Fort Langley (1854 - 1855).

Kekoa joined the HBC from Oahu as a labourer in 1847 on a three-year contract that ended in 1850. He began work on August 12, 1847 and was mainly employed at Fort Langley. In outfit 1854-1855, he did not receive wages. He may have still been in the area in 1855-1856 but no further information has been located about him.

PS: HBCA YFASA 27-32; FtVicASA 1-3; YFDS 18

Kelley, Hall Jackson [variation: Kelly] (1790 - 1874) (American)

Birth: Northwood, New Hampshire, United States - 1790

Death: probably Massachusetts, United States - 1874

Other

U.A. Leader, Boston Colonization Society (1828); Guest, Columbia Department sundries account (1834 - 1835).

Hall Jackson Kelley was a Boston school teacher who, in 1815 became an enthusiast for saving the Oregon territory for the Republic of the United States. Quitting his Boston teaching job in 1823, he became a full-time agitator working on his colonization plans, and forming an emigration society called the Boston Colonization Society in 1828. His zeal drove him to present many memorials to Congress. His original plans were to strike out with Nathaniel J. Wyeth in 1832 but instead in 1833 went to New Orleans, crossed Mexico and went north to California where he met Ewing Young. The two arrived in the disputed territory in 1834 and a sick and discouraged Kelley was housed by Dr. John McLoughlin at Fort Vancouver until the spring of 1835 at which point he set out for Hawaii, joined the Canton Packet in August and sailed to Boston.

PS: HBCA YFASA 14; HMCS SReynolds] PPS: Shephard, p. 71

Kelly, Barney (c. 1812 - ?) (probably Canadian)

Birth: possibly Lower Canada [Quebec] - c. 1812

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1831 - 1832); Middleman, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1832 - 1833); Personal servant, Fort Simpson (1833 - 1834); Labourer, Fort Nez Percés (1834 - 1835); Middleman or labourer, Fort Colville (1835 - 1836).

Barney Kelly joined the HBC in 1831 from Lachine as a middleman and returned east of the Rockies to Canada in 1836.

PS: HBCA YFASA 11-16; YFDS 4a, 5a-6; FtVanASA 3

Kelly, Edward (c. 1829 - 1869) (Undetermined origin)

Birth: c. 1829

Death: Nanaimo, British Columbia - April 1869

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1855 - 1856); Cook, Fort Victoria (1856 - 1857).

Edward Kelly appears to have come to Victoria around 1855-1856 and acted as a cook in Fort Victoria. He then moved to Nanaimo with his wife and small family and died in Nanaimo in the spring of 1869, aged forty.

Edward Kelly had one recorded wife, Helen or Ellen (?-?), a Stikine native whom he married on April 1, 1864, and seven children. Their children were Joseph (c.1856-?), Margaret (c.1860-1866), Mary (c.1862-?), Gustine (1863-1865), Jane (1864-?), Henry (1866-?) and Thomas (1868-?).

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 3-4; BCA BCCR StPaulNan

Kelly, George (fl. 1855 - 1856) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1855 - 1856).

George Kelly made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Kelly, John (fl. 1834 - 1839) (British: English)

Birth: possibly in or near St. George's, London, Middlesex, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Eagle (brig) (1834 - 1835); Seaman, Fort Simpson naval service (1834 - 1835); Seaman, Lama (brig) (1835 - 1836); Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1836 - 1838); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1838); Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1838 - 1839).

John Kelly joined the HBC on December 7, 1833 as a seaman for five years. He sailed to the Northwest coast aboard the brig Eagle and on November 10, 1834, began his work on coastal shipping servicing various posts. He left for England on the barque Columbia on November 1, 1838.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 14-15, 18; YFDS 5c-7; FtVanASA 3-5; ShMiscPap 14; log of Columbia 3

Kendrick, Thomas (c. 1826 - ?) (British: English)

Birth: possibly London, England - c. 1826

Maritime employee

HBC Apprentice, Vancouver (barque) (1838 - 1844); Steward, Cowlitz (barque) (1846 - 1848); Steward, Cowlitz (barque) (1848 - 1851); Steward, Otter (steamer) (1852 - 1856).

After Thomas Kendrick joined the HBC from London as an apprentice on October 29, 1838 he made two return voyages to the coast aboard the HBC barque Vancouver. He returned to the coast as a seaman and, in November 1850 in Honolulu, an ill Kendrick was discharged by Captain Weynton of the Cowlitz; however, when Weynton found out that the new steward could not be trusted he took Kendrick back on board to be shipped to England since a medical man was on board to look after him should his health deteriorate. It didn't. After making round trips as steward to Hudson Bay on the Prince Albert, Kendrick came back to Vancouver Island aboard the steamer Otter, and sailed to all points between Fort Simpson and San Francisco in the next three years.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 11; YFASA 19-20, 23, 27-28; YFDS 10-11; FtVanASA 6-8; PortB 1; log of Cowlitz 8; log of Prince Albert 10-11; FtVicASA 1-4; discharge found in Dugald McTavish's November 8, 1850 Honolulu letter to Archibald Barclay, A.11/62, fo. 419d-420

Kennedy, Alexander (c. 1781 - 1832) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: probably South Ronaldsay, Orkney - c. 1781

Death: London, England - June 1832

Fur trade officer

HBC Chief Factor in charge, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1822 - 1823); Chief Factor in charge, Fort George [Astoria] (1823 - 1825).

Alexander Kennedy joined the HBC as a writer in 1798 from Orkney, and spent the next thirty-one years of his life working for the London firm. He rose up through the ranks, was appointed Chief Factor at amalgamation and soon after headed over the Rockies with Chief Trader John Lee Lewes and clerk William Kittson. The three arrived at Spokane House on October 18, 1822 whereupon Kennedy took charge and Lewes moved on to Fort George. At Spokane House he took a renewed interest in the Snake Country fur trade and sent out a large party, six of whom were killed by the Blackfeet and several deserted. In the spring of 1823, after having finished his Spokane House report, he went to Fort George [Astoria] where he spent the following winter and assumed control of the District at the departure of Chief Factor John Dugald Cameron. Kennedy was at Fort George [Astoria] on November 7, 1824, when George Simpson arrived and, following the instructions of Simpson and the Committee, explored the river with John McLoughlin for a new site on which Fort Vancouver was to be built. On March 16, 1825 Kennedy returned with Simpson to York Factory and retired from the service in 1829. Shortly after he returned to England but in 1831 was living with his family in the Red River Settlement. In the autumn of 1831 he returned to Europe again but in 1832 while in London, died of typhus. He was buried in the vault of St. Mark's Church, Pentonville, London.

PS: HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 11; YFASA 4; FtSpokP] 1; FtSpokRD 1; Simpson's March 10, 1825 letter to Governor and Committee, D.4/88, fos. 28d-29 PPS: HBRS II, [bio] p. 224-25, 332; HBRS III, p. 16, 84; ChSoc IV, p. 4-5
See Also: Kennedy, Dr. John Frederick (Son)

Kennedy, Dr. John Frederick [b] (1805 - 1859) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Cumberland HBC District [Manitoba] - January 1805 (born to CF Alexander Kennedy and Agatha (or Mary), a native woman)

Death: Victoria, Colony of Vancouver Island - April 1859

Fur trade officer

HBC Surgeon, Isabella (brig) (1829 - 1830); Surgeon, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1831); Clerk, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1831); Surgeon, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1839); Clerk, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1839); Untraced vocation, York Factory (1839 - 1840); Clerk, Fort Simpson (1839 - 1840); Surgeon, Fort Simpson (1839 - 1840); In charge, Fort McLoughlin (1839 - 1840); Surgeon, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1840 - 1841); Clerk in charge, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1840 - 1841); In charge, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1841 - 1843); Clerk, Fort Simpson (1843 - 1847); Surgeon, Fort Simpson (1843 - 1847); Chief Trader, Fort Simpson (1847 - 1848); Chief Trader in charge, Fort Stikine (1848 - 1849); Chief Trader in charge, Fort Simpson (1849 - 1852); Furlough, Columbia Department (1852 - 1853).

John Frederick Kennedy was born in North America and educated in Edinburgh, Scotland where he obtained a medical degree. On January 10, 1828 he applied for a position as ship's surgeon but was not appointed. On October 31, 1829, however, he signed on with the HBC sailing to his destination on the Columbia on the Isabella which was lost on the bar at the entrance in May 1830. Peter Skene Ogden was impressed with his work, as was George Simpson, who only wished there were more like him. In 1832, while he was carrying a heavy caseload from the epidemics, he gave notice of his intention to retire as the country was in such an unhealthy state that it required two medical men. His wife and two children had smallpox in 1837 but recovered. In 1846 Kennedy, in response to the establishment of the international border, along with sixteen others unsuccessfully laid claim to 640 acres [259 ha] (one square mile) of land around Fort Nisqually, land to which HBC/PSAC held possessory rights. (He did, however, purchase extensive acreage in the Victoria District between 1852-1857.) He was appointed Chief Trader in 1847, was on furlough in outfit 1851-1852, and was retired by the Company on June 1, 1856 because he had "for a length of time fallen into habits of intemperance." In that same year he was elected as the representative for Nanaimo. He died three years later at his "Burnside" residence in Victoria, B. C. intestate leaving children Frederick, James and a daughter to pick up the pieces.

John Frederick Kennedy had one wife, Fanny (1818-1858), daughter of Gispaxlots Chief Legaic, and several children. Seven children were Eliza (1835-1850), John George (?-bap.1850-?), John Philip (?-bap.1852), Mary Caroline (?-bap.1852-?), Frederick (?-?), James (?-?) and Alexander Augustus (?-?). Fanny Kennedy had a slave who was induced by a Sabassa native to desert at Fort Simpson on October 14, 1841. Wife Fanny died February 6, 1858 at the Kennedy residence at "Burnside", Victoria, B. C.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Isabella 1; FtSimp[N]P] 3-4, 6; YFASA 9, 11-15, 17-20, 24-32; FtVanASA 2-12; YFDS 6-7; FtVicASA 1-5; SimpsonCB; Wills; HBCABio; George Simpson's August 10, 1832 letter to Governor and Committee, D.4/99, fo. 22-22d; W. G. Smith's December 24, 1855 London letter to Chief Trader John Kennedy; BCA PSACFtNis; BCCR CCCath PPS: HBRS IV, [bio] p. 346; HBRS XXX, p. 215-16n; Dean, p. 42
See Also: Kennedy, Alexander (Father)

Kennedy, Frederick W. (fl. 1853 - 1878) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Pacific Slopes, Columbia Department (born to John Frederick and Fanny Kennedy)

Death: probably Bella Bella, British Columbia - April 1878

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Nisqually (1853 - 1854); Shopkeeper, Fort Nisqually (1854 - 1857); Clerk, Fort Nisqually (1857 - 1858); Shopkeeper, Fort Nisqually (1858); Post master, Bella Bella (1873 - 1877).

Frederick W. Kennedy, from "Indian Country", joined the HBC in 1853 on a two year contract that ended in 1855. He worked out of Fort Nisqually until 1858 or 1859 when he retired. He has not been traced for the next few years, but re-emerged in 1873 as post master of Bella Bella where he worked until he died, five years later.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 9-15; FtVicASA 1

Kennedy, John [a] (c. 1801 - 1830) (Irish)

Birth: Silgo, Ireland - c. 1801

Death: Fort Langley - April 17, 1830

Fur trade employee

HBC Milieu, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822); Milieu, Fort George [Astoria] (1822 - 1824); Milieu, Columbia Department (1824 - 1825); Middleman, Ogden's South Party (1825 - 1826); Middleman, McLeod's South Party (1826 - 1827); Middleman, Fort Langley (1827 - 1830).

A young thirteen year old John Kennedy [a], joined the NWC around 1814. His subsequent movements in North America between 1814-1821 have not been traced but it appears that he had become a seasoned trapper conversant with the ways of the new world when he joined the HBC on the Pacific slopes in 1821 at the time of coalition. On McLeod's Southern Expedition on October 7th, 1826, for example, when a twenty-five year old Kennedy was attached to botanist David Douglas as a hunter, he ran into a grizzly bear. After unsuccessfully trying to shoot it, he sprang up a small oak tree but the bear caught him by his clothes and ripped them to shreds, but Kennedy escaped injury (Douglas, p. 217). In another incident, Kennedy encountered an injured Douglas and brought him back to camp (Douglas, p. 226). On March 1st, 1827, because of a lack of food on McLeod's Southern Expedition, one of Kennedy's horses had to be killed for food. A few days after that he fell ill and had to return to Fort Vancouver to seek medical advice from Dr. John McLoughlin. From that point on, after he went to Fort Langley to participate in its original construction, he suffered from sporadic bouts of illness. After hauling logs during the first season, he trapped each winter. It was during one of these trapping expeditions in February 1830 that he caught a severe cold from which he was not to recover. By April 15, his neck and throat were so badly affected that he could hardly breathe; two days later, on April 17, 1830 he died at Fort Langley.

John Kennedy was noted as having a wife at Fort Langley in 1830 but did not appear to have a family.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 9; service with HBC YFASA 1-9, 11; FtGeo[Ast]AB 10-11; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-2; YFDS 3a-4a; FtVanPJ 4; FtLangPJ 1 PPS: D. Douglas, Journal, p. 217, 226

Kennedy, Thomas (fl. 1844 - 1854) (British)

Birth: possibly in or near St. Pancras, London, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1844 - 1845); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1845 - 1846); Cook, Cadboro (schooner) (1846 - 1847); Cook, Fort Vancouver (1847); Cook, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1848 - 1849); Steward, Beaver (steamer) (1849 - 1850); Cook, Beaver (steamer) (1849 - 1850); Cook, Beaver (steamer) (1850 - 1854); Cook, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1854).

Thomas Kennedy joined the HBC in London in 1843 and came to the coast probably on the Cowlitz. For the next ten years he worked largely on the coast as a ship's cook and must have been a good saver for at the end of his contract he had accumulated a credit of £232.11.6. The journey back, however, was almost disastrous for Kennedy during the month of February. During this time he became completely insane and had to be put in a straight jacket that the crew made especially for him as he threw all kinds of items overboard and threatened to paddle to shore on a makeshift raft. In March, however, he completely recovered and carried on as if nothing had happened, faithfully carrying out his duties until he arrived in London May 17, 1854.

Thomas Kennedy took a wife at Port Simpson and together they had a male child (1852-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-32; FtVicASA 1-2; YFDS 18, 20; log of Cadboro 5; log of Mary Dare 4

Kent, George (fl. 1856 - 1857) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1856 - 1857).

George Kent joined the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal in London on August 19, 1856 and made one return voyage to the Northwest Coast.

PS: HBCA log of Princess Royal 3; PortB 1

Kent, Matthew [variation: Mathew] (c. 1803 - ?) (Irish)

Birth: New Ross, Wexford, Ireland - c. 1803

Death: possibly British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Eagle (brig) (1833 - 1834); Seaman, Lama (brig) (1834 - 1836); Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1836 - 1837).

Matthew Kent joined the HBC on December 7, 1833 in London for five years. He sailed to the coast aboard the brig Eagle and, on November 10, 1834, began to work in the Columbia service. He worked in coastal shipping until he left the Columbia on November 1, 1836 for England on the barque Columbia and was discharged in London on May 12, 1837.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMisPap 4a, 14; YFASA 14-16; YFDS 5c-7; FtVanASA 3-4

Keo (fl. 1843 - 1849) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1843 - 1849).

Keo was a labourer who most likely joined the HBC from Oahu in 1843. He worked his entire career at Fort Vancouver as a labourer and deserted on October 10, 1849, likely for the gold fields of California. He has not been traced after that.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 8; YFASA 24-25, 27-29; YFDS 17, 20

Kerby, Robert [variation: Kirby] (fl. 1857 - 1858) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1857 - 1858).

Robert Kerby made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA log of Princess Royal 4; PortB 1

Kernick, John (fl. 1850 - 1851) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Columbia Department general charges (1850 - 1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1851).

John Kernick probably worked out of Fort Vancouver for a year before he deserted in 1851.

PS: HBCA YFASA 30-31; FtVanASA 9

Keroha (fl. 1840 - 1843) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1841 - 1842); Labourer, Fort George [Astoria] (1842 - 1843).

Keroha joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840. It is uncertain how he came to the Northwest Coast but, by November 28, 1840, he was working as part time crew on the Columbia when it sailed to Monterey. After a few months, he worked in the Forts Vancouver/George area until November 15, 1843, at which point he left for Oahu.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 20, 23; FtVanASA 6-8; YFDS 14

Kettlo [variation: Ketlo, Keslo, Kitlo] (fl. 1858 - 1866) (Native)

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1858 - 1859); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1859 - 1860); Untraced vocation, Western Department (1860 - 1861); Labourer, New Caledonia (1861 - 1869).

Ketlo, a native, worked for the HBC and his wages appeared on the sundries account in outfit 1858-1867.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 6-16

Keuvero, John (fl. 1834) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Eagle (brig) (1834).

John Keuvero, who was a paid servant of the HBC, was discharged from the brig Eagle in 1834 at the Columbia River. As the name and movements are similar, he may be the same as Tom Kawero. In that case, he made a round-trip on the Eagle.

PS: HBCA Disbursements of brig Eagle, August 30, 1834, B.191/2/1

Kikapalale [standard: Kikapalalé] [variation: Kekapalelé, Kikapalle] (fl. 1845 - c. 1854?) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1847); Labourer, New Caledonia (1847 - 1848); Labourer, Fort Langley (1848 - 1849); Labourer, New Caledonia (1849 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Langley (1850 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Fort Langley (1852 - 1854).

Kikapalalé joined the HBC from Oahu on May 7, 1845. He worked until 1852, possibly 1854, at interior and coastal posts and may have stayed in the area, as transactions appeared on his account until 1855-1856.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 3; YFASA 25-32; FtVicASA 1-3

Killeher, Daniel (fl. 1858 - 1861) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Rupert (1858 - 1859); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1859 - 1861).

Daniel Killeher began working for the HBC at Fort Rupert on December 13, 1858 and seemed to finish about 1861.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 6-9

Kilulawahui (fl. 1850) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1850).

Kilulawahui shipped on board the HBC vessel Cowlitz on February 3, 1850 at Honolulu and sailed to the coast on a voyage on which the captain was unhappy with the performance of the Hawaiians. The Hawaiian crew rebelled on August 27 in Honolulu harbour but most returned to the vessel on September 20 to finish their work.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 10, 11; log of Cowlitz 8

Kimber, Edward (fl. 1849 - 1851) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Passenger, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1850); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1850 - 1851); Cook, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1851).

Edward Kimber came to Vancouver Island aboard the Norman Morison as either a sponsored settler, HBC labourer or both. He did not appear to be a particularly well man and refused duty at Fort Simpson on December 19, 1850 after a lengthy sickness. He eventually deserted on June 21, 1851 and disappeared from record.

PS: HBCA log of Beaver 1; YFASA 29-31; YFDS 21-22; FtVicASA 1-2 SS: Mouat, p. 213

Kimo, James (fl. 1850 - 1861) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands - 1821

Death: Nanaimo, Colony of Vancouver Island - June 1861

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1850); Labourer, Fort Rupert (1850 - 1853); Labourer, Nanaimo (1853 - 1860).

Kimo was a relatively late arrival in the Pacific Northwest fur trade. He was hired from Oahu by the HBC on a three-year contract in 1850 aged almost thirty and worked at Fort Rupert. In 1853, he may have followed the large exodus of miners to Nanaimo where he contentedly lived in a cabin with a cabbage patch and sometimes worked as a fisherman and stonemason. In the coal-mining settlement of Nanaimo, dressed in a bright red sash and tassel on his cap, he undoubtedly enjoyed his job as night watchman, calling "All's Well" at midnight while he simultaneously fired his gun and struck his drum (Bate, p. 3). His job was abolished in 1860 and, on June 16, 1861, the forty-year-old James Kimo died in Nanaimo.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 10; YFASA 30-32; FtVicASA 1-2; HBCABio; BCA StPaulNan SS: Bate, p. 3

King, Alexander (fl. 1849 - 1851) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Carpenter, Cowlitz (barque) (1849 - 1851).

Alexander King joined the HBC vessel Cowlitz in London on August 1, 1849 for one return voyage to the coast. King was not bitten by the gold fever bug as were most of the crew, who deserted.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

King, Bill (fl. 1834 - 1835) (Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

CRFTC Passenger, May Dacre (brig) (1834); Member, CRFTC Brigade (1834); Member, HBC Snake Party (1835); Member, CRFTC Brigade (1835).

Bill King was one of twenty Hawaiians recruited in Hawaii for Nathaniel J. Wyeth's Columbia River Fishing and Trading Company in 1834. He and the others arrived in the Columbia River in September and twelve of them set out in a brigade under Captain Joseph Thing for Fort Hall. Starting out, conditions were very difficult with as little as two hours sleep a night and very little to eat. In November, twelve Hawaiians, including Bill, deserted. On March 12, 1835, Wyeth found seven of his runaway Hawaiians, including Bill, at Fort Vancouver. They rejoined Wyeth and returned to Fort Hall later that year.

SS: Beidleman, p. 238

King, Johnson George (c. 1826 - ?) (British: English)

Birth: probably England - c. 1826

Fur trade employee

HBC Clerk, Fort Umpqua (1850 - 1852).

Johnson George King joined the HBC around 1850 and some time after, began work at Fort Umpqua. In December 1851, while he was working at the post, the dwelling house and kitchen caught fire and burned down, consuming all his possessions. As Umpqua had been a losing proposition for the previous two years and King was growing increasingly dissatisfied with the HBC, on October 4, 1852 when he was offered a position at Fort Victoria, "he positively, altho, with every courtesy, declined to go there" (FtVanCB 40, fo. 31). He was paid until October 9, 1852, after which point he left in the direction of Australia, via Umpqua.

PS: HBCA YFASA 30-32; FtVanASA 9; YFDS 21-23; FtVicDS 1; FtVanCB 39 fo. 95; FtVanCB 40, fo. 31; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Clark County

Kingcome, William (fl. 1851 - 1863) (British: English)

Birth: probably England

Maritime officer

HBC Apprentice, Norman Morison (barque) (1851 - 1853); Apprentice, Princess Royal (barque) (1854 - 1855); 3rd mate, Princess Royal (barque) (1855 - 1856); 2nd mate, Princess Royal (barque) (1856 - 1858); 1st mate, Princess Royal (barque) (1858 - 1861); Captain, Princess Royal (barque) (1861 - 1863).

William Kingcome, nephew of Rear Admiral John Kingcome who was commander in chief of the British Columbia coast from 1863-1864, rose quickly through the ranks of the HBC merchant marine. After two voyages to the coast on immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison, Kingcome finished off his apprenticeship on the Princess Royal and rose through the ranks to become captain of the vessel.

Kingcome Point, McKay Reach, Princess Royal Island [B.C.] is named after William Kingcome. (Kingcome Inlet [B.C.] was named after his uncle.)

PS: HBCA PortB 1; log of Princess Royal 1-8 SS: Walbran, p. 288

Kingston, William (c. 1822 - ?) (possibly Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Demarara, British Guiana - c. 1822

Maritime employee

HBC Cook, Cowlitz (barque) (1846 - 1847); Cook, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1847 - 1848); Cook, Cadboro (schooner) (1848 - 1849); Cook, Columbia Department general charges (1849).

William Kingston, from the birthplace of James Douglas, joined the HBC in London on October 2, 1846 and sailed to the coast on the Cowlitz. Because during the voyage out Kingston fought with many of the crew and had to be put in irons, shortly after his arrival at Fort Victoria he was put on shore until he joined the Mary Dare. Some time around June 8, 1848, he joined the schooner Cadboro and in only a couple of weeks was protesting to Captain James Sangster that the men needed more tea at noon and not after work. Between October 4, 1848 and January 3, 1849, he spent almost a month and a half in total off sick and, of course, off duty, largely with eye problems. During this time, on November 13, 1848, he was noted as being a passenger aboard the Cadboro between Fort Nisqually and Fort Victoria. Later on May 24, 1849, at Fort Victoria, he was brought on board the Cadboro in irons to be taken to Fort Nisqually, where he was landed on May 28. He was free at Vancouver on August 1, 1849 and by 1851 he was a prisoner at Fort Victoria on the lower floor of the bastion and was let out on Fort Street to make a sidewalk out of stones. This chain gang work was done without chains or a keeper.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; YFASA 27-30; log of Cadboro 6 SS: Helmcken, p. 136n1

Kinville, Michel [variation: Quenneville] (? - c. 1812) (Canadian: French or Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly Province of Quebec

Death: probably Snake Country, Pacific Northwest - c. 1812

Freeman

NWC Trapper, David Thompson (1810 - 1811).

Michel Kinville was part of a large group of trappers who made their way from the Great Lakes region, down the Illinois River to the St. Charles [MO] area, a temporary staging and settlement area for fur traders. At least Michel Quenneville's family was there in 1802 when a child was baptised. He made his way up the Missouri River, probably as an experienced freeman-trapper siding with various tribes and becoming involved in local feuds. Kinville may have settled with the Flatheads somewhere between 1803-1811 so that he was familiar with the area and useful to David Thompson. On September 24, 1811, he was put in charge of a wood canoe with nine men until he was to meet up with Finan McDonald. In late 1811 or early 1812, Kinville and, apparently, Michel Bourdeaux, were on a hunting excursion to the plains and were killed by the Peigan [Blackfeet/Blackfoot].

Michel Kinville appears to have had one wife, "an Indian woman of the Cau Nation," and two children, François Michel (c.1790-?) and Marie (?-?).

PS: OA Thompson's Journals; St. Charles Borromeo Church, St. Charles MO, Parish Records, 1792-1846, vol. 1, p. 187b PPS: ChSoc XL, 391-93 SS: Quenneville descendant

Kiona (fl. 1845 - 1869) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: possibly Pacific Northwest, North America

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1846); Stoker, Beaver (steamer) (1846 - 1848); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1850 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1852 - 1854); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1854 - 1859); Temporary assistant to James Otley, Skeena River (1866); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1869).

Kiona joined the HBC in Oahu on May 7, 1845 on a three-year contract and remained on the Northwest Coast for at least the next quarter century. He worked until December 5, 1848, primarily as a stoker on the Beaver, at which point he returned to Oahu. He reentered the service and began work at Fort Simpson. On January 4, 1853, he was smitten with love and deserted Fort Simpson to be with his Indian wife in the nearby camp. Two days later he was found in an Indian lodge and brought back. As the wife would not remain in the fort with him and he would live only outside with her, it was felt that he would be useless. However, he continued to be employed.

It is quite possible that Kiona had learned how to read and write Hawaiian because, in 1857, when he was recruited by missionary William Duncan from among the Fort Simpson employees for his Men's Night School, Kiona could not read or write in English, implying that he could in Hawaiian. He officially left in retirement in March 1859 but between 1859-1866 he may have been in the Fort Simpson area. As a result of a survey by William Manson, "on November 17, 1866, Thomas Hankin was sent up the Skeena on the sloop Petrel with one man, James Otley, and a temporary assistant, Kiona," (Large, p. 44) to erect a new post as Hagwilget, a post located not far from Fort Simpson but which lasted only two years before it was closed down. In September 1869, Charles Frederic Morison found a Hawaiian named Keowna working at Fort Simpson.

Kona's wife and family, if such existed, have not been traced.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 3, 7; YFASA 25-28, 30-32; FtSimp[N]PJ 7; FtVicASA 1-8; YFDS 19; UBC-SC Duncan; BCA Morison, p. 67 SS: Large, The Skeena, p. 44

Kipling, Charles (fl. 1832 - 1836) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime officer

HBC Commander, Ganymede (barque) (1830 - 1831); Commander, Vancouver (schooner) (1831 - 1832); Ship's master, Dryad (brig) out of Fort Simpson (1832 - 1836).

Captain Charles Kipling was contracted on September 22, 1830 to be commander of the Ganymede. Around July 1831, during the epidemic, Kipling, two mates and seven of the crew contracted the fever and so the ship had to be detained. In 1832, Kipling was at the helm of the Vancouver when it ran aground in Portland Canal. On October 27, 1832, he began his command of the Dryad. He is listed as having left the Columbia for England on the Dryad in on October 1, 1835.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 11-15; YFDS 4b-6; FtVanASA 3; FtVanCB 8; HBCA Captain Charles Kipling search file PPS: ChSoc IV, p. 232-233

Kipling, Thomas Pisk [variation: Kippling, Keppling] (fl. 1828 - 1860) (probably Mixed descent)

Birth: Hudson Bay, Rupert's Land

Death: probably Pacific Northwest

Fur trade employee

HBC Boute, Fort Vancouver (1828 - 1830); Boute, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1830 - 1836); Post master, Fort McLoughlin (1836 - 1837); Trapper, South Party (1837 - 1843); Boute, Fort George [Astoria] (1843 - 1844); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (1844 - 1845); Interpreter, Fort George [Astoria] (1845 - 1847); Interpreter, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1847 - 1848); Interpreter, Fort Vancouver general charges (1848 - 1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1851 - 1853); Labourer, Cape Disappointment (1853 - 1855); Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1855 - 1860).

Pisk Kipling joined the HBC on April 15, 1820. From 1852-1854, he was appointed to be in charge of Fort George and Cape Disappointment. In spite of his forty years in the fur trade, Kipling left almost no paper trail other than those citing his position and location. This is likely a credit to his work ability.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 8-9, 11-16, 19-20; 24-32; FtVanASA 2-15; YFDS 3a-7, 16-17

Kirk, John (c. 1820 - ?) (Canadian: English)

Birth: Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1820

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1842); Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1841 - 1842); Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1842 - 1843).

John Kirk appears to have worked for one three-year contract only with the HBC for he signed on in 1840 and returned east of the Rockies to Canada in the spring of 1843.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22; FtVanASA 6-8; YFDS 12

Kirk, William (fl. 1838 - 1845) (British: English)

Birth: probably in or near Woodbridge, Suffolk, England

Maritime employee

HBC Cook, Vancouver (barque) (1838 - 1841); Cook, Beaver (steamer) (1841 - 1843); Cook, Cadboro (schooner) (1843 - 1844); Cook, Conlitx (barque) (1844 - 1845).

William Kirk signed on with the HBC in London on November 5, 1838 as a ship's cook for five years. He sailed to the coast on the HBC barque Vancouver and began his work in coastal shipping on October 1, 1839. He continued to work on the coast until he was discharged at Oahu August 22, 1845.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 11; YFASA 19-20, 24-25; YFDS 10-11, 16; FtVanASA 6-8; log of Cadboro 1

Kirorole, (Jean) Baptiste [standard: Kirorolé] [variation: Kororoté, Keororoté, Kiororate] (c. 1824 - ?) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1824

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Colville (1847 - 1849); Boute, Fort Colville (1849 - 1850); Middleman, Fort Colville (1850 - 1852); Horsekeeper/In charge, Fort Okanagan (1852 - 1853); Labourer, Fort Colville (1853 - 1856).

(Jean) Baptiste Kirorole joined the HBC in 1847 on a three-year contract and crossed into the Columbia in the fall of 1847. He worked throughout the area for, in outfit 1852-1853, he was in charge of the Okanagan post. He eventually retired in 1856.

PS: HBCA YFASA 27-32; YFDS 18, 20; FtVicDS 1; FtVanASA 9-10, 11-13

Kirton, Peter (c. 1840 - ?) (possibly Canadian: English or Mixed descent)

Birth: probably (St. Paul) Red River experimental farm [Manitoba] - c. 1840 (born to Joseph Kirton and Susanna Kirton)

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Alexandria (1860 - 1861); Labourer, Fort Alexandria (1863 - 1866); Labourer, New Caledonia (1866 - 1872).

Peter Kirton was born on the Red River experimental farm, where his father worked, and was baptised in 1840. By 1860, he appears to have made his own way to the British Columbia interior where, at Fort Alexandria, he was hired by the HBC as a labourer. There, he got off to a bad start for, complaining of poor rations, he deserted in April, 1861, bragging that the HBC had no way to punish him for breaking his contract; however, he returned by 1863 and continued doing work for the HBC until 1872. By 1865, he was running goods back and forth to Yale by wagon and sending money to his father in Red River.

Peter Kirton had one wife and five recorded children. He married Elizabeth Boucher (1841-1874) and together they had: Joseph (c.1865-?), Jessie Ann (c.1867-?), Peter (c.1868-?), James (?-bap.1871-?) and Mary Ann (c.1873-?).

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 8-16, 19; FtAlexPJ 10; FtAlexCB 1; HBCABio; BCA BCCR StPetStLk

Kittson, Edwin [variation: Kilson] (1839 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Fort Nisqually, Columbia Department - 1839 (born to William Kittson and Helene McDonald)

Maritime employee

HBC Cabin class passenger, Princess Royal (barque) (1856); Untraced vocation, Fort Langley (1858 - 1860).

Edwin Kittson, born into the fur trade, had a somewhat tenuous connection to it. In 1856, the fourteen-year-old was sent by his guardian, James Douglas, to the Blue Style Academy in Greenwich, England for his education and was still there at the beginning of 1857. When he returned later that year, he purchased three hundred acres [121.4 ha] in the Metchosin District and, between 1858-1860 he was attached to Fort Langley, possibly as a day labourer, an apprentice clerk, or as a member of the Fraser River Gold Rush. In 1860 he was back on Vancouver Island where he was registered as a voter in the Esquimalt District. During the 1860s he got in several scrapes with the law including: fighting, shooting at natives, stealing cows and assaulting women. He appears to have left the area after 1866.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 6-7; MiscI 5; FtVicCB 13; HBCABio; Mallandaine, p. 68; BCGR-CrtR-AbstLnd; Van-PL Colonist
See Also: Kittson, William (Father); Douglas, Sir James (Relative)

Kittson, William [variation: Kitson, Ketson] (c. 1794 - 1841) (Canadian: English)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec] - c. 1794 (born to George Kittson and Ann [Tucker] Kittson)

Death: Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - December 1841

Fur trade employee

NWC Apprentice clerk, Fort Nez Percés (1819); Clerk, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1820 - 1821); HBC Clerk, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1822 - 1823); Clerk, Fort Okanagan (1822 - 1823); Clerk, Columbia Department (1823 - 1824); Untraced vocation, Snake Party (1824 - 1825); Untraced vocation, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (Fall of 1825); Clerk, Columbia Department (1825 - 1826); Untraced vocation, Flathead Post [Fort Connah, Saleesh House] (Fall of 1825); Clerk in charge, Kootenae House (listed at Fort Colville) (1826 - 1829); Clerk in charge, Flathead Post [Fort Connah, Saleesh House] (listed at Fort Colville) (1829 - 1831); Clerk in charge, Kootenae House (1831 - 1834); Clerk in charge, Fort Nisqually (1834 - 1840); Clerk, Fort Vancouver general charges (1840 - 1841).

The origins of William Kittson are not entirely certain although the Kittson family itself was an established English family that came to Canada via Ireland with General James Wolfe in 1759. George Kittson (1780-1824) was born at sea to mother Julia (Calcutt) Kittson (?-1834), who, being widowed shortly after, married Alexander Henry (1739-1824) in 1785. George and Ann (Tucker) Kittson, then of Sorel, Quebec, subsequently adopted William Kittson who may or may not have been a blood relation. While still in Canada, Kittson followed the family's military tradition and served as a second Lieutenant in the Corps of Canadian Voltigeurs in the War of 1812, a light infantry corps recruited in Lower Canada to repel American advances into Canada. In 1817, after this service, he entered the service of the Montreal-based North West Company as an apprentice clerk and, in 1818, was sent to the Columbia District where he began working in 1819 at Fort Nez Percés under Alexander Ross. In May of that year, he led a group of men to strengthen Donald McKenzie's group in the Snake River area and, while returning with the furs, saw two of his men killed by a Nez Percés war party before his group was able to reach the fort in July. Two years later, in 1821, he joined the Hudson's Bay Company as a clerk when the former amalgamated with the North West Company. His movements in the Columbia between 1821-1824 are not clear but in 1824-1825 he joined Ogden, travelling with him in the Snake Country. On January 6, 1825, his horse slipped and fell on ice on Kittson's ankle, dislocating it and effectively disabling him for three months. In spite of this, he showed an ability to liaise with the natives, wrote a journal (December 24, 1824-August 26, 1825) and drew one of the few surviving (albeit not entirely accurate) maps of HBC activity in the area. In May and June, 1826, he was attached to Scottish biologist David Douglas, taking him to such spots as Kettle Falls, a short distance from Fort Colville. For the next eight years he took charge of Kootenae and Flathead posts, until May 8, 1834, when he moved to the coast, taking charge of Fort Nisqually. (During the winter of 1832-1833, however, he remained in the Saskatchewan for some unstated reason.) At the newly built coastal fort his charge included not only overseeing additions to the fort but also fur trading, farming and stock raising. There, he was not above meting out blows to restore order or effect trade; on the other hand, he handed out medicine when the healing powers of the local medicine men had failed to work. In balance, he was considered a trusted and fair administrator. Later, his wife, Helene, helped him form a buffer between the hostility of the natives and the missionaries.

There is no question that Kittson was an efficient and effective clerk for even George Simpson's normally vitriolic Character Book begrudgingly conceded that Kittson was:

A sharp, dapper, short tempered, self sufficient petulant little fellow of very limited Education, but exceedingly active and ambitious to signalize himself. Speaks Coutonais and has a smattering of several other Languages spoken on the West of the Mountains. Conducts the business of his Post very well, and is useful in many respects, but fully if not overpaid for his Services at £100 p Annum (HBRS XXX, p. 216).

Poor health in 1840 forced William Kittson to go to Fort Vancouver where he died December 25, 1841 after a long and painful sickness. He was buried in the Catholic cemetery there and his estate was still being administered on the Fort Victoria sundries account in 1862-1864.

There is some confusion about the family life of William Kittson but he appears to have had two and possibly three successive wives and several children. According to historian Dale Morgan, at one time Kittson had a Kutenai wife. A definite wife was Marie, Walla Walla with whom he had Pierre Charles (1830-1915) and possibly Jules (?-?). On April 19, 1839 at Fort Nisqually, he formalized his marriage to Helene McDonald, daughter of Finan McDonald and Charlotte, Pend'oreille. The William Kittson-Helene McDonald children were (Jules ?), Eloise/Louise Jemima (1836-1929) and Edouin/Edwin (1839-?). After Kittson's death in 1841, his widow Helene married Richard Grant.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 2, 9; YFASA 1-6, 8-9, 11-15, 17-21; FtGeo[Ast]AB 10; FtSpokPJ 1; FtVanAB 10; SnkCoPJ 2, 3; FtVanASA 1-6; YFDS 3, 5-7, 12; FtVicASA 10; SimpsonCB; Wills PPS: A. Ross, The Fur Hunters, p. 211; HBRS III, p. 443; HBRS XIII, p. 55; HBRS XXX, p. 216; D. Douglas, Journal, p. 63, 176, 179; Dickey; CCR 1a, 1b, 2a SS: Kittson; Van-PL Colonist, July 28, 1929; D. L. Morgan, Jedediah Smith, p. 135; Carpenter, Fort Nisqually; Kittson relative
See Also: McDonald, Finan (Father-in-Law); Grant, Richard (Relative); Kittson, Edwin (Son)

Klyne, Joseph (1816 - c. 1849) (Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly Red River Settlement [Manitoba] - 1816 (born to Michael Klyne)

Death: possibly California, United States - c. 1849

Fur trade employee

HBC Native apprentice, Fort Langley (1829 - 1833); Native apprentice, Fort Vancouver general charges (1833 - 1834); Native apprentice, Columbia Department (1834 - 1835); Member, James Sinclair Party (1841); Middleman, South Party (1841 - 1843); Settler, Willamette (1843 - 1844).

Joseph Klyne was the mixed descent son of Dutch Canadian Michael Klyne and brother to Jane Klyne, wife of Archibald McDonald, who was in charge of Fort Colville for several years. Joseph grew up at Jasper House and was hired on within the HBC jurisdiction in 1828 as a native apprentice being referred to as "Little Joseph Klyne" in the Fort Langley journals. In 1835, he returned to Red River, married and, in 1841, joined the group of Red River settlers bound for the Columbia. Because he had connections with Fort Colville, he was sent ahead to get supplies for the beleaguered party. Having had experience in the region, he split with the settlers and headed south to the California area. As the activities of the South Party were to come to an end, Klyne settled in the Willamette Valley and began to raise a family. According to Munnick, Joseph Klyne died before 1850, possibly during the California Gold Rush.

Joseph Klyne had one wife, Louise Brasconnier (1820-?) and two recorded children, Joseph (1846-1850) and Blandine (1848-?). After his death, Louise Brasconnier married Charles Demers.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2, 6-8; YFASA 9, 11-14, 23; YFDS 3b, 4b, 5a-5c PPS: CCR 2a; 3a SS: Jackson, Children of the Fur Trade, p. 105, 108, 118

See Also: McDonald, Archibald (Relative)

Knarston, James (fl. 1858 - 1861) (possibly British)

Birth: possibly British Isles

Death: possibly Victoria, British Columbia

Maritime employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1858 - 1859); Carpenter, Labouchere (steamer) (1859 - 1860); Carpenter, Princess Royal (barque) (1860 - 1861).

James Knarston may have been in the Fort Victoria area in 1858 working as a ship's carpenter before working aboard the Labouchere. He returned to the British Isles in 1860 on the Princess Royal, picked up his wife and four children and returned to Victoria where he was discharged as a ship's carpenter.

The names of the Knarston family members have not been traced.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 6-7; log of Princess Royal 6

Knarston, Samuel (fl. 1849 - 1853) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Carpenter, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1853).

Samuel Knarston made two return voyages to the Coast on the HBC vessel Norman Morison. He would have delivered supplies to coastal posts, including Sitka, before returning to England.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Knight, James (fl. 1852 - 1853) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1852 - 1853).

James Knight made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison. While on the coast, he would have visited several coastal posts.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Knudsen, Even (fl. 1853 - 1858) (Norwegian)

Birth: probably in or near Oardales or Ourdales, Norway

Maritime employee

HBC Labourer passenger, Colinda (barque) (1853 - 1854); Labourer, Beaver (steamer) (1854 - 1858).

Even Knudsen likely came to the coast on the HBC chartered vessel, Colinda, arriving April 17, 1854. He worked on the steamer Beaver for the next five years and then disappeared from record.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1-7

Koa (fl. 1840 - 1843) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1843).

Koa signed on with the HBC from Oahu in 1840. He worked at Fort Vancouver until November 15, 1843, near the end of his contact, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 29, 23; FtVanASA 6-8; YFDS 14

Koaster, Johann [variation: John Kaster, Castles] (? - 1811) (Russian)

Birth: probably Russia

Death: Clayoquot Sound, Vancouver Island - June 1811

Maritime employee

PFC Passenger, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811); Carpenter, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811).

Johan Koaster, a Russian apparently residing in New York, was hired by Astor's Pacific Fur Company in the city to act as ship's carpenter at the proposed settlement of Astoria on the Columbia River. In September, 1810, he sailed from New York on the Tonquin, arriving at the mouth of the Columbia on March, 22, 1811. However, during the voyage it was somehow determined that he was "not fit for the task" (Annals, p. 19) and so on June 1, 1811, replaced crewman Henry Weeks or Wicks from the vessel and thus sailed for Clayoquot Sound. There, in June, he perished when the doomed ship was attacked.

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria PPS: ChSoc LVX, p. 48; McDougall, p. 19

Konea [variation: Konia] (fl. 1840 - 1860) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: possibly Pacific Northwest

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1840 - 1842); Middleman, Snake Party (1842 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1843 - 1844); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1844 - 1846); Labourer, Cowlitz Farm (1847 - 1849); Labourer, Belle Vue Sheep Farm (1859 - 1860).

Konea joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840. He worked at various locations until December 10, 1845 and returned to Oahu. He re-enlisted, for he appeared back in the Columbia again only to desert, most likely with the gold rush in California, in 1849. He likely worked in the Pacific Northwest for a number of years and, in 1859-1860 was back working as a farm labourer on San Juan Island.

Konea had a wife, a "woman of the country" and two recorded daughters Suzanne (1844-?) and Rosalie (1846-1847).

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 24-25, 27-29; FtVanASA 6-8; YFDS 16; BelleVueSF 2 PPS: CCR 1b

Koneva [variation: Koniva] (fl. 1840 - 1846) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

PSAC Middleman, Cowlitz Grazing Farm (1840 - 1841); HBC Middleman, Snake Party (1841 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Vancouver depot (1843 - 1845); Goer and comer, Snake Party (1845 - 1846); PSAC Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1846 - 1847).

Koneva joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840. He began his work with the PSAC, a HBC subsidiary, but in the following outfit was a goer and comer for the Snake Party. He worked until August 6, 1846, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA PSACAB 1, 3; YFASA 20, 24-26; FtVanASA 6-8; YFDS 12; YFASA 16-17;

Korhooa [variation: Karhooa] (fl. 1840 - 1848) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: Fort Vancouver, Oregon Territory - February 1848

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Snake Party (1840 - 1844); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1848).

Korhooa joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840 and in outfit 1843-1844 was transporting trappers in and out of the Snake Country. He worked until January 10, 1845, at which point he returned to Oahu. His visit was short, for he was re-engaged May 7 and returned to the Columbia, where he died at Fort Vancouver on February 10, 1848, most certainly of the measles.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 24, 26-27; YFDS 14-15, 18; FtVanASA 6-8; SandIsAB 3, 5;

Kuana (fl. 1848 - 1855) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1848 - 1849); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1849 - 1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1851 - 1854); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1854 - 1855).

Kuana joined the HBC from Oahu in 1848 and began work at Fort Vancouver on July 15. The next year he was transferred to Fort Victoria, where he was a labourer. His contract ended in 1855, at which point he appears to have stopped work with the Company.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 7; YFASA 28-32; YFDS 19; FtVicASA 1-3

Kuawaa [variation: Kuhawaa] (fl. 1843 - 1856) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1843 - 1847); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1847 - 1848); Labourer, Fort Stikine (1848 - 1849); Labourer, Fort Rupert (1849 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1850 - 1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1851 - 1854); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1854 - 1856).

Kuawaa joined the HBC from Oahu in 1843 on a three-year contract. Over the next dozen years he worked at various coastal posts. In 1850 he expressed a strong desire to return to Hawaii from the rather gloomy and turbulent Fort Rupert but continued working at Fort Victoria until 1856.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 8; YFASA 24-32; FtVicASA 1-4; BCA Diar-Rem Helmcken

Kula [variation: Kale] (fl. 1850) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1850).

Kula shipped on board the HBC vessel Cowlitz in February 1850 at Honolulu and sailed to the coast on a voyage on which the captain was unhappy with the performance of the Hawaiians. Consequently, Kula and the other Hawaiians rebelled. Others returned, but Kula and Paledin refused to do so and stayed ashore. He has not been traced further.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 10; log of Cowlitz 8

Kuluailehua (fl. 1844 - 1849) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: possibly Pacific Northwest

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Willamette (1844 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1846 - 1849).

Kuluailehua joined the HBC from Oahu in 1844 and worked in the Columbia district as a labourer. In 1847-1849 he was employed by John McLoughlin but paid through the HBC. He retired in 1849 before June 1 of that year, for he received no wages for outfit 1849-1850. He remained in the area.

Kuluailehua's family, if any, has not been traced.

PS: HBCA YFASA 2429; YFDS 18-19

Kupehea [variation: Kupihea] (fl. 1845 - 1849) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1849).

Kupehea joined the HBC from Oahu on May 7, 1845 on a three-year contract and worked at Fort Vancouver as a labourer. He deserted in 1849, possibly being lured to the California gold fields.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 3; YFASA 25-29

Kyan, John (c. 1806 - ?) (British: English)

Birth: Chester, Cheshire, England - c. 1806

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Ganymede (barque) (1834 - 1835); Seaman, Lama (brig) (1835 - 1836); Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1836 - 1837).

John Kyan joined the HBC on December 13, 1834 for five years. After reaching the coast, he serviced coastal posts and the Sandwich Islands. He left the Columbia for England on November 1, 1836 aboard the barque Columbia and was discharged in London on May 12, 1837.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 4a, 7, 14; YFASA 15-16; YFDS 6-7; FtVanASA 3-4

Kyukichi [variation: Qu Kee Chee] (c. 1819 - ?) (Japanese)

Birth: probably in Onoura, Owari, Japan, Asia - c. 1819

Death: probably in Hong Kong

Other

HBC Pupil, Fort Vancouver (1834).

Kyukichi was the crew member of a Japanese boat which, because of a typhoon, drifted to North America, became a slave, was rescued by the HBC and eventually ended up in China. (For the story of his shipwreck, enslavement on the Northwest Coast, subsequent rescue, and life in China, see the parallel adventures of fellow crew member Iwakichi.) By 1851, Kyukichi had retired from government service as an interpreter in Hong Kong, but was never able to return to his homeland. The date and place of his death has not been traced.

PS: HBCA FtVanCB 10; ShMiscPap 14 PPS: Dickey SS: R. MacDonald; Kohl, p. 20-28; Gilman and Angel, Diary of Cyrus Shepard, p. 67

See Also: Iwakichi

La Clare, Gile (fl. 1813 - 1814) (Undetermined origin)

Birth: possibly Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

NWC Middleman, Snake Country (winter 1813 - 1814).

Gile La Clare joined the PFC in Berthier in 1810 on a five year contract. In the winter of 1813-1814, he was in the Snake Country and had not yet joined the NWC.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10

La Gasse, Charles [standard: La Gassé] [variation: La Gosse, La Gacie, Lagasse] (fl. 1800 - 1822) (probably Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Chicot, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Kootenay's (winter 1800 - 1801); Assistant at hospital, Fort George [Astoria] (winter 1813 - 1814); Bowsmen, Brigade to Fort William (1814); HBC Trapper, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1821 - 1822).

Charles La Gasse (who may have joined the the NWC [McTavish, Frobisher] as early as March 28, 1792 as Charles LaGace from Chicot), was a long time NWC employee who spent much of his time in the Columbia area with David Thompson and the NWC. He was probably with Thompson in the Saskatchewan as early as April, 1800 and journeyed with him in the fall to the Kootenay's where he wintered before returning to Rocky Mountain House the following spring. On November 7, 1808, he was once again found with Thompson on the latter's journey from Boggy Hall to Kootenay House. By the spring of 1810 in the Saleesh area, Thompson paid him for the hire of three horses. Still with Thompson on August 29, 1811, La Gasse and Charles Loyer proceeded south as the Thompson expedition headed up the Columbia after stopping at Astoria. He was re-engaged in the Columbia in 1812 (to be free in Montreal in 1814) on a two year contract, and wintered at Fort George in 1813-1814. That spring, on April 4, he was noted as being a bowsman on John Clark's canoe on the brigade to Fort William and Montreal. He returned to the area and continued his association with the NWC until 1821, at which point he transferred to the HBC. By outfit 1822-1823, he was a freeman.

Charles La Gasse appears to have taken as a wife, Emme, Flathead (c.1795-1855). Two of their children may have been Pierre (c.1815-1882) and Josette/Suzette (c.1812-1896) although oral tradition indicates that "Pierre", a brother of Charles, was the father of the two children but no such "Pierre" appears in any extant records.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 10; HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 4, 10 PPS: Coues, p. 654, p. 674, p. 874; Belyea, p. 3, 11, 102, 171

La Grange, Ami (fl. c. 1784 - 1811) (American)

Birth: probably New York, New York - c. 1784

Death: possibly Clayoquot Sound, Vancouver Island - June 1811

Maritime employee

PFC Ordinary seaman, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811).

Twenty-six year old New York native, Ami La Grange is a mystery. The five foot seven and a half inch [1.7 m] tall sailor joined John Jacob Astor's Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn] in New York as an ordinary seaman some time before September 3, 1810, for its voyage to the Northwest Coast but did not appear on Gabriel Franchere's list of crew members. He may have departed September 8 on the New York vessel for its tempestuous journey around the Horn arriving at the mouth of the Columbia March 22, 1811 and suffered the fate of the other crew members in July. On the other hand, he may have had a change of heart and left the Tonquin in New York harbour before it sailed.

PS: USNA Tonquin

La Plant, Abraham (? - 1828) (possibly Canadian: French)

Death: Umpqua River region [Smith River], Oregon Territory - July 14, 1828

Fur trade employee

SJ & S Trapper, Jedediah Smith Southwest Expedition (1826 - 1828).

Abraham La Plant was a trapper on Jedediah Smith's Southwest Expedition of 1826-1828. He first appeared on record at the 1826 Rendezvous and left with Smith in August, heading south, crossing the Colorado River and into California. After a great deal of difficulty with Spanish authorities in California, the expedition headed north. In an area just north of the Umpqua River [Oregon], just after Smith set out to scout out a route to travel, the natives killed all the expedition members including La Plant in camp except one, who managed to escape.

PPS: HBRS X, p. 61 SS: Carter, "Jedediah Smith," p. 97-104

La Plante, Louis [1] (fl. 1813 - 1814) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

NWC Steersman, Fort George [Astoria] (winter 1813 - 1814).

Louis La Plante [1], who was engaged by the NWC in Montreal in 1812 on a three year contract, spent the 1813-1814 winter at Fort George [Astoria].

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10

La Plante, Louis [2] (fl. 1816) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

NWC Armorer, Columbia (schooner) (1816).

Louis La Plante [2], probably the same as Louis La Plante [1] worked as an armourer on the NWC schooner Columbia for two months in 1816, the same year it was in both Macao and the Northwest coast.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 1

La Point, Joseph (? - 1828) (probably Canadian: French)

Death: Umpqua River region [Smith River], Oregon Territory - July 14, 1828

Fur trade employee

SJ & S Trapper, Jedediah Smith Southwest Expedition (1827 - 1828).

Joseph La Point was a trapper on Jedediah Smith's Southwest Expedition of 1827-1828. He first appeared on record at the 1827 Rendezvous and left with Smith in July, heading south and into California. On the way they lost ten of the expedition members to the Mojaves. After a great deal of difficulty with Spanish authorities in California, the expedition headed north. In an area just north of the Umpqua River [Oregon], just after Smith set out to scout out a route to travel, the natives killed all the expedition members in camp including La Point, except one who managed to escape.

PPS: HBRS X, p. 61 SS: Carter, "Jedediah Smith," p. 97-104

LaBarre, Edward [variation: Edouard] (c. 1805 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Sorel, Lower Canada - c. 1805

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1828 - 1831); Middleman, Columbia Department (1831 - 1832).

Edward LaBarre joined the HBC from Sorel in 1828 and returned to Montreal during outfit 1831-1832.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; YFASA 8-9, 11; YFDS 3a-3b

LaBatte, Michel (fl. 1821) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Montreal, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

HBC Guide, Columbia Department (1821); NWC Guide, Columbia District (1821).

Michel LaBatte joined the NWC [McTavish, Frobisher] from Montreal on October 21, 1801 and renewed his contract one year later to work in the Northwest. It is not known when he began work on the Pacific slopes, but he was a member of a large group of NWC employees that transferred to the HBC in the Columbia at the time of coalition in 1821.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 9

Labelle, Isaac (c. 1822 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly St. Martine, Lower Canada - c. 1822

Death: probably Pacific Northwest

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1841 - 1842); Middleman, New Caledonia (1842 - 1844); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1845); Middleman, Cowlitz Farm (1845 - 1846); Middleman, Fort Vancouver depot (1846 - 1847); Middleman, Fort Vancouver depot (1847 - 1848); Sawyer, Fort Vancouver depot (1847 - 1848).

Isaac Labelle joined the HBC from St. Martine in 1841 at the age of nineteen. At the end of his contract he left the HBC and, in later years, the family name became known for lumbering in the country north of Vancouver.

He had one wife and one recorded son. On April 21, 1845, he married Louise Poirier, widow of Basil Poirier. The Labelle son was Isaac II (1848-?).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-8; YFASA 24-30 PPS: CCR 1b

See Also: Poirier, Basil (Relative)

Labelle (Robert), Pierre (c. 1798 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly St. Francois, Lower Canada - c. 1798

Death: possibly East of the Rocky Mountains

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1818 - 1821); HBC Boute, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822); Boute, Fort George [New Caledonia] (1822 - 1824); Steersman, Columbia Department (1824 - 1825).

Pierre Labelle joined the NWC from St. François in 1817 or 1818 and came across the Rockies to the Pacific slopes in a NWC group headed by Angus Bethune and James McMillan. He may have worked on the west side for the next three years or at least been a member of the Brigade, and was a member of a large group of NWC employees that transferred to the HBC in 1821 at the time of coalition. At the end of his contract, in 1825, he took the Express to Montreal where he was paid.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 2, 9; YFASA 1-5; FtGeo[Ast]AB 11; FtVanAB 1

Labonte, Augustine [standard: Labonté] (c. 1790 - 1831) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1790

Death: New Caledonia [British Columbia] - June 1831

Fur trade employee

HBC Boute, New Caledonia (1830 - 1831).

Augustin Labonté joined the HBC from Montreal in 1830 and had a very short career in the fur trade as he drowned the following year.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; YFASA 11

Labonte, Bernadin [standard: Labonté] (fl. 1820) (Canadian: French)

Birth: St. Michel de. Yamaska, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Middleman, Columbia Department (1820).

Bernadin Labonté was engaged on January 4, 1820 by the NWC [Pierre Rocheblave] from St. Michel, Yamaska to work for three years. He may have been a member of the Brigade for he received an advance while he was on the Pacific slopes in 1820 and appears on no other records.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 7

Labonte, Charleson [standard: Labonté] [variation: Charles, Michel] (c. 1822 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Anne, Lower Canada - c. 1822

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1840 - 1843);

Middleman, Fort Victoria (1843 - 1844).

Charleson or Michel Labonté joined the HBC from St. Anne in 1839. His contract ended in 1844 at which point he returned east of the Rockies to Canada.

PS: HBCA YFASA 19-20, 23; FtVanASA 6-8

Labonte, Jean Baptiste [standard: Labonté] (fl. 1813 - 1814) (Undetermined origin)Fur trade employee

PFC Member, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (1811 - 1812); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (1813); Middleman, Willamette Post (winter 1813 - 1814).

Jean Baptiste Labonte joined Wilson Price Hunt's PFC Overland Expedition around June 15, 1811 quite likely at the Aricara village. He crossed the Continental Divide in late summer and arrived at Astoria around February 19, 1812. He spent the winter of 1813-1814 at the Willamette post and may have been the Labonte that left Fort George for Montreal on April 4, 1814.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: K. W. Porter, Roll of Overland, p. 108 PPS: Coues, p.875

Labonte, Louis [standard: Labonté] [variation: La Bonte] (c. 1788 - 1860) (Canadian: French)Birth: La Prairie, Quebec - c. 1788*Death: probably Oregon State, United States - 1860*Fur trade employee

PFC Carpenter, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (1811 - 1812); Carpenter, Fort George [Astoria] (1812); NWC Bowsman, Fort George [Astoria] (1813 - 1814); Carpenter, Fort George [Astoria] (1813 - 1814); Untraced vocation, Fort George [Astoria] (1814 - 1821); HBC Employee, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822); Middleman, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1822 - 1825); Servant, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1822 - 1825); Servant, Fort Colville (1824 - 1828); Cook, Fort Colville (1824 - 1828); Cook, Fort Vancouver (1828 - 1831); Carpenter, Fort Vancouver (1828 - 1831); Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1831 - 1832); Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1832 - 1834); Cook, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1832 - 1834); Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1835 - 1836); Freeman settler, Willamette (1836 - 1842+)

In 1808 Louis Labonté was engaged at St. Louis to work with the American Fur Company. On June 15, 1811, he first appeared on records of Wilson Price Hunt's PFC Overland Expedition and arrived at Fort Astoria February 15, 1812. On October 16, 1813, when the PFC was bought out by the NWC, Labonté, joined the NWC and stayed in Astoria/Fort George until 1821. He then joined the HBC as a carpenter in 1821. Louis Labonté broke the rules of the HBC, much to the consternation of Dr. John McLoughlin, by becoming a farmer in the Willamette Valley in 1830 and was sent home to Canada where he could be discharged as were the rules of the Company. However, Labonte protested to no avail that in fact he had signed on with the HBC in the Columbia area and therefore did not have to return to Montreal. Making the unnecessary circle trip, he received the separation papers in Montreal and returned to begin farming about 1836 near the present town of Dayton, Oregon, on the Yamhill River. Charles Wilkes, upon seeing the farm, remarked that it was the best that he had seen on his route. In 1839-1842 he was listed as a freeman settler and by 1842 had a very productive farm on two hundred enclosed acres [80.9 ha]. He seemed satisfied with his circumstances for he voted against the establishment of a Provisional Government in 1843. He continued to sell furs and wheat to the Company at Fort Vancouver and died in 1860.

Louis Labonté married Marguerite or, Kilakota (Little Songbird) (c.1810-?), the daughter of Chief Coboway, Clatsop. Three of the several Labonte children were Louis (?-?), Julianne (1838-?) and Caroline (c.1840-?). One step-daughter was Victoire McMillan (c.1822-?).

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria; HBCA NWCAB 10; HBCA NWCAB 9, 10; YFASA 1, 4-9, 11-15; FtVanASA 1-6; YFDS 4b-5b, 6, 11; HBCABio; BCA BCCR CCCath; OHS 1842 Census; OHS 1849 Census, Yamhill Co.; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Yamhill County PPS: CCR 1a, 2a, 2b, 2c PPS: K. W. Porter, Roll of Overland, p. 108; Lyman, "Reminiscences of Louis", p. 170-71 SS: Miller, p. 59; Scott, History of the Oregon, vol. II, p. 222; WHQ, vol. XXIV, p. 282; Wilkes, Narrative of the United, vol. IV, p. 358; Holman, p. 116.

See Also: McMillan, James (Relative)

Lachance, William (c. 1822 - ?) (Canadian: French)Birth: probably Trois Rivières, Quebec - c. 1822*Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1842 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1843 - 1845).

William Lachance joined the HBC from Trois Rivières in 1842. His contract ended in 1845 at which point he returned east of the Rockies to Canada.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 7-8; YFASA 24

Lachapelle (fl. 1808) (Undetermined origin)

Other

NWC Voyageur, Simon Fraser (1808).

Lachapelle, a competent voyageur with Simon Fraser on his journey down the Fraser River, could be the following but given the number of Lachapelle's in the fur trade, this cannot be verified.

PPS: Fraser, p. 23, 90

Lachapelle, Andre [1] [standard: André] (? - 1814) (Undetermined origin)

Death: Snake Country, Pacific Northwest - January 1814

Fur trade employee

PFC Untraced vocation, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (1811 - 1813); Untraced vocation, Snake River (1813 - 1814);

AFC Member, Reed Party (1814).

André Lachapelle had been engaged by Wilson Price Hunt's PFC Overland Expedition by March 4, 1811. He crossed the Continental Divide in late summer, 1811 and left Ramsay Crooks in the neighbourhood of the Snake River. He was picked up by Reed's party and was brought by McKenzie to Astoria where they arrived January 16, 1813. In the summer of 1813, he was sent with Reed's party back to the Snake River and there was killed by the Bannack Indians in January 1814 along with Jacob Reznor, Joseph Delaunay, John Hoback, Edward Robinson and Pierre Dorion.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: K. W. Porter, Roll of Overland, p. 108

Lachapelle, Andre [2] [standard: André] (1802 - 1881) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably the Montreal suburb of St. Laurent or L'Assomption, Quebec - April 1802 (born to André Lachapelle and Josèphite Vincent)

Death: St. Louis, Oregon - June 1881

Fur trade employee

NWC Middleman, Pacific slopes (1817); HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1821 - 1823); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (1823 - 1825); Middleman or blacksmith, Fort Vancouver (1825 - 1830); Blacksmith, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1832); Blacksmith, Fort Vancouver (1832 - 1833); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1832 - 1833); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1834 - 1835); Boute, Fort Vancouver general charges (1835 - 1837); Blacksmith, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1836); Blacksmith, Fort Vancouver general charges (1835 - 1837); Blacksmith, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1841); Settler, Willamette (1841 - 1842+).

André Lachapelle joined the NWC on March 25, 1817 from Pointe-aux-Trembles as a winterer and middleman for three years in the Northwest. He crossed the Rockies with Joseph LaRocque's party in 1817 and transferred to the HBC in 1821 at the time of coalition; he spent most of his career as a blacksmith at Fort Vancouver banging out nails, etc. in the blacksmith shop inside the stockade. In 1833-1834 he acted as a boute in the Athabasca area. He retired around 1841 and settled in the St. Louis, Willamette Valley area to farm. By the next year he had thirty-six acres [14.6 ha] enclosed and the beginning of a productive farm and in 1843 voted against the establishment of a Provisional Government. Not all was quiet on the farm for, on March 4, 1844, an army of volunteer riflemen organized at Lacapelle's house near Champoege to try to capture two Molalla natives who had murdered two people in Oregon City. André Lachapelle died in 1881 in the newly established St. Vincent's Hospital and was buried in the St. Louis cemetery.

André Lachapelle had one wife and a large family of sixteen recorded children. He married Adrienne Lucier (1822-1919), daughter of Etienne Lucier on May 17, 1841. The Lachapelle children were Pierre (1842-?), Felicite (c.1842-1872), Mariette Adrienne (c.1845-1882), Joseph (c.1847-?), Victor (1848-1891), Adelaide (1849-?), Catherine Leocadie (1851-?), Blandine (1853-1862), Christine (c.1853-?), Prosper Pierre (1855-?), Lisette (c.1856-?), Pierre P. (c.1857-?), Clementine (1857-?), Amedee (1859-?), Marie Adele (1862-?) and Helena (1865-?).

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 2, 9; YFASA 1-9, 11-14, 19-21; YFDS 2a, 3a-3b, 4a-7; FtGeo[Ast]AB 11-12; FtVanASA 1-6; HBCABio; OHS 1842 Census; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion County; 1860 US Census, Oregon State, Marion Co., Fairfield; 1870 US Census, Oregon State, Marion Co., Fairfield PPS: CCR 1a, 1b, 2a, 3a, 3b; Hazen, David W., "This Day in History, March 9, 1917," as found in OHS, SB #76, p. 76 SS: Lachapelle descendant; Holman, p. 116; Québécois in Orégon, p. 269.

See Also: Lucier, Etienne (Father-in-Law); Manson, Donald (Relative)

LaChapitre, Andre [standard: André] (fl. 1813 - 1814) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

PFC Untraced vocation, Snake Country (1813 - 1814).

André LaChapitre joined the PFC in St. Louis in 1811 and spent the winter of 1813-1814 in the Snake Country at which time he had not yet joined the NWC. (There is a possibility that he may be the same as André Lachapelle.)

Lacharite, Henri (fl. 1826 - 1830) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Maskinongé, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Colvile (1827 - 1830).

Henri Lacharite came west with the returning 1827 HBC fall Express and worked in the Columbia. In the summer of 1830 he was listed as a comer and goer and returned to Montreal at that time.

PS: HBCA YFASA 7-10; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1; YFDS 3a-3b; FtVanAB 26 PPS: E. Ermatinger, p. 105

Lacharite, Joseph [standard: Lacharité] (fl. 1827 - 1833) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Maskinongé, Lower Canada

Death: probably East of the Rocky Mountains

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1828 - 1830); Boute, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1833).

Joseph Lacharité worked in the Columbia District mainly at Fort Vancouver. In outfit 1829-1830 he also worked as a ploughman and in the following outfit, made a voyage to York Factory as a comer and goer. On October 1, 1832, he left the Columbia for the east side for the last time to join the Franklin Arctic Expedition.

PS: HBCA FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-2, 7-9, 12; YFDS 3b-5a; FtVanAB 26

Lackey, William [variation: Lacky] (c. 1801 - 1837) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Falkirk, Sterling, Scotland - c. 1801

Death: south Atlantic Ocean - February 19, 1837

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1826 - 1830); Boatswain, Vancouver (schooner) (1830); 2nd mate, Cadboro (schooner) (1831); Boatswain, Vancouver (schooner) (1833); Seaman, Dryad (brig) (1834 - 1835); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1835 - 1836); Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1836 - 1837).

William Lackey joined the HBC in London on September 16 or 20, 1826 and sailed to the coast on the Cadboro. He spent the next nine years on various ships servicing the coast and eventually left the area for England on November 1, 1836 on the barque Columbia. He didn't make it back for he died en route on the vessel of unspecified causes on February 19, 1837 two months before it reached London and was presumably buried at sea. In his will, he left everything to his father.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; Wills; ShMiscPap 4, 4a, 14; log of Cadboro 1; YFASA 7-9, 11-16; YFDS 2b, 3b, 4b, 5b-7; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 2-4; log of Dryad 1

LaCompte, Alexis (fl. 1813 - 1814) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

PFC Middleman, Flathead Post [Fort Connah, Saleesh House] (1813); NWC Middleman, Kootenae House (1813 - 1814).

Alexis LaCompte, a member of the PFC, joined the NWC on October 16, 1813 and wintered in 1813-1814 at Kootenae post.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10; NWCAB 10

Lacourse, Amable (c. 1818 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably in or near Maskinongé or Lachine, Lower Canada - c. 1818

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1838 - 1839); Middleman, New Caledonia (1839 - 1841); Middleman, Columbia Department (1841 - 1842); Middleman, New Caledonia (1842 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1843 - 1849); Middleman, Fort Vancouver depot (1849 - 1851); Labourer, Fort Nez Percés (1851 - 1854).

Amable Lacourse joined the HBC from Lachine or Maskinongé, in 1838. On September 3, 1850, he became a freeman and remained in the area. He re-enlisted with the Company on October 31, 1851 and eventually retired in 1854.

PS: HBCA YFASA 19-2-, 24-32; YFDS 21-22; FtVanASA 5-11

Lacourse, Claude (fl. 1824 - 1828) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Berthier, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

HBC Steersman, New Caledonia (1824 - 1826); Steersman, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1828); Boute, York Factory Express (HBC) (1828).

Claude Lacourse joined the HBC from Berthier in 1823 and appears to have spent his time between New Caledonia and the Columbia District. He was listed as being in Montreal in outfit 1827-1828 and in outfit 1828 he went from Fort Vancouver to Montreal with the York Factory Express.

PS: HBCA YFASA 4-8; YFDS 2a; FtVanAB 10, 15; FtVanASA 1 PPS: E. Ermatinger, p. 113

Lacourse, Francois [standard: François] (fl. 1849 - 1852) (Undetermined origin)

Birth: probably East of the Rocky Mountains

Death: probably East of the Rocky Mountains

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1849 - 1850); Middleman, New Caledonia (1850 - 1852); Middleman, Fort Alexandria (1852 - 1853).

François Lacourse joined the HBC in 1849 on a contract that ended in 1852. During this time he worked in New Caledonia until 1852 when he retired to Canada. Lacourse appears to have suffered under the hands of Peter Ogden Jr. for he claimed that he was beaten and kicked so severely by Ogden that he suffered epileptic fits (Morice, p. 281). He made this claim as a retired winterer at Norway House.

PS: HBCA YFASA 29-32; FtVicASA 1-4, 9; FtVanASA 9; FtAlexPJ 9 SS: Morice, The History of, p. 281;

Lacourse, Pierre (c. 1792 - 1864) (Canadian: French)

Birth: in or near Isle du Pas (Dupas) or La Prairie, Quebec - c. 1792

Death: St. Paul, Oregon - October 1864

Fur trade employee

NWC Member, Pacific Slopes (1810) (with David Thompson); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (winter 1813 - 1814); Middleman, Brigade to Fort William (1814); HBC Boute, Columbia Department (1821 - 1824); Steersman, Columbia Department (1824 - 1826); Steersman, Thompson River (1826 - 1827); Steersman, Fort Colville (1827 - 1828); Boatbuilder, Fort Colville (1827 - 1828); Steersman, Fort Colville (1828 - 1829); Boatbuilder, Fort Colville (1829 - 1832); Steersman, Fort Colville (1832 - 1835); Boatbuilder, Fort Colville (1832 - 1835); Boatbuilder, Fort Colville (1835 - 1836); Boute, Fort Colville (1836 - 1839); Interpreter, Fort Colville (1839 - 1840); Settler, Willamette (1840 - 1842+).

Pierre Lacourse joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray] on May 7, 1810 as a wintering middleman for three years and came directly to the Pacific slopes. He may have become part of the Brigade transcontinental runs of supplies and furs to and from Fort William, eventually spending longer times on the Pacific slopes. In 1821, at the time of amalgamation, he joined the HBC. Sometime during this period, he picked up the skills of building boats and in 1827 was noted as going back to Spokane to build boats. In 1828 he seemed to be in several places for on September 18, 1828, he travelled with Governor Simpson on the Fraser River and helped build a boat at Thompson River that would be adequate to take them to Fort Langley. He appeared to spend the majority of the remainder of his career, however, as a bote/boatbuilder and interpreter at Fort Colville before becoming a settler in the Willamette Valley. He retired to the Willamette in 1840 and by 1842 was running a productive farm on seventy-two enclosed acres [29.1 ha]. In 1843 he was noted as being on French Prairie along Champoege Creek and died at or near St. Paul.

Pierre Lacourse had two wives and eight recorded children. His first wife was Archange Tchinouk (also called Skaisis Cree, Skoucisse Chinook and Archange Chehalis) (c.1804-1854). Their children were Rose (c.1824-1845), Pierre (c.1828-1861), Claude (1831-?), Alexis (c.1834-1847), Cuthbert (c.1837-1854), Marguerite (?-?), Joseph (1842-1861), Belonie (c.1844-?) and Louis (1846-1860). Two years after the death of Archange in 1854, on August 4, 1856, he married Josephine Sinemaule, Nez Perces (also called Okanogan) the widow of Jacques Servant. They had no further children.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 9-10; service with HBC: YFASA 1-9, 11-15, 19-20; FtKamPJ 2; YFDS 2a-7, 11; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-6; OHS 1842 Census; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion County; PPS: Coues, p. 874; HBRs X, p. 29n, 229; CCR 1a; 2a, 2b SS: McLeod, Peace River. A Canoe Voyage, p. 26;
See Also: Servant, Jacques (Relative)

Lacourse, Theodore (c. 1823 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Francois, Lower Canada - c. 1823

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Thompson River (1841 - 1843); Middleman, New Caledonia (1843 - 1846); Middleman, Thompson

River (1846 - 1848).

Theodore Lacourse signed on with the HBC in 1841 and spent most of his career in the Thompson River area. In 1846, after the international border was drawn, he became part of A.C. Anderson's Overland Expedition to find a route to the coast and retired in 1848.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-8; YFASA 24-27; FtKamPJ 3; FtAlexPJ 7

Lacroix, Michel (c. 1821 - 1873) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1821

Death: probably Pacific Northwest - June 1873

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); Middleman, New Caledonia (1840 - 1861); Labourer, New Caledonia (1861 - 1869); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1867 - 1869); Labourer, Otter (steamer) (1867 - 1869).

Michel Lacroix joined the HBC from Montreal around 1839 (but he may have been on the Pacific slopes before that as Michael Laeroix). In 1841 at Fort St. James, he gave his name and possibly money pledging support to establishing a Catholic mission at Stuart Lake. Around 1869 he and his family moved south so that his children could be educated. On December 23, 1869, Michael Lacroix pre-empted 160 acres [64.8 ha] situated about one mile [1.6 km] above St. Mary's Mission on the north side of the Fraser River (Hatzic), which he acquired as a Crown Grant on January 18, 1886. Michel Lacroix died on June 26, 1873 at the age of fifty-four after two days of sickness.

Michel Lacroix had one wife and six children. In New Caledonia, he married Catherine Pookrvietak (c.1831-?), Babine. Their children were Michel (c.1854-?), Gabriel (1855-1933), Joseph (c.1863-1953), Helen/Ellen (c.1867-?) Mary Louise (c.1860-?), and Marie Catherine (c.1872-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA (12-14), 19-20, 24-32; FtVanASA 6-8; FtVicASA 1-16; HBCABio; Van-PL 1881 & 1891 Canada Censuses, New Westminster; BCVS; Oblate records SS: Morice, The History of, p. 227-28; Laing, p. 106; Lacroix family notes in Mission Community Archives

Ladebouche, Pierre [variation: Ladebourche, Ladebauchel] (fl. 1851 - 1857) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Sorel, Lower Canada

Death: possibly Pacific Northwest, North America

Fur trade employee

HBC Boute, New Caledonia general charges (1851 - 1852); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1852 - 1857).

Pierre Ladebouche first appeared on record in the Columbia in 1851 although he may have joined the HBC before that date. He spent his time at Fort Simpson where he raised a family. From 1852, he suffered from a severe case of venereal disease.

Pierre Ladebourche had one wife and four recorded children. He married Marie (?-?) Nass, probably in the Fort Simpson area as early as 1850 when his oldest daughter was born. Their children were Marie (1850-?), Joseph (1856-?), Isabella (c.1859-?) and Baptist (1862-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 31-32; YFDS 22; FtVicASA 1-5, 9; FtSimp[N]PJ 7; BCA BCCR StAndC

Laeoitte (fl. 1844 - 1847) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: Fort Vancouver, Oregon Territory - August 1847

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1847).

Laeoitte joined the HBC from Oahu in 1844 and died three years later while working at Fort Vancouver.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-27; YFDS 18

Laferte, Joachim (c. 1813 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Yamaska, Lower Canada - c. 1813

Death: possibly Willamette Valley, Oregon

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1841 - 1842); Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1844 - 1846); Settler, Willamette (1845 - 1846).

Joachim Laferte appeared only briefly on HBC records in the Columbia before returning east of the Rockies to Canada in 1842. He showed up again in 1844 and the following year he became a settler in the Willamette, acting briefly for the Company as a bouté. By 1850, he was still farming.

By 1850, Joachim Laferte had one wife Sophie (c.1828-?) and a son, Joachim Jr. (c.1849-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 21, 24-25; YFDS 16; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion County

Laferte, Louis (fl. 1830) (Undetermined origin)

Birth: probably East of the Rocky Mountains

Fur trade employee

HBC Goer and comer, Columbia Department (1830).

Louis Laferte was a comer and goer into the Columbia from Lower Red River in the summer of 1830.

PS: HBCA FtVanAB 26

Lafleur, Jean Baptiste [b] (c. 1816 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: Lower Canada [Quebec] - c. 1816

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Nisqually (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1841 - 1842); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1841 - 1842).

Jean Baptiste Lafleur (b) joined the HBC from Canada in 1838 and returned to Canada in 1842.

PS: HBCA YFASA 19-21; FtVanASA 6-7

Lafleur, Joachim (c. 1806 - c. 1860s) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Yamaska, Lower Canada - c. 1806

Death: probably Walla Walla, Washington Territory - c. 1860

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Thompson River (1828 - 1834); Middleman, Fort Colville (1835 - 1838); Middleman, Thompson River (1838 - 1844); Middleman, Thompson River (1844 - 1845); Interpreter, Thompson River (1844 - 1845); Horsekeeper, Fort Okanagan (1845 - 1849); Interpreter, Fort Okanagan (1845 - 1849); Post master, Fort Okanagan (1849 - 1853); Horsekeeper, Fort Okanagan (1849 - 1853); Labourer, Fort Okanagan (1853 - 1855).

Joachim Lafleur joined the HBC from Yamaska around 1828 as a middleman and spent his career at either Thompson River or Fort Colville. He was manager of the Okanagan post off and on with the help of François Duchoquette and retired in 1854 to Colville and opened a little store near Marcus. In the 1860s, while on a trip to purchase a supply of goods, he was murdered near Walla Walla.

He had one wife, the sister of an Okanagan chief and four children. He and wife Margarite or Lapetite, Okanagan, had Julie (c.1836-?), Joseph (c.1837-?), Michel (c. 1839) and Esther (?-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 8-9, 11-15, 19-20, 24-32; FtVanASA 2-11; YFDS 4a-7, 16-23; FtVicDS 1 PPS: CCR 1a SS: family descendant

See Also: Desautel, Joseph (Son-in-Law)

Lafleur, Michel (fl. 1849 - 1856) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Death: probably Pacific Northwest

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1849 - 1850); Middleman, Fort Victoria (1850 - 1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1851 - 1853); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1853 - 1854); Labourer, Colwood Farm (1856).

Michel Lafleur joined HBC in 1849 on a three year contract and spent the next few years on southern Vancouver Island working casually on PSAC farms. He ended up on both sides of the law for, in 1851, while serving at Victoria, he acted as a constable and in May of that year, pursued deserters into Washington Territory. On the other hand, in November 1853 he was charged with severely beating his wife. Michel Lafleur has not been traced after 1856 and may have left the area.

Michel Lafleur had one wife and children. On February 15, 1850, when he married his wife Marie (c.1829-?), Songhees or Samish ("Tsamus") in the Victoria area, he was described as a "garçon majeur" (an old man). When Marie was baptised on February 10, 1849, it was noted that she was already Michel Lafleur's wife. Their children were Marie (?-bap.1850-?), Mathilde (?-bap.1853-?) and Olive (?-bap.1856-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 29-32; YFDS 23; FtVicASA 1-2; FtVicDS 1; FtNisCB 1; PSACAB 38; BCA, Victoria Special Sessions, Petty Sessions and Licencing Court, Minute Book, 1853-1865; BCCR StAndC

Lafleur (Gagnon), Jean Baptiste (1811 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Yamaska, Lower Canada - 1811

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1833 - 1835); Steersman, New Caledonia (1835 - 1836); Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1837 - 1838).

Jean Baptiste Lafleur (Gagnon) joined the HBC from Yamaska in 1833 and appeared to work on the Brigade or Express.

PS: HBCA YFASA 13-16; YFDS 5b-6; FtVanASA 3-4

Lafontasie, Charles [variation: Lafantaisie] (c. 1819 - c. 1861) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Pacific Northwest - c. 1819 (born to Jacques Lafontasie and Susanne Okanogan)

Death: probably Willamette Valley, Oregon - c. 1861

Fur trade employee

HBC Native apprentice, Fort Colville (1834 - 1839); Middleman, Fort Colville (1839 - 1841); Middleman, Columbia Department (1841 - 1842); Settler, Willamette (1842 - 1843+).

Charles Lafontasie joined the HBC in 1834. From 1842 he appears to have been a settler in the Willamette for in that same year he was running the beginning of a farm on forty enclosed acres [16.2 ha]. At the beginning of outfit 1844-1845 he had a large credit indicating that he had done some work in the previous outfit. He died, unrecorded, around 1861, before the death of his last child, Jacques.

Charles Lafantaisie had two wives and thirteen children. His first wife was Isabelle Humpherville (also Isabelle, Spokane or Elizabeth Canote) (c.1817-1852), daughter of Canote Humpherville and his Sinpoel wife Pauline. Their children were an unnamed child (c.1838-1845), Marie (1842-?), Cecile (1843-?), François (1845-?), Bibiane (1847-1848), Thomas (1849-?) and Flora (1851-1851). Nine months after the death of Isabelle in 1852, on May 3, 1853, Charles married Genevieve Rondeau (c.1830-1879), daughter of Charles Rondeau and Lizette Bellaire. Their subsequent children were Bibianne (1854-before 1876), Baptiste (1855-1856), Adelard (1857-?), Eliza (1859-?), Clarisse (1860-?) and Jacques (1861-1863).

PS: HBCA YFASA 14-15, 19-20, 24; YFDS 5c-7; FtVanASA 3-7; OHS 1842 Census; 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion County PPS: CCR 1a, 2a, 2b, 2c, 3a, 3c, 7b

See Also: Lafontasie, Jacques (Father); Umpreville, Canote (Father-in-Law); Rondeau, Charles (Father-in-Law); Lafontasie, Louis (Brother); Lafontasie, Marie (Brother)

Lafontasie, Jacques [variation: Lafantaisie, Lafantiessie] (c. 1788 - 1827) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Faubourg Saint Laurent, St. Regis, or Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1788

Death: Thompson River Post, Columbia Department - September 20, 1827

Fur trade employee

PFC Passenger, Tonquin (ship) (1811); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (1811 - 1813); NWC Middleman, Fort Okanagan (1813); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (winter 1813 - 1814); Middleman, Brigade to Fort William (1814); HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Okanagan (1821 - 1822); Untraced vocation, Fort Okanagan (1822 - 1823); Middleman, Thompson River (1822); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1823 - 1824); Middleman, Columbia Department (1824 - 1826); Middleman, Thompson River (1826 - 1827); Interpreter, Thompson River (1826 - 1827).

Jacques Lafontasie appears to have been fourteen years old when he initially joined the NWC [McTavish, Frobisher] from Faubourg, St. Laurent on January 27, 1802. His early movements have not been tracked, but, on July 18, 1810, in the Montreal area, the twenty-two year old signed on with John Jacob Astor's PFC to work as a middleman for five years and then, probably in July, made the eight day trip down the St. Lawrence and Richelieu Rivers to New York where he boarded the Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn]. Late that summer, on September 6, 1810, Lafontasie sailed with fifty-one crew and passengers for a tempestuous six month voyage around the Horn. When the Tonquin finally made it through the treacherous bars at the mouth of the Columbia in March, 1811, at the cost of several lives, Lafantaisie landed and assisted in the building of Fort Astoria. From that point on he rarely appeared on records and can only be tracked by location and it is quite likely that he remained largely in the Columbia after joining the NWC when it acquired the PFC. Likewise, when the HBC amalgamated with the NWC, he continued with it. A small glimpse of his character emerges on April 5, 1827 in Archibald McDonald's report which notes that the then thirty-nine year old interpreter, who had a wife, two boys and a girl, was "not sufficiently resolute with Indians -- very thoughtless" (HBRS X, p. 229). Five and a half months later, on September 20, 1827, he died suddenly at Thompson's River and was likely buried at the Fort cemetery. In 1833-1834, money was still being paid his family.

Jacques Lafontasie has one wife and three children. His wife was Susanne Okanogan and one recorded child was Charles (c.1819-1861). Marie (?-?) and Louis (?-1840) were probably also his children.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 9, 10; FtGeoAB 4, 10; YFASA 1-7, 13; FtKamPJ 1, 2; FtAlexPJ 2; YFDS 2a; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1 PPS: ChSoc LXV, p. 48; HBRS X, p. 229; Coues, p. 875

See Also: Dupre, Nazaire (possible Son-in-Law); Lafontasie, Charles (Son); Lafontasie, Louis (Son); Lafontasie, Marie (Son); Mongrain, David (Son-in-Law); Bourgeau, Joseph (Son-in-Law)

Lafontasie, Louis [variation: Lafantiessie, Lafantaisie] (? - 1840) (probably Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly Pacific Northwest

Death: probably Fort Colville, Columbia Department - July 1840

Fur trade employee

HBC Native apprentice, Fort Colville (1837 - 1840).

Louis Lafontiesie joined the HBC on or before 1837 and died on July 16, 1840.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20; FtVanASA 3-4, 6; YFASA 19

See Also: Lafontasie, Jacques (Father); Lafontasie, Charles (Brother); Lafontasie, Marie (Brother)

Lafontasie, Marie [variation: Lafantaisie] (fl. 1831 - 1835) (Undetermined origin)

Birth: possibly Pacific Northwest

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1831 - 1835).

Marie Lafantaisie or Lafontasie was an employee of the HBC in the Columbia District in outfits 1831-1835.

PS: HBCA YFASA 11-14

See Also: Lafontasie, Jacques (Father); Lafontasie, Charles (Brother); Lafontasie, Louis (Brother)

Laforte (Placide) [variation: Lafort, Laferte Placie, Passse] (c. 1794 - 1858) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Yamaska, Lower Canada - c. 1794

Death: Willamette Valley, Oregon - August 1858

Fur trade employee

NWC Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (winter 1813 - 1814); Middleman, Brigade to Fort William (1814); HBC Boute, Columbia Department (1821 - 1824); Steersman, Snake Party (1824 - 1825); Steersman, Columbia Department (1825 - 1827); Freeman, Columbia Department (1825 - 1827); Freeman trapper, Snake Party (1826 - 1833); Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1833 - 1836); Settler, Willamette (1836 - 1842+).

A fifteen year old Michel Laforte joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray] on January 5, 1809 from Yamaska for three years of service as a wintering middleman in the Northwest. He turned up on the Pacific slopes in 1813 when the NWC took over the PFC, with Astoria as its basis for Pacific operation. For the next seven years, his movements are difficult to trace but he may have chosen to stay on the Pacific slopes or worked on the Brigade which went back and forth to Montreal. He was in the Columbia when he transferred to the HBC in 1821, the time of coalition. From that point on, he spent the majority of his time in the Snake Country [Idaho and western Montana]. In 1836 he retired into the Willamette Valley as a settler/farmer and received a gratuity for acting as horse guard for the HBC. He also continued to sell pork and grain from his farm to the Company. He died August 21, 1858 in the Willamette Valley.

Laforte had one wife and seven children. On February 11, 1839 at Fort Vancouver, he formalized his marriage to Josephine Nez Perces, whose tribal name was Chimhaney. His children were Antoine (c.1827-?), Olivier (c.1829-1853), Michel II (c.1831-1889), Marie (c.1835-1899), Catherine (1838-?), Madeleine (1840-1842) and Pierre (1843-?).

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 9, 10; HBCA YFASA 1-6; 8-9, 11-12, 14-15; SnkCoPJ 2; FtVanASA 1-6; YFDS 4b-8, 10-11; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion County PPS: Coues, p.873; CCR 1a, 2a, 2b, 3b, 6b

Laforte (Plassis), Andre [standard: André] [variation: Laferte, Lafote] (c. 1801 - 1828) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Yamaska, Lower Canada - c. 1802

Death: Priests' Rapids, Columbia River - May 1828

Fur trade employee

HBC Steersman, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825); Steersman, New Caledonia (1825 - 1826); Steersman, Fort Vancouver (1827 - 1828).

André Laforte (Plassis), from Canada, appeared in New Caledonia in 1824. He spent the next four years working on the Pacific slopes. He drowned May 29, 1828 at Priests Rapid (a ten mile [16.1 km] long rapid three miles [4.8 km] below the northern boundary of Yakima county, Washington, so named by Mr. Stuart who saw a native performing a priest-like ritual) when the boat in C. F. William Connolly's Brigade broke up.

PS: HBCA FtStJmsLS 1; YFASA 4-8; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1, 3; FtVanCB 4 PPS: ChSoc XLV, p. 154;

Lafosin, Charles (fl. 1813 - 1814) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

PFC Steersman, Fort George [Astoria] (winter 1813 - 1814).

Charles Lafosin spent the winter at Fort George, 1813-1814 and appears not to have joined the NWC.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10

Laframboise, Francois [b] [variation: François] (c. 1814 - ?) (probably Mixed descent)

Birth: Swan River, Rupert's Land - c. 1814 (born to Joseph Laframboise and Catherine de la Madeleine)

Death: possibly Cathlamet, Washington Territory

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1831 - 1832); Untraced vocation, Fort Colville (1832 - 1834); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver (1834 - 1835); Middleman, New Caledonia (1835 - 1837); Steersman, New Caledonia (1837 - 1838); Boute, New Caledonia (1838 - 1846); Boute, Fort Vancouver general charges (1846 - 1847); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department general charges (1847 - 1848); Boute, Columbia Department (1847 - 1848); Boute, Columbia Department (1848 - 1849).

Montrealer François Laframboise (b) joined the HBC in 1831 around the age of seventeen but he later claimed he arrived in the Oregon Territory on August 28, 1830. He spent his next eighteen years at a variety of forts throughout the Columbia Department and New Caledonia. Laframboise retired in 1849 and on November 1, 1849 he settled on a claim of 503 acres [203.6 ha] in Clark County. After 1851, he and his family moved to Chinookville and he likely became a salmon fisherman there. During the 1850s he was reported as raising timothy hay for a market a few miles below Vancouver. He probably ended his days in Cathlamet and the date of his death is not recorded.

François Laframboise had two wives and three recorded children. He married Mary Marguerite, Tomwata (daughter of Poghakelesh and Shiepa) (1826-1850) on June 26, 1846 at Fort Vancouver. Their children were Marguerite (1846-1847) and Joseph (1848-?). On November 27, 1851, a year after the death of his first wife, Mary Marguerite, he married Denise Dorion (daughter of Jean Baptiste Dorion and Josephine Cayuse) (?-?). Their child was Je're'mie (1855-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 11-15, 19-20, 24-30; YFDS 4b-8; FtVanASA 3-8 PPS: CCR 1b; Washington Territory Donation Land Claims, p. 193

See Also: Dorion, Jean Baptiste (Father-in-Law)

Laframboise, Michel (1793 - 1861) (Canadian: French)

Birth: Verennes, Lower Canada - May 1793

Death: St. Paul, Oregon - January 1861

Fur trade employee

PFC Passenger, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (1811 - 1813); NWC Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (1813); Middleman, Willamette or Wallace House (1813 - 1814); Interpreter, Fort George [Astoria] (1814 - 1821); HBC Interpreter, Fort Vancouver and various expeditions (1821 - 1825); Interpreter, Fort George [Astoria] (1823 - 1824); Post master, South Party (1825 - 1841); Interpreter, South Party (1825 - 1841); Settler, Willamette (1841+); Clerk, Fort Vancouver general charges (1841 - 1842); Middleman, South Party (1842 - 1844); Post master, South Party (1842 - 1844).

Literate, short, stout and fond of drinking, Michel Laframboise ("raspberry") claimed that he had a native wife in every tribe through which he travelled although this has never been verified; nonetheless, he had a full life in the fur trade and good relations with the natives. Laframboise joined the PFC in the Montreal area on July 24, 1810 as a seventeen year old middleman and woodworker. Within a few weeks, he joined a large canoe brigade to New York City where he boarded the Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn], sailing September 6, 1810. He arrived at the Columbia on March 22, 1811 and stayed on after the purchase by the NWC in 1813; with so many people in Fort George [Astoria] and no food, he was one of twenty people sent to winter at Willamette House in 1813-1814. He continued on with the HBC and, by 1827, the arduousness of the fur trade had begun to take its toll for, on February 5, 1827, Alexander Roderick McLeod, accused him of having a weak memory and forgetting things. In spite of George Simpson's ranting about letting the "lying worthless blackguard" (HBRS XXX p. 236) go, Laframboise rose to become clerk and in 1831 he was given Company permission to settle on French Prairie. From April 14 to July, 1832, he led a party to the Killimook Country to punish the natives for the murder of Pierre Karkaraguiron and Thomas Canasawarette and then proceeded on one of his usual trapping expeditions. On August 31, 1841, he left the HBC to run his moderately productive farm on seventy enclosed acres in the Willamette Valley. In 1843 Laframboise's loyalty still lay with the HBC for he did not vote for the Provisional Government and did not pay tax to it for the first year. In his later years he ran a ferry across the Willamette at Champoege until a stroke forced him to sell his holdings. Both he and his wife lived with their daughter, Josephite Labonte, until Michel's death on January 25, 1861.

Michel Laframboise had two recorded wives and nine recorded children, although he boasted of having a wife in every tribe to ensure safe passage. He and an unnamed woman of the Sasette nation had Michel II (1837-c.1895). Laframboise formalized his marriage to Emelie Picard (daughter of André Picard and an Okanogan woman) on July 9, 1829. Their children were Josephite (1838-1879), Abraham (1840-1840), Joseph (1841-1855), Anastasie (1844-?), Rose (1849-?), Angelique (1851-?), Jean (1854-?) and Abraham (1856-?).

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 10; HBCA NWCAB 10; NWCAB 9; FtGeoAB 11; YFASA 1, 4-9, 11-15, 17-21, 23; FtVanASA 1-8; YFDS 2a, 3a, 4a, 5a-7, 12; FtVanPJ 4; SimpsonCB; HBCABio; OHS 1842 Census PPS: ChSoc LVX, p. 48; HBRS III, [bio] p. 444; HBRS XXX, p. 235-36n; CCR 1a, 2a, 2b, 2c SS: Hussey, Champoege: Place of, p. 101-104; vol. XXIV, p. 250; H. W. Scott, History of the Oregon, vol. II, p. 222; Gaston, vol I, p. 175-76, 220-221; WHQ XXIV, p. 284; Holman, p. 116; Québécois in Orégon, p. 269-70; Laframboise relation
See Also: Picard, Andre (Father-in-Law)

Lafrance, Francois [standard: François] (c. 1791 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Pointe Claire, Lower Canada - c. 1791

Death: probably East of the Rocky Mountains

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1827 - 1828).

When François Lafrance came west with the returning York Factory Express in the fall of 1827, he became violently ill and held up the group for a short time. Sufficiently recovered, he worked briefly on the Pacific Slopes and appears to have deserted to the Saskatchewan Department while en route east on September 10, 1828.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 1; FtVanAB 10; YFASA 7-8; YFDS 2b, 3a; HBCCont PPS: E. Ermatinger, p. 107

Lafreniere, Charles (c. 1791 - ?) (probably Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Riviere du Loup, Lower Canada - c. 1791

Death: probably East of the Rocky Mountains

Fur trade employee

HBC Steersman, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825); Bowsman, New Caledonia (1824 - 1828).

Charles Lefrenier joined the HBC in 1816 and worked in the capacity of a bowsman. Between 1818-1821 he was in the Athabasca and Peace River areas. He got himself into trouble after the winter of 1823-1824 when he was stationed at the Athabaskan fort of Dunvegan. There, and apparently for several seasons after, he openly accused C.F. William McIntosh of defrauding him out of some scarlet cloth; however, when the facts were presented to Lafreniere he immediately recanted. For the error of his ways, he had to pay a fine of £20, almost a year's salary as well as confess his misdeeds in front of locally assembled voyageurs. He came to New Caledonia in outfit 1824-1825 and in outfit 1827-1828 appears to have been in Montreal. He was likely assigned to Athabasca after that.

PS: HBCA FtStJmsLS 1; YFASA 4-7; FtVanAB 10, 15; FtVanASA 1 PPS: HBRS III, p. 133-34; HBRS I, p. 445

Lagace, Charles [standard: Lagacé] [variation: Lagacie, Lagasse] (1838 - 1879) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Fort Simpson [Nass], British Columbia - October 1838 (born to Pierre Sr. Lagace and Lisette)

Death: Fort Victoria (Victoria), British Columbia - February 1879

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1853 - 1858); PSAC Labourer, Puget Sound Agricultural Company (1858).

Charles Lagace was fifteen years old when the third generation fur trader was hired on locally in 1853 at Fort Nisqually where he worked for five years with the HBC and PSAC. He first appeared on Nisqually Journals on March 10, 1853 and, until his last appearance on July 10, 1858, spent most of his time, along with regular farm jobs, capturing and butchering cattle around Nisqually and the Muck farm. In his last appearance in the journals on July 10, 1858, he was delivering meat to the Steilacoom Station, something which he had come to do on a regular basis. Like his father, Charles moved to Victoria and died on February 8, 1879. He was buried in the Ross Bay Cemetery two days later as Andrew Charles Legassie.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 9-13; HBCABio; BCA BCVS-RBDM; RossBayCem PPS: Dickey SS: S. A. Anderson, The Physical Structure
See Also: Lagace, Pierre Sr. (Father); Lagace, Peter Jr. (Brother); Work, John (Relative)

Lagace, Peter Jr. [standard: Lagacé] (1840 - 1887) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Fort Simpson [Nass], British Columbia - August 4, 1840 (born to Pierre Sr. Lagace and Lisette, Tsimshian)

Death: Tacoma railroad wharf, Washington Territory - April 15, 1887

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1855 - 1858).

The work record of Peter Lagace Jr., brother to Charles, is not entirely clear as Peter and his father's work record are intertwined, their names often being used interchangeably. However, it is likely that a fifteen year old Peter began work as a labourer around 1855 (although he may have begun earlier) at Fort Nisqually and may have worked until April 17, 1858 when "Peter Legace left the Service." Peter then moved to Victoria, Vancouver Island, perhaps to live with his father or on his nearby aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. John Work's farm at Hillside. However, his life there was none too tranquil. On March 11, 1865, after drinking too much, he got in a fight with Stenisham, a native who threatened Peter with an axe. In a blind rage, Peter stabbed and almost killed Stenisham. A remorseful Peter was arrested and brought in front of the magistrate on March 20 and finally, on March 31, after Stenisham had sufficiently recovered, was found guilty of a lesser charge of assault with intent to do grievous bodily harm. Six months later, on September 11, he was charged with assaulting a Joseph Matta. Lagace then left the Victoria area and returned to the Nisqually area to work for Edward Huggins after the latter had purchased the HBC site and turned it into his own farm. Alcohol, however, was eventually Peter's downfall for on April 15, 1887, after visiting Huggin's Tacoma office and then one or more saloons, he wandered onto the railroad wharf with a bottle of whiskey, sat on the steps and, after going to sleep, fell into the water and drowned. The next morning he was found almost entirely submerged and propped up against a piling. His body was taken back to the Nisqually farm and he was buried in the old fort cemetery the next day in a ceremony attended by a large number of people.

Peter Lagace had one wife and probably four children. In Victoria, he chose Emelia Vautrin (c.1841-?) as a wife and together they had Rosalie (c.1858-?), Susan/Susette Catherine (1859-1916), Emelia Ellen (1863-1937) and an unnamed son (?-?).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 10-13; FtVicASA 2-5; WAS US 1860 Census, Washington Territory, Pierce Co.; Van-PL Colonist, March 13, 1865, p. 3, March 21, 1865, p. 3, March 28, 1865, p. 3, March 31, 1865, p. 3, April 8, 1865, p. 3, September 12, 1865, p. 13; Tac-L Tacoma News, April 16, 1887; Tac-L Daily Ledger, April 17, 1887, p. 8 PPS: Dickey; Death Records of Pierce County, p. 20 SS: S. A. Anderson, The Physical Structure, p. 176-184; Carpenter, "A Source Book", p. 408; Lagace family information from relative

See Also: Lagace, Pierre Sr. (Father); Work, John (Relative); Lagace, Charles (Brother)

Lagace, Pierre Sr. [standard: Lagacé] [variation: Peter, Pierish Lagasse, Legace] (c. 1815 - 1882) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Flathead territory, Pacific Northwest - c. 1815 (born to Charles Legasse and Emme, Flathead)

Death: Victoria, British Columbia - September 27, 1882

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1832 - 1833); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (no transactions) (1833 - 1834); Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1834 - 1836); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1836 - 1853); Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1853 - 1854); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1854 - 1856); Untraced vocation, Fort Nisqually (1856 - 1858).

Pierre Lagacé, a second generation fur trader, was hired within the HBC area in 1832 and spent his career in the Columbia district. During his twenty-four years with the Company, he spent his time working mainly in coastal forts. His longest time, sixteen years, was spent at Fort Simpson where he became one of the "first Rate common men" working there. Around 1846, Lagacé became part of a scheme of seventeen trusted men mainly out of Forts Simpson and Langley, to procure 640 acres (one square mile) of land each around Fort Nisqually, land to which the HBC/PSAC held possessory rights, but land within the jurisdiction of the U.S.A. Their claims appear to have been largely ignored. He must have travelled with his family up and down the coast for, on December 25, 1849, when he was in Victoria, Vancouver Island, sons Charles and Pierre or Charles and himself were baptised. In the Fall of 1850 when gold was discovered on the Queen Charlotte Islands, Pierre Lagacé was dispatched by John Work from Fort Simpson with a party of natives to determine the extent of the gold find. The Haidas, determined to protect their own interests, frustrated Lagacé's effort, forcing him to return without information. From 1853 his employment record blurs for it appears that both he and son Pierre may have both been working at Fort Nisqually until 1859. He may have been running back and forth between Nisqually and Victoria for on March 4, 1854, he was noted as transporting fruit trees to Victoria. He appears to have retired at the end of 1856 and done odd jobs at the fort. Somewhere in the next few years, he moved back to Victoria and, for many years, lived on Johnson Street, near Hillside Farm, site of the Work farm, his sister Josette (1812-1896), being Mrs. John Work. He died of heart disease on September 27, 1882 in Victoria B.C. and was buried in the Ross Bay Cemetery.

Pierre Lagacé appears to have had successive two wives and three children. On October 29, 1855 in the Victoria area, he confirmed his marriage to Lisette, Tsimshian/Nass (?-?) whom he most likely met when working in the Fort Simpson area. Their recorded children were Charles (1838-?), Pierre (1840-1887) and Edward Pierre (1849-1856). By 1865, he appeared to have another wife, so far, unnamed, a step-mother to Pierre Jr. (The Colonist, March 31, 1865, p. 3). She may have been the Cleek who appeared on the 1881 Census.

Legace Island [How'Ku'ynda], one mile west of Burnt Island, Queen Charlotte Islands [Haida Gwaii] was named after Pierre Lagace Sr.

PS: HBCA YFASA 12-15, 19-20, 24-32; YFDS 5b-7; FtVanASA 3-13; FtVanCB 31; FtSimp[N]PJ 3-4; FtVicASA 1-6; FtVicCB 10; HBCABio; BCA PSACFtNis; BCCR StAndC; Van-PL 1881 Canada Census, Vancouver District, Victoria Sub-district,

Lagarde, Joseph [variation: Legard] (1813 - 1913) (Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly Athabasca [Alberta] - July 1813

Death: Tacoma, Washington - December 1913

Fur trade employee

HBC Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1844 - 1845); Apprentice, Beaver (steamer) (1845 - 1846); Apprentice, Fort Stikine (1846 - 1849); Middleman, Fort Rupert (1849 - 1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Rupert (1851 - 1852).

Joseph Lagarde, hired within Rupert's Land, appears on record in outfit 1844-1845 on the coastal trade. In outfit 1851-1852 he appeared to work at Fort Rupert but did not receive wages. At this point he likely drifted south for on November 28, 1853, he settled on a claim of 320 acres [129.5 ha] on the Cowlitz Plain area in Pierce Co., Washington Territory. He appears to have drifted to the Tacoma area where he eventually died.

Joseph Lagarde had one wife, Mary whom he married on February 25, 1852 in Lewis Co., Washington Territory.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-32; FtVicASA 1-2; HBCA Joseph Lagarde search file PPS: Washington Territory Donation Land Claims, p. 118 PPS: Huggins, "Reminiscences of Puget", p. 243

Lagrange, Godfroi (c. 1833 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Yamaska, Lower Canada - c. 1833

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1848 - 1849); Middleman, Fort Rupert (1849 - 1851); Middleman, Fort Colville (1851 - 1853); Labourer, Fort Colville (1853 - 1856).

Godfroi Lagrange joined the HBC from Yamaska in 1848 on a two-year contract. He came west over the Rockies and worked at Forts Rupert and Colville before retiring in 1856.

PS: HBCA YFASA 28-32; FtVanASA 9-13; YFDS 19

Lagrange, Jean Baptiste (c. 1831 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Yamaska, Lower Canada - c. 1831

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1848 - 1849); Middleman, Fort Rupert (1849 - 1851).

Jean Baptiste Lagrange joined the HBC from Yamaska in 1848 on a two year contract which ended in 1850. He came west over the Rockies in 1848 and worked at Fort Rupert until 1851 when he returned to Canada.

PS: HBCA YFASA 28-31; YFDS 19

Lahaie (Jardenier), Louis (c. 1812 - 1837) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Francois, Lower Canada - c. 1812

Death: Columbia Cascades (Rapids), Pacific Northwest - March 1837

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1831 - 1832); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1832 - 1833); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1833 - 1835); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1836); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1835 - 1837).

Louis Lahaie (Jardenier) joined the HBC from St. François in 1831 and, after six years of service, drowned in the Columbia Cascades in 1837.

PS: HBCA YFASA 11-15, 17; FtSimp[N]PJ 3; YFDS 4b-7; FtVanASA 3-4

Lahaina (fl. 1830 - 1836) (Hawaiian)

Birth: Maui

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1832); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1832 - 1835); Passenger, Ganymede (barque) (1835).

Lahaina joined the HBC in 1830. From Fort Vancouver, he was taken north where he was in on the original construction of Fort Simpson [Nass] at the mouth of the Nass River. He then returned to Fort Vancouver where he continued to work for the next four years, likely as a labourer. He left Fort Vancouver for Oahu on the barque Ganymede on October 3, 1835. He was discharged in Oahu in 1836 and paid his final HBC wage there.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2-3; YFDS 4a-6; YFASA 11-15; SandIsLonIC 1

Laharnai, Joseph (1823 - ?) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands - 1823

Other

U.A. Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver (1850).

Joseph Laharnai, who may have been a relative of Like Laharnai or Liké, lived in Kanaka village near Fort Vancouver in 1850. No other records have been traced to him with any certainty.

PS: OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Clark Co

See Also: Like (Relative); Learhenard (Relative)

Lahowbalow [variation: Lahuhalu] (fl. 1839 - 1842) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Cowlitz Farm (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Langley (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1840 - 1842).

Lahowbalow joined the HBC from Oahu in 1839 on a contract expired in 1842. He returned to Oahu on November 10, 1842.

Lahowbalow and an unnamed Indian woman were the parents of Christine (1840-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 19-20, 22; YFDS 13; FtVanASA 5-8 PPS: CCR 1a

Lajeunesse, Augustine (c. 1830 - ?) (Undetermined origin)

Birth: c. 1830

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1851 - 1852).

Augustine Lajeunesse joined the HBC on April 30, 1851 for three years as a middleman and winterer. He appeared in the outfit 1851-1852 abstracts with no additional information and signed an 1856 contract at Edmonton House.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 31

Lajoie, Jean Baptiste [variation: Lajois] (c. 1800 - 1846) (possibly Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Lower Canada [Quebec] - c. 1800

Death: St. Paul, Oregon Territory - August 1846

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Colville (1828 - 1834); Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1835 - 1836); Middleman, Fort Colville (1836 - 1842); Settler, Cowlitz (1842 - 1843+).

John Baptiste Lajoie joined the HBC at the age of twenty in 1828 in Canada and spent his career at Fort Colville. He deserted once in outfit 1833-1834 and his effects were "made over" to the Company and in the following outfit was still listed as having deserted (YFDS 5c, fo. 148b). He returned to work on July 1, 1835 and in 1842-1843 he became a settler in the Cowlitz area but later moved south to the Willamette Valley. He died on August 17, 1846 and was buried at St. Paul, Oregon.

John Baptiste Lajoie married Marie Deschaudieres. Their children were not recorded and Marie died at Willamette Falls on August 13, 1844. 'Ruth Rover' (Margaret Bailey) who witnessed the funeral procession, wrote disapprovingly: "Indian woman carried by in a cart for burial. Her husband [Lajoie] and another sitting upon the coffin." (CCR, A-46)

PS: HBCA YFASA 8-9, 11-15, 19, 23; YFDS 3a-3b, 5c-7; FtVanASA 2-8; HBCABio PPS: CCR 1a, 1b, 2a

Laliberte, Baptiste (? - 1838) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Rupert's Land, British North America

Death: Dalles des Morts (Death Rapids) [British Columbia] - October 1838

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman and bouté in Athabasca River, Fort Vancouver general charges (1838).

Baptiste Laliberte appears to have joined the HBC in 1838 on a three year contract and, while travelling across the country, acted as a route in the Athabasca River area. He didn't make it to his job for he and twelve others drowned in the Columbia River in October.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 5; YFDS 9; YFASA 18; FtVanCB 20

Laliberte, Louis (fl. 1813 - 1814) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Faubourg Saint Laurent, Montreal, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

PFC Untraced vocation, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (1810 - 1812); Untraced vocation, Fort George [Astoria] (1812); Middleman, Flathead Post [Fort Connah, Saleesh House] (1813 - 1814).

Louis Laliberte, a proud well-known man in Indian Country and well connected to the NWC, joined the PFC when he signed a contract on May 23, 1810 with PFC partner, Alexander McKay, to work as a middleman for five years. He then joined Wilson Price Hunt's PFC Overland Expedition at Lachine, probably on July 6 and must have been a leading character of the expedition because of his experience. He crossed the Continental Divide in late summer, 1811 and reached Astoria by February 19, 1812. He spent the winter of 1813-1814 at Flathead post and at some time likely went to Montreal where he sometimes spent winters. Laliberte, whose fierce pride was coupled with a sense of theatre, one day in Montreal revenged a perceived insult from NWC proprietor, Angus Shaw in a unique way.

He ordered a coat to be made of fine green cloth, with silver buttons, a waistcoat of crimson velvet, back and front (like the sailor at Portsmouth), with carnelian buttons, braided sky-blue pantaloons, Hessian boots with gold tassels and silver heels, a hat, feather and silk sash; and thus accoutered, with a long calumet in his right hand, and a splendidly ornamented smoking-bag in his left, he proceeded to the Champ de Mars, during a regimental parade... (Cox, p. 307).

When the inebriated Laliberte spied Shaw, he loudly pointed out his buttons, showed his silver heels and named his important relatives in the NWC. While several of his friends dragged him away, he continued to point out his silver heels to anyone of importance and dared anyone to show him theirs.

Louis Laliberte had a native wife and several daughters who married into the fur trade. He was father in law to three proprietors of the Northwest Company.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: K. W. Porter, Roll of Overland, p. 108; Cox, p. 306-07

Lamb, Joe (fl. 1840 - 1846) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: possibly Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Stikine (1840 - 1845); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1845 - 1846); Engineer's servant, Beaver (steamer) (1846).

Although Joe Lamb's name is identical to the third mate of the Atahualpa, who was with the vessel on the Hawaiian Islands twice in 1812-1813, no relationship has been traced. Joe Lamb joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840, arriving at Fort Vancouver in April of that year. Joe's first assignment was as a cook at Fort Stikine where he arrived on the steamer Beaver on June 13. A year later, in the fall of 1841, Joe Lamb was working as a steward and later overheard HBC servant Pierre Kanaguasse talking about murdering Fort Stikine's head, John McLoughlin Jr. Kanaguasse assured Lamb that there would be no punishment if it were done. On April 21, 1842, McLoughlin called Lamb and others to arms to protect him but it was to no avail, as McLoughlin was executed by his HBC servants. Lamb himself testified that he had seen McLoughlin tipsy two or three times. The Sandwich Islander, unlike many of the other servants at the fort, was never implicated in the murder by Dr. John McLoughlin Sr. even though he himself had been flogged by McLoughlin Jr. for either giving away meat or stealing meat out of the kitchen, a relatively minor infraction. Lamb left Fort Stikine and worked on the steamer Beaver for a little more than a year. As his second contract ended in 1846, he worked as an engineer's servant until December 10, 1846, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 24-26; FtVanASA 6-8; YFDS 17; FtStikPJ 1-2; FtVanCB 30-31

Lambert, Augustin (c. 1811/1814? - 1881) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Michel de. Yamaska, Lower Canada - c. 1811 (born to Augustin Lambert and Claire Lebrun)

Death: St. Paul, Oregon - February 1881

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1831 - 1832); Middleman, New Caledonia (1832 - 1834); Route, New Caledonia (1834 - 1835); Middleman, New Caledonia (1835 - 1836); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1836 - 1837).

Augustin Lambert joined the HBC in 1831 and may have worked the brigade route as in 1834-1835, he was paid for route services in the Athabasca. He went east over the Rockies in the Spring of 1836. He returned to the area possibly with a bride who had remained in Red River to have the first child. In 1840, Lambert took up a claim eight miles [12.9 km] southeast of St. Paul becoming a farmer and in May, 1843, sided with the HBC and voted against the establishment of a Provisional Government. In later years, he branched out into logging. Apparently he was in the Walla Walla area in the 1840s. Augustin Lambert died in 1881, age seventy years.

Augustin Lambert had one wife and thirteen recorded children. He married Catherine Pichet, probably in Canada and then went to Red River where, while Catherine waited the birth of her first child, Augustin continued on to Oregon Territory/Columbia Department. Their recorded children were Marie (1839-1852), Augustin (c.1839-1880), Adelaide (c.1844-1851), Colette (c.1845-1850), Michel (1847-1852), François (1849-?), Catherine (1852-?), Cuthbert (1853-1880), Antoine (1856-1882), Marie (1857-?), Adelaide II (1859-1869), Alfred Marie (1865-?) and Alfred (?-m. 1896-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 11-15; YFDS 4b-5c; FtVanASA 3; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion County;
PPS: CCR 1b, 2c, 3a SS: H. J. McKay, p. 152-53; Genealogical Material in Oregon Donation Land Claims, vol 5; Holman, p. 116

Lambert, Etienne [standard: Étienne] (fl. 1851 - 1865) (possibly Canadian: French)

Death: probably Victoria, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia general charges (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1852 - 1853); Untraced vocation, Fort Langley (1853 - 1854); Labourer, Fort Langley (1854 - 1858).

Étienne Lambert worked with the HBC from 1851-1858. He moved with his family to the vicinity of Victoria in 1858 and carried on transactions with the HBC until at least 1865.

Étienne Lambert had one wife and four recorded children. Probably around 1857, he chose as a wife Margarite Fraser (?-?), perhaps a Kwantlen native. Their children were Marie Emilie (1858-1862), Sara (?-bap. 1860-?), Jean Étienne (?-1862-?) and Louisa (1864-1865).

PS: HBCA YFASA 31-32; YFDS 22; FtVicASA 1-5, 9-10, 12; BCA BCCR StAndC

Lambert, Felix (c. 1824 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Aime, Lower Canada - c. 1824 (born to Souverain Lambert and Claire Lebrun)

Death: possibly Pacific Northwest

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1843 - 1845); Middleman, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1847); Middleman, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1847 - 1852); Middleman, Fort Umpqua (1849).

Felix Lambert probably joined the HBC in 1843 at Yamaska. For seven years he worked at a variety of posts from New Caledonia to Fort Umpqua in southern Oregon and retired in 1849. He then took a land claim on the Prairie near St. Louis.

Felix Lambert was married twice and had five children. On January 4, 1849 at Fort Vancouver, he married Marie Sophie, Grande Dalles (c.1834-?). They had no recorded children. After the apparent death of Marie Sophie, he married Veronica Sanders (daughter of Jean Pierre Sanders and Susanne Yamhill) (?-?) on May 21, 1855. Their children were Felix II (1856-1856), André (1858-1861), Luce (1859-?), Marie (1861-?) and Ursule (1864-?).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 8-9; YFASA 24-32 PPS: CCR 1b, 3a

Lambert, John (fl. 1844 - 1847) (British)

Birth: probably in or near Millwall, England

Death: probably England

Fur trade officer

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1844 - 1845); Engineer, Columbia Department general charges (1845 - 1846); Engineer, Beaver (steamer) (1846 - 1847); Passenger, Columbia (barque) (1847 - 1848).

Because John Lambert had attacks “of chronic rheumatism as to be unable to stop or start the engines” (FtVanCB 34, fo. 22), his career was cut short on the Pacific slopes. Nothing is known of the early life of the Millwall engineer, but John Lambert joined the HBC in 1844 on a five-year contract, receiving an advance of £25 in London. He sailed to the coast and began work in outfit 1844-1845. Lambert suffered from attacks of chronic rheumatism and was treated with every indulgence, receiving pay even when he was off duty. He was not assigned to the Beaver until 1846 and was only able to work with the help of his assistant, Mr. Flett, until November 10, 1847 at which point he returned to England on the barque Columbia.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-27; FtVanCB 34, P. S. Ogden Mar. 19, 1846 Fort Vancouver letter to George Simpson, B.2234/b/34, fo. 22, FtVanCB 37; log of Columbia 9 PPS: HBRB XXXII, p. 8; FtVanCB 36

Lambert, Pierre (fl. 1812) (probably Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Berthier, Lower Canada

Death: McLeod Lake, New Caledonia - May 1812

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, McLeod Lake Post (1812).

Paul Lambert may have joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray Col.] as early as 1809 or 1810. The first contract was to work in Fort William and the second, in English River. In May 1812 at McLeod Lake, while springtime was beginning to thin out the ice on the lake, Lambert ventured out onto a lake. Lambert tried to cross the lake on a sledge and fell through the thin ice. Although his companions were nearby, he had drowned before they were able to pull him out. The following day he was brought back to the Fort and interred.

PPS: Harmon, A Journal of Voyages, p. 185; SHdeSB Liste

Lambroise (Lorimier Martineau, McIntyre), Michel (c. 1819 - 1902) (probably Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Sault Ste. Marie [Upper Canada] - c. 1819 or 1825

Death: Oregon State, United States - 1902

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman and route in Athabasca River, New Caledonia (1839 - 1840); Middleman, New Caledonia (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Thompson River (1841 - 1842); Middleman, New Caledonia (1842 - 1844); Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1845 - 1846); Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1846 - 1847); Route, Fort Alexandria (1847 - 1848); Route, Columbia Department general charges (1848 - 1850); Route, New Caledonia (1848 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1850 - 1851).

Michel Lamboise joined the HBC in 1839 and worked through to 1851. As early as 1847, he was given permission to go to Vancouver to be with his new wife when the opportunity arose. Michel may also be a person known as McIntyre (son of a Scot and Red River Chippewa mother - who later married Ambroise Martineau) who made a name for himself on the Columbia. When a road was being constructed to the mines in Montana, Martineau was a letter carrier from Walla Walla to Fort Benton. He was also a steamboat captain on the upper Columbia and is known to have taken a steamboat down through the Cascades. He spent his last years at Seaside and is buried with his second wife Jenny in a now unmarked site near the Necanicum River.

Michel Lamboise had two wives and four recorded children. A twenty-two year old Lamboise married Mary Catherine, Cascades (c.1827-?) at Fort Vancouver? on January 4, 1847. Their children were Michel II (1849-1849), Michel III (1850-?) and Marie (1855-?). His second wife was Jenny, by whom they appear to have had a son, George (?-?).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-8; YFASA 19-26, 28-32; FtAlexPJ 7; YFDS 10, 14-15 PPS: CCR 1b

Lamotte, Paul (c. 1809 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Lower Canada [Quebec] - c. 1809

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1829 - 1833).

Paul Lamotte joined the HBC at the age of twenty in 1829. He spent over three years in New Caledonia before he returned to Canada in 1833.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 1, 3-4, 9, 11-12

Lamplugh, William (fl. 1855 - 1856) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1855 - 1856).

William Lamplugh made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Lamprant, Antoine [variation: Lamprente, Lampreau, Lamprone, Lampoire, Lamproue] (1823 - 1909) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Red River Settlement [Manitoba] - October 1823 (born to a Quebec born father and Manitoba born mother)

Death: Kamloops, British Columbia - 1909

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Thompson River (1850 - 1863); Labourer, Thompson River (1855 - 1859); Middleman, Thompson River (1859 - 1861); Labourer, Thompson River (1861 - 1862).

Antoine Lamprant claims to have worked for the HBC between 1840 and 1870. According to an HBC compiled biography, on September 18, 1902, Lamprant wrote from Kamloops to the Company's London Office, claiming to have "been in the continuous employ of your Company for the period of thirty years throughout British Columbia..." (HBCA letter, fo. 441) but does not appear on record for all those years. His appeal for financial assistance was forwarded to the Commissioner in Winnipeg, (HBCA A.6/75, p. 13) who replied on March 13, 1803 that he had learned from enquiries that Lamprant had been an "Interpreter & Fur Buyer at Kamloops [Thompson River] from about 1840 to 1870 [and was] now 78 years of age, almost blind, in destitute circumstances and unable to earn a livelihood" (HBCA letter, fo.63), (HBCA bio). Balf's claim (Balf, p. 124) that Antoine Lampreau manned a post at Barriere for the HBC in the winters of 1851 and 1852 hints at work at smaller posts thus coming under the radar.

Antoine Lamprant's family life is a little complex for he appears to have had eleven children by three different women. Lamprant's wife was native Mary (c.1847-?) (probably Kivemulek). Together, they had: Agnes (c.1864-1946), Antoine? (?-?), John? (?-?), Emilie/Amelia (1867-?) Augustin (1869-?), Mary (1872-?), Simon (1874-?), André (1877-?), Donald (1879-?). Lamprant and Nancy (?-?) were the parents of Julie (c.1874-?). Also, with Romenair (?-?), he fathered François (1876-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 30-32; FtVicASA 1-11; HBCABio; Lamprant to HBC, Kamloops, Sept. 18, 1902, A.10/160, fo. 441; Winnipeg Commissioner's March 13, 1903 letter, A.12/FT 334/1a, fo. 63; Van-PL 1881 Census, Vancouver district, Spences Bridge & Kamloops subdistrict; KamA StJean; BCA BCVS-RBDM SS: Barman & McCallum

Lanctot, Camille (c. 1824 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: Lower Canada [Quebec] - c. 1824

Death: possibly Washington Territory, United States

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Thompson River (1843 - 1844); Middleman, New Caledonia (1844 - 1846); Middleman, Thompson River (1846 - 1851).

Camille Lanctot worked the majority of his career at Thompson River [Kamloops]. After the end of his contract in 1846, he returned to Canada but rejoined and was soon back in the Kamloops area. He appears to have finally retired in 1851, remaining on the books until 1855. He settled on the Spokane River opposite the farm of Antoine Plante. Together, between 1856 and 1865 they ran a ferry service across the river. They were eventually put out of business when an Isaac Kellogg built a free bridge just up river.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 8; YFASA 24-32; FtVicASA 1-2; FtAlexPJ 7 PPS: Owen

Landreville, Charles (fl. 1813 - 1820) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly St. Roch, Montreal, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Steersman, Flathead Post [Fort Connah, Saleesh House] (winter 1813 - 1814); Employee, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1816); Employee, Pacific slopes (1816 - 1818).

Charles Landreville, a member of the NWC Express, had his contract renewed with the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] in the Columbia in 1813. He spent the winter of 1813-1814 at the Flathead post and was likely part of the brigade to Montreal as there, in 1816, he signed a new contract (on March 18) and received an advance for the Columbia. In 1818, he was back in the Columbia again and, on March 20 1820, he received a one year contract to work as a bowsman and middleman in the Northwest. He did not transfer to the HBC in the Columbia at the time of the amalgamation.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 1, 2, 10; SHdeSB Liste PPS: ChSoc LVII, p. 632

Landrie, Alexis [variation: Landry] (fl. 1821 - 1825) (Undetermined origin)

Birth: possibly Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1821 - 1824).

Alexis Landrie worked for the HBC in New Caledonia for three years and returned to Montreal in 1825.

PS: HBCA YFASA 1-2, 4; YFDS 1a

Landrie, Amable (fl. 1824 - 1825) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1823 - 1824); Middleman, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825).

Amable Landrie worked in New Caledonia for two outfits and returned to Montreal in 1825.

Landrie, Francois [1] [standard: François] [variation: Landry] (fl. 1813 - 1814) (Undetermined origin)

Death: Snake Country, Pacific Northwest - 1814

Fur trade employee

PFC Middleman, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (1810 - 1813); Middleman, Snake Country (1813 - 1814).

François Landrie [1] joined Wilson Price Hunt's PFC Overland Expedition in Michilimackinac around July 31, 1810. He crossed the Continental Divide in late summer 1811, separated from the main group and joined Ramsay Crooks' smaller group which he left in February 1812 in the neighbourhood of the Snake River. He was picked up by John Reed and brought by Donald McKenzie to Astoria where he arrived on January 16, 1813. In the summer of 1813, Landrie was sent with Reed's party to the Snake Country where he wintered in 1813-1814. During the winter he fell from his horse, lingered a while, and died.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: K. W. Porter, Roll of Overland, p. 108; A. Ross, Adventures, p. 278; ChSoc XLV, p. 153

Landrie, Francois [2] (fl. 1813 - 1814) (possibly Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly St. Roch, Montreal, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (winter 1813 - 1814).

François Landrie, who joined the NWC in Fort William in 1813 on a two year contract, wintered in 1813-1814 in Fort George [Astoria]. He left Fort Astoria for Montreal on May 1, 1814 in an express canoe headed by Angus Bethune and A. Fraser. His contract was to end in Montreal in 1815, but he may be the same François Landrie, from St. Roch who signed on with McTavish, McGillivray & Co. on January 9, 1817 to work for three years as a wintering middleman in the Northwest.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10; SHdeSB Liste

Landrie, Joseph (fl. 1813 - 1814) (probably Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

PFC Middleman, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (1810 - 1812); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (1812 - 1813); Middleman, Flathead Post [Fort Connah, Saleesh House] or Fort Okinogan (October 13, 1813); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (1813 - 1814).

Joseph Landrie joined Wilson Price Hunt's PFC Overland Expedition most likely at Mackinac around August 4, 1810. He crossed the Continental Divide in late summer, 1811 and reached Astoria on January 18, 1812. He spent the 1813-1814 winter in Fort George and at that time had not been engaged by the NWC. He left for Montreal in April 1814 but may have continued work in the east with the NWC at Fort William.

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria; HBCA NWCAB 10; SHdeSB Liste PPS: K. W. Porter, Roll of Overland, p. 109; Coues, p.872

Landrie, Joseph [a] (c. 1806 - ?) (probably Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly Athabasca [Alberta] - c. 1806

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Colville (1842 - 1845); Boatbuilder, Fort Colville (1845 - 1850); Boatbuilder, Fort Vancouver depot (1850 - 1851).

Joseph Landrie [a] probably joined the HBC in 1842 and was discharged on December 1, 1851.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 7-9; YFASA 24-31; YFDS 22

Landrie, Joseph [b] (c. 1822 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Sorel, Lower Canada - c. 1822

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Colville general charges (1843 - 1844); Untraced vocation, Fort Colville (1844 - 1846); Middleman, Fort Colville (1846 - 1847).

Joseph Landrie [b] probably joined the HBC from Sorel in 1843 and returned to Canada in outfit 1846-1847.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 8; YFASA 24-26

Landry, Joseph (fl. 1793) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

NWC Member, Alexander Mackenzie's journey to the Pacific (1793).

Joseph Landry joined Alexander Mackenzie at Fort Chepewyan for his May-August 1793 return journey to the Pacific having been on a previous voyage with the Scottish explorer. He is mentioned only once in the journals by Mackenzie.

PPS: HakSP Mackenzie, p. 163n, 257

Lane, Richard (c. 1816 - 1877) (British: English)

Birth: Kent, England - c. 1816Death: Dalles des Morts (Death Rapids), British Columbia - 1877*Fur trade employee

HBC Clerk in counting house, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1846); Accountant, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1846); Clerk, Fort Vancouver depot (1846 - 1849); County judge, Fort Vancouver (1847); Clerk in charge, Willamette Falls (1849 - 1850); Clerk, Willamette (1850 - 1851); Employee, Champoeg (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Washington Territorial Legislature (? - ?).

Richard Lane was appointed apprentice clerk in 1837, and on May 30, 1838 signed a contract with the HBC. In the following month, he sailed to York Factory aboard the Prince Rupert. After being employed in the Red River District until 1845, he was transferred to the counting house in Fort Vancouver where he arrived around September 25 (to take charge of the trading post at Baker's Bay -CR). He was appointed county judge of Vancouver on January 16, 1847. He continued on with the Company until 1850 when he retired and moved to Oregon City. For one year after his retirement, he was the Company agent in Champoeg until he was dismissed for mismanagement around March, 1852, and held several offices in the Washington Territorial Legislature. In 1853 he settled on a claim of 320 acres [129.5 ha] six miles [9.7 km] from Vancouver but was not able to finalize the claim as he did not meet all the qualifications. In 1877 he committed suicide at the Dalles by an overdose of morphine.

On a journey with the accounts back to the Red River District, he married Metis Mary McDermott (c.1817-1851) (daughter of a native woman and Andrew McDermott of the Red River Settlement and 'descended from the kings of Ireland') and together they had Jean André (1847-?) and Marie (1849-?). On December 6, 1858 in Olympia, he married Mrs. Anna Gardiner.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 25-30; FtVanCB 39; FtVanASA 9; HBRS vol. VII, p. 314; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Clackamas County; OHS Statesman, May 16, 1851, p. 3; Dec. 21, 1858, p. 4 PPS: CCR 1b; Washington Territory Donation Land Claims, p. 258

Lane, William Fletcher (c. 1794 - 1863) (Irish)

Birth: Ireland - c. 1794Death: probably East of the Rocky Mountains - 1863*Fur trade employee

HBC Clerk, New Caledonia (1832 - 1834); Clerk, Fort Chilcotin (1834); Clerk, New Caledonia (1834 - 1844).

William Fletcher Lane joined the NWC as a constable in 1820. He was dismissed in 1824 but as he was considered more trouble outside than in, he was rehired in 1829. In 1832 rather than be dismissed again, he was sent to New Caledonia where he, always a problem drinker "cannot be otherwise than sober" (HBRS XXX, p. 217). By 1844 he had had enough and wanted desperately to leave and consequently went east of the Rockies the following year. However, likely his engaging personality and spinning of yarns (one of his stories made it into a Lieut. W. H. Hooper book), sustained him for many more years as a clerk for he was employed until 1863 and retired at £50 per year.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; Fort Chilcotin ref in HBCA B.5/a/3 and B.239/k/2; YFASA 11-15, 17-20, 24; YFDS 5a-7; FtVanASA 3-8; SimpsonCB PPS: HBRS II, p. 229-30, HBRS XXII, p. 459-60; HBRS XXX, p. 216-17, 216n; SS: Hooper, Lieut. W. H., Ten Months Among the Tents of the Tuski, p. 388.

Lang, Richard (fl. 1856 - 1857) (British)

Birth: probably British IslesMaritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1856 - 1857).

Robert First joined the supply ship Princess Royal in Victoria on March 3, 1857 for his return voyage to the British Isles. Just how he got to Victoria has not been traced.

PS: HBCA log of Princess Royal 3

Langley, George (fl. 1832 - 1836) (British: English)

Birth: England

Maritime officer

HBC 2nd mate, Eagle (brig) (1831 - 1832); 1st mate, Dryad (brig) (1832 - 1836).

George Langley joined the HBC on September 24, 1831 and arrived on the coast aboard the brig Eagle. He was drafted from the Eagle on October 26, 1832 to serve on coastal shipping and is recorded as leaving the coast for England on the Dryad on October 1, 1835.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; FtVanASA 3; YFASA 12-16; YFDS 5a-6; log of Dryad 1; HBCA George Langley search file

Langtry, Joseph Millar (fl. 1833 - 1835) (British: English)

Birth: probably England

Maritime officer

HBC Captain, Nereide (barque) (1833 - 1835).

Lieutenant Joseph Millar Langtry was borrowed from the British Royal Navy by the HBC to be Superintendent of the Columbia Marine Department and to replace the deceased Aemilius Simpson on the Northwest Coast. He was to receive the rank equivalent to Chief Trader but instructions from the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty stated that he was only to command the Nereide. This was only the beginning of his problems. He departed London in May, 1834 but a leak was discovered and repaired at Plymouth and again at Lisbon and was only able to leave Lisbon in July. When he arrived in the Columbia in April, 1834, John McLoughlin, who was not as vigorous in his opposition to the American ships that the Committee had wanted him to be, felt it unsuitable for Coastal trade and sent it back – with Langtry at the helm. McLoughlin questioned Langtry's competence and inordinate delays but Tolmie felt he was "an agreeable person" (Tolmie, p. 280). However, when Langtry returned to London he understandably left the HBC and re-entered the Royal Navy.

PS: HBCA London Committee Minutes Book A. 1/58, [Committee instructions for Lantry] fos. 41-41d; log of Nereide 1; Inward Correspondence A. 6/23, [McLoughlin's opposition] fos. 140-141d SS: W. F. Tolmie, p. 280.

Langurn, Gulbrand (fl. 1853 - 1854) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1853 - 1854).

Gulbrand Langurn's name appeared on the 1853-1854 Fort Victoria servants' abstracts. He may have come on the Colinda.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1-2

Lanoix, Jean Baptiste [variation: Lanois] (c. 1806 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly St. Cuthbert, Lower Canada - c. 1806

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, New Caledonia (1825 - 1828).

Jean Baptiste Lanoix worked over three years in New Caledonia before returning to Montreal.

PS: HBCA YFASA 5-8; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1

Lanson, Michel [variation: Lancon] (fl. 1810 - 1812) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

PFC Untraced vocation, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (1810 - 1812).

Michel Lanson joined Wilson Price Hunt's PFC Overland Expedition at Nondawa around December 31, 1810. He travelled overland with the main group, arriving at Astoria around February 19, 1812. His movements have not been traced after that and he did not appear on NWC records of 1813-1814 and so must have left the Pacific Northwest before that.

PPS: K. W. Porter, Roll of Overland, p. 109

Laowala (fl. 1839 - 1848) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: probably Fort Langley - 1848

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Langley (1839 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Langley (1843 - 1844); Middleman, Fort Langley (1844 - 1845); Labourer, Fort Langley (1845 - 1848).

Laowala joined the HBC in 1839 from Oahu and sailed to Fort Langley aboard the Cadboro in May of that year. He worked there until the spring of 1848 when he died. He may have gone to Nisqually for treatment, for a person of a similar name appeared there in 1848.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 19-20, 24-29; FtVanASA 6-8; S. A. Anderson, The Physical Structure, p. 171

Laperdoux blanche, Jacques (? - c. 1846) (probably Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly East of the Rocky Mountains

Death: probably Pacific Northwest - c. 1846

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice, Columbia Department general charges (1844 - 1845); Apprentice, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1846); Apprentice, Columbia Department (1846 - 1847).

Jacques Laperdoux blanche was hired within the HBC trading territory in 1844. He died two years later.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-26

See Also: Laperdoux blanche, Pierre (Son)

Laperdoux blanche, Pierre (c. 1835 - ?) (probably Mixed descent)

Birth: probably East of the Rocky Mountains - c. 1835 (probably born to Jacques Laperdoux blanche)

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice labourer, Columbia Department general charges (1848 - 1849); Apprentice labourer, Fort Rupert (1849 - 1853); Labourer, Nanaimo (1853+).

Pierre Laperdrix blanche, most likely the thirteen or fourteen year old son of Jacques Laperdoux blanche came west over the Rockies in 1848 and was put to work by the HBC as an apprentice labourer on a seven year apprentice's contract that ended in 1854. He was sent from Fort Rupert in March 1853 to Nanaimo where he completed his apprenticeship.

PS: HBCA YFASA 28-32; YFDS 19; FtVicASA 1-2; FtVicCB 7

See Also: Laperdoux blanche, Jacques (probable Father)

Lapham, Lewis L. (c. 1785 - 1817) (American)

Birth: Rhode Island, United States - c. 1785

Death: probably Fort George [Astoria], Oregon - 1817

Other

NWC Untraced vocation, Fort George [Astoria] (1817).

Little is known of Lewis L. Lapham other than his obituary in the Columbia Centinel:

At the English Settlement on the Columbia River, on the N. W. Coast of America, Mr. Lewis L. Lapham, aged 32, formerly of this town [Boston], and a native of Rhode Island. He was a man of distinguished merit, and his early exit will be sincerely deplored by all his acquaintances (Columbia Centinel, Nov. 5, 1817, p. 2).

He may have been an employee of the NWC or a member of the maritime fur trade. He may have been an employee of the NWC or a member of the maritime fur trade.

PS: HU-Wid ColCent, Nov. 5, 1817, p. 2

Lapierre, Jean Baptiste [a] (c. 1795 - 1865) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Cumberland House [Saskatchewan] - c. 1795

Death: Fort Colville, Washington Territory - August 1865

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1821 - 1824); Middleman, New Caledonia (1824 - 1825); Interpreter, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1824 - 1827); Middleman, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825); Interpreter, New Caledonia (1824 - 1827); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1828 - 1829); Interpreter, Fort Alexandria (1829 - 1831); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1831 - 1842); Interpreter, Fort Chilcotin (1842); Interpreter, New Caledonia (1842 - 1844); Untraced vocation, Fort Tluz Kuz (1844 - 1845); Interpreter, New Caledonia (1845 - 1846); Interpreter, Fort Alexandria (1846 - 1847); Interpreter, Fort Alexandria (1847 - 1849); Interpreter, Fort Tluz Kuz (1847); Interpreter, Fort St. James (1849 - 1852); Labourer, Fort Colville (1852 - 1865).

Jean Baptiste Lapierre was hired by the the HBC in Montreal as an interpreter. Lapierre, deemed to be valuable, worked in the New Caledonia area returning east in 1827-1828. When he came back to the Columbia the following outfit, records show he was hired on from the parish of Seigneur de Madame Panet. In the 1840s he worked mainly at Fort Alexandria and the two outposts of Chilcotin and Fluzcuz, which he helped establish, until September 1849 when he went to Fort St. James to replace the deceased interpreter, Waccan Boucher. He was re-engaged at Fort Colville on August 14, 1852 and died there thirteen years later in 1865.

PS: HBCA YFASA 1-2, 4-5, 7-9, 11-15, 19, 24-32; YFDS 1a-1b, 3a-3b, 4b, 5b-7, 23; FtStJmsLS 1; McLLkRD 1; FtVanASA 2-17; FtAlexPJ 5-8; FtAlexAB 1; FtVicDS 1; FtVicASA 9-14; BCA PJ FtStJmsA 1

Lapierre, Jean Baptiste [b] (c. 1813 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Terrebonne, Lower Canada - c. 1813

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1832 - 1833); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1833 - 1838); Middleman on Montreal Pay List, Columbia Department (1838).

Jean Baptiste Lapierre [b] joined the HBC from Terrebonne, in 1832. After arriving at Fort Vancouver, his first assignment was Fort Simpson [Nass] where he was in on the building of the second site. On December 2, 1835 he injured his head and chest in a twenty foot [6.1 m] fall from the eaves of the Big House; however, two days later, he recovered sufficiently to return to work doing a variety of jobs such as making shingles. He continued his work at the Fort until the end of his contract in March, 1838 at which time he returned to Montreal.

PS: HBCA YFASA 12-15, 17-18; YFDS 5a-7; FtSimp[N]PJ 3; FtVanASA 3-5

Lapierre, Joseph [1] [variation: Joe La Pierre] (fl. 1810 - 1814) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly in or near Faubourg St. Joseph, Lower Canada (born to François Lapierre)

Fur trade employee

PFC Passenger, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (1812 - 1814); Middleman, Brigade to Fort William (1814).

Joseph Lapierre signed a contract on June 5, 1810 with Alexander McKay for work as a middleman for five years in Indian Country. He made his way from the Montreal area in a canoe brigade to New York where he boarded the PFC vessel Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn], departing September 6, 1810. On February 10, 1811, when they were in sight of Hawaii, Lapierre fell overboard. Unable to swim, he was in the water thirty-eight minutes and brought on board in an unconscious state. He was revived by others who rolled his body in blankets and rubbed him with salt. One month later, on March 22, 1811, he arrived at the mouth of the Columbia where he helped to construct Fort Astoria as well as the small shallop, Dolly. After sailing with the Dolly on its maiden voyage he stayed with it doing a variety of tasks when he wasn't hunting beaver. In 1812, he may have been part of a group sent out to retrieve Donald McKenzie's cache left near the junction of the Clearwater and Snake Rivers. By March, 1813, he was working in the blacksmith's shop but shortly after suffered from several months of venereal disease. He didn't join the NWC and on April 4, 1814, he joined the ten canoe brigade to Fort William and Montreal.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; RosL-Ph Astoria; HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: ChSoc LVX, p. 48; A. Ross, Adventures, p. 28-29

Lapierre, Joseph [2] (fl. 1809 - 1812) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly St. Sulpice, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Woodworker, Pacific slopes (1812 - ?); Carpenter, Pacific slopes (1812 - ?).

Joseph Lapierre [2] may have first joined the NWC on May 11, 1809 to work in Elizabeth town, Upper Canada. On September 14, 1812, he signed on with the NWC as a woodworker and carpenter or work on the Northwest Coast or Columbia but may never have made it as he appears on no further record.

PS: SHdeSB Liste

Lapierre, Joseph [3] (fl. 1827 - 1833) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Montreal, Lower Canada

Death: possibly East of the Rocky Mountains

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1827 - 1828); Cook, Fort Vancouver (1827 - 1828); Servant, Fort Vancouver (1827 - 1828); Middleman, Fort Colville (1828 - 1830); Carpenter, Fort Colville (1828 - 1830); Carpenter, Fort Colville (1830 - 1832); Miller, Fort Colville (1830 - 1832); Cooper, Fort Colville (1830 - 1832).

Joseph Lapierre, from Montreal, sometimes called 'Old Stone', joined the HBC on or before 1827 and came west with the returning Express that fall. He did a large variety of jobs; for example, in 1827-1828, at Fort Vancouver he worked as a cook and servant and later, constructed a windmill at Fort Colville. At Fort Vancouver he drove an oxen team called Lion and Brandy. According to Thomas McKay's son, William, Lapierre used to carry casks of water twice daily to the first site of Fort Vancouver when it was built on the bluffs before it was moved to the banks of the river. On September 16, 1832, he returned east of the Rockies leaving a wife and daughter behind.

Joseph Lapierre and wife Susanne Okanogan together had a daughter Josephte (1831-?). After Joseph returned to Canada, Susanne had children by Jacques Iroquois; later she married Pierre Delard.

PS: HBCA FtVanAB 10; YFASA 7-9, 11-12; YFDS 2b-3b, 4b-5a; FtVanAB 19; FtVanASA 2 PPS: CCR 1a; E. Ermatinger, p. 105

Lapierre (Brilliant), Louis (fl. 1826 - 1834) (Undetermined origin)

Birth: possibly East of the Rocky Mountains

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1834).

Louis Lapierre (Brilliant) worked for the HBC spending his entire career in the Columbia at Fort Vancouver. On October 1, 1834, he left the Columbia to return east of the Rockies.

PS: HBCA YFASA 6-9, 11-14; YFDS 2a, 3b, 4b-5c; FtVanASA 1-2

Laplante, Xavier (fl. 1844 - 1847) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1844 - 1846).

Native Xavier Laplante appeared in the Columbia in outfit 1844-1845 on a contract which ended in 1847.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-25

Laprade, Alexis [variation: La Prade, Laprate] (c. 1796 - 1871) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Berthier, Lower Canada - c. 1796 (born to Louis Laprade and Angelique Matte)

Death: St. Louis, Oregon - January 1871

Fur trade employee

NWC Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (winter 1813 - 1814); HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822); Middleman, Thompson River/Okanagan (1822 - 1823); Middleman, Columbia Department (1823 - 1826); Middleman and route, Thompson River (1826 - 1828); Route, Thompson River (1828 - 1835); Interpreter, Thompson River (1835 - 1836); Post master, Thompson River (1837 - 1838); Route, Thompson River (1837 - 1838); Route, Thompson River (1838 - 1840); Interpreter, Thompson River (1838 - 1840); Trader, Thompson River (1838 - 1840); Route, Thompson River (1840 - 1842); Interpreter, Thompson River (1840 - 1842); Settler, Willamette (1842 - 1843).

At the age of seventeen, Alexis La Prade joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray] in Montreal on March 17, 1813 and eventually became a Willamette settler around the age of forty-six. According to an 1827 Thompson River report by Archibald McDonald, La Prade, who worked with the Brigade, was "an obedient good man" and in 1833-1834, he had some association with botanist David Douglas who returned to the area. He was a trusted member of the Kamloops post and assumed responsibility when necessary. For example, on February 8, 1841, La Prade was in the cellar under the Hall flooring of the Thompson River post when Samuel Black was shot in revenge by a local native. La Prade immediately sprang into action and took charge of the affairs of the Fort. In 1842, he settled in Marion County in the Willamette Valley and the following year, still loyal to the HBC, voted against the establishment of a Provisional Government. He died at the age of seventy-five in St. Louis parish, Oregon.

Alexis Laprade appears to have had three wives and eight recorded children. In 1827 he had an unnamed wife and no children at Thompson River. Her fate is unknown. On July 18, 1842, he formalized his marriage to Nancy/Anne Pion (c.1824-1847), daughter of William Pion (c.1816-?) and Charlotte Okanagan (?-?). Although Nancy/Anne claimed she was eighteen at the time, she may have been much younger. Together they had four children, Rosalie (c.1838-?), Alexis (1842-?), Charlotte (1843-?) and Jean (1847-?). Nancy, whom the priests married as Nancy and buried as Anne, died of the measles on December 23, 1847 and was buried the following day. One month later, on January 31, 1848, after special dispensation, Laprade married Louise, Okanagan. Together they had Marie Ann (?-?), Thomas (1850-1851), Angelique (1857-?) and Rose (1860).

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 9, 10; HBCA YFASA 1-9, 11-15, 19-20, 24; FtKamPJ 1, 2; YFDS 2a, 3a-3b, 4b-11; FtVanASA 1-7; FtVanCB 27; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion County PPS: CCR 2a, 2b, 3a, 3b SS: Holman, p. 116.
See Also: Pion, William (Father-in-Law)

Larance, Bazil (c. 1799 - ?) (Undetermined origin)

Birth: possibly Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1799

Death: probably Red River Settlement [Manitoba]

Fur trade employee

HBC Steersman, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1827).

Bazil Larance, whom Colin Robinson thought a "good man with a strict master" (HBCABio), joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray] from Montreal, on April 1, 1815 starting as a middleman. Between 1815-1826, he worked in the Northwest, the Montreal District, Peace River, and Fort Wedderburn [Fort Chipewyan]. He put in a brief appearance in the Columbia in outfit 1826-1827 as a steersman. After he left the Columbia, he worked at a variety of forts east of the Rockies before retiring to the Red River Settlement on June 1, 1847. (A Bazil Larance, probably another B.L., worked many years east of the Rockies after that.)

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 6; YFDS 2a; HBCA HBCABio

Larance, Supplie [variation: Suplie] (c. 1808 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lavaltrie, Lower Canada - c. 1808

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1831 - 1845); Boatbuilder, New Caledonia (1845 - 1850); Boatbuilder, Fort Colville (1850 - 1851).

Supplie/Tuplie (Tupplie) Larance joined the HBC from Lavaltrie in 1831 and spent much of his career in the New Caledonia area as a boat builder. In 1851 he was discharged and appeared to carry on transactions with the Company until 1853.

PS: HBCA YFASA 9, 12-15, 19-20, 24-32; YFDS 4b-7, 17-18; FtVanASA 3-9; YFDS 19; FtAlexPJ 8

Larance, Theodore (c. 1811 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably in or near Montreal or Lavaltrie, Lower Canada - c. 1811

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1832 - 1835); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1835 - 1836); Middleman, New Caledonia (1836 - 1842); Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1845 - 1846); Middleman, Fort Vancouver depot (1846 - 1847); Middleman, Columbia Department (1847 - 1848); Middleman, Snake Country (1848 - 1851); Labourer, Fort Nez Perces (1853 - 1854); Labourer, Snake Country (1854).

Theodore Larance joined the HBC from Montreal in 1832 and worked, in the New Caledonia area until the end of his contract in 1842 when he returned to Canada. He was re-engaged and his contract ended in 1854 at which point he retired.

PS: HBCA YFASA 12-15, 19-21, 25-32; YFDS 5a-5c; FtVanASA 3-7, 9-11

Larente, Izidore (fl. 1828 - 1831) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Brigade member, Columbia Department (1828 - 1829); Summerman, Columbia Department (1829 - 1831).

Izidore Larente appears in the Columbia briefly as a Brigade member in 1828-1829.

PS: HBCA YFASA 8-10

Larison, John [variation: Larrison, Larisson] (1794 - 1860) (American)

Birth: Ohio area - 1794 (born to John Larison and Nancy Galaspa)

Death: probably St. Louis, Oregon - April 1860

Free trader

RMFC Labourer, Lapwai Mission (1839 - 1841).

John Larison was a long time fur trader/mountain man east and west of the Rockies and led trapping groups which included Joseph Meek. He was good friends with Robert Newell. In 1839 at the age of forty-five, Larison went with William Craig to the Lapwai mission area. He did a variety of jobs at the mission, left for the Willamette in March 1841 but was back in the fall. He returned to the Willamette and settled at the mouth of the Yamhill River, married and raised a family.

John Larison had one wife and four recorded children. On July 1, 1842 at the parish of St. Paul in the Willamette, he married Reinette/Renee/Helene Perrault (?-?) daughter of Jean Baptiste Perrault. Their children were Marie Anne (1843-1859), Hubert (1853-?), Ellen (1856-?), and Thomas (1859-1862).

PPS: CCR 2a, 2b, 3a; Drury, The Diaries and Letters, p. 24, 309, 323 SS: Tobie, p. 356-57
See Also: Newell, Robert; Perrault, Jean Baptiste (Father-in-Law)

Larocque, Joseph Sebastien (c. 1802 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably in or near Rigaud or Vaudreuil, Lower Canada - c. 1802

Death: probably Willamette Valley, Oregon

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1826 - 1827); Middleman, New Caledonia (1827 - 1829); Cook, New Caledonia (1827 - 1829); NWC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1831); Middleman, Snake Party (1831 - 1833); Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1833 - 1834); HBC Untraced vocation, South Party (1834 - 1835); Middleman, Snake Party (1835 - 1836); Middleman, Snake Party (1836 - 1837); Trapper, Snake Party (1836 - 1837); Untraced vocation, Snake Party (1837 - 1844); Middleman, Snake Country (1844 - 1846); Settler, Willamette (1846+).

Joseph Sebastien Larocque became a twenty-seven year employee of the fur trade. On December 27, 1819, he joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] in Rigaud to work as a middleman for three years in the Northwest. Two years later, he joined the HBC in Vaudreuil when the two companies amalgamated in 1821 and between 1821-1825, he worked in the Athabasca and Lesser Slave Lake area before coming to the Pacific slopes. In New Caledonia he worked as a servant. After New Caledonia he worked at a variety of locations, but mainly in the Snake Country. As his contract ended in 1845, he worked until July 31, 1846 at which point he settled in the Willamette.

Joseph Sebastien Larocque had one recorded wife and children. On May 20, 1845 at St. Paul, Oregon, he formalized his marriage to Marie Anne, Flathead (Cayuse) (c.1818-?). Their recorded children were Marie (?-?), Angelique (?-?), Olivier (c.1843-?), Basile (1847-?), Genevieve (1849-1851) and Pierre (1852-?).

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA YFASA 6-9, 11-15, 20, 24-26; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-8; YFDS 2b-7, 17; HBCABio PPS: CCR 2a, 3a

Laroque, Joseph Felix [variation: Larocque, La Rocque] (c. 1787 - 1866) (Canadian: French)

Birth: Province of Canada - c. 1787

Death: Ottawa [Bytown], Ontario - December 1866

Fur trade employee

NWC In charge, Thompson River (1812 - 1813); Clerk, Fort George [Astoria] (1813); Clerk, Fraser Lake (1813); Clerk, Fort George [Astoria] (1814 - ?).

In 1801 Joseph Laroque joined the the XY Company and by 1804 became a clerk in the NWC. In December 1812, he was at the post on the Thompson River [Kamloops], constructed in opposition to the PFC post right next door. In April 1813, he, along with nineteen others under John George McTavish travelled to the PFC's Fort Astoria and camped within cannon range of the post, waiting for Isaac Todd to arrive (ChSoc XLV, p. 118-19). In August 1813, during the negotiations for, but prior to the surrender of, Fort Astoria, Laroque and some of Mr. John Stuart's men, originally bound for Fort William, changed plans upon hearing about NWC plans to purchase the PFC, made a circuitous route north to New Caledonia via Red Deer River, Lesser Slave Lake and Dunvegan arriving at Stuart Lake on November 7, 1813 (Cox, p. 109; Harmon, p. 199). In October 1814, Daniel Harmon sent him and the employees to Fraser Lake to re-open that post and after that he headed south on the Brigade route back to Astoria. From 1817-1819 he travelled back and forth over the Rockies leading groups to, and wintering in the Columbia. It was around this time that he was made a partner in the NWC and, at amalgamation, Chief Trader. After leaving the Pacific slopes he continued working east of the Rockies until 1830 at which point he resigned. In 1833, he married Archange Guillon (?-1863). From 1837 to 1851, he lived in France and returned a wealthy man to Montreal. He then spent several years at Montreal and in 1857, went to spend his last years with the Grey Nuns in Ottawa. Upon his death, his money was disbursed, the St. Joseph's College at St. Paul, being a beneficiary (CCR 2, A-56).

(The above Joseph Felix Laroque should not be confused with his nephew, Joseph Felix Laroque who was in the Cowlitz and French Valley areas from the 1840s onward.)

PS: HBCA NWCAB 2, 3 PPS: ChSoc XLV, p. 118-19; Harmon, A Journal of Voyages, p. 199, 204-206; A. Ross, Adventures, p. 206 PPS: CCR 2a SS: ChSoc XXII, p. 460; McDougall, p. 171, 172, 178, 183; Québécois in Orégon, p. 270

Larose, Isidore (fl. 1849 - 1853) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1849 - 1850); Middleman, Fort Alexandria (1850 - 1851); Middleman, New Caledonia (1850 - 1852); Middleman, Fort Colville (1852 - 1853); Labourer, Fort Colville (1853).

Isidore Larose joined the HBC in Canada in 1849 on a three year contract. He retired in 1853.

PS: HBCA YFASA 29-32; FtVanASA 9-10; BCA FtAlex

Larpenteur, Charles (fl. 1807 - 1872) (French and American)

Birth: Fontainebleau, France - May 1807

Death: Iowa, United States - November 1872

Free trader

S & C Trapper, Rendezvous (1833).

Charles Larpenteur spent only a fraction of a forty year fur trade career on the Pacific slopes. Because Larpenteur's father became uncomfortable in France after the defeat of Napoleon Bonaparte, he took his family to America in 1818. The family settled on a farm near Baltimore and when Charles was twenty-one he left for St. Louis. In 1833 he left St. Louis with a group of forty men under Robert Campbell for the Green River Rendezvous. This Rendezvous was memorable for Larpenteur in that his friend, George Holmes was bitten by a rabid wolf and died a horrible death. As well, Larpenteur had to take over the duties of an intoxicated clerk. After leaving the Rendezvous, Larpenteur spent the rest of his career east of the Continental Divide and eventually settled in Iowa with the remnants of a family from two successive wives. He had outlived most of his children and died in poverty.

Manuscript: Charles Larpenteur's manuscript narrative lies in the Minnesota Historical Society Library in St. Paul, Minnesota. It was edited by Elliot Coues and published in 1898 in New York and again in 1933 under the editing of Quaife.

PPS: Larpenteur SS: DAB Ghent; Pfaller, "Charles Larpenteur", p. 159-175

Larrett, Henry (fl. 1833) (British: English)

Birth: probably Gloucestershire, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1833).

Henry Larrett joined the HBC in London on April 23, 1833 for three years. On May 4, he sailed to the Columbia River on a long arduous voyage, and back again to London on May 28, 1835.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Nereide 1

Larsen, Martin (fl. 1859 - 1860) (probably Norwegian)

Birth: probably Norway

Fur trade employee

HBC Blacksmith, Fort Simpson (1856 - 1857); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1859 - 1860).

Martin Larsen may have been a Norwegian who made his way to the Northwest Coast, possibly on the Colinda. He temporarily left Fort Simpson in February 1856 to replace Ole Engebretson and may have held the position as blacksmith. He was first on records as a Night School pupil of missionary William Duncan unable to write English but likely literate in his own language. Whatever his job, he worked until 1860, and his account showed movement for the next two years so he may have remained in the area.

The name of his wife and child (?-1858) have not been traced.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 7-9; FtSimp[N]PJ 8; UBC-SC Duncan

Larson, Ole [variation: Larsern] (fl. 1853 - 1860) (Norwegian)

Birth: probably Norway

Death: probably Victoria, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer passenger, Colinda (barque) (1853 - 1854); Labourer, Beaver (steamer) (1854 - 1855); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1855 - 1856); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1856 - 1859); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1859 - 1860).

Ole Larson probably came to the coast on the the HBC chartered vessel, Colinda, arriving April 17, 1854 on a five year contract. After spending most of his time at Fort Simpson, he left for Victoria in retirement on October 10, 1860.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1, 3-9; BCA FtSimp[N]PJ 1

Larson, Peter [variation: Larsen] (fl. 1853 - 1859) (Norwegian)

Birth: probably Norway

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Colinda (barque) (1853 - 1854); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1854 - 1856); Labourer, Fort Rupert (1856 - 1857); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1857 - 1859).

Peter Larsen was one of eighteen remaining Norwegians who eventually made it to the coast on the HBC chartered vessel, Colinda. He disappeared from record around 1860.

PS: HBC log of Colinda 1; FtVicASA 1-7, 9

Lasserte, Guillaume [variation: William Lacerte] (c. 1822 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1822

Death: possibly Nicola Valley, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Stikine (1840 - 1842); Middleman, Columbia Department (1842 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1843 - 1844).

William Lasserte joined the HBC in 1839 and, after making his way over the Rockies, was sent to Fort Stikine where he became involved in the murder of John McLoughlin Jr. At first, Lasserte carried on competently at the fort without a hint of trouble. For example, the fort's first manager, William Glenn Rae, wrote that he was "a smart lad" (FtStikPJ 1, fo. 2) and, rarely appearing thereon after, on June 21, he stopped a native trying to break into the trade shop and, on June 30, Lasserte was noted as having fired shots in the air to keep the local natives from stealing the firewood. The Montrealer likely led a sedentary life for some time during the next two years; he took a wife, most probably a local native woman. Lasserte's exact role in the breakdown in discipline, the frequent floggings (he also being a recipient) and free flowing alcohol of the spring of 1842 cannot be determined although he was accused of being drunk on a daily basis before the murder. However, by the night of April 20, 1842, in an apparent act of self preservation, he was fully involved in a plot to kill McLoughlin. He narrowly missed being killed himself as he was once mistakenly targeted by Pierre Kanaguasse as McLoughlin. Early in the morning of April 21, McLoughlin was very intoxicated and went for his rifle, and both Lasserte and Heroux went for theirs. Both men secreted themselves within the fort. Failing to find them, McLoughlin rushed into the centre area yelling "Fire! Fire!" in a effort to flush them out and have the men he had called to arms shoot Heroux. Four shots, one being fired by Lasserte, rang out, the fatal one being made by Heroux from Fleury's house. The fatal bullet entered young McLoughlin's shoulder blades and exited his throat. William Lasserte's role in the murder, then, was that of complicity and attempted murder. William/Guillaume Lasserte was put in semi-confinement in various forts along the coast and was sent by Dr. John McLoughlin from Fort Vancouver along with the others implicated in the murder to York Factory in 1844. It appears to that William Lasserte returned to the British Columbia area for in 1849 he appears to have been working at Fort St. James and, in 1881 a sixty-one year old William "Lacerte" was found living in the Nicola-Okanagan area with his family.

The family records of William Lacerte are unclear, but on September 27, 1868, he married Marie Smltsitwh (?-?) at the Okanagan Mission and in 1881, he was living with Louisa (c.1846-?) together with two children, Julian (c.1869-?) and François (c.1869-?), most likely the son of Louisa from another marriage.

PS: HBCA YFASA 19-20, 23; FtVanASA 6-8; FtStikPJ 1; FtVanCB 29, 30, 31; FtAlexPJ 8; BCA BCGR-Marriage; Van-PL 1881 Canada Census, Yale District, Nicola-Okanagan sub-district

Latendre, Joseph [a] [variation: Letendre] (c. 1797/1800 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Sorel, Lower Canada - c. 1800

Death: probably East of the Rocky Mountains

Fur trade employee

HBC Bowsman, New Caledonia (1826 - 1839); Labourer, Fort McLeod (Summer 1829); Bowsman, New Caledonia (1829 - 1833); Fisherman, New Caledonia (1833 - 1834); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1834 - 1835); Fisherman, New Caledonia (1835 - 1837); Middleman, New Caledonia (1837 - 1839); Fisherman, New Caledonia (1837 - 1839).

Joseph Latendre (a) joined the fur trade around 1815 from Sorel and appears to have spent his entire career on the Pacific slopes in the New Caledonia area. He spent the summer with John Tod at McLeod Lake in the summer of 1829. Latendre may have left at the end of his contract in 1839. He was most likely the same Joseph Letendre, from Sorel, who signed a contract in 1840 to work as a middleman and in 1843 to work as a fisherman either in Athabasca or English River. He continued contracts until 1864.

PS: HBCA YFASA 6-9, 11-15; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-5; YFDS 2a-7; HBCCont PPS: HBRS X, p. 18

Latour, Francois [standard: François] (fl. 1813 - 1814) (possibly Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Terrebonne, Lower Canada

Death: probably Upper Canada or Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

PFC Middleman, French Prairie [Willamette] (1813 - 1814); Steersman, Brigade to Fort William (1814).

François Latour joined the NWC at Fort William in 1813 on a three year contract, and wintered in Willamette post in 1813-1814 probably as a member of the cross-country brigade. He joined the Fort William and Montreal brigade at Fort Astoria for its eastward voyage on April 4, 1814 and did not appear to return to the Pacific slopes. A François Latour, from Terrebonne, who contracted with Angus McIntosh on August 25, 1814 to work at Sandwich [Windsor, Ontario] and Lake Ontario as a middleman may be the same François.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10; SHdeSB Liste PPS: Coues, p. 875

Latour (Ballard), Louis [variation: Lewis Balland] (c. 1813 - 1857) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Sorel, Lower Canada - c. 1813 or February 1807

Death: Pierce County, Washington Territory - April 1857

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1833 - 1834); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1834 - 1838); Middleman, Fort Nisqually (1838 - 1839); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Nisqually (1840 - 1847); Settler, Cowlitz (1847+).

Louis Latour joined the HBC from Sorel in 1833 and spent his twelve year career in the Columbia at mainly two coastal forts. He appears frequently in the surviving Fort Nisqually journals doing a variety of tasks involving mainly carpentry. He worked until February 17, 1847 at which point he left to settle on his claim in Lewis Co. where he was listed in the 1850 census. On February 18, 1853, he was reengaged at Fort Nisqually for an undetermined length of time to work with the cattle; that same year he was given a warning from PSAC that he was squatting on their land. In April, 1857, he died while living on his Pierce Co. claim. His widow then moved to Steilacoom.

Louis Latour had two wives and six children. He had, by an unnamed woman, daughters Eunic (c.1832-?) and Helene (c.1835-?) who was baptised in 1838 near the Cowlitz River. On September 10, 1839 at Fort Nisqually, he formally married Betsy, Nisqually (c.1822-?). Their children were Agnes (c.1840-?), Ellen (c.1845-?), Louis (c.1849-?) and Francis (?-?).

PS: HBCA FtSimp[N]PJ 3; YFASA 13-15, 17-28; YFDS 5b-7, 18; FtVanASA 3-8; HBCABio; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Lewis County; Tac-L Huggins, Tacoma Weekly Ledger, March 4, 1892, p. 4 PPS: Dickey; CCR 1a, 1b; Washington Territory Donation Land Claims, p. 115

Latrielle, Alexander [variation: Alexandre] (fl. 1847 - 1858) (Canadian: French)

Birth: Trois Rivières, Lower Canada (born to Antoine Latreille and Marguerite Gauthier)

Death: possibly Fort Langley, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Deroineur, HBC (1844); Steersman, New Caledonia (1847 - 1848); Boule, New Caledonia (1848 - 1849); Bowsmen, New Caledonia (1849 - 1850); Boule, New Caledonia (1850 - 1851); Boule, Fort Langley (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Fort Langley (1852 - 1853); Boule, Fort Langley (1853 - 1854); Labourer, Fort Langley (1854 - 1858).

Alexander Latrielle contracted with the HBC on August 14, 1844 as a courier de derouine between Lachine and Trois Rivières. He then appeared in New Caledonia in 1847 as a steersman, a job which he held there for fourteen years before moving to Fort Langley.

Alexander had one, possibly two, recorded wives and possibly two children. Marguerite (?-?), Kwantlan was baptised on July 21, 1856 and married the same day to Alexander. Their recorded son was Alexandre (1856-?). The mother of daughter Emilia (?-bap.1853-?) was a native of the "Masquillon" tribe.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 27-32; FtVicASA 1-6; FtVicCB 12; BCA BCCR-StAndC

Latrielle, Antoine [variation: Latreille] (fl. 1810 - 1814) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Cap-de-la-Madeleine, Province of Quebec

Fur trade employee

NWC Steersman, Thompson River (winter 1813 - 1814).

Because Antoine Latrielle was a steersman when he was contracted with the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co] on January 15, 1811 to work out of Fort William, he may have already worked in the fur trade for some time. He was probably a member of the brigade working out of Fort William and spent the 1813-1814 winter at the Thompson River fort. As he was to be free in Montreal in 1814, he may have returned to that city in that year.

Lattey, Alexander [variation: Alexandre Lattie] (1802 - 1849) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Scotland - May 1802 (born to John Lattie and Helen Clark)

Death: Columbia River, Pacific Northwest - September 1849

Maritime officer

HBC Seaman, Ganymede (barque) (1830 - 1831); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1831); Boatswain, Lama (brig) (1832 - 1833); Boatswain, Fort Simpson naval service (1833 - 1834); 2nd mate, Fort Simpson naval service (1833 - 1834); 2nd mate, Lama (brig) (1834 - 1836); 2nd mate, Beaver (steamer) (1836 - 1837); 2nd mate, Nereide (barque) (1837 - 1838); 1st mate, Nereide (barque) (1838 - 1839); 1st mate, Vancouver (barque) (1839); 1st mate, Columbia (barque) (1840 - 1842); 1st mate, Cadboro (schooner) (1840); 1st mate, Cadboro (schooner) (1842 - 1843); 1st mate, Vancouver (barque) (1843 - 1844); 1st mate, Beaver (steamer) (1844 - 1846); Bar pilot, Fort George [Astoria] (1846 - 1849); Settler, Chinook Store (1846+).

Alexander Lattey joined the HBC in London on November 20, 1830 originally for three years. He arrived in the Pacific Northwest on the barque Ganymede and began his work in coastal shipping on August 13, 1831 and rose through the ranks to become a first mate and eventually a bar pilot. He finally retired on October 31, 1846, settling at Chinook. Most records show that he was drowned September 4, 1849 while crossing the Columbia near the mouth of the Willamette although this record is disputed by church records and the Rolls of Certain Indian Tribes, 1906.

Alexander Lattey had one wife and seven children. Lattey formalized his marriage to Marie Catherine Sikas (Ce-cust, Seaghal, etc), Tillamook, on November 3, 1845, and she outlived him by some twenty years after his death in 1849. Their children were Alexandre (c.1832-before 1868), William (1834-1900), Helene (c.1835-?), Susanne? (1838-?), Marie (c.1841-?), John (1843-1881) and Helene (1850-?).

PS: HBCA HBCCont; HBCA ShMiscPap 7, 14; YFASA 9, 12-15, 17-21, 24-26; YFDS 4b-8, 11, 16; FtVanASA 3-9; log of Columbia 4, 10; HBCA Alexander Lattey search file; BCA BCCR CCCath; HHS Friend, Nov. 1, 1849, p. 72 PPS: CCR 1b, 1c
SS: Lewis & Dryden, p. 16
See Also: Lattie, Alexander Jr. (Son)

Lattie, Alexander Jr. (c. 1832 - c. 1867) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Fort Simpson [Nass], British Columbia - c. 1833 (born to Alexander Lattey and Marie Catherine Sikas)

Death: probably West of the Rockies – before 1868

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice carpenter, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1847); Freeman, Fort George [Astoria] (1847 - 1848); Freeman, Willamette (1847 - 1848).

A thirteen year old Alexander Lattie Jr. followed the footsteps of his father and joined the HBC in 1845 on a seven year contract as an apprentice carpenter at Fort Vancouver. He worked at the fort until September 30, 1847, at which point he went back to his father in Fort George at the mouth of the Columbia River. In outfit 1847-1848 he may also have been in the Willamette. According to Munnick, he died unmarried before 1868.

PS: HBCA YFASA 25-28 PPS: CCR 1b
See Also: Lattey, Alexander (Father)

Latern, Paul (fl. 1853 - 1859) (Norwegian)

Birth: probably Norway

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer passenger, Colinda (barque) (1853 - 1854); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1854 - 1855); Labourer, Fort Rupert (1855 - 1859).

Paul Latern was one of eighteen remaining Norwegians who eventually made it to the coast aboard the HBC chartered vessel, Colinda, on April 17, 1854. He worked with the Company until around 1859.

PS: HBCA log of Colinda 1; FtVicASA 1-6

Laughton, Thomas (fl. 1855 - 1860) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Death: possibly Vancouver Island, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Employee, Fort Victoria (1855 - 1857).

Thomas Laughton may have been a casual employee of the HBC at Fort Victoria. In 1860, he lived on Morel Street, Victoria, B.C. and he also held land in the Metchosin District.

It appears he had a wife and child. His wife, an unnamed native, perhaps a Songhees, bore him James Alda (?-bap.1858-?).

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 3-4; BCA BCCR StAndC; 1860 Victoria Directory, p. 32, p. 68

Launge, Jacques [variation: J. S. Lorange] (fl. 1826 - 1834) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Freeman

HBC Freeman trapper, Snake Party (1826 - 1830); Freeman trapper, Columbia District (1831 - 1834).

By 1826, Jacques Launge was a freeman trapper working for the Americans in the Snake Country. He must have been dissatisfied with the higher paying Americans as, on April 11, 1826, he joined the HBC Peter S. Ogden's party. The strains of deprivation and hardship began to show eight months later on December 29th, 1826, after a rather gloomy day of trying to get food and water, they wanted to turn back as they were tired of deprivations. Launge carried on with his family in the Snake Country as a freeman with John Work who noted on March 21, 1832, that "A child of J. S. Lorange's, six weeks old who has been sick for some time died" (SnkCoPj 11). Launge, Louis Pichette, Michel Plante and Augustin Dumais attempted to take a hide canoe down the Salmon River but Plant and Dumais were drowned and all their possessions lost. Launge has not been traced after that.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 1; YFASA 8-9, 11-13; YFDS 3b; SnkCoPj 4, 11, B.202/a/11 PPS: HBRS XXIII, p. 48-49

Laurent, Francois [standard: François] (fl. 1812 - 1823) (Native: Iroquois or possibly Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly Riviere du Loup, Lower Canada

Death: probably East of the Rocky Mountains

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1812 - 1821); HBC Boute, Fort George [Astoria] (1821 - 1823); Boute, Okanagan (1821 - 1823); Boute, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1821 - 1823).

François Laurent first signed on with the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.], possibly in the Montreal area on December 29, 1810, to work for three years on the Northwest Coast and signed on again in 1812 with the NWC to work for three more years, more specifically in the Columbia. As records are largely missing, he may have continued on, possibly at Fort George, and is on record as having transferred from the NWC to the HBC in 1821 in the Columbia District. In the spring of 1823 in the Bitterroot Valley, he deserted to Red River and at that time, Ross referred to him as an Iroquois.

No record of his family in the Columbia has been found.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 9; YFASA 1-2; FtGeo[Ast]AB 10 PPS: A. Ross, The Fur Hunters, p. 215

Laurent, Isadore (fl. 1830) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Goer and comer, Columbia Department (1830).

Isadore Laurent was possibly a member of the Cross Country Brigade.

PS: HBCA FtVanAB 26

Lavalle, Andre [standard: André Lavallé] [variation: La Valle] (fl. 1818 - 1821) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Sorel, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Middleman, Pacific slopes (1818 - 1820); Middleman, New Caledonia (1820).

André Lavalle joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray] on September 26, 1817 for two years as a wintering middleman. The following year, he crossed the Rockies onto the Pacific slopes with a small NWC group headed by Angus Bethune and James McMillan. During his time west of the Rockies, he probably worked in New Caledonia and, around 1821, returned to Montreal.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; NWCAB 2, 6, 7; FtGeo[Ast]AB 1

Lavalle, Louis [1] [standard: Lavallé] (fl. 1813 - 1814) (probably Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Death: possibly West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

PFC Steersman, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (1810 - 1812); NWC Steersman, Flathead Post [Fort Connah, Saleesh

House] (1813 - 1814).

Louis Lavalle joined Wilson Price Hunt's PFC Overland Expedition at St. Louis around September 21, 1810. He crossed the Continental Divide with the main party in late summer, 1811, and was in Fort Astoria by February 17, 1812. After the takeover of the assets of the PFC in the Columbia, he joined the North West Company on October 16, 1813, spending the winter of 1813-1814 at Flathead post. He left Fort George [Astoria] on April 4, 1814 for Montreal where his contract was to end. He likely returned to the area to continue trapping, appearing on later records as Louis Lavalle [b] or Sr. (see Louis Lavalle [b]).

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10; HBCA NWCAB 10 SS: K. W. Porter, Roll of Overland, p. 109
See Also: Lavalle, Louis [2] (possible Son)

Lavalle, Louis [2] [standard: Lavallé] (fl. 1813 - 1816) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Sorel, Lower Canada (born to Louis Lavalle)

Death: possibly East of the Rocky Mountains

Fur trade employee

NWC Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (winter 1813 - 1814).

Louis Lavalle, (and possibly the son of Louis Lavalle), appears to have first joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] on December 29, 1810 to work at Fort William. Probably a member of the Cross Country Brigade out of the Lakehead post, he spent the winter of 1813-1814 at Fort George [Astoria]. A January 4, 1814 contract, possibly signed while he was at Astoria, had him working a further two years out of Fort William.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 10
See Also: Lavalle, Louis [1] (possible Father)

Lavalle, Louis [b] [standard: Lavallé] (c. 1786 - 1828) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Sorel, Lower Canada - c. 1786

Death: Snake Country, Pacific Northwest - May 1828

Freeman

HBC Boule, Columbia Department (1821 - 1824); Freeman trapper, Snake Party (1824 - 1825); Bowsman, Columbia Department (1826); Freeman trapper, Snake Party (1827 - 1828); Freeman trapper, Columbia Department (1828).

Originally a NWC/PFC employee, (he possibly joined on September 17, 1812 possibly in Montreal), Louis Lavalle had a lengthy career in the fur trade before he joined the HBC as a boule at the time of coalition. From 1826 he worked as a freeman and, two years later, the "industrious and first rate trapper", (SnkCoPJ 7, fo. 79-79d) was killed by Black Feet Indians within half a mile [0.8 km] from Ogden's camp. He was stripped naked and was probably about to be scalped when nearby trappers arrived on the scene. He was buried some fifteen/eighteen miles [24.1/28 km] upstream from the mouth of Blackfoot River and the stolen horses were recovered. His wife and three children were left destitute but were given his supplies later.

Louis Laval had sons Martial (c.1818-?) and Pierre (c.1821-1844) by Thérèse Spokane, who later married Pierre Grenier and Joseph Cournolle.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 9; HBCA YFASA 1-5, 8-9; FtVanASA 1; FtGeo[Ast]AB 10; SnkCoPJ 2, 7, fo. 79-79d
PPS: CCR 1a, 1b

Lavalle, Martial [standard: Lavallé] [variation: Lavallée] (c. 1814 - ?) (probably Mixed descent)

Fur trade employee

HBC Native apprentice, Fort Nez Percés (1829 - 1836); Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1836 - 1837); Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1837 - 1838); Interpreter, Fort Nez Percés (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1838 - 1839); Middleman, Cowlitz Farm (1839 - 1840); Middleman, South Party (1840 - 1841); Settler, Willamette (1841 - 1842); Middleman, South Party (1842 - 1844); Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1847 - 1848); Interpreter, Fort Nez Percés (1847 - 1848).

Martial Lavalle joined the HBC as a native apprentice around 1829 and worked largely around Fort Nez Percés. He became a settler in 1841-1842 and then re-entered the Company under contract. He eventually retired in 1848.

PS: HBCA YFASA 9, 11-15, 19-21, 27-29; FtVanASA 2-8; YFDS 4b-7

Lavalle, Pierre [a] [standard: Lavallé] (fl. 1821 - 1825) (probably Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly St. Francois, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

HBC Steersman, New Caledonia (1821 - 1824).

Pierre Lavalley [a] worked for the HBC in New Caledonia and in 1825 returned to Montreal.

PS: HBCA YFASA 1-2, 4; YFDS 1a

Lavalley, Pierre [variation: Lavallée] (c. 1820 - ?) (probably Mixed descent)

Birth: c. 1820

Death: possibly Willamette Valley, Oregon

Fur trade employee

HBC Native apprentice, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1841); Settler, Willamette (1841 - 1842).

Native apprentice Pierre Lavalley joined the HBC in 1835, and was discharged on August 15, 1840, becoming a settler in the Willamette.

PS: HBCA YFASA 15, 19-20; YFDS 6-7, 11; FtVanASA 3-6

Laverdure, Joseph (Xavier?) [variation: Lavadour] (1791 - 1892) (Undetermined origin)

Death: Oregon Territory, Pacific Northwest

Fur trade employee

HBC Trapper, Umpqua (from 1820s).

Joseph Laverdure is a rather mysterious figure, for, according to an early resident he may have trapped with Alexander Dumont on the South Umpqua and have been known as Xavier. He did not appear on HBC records. (However, a Joseph Laverdure was contracted at Norway House with the Hudson's Bay Company for three years to be served in Athabasca. He may be the same as the above in spite of the distances. Also, a Joseph Lavadner was listed in the Muster Rolls in 1848 in the Cayuse Wars. He was a Private at Fort Wascopam. It was likely the same man.)

Joseph Laverdure had one wife, Lizette Walla Walla (1817-1891), and one recorded child, Ange`lique (1839-?). He and his wife were buried in St. Andrew's Mission Cemetery east of Pendleton.

PS: HBCA HBCCont PPS: CCR 1a; Victor, The Early Indian Wars, p. 512

Lavoie, Jean Baptiste (fl. 1837 - 1838) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1837 - 1838).

Jean Baptiste Lavoie, who likely worked in the Snake Country, does not appear on record in the HBC records other than he deserted at the American Rendezvous sometime around 1837-1838. He may have worked for the American fur trading companies out of St. Louis after that.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 4

Lavoie, Maxime (c. 1820 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Baie de St. Paul, Lower Canada (born to Thomas Lavoie and Julienne Skint)

Death: probably Pacific Northwest

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1841 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Stikine (1843 - 1849); Middleman, Fort Rupert (1849 - 1850); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1850 - 1851); Labourer, Fort Langley (1865 - 1866).

Maxime Lavoie joined the HBC in 1840. For the next eleven years he worked at northern coastal forts until he ended his career working on the steamer Beaver with his discharge at Fort Simpson on February 17, 1851. He worked sporadically for the HBC after that.

Maxime Lavoie had one wife and eight or nine recorded children. On September 20, 1852, he formalized his marriage to Cecile (?-bap. 1851-?), Stikine. Their children were an unidentified boy (?-1849), Helene (?-bap.1849-?), Thomas (1851-?), Justine (?-bap.1852-?), Julienne (?-1854-?), Abraham (?-bap.1857-?) Marie Philomene (?-1860-?), François Xavier (?-bap.1862-?) and Charles (?-bap. 1863-?). A dangerously ill twenty-three year old Abraham Lavoie was baptised on November 14, 1860. He may have been a relative.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 24-32; FtVanASA 6-8; log of Beaver 1; FtRupPJ 1; FtVicASA 1-2; FtVicCB 26; BCA BCCR StAndC

Lawler, Jack (fl. 1834 - 1835) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

CRFTC Passenger, May Dacre (brig) (1834); Member, CRFTC Brigade (1834); Member, HBC Snake Party (1835);

Member, CRFTC Brigade (1835).

Jack Lawler was one of twenty Hawaiians recruited in Hawaii for Nathaniel J. Wyeth's CRFTC in 1834. He and the others arrived in the Columbia River in September and twelve of them set out in a brigade under Captain Joseph Thing for Fort Hall. Starting out, conditions were very difficult with as little as two hours sleep a night and very little to eat. In November, twelve Hawaiians, including Jack, deserted. On March 12, 1835, Wyeth found seven of his runaway Hawaiians, including Jack, at Fort Vancouver. They rejoined Wyeth and returned to Fort Hall later that year.

SS: Beidleman, p. 238

Lawrence, Robert (c. 1831 - ?) (British: English)

Birth: probably London, England - c. 1831

Maritime employee

HBC Apprentice, Cowlitz (barque) (1846 - 1850); Untraced vocation, Cadboro (schooner) (1851 - 1852).

Robert Lawrence joined the HBC in London on September 21, 1846 and made one complete return journey to the coast on the Cowlitz. On the second journey, when the crew was affected by gold fever and most deserted from Honolulu, Lawrence went AWOL on shore but eventually returned, was put in irons, and then released. The apologetic nineteen year old continued with the Cowlitz but, on April 6, 1850, three weeks after his arrival at Fort Victoria, he deserted along with William Dean and Arthur Orbell. He no doubt headed for the California gold fields and, like most, returned empty handed for by June 1851, he was back at Fort Victoria working on the Cadboro. He worked on the Cadboro at least from June 25 to November 1, 1851 and perhaps at Fort Victoria deserted once again on August 10, 1852.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; YFASA 27-28, 31-32; log of Cowlitz 8; YFDS 22; FtVicDS 1; FtVicASA 1

Lawrenceson, William [variation: Lawrenson] (fl. 1848 - 1849) (British: Shetlander)

Birth: probably Walls, Sheland, Orkney, Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Columbia Department general charges (1848 - 1849).

William Lawrenceson joined the HBC from Walls in 1847. He didn't stay long for in March, 1849 he deserted, most likely to the gold fields of California.

PS: HBCA YFASA 28; YFDS 19

Lawson, Peter (fl. 1838 - 1859) (Danish)

Birth: Copenhagen, Denmark

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1838 - 1841); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1840 - 1841); Steward, Beaver (steamer) (1841 - 1843); Steward, Beaver (steamer) (1843 - 1844); Seaman, Beaver (steamer) (1844 - 1845); Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1845 - 1846); Passenger, Princess Royal (barque) (1859).

Peter Lawson joined the HBC on October 29, 1838 in London for four years as a seaman. He sailed to the coast and began his work in coastal shipping on October 2, 1839. Lawson returned to the British Isles in 1846 but may have returned again to the coast. He may have gone back and forth to England for, in March 27, 1859, a Peter Lawson, a Company servant, returned to the British Isles on the Princess Royal. In 1865 a Peter Lawson was found living on San Juan Island but this may be coincidence.

(If Lawson returned to the coast, he had one wife. On June 8, 1865, a licence was issued for the marriage of Peter Lawson and Fanny Derden/Dearden and was married the following day in the Victoria area.)

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 11, 14; YFASA 19-20, 24-25; YFDS 10-11, 14; FtVanASA 6-8; BCA BCGR-VICSMarriageL; BCCR StAndC

Layland, Richard [variation: Leighland] (c. 1809 - ?) (British: English)

Birth: probably England - c. 1809

Death: probably East of the Rocky Mountains

Fur trade employee

HBC Goer and comer, Columbia Department (1829 - 1830).

Richard Layland worked on the overland Express to and from the Saskatchewan. He re-contract in 1836 to work for another three years as a bowsman but did not appear in the Columbia again.

PS: HBCA YFASA 9; YFDS 3; FtVanAB 26; HBCCont

Lazarus, Manuel (? - 1828) (Undetermined origin)

Death: Umpqua River, Oregon Territory - July 1828

Fur trade employee

SJ & S Trapper, Jedediah Smith Southwest Expedition (1826 - 1828).

Manual Lazarus was a trapper on Jedediah Smith's Southwest Expedition of 1826-1828. He first appeared on record at the 1826 Rendezvous and left with Smith in August, heading south, crossing the Colorado River and into California. After a great deal of difficulty with Spanish authorities in California, the expedition headed north. In an area just north of the Umpqua River [Oregon], just after Smith set out to scout out a route to travel, the natives killed all the expedition members in camp, including Lazarus, except one, who managed to escape.

PPS: HBRS X, p. 61 SS: Carter, "Jedediah Smith", p. 97-104

L'Amoureux, Jean Baptiste [variation: Lamoureux] (fl. 1811 - 1814) (Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly southern Louisiana, United States

Death: Columbia River Dalles - August 8 or 9, 1814

Fur trade employee

NWC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1810 - 1811) (with David Thompson); Untraced vocation, Columbia District (1814) (with Ross Cox).

Jean Baptiste Lamoureux, a Creole "from the south" (Ross, p. 21), joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray] from Maskinongé on January 9, 1808. He went with David Thompson and Alexander Henry from the Boggy Hall/White Earth House area to the Rocky Mountains. On September 25, 1811, he was sent down the Columbia from Canoe River to meet Finan McDonald. He left Fort George [Astoria] on August 5, 1814 with the Ross Cox party and, three days later, was posted sentry at their camp at the Dalles. After an Indian attack was perceived, shooting started and Cox's men fired wildly into the dark. One bullet, probably fired by one of Cox's men, entered Lamoureux's left breast and passed through his shoulder. It was only when they realized that Lamoureux was not with them and heard his moans did they find him injured. The next day he died and was buried at the Dalles. A few months later, Cox visited the grave and found it undisturbed.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; OA Thompson Journals PPS: Coues, p. 629, 629n; Belyea, p. 130, 132, 135, 141; Cox, p. 161-62, 172; A. Ross, The Fur Hunters, p. 21

L'Ecuyer, Francois [b] [standard: François] (fl. 1833 - 1836) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1833 - 1836).

François L'Ecuyer [b] joined the HBC in 1833 and went east over the Rockies at the end of his three year contract.

PS: HBCA YFASA 13-16; YFDS 5b-6; FtVanASA 3

L'Etang, Pierre [variation: Letang] (c. 1788 - 1830) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Riviere du Loup or Trois Rivières, Lower Canada - c. 1788

Death: Snake River, Pacific Northwest - September 1830

Fur trade employee

NWC Boatman, Pacific slopes (1818 - 1821); Hunter, Pacific slopes (1818 - 1821); Middleman, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822); HBC Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (1822 - 1823); Middleman, Columbia Department (1823 - 1824); Guide, Columbia Department (1824 - 1826); Untraced vocation, Rocky Mountains (1825); Boute, Fort Nez Percés (1826); Guide for David Douglas, South Party (1826 - 1827); Boute, Fort Colville (1826); Guide, South Party (1827 - 1828); Guide, South Party (1828 - 1830); Trapper, Snake Party (1830).

Pierre L'Etang, who was considered a very able member of the fur trade, was almost twenty-nine when he joined the NWC to work in the Wamontassing area for one year as a middleman. The following year he crossed the Rockies with a NWC group likely as part of the cross-country brigade; he also crossed the mountains the following year. At the time of coalition, he joined the HBC in the Columbia and by 1824 was acting as a guide throughout the Columbia River system. He may have been a guide for botanist David Douglas, from as early as April 1825 when Douglas arrived. In the first week of March, 1827, he had become so sick both he and John Kennedy had to return to Fort Vancouver for recuperation (FtVanPJ 4, fo. 20d). On August 22, 1830, when L'Etang struck out with a Snake Party of 114 men, women and children, 272 horses and mules and 337 beaver traps, it was to be his last. Just one month into the expedition, on September 25, a small trapping party, consisting of L'Etang, Thomas Tewarton, Jean Baptiste Tyeguariche and Louis Kanota's slave, while going to visit their traps, was attacked by a party of thirty Blackfeet no doubt objecting to the Snake Party's incursion into an area they considered their own. The small party had been on foot ascending a steep hill and had not been paying attention when they were attacked. Rather than defend himself, L'Etang tried to run, was shot in the neck, head and body. Kanota's slave, after discharging his gun into a Blackfoot, was killed and scalped. Subsequently, both bodies were stripped of their clothes. Tyeguariche was not seriously wounded and Tawatcon emerged unscathed. Some Cayuse natives from the Snake Party's camp found the body and likely buried it on the spot. At the news of L'Etang's death, McLoughlin lamented the loss of "one of the best men in this department" (ChSoc IV, p. 227).

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 2, 3, 9; YFASA 1-10; YFDS 2a, 3b-4a; FtVanAB 10; FtVanPJ 4; FtVanASA 1-3; SnkCoPJ 9
PPS: D. Douglas, Journal, p. 179; ChSoc IV, p. 227; OHQ vol. LVI: 248-454

L'Hussier, Antoine [variation: Lucien] (c. 1819 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Phillipe, Lower Canada - c. 1819

Death: possibly Pacific Northwest

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1841 - 1842); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1842 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Stikine (1843 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1846); Middleman, Fort Vancouver depot (1846 - 1848).

Antoine L'Hussier (Lucien) joined the HBC from St. Philipe in 1841 and may have stayed in the area after his employment ended.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-9; YFASA 24, 27-30

Le Clair, Francois [standard: François] [variation: Le Clerc] (fl. 1810 - 1812) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

PFC Untraced vocation, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (1810 - 1812); Untraced vocation, Robert Stuart's Expedition (1812).

François Le Clair joined Wilson Price Hunt's Pacific PFC Overland Expedition likely at Saint Louis on or around September 26, 1810. He crossed the Continental Divide in late summer, 1811 and reached Fort Astoria by February 19, 1812. On July 31, 1812, Le Clair set out from Walla Walla with Robert Stuart, Benjamin Jones, André Vallar, Ramsay Crooks and Robert McLellan for St. Louis. On the journey back they were attacked and their horses stolen. At the Green River, on October 12, both Crooks and McLellan were unwell and fatigued and none of the group had anything to eat for three days. Le Clair suggested that "lots should be cast to see which should be killed for the salvation of the rest. The fellow was so persistent that Stuart was obliged to threaten his life if he did not desist" (Chittenden, p. 210). The next day, the group managed to kill an old buffalo bull and so the reason for Le Clair's suggestion of cannibalism was removed. His name, however, became stigmatized within the fur trade.

PPS: K. W. Porter, Roll of Overland, p. 109; A. Ross, Adventures, p. 199; ChSoc LVII, p. 717 SS: Chittenden, p. 210

Le Compte, Alexis [1] (fl. 1813 - 1814) (possibly Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Montreal, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

PFC Middleman, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (1810 - 1812); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (1812 - 1813); NWC Middleman, Flathead Post [Fort Connah, Saleesh House] (October 13, 1813); Middleman, Fort Kootenay (1813 - 1814).

Alexis Le Compte joined Wilson Price Hunt's PFC Overland Expedition at St. Louis, around September 14, 1810. He crossed the Continental Divide in late summer, 1811, reaching Astoria by February 19, 1812. He joined the NWC October 16, 1813.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10; HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: K. W. Porter, Roll of Overland, p. 109

Le Course, Pierre (fl. 1813 - 1815) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Montreal, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (winter 1813 - 1814).

Pierre Le Course was engaged by the NWC in the Columbia in 1814 on a one year contract to expire in Montreal the following year.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10

Leach, John (fl. 1844 - 1845) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Cook, Columbia (barque) (1844 - 1845).

John Leach joined the HBC vessel Columbia at Fort Vancouver to act as cook for the return journey to England. However, his health was so bad that he had to leave the ship two months later in Honolulu where he spent some time in the hospital.

PS: HBCA log of Columbia 7; SandIsM 1

Learhenard (possibly Leonard or Laharnai) (fl. 1850) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: Hawaiian Islands - 1820

Other

U.A. Cook, Fort Vancouver (1850).

Learhenard, who may have lived in Fort Vancouver's Kanaka Village, is a mystery. The only Hawaiian working as a cook in 1850 at Fort Vancouver, the nearest large employer, was Henry Como, whose birth year is 1794. On the other hand, he may have been related to the Laharnais, above.

PS: OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Clark County
See Also: Laharnai, Joseph (possible Relative)

Leask, James (fl. 1851 - 1858) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Death: possibly Vancouver Island, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Norman Morison (barque) (1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria general charges (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1852 - 1855); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1855 - 1856); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1856 - 1858).

James Leask came to the Pacific Coast as a HBC sponsored immigrant in 1851. He arrived on the coast aboard the Norman Morison on October 28, 1851. Probably to pay for the voyage, he worked for the HBC to 1858, first at Fort Victoria and then at Fort Simpson. At Fort Simpson, he gave the impression that he didn't really want to work and so was put to work as gatekeeper. During his four years there, he had a family which he appears to have left when he went south to Victoria. In 1860 in Victoria, he was living at Fairfield, James Douglas' personal farm. His Fort Simpson descendants went to Metlakatla, B.C. and Alaska.

James Leask appears to have had two wives. The first wife was an unnamed native woman, one child being David (1853-?). On April 26, 1860, James Leask married Jane Stockand in Victoria. No further family has been traced.

PS: HBCA log of Norman Morison 2; YFASA 31-32; YFDS 22; FtVicASA 1-5; FtSimp[N]P] 7; BCA BCCR CCCath; 1860 Victoria Directory, p. 32 SS: Marion Musgrave, Lax Kw'Alaams, 1994
See Also: Sabiston, Peter; Garrioch, William L.

Lebine, Leon [variation: Labine] (fl. 1849 - 1864) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Jacques, Lower Canada (born to Jean Baptiste Labine and Marie Vincent)

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1849 - 1850); Middleman, Fort Rupert (1850 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Fort Rupert (1852 - 1853).

Leon Lebine joined the HBC on a contract that ended in 1852. At the end of his contract, he appears to have left the Company but carried on transactions with it until about 1855, probably in the Nanaimo area for Lebine built most of the early hewn log houses there. Leon Lebine has not been traced after 1864 and so he may not have remained in the vicinity of Victoria.

Leon Lebine had one wife and six recorded children. On March 27, 1855 in the vicinity of Victoria, he married Anna Ganer, daughter of Elias Ganer and Françoise Paquet of Worchester, England. Their children were Joseph (c.1856-1859), Guillaume/William (1856-?), Isabelle (?-bap.1859-?), Marie Angel (?-bap.1861-?), Sara (?-bap. 1862-?) and Mathilde (?-bap.1864-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 29-32; FtVicASA 1; BCA BCCR StAndC SS: Bate, p. 1

Leblanc, Louis (fl. 1827 - 1830) (probably Mixed descent)

Birth: probably East of the Rocky Mountains

Fur trade employee

HBC Native apprentice, Coastal Trade (1827 - 1830).

Louis LeBlanc, who came over the Rockies in September 1827, worked for the HBC in coastal shipping in the Columbia Department. Even though he appeared to stop working for the Company in 1830, he appears to have continued working independently in the area, perhaps as a trapper.

Louis LeBlanc had one wife and two recorded children. He and wife Ange'lique Valle'e had children Louis (c.1834-?) and Henriette (1836-?).

PS: HBCA FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1, 7-9; YFDS 3a PPS: CCR 1a; E. Ermatinger, p. 103

Leblanc, Pierre [variation: Le Blanc] (c. 1782 - 1838) (Canadian: French)

Birth: Notre Dame, Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1782 (born to Luc Le Blanc and Charles (?) Marie Lemoine)

Death: Dalles des Morts (Death Rapids), Columbia River [British Columbia] - October 1838

Fur trade employee

HBC Post master, Columbia Department (1838).

Pierre Le Blanc served both the NWC and the HBC as a jack of all trades (carpenter, painter, glazier, storeman, builder, Indian trader, conductor of work) [HBRX XXX, p. 234, HBRX III, p. 444], before meeting a tragic end in the Columbia rapids below the Dalles des Morts. He began his career with the NWC in 1803 or 1810 and stayed on with the HBC after the coalition. He retired in 1827 but rejoined the service in 1828 spending most of his time in the Red River area where, in 1831, he married Nancy McKenzie, niece of Chief Factor Donald McKenzie and the former country wife of John George McTavish. He was given a week off to go to Bas de la Riviere to meet Nancy McKenzie and they were married at Red River. On October 22, 1838, after being posted as post master disposable in the Columbia district, he and his three children (along with seven other fellow canoeists) drowned in the swirling, unforgiving rapids of the Columbia River. A month before a daughter (Henriette) had died and was buried on the bank of the Athabasca River.

Pierre Leblanc had one wife, Nancy, niece of Chief Factor Donald McKenzie, and three recorded children. The Leblanc children were Henriette (1832-1838), Pierre (1834-1838), Marie Rose (c.1837-1838) and an unnamed child (?-1838) who disappeared in the river.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA FtVanASA 5, 18; Wills; HBCA Pierre Leblanc search file; SimpsonCB PPS: HBRX III, p. 444-5; HBRX XXX, p. 234n; CCR 1a
See Also: McKenzie, Donald (Relative); McTavish, John George (Relative)

Lebrun, Benjamin (fl. 1821 - 1822) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822).

Benjamin Lebrun was a member of a large group of NWC employees who transferred to the HBC in 1821 at the time of coalition.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 9; YFASA 1

Lebrun, Felix (c. 1808 - 1830) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Maskinongé, Lower Canada - c. 1808 (born to Louis Lebrun and Marie Etienne Belair)

Death: Columbia River, Pacific Northwest - October 1830

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831).

Felix Lebrun, from Acadian lineage, joined the HBC from Maskinongé in 1830. He had a pleasant and even enjoyable paddle across the continent but a very short career for he drowned in the Columbia River in the fall of 1830. Before he drowned he sent several pairs of moccasins back to his family.

Two undelivered 1831 letters from brother David and female friend Davide Sigard, both of Maskinongé, rest in the HBCA. Davide may have been pregnant was in need of financial assistance from Lebrun.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; FtVanCB 28; YFDS 4a; YFASA 10; MiscI 5; CduP????, Rivière du Loup, St-Cuthbert and Maskinongé Parish Registers PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 303-06
See Also: Lebrun, Hercule (Relative)

Lebrun, Hercule (c. 1810 - c. 1857) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Maskinongé, Lower Canada - c. 1810 (born to Charles Lebrun and Marie Anne Lemire)

Death: Willamette Valley, Oregon - c. 1857

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1833).

Hercule Lebrun, a cousin of Felix, joined the HBC around 1830 as an apprentice. He returned east of the Rockies to Canada at the end of his contract in 1833 but returned in 1845 to farm in the Willamette and died there.

Hercule Lebrun had one wife and five daughters. On September 18, 1848, he married Marie-Anne/Louise Ouvre (c.1833-?), daughter of Jean Baptiste Ouvre and a Nisqually woman. Their daughters were Flavie (1850-1851), Marie Louise Philomene (1851-1858), Marie Melanie (1854-?), Esther (1855-1858) and Virginie (1857-1858). After Hercule's death, Louise married Adolphe L'Oiseau on May 10, 1858. In 1850 he was living with Louise (c.1833-?) which may have been his wife or daughter.

Two undelivered 1831 Maskinongé letters from relatives rest in the HBCA. One is delightfully whimsical, the other conveying family and other pressing financial matters. They weren't delivered as they were labelled "deceased" in 1831 as he was confused with his cousin.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; YFDS 4; YFASA 11-12; YFDS 4b; MiscI 5; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion County
PPS: CCR 2b; Beattie & Buss, p. 306-09

See Also: Lebrun, Felix (Relative); Ouvre, Jean Baptiste (Father-in-Law)

Lebrun, Joseph (c. 1811 - 1856) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Boucherville, Lower Canada - c. 1811

Death: possibly Fraser Lake, New Caledonia – summer 1856

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1833 - 1838); Untraced vocation, Fort St. James (1838); Middleman, New Caledonia (1838 - 1858).

Joseph Lebrun joined the HBC from Boucherville in 1833 and spent his entire career in the New Caledonia area, probably in the area of Fort St. James where he married and raised a family. He retired in 1854 and when John Manson, son of Donald Manson, tried to convince Lebrun to go from Fraser Lake back to Fort St. James in January 1856, Lebrun refused as he had done everything to get away from the place. He was perhaps referring to the elder Manson's brutal administrative tactics. That summer Lebrun died.

Joseph Lebrun appears to have had one wife, Stonake/Stseunake Louisa (?-?). Their children were Francis (c.1850-?), Charles (?-1914) and John (c.1857-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 13-15, 19-20, 24-32; YFDS 5b—7; FtVanASA 3-8; FtVicASA 1-6; FtVicCB 12; FtAlexPJ 9; BCA FtStJmsA 1; StJosMiss SS: A Tribute to the Past, p. 161 SS: Morice, The History of, p. 283

Leclaire, Aime [standard: Aimé] [variation: Hemil Leclerc] (c. 1829 - 1886) (Canadian: French)

Birth: c. 1829 (born to Hyacinthe Leclaire and Angelique Corbeil)

Death: Victoria, Colony of Vancouver Island - June 1886

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1850 - 1851); Blacksmith, New Caledonia (1851 - 1853); Middleman, Fort Alexandria (1853); Middleman, Thompson River (1853 - 1854); Middleman, Thompson River (1853); Middleman, Fort Victoria (1854 - 1855); Labourer, Fort Shepherd (1856).

Aimé Leclaire appeared to first work for the HBC in 1850 in a variety of jobs, including blacksmithing. In August 1854, he purchased a town lot in Victoria and he retired in 1855 but was hired on in 1856 to help construct Fort Shepherd, the replacement for Fort Colville. When he returned, he continued working in the Victoria area as a farmer for, in June of 1859, he was in charge of Roderick Finlayson's farm; "Rugby Farm". At that time, according to a police report, he was having difficulty with local natives fighting in the gardens and destroying the onions, turnips, lettuce and celery and making off with potatoes. They also broke down the fences and stole the rails. In 1860, he was living on Store Street in Victoria. He died in the Victoria area in 1886.

On January 9, 1855 in the Victoria area, Aimé Leclaire took as a wife Marie/Mary/Maria Grant (?-?) daughter of Peter Grant and a woman from the Fort Colville area. Together they had eight recorded children: Joseph Aimé Angelique (?-bap.1855-?), Elizabeth (?-bap.1857-?), Caroline (?-bap.1859-?), Adolphe (?-bap.1860-?), Peter William (?-bap.1863-?), Claire (?-bap.1865-?), Alfred (?-bap.1871-?) and Charles William (?-bap.1875-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 30-32; YFDS 22-23; FtVicDS 1; FtVicASA 1-4; FtVicCB 12; FtAlexPJ 9; BCA BCGR-Crt-Land; BCCR StAndC; 1860 Victoria Directory, p. 32; Police Department Records, Victoria, 1859, BCA F1382; Van-PL 1881 Canada Census, Victoria; Van-PL Colonist, June 18, 1886, p. 3

See Also: Grant, Peter (possible Father-in-Law)

Leclaire, Isadore or Theodore (c. 1817 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lachine, Lower Canada - c. 1817

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Colville (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Columbia Department (1841 - 1842).

Isadore Leclaire joined the HBC from Lachine in 1839 on a three-year contract. In 1842 he returned to Canada.

PS: HBCA YFASA 19-21; FtVanASA 6-7; FtVanASA 6-7

Leclaire, Louis [a] [variation: Leclair] (c. 1815 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1816

Death: probably Vancouver Island, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); Carpenter, Fort Stikine (1840 - 1842); Middleman, Columbia Department (1843 - 1844); Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1850).

Louis Leclaire joined the HBC in 1839 on one three-year contract. Prior to joining, he likely received training in woodworking for after he reached the coast, he was employed mainly as a carpenter. During his work at Fort Stikine, he performed adequately but clumsily cut himself several times, once cutting his tendons nearly through. His woodworking was very frequently mentioned in the Fort Stikine journals, duties which ranged from working on the gate and building a watertight box to squaring wood for the fur press and cutting door posts. In April 1842 when discipline collapsed and John McLoughlin Jr. and the men appeared to be frequently intoxicated, McLoughlin became more punitive in his beatings of the men. On April 21, McLoughlin was shot by one of the employees. Leclair, who was implicated more by association, was given the job of building McLoughlin's coffin which was temporarily buried at the fort before being shipped to Fort Vancouver. As it could not be decided what actions would be taken against the men, Leclaire and the others remained at Fort Stikine or were shipped to other posts to be put in semi-confinement until 1844. Finally, in the Spring of 1844, Dr. John McLoughlin sent fourteen of those implicated from Fort Vancouver to York Factory. He returned to the coast and worked at the Cowlitz Farm (probably drawn there by his old friend, Louis Ledoux) and Nisqually as a labourer. Four months after being hired at Fort Nisqually he was let go:

L. Leclair having on several late occasions shown great remissness was today send about his business, he has also been making a practise of purchasing rum from the Americans and selling it again to the other men and Indians, and was altogether a good for nothing disorganizing sort of fellow (Dickey, Journal of Occurrences, June 28, 1850).

He took his habits with him to Victoria for, on June 13, 1866, a fifty year-old, "stout", five foot eight inch Louis Leclair was jailed for four months hard labour for selling liquor to the Indians.

PS: HBCA YFASA 19-20, 23; FtVanASA 6-8; FtStikPJ 1-3; BCA BCGR-CrtR-Goals PPS: Dickey

Leclerc, Giles [variation: Gilles] (? - 1814) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Berthier, Lower Canada

Death: Snake Country, Pacific Northwest - January 1814

Fur trade employee

PFC Passenger, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811); Middleman, Snake Country (1813 - 1814).

Giles Le Clerc, who signed a five year contract with the PFC in 1810 in Berthier, came out in the Tonquin in 1810-1811 and worked in the Snake River area in 1813-1814. He signed on with the NWC and was with the disastrous Reed Snakes wintering party in 1814 when the party was attacked by local natives. While Jacob Reznor and Pierre Dorion were killed outright, Leclerc was wounded and managed to make it in time to warn Dorion's wife what had happened before he died. This gave her an opportunity to alert Reed's camp but, finding it abandoned, managed to flee herself.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: ChSoc XIV, p. 48, 152-53

Lecompte, Alex [2] (fl. 1853 - 1855) (Undetermined origin)

Maritime employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1852 - 1854); Stoker, Beaver (steamer) (1854 - 1855).

Alex Lecompte [2] worked for the HBC for a brief period. Little is written of him other than he had venereal disease in February 1853.

PS: HBCA FtSimp[N]PJ 7; FtVicASA 1-3

Lecuyer, Francois [a] [standard: François] [variation: L'Ecuyer, Lecuire, Lequier] (c. 1798 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Beauharnois, Lower Canada - c. 1798

Death: probably Victoria, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Thompson River (1827 - 1829); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1829 - 1831); Middleman, New Caledonia (1831 - 1832); Middleman, Thompson River (1831 - 1841); Middleman, Fort McLoughlin (1841 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Victoria (1843 - 1851).

François L'Ecuyer joined the HBC from Beauharnois in 1825 and came to Thompson River from Red River in 1827. Sometimes deemed "slow and awkward," he worked at a variety of posts in the Columbia Department until 1851 and carried on transactions with them for two more years. In 1869, he was living on Humboldt St., Victoria, B.C. and in 1871 was a labourer on Fort St.

François Lecuyer had two or more wives and eight recorded children. On September 26, 1849, a daughter Maria was baptised. The following year, on April 29, 1850 in the Victoria area, François married Marie, of a northern native origin, but it was noted that there was an attempt to stop it from Oregon City as they were related on the father's side. Most likely the newly married couple headed south in 1851 to the Fort Vancouver/Willamette Valley area for a on September 20, 1851, a François Lecuyer and wife Marie buried a child, Joseph (?-1851), at St. Paul, Oregon. Another child, under the surname Lequier, appears to have been Marie (?-?). On May 2, 1852, a François Lecuyer appeared at Fort Vancouver as godparent to a child along with a Julia Lecuyer, his new wife. It is assumed that he had six children with Julia (c.1833-81), Clallam. Together in the Victoria area they had Genevieve (?-bap.1853-?), Euphrosine (?-bap.1856-1858-?), Elisabeth (1858-?), Lambert (?-bap.1861-?), Charles (?-bap.1867-?) and Mary Anne (1869-1870). Wife Julie Clallam died and was buried in the Victoria area on January 18, 1881.

PS: HBCA YFDS 2a, 3a-3b, 4b-7; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-8; YFASA 7-9, 11-15, 20, 24-31; FtVicASA 5-8; BCA BCCR StAndC; 1869 Victoria Directory, p. 35 PPS: HBRS X, p. 229; CCR 1b, 2b; Mallandaine, p. 73

Ledoux, Jean Baptiste (c. 1826 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Mathieu, Lower Canada - c. 1826

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1844 - 1849); Middleman, Fort Alexandria (1849).

Jean Baptiste Ledoux joined the HBC from St. Mathieu in 1844 on a three-year contract and retired in 1849.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-28; FtAlexPJ 8

Lefevre, Laurent (fl. 1813 - 1814) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Maskinongé, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Hunter, Flathead Post [Fort Connah, Saleesh House] (1811 - 1812) (with David Thompson); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (1813 - 1814); Middleman, Brigade to Fort William (1814).

Laurent Lefevre joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] in Montreal on December 27, 1810 on a three-year contract to work in the Northwest. He was noted as being with Thompson in 1811-1812 and, after Thompson went east that year, spent the 1813-1814 winter at Fort George [Astoria] and in April 1814, set out as part of the ten canoe brigade for Fort William and Montreal.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; OA Thomson's Journals; HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: Coues, p.875

Lefevre, Jean Baptiste (c. 1796 - 1841) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Pointe Claire, Lower Canada - c. 1796

Death: probably Columbia River, Pacific Northwest - June 1841

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1822 - 1825); Middleman, Snake Party (1825 - 1829); Middleman, Fort Colville (1829 - 1830); Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1830 - 1831); Middleman, Fort Alexandria (1830 - 1831); Middleman, New Caledonia (1831 - 1832); Servant to A. Fisher, New Caledonia (1832 - 1834); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1834 - 1835); Personal servant, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1837); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1841).

Jean Baptiste Lefevre joined the fur trade in 1817, likely came to the Pacific slopes in 1822 and worked mainly in the southern reaches of the Columbia Department for about nineteen years as a middleman. On June 2, 1841 he drowned and three days later was buried in the Catholic cemetery at Fort Vancouver.

Lefevre had a wife and two recorded children. He formalized his marriage to Marie, Cowichan on February 11, 1839, their children being Jean Baptiste II (c.1836-1852) and an unnamed girl (1840-?).

Lefevre, Joseph [a] (c. 1786 - 1837) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Benoit, Lower Canada - c. 1786

Death: New Caledonia [British Columbia] - March 1837

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1825 - 1837).

Joseph Lefevre worked as a middleman in the fur trade for twelve years before he was trampled by a bull and badly injured at Fort Babine in February 1837. The bull was shot. Lefevre didn't recover and died the following month.

PS: HBCA YFASA 5-9, 11-15, 17; FtVanASA 1-5; YFDS 3a-3b, 4b, 5b-7 SS: Morice, The History of, p. 210

Lefevre (Bonnin), Joseph [b] [variation: Bonie] (c. 1807 - 1853) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Pointe Claire, Lower Canada - c. 1807

Death: probably Fort St. James, New Caledonia - 1853

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1829 - 1835); Boute, New Caledonia (1835 - 1837); Middleman, New Caledonia (1838 - 1846); Interpreter, Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs] (1846 - 1849); Interpreter, New Caledonia (1849 - 1850); Fisherman, New Caledonia (1850 - 1851); Interpreter, New Caledonia (1851 - 1853).

Joseph Lefevre (Bonnin) joined the HBC in 1829 from Lower Canada as a middleman and spent his entire career in the New Caledonia area. He married there and had at least one son. Lefevre died in the fall of 1853 and his account showed transactions, probably through his widow, for a number of years. At that time one son was living on Vancouver Island but as his birth was considered illegitimate, he had no claim to the estate. According to James Douglas' instructions of April 12, 1854, his widow had to produce a wedding certificate of a legitimate marriage to make claims on the estate (FtVicCB 10).

PS: HBCA YFASA 9, 11-15, 19-20, 24-32; FtVanASA 3-7; YFDS 3b-7, 17-22; FtVicASA 1-7, 9-13; FtVicCB 10

Lefevre, Louis (c. 1807 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Riviere du Loup, Lower Canada - c. 1807

Death: possibly East of the Rocky Mountains

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Colville (1826 - 1828).

Louis Lefevre joined the HBC from Riviere de Loup in 1825 and spent two years at Fort Colville. At the end of his contract in 1828 he went to Swan River where he worked at least three more years.

PS: HBCA YFDS 2a; FtVAnAB 10; FtVanASA 1; YFASA 6-7; FtVAnAB 15

Lefevre, Michel (fl. 1820 - 1821) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1820).

Michel Lefevre may have been part of the cross-country express.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 7

Lefevre, T. (fl. 1854 - 1855) (possibly British)

Birth: possibly British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1854 - 1855).

T. Lefevre made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Lefevre (Beaulac), Pierre (c. 1824 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec] - c. 1824

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1842 - 1843); Officer's servant, New Caledonia (1843 - 1845); Middleman, Thompson River (1845 - 1848).

Pierre Lefevre joined the HBC in 1842 and he retired in 1848.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 7-8; YFDS 14-15; YFASA 24-27

Legg, William L. [variation: Lag, Lagg] (fl. 1849 - 1858) (British: English)

Birth: probably England

Death: probably Washington Territory

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Rupert (1850 - 1851); PSAC Labourer, Cowlitz Farm (1851 - 1852); Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1852 - 1858).

William L. Legg arrived on Vancouver Island in March 1850 on the Norman Morison as part of the HBC scheme to colonize Vancouver Island. His first assignment was Fort Rupert which was experiencing labour difficulties. He was then sent south in late 1850 or early 1851 to the Cowlitz farm and later the Nisqually area where he worked for the rest of his career mainly around cattle although he did work with sheep and crops when necessary. On April 5, 1853, he was placed in charge of the dairy for a short time; other times he ploughed and cut wood. On February 23, 1854 Legg was obstructed from sowing on the Muck farm by a squatter, Jessie Varner. The following month, the Steilacoom City Justice of the Peace ruled in favour of Varner. This must have had an effect on Legg, for around June 15, 1854, Legg himself deserted from the service and squatted on the Tlithlow Farm announcing the intention to build his house within one of the field enclosures. For this action, he was presented with a trespassing notice by PSAC on the 17th. When Legg returned from Victoria in October of that year, he began working for the HBC/PSAC as a labourer on the Muck farm as an assistant to Edward Huggins. On December 11, 1855, when the first shots of the Indian War were being felt in the area, Legg was discharged from the service. One year later, however, on December 30, 1856, he was back working for the company running supplies back and forth to the Muck farm. Thereon after, he worked sporadically for PSAC. On August 17, 1863 Legg travelled with Huggins on a trip to the coast.

Legg must have married, for on May 28, 1856, his wife was weeding in the garden of the Nisqually Fort.

PS: HBCA YFASA 29-32; FtVanASA 9-12; PSACAB 37 PPS: Dickey; HL Nisqually 1, vol. 8-12 SS: S. A. Anderson, The Physical Structure, p. 176-184; Huggins, "Reminiscences of Puget", p. 82; Mouat, p. 213

Leigh, William [variation: Lee] (c. 1815 - 1884) (British: English)

Birth: probably Middlesex, England - c. 1815 (born to James Lee)

Death: Victoria, British Columbia - May 1884

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Otter (steamer) (1853); Confidential secretary to James Douglas, Fort Victoria (1853 - 1859); Clerk, Uplands Farm (1859 - 1862); Manager, Uplands Farm (1859 - 1862).

William Leigh/Lee was involved in the support side of the fur trade. Likely born in Bromley, Middlesex (or possibly Warwickshire) around 1815, William Leigh appears to have pursued his father's profession as a contractor, a profession which was to serve him well throughout his life. By 1845, when he was a married barge builder in London, both he and his father were actively involved in the Stoneleigh Abbey Case of Warwickshire, a lingering succession case involving a disputed baronetcy with an inordinate number of earlier murders and missing bodies. By 1852, likely after his first daughter had died, he decided to seek his fortune elsewhere and, because of his extensive knowledge of lumber, was hired by the HBC as a wharf builder and shipbuilder; for this, he received a cash advance before boarding the steamer Otter for his journey as cabin passenger to Vancouver Island. After he and his family arrived at Victoria on August 4, 1853, he worked as confidential secretary for James Douglas at Fort Victoria, where for the rest of his life he was to become a very active player in the emerging city. Even while at the fort in 1857, this amateur musician became a prompter for the officers and servants production of Richard Sheridan's The Rivals. Between 1859-1862 he was manager of the Company's Uplands farm and, with his experience as a contractor, built the tower of the Victoria District Church (Christ Church), the government steamer Sir James Douglas, and an addition to James Douglas' house. When his HBC contract was over, he was hired by the new City of Victoria in various capacities including Inspector of dredging vessels and, from 1863 until his death, city clerk for Victoria. He appeared to be financially successful for, by 1858, he owned ten city lots, had a house on Belleville St., very near the Parliament Buildings, and invested in the Victoria Steam Mills. He was also socially active for he took a lively interest in the schoolmaster Robert Staines controversy and the Bishop Hills-Dean Cridge schism, becoming a member of the Reformed Episcopal Church. William Leigh died from a variety of complications on May 1, 1884 at his residence at James Bay, Victoria and was given a large public funeral.

William Leigh had one wife and six children. On September 15, 1838 he married Matilda Sarah Capron (c.1812-1888) in Southwark, Surrey, England. Their children were William Thomas Lee (1845-1873), Ernest Augustus (1849-1935), Rosa Sarah (1850-1852), Matilda Caroline (1853-1885), Edwin Albert (1855-1885) and Frederick James (1858-1884).

PS: OrkA 1851 Census of Britain, Rotherhithe St. Mary; HBCA log of Otter 1; YFASA 32; FtVicASA 1-11; BCA Nanaimo Free, May 3, 1884, p. 3; playbill; The Evening Standard, Aug. 15, 1888, p. 4; RossBayCem; BCCR RefEC; Van-PL Colonist, May

Leland, Richard (fl. 1827 - 1828) (British: English)

Birth: probably England

Death: possibly Oregon Territory, Pacific Northwest

Freeman

SJ & S Trapper, Jedediah Smith Southwest Expedition (1827 - 1828).

In 1827, Richard Leland was in the San Francisco area as a vagrant Englishman when he joined the Jedediah Smith Southwest Expedition of 1827-1828. The expedition headed north into Oregon and, in an area just north of the Umpqua River [Oregon], just after Smith, Leland and John Turner set out to scout out a route to travel, the natives killed all the expedition members remaining in camp, except one, who managed to escape. Leland appeared to remain in Oregon after that.

PPS: HBRS X., p. 61 SS: Carter, "Jedediah Smith", p. 97-104

Lennon, John (fl. 1832 - 1836) (British: English)

Birth: probably Essex, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Ganymede (barque) (1832 - 1833); Seaman, Vancouver (schooner) (1833); Seaman, Fort Simpson naval service (1833 - 1835); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1835); Seaman, Dryad (brig) (1835 - 1836).

John Lennon joined the HBC in London on September 15, 1832 for three years. Little is recorded of Lennon but on March 3, 1833, on the voyage out he and another crew member had their grog cut off as they would not attend the Sunday service. After he reached the coast he worked quietly on ships servicing coastal posts until 1835 when he joined the Dryad and arrived in England in April 1836. Upon his arrival, he was promoted to second mate and sailed to Hudson Bay on the Prince Rupert IV.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 13-15; log of Ganymede 1; YFDS 5b-6; FtVanASA 3; log of Dryad 2; log of Prince Rupert IV 9

Lentier, Joseph (fl. 1821 - 1823) (probably Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1821 - 1823).

Joseph Lentier worked in New Caledonia for the HBC for two years before returning to Montreal.

PS: HBCA YFASA 1-2

Leolo, Edouard (fl. 1835 - 1837) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably New Caledonia [British Columbia] (probably born to Jean Baptiste Leolo)

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

HBC Native apprentice, New Caledonia (1835 - 1836); Native apprentice, Columbia Department (1836 - 1837).

Edouard Leolo joined the HBC in 1835 spending two years as a native apprentice.

PS: HBCA YFASA 15; YFDS 6; FtVanASA 3, 5

See Also: Leolo, Jean Baptiste (probable Father)

Leolo, Jean Baptiste [variation: St. Paul] (c. 1798 - 1868) (Native or possibly Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly Thompson River area - c. 1798

Death: Kamloops, British Columbia - May 1868

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1822 - 1824); Interpreter, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825); Interpreter, Fort Alexandria (1825); Interpreter, New Caledonia (1825 - 1826); Interpreter, Columbia Department (1826 - 1827); Interpreter, Thompson River (1827 - 1833); Interpreter, New Caledonia (1827); Untraced vocation, Fort Alexandria (February, 1827 – May, 1827); Interpreter, Columbia Department (1833 - 1834); Deserter, Thompson River (1833); Middleman, Thompson River (1841 - 1845); Settler, Thompson River (1845 - 1846).

Jean Baptiste Leolo, who first appeared on record with the the HBC in 1822, was a free-spirited, independent and talented figure in the New Caledonia region. He was a trusted HBC employee who appeared to work on and off when needed and whose daughters intermarried into various levels of the fur trade at various locations. Added to his responsibilities, he was sometimes given enforcer duties to carry out such as, in 1831, tracking down and cutting off the tip of the ear of the lover of Francis Ematinger's errant wife. Leolo, a.k.a. Mr. St. Paul or Captain St. Paul, and his family gravitated to the Kamloops area and when the Kamloops fort was moved in 1843 to the north east point of the river junction, the Company rewarded Leolo by building him a home on the old fort site. From there he traded on his own and bred horses. After his death in 1868, his home became part of the village on the Kamloops Indian Reserve.

Details of Leolo's family have not been traced however, by 1827, he had a wife and two children. One daughter married Jean Baptiste Vautrin and another, John Tod.

Mt. Paul (near Kamloops), Mt. Lolo, Paul Lake, Paul Creek and St. Paul Street [Kamloops] are named after Jean Baptiste Leolo

PS: HBCA YFDS 1a, 2b-3b, 4b-5b; FtStJmsLS 1; YFASA 4-9, 11-13, 24-25; FtStJmsRD 3; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 2-3, 6-8; HBCA Jean Baptiste Leolo search file PPS: HBRX X, p. 32n, 200 SS: ChSoc IV, p. 227; Kamloops Museum; G. Brown & Lamb, p. 115-127

See Also: Vautrin, Jean Baptiste (Son-in-Law); Leolo, Edouard (probable Son); Tod, John (Son-in-Law)

Leonard, Jean Baptiste (c. 1820 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1820

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Thompson River general charges (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Thompson River (1841 - 1842); Middleman, New Caledonia (1843 - 1852); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1852 - 1853); Middleman, New Caledonia (1853 - 1856); Middleman, Fort Langley (1857 - 1860).

Jean Baptiste Leonard joined the HBC from Montreal in 1840 and worked with it for the next twenty years.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 24-32; FtVanASA 6-8; FtVicASA 1-7, 9; HBCABio

Leonard, Zenas (fl. 1832) (American)

Birth: Pennsylvania, United States

Other

U.A. Fur trader, Pacific slopes (1832); Clerk, Pacific slopes (1832).

Zenas Leonard's association with the Pacific slopes fur trade was short but nonetheless deserves a mention. In the spring of 1831, he left Pennsylvania for St. Louis and, after engaging with the small partnership of Gant and Blackwell of St. Louis, left the city in April with a party of seventy men for the mountains. The group did not do well and in the spring of 1832, joined and sold out to Thomas Fitzpatrick's brigade which was heading for Pierre's Hole. There he became involved in the battle of Pierre's Hole and in the fall travelled with Milton Sublette trapping in the southwest. At the 1833 Rendezvous he joined Joseph R. Walker's California expedition as clerk and hence became its historian. At the end of the unsuccessful and sometimes violent expedition, Leonard worked mainly with the Crows. He left for the East with Captain Benjamin Bonneville in 1835.

Published manuscript: Leonard's journal was turned into the Adventures of Zenas Leonard, Fur Trader (see below).

PPS: Leonard, Adventures of SS: Chittenden, p. 59, 67, 407, 409, 411

Lepain, Abraham (c. 1811 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably La Prairie, Lower Canada

Death: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1833 - 1834); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1834 - 1836); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1836 - 1837); Middleman, Fort Nisqually (1837 - 1839).

Abraham Lepain joined the HBC in 1833 likely in Canada and returned to Canada in 1839 in retirement.

PS: HBCA YFASA 13-15, 18; YFDS 5b, 6-7; FtVanASA 3-5

Lepicier, Pierre [variation: La Pacier] (fl. 1821 - 1822) (Undetermined origin)

Birth: possibly East of the Rocky Mountains

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822).

Pierre Lepicier was a member of a large group of NWC employees who transferred to the HBC in 1821 at the time of coalition. That outfit he returned to Montreal, being redundant for the Pacific area.

Lepine, Francois [standard: François] [variation: Lepin, Lapine] (? - 1830) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Berthier, Lower Canada

Death: Dalles des Morts (Death Rapids), Columbia River [British Columbia] - July 1830

Fur trade employee

NWC Steersman, Pacific slopes (1818); HBC Boute, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822); Steersman, New Caledonia (1827 - 1829); Steersman, Snake Party (1829 - 1830); Trapper, Snake Party (1829 - 1830).

As more than one François Lepine was recruited out of Berthier by the NWC between 1814 and 1818, it can only be said with certainty that the above François Lepine was engaged by the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray] as a steersman on May 7, 1818, in the Northwest and shortly afterwards crossed the Rockies to the Pacific slopes with a small NWC group headed by Angus Bethune and James McMillan. For the next few years, he may been a member of the brigade or remained in the area but, in 1821, at the amalgamation of the HBC and the NWC, he was noted as going to Montreal. He was absent from the Pacific slopes between 1822 and 1827 but came west in the fall of 1827 with the returning York Factory Express and began work again in New Caledonia. He drowned, along with eleven others in a whirlpool in the Lower Dalles on July 3, 1830 while he was working on a Snake expedition.

His family has not been traced.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 2, 9; FtGeo[Ast]AB 7; YFASA 1, 7-9, 11; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-2; D.4/125, p. 50; YFDS 3a-3b PPS: E. Ermatinger, p. 105

Lepine, Gonzague (fl. 1821 - 1823) (probably Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Berthier, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

HBC Boute and steersman, New Caledonia (1821 - 1823).

Gonzague Lepine worked for the HBC from 1821-1823 and returned to Montreal.

PS: HBCA YFASA 1-2

Lepine, Joaquim (fl. 1847 - 1848) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1847 - 1848).

Joaquim Lepine joined the HBC in 1847 and appeared to work one outfit on the Pacific slopes. He may have been with the cross-country express or brigade.

PS: HBCA YFASA 27

Lepine, Joseph [b] (fl. 1824 - 1830) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825); Goer and comer, Columbia Department (1830).

Joseph Lepine signed a one-year contract with the Hudson's Bay Company in New Caledonia in outfit 1824-1825. His contract ended in 1825 and he did not appear on record in the area until the summer of 1830 when he was a comer and goer from Montreal, that is, a member of the cross-country brigade.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 4, 10; FtStJmsLS 1; FtVanAB 26

Lepine, William (c. 1824 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1824

Maritime employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1845 - 1846); Stoker, Beaver (steamer) (1846 - 1848).

William Lepine joined the HBC from Montreal in 1845 on a three-year contract at which point he retired.

PS: HBCA YFASA 25-27

Lesieur, Toussaint [variation: Lescier] (c. 1787 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Berthier, Lower Canada - c. 1787

Death: possibly Canada, British North America

Fur trade employee

HBC Steersman, Fort Vancouver (1828 - 1830); Boute, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1831); Boute on Montreal Pay List, Columbia District (1831 - 1832).

Toussaint Lesieur joined the HBC from Berthier in 1828 as a bote and returned to Montreal at the end of his contract.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; YFASA 8-9, 11; YFDS 3a-3b (see HBRS XXII, p. 461)

Lesley, Thomas [variation: Leslie] (fl. 1838 - 1841) (British)

Birth: possibly London, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1837 - 1838); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1838 - 1840); Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1840 - 1841).

Seaman Thomas Lesley joined the HBC in London on November 18, 1837 and sailed to the coast aboard the barque Columbia. He worked on coastal shipping for two years before arriving back in London in 1841.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Columbia 3; FtVanASA 5-6; YFDS 9, 11; ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 19-20

Leslie, Colin [variation: Lesley] (fl. 1830 - 1837) (British)

Birth: probably Clyne, British Isles

Death: probably British Isles

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1829); Miller, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Miller, Fort Vancouver (1831 - 1833); Miller, Fort Vancouver (1833 - 1835); Mechanic, Fort Vancouver (1833 - 1835); Miller, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1836); Millwright, Fort Colville (1836 - 1837); Passenger, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1837).

Colin Leslie was hired on by the HBC in 1829 as a miller, sailed to York Factory and made his way overland. He spent the next seven years at both Forts Vancouver and Colville. Leslie went east over the Rockies in the Spring of 1837, and sailed back to the British Isles.

PS: HBCA log of Prince Rupert IV 3, 10; FtVanASA 2-4; YFDS 4a-7; YFASA 11-17

Letendre, Antoine [variation: Latendre] (c. 1800 - 1831) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Sorel, Lower Canada - c. 1800

Death: Flathead District, Columbia Department - October 1831

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1822 - 1824); Trapper, Snake Party (1824 - 1825); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1825 - 1826); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1827); Middleman, Snake Party (1827 - 1832); Trapper, Snake Country (1827 - 1832).

Antoine Letendre, who joined the fur trade from Sorel around 1816, was only one of many Letendres who signed on with the fur trade in Sorel. When Antoine eventually reached the Columbia in 1822, he served in the Snake Country under both Peter Skene Ogden and John Work. Little is mentioned of him in the journals but on May 21, 1825, he, along with Louis Kanota, Nicholas Dupond and William Kittson, tried to capture some runaway horses. On August 18, 1831, he left Fort Vancouver on his last Snake Country expedition under John Work in a large party of 115 men, woman, and children carrying 368 traps and supplies on 289 horses. Two months into the expedition, on October 31, 1831, Letendre and Jerome Cloutier were on their way to set traps in Flathead territory when they were attacked by a group of ten to fourteen Blackfoot. While Cloutier was killed instantly, a ball that passed through Letendre's left breast near the heart likely only wounded him for he was finally dispatched with a knife through the nose area before he was partially stripped of his clothes. His body was located by his fellow trappers the same day, brought back to camp and buried the following day.

PS: HBCA YFASA 2-10, 12; YFDS 2a, 3b, 4b; FtVanASA 1-2; SnkCoPJ 2, 3a, 11

Letendre, Jean Baptiste (fl. 1810 - 1811) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Sorel, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Untraced vocation, David Thompson (1810 - 1811).

The origins and career of Jean Baptiste are uncertain and what follows is probably a composite of more than one person. In 1804 a J. B. Letendre was listed as an interpreter at Fort des Prairies. On January 6, 1807 a J. B. Letendre from Sorel signed on with the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray] for service in the Northwest as a wintering middleman for three years. Similarly, on December 19, 1810, a J. B. Letendre from St. Denis signed on with the NWC [McT., McG.] in the Northwest as a wintering middleman and blacksmith for three years. In the Henry journals, a Letendre and his family appeared from the Beaver hills bringing in beaver skins. On January 26, 1811, Baptiste Letendre along with Du Nord and D'Eau deserted David Thompson's crew at Flat Heart Brook (Canoe River Camp?) after passing through the Athabasca Pass. He has not been traced after that.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; UBC-Koer Thompson PPS: Coues, p. 610; Belyea, p. 141

Letendre, Pierre (c. 1810 - 1852) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Yamaska, Lower Canada - c. 1810

Death: probably New Caledonia [British Columbia] - June 1852

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1831 - 1843); Interpreter, New Caledonia (1843 - 1847); Middleman, New Caledonia (1847 - 1849); Interpreter, New Caledonia (1849 - 1850); Summer master, New Caledonia (1850 - 1852).

Pierre Letendre joined the HBC from Yamaska in 1831 and spent his career in New Caledonia. It appears that Letendre deserted at Fraser Lake while under William Thew who was famous for "his autocratic ways, his uncontrollable temper, and his cruelty to his men" (Morice, p. 200). According to correspondence from Peter Skene Ogden to Paul Fraser of the 20th of October, 1840, Letendre had been induced by Fraser to desert, a charge which Fraser denied (ibid, p. 200). He appears to have returned to work, none the worse for wear. In 1846-1847 he was an interpreter at Bear's Lake. Pierre Letendre died on June 14, 1852, likely in the New Caledonia area and left his property to his child who survived him by only one year.

PS: HBCA YFASA 11-15, 19-20, 24-32; YFDS 4b-5b, 6-7, 14-17, 20-23; FtVanASA 3-8; FtVicDS 1; FtVicASA 1; FtVicCB 24
SS: Morice, The History of, p. 200

Levaille, Baptiste (fl. 1850 - 1851) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1850 - 1851).

Baptiste Levaille was probably a member of the cross-country brigade, based in the Saskatchewan Department. In 1850, he was at the beginning of a three year contract.

PS: HBCA YFASA 30

Levigne, Augustin [variation: Lavigne] (c. 1821 - 1841) (probably Mixed descent)

Birth: Red River Settlement [Manitoba] - c. 1821

Death: probably Fort Taku, Columbia Department - 1841

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1840 - 1841).

Augustin Levigne joined the HBC from the Red River settlement in 1839 on a three-year contract. He died in 1841 at Fort Taku.

PS: HBCA YFASA 19-21; FtVanASA 6

Levigne, Jean Baptiste [variation: Lavigne] (c. 1815 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1815

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1832 - 1833); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1833 - 1834); Middleman, Fort McLoughlin (1834 - 1835).

Jean Baptiste Levigne joined the HBC from Montreal in 1832 and worked in coastal forts until 1835.

PS: HBCA YFASA 12-14; YFDS 5a-5c

Lewes, Adolphus Lee [variation: Lewis] (c. 1821 - 1856) (Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly Spokane House, Columbia District - c. 1821 (born to CF John Lee Lewes and Jean Ballenden)

Death: Fort Vancouver, Washington Territory - September 1856

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince of Wales (ship) (1826); Passenger, Forager (ship) (1840); Apprentice clerk, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1841); Clerk and surveyor, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1845); Clerk, Fort Vancouver general charges (1848 - 1849); Clerk, Willamette Falls (1849 - 1850); Clerk, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1850 - 1853).

As a young boy, Adolphus Lee Lewes was taken by his father in 1826 to England where he was educated. He subsequently joined the HBC as a surveyor and clerk on December 18, 1839 and sailed from London in January 1840 on the chartered ship Forager along with fellow passengers Joseph Carless and wife. He spent his entire career working out of the Fort Vancouver area and, as a surveyor, drew up the plans for Fort Victoria. He worked through until 1845 when he retired and upon his retirement he was offered passage to either California, where he said he wished to retire, or England, where he was contractually bound to return, but instead chose to stay and farm at Cathlapotle (320 acres [129.5 ha] in Clark Co.), some distance below Vancouver. Faced with the prospect of having to become an American citizen, he asked for re-admission to the HBC in 1847, rejoining on March 1, 1848. In 1850 we was noted as living alone and he may not have had a family. That same year he was reluctant to leave the territory to go north and survey Vancouver Island and declared his intention to become a U.S. citizen in Clackamas Co., Oregon Territory. He retired once again in 1853 and died at Fort Vancouver in 1856.

The Lewis River, formerly the Cathlapootle and flowing into the Columbia below Vancouver, is named after Adolphus Lee and Frederick Lewes who settled in the area.

PS: HBCA log of Prince of Wales I 5; HBCCont; as passenger in A. 6/25, fos. 53 and 54d; FtVanASA 6-9; YFASA 19, 24-25, 27-32; YFDS 19; HBCABio; Lewes' Fort Victoria map, HBCA Map No. 926; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Clark County PPS: HBRS XXXII, p. 82 SS: HBRS VI, p. 392-93

See Also: Lewes, John Lee (Father)

Lewes, John Lee (1791 - 1872) (British: English)

Birth: Southwark, England - August 31, 1792 (born to Charles Lee Lewes and a Miss Rigley)

Death: St Andrews, Manitoba - April 25, 1872

Fur trade officer

HBC Chief Trader, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1821 - 1823); Chief Factor in charge, New Caledonia (1845 - 1847); Chief Factor on furlough, Columbia Department (1851 - 1853).

The son of a well known actor-singer of the day and a Miss Rigley, John Lee Lewes joined the HBC in 1807 at the age of fifteen as a writer. He worked east of the Rockies until amalgamation, at which time he was appointed Chief Trader and sent for two seasons to Spokane House. Returning to various posts east of the Rockies, he was appointed Chief Factor in 1830. It was while he was in the Mackenzie River area in 1844 that he accidentally shot off his right hand.

Consequently, he took a years leave of absence, taking his son, John Jr. to England. In 1845, he was to relieve Donald Manson and put in charge of New Caledonia but, "ill health...forced him so far to remain Colville [sic]" (Morice, 248). During the cold winter days, he used to pass the time setting traps for foxes. After that, his career was dotted with one leave of absence and two furloughs until he retired on June 1, 1853.

He had one wife, Jean Ballenden (1790/1800-1889), daughter of John Ballenden and a Plains Cree woman. In a will written at Edmonton House on March 21, 1849, four of his children were listed, but eight in total were recorded. They were Frances (c.1812-?), Adolphus (1821-1856), Albert (?-bap.1833-?), Frederick (?-bap.1833-?), John George (?-bap.1835-?), Emma (?-bap.1835-?), Eliza Lee (1837-1897) and Nancy [Anne] Lee (c.1842-1930).

PS: HBCA YFASA 25, 31-32; log of Prince Rupert V 5; SimpsonCB; Wills; HBCABio PPS: HBRS I, p. 446-47; HBRS XXX, p. 185n; Morice, The History of, p. 248 SS: Van Kirk, "Many Tender Ties", p. 96-97

See Also: Lewes, Adolphus Lee (Son); Ballenden, John (Father-in-Law)

Lewis, Charles (fl. 1853 - 1855) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Boatswain, Norman Morison (barque) (1851 - 1852); Boatswain, Otter (steamer) (1852 - 1855).

Charles Lewis first made a return voyage to Vancouver Island on the HBC immigrant supply vessel, Norman Morison. Upon his return to England, he joined the steamer Otter. After arriving on the coast in August 1853, he spent the next three years transporting goods to various points between Fort Simpson and San Francisco. He left the ship between 1855-1856. Whether he was related to Herbert G. Lewis has not been established.

PS: HBCA log of Otter 1; PortB 1; FtVicASA 1-3

Lewis, Herbert George [variation: Lewes] (1828 - 1905) (British: English)

Birth: Aspenden, Herfordshire, England - January 2, 1828

Death: Victoria, British Columbia - March 1905

Maritime officer

HBC 3rd Officer, Conlitz (barque) (1846 - 1849); 2nd mate, Columbia (barque) (1849 - 1850); 2nd mate, Tory (barque) (1850 - 1852); 1st mate, Otter (steamer) (1852 - 1853); 1st mate, Recovery (brig) (1853 - 1854); 1st Officer/Mate, Beaver (steamer) (1854 - 1859); Captain, Beaver (steamer) (1859 - 1860); Clerk, Fort Rupert (1860 - 1862); Master, Otter (steamer) (1862 - 1863); Master, Labouchere (steamer) (1863 - 1865); Master, Labouchere (steamer) (1865 - 1867); Master, Otter (steamer) (1865 - 1867); Master, Otter (steamer) (1867 - 1875).

Herbert George Lewis began his naval career in the East Indian trade and began his career with the HBC on October 2, 1846 arriving in Victoria in the Spring of 1847 on the Cowlitz. Thereon after he made several return trips to the coast and once returned to England via China. For the next number of years, he sailed on a variety of steamships and was appointed Captain of the Beaver on March 25, 1859. Later, he ran a variety of steamships including the sidewheeler Enterprise and then the Otter from Victoria to New Westminster. His last command was the Princess Louise. He purchased over three hundred acres [121.4 ha] in the Lake District of Saanich in 1859. Between 1854 and 1870 he frequently acted as pilot (and interpreter) navigating dangerous inland passages. He retired from active service in 1883 and, between April 1887 and September 1892, he acted as Agent of Marine and Fisheries, Victoria. From 1892 to 1905, he was shipping master in Victoria. Lewis died on March 30, 1905.

Herbert George Lewis married late in life, marrying in 1870 in London to the daughter of Captain E. E. Langford, who had once lived in Victoria.

British Columbia points named after Lewis, indicate that he was familiar with dangerous areas. Lewis Rock, Baynes Passage; Lewis Point, Beaver Cove Broughton Strait; Lewis Channel Desolation Sound; Lewis Rocks, Queen Charlotte Sound and Lewis Island, Arthur Pass, Kennedy Island, were all named after Herbert George Lewis.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; log of Columbia 10; YFDS 20; log of Otter 1; FtVicASA 1-16; Van-PL Colonist, March 2, 1883, p. 3 SS: Lewis & Dryden, p. 46; Walbran, p. 304-05

Lewis, James (? - 1811) (possibly American)

Birth: possibly New York, New York

Death: Clayoquot Sound, Vancouver Island - June 1811

PFC Passenger, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811); Clerk, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811).

James Lewis signed on with the Pacific Fur Company as a clerk in 1810 and in September sailed on the Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn] around the Horn to the mouth of the Columbia River, which it reached March 22, 1811. After his arrival, Lewis spent time on the vessel bringing the accounts up to date (RosL-Ph Astoria, May 21, 1811). Unfortunately he had the bad luck to be chosen by PFC partner Alexander McKay to continue on aboard the Tonquin (ibid, June 2, 1811). As a result of this, James Lewis met a fateful end in Clayoquot sound when he was stabbed in the back by a native on a fatal attack on the ship (Seton, p. 92-93). In December of that year, after it had been firmly established that practically all aboard the Tonquin were dead, part of Lewis' effects were sold to other employees at Fort Astoria (RosL-Ph Astoria, Dec. 3, 1811). On May 30, 1813, the rest of his letters were burned (ibid, May 30, 1811) but one of Lewis' notebooks which contained personal reflections and details of his ancestry was kept by Duncan McDougall. It is now in the Rosenbach Library and Museum in Philadelphia.

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria; ibid, James Lewis' notebook; PPS: ChSoc XLV, p. 48, 85; McDougall, Annals of Astoria, p. 1, 10, 17-20, 62; Seton, Annals of Astoria, p. 92-93

Lewis, Peter (fl. 1849 - 1851) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Cook, Cowlitz (barque) (1849 - 1851).

Peter Lewis joined the HBC vessel Cowlitz in London on August 1, 1849 and made a return voyage to the coast. He arrived back in England on April 26, 1851.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Lewis, Richard (fl. 1855 - 1856) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1855 - 1856).

Richard Lewis made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Lewis, Samuel (fl. 1849 - 1851) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1849 - 1851).

Samuel Lewis joined the HBC vessel Cowlitz in London on August 1, 1849 and made a return voyage to the coast. He arrived back in England on April 26, 1851.

Lewis, Thomas Peregrine [variation: Lewes] (fl. 1846 - 1848) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles (born to Thomas James Lewis and Emma Evans)

Death: possibly British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Apprentice, Columbia (barque) (1845 - 1850).

Thomas Lewis joined the HBC in London on October 2, 1845 and sailed two days later for the coast where he arrived in April 1846. He made two return voyages on the Columbia, which was also involved in coastal trading, and made one voyage to the Hudson Bay on the HBC supply vessel Prince Rupert before he was released from his indentures. Thomas' father applied to the HBC on behalf of his son for the position of seaman but, as there were no positions available, Thomas most likely pursued his career elsewhere.

Two undelivered 1849 letters were written separately by his mother, who had recently lost a tooth giving her a "more sage look" (Beattie & Buss, p. 227), and father, who, while instructing Thomas about proper prudent behavior, was barely managing to hang onto his farm during hard times. Both letters rest at the HBCA. They also revealed that Thomas' sister Emma had died of "galloping Consumption" and his brother, Harry was an apprentice seaman elsewhere.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; YFASA 26-27, 30-31; Correspondence, A.5/17, p. 146, A.10/30, fo. 445; MiscI 5 PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 225-29

Liard, Francis Xavier (c. 1815 - c. 1851) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Constant, Lower Canada - c. 1816 (born to Jean Baptiste Liard and Marguerite Lemerle)

Death: possibly St. Paul, Oregon - c. 1851

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1833 - 1835); Middleman, Snake Party (1835 - 1838); Middleman, Snake Party (1838 - 1839); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1839); Middleman, South Party (1839 - 1845); Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1845 - 1846).

Francis (François) Xavier Liard, brother to Thémire, joined the HBC in 1833. In 1833-1834 he travelled from Canada to the Columbia via Fort Coulonge, Lake Superior, York Factory and Norway House. He spent the next sixteen years of his career with the Company mainly on Southern and Snake parties (likely transporting members in and out) and retired around 1846 to the St. Paul region.

François Xavier Liard had one wife and four children. On February 11, 1844, he formalized his marriage to Marie Anne, Nez Percés (?-?). Their children were Marie Adeline (1843-?), Marguerite (1845-?), an unnamed child (1848-1848) and Xavier (1849-1849).

PS: HBCA YFASA 13-15, 19-20, 24-25; YFDS 5b-7, 9; FtVanASA 3-8; HBCABio PPS: CCR 1b, 2a, 2b
See Also: Liard, Thémire (Brother)

Liard, Thémire [variation: Thomas, Thanie, Tanis (Stanislas)] (c. 1816 - 1852) (Canadian: French)

Birth: St. Constant, La Prairie, St. Jacques, or Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1816 (born to Jean Baptiste Liard and Marguerite Lemerle)

Death: St. Paul, Oregon - March 18, 1852

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1833 - 1844); Middleman, Fort Alexandria (1844); Middleman, Fort Fluz Kuz (1844 - 1845); Middleman, Fort Alexandria (1845); Middleman, New Caledonia (1845 - 1846); Middleman, Thompson River (1846 - 1847); Freeman, Willamette (1847+).

Thémire Liard, brother to François Xavier, joined the HBC From St. Constant in 1833, the same year as his brother. He appears to have spent the majority of his time in New Caledonia as a middleman, was in on the establishment of Fort Fluzcuz and retired in the Willamette in 1847. He was in Marion County in 1850 and died two years later of undetermined causes under the name Stanislas Leard.

Thémire Liard appears to have have two successive wives and two recorded children. On August 9, 1847, he formalized his marriage to Nancy, Okanagan (c.1824-1848). Their son was François Xavier (1847-1848). Nancy likely died around January 10, 1848, when "the wife of Liard" was buried at St. Paul. On February 5, 1849, he married Celeste Rochbrune (c.1834-1876), daughter of Joseph and Louise Rochqubrun from the nearby parish of St. Louis. In the 1850 U.S. census Thémire Liard (listed at Tarrise Liare) and wife Celeste had no children but on January 3, 1851, daughter Marguerite (c.1851-?) was baptised. After Thémire's death, Celeste married Honore Picard in 1853 and raised a large family. Celeste died on December 24, 1876 at St. Paul.

PS: HBCA YFASA 13-15, 19-20, 24-27; YFDS 5b-5c, 7; FtVanASA 3-8; FtAlexPJ 6; HBCABio; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion County PPS: CCR 2a, 2b, 2c

See Also: Liard, Francis Xavier (Brother); Rocquebrune, Joseph (probable Father-in-Law)

Light, William (fl. 1824 - 1826) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Boatswain, William & Ann (brig) (1824 - 1826).

William Light shipped on with the William & Ann in May, 1824 and sailed to the coast for its first return supply and trading voyage. On February 25, 1825 on the voyage out, Light fell, broke his thigh bone and had to be replaced by Alexander Duncan until September 13, just prior to the return voyage. He arrived back in London on April 15, 1826.

PS: HBCA log of William & Ann 1

Like [standard: Liké] [variation: Laharnai] (fl. 1844 - 1853) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands - 1825

Death: possibly Pacific Northwest

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Colvile (1846 - 1849); Servant, Fort Colvile (1849 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1850 - 1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Colvile (1851 - 1852); Labourer, Fort Colvile (1852 - 1853).

Liké joined the HBC from Oahu in 1844. He worked mainly in the Fort Vancouver/Fort Colvile area. In 1846, the cost of one barrel of salmon was deducted in Honolulu and was probably meant as a family gift. The Like Laharnai who appeared in the 1850 Clark Co. Census, appears to have been this Liké. In outfit 1851-1852, he was off duty for three and a half months. He retired in 1853.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-32; YFDS 20, 22; FtVanASA 9-10; SandIsAB 5; OHS 1850 Census, Oregon Territory, Clark Co.

See Also: Laharnai, Joseph (possible Relative)

Limehouse, Andrew (fl. 1814) (Undetermined origin)

Maritime employee

NWC Crew member, Columbia (schooner) (1814).

Andrew Limehouse was working on the NWC schooner Columbia when it was on the Northwest Coast in 1814.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 1

Linklater, James (fl. 1850 - 1856) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: possibly in or near Harray, Orkney

Death: possibly British Isles

Fur trade employee

HBC Immigrant passenger, Tory (barque) (1850 - 1851); Labourer, Fort Rupert (1851 - 1853); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1854 - 1856); Steerage passenger, Princess Royal (barque) (1856).

James Linklater came to Vancouver Island as a HBC servant settler aboard the Tory. After working at Forts Rupert and Victoria, he finished his employment around the beginning of 1856 and, with a year's worth of saved wages, sailed back to the British Isles where he arrived in June 1856.

PS: HBCA YFASA 30-32; FtVicASA 1-4; log of Princess Royal 2

Linklater, John [b] (fl. 1851 - 1866) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Sandwick, Orkney

Death: possibly Pacific Northwest

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Colvile general charges (1851 - 1852); Labourer, Fort Colvile (1853 - 1860); Post master, Fort Colvile (1860 - 1863); Post master, Kootenay's (1863 - 1866).

John Linklater joined the HBC in 1851 and spent much of his career in the Colvile-Kootenais area until his retirement in 1866 or 1867.

PS: HBCA YFASA 31-32; YFDS 22; FtVanASA 9-17; HBCCont; FtVicASA 4, 9-15; FtVicCB 27-29

Linklater, Thomas (c. 1815 - 1890) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: Stromness, Orkney - c. 1814Death: Olympia, Washington - February 1890Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince of Wales (ship) (1833); Passenger, Prince Rupert (ship) (1833); Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1834 - 1835); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1835 - 1836); Middleman, Fort McLoughlin (1836 - 1843); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1843 - 1845); Stoker, Beaver (steamer) (1843 - 1845); Interpreter, Fort Nisqually (1846 - 1848); Interpreter, Fort Nisqually (1848 - 1849); Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1848 - 1849); Head shepherd Tenalquot, Fort Nisqually (1849 - 1856).

Thomas Linklater joined the HBC on May 2, 1833, as a labourer in Orkney sailing the following month from Stromness to Moose River and then York Factory. From there he made his way overland to the Northwest Coast where he first worked for the HBC and then PSAC. In 1846 he began work at Nisqually and did a variety of tasks from killing sheep and dusting and sorting their skins, to baling up loose shingles on the beach. That same year, he unsuccessfully, or symbolically, tried to claim 640 acres [259 ha] for the HBC. On October 6, 1849 he began work at Tenalquot farm, Thurston County. The farm played a significant role in PSAC affairs and he had his usual problems for, on September 9, 1850, three of his employees ran off so he had to go to Nisqually for replacements. On September 11, 1851 he retired and at the same time, PSAC abandoned the farm allowing Linklater to claim 321.8 acres [130.2 ha] in present-day Thurston County. A competent, trusted former employee, he carried on transactions with and kept a large band of sheep for the Company. In the 1850 Census he is noted as living alone. He was trusted by his fellow employees for he was made the executor of the will of fellow Orcadian Adam Benston, in 1849 when Benston was very ill. Both Thomas and his native wife Mary, the daughter of a Kitkatla Chief, were very popular in social circles in the Nisqually area. For example, during the upheaval of the 1855-1856 Indian War, the Linklater's sustained good relations with the local natives and came through unscathed, unlike their neighbours who had their barn burned, horses stolen and farmhand wounded. Both Thomas and Mary were buried on the old Tenalquot farm in a grave marked by a stone obelisk.

Thomas Linklater had one wife and several children. On June 6, 1859, he formalized his marriage to Mary, Kitkatla [Tshimshian] (?-1884) with whom he had united in the 1840s. They had several children. One son, John (?-?), was one of the managers of the Nisqually outstations for a short time.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Prince of Wales I 10; log of Prince Rupert IV 7; YFASA 13-15, 19-20, 24-31; YFDS 5c-7; FtVanASA 3-9; FtVicASA 1-2; FtVicCB 30; HBCABio; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Lewis Co.; BCA PSACFtNis PPS: Dickey; Washington Territory Donation Land Claims, p. 57-58; Huggins, "Reminiscences of Puget", p. 213-14, 220 SS: Crooks, "From the Orkney Islands", p. 10-12

Linnett, Joseph (fl. 1849 - 1853) (British)

Birth: probably British IslesMaritime employee*HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1851); Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1852 - 1853).

Joseph Linnett made two voyages to the Coast on the HBC vessel Norman Morison. He was likely on the coast when he deserted.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Linniard, John [variation: Linneard, Lennard] (fl. 1834 - 1861) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: probably in or near Kirkgate, Birsay or Wasbister, Rousay, OrkneyDeath: drowned in South Thompson River, British ColumbiaFur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1835 - 1836); Middleman, New Caledonia (1836 - 1837); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1837 - 1838); Farmer, New Caledonia (1838 - 1839); Ploughman and farmer, New Caledonia (1839 - 1841); Farmer, New Caledonia (1841 - 1842); Farmer, Fort Alexandria (1842 - 1856); Labourer, Thompson River (1856 - 1860); Untraced vocation, Western Department (1860 - 1861).

John Linniard joined the HBC on April 17, 1834 in Orkney as a labourer and appears to have spent his entire career at interior posts. Much of this time, until 1856, was spent at Fort Alexandria doing farming duties, tending crops, making fences, etc. There he took a wife and raised his first family. He appears, after his contract ended in 1859, to have retired around 1861, for, in 1862, he pre-empted 160 acres [64.8 ha] on the south side of the Thompson River, eight miles east of Fort Kamloops. His name was still carried on HBC books until 1869. Some time later, John Linniard drowned in the South Thompson River while trying to retrieve a duck.

John Linniard's family life is not entirely clear. He had at least two native wives and several children. At Fort Alexandria, he had a local native wife, Alkoh (?-1849) who bore him at least four children, Mary (1845-?), an unnamed child (1848-1848), an unnamed child (?-1853) and another unnamed son (?-?). Alkoh died November 23, 1849. At Thompson River, Linniard took a second wife, an unnamed Shuswap native (?-?). Children of this union were Jean (c.1861), John (c.1861-?), Joseph (?-?) and Louis (c.1866-?).

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 15, 19-20, 24-32; YFDS 6-9, 11-14; FtVanASA 3-8; FtVicASA 1-9, 15-16; FtAlexPJ 5, 7-9; BCA FtAlex; Van-PL 1881 Canada Census, Yale; Van-PL 1891 Canada Census, Yale, Kamloops; Van-PL 1901 Canada Census, Yale & Cariboo, Yale North; I. W. Mackay, Indian Agent of Kamloops-Okanagan Agency, to A. W. Vowell, Indian Superintendent, Kamloops Sept. 24, 1892 in Department of Indian Affairs, Black Series, RG 10, vol 3867, file 87, [John, Joseph & Louis] p. 125 SS: Laing, p. 396

Linton, George (c. 1800 - 1835) (British: English)

Birth: London, England - c. 1800 (born to Elizabeth Linton)

Death: officially drowned in the Fraser River [British Columbia], but was later found to have been murdered - November 1835

Fur trade employee

HBC Clerk, New Caledonia (1831 - 1834); Clerk, Fort George [New Caledonia] (1834 - 1835).

George Linton had a good run in the fur trade but met a tragic end. He joined the NWC on October 1, 1818 as an apprentice clerk in the Northwest and, at the coalition in 1821, continued on with the HBC. Between 1823-1830, he worked at Athabasca, Swan River/Saskatchewan, Fort Edmonton, Fort Assiniboine and Lesser Slave Lake. In 1831, he was transferred to New Caledonia and around that time George Simpson candidly noted that Linton was:

A stout strong square built fellow who would have made a very good figure in the 'Prize Ring' being an excellent bruiser; has a good deal of the Manner of a man accustomed to live by his Wits, and I suspect is out of a bad nest. A low Knowing Kind of fellow who is neither a good Clerk nor Trader... Has no prospects of advancement (HBRs XXX, p. 216).

He worked at Fort George [New Caledonia] until the late fall of 1835 when he and his family were transferred to Fort Alexandria to take up a posting. Early in November, George Linton and Westayap Campbell and their respective families set out for the Alexandria post in their canoes. Both families disappeared and were deemed to have drowned on November 8, 1835 in the Fraser. A different story emerged, however, on March 14, 1838 when Touls Whates widow, who had fled her own village in fear for her life after the death of her husband, revealed a different version. It appears that a deal over the purchase of a dog had gone bad. When the Lintons and Campbells had camped near a village, Westayap had purchased a dog, the payment for which was deemed insufficient. Perhaps in an act of defiance, Westayap killed the dog and put it in his canoe. The seller, Kow na yelle, insulted, killed Westayap and shot Linton as he was going for his gun. Six others systematically butchered the rest of Linton's family and Westayap's wife with bullets, daggers and rifle butts. The bodies were thrown into the river and the canoes broken to make it look like a drowning.

The names of Linton's wife and children, two of whom were daughters, have not been traced.

An undelivered Darmellington, Scotland letter resting in the HBCA from sister H. A. Douglas, requested money from George to buy a house. As Linton's mother was eventually granted letters of administration of George's estate of £338 19s, she could have provided her daughter with enough money to buy a house.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA YFASA 5, 11-15; YFDS 5b-6; FtVanASA 3; FtAlexPJ 4; MiscI 5; HBCABio; SimpsonCB PPS: HBRs IIII, p. 54; 78; 207; 237; 255; 282; HBRs XXX, p. 216 PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 315-19

Liston, Francis (fl. 1833 - 1835) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1833 - 1835).

Francis Liston joined the HBC in Valparaiso, Chile on December 18, 1833 after a mutiny had cost the Nereide several sailors. He then sailed for the Northwest Coast and Fort Vancouver where he arrived on April 21, 1834. After a quick turnaround, as the vessel was not needed for coastal shipping, Liston left the Columbia River post on May 28, 1834 for a long return voyage to the British Isles. After stopping at Valparaiso, the vessel eventually arrived back in London May 28, 1835.

PS: HBCA log of Nereide 1; MiscShPap

Little, John (fl. 1813 - 1814) (American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Fur trade employee

PFC Passenger, Beaver (ship) (1811 - 1812); Boatbuilder, Fort George [Astoria] (1812 - 1813); Passenger, Raccoon (sloop) (winter 1813 - 1814); Boatbuilder, Fort George [Astoria] (1813).

In October 1811 in New York, John Little signed on with the PFC to work at Fort Astoria. On October 10, he departed New York on the Beaver [Cornelius Sowle], and sailed round the Horn arriving at Fort Astoria on May 9, 1812.

For the next year and a half he was constantly ill, but the mercury cure probably did more damage than the disease itself. In December 1813, after the PFC was bought out by the NWC, he was taken aboard the corvette, HMS Raccoon [W. Black] and, under the care of the ship's surgeon, transported to the Sandwich Islands to recover. An apparently recovered Little returned to Astoria in early 1814 on either the PFC vessel, Pedler [Wilson Price Hunt] in February, or NWC ship Isaac Todd [Capt. Smith] in April, likely the latter. On May 22, 1814, Little was the sole survivor in the drowning incident that took the lives of Donald McTavish, Alexander Henry, Captain Smith's nephew, and four seamen. The group was crossing the Columbia in a blowing gale when the boat sank like a rock. Little, with the help of an oar, swam some distance with a seaman who eventually succumbed to the cold. The American boat builder then reached a stump in the river and some passing natives almost shot him believing him to be a seal. The native rescuers, who had to pry his fingers from the stump, took him to the fort thus saving his life. He has not been traced after that.

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria; HBCA NWCAB 10; NAC Keith PPS: ChSoc XLV, p. 135; A. Ross, The Fur Hunters, p. 34-35; Corney, Early Voyages, p. 19 SS: K. W. Porter, John Jacob Astor, p. 475-478

Little, Thomas (fl. 1844 - 1845) (British: English)

Birth: probably in or near Maryport, England

Maritime employee

HBC Boatswain, Cowlitz (barque) (1844 - 1845).

Thomas Little appeared in the Columbia in outfit 1844-1845 and the following outfit was discharged in Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-25

Little, William Coffin (fl. 1824 - 1838) (American)

Birth: possibly Stow, Middlesex, Massachusetts or Kennebunk, Maine

Death: Mexico - 1838

Maritime employee

MW Mate, Convoy (brig) (1824 - 1825).

William C. Little had a brief association with the Northwest Coast. He signed on with the Josiah Marshall brig Convoy [William Henry McNeill] in Boston around October 1824. After arriving in Honolulu on March 16, 1825 and unloading supplies, Little and the vessel sailed April 1 for the Northwest Coast. After trading for a season he arrived back in Honolulu on November 2, 1825 thus ending his association with the Northwest Coast. It had been an unhappy voyage for Little as he wrote on December 20, 1825, that he had "submitted to almost every indignity that malice jealousy and ignorance could invent." Consequently, he left the Convoy and joined the schooner Washington as captain, sailing on the 24th of that month for the California Coast where, after trading successfully for five months, he returned to the Sandwich Islands. On that voyage, he carried gifts from Francisco de Paula Marin to his friends in California. At the request of John C. Jones, the Marshall agent in Honolulu, he took command of the brig Neo in June, 1826 and sailed July 14th for Manila with a cargo of pearl shells and sandalwood. However, at the Philippines, variable winds drove him onto a coral reef and some of the cargo of sandalwood had to be thrown overboard to get the brig off the reef and into harbour for repairs. By December 25, the Neo had gone through expensive repairs and had departed Canton. The following year, in December 1827, Little sailed the brig Diana from Canton to the Sandwich Islands and California Coast for further trading. He appears to have sailed in the Pacific for a number of years after that while using Hawaii as a base for him and his family. He eventually drowned when his ship, Griffon, went down in a hurricane off Mazatlan.

He was raising a family in Honolulu in June 1836 when his wife delivered a son. According to the IGI file, he married Charlotte Augusta Wood in 1834.

PS: BCA log of Convoy; HU-HL JMarshallB; HHS SandwichIs, Nov. 1, 1838, p. 3; HMCS SReynoldsJ SS: Howay, A List of Trading Vessels; Gast

Littlehales, Baker Joseph (fl. 1833 - 1835) (British: English)

Birth: probably Buckinghamshire, England

Maritime officer

HBC 1st mate, Nereide (barque) (1833 - 1835).

Baker Joseph Littlehales joined the HBC in London on April 10, 1833 as a first mate for three years which were meant to be served in coastal shipping. He sailed on the Nereide on May 4 on an arduous almost year long voyage to the Northwest Coast. The voyage was delayed months after stopping at Plymouth and Lisbon for repairs. After his arrival at Fort Vancouver on April 21, 1834 and a quick turnaround as the vessel was not needed for coastal shipping, Littlehales left the Columbia River post on May 28, 1834 for an equally long return voyage. After stopping at Valparaiso, the vessel eventually arrived back in London May 28, 1835.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; HBCA ShMiscPap 14; log of Nereide 1

Livingston, Duncan [variation: Livingstone] (c. 1797 - 1828) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Athabasca or Red River area - c. 1797 (born to Duncan Livingston Sr.)

Death: Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs], New Caledonia - April 16, 1828

Fur trade employee

HBC Interpreter, New Caledonia (1821 - 1824); Middleman, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825); NWC Interpreter, New Caledonia (1825 - 1828); Middleman, New Caledonia (1825 - 1828).

Duncan Livingston, the apparent half-brother of J. B. "Waccan" Boucher, joined the NWC in 1819 for the first two years east of the Rockies, and did nothing but annoy the HBC opposition. In 1821 at the time of the amalgamation of the two companies he moved into the New Caledonia area. In May 1824, he deserted and was accused of stealing some HBC property but, in February, returned contrite. Later that year, from having a nail run through his foot and rheumatism, he became lame as well as almost lost the use of an eye. By 1826 he was still not back to full health but he was nonetheless further re-engaged as an interpreter at reduced wages. Livingston was killed April 16, 1828 within twenty miles [32.2 km] of Fort Babine by two renegade Carrier natives who had previously threatened people at the post. He was in the wrong place at the wrong time for on his return to Babine, as the HBC party's nearby salmon cache had been stolen, Livingston went to obtain rabbits from natives within the area. When Livingston suspected that he was going to be robbed, he told his companion, native Hawaiian Canot, to flee, which he did. Canot escaped but Livingston was killed. In August of that year, J. B. "Waccan" Boucher, dispatched one of the murderers and the following month, Who Knack killed the second culprit, Matt of the Simpson's River area.

Duncan Livingston had one wife and child. A mixed descent Cree woman, whom he appears to have known before, was brought in from McLeod Lake on May 26, 1825 and, two months later, on July 15, they had a son. No other children were recorded.

PS: HBCA YFASA 1-2, 4-8; HBCCont; FtStJmsLS 1; FtBabPJ 11; FtStJmsCB 5-6; FtVanASA 1; YFDS 3b; HBCABio PPS: HBRS I, p. 447; HBRS II, p. 123, 277; HBRS X, p. 27 SS: Morice, The History of, p. 147, 254
See Also: Boucher, Jean Baptiste (c) (probable Brother)

Lizotte, Pierre (c. 1799 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Yamaska, Lower Canada - c. 1799

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1823 - 1824); Middleman, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825); Labourer, Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs] (1825); Middleman, New Caledonia (1825 - 1827).

Pierre Lizotte spent his Pacific slopes career in New Caledonia before returning to Montreal.

PS: HBCA YFDS 1a; FtStJmsLS 1; YFASA 4-6; FtStJmsRD 3

Loader, Charles (fl. 1830) (British: English)

Birth: probably Devon, England

Maritime employee

HBC Steward, Ganymede (barque) (1830 - 1832); Seaman, Ganymede (barque) (1830 - 1832).

Charles Loader joined the HBC on November 20, 1830 for three years and sailed to Fort Vancouver on the Ganymede. He departed Fort Vancouver in November 1831 and arrived back in London the following year.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 7

Lobb, Charles (? - 1850) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles (born to Judith Lobb)

Death: Shushartie (near Fort Rupert), Colony of Vancouver Island - July 7, 1850

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1850); Deserter, near Fort Rupert (July, 1850).

Charles Lobb joined the HBC in England on October 13, 1849 and came to Vancouver Island on the Norman Morison. After his arrival on March 24, 1850, Lobb, James and George Wishart and Albert F. Hale deserted the vessel on May 11 for the nearby coal carrier, the England. The group sailed north on the England and three of the group were killed by the Newitsee Hyda natives near Fort Rupert. (For details of the deaths of three of the four deserters and subsequent actions by the British Navy, see Alfred F. Hale.) For some unexplained reason, his mother was not apprised of her son's death until 1852.

An undelivered letter, written coincidently or instinctively on July 7, 1850 by his mother, Judith Lobb, of Landport, England, rests in the HBCA. It also reveals a mother close to her son and a father who would not always share the money Charles sent home.

Lockyear, Thomas (c. 1818 - ?) (British: English)

Birth: Middlesex, England - c. 1818

Maritime employee

HBC Ordinary seaman, Columbia (barque) (1835 - 1836); Ordinary seaman, Beaver (steamer) (1836 - 1840); Ordinary seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1840).

Thomas Lockyear sailed with the merchant vessel Anne before he joined the HBC in London on August 29, 1835 as an ordinary seaman for five years. He sailed to the coast on the Columbia in company with the (steamer) Beaver (as it had not been fully rigged as a steamer) from England, arriving March, 1836. He continued working on the Beaver until the end of his contract on October 31, 1840. In January 1838 he participated in the mutiny of the steamer but did not appear to suffer repercussions. He returned to England on the Vancouver in 1840.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 4a; FtSimp[N]P 3; FtVanASA 3-6; YFDS 7, 11; YFASA 19-20

Lodge, Martin (c. 1801 - ?) (Irish)

Birth: St. John's, Cork, Ireland - c. 1801

Death: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Eagle (brig) (1831 - 1832); Carpenter, Vancouver (schooner) (1832 - 1833); Carpenter, Cadboro (schooner) (1833); Carpenter, Eagle (brig) (1834 - 1835); Carpenter, Lama (brig) (1834); Cook, Dryad (brig) (1834); Carpenter, Columbia (barque) (1835 - 1836); Carpenter, Cadboro (schooner) (1836 - 1837); Carpenter, Fort Vancouver general charges (1837 - 1838); Carpenter, Cadboro (schooner) (1838 - 1839); Carpenter, Nereide (barque) (1839 - 1840).

Martin Lodge joined the HBC on September 24, 1831 and arrived in the Columbia aboard the brig Eagle. He worked on coastal shipping for two years before leaving for England on the Eagle in 1834. After signing a new contract, he came back out again on the Columbia, stayed for two years and finally left for the British Isles on the brig Nereide in 1839. He was discharged in London on April 22, 1840.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 4a; 14; YFDS 5a-5c, 7, 10; YFASA 12-14, 19; log of Dryad 1; log of Columbia 1; FtVanASA 3-5; log of Nereide 2

Logan, Kenneth (c. 1825 - 1859) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Red River Settlement [Manitoba] - c. 1825 (born to Robert and Mary Logan)

Death: possibly Red River Settlement [Manitoba] - March 1859

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice, Fort Vancouver general charges (1841 - 1842); Apprentice, Fort Vancouver depot (1842 - 1843); Clerk's assistant, Fort Nisqually (1843); Post master, Fort Vancouver (1843 - 1848); Clerk, Fort Vancouver (1848 - 1849); Clerk, Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs] (1850 - 1851); Clerk, Fort Langley (1851 - 1852); Clerk, Thompson River general charges (1852 - 1853); Clerk, York Factory Express (HBC) (1853).

Kenneth Logan joined the HBC in 1841 as an apprentice and in two years was working as a post master. On November 20, 1844, when a fire was advancing on the Mill Plain near Fort Vancouver, Logan rode out on a reconnaissance mission and was cited for a commendation on his reporting of the matter which helped minimize the loss. On March 1, 1849, he ended his employment and left for California, presumably to join the gold rush there. He returned the following year, informally rejoined the HBC and worked as a clerk in New Caledonia. In January 1852 he was quite ill and in January 1853 was sent to Fort Vancouver but, as he was not considered qualified to take charge of the accounts and because he had an advanced case of what appeared to tuberculosis, he was sent back to the Red River settlement. His lack of a contract did not permit him to secure a residual sizable credit which was entered in the books under his name (FtVanCB 42, fo. 67-67d). He died, along with his wife Susan, on March 1, 1859.

Kenneth Logan had one wife and an undetermined number of daughters. In 1850, he married Susan, daughter of Simon McGillivray (?-1859). One daughter was Alice (1855-?).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-9; YFASA 24-28, 30-32; FtVanCB 31; YFDS 19; FtVicASA 1-4; FtVanCB 42; Ft VicCB 4, 6, 7; HBCABio PPS: S. A. Anderson, The Physical Structure, p. 166
See Also: McGillivray, Simon Jr. (Father-in-Law)

Logan, Mr. (fl. 1825) (possibly American)

Birth: possibly United States of America

Free trader

U.A. Trapper, Rendezvous (1825).

Mr. Logan (first name not traced) appeared on the records as acquiring several goods at the 1825 Rendezvous at Henry's Fork [Wyoming] from William Ashley, who had brought them overland from St. Louis. Nothing else is known of Logan who probably attended other Rendezvous and continued trapping in the Rocky Mountains.

PS: MHS Ashley 2

Logan, Robert Jr. (fl. 1849 - 1851) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably West of the Rockies

Death: possibly Pacific Northwest

Fur trade employee

HBC Post master, Columbia Department general charges (1849 - 1850); Post master, Fort Vancouver (1850 - 1851).

Robert Logan Jr. was hired on locally possibly in 1849, retired on July 21, 1851, and remained in the area.

PS: HBCA YFASA 29-31; HBCABio

Lohiau (fl. 1840 - 1842) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - June 1842

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1841 - 1842).

Lohiau joined the HBC in Oahu in 1840. His contract was to have ended in 1843, but he died at Fort Vancouver, where he worked, on June 1, 1842. His wages were paid to his relatives in Hawaii.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22; FtVanASA 6-7; SandIsAB 3

Lonctain, Andre [standard: André] [variation: Lontin, Lonetain, Longtain, Longtemps] (c. 1795 - 1879) (Canadian: French)

Birth: St. Constant or St. Pierre, Lower Canada - c. 1795

Death: Salem, Oregon - February 21, 1879

Fur trade employee

NWC Middleman, Columbia Department (1820 - 1821); HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (1822 - 1823); Middleman, Thompson River (1822 - 1823); Middleman, Columbia Department (1823 - 1826); Middleman, Snake Party (1826 - 1832); Middleman, South Party (1832 - 1833); NWC Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1833 - 1836); Farmer/Settler, Willamette (1836 - 1837); HBC Settler, Willamette (1841 - 1842).

A twenty-four year old André Lonctain joined the NWC on January 26, 1820 from the St. Constant District of Montreal as a middleman for three years in the Northwest, although later HBC records show him from St. Pierre. In 1821, after a year in the Columbia, he transferred to the HBC when it absorbed its rival. He appeared to be a competent middleman as, for example, on the Ogden's Snake Parties, he was not mentioned in the Journals. After two years with John Work in the Snake Country, he followed Work on his California expedition and when Lonctain and his family became ill, he returned to the Willamette Valley realizing that farming life would be easier. He appears, according to a sworn statement with his Donation Land Claim certificate, to have continuously farmed his tract from November 30, 1834. Tradition has it that the Champoege parklands farm, once Lonctain's farm was purchased by buying George W. Ebbert's squatter's rights in 1841 for one hundred bushels [36.4 hl] of wheat. He also continued to sell wheat and furs to the Company. He doesn't appear in the HBC records after 1842 but did vote against the establishment of a Provisional Government in 1843. His home was washed away in the flood of 1861-1862 but he built another one down and across the river near his daughter. He died February 21, 1879 in the St. Paul parish at the ripe old age of eight-six.

André Lonctain had one, possibly two wives and six, possibly seven children. On January 21, 1839, he formalized his marriage to Nancy, Okanogan (c.1796-1876). Their recorded children were Henriette (c.1824-1913), Catherine (c.1825-1858), Angelique (c.1829-1887), Joseph (1838-1859), Genevieve (1840-?) and Luce [Louis?-Census] (1843-?). A further child, Thomas Lonctain (c.1845-1881), may have been born to André Lonctain and Matilde Rivest.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 9; YFASA 1-2, 4-9, 11-15; FtVanASA 1-6; YFDS 3b, 4b-6, 8, 10-11; HBCABio; BCA BCCR CCCath; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion County PPS: CCR 1a, 2a, 2b, 2c; Cal. H.S.Q., vol. XXII:2, 3, and 4, vol. XXIII:1 and 2??? SS: Hussey, Champoege Place of, p. 79-80; Dobbs, p. 147; Holman, p. 116

Loncteau, Francois [standard: François] (fl. 1823 - 1824) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1823 - 1824).

François Loncteau may have been a member of the cross-country brigade in 1823-1824.

PS: HBCA YFDS 1a

Lonctin, Antoine [variation: Loncteau] (c. 1802 - ?) (probably Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly La Prairie, Lower Canada - c. 1802

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1821 - 1822); Untraced vocation, Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs] (1822 - 1823).

Antoine Lonctin, who worked for the HBC between 1821-1823, appears in the journals as not particularly strong. In the late Fall of 1822, he helped to establish a new post at the end of Babine Lake and probably left early the following year.

PS: HBCA YFASA 1-2; FtBabPJ 11

Lonctin, Etienne [standard: Étienne] [variation: Langin, Lonctain] (fl. 1813 - 1814) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly St. Constant, Lower Canada

Death: possibly East of the Rocky Mountains

Fur trade employee

NWC Steersman, Willamette Post (1813 - 1814); Steersman, Brigade to Fort William (1814).

Étienne Longtin, who joined the NWC in Montreal in 1812 on a three year contract, found himself wintering at Willamette post in 1813-1814. An Étienne Longtin, from La Tortue, La Prairie, contracted with McTavish, McGillivray and Co. on March 16, 1813 to work in the Northwest as a steersman and middleman. Possibly the same, an Étienne Lonctain, from St. Constant, signed on with the same company on October 12, 1819 to work as a bowsman out of Fort William [Lake Superior], likely on the brigade. All three, in spite of the change of parish, may be the same person. Our Étienne Lonctin left Fort Astoria on April 4, 1814 as a steersman for Fort William and possibly Montreal.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 10

Lonctin, Eustache (fl. 1821 - 1822) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly St. Constant, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

HBC Boute, Columbia Department (1821).

Eustache Lonctin joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] from St. Constant for two years as a wintering steersman in the Northwest and possibly came to the coast that year. In 1821, he was a member of a large group of redundant NWC employees who transferred to the HBC and returned to Montreal that year.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 9; FtGeo[Ast]AB 7; HBCA YFASA

Long, Ira (fl. 1836) (Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

CRFTC Passenger, May Dacre (brig) (1834); Member, Columbia River Fishing and Trading Company (1834).

Ira Long was one of twenty Hawaiians who joined Nathaniel J. Wyeth's CRFTC in Hawaii in 1834. After coming to the Columbia and labouring under very difficult conditions, he struck out on a brigade under Joseph Thing toward Fort Hall. In early November, twelve Hawaiians deserted and, because Long became sick and was suspected of being mentally deranged, he was given tea and other luxuries. On November 23, he disappeared too and his fate is unknown. According to Wyeth, he may have drowned. (Ira Long is probably related to the following.)

PPS: N. J. Wyeth, p. 235, 237, 250

See Also: Long, Joseph (probable Relative)

Long, Joseph (fl. 1835 - 1844) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1836); Middleman, Fort McLoughlin (1836 - 1840); PSAC Untraced vocation, Puget Sound Agricultural Company (1840 - 1841); Middleman and labourer, Cowlitz Farm (1841 - 1844).

Joseph Long joined the HBC from Oahu in 1835. He began work in the Columbia on October 12, 1835 and was employed at various coastal forts for the next ten years. He worked until November 12, 1844, at which point he returned to Oahu where he received his final wages on December 31.

Lord, Elbridge [variation: Ethbridge] (fl. 1831 - 1832) (Undetermined origin)

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (schooner) (1831); Seaman, Ganymede (barque) (1831).

Elbridge Lord was engaged by the HBC on February 1, 1831 at Oahu for work as a seaman in the Columbia. He sailed back on the Vancouver but didn't last long for nine months later, on November 1, 1831, he was "Discharged and sent thither" (YFDS 4b, fo. 77b) to Oahu aboard the Ganymede.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 11; YFDS 4b

Lorkins, Thomas [variation: Lorkin, Larkin] (c. 1803 - ?) (British: English)

Birth: probably Derby, England - c. 1803

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1835 - 1836); Seaman, Lama (brig) (1836 - 1837).

Thomas Lorkins had sailed with the merchant vessel Pearl before he signed on with the HBC in London on August 25 1835 and sailed to the coast aboard the barque Columbia. He then transferred to the brig Lama but appears to have had a very short career with the Company as he was discharged in Oahu after he deserted from the Lama on July 31, 1837.

Four undelivered family letters from a cousin and sweetheart, two sisters and a brother in law rest at the HBCA. They reveal that Lorkins, himself religious but an unhappy man, was from an intensely religious family who wrote pages of religious instruction to save his soul from damnation. This could be a clue to his desertion at Oahu.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 4a; log of Columbia 1; FtVanASA 3-5; YFDS 7-8; HBCABio; ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 17; MiscI 5; HBCABio PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 94-101

Louis, Joseph (fl. 1822 - 1831) (Native: Abenaki)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1822); Freeman, Snake Party (1825 - 1826); Labourer, South Party (1826 - 1827); Hunter and trapper, South Party (1826 - 1827); Middleman, York Factory Express (HBC) (1828); Middleman, Snake Party (1831).

Joseph Louis, who signed on with the HBC in 1822 to work in the Columbia, seemed to function best when he was on the move. Little is known of his character but he made the journals, for example, in the dead of winter of 1826 when he and three others went missing for three weeks from Ogden's main group, or as a very successful hunter and trapper on the McLeod expedition the following year. He was last traced on October 7, 1831 on John Work's Snake party when Louis and J. Rayburn went out to look for six horses belonging to six of the men.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; SnkCoPJ 4, 11; P. S. Ogden's February 2/11, 1826 Burnt River letter to Governor, D.4/119, [yet no sign of on February 11, 1826] fo. 34d; FtVanPJ 2 PPS: E. Ermatinger, p. 113

Louisson, Jean Baptiste [variation: John B. Loualessa] (fl. 1825) (probably American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Free trader

U.A. Trapper, Rendezvous (1825).

Jean Baptiste Louisson acquired several goods at the 1825 Rendezvous at Henry's Fork [Wyoming] from William Ashley, who had brought them overland from St. Louis. He probably attended other Rendezvous' as well as continued trapping in the Rocky Mountains.

PS: MHS Ashley 2

Louisson, Julien (fl. 1821 - 1823) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1821 - 1823).

Julien Louisson worked for the HBC from 1821-1823 and returned to Montreal in 1823.

PS: HBCA YFASA 1-2

Louttit, Andrew (c. 1800 - ?) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: Orkney, United Kingdom - c. 1800 (born to George Louttit and Christian [Clouston] Louttit)Death: probably Rendall, OrkneyFur trade employee*HBC Blacksmith, Fort Vancouver general charges (1840 - 1841); Blacksmith, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1844); Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1844).

Andrew Louttit temporarily left his Orkney family at the relatively advanced age of thirty-nine for five years in the fur trade. He acquired the skills of a blacksmith, got married and moved to a coastal farm, "Riff", Rendall, where he was in the process of raising a family. Possibly to acquire more funds for his growing family, he joined the HBC in Birsay on April 13, 1839 as a blacksmith for five years. He sailed that year and arrived in the Columbia in 1840 serving out his contract at Fort Vancouver with four to six other blacksmiths who worked at the four anvils in the blacksmith's shop within the palisades. There, according to a descendant, along with his other duties, Louttit "made baskets for fish traps from willows and nails for boats." He may have brought his basket weaving skills with him or learned them from the local natives. When his contract ended in 1844, he returned that fall to the British Isles via the Prince Rupert and back to his family. His venture enabled him to acquire capital to buy twelve acres [4.9 ha] of farmland for in 1851 he was a farmer/blacksmith employing an apprentice and raising his family at "Goe", Rendall.

Andrew Louttit had one wife and four recorded children. On April 22, 1822, in Harry, Orkney, Andrew married Helen/Ellen Marwick. Together they had Magnus (1823-?), Helen/Ellen (1835-?), Alexander (1835-?) and Andrew (1837-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 23-24; FtVanASA 6-8; log of Prince Rupert V 4; OrkA Louttit; OrkA 1851 U.K. Census, Orkney SS: Louttit descendant

Low, John Jr. [b] (c. 1813 - ?) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: possibly Stromness, Orkney - c. 1813 (born to John Sr. Low)Maritime employee*HBC Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1836 - 1837); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1837 - 1838); Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1838); Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1838 - 1839).

John Low Jr. joined the HBC on February 13, 1836 as a seaman along with his father, John Sr. He served on two ships on the coast and left the Pacific Northwest for England on the barque Columbia on November 1, 1838. His contract was to have ended in 1840.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 9, 14; FtVanASA 3-5, 7, 9; YFASA 18; log of Columbia 3
See Also: Low, John Sr. (Father)

Low, John Sr. [a] [variation: Lowe] (c. 1778 - ?) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: possibly Stromness, Orkney - c. 1778Death: probably British IslesMaritime employee*HBC Cook, Cadboro (schooner) (1826 - 1830); Cook, Eagle (brig) (1830 - 1831); Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1836 - 1837); Cook, Nereide (barque) (1837 - 1840).

John Low Sr. joined the HBC in London as a seaman for three years on September 20, 1826 and was at work two days later. He sailed to the coast and served in the double capacity as seaman and cook. He left the Columbia for Europe on October 1, 1830 on the Eagle. Just how he occupied his time for the next five years is unknown but he signed another contract on February 13, 1836 as a seaman and cook for five years and sailed back to the Coast, this time with his son as a fellow employee. He left the Columbia for the British Isles on the brig Nereide in 1839 and was discharged in London on April 22, 1840.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Cadboro 1; ShMiscPap 4, 9, 14; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-4; YFDS 2b-4a, 7, 10; YFASA 7-11, 19
See Also: Low, John Jr. (Son)

Low, Thomas D. (fl. 1824 - 1825) (American)

Birth: probably United States of AmericaMaritime employee*MW Seaman, Convoy (brig) (1825).

Thomas D. Low shipped aboard the Convoy [William Henry McNeill] in Boston as a seaman before it sailed for the Northwest Coast on October 25, 1824. After arriving at Honolulu on March 16, 1825 and discharging cargo, it took on supplies for the Northwest Coast, departing April 1. Low and the vessel traded for a season, returning to Honolulu November 2. It is not known whether he continued to sail with the Convoy back to the Northwest Coast for the 1826-1827 trading seasons.

PS: BCA log of Convoy SS: Howay, A List of Trading Vessels

Lowdell, Sydney P. (fl. 1857 - 1858) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime officer

HBC Surgeon, Princess Royal (barque) (1857 - 1858).

Sydney P. Lowdell made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA log of Princess Royal 4; PortB 1

Lowe, Thomas (1824 - ?) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Perthshire (County of Perth), Scotland - November 1824 (born to Dr. John Lowe)

Death: probably Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice clerk, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1842 - 1843); Apprentice clerk, Fort Vancouver (1843 - 1846); Clerk, Fort Vancouver (1846 - 1849).

Thomas Lowe was appointed January 31, 1841 as apprentice clerk. He joined the HBC in August 1841 and was to proceed to Moose Factory; instead, he took the Vancouver to the Columbia. However, in Honolulu, he transferred to the Cowlitz, which took him along with Governor George Simpson to Sitka which was close to his first appointment, Fort Taku. They arrived at Fort Taku on April 23, 1842. While in Fort Vancouver he was in charge of the express parties to York Factory. In 1849 he married and retired setting up business in Oregon City as commission merchant in partnership with George T. Allan and Archibald McKinlay under the name of Allan, McKinlay & Co. (He eventually became a citizen of the U.S.) In 1852 he started the firm of Allan, Lowe and Company at San Francisco and in 1855 was joined by his brother James who began business as commission merchant in Victoria, Vancouver Island and in 1862 was joined by his brother Thomas. Thomas had purchased three hundred acres [121.4 ha] in the North Saanich District in 1858. The Lowe brothers increased their business but finally dissolved their partnership in 1871. At that time Thomas retired to Scotland.

On May 29, 1849, Thomas Lowe married La Rose Birnie (c.1821-1860) from the Oregon Territory probably in the Fort Vancouver area. Rose died in 1860 and is buried in the Pioneer Cemetery at Cathlamet. No children were listed.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 7-8; YFASA 22, 24-29; FtVicAB 10; HBCA Thomas Lowe search file; BCA BCGR-CrtR-AbstLnd; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Clackamas County; BCA BCCR CCCath PPS: ChSoc VI, p. 393

Lowe, William [variation: Low] (fl. 1821 - c. 1826) (possibly Canadian: English)

Birth: possibly Berthier, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Middleman, New Caledonia (1820); HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1821 - 1822); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1823 - 1824); Hatter, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825); Middleman, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825).

William Lowe joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray] from Berthier on January 1, 1820 for three years as a middleman. By November 30 of that year, he was in New Caledonia and the following year, joined the HBC. He continued to work in the area until 1825, and, on July 23, 1825 was at York Factory, where he signed a further one year contract as a middleman and hatter; his contract was to end the following year in Montreal.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 7; HBCA YFASA 1, 4; YFDS 1a; FtStJmsLS 1; HBCCont

Lowpirani (fl. 1840 - 1841) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1841).

Lowpirani joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840 and began his career at the lonely northern outpost of Fort Taku, at the end of Taku harbour. He worked there for a little more than one year, until November 20, 1841, at which point he returned to Oahu. He returned home early, for his contract was to have ended in 1843.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20-21; FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 12

Loyer, Charles (fl. 1811 - c. 1827) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

NWC Member, Columbia River (1811) (with David Thompson); Middleman, Flathead Post [Fort Connah, Saleesh House] (winter 1813 - 1814); HBC Trapper, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1821 - 1822); Freeman, Columbia Department (1822 - 1823); Trapper, Snake Party (1824 - 1825).

Charles Loyer worked with David Thompson on the Columbia and re-contracted with the NWC in the Columbia in 1813 on a two-year contract spending the winter of 1813-1814 in Flathead post. By outfit 1822-1823, he was still in the area working as a freeman for the HBC. On February 10, 1824, when he joined Alexander Ross at Prairie de Cheveaux, near Flathead post, on his nine month trapping expedition to the Snake Country, Loyer was deemed a "good trapper" (SnkCoPJ 1, fo. 2). However, by March 30, 1824, Loyer, who was in charge of a lodge of two people, was lagging behind and an irritable Ross felt that Loyer was not worth equipping. On May 24, 1824, the plan of Loyer, whom Ross by this time was calling an "old plotting rascal", Soteaux and Jaco Finlay to desert was discovered by Ross who threatened to strip them and their families naked if they attempted to carry it out. On December 20, 1825, after returning to Flathead post, however, Loyer joined Ogden for his 1824-1825 expedition. By the fall of 1827 he was likely in the Fort Assiniboine area to the north for a Loyer was noted as being part of the express returning west.

Charles Loyer's family has not been traced.

PS: UBC-Koer Thompson; HBCA NWCAB 10; HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 4, 10; SnkCoPJ 1-2 PPS: E. Ermatinger, p. 105

Lozeau, Charles (c. 1813 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Verennes, Lower Canada - c. 1813Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1833 - 1834); Blacksmith, Fort Vancouver general charges (1833 - 1834); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1834 - 1836); Blacksmith, Fort Simpson (1834 - 1836).

Charles Lozeau joined the HBC from Varennes in 1833 on a three year contract. After making his way to the coast, was assigned to Fort Simpson, likely the old Nass River site. He was brought from the old river site to the new site on the Tsimpsean Peninsula on September 1, 1834 and on January 17, 1835, was noted as making nails. He appears to have worked quietly and competently and at the end of his contract, returned east over the Rockies in the Spring of 1836.

PS: HBCA YFASA 13-16; YFDS 5b-6; FtSimp[N]PJ 3; FtVanASA 3

Loziere, Ignace [variation: Enias Losière] (c. 1812 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: St. Francois, Lower Canada - c. 1812Death: probably Cowlitz area, Lewis County, Washington Territory*Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1833 - 1834); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1834 - 1836); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1836 - 1838); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1839); PSAC Middleman, Cowlitz Farm (1839 - 1847); Farmer, Cowlitz Farm (1846); IND. Freeman, Cowlitz Farm (1847 - 1848); PSAC Middleman, Cowlitz Farm (1848).

Ignace Loziere, a man described as five feet eight inches [1.7 m] tall with red hair and blue eyes, joined the HBC in 1833, likely from Trois Rivières. After making his way to the coast, he began his career with a bang at his first assignment, Fort Simpson where he was employed in the construction of the second Nass site on Tsimpsean Peninsula. At the fort, while he was on night watch on December 31, 1834, he accidentally set off his musket which set off the cannon, blowing out half of the block house. To add to the indignity of the event, he injured his hand, an eventful beginning to a paradoxically quiet career (FtSimp[N]PJ 3, fo. 16d). After working on the steamer Beaver, he worked at the Cowlitz farm where he hauled the lumber from the mill to the edge of the woods. He worked until December 10, 1846 at which point he settled in the Cowlitz on 490 acres [198.3 ha] to become a farmer. (In outfit 1847-1848 he was listed as being a freeman in the Cowlitz and not working for the Company.) On April 7, 1853 he became a U.S. citizen and in 1856, under Captain Henry Peers, he served in the Cowlitz rangers of the Washington Territory Mounted Volunteers during the 1855-1856 Indian War (CCR 1, A-50). The date and place of his death have not been traced.

Ignace Loziere had two wives and four recorded children. At Fort Vancouver on May 27, 1839 he married Sophie, Chehalis who died within the next three years, probably in the Cowlitz area. After her death on November 20, 1843, he married Julie Serpent (later Petter) and together they had Louisa (c.1844-?), Francis (?-?), Julia (?-?) and Laura (?-?).

PS: HBCA FtSimp[N]PJ 3; YFASA 13-16, 19-20, 24-27; YFDS 5b-7, 17; FtSimp[N]PJ 3; FtVanASA 3-8; PSACAB 3 PPS: CCR 1a; Washington Territory Donation Land Claims, p. 19-20

Lucas, John (c. 1808 - ?) (British: English)

Birth: Birmingham, Warwickshire, England - c. 1808

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1835 - 1836); Seaman, Lama (brig) (1836); Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1836 - 1838).

John Lucas sailed on the British naval vessel HMS Melville before he joined the HBC on August 29, 1835 as a seaman for five years. He then sailed to the Pacific Coast aboard the Company vessel Columbia and began his work in coastal shipping in November 1836 servicing various coastal posts. He must have been discontent for, on March 31, 1838, a full two years before the end of his contract, he deserted at Monterey. And there we leave him.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 4a, 14; log of Columbia 1; FtVanASA 3-5. 7; YFASA 18

Lucier, Basile [variation: Bazile Lussier] (fl. c. 1807 - 1838) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Yamaska, Lower Canada

Death: possibly East of the Rocky Mountains – by 1838

Fur trade employee

NWC Middleman, Kootenae House (1807 - 1808); Member, Rocky Mountains (1808 - 1809) (with David Thompson); Steersman, Fort George [Astoria] (1813 - 1814); Steersman, Columbia River (1814 - 1816).

Basile Lucier may have been with David Thompson when Thompson went over the Rockies in 1807 to establish Kootenae House. If so, he and the others suffered from a lack of food that summer. However, the Lussier of the Thompson Journals may also be François or Joseph, both found at Fort des Prairies in 1804. Bazile is first on record as having joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray] on January 9, 1808 from Yamaska for three years as a wintering middleman in the Northwest and may have travelled with Thompson to the Columbia in May of that year. If that was him, he summered in 1808 at Kootenae house and wintered in the Rocky Mountains in 1808-1809. He appears to have been with Thompson in the Rockies in 1808-1809 when, on April 25, 1809, his wife died, leaving four children. The six foot three inch [1.9 m] “muscular frame and buffalo neck” Lucier, having been re-engaged at Montreal in 1813, was at Fort George [Astoria] at the end of that year. Because of his relatively enormous size, he was considered a bit of a bully but, when challenged to a fight by Finan McDonald, was beaten so badly that he couldn’t work for several weeks. Nonetheless, the valued steersman worked in the Columbia at interior posts until at least 1816 when he may have returned to Montreal. By 1838, Bazile Lucier had died.

Basile Lucier had at least one wife and four children. One recorded child was Marguerite (c.1814-?). According to Munnick, a Marie Lucier (?-before 1852), who married Jean Baptiste Gervais in the Flathead country, may have been another daughter. The names of the other two children have not been traced.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; UBC-Koer Thompson; HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: Coues, p. 556, 870; Belyea, p. 58; Cox, p. 166, 195-96; CCR 1a

See Also: Gervais, Jean Baptiste (probable Son-in-Law)

Lucier, Charles [variation: Lussier, Lassier] (fl. c. 1812 - 1814) (probably Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

PFC Steersman, Fort George [Astoria] (1812 - 1814); Member, Brigade to Fort William (1814).

Charles Lucier may have come to the Pacific slopes on Hunt’s Overland Expedition which arrived at Astoria in February 1812. He chose not to stay on with the NWC after its take over and left April 4, 1814 as part of the ten-canoe brigade to Fort William and Montreal.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: Coues, p. 874

Lucier, Etienne (Amable) [variation: Étienne Lussier] (c. 1793 - 1853) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Edouard district of Montreal or Lachine, Lower Canada - c. 1793

Death: St. Paul, Oregon - March 8, 1853

Freeman

PFC Hunter, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (1810 - 1812); Hunter, Fort George [Astoria] (1812 - 1813); Hunter, Willamette House (1813 - 1814); HBC Freeman, Columbia Department (1822 - 1823); Freeman, Columbia Department (1824 - 1826); Freeman, South Party (1826); Freeman, Columbia Department (1826 - 1828); Freeman, South Party (1828 - 1830); Trapper, Snake Party (1830 - 1831); Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1831 - 1836); Settler, Willamette (1836 – 1842+).

Conceded to have been the first farmer to successfully grow wheat in Oregon, short, stocky Étienne Lucier joined the Wilson Price Hunt Astorian Overland Expedition in Mackinac around August 4, 1810, crossing the Continental Divide in late summer, 1811. He arrived at Astoria on January 18, 1812, worked through the summer and spent the following winter there. However, spending the 1813-1814 winter at a Willamette outpost not only ensured a threatened food supply but introduced him to the area. Ongoing bouts with venereal disease did not restrict him, however, from leaving on the two-canoe express for Fort William on May 1, 1814. He returned to the area and was a freeman by 1822. By 1826 he was raising horses to support his family and settled in the Willamette in the Fall of 1827. As a freeman he and his family accompanied Alexander Roderick McLeod on the 1826-1827 Umpqua Expedition. He worked on and off with the Hudson's Bay Company until 1828, when his term presumably expired. Since John McLoughlin did not want him settling in the Willamette, Lucier headed with his family eastward to terminate his employment at point of origin. However, he failed to make connections and found himself back in 1829 or 1830; this time McLoughlin had compassion and sold Lucier all he needed for farming. He tried farming on the site of present-day Portland, Oregon and then around 1831 or 1832 moved down to the French Prairie area opposite present day Newberg, Oregon. He was buried in 1853 in St. Paul Cemetery in an unmarked grave.

Étienne Lucier had two successive wives and had a total of eight children. On January 23, 1839, he formalized his marriage to Josephite Nouite (c.1799-1840) with whom he had children Felicite (c.1814-1867), Adrienne (c.1824-1919), Pelage (c.1827-1856), Louison (c.1831-?), Michel (c.1835-?) and Joseph (1838-1907). On August 10, 1840, eight months after the January 10, 1840 death of his wife Josephite, Étienne, married Marie Margurite Chinook (c.1804-?), with whom he had two children, Pierre (1842-?) and Etienne II (1844-?). Daughter Felcité married Donald Manson in October 1828.

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria; HBCA NWCAB 10; HBCA NWCAB 10; FtGeo[Ast]AB 10; YFASA 2, 4-6, 8-9, 11-15; FtVanASA 1-7; YFDS 3b, 4b-6, 10-11; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion County; OHS Oregonian, April 2, 1853, p. 3; OHS Statesman, April 9, 1853, p. 3 PPS: K. W. Porter, Roll of Overland, p. 109; ChSoc LVII, p. 724; HBRS XXIII, p. 142, 145n; CCR 1a, 2a, 2b, 2c; OHQ vol. XLIII, p. 12, 202-03; Genealogical Material in Oregon Donation Land Claims, p. 71 SS: Dobbs, p. 14-17; Scott, History of the Oregon, vol. II, p. 225-228; Hussey, Champoege: Place of, p. 47-53; Holman, p. 114
See Also: Manson, Donald (Son-in-Law); Lachapelle, Andre (Son-in-Law); Ogden, Isaac (Relative); Manson, John Duncan (Relative); Manson, William (Relative); Daigneau, Edouard (Relative)

Lucier, Louis (c. 1796 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Boucherville, Lower Canada - c. 1796

Fur trade employee

HBC Steersman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1832 - 1834); Steersman, Fort Vancouver (1834 - 1835).

Louis Lucier joined the HBC from Boucherville in 1832 and left the Pacific slopes in 1835.

PS: HBCA YFASA 12-14; YFDS 5a-5c

Lymon, John [variation: Jean Lemon, Lymond, Lemoux, Leemo] (c. 1815 - 1883) (Canadian: French and probably Danish)

Birth: Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1815

Death: Cowichan, British Columbia - December 1883

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1833 - 1834); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1834); Middleman, Fort McLoughlin (1834 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Victoria (1843 - 1851).

Although Montrealer John Lymon claimed his father was a Dane called Yager, likely because his grandfather was born in Lermonde, France, he preferred to be called Lymon de Lemon. Educated in Quebec, Lymon attested that his Latin was better than that of classmate George E. Cartier, the future Prime Minister of the Province of Canada. At the age of eighteen in 1833, he joined the HBC and worked at a variety of coastal forts for a further eighteen years before retiring from his final post, Fort Victoria, in 1851. At that point, he settled on section eighteen, Victoria district, a short distance above the Gorge on Portage Inlet and in 1861, he moved to Cowichan Bay, pre-empted land and built a house under the bluff near Harris (twelve acres [4.9 ha] on Range three, Section seven). There he kept the Cowichan Hotel for which a February 21, 1863 British Colonist advertisement announced "The best of Ales, Wines, Spirits, &c. BOARD AND LODGING on Moderate Terms; Steamboat Landing within 50 yards of Hotel." That same year, in June, he was likely in Victoria again for he acted as an interpreter for the constabulary. Around December 15, 1883 after apparently drinking, he "slipped while descending the wharf steps at Cowichan and pitched heavily on his head. His skull was found to be fractured and he expired in a few minutes" (Colonist, p. 3).

An obituary writer from Cowichan (probably the then B.C. Premier, William Smithe) wrote on December 27, 1883 that Lymon "was a man below medium height; had a mild open countenance; was polite, patient and obliging; was fond of a chat and tobacco, and relished a glass of Jamaica rum, and living from hand to mouth in semi Indian style" (Victoria Standard, p. 3).

John Lymon had two wives and six recorded children. While at Fort McLoughlin he took an unnamed Bella Bella woman for a wife. At Fort Victoria he took Sarah (c.1821-?), Saanich, Cowichan (?) and together they had Sophie (?-bap.1849-?), Jean Baptiste Michel (c.1854-1858), Marguerite (1856-?), Edward (c.1862-hanged'84?), Josephine (1866-?)

and Mary (c.1865-?). In 1881, Katherine Voutrait/Voutrain (c.1850-?) was living with the Lymons.

PS: HBCA YFASA 13-15, 19-20, 24-31; YFDS 5b-7; FtVanASA 3-8; BCA BCGR-CrtR AbstLnd; BCCR StAnC; Registre de la mission de Ste. Anne des Caoutchin," held at St. Edward's Church, Duncan; BCA Victoria Standard, December 27, 1883, p. 3; Police Department, Victoria, 1863, BCA Colonial Correspondence, P1388; BCGR-Pre-emption; Victoria Standard, December 27, 1883, p. 3; Van-PL 1881 Canada Census, Vancouver, Sub-District Cowichan, Salt Spring Island, British Colonist, p. 3 SS: Dougan, p. 113; For the details of the story of son Edward, see the 1884 editions of The British Colonist, March 6, p. 3; March 21, p. 3; April 11, p. 3; May 27, p. 3; May 29, p. 1; May 30, p. 3; May 31, p. 3; June 1, p. 3

Lynch, John (fl. 1857 - 1858) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Ordinary seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1857 - 1858).

John Lynch made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA log of Princess Royal 4; PortB 1

Maalo [variation: Marro, Malo] (fl. 1844 - 1850) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

PSAC Labourer, Willamette (1844 - 1847); Labourer, Cowlitz Farm (1847 - 1849); HBC Labourer, Fort Victoria (1849 - 1850).

Maalo joined the HBC in 1844 from Oahu and began his career in the Willamette area. He then spent two outfits on the Cowlitz farm before moving north to Victoria in 1849. He deserted from Fort Victoria around September 24, 1850.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-30; YFDS 16; FtVanASA 9

Maayo, Joseph [variation: Mayayo, Maaye, Mayou, Mayo Pupu, Peter Mayho] (fl. 1826 - c. 1915) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Fort Langley, British Columbia - 1826 (born to Peeopeeh and Catherine, Kwantlen)

Death: probably Fraser Valley, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice labourer, Fort Langley (1847 - 1849); Labourer, New Caledonia (1849 - 1851); Boute, New Caledonia (1851 - 1852); Labourer, Fort Langley (1853 - 1856); Cooper, Fort Langley (1856 - 1860); Farmer and labourer, various Fraser Valley locations (1860 - 1915).

Joseph Maayo, the son of long time HBC employee Peeopeeh, was born and raised, along with sisters Algace/Paiwa and Sophie and brother Henry, at the first site of Fort Langley. He was about twenty-one years old when he signed on with the HBC at Fort Langley on November 1, 1847 and probably worked alongside his father for the next two years. After spending three years in New Caledonia, plus a year unaccounted for, Maayo returned to Fort Langley in 1853, where he worked at the cooperage all year round with Orkneyman William Cromarty and fellow Hawaiians Charles Ohia and Peter Ohule making kegs, barrels, and vats for salt salmon. Joseph Maayo retired after 1860. Along with his father, brother Peter Ohule/Apnaut, and brother-in-law Ohia, Maayo pre-empted land across the Fraser River on the north side. He registered the land as a Crown Grant in 1883. In 1915, Joseph Maayo was apparently living on an Indian Reserve in the Fraser Valley and still fishing. The date of his death has not been traced.

Joseph's wife was Mary Nevnartnart (c 1843-?), a Native woman from the Fort Langley area. Two children were François (1867-?) and Stephen (1872-?). Other children may have been Nancy (c 1865-?), Matilda (c 1870-?), Sophia (c 1878-?), and Mary (c 1881-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 27-32; YFDS 18, 22; FtVicASA 1-7 SS: Laing, p. 99; Lugin, p. 107; Morton, p. 264; Oblate Records, 1876; "Registre des baptêmes pour la Mission Sainte Marie, 1863," manuscript in Oblate possession

See Also: Pound, Henry (Brother); Peeopeeh (Father); Ohia (Relative); Peeopeeh, Henry (Brother)

Macdonald, William John (1829 - 1916) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Inverness, Scotland - 1829 (born to Alexander Macdonald and Flora McRae, daughter of Captain McRae of Inverinet Kintail)

Death: probably Victoria, British Columbia - 1916

Fur trade employee

HBC Immigrant passenger, Tory (barque) (1850 - 1851); Apprentice clerk, Fort Victoria (1851 - 1856); Clerk, Fort Victoria (1856 - 1858).

A twenty-one-year-old William John Macdonald joined the HBC in 1850 and came to Vancouver Island on the Tory. After his arrival, he worked in the fort's office with Roderick Finlayson and established a salmon fishery on San Juan Island. In 1854 he purchased a town lot in Victoria and because Macdonald's health was deteriorating, went south to San Francisco and on to Honolulu. In 1856, after returning to Victoria and as captain of the local militia, Macdonald, James Douglas and part of the local militia set out on a punitive action against a member of the Cowichan tribe. With the arrival of thirty thousand men seeking gold in 1858, Macdonald had to work extremely hard at a variety of jobs such as collector of customs, postmaster, Gold Commissioner, issuer of Mining licences, etc. At the end of his contract, on August 1, 1858, McDonald retired and entered the mercantile business with his father-in-law, Captain Reid. He purchased an acreage in South Saanich and the Esquimalt District and became a member of the Legislative Assembly of Vancouver Island (1860-1863), a member of the Legislative Council of the united colony (1867-1868) and in 1871 became one of the three Senators appointed to represent British Columbia. Macdonald travelled with his family back and forth to Europe several times, visiting friends and meeting kings and presidents. He died in 1916.

William John Macdonald had one wife and five children. On March 17, 1857, in Victoria, he married Catherine Balfour (Reid), daughter of James Murray Reid. Their children were Flora Alexandrina (?-bap.1858-?), Edythe Mary (1861-?), "Tiny" (?-?), "Regy" (?-?) and "Willie" (?-?). One daughter, perhaps "Tiny" was named Liliias.

Macdonald Point, Knight Inlet was named after William John Macdonald. Other nearby landmarks were also named after other members of the Macdonald family.

PS: HBCA YFASA 31-32; FtVicASA 1-7; HBCA William John Macdonald search file; BCA Mallandaine, p. 66; BCA BCGR-CrtR-AbstLnd PPS: HBRS XXXII, p. 182, 182n; Helmcken, p. 55, 123, 223, 224n1; Sen. W. J. Macdonald SS: Walbran, p. 310-11

See Also: Reid, James Murray (Father-in-Law)

Macdougall, John G. (fl. 1854 - 1856) (Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly Rupert's Land, British North America

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Colville (1854 - 1855); Miller, Fort Colville (1855 - 1856).

John G. Macdougall joined the HBC likely from Rupert's Land in 1854 on a contract that was to end in 1857 but he either deserted or retired in 1856.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 10-11, 13

Macey, Edmund (fl. 1846 - 1848) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1845 - 1848).

Edmund Macey shipped on with the Columbia in London on September 29, 1845 and made one return voyage to the coast. After servicing several coastal posts and Honolulu, he would have arrived back in London in the spring of 1848.

PS: HBCA YFASA 26-27

Mackaina (fl. 1817 - 1837) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: probably Pacific Northwest

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1822 - 1823); Untraced vocation, Fort George [Astoria] (1823 - 1825); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1825 - 1826); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1836).

Mackaina joined the fur trade in 1817 and continued on with the HBC Company after the coalition with the NWC. He worked mainly around Fort Vancouver. At the end of his employment term, he was listed as returning to Oahu in 1836 on the barque Columbia, but he likely returned and stayed in the area, for he was listed as one of those who retired in 1836-1837 but remained in the district.

Mackaina had a wife and one recorded daughter. He and Louise, a Chehalis woman, had Thérèse (?-m. 1839-?) who married Joseph Plouf and then Baptiste Laroque. Mackaina may have attended the marriage of his daughter, Theresa, on June 17, 1839 at the Fort Vancouver church.

PS: HBCA YFASA 2a-5b, 6-11; FtGeo[Ast]AB 11-12; YFDS 2, 4-5, 7-12; FtVanASA 1-2, 4; BCA BCCR CCCath PPS: CCR 1a

See Also: Plouffe, Joseph (Son-in-Law)

Mackenzie, Sir Alexander (1764 - 1820) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Stornoway, Scotland - 1764

Death: Scotland - 1820

Other

NWC Cartographer, New Caledonia (1793).

Alexander Mackenzie appeared on the Canadian landscape in 1778 when his father took him to Montreal from New York to avoid the Revolutionary War. He became a partner of the NWC in 1787 and was assigned to Fort Chipewyan on Lake Athabasca. Convinced that Cook Inlet in Alaska was indeed the Northwest Passage he set out in 1789 on the Peace and Mackenzie only to end in the Arctic Ocean. Undeterred, Mackenzie planned a trip overland via the Peace River but to prepare, went to London in 1791 to purchase instruments and train in astronomy. In the fall of 1792 he completed his plans at Fort Chipewyan. He wintered near the junction of the Smoky and Peace River and finally set forth on May 9th, 1793 in a twenty-five foot [7.6 m] long birch bark canoe holding provisions, baggage, articles of trade and equipment weighing three thousand pounds [1361 kg]. He was accompanied by his second in Command, Alexander MacKay, six French Canadians: Joseph Landry, Charles Ducette, François Beaulieux, Baptist Bisson, François Courtois as well as Jacques Beauchamp and two native guides. Going up the Peace River to the Great Canyon (at a point just above Hudson's Hope), he portaged on foot to the head of the canyon, continued up the Peace for 145 km (ninety miles) to Finlay Forks where he ascended the Parsnip to its headwaters. He then portaged overland to James (or Bad) River and descended it to the McGregor river, down the Fraser, to Alexandria, then, on the advice of the Indians, backtracked to the mouth of Blackwater River and finally overland to Bella Coola where, after being greeted most warmly, he wrote his famous inscription with some vermilion in melted grease in large characters, on the South-East face of a rock on which they had slept:

Alexander MacKenzie, from Canada, by land, the twenty-second of July, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-three.

He returned equally remarkably fast to the east of the Rockies to serve as a partner in McTavish, Frobisher and Company, the managers of the NWC. In 1799 he returned to England where he published his Voyages in 1801 one year after which he received a knighthood. His ambition was to have a continent-wide trading company which would grow out of the amalgamation of the HBC and the NWC. He never saw this dream come true, for after marrying at the ripe old age of forty-eight, he died in 1820, just one year before the merger eventually took place.

PPS: HakSP Mackenzie; HBRS I, p. 452-53, HBRS XXII, p. 474-75

See Also: Bethune, Angus

MacLennan, Joseph (fl. 1813 - 1814) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

PFC Hunter, Willamette Post (1813 - 1814); Devant, Willamette Post (1813 - 1814).

Joseph MacLennan was re-engaged by the NWC as a devant while he was on the Columbia in 1813 on a one year contract.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10

Mactavish, Dugald (1817 - 1871) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Campbelltown, Scotland - August 1817 (born to Dugald Mactavish)

Death: Montreal, Lower Canada - May 1871

Fur trade officer

HBC Clerk, Fort Vancouver (1839 - 1847); Chief Trader, Fort Vancouver (1846 - 1847); Chief Trader, Hawaii (1847 - 1851); Chief Factor, Hawaii (1851 - 1852); Manager, Fort Vancouver (1853 - 1858); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1858 - 1859); Chief Factor in charge, Fort Victoria (1860 - 1863); Chief Factor, Western Department (1865 - 1866); Chief Factor, Fort Victoria (1866 - 1867?); Chief Factor, Columbia Department (1867 - 1869).

Nephew of Chief Factor John George McTavish, Dugald Mactavish joined the HBC as an apprentice clerk on June 8, 1833 and sailed for Hudson Bay later that year. For the next seven years he was stationed at three posts in the Southern Department until 1839 when he moved as a clerk to the counting house of Fort Vancouver. For the next eight years he was largely at the fort except when he had to take out the accounts to York Factory or go to California on Company business trips. In 1846 he was appointed Chief Trader and was asked to replace the joint managers Pelly and Allan of the Hawaii outpost as manager. At the end of this posting, August 1852, he was allowed a few month's leave of absence in England until he returned to Fort Vancouver in September 1853 when he became joint manager of the Oregon Department with Peter Skene Ogden. However, when Ogden died one year later, he became sole manager until he was joined by W. F. Tolmie in the outfit 1857-1858. In 1858, he went to Fort Victoria for a year before going to England (on furlough 1859-1860) and purchased 170 acres [68.8 ha] in the Lake District and seven hundred acres [282.3 ha] in the North Saanich District. He returned to Victoria until 1863 and once again returned to England to give evidence regarding HBC claims in the territory now governed by the United States. Although he returned to Vancouver Island once again in 1865, he went to Montreal that same year and it was in Montreal that he died suddenly of heart disease on May 24, 1871. According to Edward Huggins, McTavish was an aloof bachelor who despised anything unclean or messy and, in the later years of his life, became a hypochondriac. As a touch of irony, he died while taking a bath.

Dugald Mactavish had a daughter, Ann (?-?).

Madotehisam, Ignace [variation: Madotehisaon, Madotchisan] (fl. 1822 - 1823) (Native: Algonquian)

Birth: possibly Lac Des Deux Montagnes [Lake of Two Mountains], Lower Canada

Freeman

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1816); Freeman, Fort George [Astoria] (1822 - 1823).

Ignace Madotehisam signed on with the NWC on October 28, 1814 from Lac Des Deux Montagnes to act as a hunter during the winter and a middleman during the summer in the Northwest. By 1816, he (and possibly his family) were working on the Pacific slopes, for that year his wife received cash from the Company. In outfit 1822 he was still in the area for he was found working for the HBC as a freeman out of Fort George.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; NWCAB 1; HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 10

Mafinoa [variation: Rosie Mafaroni] (fl. 1830 - 1839) (probably Society Islander [French Polynesia])

Birth: probably Society Islands, Pacific Ocean

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Middleman or labourer, Fort Langley (1831 - 1833); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1833 - 1835); Labourer, Rev. Jason Lee (1835 - 1837); Middleman, Willamette (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1839).

Mafinoa joined the HBC in April 1830 and, in May 1833, was with William Fraser Tolmie on the Columbia River shortly after the latter's arrival in the area. On the 19th of that month, Mafinoa was left at the campsite on shore to arrange the camp, light a fire and cook a meal for the group. In outfit 1835-1836 he was transferred to the service of Jason Lee. From 1836 to at least 1838, he appears to have been a freeman.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2-5; YFDS 4a-7; YFASA 11-15, 17 PPS: W. F. Tolmie, p. 183

Magee, Robert [variation: McGee] (fl. 1857 - 1858) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Boatswain, Princess Royal (barque) (1857 - 1858).

Robert Magee made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA log of Princess Royal 4; PortB 1

Mahavius (fl. 1840 - 1843) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1842 - 1843).

Mahavius joined the HBC from Oahu in 1842 and worked at Fort Vancouver to the end of his contract in 1843.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 7

Mahoe [standard: Mahoé] [variation: Mahoy, Mahoi] (fl. 1845) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Columbia Department general charges (1845).

Mahoé joined the HBC from Oahu on May 7, 1845 and worked until July 18 of that year, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 3, 6; YFASA 25; YFDS 16; HBCABio

Mahow [variation: Mahou] (fl. 1844 - 1851) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Willamette (1844 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1846 - 1847); Labourer, New Caledonia (1847 - 1848); Labourer, Fort Alexandria (1848); Labourer, New Caledonia (1848 - 1849); Labourer, Cadboro (schooner) (1849 - 1851).

Mahow joined the HBC from Oahu in 1844 and worked at various locations over the next half dozen years. His work habits were suspect for, according to A. C. Anderson in March 1848, Mahow was “always ailing and useless for any active employment” (FtAlex 7, fo. 44d). Consequently, he was put to work repairing saddles for the brigade. He appeared to finish working in 1851 and may have been in the area for there was movement on his account for the next year.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-32; FtAlex 7

Mahoy [a] (fl. 1848 - 1859) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Columbia Department general charges (1848); PSAC Labourer, Fort Rupert (1849 - 1853); Labourer, Colwood Farm (1856).

Mahoy [a] entered the service of the HBC from Oahu in 1848 and began receiving his wages on July 15. He spent most of his career at Fort Rupert. He appears to have left Fort Rupert around 1853 and worked at PSAC farms in the Victoria area until at least 1859.

According to oral tradition, Mahoy may have been the father, by a local Native woman, of Maria (c 1855-1937), who was born in the vicinity of Victoria.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 7; YFASA 28-32; FtVicASA 1; YFDS 19; PSACAB 38; HBCABio SS: Kardas, p. 175-76

Mahoy [b] (fl. c. 1840 - 1844) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: probably Cowlitz farm, Columbia Department - November 12, 1844

Fur trade employee

PSAC Labourer, Cowlitz Grazing Farm (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1844); Labourer, Cowlitz Farm (1844).

Mahoy [b] joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840 or 1841 and spent his time in the lower Columbia area as a labourer. He died in 1844 while he was working at the Cowlitz farm, probably about the time he was ready to retire to Oahu.

PS: HBCA PSACAB 3; YFASA 20, 23-24; FtVanASA 6-8; YFDS 17

Mahoy, Jemmy [variation: Jimmy] (fl. 1832 - 1839) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - July 1839

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation (high wage), Fort Vancouver (1832 - 1833); Untraced vocation (high wage), Fort Simpson (1833 - 1835); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1836); Middleman or labourer, Fort George [Astoria] (1836 - 1838); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1839).

Jemmy Mahoy joined the HBC in Oahu on September 5, 1832. In outfit 1834-1835 he was disabled but nonetheless paid a relatively high wage. He worked largely at Fort Vancouver, likely as a labourer or middleman, and died there on July 8, 1839.

PS: HBCA YFASA 12-14, 19; FtVan[N]PJ 3; YFDS 5a-7, 10; FtVanASA 3-5

Mahoy, William (Bill) [a] (1837 - 1846) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: possibly Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1838); Labourer, Methodist Mission (1838 - 1839); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1839 - 1841); Labourer, Fort Vancouver sawmill (1842 - 1844); Labourer, Willamette (1844 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1846).

William Mahoy joined the HBC from Oahu in July 1837 and began work at Fort Vancouver on August 10 of that year. He worked as a labourer around the Fort Vancouver area until August 6, 1846 at which time he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 1; FtVanASA 4-8; YFDS 22 8-9, 17; YFASA 19-20, 22-26; HBCABio

Maikai (fl. 1844 - 1849) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1845); Goer and comer, Snake Party (1845 - 1846); Labourer, Snake Party (1846 - 1847); Labourer, Snake Country (1847 - 1849).

Maikai joined the HBC from Oahu in 1844 and worked principally with the Snake Party. He deserted in 1849, likely for California and probably in the first half of the year.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-29; YFDS 16

Mair, Peter S. (fl. 1854 - 1855) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Boatswain, Princess Royal (barque) (1854 - 1855).

Peter S. Mair made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Majeau, Ambroise (c. 1804 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Faubourg Saint Laurent, Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1804 (born to Louis Majeau)

Death: possibly Canada East [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1827 - 1828); Middleman, Fort Alexandria (1828); Middleman, Columbia Department (1828 - 1829); Middleman, New Caledonia (1829 - 1830); Trapper, Snake Party (1830 - 1833); Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1833 - 1834); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1834 - 1835).

With the full permission of his father, seventeen year old carpenter Ambroise Majeau joined the HBC on January 12, 1821 through the offices of Montreal businessman, George Garden. He soon headed west with his issue of two blankets, a cotton shirt, bed sheet, handkerchiefs, tobacco, and a small knife etc. For six years he may have worked east of the Rockies but was at Fort Alexandria in 1828. At that time Joseph McGillivray noted that Majeau had an "Indifferent" character and was "Inclined to be troublesome" (HBRS X, p. 200). He was dismissed July 1, 1835 for theft and went east over the Rockies in October 1835 and was in Canada in 1836.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA HBCCont; FtVanAB 4; FtVanASA 1-3; YFASA 7, 9, 11-16; YFDS 3a-3b, 4b-6 PPS: HBRS X, p. 200

Majeau, Louis (fl. 1813 - 1814) (possibly Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly L'Assomption, Province of Quebec

Fur trade employee

NWC Gouvernail, Willamette Post (winter 1813 - 1814); Gouvernail, Brigade to Fort William (1814).

Although Louis Majeau first joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray] from L'Assomption on May 5, 1807 as a steersman and middleman in the Northwest for three years, he likely had spent time previously in the fur trade, given his role as steersman. He continued renewing his contracts and was found in the Columbia in 1813, having been re-engaged at Rainy Lake as a gouvernail in 1813 on a two year contract. He was probably part of the brigade when he spent the winter of 1813-1814 at the Willamette post and nothing separate was recorded of his activities. He returned east on the ten canoe brigade but it is not certain where he disembarked. It is not certain whether he continued his career after although a person with the same name, a Louis Majeau, participated in the June 19, 1816 Seven Oaks murder of HBC Governor Robert Semple at Seven Oaks.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 10; Coues, p. 875

Majeau, Pierre (fl. 1810 - c. 1831?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly L'Assomption, Lowre Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Milieu, Fort George [Astoria] (winter 1813 - 1814); Middleman, Brigade to Fort William (1814); Trapper, Snake Party (1830 - 1831).

Pierre Majeau appears to have first joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray] on January 10, 1810 as a middleman for one year. Like Louis, Pierre was re-engaged in 1813 at Rainy Lake as a milieu on a three year contract and likely came to the Pacific coast as a member of the brigade. On his journey eastward, he may have disembarked at Rainy Lake. It is possible Pierre Majeau returned to the coast years later, for, in 1830-1831, a person with the same name appears on record as a trapper.

(Majeau may be the basis for the mixed descent “Pierre Michel” interpreter that Ross Cox used in the interior. As he appears in no other records, he may be a Cox construct, a composite character put together for the readership.)

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 10; FtVanASA 2 PPS: Coues, p. 875; Cox, p. 114, 128, 173

Makaoura [variation: Makouroa] (fl. 1841 - 1845) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman and labourer, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1843 - 1844); Labourer, Willamette (1844 - 1845); Labourer, Columbia Department general charges (1845).

Makaoura joined the HBC from Oahu as a middleman in 1841. His contract ended in 1843, but he worked until July 18, 1845, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 12, 16; YFASA 22-25

Malcolm, John (fl. 1830 - 1832) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Dryad (brig) (1830 - 1831); Seaman, Ganymede (barque) (1831 - 1832).

John Malcolm joined the HBC on January 9, 1830 for three years, and sailed to the coast on the Dryad. He began his coastal work on August 18, 1830 and left the Columbia for England the following year on the barque Ganymede on November 1, 1831. He likely arrived back in England in the spring of 1832.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; FtVanASA 2; YFASA 22; YFDS 4a-4b; ShMiscPap 7

Malcolm, William (fl. 1815) (Undetermined origin)

Maritime employee

NWC Seaman, Columbia (schooner) (1815).

William Malcolm was engaged as a seaman on the NWC schooner Columbia on July 21, 1815 when it plied the Northwest Coast. He was paid off on February 29, 1816 at which point he went to England.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 5

Mallery, Benjamin (fl. 1856 - 1857) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1856 - 1857).

Benjamin Mallery joined the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal in London on August 19, 1856 and made one return voyage to the Northwest Coast.

PS: HBCA log of Princess Royal 3; PortB 1

Mallette, Joseph [c] (fl. 1844 - 1849) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Benoit, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1844 - 1845); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1845 - 1849).

Joseph Mallette joined the HBC from St. Benoit in 1844. He deserted in 1849.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-29

Malois, Fabien [variation: Malouin, Malvoice] (c. 1813 - 1855) (probably Canadian)

Birth: probably St. Joseph Parish (Montreal), Lower Canada - c. 1813

Death: St. Louis, Oregon - March 1855

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1832 - 1833); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1833); Middleman, Fort McLoughlin (1833 - 1834); Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1834 - 1835); Trapper, Fort Colville (1835 - 1836); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1836); Middleman (low wages), Fort Colville (1836 - 1837); Boute, Fort Colville (1837 - 1838); Boute, South Party (1838 - 1843); Settler, Willamette (1843 - 1844).

The first assignment of Fabien Malois, who joined the HBC in 1832, was a rude awakening to the fur trade. After crossing the continent to Fort Vancouver, he was assigned to Fort Simpson, or directly to the site which was to be Fort McLoughlin, on Millbanke Sound. There, because the officers thought that the local natives had seized a deserting servant, they held the local chief, Kyeth/Tyest, a.k.a. "Boston", hostage. When the servants went out to get water at a nearby creek, they were attacked and Malois was badly cut in the shoulder with an axe but, in a hail of bullets, wrested the axe away from the native and brought it into the fort. Pascal Caille was taken captive but later exchanged for "Boston" (Also see Joseph Richard) (Anderson, p. 9-11). Malois' wound must have healed over time for, during the next ten years, he worked in a variety of locations, his last day with the HBC being October 31, 1843 when he settled in the Willamette. He had likely already established himself in the area of Champoege for on May 2, 1843, he voted against the establishment of a Provisional Government. Malois lived to prove his March 9, 1843 claim but died shortly after, on March 2, 1855.

Fabien Malois had two wives and six children. He formalized his marriage with his first wife, a mixed descent Iroquois, Louise Atenesse/Satacaronty on January 12, 1839. Together they had six children, Pierre (1838-?), Le'andre (1840-?), Monique (1843-?), Louise (c.1845-?), Christine (1847-1848) and Joseph (1849-1867). When Fabien's wife, Louise, died on February 27, 1850, Fabien married Victoire Laderoute (c.1815-?) ten months later in St. Louis Parish on November 28, 1850. After Fabien's death, his widow Victoire married André Cloutier.

PS: HBCA YFASA 12-15, 19-20, 22-23; YFDS 5a-7, 14; FtMcLoughlin 1; FtVanASA 3-7; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion County PPS: CCR 1a, 1b, 2a, 3a, 7b, 7c; Genealogical Material in Oregon Donation Land Claims, p. 74; Diar-Rem Anderson, p. 9-11 SS: Holman, p. 116

Mamuka, Jem [variation: Jim Manuka, Joseph Finmanut] (fl. 1832 - 1847) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: Fort Vancouver, Oregon Territory - December 1847

Fur trade employee

HBC Seaman, Fort Simpson naval service (1832 - 1834); Middleman (high wage), Fort Simpson (1834 - 1835); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1836); Middleman and labourer, South Party (1836 - 1842); Middleman, Snake Party (1842 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1843 - 1846); Labourer, Fort George [Astoria] (1846 - 1847); Indian trader, Fort George [Astoria] (1847).

Jem Mamuka joined the HBC in Oahu on September 5, 1832 aged about twenty-five, and left for the Columbia where he was to remain for the next fifteen years. He worked at the original Nass River site of Fort Simpson and assisted in the move to the new site on December 1, 1834. During outfit 1834-1835, he was disabled but soon back at work in the Fort Vancouver area. Some time in December 1847, while he was working there, he caught the measles and on December 18 was baptised. He died the next day and was buried under the name Joseph Finmanut by the Catholic priests, no doubt to pave his way into the Christian afterlife.

PS: HBCA YFDS 5a-7, 17-18; YFASA 12-15, 19-20, 23-26; FtSimp[N]PJ 3; FtVanASA 3-7; BCA Lowe 1 PPS: CCR 1b

Manene [standard: Manené] (fl. 1845 - 1849) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1849).

Manené joined the HBC in Oahu in 1845 and worked at Fort Vancouver as a labourer. His contract was to have ended in 1850, but he deserted on July 20, 1849 likely for the gold fields of California.

PS: HBCA YFASA 25-29; YFDS 20

Manero (fl. 1830 - 1833) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver (1831 - 1833).

Manero joined the HBC in April 1830. He spent his entire time at Fort Vancouver and left the Columbia for his return voyage to Oahu on November 1, 1833.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; YFDS 4a-5a; YFASA 11-14

Maniso (fl. 1830) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: possibly Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Isabella (brig) (1830); Labourer, Fort Langley (1830); Passenger, Vancouver (schooner) (1830).

Maniso, who was subject to seizures and wandering, was unfit for the fur trade because of his potential to destabilize trade and relations with the native peoples. Consequently, he had to return to the Hawaiian Islands soon after his arrival. He signed on with a large group of Hawaiians that came up on the Isabella, the ill-fated HBC vessel that came to grief at the mouth of the Columbia in May 1830. After going to Fort Vancouver he made his way with a work party to Fort Langley, where, amongst other things, he was to cut up and prepare fish for export. However, on August 31, when he went down to the river to clean up after cleaning fish, he had a recurrence of his seizure disorder and wandered off in a fourteen day episode of confusion and mayhem. During this time, stories abounded that he may have been done in by the natives as his clothes re-appeared intact. Somewhat sceptical of the story of murder, the Fort Langley managers nonetheless prepared punitive action but, on the fourteenth day, Maniso emerged from the forest, a naked and starving, walking skeleton. According to him, he had a seizure and in his confusion met natives who robbed him of his clothes and generally maltreated him. Because of the potential for further damage, Maniso was sent back to the Sandwich Islands on the HBC vessel, Vancouver, [William Ryan].

PS: HBCA log of Isabella 1 PPS: A. McDonald, p. 82-85, 90-91; MacLachlan, Fort Langley Journals, p. 154-59

Mankelow, Henry (fl. 1853 - 1854) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (brigantine) (1852 - 1853); Seaman, Recovery (brig) (1853 - 1854).

Henry Mankelow joined the HBC in London on June 26, 1852 and sailed to the coast on the Vancouver. After the vessel was wrecked at Rose Point [Queen Charlotte Islands] on August 20, 1853, he transferred to the HBC vessel Recovery. It is uncertain how long he stayed in the area before returning to London.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; FtVicASA 1-2; BCA Vancouver [4]

Manno [variation: Mano] (fl. 1845 - 1847) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1845 - 1847).

Manno joined the HBC from Oahu on May 7, 1845 for three years. He worked at Fort Vancouver as a labourer until July 6, 1847, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 3; YFASA 24-27; YFDS 18;

Mannock, Francis (? - 1855) (British: English)

Birth: probably England (born to John and M. Mannock)

Death: aboard the Otter at Esquimalt, Colony of Vancouver Island - July 23, 1855

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1851); Seaman, Otter (steamer) (1852 - 1855).

Francis Mannock, a second generation HBC employee, was an apprentice seaman from 1839-1844 on the HBC Hudson Bay supply ships Prince Albert and Prince Rupert. He was following family tradition as his father had been first officer of the Prince Rupert until his death in 1833 and his mother had successfully petitioned the HBC to take on Francis. Now a full fledged seaman, Francis came to Vancouver Island once on the immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison and once on the steamer Otter. During his runs from Fort Simpson to San Francisco and points in between from 1853-1855 little in the records reveal the character of Mannock, although, starting in 1854, he was noted as being intoxicated several times. Near the end of 1854, he became progressively more ill and had to be left on shore several times to recover; he succumbed to his illness in July. Mannock was buried on August 3, 1855 most likely in the old HBC graveyard, now Johnson Street, Victoria.

Francis Mannock was married to "E" in England; she wrote an undelivered July 31, 1850 letter now resting at the HBCA and, at that time, was living on Mile End Road, London. In 1856 she further wrote to Victoria requesting her husband's estate.

PS: HBCA A.10/ 8, fo. 232; PortB 1; log of Prince Rupert IV 6; log of Prince Rupert V 1-5; log of Norman Morison 1; YFASA 30-31; log of Otter 1; FtVicASA 1-4; ShMiscPap 9a; FtVicCB 13; HBCABio; BCA BCCR CCCath PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 243-45

See Also: Mannock, William Bonner (Brother)

Mannock, William Bonner (fl. 1834 - 1853) (British: English)

Birth: probably London, England (born to John Mannock and M. Mannock)

Death: probably England

Maritime employee

HBC Apprentice, Ganymede (barque) (1834 - 1837).

In 1832 William Bonner Mannock, brother to Francis, began working through an HBC apprenticeship by sailing on ships to Hudson Bay. In 1833-1834 on his second voyage to Hudson Bay on the Prince Rupert IV, several of the crew died, including John Mannock, his father. Upon his return to England, he signed a contract with the HBC on December 13, 1834 as an apprentice for five years and left for the Northwest Coast where he arrived on August 5, 1835. On May 3, 1836, after one side trip to Honolulu, he left the Columbia for England via the Sandwich Islands and Valparaiso. Mannock would have seen little of the Northwest Coast, only posts on the lower Columbia River. In 1837 when he arrived back in London, he worked two more Hudson Bay runs on the Prince of Wales and Prince Rupert IV as second officer. In 1838 he wrote a petition asking for employment with the HBC but did not get it right away. Mannock continued runs to Hudson Bay as first officer of the Prince Albert (1842-1849 & 1851) and became captain of the Prince Rupert V (1850, 1853).

PS: HBCA log of Prince Rupert IV 6-7, 11; HBCCont; ShMiscPap 7, 14; FtVanASA 3; YFDS 6; YFASA 16; A.10/6, fo. 235; log of Prince of Wales 15; log of Prince Albert 1-8, 10; log of Prince Rupert V 11-12
See Also: Mannock, Francis (Brother)

Manoa, Joe (fl. 1832 - 1849) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Seaman, Lama (brig) (1832 - 1833); Seaman, Fort Simpson naval service (1833 - 1834); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1834 - 1836); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1836 - 1837); Middleman, Snake Party (1837 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1842); Labourer, Snake Party (1842 - 1845); Goer and comer, Snake Party (1845 - 1846); Labourer, Snake Party (1846 - 1847); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1847 - 1849).

Joe Manoa joined the HBC in Oahu on September 5, 1832 and for the next eight years worked both on land and on various coastal vessels. He returned to Oahu on November 15, 1840 but re-enlisted again and began receiving wages on July 9, 1841. His contract ended in 1850, but he received no wages for outfit 1849-1850, only accruing a small debt and a notation that he had done "nothing all the year." There was action on his account for the next two years but his movements during these years have not been found.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 14; YFDS 5a-8, 11-12, 16, 20; YFASA 12-14, 19-20, 22-29, 31-32; FtVanASA 3-7

Mansfield, James (fl. 1852 - 1853) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Landsman, Norman Morison (barque) (1852 - 1853).

James Mansfield made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison. While on the coast, he would have visited several coastal posts.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Manson, Donald (1800 - 1880) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Thurso, Caithness, Scotland - April 6, 1800

Death: Champoeog, Oregon - January 7, 1880

Fur trade officer

HBC Clerk, Fort Vancouver (1825 - 1827); Clerk, Fort Langley (1827 - 1828); Clerk, Fort Vancouver (1828 - 1831); Clerk, Fort George [Astoria] (1829 - 1830); Clerk, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1830 - 1831); Clerk, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1834); Clerk in charge, Fort McLoughlin (1834 - 1838); Chief Trader, Fort McLoughlin (1838 - 1839); Untraced vocation, London (1840); Chief Trader, Thompson River (1841 - 1842); Chief Trader, Fort Stikine (1842 - 1844); Chief Trader, Fort St. James (1844 - 1857).

Donald Manson, a stout, strong man suited for hard tough work but possessing a short temper, joined the HBC in 1817. Before coming west of the Rockies, he was a member of several exploration parties, and in 1824 was second-in-command in Samuel Black's Finlay River expedition. After his arrival at Fort Vancouver in April 1825 he was often put on exploring expeditions as, for example, he voyaged up the Nass River in September 1832 and the following month, went up the Skeena. Simpson felt that he would never rise above a clerk. However, in 1838 he was appointed Chief Trader. He never reached Chief Factor and when Manson complained, Simpson wrote back saying that it was largely because of "an unfortunate irritability of temper" (HBRS XVIII p. 237). In 1853 Simpson complained of Manson's rough treatment of people in New Caledonia. He retired and settled in 1858 having bought Dr. Newell's Donation Land Claim near Champoege, Marion Co., Oregon, the birthplace of his wife. In 1861 the Willamette River flood swept away several of his buildings, causing him considerable losses. In his later years, he was described as a large man with a ruddy face and white hair. According to Edward Huggins, Manson was bald and, unknown to his wife, wore a wig which, in a fit of temper, his wife pulled off accidentally, much to her horror. He died in Oregon at his home near Champoege, Oregon.

Donald Manson had one wife and children. In 1828 he married Felicite Lucier (1814-1867), daughter of Etienne Lucier, and together they had seven children. Felicite died June 10, 1867. Three children were William (c.1829-?), John Duncan (?-?) and Anna (?-?). Anna or Anne married Isaac Ogden.

PS: HBCA YFASA 5-6, 8-9, 11-15, 17-18, 24, 27-32; FtVanAB 3; YFDS 2a, 3a, 4a, 5c-7; FtVanASA 1-8, 14-15; FtVicASA 1-7, 9, 12-16; SimpsonCB; HBCABio; HBCA D.5/24, fol. 173-176; OHS SB #112, p. 156; TacP-FtNis Huggins PPS: HBRS I, p. 458, HBRS VIII, p. 221-41; HBRS X, p. 221; HBRS XVIII, p. 237; HBRS XXX, p. 221n; Labonte, "Reminiscences of," p. 265; CCR 2c SS: Eells, p. 56; Portland Oregon Journal, 10 Dec. 1924, p. 24; Corning, Willamette Landings, p. 92; Donald Manson descendant; DCB Holmes

See Also: Ogden, Isaac (Son-in-Law); Lucier, Etienne (Father-in-Law); Lachapelle, Andre (Relative); Manson, John Duncan (Son); Manson, William (Son)

Manson, John Duncan (c. 1836 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - c. 1836 (born to Donald Manson)

Death: possibly Vancouver Island, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice clerk in charge, Fort Fraser (1854); Clerk in charge, Fort Fraser (1855 - 1862); Clerk, Fort Langley (1863); Clerk, New Caledonia (1863 - 1865).

John Duncan Manson had a close call with death as a young man. A young John Manson was at the Whitman mission in Waiilatpu during the time of the measles outbreak, a pestilence which the local natives believed had been deliberately brought by the whites to wipe them out. Seeking revenge for what they thought was deliberate killing by the whites, the local natives on November 29, 1847, killed off the main principles of the mission, Marcus and Narcissa Whitman and twelve others but, somehow in the confusion, young John was smuggled upstairs and a trap door closed behind him. When he was found a few hours later, he threatened the power of revenge of the HBC should anyone lay a hand on him. No one did and he was saved. This sparing of a Company man, in this case, boy, prompted some Americans to believe that the HBC had had a hand in the massacre. Later in 1854, Manson began his service with the HBC. He was not exactly the model of meekness and in some ways emulated the somewhat tough actions of his father both verbally and physically. He married into a fur trade family and, around 1863, left Fort Fraser and returned with his family to Victoria where they built a house. He worked again from 1863 to April 30, 1865, when he retired from the service. In 1864 the Manson family went to Victoria and then to Swan Lake, at the corner of Wilkinson and West Saanich Roads. Manson's father-in-law, James Murray Yale actually built the house and gave it to his daughter and son-in-law.

John Duncan Manson married Aurelia (1839-1931) the daughter of James Murray Yale. Their children were Isabella (c.1863-?), Annie (c.1867-?) and John (c.1868-?). Aurelia [Yale] Manson died January, 1931.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 3-15; FtVicCB 22; BCA Diar-Rem Yale; Van-PL 1881 Canada Census, Vancouver District, Victoria Subdistrict, Johnson Street Ward; Van-PL Colonist, Jan. 20, 1931 SS: Morice, The History of, p. 184, 283; Lugin, p. 102-16

See Also: Manson, Donald (Father); Lucier, Etienne (Relative); Ogden, Isaac (Relative); Yale, James Murray (Father-in-Law); Manson, William (Brother)

Manson, Phineas (fl. 1852 - 1871) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles (born to John Manson)

Death: possibly Vancouver Island, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Cooper, Fort Victoria general charges (1852 - 1853); Untraced vocation, Fort Langley (1853 - 1854); Cooper, Fort Langley (1854 - 1857).

It is not known how Phineas Manson came to the coast but he appeared on records as a cooper in 1852. For the next five years, he worked mostly at Fort Langley making barrels and in 1854, ran away from Langley for the American coast, perhaps Bellingham Bay, and consequently payment of £15 to his father, John Manson, was halted. He returned to work and retired in 1857 but continued transactions with the Company until 1862. During this time, on February 6, 1860, he pre-empted 160 acres [64.8 ha] on the north side of the Fraser River in the Port Hammond area but did not stay long enough to improve the claim for, between 1863-1869, he was recorded as living on Humboldt Street in Victoria. By 1871, he was working as a fish curer there. The date and place of his death has not been traced.

Phineas Manson had one wife and two recorded children. He was married to a Kwantlen native from the Bellingham Bay area. Their children were Isabelle (?-bap.1856-?) and John (?-bap.1856-?), both baptised on July 13, 1856 at Fort Langley.

Manson, William (c. 1829 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly Fort George [Astoria], Columbia Department - c. 1829 (born to Donald Manson and Felicity Lucier)

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice clerk disposable, New Caledonia general charges (1851 - 1852); Apprentice clerk, Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs] (1852 - 1853); Apprentice clerk, Fort Fraser (1853 - 1854); Clerk, New Caledonia (1854 - 1860); Clerk, Thompson River (1860 - 1862); Clerk, Fort Alexandria (1862 - 1865); Clerk, Fort Alexandria (1865 - 1866); Chief Trader, Fort Simpson (1866 - 1868); Chief Trader, Stikine District (1868 - 1869).

William Manson joined the HBC as an apprentice clerk in 1848. In outfit 1849-1851, he was an apprentice clerk in Red River and Lac La Pluie before coming to the Columbia and New Caledonia areas. Manson rose to the rank of Chief Trader and in 1866 he and Thomas Hankin surveyed the Upper Skeena for a new post, which that year set up at Hawilget. The post lasted for two years and Manson went on furlough in 1869-1870. In June, 1868, he pre-empted 320 acres [129.5 ha] in the Lac La Hache area and received his Crown Grant in 1893. 1870-1872 found him exploring and he retired in 1873.

William Manson had possibly two wives and seven children. One wife was Elizabeth with whom he had Donald (1857-?). On May 29, 1861, Manson married Adelaide Ogden (1847-?) daughter of Peter Ogden Jr. and Phrisine. Their children were Lizzie (?-?), William (?-?), Martha (?-?), Peter O. (?-?), Sarah (?-?) and Margaret (?-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 31; YFDS 22; FtVicASA 1-16; FtVicCB 23, 27, 35; FtSimp[N]PJ 9; HBCA William Manson search file; BCA BCCR StMarLill; Ogden family tree, typescript; BCA A/C/20/K12, Kamloops Baptisms [wife Elizabeth, son Donald] SS: Large, The Skeena, p. 44; Laing, p. 304

See Also: Manson, Donald (Father); Manson, John Duncan (Brother); Lucier, Etienne (Relative); Ogden, Isaac (Relative); Ogden, Peter Jr. (Father-in-Law)

Mardell, Henry [variation: Marlwell] (c. 1817 - ?) (possibly Canadian: English)

Birth: possibly Montreal, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

HBC Hudson's Bay Agent/Clerk, Fort Vancouver (1850).

Henry Mardell worked as a clerk for the HBC, possibly at Fort Vancouver. However, Henry Mardell is noted in the U.S. 1850 Census as being a HBC agent in Lewis County.

Henry Mardell had one wife, Mrs. Mardell (c.1828-?) from Lake Superior and a son, Henry Jr. (c.1848-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 31; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Lewis County

Marden, William (fl. 1852 - 1853) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1852 - 1853).

William Marden made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison. While on the coast, he would have visited several coastal posts.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Mardotehisane, Ignace (fl. 1821) (Native or Mixed descent)

Fur trade employee

NWC Milieu, Columbia Department (1821).

Ignace Mardotehisane is on record as having transferred from the NWC to the HBC in 1821.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 9

Mareau, Joseph [variation: Marreau] (fl. 1821) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1817 - 1821); Milieu, Columbia Department (1821).

Joseph Mareau first appeared on record as a NWC employee in 1817 when he crossed the Rockies with Joseph LaRocque's party. He may have continued to work on the Pacific side as he is on record as having transferred in 1821 in the Columbia to the HBC.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10; NWCAB 9

Marechal, Touissant [standard: Maréchal] (? - 1828) (probably Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Death: Umpqua River region [Smith River], Oregon Territory - July 14, 1828

Fur trade employee

SJ & S Trapper, Jedediah Smith Southwest Expedition (1827 - 1828).

Touissant Maréchal was a trapper on Jedediah Smith's southwest expedition of 1827-1828. He first appeared on record at the 1827 Rendezvous and left with Smith in July, heading south and into California. On the way, they lost ten of the expedition to the Mojaves. After a great deal of difficulty with Spanish authorities in California, the expedition headed north. In an area just north of the Umpqua River [Oregon], just after Smith set out to scout out a route to travel, the natives killed all the expedition members including Maréchal, in camp except one, who managed to escape.

PPS: HBRS X, p. 61 SS: Carter, "Jedediah Smith", p. 97-104

Margary, Herbert West Ogle (fl. 1857 - 1896) (British: English)

Birth: possibly in or near Stratford, Essex, England

Death: probably Florida, United States

Fur trade employee

PSAC Clerk, Fort Victoria (1855 - 1857); HBC Clerk, Fort Colvile (1857 - 1858); Clerk, Fort Colvile (1858 - 1859); Clerk, Fort Colvile (1859 - 1860).

Herbert Margary joined the HBC/PSAC on September 16, 1854 as a clerk, storekeeper and bookkeeper for five years. After sailing to Fort Victoria on the Marquis of Bute, Margary worked as an accountant with incomplete records at the Vancouver Island post. When Margary's accounts were submitted to the London headquarters, his accounting, particularly for the PSAC, was considered lacking and inaccurate and so, upon the instructions from headquarters, he was dismissed and replaced by Alexander Munroe. After signing a further three year contract in 1857, Margary was relegated lesser responsibilities at Fort Colvile. On January 14, 1857, before he received word of his demotion at Fort Victoria, he played the role of "Mrs. Malaprop" in Richard Sheridan's The Rivals along with an all-male cast. In spite of his initial accounting shortcomings and because William Sinclair had suddenly quit the Company, Margary was likely in charge of Fort Shepherd in late 1859 and was in the area until 1860. His stay at Fort Vancouver during the winter when he didn't see the sun for seventeen days became permanently etched in his mind and motivated him to move to a sunnier place. He married an unnamed Oregon raised woman and by 1896, was living at Observatory Grove, Eustis Lake County, Florida.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 13-15; FtVicASA 5-8; HBCA Herbert Margary search file; BCA Diar-Rem Margary; Diar-Rem McKenzie; Diar-Rem playbill; OHS SB #59, p. 26

Markus, Harry [variation: Henry] (fl. c. 1830 - 1831) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver (1831); Passenger, Ganymede (barque) (1831).

Harry Markus joined the HBC in early 1830. He was discharged to Oahu on November 1, 1831, sailing on the Ganymede.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; YFDS 4a-4b; YFASA 11 PPS: McLoughlin, p. 230

Marouna [variation: Marrouna, Marruna] (fl. 1817 - 1838) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands - 1799

Death: probably Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - August 1838

Fur trade employee

NWC Passenger, Columbia (schooner) (1817); Employee, Pacific slopes (1817 - 1821); HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1821 - 1823); Untraced vocation, Fort George [Astoria] (1823 - 1825); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1825 - 1826); NWC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1830); Middleman, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1830 - 1831); HBC Passenger, Ganymede (barque) (1831); Passenger, Ganymede (barque) (1831); Middleman, labourer and sawmill worker, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1831 - 1836); Middleman or labourer, Fort George [Astoria] (1836 - 1837); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver (1838).

Marrouna joined the fur trade in 1817 at the age of eighteen, becoming one of the many Sandwich Islanders, almost all of whom were not listed by name, who worked for the NWC. He appears to have joined the HBC at amalgamation. On October 9, 1825, he together with Harry Bell Noah, James Coah, and Kaharrow, confessed to having stolen blankets from the trade goods of the William & Ann. He was discharged to Oahu on November 1, 1831 sailing on the Ganymede. He soon returned to work at Fort Vancouver in the Indian trade and died at Fort Vancouver on August 22, 1838.

Marouna and an unidentified Native women were the parents of Mungo Marouna (c1827-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 2-9, 11, 13-15, 18; FtGeo[Ast]AB 11-12; YFDS 2a, 3a-7; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-6; FtVanCB 9 PPS:
McLoughlin, p. 230; A. McDonald, p. 29
See Also: Marouna, Mungo (Son)

Marouna, Mungo [variation: Mongo Mevway] (fl. 1827 - 1847) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - 1827 (born to Marouna and an unnamed native woman)

Death: probably Pacific Northwest

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Nez Perces (1843 - 1845); Interpreter, Fort Nez Perces (1845 - 1847); Freeman interpreter, Willamette (1847 - 1848).

Mungo Marouna was born in about 1827 of an Hawaiian father and an unidentified Native mother, at Fort Vancouver, where he appears to have spent much of the first eleven years of his life. When his father died, in August 1838, young Mongo was sent to the Whitman Waiilatpu Presbyterian/Congregationalist mission and came under the care of Narcissa Whitman who called him Mongo Mevway. When he was approximately thirteen years of age in 1840, he was hired on by the Hudson's Bay Company and worked across the Columbia region until 1847 when he left the Company. From 1847, he acted as an interpreter and guide. For example, on April 3, 1847, he was acting as a guide for Thomas Lowe's trip to York Factory. After the trip, he moved into the the house of Charles Plante in the Willamette Valley where he acted as an interpreter for the U.S. Army.

Mongo partnered early with an unnamed Native wife. Together they had Elisabeth (1843/46-1848).

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22, 24-27; FtVanASA 6-7; Lowe 1a PPS: CCR 2a SS: Transactions of the Nineteenth, p. 108; Hulbert & Printup, vol. 2, p. 237, vol. 3, p. 158
See Also: Marouna (Father)

Marro (fl. 1840 - c. 1850?) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Cowlitz Farm (1841 - 1842); Labourer, Cowlitz Farm (1842 - 1844); Labourer, Columbia Department (1845 - 1846); Labourer, Cowlitz Farm (1846 - 1850).

Marro joined the HBC from Oahu in 1841. He worked at the Cowlitz farm until November 15, 1843, at which point he returned to Oahu. He re-enlisted, for he reappeared again in the Columbia in outfit 1845-1846 on a contract that ended in 1851. He may have stayed in the area for there was movement on his accounts for the next two years. He has not been traced further, nor any family located.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-7; YFASA 22-23, 25-32; YFDS 14

Marrow (fl. 1822 - 1823) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Freeman

HBC Freeman, Columbia Department (1822 - 1823).

Marrow worked for the HBC around 1822 and, in outfit 1822-1823, returned to the Sandwich Islands.

PS: HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 10

Marsh, Isaac (fl. 1824 - 1825) (American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Maritime employee

MW Seaman, Convoy (brig) (1825).

Isaac Marsh shipped aboard the Convoy [William Henry McNeill] in Boston as a seaman before it sailed for the Northwest Coast on October 25, 1824. After arriving at Honolulu on March 16, 1825 and discharging cargo, it took on supplies for the Northwest Coast, departing April 1. Marsh and the vessel traded for a season, returning to Honolulu November 2. It is not known whether he continued to sail with the Convoy back to the Northwest Coast for the 1826-1827 trading seasons.

Marshall, Thomas (? - 1839) (British: English)

Birth: probably in or near London, England

Death: possibly on barque Vancouver - October 2, 1839

Maritime employee

HBC Cook, Sumatra (barque) (1837); Cook, Nereide (barque) (1837); Cook, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1839); Seaman, Fort Vancouver (1839).

Londoner Thomas Marshall signed on with the HBC in Oahu as a cook on August 10, 1837 to replace a cook who had deserted at that place. On October 27, 1837, after reaching the coast he joined the Nereide and then apparently Fort Vancouver itself. He had a short career for he died October 2, 1839.

PS: HBCA log of Sumatra 1; FtVanASA 4-6; YFDS 8, 10

Martel, Augustin (c. 1812 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Baie St. Antoine, Lower Canada - c. 1812

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1834); Middleman (steersman's wages), Fort Simpson (1834 - 1837); Middleman, Columbia Department (1837 - 1838).

Augustin Martel joined the HBC from St. Antoine in 1833 and appears to have come directly to the Pacific slopes. He worked mainly at Fort Simpson and is on record as going east over the Rockies in March, 1837.

PS: HBCA FtSimp[N]PJ 3; YFASA 13-17; YFDS 5c-7; FtVanASA 3-4
See Also: Martel, Joseph (Relative)

Martel, Joseph [a] (a - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably L'Assomption, Lower Canada - 1805

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1828 - 1834); P. W. Dease's personal servant, New Caledonia (1834 - 1835).

Joseph Martel (a) joined the HBC from L'Assomption in 1828 and spent the majority of his working career in the New Caledonia area. He has not been traced after 1835.

PS: HBCA YFASA 8-9, 11-14; YFDS 3a-3b, 4b-5c; FtVanASA 2

Martel, Joseph [b] (c. 1813 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Baie de St. Paul, Lower Canada - c. 1813

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Langley (1833 - 1834); Untraced vocation (steersman's wages), Fort Simpson (1834 - 1837); Middleman on Montreal Pay List, Columbia Department (1837 - 1838).

Joseph Martel (b) joined the HBC from St. Antoine in 1833 or 1834 and is on record as going east over the Rockies in March 1837. (He may be a relative of Augustin Martel.)

PS: HBCA FtSimp[N]PJ 3; YFASA 13-17; YFDS 5b-7; FtVanASA 3-4
See Also: Martel, Augustin (possible Relative)

Martel, Octave [variation: Martelle] (c. 1818 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1818

Death: probably Oregon Territory, Pacific Northwest

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Thompson River general charges (1840 - 1841); Middleman, New Caledonia (1841 - 1843); Middleman, Thompson River (1843 - 1844); Middleman, New Caledonia (1844 - 1845); Middleman, Thompson River (1845 - 1847); Freeman middleman, Willamette (1847 - 1848).

Octave Martel joined the HBC from Montreal in 1839 and spent the majority of his working career in the New Caledonia/Thompson River area. He worked until around 1846-1847 and then became a freeman farmer in the Willamette. By 1850, he was a settled farmer in Marion County, Oregon.

By 1850, Octave Martel had one wife, Marie (?-?) from Oregon Territory, and two children, Joseph (c.1847-?) and Marie (c.1848-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-26; FtVanASA 6-7; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion County

Martial, Francois [variation: Marcial] (fl. 1813 - 1822) (Undetermined origin)

Birth: probably East of the Rocky Mountains

Fur trade employee

PFC Member, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (1810 - 1812); Sawyer, Fort George [Astoria] (October 13, 1813); Milieu, Willamette Post (winter 1813 - 1814); Milieu, Fort George [Astoria] (October 13, 1813); Sawyer, Willamette Post (winter 1813 - 1814); HBC Milieu, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822).

Francois Martial joined Wilson Price Hunt's PFC Overland Expedition in Mackinac around August 2, 1810, crossing the Continental Divide in late summer, 1811. He arrived at Astoria on February 19, 1812 and began his work as a milieu and sawyer. Martial joined the NWC after it took over the PFC in 1813 and later joined the HBC in 1821. He may have returned to Canada in 1822.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10; HBCA NWCAB 9, 10; HBCA YFASA 1 PPS: K. W. Porter, Roll of Overland, p. 109

Martin, Alexis (fl. 1821 - 1822) (possibly Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1821 - 1822); Untraced vocation, Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs] (1822 - 1823).

Alexis Martin worked in New Caledonia in outfit 1821-1823. In the late fall of 1822 he helped to establish a new post at the end of Babine Lake. In late 1822 he was back in Montreal.

PS: HBCA YFASA 1-2; FtBabPJ 1

Martin, Charles (c. 1816 - ?) (probably Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Ours, Lower Canada - c. 1816

Death: possibly Canada East [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

HBC Officer's servant, Fort Vancouver general charges (1835 - 1837); Officer's servant (middleman?), Fort Simpson (1836 - 1840); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1840 - 1841); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1840 - 1841); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1841 - 1842).

Charles Martin joined the HBC from St. Ours in 1835 and served as an officer's servant coming into the Columbia. At Fort Simpson, he did a variety of jobs, such as making shingles. His contract ended in 1842 at which point he returned to Canada, then east of the Rockies.

PS: HBCA YFASA 14-15, 19-21; FtSimp[N]PJ 3; YFDS 6-7; FtVanASA 3-7

Martin, Donald (? - 1837) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Crantsta (?), Uig, Ross, Scotland

Death: Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - March 12, 1837

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Colville (1832 - 1834); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1834 - 1837).

Donald Martin joined the HBC on June 6, 1831 for five years. His final contract was to have ended in 1838 but he died of influenza March 12, 1837 and was buried the following day by Rev. Herbert Beaver at Fort Vancouver.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 12-15; YFDS 5a—7; FtVanASA 3-4; BCA BCCR CCCath

Martin , Edouard [variation: Martine] (c. 1820 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Sorel, Lower Canada - c. 1820

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Colville (1840 - 1842); Middleman, Fort Colville (1842 - 1843); Carpenter, Fort Colville (1842 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Colville (1843 - 1845).

Edouard Martin joined the HBC from Sorel in 1840. After five years of working as a labourer and carpenter at Fort Colville, he returned east of the Rockies.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-24; FtVanASA 6-7

Martin, Harry (fl. c. 1836 - c. 1838) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Oahu (1836 - 1837); Untraced vocation, Oahu (1837 - 1838).

Harry Martin, who, despite his name, was from the Hawaiian Islands, was hired and discharged in outfits 1836-1837 and 1837-1838. In outfit 1836-1837 he received half the wages of the labourer, indicating he was discharged part way through his employment. It is unclear precisely where he was working, whether only in Oahu or on the Northwest Coast.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 3-4; YFDS 7; YFASA 16;

Martin, Iroquois (fl. 1808 - 1812) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

NWC Member, Upper Columbia (winter 1808 - 1809) (with Jaco Finlay).

Martin is difficult to track, although he is probably Miaquin Martin. When he was first encountered on the Pacific slopes, he had spent the winter of 1808-1809 with Jaco Finlay and another Iroquois, Jacques, exploring the northern part of the Columbia. They met David Thompson in the spring of 1809, much to the chagrin of the latter. Martin was obviously a man of strong character for he had an altercation with David Thompson: "Martin insolent & dislocated my right thumb in thrashing him which will render me incapable of doing anything for a few days" (UBC-Koer Thompson). Within a few days, however, Thompson was back writing. In April, 1812, Martin encountered Thompson again a few miles outside Kettle Falls but nothing more is heard from him. It is probable that this is the same Miaquin Martin who associated with Jaco Finlay and who later named a son Miaquin.

PS: UBC-Koer Thompson

Martin, John [1] (c. 1772 - 1811) (possibly American and possibly French)

Birth: probably New Orleans, Louisiana - c. 1772

Death: mouth of the Columbia River, Pacific Northwest - March 1811

Maritime employee

PFC Seaman, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811).

Thirty-eight year old French speaking New Orleans native John Martin likely aged prematurely, having served for many years as a sailor in various parts of the world. Nothing is known of his early life, but the "very old Frenchman" (Ross, p. 54) joined John Jacob Astor's Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn] in New York as a seaman some time before September 3, 1810 for its voyage to the Northwest Coast. Martin departed September 8 on the New York vessel for its tempestuous journey around the Horn but managed to avoid the harsh punitive temper and measures of the captain. After a brief stopover in February, 1811 on the Hawaiian Islands, the Tonquin arrived at the mouth of the Columbia March 22, 1811. Unfamiliar with the territory, impetuous Captain Thorn had the skiff lowered and sent Martin, Ebenezer Fox, Bazile Lapensee, Ignace Lapensee and Joseph Nadeau to take soundings in the heavy seas in the little vessel which used a borrowed sheet as a sail. The tiny boat was lost in the heavy seas and all drowned.

PS: USNA Tonquin; RosL-Ph Astoria PPS: ChSoc XLV, p. 49, 71; A. Ross, Adventures, p. 54

Martin, John [2] (fl. 1815) (Undetermined origin)

Maritime employee

NWC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1815).

John Martin was engaged as a crew member of the NWC schooner Columbia on July 21, 1815 when it traded on the Northwest Coast. He was paid off on February 29, 1816 in Canton and went to India on the Crinser.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 5

Martin, John [3] (fl. 1856 - 1857) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1856 - 1857).

John Martin joined the HBC on August 19, 1856 in London, and made one return voyage to the Coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA log of Princess Royal 3

Martin, Jonathan (c. 1832 - 1907) (British: English)

Birth: Orpington, Kent, England - c. 1832 (born to William Martin and Mary Atkinson)

Death: Gabriola Island, British Columbia - January 16, 1907Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Rupert (1850 - 1851); Labourer, Fort Rupert (1851 - 1855); Steward, Otter (steamer) (1857 - 1860).

After Jonathan Martin came to Vancouver Island on the Norman Morison, he worked at Fort Rupert until 1855 when he became a steward (chief of the mess room) on the steamer Otter. When he left the HBC, he settled on Gabriola Island where he farmed and continued to raise a family. He participated in community activities and died in 1907.

Jonathan Martin's family is not entirely clear. He appears to have had two wives and at least thirteen children. One wife was Jane, Stikine (?-?) with whom he partnered before 1855. Their likely children were William (1855-1930), Mary Isabella (c.1860-1893), Thomas (1865-1887), John (1867-1944), Joseph (1869-1891) and Henry (1874-?). In 1883, he married Ellen/Helen, Cowitchan (1838-1918) and together they had Sarah Jane (c.1876-1900), James (c.1877-1957), Moses (1878-1916), Robert (1884-1973), Samuel (1885-1934), Angus (1887-1964) and Nellie (c.1890-?). Moses' mother was also listed as Emma.

PS: HBCA YFASA 29-32; FtVicASA 1-3; BCA BCCR StPaulNan; BCGR-BCVS; BCGR-Nanaimo Free, Oct. 23, 1886; May 7, 1887, July 11, 1891 PPS: Mouat, p. 213 SS: Bate, p. 2; Gabriola Museum and Historical Society

Martin, Meaquin [variation: Miaquin, Meaquin] (fl. 1818 - 1825) (Native: Iroquois)Birth: possibly Lower Canada [Quebec]*Freeman

HBC Freeman trapper, McKenzie's Snake Party (1818); Trapper, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1821 - 1822); Member, Finan McDonald's Snake Party (1823); Freeman trapper, Ross' Snake Party (1824); Freeman trapper, Snake Party (1824 - 1825); Freeman trapper, American Party (1824+).

Meaquin Martin first appeared on record in the Columbia in 1818 when he parted company with Donald McKenzie's NWC brigade and subsequently did not fare well. He may also be the Martin, Iroquois who was with Jaco Finlay a decade earlier in the same area. He then appeared on record from 1821 leading a band of eight Iroquois freeman who trapped and sold furs to the HBC. (The members of the band were Louis and Ignace Kanetagon, Laurent Karatohon, Lazard Kayenquaretcha, Francois Xavier Teanetorens, Jacques Teholarachten, Pierre Teuanitogan, and Lazard Teyecaleyeyedioeye.) The band dissolved by outfit 1822-1823 and Meaquin Martin continued to work as a freeman trader in 1823 with Finan McDonald's Snake Party. On February 10, 1824 he was found camped on Prairie de Cheveaux, near Flathead post with many of his old band members. They all joined Alexander Ross' nine month HBC Snake Country trapping expedition, an expedition in which Ross felt that all the Iroquois, including Martin, were unfit for Snake Country. Ross obviously had run-ins with Martin but reserved his comments for his book, rather than his HBC journal. After Martin returned, he continued with Ogden's 1824-1825 Snake Country trapping expedition and on May 24, 1825, deserted the Ogden party for the American party under Johnson Gardner. Neither he nor his family have been traced after that.

Meaquin Martin travelled with his family but their names have not been traced.

PS: HBCA YFASA 1; FtGeo[Ast]AB 4, 10; FtSpokRD 1; SnkCoPJ 1, 2, 3a PPS: A. Ross, The Fur Hunters, p. 244, 251-52

Martin, Norman [a] (c. 1816 - 1880) (British: Scottish)Birth: probably in or near Tolsta, Stornoway, Ross, Scotland - c. 1817*Death: Kalama, Washington Territory - November 1880*Fur trade employee

HBC Carpenter, Fort Vancouver general charges (1842 - 1843); Carpenter, Fort Victoria (1843 - 1844); Carpenter, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1850).

Norman Martin [a] joined the HBC on June 15, 1841 as a labourer for five years. However, when he reached Vancouver, he began work as a carpenter but then went to Fort Victoria to help construct that post; but in late 1844 went back to Vancouver where his services were more needed. On September 1, 1849, when he was working on a contract that was to have ended in 1850, he went to California, presumably for the gold there. He, like many others, returned to the area from which they left and may have settled in Washington County [Oregon]. He may have moved to the Kalama, [Washington] area as he died there in November, 1880 at the age of sixty-five. His funeral was at Forest Grove, Oregon.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 7; YFASA 22-29; YFDS 20; OHS Oregonian, Nov. 20, 1880, p. 1

Martin, Pierre (fl. 1824 - 1825) (Undetermined origin)Birth: possibly East of the Rocky Mountains*Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1823 - 1824).

Pierre Martin worked in New Caledonia from 1823-1824 and returned to Montreal in 1824-1825.

PS: HBCA YFDS 1a; YFASA 4

Martindale, William [variation: Martingale, Martindill] (c. 1824 - 1858) (British: English)

Birth: probably London, England - c. 1824

Death: Chinook, Washington Territory - June 1858

Maritime employee

HBC Apprentice, Vancouver (barque) (1838 - 1844); Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1845 - 1846); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1846 - 1847); Seaman, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1847 - 1849); Cook, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1849 - 1850).

William Martindale began a quiet thirteen year career in the fur trade when the fourteen year old joined the HBC around 1838 as an apprentice seaman on the HBC supply ship Prince of Wales on its run to the Hudson Bay. He then made two return voyages to the coast on the barque Vancouver. Martindale returned to the coast as a seaman on the Columbia in 1846, and on February 20, 1847 at Fort Victoria, he and four others were successful in having the mate, William Mouat, removed from his position on the Cadboro. On July 17, 1850, near the end of his contract, he deserted from the brig Mary Dare and went south to the Nisqually area where he worked as a labourer. On January 16, 1851, he settled on a claim of 320 acres [129.5 ha] in Pacific County and by 1858, Martindale was living at Chinook. On June 29, while in his own house, he was shot and killed by Joseph Dupere who was immediately arrested and sent to Vancouver by steamer under the care of John Douglas. (When Dupere was just below the mouth of the Willamette, he deliberately jumped overboard but his heavily ironed hands and feet pulled him under the water and he drowned.)

An undelivered 1840 letter written by his concerned mother, Charlotta from Plaistow, England, rests in the HBCA.

PS: HBCA log of Prince of Wales I 16; YFASA 19-20, 23, 26-30; YFDS 10-11, 17-18, 21; FtVanASA 6-7; PortB 1; log of Cadboro 5, 6; MiscI 5; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Lewis County; OHS Oregonian, July 10, 1858, p. 2 PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 147-49; Washington Territory Donation Land Claims, p. 213

Martineau, Alexis (fl. 1837 - 1841) (probably Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Red River Settlement [Manitoba]

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman and route, Fort Colvile (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Snake Party (1838 - 1839); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1839); Middleman and route, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840).

Alexis Martineau joined the HBC from the Red River settlement in 1837 and received an extra gratuity for being a route in the Athabasca River area. In outfit 1838-1839 he transported members of the Snake party in and out of the territory. His contract expired in 1840 (presumably May 31, 1840) and he did not receive wages for outfit 1840-1841 and he is listed as having deserted in outfit 1841-1842.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 4-6; YFDS 8-10; YFASA 19-21

Martineau, Olivier (c. 1819 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Yamaska, Lower Canada - c. 1819

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Stikine (1840 - 1842); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1842 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1843 - 1844); Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1844 - 1845).

Olivier Martineau may have been a carpenter when he joined the HBC from Maska in 1839. After making his way across the mountains, he was assigned to northerly Fort Stikine [Wrangel, Alaska] where, on June 13, 1840, William Glen Rae wrote of him that he was "a slow unserviceable who had been cut of by an axe and take a month to heal" (FtStikP] 1, fo. 1). After his injury was healed he did such duties as whitewashing rooms, squaring wood for the fur press and cutting door posts. In the spring of 1842, after alcohol had flowed freely and discipline broke down, Martineau became involved in the April 21 murder of Rae's replacement, John McLoughlin Jr. who had become progressively more brutal in his beatings of his men. Martineau, for example, had been flogged for giving his blanket to a local native woman. In February, 1842, the men then hatched a plot, couched in a written litany of complaints, to remove McLoughlin, which some interpreted as killing him. In the early morning hours of April 21, each time Iroquois Pierre Kanaguasse tried to shoot what he thought was McLoughlin (firing at William Lasserte, Francoise Presse and an unidentified servant) Martineau, who apparently had better night vision, knocked the gun upwards to deflect the shot. Because of this role in the plan, the actual fatal shot being fired by Urbain Heroux, Martineau was charged with complicity. Martineau, called a "soft dull Lad" (FtVanCB 29, fo. 32) by John McLoughlin Sr., and the thirteen others involved in the plot were then held in semi-confinement until 1844 when McLoughlin sent the group to York Factory from Fort Vancouver. At that time, Martineau may have been working at Fort Nez Percés.

Martineau, Pierre (? - 1842) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Rupert's Land, British North America

Death: Okanagan Dalles [Okanagan Falls, British Columbia] - May 1842

Fur trade employee

HBC Boute, South Party (1828 - 1830); Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (Walla Walla) (1830 - 1831); Middleman, Snake Party (1831 - 1832); Middleman, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1832 - 1833); Middleman, Fort Langley (1833 - 1834); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1834 - 1835); Middleman, Fort Colville (1835 - 1836); Boute, Fort Colville (1836 - 1840); Boute, Fort Colville (1840 - 1842); Miller, Fort Colville (1840 - 1842); Carpenter, Fort Colville (1840 - 1842).

Pierre Martineau joined the HBC in 1828 and worked for fourteen years with the Company in areas within present day Washington State. On May 31, 1842, he drowned along with four others in a boating accident on the Okanagan Dalles on the Columbia.

Pierre Martineau had one wife and four recorded children. His wife was Louise (Lisette) Canote Humpherville (1819-1849) and together they had children Pierre (1836-?), Louise (c.1836?-?), Genevieve (1839-?) and Francois Xavier (?-m.1866-?). When Pierre died, Louise married George Montour.

PS: HBCA YFASA 8-9, 11-15, 19-20, 22; YFDS 3a-3b, 4b-7, 11-12; FtVanASA 2-7; FtVanCB 29 PPS: CCR 1a

Mascon, Alexis (fl. 1813 - 1814) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

PFC Milieu, Fort George [Astoria] (1812 - 1813); Milieu, Willamette Post (winter 1813 - 1814); Gardener, Fort George [Astoria] (1813).

It is uncertain how Alexis Mascon reached Fort Astoria; either he came on the Wilson Price Hunt Overland Expedition or by sea on the Beaver [Cornelius Sowle] in early 1812, but his presence was first recorded as a PFC employee in October, 1812. He did a variety of tasks from that point and in April, 1813, was given the task of being gardener at the post's garden. When the PFC was bought out by the North West Company, Mascon was engaged as a milieu with the NWC on the Columbia on October 23, 1813. He spent that winter at the Willamette post as part of the overflow crowd meant to provide food for Astoria. He was last tracked on April 21, 1814 when he was sent from Tongue Point to Fort Astoria to be cured of venereal disease.

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria; HBCA NWCAB 10; HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: ChSoc LVII, p. 724

Mason, George (c. 1826 - 1893) (British: English)

Birth: Kent, England - c. 1826

Death: Victoria, British Columbia - May 1893

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Norman Morison (barque) (1851); Brickmaker, Fort Victoria (1851 - 1856).

George Mason's only connection with the fur trade is that he was hired as a brick maker by the HBC to make bricks for settlers on Vancouver Island. As a result of his five year commitment, on May 28, 1851, he and his wife left England on the Norman Morison on its voyage around the Horn to Vancouver Island. After his arrival in October of that year, his work record is unclear but he appears to have signed an additional agreement for work on September 27, 1852 but the following year "deserted" or quit the terms of the contract. In 1856, at the end of his original five year contract, he purchased a lot in Victoria, built a house and began making bricks with Robert Porter, a former HBC employee. As in the following year he and George Balls had become business partners in brick making, saloon keeping, and real estate, the two were well poised for the gold rush of 1858 which made Mason and Balls wealthy. That year he purchased nearly three hundred acres [121.4 ha] in the Lake District. However, as brick making was seasonal, Mason became a barkeeper at the successful "Identical Saloon" on Yates Street, Victoria, B.C., and, by 1864 he abandoned brick making and the following year opened up a second saloon, the "White Horse Hotel". However, the following year, a recession forced both men into bankruptcy and Balls faded from sight. From 1868-1873 George returned to bartending and his wife operated a successful boarding house. In 1873 George returned to brick making and in the following year began brick making with his brother, Jesse, north of Victoria. In 1881 he entered into brick making partnership with John Coughlan, a young contractor from Halifax and carried on this business until his death on May 3, 1893, in Victoria. At his death, for all his hard work, he had not become a wealthy man but it was probably enough to keep his wife, Mary Ann until her death on January 10, 1915.

George Mason had one wife, Mary Ann (c.1832-1915) and no children.

PS: HBCA log of Norman Morison 2; YFASA 31-32; YFDS 22; FtVanDS 1; FtVicASA 1; BCA CrtR-AbstLnd; 1863 Victoria Directory, p. 71 SS: Hanna
See Also: Balls, George

Masta, Antoine (c. 1812 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Esprit, Lower Canada - c. 1812

Death: probably Oregon Territory, Pacific Northwest

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1832 - 1833); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1833 - 1835); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1837); Middleman and bouté on Athabasca River, Fort Vancouver general charges (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1840); Settler, Willamette (1840 - 1842).

Antoine Masta joined the HBC from the parish of St. Esprit, Lower Canada in 1832 and worked for the company for about eight years at a variety of locations. He settled in the Willamette in outfit 1840-1841 and had a claim near Etienne Lucier in the big bend of the river. In 1850, he was noted in the Census as being a farmer living in the same household at Joseph Despard.

He had one wife and three recorded children. He formalized his marriage to Sophie, Chinook on February 20, 1840 in the parish of St. Paul. Their children were Catherine (1839-1839), Victoire (c.1843-?) and Marie (1850-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 12-15, 20; FtSimp[N]PJ 3; YFDS 5a-5b, 6-8, 11; FtVanASA 3-6; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion County PPS: CCR 1a, 2a, 2b, 3a
See Also: Despard, Joseph Frederick

Matheson, Murdo (? - 1859) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Stornoway, Ross, Scotland

Death: probably New Caledonia - March 25, 1859

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, New Caledonia (1853 - 1859).

Murdo Matheson joined the HBC from Stornoway in 1852. His contract ended in 1859, the year he died.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1-7

Matheson, Peter (fl. 1841 - 1848) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Barvas, Ross, Lewis, Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1841 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1842 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1843 - 1845); Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1848).

The records are quiet on the otherwise sociable Peter Matheson. Matheson joined the HBC on June 15, 1840 as a labourer for five years embarking at Stornoway on June 23, 1840 for his journey to York Factory. Between 1840-1841 he was at Saskatchewan and Edmonton House and, in 1841-1842, at Norway House. He only spent four years in the Fort Vancouver area before going to Red River where he spent the next outfit. In 1846-1847 he became a member of John Rae's Arctic expedition and while on the expedition, Rae noted that Matheson was "one of the best men I even had under my command...he had a joke ready for every occasion" (HBRs XVI, p. 156-57). In 1847-1848, after his part in the expedition, Matheson was back in Red River and, in 1848, retired and returned to the British Isles aboard the Prince Rupert.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; FtVanASA 6-7; YFASA 22, 24; log of Prince Rupert V 9 PPS: HBRs XVI, p. 156-57, 367

Mathu, Louis [variation: Mather, Matthew] (fl. 1850 - 1854) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Alexandria (1850 - 1851); Middleman, Thompson River (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Thompson River (1852 - 1853); Labourer, Fort Colville (1853 - 1854).

Louis Mathu likely joined the HBC in 1850 on a contract that ended in 1853. He retired in 1854.

PS: BCA FtAlex; HBCA YFASA 30-32; YFDS 22; FtVanASA 9-11

Matte (fl. 1830 - 1836) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands - 1799

Death: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1834); Middleman, Fort McLoughlin (1834 - 1836); Untraced vocation, Beaver (steamer) (1836 - 1837).

Matte joined the HBC from Oahu in April 1830 and worked in the northern posts of Fort Simpson and Fort McLoughlin as well as on the steamer Beaver. He appears to have returned to Oahu in December, 1836 although the records for 1837-1838 stated that he remained in the district.

PS: HBCA YFDS 4a-5b, 5c-6; YFASA 11-16; FtVanASA 2-3

Matte, Maxime [variation: Mathe] (c. 1820 - ?) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1838 - 1839); Middleman, Snake Party (1839 - 1840).

Maxim Matte entered the service of the HBC in 1838 from Lachine and deserted from the Snake Party on November 1, 1840. He may be related to Eloise and may be Eloise's reason for going east in 1841.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 5-6; YFDS 11; YFASA 19-20

Matthews, William Wallace (fl. 1810 - 1815) (American)

Birth: New York, New York

Death: New York, New York

Fur trade employee

PFC Passenger, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811); Clerk, Fort George [Astoria] (1811 - 1815); Clerk, Fort Okanagan (October 13, 1813).

William Wallace Matthews was a clerk who learned to speak four or five natives languages while working for the PFC in the Columbia. In 1810 Matthews joined John Jacob Astor's PFC, sailed from New York on the Tonquin September 6, arriving at the mouth of the Columbia the following year on March 22, 1811. There he stayed at the fort for almost eight months when, on November 10, 1811, after Company men P. D. Jeremie and the two Belleaux had deserted with firearms, ammunition and a canoe, Matthews and Gabriel Franchere embarked on a search for them, going as far in as Celilo Falls. After false starts, native informants eventually directed them to the native village of Cathlanaminim on Sauvie Island opposite Scappose, where they found the trio who had been taken slaves by the chief. Matthews and friends ransomed their freedom with eight blankets, "a copper kettle, an axe, a pistol in poor condition, a powder horn and some shot" (ChSoc XLV p. 55). He returned as far as Oak Point with Franchere, continuing on to Astoria with Robert Stuart on the Dolly. The following year in April 1812, he travelled with Donald McKenzie to the Willamette and in June of that year with David Stuart/Donald McGillis to the Okanogan/Thompson River area where he remained probably for one year. In June 1813 he accompanied Stuart to Astoria. Half a year later he travelled with Alexander Henry to the Willamette on January 22, 1814 and he was engaged by the North West Company on January 31, 1814 as head foreman for two years. On February 28, 1814, he began the building of a post at Tongue Point where he stayed until April 22. He had some difficulty, complaining that the men were lazy and he couldn't get appropriate supplies. On May 1, he may have accompanied the express to Spokane House and returned shortly after taking part in the kidnapping, trial and execution of the murderers of "Judge" Pelton. He appears to have left the Columbia in late 1815 for Montreal. From February 1816 to 1828 he acted as Astor's American Fur Company agent in Montreal. His 1818 contracts still survive. William Wallace Matthews died in New York somewhere between 1831 and 1854.

William Wallace Matthews had one native wife. He married Kilakotah, the daughter of Clatsop Chief Coboway, and their daughter Ellen was born in 1815. He either travelled with or sent for his daughter for later, Ellen was educated in the East and married a wealthy citizen of Montreal.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10; SHdeSB Liste PPS: ChSoc XLV, p. 48, 93-95, 112, 115-16; ChSoc LVII, p. 636, 636n, 656, 672-73, 678, 686, 688-89, 692, 695, 710, 713, 719, 721, 725-26; J. S. Douglas, "Matthews", p. 105-148 SS: Perrine, p. 303;
See Also: Barnston, George (Son-in-Law); McMillan, James (Relative)

Matthieu, Francois Xavier [variation: Francis] (1818 - 1914) (Canadian: French)

Birth: Terrebonne, Lower Canada - April 2, 1818 (born to Francois Matthieu and Louise (Daufin) Matthieu)

Death: Butteville, Oregon State, United States - February 4, 1914

Freeman

AFC Freeman trapper, American Fur Company (1838 - 1842).

Francis Xavier Matthieu did not go through the typical employment of a French Canadian in the fur trade. He received only a few years of formal training but it was enough to imbue him with anti-British colonialism/pro-American democracy sentiments. While a young clerk in a business house in Montreal, Matthieu joined the Joseph Papineau Rebellion of 1837, escaping to the United States with a forged passport. He then worked in Albany, New York, Milwaukee and St. Louis where, in 1839 he joined the American Fur Company. In 1842 after working for them in the mountains for three years, he joined a group of emigrants on the Oregon Trail at Fort Laramie heading for Oregon. He stayed with Etienne Lucier for two years working as a farmer, carpenter and mechanic and converting him to the merits of American democracy. On May 2, 1843, he and Lucier voted for the Provisional Government; as well, he was elected constable. On April 12, 1844, he married Rosalie Aussant the daughter of former trapper Louis Ausant and with whom he had fifteen children. He ran a general merchandise business in Butteville between 1850-1865 and was in the state legislature 1874 and 1878. He died February 14, 1914, the last survivor of those who voted at the Champoege meeting.

By 1850 he had one wife, LaRose (c.1828-?) and children Philomene (c.1844-?), Charles (1846-?), and Clorice (c.1848-?).

PS: OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion County PPS: H. W. Scott, History of the Oregon, vol. II, p. 230; Corning, Willamette Landings, p. 74-80; Portrait and Biographical Record, p. 215; OHQ, XIV, p. 74; Hussey, Champoege: Place of, p. 104-06

Maurice, Joseph (c. 1809 - c. 1853) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Trois Rivières, Lower Canada - c. 1809

Death: probably Victoria, Colony of Vancouver Island - c. 1853

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1840); Stoker, Beaver (steamer) (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1841 - 1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1851 - 1853).

Joseph Maurice joined the HBC from Trois Rivières in 1830 and from then on worked on the coast. Little is mentioned of him, but in January 1837, he received a shoulder injury in a shootout with a native who had stolen wood from the steamer Beaver. He was one of several of the more stable HBC employees who put his name to an unsuccessful land claim around Fort Nisqually. He stopped working regularly in 1851 and rejoined on August 24, 1852. Shortly after, he was "killed in a drunken squabble" (FtVicASA 1, fo. 26).

Joseph Maurice had one wife who, in March 1842, briefly deserted him for having beat her. She took along one of their children indicating that he had more than one child.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2-7; FtSimp[N]PJ 3, 6; YFDS 4a-5c, 7, 23; YFASA 11-15, 19-20, 22-32; FtVicDS 1; FtVicASA 1; BCA PSACFtNis

Maxwell, Henry [variation: Henri] (1817 - ?) (Canadian: English)

Birth: probably Montreal, Lower Canada - 1817 (born to Colonel Maxwell and Mrs. Maxwell)

Death: probably East of the Rocky Mountains

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice clerk, Fort Chilcotin (1840 - 1841); Untraced vocation, Thompson River (spring 1841); Untraced vocation, Fort Chilcotin (August 1841 – winter 1842); Clerk, Fort McLeod (winter 1841 - 1842); Clerk in charge, Fort Connolly (1842 - 1845); Clerk, Fort George [Astoria] (1845 - 1847); Clerk, Fort Hall (1847 - 1850); Clerk/Assistant to CT Richard Grant, Fort Nez Percés (1847); Clerk in charge, Champoege (1850 - 1851); Clerk, Fort George [Astoria] (1851); Clerk, Fort Alexandria (1851 - 1852); Clerk in charge, Cape Disappointment (1851 - 1852).

Henry Maxwell plodded his way through the fur trade essentially being used to fill in positions and usually always under the command of others. Maxwell joined the HBC in 1835 and for the next four years, served at two posts in the Kings Posts area but, apparently Simpson found him dull. By August 1840, Maxwell was at Fort Chilcotin and the following spring, Thompson River. He filled in at a variety of posts, for example, in the autumn of 1842, he was ordered to Connolly's Lake to relieve Mr. McBean. The next five years found him at Connolly's Lake and Fort George. In 1847 Maxwell obtained leave to proceed to Fort Vancouver on the sick list. Later in that year, he was the assistant to Chief Trader Richard Grant in the Snake Country stationed at Fort Nez Percés and subsequently left for Fort Hall. In 1850 he went to Champoege and in the following year Peter Skene Ogden wrote of him:

I do indeed regret to say I cannot say one word in favour of Maxwell his want of popularity at Champoege and also want of regular habits so it was commonly reported obliged me to remove him to the cape and then his vanity led him to believe he was an experienced Merchant... (Ogden's letter, fo. 93d).

He was then sent to deliver over Astoria to the Americans and subsequently sent to establish a sales shop at Cape Disappointment. In 1852 he left the Pacific Northwest coast and served in four Departments until ill health and the necessity to live in a better climate dictated his retirement on May 31, 1864. In 1864 he was noted to be at Dehi, Delaware Co., Iowa, in 1870 at North Douro, Ontario and 1871 in Yankton, Dakota. He was still alive in 1882.

Henry Maxwell had one wife and three children. On February 12, 1844, he married Elizabeth/Betsey McIntosh and together they had Charlotte (1846-1847), Henri (1848-?) and an unnamed son (?-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 24-31; FtVanASA 6-8, 10; P. S. Ogden's March 18, 1851 letter to Eden Colville, D.7.1, fo. 93d; HBCABio PPS: CCR 1b, 7a

Maxwell, John (fl. 1834 - 1835) (probably American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Fur trade employee

CRFTC Member, Wyeth's 2nd Expedition (1834); Employee, Fort Hall (1834 - 1835).

John Maxwell joined the Nathaniel J. Wyeth expedition of 1834 as part of a group to establish the CRFTC on the Pacific slopes to function in opposition to the HBC. Maxwell, who may have joined the expedition en route, left the expedition on the upper Snake River, near the mouth of the Portneuf River, to build a CRFTC trading post which they called Fort Hall, after one of the directors of the company. A stockade was built in the summer of 1834 and a total of twelve men stayed to winter over. Maxwell may have gone out on hunting parties that fall and winter and may have departed for an unknown location in the summer of 1835.

PS: OHS FtHallAB SS: O. Russell, p. 157

May, William (fl. 1833 - 1835) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Apprentice, Nereide (barque) (1833 - 1835).

William May, a young apprentice with the HBC, made one long, arduous return voyage on the Nereide. He arrived back in London May 28, 1835.

PS: HBCA log of Nereide 1; ShMiscPap 14

Maydle, William [variation: Madle] (fl. 1842 - 1848) (British: English)

Birth: probably London, England

Maritime employee

HBC Steward, Columbia (barque) (1842 - 1843); Steward, Cadboro (schooner) (1843 - 1847); Steward, Columbia (barque) (1847 - 1848).

William Maydle shipped on with the HBC in London around September 6, 1842 as a steward, and sailed to the coast on the Columbia. After joining the coastal trading schooner Cadboro on October 15, 1843, he had a rather difficult time of it. Between July 10-17, 1845, Maydle was found to have such an advanced case of venereal disease, that he was sent forward and not allowed to be in contact with the food (log of Cadboro, fo. 107d-108). Thereon after, he appears to have been relatively well and was sick only one day in April, 1847. On Jan 15, 1847, because he would not bring the ship's mate water with which to wash, Maydle was struck several times by then Cadboro officer William Mouat (log of Cadboro 6, fo. 20). Maydle suffered no consequences but he was put off duty for two weeks. Maydle rejoined the Columbia at Fort Victoria on November 4, 1847 and sailed back to London.

PS: HBCA log of Columbia 6, 9; FtVanASA 8; YFASA 23-26; YFDS 14; log of Cadboro 5, 6

McArthur, Neil McLean (fl. 1845 - 1880) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Salem, Argyle, Scotland

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice clerk, Fort Colvile (1845 - 1846); Clerk, Fort Colvile (1846 - 1847); Apprentice clerk in charge, Flatheads (1847 - 1848); Apprentice clerk, Fort Nez Percés (1848 - 1849); Clerk, Fort Victoria (1849 - 1850); Clerk, Willamette Falls (1850 - 1851); Clerk in charge, Fort Hall (1851 - 1852); Clerk, Fort Nez Percés (1852 - 1853); Clerk in charge, Fort Hall (1853 - 1854).

Neil McLean McArthur, nephew of Chief Trader John McLean, joined the HBC in 1844. He spent the majority of his time in the Snake Country area and in 1854 he was not able to properly account for the HBC affairs in the area. This he blamed on being "badly assisted" (HBCA search file) and when he refused to go to Norway House on Company business, he, in effect, left the Company. He retired into the area in 1854 but returned north of the border where he farmed in the Caribou District. On January 29, 1861, he pre-empted 160 acres [64.8 ha] on the Bonaparte River for his friend, Donald McLean, but it was never put in McLean's name; and, by 1867 the Crown Grant was transferred to a George Dunne. This oversight helped to impoverish the McLean family, three sons of whom went on a murderous rampage in 1879. McArthur was still in the area in 1880.

PS: HBCA YFASA 25-32; FtVanASA 9-10; FtVanCB 41; FtVicASA 16; HBCA Neil McLean McArthur search file SS: Rothenburger, p. 111; Laing

McAskill, Norman (fl. 1851 - 1852) (British: Scottish)

Birth: possibly Ross, Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Albert (barque) (1850); Passenger, Prince of Wales II (barque) (1850); Labourer, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1851 - 1852).

Norman McAskill joined the HBC from Stornoway in 1850 on a five year contract and sailed to York Factory. He made his way overland, worked briefly, and deserted in 1852.

PS: HBCA YFASA 31-32; FtVanASA 9

McAulay, Donald [a] [variation: Macaulay] (1805 - 1868) (British: Scottish)

Birth: West Loch Tarbet, Harris, Ross, Island of Lewis, Scotland – 1805

Death: Esquimalt, British Columbia - September 1868

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1834 - 1835); Steward, Lama (brig) (1835 - 1837); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1837 - 1842); Interpreter, Fort Simpson (1843 - 1850); Bailiff, Viewfield farm (1850 - 1857); PSAC Labourer, Fort Simpson (1862 - 1868); Labourer, Esquimalt (1868).

Donald McAulay was a crofter and shepherd from the area of Dorisgell, Harris, County Ross, Scotland, when he joined the HBC on June 20, 1832 as a labourer, originally for five years. He boarded the Prince Rupert IV on June 23, at Stornoway as a sloop (crewman), sailing June 26. After a two month voyage, he disembarked at York Factory on August 24 and made his way to the Saskatchewan. From 1832-1834 he was a labourer in the Saskatchewan area, thence moving to the Columbia region in 1834 from which point he spent the majority of his career at Fort Simpson. He rarely made mention in the records but, in December 1838, he tried to light newspaper with gunpowder and damaged his eyes. In 1846, he unsuccessfully laid claim to land around Fort Nisqually to help secure the PSAC position there. On May 31, 1850, he left the service of the Company and on September 14, of that year, entered into an agreement with PSAC to farm part of its land (Viewfield Farm) between Victoria and Esquimalt in return for half of the profits. McAulay, as bailiff, managed the six hundred acre [242.8 ha] farm, stocked mainly with sheep, until September 1, 1857, when his agreement with PSAC expired. It was not a success. From that point, the Viewfield and Constance Cove farms were merged and their management taken over by Thomas J. Skinner. McAulay's agreement was not renewed but he returned to work for the Company at Fort Simpson in outfit 1862-1863 and then Victoria where he was in charge of the HBC's powder magazine at Esquimalt. By this time, the "long and spare" (Helmcken, p. 153) McAulay was quite deaf. Donald McAulay was accidentally drowned in Esquimalt Harbour in September, 1868 after his hand became entangled in his anchor rope.

Donald McAulay had one wife and six recorded children. On July 30, 1850, Donald McAulay married Margaret Snaach (c.1819-69) from Fort Simpson. Margaret Snaach was buried on August 31, 1869 in Victoria. Their children were Catherine (c.1848-80), Flora (?-bap.1850-?), Mary (?-bap.1850-?), Sarah (?-bap.1850-?), Margaret (?-bap.1853-?) and Mary Ann (?-bap.1855-?).

Macaulay Point, Macaulay Plains, Macaulay Road and Macaulay School, within the boundaries of Viewfield farm, were named after Donald McAulay.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; HBCA log of Prince Rupert IV 6; YFASA 14-15, 19-20, 24-32; YFDS 5c-7; FtSimp[N]PJ 4; FtVanASA 3-8; ShMiscPap 14; FtVicASA 1-2, 10-15; PSACAB 23; HBCABio; J. Douglas' Sept. 14, 1850 Victoria letter to Agents of PSAC, B.226/n/9, fos. 4d-5; BCA BCCR CCCath; RossBayCem; Van-PL Colonist, September 21, 1868, p. 3 SS: Helmcken, p. 153
See Also: Compton, Pym Nevins (Son-in-Law)

McAulay, Donald [b] (c. 1829 - 1912) (British: Scottish)

Birth: South Bragar Barras, Scotland - c. 1829 (born to John MacAulay and Margaret MacAulay)

Death: Kamloops, British Columbia - May 1912

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1849); Labourer, Fort Alexandria (1850 - 1851); Labourer, Fort Kamloops [Thompson's River Post, She-waps Post] (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Fort Kamloops [Thompson's River Post, She-waps Post] (1852 - 1853); Labourer, Fort Kamloops [Thompson's River Post, She-waps Post] (1853 - 1860); Untraced vocation, Western Department (1860 - 1861).

After Donald McAulay [b] joined the HBC in 1849 from Scotland, he sailed to York Factory, making his way to Thompson River [Kamloops] where he was to work as a HBC labourer and dairyman for the next ten years. Little is known of his early work with the Company but in 1855 he was on the brigade to Hope. However, by 1859 he became more prominent as he planned the HBC dairy from which he made the first local cheese and butter as head butter and cheese maker. As well, during the 1850s, he took a local native wife, Mary Ann, and retired around 1860-1861 with his family to a farm at Cherry Creek which he and friend John McIvor pre-empted in 1864 and 1867. (They may have originally squatted on the land as early as 1852.) For the next two years, he worked his farm growing potatoes, trapping furs and extracting gold from the Tranquille Creek area. The farm appears to have been profitable for he didn't touch his HBC credit of £13.6.10 until at least 1865. In the 1880s he moved to the North Thompson area, apparently in association with his friend, John McIver, and in 1886, after spending thirty-seven uninterrupted years in the general area, went back to Scotland for a visit that was still remembered long after in the community. (Members of the community, however, dated the visit to 1889.) Soon after, MacAulay returned to his more familiar Kamloops area and died in May 1912 at the age of ninety-one.

Donald McAulay had one native wife, Mary Ann (c.1830-1922), whom he married on December 28, 1868, and seven children. Mary Ann was from Deadman's Creek, British Columbia. Their recorded children by family recollection and records were an unnamed daughter (?-1859), John (1859-1934), Nancy (1862-?), Donald (c.1864-1932), Malcolm (1870-1929), Kitty (?-1878) and Margaret (?-1934).

PS: HBCA log of Prince Rupert V 10; YFASA 30-32; FtVicASA 1-12; HBCABio; BCA FtAlex; KamA Oblate; Canadian Censuses of 1881 and 1891; Inland Sentinel, [back to Scotland]October 21, 1886, p. 3; [obituary] May 20, 1912, p. 1; genealogical researcher, Northton, Harris, Scotland; BCA Roman Catholic StPetStLk SS: Laing, p. 374, 376-77; family information from descendants

McAulay, John [a] (fl. 1831 - 1839) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Uig, Ross, Island of Lewis, Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1832 - 1833); Seaman, Fort Simpson naval service (1833 - 1834); Middleman or labourer, Fort Simpson (1834 - 1837); Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1838); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1839); Passenger, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1839).

John McAulay joined the HBC at Stornoway on June 9, 1831. He served out his time in the Columbia area as a landsman and seaman serving coastal posts. Little is mentioned of him, but while on watch duty on February 13, 1837, he fired over the heads of some young natives who were throwing stones at him. He returned home in 1839 on the Prince Rupert.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; FtSimp[N]PJ 3; YFASA 12-15, 18-19; YFDS 5a-7; FtVanASA 3-5; ShMiscPap 14; HBCABio

McAulay, Neil (fl. 1838 - 1845) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Uig, Ross, Island of Lewis, Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1837); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1838 - 1839); Stoker, and labourer Beaver (steamer) (1839 - 1840); Stoker, Beaver (steamer) (1840 - 1844); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1845); Passenger, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1845).

Neil McAulay joined the HBC from Stornoway on June 5, 1837. He embarked at Stornoway on June 21, 1837 for Hudson Bay and spent the next seven years working in the coastal area of the Columbia Department. His contract ended in 1844 and he returned to the British Isles in 1845.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Prince Rupert IV 10; FtVanASA 5-8; YFASA 19-20, 24-25

McBain, John (fl. 1829) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Thurso, Caithness, Scotland

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia Department (1829).

John McBain joined the HBC from Scotland on October 21, 1829 as a seaman for three years. He was assigned to service the Columbia River area but did not appear on those abstracts.

PS: HBCA HBCCont

McBean, William (1807 - 1892) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably the Lake Superior post of Folle Avoinne ("Fallow Wine") - March 20, 1807 (born to John McBean and Madelaine Cloutier)

Death: Walla Walla, Washington - April 10, 1892

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1833 - 1834); Post master, Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs] (1834 - 1837); Post master, Fort Chilcotin (1837 - 1838); Post master, Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs] (1838 - 1840); Apprentice clerk, Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs] (1840 - 1841); Clerk in charge, Fort Fraser (1841 - 1842); Clerk in charge, Fort Connolly (1842 - 1844); Clerk disposable, New Caledonia (1844 - 1845); Clerk in charge, Fort Umpqua (1845 - 1846); Clerk in charge, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1846); Clerk in charge, Fort Nez Percés (1846 - 1851).

Born into the fur trade and having an early education in Montreal, William McBean reflected fur trade realities by being firm, exercising a religious bent and being very honest with the natives (Morice, p. 211). After joining the HBC on August 7, 1828, McBean served as an interpreter in the Southern Department for five years before coming to New Caledonia. According to Morice, he left a lasting impression with the natives who:

...remember him as a sort of lay preacher whose hybrid religion betrayed his own Cree origin, since it consisted mostly of vague notions about the Deity and the primary precept of the natural law, coupled with vain observances, the main burden of which was reduced to shouting and dancing (Morice, p. 225).

His most difficult assignment was Fort Chilcotin where, fearing attack, he had the pickets and bastion strengthened and the gardens enclosed with willows. After 1845, he moved south and in 1847, as clerk in charge of Fort Walla Walla, he not only greeted the travelling painter Paul Kane but stayed behind while Kane went off to warn Marcus Whitman of an impending attack (Kane, p. 198). After the attack, McBean was unjustly blamed for doing too little on behalf of the survivors. He retired in 1851 and in the spring of 1852 settled on 637 acres [257.8 ha] which adjoined the St. Rosa Mission in an area called Frenchtown [present day Lowden, WA]. The first church services were held in his cabin where he supplied the poorly clad priest with a night shirt to use as a cassock (CCR 1, A52). A few years later, because of the Indian War in the area, he was forced to temporarily evacuate his claim and when he returned found that claim jumpers had burned his buildings and cut his timber. As a result, McBean's claim remained in dispute until 1876 when he finally received a patent. During this time, he taught school in Frenchtown but apparently had difficulty handling the more boisterous students in his class (Donation Land Claims, p. 268-70). He successfully raised his family on his claim and died in Walla Walla at the ripe old age of eighty-five.

William McBean had one wife and eleven or twelve children. In New Caledonia on October 1, 1834, he married Jane Boucher (?-?), daughter of Baptiste Boucher and Nancy McDougal. Nine of their children were John (1837-?), Nancy (1839-?), Mary (1844-?), Sophie (c.1845), Charles Donald (1846-c.1916), Josephine (1853-?), Pierre (1855-?), William (?-?) and Henry (?-?).

PS: HBCA YFDS 1a, 5b-7; HBCCont; YFASA 12-15, 17-20, 24-25, 27-32; FtVanASA 3-9; SimpsonCB; HBCABio; "William McBean" search file; BCA PJ FtBab 1 PPS: HBRS XXX, p. 232n; CCR 1b, 7a; Washington Territory Donation Land Claims, p. 268-70; Kane, p. 189, 198 SS: Morice, The History of, p. 209-212, 225, 264
See Also: Boucher, Jean Baptiste (c) (probable Father-in-Law)

McBean, William Scott (fl. 1821 - 1826) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Cromarty, Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Clerk, New Caledonia (1821 - 1822); Clerk, Thompson River (1822); Clerk, New Caledonia (1822 - 1825); Clerk in charge, Fort Alexandria (1825 - 1826); Passenger, Prince of Wales (ship) (1826).

William Scott McBean joined the HBC in 1818 for in that year he was first recorded as working as a clerk at Rock Depot. In the following two years he was a clerk in Athabasca until September 1820 when Simpson appointed him to manage the store, books and accounts at Colville House [Peace River]. In 1821 he began work in New Caledonia where he worked until 1826. In 1824, John Stuart, the Chief Factor in charge, felt that McBean was a well-meaning lad but that he would "never be of much credit to himself or benefit to the Company" (FtSTJmsRD 3, fo. 5). However, in 1825, the year following Stuart's departure, McBean was in charge of Fort Alexandria on the Fraser River. In 1826, he retired and travelled to Europe on the Prince of Wales [John Davison], leaving York Factory on September 20, 1826 and arriving in London, October 26, 1826. He has not been traced after that.

PS: HBCA YFASA 1-2, 4-6; FtKamPJ 1; YFDS 1a; FtSTJmsRD 3; McLlRD 1; log of Prince of Wales I 5; HBCA William Scott McBean search file SS: HBRS I, p. 40, 43, 134, 448

McBeath, Hugh (fl. 1826 - 1828) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Boatswain, William & Ann (brig) (1826 - 1828).

Hugh McBeath shipped on with the HBC in London in September 1826 and sailed to the coast on a supply voyage of the William & Ann. The vessel did no coastal trading and he arrived back in London with the vessel in February 1828.

PS: HBCA log of William & Ann 1

McBeath, William [variation: McBeth] (fl. 1857 - 1858) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Carpenter, Princess Royal (barque) (1857 - 1858).

William McBeath made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA log of Princess Royal 4; PortB 1

McCarthy, Jeremiah (fl. 1844 - 1850) (British)

Birth: possibly London, England (born to Hannah Fourhane (Houren) and Florence McCarthy)

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1844 - 1845); Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1845 - 1846); Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1849 - 1850).

Jeremiah McCarthy joined the HBC barque Vancouver in London as a seaman on August 26, 1844 and arrived on the Northwest Coast on February 18, 1845. For McCarthy it was an unhappy voyage: he refused to attend divine service, was found asleep on watch and talked back to his officers, and was thereafter put in irons. When the crew arrived at Fort Vancouver he led a large delegation to speak with Dr. John McLoughlin over their treatment (log of Vancouver [3], 2, fo. 89); and, after servicing coastal posts, made his way back to London on the Cowlitz where he arrived on June 27, 1846. For the next two years, 1847-1848, he made a return voyages on the Prince Rupert to Hudson Bay. The following year he came to the coast once again on the Cowlitz, but was discharged in Oahu on October 16, 1850 on its return voyage.

Two undelivered 1850 letters written by his father, Florence McCarthy, reveal a resourceful working class family with members scattered around the world on various vessels. The letters rest in the HBCA.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 11; PortB 1; log of Vancouver [3] 2; Ship's Records C.3/15, fos. 20d-21; MiscI 5; log of Prince Rupert V 9; PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 238-40

McCarthy, John (fl. 1830 - 1832) (British)

Birth: possibly in or near Newcastle, Northumberland, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Eagle (brig) (1829 - 1830); Seaman, Vancouver (schooner) (1830 - 1831); Seaman, Ganymede (barque) (1831 - 1832).

John McCarthy joined the HBC on October 31, 1829 for three years as a seaman and came to the coast on the brig Eagle. He began his work in the Columbia on October 1, 1830 and returned to England on the Ganymede November 1, 1831. He would have arrived back in England in the spring of 1832.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 7, 14; FtVanASA 2; YFASA 11; YFDS 4a-4b

McCarty, William (c. 1807 - 1854) (Irish)

Birth: Ireland - c. 1807

Death: Wallcut River, Washington Territory- December 3, 1854

Fur trade employee

U.A. Member, Ewing Young's Party (1834); HBC Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1835 - 1836).

William McCarty had two nicknames according to Munnick: "Cochon Bill" for his bristly pig-like hair or "Brandywine", a vessel on which he claimed to have sailed (CCR 1, A-52). Nothing is known of his early, perhaps seafaring, life, but he came north into the Columbia area with Ewing Young's party from California in 1834. He appeared on the HBC sundries accounts likely having traded furs or some other items. From 1834 he lived in the Willamette Valley and by 1842 he had a productive farm on seventy enclosed acres [28.3 ha]. On May 2, 1843, he voted for the Provisional Government in Oregon territory. He sold this and in May 10, 1850, he settled a 157 acre [63.5 ha] claim near Baker's Bay, Pacific County [Washington]. There he built a zinc house, caught and salted salmon and generally ran a very welcoming house. On December 3, 1854, he was drowned in the Wallcut River when his canoe upset, his body being carried to the entrance of Shoalwater Bay (CCR 1, A-52).

William McCarty was married twice and had one recorded daughter. On January 28, 1839 he married Charlotte Chehalis (c.1808-42). A son Joseph (c.1825-39) was from another marriage. Upon the death of Charlotte, he took for a wife, Silsao (Cecelia) Carcowan (c.1826-71), daughter of a Chinook chief on the lower Washington coast. They had one daughter, Catherine (c.1846-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 15; YFDS 6; OHS 1842 Census PPS: CCR 1a; Washington Territory Donation Land Claim, p. 239 SS: Holman, p. 114

McClellan, Robert [variation: M'Lelland, McLellan] (1770 - 1815) (American)

Birth: near Mercerburg, Pennsylvania, United States - 1770 (born to Robert McClellan and Mrs. McClellan)

Death: St. Louis, Missouri - November 22, 1815

Fur trade officer

PFC Partner, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (1811 - 1812); Partner, Fort George [Astoria] (1812 - 1813).

Although slightly built, Robert McClellan Jr. was an excellent woodsman and hunter. After receiving a pension from the Army, McClellan joined the fur trade in 1801. Between 1807-1809 McClellan and business partner Ramsay Crooks tried twice to penetrate the upper Missouri but, because of the Sioux's protection of their homeland, they retreated twice, each time building a post to wait it out. When Crooks retired from their venture in 1810, McClellan once again tried to enter the territory only to be robbed by the Sioux. Disheartened, he began to head for St. Louis but, at the mouth of the Nodoway River, he ran into Crooks who by this time was a member of Wilson Price Hunt's overland Astoria party. There McLellan also became a partner in the PFC and joined the party. The group arrived at Astoria in a tattered state on January 18, 1812. By March 22, 1812, being relatively old and in marginal health, McClellan withdrew from the PFC (followed shortly by Crooks) and in June headed eastward with Robert Stuart's party. After considerable hardships once again, they arrived in St. Louis on April 30, 1813 and in the following month McClellan was imprisoned for debt. The following January he opened a store in Cape Girardeau, Missouri but his ill health forced him to return to St. Louis in the summer of 1815. That summer, an ill, forty-five year old McClellan was able to find a home on the farm of Abraham Gallatin. He died shortly afterwards, most likely on the farm and was buried on General William Clark's farm where his tombstone was unearthed sixty years later in 1875.

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria; MHS Chouteau PPS: ChSoc XLV, p. 108-110, 112, 113, 193; ChSoc LVII, p. 171; K. W. Porter, Roll of Overland, p. 109 SS: Mackenzie, Donald Mackenzie, p. 33; Chittenden, A History of the American Fur Trade, p. 131, 159, 161-62, 183, 186, 188, 195, 210; DAB Ghent

McCoy, Martin (? - 1828) (probably American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Death: Umpqua River region [Smith River], Oregon - July 14, 1828

Fur trade employee

SJ & S Trapper, Jedediah Smith Southwest Expedition (1826 - 1828).

Martin McCoy was a trapper on Jedediah Smith's southwest expedition of 1826-1828. He first appeared on record at the 1826 Rendezvous and left with Smith in August, heading south, crossing the Colorado River and into California. After a great deal of difficulty with Spanish authorities in California, the expedition headed north. In an area just north of the Umpqua River [Oregon], just after Smith set out to scout out a route to travel, the natives killed all of the expedition members (including McCoy) in camp except one, who managed to escape.

PPS: HBRS X, p. 61 SS: Carter, "Jedediah Smith"

McDermid, Archibald [variation: MacDearmaid, McDearmid] (fl. 1818 - 1823) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, probably carpenter, Pacific slopes (1818 - 1821); Carpenter, Fort George [Astoria] (1821 - 1823).

In 1818 Archibald McDermid crossed the Rockies onto the Pacific slopes with a NWC party headed by Angus Bethune and James McMillan. At the time of coalition, he was retained by the HBC for two more outfits before he returned to Montreal in 1823.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 2, 9; HBCA YFASA 1-2; FtGeo[Ast]AB 10

McDonald, Alexander [b] [variation: Aleck] (fl. 1851 - 1861) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Barras, Isle of Lewis, Scotland - 1827

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince of Wales II (barque) (1850); Passenger, Prince Albert (barque) (1850); Labourer, New Caledonia (1851 - 1856); Labourer, Columbia Department (1856 - 1857); Labourer, Belle Vue Sheep Farm (1857 - 1861).

Alexander McDonald [b] joined the HBC in 1850 in Stornoway and sailed to York Factory. He spent about six years working in the interior of British Columbia before taking a job on San Juan Island with the HBC farming operations. There he did a variety of jobs and made periodic runs back and forth to Victoria. It is not known whether he had a family but his wife, probably native, died on the island on October 12, 1859 and was buried the following day. After this, Aleck's habitual drinking became problematic and he was discharged in 1860, but rehired again the following year. He has not been traced beyond that point. (There is a discrepancy in the records for in FtVicCB 12 fol. 18; Douglas has Griffen has McDonald as [d] who joined San Juan in February 1856 on a twelve month contract as a shepherd and labourer)

McDonald, Anawiscum [variation: Anawiscum, William] (c. 1803 or 1805 or 1815 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably York Factory, Manitoba - c. 1804 (on parent Native: Muskegon)

Death: probably Willamette Valley, Oregon

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1827); Middleman, Fort Langley (1827 - 1834); Middleman, Fort Nisqually (1834 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Langley (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Langley (1841 - 1842); Cooper, Fort Langley (1842); Post master, Fort Nisqually (1843 - 1844); Cooper, Fort Nisqually (1843 - 1844); Cooper, Fort Nisqually (1844 - 1845); Carpenter, Fort Nisqually (1845 - 1846); Cooper, Fort Nisqually (1845 - 1846); Mechanic, Fort Nisqually (1845 - 1846); Settler, Cowlitz (1847 - 1849+).

William Anawiscum McDonald, also known as "Wiscum", joined the HBC in 1824 or 1825. He was on the Pacific slopes in 1826 and shortly after was in on the construction of Fort Langley. On August 21, 1842, he left Fort Langley to settle in the Cowlitz area. He likely had a change of heart for he re-enlisted with the Company and began work on October 7, 1843. From that point on, he appeared to work from Fort Nisqually. He served with Tolmie, who found him honest and was with Tolmie and Archibald McDonald on their exploration of Puget Sound in 1833. He retired to the Cowlitz area in 1842 but stayed under contract until 1845 and worked until February 15, 1846, at which point he became a freeman. Later he served as a private under Captain Henry Peer with the Cowlitz Rangers, a company of mounted volunteers, in the Indian War of 1855-1856.

Wiscum McDonald had one wife and five recorded children. He formalized his marriage to Elizabeth Pe'ky, Semas on January 30, 1843 at Fort Vancouver. Their children were François (c.1831-?), Cetty/Catherine (c.1834-?), John (c.1837-?), Alexandre (1840-?) and Marie Louise (1842-?).

PS: HBCA YFDS 2a, 3b, 4b-7, 13-14, 16; YFASA 6-9, 11-15, 19, 22, 24-25; FtVanASA 1-9; HBCABio PPS: CCR 1a

McDonald, Angus [a] (? - 1861) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Stornoway, Scotland

Death: Northern Department, Rupert's Land - April 1, 1861

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice clerk, Fort Colville (1838 - 1839); Apprentice clerk, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); Apprentice clerk, Fort Simpson (1840 - 1841); Clerk, Fort Nisqually (1841 - 1843); Clerk, Fort Vancouver (1843 - 1844); Clerk, Columbia Department general charges (1844 - 1845); Clerk, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1847); Clerk, Champoege (1847 - 1848); Clerk, Fort Vancouver general charges (1848).

A relative of Chief Trader Donald Ross, Angus McDonald [a] joined the HBC in 1837. He sailed cabin class on the Prince Rupert from Stornoway on June 21, 1837 for York Factory. After serving a year in the York Factory District, he went to the Columbia where he was stationed at various posts until the autumn of 1848 when he crossed the Rockies to the east side and sailed back to England on the Prince Rupert because of ill health. He returned to service in 1853 serving in the Northern Department as post master until his death in 1861.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Prince Rupert IV 10; FtVanASA 5-9, 13; YFASA 18-20, 24-29; YFDS 19 PPS: HBRS VI, p. 393-94

See Also: Ross, Donald (Relative)

McDonald, Angus [b] (1816 - 1889) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Craig, Ross, Scotland - October 16, 1816 (born to Donald and Mrs. McDonald)

Death: Flathead Reservation, Montana - February 1, 1889

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1837); Servant, Fort Colville (1839 - 1840); Post master and clerk, Fort Hall (1840 - 1846); Post master, Snake Party (1840 - 1841); Servant, Snake Party (1842 - 1843); Post master, Snake Party (1843 - 1845); Clerk, Snake Party (1845 - 1847); Clerk, Fort Colville (1847 - 1853); Untraced vocation, Fort Colville (1853 - 1855); Clerk, Fort Colville (1855 - 1856); Chief Trader, Fort Colville (1856 - 1860); Chief Trader, Fort Colville (1860 - 1869).

Nephew to Archibald McDonald, Angus McDonald joined the HBC as a general servant on June 19, 1838, sailing from Orkney to York Factory. Fluent in Gaelic, French and later, several native languages, McDonald identified strongly with the natives, particularly the Blackfeet. Preferring to live in lodges and tents, he was noted for his entertaining yarns as well as singing off key. His zest for life endeared him to the natives and rubbed off on his family. For example, one daughter, Christine became a fur trader in her own right at Fort Colville, as well as an interpreter for the United States Army. Another daughter, Maggie, owned and managed a sizable stock raising operation in Montana. Edward Huggins described Angus as:

...rather a good looking man, about six feet [183 cm] in height, straight and slim, but was said to be very wiry and strong. He had a dark complexion and long, jet black hair reaching to his shoulder, and a thick, long and very black beard and mustache. He wore a dressed deer skin shirt and pants, a regatta, or rowing shirt, and had a blackish silk handkerchief (sic) tied loosely around his neck. He had a black piercing eye, and a deep sonorous voice, rather musical, and had a slow and rather monotonous manner of speaking (Huggins, p. 128-29).

Huggins also claimed that McDonald had little tact when dealing with the Americans. When Fort Colville closed operations in 1871, Angus tried to pre-empt the site but as the Indian land question had not been settled, he couldn't and so went to the Mission Valley area, Flathead Reservation of Montana where he devoted himself to stock raising until his death in 1889. Graves of his descendants can be seen above the old site behind St. Paul's Mission.

Angus McDonald had one wife and twelve children and a further child by another native woman. In 1842 at Fort Hall with Richard Grant officiating, he married Catherin Baptiste (an Iroquois Metis) (?-1892), and in 1852 renewed the marriage at Fort Colville under Father Joset. Their children were John (1845-?), Christina/Christine (1847-?), Duncan (1849-?), Donald (1851-?), Annie/Anna (?-1853), Margaret/Maggie (1855-?), Thomas (1858-?), Alexander (1861-?), Archie (1863-88), Joseph A. (1866-?), Angus C. (1868-?) and Mary (1871-?). Angus P. (1861-?) was born to a different Okanagan native mother.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Prince Rupert IV 11; YFASA 19-20, 24-30, 32; FtVanASA 6-15; FtVicASA 7-16 PPS: HBRS VI, p. 394; CCR 1a, 1b; Huggins, p. 128-29; TacP-FtNis Huggins, May 21, 1906 SS: Hines; Pollard, p. 292; family descendant
See Also: McDonald, Archibald (Relative)

McDonald, Angus [c] (fl. 1853 - 1862) (British: Scottish)

Birth: possibly Sandwich, Ross, Island of Lewis, Scotland - 1828

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1849); Passenger, Prince Albert (barque) (1849); Labourer, Fort Alexandria (1850 - 1851); Labourer, Thompson River (1851 - 1852); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1853 - 1854); Shepherd, Belle Vue Sheep Farm (1854 - 1856); Shepherd, Belle Vue Sheep Farm (1858 - 1862).

Angus McDonald [c] is problematic as he may be two people with the same designation. After signing on in Stornoway and sailing to York Factory and making his way overland, Angus worked at interior posts in British Columbia. He may have returned to Scotland where he re-joined the HBC from Stornoway on April 21, 1853 as a labourer, originally for five years, and embarked for Hudson Bay on July 2. He arrived on San Juan Island on January 6, 1854 and continued working there until at least 1862. On March 31, 1859 he became head shepherd, taking over William Page's flock, and is untraced after 1862.

PS: HBCA log of Prince Albert 8; YFASA 30-32; FtVicASA 1-3, 6-10; BCA FtAlex

McDonald, Angus [c] (c. 1824 - ?) (British: Scottish)

Birth: possibly in or near Markethill, Stornoway, Ross, Scotland - c. 1824 (born to Murdo McDonald and Margaret McDonald)

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1842 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1843 - 1845); PSAC Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1845 - 1846).

After Angus McDonald joined the HBC from the Isle of Lewis on June 17, 1841, he sailed from Stornoway to York Factory on the Prince Rupert. He worked at coastal posts until his contract ended in 1846, at which point he returned to the British Isles aboard the Prince Rupert. He returned to his parents' home and, by 1851, was married to a Margaret, from Uig.

An 1846 HBCA undelivered letter from his father expressed his father's desire for his son's speedy return and told him not to buy clothes as clothes were cheap in the Hebrides.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 7-8; YFASA 24-26; HBCABio; Beattie & Buss, p. 331-32

McDonald, Archibald [a] [variation: MacDonald] (1790 - 1853) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Leechkentium [Leacantuim], Glenco, Appin, Argyleshire, Scotland - February 3 or September 12, 1790 (born to Angus McDonald and Mary Rankin)

Death: near St. Andrew's, Canada West - January 15, 1853

Fur trade officer

HBC Accountant, Fort George [Astoria] (1821 - 1826); Officer in charge, Thompson River (1826 - 1828); Kept journal, New Caledonia (1828); Chief Trader in charge, Fort Langley (1828 - 1833); Chief Trader in charge, Fort Nisqually (1833); Chief Trader in charge, Fort Colville (1835 - 1841); Chief Factor in charge, Fort Colville (1841 - 1844).

Son of a tacksman, Archibald McDonald [a] probably studied the rudiments of medicine in London before he sailed with Lord Selkirk to Canada on the Prince of Wales on June 19, 1813. As some of the passengers, including Dr. Peter Laserre (to whom he was apprenticed), contracted typhus, he had to land and spend a thoroughly bleak winter at Churchill Creek. In the following spring he and the others walked part way and travelled by boat the rest of the way to Red River. When the settlement was attacked by the NWC in 1815, McDonald carried back to England the report of the "Narrative respecting the destruction of the Earl of Selkirk's settlement upon the Red River in 1815"; and returned the following year. He was with Lord Selkirk at the capture of Fort William on August 13, 1816 but by 1817 he was back in England. He joined the HBC again in England in 1820 as an accountant and returned to Rupert's Land, spending 1820-1821 as a clerk east of the Rockies at Fort George on the Columbia River. He became Chief Trader in 1828 and Chief Factor in 1841. At Fort Colville he oversaw the cultivation of a large tract of undeveloped land, possibly as much as two thousand acres [809.4 ha], and constructed a sawmill. In 1844 he discovered silver on the east shore of Kootenay Lake, an area which was later mined. He went on two furloughs, 1834-1835 and 1845-1848 to the British Isles and Montreal because of ill health. The second just prior to his retirement, when he purchased the property near St. Andrews East. He retired in 1848 to "Glencoe House", St. Andrews, Quebec, on the Ottawa River. In 1853 he died less than a week after falling ill, possibly of pneumonia.

Archibald McDonald had two successive wives and fourteen children. He first married Princess Raven/Sunday (?-1824), the daughter Chief Comcomly, who died that same year while giving birth to Ranald McDonald (1824-1894) now considered a cult figure in Japan. His second marriage was to Jane Klyne (b. Aug. 23, 1810-d. December 15, 1879), the daughter of Michel Klyne, a marriage begun in 1825 but formalized at Red River in 1835 while he was on furlough. Their thirteen children were Angus (1826-1843), Archibald (1828-1868), Alexander (1830-1875), Allan (1832-1891), Marianne/Marrian/Mary Ann/Maryanne (1834-1860), John (1836-1836), John (1837-1864), Donald (1839-1845), James (1839-1845), Samuel (1841-1891), Joseph (1843-1845), Benjamin (1844-1918), and Angus Michael (1846-1867).

PS: HBCA YFASA 1-6, 8-9, 11-25; FtKamPJ 2; YFDS 2a, 3b, 6-7; FtVanASA 1-8; SimpsonCB; Wills; HBCABio; BCA BCCR CCCath PPS: HBRS I, p. 448-9; HBRS X, p. 253-58, HBRS XXII, p. 262-3, HBRS XXX, p. 197n; A. McDonald SS: Drury, "The Columbia Maternal", p. 104, 117-18; W. S. Lewis, p. 100; B. MacDonald; Cole, Exile in the Wilderness, Archibald McDonald's"; Archibald McDonald descendant; DCB Cole

See Also: Klyne, Joseph (Relative); McDonald, Angus (Relative); McDonald, Ranald (Son)

McDonald, Donald [d] (? - 1834) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Canshaddic, Uig, Ross, Scotland

Death: probably Fort Simpson [Nass] [British Columbia] - March 1834

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1832 - 1833); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1833 - 1834).

Donald McDonald [d] joined the HBC on June 9, 1831 as a labourer for five years. In the records he is listed as "Jr." but his father has not been determined, although it may be Donald McDonald [e]. He did not complete his contracts for he is on record as having died "at Columbia", March, 1834.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 12-14; YFDS 5a-5c

McDonald, Donald [e] (c. 1814 - ?) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Uig (Argyle), Scotland - c. 1814

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1834); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1834 - 1837); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1837 - 1839).

Donald McDonald (e), from Hobson, Uig, joined the HBC on June 20, 1832 as a labourer for five years. He boarded the Prince Rupert IV on June 23, at Stornaway as a sloop (crewman), sailing June 26 for Hudson Bay. He disembarked at York Factory on August 24 and reached the Columbia in 1834. There he appeared to work competently for seven years. Around 1839, he refused work as a stoker aboard the Beaver; as a result he and William Gullion, who also refused, were flogged by Capt. Wm H. McNeil. Both were sent overland to York Factory to return to the British Isles aboard the Prince Rupert but, before they left, they both expressed a wish to return to the Columbia via the American Missouri route to settle.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 13-15, 18-19; YFDS 5b-7; FtVanASA 3-5; FtVanCB 24

McDonald, Donald [f] (c. 1816 - ?) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Uig (Argyle), Scotland - c. 1816

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1837); Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1840 - 1842); Stoker, Beaver (steamer) (1842 - 1844); Labourer, Fort Nez Percés (1844 - 1845); Labourer, Snake Party (1845 - 1848); Middleman, Snake Country (1848 - 1849).

Donald McDonald [f] joined the HBC on May 27, 1837 as a labourer. He embarked from Stornoway on June 21 for Hudson's Bay and spent the two years east of the Rockies for he first appears on record in the Columbia District in 1839. He spent the next ten years at a variety of locations in the Department. He became a freeman on August 6, 1849 and retired, remaining in the area.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Prince Rupert IV 10; YFASA 19-20, 24-30; FtVanASA 6-9; YFDS 20

McDonald, Farquhar [variation: Macdonald] (1809 - 1890) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Capital/Capadil, Uig, Isle of Lewis, Scotland - 1809 (born to Angus MacDonald and Margaret MacLeod)Death: Geshader, Uig, Isle of Lewis, Scotland - December 1890*Maritime employee

HBC Passenger, Prince of Wales IV (ship) (1832); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1834 - 1835); Sloop, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1836); Sloop, Beaver (steamer) (1836 - 1837); Sloop, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1838); Gardener, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1839).

Farquhar McDonald appears to have spent his early years on the Isle of Lewis where he was born. Thus, his motive for joining the HBC on June 20, 1832 as a sloop for five years was likely the opportunity to escape the rigours of the Outer Hebrides islands. Six days later he sailed from Stornoway for Hudson Bay; there he made his way overland to the Pacific slopes. He worked in coastal shipping as a sloop for the next six years but spent his last outfit in the Columbia working in the produce garden behind the fort, replacing fellow Scottish gardener, William Bruce, who had returned to England for one year. Perhaps working the land once again gave Farquhar a renewed sense of the soil for, in 1839, the same year his contract ended, he returned to the British Isles. After returning, he had to settle in the far less fertile area of Geshader where he married, raised a family and lived out his life. Farquhar McDonald died in Geshader, Uig, on the Isle of Lewis in December, 1890.

Farquhar McDonald had three successive wives and seven children on the Isle of Lewis. In 1841, he married Hannah MacLeod; their three children were Angus (1841-?), Ann (1843-?) and Murdo (1846-?). Hannah likely died soon after having Murdo because Farquhar married Euphemia (or Oighric) MacLeod in 1847. They had one child, Henny (Oighric) (?-?), and Euphemia may have died in childbirth. In 1854, Farquhar married Catherine MacKay (?-1900); their children were John (1855-?), Joan (1857-?) and Henny (1860-?).

The ruins of McDonald's original dwelling place in Ardrion can still (1997) be seen.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Prince Rupert IV 6; YFASA 14-15, 18-19; YFDS 5c-7; FtVanASA 3-5; McDonald descendant, Geshader; genealogical researcher, Northton, Harris

McDonald, Finan (McDonald of the Buffalo) (c. 1782 - 1851) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Aberdeenshire or Inverness, Scotland - c. 1782 (born to Angus Ban McDonald and Nelly McDonell)Death: Charlottenburg, Glengarry Co., Canada West - December 3, 1851*Fur trade employee

NWC Clerk/Builder of fort, Kootenae House (1807 - 1808); Clerk, Flathead Post [Fort Connah, Saleesh House]/Kootenay Falls (1808 - 1809); Wintering clerk, Kullyspell House (Kalispel Post) (1809 - 1810); Clerk, Flathead Post [Fort Connah, Saleesh House] (1810); Clerk, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1811); Clerk, Thompson River (winter 1813 - 1814); Clerk, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1817); HBC Clerk, Snake Party (1821 - 1824); Clerk, South Party (1825); Clerk, Snake Party (1825 - 1826).

Finan McDonald was a large, fearsome, red bearded Scot known as "McDonald of the Buffalo" because in a buffalo hunt he once wrestled a large buffalo to its death. He never rose above clerk possibly because he couldn't spell conventionally. He migrated to North America around the age of four and on February 19, 1805 he joined the NWC [McTavish Frobisher & Co.] as an apprentice clerk. He was at Rocky Mountain House/Fort des Prairies when David Thompson arrived there on November 29, 1806 and spent the next six years with Thompson mostly west of the Rockies. From 1811 his movements are difficult to follow but he most likely moved in and around the Flathead, Kootenay and Snake Country for, in 1821, he transferred from the NWC to the HBC as clerk and succeeded Donald McKenzie as charge of the Snake Country trappers. His daily language was a mixture of Gaelic, English, French and half a dozen Indian dialects, but he never quite mastered the intricacies of English grammar and spelling. In an April 5, 1824 letter to John George McTavish, commenting on his activities in Snake territory, he wrote:

We had Saviral Battils with the nasion on the other side of the Mountians. Poore Meshel Bordoe was kild with 5 more of the Band there dath was revenge as well as we Could revert it for no less than 68 of them that remain in the Planes as Pray for the wolves and those fue that askape our Shotes they had not Britch Clout to Cover them selves wee Shoe them what war was they will not be so radey to atack People (HBCA B.239/c/1, fo. 124d).

In 1826 he went with Ogden into the Klamath tribe area of Oregon and, by October 1826, he was at Boat Encampment ready to head east. After a brief stop at Fort Edmonton the following year, he went to Canada West with the York Express likely with his Spokane wife and children. The following year, 1828, he bought himself a farm at Charlottenburg [Upper Canada] where he raised his family. He was at Williamston in 1835 and, on January 4, 1838, was commissioned captain in the First Regiment of the Glengarry Militia; seven years later he was elected member of Provincial Parliament for Canada West [Ontario] from Williamstown for 1843-1844. Some years later he became involved in the litigation of his brother's estate and in May 1849, possibly in connection with the litigation, was in jail in Toronto. Finan McDonald died in 1851 and was buried in the St. Raphael Roman Catholic Cemetery in Charlottenburg.

Finan McDonald's family life is difficult to follow. He chose, or won in a contest, Margaret/Marguerite, daughter of Pend d'Oreille or Spokane chief, Chin-chay-nay-whey, their first child being born in June 1811 at the site of the present day Bonner's Ferry. The mother of his daughter Helene, however, was Charlotte Pend d'Oreille, which would indicate that he had more than one wife.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 9, 10; UBC-Koer Thompson; HBCA YFASA 1-6, 8; Finan McDonald April 5, 1824
Spokane House letter to J. G. McTavish, B.239/c/1, fo. 124d; FtVanPJ 3; SnkCoPJ 4 PPS: HBRS XXII, p. 220; Cox, p. 101, 122, 164-66, 173, 175 SS: Meyers, "Finan Macdonald", p. 196; ChSoc XXII, p. 463; Macgillivray, p. 52
See Also: Kittson, William (Son-in-Law); Grant, Richard (Son-in-Law)

McDonald, John (fl. 1821 - 1823) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1821 - 1823).

John McDonald [1] worked for the HBC in New Caledonia in outfit 1821-1823.

PS: HBCA YFASA 1-2

McDonald, John [c] (c. 1821-?) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Shathir, Stornoway, Island of Lewis, Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1842 - 1844); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1845); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1846); Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1847).

John McDonald joined the HBC from Stornoway in 1841 on a five year contract. He returned to the British Isles in 1847 aboard the Prince Rupert.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 7; YFASA 23-26; log of Prince Rupert V 8

McDonald, John [e] (fl. 1851 - 1857) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Lochs, Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, New Caledonia general charges (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1852 - 1853); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1853 - 1854); Stoker, Beaver (steamer) (1854 - 1857); Steerage passenger, Princess Royal (barque) (1857).

John McDonald from Lochs, (he appears to have been designated with both [e] and [b]) appears to have joined the HBC in 1850. He worked until 1857, returning London on the Princess Royal on July 4, 1857. During his six years with the HBC on the Pacific slopes, he accumulated a large credit of £104.8.3 which would have allowed him a good start in the in the Scottish Hebrides.

PS: HBCA YFASA 31-32; YFDS 22; FtVicASA 1-5; log of Princess Royal 3

McDonald, Kenneth (? - 1838) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Ross, Scotland

Death: Dalles des Morts (Death Rapids) [British Columbia] - October 22, 1838

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1837); Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1838).

Kenneth McDonald joined the HBC on June 5, 1837 and embarked from Stornoway on June 21 for Hudson Bay. He was likely on his way to his job in the Columbia Department when he drowned on October 22, 1838. James Douglas described his death in a letter to the Governor:

...A Boat which Mr. Tod had sent back from the Upper Columbia Lake, left the Boat Encampment on the 22nd October with the last of the party. In the evening of the same day, when running one of the Rapids below Dalles des Morts, the Boat unfortunately filled, and the following persons perished in attempting to gain the shore...[7 named, 5 unnamed]...in all twelve persons, who have travelled from their distant homes to find an untimely grave beneath the raging waters of the Columbia (FtVanCB 20, fo. 36-36d).

His contract would have ended in 1842.

McDonald, Murdoch [b] (fl. 1842 - 1849) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Shathir, Barvas, Lewis, Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1842 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1843 - 1847); Dairyman and labourer, Fort Nisqually (1845 - 1848); Middleman, Willamette Falls (1848 - 1849); Labourer, Willamette Falls (1849).

Murdoch McDonald joined the HBC from the Hebrides in 1840 and spent most of his career in the Columbia area. His contract was to have ended in 1850 but he stopped work and went to California, presumably after the gold there on September 1, 1849.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 7-9; YFASA 25-29; YFDS 20; HBCABio

McDonald, Ranald (1824 - 1894) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Fort George [Astoria], Oregon - February 3, 1824 (born to Archibald McDonald and Princess Raven)

Death: Toroda, Washington - August 24, 1894

Other

HBC Pupil, Fort Vancouver (1833).

Ranald McDonald, a rare individual, was born into the fur trade but did not participate in it. Born at Fort George [Astoria] to clerk Archibald McDonald and Princess Raven, a daughter of Chief Comcomly, Chinook, Ranald grew up never knowing his mother as she died giving birth. In the spring of 1834, after receiving a brief season of education at the Fort Vancouver school and just before the arrival of three free Japanese crew members turned slaves, he and his three younger half-brothers and step-mother, Jane Klyne, were taken by his father, en route to his furlough in Britain, to Red River Academy. Jane stayed the winter with her parents at Jasper House but joined the rest of the family at Red River where the boys continued their education; after a year, their parents returned to Fort Colville. In 1839, at the age of fifteen, Ranald went directly from Red River to St. Thomas, Upper Canada [Ontario] where he worked as a clerk in Edward Ermatinger's bank and lived with the Ermatingers until he went away to sea in 1842 and began his wanderings on whaling ships. Around 1844 he found himself on a whaler arriving in London. He then went to the African Gold Coast on a slave ship and reached Asian waters on another ship. Having just missed shipwrecked Japanese slaves that Captain W. H. McNeill had ransomed from their Cape Flattery captors in 1834, but theorizing that there was a racial link between the natives and the Japanese, Ranald became driven by a desire to meet the people of the then closed society of Japan. In 1848 he became a deckhand on an American whaler and when near Japan, he cast off in a cockleshell boat loaded with supplies and had himself shipwrecked on the small Rishiri Island, next to the larger island of Hokkaido. He was captured and subjected to ordeals and imprisonment. While he was awaiting deportation, he was shipped to Tokyo and taught English to fourteen individuals who later became instrumental in the modernization of Japan. Because of this, he is today revered as the first English teacher in Japan. In 1849 he was released and reached Australia after a shipwreck. Later he toured England, France and Italy. He returned to Canada shortly after his father's death in 1853 and spent several years at St. Andrews with the family before returning to the west with his half brother Allan around 1858. From that point on, he involved himself in several commercial pursuits. He spent his declining years at a cabin not far from Fort Colville and is buried in a cemetery near Curlew, Washington. His grave, a monument to the spirit of man, is today visited by Japanese and North Americans alike.

PS: HBCA FtAlexCB1 PPS: R. Macdonald; Dictionary of American History, XIII, p. 18 SS: OHS Oregonian, Feb. 12, 1991, p. 5; Oregonian Sunday Magazine, 23 Aug., 1936, p.4; DCB Wallace; family relative

See Also: McDonald, Archibald (a) (Father)

McDonald, William [1] (fl. 1855 - 1858) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Steerage passenger, Princess Royal (barque) (1855); Carpenter, Fort Victoria (1856 - 1858).

William McDonald and his wife left London on July 19, 1855 and sailed to the coast on the Princess Royal; their child was born on board. After their arrival on December 17, he worked for three years until August 10, 1858 and then disappeared from record although his name remained on HBC accounts for two more years. The William McDonald who purchased 113 acres [45.7 ha] of land in the Victoria District in 1857 may be one in the same.

The name of William's wife and child have not been traced with any certainty.

PS: HBCA log of Princess Royal 2; FtVicASA 3-7; FtVanASA 9; BCA BCGR-CrtR-AbstLnd

McDonald, William [2] (c. 1825 - ?) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Scotland, United Kingdom - c. 1825Fur trade employee*HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1850 - 1851); Shepherd, Fort Vancouver farm (1851 - 1852).

William McDonald most likely came to the Northwest Coast on the Harpooner as an employee of Captain Walter Colquhoun Grant who brought eight employees from Britain to establish an independent settlement. After he (or they) sailed from Britain on November 30, 1848 and arrived on June 1849, he no doubt worked for Grant until he either quit or was released around 1850. He then worked for the HBC. His first contract ended in 1851; he deserted on February 23, 1852.

PS: HBCA YFASA 30-31; YFDS 22; FtVicASA 3-7; FtVanASA 9; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Clark County;
BCA BCCR CCCath SS: Ireland, p. 94

McDonald of Garth, John (c. 1771 - 1866) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Callendar, Perthshire, Scotland - c. 1771Death: Gray's Creek, near Cornwall, Canada West - January 25, 1866Fur trade employee*NWC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1811 - 1812); Partner, Fort George [Astoria] (1813 - 1814); Member, Brigade to Fort William (1814).

John McDonald of Garth, a man with a withered arm, a partner in the NWC and brother-in-law of William McGillivray, came to Canada in 1791; that same year he entered the NWC as an apprentice clerk. He was east of the Rockies until 1811 when he carried supplies to David Thompson in the Kootenay Mountains. The following year he returned to Montreal and London with Donald McTavish. With a plan to secure Astoria from the sea, McDonald, McTavish and Jane Barnes left England in February 1813 on the Isaac Todd. In Rio de Janeiro McDonald transferred to the frigate Phoebe in which he sailed around the Horn to San Fernandez where he boarded the HMS Raccoon and began to sail north. On the way, on October 20, 1813, a fire and resulting explosion of powder horns severely burned McDonald and so he arrived at Fort George [Astoria] on December 7, 1813 after the NWC takeover but in a rather bad state. In spite of this, between December and January 1814, he assumed control of the Fort and strengthened its defences. On April 4, 1814, he left Fort George [Astoria] heading east in a brigade of ten canoes arriving in Montreal in August 1814. In November, at around the age of thirty-one, he retired in Montreal and two years later went to Gray's Creek, Glengarry, Upper Canada where he lived out the rest of his life.

John McDonald of Garth had a native wife, with whom he had five children, and a Scottish wife, with whom he had six children.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: ChSoc XLV, p. 132, 133, 145, 155, 157, 162, 166, 173, 176-77, 183; ChSoc LVII, p. 616n, 617, 617n, 619, 620, 623, 625, 627, 666, 670-71, 682-84, 688-89, 694, 696-98, 702, 707, 709, 715, 725-28 SS: Masson, p. 50-51; M. W. Campbell, p. 97; DCB Livermore/Anick

McDonell, John [b] [variation: MacDonell, McDonald] (1782 - 1834) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Inverness, Scotland - 1782Death: St. Andrews, Argenteuil, Lower Canada - December 1834Fur trade employee*HBC Clerk, New Caledonia (1821 - 1826); Clerk, Fort Fraser (1824 - 1825); Clerk in charge, Fort Fraser (1825 - 1827); Clerk, New Caledonia (1827 - 1830); Clerk, Fort St. James (1830 - 1831).

John McDonell (McDonald) joined the NWC in 1801 from Inverness, Scotland, and worked with it until 1821, spending the last year in the Athabasca as a clerk. At the time of the coalition he joined the HBC and spent the next ten years with his wife and young boy, in New Caledonia where he was lauded as a very competent Indian trader (FtStJmsRD 1, fo. 4). He left the area in 1831. Between 1831-1834 he was clerk in charge of Great Slave Lake in the Athabasca Department and in 1834, retired to Montreal. In December 1834, he died at St. Andrews, Argenteuil, Lower Canada in Robert McVicar's house. At his death his wife returned to her family in Norway House.

John McDonell had one wife, Mary (?-?), possibly from the Norway House area, and a son, who, in 1824-1825 was less than seven.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 1-2; YFASA 4-6, 8-9, 11; FtStJmsRD 1; HBCABio

McDonell, Pierre [1] (c. 1808 - ?) (probably Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1808Fur trade employee*HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1831 - 1834).

Pierre McDonell joined the HBC from Sault St. Louis as a middleman in 1831.

PS: HBCA YFASA 11-13; YFDS 4b-5b

McDonell, Pierre [2] (fl. 1849 - 1850) (Undetermined origin)Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1849 - 1850).

A mystery entry. A Pierre McDonell ran up a debt of £0.1.2 on the Hudson's Bay Company Sundry Accounts in outfit 1849-1850. He did not appear to be employed by the Company.

PS: HBCA YFASA [1849-50] B.239/g/29, p. 83a

McDonnell, Eneas [variation: Ignace McDonell] (c. 1807 - 1829) (Undetermined origin)Death: Fraser River [British Columbia] - 1829*Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1825 - 1827); Servant, Fort Alexandria (1827); Middleman and route, New Caledonia (1827 - 1829).

Ignace McDonnell, who had his wages forfeited for desertion in on September 1, 1825 with his friends Pierre Bellique and Pierre Sayer, appeared on the scene in 1827 at Fort Alexandria and, according to a report written by Joseph McGillivray, was an "Obedient" and "A Good Lad" (HBRS XXII, p. 464) acting in the capacity of servant to Mr. McGillivray. In the spring of 1829, while he was descending the Fraser River with a packet destined for George Simpson in Fort Colville, he, along with Françoise Clairmont, drowned.

PS: HBCA FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1; YFASA 5-9; YFDS 1b-3a; FtAlexDR 1 PPS: HBRS XXII. p. 464

McDougall, Duncan (? - 1819) (probably British: Scottish)Birth: probably Scotland*Death: Lake Winnipeg [Manitoba] - 1819*Fur trade officer

PFC Passenger, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811); Fort hunter, Fort George [Astoria] (1811 - 1813); NWC Partner, Fort George [Astoria] (1813 - 1817).

As Duncan McDougall had had fur trade experience with the NWC, John Jacob Astor took him in to the PFC as a partner in 1810. On December 7, 1810 on the way out on the Tonquin, a missed signal as the boat was departing the Falkland Islands almost caused McDougall and David Stuart to be left behind. An impatient Captain Jonathan Thorn sailed without them and they had to row for three and a half hours in a twenty foot boat to catch up to the vessel that would not have slowed down had Stuart's nephew, Robert Stuart, not threatened "to blow the Captain's brains out" (HBRS XLV p. 56; Ross, 1849 edition, p. 24) if he did not turn the ship round to let the others board. After his arrival at the mouth of the Columbia on March 22, 1811, McDougall helped in the construction of Fort Astoria, but from this point on his health was never good. He still had an attachment with his old company for, on July 15, when David Thompson arrived in his canoe with eight Iroquois, McDougall received the Nor'Wester "like a brother" (Ross, 1849 edition, p. 85). McDougall, a key figure in the PFC/NWC sale, signed over the post on October 23, 1813 thus "betraying the trust reposed in him by Mr. Astor," (HBRS XLV p. 193) and as such was clearly considered a traitor by an embittered Gabriel Franchere. On the other hand, Alexander Ross, found McDougall to be a man of principle. He stayed at the mouth of the Columbia until 1817 and married the daughter of a local Chinook chief. His health continued to be poor in the Columbia and he never really recovered, dying at the mouth of Lake Winnipeg in 1819. Franchere felt McDougall's "miserable death" (ibid, p. 193) was the just reward for his betrayal of the PFC.

In 1813 Duncan McDougall married, "Ilchee", a daughter of Comcomly, chief of the Chinooks. In 1817 when he left, McDougall did not take his wife with him. Ilchee married a Chinook Casenove who succeeded Comcomly on his death in 1830.

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria; HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: ChSoc LVX, p. 11-12, 14, 22-27, 43, 47, 55, 61, 71, 76-77, 96, 108, 112, 115, 117, 118, 129, 131, 193; ChSoc LVII, p. 615, 615n, 617, 629, 627, 629, 699, 706, 707, 708, 721, 724, 725; A. Ross, Adventures, p. 70, 273-274; Irving, Astoria, p. 461-63; HBRS XXII, p. 466; Last Will and Testament of Duncan McDougall, Fort George, March 28, 1817, Office of the Court of King's Bench at Montreal, Archives Nationales du Québec, Montreal, as cited in James P. Rondas forward to Alexander Ross's Adventures of the First Settlers on the Oregon or Columbia River, 1810-1813, University of Nebraska, 1986 edition, p. 10; A. Ross, Adventures, p. 24

McDougall, George [variation: McDougald] (c. 1788 - 1850) (Canadian: Scottish)Birth: probably Montreal, Province of Quebec - c. 1788*Death: probably Lesser Slave Lake, Rupert's Land - 1850*Fur trade employee

HBC Clerk, New Caledonia (1816); Clerk, Fort Alexandria (1821 - 1827); Clerk, Columbia Department (1827 - 1828); Clerk, Fort Alexandria (1828 - 1830).

George McDougall, brother of James McDougall, appears to have been working in the Peace River in 1815 for a HBC party commanded by John Clark. Around that time he left the HBC at Fort Vermilion, and crossed the mountains to visit his brother James in the New Caledonia area. The following year, while he was in New Caledonia, he joined the NWC but continued on with the HBC after 1821 until 1830. In the autumn of 1821, he established Fort Alexandria. Around 1826 he had some difficulties in trying to establish Fort Chilcotin. In 1827, when he returned from a trip to Tete Jeune Cache/Stuart Lake/Fort George, he found the Indians to be in a state of starvation; that same year, Joseph McGillivray (Chief Trader at the fort from 1826-1828) stated in his report of that year that McDougall was "[An] Unexceptionable" but "An inefficient [sic] Trader" (HBRS X, p. 200). Finally, in 1830, he was able to establish Fort Chilcotin. McDougall left New Caledonia and continued his employment with the Company, largely at Lesser Slave Lake as a clerk, until at least 1843. He retired a clerk in 1849 and died the following year.

No family has been traced.

PS: HBCA YFASA 1-2, 4-9; HBCCont; FtVanASA 1; SimpsonCB PPS: HBRS I, p. 450, HBRS X, p. xxix, 21n, 24n, 28n, 200; HBRS XXII, p. 467; HBRS XXX, p. 219n; ChSoc XXII, p. 467 SS: Morice, The History of, p. 94, 124, 157, 159
See Also: McDougall, James (Brother)

McDougall, Hugh [variation: McDugall] (c. 1829 - 1861) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Aberdeen, Scotland - c. 1829

Death: probably Fraser River, British Columbia - May 1861

Fur trade employee

HBC Steerage passenger, Norman Morison (barque) (1851); Gardener, Fort Victoria (1851 - 1855); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1851 - 1855).

Hugh McDougall spent most of his life in Wilmington, Kent, the point from which he decided to emigrate to the Pacific Coast as a HBC sponsored settler. He departed May 28, 1851 on the Norman Morison, rounded the Horn and arrived five months later, on October 20, at Fort Victoria. He finished his contract with the HBC as a labourer/gardener around 1855, after which his movements are uncertain. Around May 9, 1861, a person with the same name was travelling up the Fraser River on the steamer Moody when he fell overboard and drowned.

Hugh McDougall did not appear to have a family in the area.

PS: HBCA log of Norman Morison 2; YFASA 31-32; YFDS 22; FtVicASA 1-3; Van-PL Colonist, May 9, 1861 p. 3

McDougall, James (c. 1783 - 1851) (Canadian: Scottish)

Birth: possibly Montreal, Province of Quebec - c. 1783

Death: Montreal, Canada East - August 17, 1851

Fur trade employee

NWC Clerk, Fort McLeod (1806); Clerk, Fort St. James (1812); HBC Clerk, New Caledonia (1821 - 1824); Clerk, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825); Clerk, Fort Fraser (1825); Clerk, New Caledonia (1825 - 1827); Clerk, Columbia District (1829 - 1830).

Montrealer James McDougall, brother of George McDougall, is noted for his exploration work with Simon Fraser on the Pacific slopes. McDougall first joined the NWC on March 10, 1798 as an apprentice and was first stationed on the Pacific slopes at Fort McLeod in 1806. In May 1806, McDougall made a reconnaissance trip from McLeod's Lake to Stuart Lake, which he determined drained into the "Columbia" (i.e. the Fraser River) via the Stuart and Nechako Rivers, important information for Fraser's later exploration (Fraser, p. 181). Early in 1807, he was chastised by Fraser for having allowed one of the employees to take on a wife but he himself took a native female companion and became experienced in the Sekanais dialect (Fraser, p. 246). In 1808 he joined Fraser in his trip to the mouth of the Fraser and back and in December, 1811, he joined Daniel W. Harmon at Stuart Lake for the holidays. In January 1812, McDougall and Harmon went to Babine Lake, where they found that the natives had secured European goods which were traded with their neighbours, the Atenas, who had traded with white people who had come up the river (Harmon, p. 183). He continued working at various posts in New Caledonia and, in 1827, when he was in a deplorable state of health, his sister in law nursed him back to health. In July 1830, he and his family headed east over the Rockies and, on June 29, 1831, the HBC Council at a meeting decided to grant James McDougall £500 sterling which he could draw on at any time. He died in Montreal at the age of sixty-seven.

The names of James McDougall's wife and children have not been traced. Nancy McDougall (?-?) was one daughter.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; NWCAB 10; HBCA YFASA 1-2, 4-6, 8-9; YFDS 1a; FtStJmsRD 3; FtVanASA 1; FtColPJ 1 PPS: HBRS XXII, p. 467; Fraser, p. 181, 246; Harmon, A Journal of Voyages, p. 178-179, 182-83; HBRS III, p. 288; ChSoc XXII, p. 467 SS: Morice, The History of, p. 70, 159
See Also: McDougall, George (Brother); Boucher, Jean Baptiste (c) (Son-in-Law); Bouche, Francois (Relative); Bouche, George Waccan (Relative); Bouche, Joseph (Relative); Bouche, William (Relative); Boucher, James

McDougall, John [variation: Jean Baptiste, Johnny McDougal] (1827 - 1903) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Fort Garry [Winnipeg, Manitoba] - June 17, 1827 (born to a Canadian Scottish father and native or mixed descent mother)

Death: Okanagan Landing, British Columbia - 1903

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Columbia Department general charges (1845 - 1846); Labourer, Cowlitz (1846 - 1847); Labourer, New Caledonia (1846 - 1847); Boute, New Caledonia (1847 - 1850); Boute, Fort Kamloops [Thompson's River Post, She-waps Post] (1850 - 1852); Labourer, Fort Colville (1852 - 1854).

Born to Fort Garry grist mill owners, a young John likely learned to read and write under the Jesuit priests or at his father's knee. Around 1845 he joined the HBC and came over the Rockies where he was to work for the rest of his career. For several years he drove pack trains on the Brigade trails and he ranged between the New Caledonia, Cowlitz and Fort Colville areas. McDougall was discharged on March 27, 1852, possibly resisting what he perceived as HBC heavy-handedness. He rejoined at Fort Colville and was discharged again in May 1853 but continued to work as a labourer until June 1, 1854, when, like others at that time, he moved to Victoria where, in the mid-1850s he purchased eighty-five acres [34.4 ha] and began to raise a family. Driven by a dream of finding gold in a specific area and, no doubt caught up in the gold fever of 1858, he discovered gold and successfully worked a claim in the Tulameen/Similkameen area. Later, in 1861, with the proceeds of his claim and during the time more waves of Europeans began to scour the land for further gold, McDougall and his young family headed for the familiar Okanagan area where they pre-empted land at Okanagan Mission; he moved to the west side of the lake in 1890. His 320 acre [129.5 ha] ranch in Guisachan was purchased by Lord and Lady Aberdeen, the future Governor General of Canada (Greening, p. 51). McDougal weathered the transition to settled life successfully, for, not only was he staked by the HBC to trade with the natives for whatever furs he could get, but he also became a very competent house-builder and farmer, building several houses and growing his own tobacco. As well, he wrote letters for his illiterate neighbours when they needed to communicate formally. Less is known of the character of his partner, Emelie, but she appears to have been a strong resilient person who worked hard to keep the family together and her husband loyal, returning to her extended family when she was ill just before she died around 1890. Thirteen years later, in 1903, John McDougall died while fishing at Okanagan Landing and was found in the bottom of his boat, his crucifix clutched tightly in his hand.

John McDougall had two successive wives and thirteen children. Together with his wife Emilie (c.1835-c.1890), Okanagan, they had Alexander (c.1851-?), Eneas/Enneas (c.1853-?), Joseph David (c.1855-1936), Jean Baptiste (1857-59), Joseph Norbert (1859-64), Henry (c.1861-1950s), Edward (1864-1935), John (c.1866-?), John Amable (1869-1965), Lesime (c.1871-?), and Urban (1872-1949). After Emilie's death, John had two daughters by his native wife Julie: Martha/Martina (?-?) and Agnus (?-?).

Some of his descendants remain in the area and in 1968 two of his houses built in the 1860s were moved to the Father Pandosy Mission site (Upton, p. 42). McDougall Creek, a ten mile [16.1 km] long creek entering Okanagan Lake near Westbank, was named after John McDougall (Harvey, p. 210).

PS: HBCA YFASA 25-31; YFDS 18, 22; FtVanASA 9-10; HBCABio; BCA BCGR-CrtR-AbstLnd; BCCR StAndC; Van-PL 1881 Canada Census, Yale District, Nicola & Okanagan sub-district; KamA Fraser PPS: Allison, p. 40, 42 SS: Harvey, "Okanagan Place Names", p. 210-11; Greening, p. 51; Upton, p. 42; Gellatly, p. 27-28; Louis, p. 2-3; Buckland, Frank, "Ogopogo's Vigil", p. 31, 36A; Laing, p. 470

McDuff, James (fl. 1858 - 1862) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Rupert (1858 - 1859); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1859 - 1861); Untraced vocation, Fort Rupert (1861 - 1862).

James McDuff started working for the HBC on October 15, 1858 on a contract that ended in 1860. He received his 1859-1860 wages on the outstanding balances account. He may have died in the spring of 1862 for he was sent south from Fort Rupert "beyond all hope of recovery" (FtRupCB 1). He appeared on the 1862-1863 sundries account with a credit of £22.17.1 carried over from the previous outfit although transactions continued on his account for the next two years.

James McDuff appears to have had one child, William (?-?), by a native woman.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 6-11; family information: R. H. Pidcock, Indian Agent of Kwar-kewlth Agency, to A. W. Vowell, Indian Superintendent, n.p., n.d, in Dept. of Indian Affairs, Black Series, R. G. 10, vol 3867, file 87,125; BCA FtRupCB 1 Hamilton Moffat's May 10, 1862 letter to the Board of Management in Victoria [beyond hope of recovery] A/B/20/R2

McFaddin, James (c. 1824 - 1902) (Irish)

Birth: Ireland - c. 1824

Death: Kamloops, British Columbia- October 1902

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Alexandria (1850 - 1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Langley (1852 - 1853); Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1856).

James McFaddin worked for a short time for the HBC in outfit 1850-1851 and was back working again at Fort Langley two years later. He left the HBC in 1853, was working in Victoria in 1856, was at Nisqually for a few weeks that summer, and was whaling in 1859. Between 1861-1865 the Irishman and his Bella Bella wife were raising a family at an unknown location. On March 1, 1867 the now farmer McFaddin pre-empted land on Saltspring Island, where he was a neighbour of former HBC employees, Henry Sampson and William Hudson. James McFaddin died in 1902 in Kamloops, B. C.

James McFaddin may have had two wives. One wife was Mary Moody (?-?) from the Bella Bella area. McFaddin children were Mary Ann (1853-1936), Susan (1856-1940), John (?-bap.1865-?), William (1861-c.1919) and Elizabeth (1863-1930).

PS: BCA Alexandria; HBCA YFASA 30-31; FtVicASA 1-2; HBCABio; BCA BCCR StAndC; Van-PL 1881 Canada Census, Vancouver District, Cowichan Saltspring subdistrict PPS: Dickey SS: Walter, p. 25; McFaddin descendant

McGarry, William [variation: James] (fl. 1830 - 1832) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Ganymede (barque) (1830 - 1832).

William McGarry (James on his contract) joined the HBC in London on November 20, 1830, as a seaman for three years and sailed to Fort Vancouver on the Ganymede. He departed Fort Vancouver in November 1831 and arrived back in London in 1832.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 7

McGillis, Donald (c. 1786 - ?) (Canadian: Scottish)

Birth: probably Cape Breton, Nova Scotia - c. 1786

Death: probably Upper Canada, Eastern Canada

Fur trade employee

PFC Passenger, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811); Clerk, Fort George [Astoria] (1811); Clerk, Fort Okanagan (October 13, 1813); Clerk, Fort George [Astoria] (winter 1813 - 1814).

Donald McGillis joined John Jacob Astor's PFC in 1810 from Glengarry, Upper Canada, sailed on September 6th aboard the Tonquin from New York, and arrived at the mouth of the Columbia March 22, 1811. He joined David Stuart for a trip to the interior in July of that year, returning to Fort Astoria on October 5th. On December 5th, 1811, he went up the Willamette with Robert Stuart. On March 30th, 1812 he joined Russell Farnham's party for the cache of the overland Astorians on the Snake River (Donald McKenzie's outpost?). In 1813 he joined the NWC and for the next six months he was in and out of Fort George. On April 4, 1814, McGillis, in a brigade of ten canoes and seventy-eight people, began their journey east. On May 25th, while on the journey eastward from the Rockies he escaped with his life when the canoe broke and two men drowned. He likely arrived back in Montreal, at the end of August, but did not remain long with the NWC for Ross Cox found him settled on the Ottawa River in 1817. He married and, while living in Alexandria, Upper Canada, became deputy register of deeds for Glengarry.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10; HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: ChSoc XLV, p. 48, 64, 96, 112, 115, 145, 157, 164; ChSoc LVII, p. 636, 636n, 637, 665, 704, 706 SS: HBRS XXII, p. 469 PPS: Cox, p. 303

McGillivray, Duncan (fl. 1829 - 1835) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice, Columbia Department (1829 - 1831); Apprentice, Fort Vancouver (1831 - 1835).

Duncan McGillivray, who joined the HBC in 1829, is noted as working in the Columbia District as an apprentice seaman. He disappeared from Columbia records in outfit 1834-1835.

PS: HBCA YFASA 9, 11-14; FtVanASA 2; YFDS 4b-5c

McGillivray, Hector (1816 - 1837) (Mixed descent)

Birth: British North America - 1816 (born to Joseph McGillivray and a native wife)

Death: Champoege, Oregon Territory - March 19, 1837

Maritime employee

HBC Apprentice, Naval Department (1828 - 1830); Apprentice, Cadboro (schooner) (1830 - 1831); Apprentice, Dryad (brig) (1832); Apprentice, Cadboro (schooner) (1832 - 1833); Apprentice, Vancouver (schooner) (1833); Apprentice, Lama (brig) (1834); Apprentice, Fort Simpson naval service (1834 - 1835); Apprentice, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1835 - 1836); Native apprentice, Fort Umpqua (1836 - 1837).

Born into the fur trade, Hector McGillivray joined the Naval Department of the HBC in 1828 around the age of twelve and serviced the coastal shipping trade as an apprentice seaman for nine years. During this time he sailed as far south as Monterey, California and north to the Alaska panhandle. For the last two years he worked on land and died of influenza while he was at Champoege and was buried by Jason Lee two days later.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 8, 11-15; YFDS 3a-3b, 4b-7; FtVanASA 2-4; log of Dryad 1; Wills (Joseph McGillivray) PPS: "Oregon Mission Record Book," p. 254

See Also: McGillivray, Joseph (Father); McGillivray, William (Relative); McGillivray, Montrose (Relative); McGillivray, Simon Jr. (Relative); McGillivray, Napoleon Buonaparte (Relative)

McGillivray, Joseph (c. 1790 - 1832) (Mixed descent)

Birth: British North America - c. 1790 (born to William McGillivray and a Cree mother)

Death: East of the Rocky Mountains - April 1832

Fur trade officer

NWC Clerk, Fort Okanagan (1813 - 1817); Chief Trader, Fort Alexandria (1826 - 1828).

Joseph McGillivray was an articulate man to whom historians and ethnographers owe a debt of gratitude for his description of Fort Alexandria in 1827. As a NWC man, he was present at the taking of Michillimackinac in 1812 and the following year, when he became a partner in the NWC, came to the Columbia area for four years. He was made an HBC Chief Trader in 1821 serving at Norway House, York Factory, Severn and Trout Lake, all east of the Rockies. It was while he was on the Pacific slopes 1826-1828 that he wrote his report and in 1828 returned east of the Rockies for furlough, retiring in 1831. He died the following year, April 22, 1832.

Joseph McGillivray appears to have had at least one wife, a Françoise Bouché, and three children: Hector (c.1816-37), Alfred (?-?) and Murdoch (?-?).

PS: HBCA NWCAB 1, 10; HBCA YFASA 6-8; Wills PPS: HBRS I, p. 450-51, HBRS XXII, p. 470

See Also: McGillivray, William (Brother); McGillivray, Hector (Son); McGillivray, Simon Jr. (Brother); McGillivray, Montrose (Relative); McGillivray, Napoleon Buonaparte (Relative)

McGillivray, Montrose (1822 - 1850) (Mixed descent)

Birth: British North America - 1822 (born to Simon McGillivray and a native woman)

Death: probably Fort St. James, New Caledonia - January 22, 1850

Fur trade employee

HBC Native apprentice, Fort Vancouver general charges (1838 - 1842); Native apprentice, Fort Vancouver (1839 - 1841); Apprentice post master, California Estate (1842 - 1843); Post master, New Caledonia (1847 - 1850).

Montrose McGillivray was baptised late at the age of thirteen at Red River on April 19, 1835, and, after being hired by the HBC in 1838 as a native apprentice, was attached to the Columbia District. His family status held him in good stead for, in 1841 at Vancouver, he travelled with Sir George Simpson's round the world expedition for a short time. He worked at the HBC California post until he was dismissed by William Glen Rae in California for excessive drinking (FtVanCB 33, fo. 175). McGillivray, who by this time had spent his father's legacy, felt this unfair as Rae was an even heavier drinker. The twenty-two year old then ran up a large debt and left the Company to go to Red River in 1846 but then re-joined in 1847. That year he was a member of Alexander C. Anderson's party searching for a north-of-49 route from New Caledonia to the coast. In January 1849 in the New Caledonia area [nr. Quesnel, B.C.], McGillivray headed a punitive group of fifteen men on a search for Tlhelh, who, to avenge the death of Tlhelh's wife, had shot a "white man", (Morice, p. 266) Alexis Bellanger, who may or may not have had anything to do with her death. When McGillivray arrived at Tlhelh's Quesnel village, Donald McLean shot dead Tlhelh's uncle, Nadetnoerh, as well as Nadetnoerh's son-in-law and the son-in-law's child. The mother, possibly a daughter of Simon Plomondon, was injured in the shoulder (FtAlexPJ 8, fo. 21). Both McGillivray and McLean were exonerated for this unnecessary carnage of three innocent people. Later Tlhelh was killed by another uncle, Neztel, who, no doubt trying to stop the carnage and restore peace, very much regretted doing it.

Montrose McGillivray died January 22, 1850 of an inflammation of the lungs, likely tuberculosis. Members of a McGillivray family have not been traced.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 5-7; YFASA 18-20, 24-25, 27-31; log of Cowlitz 1; FtVanCB 33, John McLoughlin's July 19, 1845 Fort Vancouver letter to Governor & Company, fo. 175; FtVicASA 2-4, 6; Montrose McGillivray to George Simpson letter, March 18, 1844, D.5/10; FtAlexPJ 8, fo. 21, fo. 48; HBCA Montrose McGillivray search file PPS: ChSoc VII, p. xxviii, 79, 80 SS: Morice, The History of, p. 266-273
See Also: McGillivray, Simon Jr. (Father); McGillivray, Joseph (Relative); McGillivray, Hector (Relative); McGillivray, William (Relative); McGillivray, Napoleon Buonaparte (Brother)

McGillivray, Napoleon Buonaparte [variation: McGillivray, McGillivray] (1825 - 1906) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Red River Settlement [Manitoba] or Lake of the Woods [Ontario] – c. April 29, 1825 (born to Simon McGillivray and Thérèse Roy)

Death: Portland, Oregon - 1906

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); Apprentice, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1844); Settler, Willamette (1845 - 1846).

A child of the fur trade, Napoleon McGillivray studied some bookkeeping at school in Red River before the fourteen year old signed on with the HBC in 1839. That year, after crossing the Rockies in a group of thirty, he arrived at Fort Vancouver. There, for the next five years, while working at the fort store under the chief clerk, the young apprentice entered into an account book the expenditures of nails, provisions, liquors, etc. In 1844 the nineteen year old settled briefly in the Willamette Valley. Two years later, in 1846, he went to California, then crossed to Missouri and returned to the area in 1848. In the fall of 1853 he settled on a claim of 321 acres [129.9 ha] in Clark Co. [Washington] and permanently settled in the county in 1854. He died in 1906, age eighty-one, of a paralytic stroke.

Napoleon McGillivray had one wife. In the late spring of 1853, he married Sarah.

PS: HBCA YFASA 19-20, 24-25; FtVanASA 6-7; Washington Territory Donation Land Claims, p. 188; OHS SB #226h, p. 1573 PPS: In the Supreme Court, p. 98-104
See Also: McGillivray, William (Relative); McGillivray, Simon Jr. (Father); McGillivray, Hector (Relative); McGillivray, Montrose (Brother); McGillivray, Joseph (Relative)

McGillivray, Simon Jr. (1790 - 1840) (Mixed descent)

Birth: British North America - 1790 (born to William McGillivray and a Cree woman)

Death: Fort Alexander [Manitoba] on his way from Canada to Athabasca- June 14, 1840

Fur trade officer

HBC Chief Trader, Fort Nez Percés (1830 - 1832); Chief Trader, New Caledonia (1832 - 1834).

Brother to Joseph, Simon McGillivray served with the Canadian Chasseurs in 1812 and the following year began as a clerk with the NWC. He rose through the ranks east of the Rockies becoming Chief Trader at amalgamation. At times he was felt to be heavy handed. During his three years on the Pacific Slopes, George Simpson felt him to be so and had him transferred north after he assaulted a native in 1832. He retired in 1834. Two years after his retirement, however, he re-entered the service of the HBC as a clerk for four years. He died from the cumulative effects of drinking.

Simon McGillivray appears to have had one wife, Thérèse Roy (?-?) and nine children. Their children were Cecilia (?-?), Mary (?-?), Montrose (1822-c.1850-?), Napoleon Buonaparte (c.1825-1906), Ann Auldjo (?-?), Frederick (?-?), Edward (?-?), Susan (?-?) and Theresa (?-?). Another child by an untraced mother was John (?-?).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; YFASA 11-12; YFDS 5a-5c; SimpsonCB; Wills; HBCA Simon McGillivray search file; FtStikPJ 1-2; BCA PJ FtBab 1 PPS: HBRS I, p. 451, ChSoc XXII, p. 471, HBRS XXX, p. 190
See Also: Logan, Kenneth (Son-in-Law); McGillivray, William (Brother); McGillivray, Joseph (Brother); McGillivray, Hector (Relative); McGillivray, Montrose (Son); McGillivray, Napoleon Buonaparte (Son)

McGillivray, William (c. 1796 - 1832) (Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly Terrebonne, Lower Canada - c. 1796 (born to William McGillivray)

Death: Nechako River, British Columbia - January 31, 1832

Fur trade employee

HBC Clerk, McLeod Lake Post (1828 - 1832).

Brother to Simon and Joseph, William McGillivray joined the NWC in 1814 and later the HBC in 1821. From 1821-1828 he was a clerk east of the Rockies. However, because George Simpson was not happy with his performance there, he sent McGillivray to McLeod Lake for four years. On the other hand, William Connolly felt him to be a good clerk but underpaid. On January 31, 1832, while McGillivray was en route from Fort George to Fraser lake, he and his party were caught in a stream, struggled for some time and then sank. He and Pierre Evererd drowned while the other members of the party saved themselves (FtStJmsPJ 16, fo. 66).

William McGillivray had one wife (name not traced) and two sons, Simon (?-?) and Joseph (?-?). (Will dated October 10, 1825).

PS: HBCA YFASA 8-9, 11; FtVanASA 2; HBCCont; YFDS 4b; FtStJmsPJ 16; SimpsonCB; Wills; HBCA William McGillivray search file PPS: HBRX X. p. 259-60; HBRX XXII, p. 472; HBRX XXX, p. 222-23n
See Also: McGillivray, Joseph (Brother); McGillivray, Simon Jr. (Brother); McGillivray, Hector (Relative); McGillivray, Montrose (Relative); McGillivray, Napoleon Buonaparte (Relative)

McGruer, Alexander [variation: MacGruer] (fl. 1824 - 1829) (possibly Canadian: English)

Birth: possibly British North America

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825).

Alexander McGruer worked at Fort St. James in 1824-1825. On July 7, 1829, an Alexander McGruer signed a two-year contract at Fort Augustus as a "Post master, guide, steersman." He was likely the same person.

PS: HBCA YFASA 4; FtStJmsLS 1; HBCCont

McIntosh, Archibald (fl. 1847 - 1850) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1847 - 1850).

Archibald McIntosh joined the HBC from "Indian Country" in 1847 on a six-year contract. In 1849-1850, however, he became a freeman, went to California and then returned to the area. He may have worked off and on until 1853-1854.

PS: HBCA YFASA 27-30; FtVanASA 9-10

McIntosh, John [1] (c. 1803 - 1844) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Lake Superior, Upper Canada - c. 1803 (born to CT Donald McIntosh and a Chippawa woman)

Death: Fort McLeod, New Caledonia - July 8, 1844

Fur trade employee

HBC Clerk disposable in district, New Caledonia (1835 - 1836); Clerk in charge, Fort Connolly (1836 - 1837); Clerk in charge, Fort Chilcotin (1837); Clerk in charge, Fort Connolly (1837 - 1842); In charge, Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs] (1842 - 1844); Clerk in charge, Fort McLeod (1844).

John [Jack] McIntosh joined the HBC in 1821 and served east of the Rockies until 1835. That year he came to the Pacific slopes and around 1837 was put in charge of Fort Chilcotin, a difficult task as the fort was built on a traditional native gathering and trading ground. Relations with the natives were also not helped by the lack of tact McIntosh used when dealing with indigenous peoples. In spite of this, under McIntosh, the fort grew considerably and he was replaced by William McBean in October of that year. McIntosh survived Fort Chilcotin but his lack of tact with the relatively peaceful more northern Sekanais proved fatal. A young Sekanais who had become over-familiar with his wife was threatened by McIntosh with his "powerful medicine" (Morice, p. 185); coincidentally smallpox subsequently killed off many of the natives and McIntosh was blamed. Consequently, as he was going to examine fish nets at McLeod Lake with his little boy, he was shot and killed on July 8, 1844. The reason for his death may also be related to McLeod's involvement in the death of a party of Assiniboine Indians in the winter of 1835-1836 (McLean, 324-25).

John McIntosh had two wives and five recorded children. He married Charlotte Robertson (c.1810-?) and together they had Catherine (c.1831-?), Donald (c.1836-?), John (1840-59) and James [Jacobus] (1843-?). With Nancy Mestdzy Porteuse, Carrier, he had Mary (1843-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 15, 17-20, 24; YFDS 6-7, 15; FtVanASA 3-8; SimpsonCB; HBCABio; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Clark County PPS: HBRX XXX, p. 217n; CCR 1b, 4a; J. McLean, p. 324-25; Morice, The History of, p. 185, 243-44
See Also: McIntosh, John Jr.[2] (Son)

McIntosh, John Jr. [2] (1839 - 1859) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Fort Connolly, New Caledonia - 1839 (born to John McIntosh and Charlotte Roberts)

Death: Fort Vancouver, Washington Territory - November 4, 1859

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice post master, Fort Vancouver sales shop (1853 - 1857); Post master, Fort Colville (1857 - 1859).

John McIntosh joined the HBC in 1853 as a fourteen-year old apprentice post master, emulating his father, John McIntosh, the deceased HBC clerk. He worked at both Fort Vancouver and later, for his health, Fort Colville. However, he died at Fort Vancouver at the age of nineteen of tuberculosis.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 9-15; FtVicASA 11-13; OHS Oregonian, Nov. 12, 1859, p. 2; Wash-SL Nisqually 2
See Also: McIntosh, John [1] (Father)

McIntyre, James (fl. 1836 - 1841) (Canadian: English)

Birth: St. John, New Brunswick

Maritime employee

HBC Cook, Beaver (steamer) (1836 - 1840); Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1840 - 1841).

James McIntyre joined the HBC in London on August 29, 1835 for five years. He worked on ships servicing the Columbia Department until October 31, 1840 and is recorded as leaving for England on the barque Vancouver in the fall of 1840 at the end of his five-year contract.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; FtVanASA 3-6; YFDS 7, 11; YFASA 19-20

McIntyre, John (fl. 1841 - 1877) (British: Scottish)

Birth: in or near Glen Orchy, Argyll, Scotland (born to William McIntyre)

Death: probably East of the Rocky Mountains

Fur trade employee

HBC Steward, Simpson's Round the World Expedition (1841 - 1842).

John McIntyre was taken on as George Simpson's steward after Simpson met him on the outward journey from London to Boston on the Caledonia. Simpson, who called McIntyre a "smart, active and intelligent highlander," (Simpson, p. 60) was impressed with his ability in the Gaelic language of the North of Scotland. As part of Simpson's party, McIntyre crossed the Continent, went north to Russian America, and returned to the Columbia on the Beaver; from there, the party continued sailing south to California, and then west to the Sandwich Islands, whereupon the group once more headed north on the Cowlitz. After having crossed the Pacific Ocean and making landfall in Asia, the party then made the arduous voyage overland across Siberia and Russia, finally arriving back in London in 1842. McIntyre is mentioned in Simpson's narrative for falling off a horse in Rupert's Land (Simpson, p. 60) and again in Russia for watching in horror as the laudanum meant for his injured eye was drunk by a Cossack (Simpson, p. 267). McIntyre returned to the North America continuing his career with the HBC and was employed at various posts east of the Rockies, eventually rising to the rank of Factor in the 1870s. He retired in 1877.

PS: HBCA YFASA 21; log of Cowlitz 1; HBCAAbio PPS: G. Simpson, Narrative, vol. I, p. 60, vol. II, p. 267

McIsaac, Allen [variation: Allan MacIsaac] (c. 1826 - ?) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably South Uist, Scotland, United Kingdom - c. 1826

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1849); Labourer, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1850 - 1851); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1851 - 1852).

Allen McIsaac joined the HBC from the Outer Hebrides on June 14, 1841, sailed to York Factory on the Prince Rupert and made his way across the continent with the brigade. He worked in the Fort Vancouver area until March 8, 1852, when he was discharged.

An 1851 HBCA undelivered Stornoway letter from Mary McDonald reveals a woman expecting love and marriage from Allen. By 1853, however, she married someone else from Gravir, on the Isle of Lewis (Beattie & Buss, p. 333).

PS: HBCA log of Prince Albert 8; log of Prince Rupert V 10; YFASA 30-31; YFDS 22; FtVanASA 9; FtVicASA 5; MiscI 5; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Clark County PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 332-34

McIver, Donald [c] (fl. 1843 - 1847) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Markethill, Stornoway, Lewis, Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Colville (1843 - 1845); Labourer, Fort Nez Percés (1845 - 1846); Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1847).

Donald McIver joined the HBC from Stornoway in 1841 and worked at Columbia posts until the end of his contract. (He may be the same Donald McIver, from Bayhead, Stornoway, who joined the HBC on June 20, 1840 as a labourer for five years.)

PS: HBCA HBCCont; FtVanASA 7; YFASA 23-25; log of Prince Rupert V 8

McIver, James (c. 1828 - ?) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Guershader, Lewis, Scotland - c. 1828

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Albert (barque) (1849); Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1849); Labourer, Columbia

Department general charges (1850 - 1851); Labourer, Snake Party (1851 - 1852); In charge, Snake Party (1852 - 1853); Labourer, Snake Party (1853 - 1856); Labourer, Fort Colville (1856).

James McIver joined the HBC from Stornoway in 1849 and sailed to York Factory. In outfit 1852-1853, he was listed as being in charge of Fort Boise and retired in 1856.

PS: HBCA log of Prince Albert 8; log of Prince Rupert V 10; YFASA 30-31; FtVanASA 9-13; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Clark County

McIver, John [a] (c. 1825 - ?) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Barve or Barras, Lewis, Scotland - c. 1825Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Albert (barque) (1849); Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1849); Labourer, Fort Alexandria (1850 - 1851); Labourer, New Caledonia (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1852 - 1853); Labourer, New Caledonia (1853 - 1854); Labourer, Thompson River (1854 - 1860); Untraced vocation, Western Department (1860 - 1861).

John McIver [a] joined the HBC in 1849 from the Island of Lewis. After sailing from Stromness to York Factory and making his way overland, he work for approximately ten years in the New Caledonia/Thompson River area. His contract ended in 1859 and he appeared to work for one more year before pre-empting land in the Cherry Creek area of the Kamloops District in 1864 in partnership with Donald McAulay. Seven years later, in 1871, he pre-empted 320 acres [129.5 ha] on his own on the west bank of the North Thompson River. He continued to live in the area into the 1880s (in 1881 he was baptised in a Roman Catholic church [Fource du Nord/Chu Chu Wa]) but, by 1887, the Crown Grant of his land was given in the names of two other people. The date and place of his death has not been traced.

PS: BCA FtAlex 1; HBCA log of Prince Albert 8; log of Prince Rupert V 10; YFASA 30-32; FtVicASA 1-11; FtAlexPJ 9; baptism: Roman Catholic Kamloops & District Baptisms, 1867-82, BCA SS: Laing, p. 376, 392

McIver, John [d] (fl. 1853 - 1860) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Ross, Scotland - 1827Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, New Caledonia (1853 - 1860).

John McIver [d], from Lochs, Ross, joined the Hudson's Bay Company around 1852. He worked the area until the end of his contract in 1859 and may have stayed in the area some years after.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1-11

See Also: Morrison, Kenneth (possible Relative)

McIvor, Norman [variation: McIver] (c. 1812 - ?) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Pabbay, Uig, Ross, Scotland - c. 1812Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1832); Sloop, Fort Vancouver general charges (1833 - 1834); Sloop, Fort Simpson (1834 - 1837); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1838); Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1838); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1839).

Norman McIvor joined the HBC in Stornoway, Scotland on June 20, 1832. Six days later he sailed for Hudson Bay from where he made his way overland to the Pacific slopes. There he worked under contract, becoming a freeman in 1837, and spent two more years with the Company at Fort Vancouver. He also sailed as far south as California on the Nereide. Norman McIvor returned to the British Isles in 1839 aboard the Prince Rupert.

PS: HBCA log of Prince Rupert IV 6; YFASA 13-15, 18-19; FtSimp[N]PJ 3; YFDS 5b-7; FtVanASA 3-5; ShMiscPap 14

McKay, Alexander [1] (? - 1811) (British and American)

Birth: Thirteen Colonies, North America (born to Donald McKay and Elspeth Kennedy)Death: Clayoquot Sound, Vancouver Island - June 1811*Fur trade officer

NWC Member, Alexander Mackenzie's journey to the Pacific (1793); PFC Passenger, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811).

Alexander McKay, born to United Empire Loyalist/Tory parents, likely spent some time in Charlottenburg, Glengarry Co., Upper Canada before joining the fur trade before 1791. He was part of Alexander Mackenzie's voyage to the Pacific in 1793 and considered a valuable member of the expedition. McKay was made a NWC partner in 1799 and in 1808, retired. He joined Astor's PFC in 1810, and in August of that year, brought a party with him from Montreal to New York via Lake Champlain. On September 6, 1810, he left on the tempestuous voyage of the Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn] arriving March 22, 1811 at the mouth of the Columbia River. As the second mate was unable to endure the Captain of the Tonquin, electing to stay at Fort Astoria, (the first mate drowned and the boatswain deserted in Oahu) McKay was chosen by his fellow partners to act as supercargo and to trade along the coast. However, in June, when the ship was at Clayoquot Sound, McKay was one of the first to be killed when the ship was attacked by local natives and the crew massacred.

Alexander McKay had one wife and one or more children. McKay married Marguerite Wadin, the mixed descent daughter of Swiss fur-trader Etienne Wadin. Together they had son Thomas McKay, who became prominent in the Columbia fur trade. After McKay's death, widow Marguerite Wadin married Dr. John McLoughlin.

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria PPS: HakSP Mackenzie, p. 21, 256-284, 302-03, 308, 317, 324-29, 335-36, 339, 360, 373, 377, 384-85, 387-89, 395, 404-06, 450, 452, 459, 476; ChSoc XLV, p. 43-45, 47, 60, 61, 69, 71-72, 74-75, 78, 80, 84-85, 89, 126-27, 188, 197
SS: ChSoc XXII, p. 473
See Also: McKay, Thomas (Son); McLoughlin, Dr. John (Relative); McKay, Dr. William (Relative); McKenzie, Donald (Son-in-Law)

McKay, Alexander [2] (c. 1827 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Rupert's Land, British North America - c. 1827

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Columbia Department general charges (1845 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1846 - 1847); Labourer, New Caledonia (1847 - 1848).

Alexander McKay joined the HBC in 1845 and worked to the end of his contract in 1848.

PS: HBCA YFASA 25-27

McKay, Charles (c. 1798 - ?) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Fair, Sutherland, Scotland - c. 1798

Fur trade employee

HBC Interpreter, Snake Party (1824 - 1826); Interpreter, Columbia Department (1826 - 1827).

Charles McKay joined the HBC in 1816 and came to York Factory on the Prince of Wales [Henry Hanwell]. Between 1816-1824 he worked east of the Rockies all the time acquiring the skills as a useful interpreter in the Peigan language. In the fall of 1824 he set out from Flathead Post for the Snake Country. In the following year he had the distinction being an early non-native eyewitness to the Great Salt Lake as William Kittson reported that Charles McKay on May 12, 1825 climbed to a high point on the Wasatch Mountains south of Logan, Utah and got a distant view of Great Salt Lake, several miles to the southwest (SnkCoPJ 3a, fo. 17). McKay was one of the individuals who stuck by Ogden during the Snake Country revolt of May 24-25, 1825. In July of that year, after removing the cords and shoes from a captured Blackfoot Indian, McKay escorted him into the mountains and away from the group of avenging Flathead Indians who wished to have the Blackfoot killed (SnkCoPJ 2, fo. 33d). Later in the fall of that year, the party ran into several skirmishes with the Peigan Indians involving stolen horses and other raids (SnkCoPJ 2, fo. 39d). McKay retired in 1826, leaving York Factory on September 20, 1826 on the Prince of Wales [John Davison] and arriving in London, October 26, 1826.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 4-6; HBCA Charles McKay search file; SnkCoPJ 2, 3a

McKay, Dr. William (Billy) (1824 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Fort George [Astoria], Oregon Territory - March 18, 1824 (born to Thomas McKay and Thomas McKay and a daughter of Chief Concomley, Chinook)

Death: Umatilla, Oregon

Other

HBC Brigade member, Fort Vancouver (1843 - ?).

One of the three mixed-descent medical doctors of the Oregon Territory, William (Billy) McKay was the son of Thomas McKay and a daughter of Chief Concomley of the Chinook tribe. McKay's childhood was undoubtedly influenced at Fort Vancouver by training from his step-grandfather, Dr. John McLoughlin, who taught him medicine. McLoughlin wanted William to study medicine in Scotland but missionary Marcus Whitman persuaded William's father, Thomas, that it would be better for him to get a medical degree within the United States rather than Scotland; and, so William studied at Willoughby Medical School in Upper New York State. When he returned, he worked briefly with the HBC in 1843. After the border was drawn and the United States took over administration of the area, McKay became physician and coroner for the Umatilla Indian Reservation. He died at his home on the Umatilla Reservation.

William C. McKay had one wife and four children, three sons and one daughter. On October 5, 1856, he married Margaret Campbell (?-?) at the Dalles.

PPS: OHS, SB #39, 40; OHS Statesman, Oct. 14, 1856, p. 3 SS: Pollard
See Also: McKay, Alexander (Relative); McKay, Thomas (Father)

McKay, George (fl. 1853 - 1866) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Beaver (steamer) (1853 - 1854); Labourer, Beaver (steamer) (1854 - 1860); Labourer, Labouchere (steamer) (1863); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1866); Cook, Fort Simpson (1866); Interpreter, Fort Simpson (1866).

George McKay worked for the HBC until about 1860. In 1863, while he was working on the Labouchere, he married the daughter of Nes-La-Ka-Noos, chief of the Kitlans. The marriage was performed by a Mr. Cunningham.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1-7, 9; FtSimp[N]PJ 9

McKay, James [1] (fl. 1833 - 1835) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Dundee, ScotlandMaritime employee

HBC Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1833 - 1835).

James McKay joined the HBC on May 4, 1833 for three years and was meant to serve out his time in coastal shipping. He sailed on the Nereide on May 4, 1833 on a frustrating almost year-long voyage to the Northwest Coast as the voyage was delayed after stopping at Plymouth and Lisbon for repairs. Frustrations climaxed in Valparaiso for not only was McKay arrested and bailed out by the captain, but also he and John Thompson and John Hays stole a cutter and threatened the ship's officers (log of Nereide, 1, fo. 116-118). McKay apologized for his activities, forfeited his pay, and continued on with the voyage. After his arrival at Fort Vancouver on April 21, 1834 and a quick turnaround (as the vessel was not needed for coastal shipping), McKay left the Columbia River post on May 28, 1834 for an equally long return voyage. After stopping at Valparaiso, the vessel eventually arrived back in London May 28, 1835.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Nereide 1; ShMiscPap 14

McKay, James [2] (c. 1823 - ?) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Scotland, United Kingdom - c. 1823Death: probably Washington Territory*Fur trade employee

HBC Shepherd, Fort Vancouver depot (1847 - 1849); Shepherd, Fort Vancouver farm (1849 - 1851).

James McKay joined the HBC from Scotland in 1846 on a five year contract. He retired in 1851 and carried on transactions with the Company for two more years.

James McKay may have married Rachael Davis on August 25, 1853 in Washington County, Oregon.

PS: HBCA YFASA 27-32; FtVanASA 9; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Clark County; Spectator, Sep. 2, 1853, p. 3

McKay, Jean Amable (fl. 1813 - 1819) (possibly Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]Fur trade employee

NWC Devant, Fort George [Astoria] (1813 - 1814); Devant, Brigade to Fort William (1814); Untraced vocation, Pacific slopes (1816 - 1819).

Jean Amable McKay, who worked on the transcontinental brigades, was engaged by the NWC at Fort George in 1813 for three years. Because of his occupation, he appeared a number of times in the Columbia up to 1819 at which time he came with a group headed by Angus Bethune and P. S. Ogden.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 1, 2, 4, 10 PPS: Coues, p. 873

McKay, Jean Baptiste (c. 1823 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Rupert's Land, British North America - c. 1823Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Thompson River general charges (1838 - 1839); Middleman, Fort Colville (1842 - 1845); Boute, Fort Colville (1845 - 1846); Middleman, Fort Colville (1846 - 1847).

Jean Baptiste McKay was hired on within the Rupert's Land area and appears to have worked partly or been in the Southern Department although he was paid as though he was working in the Columbia.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 5-7; YFASA 23-26; YFDS 16

McKay, Jean Baptiste Depatie [variation: Depaty, Depoty, Desportes, Dupaty McKay] (c. 1793 - 1853) (Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly Lower Canada [Quebec] - c. 1793-99 (born to Jean Baptiste Depatie and a native Temiscaming woman)

Death: St. Louis, Oregon Territory - April 1853
Freeman

HBC Hunter, North West Company (1817 - 1821); Freeman, Fort George [Astoria] (1821 - 1823); Freeman hunter, Upper Willamette and Umpqua Country (1825); Freeman, McLeod's Umpqua Expedition (1826 - 1827); Trapper, South Party (1828 - 1831); Hunter, McLeod's Umpqua Expedition (1828); Settler, Willamette (1830 - 1831+); Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1831 - 1836); Untraced vocation, Willamette (1836 - 1842+).

The record of Jean Baptiste Depatie McKay is unclear but all accounts indicate that he was a genial, generous, hospitable man who had a lust for life. Even though American naval officer, William A. Slacum claimed in his 1836-1837 report that McKay (called Jean Baptiste Deshortez McRoy in the report) "came to the country with the American Fur Company in 1809" (Slacum, p. 193), no extant NWC or AMC records support this assertion. What is known for certain is that on September 20, 1817, Montreal J. G. Beek notarized the contract of a Jean Baptiste Depatie to work at the "cote ouest montagne a la roche" as a winterer for three years in the capacity as hunter. He likely did not leave for the west right away for in the following month he married a Nipissing woman at Oka. He may have been on the coast from 1817 but from 1822 he acted as a freeman hunter. For example, he hunted and collected specimens for the botanist David Douglas in 1826. He trapped on several expeditions into the central and southern Oregon/Umpqua area, and there is some dispute as to whether Old Fort McKay, the original site of Fort Umpqua, was named after Jean Baptiste Dupaty (McKay) who was in the area or Thomas McKay, but evidence suggests it was the latter. McKay settled in the Willamette about 1830-1831 and was also claimed to be "the first settler" (Slacum, p. 193) in the area. American John Ball wrote to his parents in September 15, 1833:

I boarded the first three months at J. B. Desportes, a half breed, whose family consisted of two wives, besides one absent, by all seven children, four or five slaves and two or three hired Indians, beside cats and dogs without number. All in habited one room in common (Ball, p. 103).

After he settled in the Willamette, he supplied the HBC with furs and grain. When he died on April 4, 1853 at St. Louis, Oregon, the records claimed he was sixty years old. After his death, his descendants gravitated back to the familiar territory of the Umpqua region.

The extent of Jean Baptiste Depaty (McKay)'s extended family is unclear. He may have had six or more wives/partners and a minimum of seven children. The earliest wife appears to have been Catherine Ochikabawike (c.1784-1834) a Nipissing native, whom he married, at l'Annonciation d'Oka on October 27, 1817, shortly after he was contracted to leave for the coast. Other wives/partners were an unnamed Calapouya woman (?-?), Marguerite, Indian (?-?), Catherine Tichailis/Chelhis (?-before 1839), Jany/Jenny/Jane/Eugenie Wanakske (Willamette) (c.1819-1851) and Catherine Saste (?-?). The various children were Marie Lisette (c.1823-c.1841), Agathe (c.1825-48), Françoise (1828-?), Jean Baptiste II (c.1830-?), Jean Baptiste III (c.1839-40), John/Jonathan (c.1836-1910) and Antoine (1841-?).

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 4, 10; FtVanASA 2-6; YFDS 3a-3b, 4b-6, 8, 10-11; YFASA 11-15; OHS 1850 US Census; Slacum; Ball, "Across" PPS: D. Douglas, Journal, p. 68-232; CCR 1a, 2a, 3a; Québécois in Orégon, p. 265-66 SS: Hussey, Champoege: Place of, p. 54-55; WHQ v. XXIV, p. 288-90

McKay, John [a] (c. 1811 - 1888) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Brawl, Halkirk, Caithness, Scotland - c. 1811

Death: Woodburn, Oregon, United States - 1888

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman and labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1831 - 1832); Middleman and labourer, Fort Colville (1832 - 1838); Post master, Fort of the Lakes (1838); Ploughman, Fort Colville (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Colville (1840 - 1841); Farmer, Fort Colville (1842 - 1847); Settler, Willamette (1847 - 1847); Farmer, Fort Colville (1847).

Also called "Rouge McKay" because of his flaming red hair, John McKay joined the HBC from Scotland on June 1, 1829. He sailed to the shores of Hudson Bay and began working in the Columbia area in 1830 in work that tended towards ploughing and farming. In 1838, he served as post master at the small, temporary supply depot of Fort of the Lakes. He retired on August 31, 1847 and settled in the Willamette River Valley where he raised a large family. He became a U.S. citizen on September 8, 1851 and spent his last years at Woodburn, Oregon, where he died and was buried.

John McKay had one wife and nine recorded children. On November 1, 1838 and again on May 20, 1849, he formalized his marriage to Josephite Boucher (c.1818-79). Their children were Isabelle (1837-?), William (1838-?), John (1839-?), Alexander (1848-), Charles (1850-?), Marie (1852-?), Felicite Marie Magdelain (1855-?), Josephine (1857-?), and Samuel (1859-?).

PS: HBCA HBCCont; FtVanASA 2-9; YFDS 4a-8, 18; YFASA 11-15, 19-20, 23-27; HBCABio PPS: CCR 1a, 3a, 3c SS: Genealogical Material in Oregon Donation Land Claims, p. 125
See Also: Boucher, Jean Baptiste [1] (Father-in-Law)

McKay, John [b] (c. 1812 - ?) (Canadian: English and French)

Birth: possibly St. Cuthbert, Lower Canada - c. 1812 (possibly born to Jean and Magdaleine McKay)

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1832 - 1833); F. Heron's servant, Fort Langley (1833 - 1834); Middleman or labourer, Fort Nisqually (1834 - 1835).

John McKay [b] who joined the HBC in 1832 as a middleman, appears have been of mixed English-French heritage for French was a working language for him. He worked part of the time as a servant for Mr. Heron until 1835, at which point he likely returned to St. Cuthbert.

He appears to have married Angelique dit LaRiviere on January 12, 1841. They had a son, Henry.

A letter from a friend, undelivered as it was addressed to "Monsieur Jhan Mkisse," (Beattie & Buss, p. 310) rests in the HBCA. It tells of McKay's attempt to send home moccasins for resale as well as gives family information.

PS: HBCA YFASA 12-14; YFDS 5a-5c PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 309-11

McKay, John [e or f] (fl. 1851 - 1852) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: St. Ola, Orkney, United Kingdom

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1851 - 1852).

John McKay [f] joined the HBC from Orkney in 1850 on a five year contract but deserted in 1852.

PS: HBCA YFASA 31-32; FtVanASA 9

McKay, Joseph William (1829 - 1900) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Rupert's House, Hudson Bay - January 31, 1829 (born to William McKay and Mary Bunn)

Death: Victoria, British Columbia - December 21, 1900

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Columbia Department general charges (1844 - 1845); Apprentice, Vancouver (barque) (1845 - 1847); Apprentice, Fort Victoria (1847 - 1848); Post master, Fort Victoria (1848 - 1849); Apprentice clerk, Fort Victoria (1849 - 1850); Clerk, Fort Victoria (1850 - 1851); Clerk, Fort Victoria (1851 - 1853); Clerk, Nanaimo (1853 - 1854); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1855 - 1856); Clerk, Fort Victoria (1856 - 1860); Chief Trader, Thompson River (1860 - 1865); Chief Trader, Fort Yale (1865 - 1869).

Joseph William McKay, born to a long line of fur traders and schooled at the Red River Academy, joined the HBC in 1844 coming to Fort Vancouver that year. After serving out his apprenticeship he moved to Fort Victoria where he lived in the fort's Bachelors Hall while carrying on his clerical duties. When he wasn't carrying on Indian trade in the shop, he acted as surgical assistant to J. S. Helmcken who praised his intelligence. In the evenings, at the dinner table in the Fort's mess room, young McKay would play student to Chief Factor James Douglas's stern patriarchal musings. From 1849, McKay's name became synonymous with early Nanaimo. In December, 1849 McKay was informed by a Nanaimo native of the existence of coal, a canoe load of which he brought to McKay the following spring. McKay and a party of prospectors went north to Wintuhuysen inlet [Nanaimo harbour], and found high quality coal, the first shaft for which was sunk in 1852. McKay's talents were many. He explored both Metchosin and Sooke as potential settlement sites, drew a map of the coastline of Southern Vancouver Island and scouted out the Cowitchan and Comox valleys to report on the character of the country. He helped manage the Vancouver Island Steam Saw Mill Company and supervised the building of the HBC Nanaimo Bastion which still stands today. Between 1855-1859 he was a member of the first legislative assembly of Vancouver Island representing the Victoria District. Later, in 1865, he explored the area from Kamloops to Tete Jaune Cache for the purpose of setting up a telegraph line. Finally, on November 30, 1878, he was dismissed from the HBC over a matter of his personal and the Company accounts. McKay always had an interest in aboriginal rights, which he defended against the Canadian Pacific Railway. He set up an industrial school near Kamloops and, to prevent the spread of smallpox, personally inoculated thirteen-hundred natives against the disease. On November 1, 1883 he joined the Indian Department of the federal government, a position which he held until his death in Victoria in 1900.

Joseph William McKay had one wife and six recorded children. On June 14, 1860, a licence was issued for the marriage of Joseph William McKay and Helen Holmes (c.1840-1914). They were married two days later. Their children were William Drake (1861-1914), Agnes Mary (1863-1946), Kenneth Mouat (1864-1891). Liliás Mabel (1870-1951), Gertrude Helen (1873-1952) and Aline Catherine (1880-1952). Wife Helen [Holmes] McKay died on February 19, 1914 in Victoria and was buried there.

McKay Point on Newcastle Island, Nanaimo and McKay Reach on Princess Royal Island were named after Joseph William McKay. Nelly Point, on McKay Reach, was named after Helen as was Helen point, Mayne Island, Active Pass.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-25, 27-32; log of Vancouver [3] 2; FtVicASA 1-16, 26; FtAlexCB 1; BCA BCGR-CrtR-AbstLnd; BCGR-VICSMarriageL; HBCA Joseph William McKay search file PPS: HBRS XXXII, p. xviii, lxiii, xcivn; Helmcken, p. 82-83, 126, 126n1, 139, 141, 280, 283, 286, 287, 291, 333, 334; Beattie & Buss, p. 340-42 SS: Walbran, p. 237, 328-330; P. M. Johnson, A Short History of, p. 9-11

McKay, Kenneth (Kenny) (1806 - 1840) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: probably in or near Trinegan (?), Sandwick, Orkney - 1806 (born to James and Anna [McLeod] McKay)

Death: Pillar Rock, lower Columbia River, Pacific Northwest – August 15, 1840

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1828); Seaman, Fort Vancouver (1828 - 1831); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1830 - 1831); Sailor, Fort Vancouver (1831 - 1837); Sailor, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1838); Landsman, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1838); Labourer, Fort George [Astoria] (1838 - 1839); Sloop, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1839 - 1840).

The son of an Orkney school teacher, Kenneth McKay spent twelve years in the fur trade before meeting an untimely end. In 1821 Kenneth was a fifteen year old farm hand working for farmer Thomas Tyrie at "Goldgarth" in the Sandwick area. Likely for reasons of adventure or a desire to acquire some capital, seven years later on January 21, 1828, twenty-two year old McKay signed on with the HBC as a sailor for five years. He sailed to Hudson Bay six months later, made his way overland and worked in the Columbia River area for the next twelve years. His career was brought to an abrupt end around August 15, 1840 at the relatively young age of thirty-three or thirty-four, when he was killed during a robbery by natives during the night at Pillar Rock on the Lower Columbia. W. F. Tolmie and M. Laframboise headed the punitive expedition and Lamframboise's party eventually shot a slave who had killed McKay. A few days later, the group publicly hanged a free native at Fort George in the presence of his relations; the man had been turned in by his chief for stabbing McKay and killing his native companion. As McKay's internment does not appear on church records, he was likely buried on the spot.

Kenneth McKay's Pacific Northwest family life is not entirely clear although he appears to have had one wife and two recorded daughters. His wife appears to have died four years after his own premature death. According to the Herbert Beaver baptismal records, his wife was named Isabella Chlindotelchlaa but the Catholic baptismal records name her as Elizabeth (and still later as Nancy). Whatever the case may be, McKay and Elizabeth (Nancy), Chinook (c.1819-44[?]) are recorded as having had two daughters - Elizabeth/Betsy (c.1836-1848[?]) and Marguerite (c.1837-?).

PS: OrkA 1821 U.K. Census, Orkney-Sandwick; HBCA log of Prince Rupert IV 2; HBCCont; YFASA 9, 11-15, 19-20; YFDS 4a-5a, 5c, 7, 11; FtVanASA 2-5; FtVanCB 27; BCA BCCR CCCath PPS: CCR 1b

McKay, Malcolm (c. 1823 - 1908) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Barvas, Ross, Island of Lewis, Scotland - c. 1823

Death: Scappoose, Oregon - June 1908

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1842 - 1843); Trader, Fort Vancouver depot (1843); Trader, Fort Vancouver depot (1846 - 1847); Trader and labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1847 - 1849).

Malcolm McKay joined the HBC from Scotland on June 26, 1841, embarking on either the Prince of Wales or Prince Albert for York Factory. He likely wintered in North Saskatchewan before reaching the Columbia. McKay then spent the rest of his career, latterly as a trader, at Fort Vancouver and, on March 1, 1849 left for the promising gold fields of California, accompanied by the cryptic entry, "gone to California." After he returned, McKay married, settled a land claim at Scappoose, Oregon [N.W. of Portland], became a citizen on Aug. 27, 1855 and fought in the early Indian Wars. He died in June, 1908 at the home of his daughter, Sarah, in Scappoose.

Malcolm McKay had one wife and thirteen children. On December 23 or 27, 1853, he married Iowa born Lucinda Lamberson (1837-1885). Eight of their thirteen children were Norman (?-?), James (?-?), Edwin (?-?), Robert (?-?), William McKay (?-?), Mary (?-?), Sarah (?-?) and Emma (?-?).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 7-8; YFASA 23-25, 27-28; YFDS 19; HBCABio; OHS SB #77, p. 5 PPS: Genealogical Material in Oregon Donation Land Claims, p. 93

McKay, Murdoch (fl. 1831 - 1839) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Ross, Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Colville (1832 - 1834); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1834 - 1836); Middleman, Fort Umpqua (1836 - 1837); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1839).

Murdoch McKay joined the HBC from Scotland on June 9, 1831 and returned to the British Isles in 1839 on the Prince Rupert.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 12-15, 18-19; YFDS 5a-7; FtVanASA 3-5

McKay, Philip (c. 1809 - 1845) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Crawlestay, Uig, Ross, Scotland - c. 1809

Death: probably Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - June 28, 1845

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1832); Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1833 - 1834); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1834 - 1835); Middleman and labourer, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1835 - 1836); Middleman or labourer, Fort George [Astoria] (1836 - 1837); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Fort Nisqually sheep farm (1838 - 1839); Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1838); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1839 - 1840); Sloop and middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1842); Dairyman, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1842); Dairyman, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1845).

Philip McKay joined the HBC from the outer Hebrides on June 20, 1832 as a labourer, originally for five years. Six days later he sailed from Stornaway for York Factory. From there he made his way to the Columbia. He worked for thirteen years for the HBC, mainly in the lower Columbia Department, and once sailed to California on the Nereide. He died in 1845 - most likely at Fort Vancouver.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Prince Rupert IV 6; YFASA; 13-15, 19-20, 23-25; YFDS 5b-7, 9, 16; FtVanASA 3-7; ShMiscPap 14

McKay, Thomas [variation: MacKay] (1796 - c. 1850) (Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly English River [Saskatchewan] - 1796 (born to Alexander McKay and Alexander McKay and Marguerite Wadin)

Death: Scapoose, Oregon - c. April 1850

Fur trade employee

PFC Clerk, Fort George [Astoria] (1811 - 1813); NWC Interpreter, Willamette House (winter 1813 - 1814); Cartographer, Umpqua (1820); HBC Clerk, Columbia Department (1821 - 1823); Clerk, Fort George [Astoria] (1823 - 1824); Clerk, Fort George [Astoria] (1824 - 1825); Clerk, Fort Nez Percés (Walla Walla) (1824); Clerk, Snake Party (1825 - 1827); Clerk, Columbia Department (1827 - 1828); Clerk, South Party (1828 - 1830); Clerk, Snake Party (1830 - 1831); Clerk, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1831 - 1832); Clerk, Fort Vancouver (1832 - 1833); In charge, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1833 - 1834); Settler, Willamette (1833 - 1833); Clerk in charge, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1834 - 1835); Trapper and clerk, Snake Party (1835 - 1837); Clerk (trading at Rendezvous), Snake Party (1837 - 1839); Untraced vocation, Fort Hall (1837 - 1838); Settler, Willamette (1839 - 1840); Passenger to Monterey, Columbia (barque) (1840); Member, Willamette Valley cattle drive (1841).

A part-Saulteau metis who was baptised in the Scotch Presbyterian Church at Williamstown, Glengarry on November 9, 1804, Thomas McKay eventually became feared by the native peoples west of the Rockies. As a fourteen year old he came with his father to the Columbia on the PFC vessel Tonquin. The subsequent death of his father on the Tonquin left young Thomas an embittered man for the rest of his life, and he swore vengeance against those who had killed him. Two years later, when the NWC took over Fort Astoria, young Thomas was appointed interpreter and clerk. As a youth, he perfected his shooting and hunting, but overindulged in racing, and using up company provisions and liquor. Even though he had a lame left leg from a dislocated knee which never properly healed, he evoked fear in the natives as he often sought his own form of punitive judgement against them. His mother's marriage to Dr. John McLoughlin certainly did not hurt his position and he was sent to oppose the Americans in the Snake Country, building Fort Boise in the process. Even though he retired to the Willamette Valley in 1833, he returned to service, and sold pork and grain from his farm to the HBC. Around 1839 he constructed a two story grist mill in Champoege while still maintaining a claim at Scapoose, opposite Sauvie Island. In 1843 the mill was flooded to the 2nd storey but did not suffer damage. He also owned a sawmill. Following the Whitman Massacre in 1847, he took part in the Cayuse War. In the Muster Rolls of 1848, he was listed as a captain in D. 7th Company. He led a waggon train, organized by Peter Burnet, to the California Gold Rush, returning November 18, 1849. He did not live long after, for he died sometime before April 19, 1850 and he was buried in the fields of his claim near Scapoose.

Thomas McKay was married twice and had a total of eight children. His first wife was the eldest daughter of Concomely, a Chinook chief. He had three sons by her, William C. (1824-?), Aleck (?-?) and John (?-?). At Fort Vancouver on December 31, 1838, he married Isabelle, the daughter of Nicholas Montour and Susanne Humpherville. Together they had five recorded children, Marie (1839-?), Thomas (1842-?), Catherine (1844-?), Elizabeth/Isabelle (c.1846-49) and Nicholas (1849-?).

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10; NWCAB 9, 10; HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 11-12; YFASA 1-6, 8-9, 11-15, 17-19; SnkCoP] 2; FtVanASA 1-5; YFDS 3a-3b, 4b-8, 10-11; SimpsonCB; D.4/5, [neglect of duties at Nez Perces] fos. 25d.-27d; OHS FtHallAB; Oregonian, April 12, 1888 PPS: HBRS XXX, p. 221-22; CCR 1a, 2a, 3a; Portland Oregon Journal, Oct 13, 1927, p. 10; Victor, The Early Indian Wars, p. 514 SS: HBRS IV, p. 347-49; HBRS XXX, p. 221-22n; OHQ vol. XL, p. 1-15
See Also: McKay, Alexander (Father); McKay, Dr. William (Son)

McKenzie, Alexander [2] (c. 1794 - 1828) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Inverness, Scotland - c. 1794 (born to John McKenzie)

Death: Hood Canal [Washington] - January 1828

Fur trade employee

NWC Clerk, Isaac Todd (ship) (1814); Surgeon, Fort George [Astoria] (1820 - 1821); Trader, Fort George [Astoria] (1820 - 1821); HBC Surgeon, Fort George [Astoria] (1821 - 1825); Clerk, William & Ann (brig) (1825 - 1827); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1827); Clerk, Fort Langley (1827 - 1828).

Alexander McKenzie entered the NWC as an apprentice clerk in 1812; he made an appearance in the records on April 24, 1814 aboard the Isaac Todd as it was anchored near Fort Astoria. From 1820 he was stationed at Fort George [Astoria]. In 1825 he was sent by John McLoughlin aboard the William & Ann to search for harbours between Portland Canal and the Columbia River. On December 2, 1827, he left for Fort Langley with dispatches arriving December 24. He departed Langley for Fort Vancouver on January 3, 1828 and on his way was killed for his clothes and arms by the Clallam Indians on the Hood Canal (Washington). A native woman who had been part of the HBC party was taken prisoner. In retaliation, an unauthorized punitive expedition was led by Chief Trader Alexander R. McLeod in the summer of that year. Twenty-two Indians were killed and their village was burned - the Indian woman was recaptured. McKenzie's estate was administered by John McKenzie.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 9; HBCA FtGeoAB 11; YFASA 1-6; YFDS 2-3; FtVanASA 1; HBCABio PPS: ChSoc LVII, p. 729-30; HBRS vol. III, p. 447, vol. XXII, p. 475-76

McKenzie, Alexander [3] [variation: MacKenzie] (fl. 1826 - 1829) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Greenoch, Scotland

Maritime officer

HBC 2nd mate, Cadboro (schooner) (1826 - 1828); Carpenter, Cadboro (schooner) (1826 - 1828); Mate, Eagle (brig) (1828 - 1829).

Alexander McKenzie joined the HBC in London on September 20, 1826 and sailed to the coast on the Cadboro. The weather on the coast, where he arrived in the spring of 1827, could not have helped his rheumatism. Consequently, on June 10, 1828, he asked for and was granted an exchange for a man aboard the Eagle and returned to the British Isles on February 18, 1829.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 4; log of Cadboro 1; FtVanASA 1, 8; YFDS 2b,3a; FtVanCB 4; log of Eagle 1

McKenzie, Benjamin (c. 1807 - 1837) (Mixed descent)

Birth: British North America - c. 1807 (born to CF Roderick McKenzie)

Death: Honolulu, Oahu, Hawaiian Islands - December 19, 1837

Fur trade employee

HBC Post master/Clerk, Fort St. James (1831 - 1832); Clerk, New Caledonia (1832 - 1834); Clerk, Fort Vancouver general charges (1834 - 1835); Clerk, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1837); Clerk, Honolulu (1837).

Benjamin Mackenzie once claimed he was related "to all or the greatest part of the Lake Nipigon Indians" (HBRS III, p. 447) but died in distant Hawaii far from his relatives. Educated in Montreal, he helped his father in the Lake Superior District for two years, and joined the HBC as post master in 1827 and was transferred to New Caledonia in 1831; in 1833 he was promoted to clerk. His last posting was at Fort Vancouver but, because of advancing tuberculosis, he left for the Sandwich Islands [Hawaii] in 1837 and died in Honolulu that same year.

Benjamin McKenzie had one wife, Catherine Campbell (?-?) whom he married in Fort Vancouver on February 28, 1837. Together they had two recorded sons, Colin Campbell (?-bap.1837-?) and Benjamin (?-bap.1837-?). After Benjamin died, his widow, Catherine, daughter of Chief Trader Colin Campbell, married William Clouston of the Red River Settlement.

PS: HBCA YFDS 4b-7; YFASA 11-15, 17-18; FtVanASA 3-4; SimpsonCB; BCA BCCR CCCath; HMCS SReynoldsJ PPS: HBRS III, p. 447-48; HBRS XXX, p. 233

McKenzie, Donald (1773 - 1851) (British: Scottish)

Birth: near Inverness, Scotland - June 16, 1773

Death: Mayville, New York, United States - January 20, 1851

Fur trade officer

PFC Partner, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (1810 - 1812); Partner, Donald McKenzie's Outpost (1812); Proprietor, Fort George [Astoria] (1812 - 1813); NWC Employee, Columbia District (1813 - 1821); Founder, Fort Nez Percés (1818) (with Alexander Ross); Founder, Fort Boise (1820); Chief Factor, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822).

At 312lbs, fearless, and a constant walker with unbounded energy (thus called "Perpetual Motion" and "Fat McKenzie"), Donald McKenzie nonetheless had a thirty-four year career in the fur trade. A cousin of Sir Alexander Mackenzie, Donald emigrated to Canada in 1800 and the following year joined the NWC as a clerk. On June 23, 1810 after becoming disgruntled with the NWC, he joined the PFC, recruiting men in Montreal and Mackinac. He shared command with Wilson Price Hunt until the winter camp of 1810-1811 and after splitting with the group and suffering a hard journey, McKenzie dragged himself into Fort Astoria on January 18, 1812, dressed in nothing but tattered rags, a full month before Hunt arrived. From there he made a trapping foray into the Snake River area but on hearing the news of the outbreak of the war in 1812, he buried PFC trade goods, burned the post, and returned to Astoria. Fearing a seizure by the British, McKenzie persuaded his PFC to sell out to the NWC. After the buyout of 1813, McKenzie left Astoria on April 14, 1814 to return to New York with the transfer papers but Astor would have nothing more to do with him. McKenzie became a partner with the NWC. In 1816 he returned to the Columbia to take charge of all the posts in the interior and laid the basis for future Snake Parties establishing Forts Nez Percés and Boise. He managed the trade in the region until 1821, continuing his employment under the HBC as Chief Factor and departed the area in 1822. Working east of the Rockies he put in eight years as Governor of Assiniboia and in 1833, under medical leave, he went to Mayville, New York where he retired. In 1850 he fell from his horse, never fully recovered, and died the following year.

Donald McKenzie married twice and had sixteen children. His first marriage was to an unnamed mixed descent woman, probably Mary McKay, daughter of Alexander McKay and Marguerite Wadin McKay (Van Kirk, 277[n16]); together they had Rachel (?-bap.1822-?), Donald (?-bap.1825-?) and Caroline (?-bap.1822-?). McKenzie dropped Mary when he became governor of Assiniboia in 1825 (Van Kirk, 180) and Mary was married off to William Sinclair Jr. His second marriage was to Swiss-born Adelgonde Humbert Droz (?-1882) on August 18, 1825. She had been the governess of his three children. Together they had thirteen children: Jemina (1827-1926), Catherine (?-?), Roderick (?-bap.1830-?), Noel Simpson (1831-?), Fenella (?-?), Alexander (?-?), Alice (?-?), Henry (?-?), William (?-?), Donald (1836-?), Adelgonde (?-?), Celeste (?-?) and Humbertson (?-?).

Oregon sites McKenzie River, McKenzie Bridge and McKenzie Pass were all named after Donald McKenzie.

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria; HBCA NWCAB 10; HBCABio PPS: ChSoc vol. XLV, p. 16, 17, 24, 43-44, 21, 108-12, 115-19, 128, 131, 145, 151, 155, 162, 166, 173, 183, 193-94; vol LVII, 1992, p. 616, 161n, 633, 698, 709; HBS-Bak Astor PPS: HBSR II, p. 233
SS: Seton, "Life on the Oregon." Oregon Historical, p. 188-198 SS: HBSR XXII, p. 477; DAB Drumm; DCB Van Kirk; Mackenzie; Van Kirk, "Many Tender Ties", p. 180, 199, 277(n16)
See Also: Leblanc, Pierre (Relative); McKay, Alexander (Father-in-Law); Sinclair, William Jr. (Relative)

McKenzie, Donald Jr. [a] (1787 - 1865) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Fodderty, Ross and Cromarty, Scotland - 1787

Death: East of the Rocky Mountains - July 21, 1865

Fur trade employee

HBC Clerk, New Caledonia (1821 - 1834); Clerk, New Caledonia (1824); Clerk in charge, Fort Fraser (1834 - 1836).

Prior to entering the fur trade, Donald McKenzie Jr. had been a Lieutenant in the British army where, according to George Simpson, he had been forced to sell his commission (HBSR XXX. p. 221). In 1818 he joined the HBC and between 1818-1831 served at six posts east of the Rockies, although, in 1824, he worked in New Caledonia. Although Simpson had reservations about him, John Stuart found him to be an honourable, hard working performer. In 1836 he returned east of the Rockies and between 1836-1850 served in four more posts, including Lac La Pluie. In 1850 Donald McKenzie Jr. retired and in 1865, died intestate.

In October 1836, Donald McKenzie married Matilda (1810-?), the daughter of Benjamin Bruce and Matilda, a native woman. Together they had eight children: James Bruce (?-bap.1825-?), Mary (1828-1904), Benjamin (1839-1871), Malhilda (Matilda?) (1836-?), David (c.1843-?), Ann (?-?), John (c.1845-?) and Roderick (c.1847-?).

PS: HBCA McLlkrD 1; YFASA 11-15; FtVanASA 3; SimpsonCB; HBCABio PPS: HBSR XXX, p. 221

McKenzie, Ferdinand (fl. 1847 - 1886) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Rupert's Land, British North America

Death: probably New Caledonia, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice clerk, New Caledonia (1847 - 1848); Apprentice clerk, Fraser Lake (1848); Apprentice clerk, New Caledonia (1848 - 1850); Apprentice clerk, Fraser Lake (1849 - 1850); Clerk, Fraser Lake (1850 - 1853); Clerk, McLeod Lake Post (1853 - 1855); Clerk, Fort Alexandria (1855? - 1860); Clerk, McLeod Lake Post (1860 - 1866); Clerk, New Caledonia (1866 - 1886).

Ferdinand McKenzie joined the HBC from Rupert's Land in 1845 and worked in New Caledonia until outfit 1886-1887. During this time, he worked at a variety of posts and, according to Morice, was moved from Fort Alexandria for incompetence. McKenzie endured, however, and retired after working approximately forty years for the HBC.

PS: HBCA YFASA 27-32; FtVicASA 1-16, 34; FtVicCB 18, 22-23, 27 SS: Morice, The History of, p. 276

McKenzie, George (c. 1820 - 1893) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Red River Settlement [Manitoba] - c. 1820

Death: Rowe's Farm, Parson's Bridge [Esquimalt], British Columbia - October 31, 1893

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice carpenter, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); Native apprentice, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1842); Carpenter, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1843); Carpenter, Fort Vancouver saw mills (1843 - 1844); Carpenter, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1846); Millwright, Fort Vancouver (1846 - 1847); Millwright, Fort Colville (1847 - 1849); Millwright, Fort Victoria (1849 - 1859).

The origins of George McKenzie, from Red River, are not entirely clear but, at nineteen, he joined the HBC in 1839 as an apprentice carpenter. By 1846, he was no doubt working with John Fenton constructing an additional Company sawmill and flour mill at Willamette Falls. The following year he went to Fort Colville where he worked with James Goudie. In 1849, when he was called to Fort Victoria to replace Fenton, he took his wife with him. Prior to McKenzie's arrival in the Fort Victoria area, Fenton had finished constructing a sawmill and had had framed out a flour mill in Esquimalt [Rowe's stream or Millstream] but, in April, 1849, had decided to try his luck in the California gold mines and so departed the area. After their arrival at Esquimalt, the McKenzies took up residence near the mills and remarried, this time in the church, under the Rev. Staines. When the parts for the grist mill were secured, McKenzie no doubt then completed the flour mill. Four years later, in 1854-1855, when heavy rains damaged both mills, McKenzie had to rebuild them. He may have had some help from his father-in-law and family, for, after having left Colville in 1852, Goudie and family moved in with the McKenzies on their farm near the mills. The records are unclear as to how long George McKenzie continued to work at the mills. In 1854, he went to Nanaimo for a short time to oversee the construction of the sawmill there. In the 1850s and 1860s he purchased land, which he later subdivided in the Victoria and Esquimalt Districts. From that point on he appeared to rely mainly on farming, as for, example, in 1871, he may have been employed by a Mr. Leon Eckstein, owner of a hotel and store in South Saanich. He was still living on his farm when he died in October, 1893.

George McKenzie had one wife and three children. On September 23, 1849 at Fort Victoria, George McKenzie married Sarah Goudie (?-?). Their children were Donald (?-bap.1851-?), James (?-?) and Matilda (?-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 19-20, 22-32; FtVanASA 6-7; FtVicASA 1-9; FtVicCB 10; HBCABio; BCA BCGR-AbstLnd; Diar-Rem Lowe 1; BCCR CCCath; Deans, J., "Settlement of Vancouver Island"; Van-PL Colonist, October 31, 1893, p. 3 PPS: HBRs XXXII, p. 25-26; Mallandaine, p. 26; James Goudie family genealogy

McKenzie, Hector (fl. 1853 - 1855) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Munlochy, Knock bayne, Ross, Scotland

Death: probably Canada East

Fur trade officer

HBC Chief Factor, Fort Vancouver sundries accounts (1853 - 1854).

Hector McKenzie joined the HBC as a clerk on June 17, 1833 and sailed from Orkney to Hudson Bay on the Prince Rupert IV. He worked his way up through the ranks and, by 1853-1854, Chief Factor Hector McKenzie was most likely a visitor when he appeared on the Fort Vancouver sundries accounts. By 1855 he was listed as being in Montreal.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Prince Rupert IV 7; FtVanASA 9, 11

McKenzie, Patrick (fl. 1841 - 1852) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Rupert's Land, British North America

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

HBC Post master, Thompson River (1835 - 1845); Apprentice post master, Fort Colville (1841 - 1844); Post master, Fort Colville (1844 - 1845); Interpreter, Fort Colville (1851 - 1852).

Patrick McKenzie was hired on by the HBC in 1839 and first served as apprentice post master in the Saskatchewan

District. He came to Columbia in 1841 and, on December 31, 1845, after having served at two posts, was discharged at Fort Vancouver. He appears to have re-enlisted again, this time as an interpreter, and retired in 1852.

PS: HBCA YFASA 31-32; FtVanASA 6-9, 19; YFASA 22, 24-25; YFDS 16 PPS: ChSoc VII, p. 45n

McKinlay, Archibald (c. 1816 - 1891) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Killin, Perthshire, Scotland - c. June 4, 1811

Death: Savona, British Columbia - October 3, 1891

Fur trade officer

HBC Apprentice clerk, New Caledonia (1835 - 1840); Clerk, Snake Party (1840 - 1841); Clerk in charge, Fort Nez Perces [Walla Walla] (1841 - 1846); Chief Trader in charge, Oregon District (1846 - 1850).

Archibald McKinlay came to Canada with his sister (wife of James McMillan) intending to return to Scotland. The first three years were spent east of the Rockies but in 1835 he was sent west where he was to spend the rest of his life. A big man with a red face, he appeared to have an eyesight problem which was the reason he moved from Walla Walla to Oregon City in 1846. He took leave of absence and tried to go to England in 1849 but because of the California Gold Rush, could not get a passage to Panama; as well, because of the high prices for lodging in San Francisco, he returned to Oregon City. By 1850, as a merchant he had acquired considerable assets worth $35,000 (1850 US Census). He retired because of illness in 1851 and became a U.S. citizen on March 5, 1852 in Oregon City. In 1851 he joined G.T. Allan and Thomas Lowe under Allan, McKinlay & Co., a company which operated until it dissolved in 1863. Ruined by the floods of 1860-1861, McKinlay left Oregon in 1862 to farm in Lac La Hache, British Columbia, an area which reminded him of the Perthshire hills of his native Scotland. Even though he made application to record 160 acres [64.8 ha] on October 8, 1862, it was not entered and so he later had to acquire another 160 acres [64.8 ha], but this 115 Mile House became a stopping place for the BX Express. In 1876, McKinlay was appointed British Columbia's representative on the Indian Commission, which he continued to do until ill health and virtual blindness in 1889 forced him to move to Savona to live with his son-in-law. Both he and his wife spent the last years of their lives in the home of their daughter, Sarah, at Savona's Ferry at the end of Lake Kamloops. Archibald McKinlay died in 1891 at Savona.

Archibald McKinlay had one wife and nine children. On June 15, 1840, he married Sarah Julia Ogden (1826-86), daughter of Peter Skene Ogden and Julia Rivet. Their children were Eleanora J. (?-?), Peter (?-1850), James (1846-89), Janette (c.1847-59), Sarah Ellen (1851-98), Ogden Allen (c.1852-1908), Catherine Ann (1856-94), Archibald I. (c. 1858-?), and Ewan Duncan (1864-?). Sarah Julia Ogden McKinlay died c. August 4, 1892 after an accident in a carriage.

PS: HBCA YFASA 15, 17-20, 24-29; YFDS 6-7; FtVanASA 3-8, 14; SimpsonCB; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Clackamas County; BCA Diar-Rem Lowe 1; BCGR-BCVS; KamA Forbes; Kamloops Sentinel, Oct. 4, 1891, Aug. 6, 1892; UBC-SC Hamilton PPS: Lyman, "Reminiscences of Louis", p. 265; OHQ, vol. XII, p. 369-74; OHS SB #226a; OHS Argus, July 26, 1856, p. 3; OHS Statesman, Mar. 15, 1859, p. 3; HBRS VI, p. 394-95; HBRS XXX p. 229; Genealogical Material, vol II, #3289, p. 41 SS: KamA Forbes; Laing, p. 287, 303; Stangoe, p. 89; BCA Ogden family tree, typescript in Vertical Files
See Also: Ogden, Peter Skene (Father-in-Law); Ogden, Peter Jr. (Relative); Flathead, Julia (Mother-in-Law); Hamilton, Gavin (Relative); Ogden, Charles (Relative); Ogden, Isaac (Relative); Ogden, Michael (Relative)

McLachlan, Robert (fl. 1827 - 1829) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Eagle (brig) (1827 - 1829).

Robert McLachlan joined the HBC naval department as a boatswain on September 3, 1827 and made the round trip from London to Fort Vancouver and back again on a supply trip. His vessel sailed from London on September 14, 1827, arrived at Fort Vancouver on May 28, 1828, and arrived at the London docks on February 13, 1829. McLachlan was discharged the following day.

PS: HBCA log of Eagle 1

McLacn, Daniel (fl. 1851 - 1852) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Ordinary seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1851 - 1852).

Daniel McLacn made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

McLaren, John (fl. 1837 - 1838) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime officer

HBC 2nd mate, Sumatra (barque) (1837 - 1838).

John McLaren came to the coast on the HBC chartered ship Sumatra. He left England in February 1837 and, in August, arrived in Oahu where he overstayed his shore leave by two days. He spent about a month at Fort Vancouver and arrived back in London in April 1838.

PS: log of Sumatra 1

McLaughlin, James [variation: McLoughlin] (fl. 1839 - 1841) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Boatswain, Vancouver (barque) (1839 - 1841).

James McLoughlin joined the HBC in London on October 29, 1838, and made one return voyage to the coast aboard the HBC barque Vancouver. While on the coast visited several ports and he was back in London in the spring of 1841.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 11; YFASA 19-20; YFDS 10-11; FtVanASA 6

McLean, Donald [c] (c. 1805 - 1864) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Isle of Mull, Scotland - c. 1805 (born to Alexander and Christina McLean)

Death: Chilcotin area, British Columbia - July 17, 1864

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Nereide (barque) (1833 - 1834); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1834 - 1835); Post master, Snake Party (1835 - 1839); Clerk, Fort Colville (1839 - 1841); Post master, New Caledonia (1841 - 1844); Clerk, New Caledonia (1844 - 1852); Chief Trader, Fort Alexandria (1852 - 1854); Chief Trader in charge, Thompson River (1855); Chief Trader, Columbia Department (1857 - 1860).

Donald McLean may have been taken as a child in 1812 by his Selkirk settler parents to the Red River area. If his father was indeed Alexander McLean, his father was killed in the Seven Oaks Massacre in 1816 and young Donald returned to Scotland in 1817 with his widowed mother, brothers and sisters.

Sixteen years later, on April 17, 1833, young Donald signed on with the HBC and came out as passenger on the barque Nereide [J. M. Langtry] reaching Fort Vancouver on April 21, 1834. In the 1840s and 1850s he worked at the particularly difficult posts of Chilcotin and Fluz Kluz. However, throughout his long career with the HBC, he left a trail of heavy-handedness, a condition that his superiors appeared to overlook. McLean retired around 1860 to the junction of Hat and Bonaparte Creeks with his six foot [183 cm] native wife, Sophia, and their many children. There, along with a ranch, they built a restaurant to service miners on their way to the Caribou goldfields. In 1864, he came out of retirement from his ranch north of Kamloops to join the 1864 expedition to avenge the deaths of the Waddington massacre perpetrated by Chilcotin natives. On the morning of July 17th he was shot by Anukatlh, a Chilcotin who was never apprehended. Later, Anukatlh justified his action by declaring that he was avenging McLean's past harshness to the Chilcotin natives. In the late 1870s as McLean had not properly pre-empted the land on which his ranch and restaurant stood, Sophia lost the ranch and the family broke up. Although the subsequent descendants have gone on to prosper and flourish, three of his sons - Allen, Charlie and Archie - were hanged in 1881 after they went on a murderous rampage.

Donald McLean had three known wives and eleven known children. Shortly after his arrival in the Columbia Department, he took Ali, Spokane, as a wife and together they had Donald Jr. (c.1834-?), Elizabeth (?-c.1857), Duncan (?-?) and Alexander of Black Pines (c.1844-?). When he moved north, he and an unnamed Babine woman had John (c.1847-?). His third and final wife was Sophia Grant (?-?), whom he married in 1854 at Fort Alexandria. Their children were Hector (c.1854-?), Allen (c. 1855-1881), Christina (c.1856-?), Annie (c.1861-?), Charlie (c.1861-1881) and Peter Arthur "Archie" (c.1863-81).

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Nereide 1; YFASA 14-15, 17-20, 24-32; YFDS 5c-7; FtVanASA 3-8; FtVicCB 6; FtVicASA 1-9; FtAlexPJ 10; HBCA Donald McLean search file; BCA BCCR StAndC SS: Laing, p. 336-37, 352; Morice, p. 109, 175, 179, 221-22, 267-73, 288, 318-19; Rothenburger, p. 3-18, 111

McLean, John [c] (1798 - 1890) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Dervaig, Island of Mull, Scotland - July 24, 1798

Death: Victoria, British Columbia - March 8, 1890

Fur trade employee

HBC Clerk, Stuart's Lake (1833 - 1835); Clerk, Fort Alexandria (1835 - 1836); Clerk, Fort George [New Caledonia]

(1836 - 1837).

John McLean, a tall lean man, received a grammar school education in Scotland before joining the HBC in 1821. When he came to the Pacific slopes he worked exclusively in New Caledonia for about three years. He then moved east of the Rockies where he was promoted to Chief Trader. In 1846 he resigned after a dispute with George Simpson and four years later, published his memoirs, a two volume document that showed a bias against the HBC but is a good account of the fur trade, particularly in New Caledonia. However, according to Morice, John McLean was:

among the Company's people, the only author who had ever written, from a personal knowledge, about New Caledonia. As regards veracity, impartiality, keenness of mind in observing and sureness of judgement, John McLean is vastly inferior to Harmon, who having no grudge against anybody, was not exposed to see his statements warped by the influence of personal feeling (Morice, p. 168).

He tried banking and from 1851-1855, managed the Guelph branch of the Bank of Montreal but when money could not be accounted for, he was removed from his job and had to open a grocery business. From 1857 and for the next twenty years, he worked as clerk of Division Court in Elora, Ontario. In 1883, McLean moved to Victoria to live with his eldest daughter where he died at the advanced age of ninety. John McLean was buried in the Presbyterian Section, Ross Bay Cemetery.

John McLean had two wives, one with whom he partnered at Norway House in 1833 but who died in Ungava within a year of marriage. Around 1845, he married Eugenia Evans (?-c.1858), the daughter of a missionary at Norway House and together they had five children.

Publication: McLean, John, Notes of a Twenty Five Year's Service in the Hudson's Bay Territory, Vol. I & II, Richard Bentley, London, 1949
PS: HBCA YFASA 13-15; YFDS 5b-5c, 7; FtVanASA 3-4; SimpsonCB; PPS: McLean, Notes; HBRs XXX, p. 223; ChSoc XIX, pp. xi-xxiii; SS: Morice, The History of the Northern Interior, p. 168-69, 193, 268; Marsh, James, Canadian Encyclopedia, p. 1063

McLean, John [d] (fl. c. 1813 - 1849) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Bendorril, Uig, Ross, Scotland - c. 1813

Death: probably Oregon Territory - 1849

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1832); Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1834 - 1835); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1836); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1836 - 1837); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1839); Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1841 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1842 - 1844); Labourer, Columbia Department general charges (1844 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1846 - 1847); Labourer, Columbia Department (1847 - 1848).

John McLean joined the HBC from Scotland on June 20, 1832 and soon sailed for York Factory. By 1834 he was in the Columbia and appears to have spent much of his sixteen year career at Fort Vancouver. In outfit 1847-1848, he was noted as being "free in the Willamette" and his wages for that outfit reflected only part-time work. In 1849, in Clatsop County (Oregon) he was noted as having no occupation, but he had HBC connections.

It appears that John McLean had one wife, Betsy, Chehalis, and three recorded children. Their children were Marguerite (1839-?), Augustin (1842-?) and Marie (1845-?).

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Prince Rupert IV 6; YFASA 13-15, 20, 22-27; YFDS 5c, 7; FtVanASA 3-7; OHS 1849 Census, Clatsop Co. PPS: CCR 1a, 1b

McLennan, Donald [1] [variation: McLellan, MacLenon] (fl. 1810 - 1814) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

PFC Passenger, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811); Builder, Fort Okanagan (1811); Clerk, Labourer, etc., Fort George [Astoria] (1811 - 1812); Clerk, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1812 - 1813); Clerk, Thompson River (winter 1813 - 1814).

In 1810 Donald McLennan joined the PFC, sailing from New York harbour on the Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn] for the mouth of the Columbia River, where he was in on the construction of Fort Astoria as well as the construction of the small sloop, Dolly. In the summer of 1811, McLennan, as part of David Stuart's party, travelled up the Columbia (part of the way with David Thompson), to establish a post in the Okanagan. After a trading season, McLennan and others from the post arrived back at Astoria in the fall just in time, one week later to be part of the maiden voyage of the Dolly. For the better part of the following year, he became part of its working crew. On June 29, 1812, he was a member of a party (F. Benjamin Pillet, Russel Farnham and Ross Cox), led by John Clarke, to establish a post at Spokane in opposition to the NWC post of Spokane House. It was during this expedition, however, that Clarke jeopardized the lives of all the members of the party when, in the Palouse River area, he hung a native who had stolen a silver goblet (Astorian, p. 115). In 1813, when the PFC was bought out by the NWC, he joined the latter on a five year contract as a clerk, spending his first winter at the Thompson River post. At that point the record dries up.

McLennan, Donald [2] (fl. 1815) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime officer

NWC Captain, Colonel Allan (brig) (1816).

Donald McLennan was captain of the NWC brig Colonel Allan which, in June, 1816, arrived in the Columbia direct from London although he may have stopped in Brazil to unload munitions. The Colonel Allan's function was to bring out the trading goods for NWC posts and transport their furs to China, similar to her predecessors, the Isaac Todd and Columbia. After arriving on Fort George, the Colonel Allan sailed for California and South America on speculation, bringing back specie [probably gold and silver coin] and goods for the London merchants. During the summer, this valuable cargo had to be guarded at Fort George for several months while McLennan surveyed the bar at the entrance of the Columbia. From all reports, a competent, satisfactory captain, McLennan appears to have run an efficient ship although that summer, his surgeon Dr. Downie, committed suicide while the ship lay at anchor at Fort George. Nonetheless, the ship pulled away that year and presumably completed its functions normally. However, that was the last time that the NWC used its own ships, thereon after preferring to use J. & T. H. Perkins' ship from Boston. McLennan did not appear on record in the Columbia again but appears to have hit it off with James Keith, NWC partner at Fort George, for as late as 1836 he was corresponding with Keith. They may even have met around that time in Paris. Further details of McLennan's life have not been traced.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 1; NAC Keith, B-2 PPS: A. Ross, The Fur Hunters, p. 59-61

McLennan, Francis (fl. 1851 - 1852) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Isle of Lewis, Scotland - 1829

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Albert (barque) (1850); Passenger, Prince of Wales II (barque) (1850); Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1851 - 1852).

Francis McLennan joined the HBC in 1850 in Stornoway and sailed to York Factory. After making his way overland, he worked briefly in the Fort Vancouver area deserted on February 23, 1852.

PS: HBCA log of Prince Albert 9; YFASA 31; YFDS 22; FtVanASA 9

McLennan, John (c. 1807 - ?) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Yaltos, Uig, Ross, Scotland - c. 1807

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1832); Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1833 - 1834); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1834 - 1837); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1837 - 1839).

John McLennan joined the HBC from Scotland on June 20, 1832 as a labourer for five years. Six days later he sailed from Stornoway for York Factory and then made his way to the Columbia. After seven years on the Northwest Coast, he returned to the British Isles.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Prince Rupert IV 6; FtSimp[N]PJ 3; YFASA 13-15, 18-19; YFDS 5b-7; FtVanASA 3-5

McLeod, Alexander Roderick (c. 1782 - 1840) (possibly Canadian: Scottish)

Birth: probably Scotland, United Kingdom - c. 1782

Death: probably Lower Canada [Quebec] - June 11, 1840

Fur trade officer

NWC Chief Trader, Fort Vancouver (1825 - 1826); Chief Trader, South Party (1826 - 1827); HBC Helped establish fort, Fort Langley (1827); Leader, South Party (1827 - 1828); Chief Trader, South Party (1827 - 1828); NWC Chief Trader, Columbia Department (1828 - 1829); HBC Member, Recovery of J. Smith goods, South Party (1828); Leader, Hood Canal punitive expedition (1828); Member, Bonaventura (Sacramento) Valley expedition (1828 - 1829); Chief Trader, South Party (1829 - 1830); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver (1830).

Alexander Roderick McLeod had a bumpy career in the fur trade, joining the NWC in 1802 and becoming Chief Trader in 1821. Before coming to the Columbia in 1825 he had gained a reputation for a "galling use of authority" (HBRS III, p. 448). Upon his arrival in the Columbia, he assisted with the construction of Fort Langley. However, his mismanagement of his second Umpqua Expedition during the harsh winter of 1827-1828, as well as his actions during the 1828 punitive expedition with Lieutenant Aemelius Simpson against the Hood Canal Clallam Indians who had killed Alexander McKenzie and four of his servants, met with stern disapproval and unduly affected his promotion; as a result, he was not promoted to Chief Factor until several years later, in 1836. The punitive expedition had been brutal, killing twenty-two natives and resulted in the burning of a native village. Later in that same year (1828), while on an exploration to the Buenaventura (Sacramento) River, he recovered without bloodshed the goods taken from Jedediah Smith, who had lost his goods and most of his men on his expedition. Returning to the Sacramento River in 1829, he lost his horses and had to cache the furs, something for which he was criticized once again and resulted in his transfer to the Mackenzie River district in 1830. He eventually achieved the position of Chief Factor in 1836 and went on furlough in 1839. He died the following year while still on furlough.

Alexander McLeod had one (?) wife, a woman of mixed descent, and nine children. Their children were: Sarah (1818-?), John (1824-?), Eliza (1828-?) Emilia (1833-?), Margaret ?-?), Nancy (?-?), Alic (?-?), Sally (?-?) and Roderick (?-?).

PS: HBCA YFDS 3b; FtVanASA 2; YFASA 5-9; FtColPJ 1; SimpsonCB; Wills 18; PSACWills 1 PPS: HBRs XXII, p. 480, HBRs XXX, p. 190-91n SS: HBRs III, p. 448-50 SS: MacLachlan, Fort Langley Journals, p. 214-15; DCB Williams
See Also: Ballenden, John (Son-in-Law)

McLeod, Allan (fl. 1848 - 1852) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Stornoway, Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Columbia Department general charges (1848 - 1849); Labourer, Cowlitz Farm (1850 - 1852?).

Allan McLeod joined the HBC in 1847 (probably from Stornoway) on a five-year contract and appeared in the Columbia area in 1848-1849. However, he didn't fulfil the contract, deserting on February 24, 1849, most likely to the gold fields of California. He was back working the following year, deserted in 1850, and may have returned again, for he quit for the last time in 1852.

PS: HBCA YFASA 28, 32; FtVanASA 9; YFDS 19; PSACAB 37

McLeod, Angus (fl. 1829 - 1830) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Stornoway, Scotland

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Isabella (brig) (1829 - 1830); Seaman, Vancouver (schooner) (1830).

Angus McLeod joined the HBC on October 31, 1829 for three years. He sailed from London to the Coast on the Isabella that was wrecked on the Columbia River bar as it was trying to cross it in May 1830. McLeod was then placed on the schooner Vancouver but was discharged from it when it went to Oahu at the end of 1830. The circumstances of his dismissal have not been traced.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Isabella 1; ShMiscPap 14; FtVanASA 2; YFASA 11; YFDS 4a

McLeod, Angus [c] (fl. 1842 - 1849) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Melbost or Stornoway, Ross, Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Colville (1842 - 1847); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1847 - 1848); Labourer, Snake Party (1848 - 1849); Freeman, Flathead District (1849).

Angus McLeod [c] joined the HBC in 1841. From July 22, 1849, he was a freeman among the Flatheads. He likely remained in the area.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 7, 9; YFASA 22-29; YFDS 20

McLeod, Archibald (c. 1831 - ?) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Sandwick, Isle of Lewis, Scotland - c. 1830

Maritime employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1849); Passenger, Prince Albert (barque) (1849); Seaman, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1850 - 1851).

Archibald McLeod, hired from Stornoway, sailed to York Factory from Stromness and worked briefly for the HBC.

PS: HBCA log of Prince Albert 8; log of Prince Rupert V 10; YFASA 30-32; YFDS 22

McLeod, Donald [a] (c. 1808 - ?) (British: Scottish)

Birth: possibly Stornoway, Scotland - c. 1808

Death: possibly Willamette Valley, Oregon

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1836 - 1837); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1837 - 1838); Boatswain, Cadboro (schooner) (1838 - 1840); 2nd mate, Cadboro (schooner) (1838 - 1840); Boatswain, Cadboro (schooner) (1840 - 1841); Boatswain, Columbia (barque) (1841 - 1842); Boatswain, Vancouver (barque) (1843); Settler, Willamette (1843).

Donald McLeod [a] joined the HBC in London on February 13, 1836 as a seaman for five years. He sailed to the coast and worked on coastal shipping until 1841 when he was discharged in January 1842 in Honolulu for unexplained reasons on the outgoing voyage of the Columbia. However, in outfit 1843-1844, he may have returned to the area on the barque Vancouver, but he left the vessel in 1843 before it was able to get out of the Columbia River and settled in the Willamette Valley of Oregon.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 9, 14; FtVanASA 3-7; YFDS 7, 9-10, 12, 14; YFASA 19-21, 24; log of Columbia 4; log of Vancouver [3] 1

McLeod, Donald [b] (c. 1821 - 1901) (British: Scottish)

Birth: possibly in or near Dillmore, Barras, Lewis, Scotland - c. 1821 or on the Isle of Skye, Scotland – c. 1815

Death: at or near St. Ignatius Mission, Montana, United States - January 20, 1901

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Thompson River general charges (1841 - 1842); Middleman and labourer, Fort Colville (1842 - 1843); Labourer, Columbia Department (1843 - 1844); Labourer, Fort Colville (1844 - 1851); Employee, Flathead Post [Fort Connah, Saleesh House] (1847 - 1871); Untraced vocation, Fort Colville (1851 - 1852); Labourer, Thompson River (1852 - 1853).

A picture of Donald McLeod (b) emerges from both record and oral tradition. Oral tradition indicates that he may have been born on the Isle of Skye, the seat of the McLeods, around 1815 and may have gone to sea as early as twelve for several years, touching at such places as San Francisco before returning to Scotland. HBC records, however, show his home parish to be Dillmore, Barras, when he joined the HBC in 1840, either in Lewis, or, according to oral tradition, in Canada. After making his way overland to the Pacific slopes in 1841, he spent most of his time at Fort Colville until 1847, or sometime after 1847, when he was assigned to Fort Connah [1847-1871] on Post Creek [near St. Ignatius, Montana], a post which had a supply function. There he was to be the post farmer and planted wheat on two cultivated acres [0.8 ha]. After serving out his last year at Thompson River [Kamloops], the remaining story of his life relies on oral tradition. He purchased land near old Fort Colville [now Colville] but sold it when gold in Montana drew him and his family there. Putting down roots at Bearmouth, on the Missoula River, he ran a road house and ferry but was left bankrupt when his partner fled with all the assets. By 1870 the McLeod family was back in Stevens Country where Donald purchased a ranch one mile [1.6 km] west of Chewelah. In 1893, then a widower of advancing age, he moved to Montana to be close to his sons, taking up residence at the Foot of the Lake, St. Ignatius. He died at his son's home and was buried in the family plot at St. Ignatius Mission, Montana.

Donald McLeod had two successive wives and ten children. Probably in the late 1840s, he took as his wife, Thérèse, a woman from the Nez Perce or Spokane nations. They had two children, Pierre Paul (1849-?) and Martine Marceal (?-?). Around 1850, Thérèse, fate unknown, was replaced by Rosalie Morigeau (c.1833-84), of mixed descent. Their children were Elizabeth (1851-1891), Alexander (1854-1938), Margaret (1855-1936), Frank (1859-1921), Celeste (1860-?), Daniel (c.1867-1937), Malcolm (1870-1944) and Richard (1874-1945).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-7; YFASA 22-32 SS: Partoll, p. 406; descendant of Donald McLeod

McLeod, Ewan [variation: Even, Ewen, Ewas, Hugh, Hughey] (c. 1833 - ?) (British: Scottish)

Birth: South Uist (Outer Hebrides), Scotland - c. 1833

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1849); Passenger, Prince Albert (barque) (1849); Labourer, Fort Alexandria (1850 - 1851); Labourer, Thompson River (1851 - 1852); PSAC Untraced vocation, Viewfield farm (1852 - 1853); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1853 - 1854); Labourer, Belle Vue Sheep Farm (1854); Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1855 - 1859).

Ewan McLeod enthusiastically worked for the HBC/PSAC until 1859, although he deserted his San Juan Island employers in 1854, and was temporarily discharged for drunkenness in 1858. At Nisqually, aside from carrying out all the gardening and sheep tending tasks, he loved to play the bagpipes. When Angus McDonald was visiting Fort Nisqually, McDonald paid McLeod to play the bagpipes before sunrise to nostalgically awaken the two Scots, William Fraser Tolmie and Dugald McTavish, from their sleep in the big house. Very early next morning, as McLeod was marching up and down the seventy foot [21.3 m] verandah of the big house proudly playing the bagpipes for all he was worth, the scantily clad visiting English-born, Henry Newsham Peers, rushed out, grabbed McLeod by the collar and pushed him and his bagpipes off the porch berating McLeod from awakening him from his sleep with such an infernal noise. A humiliated McLeod slinked off and it is not known whether this incident contributed to his drinking (Huggins letter). He has not been traced after 1859.

PS: BCA FtAlex; HBCA log of Prince Albert 8; YFASA 30-32; FtVicDS 1; FtVicASA 1-2; BelleVuePJ 1 PPS: TacP-FtNis Huggins; Dickey

McLeod, Jack (fl. 1811 - 1825) (Undetermined origin)

Freeman

NWC Milieu, Fort Okanagan (winter 1813 - 1814); HBC Freeman trapper, Snake Party (1822).

Jack McLeod was engaged as a milieu at Fort William in 1811 on a three year contract. He made his way to the Columbia and spent the winter of 1813-1814 at Fort Okanagan. By 1822, he was still in the area as a freeman working for the HBC. However, in the fall of that year, he did not emerge from the Snake Country and likely deserted. He then joined a band of freeman (Lazard Teycateyecowige, three Canadians, a Russian and an old Spaniard) headed by a Mr. Provost and on May 23, 1825, ran into Ogden's Snake Party. McLeod was undoubtedly one of the active provocateurs that encouraged the mass desertion from Ogden to the American camp on the following day. Jack McLeod has not been traced after that.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10; HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 10; FtSpokRD 1; SnkCoPJ 3

McLeod, John [1] (c. 1786 - 1849) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Ross, Scotland - c. 1796

Death: St. Maurice (par. of Montreal), Canada East - July 24, 1849

Fur trade officer

HBC Chief Trader, Thompson River (1822 - 1826).

John McLeod of Ross joined the HBC as a writer in 1811 and became Chief Trader under the Deed Poll in 1821. He spent most of his career east of the Rockies except for a brief stint in Kamloops/Thompson's River as Chief Trader. He returned east of the Rockies and worked in a variety of posts and from 1833-1849 worked in the St. Maurice District of the Montreal Department until his death on July 24, 1849.

Two of his children, whom he took back to the British Isles in 1830 were Malcolm (?-?) and John (?-?).

PS: HBCA FtKamPJ 1; YFASA 3-5; log of Prince Rupert IV 4; SimpsonCB PPS: HBRS I, p. 455-56

McLeod, John [d] (c. 1820 - 1905) (British: Scottish)

Birth: in or near Garinin, Lochs, Isle of Lewis, Scotland - c. 1820

Death: near Spanaway, Pierce County, Washington - April 29, 1905

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1837); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1838 - 1840); Stoker and labourer, Beaver (steamer) (1839 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1842); Stoker, Beaver (steamer) (1842 - 1843); PSAC Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1843 - 1846); Farm manager, Fort Nisqually, Whyatchie (1846 - 1849); Farm manager, Fort Nisqually, Muck (1851 - 1852); Shepherd, Fort Nisqually, Tlithlow (1855).

When John McLeod joined the HBC on May 27, 1837, he could only speak Gaelic. He sailed to York Factory that year and made his way overland, reaching the Columbia in 1838. While coming down the Columbia River, the boat capsized and, although McLeod managed to hang onto the boat, four others were drowned. In 1843 after learning English while working largely in coastal shipping, he was engaged in PSAC operations where he became head shepherd and placed in charge of the Company's station at Wy-aatchie (Steilacoom) lake. There he managed one-thousand sheep with the assistance of four native herders. On September 22, 1849, lured by better prospects, he deserted for the California gold fields; however, his search for gold was fruitless and he was happy to return the next year. (He may have been the John McCloud living with T. A. Smith in Lewis County in 1850. If so, he was most likely single.) He then took a 320 acre [129.5 ha] Donation Land Claim on the Upper Muck Creek bottom, an area with very rich soil. In 1850, he was given a warning by the PSAC that he was trespassing on their land. Near the end of the century, he was living with his son-in-law, Dan Mounts, at the mouth of the Squally River; a lifetime of heavy drinking did not appear to affect him in the least. John McLeod died at his home on April 29, 1905.

John McLeod had a Nisqually wife (?-1889) and a daughter, Kitty (?-?). His wife had been taken north to Vancouver Island in childhood, likely as a slave, and her freedom was purchased by Joseph Carless, engineer of the Beaver. Carless' wife took charge of her and took her to Victoria; afterwards, she was taken as a wife by McLeod.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Prince Rupert IV 10; YFASA 19-20, 22-29; FtVanASA 5-9; YFDS 16, 20; HBCABio; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Lewis County PPS: TacP-FtNis Huggins SS: Huggins, Tacoma Weekly, January 17, 1892, p. 3; March 4, 1892, p. 4; April 30, 1905; Huggins, "Reminiscences of Puget", p. 359

McLeod, John [e] (? - 1845) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Bragaar, Barvas, Lewis, Scotland

Death: Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - August 10, 1845

Fur trade employee

HBC Sloop, Fort Vancouver general charges (1842 - 1843); Sloop, Fort Vancouver depot (1843 - 1845).

John McLeod joined the HBC in Scotland as a sloop in 1841. His route to the Pacific Northwest has not been tracked but he appears to have landed at Fort Vancouver in 1842. Nothing is known of his personal life but he appears to have suffered from "fits of insanity." He spent his career at the big fort on the Columbia River until August 8, 1845, when, according to one source he died. According to Thomas Lowe's journal entry of August 10, 1845, McLeod who "was subject to fits of insanity, was found this morning dead in bed."

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 7-8; YFASA 23-25; HBCABio; BCA Diar-Rem Lowe 1

McLeod, John [f] (fl. 1841 - 1845) (British or Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly Athabasca [Alberta]

Maritime employee

HBC Apprentice, Vancouver (barque) (1841 - 1843); Apprentice, Columbia (barque) (1843 - 1845).

John McLeod (f), apparently from Athabasca, is a bit of a mystery. He joined the HBC in London on June 11, 1841 and sailed to the coast on the HBC barque Vancouver. He sailed to the British Isles aboard the barque Columbia in outfit 1844-1845 and his contract ended in 1846.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 7; YFASA 22-24

McLeod, John [2] (fl. 1858 - 1860) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1858 - 1859); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1859 - 1860).

John McLeod [3], who may have been any of the above McLeods, appeared to do casual work for the HBC until about 1860.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 6-7, 9

McLeod, John Jr. [3] (c. 1794 - ?) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Lochs, Scotland - c. 1794

Death: possibly England

Fur trade officer

HBC Clerk, Fort Halkett (1832 - 1834); Chief Trader, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1837); Observer, Rendezvous (1836 - 1837); Negotiator, Rendezvous (1836 - 1837); Chief Trader, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1839); Passenger, Nereide (barque) (1839 - 1840).

John McLeod joined the NWC around 1816 and at the time of the coalition in 1821, became an HBC clerk. He came to the Pacific slopes in the 1830s around the time that George Simpson heaped rare praise on him for his previous work (HBRS XXX, p. 220). He became Chief Trader in 1834 and on May 7, 1836 was sent off from Fort Vancouver by John McLoughlin to the 1836 Rendezvous at Green River to gather as much information as possible about a possible division of territory with the American traders. He returned to the 1837 Rendezvous and oversaw the buy-out of Nathaniel J. Wyeth interests from Captain Joseph Thing. In 1838 he sailed down the Coast on the Cadboro and picked up the furs from the Southern expedition. In 1840 he was granted furlough for two years before his retirement in 1842.

PS: HBCA YFDS 6-7; FtVanASA 3-6; YFASA 15-19; FtVanCB 12, 17; SimpsonCB; ShMiscPap 14 PPS: HBRS I, p. 455; HBRS XXX, p. 220; CCR 1a, 1b SS: ChSoc XXII, p. 481

McLeod, Malcolm (c. 1828 - ?) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Lochs, Scotland - c. 1828

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince of Wales II (barque) (1850); Passenger, Prince Albert (barque) (1850); Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1851 - 1852).

Malcolm McLeod joined the HBC from Scotland in 1850 on a five-year contract and sailed to York Factory that year. He worked his way overland but soon he deserted on February 25, 1852.

PS: HBCA log of Prince Albert 9; log of Prince of Wales II 1; YFASA 31; YFDS 22; FtVanASA 9

McLeod, Murdo [d] (c. 1827 - ?) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Barras, Lochs, Ross, Scotland - c. 1827

Death: probably British Isles

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1849); Labourer, Fort Alexandria (1850 - 1851); Labourer, New Caledonia (1851 - 1854); Labourer, Fort St. James or Fort Alexandria (1854); Shepherd, Belle Vue Sheep Farm (1854 - 1857); Steerage passenger, Princess Royal (barque) (1857).

Murdoch McLeod agreed to work as a labourer for the HBC on May 8, 1849 and sailed to York Factory shortly after. After his arrival on the Pacific slopes the following year, he worked in the British Columbia interior for three years and at the end of his contract, and, from August 16, 1854, on San Juan Island for three more years. After accumulating a small nest egg of £16.0.5, he sailed for the British Isles from Victoria on March 5, 1857.

PS: HBCA log of Prince Rupert V 10; YFASA 30-32; FtVicASA 1-5; BelleVuePJ 1; FtAlexPJ 9; log of Princess Royal 3
See Also: McLeod, Murdo (e) (Relative)

McLeod, Murdo [e] (c. 1828 - ?) (British: Scottish)

Birth: possibly in Bragar or in or near Lochs, Ross, Scotland - c. 1828

Death: probably Hebrides, Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1849); Passenger, Prince Albert (barque) (1849); Labourer, Fort Alexandria (1850 - 1851); Labourer, Thompson River (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Thompson River (1852 - 1853); Labourer, Thompson River (1853 - 1854); Shepherd, Belle Vue Sheep Farm (1854 - 1857); Steerage passenger, Princess Royal (barque) (1857).

Murdo McLeod [e], who appears to have been a close relative of the above Murdo, also from Lochs, was engaged by the HBC on May 21, 1849. Both worked in identical areas as labourers, the only difference being that Murdo [e] accumulated a rather large nest egg of £63.8.4 before departing the coast in 1857.

PS: HBCA log of Prince Albert 8; YFASA 30-32; FtVicASA 1-5; BelleVuePJ 1; log of Princess Royal 3; HBCABio
See Also: McLeod, Murdo (d) (Relative)

McLeod, Murdoch [c] (c. 1811 - 1859) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in Sandwick, Lochs, Ross, Scotland - c. 1811

Death: Fort Nisqually, Washington Territory - January 15, 1859

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1842 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1843 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1846 - 1848); Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1851 - 1852); Dairyman, Fort Vancouver depot (1852 - 1853); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1853 - 1856); Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1856 - 1858); Labourer, Fort Nisqually farm (1858 - 1859).

Murdoch McLeod [c] joined the HBC in 1841 probably from Stornoway, where he had relatives. He worked as a farm labourer, mainly around Fort's Vancouver and Nisqually, returning to the British Isles via the Prince Rupert in 1849. He re-enlisted in 1850, working once again at Forts Vancouver and Nisqually. By October 1858 at the Muck farm, he was experiencing fits of madness and on December 25, was sent to Nisqually in a cart. Within weeks, he was dead. No family has been traced.

PS: HBCA YFASA 22-32; YFDS 22; FtVanASA 7, 9-15; FtVanCB 42 PPS: Dickey; TacP-FtNis Muck, Oct. 26, 1858

McLeod, Murdoch G. [a] (c. 1808 - c. 1855) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Stornoway, Scotland - c. 1808

Death: possibly Hebrides, Scotland - c. 1855

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1832); Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges [Snake Party] (1834 - 1835); Labourer, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1835 - 1836); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1836 - 1837); Middleman and labourer, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1847); Passenger, Columbia (barque) (1847 - 1848).

Murdock G. McLeod joined the from Scotland on June 17, 1832. He boarded the Prince Rupert IV on June 23, at Stornoway, and, after a two-month voyage, disembarked at York Factory on August 24. He arrived in the Columbia in 1834 where he worked for the next fifteen years but did not appear in the journals as having any untoward adventures. A letter from the family indicates that his health may have broken during this time. McLeod worked until November 9, 1847, at which point he returned to England on the barque Columbia. He must have left with little, for, just before he left, James Douglas wrote to the HBC secretary:

Murdoch McLeod an old worn out servant will be...thrown upon your hands and you will oblige me very much by getting the poor fellow, with his little means, safely shipped to his native country (FtVanCB 38, fo. 26d).

When he returned, he married and settled in Shilishader; he died between 1851 and 1855.

In December 1849, Murdoch married Kristy [Christian, Christy] McLeod of Melbost. After Murdoch's death, Kristy remarried and raised a family.

An 1845 HBCA undelivered letter from his sister, Ann Morison in Branahwie, revealed concern about Murdoch's health.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Prince Rupert IV, 6; YFASA 14-15, 19-20, 22-27; YFDS 5c-7, 18; FtVanASA 3-7; FtVanCB 38
James Douglas' Nov. 9, 1847 Fort Victoria letter to Archibald Barclay fo. 26d; log of Columbia 9; HBCABio PPS: Beattie &
Buss, p. 328-31

McLeod, Neil [a] (fl. 1841 - 1845) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Crobeg, Lochs, Ross, Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman and labourer, Fort Colville (1841 - 1842); Officer's servant, Fort Colville (1842 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Colville (1843 - 1845); Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1845).

Neil McLeod joined the HBC from Scotland on June 15, 1840 as a labourer for five years. His contract ended in 1845 at which point he returned to the British Isles via York Factory.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 13; YFASA 22-25; log of Prince Rupert V 6

McLeod, Roderick (c. 1828 - ?) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Hebrides, Scotland - c. 1828

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1849); Passenger, Prince Albert (barque) (1849); Labourer, Columbia Department general charges (1850 - 1851); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1851 - 1852); Labourer, Snake Party (1853 - 1855).

Roderick McLeod sailed to York Factory and worked for the HBC on a contract that ended in 1854 but he deserted on February 23, 1852 from Fort Vancouver. He may have re-enlisted for in outfit 1855 he retired and "left" the service.

PS: HBCA log of Prince Albert 8; log of Prince Rupert V 10; YFASA 30-31; YFDS 22; FtVanASA 9-12

McLeod, William (fl. 1829 - 1832) (Irish)

Birth: probably County Antrim, Ireland

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Isabella (brig) (1829 - 1830); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1830); Seaman, Vancouver (schooner) (1830 - 1831); Seaman, Ganymede (barque) (1831 - 1832).

William McLeod, from County Antrim, Ireland, joined the HBC in London as a seaman for three years on October 31, 1829. As the Isabella on which he sailed to the Coast was wrecked when it tried to cross the bar in May 1830, he joined the crew of the Cadboro, which sailed up the Coast and the Vancouver which sailed to the Sandwich Islands. However, he appears to have worked a short contract servicing the Columbia River for he returned to England on the Ganymede on November 1, 1831 and did not appear in the area again. The reasons for his quick departure have not been established.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Isabella 1; ShMiscPap 14; FtVanASA 2; YFASA 11; YFDS 4b; ShMiscPap 7

McLoughlin, David (1821 - 1903) (Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly Fond du Lac [Wisconsin] - 1821 (born to Dr. John McLoughlin and Marguerite Wadin McKay)

Death: probably Port Hill, Idaho, United States - May 1903

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice clerk, Fort Vancouver (1839 - 1845); Clerk, Columbia Department general charges (1845 - 1846).

David McLoughlin had a short career in the fur trade. In 1834 he was sent to live with his uncle in Paris to become an engineer and perhaps go to India for his career. He returned in 1839, having passed his exams but his father had second thoughts about sending him to India and took him on as apprentice clerk at the fort. In 1843 he is noted as working in the fort's retail store and in September of 1844 he was instrumental in helping to put out a fire that could have destroyed Fort Vancouver. However, he resigned in 1845 ostensibly to look after his father's affairs in the Willamette but, being swept up by the gold fever of the time, hired Indians to work for him and managed to acquire about $20,000 in gold dust. In 1846, he briefly went to San Francisco to wrap up the Company affairs there. On March 15, 1847 he was reported to have entered into partnership with two prosperous American merchants, Mr. Pettygrove and Mr. Wilson of Oregon City. He eventually moved to Port Hill, Idaho, near the Canadian boundary and lived in a semi-secluded state where he was close to nature. In June 14, 1901 he was noted as being in Portland at a celebration for Oregon Pioneers. He died two years later.

PS: HBCA YFASA 19-20, 24-25, 27; FtVanASA 6-8; FtVanCB 31; log of Vancouver [3] 2; Bonner's Ferry Herald, June 14, 1901 PPS: CCR 1a, 1b; ChSoc VI, p. 395-96; OHQ, vol. XXXVI, 339; OHQ, vol. XXXVII, 57-75
See Also: McLoughlin, Dr. John (Father); McLoughlin, Joseph (Brother); McLoughlin, John Jr. (Brother); Fraser, McLoughlin, Dr. John (1784 - 1857) (Canadian: Scottish and Canadian: Irish)Birth: Riviere du Loup, Lower Canada - October 19, 1784 (born to John McLoughlin and Angélique Fraser)Death: Oregon City, Oregon - September 3, 1857Fur trade officer*HBC Chief Trader, Fort Vancouver (1824 - 1825); Chief Factor, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1846).

Of Irish Catholic descent, six foot four inch [192 cm] John McLoughlin was, next to Governor George Simpson, the single most influential person in the land based fur trade on the Pacific Slopes. While John was still a boy, his father drowned and the McLoughlin children were taken to live on the banks of the St. Lawrence with their grandfather, stonemason Malcolm Fraser. Brother David became a physician in Paris while John trained in Scotland and after returning to Canada, joined the NWC in 1803, becoming a partner in 1814. In 1824, Simpson, after having visited the Columbia, placed McLoughlin, then at Lac la Pluie, in charge of the Columbia Department, and for two decades McLoughlin enforced the HBC trade monopoly in an area that was supposed to have been jointly occupied from 1818. This monopoly excluded and/or financially ruined other trading businesses. At the same time, he was generous and fair to settlers, natives and missionaries, all of which garnered him a father figure image. Differences with Simpson over how to deal with American trading ships on the Coast as well as American immigrants finally came to a head when Simpson asked that the San Francisco office, run by McLoughlin's son-in-law, be closed, and that the Beaver replace the forts (Stikine and Taku were to be closed). Capping it was Simpson's assertion that McLoughlin's murdered son was responsible for his own demise. The bitter dispute continued and so McLoughlin retired in 1846, living out the rest of his life at Oregon City. Even though he had holdings in flour and saw mills and exported various commodities, as well as having declared his intention to become a U.S. citizen, he was denied a land claim under the Donation Land Law of 1850. However, in 1862 after his death, and upon payment of a nominal sum, his heirs received his property. Even though historians' opinions of the importance of McLoughlin have waxed and waned throughout the years, he remains the single most influential person of the fur trade to have resided on the Pacific slopes.

Dr. John McLoughlin had two successive wives and five children. His first wife was an unnamed Chippewa native of Red River descent. Together they had one child, Joseph (1809-1848). McLoughlin's second wife was Marguerite Wadin McKay, widow of Alexander McKay. Together they had John Jr. (1812-1842), Marie Elizabeth [Eliza] (1814-?), Eloisa (1817-1884) and David (1821-1903).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2-4, 6-8, 14; YFASA 4-26; YFDS 4a, 7; HBCABio PPS: HBRS II, p. 233-35, HBRS XXII, p. 482, HBRS XXX, p. 176-77; CCR 1a. 1b SS: Labonte, "Reminiscences", p. 265; Holman, Dr. John McLoughlin; DAB Shafer; Barker; Fogdall

See Also: Rae, William Glen (Son-in-Law); Harvey, Daniel (Son-in-Law); McLoughlin, John Jr. (Son); McLoughlin, Joseph (Son); McKay, Alexander (Relative); McLoughlin, David (Son); Barclay, Forbes; Bethune, Angus (Relative)

McLoughlin, John Jr. (1812 - 1842) (Canadian: Irish and Mixed descent)Birth: August 18, 1812 (born to Dr. John McLoughlin and Marguerite Wadin McKay)Death: Fort Stikine, British Columbia - April 21, 1842Fur trade officer

HBC Surgeon, Fort Vancouver (1838); Surgeon and clerk disposable, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1839); Surgeon and clerk, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); Surgeon and clerk, Fort Stikine (1839 - 1840); Surgeon and clerk, and assistant to W. G. Rae, Fort Stikine (1840 - 1841); Clerk in charge, Fort Stikine (1841 - 1842).

John McLoughlin Jr., who could have had a promising medical career, was only reluctantly let into the service of the HBC and was eventually shot in the back by his own men who rebelled against his tyranny. He spent the early part of his life in Terrebonne with his great-uncle Dr. Simon Fraser and in 1834 he was sent back from medical studies in Paris for some unexplained offence. Because of John's conduct George Simpson blocked him from HBC employment or passage to the Columbia. In 1837, however, in an effort to curb his rebellious activities at Red River, Simpson offered young John the position of surgeon at Fort McLoughlin, but crossing the mountains with his father in 1838 he chose instead to serve at Fort Vancouver. For two years he accompanied the express across the mountains until June 1840 when he was sent to Fort Stikine under William Glenn Rae. The following year he was placed in charge with Roderick Finlayson as his assistant but when Finlayson was removed to Fort Simpson, McLoughlin was left without proper support. According to dispositions taken in 1842, his drinking and violent streaks became more pronounced and, in drunken stupors, he would pummel his servants with his fists and whip them until the blood ran. One night, after being threatened by William Lassart and Urbain Heroux, a drunken John Jr., armed with his own rifle tried to find the hidden pair to either punish or kill them. Failing to find them, he rushed into the centre area yelling "Fire! Fire!" but four shots rang out, the fatal one entering his shoulder blades and exiting his throat. Coincidentally Simpson arrived five days later and, after a brief investigation, deemed it "Justifiable Homicide", a verdict for which Dr. John McLoughlin never forgave the governor. Conflicting dispositions taken at the time indicate McLoughlin to have been a moderate man who was assassinated without reason. The truth lies somewhere in between as in 1840 Rae had found future assassins Heroux a "good man" and Lassart a "smart lad", whereas he spoke scornfully about others at the same time. After his death McLoughlin was taken to the main house, quite likely on the initiative of the Kanakas, (although Pierre Kanaguasse claimed he initiated the process), and his body was washed and dried. Kanaguasse took McLoughlin's ring, which Powpow took back and gave back to McLoughlin's wife. A coffin was then built and the corpse removed from the main house to the bath. On the third day, the corpse was carried to an open grave by Lasserre, François Presse, Louis Leclair and some Kanakas. The remains of the young surgeon were later disinterred and brought to Fort Vancouver for burial on October 10, 1843 and he was finally laid to rest on October 12.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 4-6; YFASA 17-20, 22; FtStikP 1; FtVanCB 29 PPS: HBRS VI, p. 396-97; CCR 1b
 See Also: McLoughlin, Joseph (Brother); McLoughlin, Dr. John (Father); Fraser, Simon (Relative); McLoughlin, David (Brother)

McLoughlin, Joseph (c. 1810 - 1848) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Red River Settlement [Manitoba] - c. 1810 (born to Dr. John McLoughlin and a Chippewa woman)

Death: probably St. Paul, Oregon - December 14, 1848

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice clerk, Coastal Trade (1827 - 1828); Trapper, Bonaventura (Sacramento) Valley expedition (1828 - 1830); Storekeeper and servant, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1831); Native apprentice, Fort Vancouver (1831 - 1833); Storekeeper, Fort Vancouver (1833 - 1836); Storekeeper, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1838); Builder, Cowlitz Farm (1838 - 1839); Member, Michel Laframboise's Bonaventura trapping expedition (1839 - 1840); Settler, Willamette (1840 - 1840).

Joseph McLoughlin, whose mother died while giving birth, was left as a child with Angus Bethune. As a young man at Fort Vancouver he weekly beat the furs (as some of the beaver furs from the Snake region had sand in them), a task which was often assigned to children of the fort. Although he appears to have been integrated in with the other children of the McLoughlin family, he received little or no education unlike his younger brother John who was trained to be a doctor and David who trained to be an engineer. He was a great admirer of his step-brother Thomas McKay and appears to have joined the HBC in 1827 as an apprentice clerk on the coastal trade. Joseph "rode like a centaur" a contemporary John Dunn wrote of him. He worked largely out of Fort Vancouver, but was noted as being at the Honolulu office in 1836-1837, and he retired on January 1, 1840 when he settled near Champoege. He died eight years later on December 14, 1848 from the delayed effects of a fall over a cliff in the Umpqua Region and was buried in the original St. Paul's Cemetery along with Louis LaBonte, Etienne Lucier and others from the fur trade.

Joseph McLoughlin had one wife and no recorded children. On July 8, 1839 at Fort Vancouver, he married a Victoire McMillan the daughter of James McMillan.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 1-9, 11-15, 19; YFDS 3b-7, 11; SandIsAB 1 PPS: HBRS IV, p. 350; CCR 1a, 2b SS: Fogdall; OHQ vol. XXXVI, p. 342
 See Also: McLoughlin, Dr. John (Father); Bethune, Angus (Relative); McMillan, James (Father-in-Law); McLoughlin, John Jr. (Brother); McLoughlin, Joseph (Brother); Fraser, Simon (Relative); McLoughlin, David (Brother)

McMillan, James [variation: MacMillan] (c. 1783 - 1858) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Scotland - c. 1783

Death: Scotland - 1858

Fur trade officer

NWC Member, Pacific Slopes (1808 - 1812) (with David Thompson); Clerk, Flathead Post [Fort Connah, Saleesh House] (winter 1813 - 1814); U.A. Untraced vocation, Fort William Henry (1816); NWC Clerk, Pacific slopes (1817 - 1819); HBC Chief Trader, Columbia District (1821 - 1822); Chief Trader, Thompson River (1822 - 1823); Chief Trader, Fort George [Astoria] (1824); Chief Trader, Fraser River (1824); Chief Trader, Columbia Department (1826 - 1827); Chief Factor, Fort Langley (1827 - 1828); Furlough, Fort Langley (1828 - 1830).

George Simpson relied on both James McMillan and Chief Factor Donald McKenzie for his preliminary reorganization of the Columbia Department after amalgamation. McMillan, who had joined the NWC before 1804, assisted David Thompson in his work on the Pacific slopes between 1808-1812. Ross Cox met him on the Spokane River in 1813. In 1817 he was noted as crossing the Rockies with Joseph LaRocque's party no doubt to the Flathead and Spokane posts. In 1821, at the time of amalgamation, McMillan, who spoke several native languages, was appointed Chief Trader in the Columbia. In 1823, he returned to Upper Canada because of the death of family members in the preceding twelve months, taking with him two of his children whom he probably left with relatives there. In 1824, he accompanied Simpson from York Factory to Fort George [Astoria]. Later in that same year, he was a member of the party that explored Puget Sound and the lower reaches of the Fraser River. He became Chief Factor in 1827 and helped oversee the construction of Fort Langley. He left the west in the winter of 1828-1829 accompanying Simpson on his return journey east. From then, he went on furlough to Scotland, where he married, and, in 1830, was given charge of the experimental farm at Red River in 1830; his wife following him out the following year. In 1834-1835, as McMillan's management of the farm was not successful he was put in charge of the Lake of Two Mountains district in the Montreal Department for two years. After two years furlough he retired in 1839 and died in Scotland nineteen years later.

James McMillan's family records are not entirely clear. He had three or more wives and at least seven children. He and an unnamed wife appear to have had a son, Ewen (?-?), on the banks of the Saskatchewan who possibly was the same as William (c.1806-?). With Marie Letendre, he had Helene (1810-?), Margaret (1813-?), whom he later provided for in his will, and Allan (1816-?). While in the Columbia, in about 1820, he took as his wife Marguerite, Clatsop (?-?) [Kol-a-ko-tah], the daughter of Clatsop Chief Coboway. (She had been formerly married to William Matthews.) She had a daughter Ellen/Helen by Matthews and another daughter Victoire (1821-?) by McMillan. (She later married Louis Labonté, with whom she had a third daughter, Julienne.) While on furlough in Scotland in 1829-1830, he married Eleanor McKinlay. They had at least two children, an unnamed daughter (c.1830-?) born in Scotland and Margaret (1833-?).

PS: HBCA NWCAB 1-3, 10; HBCA FtKamPJ 1; YFASA 4, 6-9; log of Prince Rupert IV 4; SimpsonCB; Wills; UBC-Koer Thompson; BCA BCCR CCCath PPS: MacLachlan, Fort Langley Journals, p. 6, 52-54; Cox, p. 124; G. Simpson, Fur Trade, p. 3, 39, 75, 113-118, 154-163, 248-250, 258; HBRs III, p. 450-51; HBRs XXII, p. 482-83, HBRs XXX, p. 183-84n; ChSoc XL, p. 300; CCR 1a, 1b SS: Van Kirk, "Many Tender Ties", p. 183, 186
See Also: Matthews, William Wallace (Relative); Labonte, Louis (Relative); McLoughlin, Joseph (Son-in-Law)

McMillan, Neil (fl. 1849 - 1854) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Scotland

Maritime employee

HBC Carpenter, Una (brigantine) (1849 - 1852); Carpenter, Recovery (brig) (1852 - 1853); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1853 - 1854).

Neil McMillan came to the coast from London as a carpenter on the HBC brig Una. He worked on the Una until the vessel was grounded and wrecked at Neah Bay on December 25, 1851. In January 1852, he agreed to outfit the Orbit and service it for a year, during which time he would receive his discharge from the HBC.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 10; YFASA 30-32; FtVicCB 4; FtVicASA 1

McMullin, Daniel [variation: David McMillan] (fl. 1852 - 1854) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria general charges (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Recovery (brig) (1852 - 1854).

Daniel McMullin came to the coast on the Norman Morison, arriving at Fort Victoria on October 30, 1851, whereupon he transferred to the coastal operations and likely worked at Fort Victoria until June 7, 1852. He worked on the Recovery until around 1854 but transactions continued on his account until 1855.

PS: HBCA log of Norman Morison 2; YFASA 31-32; YFDS 22; FtVicDS 1; FtVicASA 1-2

McNeil, Hector (fl. 1817) (Undetermined origin)

Birth: possibly Montreal, Lower Canada

Death: possibly East of the Rocky Mountains

Fur trade employee

NWC Clerk, Fort George [Astoria] (1817).

Hector McNeil joined the NWC on September 24, 1817 to work as a wintering clerk for three years at Fort George [Astoria]. He appears to have been at Ile-a-la-Crosse by 1819.

PS: SHdeSB Liste

McNeill, Alfred (c. 1838 - 1921) (Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly Fort Simpson [Nass] - c. 1838 (born to William Henry and Matilda McNeill)

Death: New Westminster, British Columbia - January 26, 1921

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer in charge of Tlithlow farm, Fort Nisqually (1857).

In his old age Alfred McNeil claimed he was born in Victoria, B.C. but it was likely Fort Simpson as the HBC fort had not yet been established. A nineteen year old McNeill first appeared on fur trade records in 1857 working as a labourer on Fort Nisqually's PSAC Tlithlow farm. Part of his job was going into Fort Nisqually and bringing back supplies to the farm as well as warning squatters on company land. He was put in charge of the farm but discharged on June 6, 1857, being replaced by Thomas Bates. His movements are hard to track but, by 1871, he was in Victoria working for a F. Reynolds, a butcher and navy contractor. He appears not to have been in his father's graces as he was left out of his father's will in 1875. By 1881, Alfred McNeill was farming and married with a family in the Yale district and later moved to the Kamloops area. In his later life, his mental condition deteriorated and he died on January 26, 1821 in hospital in New Westminster.

Alfred McNeill appears to have had one wife Jane (c.1855-?), of mixed French/native descent, and five recorded children. Their children were Susan (c.1873-?), Rebecca F. (c.1876-?), Alfred W. (c.1878-?) and May E. (c.1880-?). Another son appears to have been George (?-?).

PS: Van-PL 1881 Canada Census, Yale District, Nicola sub-district; Mallandaine, p. 26; Van-PL Colonist, May 6, 1882 PPS: Dickey SS: Van Kirk, "Tracing the Fortunes"

See Also: McNeill, William Henry (Father); McNeill, William Henry Jr. (Brother); McNeill, Henry (Brother)

McNeill, George (fl. 1850 - 1852) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Alexandria (1850 - 1851); Middleman, Thompson River (1851 - 1852).

George McNeill appears to have joined the HBC around 1850 and finished working at the end of his three-year contract.

PS: BCA FtAlex; HBCA YFASA 30-32; FtVicASA 1-2; FtVanASA 9

McNeill, Henry [variation: Harry] (c. 1834 - 1872) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Fort Simpson [Nass] - c. 1834 (born to William Henry and Matilda McNeill)

Death: Victoria, British Columbia - 1872

Fur trade employee

HBC Clerk, Fort Simpson (1853 - 1854); Post master, Fort Simpson (1854 - 1855); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1858 - 1859).

Henry McNeill received an education somewhere, possibly partly from his father, for when the nineteen year old came to work with the HBC around 1853, he was hired as a clerk. However, Henry ruined his career with both his father and the HBC in December, 1855 when young romantically involved Henry slept outside the fort against his father's wishes, refused to do duty at the Indian Shop and finally mustered a crew of natives for a cold journey to Victoria (FtSimp[N]PJ 8, fo. 28-28d). Four years after that, having joined Captain Torrens and Mr. Denman exploring for minerals, Henry and the group used Simpson as a base but were only allowed to camp in the wood yard by W. H. McNeill who thought Henry and group to be "reckless, lazy and idle" (FtSimp[N]PJ 8, fo. 178d-179). In October, 1861, he was sent by the HBC on an expedition to Bute Inlet to survey a route across the Chilcotin Plains to the Caribou gold fields. The group lost their canoe and had to be rescued by local natives. By 1866, Henry was working as an overseer of native work crews for the Collins Overland Telegraph Company in the Lake Tatla area when he returned to Simpson and was treated with some deference by the new administrator, brother-in-law, Hamilton Moffat. In 1871 Henry was living in Victoria with his father and died the following year at the young age of thirty-eight.

PS: HBCA YFASA 32; FtVicASA 1-4, 6; FtSimp[N]PJ 8; Mallandaine; BCVS SS: Van-PL Province, Dec. 22, 1894; Meilleur, p. 208; Van Kirk, "Tracing the Fortunes", p. 176

See Also: McNeill, William Henry (Father); McNeill, Alfred (Brother); McNeill, William Henry Jr. (Brother); Moffatt, Hamilton (Relative)

McNeill, William Henry (c. 1801 - 1875) (American)

Birth: Boston, Massachusetts - c. 1801 or 1803

Death: Victoria, British Columbia - September 4, 1875

Fur trade officer

U.A. Officer, Paragon (ship) (1819 - 1820); HBC Captain, Convoy (brig) (1824 - 1825); U.A. Captain, Tally Ho (brig) (1826); Officer or log keeper, Golden Farmer (whaler) (1827 - 1828); Captain, Burton (brig) (1828 - 1830); HBC Captain, Lama (brig) (1830 - 1837); Captain, Beaver (steamer) (1837 - 1840); Captain, Cowlitz (barque) (1842 - 1843); Chief Trader in charge, Fort Stikine (1845 - 1848); Chief Trader in charge, Fort George [Astoria] and Cape Disappointment (1848 - 1849); Chief Trader and superintendent of construction, Fort Rupert (1849 - 1850); Chief Trader, Columbia Department (1850 - 1851); Chief Trader, Fort Simpson (1851 - 1856); Chief Factor in charge, Fort Simpson (1856 - 1857); Chief Factor in charge, Fort Simpson (1861 - 1863).

William Henry McNeill started his sea-going career as an employee of Boston traders sailing between the Sandwich Islands and Boston. On October 26, 1824 he left Boston harbour in command of the Convoy, arriving back in Oahu the following year. By 1826, the command of the Convoy was given to John Dominis who along with McNeill, now in command of the Tally Ho traded at Norfolk Sound for the season. From 1830 he sailed the Lama from Boston and the following year was back on the Northwest Coast. In 1832, when McNeill brought the vessel to the Coast and heard from Dr. McLoughlin that the HBC was in search of such a vessel to replace the unserviceable vessel, Vanconver, he quickly sailed to the Sandwich Islands where the Lama was purchased by Chief Factor Duncan Finlayson. Following this, on September 1, 1832, McNeill was hired on by the HBC in Oahu, an act to which the Governor and Committee reluctantly agreed, preferring an American to the incompetent English captains. In the early summer of 1834, McNeill ransomed three shipwrecked Japanese from the Cape Flattery Makah. In 1837, in command of the steamer Beaver, he found Victoria harbour a site which later that year McLoughlin rejected. In January 1838, when the crew of the Beaver mutinied against McNeill's discipline, John Work had to bring the vessel from Fort Simpson to Fort Nisqually with McNeill as a passenger. At that point he was ready to retire in 1838 but a promotion to Chief Trader in November 1839 induced him to stay on. In 1846 in response to the establishment of the international border, McNeill along with sixteen others, laid claim to 640 acres [259 ha] (one square mile) [2.6 sq. km] of land around Fort Nisqually, land to which the HBC/PSAC held possessory rights, a claim which never came to fruition. In 1849-1850 he superintended the construction of Fort Rupert and in 1854 he purchased a town lot in Victoria and in 1855, over 250 acres [101.2 ha] in the Victoria district. He took charge of Fort Simpson for eight years and became Chief Factor in 1856. When in 1861 he returned to the coast after a year's furlough, he was put in charge of Fort Simpson for two years before retiring. He settled on a farm near Gonzales Point, Vancouver Island and in 1869 added his name to a petition to U.S. President Grant asking for annexation of British Columbia to the United States. For a time before his death in 1875, he commanded the HBC's steamer Enterprise.

William Henry McNeill had two wives and twelve children. Around 1831, he married his first wife, Matilda/Neshaki (?-1850), a Kaigane Haida. Nine of their children were William (?-?), Harry (?-?), Alfred (?-?), Helen (?-?), Lucy (?-?), Matilda (?-?), Fanny (?-?), Rebecca (c.1850-?) and Harriet (c.1850-?). Matilda died in 1850 from complications after having given birth to twins. On January 15, 1866, McNeill married Martha (c.1826-1883), a Kinnahwahlux Nass, at St. Paul's Church, Metlakatla, B.C. Martha died October 4, 1883 at the age of fifty-seven.

PS: CU-B Inore/Eagle; BCA log of Convoy; log of Paragon; log of the Lama; HBCA YFDS 5a-7, 13; FtVanASA 3-8; YFASA 12-15, 17-19, 24, 27-32; FtVicASA 1-12, 14-15; FtVicCB 23; FtSimp[N]PJ 3; BCA BCGR CrtR-Land; BCGR-AbstLnd; PSACFtNis; BCCR CCCath; BCGR-Marriage; BCGR-Deaths; 1869 Victoria Directory, p. 38; Van-PL Colonist, Oct. 6, 1883, p. 3 PPS: HBRS VII, p. 314-18 SS: Howay, A List of Trading Vessels; Pierce, Russian America, p. 347-48
See Also: McNeill, Alfred (Son); McNeill, William Henry Jr. (Son); McNeill, Henry (Son)

McNeill, William Henry Jr. (1832 - 1889) (Mixed descent)

Birth: (born to William Henry and Matilda McNeill)

Death: Victoria, British Columbia - October 1889

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice post master, Fort Victoria (1848 - 1849); Apprentice post master, Fort Nez Percés (1849 - 1850); Apprentice post master, Cowlitz Farm (1850 - 1852); Apprentice post master, Fort Victoria depot (1852 - 1853); Apprentice post master, Columbia Department (1853 - 1854).

It is unknown where William McNeill junior got his education, but the sixteen year old was appointed apprentice post master with the HBC in 1848. For the next six years he served at several posts throughout the Columbia and appeared to retire in 1854. McNeill became master of a mail and passenger boat travelling between Victoria and Fort Nisqually and helped explore the Queen Charlotte Islands. Upon his father's death, William Henry Jr. inherited the estate and settled down to farm the Victoria property. He died, aged 57, in Victoria, October 29, 1889 from injuries suffered in a buggy accident.

William McNeill had one wife and nine children. On June 3, 1853, he married Mary Macaulay, mixed descent daughter of Donald Macaulay. Together they had Donald Henry (1854-1928), George Frederick (?-bap.1858-?), Alfred (c.1857-?), William (1860-?), Matilda Rebecca (c.1861-?), Lucy Margaret (1864-?), James Andrew (1866-?), Edward (1871-?) and Ellen Fanny (1874-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 28-32; FtVicASA 1-4; PSACAB 37; BCA BCCR BCCath; Van-PL Colonist, Jan. 14, 1928, p. 1, Oct. 31, 1889, p. 4; Van-PL 1881 Canada Census, Vancouver District, Victoria sub-district SS: Pethick, S. S. Beaver, p. 48
See Also: McNeill, William Henry (Father); McNeill, Alfred (Brother); McNeill, Henry (Brother)

McPhail, Angus [variation: MacFiel, MacFeel] (c. 1809 - 1884) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Garinin, Lochs, Ross, Scotland - c. 1809

Death: Saanich, Vancouver Island - March 1, 1884

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman and labourer, Fort Langley (1838 - 1846); Dairyman, Fort Victoria (1846 - 1855).

Angus McPhail joined the HBC from Stornoway on May 27, 1837 as a labourer originally on a five year contract. He embarked on the Prince Rupert June 21, at Stornoway for his trip to North America. After arriving on the West Coast, he spent his entire career with the Company at two coastal forts, Fort Langley and Fort Victoria as a labourer and dairyman and did not receive an advancement quite possibly because he was illiterate. He finally retired in 1855 and squatted on unsurveyed land in South Saanich which he pre-empted in 1858 and called Bay Farm. After selling his farm to his son-in-law, Alphonse Verdier, and the death of his wife, McPhail moved to Cowichan where he helped build the Mission for the Sisters of St. Anne. His movements during the next few years of his life are uncertain but in the 1870s, he was back in South Saanich and appeared to work as a labourer. He died on March 1, 1884 and was buried in the Catholic section of the Ross Bay Cemetery, Victoria, B.C.

Angus McPhail had two wives and two children. His first wife, with whom he had Anne (c.1850-?) has not been traced. On June 3, 1851 in the Victoria area, Angus married Angele Chartier (?-1862), a "Canadienne Mineure". Their child was Marie (1859-?). Three years after the birth of Marie, Angele died in the Victoria area on December 3, 1862.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; FtVanASA 6-7; YFASA 19-20, 22-32; FtVicASA 1-4, 9; BCA BCGR-CrtR-AbstLnd; BCCR StAndC; Mallandaine, p. 26 SS: Virgin, p. 14; B. Morrison, "From HBC middleman", p. 7

McPhail, John (c. 1809 - 1876) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Lochs, Scotland - c. 1809 (born to Mordac [Murdoch?] McPhail and Catherine M'coskil [McAskil?])

Death: Nisqually Plain near Steilacoom, Pierce County, Washington Territory - December 15, 1876

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1832); Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1833 - 1834); PSAC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1833 - 1843); HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1834 - 1837); PSAC Untraced vocation, Puget Sound Agricultural Company (1840 - 1841); HBC Shepherd, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1849); Shepherd at Tlithlow farm, Fort Nisqually (1850 - 1855); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1853 - 1854); Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1855 - 1857); Watchman, Fort Nisqually (1855 - 1857).

John McPhail joined the HBC on June 20, 1832 and spent most of his career as a labourer and shepherd. On October 10, 1845, he was drawn into the impending border dispute, when the HBC, bent on securing land for itself, registered one square mile [2.6 sq. km] of land for the Company under McPhail's name. By the fall of 1850 he was suffering from very bad rheumatism and drinking tended to take a toll on his work and he took on such additional non-shepherding duties such as planting and harvesting potatoes, washing and clipping sheep, cleaning out the swamp, cutting hay, etc. In November of 1851 both he and his wife were ill, likely with dysentery; after five days, his wife died. From that point he began to regularly appear in the records as drinking heavily, at one point fighting and quarrelling and, at another, creating a disturbance. In 1850, he was given a warning by PSAC that his claim was trespassing on their land. In December of that year a frustrated McPhail was noted as leaving his sheep on the other side of the flooded Nisqually River. The following month, he was discharged and retired to Victoria where he appeared to do odd jobs. On February 1, 1854, he settled on a claim of 316 acres [127.9 ha] in Pierce County and according Fort Nisqually records in outfit 1855-1856 continued working as a combination shepherd and watchman. His drinking habits were hard to change and, on May 27, 1856, he was relieved of being a watchman carrying on with cocking hay, thrashing oats, dipping sheep, collecting dung in the folds, herding, etc., until December 1856 when he appears to have retired. McPhail was granted U.S. citizenship on March 29, 1859 at Pierce County District Court and he took out a Donation Land Claim on Muck Creek, south of Spanaway, Washington. John McPhail was killed accidentally on December 15, 1876 on Nisqually Plain near Steilacoom in Pierce County, Washington. When he was riding on a load of hay on a wagon driven by his son from his farm, also known as Rocky Ridge, the team became frightened and ran. The son yelled for John to jump off, but because by this time John had only one arm, he was unable to break his fall. He broke his neck and died instantly.

John McPhail had four successive wives and seven recorded children. His first wife was Catherine Kennedy (?-?) likely of mixed descent and with whom he had a daughter, Mary (c.1833-?). Catherine died, possibly in childbirth, leaving John a widower. On March 29, 1846, he formalized his marriage to Marie Thérèse, Cascades (c.1816-1848) who was most likely the mother of his three children: Catherine (c.1837-1849), Marie (1839-?) and John (1844-1848). Their formal marriage was short lived for she died at Fort Vancouver on September 24, 1848, two and a half months after the death of their son John. John McPhail then took a third wife who lived with him at Fort Nisqually. When both took ill with dysentery in November 1851, John survived but his third, unnamed wife died on November 23 and was buried on the 24th at the fort. (It is a possibility that she may have been the Catherine McFeel [McPhail] (c.1823-?) who was baptised on December 30, 1849 in St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Church in Victoria.) On May 20, 1854, John McPhail married his fourth wife, Margaret, Snohomish (?-1864) and together they had Catherine (1853-1924), John Jr. (1856-1894) and Murdoc (1857-1931). Margaret died on May 18, 1864.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Prince Rupert IV 6; YFASA 13-15, 19-20, 22-32; YFDS 5b-7; FtVanASA 3-10; FtVicASA 1; HBCABio; BCA BCCR StAndC PPS: HBRV VII, p. 318; Dicky; WSA PugetSWC, January 5, 1877, p. 4; Huggins, Tacoma Weekly, p. 4; CCR 1a, 1b, 2b; Washington Territory Donation Land Claims, p. 125 SS: S. A. Anderson, The Physical Structure, p. 173-83

McPherson, Angus (fl. 1840 - 1843) (Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly Rupert's Land, British North America

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice, Fort Vancouver general charges (1840 - 1841); Native apprentice, Cowlitz Farm (1841 - 1843).

Angus McPherson joined the HBC in 1840 and returned to Canada in the spring of 1843.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22; FtVanASA 6-8

McPherson, John (c. 1816 - ?) (Mixed descent or Native)

Birth: Hudson Bay, Rupert's Land - c. 1816

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice post master, Fort Colvile (1840 - 1841); Post master, Fort Colvile (1840 - 1841); Post master in charge, Fort Kootenay (1841 - 1842); Post master in charge (out of Fort Colvile), Flathead Post [Fort Connah, Saleesh House] (1842 - 1845).

A native from the Hudson Bay area whose step-parents were Thomas and Charlotte Corcoran, John McPherson joined the HBC around 1832. Between 1833-1840, he first acted as an apprentice and then an interpreter at Albany and the Lake Superior area. He came to the Columbia District in 1840 and worked mainly in the Kootenay/Flathead area until 1845 when he retired from the Company.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 24-25; FtVanASA 6-8; HBCABio

McPherson, Thomas (fl. 1840 - 1844) (Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly Rupert's Land, British North America

Death: probably Canada

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice, Fort Vancouver general charges (1840 - 1841); Native apprentice, Fort Stikine (1841 - 1842); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1842 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1843 - 1844).

Thomas McPherson is a fur trade rogue who is best remembered for drawing up a contract in the winter of 1841 to kill his boss, John McLoughlin Jr. McPherson joined the HBC in 1840 but didn't appear to work under a contract as he was still serving his apprenticeship. By 1841, he was in Fort Stikine and was the nearest thing to a second in command. His motivations for plotting the murder appear to be two-fold: he resented McLoughlin's attempt to prevent stealing, drunkenness and disorder and, McLoughlin had beaten McPherson when he found McPherson had stolen a blanket and cotton out of the store to give to an Indian woman (FtVanCB 30, fo. 54). As a result, in the winter of 1841, McPherson drew up a contract for the murder of McLoughlin (FtVanCB 30, fo. 55-55d). All but one of the men signed the pledge. McPherson did not pull the trigger in April of the following year but was considered a co-conspirator. In fact, John McLoughlin Sr. assessed him as a soft stupid sleeping lad whom those in charge, had some difficulty to keep awake, to attend to what he had to do, to assist the Trader in the store (FtVanCB 30, fo. 32).

He didn't receive wages for 1842-1843. He returned east of the Rockies to Canada in 1844.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-23; FtVanASA 6-8; FtVanCB 29; FtVanCB 30, fo. 32, 54, 55-55d

McRae, John (fl. 1842 - 1846) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Stornoway, Lewis, Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Carpenter, Fort Vancouver general charges (1842 - 1843); Carpenter, Fort Vancouver (1843 - 1844); Carpenter, Beaver (steamer) (1844 - 1845); Stoker, Beaver (steamer) (1844 - 1845); Stoker, Beaver (steamer) (1845 - 1846); Carpenter, Fort Nisqually (1846).

John McRae joined the HBC from Stornoway in 1841 as a carpenter. In February 1846 at the end of his contract, he left the steamer Beaver at Fort Nisqually where he was put to work repairing wheels for a month before going to Fort Vancouver and joining the York Factory Express. He returned to the British Isles aboard the Prince Rupert.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 7-8; YFASA 22-26

McTavish, Alexander (1784 - 1832) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Scotland - 1784

Death: Lake Nipigon, Upper Canada – December 9, 1832

Fur trade employee

NWC Apprentice clerk, Isaac Todd (ship) (1813 - 1814); Apprentice clerk, Pacific slopes (1814 - 1817?).

Alexander McTavish, probably a relative of Donald McTavish and James Chisholm McTavish, was an apprentice clerk for the NWC on aboard the Isaac Todd which sailed to Fort Astoria. He spent possibly three years in the area before appearing at Fort William in 1817. In 1828, as an HBC employee, he was promoted to Chief Trader while he was in charge at Lake Nipigon from 1824-1832. The isolation must have worked on him for his character, work habits, and health seem to have deteriorated from excess drinking and he died of a stroke at his post.

PS: HBCA SimpsonCB PPS: Cox, p. 139; ChSoc, p. 729; HBRS XXII, p. 484; HBRS XXX, p. 196-97

See Also: McTavish, Donald (probable Relative); McTavish, James Chisholm (probable Relative)

McTavish, Donald (c. 1771 - 1814) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Strath Errick, Scotland - c. 1771

Death: Columbia River, Pacific Northwest - May 22, 1814

Fur trade employee

NWC Passenger, Isaac Todd (ship) (1813); Partner, Fort George [Astoria] (1814).

NWC partner Donald McTavish spent only a matter of weeks in the Columbia before meeting an untimely death. A first cousin of Simon McTavish, he joined the NWC as a clerk in 1790. He spent the next eighteen years east of the Rockies and in 1811-1812 he made a return trip to England to explore the possibilities of Northwest Coast trade with England and China. Back at Fort William upon hearing from David Thompson about the American fort at Astoria, and, seeing an opportunity for the outbreak of war in 1812, McTavish and John McDonald of Garth hurried back to England and outfitted the Isaac Todd [Captain Fraser] to sail to the Coast to seize Astoria. He took barmaid Jane Barnes along for the trip; however, his voyageurs almost did not make the trip as they had been pressed into the service of the Royal Navy. Further, the voyageurs were temporarily imprisoned at Tenerife, in the Canary Islands as they were suspected of being citizens of France. McTavish arrived at the Columbia on April 23, 1814 only to find that the NWC had purchased it in October and Captain Black from the H.M.S. Raccoon had arrived months before and had ceremoniously taken possession of it as a prize of war renaming it Fort George. Immediately McTavish set about his task of taking charge of the fort, then in disarray, and putting Jane under the care of Alexander Henry, Jr. He quickly moved to ingratiate himself with the local Chinooks, Clatsops, Cathlamets and Tillamooks (Cox, P. 142) as well as instill respect as he planned and oversaw the dramatic show execution on the wharf of the fort of the killers of Archibald Pelton (Cox, p. 144). A month after his arrival, McTavish and four others, including Henry were drowned while crossing the Columbia in a boat from the Isaac Todd, anchored on the north bank opposite Astoria. He was buried with a stone marker, now in the Astoria museum, which reads "In Memory of D. McTavish, Aged 42 Years, Drowned Crossing this River May 22, 1814" (Heritage Center Museum). When the marker and body were found years later, he was reinterred in the city hall lawn. The stone, one of the earliest of its kind on the coast, remains in the Astoria museum.

PPS: SHdeSB Liste PPS: ChSoc LVII, p. 671, 682, 708, 728, 728n, 729, 732, 734-43; Cox, p. 142, 145; Corney, Voyages in the Northern, p. 32 SS: Bancroft, History of the Northwest, vol. II, p. 129; DCB Morrison; Barry, "Archibald Pelton", p. 199-201; Ruby & Brown, The Chinook Indians, p. 150; Heritage Center Museum, Astoria

See Also: McTavish, Alexander (Relative); McTavish, James Chisholm (Relative); Barnes, Jane

McTavish, James Chisholm (fl. c. 1813 - 1827) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Scotland

Death: Island of Orleans, Lower Canada [Quebec] - December 1827

NWC Clerk, Isaac Todd (ship) (1813 - 1814); Clerk, Pacific slopes (1814 - 1816?).

James McTavish, probably a relative of Donald McTavish and Alexander McTavish, was a NWC clerk entrusted with letters aboard the Isaac Todd which sailed to Fort Astoria. He may have spent two years in the area and was at Fort William in 1816 when it was captured by Lord Selkirk. He was in charge of the Kings Posts on the Lower St. Lawrence under both the NWC and HBC regimes until he was dismissed from the service in 1827. He died shortly after.

PPS: Cox, p. 139; ChSoc XLV, p. 133n; HBRS XXII, p. 484

See Also: McTavish, Donald (probable Relative); McTavish, Alexander (probable Relative)

McTavish, John George (c. 1778 - 1847) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Dunardary, Argyleshire, Scotland - c. 1778 (born to Lachlan MacTavish, chief of Clan Tavish)

Death: Lac Des Deux Montagnes [Lake of Two Mountains], Canada East - July 20, 1847

Fur trade officer

NWC Clerk, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1811 - 1812); Partner, Fort George [Astoria] (1813 - 1814); Partner in charge of canoe, Brigade to Fort Vancouver (1814); Untraced vocation, Columbia District (1815 - 1816).

A lasting player in the fur trade, John George McTavish spent only four years west of the Rockies, otherwise building his career east of the Divide. He joined the NWC in 1798 and, in 1811, he first crossed the Rockies, as part of a brigade under John McDonald of Garth, to supply David Thompson. After wintering at Spokane House, he travelled with Thompson back to Fort William in 1812. In 1813 he headed a group of twenty from the NWC to Astoria arriving there on April 11th. That October McTavish, along with John Stuart, signed the preliminary agreement transferring the PFC to the NWC. He wintered at the fort and, on April 4, 1814, in a brigade of ten canoes and seventy-eight people including his family, began the journey up the river on a punitive expedition against a tribe that had attacked and robbed NWC canoes at the Cascades. On April 11, at Three Mile Rapids, west of the Dalles, McTavish's canoe sank but everything was saved and dried out. That same year he was made partner in the NWC and in 1815 went on furlough returning for the 1815-1816 season, his last in the Columbia. Because he subsequently became involved in the NWC/HBC rivalry, in 1819 he was arrested and sent to England to be tried. The case was dismissed but on the return journey in 1820, he travelled with and struck up a lifelong friendship with Governor George Simpson. Somewhat extravagant and often in trouble financially, he became Chief Factor in 1821 at the coalition of the two companies and held various senior positions east of the Rockies. He grew very fat in his old age and died leaving a sizable estate. His will in the HBCA is virtually unreadable.

John George McTavish had four successive wives and at least nine children. His first wife, the mixed descent daughter of John Thomas, was Charlotte Thomas (?-?) whom he married in 1803 but abandoned at Charlton Island in 1806. His second wife, the mixed descent daughter of Roderick Mackenzie, was Nancy Mackenzie whom he married around 1814. They had at least five daughters. He then abandoned Nancy in 1830, and travelled to Scotland where he married Catherine A. Turner (?-1841), a Scottish woman from Aberdeenshire. This effectively cut his ties with the mixed descent community. They had two more daughters. In 1843, he married Elizabeth Cameron, the niece of Chief Factor Angus Cameron. They had two additional daughters. The abandonment of his mixed descent wives did not hold him in good stead with his fellow fur trade officers (Van Kirk, 187-188).

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10; SimpsonCB PPS: ChSoc LVII, pp. 670, 671, 728, 728n; Coues, p. 873; ChSoc XLV, p. 22, 25-26, 118-20, 128-32, 145, 148, 151; HBRS I, p. 456-7; CCR 1b SS: DCB Van Kirk; Van Kirk, "Many Tender Ties", p. 108, 184-86, 187, 205, 206, 183, 187-88

See Also: Dodd, Charles (Son-in-Law); Leblanc, Pierre (Relative); Simpson, Sir George; Mactavish, Dugald (Relative)

Mebius, Charles Frederick Ernest (c. 1828 - 1893) (German)

Birth: Meissen, Germany - c. 1828

Death: Victoria, British Columbia - August 3, 1893

Fur trade employee

HBC Cooper, Fort Simpson (1852 - 1855); Cooper, Fort Victoria (1855 - 1858).

Charles Frederick Mebius had an unusual way of entering the fur trade. He was a crew member of HMS Pandora [Captain Mott], when, on October 29, 1852 as that ship was at Fort Simpson, he entered the employ of the HBC as a cooper. He left Fort Simpson in November 1855 and soon took up employment at Fort Victoria. On July 15, 1858, he was discharged. In 1863, he was listed as being a cooper on Fisgard St., Victoria and in 1869, a cooper on Rae Street, Victoria. He eventually died in Victoria on August 3, 1893.

On April 30, 1864, a licence was issued for the marriage of Charles Frederick Ernest Mebius and Janetta Martin. They were married on May 3, 1864 in St. John's Church.

PS: HBCA FtSimp[N]PJ 7-8; FtVicASA 1-6; HBCABio; BCA 1863 Victoria Directory, p. 72; 1869 Victoria Directory, p. 38; BCGR-VICSMarriageL; Van-PL Colonist, May 6, 1864, p. 3

Mecuras, Magnus [variation: McCuras, McCeuris] (c. 1802 - c. 1840) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: possibly Birsay, Orkney - c. 1802

Death: possibly Orkney, United Kingdom – possibly before 1841

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia Department (1829 - 1830); Seaman, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1832).

Sailor Magnus Mecuras joined the HBC from Birsay on January 31, 1828 for five years. He appeared in the Columbia Department records until 1832 at which point he likely returned to Orkney. There he appears to have married Ann Harvey on March 29, 1836 and together they had a daughter, Williamina (1837-?). Mecuras may have been at sea or may have died before 1841 for in the census of that year, wife Ann was living with her parents at "Hunton", Birsay.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 9, 11; YFDS 4a-4b; FtVanASA 2; OrkA OPR; OrkA 1841 U.K. Census, Orkney-Birsay

Meek, Joseph LaFayette (1810 - 1875) (American)

Birth: Washington County, Virginia, United States - February 9, 1810

Death: North Plains, Washington County, Oregon, United States - June 20, 1875

Fur trade employee

AFC Trapper, Pacific slopes (1829 - 1840); Trader, Pacific slopes (1829 - 1840).

(The life of Joe Meek, the quintessential Mountain Man, has been covered extensively in biographies elsewhere, so what follows is a bare summary.) A cousin of President Polk's wife, a young Joe Meek left his native Virginia for St. Louis, Missouri where he worked for his brother in a sawmill and store. Another brother, working for William Sublette, introduced him to the fur trade and so Meek set off for the Rocky Mountains in March 1829. For the next eleven years, he trapped arduously, had numerous adventures and fights, drank his share of alcohol, and established lasting friendships on both sides of the Continental Divide. In 1840, now with his third wife, he settled in the Willamette (a land claim near Hillsboro) along with his friends George Ebbert and Robert Newell. In 1843 he participated in the Champoege meeting at which he was elected sheriff. He became involved in the fight against the natives involved in the Whitman massacre and the Indian wars in general. In 1848, during the Cayuse War, he was on the Muster Rolls as a dispatch carrier and commissioner to Washington. Joe Meek died June 20, 1875 and is buried near North Plains.

Joseph LaFayette Meek had three successive wives and seven children. The first wife, a native, was killed in a battle with the Bannocks. The second left him to return to her tribe, leaving him with a daughter, Helen Mar. The third was Virginia (c.1824-?), Nez Perce. Together they had son Courtney N. (c.1839-?), Hiram C. (c.1841-?), Olivia (c.1843-?), Josephine (c.1845-?), Atchinson (c.1847-?) and Mary S. (c.1849-?).

PS: OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Washington County PPS: O. Russell, p. 39, 48, 50, 112, 161, 162, 165, 167; Victor, The Early Indian Wars SS: Dictionary of American History, v. XII, p. 494; Dobbs, p. 125-35; Victor, River of the West; Tobie; Holman, p. 114

See Also: Ebbert, George Wood; Meek, Stephen Hall L. (Brother); Newell, Robert

Meek, Stephen Hall L. (1807 - 1886) (American)

Birth: Washington County, Virginia, United States - February 9, 1807

Death: Edna, California, United States - January 11, 1886

Free trader

SJ & S Trader, Rocky Mountains (1827); AFC Guide, Captain Bonneville (1832 - 1835); HBC Worked for Dr. John McLoughlin, Fort Vancouver (? - ?); Member of McKay's Yerba Buena expedition, South Party (? - ?).

Older brother of Joseph Lafayette Meek, Stephen Hall Meek joined the fur trade in the 1820s and in the 1840s guided parties to the Oregon territory and California. He went to the California gold mines in 1848, returning in 1850, back again in 1851 when he acquired a fortune of $34,000, which he lost in a land deal. Throughout the rest of his life he mined, guided, trapped and hunted. Stephen died in Etna, California on January 11, 1886.

Stephen Hall L. Meek married an immigrant girl, Elizabeth Schoonover (c.1827-1865) in St. Louis in 1845. One recorded daughter was Tucey J. (c.1846-?).

PS: OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Clackamas County SS: Portland Oregon Journal, 18 April 1927; OHQ, v. XXXV, p. 1-9; Corning, Dictionary of Oregon, p. 164; Hafen, Mountain Men and Fur, p. 347

See Also: Meek, Joseph LaFayette (Brother)

Megan, John (fl. 1857 - 1859) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1857 - 1859).

John Megan made two return voyages to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; log of Princess Royal 4-5

Meheula [variation: Miheula] (fl. 1845 - 1848) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1848).

Meheula joined the HBC from Oahu in 1845 and appears to have spent his time working at Fort Vancouver and was likely a resident of the adjacent Kanaka village. He returned to Oahu, where he received his final HBC wages, in July 1848.

PS: HBCA YFASA 25-29; SandIsAB 7

Mellostod, Lars (fl. 1853 - 1854) (probably Norwegian)

Birth: probably Norway

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1853 - 1854).

Lars Mellostod's name appeared on the 1853-1854 Fort Victoria servants' abstracts with no further information. He may have been one of the Norwegians who came out on the Colinda. He did not appear to stay in the area.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1-2

Meloche, Antoine [1] (fl. 1817 - 1818) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1817 - 1818); Untraced vocation, Fort Nez Percés (1818).

Antoine Meloche crossed the Rockies in 1817 with Joseph LaRocque's party and was a winterer in 1818. In 1818 while at Fort Walla Walla [Nez Percés], he became the target for a local Chief's anger as Alexander Ross had refused him a gun and axe. Venting his anger on Meloche, the local Chief, Prince, whom Meloche trusted as he had taken care of him when he was sick, asked Meloche for his gun and, finding it loaded decided to keep it. The Chief shot Meloche's horse so that he could not be pursued and Meloche was stopped from pursuing the Chief on another horse by Ross. The situation resolved itself some time later when Prince was accidentally shot and killed with the same gun (Ross, p. 163-164). As Meloche did not appear on other associated records, he was, or likely became, a member of the Fort William Brigade.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: A. Ross, The Fur Hunters, p. 163-64
See Also: Meloche, Antoine (possible Relative)

Meloche, Antoine [2] (fl. 1830) (Undetermined origin)

Birth: possibly Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

HBC Goer and comer, Columbia Department (1830).

Antoine [2], who may be the same as, or a relative of, Antoine Meloche [1] appeared in the Columbia in the summer of 1830 as a comer and goer from Montreal. In 1830-1831, he was a Montreal summerman.

PS: HBCA FtVanAB 26; YFASA 10
See Also: Meloche, Antoine (possible Relative)

Menard, Jean (c. 1813 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Remi, Lower Canada - c. 1813

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1834 - 1835); Steersman, Snake Party (1835 - 1837); Middleman on Montreal Pay List, Columbia Department (1837 - 1838).

Jean Menard joined the HBC from St. Remi in 1834. He appears to have worked one three-year contract in the Columbia District for he is recorded as going east over the Rockies in March 1837.

PS: HBCA YFASA 14-17; YFDS 5c-7; FtVanASA 3-4

Merriman, Peter [variation: Merryman] (fl. 1851 - 1859) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Death: probably Victoria, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Norman Morison (barque) (1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria general charges (1851 - 1852); Sponsored settler, Fort Victoria (1852 - 1855).

Peter Merriman came to the coast as a HBC sponsored settler arriving October 30, 1851 at Victoria. He worked for the HBC in the Fort Victoria area until 1855 when he retired. In 1857 his wife and child arrived on the Princess Royal, at Peter's expense, and Peter carried on an account with the Company until 1862. Between 1857-1859 he purchased 287 acres [116.1 ha] of land in the Victoria District. He has not been traced after that but may have died before 1871 for at that date, a Mrs. Merriman was living alone on Cedar Hill Road, Victoria.

Peter Merriman had two sons, William (1850-?) and Peter John (1860-?).

PS: HBCA log of Norman Morison 2; YFASA 31-32; YFDS 22; FtVicASA 1-6, 8-9; FtVicCB 13; log of Princess Royal [2] 3; BCA 1871 Victoria Directory, p. 27

Merrit, Josiah [variation: Merret] (fl. 1849 - 1852) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Cook, Una (brigantine) (1849 - 1852).

Josiah Merrit came to the coast from London as a cook on the HBC brig Una, a vessel which was wrecked on December 25, 1851 at Neah Bay and destroyed a week later. On January 31, 1852, one month after the event, he was discharged at an unknown location.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 10; YFASA 30-31; YFDS 22; FtVicASA 1-2

Merritt, Josiah (fl. 1826 - 1828) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, William & Ann (brig) (1826 - 1828).

Josiah Merritt shipped on with the HBC in London in September 1826 and sailed to the coast on a supply voyage of the William & Ann. The vessel did no coastal trading and it was an uneventful voyage for Merritt. He arrived back in London with the vessel in February 1828.

PS: HBCA log of William & Ann 1

Merryman, William [a] (1811 - 1850) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: Harray, Orkney, United Kingdom - November 10, 1811 (born to John Merryman and Jean [Scarth] Merryman)

Death: "Bimbister," Harray, Orkney, United Kingdom - February 22, 1850

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1834 - 1835); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1837); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1838).

In 1833, most likely in an effort to acquire some capital to buy land, a twenty-two year old William Merryman joined the HBC from Harray, Orkney. From Stromness, he made his way to the new world and, after travelling down the Columbia River, arrived at Fort Vancouver. There he worked for a single contract as a labourer but nothing is known of the exact nature of his work as the Fort Vancouver journals no longer exist. At the end of his contract, he went east over the Rockies in March 1838 and home to the British Isles on the Prince Rupert. After his arrival back in Orkney, he appears to have moved back in with his parents at "Eastquoy" and in 1842 got married. He acquired half (six acres) [2.4 ha] of a farm called "Overhouse", his brother-in-law, Magnus Louttit, running the other half. In 1850, while he was at "Bimbister", he died and was buried on February 22. He left a wife and two children.

William Merryman married Mary Louttit on November 24, 1842 in Harray. They had two children, William (c.1845-?) and James (c.1850-?).

PS: OrkA OPR; OrkA 1841 & 1851 U.K. Census, Orkney-Harray; HBCA YFASA 14-15, 17; YFDS 5c-7; FtVanASA 3-5

Methode, Francois [standard: François] (fl. 1813 - 1822) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

NWC Member, Columbia River area (1808 - 1811) (with David Thompson); Gouvernail, Kootenae House (winter 1813 - 1814); Freeman, Snake Country (1821 - 1822).

Francois Methode wintered with David Thompson in the mountains in 1808-1809 and again in 1809-1810. On September 25, 1811, he was sent from Canoe River down the Columbia to meet Finan McDonald. In 1813, he was re-engaged on a two year contract and spent that winter at the Kootenae post. He likely stayed in the area for in outfit 1822 he was found working as a freeman for the HBC but failed to come out of the Snake Country in fall, 1822. His fate is not known.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10; OA Thompson Journals; HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 4, 10; FtSpokRD 1 PPS: Coues, p. 610

Meyer, Heinrich (fl. 1858 - 1861) (probably German)

Birth: probably Germany

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, New Caledonia (1858 - 1860); Untraced vocation, Western Department (1860 - 1861).

Heinrich Meyer worked for the HBC, appearing on the sundries account in outfits 1858-1860. His contract ended in 1862 and in outfit 1861-1862 he appeared on the sundries account with a small credit of £0.7.2 carried over from the previous outfit. He appeared on the 1862-1864 sundries accounts with a debt of £11.6.3 carried over from the previous outfits.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 6-11

Meyet, Pascal (fl. 1824 - 1825) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Sulpice, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825).

Pascal Meyet worked in New Caledonia from 1824-1825, and was back in Montreal in 1825.

PS: HBCA YFASA 4-5; FtStJmsLS 1

Miataronai, Michel (fl. 1830) (probably Native)

Birth: possibly Upper or Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

HBC Goer and comer, Columbia Department (1830).

Michel Miataronai was a Montreal comer and goer into the Columbia in the summer of 1830.

PS: HBCA FtVanAB 26

Michon, Charles (c. 1820 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably L'Assomption, Quebec - c. 1820

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1843).

Charles Michon joined the HBC from L'Assomption in 1840 and returned there in 1843.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22; FtVanASA 6-8

Mickeljohn, John (fl. 1855 - 1856) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1855 - 1856).

John Mickeljohn made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Miheula (fl. 1845 - 1848) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1848).

Meheula joined the HBC from Oahu in 1845 on a three-year contract. It is assumed that he finished his contract and didn't renew it, for outfit 1848-1849 did not show him receiving wages.

PS: HBCA YFASA 25-28

Mikapako (fl. 1844 - 1849) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1845); Labourer, Vancouver (barque) (1845); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1846 - 1849); Passenger or labourer, Columbia (barque) (1849).

Mikapako joined the HBC in Oahu in 1844 and began receiving wages for his work at Fort Vancouver on November 13 of that year. He worked on the barque Vancouver as well as Fort Vancouver as a labourer until October 31, 1849, at which point he returned to Oahu aboard the barque Columbia. He was paid his final HBC wages in Honolulu and from that point disappears from record.

PS: HBCA log of Vancouver [3], 2; YFASA 24-30; YFDS 15, 20; SandIsAB 10

Mikiloah (fl. 1841 - 1845) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Oahu, Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, California Estate (1841 - 1842); Labourer, California Estate (1842 - 1844).

Mikiloah, from Oahu, began work with the HBC on July 9, 1841 at its California operations. His contract ended in 1844, at which point he was discharged in Oahu, possibly as late as 1845.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 12; YFASA 22-25; SandIsAB 5

Mild, John (fl. 1853 - c. 1855) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Death: possibly British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (brigantine) (1852 - 1853).

John Mild joined the HBC on June 28, 1852 in London and sailed to the coast on the Vancouver. He was most likely still on it when it came to grief on Rose Spit, Queen Charlotte Islands in August 1853. It is uncertain how long he stayed in the area, possibly up to 1855, before returning to London.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; FtVicASA 1-2

Miles, James (fl. 1844 - 1846) (British: English)

Birth: probably in or near Catham (Chatham?), England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1844 - 1845); Seaman, Beaver (steamer) (1845 - 1846); Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1846 - 1847).

James Miles joined the HBC in 1843 on a five-year contract as a seaman. He worked on two ships in the Columbia until October 31, 1846, at which point he returned to England on the Vancouver.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-26; log of Vancouver [3]; YFDS 17

Miles, John (c. 1826 - 1861) (Canadian: English)

Birth: possibly Brockville, Upper Canada - c. 1826 (born to CT Robert Seaborn Miles)

Death: Victoria, Colony of Vancouver Island - January 24, 1861

Fur trade employee

HBC Clerk, Fort Victoria (1853 - 1854); Clerk, Fort Vancouver (1853 - 1854); Clerk, Cowlitz (1853 - 1854).

John Miles, son of a Chief Trader in the HBC fur trade, was sent to the British Isles at the age of four. John Miles returned from London to the Pacific Northwest to oversee and help rationalize HBC accounts which crossed a British Colony, a US territory and a fur trading concession. From his arrival at Fort Vancouver, on January 18, 1853 to June 1854, he visited various posts between Vancouver and Victoria but failed to impress because of his upper class airs. In February of 1854, he purchased land in Victoria and that summer returned to England. In 1858, armed with a letter of introduction from George Simpson, he re-appeared back on the Coast and obtained employment in the British Columbia Lands and Works Department as a clerk and accountant; the following year, a J. Miles purchased 217 acres [87.8 ha] in North Saanich. In September, 1860, he appears to have travelled up the coast in a canoe, arriving at Fort Simpson on September 25, 1860 and possibly because of this trip, the popular volunteer member of the Union Hook and Ladder Company became ill. At the beginning of the following year, possibly predicting his own death, he quickly got married and died the following day. After he died, flags at the engine and truck houses were flown at half mast.

On January 22, 1861, a licence was issued for the marriage of John Miles and Elizabeth Merson. They were married the following day on January 23.

PS: HBCA log of Prince Rupert IV 4; FtVanASA 9; FtVanCB 41, 42; FtVicASA 2-3; BCA FtSimp[N]P; BCA BCGR-Crt Land; BCGR-VICSMarriageL; Van-PL Colonist July 25, 1861, p. 3, January 26, 1861, p. 3; TacP-FtNis Huggins, Feb. 13, 1904
PPS: Dickey

Millar, James [c] (fl. 1838 - 1843) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: possibly Birsay, Orkney

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1838); Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); PSAC Employee, Puget Sound Agricultural Company (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Nisqually (1841 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1843); HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1843).

James Millar joined the HBC from Birsay on April 4, 1838 for five years and sailed to York Factory. He travelled overland to the Columbia and began work in 1839. In the spring of 1843, after working briefly in farming operations, his contract ended at which point he went east of the Rockies and returned to the British Isles aboard the Prince Rupert.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Prince Rupert IV 11; YFASA 19-20, 22-23; FtVanASA 6-8

Millar, Joseph [variation: Miller] (fl. 1846 - 1855) (British: English)

Birth: possibly Woolwich, England

Maritime officer

HBC 1st mate, Cowlitz (barque) (1846 - 1851); 1st mate, Norman Morison (barque) (1851 - 1852); Master, Otter (steamer) (1852 - 1855); Passenger, Princess Royal (barque) (1855).

Joseph Millar joined the HBC on October 1, 1846 as first mate of the barque Cowlitz and made two return voyages to the Northwest coast on it. On Hawaiian Islands on the second voyage out, Millar faced a mutiny when, prompted by California gold fever, almost the entire crew deserted. He then took action by imprisoning the apprentices aboard, sending them to a local prison to await transport back to England and replacing almost the entire crew with local Sandwich Islanders. His next return journey to the coast on the immigrant supply vessel Norman Morison was not nearly so momentous, and on, August 26, 1852, he took command of the steamer Otter for its journey to the coast. He plied the coast for three years and was discharged for being “a confirmed drunkard, enfeebled in body and mind, incapable of exertion and altogether unfit for duty” (FtVicCB 11, fo. 92d) on January 3, 1855 and the following day joined the Princess Royal for its voyage back to the British Isles. Although his actions always received previous high praise, his dismissal may have been related to his spending for by 1855, he had accumulated a debt of £269.3.11, a very large amount by any standards.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; YFASA 27-28; FtVicASA 1-3; FtVicCB 11, fo. 92d; log of Princess Royal 1; HBCA Joseph Millar search file PPS: HBRS XXXII, p. 76, 101

Millejours, Augustin (c. 1812 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably in or near Mascouche or St. Laurent (d. of Montreal), Lower Canada - c. 1812

Death: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1833 - 1834); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1834 - 1835); Steersman, Snake Party (1835 - 1837); Middleman, Snake Party (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1839); Middleman, Snake Party (1838 - 1839).

Augustin Millejours joined the HBC from Mascouche in 1833. He spent much of his time with the Snake Party, part of it transporting members in and out of the territory. He returned east over the Rockies to Montreal in 1839 in retirement.

PS: HBCA YFASA 13-15, 18-19; YFDS 5b-7, 9; FtVanASA 3-5 SS: Québécois in Orégon, p. 272

Miller, Alfred Jacob (1810 - 1874) (American)

Birth: Baltimore, Maryland - January 2, 1810 (born to George H. Miller and Harriet Jacobs)

Death: Baltimore, Maryland - June 26, 1874

Other

IND. Painter, Rendezvous (1837).

Alfred Jacob Miller's name is associated with fur trade art. Miller studied art in 1831-1832 under Thomas Sulley in Baltimore and then at the École des Beaux Arts in Paris and then Rome in 1833. In 1834 he returned to Baltimore where he opened up a studio but, apparently unsuccessful, went to New Orleans in 1837 and opened a studio. That year, he was hired by William Drummond Stewart to make sketches to be later developed into paintings for Stewart's Perth, Scotland castle. Miller accompanied Stewart to the 1837 Rendezvous on the Green River, along the way making possibly two hundred watercolour sketches. He returned to his New Orleans studio where he prepared sketches for a successful Baltimore exhibition in 1838. He had an even more successful exhibition in New York at the Apollo Gallery in May, 1839, before he sailed for Scotland in September 1840. Miller, who had developed a limp from rheumatism, was given a room and studio to paint at Murthly Castle as well as a pony phaeton [light open carriage] to get around. He painted for Stewart very large canvases at the castle and, in the winter of 1841-1842, in London. He returned to Baltimore in the spring of 1842 and spent much of his remaining career reworking sketches into studio versions as well as painting portraits. The Murthly Castle paintings were sold at auction in Edinburgh by Stewart's adopted son Francis Nicholls Stewart when the former died in 1871. Several of Miller's sketches were lost until 1935, when they were found in a storeroom in the Peale Museum in Baltimore.

Paintings: Many of Miller's watercolour sketches are held at the Walters Art Gallery in Baltimore, Maryland; two hundred of Miller's sketches that were reworked twenty years after the 1837 Rendezvous appear in Marvin Ross' The West of Jacob Miller (1837), University of Oklahoma Press, 1951.

SS: M. C. Ross, p. xi-xxviii; M. R. Porter & Davenport, p. 183-200

Miller, David (fl. 1845 - 1847) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Apprentice, Columbia (barque) (1845 - 1846); Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1846 - 1847).

Young David Miller shipped on with the HBC vessel Columbia in London on October 2, 1845 and sailed to the coast finishing off his apprenticeship. He arrived back in London on the Vancouver on July 13, 1847.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; log of Columbia 9; log of Vancouver [3] 2

Miller, Frederick C. (fl. 1854 - 1861) (probably British: English)

Birth: probably England

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria general charges (1854 - 1855); Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1860 - 1861).

Frederick C. Miller worked for the HBC in the Victoria area in 1854-1855 and was back again in 1861. He has not been tracked after his arrival back in the British Isles on June 25, 1861.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 2; log of Princess Royal 6

Miller, John (fl. 1823 - 1824) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Carpenter, Lively (brig) (1823 - 1824); 1st mate, Lively (brig) (from August 4, 1823).

John Miller was a ship's carpenter aboard the Lively, a brig chartered by the HBC. On January 3, 1823, he sailed from Table Bay, Cape of Good Hope and rounded the Horn in March. In July he witnessed an altercation between the ship's owner and captain, Robert Ritchie and the boy William Forbes; as a result he swore out a deposition on July 2, 1823. He appeared at a court of enquiry held at Fort George August 3, 1823 involving the case of the drunken first mate. He must have been a trusted member of the crew for Miller replaced Hartridge as first mate. He sailed from Fort George on August 6 and arrived in England on March 25, 1824.

PS: HBCA log of Lively 1; ShipExt

Miller, Joseph [1] (fl. 1811 - 1813) (American)

Birth: probably Baltimore, Maryland

Fur trade officer

PFC Partner, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (1810 - 1812).

Joseph Miller, a man with a temper, had been a member of a U.S. army when he resigned from his officer's position in disgust at having been refused furlough and went off trapping with the natives. In 1809 he joined the Pacific Fur Company along with Ramsay Crooks and Robert McClellan and was still with them when the small group joined Wilson Price Hunt's PFC Overland Expedition as trading partners at St. Louis in September, 1810. In late summer of 1811, Miller crossed the Continental Divide with the party and on October 9, 1811, while at Henry's Fort, became headstrong, gave up his shares and detached himself from the main party joining John Hoback, Jacob Reznor and Edward Robinson to independently trap beaver. The small group tried trapping throughout the fall and winter in the Snake River area but they were robbed twice by the natives, losing almost everything they had, and as a result were driven to near-starvation. On August 20, 1812, the small group was picked up by Robert Stuart's returning eastward expedition. Hoback, Reznor and Robinson stayed in the area to trap, a decision which would soon lead to their death. Miller, on the other hand, acted as a guide for the Stuart party from the Snake to the Bear River, but as members of the party felt that he was taking them too far south, they abandoned his advice and took a more northerly route. (Miller's suggested more southerly route was correct and he is credited with laying the groundwork for the stretch of the Oregon Trail lying between the Snake and Bear Rivers.) During the winter of 1811-1812, he may have seen Great Salt Lake. On April 30, 1813, he arrived back in St. Louis with the Stuart party and has not been traced after that.

PPS: K. W. Porter, Roll of Overland, p. 110; A. Ross, Adventures, p. 228 SS: Chittenden, p. 183, 191, 207, 208, 795, [bio] 907

Miller, Joseph [2] (fl. 1851 - 1852) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime officer

HBC 1st mate, Norman Morison (barque) (1851 - 1852).

Joseph Miller made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison. While on the coast, he would have visited several coastal posts.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Milligan, Richard (fl. 1811 - 1814) (probably American)

Birth: possibly New York, New York

Death: probably United States of America

Fur trade employee

PFC Passenger, Beaver (ship) (1811 - 1812); Tailor, Fort George [Astoria] (1812 - 1813); Tailor, Willamette Post (winter 1813 - 1814).

Richard Milligan was hired as a tailor by the PFC in New York in October, 1811. On October 10, he boarded the Astor ship Beaver [Cornelius Sowle] and sailed round the Horn, landing at Fort Astoria in May, 1812. While at the post, he spent the majority of his time making trousers and shirts for the men. After the PFC was taken over by the NWC, Milligan spent the winter of 1813-1814 at the Willamette post, having not yet joined the NWC. He probably trapped during the winter and then made his way back to the East Coast.

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria; HBCA NWCAB 10 SS: K. W. Porter, John Jacob Astor, vol. 1, p. 475-478

Mills, John Powell (fl. 1852 - 1854) (British: English)

Birth: probably England

Maritime officer

HBC Captain, Colinda (barque) (1852 - 1853).

John Powell Mills, part owner of the Tomlin-Mills vessel Colinda and living at Deptford, Kent at the time, left London on August 4, 1853 with 216 passengers bound for the colony of Vancouver Island. Previously, he had transported emigrants and convicts thirteen times to various corners of the globe but this voyage was clearly his most difficult. Because his company had not provided appropriate food for the passengers, by November 3, 1853, the then rebellious passengers demanded that the ship land to get provisions. Mills, who had clearly lost control of his vessel, perceived this as piracy and the vessel landed at Valdivia, Chile; however, Admiral Moresby ordered a steamer to bring her to Valparaiso where a court could be held to examine the veracity of Mills' complaints. During the court session the on-board physician, H. W. A. Coleman and Robert Ewart, spoke for the passengers against Mills' complaints and the ruling went against Mills. Consequently, Mills had to sell off cargo to pay expenses and all of the passengers but sixteen left the ship. Meanwhile, word got back to the owners in England and, on April 3, 1854, a replacement for Mills, Captain J. Middleton, left from London. Around the same time, on April 17, 1854, the Colinda arrived at Fort Victoria where the captain was acquitted of embezzlement of cargo. Mills' career has not been subsequently followed.

PS: HBCA log of Colinda 1; ShMiscPap 4aa; FtVicCB 11; log of Otter 1; HBCA compiled Colinda information

Milwood (fl. 1821) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

NWC Milieu, Columbia Department (1821).

Milwood is on record as having transferred from the NWC to the HBC in 1821.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 9

Minie, Frederique [variation: Frederic Mini] (c. 1817 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Edouard, Lower Canada - c. 1817

Death: probably Victoria, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Langley (1838 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Victoria (1843 - 1844); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1845); Middleman, Fort Victoria (1844 - 1845); Blacksmith, Fort Victoria (1845 - 1849); Carpenter, Fort Victoria (1849 - 1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1851 - 1852).

Frederique Minie signed on with the HBC in 1838 at Lachine. When he came to the Columbia, he worked largely at three forts. He retired from the Company in 1852, purchased a Victoria town lot in August 1853 and carried on transactions with it until 1854. Frederique continued to live in the Victoria area and his movements have not been traced after 1869.

Frederique Minie had two successive wives with whom he had seven children. His first wife was mixed-descent Marguerite Maurice (?-?) ["Bibalets" tribe], with whom he had children Victoire (c.1853-1862), Appoline Rebecca Celinia (1858-?), an unnamed son (?-1860) and Marie Anne Adelaide (c.1859-1862). On December 29, 1862, he married Mary "Morris" [Maurice?]. Together they had Flavia Cecilia Mary (?-bap.1867-?) and Edward (?-bap.1869-?). Another daughter by an unknown native woman was Cecile (?-1862).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 5-7; YFASA 19-20, 22-32; YFDS 16; FtVicASA 1; BCA BCGR-CrtR-Land; BCCR CCCath

Miniroe, Alexander (fl. 1814) (Undetermined origin)

Maritime employee

NWC Crew member, Columbia (schooner) (1814).

Alexander Miniroe was a crew member of the NWC schooner Columbia when it traded on the Northwest Coast.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 1

Minors, John (fl. 1829 - 1833) (probably British: English)

Birth: probably England

Death: possibly England

Maritime officer

HBC Captain, Dryad (brig) (1829 - 1830); Passenger, Eagle (brig) (1830 - 1831).

Captain John Minors' problems with honesty, alcoholism and lines of authority ruined his career with the HBC. Minors was appointed by the HBC in London as master of the Dryad on December 9, 1829, receiving his sailing instructions on January 6, 1830. He sailed south to Bonavista, the Falkland Islands, through the Strait of Magellan on May 3, 1830 and finally to Fort Vancouver on August 16. At each port along the way items from stores, such as a stream chain, a bolt of cloth, molasses, etc., went missing from the ship's stores, something for which Minors could not account. At Fort Vancouver, when McLoughlin as a matter of routine asked Minors if he would change ships if business rendered it necessary, surrendering his command to Capt. Simpson, Minors, adamantly and stubbornly refused to take orders from McLoughlin or to be parted from his ship, the Dryad. Minors then tried to get the crew to mutiny to support him against McLoughlin. On October 5, 1830, Minors, who was also drinking heavily, was dismissed from his command by McLoughlin and ordered back to England as a passenger on the Eagle. In 1832-1833 his name appeared on the Columbia servants' accounts followed only with a curt "Home."

Minors' brother-in-law, Walter Stoddard (a.k.a. Wanton Destailleur Stoddard) worked on HBC ships in the Columbia between 1836-1841.

PS: HBCA A.1/56, fo. 98d; sailing instructions HBCA A.6/22, fo. 55; FtVanCB 6; YFASA 12
See Also: Stoddard, Walter (Relative)

Miny, Louis (c. 1808 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Edouard, Lower Canada - c. 1808

Fur trade employee

HBC Steersman, New Caledonia (1834 - 1835); Steersman, Thompson River (1834 - 1838).

Louis Miny joined the HBC from St. Edouard in 1834 and appears to have worked as a freeman for another year at the end of his three-year contract in 1837. He was back in Montreal in 1838.

PS: HBCA YFASA 14-15, 17-18; YFDS 5c-7; FtVanASA 3-5

Miron, Louis (fl. 1821 - 1822) (probably Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1821 - 1822).

Louis Miron worked in New Caledonia for the HBC in outfit 1821-1822.

PS: HBCA YFASA 1

Mistacroock, Joseph [variation: Mistacrock] (c. 1809 - ?) (Native: probably Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1809

Death: probably Canada East [Quebec]

Maritime employee

HBC Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1836 - 1837); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1837 - 1839).

Joseph Mistacrock from Sault Saint Louis joined the service of the HBC in 1836 and worked on the Beaver. He returned east over the Rockies to Canada at the end of his contract in 1839 in retirement.

PS: HBCA YFDS 7; FtVanASA 3-5; YFASA 18-19

Mistickukanish [variation: Mistic Kudanish, Kukanish] (fl. 1829 - 1832) (Native)

Birth: possibly York Factory, Manitoba

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver (1829 - 1831); Middleman, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1831 - 1832).

York Factory native Mistickukanish joined the HBC in 1829.

PS: HBCA YFASA 9, 11; YFDS 3b, 4b, 11

Mitchell, George (fl. 1851 - 1867) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Death: between Comox and Nanaimo, British Columbia - 1867

Fur trade employee

HBC Blacksmith, Fort Langley (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Fort Langley (1852 - 1853); Blacksmith, Nanaimo (1853).

The origins of George Mitchell have not been traced but he probably came to the coast on one of the HBC sponsored-settler vessels around 1851. He worked at Fort Langley as a blacksmith for two outfits before going to Nanaimo around 1853. There, as village blacksmith he turned out a variety of mechanical objects, including a large bell-sounding triangle which was used to summon the men to duty. In the early 1860s he pre-empted land in Comox; however, in 1867 he got into a fracas and chased a Comox native with a revolver. He was shot in the head with his own revolver and his friends rushed him in a canoe to Nanaimo but he died along the way.

PS: HBCA YFASA 31-32; FtVicASA 1 SS: Bate, p. 3

Mitchell, William (1802 - 1876) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Aberdeen, Scotland - 1802

Death: Victoria, British Columbia - January 13, 1876

Fur trade officer

HBC 1st mate, Sumatra (barque) (1837 - 1838); 1st mate, Vancouver (barque) (1838 - 1840); 1st mate, Cadboro (schooner) (1840 - 1841); 1st mate, Beaver (steamer) (1841); 1st mate, Cadboro (schooner) (1841 - 1842); 1st mate, Cowlitz (barque) (1842); 1st mate, Beaver (steamer) (1842 - 1843); 1st mate, Cadboro (schooner) (1843 - 1844); 1st mate, Columbia (barque) (1844 - 1850); Passenger, Tory (barque) (1850 - 1851); Commander, Una (brigantine) (1851 - 1852); Master, Recovery (brig) (1852 - 1859); Master, Fort Rupert (1859 - 1860); Untraced vocation, Fort Nisqually (1861 - 1865); Clerk, Fort Nisqually (1865 - 1869).

A "generous, goodhearted sailor" and also known as "Willy" Mitchell, Captain William Mitchell had a long career on the coast. Mitchell joined the HBC as first mate on the Sumatra in 1837 and made return journeys to the coast until 1850 when he did a run to Hudson Bay as first mate on the Prince Rupert. Mitchell then decided to settle in the area and so returned to Vancouver Island on the Tory as a servant settler. In 1852, as Captain of the brigantine Una, Mitchell led an unsuccessful HBC sponsored gold mining expedition to the Queen Charlotte Islands to extract gold which the Haida had discovered the year before. Captain Mitchell and the miners then blasted the rocks on shore, but the Haida, asserting their territorial rights, just as quickly collected the gold for themselves thus thwarting the intention of the HBC expedition. Mitchell managed to collect about one thousand dollars worth of gold before calling off the exploit. In his honour, the bay was named after him. He served on a variety of ships and, when he became too old to follow a sea life, worked at Fort Nisqually as a clerk until 1869. At that point he returned to Victoria where he died on January 13, 1876.

Mitchell Harbour, Moresby Island, Queen Charlotte Islands and Mitchell Bay, Malcolm Island, are named after Captain William Mitchell.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Sumatra 1; ShMiscPap 11, 14; log of Prince Rupert V 11; YFASA 19-20, 24, 26-27, 30-32; YFDS 10-11; FtVanASA 6-8; PortB 1; log of Cowlitz 1; [FtVicASA 1-16, 23; log of Cadboro 5; log of Columbia 6 PPS: Huggins, "Reminiscences of Puget", p. 267 SS: Walbran, p. 340

Moa (fl. 1825) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Maritime employee

MW Seaman, Convoy (brig) (1825).

Moa shipped aboard the Josiah Marshall brig, Convoy [William Henry McNeill] at Oahu after it arrived at that Island on March 16, 1825 to unload cargo and take on supplies for the Northwest Coast. After sailing April 1 for the Northwest Coast as a labourer, Moa and the vessel traded along the coast for a season, returning to Honolulu on November 2. It is not known whether he continued to sail with the Convoy.

PS: BCA log of Convoy SS: Howay, A List of Trading Vessels

Moar, Andrew (Henry) (fl. 1834 - 1837) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: probably Orkney, United Kingdom

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Ganymede (barque) (1834 - 1837).

Andrew Moar had already made a return trip to Hudson Bay when he signed a contract in London with the HBC on December 13, 1834 as a seaman for five years. He sailed to the northwest coast aboard the Ganymede and after unloading supplies, made a trip to Oahu and back before leaving the Columbia Department in May 1836. On the way back, in August, Moar was sent to the hospital in Valparaiso for an undisclosed illness. He has not been traced after his arrival in the London on March 25, 1837. He may have returned for in both 1851 and 1856, a Henry Mour was noted as being a shepherd at the Fort Nisqually outstation of Tlithlow (Dickey, Journal of Occurrences).

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 7, 14; log of Ganymede 3; FtVanASA 3; YFDS 6; YFASA 16

Moar, Jonathan (1829 - 1925) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: Sandwick, Orkney - August 13, 1829 (born to Jonathan and Margaret [Clouston] More)

Death: Aberdeen, Washington Territory, United States - February 1, 1925

Fur trade employee

HBC Blacksmith, Columbia Department general charges (1850 - 1851).

Born to a blacksmith father, Jonathan Moar had, by 1841, moved to Stromness with his parents, brother Thomas and sister, Ann. (His father worked briefly for the HBC as a blacksmith east of the Rockies from 1843-1845.) On January 17, 1845, young Jonathan signed on with the HBC from Stromness as an apprentice blacksmith for five years. After sailing to York Factory, he worked out most of his apprenticeship east of the Rockies. After arriving in the Columbia in 1850, he didn't stay very long at his job for he deserted in 1851 but carried on transactions with the Company until 1853, possibly paying off his debt. Moar then went to Sauvie Island, on the site of the old Fort William, built by Nathaniel Wyeth. This site had gone through a succession of owners, the HBC, Laurent Sauvie and James Logie, with whom he may have found employment. After the death of Logie, Moar married Logie's widow and carried on farming. He married twice, raised a family, and spent his later years living with one daughter in Aberdeen, Washington. His body was shipped back to Sauvie Island and buried next to both his deceased wives. The farm and Logie/Moar graveyard still exists today in private hands.

Jonathan Moar had two wives and eight children. He married Isabella Logie on November 1, 1854 in Clatsop, Oregon and together they had five children, James Watt (1855-1896), Thomas Traill Watt (1857-1916), Margaret Ann (1858-1954), Jonathan "Don" Jr. (1859-1938) and Isabelle "Belle" (1861-1908). Isabella died April 29, 1872. On March 22, 1878 in Clark County, Washington he married New Yorker, Mary Ann Fox (c.1862-1883), widow of Andrew O'Donnell. Together they had two daughters.

PS: OrkA OPR; 1841 U.K. Census, Orkney-Stromness; HBCA HBCCont; log of Prince Rupert V 3, 6; YFASA 30-32; FtVanASA 9; OHS PPS: Clark Co. Marriage Records 1878, p. 35 SS: Spencer, p. 48, 107

Mochuman, Joseph [variation: Mocuman, Mokuman] (fl. 1813 - 1823) (Native)

Fur trade employee

NWC Hunter, Willamette Post or Wallace House (1813 - 1814); Employee, Pacific slopes (1816); Freeman, Columbia Department (1822 - 1823).

Joseph Mochuman signed on with the NWC in 1813 on a one year contract. When he was working on the Pacific slopes in 1816, cash was paid to his wife. He was still in the area in outfit 1822-1823 working as a freeman for the HBC.

Details on Joseph Mochuman's family have not been traced.

PS: HBCA; NWCAB 1, 10; FtGeo[Ast]AB 10

Mocuman, Louis (fl. 1836 - 1844) (Native)

Death: possibly Oregon Territory, Pacific Northwest

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Snake Party (1836 - 1844); Settler, Willamette (1843 - 1844).

Louis Mocuman was engaged by the HBC in the Snake Country likely in 1836. His contract ended in 1843 and he appeared to be attached to the Snake Party in outfit 1843-1844 although he received no wages. He left at the end of his contract in 1843 to become a settler in the Willamette.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 3-7; YFDS 7; YFASA 16, 19-20, 22-23

Moffatt, Hamilton (1832 - 1894) (British: English)

Birth: Shanklin, Isle of Wight, England - June 12, 1832 (born to Janet [Rae] Moffatt)

Death: Victoria, British Columbia - April 13, 1894

Fur trade officer

HBC Passenger, Cowlitz (barque) (1849 - 1850); Apprentice clerk, Fort Victoria (1850 - 1851); Apprentice clerk, Fort Rupert (1851 - 1854); Clerk, Fort Rupert (1854 - 1859); Apprentice clerk, Fort Rupert (1854 - 1859); Clerk, Fort Simpson

(1859 - 1862); Clerk, Fort Rupert (1862 - 1863); Chief Trader, Fort Rupert (1863 - 1864); Chief Trader, Fort Simpson (1864 - 1866); Chief Trader, Thompson River (1866 - 1869); Chief Trader, Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs] (1869 - 1870); Chief Trader, Fort St. James (1870 - 1872).

Hamilton Moffatt, a relative of Dr. John Rae, the Arctic explorer, (Helmcken, p. 90) was educated in Ireland. He entered the service of the HBC in 1849 from Stromness in the Orkneys, spending part of outfit 1849-1850 en route to the Pacific Coast aboard the barque Cowlitz. One of his first activities was to investigate the murder of three sailors at Fort Rupert; subsequently, he then spent his career in a variety of posts and retired in outfit 1872. In 1860, during his tenure, he acquired 160 acres in the Port Hammand [B.C.] area but did not settle there. In 1873, Moffat joined the Department of Indian Affairs at Victoria where he worked as a chief administrator for the rest of his life. His second career may have been lacklustre for, in 1877, a contemporary, Indian Reserve Commissioner Gilbert Sproat felt that Moffat had "little zeal" for the improvement of the native people. Moffatt died in Victoria on Friday, April 13, 1894.

Hamilton Moffatt had one wife but no children have been traced. On March 15, 1856, he married Lucy McNeill (c.1848-?).

Moffatt River and Moffatt Islands are named after him and several people by the name of Moffatt continue to live in Port Simpson, B.C.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 5; YFASA 29-32; FtVicASA 1-16; FtVicCB 29; HBCABio; CNA Private memorandum of Gilbert Malcolm Sproat, Indian Reserve Commissioner, Okanagan Lake, Oct. 17, 1877, in DIA, RG 10, vol 3656, file 9036, Cl0115; BCA BCCR CCCath; Van-PL 1881 Canada Census, Vancouver District, Victoria, James Bay Ward; Van-PL Colonist, Saturday April 14, 1894, p. 8 SS: Helmcken, p. 90; Walbran, p. 340-41; Laing, p. 91
See Also: McNeill, Henry (Relative)

Moineau, Antoine (fl. 1813 - 1821) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

NWC Milieu, Willamette Post (winter 1813 - 1814); Milieu, Pacific slopes (1821); Milieu, Columbia Department (1821).

Antoine Moineau joined the NWC in Fort William in 1812 on a three-year contract. He spent the 1813-1814 winter at the Willamette post and in April 1814, joined the Montreal brigade. He may have continued as a cross-country brigade member for in 1821 he was briefly in the Columbia with the HBC.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 7, 10; HBCA NWCAB 9 PPS: Coues, p. 873

Moir, John [variation: More] (fl. 1842 - 1843) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Greenock, Renfrew, Scotland

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1842 - 1843).

John Moir joined the HBC in Honolulu on August 16, 1842 and, after making a short trip to Fort Vancouver on the barque Cowlitz, left for the British Isles. He arrived back in London May 10, 1843.

PS: HBCA log of Cowlitz, 1; YFASA 22; FtVanASA 7-8

Moison, Pierre (c. 1807 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably in or near St. Vincent, Ile Jesus, Lower Canada - c. 1807

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1833).

Pierre Moison joined the HBC in 1830 and was back in Montreal by late 1833.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; YFDS 4a-4b; YFASA 11-13

Mokowhehe (fl. 1841 - 1846) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1842); Middleman, Fort Langley (1842 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Langley (1843 - 1846).

Mokowhehe joined the HBC from Oahu in 1841 and began receiving wages on July 9 of that year. He worked at two forts in the Columbia area until November 30, 1846, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 12, 17; YFASA 22-26;

Moku (fl. 1837 - 1850) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: probably Snake Country, Pacific Northwest - November 1850

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1838); Middleman, South Party (1838 - 1839); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1839 - 1840); Middleman, South Party (1840 - 1842); Labourer, Snake Country (1842 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1847); Labourer, Snake Country (1847 - 1850).

Moku first joined the HBC in Oahu in July 1837 in Oahu and began work at Fort Vancouver on August 10. He disappeared from record in 1843 and likely returned to Oahu. He re-enlisted on May 7, 1845 for three years. Moku died around the end of November 1850 and was probably buried in the Snake River area.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 1, 3; YFASA 20, 22-23, 25-31; YFDS 13, 21; FtVanASA 4-7

Molaly, James [variation: Molally] (fl. 1850 - 1851) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Carpenter, Fort Vancouver (1850 - 1851).

James Molaly worked for the HBC at Fort Vancouver as a carpenter. His contract ended in 1851 and on November 1 of that year he retired from the service. He remained in the area until 1851.

PS: HBCA YFASA 30-32; YFDS 22; FtVanASA 9; OHS 1850 US Census, Clark Co.

Molle, Jean Marie (fl. 1817 - 1822) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Faubourg des Recollets, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Tailor, Fort George [Astoria] (1817 - 1821); Tailor, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822).

Jean Marie Molle was hired on by the NWC on September 15, 1817 from Faubourg des Recollets to work as a tailor for three years at Fort George [Astoria]. He is one of the many NWC employees who transferred to the HBC in 1821 at the time of coalition. Molle worked for one more outfit and then disappeared from record in the Columbia.

Nothing is known of Molle's family other than his wages were paid monthly to his wife from August, 1818 to June, 1821.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 3, 8, 9; HBCA YFASA 1

Moller, Frederick C. (fl. 1854 - 1859) (Norwegian)

Birth: probably Norderling, Norway

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department general charges (1854 - 1855).

Frederick C. Moller worked for the Hudson's Bay Company in outfit 1854-1855 and left for "home" in May, 1855. He signed a contract, dated June 6, 1855, for five years as a labourer but appeared to continue to work elsewhere for he terminated his contracted in September 1859 at Moose Factory.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 2-3; HBCCont

Moloney, John (c. 1823 - ?) (Undetermined origin)

Birth: possibly Lachine, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia District (1847 - 1848); Middleman, Fort Stikine (1848 - 1849); Engineer's servant, Beaver (steamer) (1849).

John Moloney joined the HBC in 1847. On August 20, 1849, he deserted, most likely for the gold fields of California.

PS: HBCA YFASA 27-29; YFDS 20

Momuto, George (fl. 1831 - 1833) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1831); Seaman, Naval Department (1831 - 1832); Seaman, Fort Simpson naval service (1832 - 1833); Passenger, Dryad (brig) (1833).

George Momuto was engaged by the HBC on June 16, 1831 in Oahu as a seaman for work in coastal shipping. He worked until November 1, 1833, returning to Oahu as a passenger on the brig Dryad.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 11-14; YFDS 4b-5b

Monde, Jean [variation: Mongle, Mongall, Mongls] (c. 1802 - 1830) (Canadian: French)

Birth: Maskinongé, Lower Canada - c. 1802 (born to Johan or Jean Andres Mongel and Marie-Judith Panneton)

Death: Columbia River, Pacific Northwest - October 25, 1830

Fur trade employee

HBC Boute, Fort Colville (1829 - 1830).

Jean Monde was descended from a Hessian soldier of the Hanau Chasseurs, who fought for the British in the American Revolution. In 1816, as a young man, Monde joined the NWC as a milieu and worked in the Northwest for both the NWC and HBC for several years before returning to Maskinongé in the 1820s. An experienced Monde re-joined the HBC in 1829 as a bote to work in the Columbia but had a short career in his new position as he drowned in the Columbia River on October 25, 1830.

Jean Monde had two successive wives and left a family after his death. After his first wife, Marie Caret (or Comette), appears to have died, he married Marie St. Germain at L'Assomption on January 9, 1827. Monde appears to have had several children. Two 1830 letters, resting in the HBCA reveal a loving relationship. In January 1832, his second wife was still trying to get news of his death, probably because of the confusion of the HBC entry of Monde rather than the more familiar Mongle, which the family used.

PS: HBCA YFDS 3b; YFASA 9-10; FtVanAB 28; FtVanASA 2; HBCABio; CduP: Maskinongé and L'Assomption Parish Registers, Drouin Index PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 293-98

Mongrain, David (c. 1808 - 1882) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Maskinongé, Lower Canada - c. 1808

Death: St. Paul, Oregon - June 26, 1882

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Middleman, Columbia Department (1831 - 1832).

David Mongrain joined the HBC from Maskinongé possibly in 1830 as a middleman but got sick on his way west and had to stop in the Saskatchewan area in 1830-1831. He appears to have worked one outfit in the Columbia and some time afterwards, began to farm in Marion County, Oregon. He was established by May 2, 1843, for on that date he voted against the establishment of a Provisional Government. He raised a large family in the St. Paul area and died in June 1882 and was buried at St. Paul on the 26th.

David Mongrain had one wife, Catherine Lafantasia (c.1824-1875), the daughter of Jacques Lafantaisie and Susanne Okanogan and the widow of Nazaire Dupre. They were married on July 17, 1849 about a year after Catherine had been widowed and she brought two out of four surviving children into the marriage. David and Catherine then raised their own family of eight children: Angelle (1850-?), Daniel (1853-?), Clarissa (1855-?), Clementine (1857-?), Josephine (1860-?), Francois Xavier (1864-?), Emerance (?-?) and Clhoris (?-?). Catherine died on August 5, 1875 at around forty years of age.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 3; YFDS 4a; YFASA 10-11; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion County; PPS: CCR 2a, 2b, 2c SS: Holman, p. 116

See Also: Dupre, Nazaire (Relative); Lafantasia, Jacques (Father-in-Law)

Monique, Dominique [1] (fl. 1816) (Native: possibly Iroquois)

Birth: possibly Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Milieu, Pacific slopes (1816).

Dominique Monique [1], from Sault St. Louis and possibly an Iroquois, joined the NWC [McTavish McGillivray & Co.] on December 20, 1815 to work in Fort William as a wintering middleman for four years. Soon after, he appeared on record on the Pacific slopes in 1816 probably as a member of the brigade. That year, cash was paid to his mother. He may be the same as Dominique Monique [2].

PS: SHDeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 1

Monique, Dominique [2] (c. 1798 - ?) (Native: possibly Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1798

Fur trade employee

HBC Boute, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Boute, New Caledonia (1831 - 1833); Boute, Fort Vancouver (1833 - 1834).

Dominique Monique, who may be the same as Dominique [1], joined the HBC in 1830. He appeared to work one contract in the Columbia/New Caledonia region.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; YFDS 4a-5a; YFASA 11-13

Monique, Joseph [1] (fl. 1816) (Native: possibly Iroquois)

Birth: possibly Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1816).

Joseph Monique, from Sault St. Louis and probably an Iroquois, joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] on January 25, 1816 as a three year wintering middleman to work in Fort William. Soon after, when he appeared on the Pacific slopes in 1816, cash was paid to his mother. He has not been traced after that although he may have returned in 1829.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 1

Monique, Joseph [2] [variation: Monicque] (c. 1803 - c. 1845) (Native: possibly Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1803

Death: probably Columbia Department, Pacific Northwest - c. 1845

Fur trade employee

HBC Boute, New Caledonia (1829 - 1830); Boute, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1831); Boute, New Caledonia (1831 - 1832); Boute, Thompson River (1832 - 1833); Boute, Fort Vancouver (1833 - 1835); Boute, Fort Vancouver general charges (1835 - 1836); Boute, Fort Vancouver (1836 - 1837); Boute, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1841); Boute, Fort Vancouver general charges (1841 - 1842); Guide, Fort Vancouver general charges (1842 - 1844); Guide, Columbia Department general charges (1844 - 1845).

Joseph Monique joined the HBC in 1829 and appears to have worked most of his career at Fort Vancouver. In outfit 1835-1836 it was noted that he went to and from York Factory. In September, 1837, John McLoughlin heard that Monique had planned to run off with Francois St. Pierre's wife at Colvile, meet her at Okanagan and take her to Vancouver; he warned other officers not to let this happen. Monique was noted as deceased in outfit 1844-1845.

PS: HBCA YFDS 3b, 4b-5a, 5c-7; YFASA 9, 11-15, 19-20, 22-24; FtVanASA 2-6; FtVanCB 17

Monique, Nicholas [variation: Monicque] (fl. 1813 - 1830) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

NWC Gouvernail, Fort George [Astoria] (winter 1813 - 1814); Gouvernail, Brigade to Fort William (1814); Employee, Pacific slopes (1816); HBC Employee, Columbia Department (1823 - 1824); Steersman, Columbia Department (1824 - 1825); Goer and comer, Columbia Department (1828 - 1830).

Nicholas Monique joined the NWC in Athabasca in 1811 as a gouvernail or guide. He was in the Columbia from 1813 to perhaps 1816, probably as part of the transcontinental brigade. In 1821-1822 he was working in the Saskatchewan area but in 1824-1825 he transported Governor George Simpson across the continent. He continued off and on with the Brigade to the Columbia until 1830, often spending his summers in Montreal.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 1; 10; YFASA 1, 3-7, 8-10; FtVanAB 2a; 26; FtGeo[Ast]AB 12 PPS: Coues, p.873

Monjon, Francois Xavier [variation: Monjeau] (fl. 1821 - 1822) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Sorel, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Milieu, Pacific slopes (1818); HBC Milieu, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822).

Francois Xavier Monjon joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray] on May 6, 1818 from Sorel as a wintering middleman for three years. Soon after he came over the Rockies with Angus Bethune and James McMillan. His location on the Pacific slopes has not been traced and, in 1821, at the time of coalition, he transferred to the HBC but soon left the area.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 2, 9; YFASA 1

Monk, Edward (fl. 1832 - 1834) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1832 - 1833); Seaman, Fort Simpson naval service (1833 - 1834).

Edward Monk was an employee of the HBC in outfit 1831-1832 in the Columbia Department.

PS: BCA YFASA 12-13; YFDS 5a-5b

Montgomery, Angus (fl. 1841 - 1845) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Balallan, Lochs, Ross, ScotlandFur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Nez Perces general charges (1841 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Nez Perces (1842 - 1845).

Angus Montgomery joined the HBC from Balallan, Lochs on June 15, 1840 as a labourer for five years and, after reaching the Pacific slopes, worked exclusively at Fort Nez Perces. His contract ended in 1845 at which point he returned overland to Hudson Bay and to the British Isles via the Prince Rupert.

PS: YFDS HBCCont, fo. 140; FtVanASA 6-7; YFASA 22-25

Montgomery, John [b] (fl. 1848 - 1849) (British: Scottish)

Birth: possibly in or near Stornoway, Isle of Lewis, ScotlandFur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1848 - 1849).

John Montgomery, who joined the HBC around 1846, arrived in the Columbia from over the Rockies in 1848 to work as a labourer. He didn't stay long for, on March 10, 1849, he deserted, likely for the gold fields of California.

PS: HBCA YFASA 28; YFDS 19

Montigny, Edouard [variation: Edward] (fl. 1833 - 1858) (Mixed descent or Native)

Birth: probably Rupert's Land, British North AmericaFur trade employee

HBC Native apprentice, Thompson River (1833 - 1839); Middleman, Thompson River (1839 - 1841); Middleman, Thompson River (1841 - 1842); Interpreter, Thompson River (1841 - 1842); Interpreter, Thompson River (1842 - 1843); Interpreter, New Caledonia (1843 - 1845); Horsekeeper, New Caledonia (1845 - 1848); Horsekeeper, Thompson River (1848); Untraced vocation, Thompson River (1855 - 1856); Middleman, Thompson River (1856 - 1858).

Edouard Montigny joined the HBC in 1833 from Rupert's Land and spent most of his working career in the Thompson River area. After the international border was drawn in 1846, Montigny became part of the A.C. Anderson expedition to find a route to the coast. On October 15, 1848 he retired, remaining in the country and worked periodically between 1855-1858. (Edouard's brother, Tapishe, was also employed "for general services" at Fort Alexandria during the summer of 1846 and was paid off at Fort Okanagan.)

Details of Montigny's family have not been traced.

PS: HBCA YFASA 13-15, 20, 22-28; YFDS 5b-7, 19; FtVanASA 3-7; FtAlexPJ 7; FtKamPJ 3; FtVicASA 3-6

Montigny, Narcisse (c. 1816 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly St. Scholastique, Lower Canada - c. 1816 (born to Ovide de Montigny and Josephte Fagnon)Death: possibly Columbia Department, Pacific Northwest*Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1833 - 1834); Boute, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1834 - 1836); Middleman, South Party (1836 - 1837); Trapper, South Party (1836 - 1837); Trapper, South Party (1837 - 1838); Middleman, South Party (1838 - 1839); Middleman, Snake Party (1839); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1843); Labourer, New Caledonia (1843 - 1844); Boute, New Caledonia (1844 - 1845); Boute, Thompson River (1845 - 1846); Boute, Fort Vancouver general charges (1846 - 1847); Boute, New Caledonia (1847 - 1848); Boute, Columbia Department (1848 - 1849); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1852 - 1853).

Son of PFC clerk Ovide de Montigny and Josephte Fagnon who were both living at the Ile Perrot, District of Montreal in 1843, Narcisse Montigny, from St. Scholastique, joined the HBC in 1833. He deserted in June 1839 (YF 1839-1840) to the Americans the same year that his contract finished. He was re-engaged on November 10, 1842 at Fort Vancouver. On March 1, 1849, he went to California, presumably to the gold fields there. He appeared once again on the records at Fort Vancouver in outfit 1852-1853. He may have gone to Nanaimo around 1855 for his name appeared on the 1855-1857 HBC Victoria accounts at that time. There he was an axeman with apparently "uncouth, gruff" (Bate, p. 3) behaviour. He left Nanaimo in 1858 for Fort Hope, likely to follow his dreams of gold. He has not been subsequently traced.

Narcisse Montigny had two wives and two children. In 1837 he had a child Edouard (1837-?) by Susanne, an Indian woman. On January 17, 1843, he married Betsy of the Grande Dalles and their one recorded child was Narcisse (1848-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 13-15, 19, 22-28, 32; YFDS 5b-7, 13, 15, 19; FtVanASA 3-7, 9; FtVicASA 3-4 PPS: CCR 1a, 1b SS: Bate, p. 3

See Also: Montigny, Ovide de (Father)

Montigny, Ovide de [variation: Montigni] (fl. 1810 - 1823) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Montreal, Lower Canada

Death: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

PFC Passenger, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811); Clerk, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811); NWC Gouvernail, Fort Okanagan (1811); PFC Employee, Fort George [Astoria] (1811 - ?); Gouvernail, Thompson River (winter 1813 - 1814); Interpreter, Thompson River (winter 1813 - 1814); NWC Interpreter, Fort Okanagan (October 13, 1813); Interpreter, Fort Okanagan (1814); Gouvernail, Fort Okanagan (1814); HBC Interpreter, Columbia Department (1821 - 1823); PFC Interpreter, Columbia Department (1822 - 1823); NWC Interpreter, Thompson River (1822).

French-Canadian Ovide de Montigny had an eleven year career in the fur trade on the Pacific slopes. de Montigny signed on with the PFC as a voyageur in Montreal on July 23, 1810 and then started on his way to New York City. On his way, on August 3, 1810, he joined Gabriel Franchere and Alexander McKay at Whitehall, N.Y., sailing from New York City on the Tonquin September 6. After the boatload of PFC employees arrived at the mouth of the Columbia on March 22, 1811, Alexander McKay selected Ovide to go north on the Tonquin, but, as Ovide was prone to seasickness, he declined, an act which saved his life. He went on to Fort Okanagan in 1811, to the Thompson River with David Stuart in 1812, and was in Fort Okanagan in 1814 at the end of his one year contract with the NWC. On April 13 of that year, he gave a letter, written to his brother, to be delivered by the departing Franchere who did not see a future for himself in the NWC which had acquired the PFC. de Montigny possibly continued on in the area, joining the Hudson's Bay Company at amalgamation in 1821, until outfit 1822-1823 when he picked up his pay in Montreal. In 1843, Ovide, the father of Narcisse Montigny, appears to have been living with his wife, Josephite Fagnon at the Ile Perrot, District of Montreal. As their son Narcisse was born in 1816, de Montigny may have been in Montreal at that time.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 10; NWCAB 9, 10; HBCA YFASA 1-2; FtKamPJ 1 PPS: ChSoc XLV, p. 45, 48, 78, 80, 85, 86, 92, 154; CCR 1b

See Also: Montigny, Narcisse (Son)

Montour, Nicholas Jr. (1790 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Fort des Prairies [Fort Edmonton, Edmonton, Alberta] - 1790 (born to Nicholas Montour Sr. and probably a Cree woman)

Death: probably Oregon Territory, Pacific Northwest

Fur trade employee

NWC Clerk, Flathead Post [Fort Connah, Saleesh House] (1810); Untraced vocation, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1813); Clerk, Kootenae House (winter 1813 - 1814); Clerk, Pacific slopes (1816); Clerk, Columbia Department (1821); Freeman trapper, Snake Party (1824 - 1825); Freeman, Columbia Department (1825 - 1826); Freeman, Columbia Department (1827 - 1830); HBC In charge, Kootenae House (1830 - 1831); NWC Untraced vocation, Columbia District (1831 - 1832); Trapper, Fort Colville (1832 - 1838); Trapper, Willamette (1838 - 1839); Settler, Willamette (1841 - 1842).

Son of a NWC partner, Nicholas Montour was a free thinking, highly spirited fur trader. Entering the NWC in 1800 as an apprentice clerk to his father, he worked east of the Rockies until the fall of 1811 although on July 9th, 1810, he was sent with James McMillan to watch closely the activities of Joseph Howse and the rival HBC. They made it to Flat Head Lake which they left on December 10th before returning to the Andrew Henry party. In May 1813, he found himself in Spokane House in a duel with F. B. Pillet of the PFC with "pocket pistols at six paces" (Cox, p. 106). The bullets from both guns struck, but not exactly their targets. One was hit in the collar and the other in the trouser leg; a tailor sewed up both. After the 1821 coalition he continued to serve as clerk east of the Rockies with the HBC but was discharged in 1823 because of the combination of liquor and laziness. He went on as a freeman to join Alexander Ross' 1824 and P. S. Ogden's 1824-1825 Snake Expeditions but on May 25, 1825 he deserted, taking several of the expedition's horses, traps, and seven-hundred furs and joined a party of Americans, but returned on April 10, 1826 to settle his debts with Ogden. He appears to have joined the company once again in 1828-1830 and during the winter of 1830-1831 was in charge of the Kootenae post. According to Charles E. Simpson, Montour entered into partnership with Warren A. Ferrer and was supplied with trading goods to trade at the American Rendezvous in 1834 (Simpson, p.

279). He settled in the Willamette, had a productive farm in 1842 on forty-seven enclosed acres [19 ha], and is recorded as living in Marion County, Oregon, in 1850. At that time a George Montour (c.1815-?) was living with him and may have been a relative.

Nicholas Montour appears to have had three wives and numerous children, seven of which were recorded. One early wife was Marguerite, Cree, their child being Louis Bob (1825-?). Another early wife was Anne Fabeau, Humpherville, the children being Toussaint (1825-?) and Louis (?-m. 1848-?). On June 10, 1839, he formalized his marriage to Marie Anne/Susanne Humpherville (c.1791-1846); their recorded children were Caroline (1822-?), Isabelle (?-m.1838-?), Maria (c.1829-1841) and Marguerite (c.1834-?).

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 1, 9, 10; SnkCoPJ 1, 2, 3a, 4; FtVanASA 1-6; YFDS 5a-5c, 7; OHS 1842 Census; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion County PPS: ChSoc LVII, p. 455, 490, 595, 596, 600, 601, 605, 615; Cox, p. 101, 106, 173, 194, 223 SS: ChSoc IV, p. 350; DCB Béland; C. E. Simpson, p. 279

Montrais, Jean Baptiste (c. 1813 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: Coteau du Lac, Lower Canada - c. 1813

Death: probably Canada East [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1838 - 1839); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Stikine (1840 - 1841); Middleman, California Estate (1841 - 1842).

Jean Baptiste Montrais signed on with the HBC at Lachine in 1838. After making his way to the coast, he spent one outfit at Fort Vancouver before being assigned to Fort Stikine the year the HBC acquired it from the Russians. Upon their arrival on or before June 13, 1840, William Glen Rae wrote that Montrais was "a good man before he had the fever but has been sickly ever since" (FtStikPJ 1, fo. 1). From then, until he left, around January 1841, he had periodic bouts of sickness but generally was well enough to carry on his duties for, on June 27, 1840, he was sent off with a Russian to learn how to make bricks. Apart from his brick making, he spent most of his time in saw pits with the Kanakas. During the cold of December, he was found putting down wheat to be made into flour and overhauling potatoes which they had purchased from the Kyganie Indians. It is unsupported in the journals, but he may have been sent to the California estate around the beginning of 1841 for his health. In 1842 he returned to Canada, presumably in retirement and has not been traced after that.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 5-7; YFASA 19-21; FtStikPJ 1 PPS: CCR 1a

Montret, Louis [variation: Montrel, Montreuil] (c. 1807 - ?) (probably Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Red River Settlement [Manitoba] - c. 1807

Death: possibly British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman and bouté in Athabasca River, Fort Simpson general charges (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1840 - 1849); Middleman, Fort Rupert (1849 - 1850).

Louis Montret signed on with the HBC in 1839 and spent almost his entire career at Fort Simpson. There, in April 1842, he was sent along with others from the post to briefly stabilize the situation at Fort Stikine after the murder of John McLoughlin, Jr. On December 1, 1850, he was discharged from Fort Rupert. He appeared on the 1853-1854 Fort Victoria servants' abstracts as "Montrel" and so might have continued living in the area for an undetermined length of time.

PS: HBCA YFASA 19-20, 22-30; FtSimp[N]PJ 6; YFDS 10, 21; FtVanASA 6-7; FtVicASA 1-2, 5-6

Moo (fl. 1837 - 1844) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Willamette Mission (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1839); Middleman, Columbia Department (1841 - 1842); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1844).

Moo signed on with the HBC in July 1837 in Oahu. He began work, likely at Fort Vancouver, on August 10, 1837 and, on November 12, was transferred to Jason Lee's Methodist missionary service in the Willamette Valley. He appears to have returned to Fort Vancouver the following outfit to work. His contract ended in 1840, and he appeared to be a freeman in 1841-1842 with no specific assignment. He briefly returned to Fort Vancouver where he worked from July 12 to November 12, 1844. At that point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 1; FtVanASA 4-7; YFASA 17; YFDS 15

Moore, Edward (fl. 1848 - 1850) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Cook, Vancouver (barque) (1847 - 1848); Cook, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1848 - 1849).

Edward Moore joined the HBC barque Vancouver in London on September 27, 1847 and sailed to the coast. As his vessel was wrecked at the mouth of the Columbia when it arrived on May 7, 1848, Moore was assigned to the Mary Dare as cook. He appears to have made his way back to England for, in outfit 1849-1850, he received his wages in England.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 5; YFASA 28-32; YFDS 19

Moore, James [1] (fl. 1833 - 1835) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Death: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1833 - 1835).

James Moore joined the HBC in April 1833 as a seaman for three years. He was assigned to service the Columbia Department for three years and sailed on the Nereide on May 4, 1833 on an arduous almost year long voyage to the Northwest Coast. While in Valparaiso, Chile, Moore, along with James McKay, John Thoms and John Hays, was arrested and had to be bailed out by the captain. After his arrival at Fort Vancouver on April 21, 1834 and a quick turnaround as the vessel was not needed for coastal service, a chastened Moore left the Columbia River post on May 28, 1834 for an equally long return voyage. After stopping at Valparaiso, the vessel eventually arrived back in London May 28, 1835. Upon his return, James Moore, who did not appear to sail to the Northwest Coast again, sailed on the Prince Rupert IV on the Hudson Bay run.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Nereide 1; ShMiscPap 14; log of Prince Rupert IV 8

Moore, James [2] [variation: More] (fl. 1857 - 1858) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1857 - 1858).

James Moore sailed to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal. Shortly after his arrival at Victoria, he deserted.

PS: HBCA log of Princess Royal 4; PortB 1

Moore, Samuel (fl. 1850 - 1854) (Undetermined ethnicity)

Fur trade employee

HBC Cooper, Fort Victoria (1850 - 1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1851 - 1853); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1853 - 1854).

Possibly hired locally or in Rupert's Land, Samuel Moore appears to have joined the HBC around 1850-1851 and worked for one or more outfits at Fort Victoria. He may have continued in the area until 1854.

PS: HBCA YFASA 30-32; FtVicASA 1-2

Morand, Baptiste [variation: Jean Baptiste] (c. 1833 - ?) (probably Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Red River Settlement [Manitoba] - c. 1833

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman and labourer, New Caledonia (1853 - 1856); Labourer, New Caledonia (1856 - 1857).

Baptiste Morand joined the HBC probably from Red River in 1853 on a contract that ended in 1856. He may have returned there in 1857.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1-6, 9

More, John (c. 1796 - ?) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: probably Birsay, Orkney - c. 1796

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1831 - 1833); Labourer, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1832 - 1834).

John More joined the HBC from Birsay, possibly in 1831, for his contract ended in 1834. He may have returned to Orkney.

PS: HBCA YFASA 11-13; YFDS 4b-5b

Moreau, Joseph (c. 1795 - 1831) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Ile Dupas, Lower Canada - c. 1795

Death: probably Thompson River [British Columbia] - June 29, 1831

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Thompson River (1821 - 1830); Boute, Thompson River (1830 - 1831).

Joseph Moreau joined the fur trade in 1817 and spent most of his years at Thompson River. In an April 5, 1827 report to the Governor and Council of the Northern Department, Archibald McDonald noted that Joseph Moreau, with a wife and son, was "active, & knows his duty well, but careless [sic] & has little inclination for [illegible] jobs" (HBRS X, p. 229). He continued his work at Thompson River until he drowned June 29, 1831.

PS: HBCA YFASA 1-9, 11; FtKamPJ 1, 2; YFDS 2a-3b, 4b; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-2 PPS: HBRS X, p. 229

Morel, Leon [variation: Morrell] (? - 1877) (Canadian: French)

Birth: Nicolet, Lower Canada (born to Louis Morel and Josette Chandrenat)

Death: Victoria, British Columbia - September 8, 1877

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1842); Middleman, Fort Stikine (1842 - 1849); Middleman, Fort Rupert (1849 - 1850); Middleman, Fort Victoria (1850 - 1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1851 - 1852); Contractor, Fort Shepherd (1856); Carpenter, Fort Shepherd (1856).

Leon Morel joined the HBC in 1840 from Montreal and spent most of his twelve year career with the Company in coastal forts. He retired in 1851 but his name was carried on the books for three more years. On January 17, 1853, he purchased a town lot in Victoria where he no doubt raised a family but he still remained active. For example, in May 1856, he and André Balthazard were made chief contractors for the construction of Fort Shepherd, the replacement of Fort Colville. Upon his return, he became a member of the Voltigeurs [colonial police force] from December 1857-March 1858 and may have followed the gold rush for, in August, 1858, a "Frenchman named Morel" (Victoria Gazette, p. 2) was in a fight with the natives above Yale and received a gunshot wound to the groin. This Morel returned to Victoria where he was nursed back to health. In 1859, he purchased one hundred acres [40.5 ha] in North Saanich and by 1860 was a voter in the area where he bought and sold his farm. He also may have returned to the interior, for, in July, 1865, he had to get a loan at Fort Alexandria to get back to Victoria. At the same time he offered to work at Alexandria for an extremely high wage, an offer which was turned down. In the early 1870s Morel worked as a labourer and carpenter in Victoria. He died in Victoria and was buried in the Ross Bay cemetery.

Leon Morel and three successive wives and eleven children. On September 20, 1852, he formalized his marriage to his first wife was Adelaide (c.1830-55), Stikine whom he undoubtedly met in the early 1840s during his seven year stay in the Stikine area. Their children were Moyses (c.1844-1860), Agnes (c.1846-1855), Narcisse (c.1847-1853), Emilie (1850-1866) and Alexander (?-bap.1853-?). Adelaide died most likely in the Fort Victoria area and was buried on February 20, 1855. His next wife was Marguerite Despard (?-1859) who presumably bore him Xavier (1857-1858) and Arulie (1859-1859). She died, and was buried on October 15, 1859 to no witnesses. Three months later, on December 26, 1859, Morel married Marguerite Gagnon (?-?) who had already bore him Ambroise (1858-1858) and later bore him an unnamed child (1861-1861).

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 23-32; YFDS 22; FtVanASA 6-7; FtVicASA 1-2; FtAlexCB 1; BCCRStAndC; BCA Vic.Gazette, August 27, 1858, p. 2; BCGR-CrtR-Land PPS: Mallandaine, p. 66 SS: Morrison, "Hudson's Bay workers", p. 7, 9

Morelle, Joseph (fl. 1849 - 1854) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1849 - 1850); Middleman, New Caledonia (1850 - 1851); Middleman, Fort Colville (1851 - 1853); Labourer, Fort Colville (1853 - 1854).

Joseph Morelle joined the HBC in 1849 and retired in 1854.

PS: HBCA YFASA 29-31; FtVanASA 9-11

Moreno, Thomas [variation: Tom] (c. 1807 - ?) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands - c. 1807

Maritime employee

HBC Labourer (high wage), Fort Vancouver (1832 - 1835); Passenger/Crewman, Ganymede (barque) (1835); Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1836); Seaman, Beaver (steamer) (1836 - 1837); Middleman, Nereide (barque) (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1839); Passenger, Vancouver (barque) (1839).

Thomas Moreno signed on with the HBC in Oahu on September 6, 1832 and worked for the next half dozen years on coastal vessels. He went to Oahu on the Ganymede on October 3, 1835 and was re-engaged at Oahu in January 1836. His contract came to an end in 1839, and he left on November 15, 1839 on the Vancouver for Oahu where he was discharged.

PS: HBCA YFASA 12-15; 19; YFDS 5a-6, 10; FtVanASA 3-6; ShMiscPap 14

Morgan, Josiah (fl. 1845 - 1846) (Undetermined origin)Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1845 - 1846).

Josiah Morgan appeared in the Columbia in outfit 1845-1846 as a seaman on the barque Cowlitz, on which he returned to the British Isles in the same outfit.

PS: HBCA YFASA 25, 27

Morigeau, Francois [standard : François] [variation: Morrigneau, Marigeau] (fl. 1818 - 1845) (Undetermined origin)Death: possibly Pacific Northwest, North America*Freeman

U.A. Freeman trader, Columbia Department (1818 - 1845).

Francois Morigeau was an early free-trader in the Fort Kootenai area coming, according to tradition, in 1818 with Edward Berland. Whereas Berland joined the HBC, Morigeau went it alone as a free trader. Father De Smet was treated by Moregeau and his first wife to a memorable feast of bear paws, roast porcupine and moose's muzzle, as well as buffalo, venison, beaver tale, hares, partridges, etc. Morigeau had ten children by his second mixed descent wife. He later moved to the Colville Valley and his descendants became active in its development.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 2 PPS: De Smet SS: O. W. Johnson, p. 70, 274-76, 248

Morin, Baptiste [variation: Moren] (c. 1835 - ?) (probably Mixed descent)Birth: probably Red River Settlement [Manitoba] - c. 1835*Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman and labourer, New Caledonia (1853 - 1856); Labourer, New Caledonia (1856 - 1859).

Baptiste Morin joined the HBC from Red River in 1853 and worked in New Caledonia until about 1859.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1-9

Morin, Joseph (c. 1791 - ?) (Canadian: French)Birth: probably Maskinongé, Lower Canada - c. 1791*Death: possibly East of the Rocky Mountains*Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1825 - 1826); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1826 - 1827); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1828 - 1829); Summerman to Montreal, Columbia Department (1829 - 1830).

Joseph Morin joined the HBC from Maskinongé in 1823 as a middleman. He worked in the Columbia District in 1820s, likely on the cross-country Brigade as he often picked up his pay in Montreal.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 5-6, 8-10

Morris, Enoch [variation: Morice, Morrice] (fl. 1852 - 1853) (British)Birth: probably British Isles*Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1852 - 1853).

Enoch Morris sailed on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison to Vancouver Island where he deserted. He may have stayed in the Fort Victoria area for a few years after that.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; FtVicASA 3-4

Morrisette, Joseph (fl. 1824 - 1825) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1823 - 1824); Steersman, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825).

Joseph Morrisette signed a two year contract with the HBC in July 1823 as a middleman/devant and spent 1824-1825 in New Caledonia. He appears to have returned to Montreal in 1825.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFDS 1a; YFASA 4-5; FtStJmsLS 1

Morrisette, Toussaint [variation: Morissette] (fl. 1849 - c. 1853) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Guillaume, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1849 - 1852); Labourer, Fort Nez Percés (1852 - 1853); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1853).

Toussaint Morrisette joined the HBC from St. Guillaume in 1848 and retired in 1853.

PS: HBCA YFASA 29-32; FtVanASA 9-10

Morrison, Alexander [a] (c. 1819 - 1897) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Skegursta, Isle of Lewis, Scotland - c. 1819 (born to John Morison and Mary MacDonald)

Death: probably Branahue, Isle of Lewis, Scotland - 1897

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1841 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Colvile (1842 - 1845); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1846).

Eight days after Alexander Morrison signed on with a five year contract with the HBC on June 15, 1840, he sailed from Stornoway on the Prince Rupert to York Factory. He then crossed the continent with the brigade to the Columbia. During his time on the Pacific slopes working at Forts Vancouver and Colvile he was not mentioned in the scant surviving journals. In 1846 he recrossed the continent and returned to the British Isles on the Prince Rupert to begin farming. He married in the year he returned to Lewis, raised a family in a croft in Branahue, and died in 1897.

Alexander Morrison had two successive wives and several children. An undelivered 1854 letter to Morrison from his father John, in Branahue, Scotland, now resting in the HBCA, reveals that Alexander was needed on Lewis to work the land.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; FtVanASA 6-7; YFASA 22-26; HBCABio; MiscI 5 PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 328-31

Morrison, Alexander [b] (c. 1821 - ?) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Stornoway, Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Sloop, Fort Vancouver general charges (1842 - 1843); Sloop, Fort Vancouver (1843 - 1845); Sloop, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1846).

Alexander Morison [b] joined the HBC from Stornoway in 1841 on a five-year contract. He returned to the British Isles in 1846 on the Prince Rupert.

PS: HBCA YFASA 22-26

Morrison, Allan (fl. 1837 - 1842) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Cross, Ness, Ross, Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1837); Blacksmith, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1842).

Allan Morrison joined the HBC on June 8, 1837 on a five year contract as a blacksmith. He embarked at Stornoway on June 21, 1837 after having received an advance of over £11 for his voyage to York Factory. He arrived at Fort Vancouver in 1838 where he worked for four years as a blacksmith. At the end of his contract in the spring or summer of 1842 he went east over the Rockies and returned to the British Isles in 1842 on the Prince Rupert.

PS: HBCA log of Prince Rupert IV 10; FtVanASA 5-7; YFASA 19-22

Morrison, J. S. (fl. 1854 - 1855) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1854 - 1855).

J. S. Morrison made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Morrison, Kenneth [variation: Morison] (c. 1832 - 1900) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Barvas, Isle of Lewis, Ross, Scotland - c. 1832 (born to Alexander Morrison and Mrs. Morrison)

Death: probably Fort Langley (Old Fort Langley, Derby), British Columbia - 1900

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, New Caledonia (1853 - 1860); Untraced vocation, Western Department (1860 - 1861); Untraced vocation, Fort Langley (1861 - 1862).

Kenneth Morrison, from the outer Hebrides, joined the HBC in 1852 with his friend John McIver, originally on a five-year contract as a labourer. He likely sailed to York Factory and made his way overland by canoe and snowshoe. Morrison worked at a variety of locations and latterly at Fort Langley where he worked in the cooperage until 1862. Taking advantage of the caribou gold rush, in 1860, Morrison and his wife Lucy pre-empted 160 acres [64.8 ha] on the banks of the Fraser River not far east of Fort Langley and opened up a stopping house for miners. Two years later, they pre-empted a further sixty acres [24.3 ha]. When Fort Langley became a municipality, Kenneth Morrison was elected councillor in the election of 1873. In 1877, Morrison's friend, John McIver, returned to Scotland, married Morrison's sister, and returned to the Fraser Valley. Kenneth Morrison died in 1900, likely in Langley, B.C.

Kenneth Morrison had one wife and eight children. On July 31, 1859, Morrison married Lucy Allard (c.1843-1924), daughter of Joseph or Ovid Allard and Marie, a native. Their children were Joseph (1861-?), Jessie Matilda (1863-1934), Maggie (1864-?), Alexander (1868-?), Mary (1869-?), Pierre Kenneth (1871-?), William (1871-?) and Elizabeth (1876-?).

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1-10; BCA BCCR-WesMeth; BCGR-Marriage SS: Laing, p. 176; Waite, p. 44, 60; The Place Between, p. 228

See Also: McIver, John (possible Relative); Allard, Ovid (probable Father-in-Law)

Morrison, Thomas [variation: Morison] (fl. 1859 - 1860) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Scotland

Death: possibly West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1849); Labourer, Fort Alexandria (1850 - 1851); Labourer, New Caledonia (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1852 - 1853); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1854 - 1860).

Thomas Morrison sailed from Scotland to York Factory and worked for the HBC for ten years. Little is written of him other than in February 1853, when he had venereal disease and, by 1856 had to temporarily leave Fort Simpson for medical advice. In 1860, when he was recruited to run the brigade into the interior, he took the advances and decided not to go and thence, disappeared from record.

At Fort Simpson, Thomas Morrison took a wife and in July 1856, they had a girl (1856-1857).

PS: BCA FtAlex 1; HBCA log of Prince Rupert V 10; YFASA 30-32; FtVicASA 2-9; FtVicCB 18; FtSimp[N]PJ 7

Morrow, Thomas (fl. 1849 - 1852) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Apprentice, Una (brigantine) (1849 - 1851); Seaman, Recovery (brig) (1852).

Thomas Morrow was apprenticing on the Prince Albert for the HBC on a Hudson Bay run in 1849 when he joined the Una for a voyage to the Northwest Coast. However, his vessel was wrecked at Neah Bay on December 25, 1851. After continuing on another vessel, he deserted, along with fellow crew members, Zachariah Cathrick, William Hudson and Edward James, on November 1, 1852. At that point, he disappeared from record and didn't get his mail which remained with the HBC. In one letter his sister, Mary Humphries in Bath, England told Thomas that his mother was not pleased about his lack of writing and warned him about getting too fond of grog and dangerous women unlike Dr. Cran who had been suspended "for getting too Close to the girls" (Beattie & Buss, p. 281). Another letter from another sister, Agnes Morrow expressed the great relief of getting out of the convent, which she referred to as the "prison."

Mortensen, Matthias (fl. 1857 - c. 1858) (Norwegian)

Birth: probably Norway

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, New Caledonia (1857 - 1858).

Matthias Mortensen joined the HBC likely from Norway in 1857 and appeared to work in New Caledonia for only one outfit.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 5-6

Morwick, William (c. 1813 - 1843) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: possibly Orkney, United Kingdom - c. 1813

Death: Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs], New Caledonia - January 1843

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, New Caledonia (1834 - 1835); Middleman, New Caledonia (1835 - 1838); Servant, New Caledonia (1838 - 1841); Ogden's Cook, Stuart's Lake (1841 - 1842); Post master, Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs] (1842 - 1843).

William Morwick joined the HBC from Stromness, in the Orkney Islands, on May 1, 1833. Working in the New Caledonia area in Stuart's Lake as Ogden's cook, Morwick assumed the title of postmaster rather than clerk because of a limited education. In late 1842, he assumed charge of Fort Babine replacing William McBean who was sent off to the isolation of Fort Connolly (Morice, p. 211). On his departure McBean had warned Morwick of the volatility of the local Natives, a condition exacerbated by McBean's despotism and less than honest dealings with the natives. Morwick had failed to heed the warnings when he got into a loud argument with a Rocher Deboule Babine named Lekwe over the price of caribous that the latter had killed for the Company larder. When Lekwe left, Morwick loaded two pistols with powder and salt and when Lekwe returned the following day, Morwick's interpreter Charles Toin presented him with the pistols challenging him to a duel. Lekwe chose his knife, but Toin ignored this, paced off and fired the pistol, the salt wad lacerating Lekwe's arm. Lekwe then lunged at Toin, stabbing him in the arm before he was subdued by Bonin and Morwick. On January 15th, 1843, when Lekwe's father-in-law "Grand Visage" heard the news of the "killing" of Lekwe supposedly by Morwick, and being provoked by a female relative of Lekwe, "Grand Visage sought revenge for a death which hadn't occurred. As the gates were secured, the father in law peered through the pickets of the palisade and seeing Morwick through the parchment windows, shot him dead" (Morice, p. 212-214).

Little is known of Morwick's family but the balance of his wages at his death was to be paid to relatives Lydia, Marion, Margaret, Elizabeth and Hugh (Barclay letter, p. 62).

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 14-15, 19-20, 22; YFDS 5c-7, 9-13; FtVanASA 3-7; Barclay September 13, 1845 letter to Clouston, A.5/15, p. 62; HBCA William Morwick search file SS: Morice, The History of, p. 211-14

Moses (fl. 1839) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1839); Passenger, Vancouver (barque) (1839).

Moses joined the HBC from Oahu in 1839 on a one-year contract. He worked for one outfit at Fort Vancouver and left on the Vancouver on November 16, 1839 for Oahu where he was discharged.

PS: HBCA YFASA 19; FtVanASA 6; ShMiscPap 14

Moss, Alfred A. (fl. 1852 - 1853) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1852 - 1853).

Alfred A. Moss made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison. While on the coast, he would have visited several coastal posts. Upon his return, he signed a petition for an unpaid gratuity, granted by James Douglas when striking crew members would return to work if they were given a gratuity.

An undelivered October 7, 1852 letter from his pregnant wife, Sarah, rests in the HBCA. Two children and a brother Martin are mentioned.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; ShMiscPap 9a PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 256-58

Moss, John (fl. 1857 - c. 1858) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1857 - 1858).

John Moss first sailed with the HBC to Hudson Bay on the Prince Arthur and then made one return voyage to Vancouver Island on the supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA log of Princess Royal 4; PortB 1

Moss, Joseph (fl. 1848 - 1850) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Apprentice, Columbia (barque) (1848 - 1850).

Joseph Moss served out part of his apprenticeship on the HBC vessel Columbia on one return voyage from London to the coast. He arrived back in London in the spring of 1850.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; YFASA 30-31

Mott, Andrew (fl. 1842 - c. 1844?) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1842 - 1843); Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1843).

Andrew Mott, who may be related to the following Mott, shipped on with the HBC around September 6, 1842 and sailed to the coast on the Columbia. On June 9, 1843, he was discharged and transferred to the barque Vancouver and most likely arrived back in London on June 11, 1844.

PS: HBCA log Columbia 6

Mott, Andrew Cook (fl. c. 1842 - 1849) (British: English)

Birth: probably in or near Staynton, England

Maritime officer

HBC Master, Vancouver (barque) (1844 - 1848); Passenger, Conlitz (barque) (1848 - 1849).

Andrew Cook Mott may have joined the Hudson's Bay Company in 1842. In 1844 he was put in command of the barque Vancouver but before he got started, he resigned from the position on August 8, 1844 because of the death of his father. He must have concluded his family business in short order for, on September 6, 1844, he was in the Downs in command of the same Vancouver en route to the Columbia River where he arrived on February 18, 1845. In December 1845, after sailing along the coast and being recaulked, he left for the British Isles. In 1848 he was back on the coast and, after the Vancouver discharged the annual supplies at Fort Victoria, it headed south for the mouth of the Columbia with supplies for Fort Vancouver. However, on May 7, 1848, the Vancouver was wrecked on the bar (Shark's Spit) at the entrance of the river. The lost Fort Vancouver goods later had to be replaced by material from the Sandwich Islands. In spite of the coming to grief of his ship, Mott was recommended for his conduct by James Douglas and John Work in 1848. He returned that fall to England as a passenger onboard the Conlitz into retirement. In September of that year the wages which had been previously sent to Mrs. Mott, at Maple House, High Street Broadstairs, were cut off.

PS: HBCA YFASA 25-26; YFDS 17; Governor and Committee's letter of April 7, 1847 to Sir George Simpson, A.6/27, fo. 80d; James Douglas and J. Work's December 5, 1848 letter to Governor and Committee, A.11/72, fo. 39-44d; A. Barclay's letter of September 28, 1848 to Mrs. C. Mott, A.5/16, p. 53

Mott, Charles W. (fl. 1844 - 1852) (British: English)

Birth: probably in or near Staynton, England

Death: probably British Isles

Maritime officer

HBC 3rd mate, Vancouver (barque) (1844 - 1845); 2nd mate, Vancouver (barque) (1845 - 1848); 2nd mate, Cadboro (schooner) (1848); 2nd mate, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1848 - 1849); 1st mate, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1849 - 1852).

Charles W. Mott (possibly a relative of Andrew) joined the HBC on September 2, 1844. He left the Columbia for the British Isles on December 12, 1846 aboard the barque Vancouver and returned on the same ship only to be wrecked at the mouth of the Columbia on May 7, 1848. The following month he joined the schooner Cadboro likely as second mate and, because of a lack of qualified officer, rose through the ranks on the Mary Dare in spite of his drinking habits. Mott, because of ill health, left again on the Norman Morison on January 16, 1852 and did not appear to return to the coast.

Mouat, William Alexander [variation: Mouatt, Mowatt, Mowat] (1821 - 1871) (British: English)

Birth: London, England - 1821

Death: between Knight's Inlet and Fort Rupert, British Columbia - April 12, 1871

Maritime officer

HBC Officer (2nd), Vancouver (barque) (1844 - 1845); Officer (2nd), Cadboro (schooner) (1845 - 1846); Officer, Cadboro (schooner) (1846 - 1847); Officer, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1847 - 1849); Commander, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1851 - 1854); Ship's master, Columbia Department (1854 - 1855); Master, Otter (steamer) (1855 - 1860); Chief Trader, Fort Victoria (1860 - 1861); Chief Trader, Otter (steamer) (1861 - 1862); Chief Trader, Enterprise (steamer) (1862 - 1865); Chief Trader, Labouchere (steamer) (1865 - 1866); Chief Trader, Enterprise (steamer) (1865 - 1866); Chief Trader, Martins (steamer) (1866 - 1867); Chief Trader, Fort Rupert (1866 - 1867); Chief Trader, Fort Rupert (1867 - 1871).

William Alexander Mouat joined the HBC on August 31, 1844 coming out to the coast on a somewhat rebellious voyage of the Vancouver. A month after he arrived on the coast, he was transferred to the Cadboro. His stint as mate of the Cadboro from 1845-1847 ended with a minor mutiny and Mouat being removed by the captain. The rebellion had built slowly. Matters were relatively calm in 1845-1846 with minor incidents of the crew being insolent to him. However, on January 16, 1847 he struck steward William Maydle on the face several times as the steward would not bring him water with which to wash; Mouat was temporarily relieved from duty. When the schooner landed at San Francisco on January 31, 1847, Mouat apologized for his behaviour and was reinstated; however, only the boatswain would support him. As the ship was about to leave San Francisco on February 8, 1847, and Mr. Mouat was loosening the sails on deck, one crew member refused to work unless Mouat was off the deck. Finally, on February 20, 1847 at Fort Victoria, five crew members mutinied, refusing to work under Mouat which left the captain no choice but to send Mouat to Fort Vancouver via another ship, the first of which, the brig Henry under Captain Kilborn, would take him to Baker's Bay. On October 16, 1849 he went to California, possibly to the gold fields there but returned by 1851. In February 1854, he purchased a town lot in Victoria and later that year returned to England on the Mary Dare, during which time he beat the second mate in the face; he returned to the coast in 1855. While in England he married and in September 1854 returned with his wife and her piano to Victoria. In 1858 he purchased two hundred acres [80.9 ha] in the South Saanich District and by 1860, he was living at Clifton Cottage. He was captain of the mail carrying Labouchere, when, through his incompetence, the vessel stuck a reef and sank while on its way from Victoria to San Francisco. The Mouats were part of the social scene, however, for Mrs. Mouat was very musical and used to entertain on her piano at Fort Victoria along with Mr. Cridge (cello), Mr. Pearse (violin) and John Tod (flute). She preferred Beethoven, Mozart, Handel and Liszt to the modern tunes of the time. In his later years, he was captain of the steamer Martin on Kamloops Lake, and after remaining there a year was placed in charge of the Company's post at Fort Rupert. He died April 12, 1871, while on his way in a canoe from Knight's Inlet to Fort Rupert. He was buried in the Quadra Street Cemetery, Victoria, B.C.

William A. Mouatt had one wife, Marianne/Mary Ann (c.1826-1896), whom he married in England in 1854. Marianne was buried on January 9, 1896 at the Victoria Reformed Episcopal Church. Their recorded children were Alexander John Gilling (c.1855-1898), Ainsley James Ingles (c.1857-?), Clarissa Elizabeth (?-bap.1858-?), Helen Graham (c.1861-?), William Trail (c.1863-?), Anthony Charles (c.1865-?) and Ethel Margaret (c.1866-?).

Mouat Point, Pender Island; Mouat Reef, Enterprise Channel; Mouat Rock, Goletas Channel; Mouat Channel, Baynes Channel and Mouat Islets, Gillies Bay, Texada Island were named after William A. Mouat.

PS: HBCA log of Vancouver [3] 2; ShMiscPap 11; YFASA 25-31; YFDS 17, 20; FtVicASA 1-16, 18; log of Cadboro 5, 6; log of Mary Dare 4; BCA BCGR-CrtR-Land; BCGR-CrtR-AbsLnd; Mallandaine, p. 66; BCCR CCCath; BCCR RefEC; Van-PL 1881 Canada Census, Victoria, James Bay Ward; Van-PL Colonist, Jan. 9, 1896, p. 8 SS: Lewis & Dryden, p. 21; Walbran, p. 344; Lugin, p. 200-201

Moumouto [variation: Moumouton, Monmouton] (c. 1797 - ?) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands - c. 1797

Death: possibly Pacific Northwest, North America

Fur trade employee

NWC Untraced vocation, Columbia River (1817 - 1823); Untraced vocation, Columbia River (1821 - 1823); HBC Untraced vocation, Fort George [Astoria] (1823 - 1825); NWC Sawyer, Columbia Department (1825 - 1826); HBC Sawyer, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1835); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1837); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1845); Sawyer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1847); Freeman, Willamette (1847 - 1848); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1848 - 1850).

Moumouto was hired on by the NWC from the Hawaiian Islands in 1817. Early on he worked with the Fort George store but much of his time was spent at Fort Vancouver as a sawyer and labourer, and he probably lived in the fort's Kanaka village. He retired in 1850 and disappeared from record in 1851, for there was no movement on his account after that time. He may have drifted off to the Indian village of his wife as did other Hawaiians who did not continue employment with the Company, after it moved its operations north to Fort Victoria.

Moumouton had one recorded wife, Marie, and three children. The recorded Moumouton children were Lalouise (c.1829-1845), Moise (1844-1844), and Jean Baptiste (1847-1848).

PS: HBCA YFASA 2-9, 11-15, 19-20, 22-32; FtGeo[Ast]AB 11-12; YFDS 2a, 3a-3b, 4b-7, 16-17; FtVanASA 1-7, 9 PPS: CCR 1b

Mousette, Joseph [variation: Moussette] (c. 1809 - 1830) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Maurice (par. of Montreal), Lower Canada - c. 1809

Death: Columbia River, Pacific Northwest - October 15, 1830

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830).

Joseph Mousette joined the HBC from St. Maurice in 1830 and perhaps from his inexperience, drowned in the Columbia River October 25, 1830.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; FtVanAB 28; YFDS 4a; YFASA 10

Mousette, Narcisse [variation: Moussette, Mouset] (c. 1818 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: Lower Canada [Quebec] - c. 1818

Death: probably East of the Rocky Mountains

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Colville (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1841 - 1842); Middleman, Cowlitz Farm (1842).

Narcisse Mousette, from Canada, joined the HBC in 1837 as a middleman, spending 1837-1840 at Moose and Albany before coming to the Columbia. From 1840 he spent one or more outfits at Fort Colville and, near the end of his contract was found splitting shingles at Cowlitz Farm. His departure from the Pacific slopes was no doubt hastened when he told Hilaire Gilbeault and Narcisse Forcier, with whom he was working, that he would like to kill Cowlitz Farm clerk, Charles Forrest, just as John McLoughlin Jr. had been killed in Stikine. As his co-workers took him seriously and reported him, Mousette very quickly found himself going east over the Rockies. He spent the next winter (1842-1843) in the Saskatchewan area. From July 1843 he signed further contracts to work east of the Rockies.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22; FtVanASA 6-7; CowFMI 1; HBCCont; HBCA Narcisse Moussette search file

Mousseau, Louis (fl. 1800 - 1816) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly L'Assomption, Province of Quebec

Fur trade employee

NWC Milieu, Fort George [Astoria] (winter 1813 - 1814); Brigade member, Pacific slopes (1816).

Louis Mousseau was first engaged by the NWC [McTavish, Frobisher] from L'Assomption November 18, 1800 for service in the Northwest where he worked at unspecified locations and may have been with David Thompson in 1808 at Kootenae House. He renewed his contract in the Columbia in 1812 for two years, and wintered in 1813-1814 at Fort George [Astoria] at the time when the NWC took over the PFC. He was likely working on the Brigade in 1816 when he picked up two cotton shirts on his way through Fort William.

PS: SHDeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 1, 10

Mousseau (Desilet), Eustache (c. 1801 - 1834) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Elizabeth, Lower Canada - c. 1801

Death: Willamette River, Oregon Territory - April 11, 1834

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1831 - 1832); Middleman, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1832 - 1833); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1833 - 1834).

Eustache Mousseau (Desilet) joined the HBC in 1831 as a middleman and worked in the Columbia area. In outfit 1833-1834 he worked at Fort Simpson but likely travelled south in the spring for he drowned in the Willamette River, Oregon on April 11, 1834.

PS: HBCA YFASA 11-14; YFDS 4b-5b

Mowat, Andrew [b] (fl. 1849 - 1852) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1849); Labourer, Cowlitz Farm (1850 - 1851); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1851 - 1852).

Andrew Mowat [b] joined HBC in 1849 and sailed to York Factory. He didn't stay long on the Pacific slopes for, on March 24, 1852, he deserted.

PS: HBCA log of Prince Rupert V 10; YFASA 30-31; YFDS 22; FtVanASA 9

Mowat, Hugh [variation: Mouat] (1828 - ?) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: Instar, Rousay, Orkney - December 4, 1828 (born to John and Catherine [Inksater] Mowat)

Death: possibly British Isles

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince of Wales II (barque) (1850); Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1851 - 1852); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1852 - 1854); Steward, Fort Vancouver (1854 - 1860); Steward, Columbia Department (1860 - 1861); Passenger, Princess Royal (barque) (1860 - 1861).

Hugh Mowat, the youngest of five children of Rousay farmers, joined the HBC from Rousay in 1850. He sailed from Stromness to Hudson Bay and took the brigade overland to Fort Vancouver. There he worked as a labourer and steward until the end of his contract in 1860. He returned to the British Isles in 1861, and has not been tracked after his arrival in London on June 25, 1861.

Two HBCA undelivered (1851 and 1852) letters to Mowat, one from a friend and another from a brother, give detailed accounts of what was going on in the community. The letters did not draw Hugh home any faster.

PS: OrkA OPR; OrkA 1841 U.K. Census, Orkney-Rousay; HBCA log of Prince of Wales II 1; YFASA 31-32; YFDS 22; FtVanASA 9-16; log of Princess Royal 6; MiscI 5 PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 334-37

Mowatt, Henry [variation: Mowat] (c. 1814 - ?) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: probably in or near "Quoy Hendry", Birsay, Orkney - c. 1814

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1834 - 1835); PSAC Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1835 - 1837); Middleman, Fort Nisqually (1837 - 1838); HBC Middleman, Beaver (ship) (1838 - 1839); Stoker and labourer, Beaver (steamer) (1839 - 1840); PSAC Labourer, Cowlitz Farm (1840 - 1841).

Henry Mowatt, from "Quoy Hendry", in Birsay, joined the HBC on June 10, 1833 in Stromness, Orkney. For a period of seven years he worked at various coastal locations and returned east over the Rockies in the spring of 1841 and to the British Isles via the Prince Rupert.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 14-15, 19-20; YFDS 7; FtVanASA 3-6; PSACAB 3

Mowee [variation: Maui, Mawé, Mowie] (fl. 1844 - 1850) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: Fort Vancouver, Washington Territory - July 1850

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Cowlitz Farm (1844 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1850).

Mowee joined the HBC from Oahu in 1844. He worked at the Cowlitz farm until 1850, when he went to Fort Vancouver, possibly because of sickness. There, he died of unstated causes around the end of July, for he was paid for two months work in outfit 1850-1851.

Mowee had one wife, an unnamed Native woman of the Fort Vancouver mission, and one child, Anne (1850-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-31 PPS: CCR 1b

Muir, Alexander (fl. 1833 - 1834) (probably British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver (1833 - 1834).

Alexander Muir worked the HBC at Fort Vancouver between April 3 and November 1, 1833 at which time he departed for Oahu.

Mumford, William P. [variation: John D.] (c. 1778 - ?) (American)

Birth: possibly Rhode Island or Massachusetts, United States

Death: probably United States of America

Maritime officer

PFC 2nd mate, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811); Commander of tender Dolly, Fort George [Astoria] (1811 - 1812); NWC 2nd mate, Beaver (ship) (1812 - 1814).

When thirty-three year old, six foot [183 cm] tall, Rhode Island native, William P. Mumford joined the Astor ship Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn] around September 3, 1810, it wasn't the first time he had sailed to the Pacific. Consequently, after a tempestuous voyage around the Horn, when the vessel stopped at the Sandwich Islands, he was able to identify various landmarks. On March 23, 1811 as the Tonquin was trying to negotiate its way across the bar of the Columbia River, the apparently short tempered second mate took soundings in what was perhaps unfamiliar territory. This temper, however, saved him for after he had an argument with Thorn, he agreed to stay ashore to take command of the tender Dolly thus inadvertently avoiding the fate of his shipmates up the coast. While on shore, however, he would not take orders from Astor partner Robert Stuart, and so, after a trip upriver in the Dolly to obtain food, Mumford arrived back alone in a canoe at Fort Astoria on October 17. Some time after the Astor ship Beaver [Cornelius Soule] arrived at Astoria on May 9, 1812, Mumford signed on probably as second mate and in August, sailed for Sitka. As the War of 1812 was raging, and fearing capture, the Beaver sailed directly to Canton where Captain Soule had her interned for the rest of the War. Mumford likely returned to New York from Canton on the ship Beaver.

PS: USNA Tonquin; RosL-Ph Astoria PPS: ChSoc XLV, p. 48, 58, 72, 85, 92-93; R. F. Jones, p. 94; Howay, A List of Trading Vessels

Munro, David (c. 1799 - ?) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Tolly, "Ross Run" parish, Ross, Scotland - c. 1799

Death: probably Oregon State, United States

Fur trade employee

HBC Cooper, Fort Vancouver general charges (1842 - 1843); Cooper, Fort Vancouver (1843 - 1844); Settler, Willamette (1844+).

David Munro, from Tolly, Ross Run parish, County Ross, Scotland joined the fur trade on April 11, 1818 as a labourer and cooper and appeared for the first time in the Columbia in outfit 1842-1843. In outfit 1844-1845, he settled in the Willamette, Oregon. He must have moved north of the Columbia for in 1850 he was noted as being a farmer in Washington Co. (Oregon). By 1861 he was living at Tualatin.

By 1850, David Munro had one wife Betsy (c.1798-?), of unknown origin, and children Alexander (c.1826-?), Christian (c.1834-?), Ellen (c.1836-?), Catherine (c.1837-?) and David (c.1839).

PS: HBCA HBCCont; FtVanASA 7; FtVicCB 22; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Washington County

Munro, Donald (fl. 1837 - 1838) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Sumatra (barque) (1837 - 1838).

Donald Munro came to the coast on the HBC chartered ship Sumatra. He left England in February, 1837 and, in August, arrived in Oahu where he was sent on shore to get medical help. Similarly, when he arrived at Fort Vancouver in September, he was also sent to the post hospital, again, for unspecified reasons. He spent about a month at Fort Vancouver and arrived back in London in April 1838.

PS: HBCA log of Sumatra 1

Murphy, Henry (fl. 1845 - 1848) (possibly Irish)

Birth: possibly Ireland

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1845 - 1847); Steward and seaman, Columbia (barque) (1847 - 1848).

Henry Murphy shipped on with the HBC vessel on September 29, 1845 for one return voyage to the coast. After servicing several coastal posts and Oahu, he arrived back in London in the spring of 1848.

PS: HBCA YFASA 26-27

Murphy, Samuel (fl. 1851 - 1852) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1851 - 1852).

Samuel Murphy made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Murphy, William (fl. 1855 - 1856) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime officer

HBC Surgeon, Princess Royal (barque) (1855 - 1856).

William Murphy made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Murray, Alfred (fl. 1833 - 1835) (British: English)

Birth: probably Bermondsey, Surrey, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1833 - 1835).

Alfred Murray joined the HBC in April 1833 to serve as a seaman for three years in coastal shipping. He sailed on the Nereide on May 4, 1833 on an arduous almost year long voyage to the Northwest Coast. The voyage was delayed after stopping at Plymouth and Lisbon for repairs and Valparaiso because of a mutiny. After his arrival at Fort Vancouver on April 21, 1834 it was found that Murray had broached the cargo and as a result was to consider himself a “person at large” (log of Nereide, fo. 172d). As a result, a week later he was discharged to the Company’s brig, Lama and may have been on his own from that point. On the other hand, records indicate that he may have returned to England on the Nereide on May 28 but this cannot be ascertained.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Nereide 1; ShMiscPap 14

Murray, Daniel (fl. 1844 - 1849) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: probably in or near Deerness, Orkney, United Kingdom

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1844); Labourer, Columbia Department general charges (1845 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Colville (1846 - 1849); Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1849).

Daniel Murray joined the HBC from Deerness in 1844 on a five year contract sailing from Stromness to York Factory on the Prince Rupert. After serving his contract on the Pacific slopes, he returned to the British Isles in 1849 via the same vessel as “Donald” Murray.

PS: HBCA log of Prince Rupert V 4, 10; YFASA 25-29

Murray, Lewis (fl. 1844 - 1861) (British: Scottish)

Birth: possibly Edinburgh, Scotland

Death: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Comlitz (barque) (1844 - 1845); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1845 - 1847); Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1847 - 1848); Boatswain, Princess Royal (barque) (1860 - 1861).

Lewis Murray joined the HBC in 1843 on a not altogether smooth five year contract. On November 14/15, 1845 at Fort Victoria, he transferred from the barque Comlitz to the schooner Cadboro. Trouble with the ship’s officers began on May 2, 1846 at Baker’s Bay when he supported Henry Williams who demanded that he go ashore and wash his clothes. James Scarborough and mate William Mouat refused to let them go and so Murray, Williams and another crew member were suspended from duty for a month. On June 2, 1846, at Fort Vancouver, Murray decided to return to duty on the Cadboro but the other two were transferred to another ship. On February 8, 1847, as the Cadboro was about to leave San Francisco harbour, Murray declared that he would do no work if mate Mouat worked on deck. Finally, on February 20, 1847 at Fort Victoria, Murray and four others staged a minor mutiny until Mouat was removed and sent to Fort Vancouver on another ship. He continued to work but on October 13, 1847, while ashore at Baker’s Bay, he severely cut his thumb with an axe. On November 4, 1847, he joined the Columbia for the homeward voyage. He may have made another return voyage as a “Lewis F. Murray” in 1860-1861 as a petty officer.

Murray, William [1] (fl. 1832 - 1835) (Undetermined origin)

Maritime employee

HBC Steward, Lama (brig) (1832 - 1833); Seaman, Eagle (brig) (1834 - 1835); Cook, Lama (brig) (1834).

William Murray joined the service of the HBC on September 4, 1832 quite likely in Oahu. On November 10, 1834, after two year's service in the Columbia, he transferred to the brig Eagle and sailed to London.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 14; YFDS 5a-5c; YFASA 13-14

Murray, William [2] [variation: Murray McReady] (fl. 1848 - 1849) (British: Scottish)

Birth: possibly Aberdeen, Scotland (born to Susan Murray McReady)

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1848 - 1849).

William Murray [2] joined the HBC barque Columbia in London on September 12, 1848 and arrived on the coast on March of the following year, in the height of the fever of the California Gold Rush. During this time, he made sure his mother was provided with money but did not receive a package of clothes sent by her. In May 1849, while the Columbia was at Fort Vancouver, Murray and many of the crew demanded a discharge but some could not wait, and so Murray and eight others deserted on May 6 to California and his fate is unknown.

Because he deserted, Murray missed a letter written in 1849 and another in 1850 by his mother, Susan Murray McReady, who was living at 8 Link Street, Aberdeen, Scotland. Both letters rest in the HBCA. As his mother addressed her son as McReady, it would appear that she had been widowed and remarried, giving him the new last name. He had brothers Robert and Burnet and a sister Margaret.

PS: HBCA PortB 1, fo. 34; log of Columbia 9; YFASA 30-31, fos. 368-69; A.10/28, fo. 294; ShMiscPap 4a PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 222-24

Myers, John (fl. 1830 - 1836) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Dryad (brig) (1830 - 1836); Carpenter, Dryad (brig) (1830 - 1836).

John Myers, a ship's carpenter, commenced work in the Columbia with the HBC on August 18, 1830 as a seaman. He spent the next five years working coastal shipping, mainly out of Fort Simpson, and left the Columbia for England on the brig Dryad on October 1, 1835.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 14; FtVanASA 2-3; YFDS 4a-6; YFASA 12-15; log of Dryad 1

Mytie (fl. 1835 - 1840) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1836); Middleman, Fort McLoughlin (1836 - 1837); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (1837 - 1839); Middleman, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1839 - 1840).

Mytie, from Oahu, joined the HBC at Fort Vancouver on November 1, 1835. He worked at coastal forts until November 15, 1840, when he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 15, 19, YFDS 6-7, 11; FtVanASA 3-6

Naaco, George (fl. 1811) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Oahu, Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

PFC Labourer, Tonquin (ship) (1811); Labourer, Fort George [Astoria] (1811 - ?); Middleman, Brigade to Fort William (1814).

George Naaco joined the crew of the Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn] as a labourer around February 21, 1811 when the vessel stopped at Oahu and took on a complement of twelve Sandwich Islanders. One month later, on March 22, the Tonquin arrived at the mouth of the Columbia and, on April 12, George was noted at helping to unload the vessel. By staying ashore, he avoided the fate of his compatriots in the Tonquin and in December of that year was gathering wood up the Cowlitz River with Robert Stuart, a PFC partner. On April 4, 1814, he joined the overland Brigade heading for Fort William on the Great Lakes. Just how he got back to the Hawaiian Islands is open to speculation. (see Ben [1])

Nadeau, Joseph (fl. 1810 - 1811) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec] (born to Jean Nadeau)

Death: mouth of the Columbia River, Pacific Northwest - March 22, 1811

Fur trade employee

PFC Passenger, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811).

A young Joseph Nadeau had been entrusted by his parents to the care of PFC partner, Alexander McKay, when he joined the PFC in the Montreal area on June 16, 1810. He signed to work in far off Indian Country for five years as an apprentice with the New York based company. After joining a canoe brigade to New York City, he boarded the PFC ship, Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn] and sailed on September 6, 1810. After rounding the Horn, the Tonquin arrived at the mouth of the Columbia in late March 1811. In an attempt to get across the uncharted bar, the captain had Nadeau and seven others board a poorly outfitted skiff to try to locate a passage through the bars. The boat was dragged out of sight and so Nadeau and the others drowned on March 22, 1811.

PS: SHdeSB Liste PPS: ChSoc XLV, p. 48, 71, 74

Naeve [variation: Naeve, Nauve] (fl. 1844 - 1845) (Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: Cowlitz farm, Columbia Department - July 15, 1845

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1845); PSAC Labourer, Cowlitz Farm (1844 - 1845).

Nauve joined the HBC from Oahu in 1844 on a three-year contract. He worked for just over a year and died at Cowlitz farm in July 1845.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-27; YFDS 16

Naharou [variation: Naharow] (fl. 1840 - 1855) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Stikine (1840); Middleman, Fort Langley (1840 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Langley (1842 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1843 - 1845); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1846); Labourer, Snake Party (1846 - 1848); Labourer, Snake Country (1848 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1850 - 1851); Labourer, Snake Country (1851 - 1852); Labourer, Snake Country (1853 - 1855).

Naharou joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840 and, after being first placed at Stikine, was sent to Langley where he was needed more. He retired in 1844 and was paid off at the end of the year in Honolulu. However, this may have been a short hiatus, for he was soon back at Vancouver. He deserted in outfit 1852-1853 but likely rejoined again for, in outfit 1855, he retired and "left" the service.

No family has been traced.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-32; FtVanASA 6-7, 9-12; FtStikPJ 1; SandIsAB 3; FtVicDS 1

Naheeti, Peter (fl. 1853) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Pekin (ship) (1853); Seaman, Mary Catherine (ship) (1853).

Peter, whose Hawaiian name was Naheeti, shipped aboard the HBC chartered vessel Pekin in Honolulu probably in the summer of 1853, sailed to the Northwest Coast and arrived back in Honolulu September 27, 1853 on the Mary Catherine. He was given the final balances of his wages when he arrived back.

PS: SandIsLonIC 3

Nahoa [variation: Nehow] (fl. 1845 - 1849) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Umpqua (1845 - 1847); Labourer, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1847 - 1849); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1847 - 1849).

Nahoa joined the HBC from Oahu on May 7, 1845 and was dispatched to Fort Umqua as a labourer, being sent two years later to work in the Fort Vancouver Indian trade. He deserted early in 1849 and probably headed to the California gold fields.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 3; YFASA 24-29; YFDS 16-17

Nahoua [variation: Nahona, Nahowa, Nahua] (fl. 1840 - 1858) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: probably Vancouver Island, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Stikine (1840 - 1847); PSAC Kitchen assistant, Fort Stikine (1840 - 1847); Shepherd, Fort Nisqually outstation (1848 - 1849); Labourer, Fort Rupert (1850 - 1852); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1852 - 1854); Labourer, Belle Vue Sheep Farm (1854); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1854 - 1857); Baker, Fort Victoria (1857 - 1858).

Nahoua, who joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840, worked at Fort Stikine until November 10, 1847 at which point he returned to Oahu. After a few months on the islands, he re-enlisted again and began work for PSAC at Fort Nisqually on June 15, 1848. At the San Juan sheep farm, he made lime and did a variety of jobs but, in 1854 after the clerk in charge, Charles J. Griffin, had two shirts and four tobacco plugs stolen, Nahoua was forced to show his plugs; consequently, his feelings were hurt and he left in anger to continue work at Fort Victoria. He worked until October 1, 1858 and may have stayed in the area with his family and lived on Victoria's Kanaka Row area. The date and place of his death have not been traced.

Nahoua had one wife and between six and eight children, not all of whom made it past infancy. Nahoua took Kat-sahls (?-?), a Tsimpsonian woman, as his wife. They had Hannah (?-bap.1852-?), John (?-bap.1852-?), James (?-bap.1852-?), Louisa (?-bap.1855-1855), Harriet (?-bap.1856-?), Cecilia (1857-1858), and Mary Ann (?-bap.1859-1859). The children were all baptized at Victoria as Anglicans.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-27, 30-32; FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 18-19; FtVicASA 1-6; BCA BCCR CCCath SS: S. A. Anderson, The Physical Structure, p. 171 PPS: ChSoc VI, p. 358

Nahouree (fl. 1840 - 1843) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: possibly Snake Country, Pacific Northwest - 1843

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Snake Party (1840 - 1843).

Nahouree joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840 and was sent to join the Snake Party. His contract ended in 1843, at which point he appears to have died, possibly in the Snake Country.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 23; FtVanASA 6-7

Nahu (fl. 1858 - 1862) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Langley (1858 - ?).

Nahu remains a shadowy figure who may have been employed by the HBC at Fort Langley in 1858. Oral tradition suggests his name may have originally been Nahua, Anahua, or Naho. He may feasibly have been the Hawaiian enumerated in 1880 as Cowlippi Teogh.

Nahu was likely the father of Leon Nahu (c. 1862-1913). According to oral tradition, his mother was the daughter of a Hawaiian man and Native woman. By one account she was a Peeopeeoh daughter from Fort Langley, by another, born at Fort Vancouver. Leon's death certificate has him born on the north side of the Fraser River at Maple Ridge, where several former Fort Langley employees from the Hawaiian Islands took up land in 1860.

Two other likely Nahu sons, John and Charles (c. 1852-?), worked alongside Leon in a Burrard Inlet sawmill during the early 1880s. John Naho and a Musqueam woman named Mary were the parents of Catherine (1893-?) and Florence (c. 1895-?).

In 1881 young Leon was living at Fort Langley, but soon migrated to North Vancouver, where he worked in a sawmill and then as a longshoreman. Leon Nahu and Mary Agnes Haley (1867-1904), whose father was also a Hawaiian, were the parents of Norman (1890-1953), Herbert (1891-1957), Agnes (1893-?), Ralph (1897-1950), and James (1902-1966).

PS: BCA BCVS; Van-PL 1881 Canada Census, New Westminster, 1891 Canada Census; VanSTheo "Coqualeetza Industrial School, Admissions and Discharges," United Church Archives SS: Nelson, p. 21

Nahua (fl. 1850) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1850).

Nahua shipped on board the HBC vessel Cowlitz on February 3, 1850 at Honolulu and sailed to the Northwest Coast. The captain was unhappy with the performance of the Hawaiians and when the vessel arrived back in Oahu in August, the Hawaiians rebelled on the 27th, claiming their contract was up. However, Nahua and others returned to work until September 20, after which he disappears from record.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 10, 11; log of Cowlitz 8

Nakahene, Bob [variation: Nakyoghiny, Nakygooheny] (fl. 1840 - 1841) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: Hawaiian Islands

Death: Fort Simpson [Nass], British Columbia - July 6, 1841

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1841).

Nakahene joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840 on a three-year contract and after reaching the Northwest Coast, assisted in building Fort Taku [Alaska]. After the bulk of the construction was complete at Taku, he was sent to Fort Simpson where he was noted in the journals as Bob, carrying on a variety of duties. Late in the spring of 1841 he became sick more frequently, and finally he was confined to bed. He died at Fort Simpson on July 6, 1841 of unknown causes with a simple notation "Bob the Kanaka died this afternoon" (FtSimp[N]PJ 6, fo. 10). The next morning, an overcast morning when the wind was blowing moderately, Bob Nakahene was buried, likely on the knoll behind the fort.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20-21; FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 12; FtSimp[N]PJ 6

Nakai (fl. 1850) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1850).

Nakai shipped on board the HBC vessel Cowlitz in February 3, 1850 at Honolulu and sailed to the Northwest Coast on a voyage on which the captain was unhappy with the performance of the Hawaiians. When the vessel returned to Hawaii that summer, the Hawaiian crew rebelled on August 27 but returned to the vessel to work a further month. Nakai finished his employment with the HBC on September 20 and goes off record.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 10, 11; log of Cowlitz 8

Namacoouroria [variation: Namacooeroua, Nama cerooa] (fl. 1840 - 1846) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Snake Party (1841 - 1842); Labourer, Snake Party (1842 - 1845); Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1845 - 1846).

Namacoouroria first joined the HBC in July 1837 in Oahu and may have worked in Honolulu, as he didn't appear in Columbia accounts until 1840. Once on the Pacific slopes, he spent the majority of his time in Snake Country. He worked with the Company until August 6, 1846, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 1; YFASA 20, 22-26; FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 17

Namahana [variation: Namahama] (fl. 1830 - 1834) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver (1831 - 1834); Passenger or seaman, Eagle (brig) (1834).

Namahana joined the HBC in 1830. Described by William Fraser Tolmie as "slow in his motions as a sloth but quiet & docile" (Tolmie, p. 173). He was his attendant in his surgery at Fort Vancouver in May 1833. Namahana worked in the Fort Vancouver area, probably as a labourer, until December 1, 1834, when, no doubt at the end of his contract, he was sent back to Oahu aboard the brig Eagle.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2-3; YFDS 4a-5c; YFASA 11-14; SandIsM 1; ShMiscPap 14; W. F. Tolmie, p. 173

Namakokyan [variation: Namokokay] (fl. c. 1815 - c. 1821) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

NWC Crew member, Columbia (schooner) (1815); Milieu, Columbia Department (1821).

Namakokyan appears to have worked for the NWC for a number of years and in 1821, transferred to the HBC. Otherwise, nothing is known of him.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 17, 9

Namaurooa [variation: Namaeroua, Namaerooa] (fl. 1837 - 1840) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: possibly Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Methodist Willamette Mission (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1838 - 1839); Middleman, Fort McLoughlin (1839 - 1840).

Namaurooa joined the HBC from Oahu in 1837 and worked at Fort Vancouver from August 10 to November 13, 1837, whereupon he was transferred to the services of Methodist missionary Jason Lee. After helping Lee, he worked along the coast until November 15, 1840, the end of his contract, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 17, 19-20; YFDS 8, 11; FtVanASA 4-6

Namhallow [variation: Namahaloo, Namohala] (fl. 1844 - 1861) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1847); Labourer, New Caledonia (1847 - 1848); Labourer, Fort Alexandria (1848); Labourer, New Caledonia (1848 - 1851); Labourer, Fort Alexandria (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1852 - 1853); Labourer, New Caledonia (1853 - 1855); Labourer, New Caledonia (1855 - 1858); Labourer, Fort Alexandria (1855); Labourer, Fort Alexandria (1858); Labourer, New Caledonia (1858 - 1860); Untraced vocation, Western Department (1860 - 1861).

Namhallow joined the HBC from Oahu in 1844 and, after a stint at Fort Vancouver, worked in New Caledonia as a labourer for over a dozen years, probably all at Fort Alexandria. His final contract ended in 1861, and for the next two years there was movement on his account; however, his further movements have not been traced, nor has any family been located.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-32; FtVicASA 1-10; FtAlexPJ 8-10; BCA FtAlex 1

Namotto (fl. 1844 - 1850) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1845); Labourer, Beaver (steamer) (1845 - 1846); Woodcutter, Beaver (ship) (1846 - 1847); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1848 - 1850); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1850); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1850).

Namotto joined the HBC in 1844 on a three-year contract, working as a labourer at Fort Vancouver and woodcutter on the Beaver until November 10, 1847, at which point he returned to O'ahu. He re-enlisted again in 1848, had a stint at Fort Victoria and another as a woodcutter on the Beaver, and, on June 19, 1850, deserted at Fort Victoria along with fellow employees Samuel Pepper, Jean Baptiste Dechamp and Jean Baptiste Kanatakonda. He may have stayed in the area for a couple more years, for his account showed some movement, but he otherwise disappeared from record.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 7; YFASA 24-27, 30-32; YFDS 18-19

Napahay, Alick [variation: Napie, Napahy] (c. 1820 - ?) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: Hawaiian Islands - c. 1820

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice, Nereide (barque) (1839); Cabin boy or apprentice, Fort Vancouver (1839 - 1840); Apprentice, Cadboro (schooner) (1840 - 1842); PSAC Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1842 - 1851); Horsekeeper, Fort Nisqually (1842 - 1851); Shepherd, Fort Nisqually (1842 - 1851); HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1851 - 1852); PSAC Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1858 - 1859).

Alick Napahay joined the HBC from Oahu in 1839 on a one-year contract. He worked at various forts and on the schooner Cadboro. In March, 1851, struck with paralysis on his left side and unable to work, he was taken from Nisqually by his friend Kalama to Vancouver to work but he obviously could not work there and so was discharged in 1852. However, he appears to have recovered for, six years later, he was back in Nisqually carting a variety of goods to the various farms and to the nearby US Army post at Steilacoom. He has not been traced after that.

No family has been located.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 19-20, 22-32; FtVanASA 6-7, 9; FtNisCB 1; OHS 1850 US Census, Lewis Co. PPS: Dickey; TacP-FtNis Muck

Napoua (fl. 1841 - 1847) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: Fort Vancouver, Oregon Territory - December 15, 1847

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1843 - 1847).

Napoua joined the HBC from Oahu in 1841 and began receiving wages on July 1 of that year. He spent his entire career as a middleman and labourer at Fort Vancouver and died there on December 15, 1847 from the measles, as several of his fellow Sandwich Islanders did that winter. He was buried the following day at Fort Vancouver, and his salary was paid to his relatives in Hawaii.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 12, 18; YFASA 22-27; SandIsAB 7; HBCA Lowe 1

Napuko, Henry [variation: Harry Napuko] (fl. 1834 - 1837) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Maritime employee

HBC Middleman or labourer (very high wage), Fort Simpson (1834 - 1836); Seaman, Beaver (steamer) (1836 - 1837); Steward, Cadboro (schooner) (1837).

Little is known of Henry or Harry Napuko, who joined the HBC from Oahu in 1834. After he arrived on the Northwest Coast, he went from McLoughlin harbour to the old Nass site to likely participate in its dismantling prior to the post's move to the Tsimpshian peninsula. After that he worked for a couple of years as a steward on coastal steamers. From that point on he wasn't specifically mentioned in the journals until he deserted, along with fellow employee David Neill, at Monterey on October 1, 1837. He has not been traced after that.

PS: HBCA FtSimp[N]PJ 3; YFASA 14-15; YFDS 5c-7; FtSimp[N]PJ 3; FtVanASA 3-5; ShMiscPap 14

Naremarou, Francois Xavier [standard: François Xavier] (fl. 1840 - 1844) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: Hawaiian Islands - 1814

Death: Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - August 21, 1844

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1844).

Naremarou joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840. After arriving on the Northwest Coast, he worked for the next four outfits at Fort Vancouver. His contract was to have ended in 1846, but he died of heart disease at Fort Vancouver hospital on August 21, 1844. While he was on his deathbed, Naremarou was baptised "François Xavier" by the Catholic priest, Modeste Demers, no doubt to pave his way into Catholic heaven.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-24; FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 17; HBCA Lowe 1 PPS: CCR 1b

Narimma (fl. 1844 - 1851) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: Fort Simpson [Nass], British Columbia - January 14, 1850

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1845); Labourer, Fort Nez Percés (1845 - 1847); Labourer, Fort Stikine (1847 - 1849); Labourer, Fort Rupert (1849 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1850 - 1851).

Narimma joined the HBC from Oahu in 1844. He spent the majority of the next seven years working at coastal forts, his last assignment being Fort Simpson, where he died on January 14, 1851 of unspecified causes. He is most likely buried in the old overgrown hill cemetery behind the area where old Fort Simpson stood. He left a credit of £26.1.6 to his name.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-31; YFDS 19; FtVicASA 1

Narkafoa (fl. 1837 - 1838) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1837 - 1838).

Nothing is known of Narkafoa, who made a brief appearance on the records and was likely Polynesian.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 4

Narkaraketa, Thomas Jr. [variation: Nakarsketa] (fl. 1822 - c. 1823) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec] (born to Thomas Sr. Narkaraketa)

Freeman

HBC Freeman, Columbia Department (1822 - 1823).

Thomas Narakareta, Jr. was found working along with his father, Thomas Sr., for the HBC in outfit 1822-1823. He has not been traced after that. Either Thomas Sr. or Jr. was in the Snake Country in the fall of 1822 when he failed to emerge at that time. His fate has not been traced.

PS: HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 10; FtSpokRD 1

See Also: Narkaraketa, Thomas Sr. (Father)

Narkaraketa, Thomas Sr. [variation: Nakarsketa] (fl. 1822 - 1823) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Freeman

HBC Trapper, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1821 - 1822); Freeman, Columbia Department (1822 - 1823).

Thomas Narkaraeta, Sr. was found working along with his son, Thomas, Jr., for the HBC in outfit 1822-1823. Either Thomas Sr. or Jr. was in the Snake Country in the fall of 1822 when he failed to emerge at that time. His fate has not been traced.

PS: HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 4, 10; FtSpokRD 1

See Also: Narkaraketa, Thomas Jr. (Son)

Narua (fl. 1837 - 1840) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1838 - 1840).

Narua joined the HBC from Oahu in July 1837 and began work at Fort Vancouver on August 10 of that year. He worked there and at Fort Simpson until November 15, 1840, the end of his contract, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 1; FtVanASA 4-6; YFDS 8, 11; YFASA 19-20

Nauka (fl. 1845 - 1849) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1847); Labourer, Snake Country (1847 - 1848); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1848 - 1849).

Nauka joined the HBC from Oahu on May 7, 1845 for five years and worked as a labourer at Fort Vancouver and in the Snake Country. His obligation would have ended in 1850 but, on September 30, 1849, he deserted, probably for the gold fields of California. He has not been traced after that.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 3; YFASA 25-29; YFDS 20

Naukana, William [variation: Louis Naukanna, Nowkin, Lagamine, Lucamene, Lacamin, Lackaman, L'Gamine, Lagamin, Lickamean, Manton] (c. 1813 - 1909) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: Hawaiian Islands - c. 1813

Death: Saltspring Island, British Columbia - December 1909

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1846); Labourer, New Caledonia (1846 - 1848); Labourer, Fort Langley (1848 - 1849); Labourer, New Caledonia (1849 - 1850); Labourer, Thompson River (1850 - 1851); Untraced vocation,

Fort Victoria (1851 - 1853); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1853 - 1855); Labourer, Belle Vue Sheep Farm (1857 - 1860); Farmer, San Juan Island (1860 - 1870).

Naukana, according to HBC records, joined the HBC from Oahu in 1845 at about age thirty although, according to oral tradition, he is reputed to have come ten years earlier and to have been related to John Cox. According to record, Naukana actively served with the HBC for ten years at interior and coastal posts and appears to have retired around 1855. In old age, Naukana recalled long HBC hunting expeditions through unsurveyed territory, being on the ship that surveyed the boundary line around the San Juan Islands with the United States, and a personal relationship with Hudson's Bay factor and later Vancouver Island colonial governor James Douglas, for whom he sometimes served as interpreter. Around the time Naukana retired, he may have returned to the Sandwich Islands where, according to oral tradition, he found that his family land had been appropriated for a plantation and so he returned to the Northwest Coast.

Once back on the Pacific slopes, Naukana settled on San Juan Island, and obtained work on with the HBC Belle Vue sheep farm under the name of L'Gamine until the end of his contract on October 28, 1860, when he left to work on his claim and to raise a family. He worked one of twelve sheep stations on the island. Around the time that San Juan Island was awarded to the United States, Naukana and a large group of Hawaiians moved to Saltspring Island. In 1875 Naukana and his good friend and son-in-law Johnny Pallow pre-empted nearby Portland Island between them. There he grew his own vegetables, made his own tobacco, and, according to tradition, flew the flag of Hawaii. Some time later, he moved to Saltspring Island itself and, in the early 1880s, gave a piece of his land for St. Paul's Catholic Church, constructed at Fulford Harbour. He appeared on British Columbia voters' lists under various versions of his surname from 1875 onwards. William Naukana lived to a very old age of ninety-six and died in December, 1909. He was buried at St. Paul's Catholic Church graveyard.

Naukana's family life is unclear. He had one or more Native wives and at least six children. William Naukana and an unnamed Kwantlen woman had Rosalie (?-bap 1856-?), baptized at Fort Langley in 1856. He and Cecile (?-?), who was Lumni, were the parents of Francis (?-bap 1866-c.1881) and Julia (?-bap 1868-?). In 1870 Naukana and Cecile wed in a Catholic ceremony. His other children, according to record and oral tradition, were Annie (?-?), Sophie (1855-?), Marie (1857-?), Maryanne (1870?-1903), Cecilia (?-1902), and Matilda (1874-1943). Three of Naukana's daughters found Hawaiian husbands. Sophie wed her father's good friend John Pallow, Annie a man recalled as Kahananui, and Cecilia an indigenous Hawaiian named George Napoleon Parker and then a Filipino called Sofia Conoto.

PS: HBCA YFASA 25-32; FtVicASA 1-3; BelleVuePJ 2; BCA BCCR StAndC; 1863 Victoria Directory; BCGR-Pre-emptions; Van-PL 1881, 1891, 1901 Canada Census, Saltspring Island PPS: BCGenSoc-GIsCem, p. 43; B. Hill, Times Past; BCA Naukana descendant taped conversation; Richardson, Pig War Islands p. 160; DCB Barman; British Columbia, Sessional Papers, voters' lists.

Naunton, George (c. 1837 - 1880) (British: English)

Birth: possibly Ipswich, Suffolk, England - c. 1837 (born to Robert Naunton and Amelia Bradbrook)

Death: probably California, United States

Maritime employee

HBC Apprentice, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1853); Apprentice, Princess Royal (barque) (1854 - 1855).

George Naunton came three times to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply barque Norman Morison. During his time on the coast, he would have seen several coastal posts. He returned to the coast on the HBC supply ship, Princess Royal, for one voyage and then went off record. A person by the same name became a shipping agent in San Francisco in 1880.

An undelivered December 1, 1852 letter to George from his father Robert Naunton in Ipswich, rests in the HBCA. As George appears not to have received newspapers that his father may have sent, Robert Naunton wrote a very lengthy letter of news from all over the world, which George also did not receive.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; log of Princess Royal 4; ShMisPap 9a PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 258-64
See Also: Naunton, Robert Henry (Brother)

Naunton, Robert Henry (c. 1840 - ?) (British)

Birth: Ipswich, Suffolk, England - c. November 1840 (born to Robert Naunton and Amelia Bradbrook)

Maritime employee

HBC Apprentice, Princess Royal (barque) (1857 - 1861); 3rd mate, Princess Royal (barque) (1861 - 1862).

Robert Henry Naunton served out part of his apprenticeship by making four return voyages to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal. He returned to the coast as a junior officer.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; log of Princess Royal 4-7
See Also: Naunton, George (Brother)

Nehanoui (fl. 1840 - 1844) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1840 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1843 - 1844).

Nehanoui joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840. He was first assigned to Fort Taku, which was being constructed on the Alaskan panhandle. After three outfits, he transferred to Fort Victoria. There he worked until November 23, 1844, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-24; FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 17

Neil, David [variation: Neill] (c. 1811 - ?) (British: Scottish)

Birth: possibly Edinburgh, Scotland - c. 1811

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1835 - 1836); Seaman, Lama (brig) (1836); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1836 - 1837).

David Neil sailed on the merchant vessel Guania before he joined the HBC in London on August 24, 1835, and sailed to the Northwest Coast aboard the Columbia. While he was in Honolulu on the journey out, he tried twice to desert by taking the jolly boat and had to be brought back by force. After reaching the coast, the Columbia sailed back to Honolulu where Neil remained drunk for several days. Upon returning to the coast, he joined the Lama in November began his work in coastal shipping on November 1, 1836. Almost a year later on October 1, 1837 he found his opportunity when, along with Harry Napuko, he deserted in San Francisco well before the end of his contract in 1840 and thus goes off record.

As David's brothers, Robert and Thomas, wrote letters from Edinburgh, and many of their friends and relatives mentioned lived in that city, it is possible that David may have been born there but later moved to London. The undelivered letters rest at the HBCA.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 4a, 14; log of Columbia 1; FtVanASA 3-5; YFDS 7; MiscI 5 PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 101-03

Neilson, Johan [variation: John] (fl. 1853 - 1860) (Norwegian)

Birth: probably Norway

Maritime employee

HBC Labourer, Colinda (barque) (1853 - 1854); Labourer, Beaver (steamer) (1854 - 1859); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1859 - 1860).

Johan Neilson probably came to the coast on a mutinous voyage of the HBC chartered vessel, Colinda, arriving April 17, 1854. He worked until 1860 and disappeared from record.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1-11; FtSimp[N]PJ 8; BCA FtRupCB 1

Nelson, John (fl. 1838 - 1840) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1838 - 1839); Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1839 - 1840).

John Nelson, from "Beyonne", joined the HBC in London on November 5, 1838 as a seaman for five years and sailed to the coast on the HBC barque Vancouver. He was on the coast for only a few months for, on October 5, 1839, he left on the Nereide and was discharged in London on April 22, 1840.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 14; log of Nereide 2

Nelson, Thomas (fl. 1852 - 1853) (Undetermined origin)

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1851 - 1852); Seaman, Recovery (brig) (1852 - 1853).

Thomas Nelson came to the coast on the HBC barque Norman Morison. He continued to work in coastal shipping and was on the Recovery in outfit 1852-1853 when he deserted on the Queen Charlotte Islands. He did not appear to have any further contact with the HBC, who carried his debt into the next outfit.

PS: HBCA log of Norman Morison 2; YFASA 32; FtVicDS 1; FtVicASA 1-2

Nelu (fl. 1845 - 1846) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1845 - 1846); Labourer, Beaver (steamer) (1846).

Nelu joined the HBC from Oahu on May 7, 1845 for three years. He worked at Fort Vancouver and on the Beaver until December 10, 1846, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 3; YFASA 25-26; YFDS 17

Nemane (Taylor) [standard: Nemanè] [variation: Neimane, Neemane, Nina] (fl. 1835 - 1845) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: probably Cowlitz farm, Columbia Department - July 10, 1845

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1837); Labourer, attached to Dr. Marcus Whitman, Columbia Department (1836 - 1838); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1840); PSAC Employee, Puget Sound Agricultural Company (1840 - 1841); HBC Labourer, Vancouver (barque) (1842 - 1843); PSAC Labourer, Cowlitz Farm (1843 - 1845).

Neimanè, also known as Taylor, joined the HBC from Oahu on November 1, 1835 to work at Fort Vancouver. The next September, he was assigned to work with missionary Dr. Marcus Whitman. From time to time he also assisted Whitman's colleague Henry Spalding. He was discharged in Oahu in 1840. He re-enlisted and eventually died July 10, 1845, probably at the Cowlitz farm.

No evidence of a family has been traced.

PS: HBCA YFASA 15, 19-20, 23-25; YFDS 6-7; FtVanASA 3-7; Hulbert & Printup, p. 270

Neo (fl. 1845) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Columbia Department general charges (1845 - 1846).

Neo joined the HBC from Oahu in 1845. He worked until December 10, 1845, at which point he returned to Oahu, where he was paid his final wages.

PS: HBCA YFASA 25; YFDS 16; SandIsAB 5

Nerin, Augustin [variation: Neron] (c. 1822 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Baie de St. Paul, Lower Canada - c. 1822

Death: probably Oregon Territory, Pacific Northwest

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1839 - 1841); Middleman, Columbia Department (1841 - 1842); Middleman, Fort Colville (1842 - 1845); Boute, Fort Colville (1845 - 1846); Middleman, New Caledonia (1846 - 1847); Untraced vocation, Fort Colville (1847 - 1848); Boute, Fort Colville (1848 - 1852); Labourer, Fort Nez Percés (1853 - 1854).

Augustin Nerin joined the HBC from Baie de St. Paul in 1839 and worked mainly on Columbia River posts until 1854, when he retired.

PS: HBCA YFASA 19-20, 22-32; FtVanASA 6-7, 9-11, 16

Newanna, William [variation: Nuana, Nawana, Onawon, Nohano] (fl. 1843) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands - 1820

Death: probably Saltspring Island, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1843 - 1849); Farmer, San Juan Island (1849 - 1874); Farmer, Saltspring Island (1875 - ?).

Newanna joined the HBC from Oahu in 1843 and worked in Fort Vancouver until he deserted, probably for the gold fields of California, on October 10, 1849. In 1849-1853, the books carried outstanding balances, so he may have returned rather quickly, as some others did. Possibly around that time, he moved to San Juan Island, then in dispute between the United States and Canada. In 1874, after San Juan Island was awarded to the Americans, he moved to Saltspring Island where he pre-empted and settled on land at the tip of Isabella Point. There he raised a family and, according to author Beatrice Hamilton, brought the lively spirit of the luau to Saltspring. He appeared on the British Columbia voters' list from 1875 onwards.

William Nuana, as he became known, married a Native woman, Mary (c.1841-?), said to be from the San Juan Islands. They were the parents of Sophy (c 1858-?), Kai (1862-?), Mary (c.1864-?), Joseph (c.186-?), Daniel (c.1876-?), and Lena (c.1888-?). It seems likely the Nuanas were the parents of Joe Nuanna (c 1859-74), who was convicted of a double murder occurring on San Juan Island in 1872 and hanged.

According to oral tradition, son Joe changed his surname to Tahouney, becoming the progenitor of a large British Columbia family going by that name. Sophie married Hawaiian Louis Kellai.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 8; YFASA 23-29; YFDS 20; HBCABio; Van-PL 1881 Canada Census; 1901 Canada Census, Victoria, Saltspring SS: Koppel, p. 109; Hamilton, p. 83; BC, Sessional Papers, British Columbia voters' lists.

Newberd, James [variation: Newbird] (? - c. 1856) (probably Mixed descent)

Death: near Albert Head Saw Mill near Victoria, Colony of Vancouver Island - c. 1856

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice labourer, Thompson River (1843 - 1844); Apprentice labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1845 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1846 - 1848); Apprentice, Snake Country (1848 - 1849); Labourer, Thompson River (1849 - 1851); Crew member, Fort Victoria/Pemberton (1851 - 1853); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1853 - 1855).

James Newberd appeared in the Columbia in 1843-1844 on an apprentice's contract that ended in 1849. In 1850, James Douglas said that he was a worthless fellow not to be rehired. Nonetheless, Newberd continued employment with HBC until about 1851 before transferring to Fort Victoria. Within a short time he joined J. D. Pemberton's survey crew's and, by March 1853, the same Douglas found him very valuable and would not let him go - at the end of his contract he returned to Fort Victoria from Colville for further employment. He continued working at Fort Victoria until 1856 when he was murdered at the Albert Head Saw Mill by a native, Hargo Yest, who came from north of the Stikine River. Hargo was arrested three years later in the Victoria area.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 8; YFASA 23-32; FtVicCB 3, 7; FtVicASA 1-3; Van-PL Colonist, August 1, 1859, p. 2

Newell, Charles (fl. 1837 - 1842) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime officer

HBC Seaman, Colinda (barque) (1837 - 1838); 2nd mate, Nereide (barque) (1838 - 1839); 2nd mate, Vancouver (barque) (1839 - 1840); 2nd mate, Beaver (steamer) (1840 - 1841); 2nd mate, Columbia (barque) (1841 - 1842); 1st mate, Columbia (barque) (1842).

Charles Newell joined the HBC in London on November 11, 1837 as a seaman for five years. He quickly rose to officer's rank on the coast where he worked until October 31, 1841 whereupon he returned to the British Isles aboard the Columbia. On the journey back, he was appointed 1st mate.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Columbia 3; ShMiscPap 14; FtVanASA 5-7; YFDS 9,11-12; YFASA 18-19, 21

Newell, Robert (1807 - 1869) (American)

Birth: Muskingum County, Ohio, United States - March 30, 1807

Death: Lewiston, Idaho Territory, United States - November 1869

Free trader

SJ & S Trapper, Pacific slopes (1829 - 1840).

Robert Newell, who began his career as a saddler's apprentice in Cincinnati, left St. Louis with William Sublette on March 7, 1829 as a new recruit for his first Rendezvous in the mountains. He trapped in the mountains until about 1840 when he settled in the Willamette Valley near his mountain men friends, such as Joe Meek. Newell and Meek first settled near present day Hillsboro in the Willamette Valley. Nicknamed 'Doctor', he represented Champoege County in the Oregon Legislature from 1843-1849. In 1844 he settled near Champoege, followed the California gold rush in the late 1840s and went into merchandising in the fall of 1850. He commanded scouts in 1855-1856 during the native resistance and in 1860 was elected the legislature. Flooded out in 1861, he and his family moved to Lapwai, Idaho, where he served as interpreter and commissioner at the local army post and Indian agency. He moved to Lewiston, Idaho where he died in 1869 of heart disease.

Robert Newell had three successive wives and numerous children. In 1833 he married a Nez Perce woman who died in December 1845 and in 1846 he married Rebecca Newman who died in May 1867. In June 1867, he married a Mrs. Ward.

PS: OHS FtHallAB PPS: Drury, The Diaries and Letters, p. 66 SS: T. C. Elliott, "‘Doctor’ Robert Newell", p. 103-06; Gowans; DAB Ghent
See Also: Ebbert, George Wood; Larison, John (Friend); Meek, Joseph LaFayette

Newman, Alfred (fl. 1849 - 1861) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Apprentice, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1853); Apprentice or seaman, Beaver (steamer) (1854 - 1855); Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1860 - 1861).

Alfred Newman served out part of his apprenticeship on three voyages to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison. He may not have returned to London on the 3rd voyage for in 1854-1855 he was found working on the Beaver. He did return, however, and came out on a 1860 voyage on the Princess Royal and was subsequently discharged at Fort Victoria. From 1861, he disappeared from record.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; FtVicASA 2-3; log of Princess Royal 6

Newman, Jonas [variation: Joseph] (fl. 1831 - 1834) (British: English)

Birth: probably Beadwell, Essex, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Eagle (brig) (1831 - 1832); Seaman, Dryad (brig) (1832 - 1833); Passenger, Ganymede (barque) (1833 - 1834).

Jonas Newman joined the HBC in London on September 29, 1831 as a seaman for three years. In 1832, he arrived in the Columbia on the brig Eagle and began work in coastal shipping on October 26. He spent about a year on the coast servicing coastal posts, until June 26, 1833, before joining the Ganymede and returning to England as a passenger. Just why he did not work his passage back has not been established.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 12-13; YFDS 5a-5b; log of Dryad 1; log of Ganymede 1; ShMiscPap 14

Newton, John (fl. 1855 - 1856) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1855 - 1856).

This John Newton made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Newton, William Henry (fl. 1850 - 1875) (British: English)

Birth: possibly in or near Bromley, Kent, England (born to William Newton)

Death: Langley, British Columbia - January 21, 1875

Fur trade employee

HBC Immigrant passenger, Tory (barque) (1850 - 1851); PSAC Agricultural assistant, Fort Victoria farm (1851 - 1852); Agricultural assistant, Puget Sound Agricultural Company/Esquimalt Farm (1852 - 1853); HBC Surveyor's office, Vancouver Island Colony (1853 - 1855); Clerk, Fort Victoria (1855 - 1857); Untraced vocation, Fort Langley (1857 - 1858); Clerk, Fort Langley (1858 - 1864); Clerk, Fort Victoria (1864 - 1865); PSAC Clerk, Fort Langley (1864 - 1865); HBC Clerk, Fort Victoria (1865 - 1869).

In June, 1850, William Henry Newton wrote to the Governor and Committee of the HBC asking to join his friend Edward Langford who was to set up a PSAC farm in Esquimalt on Vancouver Island as an agricultural assistant. He was accepted and joined Langford on the Tory, arriving at Fort Victoria May 9, 1851. He was initially assigned to the Colwood Esquimalt farm, but, after a year, was assigned to the surveyor's office for two years. He then transferred to Fort Victoria, married, and spent the next fifteen years working as a clerk/bookkeeper in either Fort Victoria or Fort Langley. Newton appeared to fit in with his surroundings wherever he went for, at Fort Victoria, he frequently appeared at Bachelors' Hall (Helmcken p. 124-25). As well, on Wednesday, January 14th, 1857, he took part in amateur theatre on Vancouver Island acting as "Lydia Languish" in Sheridan's "The Rivals" (BCA playbill). (All the female leads were taken by males.) At Fort Langley, while continuing to raise a family in a large spacious house, he amassed a large collection of butterflies. His wife, Emmeline, on the other hand, found Langley at first lonely but managed to amuse herself visiting officers in charge of interior forts with her playing of the piano. William Henry worked until at least 1869, meanwhile acquiring a large plot of land near Langley in the Port Hammond area, but was recalled by the HBC to work at Langley in 1874 when Ovid Allard died. William Henry Newton himself died the following year of "congestion of the brain" in Langley.

William Henry Newton had one wife and six children. On September 30, 1856, he married Emmeline Jean Tod (1835-1928), daughter of C. T. John Tod and Eliza Waugh. Their children were Emmeline Frances (1858-?), Florence Mary (1859-1944), Ada (1861-1934), Henry John (1864-1949), Georgina Waugh (1866-1935) and William Greenshields (1870-?). After the death of William Henry, Emmeline Jane married Edward Mohun (?-1927). Emmeline Jane died the following year, in 1928.

PS: HBCA W. H. Newton's correspondence with HBC, London Correspondence, A.10/30, fo. 453, ibid, A.6/28, fo. 175; YFASA 31-32; FtVicDS 1; FtVicASA 1-16; UBC-SC Ermatinger; BCA Diar-Rem playbill; BCCR CCCath; BCCR StJohDivDerb; BCGR-Guardian, Jan. 28, 1875 PPS: HBRS XXXII, p. 182-183; Cracroft, p. 63; BCA BCGR-Deaths SS: Helmcken, p. 124-25; Waite, p. 262; Lugin, p. 37; Laing, p. 170, 88

Nichols, John [variation: Arnold?] (fl. 1839 - 1843) (British: English)

Birth: probably in or near London or Millbrook, Cornwall, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1839 - 1841); Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1841 - 1843).

John Nichols joined the HBC from London on September 17, 1839 as a seaman for five years and sailed to the Northwest Coast on the HBC barque Columbia. As John Nichols mother sent him a letter in 1843 from Millbrooke [Cornwall], addressed to "Arnold Nichols on board the Barque Cowlits", Arnold may be his real name. J. H. Beattie suggests that Arnold may have assumed his brother's name when he signed up under John who, by 1843, was a widower and had moved back in with his parents (Beattie & Buss, p. 163-64). He appears to have served most of his contract in the Columbia servicing coastal posts, for he sailed to England on the barque Cowlitz in November 1842 and arrived in London, May 9, 1843.

Martha Nichols' undelivered letter rests at the HBCA.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Columbia 2; YFDS 11; YFASA 20, 22; FtVAnASA 6-8 PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 163-64

Nichols, Robert [variation: Nicholls] (fl. 1830 - 1833) (British: English)

Birth: possibly in or near Falmouth, Rol, Cornwall, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Ganymede (barque) (1830 - 1831); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1831); Seaman, Naval Department (1831 - 1832); Seaman, Fort Simpson naval service (1832); Prisoner, Eagle (brig) (1832 - 1833).

Robert Nichols, who joined the HBC in London on November 20, 1830 for three years, sailed to the Columbia aboard the barque Ganymede and began work on the coast on August 13, 1831. He wasn't able to serve his contract for, after a drunken riot in which he used insolent language to his officers, he was put in irons and was sent home to England on the brig Eagle on October 16, 1832 along with William Curtis and Peter Calder. He has not been traced after his arrival in London on May 30, 1833.

Robert Nichols' family has not been traced but he did have a brother William in Penryn, Cornwall and six brothers and sisters as revealed in a rich, newsy but undelivered letter written to him by William. Brother William was employed by a weekly Falmouth newspaper, the Cornubian.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 7, 14; YFASA 11-12; YFDS 4b-5a; Beattie & Buss, p. 24-27

Nicholson, John (? - 1830) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Death: Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - June 1830

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia Department (1829 - 1830).

John Nicholson began work with the naval department of the HBC on February 1, 1830. He was not able to work long for he died at Fort Vancouver June 11, 1830.

PS: HBCA YFASA 9-10; YFDS 3b; FtVAnASA 2

Nicholson, Murdoch [variation: Nicolson] (1811 - 1864) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Raenish/Ranish, Ross, Scotland - 1811 (born to John Nicholson and Ann MacLennan (or MacDonald))

Death: Ranish, Lochs, Ross, Scotland - 1864

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1837); Boatman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); PSAC Middleman, Cowlitz Farm (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1842).

Murdoch Nicholson joined the HBC on June 5, 1837 as a boatman and sloop for five years. After receiving an advance of £10 from W. A. Morrison, he embarked from Stornoway for Hudson Bay on June 31, 1837 and eventually turned up in the Columbia in 1839. During his time there, he spent most of his time working in the lower Columbia Department as a middleman or labourer. His contract ended in 1842 at which point he went east over the Rockies and returned to the British Isles via the Prince Rupert. In 1843, as soon as he returned to Ranish, he married a local woman and raised a family at 21 Ranish.

Murdoch Nicholson married Mary Montgomery (?-1893), also from Ranish. Their seven children were Donald (1845-?), Catherine (1849-?), Ann (1851-?), Roderick (1853-?), Kirsty (1856-?), John (1857-?) and Murdo Jr. (1862-?).

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Prince Rupert IV 10; YFASA 19-22; FtVanASA 6-7; PSACAB 3 SS: genealogical researcher, Northton, Harris

Nickaloe (fl. 1837 - 1842) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1842).

Nickaloe joined the HBC in July 1837 at Honolulu and began work at Fort Vancouver on August 10 of that year. He finished working with the Company on June 24, 1842, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 1; YFASA 17, 19-20, 22; YFDS 8, 13; FtVanASA 5-7

Nicoll, Charles A. [variation: Nicholls, Nichols] (fl. 1811 - 1814) (probably American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Maritime employee

PFC Passenger, Beaver (ship) (1811 - 1812); Clerk, Beaver (ship) (1811 - 1812).

Charles A. Nicoll did not do well in the fur trade. Engaged by John Jacob Astor as a clerk to work in the fur trade for five years, Nicoll boarded the supply ship Beaver [Cornelius Sowle] in New York harbour, which weighed anchor on October 17, 1811. A month into the voyage, Nicoll appeared content, entertaining the crew and passengers playing the drums while Benjamin Clapp and Ross Cox played the fifes. Two weeks later he was involved in his first fight - Nicholl's relations with his crew mates quickly deteriorated, resulting in more fighting and open hostility toward the captain. Perhaps this is why Nicoll and others spent several nights ashore in Hawaii carousing with the other clerks; according to Alfred Seton, when Nicoll reached Astoria on May 11, 1812 and saw the nature of the place, he rudely demanded to return home. Captain Sowle allowed him to do so, providing he "work his passage as a Common sailor" (Astorian Adventure, p. 76). Consequently, Nicoll left on the Beaver for the Sandwich Islands and, eventually, to Canton. Perhaps it was during this time that he was engaged as a clerk on another ship.

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria PPS: R. F. Jones, p. 32, 34, 41, 47-48, 61, 69, 73, 76, 98, 99, 125

Nigre (fl. 1837 - 1850) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: Fort Vancouver, Oregon Territory - September 1850

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Snake Party (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Snake Party (1838 - 1839); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1839); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1839 - 1842); Labourer passenger, Snake Country (1842 - 1845); Goer and comer, Snake Country (1845 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1846 - 1850).

Nigre joined the HBC from Oahu in 1837, beginning his work with the Snake Party on July 31 of that year. During most of the time with the Snake Party he appeared to transport trappers to and from Fort Vancouver. He died around September 18, 1850 at Fort Vancouver of unspecified causes.

No family has been traced.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 4-7; YFDS 8-9, 14, 16, 21; YFASA 19-20, 22-31

Nisbet, James [variation: Nisbett] (fl. 1844 - 1859) (British: English)

Birth: possibly London, England

Death: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1844 - 1846); Seaman, Beaver (steamer) (1846 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Beaver (steamer) (1852 - 1854); Boatswain, Beaver (steamer) (1854 - 1859); Passenger, Princess Royal (barque) (1859).

James Nisbet joined the HBC on September 2, 1844 originally on a five-year contract and sailed to the coast on the Vancouver. James and John were part of a delegation of several crewmembers who protested to the authorities at Fort Vancouver over their treatment on the voyage. From November 28, 1846 and for the next thirteen years he worked on the steamer Beaver. In 1858, he purchased lots in the Sooke area, probably for speculation, and, on March 27, 1859, he left the area for good when he sailed from Victoria on the Princess Royal for the British Isles.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 11; log of Vancouver [3] 2; YFASA 25-32; FtVicASA 1-7; log of Princess Royal 5; BCA BCGR-CrtR-AbsLnd

Nisbet, John [variation: Nisbett, Nesbitt] (fl. 1845 - 1858) (British: English)

Birth: possibly London, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1845 - 1846); Seaman, Beaver (steamer) (1846 - 1850); Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1857 - 1858).

John Nisbet joined the HBC in 1844 on a five-year contract. Both John and James together protested with the rest of the crew against their treatment on the outward voyage. John worked until 1850 when he retired. Because he carried a very large untouched credit to his name for the next six years, Nisbet may have left the area. However, on March 4, 1857, he was back in Victoria where he joined the Princess Royal for its voyage back to England.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 11; log of Vancouver [3] 2; YFASA 25-31; FtVicASA 1-4; PortB 1; log of Princess Royal 4

Niven, Charles A. [variation: Nevin] (fl. 1846 - c. 1854?) (British: English)

Birth: possibly London, England

Death: Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade officer

HBC 1st mate, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1846 - 1847); 1st mate, Fort Victoria (1847 - 1851); 1st mate, Una (brigantine) (1851 - 1852); 1st mate, Recovery (brig) (1852).

Possessing a 2nd class Master's certificate from Trinity House, London, Charles A. Niven joined the HBC on October 28, 1846 as a ship's mate sailing to the coast on the Mary Dare. After reaching the coast in May 1847, however, bouts of intoxication would not let him perform his duties, much to the annoyance of Captain James Cooper and so, in the fall of 1847, he was placed in Fort Victoria (FtVanCB 36, fo. 87). Nonetheless, after a brief shore stay, he worked for the next four years for the HBC on a series of coastal vessels. According to Dr. J. S. Helmcken, Niven was "good-natured", but "too fond of grog and women" (Helmcken, p. 83). At times, his fellow boarders at the Bachelors' Hall at Fort Victoria were so irritated with his drinking, they would place him in a blanket and toss him until he promised not to get drunk again. This was to no avail and he was put on lesser jobs, such as bargework, supplies, etc. until about 1854. According to Helmcken, he then went to the Sandwich Islands where he died (Helmcken, p. 125).

PS: HBCA PortB 1; YFASA 27-32; FtVicDS 1; FtVicASA 1-2; FtVanCB 36, fo. 87 PPS: Helmcken, p. 83, 125, 280

Noah, Harry Bell (fl. 1814 - 1831) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: Hawaiian Islands - 1795

Death: probably Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - September 1831

Fur trade employee

NWC Untraced vocation, Columbia River (1814 - 1821); HBC Milieu, Columbia Department (1821 - 1823); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (1823 - 1825); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1825 - 1826); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1830); Middleman and labourer, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1831).

Harry Bell Noah joined the NWC in 1814 and, in 1821, transferred to the HBC working the entire time in the Columbia area. Little is written of him except he, together with James Coah, Kaharrow, and Marrouna, confessed on October 9, 1825 to having stolen blankets from the trade goods of the William & Ann. He died of fever September 30, 1831. In 1833-1834, his family, probably in the Fort George area, was still being paid on the Sundries Account.

The names of his family have not been traced.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 9; YFASA 1-9, 11, 13; FtGeo[Ast]AB 11-12; log of William & Ann 1; YFDS 2a, 3a-4a; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-2; A. McDonald, p. 29

Nohiau (fl. 1834 - 1845) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Blacksmith (high wage), Fort Simpson (1834 - 1836); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1836 - 1837); Middleman, Nereide (barque) (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1844); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1845).

Nohiau joined the HBC from Oahu in 1834. After his arrival at Fort Vancouver, he went north and was likely in on the dismantling of the old Fort Simpson Nass River site. He continued at the new site of Fort Simpson for two more years. After 1836, except for an outfit working on the barque Nereide, he worked as a labourer at Fort Vancouver, where he likely lived in the Kanaka village outside the palisades. His period of obligation ended in 1846, but he only worked until December 10, 1845, at which point he returned to Oahu where he received his final HBC wages.

PS: HBCA FtSimp[N]PJ 3; YFASA 14-15, 19-20, 22-25; YFDS 5c-7, 16; FtSimp[N]PJ 3; FtVan ASA 3-7; SandIsAB 5

Nono (fl. 1840 - 1846) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: Fort Stikine, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1840 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Stikine (1843 - 1846).

Nono joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840 and worked on the north coast at Forts Taku and Stikine. He died at Fort Stikine, likely in 1846.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-27; FtVanASA 6-7

Noowow (fl. 1839 - 1842) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Maritime employee

HBC Steward, Cadboro (schooner) (1839 - 1842).

Noowow joined the HBC from Oahu in 1839 and worked as a steward aboard the Cadboro servicing coastal posts. His contract ended in 1843 but his last day of work was June 24, 1842, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 19-20, 22; FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 18

Norgate, Abraham (fl. 1841 - 1846) (British: English)

Birth: probably London, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1841 - 1843); Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1843 - 1844); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1844 - 1845); Seaman, Conlitz (barque) (1845 - 1846).

Abraham Norgate joined the HBC from London on August 30, 1841 on a five-year contract and sailed to the coast on the barque Vancouver. From October 1842, he worked on coastal trading where he scrubbed decks, scraped masts and repaired sails and even killed a bullock for meat, a time during which he hurt his finger. On December 16, 1845 at Fort Victoria, he joined the Conlitz and arrived back in London June 27, 1846. A letter from home revealed that a woman was waiting to marry him when he returned.

In 1845 Abraham's fifteen year old niece, Ann Norgate, wrote a letter to Abraham on behalf of his parents. It revealed that money from Abraham had helped to save the family house from seizure. The letter was undelivered and rests in the HBCA.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 7; YFASA 22-25; log of Columbia 6, 7; log of Cadboro 5; MiscI 5; HBCABio PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 211-213

Norman, John (fl. 1851 - 1852) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1851 - 1852).

John Norman made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Normandin, Antoine (c. 1805 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Trois Rivières, Lower Canada - c. 1805

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1830 - 1832); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1832 - 1833).

Antoine Normandin joined the HBC from Trois Rivières in 1830 and, in the fall of 1833, returned to Canada.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; YFASA 11-13; YFDS 4b-5b

Norn, Samuel [variation: Noren] (c. 1807 - ?) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: "Hadwell," Sandwick, Orkney - c. March 15, 1807 (born to David Norn and Elsepet Norn (Allan))

Death: probably Victoria, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince of Wales (ship) (1830); Passenger, Prince of Wales IV (ship) (1830); Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1831 - 1832); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1832 - 1835); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1837);

Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1840); Trader at the Cascades, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1841); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1842); Salmon trader, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1844).

The Norn family took their surname from the name of the Norse language spoken in Orkney. By 1821, Samuel Norn, his parents and sister had moved from "Hadwell" to "Over House", Sandwick, Orkney. After joining the HBC on May 10, 1830 as a labourer for five years, a twenty-three year old Samuel made his way from Stromness at the end of the month to York Factory, thence overland, arriving at Fort Vancouver in 1831. His first four years were spent as a labourer but he later spent the next nine years at Fort Vancouver acting, in part, as a trader. Norn's contracts ended in 1844 at which point he went to the Red River settlement for reasons unknown. He returned to the west again and in 1859-1860 purchased sixty-five acres [26.3 ha] in the Cedar Hill area of Victoria and established a farm with his wife, Catherine. He was still farming in 1881.

Samuel Norn appears to have had one wife, Catherine (c.1802-1886) also from the Orkney Islands. Their date and place of marriage, as well as any children, have not been established. Catherine died around January 17, 1886 in Victoria.

PS: OrkA OPR; OrkA 1821 U.K. Census, Orkney-Sandwick; HBCA HBCCont; log of Prince of Wales I 9; log of Prince Rupert IV 4; FtSimp[N]P] 3; YFASA 11-15, 19-20, 22-24; YFDS 4b-7, 11; FtVAnASA 3-6; FtVicASA 4-5, 9-11; BCA BCGR-CrtR-AbstLnd; Van-PL Colonist, January 17, 1886, p. 3

Norquay, William [1] (? - 1830) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: probably in or near Flota, Walls, Orkney, Scotland

Death: Grand Rapids (Grand Dalles), Pacific Northwest - August 5, 1830

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830).

William Norquay [1] joined the HBC on April 8, 1829 for five years. His career was short lived for he drowned at the Grand Rapid in August 5, 1830. Another date given for his drowning was October 25, 1830 but this is likely in error (Account Book).

PS: HBCA HBCCont; FtVAnASA 2; FtVanAB 28; YFDS 4a; YFASA 10

Norquay, William [2] (fl. 1852 - 1858) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: probably South Ronaldsay, Orkney

Death: probably Orkney, United Kingdom

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Victoria general charges (1852 - 1853); Assistant steward, Fort Victoria (1853 - 1854); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1854 - 1856); Passenger, Princess Royal (barque) (1858).

William Norquay [2], who joined the HBC in Orkney, sailed to York Factory in 1851 and made his way overland to Fort Victoria. After working on the Pacific slopes for six years, he stayed two more years in Victoria beyond the end of his contract. In March 1858, Norquay sailed for the British Isles and probably returned to Orkney.

PS: HBCA log of Prince of Wales II 2; YFASA 32; FtVicASA 1-5; log of Princess Royal 4

Noth, Albert (fl. 1854 - 1855) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1854 - 1855).

Albert Noth made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA Port 1

Nott, Samuel (fl. 1834 - 1835) (probably American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Fur trade employee

CRFTC Employee, Fort Hall (1834 - 1835).

Samuel Nott joined the Nathaniel J. Wyeth expedition of 1834 as part of a group to establish the CRFTC on the Pacific slopes to function in opposition to the HBC. Nott, who may have joined the expedition en route, left the expedition on the upper Snake River, near the mouth of the Portneuf River, to build a trading post which they called Fort Hall, after one of the directors of the company. A stockade was built in the summer of 1834 and a total of twelve men stayed to winter over. Nott may have gone out on hunting parties that fall and winter and may have departed for an unknown location in the summer of 1835.

Nouhee (fl. 1841 - 1849) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian IslandsFur trade employee*PSAC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1842); Sailor, Fort Nisqually (1842 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1849).

Nowhee joined the HBC from Oahu in 1841. He worked at Forts Vancouver and Nisqually until October 31, 1843, at which point he returned to Oahu. He was re-engaged again, for he reappeared in the Columbia in outfit 1845-1846 with a contract that was eventually to end in 1851, but he deserted in 1849, probably in the first half, as he received no wages for outfit 1849-1850. He likely headed to the California gold fields.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-7; YFASA 20, 22-23; 25-29; YFDS 14

Nugent, Thomas (fl. 1852 - 1853) (British)

Birth: probably British IslesFur trade officer*HBC 1st mate, Norman Morison (barque) (1852 - 1853).

Thomas Nugent sailed to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison. He was likely on the coast when he was discharged, presumably onto another vessel.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Nutt, George Milford (fl. 1849 - 1852) (probably British: English)

Birth: probably British IslesFur trade officer*HBC 2nd mate, Una (brigantine) (1849 - 1852); 2nd mate, Norman Morison (barque) (1852).

George Milford Nutt was appointed second mate of the HBC ship, Una [Charles A. Niven] in England on December 31, 1849, shortly before it sailed for the Pacific. After he arrived on the coast, even though it was apparently against his wishes, he was held back from returning to England on the Norman Morison as his services were required on the Una. However the Una was wrecked in December 1851 and, on January 16, 1852, he left the Columbia for the British Isles on the Norman Morison [Captain Wishart]. At that time, Wishart felt him to be "very young and inexperienced" (HBRS XXXII, p. 188n).

PS: ShMiscPap 10; YFASA 30-32; YFDS 22 PPS: HBRS XXXII, p. 188, 188n

Nutt, Robert (fl. 1825) (probably American)

Birth: probably United States of AmericaFree trader*U.A. Trapper, Rendezvous (1825).

Robert Nutt appeared on the records as acquiring several goods at the 1825 Rendezvous at Henry's Fork [Wyoming] from William Ashley, who had brought them overland from St. Louis. Nothing else is known of Nutt who probably attended other Rendezvous' as well as continued trapping in the Rocky Mountains.

PS: MHS Ashley 2

Nuttal, Thomas (fl. 1834 - 1835) (British: English)

Birth: probably British IslesOther*U.A. Botanist, Fort Vancouver/Columbia Department (1834 - 1835); Passenger to Sandwich Islands, May Dacre (brig) (1834); Passenger, Lama (brig) (1835); Passenger to Sandwich Islands, Ganymede (barque) (1835).

Thomas Nuttall, a professor of natural history from University of Cambridge, (U.S.), along with John Townsend, came out with Nathaniel Wyeth in 1834 and visited Fort Vancouver. Both Nuttall and Townsend went to Honolulu where Nuttall no doubt collected specimens. He then appears to have returned to Fort Vancouver where he spent the winter and eventually sailed for Honolulu around October 3, 1835 aboard the Ganymede [William Eales]. He has not been subsequently traced.

PS: HBCA YFASA 14; FtVanASA 5; FtVanCB 10; ShMiscPap 14; HMCS SReynolds]

Nyholm, Peter (c. 1800 - ?) (Swedish)

Birth: Stockholm, Sweden - c. 1800

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1835 - 1836); Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1836 - 1838); Boatswain, Nereide (barque) (1838 - 1840); Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1845 - 1846); Boatswain, Beaver (steamer) (1846 - 1854); Sailmaker, Carnalie (ship) (1858).

Peter Nyholm sailed on the Childe Masola (possibly a Swedish vessel) before he joined the HBC on August 29, 1835 as a seaman. He came to the Pacific coast on the Columbia and began his work in coastal shipping in November 1836. In June 1837, Nyholm and eight of the crew of the Nereide mutinied against Captain Home and was put on bread and water as punishment. Nyholm returned to duty on June 12th but was reduced to "one Glass of Grog p. day" (FtVanCB 18, fo. 4d). At the end of his contract, he left the coast for the British Isles on the Nereide in 1839 and was discharged in London on April 22, 1840. He again shipped on the Columbia in London on September 29, 1845 and joined the Beaver when he reached the coast. He worked until 1854 at which point he retired. In 1858 he appears to have been a sailmaker on the Carnalie which ran between London and Vancouver Island.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMisPap 4a, 14; log of Columbia 1, 9; FtVanASA 3-5; YFDS 7, 9-10, 17; YFASA 19, 26-32; log of Nereide 2; FtVicASA 1-2; FtVanCB 18, fo. 4d; PortB 1

Nyoray, Peter [variation: Nyo-r-uy] (fl. 1837 - 1844) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Nereide (barque) (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1838 - 1840); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1840 - 1841); Middleman, California Estate (1841 - 1842); Labourer, California Estate (1842 - 1844).

Peter Nyoray, or Nyo-r-uy, joined the HBC from Oahu in 1837 and seemed to acquire the name Peter around 1841. It was soon dropped. He spent most of his time on coastal barques, with a stint in between at Fort Simpson. His contract ended in 1840 and, on November 15, 1840, he returned to Oahu. However, he must have rejoined, for he appears in 1841, beginning work on July 9 of that year and working on the HBC's California estate on a contract. He was discharged in Oahu in 1844.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 4-7; YFASA 19-20, 22-25; YFDS 11-12

Oagh, Richard [variation: Ough, Augh, Howe] (c. 1798 - 1884) (British: English)

Birth: Plymouth, Devon, England - c. 1798

Death: probably Washington State, United States - 1884

Maritime employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Ganymede (barque) (1830 - 1831); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1831); Seaman, Naval Department (1831 - 1832); Seaman, Fort Simpson naval service (1832 - 1834); Seaman, Dryad (brig) (1834); Boatswain, Lama (brig) (1834 - 1837); Boatswain or mate, Cadboro (schooner) (1837); Boatswain, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1842).

Richard Oagh joined the HBC on November 20, 1830 as a seaman, originally for three years although he claimed he had been in the area in 1827 or 1828. Apparently good looking, his illiteracy, however, resulted in the surname of Howe morphing into "Oagh," "Ough," or "Augh." He sailed to the coast on the barque Ganymede and began work on August 12, 1831. After ten years, Oagh settled in Washougal [WA] and, in 1849, was noted as being a farmer in Clark Co. [Washington] on 634 acres [259 ha], on the north side of the Columbia. While he had been at Fort Vancouver, his wife had learned European-style cooking from Mrs. McLoughlin at Fort Vancouver. One pioneer in later times notes that Oagh "used to get drunk and beat his woman" (CCR 1, A-36).

Richard Oagh had one wife and, according to one source, six daughters. In 1842, he married Betsy (c.1825-?) [Elizabeth Tumwater or White Wing], the daughter of of Slahuts or "Sly Horse" at the Tualatin Plains Church. Their recorded children were Mary (?-?), Sarah (c.1839-?), Grace (c.1841-?), Richard (c.1843-?), Benjamin (c.1848-?), Elizabeth (1851-?) and Emilie (1854-?). Of the six daughters that they had, Mary, Sarah and Grace survived.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 7, 14; YFDS 4b-7, 11-12; YFASA 12-14, 19-21; HBCA log of Dryad 2; FtVanASA 3-6; OHS 1849 Census, Oregon Territory, Clackamas Co. PPS: CCR 1b; Washington Territory Donation Land Claims, p. 191; Bona, p. 62

O'Brien, John (1817 - ?) (British: English)

Birth: London, England - 1817

Fur trade employee

HBC Clerk, Fort Vancouver general charges (1840 - 1841); Clerk, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1840 - 1842); Clerk in counting house, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1843); Douglas party to Vancouver Island (summer 1842).

John O'Brien did not appear to be suited to the fur trade. Entering the HBC at the age of fifteen on March 22, 1833 as an apprentice clerk, he served at three posts east of the Rockies before arriving in the Columbia around the end of 1840. His first post was Fort Taku where he felt he was overworked and his life was in danger that he gave notice in the autumn of 1841 to visiting George Simpson of his intention to retire (HBRs XXIX p. 161). In 1842 when he was at Fort Vancouver working in the counting house his retirement was delayed when he became a member of the James Douglas party exploring southern Vancouver Island and the Donald Manson party looking into the death of John McLoughlin Jr. He was only reluctantly taken back by Simpson. However, when he carried the Columbia Express back to Red River and York Factory, he claimed that the journey affected his eyesight and hearing and decided to retire, sailing on the Prince Rupert into retirement. Once in London, he could not find re-employment and so was re-admitted into the service once again in 1845 as a clerk but held out for a higher contract which he accepted on June 3, 1846. From 1846-1851 he served at a variety of posts east of the Rockies. Again, he suffered privations, desertions and illness. Simpson was displeased with him and in 1851, when his contract expired, was directed to York Factory from where he sailed to England. He tried to rejoin the Company several times, but was unsuccessful.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 20, 22-23; FtVanASA 6-8; HBCA John O'Brien search file PPS: HBRs VI, p. 398-99; HBRs XXIX, p. 161; HBRs VII, p. 165, 173

O'Brien, P. (fl. 1830 - 1831) (Undetermined origin)Freeman

HBC Freeman trapper, Snake Party (1830 - 1831).

On June 25, 1831, P. (Patrick?) O'Brien, who was on John Work's 1830-1831 Snake expedition, had to kill his horse for food. He may have been a freeman for he did not appear on other Company records.

PS: HBCA SnkCoPJ 9

O'Doherty, William St. George [variation: O'Doherty] (fl. 1821 - 1823) (Undetermined origin)Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1821 - 1822); Clerk, Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs] (1822).

In October 1822, W. George O'Doherty was taken by William Brown as part of a larger party to establish a post at the end of Babine Lake. At that point O'Doherty was likely at the end of his contract for shortly after, in outfit 1822-1823, he was back in Montreal.

PS: HBCA YFASA 1-2; FtBabPJ 1

O'Neill, James A. (fl. 1834 - 1838) (American)Birth: probably United States of America*Fur trade employee

CRFTC Member, Wyeth's 2nd expedition (1834); HBC Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1835 - 1836).

James A. O'Neil was a Nathaniel J. Wyeth expedition member who settled in Oregon. He joined Wyeth's 2nd expedition in early 1834, crossed the continent and arrived at Fort Vancouver in the fall of 1834. He, like many people arriving in the area at that time, worked as a trapper for the HBC (in outfit 1835-1836). By 1838, when he signed a memorial to extend US jurisdiction to Oregon, he had settled in the Willamette.

PS: HBCA YFASA 15; YFDS 6; FtVanASA 5; FtVanCB 25

Obichon, Jean Baptiste [variation: Aubichon] (c. 1794 - 1879) (Canadian: French)Birth: Sorel, Lower Canada - c. 1794*Death: Oregon State, United States - January 5, 1879*Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1827 - 1828); Steersman, New Caledonia (1828 - 1830); Trapper, Snake Party (1830 - 1833); Steersman (no wages), Fort Vancouver general charges (1833 - 1834); Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1834 - 1836); Trapper, South Party (1836 - 1837); Trapper, South Party (1839 - 1841).

Jean Baptiste Obichon first joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] at Sorel on December 2, 1816 to work at Fort William for three years. He appears to have worked at a variety of locations east of the Rockies and, in the fall of 1827, came west with the returning York Factory Express. According to the 1828-1833 records, he was from "William Henry." In outfit 1829-1830 he received a horse and dog courtesy of the Company. He appears to have worked as a freeman for a number of years and is listed so in outfit 1836-1837; some time prior to 1839 he established himself in a house at Fort Vancouver. From there he moved into the Willamette Valley, farmed at St. Louis, raised a family and sold wheat and furs to the HBC. In May 1843, he still maintained loyalties to the HBC and voted against the organization of the Provisional Government. In 1879 he died in Gervais, and was buried on January 5th in St. Louis, Oregon. During his post-fur trade life, Obichon's name was spelled Aubichon.

Jean Baptiste had two successive wives and three recorded children. On May 13, 1839, he married Marie, Tsatile [Chinook] (c.1814-?) at Fort Vancouver. By 1847, Marie had died and on November 27, 1847 in St. Louis, Oregon, he married Isabelle (c.1827-54) from a "tribe of the south." Together they had Jean Baptiste (1849-?), Marie (1850-?) and Antoine (1852-54). Isabelle died on March 8, 1854 at the age of twenty-six. Jean Baptiste did not appear to remarry.

PS: HBCA YFASA 6-9, 11-16; FtVanASA 1-6; YFDS 3a-3b, 4b-7, 10-11 PPS: SHdeSB Liste; CCR 1a, 3a, 3c; PPS: E. Ermatinger, p. 105 SS: Holman, p. 115

Obichon, Louis (fl. 1818) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1818 - 1819).

Louis Obichon was on the Pacific slopes as a winterer in 1818-1819 but has not been traced after that.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 3

Ogden, Charles (1819 - 1890) (Mixed descent)

Birth: September 15, 1819 (born to Peter Skene Ogden and possibly Julie Rivet, Spokane/Flathead)

Death: Lac la Hache, British Columbia - December 1, 1890

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice post master, Snake Country (1853 - 1855); Apprentice post master, Fort Nez Percés (1855 - 1856); Apprentice post master, Fort Vancouver sales shop (1856 - 1858); Post master, Fort Vancouver sales shop (1858 - 1860); Post master, Fort Yale (1860 - 1862); Clerk, New Caledonia (1862 - 1890).

Charles Ogden joined the HBC in 1853 and began his work in Snake Country. While he was working at Fort Boise in 1854, he was accused by local residents of selling ammunition (even though he had no powder to trade) to local Indians who had killed several Americans (FtVanCB 41, fo. 56, 57). As a result, a Portland newspaper, the Democratic Standard, stated that all HBC men should be turned out and their establishment burned (FtVanCB 41, fo. 57). Ogden was then transferred to Fort Nez Percés and later to Fort Vancouver where he worked until the post closed. He spent the rest of his career in the British Columbia/New Caledonia and worked as a clerk although, by 1866, he was unable to get credit from the HBC as he had no money in their hands. William Fraser Tolmie wrote of Ogden's "irregular habits and intemperance." Nonetheless, he worked as an HBC clerk until his death.

Charles Ogden did not marry and died at Lac La Hache according to Gavin Hamilton, on December 1, 1890.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 9-15; FtVanCB 41; FtVicASA 8-10, 13-16; FtVicCB 22, 29, 41, Dugald Mactavish Oct. 6, 1854 Fort Vancouver letter to A. Barclay, B.223/g/41, fo. 56; ibid, Dugald Mactavish Oct. 20, 1854 Fort Vancouver letter to George Simpson, B.223/g/4, fo. 57; UBC-SC Hamilton SS: Cline, p. 33

See Also: Ogden, Peter Skene (Father); Ogden, Isaac (Brother); Ogden, Peter Jr. (Brother); Ogden, Michael (Brother); McKinlay, Archibald (Relative)

Ogden, Isaac (1839 - 1869) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Fort St. James, New Caledonia - June 6, 1839 (born to Peter Skene Ogden and Julie Rivet, Spokane/Flathead)

Death: Champoege, Oregon - February 10, 1869

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice post master, Fort Vancouver sales shop (1853 - 1855).

Isaac Ogden, who was named after his grandfather, spent his short career with the HBC at Fort Vancouver before retiring in outfit 1855; later, he lived at Champoege. He was killed, probably accidentally, after a game of cards in a brawl with a man named Howard on February 10, 1869 in Champoege and buried in the local cemetery.

Isaac Ogden married Anna Manson, daughter of Donald Manson and Felicite Lucier. Their children were Emma Julia (1864-94) and Sara May (1866-?) and an unnamed son.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 9-12; PSACWills 2; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Clark County PPS: CCR 1a, 2c SS: W. Ogden, p. 183

See Also: Ogden, Charles (Brother); Ogden, Michael (Brother); Ogden, Peter Jr. (Brother); Ogden, Peter Skene (Father); Flathead, Julia (Mother); Manson, Donald (Father-in-Law); Lucier, Etienne (Relative); Manson, John Duncan (Relative); Manson, William (Relative); McKinlay, Archibald (Relative)

Ogden, Michael (1824 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Spokane House, Columbia District - September 24, 1824 (born to Peter Skene Ogden and Julie Rivet)

Death: Montana, United States

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice, New Caledonia (1840 - 1841); Native apprentice, Thompson River (1841 - 1842); Native apprentice, Fort Alexandria (1842); Native apprentice, New Caledonia (1842 - 1843); Apprentice labourer, New Caledonia (1843 - 1844); Interpreter, New Caledonia (1844 - 1845); Interpreter, Thompson River (1845 - 1847); Post master, Thompson River (1847 - 1848); Post master, New Caledonia (1848 - 1849); Post master, Thompson River (1849 - 1851); Post master, Fort Colville (1851 - 1852); Interpreter, Flathead Post [Fort Connah, Saleesh House] (1852); Post master, Flathead Post [Fort Connah, Saleesh House] (1853 - 1860); Post master, Columbia Department (1860 - 1861).

Michael Ogden joined the HBC in 1840 in the New Caledonia area and in 1848 was running letters to Fort Colville. He worked his way up through the ranks until, in 1853, he was put in charge of Fort Connah [Montana]. He eventually retired around 1861 but carried on transactions with the Company for two more years. Michael Ogden died in Montana Territory.

Michael Ogden had two successive wives and several children. The name of his first wife has not been traced. His second wife, "Julia Bordenium", widow of "C. Bordenium", survived him and died July 28, 1886.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-32; FtAlexPJ 5, 7; FtVanASA 6-7, 9-17; FtVicASA 9-10 SS: W. Ogden, p. 183

See Also: Ogden, Charles (Brother); Ogden, Isaac (Brother); Ogden, Peter Jr. (Brother); Ogden, Peter Skene (Father); McKinlay, Archibald (Relative)

Ogden, Peter Jr. (1817 - 1870) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Western Canada, North America - January 18, 1817 (born to Peter Skene Ogden and Julie Rivet, Spokane/Flathead)

Death: Fort St. James, New Caledonia - October 9, 1870

Fur trade officer

HBC Clerk disposable, Columbia Department (1841 - 1843); Clerk, Fort Fraser (1844 - 1845); Clerk in charge, Fort George [New Caledonia] (1845 - 1846); Clerk in charge, Flathead Post [Fort Connah, Saleesh House] (1846 - 1847); Clerk in charge, Fort Fraser (1847 - 1848); Clerk in charge, Fort George [New Caledonia] (1848 - 1850); Clerk in charge, McLeod Lake Post (1850 - 1853); Clerk in charge, Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs] (1853 - 1854); Chief Trader, Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs] (1854 - 1859); Chief Trader/Clerk in charge, Fort Alexandria (1855); Chief Trader, Fort St. James (1859 - 1860); Chief Trader in charge of New Caledonia, Fort St. James (1860 - 1861); Chief Trader, Fort St. James (1861 - 1868); Chief Trader in charge, Fort St. James (1868 - 1869); Chief Trader in charge of New Caledonia, Fort St. James (1869 - 1870).

Peter Ogden Jr., who was educated in a protestant school in Red River, joined the HBC on June 9, 1835 from British North America and served the first six years east of the Rockies coming to the Columbia around 1841. Known as one of the perpetrators (along with Paul Fraser and Donald Manson) of the "club law" (discipline by violence), young Ogden was capable of wielding tough blows. In 1853, George Simpson reprimanded him for beating François Lacourse so severely that Lacourse had become subject to epileptic fits. He could be relied upon to administer effectively for, in 1855, when Ogden assumed charge of Fort Alexandria, he found the place very dilapidated without even parchment for the windows and the surrounding natives were starving because of a poor salmon run. In 1861, as the gold rush was moving north into his area, he was given the directive that no one in the fur trade business was to associate themselves in gold mining operations for it was felt that the fur business would be more profitable in the long run. Ogden's son, a clerk at Fraser Lake, died on October 3, 1870 and Peter himself died from influenza six days later at Fort St. James.

Peter Ogden had one wife and eleven children. On January 17, 1844 at Edmonton House, he married Euphrosini/Phristine/Freezen Brabant (1817?-89), the daughter of Augustine Brabant, of Quebec and Angelique Lucier or Fort Edmonton. Their children were Peter Skene (c.1844-70), Margaret Julia (1844-1918), Adelaide V. (1847-?), Christine (1851-?), Charles Griffin (?-c.1904), Rachel (c.1852-?), Sara Julianna (c.1854-?), Mary Elizabeth (c.1858-?), Elizabeth Martha (?-?), Isaac (1859-?), and Henry (c.1864-?). Phrisine died on July 27, 1889.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; FtVanASA 6; FtVicASA 1-16, 18; YFASA 21, 24-32; HBCABio; BCA BCCR StPetStLk PPS: OHS Oregonian, Nov. 3, 1870, p. 2 SS: Cline, p. 33; Morice, The History of, p. 279, 281, 289, 290, 326

See Also: Ogden, Charles (Brother); Ogden, Isaac (Brother); Ogden, Michael (Brother); Ogden, Peter Skene (Father); Manson, William (Son-in-Law); McKinlay, Archibald (Relative)

Ogden, Peter Skene (c. 1790 - 1854) (Canadian: English)

Birth: Quebec City, Quebec - c. 1790 (born to Admiralty Court judge Issac Ogden and Sarah Hanson)

Death: Oregon City, Oregon - September 17, 1854

Fur trade officer

NWC Clerk, Pacific slopes (1817); Clerk, Pacific slopes (1819 - 1820); HBC Clerk, Thompson River (1820 - 1822); Chief Trader, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1823 - 1824); Chief Trader, Snake Party (1824 - 1830); Chief Trader, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Chief Trader, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1834); Chief Factor, New Caledonia (1835 - 1844); Chief Factor, Columbia Department (1848 - 1850); Chief Factor on furlough, Columbia Department (1852 - 1853).

Born to Loyalist [Tory] parents, a teenage Peter Skene Ogden joined the AFC in Montreal for a short time and then the NWC as a clerk. In 1817 and 1819 he crossed the Rockies, the second time fleeing from the HBC as he had murdered a native only because he had traded with the HBC. To Ross Cox, Ogden was a complex person, “humorous, honest, eccentric, law-defying...the terror of Indians” (Cox, p. 270). Ogden’s aggressiveness was still evident in 1819 when he led a punitive expedition against the Cowlitz to avenge the death of trapper Nicholas Oskonoton. His men got out of hand and killed twelve largely innocent Cowlitz. To make amends, an officer from Fort George, possibly Ogden himself, had to go through an elaborate wedding ceremony to marry the daughter of Cowlitz chief How-How. In 1820 he was made a NWC partner but at amalgamation because of his violent opposition to the HBC he was not taken on. He pleaded his case in London in 1822 and in 1823, he was taken on as a clerk, soon becoming Chief Trader and was appointed to Spokane House. In 1824, and no doubt because of his toughness, Ogden led the difficult Snake River expeditions for the next six years, replacing a disillusioned Alexander Ross. Ogden had his own problems with one mass desertion in 1825 to the more high paying Americans. He wrote extensive journals on his travels but failed to mention his wife and growing family who must certainly have accompanied him. In 1831 he went north and constructed Fort Simpson on the Nass and three years later, as Chief Factor that negotiated with the Russians for an HBC lease of the Russian American panhandle. The following year, he was sent to New Caledonia where he spent nine years. One year after retiring in 1846, he ransomed the survivors of the Whitman massacre bringing them down to Fort Vancouver. He worked at Fort Vancouver until August 18, 1854 when an ill Ogden went to Oregon City to recuperate from a “disease of the brain”, however, in September, he died near Oregon City, at the home of Archibald McKinlay and was buried in the Mountain View Cemetery on September 30.

Peter Skene Ogden had two successive wives and nine or more children. With his first wife, an unnamed Cree woman (?-?) from Isle La Crosse, he had Peter (1817-70) and possibly Charles (1819-1880) although his mother may have been Julie. His second wife was Julie Rivet (c.1788-1886), Flathead/Spokane. Together, they had seven children: Cecilia (1822-?), Michael (1824-?), Sarah Julia (1826-92), David (1828-?), Eureka Mary (1836-61), Isaac (1839-69) and Margaret (1844-1918). After Peter Skene’s death, Julia [Rivet] Ogden went to live with relative-by-marriage Archibald McKinlay and family in Lac la Hache [BC], and died there January 2, 1886.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 2; YFASA 3-6, 8-9, 11-15, 17-32; YFDS 4a-7; FtVanASA 2-10; FtVicASA 2-3; FtVanCB 41; SimpsonCB; Wills; HBCABio; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Clark PPS: HBRS III, p. 52, 53; HBRS II, p. 238; HBRS XIII; HBRS XXII, p. 489-90; HBRS XXIII; HBRS XXX, p. 193-94; Cox, p. 270; A. Ross, The Fur Hunters, p. 129-30 SS: T. c. Elliot, “Peter Skene Ogden”, p. 229-78; CCR 1a; W. Ogden, p. 183; Binns; Cline, p. 9; McGregor, p. 195; DCB Williams
See Also: Flathead, Julia (Wife); Rivet, Francois (Relative); Hamilton, Gavin (Son-in-Law); Ogden, Charles (Son); Ogden, Isaac (Son); Ogden, Michael (Son); Ogden, Peter Jr. (Son); Hopkins, Edward Martin (Relative); McKinlay, Archibald (Son-in-Law)

Oghnawera, Charles [variation: Ochnawera, Onaquera] (fl. 1822) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: possibly Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada

Freeman

HBC Freeman trapper, Columbia Department (1822).

Charles Oghnawera, an Iroquois from Sault St. Louis, first joined the NWC [Isaac W. Clarke] on July 20, 1813 to work in "Amherstburg par la Grand (sic) Riviere" as a middleman. From 1815 he worked as a middleman at Fort William and, from 1818, as a hunter for four years in Indian Country. Around 1818 he likely entered the Pacific slopes and by 1821 was a member of a group of independent Iroquois trappers led by Miaquin Martin. Oghnawera was with the band until February 19, 1822, at which point he went east over the Rockies.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 4, 10

Ogilvy, James (fl. 1857) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1857).

James Ogilvy joined the HBC in Victoria on March 4, 1857 for the return voyage to London on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA log of Princess Royal 3

Ogilvy, John Drummond Buchanan [variation: Ogilvie] (? - 1865) (probably Canadian: English)

Death: Bella Coola, British Columbia - April 1865

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice clerk, Fort Victoria (1850 - 1851); Apprentice clerk, Fort Simpson (1851 - 1855); Clerk, Fort Vancouver general charges (1855 - 1856); Clerk, Fort Colville (1856 - 1858); Clerk, Fort Hope (1859 - 1860).

John Drummond Buchanan Ogilvy joined the HBC from Canada in 1850 as an apprentice and retired a clerk ten years later. His inexperience showed in March 1852 at Fort Simpson when he upset his canoe, lost his gun and was forbidden to go in a canoe without another “white man” (FtSimp[N]PJ 7, fo. 10-10d). In June 1855, pleading poor health, Ogilvy left the service and headed for Victoria, but soon rejoined again. Ogilvy is credited with starting British Columbia's honey industry by importing the provinces first honey bees in 1858 (Paterson, p. 125). Later, he took his wife and family to Bella Coola where he became a custom's agent. On April 1, 1865, Ogilvy arrested a recently arrived thirty-five year old French Canadian, Antoine Lucanage, for attempting to sell liquor to the local Indians without a warrant. As Lucanage was being sent down to the New Westminster jail on the Nanaimo Packet, he escaped and returned to Bella Coola. On April 7, he secreted himself on the same boat as Ogilvy and shot him at the first opportunity, mortally wounding him. Ogilvy's wife and family left Bella Coola and arrived in Victoria on the Labouchere on around May 24, 1865. A reward was set for Ogilvy's killer but his skeletal remains were found at Fort Rupert; Lucanage, according to rumour, met his death after having tried to cheat a native out of a canoe or furs.

On April 15, 1859 John Drummond Buchanan Ogilvy married Mary Carolina Kennedy (c.1842-73). The members of the family have not been traced. One son was born on March 31, 1864 while they were living at Braeside. Mary died January 1873.

PS: HBCA YFASA 30-32; FtVicASA 1-6, 8; FtVanASA 11—14; FtSimp[N]PJ 7; BCA BCCR CCCath; Van-PL Colonist, April 1, 1864, May 24, 1865, p. 3 SS: Paterson, Outlaws of Western, p. 125

Ohia [1] (fl. 1846) (Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

PSAC Shepherd, Fort Nisqually outstation (1846).

Little is known of Ohia, who was listed as a shepherd at a Fort Nisqually outstation in the 1846 servants' accounts. He may have been the following Ohia, temporarily in the area.

PPS: S. A. Anderson, The Physical Structure

Ohia [2] [variation: Ohier, Owyhee, John O'hea, Tahowia, Nawia] (fl. 1840 - 1860) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: possibly Fraser River, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1843); Labourer, Beaver (steamer) (1843 - 1845); Middleman, Cadboro (schooner) (1843); Labourer, Fort Langley (1845 - 1849); Cooper, Fort Langley (1849 - 1851); Labourer, Fort Langley (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Fort Langley (1852 - 1853); Labourer, Fort Langley (1853 - 1856).

Ohia joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840. In his sixteen years with the Company, he spent considerable time at Fort Langley. There he lived in the nearby Kanaka Village and worked in the cooperage all year round making kegs, barrels and vats for the salmon run. In 1852-1853, he only worked from November 23, 1852, and he appears to have retired around 1857; in outfit 1857-1860 he appeared on the sundries accounts with no further information.

Ohia and an unknown Kwantlen woman had Charles (?-bap 1852-?) and Basile (?-bap 1853-?), both baptized Catholic at Fort Langley.

By 1858 Ohier was living in Fort Langley's Kanaka Village with Peeopeeh's daughter Aglae Paiva (c 1824-?). They had at least two children, Maria (?-bap 1856-?), whose father the nearby Anglican cleric recorded as “Nawia of Wahu [Oahu],” and John (?-bap 1859-?), whose father was recorded as “John Owyhee [Oahu],” a labourer in Kanaka Village.

In February 1860 Ohia, named as John O'hea, pre-empted land on the north bank of the Fraser River adjacent to claims being taken up about the same time by his father-in-law Peeopeeh and brothers-in-law Joseph Maayo and Peter Apnaut. He did not complete title and has not been traced further.

PS: HBCA log of Columbia 4; ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 20, 22-32; YFDS 11, 13; FtVanASA 6-7; FtVicDS 1; FtVicASA 1-7; BCA BCCR StAndC SS: Lugin, p. 107; Laing, p. 98

See Also: Peeopeeh (Father-in-Law); Peeopeeh, Henry (Relative); Maayo, Joseph (Relative)

Ohpoonuy [variation: Ohpoonuay, Ohpoonuuy, Ohpoonuiy] (fl. 1836 - 1843) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1836); Middleman, South Party (1836 - 1842); Labourer, South Party (1842 - 1843).

Ohpoonuy was engaged by the HBC in Oahu in January 1836 and worked out of Fort Vancouver. His second contract, of four-years, ended in 1843 and, after his last day of work, November 15, 1843, he returned to Oahu.

Ohule, Peter [variation: Ohulu, Apnaut, Apnatih] (fl. 1845 - c. 1866) (probably Hawaiian)Birth: “Wahu” [Oahu], Hawaiian IslandsDeath: probably Fraser Valley, British Columbia – before 1867Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1845 - 1847); District cook, New Caledonia (1847 - 1848); Labourer, Fort Langley (1848 - 1849); Cook, New Caledonia (1849 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Langley (1850 - 1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria depot (1851 - 1853); Untraced vocation, Fort Langley (1853 - 1854); Labourer, Fort Langley (1854 - 1858); Gold miner and farmer, Fraser Valley (1858 - 1860s).

Peter Ohule, described at his child's baptism as born in “Wahu,” was hired on by the HBC in Oahu on May 7, 1845 and began work at Fort Vancouver on July 12 of that year. In 1846, he had deducted from the HBC Honolulu offices one barrel of salmon, which may have been a family gift. He worked at a number of posts and, when at Fort Langley, acquired the first name of Peter. There, he lived in the nearby Kanaka Village and worked as a cooper alongside William Cromarty, Charles Ohia and Maayo making kegs, barrels and vats used to salt salmon got from the salmon run.

Peter Ohule stayed in the area on retiring from the fur trade in 1858. During the Fraser River gold rush, he and his fellow Hawaiians panned for gold at what became known as Kanaka Bar. Ohulu and the others were threatened with removal from Kanaka Ranch when it was thought that the site, known as Derby, would become the new capital of the mainland British colony of British Columbia. As soon as it became possible to pre-empt land in January 1860, Ohule, who now went by the surname of Apnaut, took up 160 acres [64.8 ha] on the north side of the Fraser River that later passed to his son George.

A man by the name of Peter Ohule pre-empted land near Victoria on May 17, 1861. It's unclear if two men had the same name, or he was geographically adventurous. This Peter Ohule, who wrote the letter himself in English, stated he had a house there.

Peter Ohule married Sophie (c 1830-?), a daughter of Peeopeeh. They had a son George Peter (c.1854-92) who was baptized at Fort Langley on 29 June 1856 as the natural son of Peter of Wahu and Sophie Pionpion.

He and Native woman named Nancy may have been the parents of Rosalie (1864-?). Peter Apnaut died prior to 1867, when Sophie, describing herself as a “Halfbreed Kanaka, widow of the late Apnatih,” remarried. George Apnaut had two children by a granddaughter of fur trader Ovid Allard, Julia Hamburger (c1862-), before she got the union annulled. He was well known for playing the violin at local dances and served on the Maple Ridge council in 1879. His descendants continue to live in the Fraser Valley of British Columbia.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 3, 5; YFASA 24-32; YFDS 16, 18, 20; FtVicASA 1-5; BCA BCGR-Pre-Emption; BCCR StAndC; “Registre des baptêmes pour la Mission Sainte Marie, 1863,” manuscript in Oblate possession. Interview with Lloyd Kendrick by Jack Montgomery, Maple Ridge, June 1993, typescript courtesy of Lynn Ross SS: Lugin, p. 107; Koppel, p. 85-86; Laing, p. 99; Waite, p. 102

See Also: Peeopeeh (Father-in-Law); Peeopeeh, Henry (Mother-in-Law); Allard, Ovid (Relative)

Okaia [variation: Ka'i'a] (fl. 1840 - 1854) (probably Hawaiian)Birth: probably Hawaiian IslandsDeath: probably Victoria, Colony of Vancouver Island - 1854Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Stikine (1840 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Stikine (1842 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1843 - 1849); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1850 - 1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1851 - 1854).

Okaia, a product of a missionary school in Oahu where he learned to read and write Biblical scriptures, joined the HBC in 1840 on a five-year contract. His first three years at his first posting, Fort Stikine, were probably rougher than he had anticipated. During his first winter he lost a large toe on his right foot due to frostbite. By April 20th, 1842, some of the more unsavory employees were in full rebellion against John McLoughlin Jr., who was in charge of the post. That evening, McLoughlin roused Okaia and others to arms to protect him against Urbain Heroux and to shoot him on sight. Okaia was posted on the gallery with others, but Heroux managed to shoot and kill McLoughlin before Okaia and others could react. Taking the initiative in a still dangerous situation, Okaia and two other Hawaiians carried the body into the house where they washed and dried it. One of the conspirators, Pierre Kanaguasse, had to be ejected from the room when he tried to tear off McLoughlin's vest and succeeded in throwing the body to the floor. The following year, Okaia transferred to a more peaceful Fort Victoria, where he worked until mid-November, 1848 and then returned to Oahu. The visit or retirement was short, for he quickly re-enlisted and returned to the Northwest Coast where he continued working at Fort Victoria until 1854, when he died. He left a credit of £10.19.11 to his name.

Okaia's family, if any, have not been traced.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-28, 30-32; FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 19; FtVicASA 1-2; FtStikPJ 2; FtVanCB 30; SandIsAB

Okanaya [variation: Owyhee] (fl. 1825) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: possibly Columbia Department, Pacific Northwest

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Columbia Department (1825).

Okanaya may have been a HBC employee under a different name who was working in the Columbia River area in the 1820s. His name appeared in 1842 (after he was deceased), when his seventeen-year old daughter, Marie Angélique, was being married at Fort Vancouver. She was the mixed descent daughter of Okanaya and a Chinook woman.

PPS: CCR 1a

Oketown, Harry [variation: Henry Oketowa] (fl. 1821) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Milieu, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822); NWC Milieu, Columbia Department (1821).

Harry Oketown was working for the NWC on the Pacific slopes when he transferred to the HBC in 1821. He appears to have left the area shortly after.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 9; HBCA YFASA 1

Olau (fl. 1840 - 1843) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1843).

Olau joined the HBC in Oahu in 1840 on a three-year contract. He worked at Fort Vancouver until November 15, 1843, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-23; FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 14

Oliver, John (fl. 1845 - 1847) (British: English)

Birth: possibly London, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1843 - 1847).

John Oliver joined the HBC in Oahu in 1843 on a five year contract when the Vancouver was returning to London. He made one more return voyage to the coast and eventually arrived back in London in July 1847.

PS: HBCA log of Vancouver [3] 2; YFASA 25-26; YFDS 17

Oliver, Robert L. (fl. 1824 - 1828) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Boy, William & Ann (brig) (1824 - 1826); Seaman, William & Ann (brig) (1826 - 1828).

Young Robert L. Oliver signed on with the HBC around July 1824 and made a return voyage to the coast on the William & Ann [Henry Hanwell] as a ship's boy trading as far north as Observatory Inlet. He signed on for the following return voyage as a seaman and arrived back in London in February 1828.

PS: HBCA log of William & Ann 1

Olsen, Andreas (fl. 1857 - 1858) (Norwegian)

Birth: probably Norway

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, New Caledonia (1857 - 1858).

Andreas Olsen appeared to work briefly for the HBC.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 5-6

Olsen, Lars (fl. 1858 - 1859) (Norwegian)

Birth: Nordering, Norway

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, New Caledonia (1858 - 1859).

Lars Olsen joined the HBC possibly from Norway on June 12, 1857 as a labourer or baker for five years. He worked briefly in the New Caledonia area and was on a contract that ended in 1862. In 1858, a Lars Olsen signed a contract at Fort Alexander, Lac La Pluie District for a further two years. However, he still appeared to be in New Caledonia in 1859-1860.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; FtVicASA 6-7

Omai (fl. 1840 - 1845) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Fort McLoughlin (1841 - 1842); Labourer, Fort McLoughlin (1842 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1843 - 1845).

Omai joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840. He first worked along the north coast at Forts Taku and McLoughlin and at Fort Victoria from the time of its construction in 1843. In the fall of 1844, he took ill and had to be confined to his house for three months, at which point he recovered sufficiently to work. As his contract ended in 1846, he worked until December 31, 1845, at which point he returned to Oahu where he was paid off.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-25; FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 16; SandIsAB 5; FtVicCB 1

Oman, Edward [b] [variation: Omand] (c. 1825 - ?) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: Stenness, Orkney - c. July 3, 1825 (born to James Omand and Betty [Clouston] Omand)

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1844); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1849); Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1849).

Edward Oman joined the HBC in 1844 on a five-year contract, sailing to York Factory. On September 1, 1849, he became a freeman and retired in the area. He may have had a change of heart for an Edward Oman sailed from York Factory on September 12 for Orkney although this may have been another E.O. Little is known of Edward Oman's family life other than a James Omen (1848-?), born to an unnamed Nisqually woman and "Omen, Englishman" was likely the offspring of Edward.

PS: OrkA OPR; HBCA log of Prince Rupert V 4, 10; YFASA 25-29; YFDS 20 PPS: CCR 1b

Omidse, Etienne (fl. 1819 - 1821) (Native or Mixed descent)

Freeman

NWC Freeman, Columbia Department (1819 - 1821).

Etienne Omidse was a freeman trapper in the Columbia between 1819-1821 and deserted in the fall of 1821.

PS: HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 4

Onaharashan, Charles [variation: Onahorishau, Onaharishon, Onahaxion, Onaharion] (fl. 1813 - 1824) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: possibly Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada

Freeman

NWC Devant, Pacific slopes (1818); HBC Freeman trapper, Snake Party (1824).

Charles Onaharashan first joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray] from Sault St. Louis on February 27, 1813, and spent 1813 at Fort William, 1814-1816 at Michillimacina, 1816-1818 at Fort William and, on March 12, 1818, began work as a devant for three years, coming across the Rockies with Angus Bethune and James McMillan. He likely completed his three-year contract west of the Rockies for he next appeared on record in the Columbia on February 10, 1824 as a freeman trapper camped on the Prairie de Cheveaux outside Flathead post. Deemed a trapper "unfit for Snake Country", (SnkCoPJ 1, fo. 2) he was nonetheless taken on by Alexander Ross for his nine month HBC Snake Country trapping expedition. He was only mentioned once more in the journals of the rather tempestuous expedition and likely split with Ross, possibly joining fellow freeman Pierre Tevanitagon's party on June 12 of that year.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; NWCAB 2; HBCA SnkCoPJ 1

Onaharyou, Lasard [variation: Lazard] (c. 1798 - ?) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec] - c. 1798

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1822 - 1824); Middleman, Columbia Department (1824 - 1827); Middleman, New Caledonia (1827 - 1828); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1828 - 1831); On Montreal Pay List, Columbia Department (1831 - 1832).

Lasard Onaharyou joined the fur trade around 1821 and worked in the Columbia. While he was in New Caledonia in 1828-1829 he had a horse supplied to him. He returned to Montreal in 1831-1832.

PS: HBCA YFASA 2-9, 11; FtVanAB 4; FtVanASA 1-2; YFDS 3a-3b

Onawanoron, Joseph [variation: Onowanoron] (c. 1810 - ?) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1810

Fur trade employee

HBC Steersman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1832 - 1833); Steersman, New Caledonia (1833 - 1836); Boute, New Caledonia (1836 - 1838); Boute, Fort Vancouver general charges (1838 - 1841); Boute, Columbia Department (1841 - 1842); Boute, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1843); Boute, Fort Vancouver general charges (1843 - 1844); Boute, Columbia Department general charges (1844 - 1846); Guide, Fort Vancouver general charges (1846 - 1847); Boute, Fort Vancouver general charges (1847 - 1849); Guide, Fort Vancouver general charges (1849 - 1850); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1850 - 1851); Boute, Fort Vancouver general charges (1852 - 1855); Boute, Fort Colville (1855 - 1856).

Joseph Onowanoron joined the HBC from Sault St. Louis in 1832 and for many years was a member of the cross-country brigades and express.

PS: HBCA YFASA 12-15, 19-20, 22-32; YFDS 5a-7, 11-12; FtVanASA 3-6, 9-11; FtVicDS 1; FtVicASA 2

Oneaste, Lazard [variation: Lazaar Oreasta] (c. 1812 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1812

Death: possibly Vancouver Island

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1832 - 1833); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1833 - 1834); Middleman, Fort McLoughlin (1834 - 1842); Labourer, Fort McLoughlin (1842 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Victoria (1843 - 1849); Carpenter, Fort Victoria (1849 - 1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1851 - 1853).

Lazard Oneaste joined the Hudson's Bay Company in 1832 from the Iroquois area of Sault St. Louis, [Caughnawaga, Kahnawake] although he himself appears to have been of mixed descent. He crossed the continent and from that point on he worked his entire career at coastal forts. Lazard appears to have been ill off and on and work may not have been steady, as, for example, in 1852-1853 he worked only from August 24, 1852. After his work at Fort Victoria, he went to Nanaimo around 1853 where, when he was not ill, he made window sashes and frames, constructed beacons for the harbour and a dam. He has not been traced after his work at Nanaimo (Bate, p. 1).

PS: HBCA YFASA 12-15, 19-20, 22-32; YFDS 5-7; FtVanASA 3-7; FtVicDS 1; FtVicASA 1 SS: Bate, p. 1

Oniaze, Baptiste [variation: Eneas] (c. 1828 - ?) (Native: Mixed descent)

Birth: Columbia Department, Pacific Northwest - c. 1828 (born to Etienne Oniaze and a Kwoithe native)

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice carpenter, Fort Vancouver depot (1846 - 1849); Apprentice, Fort Vancouver depot (1849 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1856).

Baptiste Oniaze was a mixed descent native who was born and hired in the Columbia Department and so his early movements would likely follow those of his father. In 1845, around the age of seventeen, he joined the HBC on a seven-year commitment which was to end in 1852 but he became a freeman around the end of December, 1850. On February 19, 1855, Baptiste signed on as a carpenter for two months work with the HBC at Fort Nisqually. On April 2, before his two months were up, he got in a fight with Robert Daly. Apparently Daly struck Oniaze on the head with a jack plane for which Oniaze gave Daly a sound beating. Oniaze was then discharged from the service. He was temporarily taken back at Fort Nisqually as a labourer in 1856 under the name of Eneas but was dismissed in May because of intoxication and may have left the area.

PS: HBCA YFASA 26-30; FtVicASA 4; YFDS 21; FtVanASA 9; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Clark County PPS: Dickey
See Also: Oniaze, Etienne (Father)

Oniaze, Etienne [standard: Étienne] [variation: Onayaissa, Aaniaessel] (c. 1789 - 1850) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: Lac Des Deux Montagnes [Lake of Two Mountains], Lower Canada or Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1789

Death: probably Fort Vancouver, Oregon Territory – after or around 1850

Fur trade employee

NWC Middleman, Willamette Post (winter 1813 - 1814); Middleman, Snake Party (1819); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (1821); HBC Trapper, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1821 - 1822); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1822 - 1823); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (1823 - 1824); Middleman, Columbia Department (1824 - 1826); Middleman/Servant, Fort Nez Percés (1826 - 1827); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1827 - 1828); Middleman, Fort Langley (1828 - 1837); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1845); Middleman, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1850).

Twenty-one year old Iroquois Étienne Oniaze first joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray] on December 28, 1810 as a middleman and hunter for three years in the Northwest. He made his way across the country and by the winter of 1813-1814 he was in Willamette Post. He was with the returning brigade in 1814 but just how steady his employment was on the Pacific slopes has not been traced. However, in the fall of 1819 he was working in Snake Country where he deserted from Donald McKenzie's party. This separation was only temporary for, two years later in the fall of 1821, he was at Fort George [Astoria] beginning work with the HBC. Seven years later, when the construction of Fort Langley was nearing completion, he came north, likely with his wife and possibly a child, to work for the next nine years at that strategic Fraser River post. In spite of the fact that he appeared frequently in the existing Langley journals noting his trapping of beaver in the area, nothing was revealed of his character. In 1837 Oniaze returned to the Fort Vancouver area where he worked before becoming a freeman around July 1850, retiring in the area. He may have died shortly after that for he did not appear in the 1850 census.

Étienne Oniaze had two, possibly three, successive native wives and two recorded children. His first wife, who died at an unspecified date, was Catherine Kanatawose, probably an Iroquois from the Sault St. Louis region, who likely travelled with Etienne in his early years. The mother of Etienne's two recorded children, Baptiste (c.1828-?) and Ignace (c.1835-42), was a Kohothe [Kwoithe] woman. On November 10, 1842, eight months after the death of son Ignace, he legitimized his marriage to Jany/Jeanne Tchinouk/Chinook [c.1817-?], who may be the same Kwoithe woman who was the mother of his surviving son, Baptiste.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 10; FtGeoAB 4; HBCA FtGeoAB 4; YFASA 2-9, 11-15, 19-20, 22-30; YFDS 2a, 3a-3b, 4b-8, 21; FtGeo[Ast]AB 11; FtLangPJ 1; FtVanASA 1-6, 9; BCA BCCR CCCath PPS: Coues, p. 875; CCR 1a, 1b
See Also: Oniaze, Baptiste (Son)

Onskanha (Monique), Louis [variation: Oskanha, Scanonton] (c. 1809 - c. 1862) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1809

Death: probably Willamette Valley, Oregon - c. 1862

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1830 - 1832); Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1832 - 1833); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1833 - 1834); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1834 - 1837); Middleman, South Party (1837 - 1839); Trapper, South Party (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1844); Boute, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1845).

Louis Onskanha joined the HBC from Sault St. Louis in 1830 and came to New Caledonia via Athabasca. He worked on contract up to 1838; thereafter he worked as a freeman and on contract. By outfit 1845-1846, Louis Onskanha was an invalid and received no wages indicating he could not work. He likely settled in the St. Louis area of the Willamette valley.

Louis Onskanha had one wife and five children. He formalized his marriage to Charlotte, Chinook widow of Antoine Plante, on July 8, 1839. Charlotte brought Antoine II (c.1831-?) into the new marriage. Louis and Charlotte, Chinook together had the following children: Marie (c.1835-1907), Catherine (c.1838-51), Xavier (c.1841-89), Ignace (1845-?) and Louis II (c.1847-?).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2-6; YFASA 11-15, 19-20, 22-26; FtVanAB 26, 28; YFDS 4b-7 PPS: CCR 1a, 1b, 2a, 2b, 3a, 3b
See Also: Plante, Antoine [1] (Relative); Plante, Antoine [2] (Relative)

Opunoui [b] (fl. 1845 - 1846) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Columbia Department general charges (1845 - 1846).

Opunoui, from Oahu, joined the HBC in 1845 and appeared in the Columbia in outfit 1845-1846. He returned to Oahu that same outfit.

Opunui [a] [variation: Opunoui, Opono] (c. 1823 - 1853) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: Hawaiian Islands - c. 1823

Death: Fort Vancouver, Washington Territory - 1853

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1844); Labourer, Beaver (steamer) (1844 - 1845); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1845 - 1849); Farm labourer, Fort Vancouver (1849 - 1851); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1851 - 1852); Freeman, Columbia Department (1852 - 1853); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1853).

Opunui [a], who may be the same as Opusni Malaroui of the US Census, joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840. After starting his career on the Alaska panhandle, and with one short break working on the steamer Beaver, he spent the majority of his career at Fort Vancouver as a labourer. He worked until December 10, 1845, at which point he returned to Oahu. He re-engaged and returned to the Columbia. He was discharged on June 23, 1852 but appears to have been rehired. He was discharged again on June 23, 1853 and died at Fort Vancouver that year.

Opunui had one wife, Marie, a Cascades woman (c.1830-48), with whom he had Anne (1848-?). Marie died on September 8, 1848 at Fort Vancouver, probably from the lingering effects of childbirth.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-32; FtVanASA 6-7, 9-10; YFDS 16; FtVicDS 1; OHS 1850 Census, Clark Co. PPS: CCR 1b

Oraquenandagan, Thomas [variation: Orackwanadago] (fl. 1810 - 1816) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: possibly Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1816).

Thomas Oraquenandagan joined the NWC on January 9, 1810 as a second gouvernail and devant for lake travel and was stationed at Fort William. It is not known how long he stayed there but he first appeared on record on the Pacific slopes in 1816, possibly as a member of the brigade. That year cash was paid to his wife by the NWC.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 1

Ord, Thomas (fl. 1852 - 1853) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Otter (steamer) (1852 - 1854).

Thomas Ord joined the HBC as a seaman on the Otter on December 24, 1852 and got under weigh February 3, 1853 for the coast. However, twelve days after reaching Fort Victoria on August 4, 1853, he, along with the ship's cook, Jesse Hadley, deserted the vessel and was not heard from again.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; log of Otter 1; FtVicASA 1

Orighogowin, Paul (fl. 1830) (Native or Mixed descent)

Fur trade employee

HBC Comer and goer, Columbia Department (1830); Montreal Summerman, Columbia Department (1830 - 1831).

Paul Orighogowin was was a member of the cross country brigade in the summer of 1830 and that same outfit was back in Montreal.

PS: HBCA FtVanAB 26; YFASA 10

Oroheeay, Alexander (fl. 1849 - 1852) (Mixed descent or Hawaiian)

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice, Fort Vancouver depot (1849 - 1851); Apprentice cooper, Fort Vancouver (1851 - 1852).

Alexander Oroheeay worked for the HBC as an apprentice cooper on a contract that ended in 1854. However, he was discharged on February 24, 1852. As no other information has been located about him, he may have been a second-generation Hawaiian, born of a Hawaiian father in the fur trade (perhaps the following) and a Native mother.

PS: HBCA YFASA 29-31; YFDS 22; FtVanASA 9

Orohuay [variation: Oroohuay, Oroheeay, Ooroohuay] (c. 1813 - 1844) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands - c. 1813

Death: Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - September 30, 1844

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1832); Middleman and labourer, Fort Vancouver (1832 - 1837); Pigherd, Fort Vancouver (1832 - 1837); Middleman, Nereide (barque) (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1844).

Orohuay (Oroohuay) joined the HBC in 1830 and returned to Oahu in November 1840. He returned in 1842 and he was working on a new two-year contract when he died September 30, 1844 of unstated causes.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2-6; YFDS 4a-7, 15; YFASA 11-15, 19-20, 22, 24; FtVanCB 9

Oroora (fl. 1835 - 1846) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands - 1811

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1836); Middleman, Fort McLoughlin (1836 - 1837); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (1837 - 1839); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Columbia Department (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1843); Labourer, Willamette (1844 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1846).

Oroora, from Oahu, joined the HBC at Fort Vancouver on November 1, 1835. He worked mostly at Fort Vancouver until November 10, 1842, at which point he returned to Oahu. He was re-engaged and worked until August 6, 1846, at which point he again returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 15, 19-20, 22, 24-26; YFDS 6-7, 13, 17; FtVanASA 3-7

Orouku (fl. 1848 - 1849) (possibly Polynesian)

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1848 - 1849).

Orouku joined the HBC on June 1, 1848. He deserted in 1849, most likely in the first half, for in outfit 1849-1850, he received no wages. He probably headed south to the California gold rush.

PS: HBCA YFASA 28-29; YFDS 19

Osborne, James (fl. 1831 - 1836) (British: Scottish)

Birth: possibly in or near Greenoch, Scotland

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Eagle (brig) (1831 - 1832); Seaman, Lama (brig) (1832 - 1833); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1833); Seaman, Fort Simpson naval service (1833 - 1834); Seaman, Dryad (brig) (1834 - 1836).

James Osborne joined the HBC on September 29, 1831 in London as a seaman, originally for three years. He arrived in the Columbia aboard the brig Eagle and began his work in coastal shipping servicing coastal posts on October 28, 1832. Three years later he returned home to England on the brig Dryad in 1835 arriving in England in April of the following year.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 12-15; YFDS 5a-6; ShMiscPap 14; FtVanASA 3

Oskononton, Nicolas [variation: As-ka-non-ton, Os-con-onton] (fl. 1810 - 1819) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: Lac Des Deux Montagnes [Lake of Two Mountains], Lower Canada or Sault St. Louis

Death: Cowlitz area, Pacific Northwest - January 29, 1819

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1816); Member, Snake Party (1818 - 1819); Employee, Pacific slopes (1818).

Nicholas Oskononton joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co] from Lac des Deux Montagnes on August 10, 1810 and worked at Temiscaming until 1814, when he signed a further contract to work at Fort William. When he first appeared on record on the Pacific slopes in 1816 as a NWC employee, he was married, for cash was paid to his wife by the NWC. He was working with Alexander Ross in 1818-1819 brigade when he and several other Iroquois convinced Ross that they should trap alone. According to Ross, Oskononton was disgusted with the conduct of his fellow Iroquois and went back to Fort Nez Percés. Oskononton apparently suffered many hardships and was killed by the Cowlitz natives in 1819. Peter Skene Ogden led a punitive expedition of thirty to forty men against the Cowlitz but matters got out of hand and twelve largely innocent men women and children were killed. As retribution for this slaughter, Cowlitz chief How-How demanded that one of his daughters be married to a high ranking officer of Fort George. The ceremony was carried out in April 1819 and peace was secured (Ross, p. 127-31).

No details have been traced on Nicolas Oskonoton's family.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 1; NAC Keith, p. 25 PPS: A. Ross, The Fur Hunters, p. 127-31

Ossin, Louis [variation: Aucent, Aussan, Ossant] (c. 1800 - 1856) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Sorel, Lower Canada - c. 1800

Death: St. Louis, Oregon - May 12, 1856

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825); Middleman, New Caledonia (1825 - 1826); Middleman, Fort Langley (1827 - 1831); Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1831 - 1832); Middleman, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1832 - 1835); Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1832 - 1835); Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1835 - 1836); Trapper, South Party (1836 - 1839); Settler, Willamette (1841 - 1842).

Louis Ossin, who joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] on November 23, 1819 to work in the Northwest as a wintering middleman and steersman, spent the majority of his career on the Pacific slopes. He was re-engaged July 16, 1823 by the HBC as a middleman but, in the following year, in May 1824, while on an expedition of discovery in the Peace River Rocky Mountain Portage area with Samuel Black and Donald Manson, he deserted. At that time, Ossin and Jean Marie Bouche stole a large quantity of supplies from the Company, endangering peoples lives; thus, both were:

Hand cuffed and in that situation ... publicly exposed during one full day on the roof of the Factory, afterward ... imprisoned during one week, fed on bread and water, and in winter ... sent to winter among the Europeans at Churchill & Severn Forts (Minutes of Council, July 1, 1825).

Ossin may have been working out of New Caledonia around this time. From that time on he worked at several locations and was probably on the York Factory express in the fall of 1827. He was a freeman by 1836. At the end of his fur trading career in 1840, he became a settler in the Willamette Valley and by 1842 was running a productive farm on eighty enclosed acres [32.4 ha]. He maintained his loyalties to the HBC in 1843 by voting against the organization of a Provisional Government in Oregon territory. He continued to raise his family until his death in 1856.

Louis Ossin (as Louis Aucent) had three or more successive wives and four recorded children. In February 1829, while at Fort Langley, he took an unnamed Kwantlen wife. On July 13, 1839, he formalized his marriage to Catherine, Cayuse (c.1813-48). Apparently their children were Rose (c.1828-1901), Louis (c.1832-99), François (1836-?), and Joseph (c.1839-50). Catherine died March 12, 1848 and two months later, on May 29, 1848, Louis married Mary Mollilis/Mollala (c.1818-?). Upon Louis' death, his widow, Mary, married Joseph Simoneau on January 6, 1858.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA HBCCont; FtStJmsLS 1; YFASA 5, 7-16; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-6; YFDS 3a-3b, 4b, 5a-7; FtLanPJ 1; OHS 1842 Census; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion County PPS: HBRIS III, p. 133; CCR 1a, 2a, 3a; E. Ermatinger, p. 105 SS: Holman, p. 115

Ostaryou, Ignace [variation: Ottstahariou] (c. 1796 - ?) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: possibly Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1796

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1817 - 1818); HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1821 - 1824); Steersman, Columbia Department (1824 - 1826).

Ignace Ostaryou joined the fur trade on September 23, 1816 to work at Sault St. Marie or Fort William as a middleman and the following year crossed the Rockies with Joseph LaRocque's party. He likely continued to work in the area until 1821 for at that time he was found on HBC books. He worked with the HBC in the Columbia Department between 1822 and 1826. He deserted on March 19, 1826 on his way from the Flatheads.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 2, 3; HBCA YFASA 1-5

Ostiserico, Jacques [variation: Osteceroke, Osteaceroke, Ostisterioka] (fl. 1813 - 1825) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Freeman

NWC Devant, Kootenay's (winter 1813 - 1814); HBC Trapper, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1821 - 1822); Freeman trapper, Columbia Department (1822 - 1823); Freeman trapper, Snake Party (1824 - 1825); U.A. Freeman trapper, American Party (1825+).

Jacques Ostiserico was engaged by the NWC in the Columbia in 1812 on a two-year contract and was noted at being in the Kootenay area in 1813-1814. It is not known how long he stayed as an employee with the NWC but in 1821-1822 he was returning his furs to Spokane House and, in 1823, he accompanied Finan McDonald into the Snake Country and, by 1824, he was a freeman in the area. On February 10, 1824, he was camped at Prairie de Cheveau, outside Flathead Post ready to join Alexander Ross' nine month HBC Snake Party trapping expedition. While on the expedition, on June 19, 1824, both Jacques and John Grey were pursued by some Peigan Indians who, wanting to trade guns, tried to wrestle a gun from a reluctant Jacques. Both tried to return to Ross' camp but the Peigan followed closely. Jacques broke off and rode on ahead sounding the alarm with "The Blackfeet! The Blackfeet!" without telling Ross that Grey was behind. On August 21, 1824, Ostiserico and thirteen others left Ross forcing him to turn back to Flathead Post. On his return to the same post, Ostiserico joined Ogden's Snake Country 1824-1825 trapping expedition with one gun, three horses and six traps. On May 24, 1825 when he was in the Weber River area [Utah], and perhaps enticed by the much higher American prices, he along with twenty others deserted to the American party in the area. He did not pay his debt and has not been traced after that.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 5a, 10; FtGeo[Ast]AB 4, 10; SnkCoPJ 1, 2, 3a

Ostteargar, Carl Edward [variation: Osteargar] (fl. 1854 - 1855) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria general charges (1854 - 1855).

Carl Edward Ostteargar/Osteargar worked briefly for the HBC and may still have been in the area in 1857.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 2-4

Oteakorie, Louis [variation: Oteokorie, Okokorie, Curry] (fl. 1849 - 1867) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada

Death: probably Vancouver, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1849 - 1850); Middleman, Fort Rupert (1850 - 1852);

Untraced vocation, Fort Rupert (1852 - 1853); Untraced vocation, Western Department (1860 - 1861); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1861 - 1864); Labourer, Fort Rupert (1864 - 1867).

Louis Oteakorie, a large framed Iroquois from Sault St. Louis, joined the HBC in 1849 on a one-year contract. Around 1853, along with many others when the coal proved to be less than sufficient, he left Fort Rupert and went to Nanaimo where he, a crack shot and excellent hunter, hunted venison when it was required at the store. He left Nanaimo in 1858 for Fort Langley and probably did a little work before heading to Fort Simpson where, in November 1861, he was turned out of the post by W. H. McNeill. Further taunting of his superiors in December 1863 had him once again evicted from the Fort. He returned to Fort Rupert where he worked until 1867. For at least the next five years, he appears to have lived in Fort Rupert where he married chief Melas' sister. Louis and his wife eventually went to Vancouver, B. C., where Louis stayed. M-las returned to die with her daughters in Alert Bay.

Louis Oteakorie had one recorded wife, Fort Rupert Kwakiutl native, M-las/M-lus/Mellas/ Moulas and had six, possibly seven children, Kitty (?-?), Alexis [Currie] (1865-1940), Emma [Oteokorie] (c.1866-?), Catherine [Currie] (c.1871-1931), Mary [Currie] (?-?), Louis (?-?) and Jane (c.1876-?). Son Louis also worked for the HBC in Fort Rupert in 1866-1867.

PS: HBCA YFASA 29-32; FtVicASA 1, 4, 8-15; Oblate Mission baptismal Records of Fort Rupert, pp. 15, 26; Baptisms, Burials, Alert Bay Mission, Anglican Church Records, Anglican Church Archives, Victoria, B.C.; Van-PL 1881 Canada Census, Fort Rupert; 1901 Canada Census, Alert Bay Nimkish Reserve SS: Bate, p. 1; Barbeau; Oeokorie descendant

Otoetanie, (Little) Michel (fl. 1826 - c. 1827) (Native: possibly Iroquois)

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, McLeod's Umpqua Expedition (1826 - 1827).

Michel Otoetanie was known to have been a member of McLeod's Umpqua Expedition along with Michel Ouamtanie. He appears in the records on Monday, December 25th and Tuesday, December 26th 1826 in the following entries: "...one of our party little Michel missing, having returned on the way for some thing, he forgot come night coming on he could not find his way," and on the following day, "Fine weather, as soon as day dawned, we got in motion just at the moment, little Michel hove in sight" (HBRS XXIII:201).

PPS: HBRS XXIII, p. 201

Otoetanie, Michel (c. 1792 - 1833) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: Lower Canada [Quebec] - c. 1792

Death: Fort Vancouver, Washington Territory - April 17, 1833

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1821 - 1824); Bowsman, Columbia Department (1824 - 1825);

Bowsman, Snake Party (1825 - 1826); Bowsman, South Party (1826 - 1827); Boule, York Factory Express (HBC) (1827 - 1828); Bowsman, South Party (1828 - 1830); Trapper, South Party (1830 - 1831); Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1831 - 1832); Bowsman and trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1832 - 1833).

Iroquois Michel Otoetanie joined the fur trade around 1815 and went to the Columbia in 1821. He became a freeman in 1829. He died April 17, 1833 and his account with the Company was closed in 1835.

PS: HBCA YFASA 1-7, 9, 11-13; FtVanASA 1-2; YFDS 2a-2b, 3b, 4b-5b; HBCA B.239/x/2. p. 187; B.223/d/105a., p. 180
PPS: HBRS XXIII, p. 158, 158n; E. Ermatinger, p. 105, 113

Otokichi (c. 1820 - 1867) (Japanese)

Birth: Japan - c. 1820

Death: Singapore - January 1867

Other

N/A Pupil, Fort Vancouver (1834).

Otokichi, the youngest crew member of a marooned Japanese coastal trading vessel which drifted from Japan to North America, had a life which extended far beyond the fur trade with which he came in contact in 1834. After drifting to Cape Flattery, he became a slave of the Makah natives, was rescued by the Hudson's Bay Company and eventually ended up in China. (For the story of his shipwreck, enslavement on the Northwest Coast, subsequent rescue, early life in China, and the first attempt to return to Japan, see the parallel adventures of fellow crew member Iwakichi.)

After Otokichi returned to China following his unsuccessful attempt to repatriate to Japan, his life took a different direction from that of his fellow crew members Iwakichi and Kyukichi who had become interpreters in Hong Kong. Instead, Otokichi went to Shanghai where he worked for the large British trading firm, Dent and Company, and may have married a woman who was a fellow employee of the same company. Because of his knowledge of the Japanese language, Otokichi joined HMS Mariner (Commander Mathison) for a second voyage to Japan as interpreter in May 1849, but they were forced to leave the area. Otokichi returned to Shanghai where he continued to work for Dent and Company and helped other castaway Japanese get jobs. He settled one group who had arrived in Shanghai on Commodore Perry's flagship, the Susquehanna, thus depriving Perry of his human bargaining chips to open Japan to trade. When Perry demanded the Japanese back, Otokichi dispersed the Japanese sailors in taverns and brothels all over the city until Perry had sailed. Most of these castaways eventually returned to Japan.

In 1854 Otokichi returned to Japan as interpreter aboard the HMS Winchester ostensibly to negotiate a military treaty. This time he did not hide his heritage as he did not the previous voyage but his imperfect English and non-formal Japanese caused him to negotiate a commercial rather than military treaty, unexpectedly opening several Japanese ports to British trade. Otokichi was invited to stay in Japan but chose to go back to Shanghai to be with his new family.

Some time during the 1850s, Otokichi's wife died of an illness and he lived with an Indian woman from Singapore. Early in 1862, he and his family left Shanghai for Singapore, possibly to escape the last of the Taiping Rebellions which had then extended to Shanghai. That same year, when a delegation of fifty-two Japanese officials passed through Singapore to establish a commercial embassy in Europe, Otokichi guided the group, who were amazed to find that they were not the first to leave Japan. When a smaller group of dignitaries passed through Singapore a few months later, one member Fuchibe Tokuzo noted Otokichi in his rented bungalow:

As we passed by Otokichi's house, we stopped in for a rest. His wife appeared and we met her, but the children were asleep. All the household furnishings, the plates and cups, etc., were fresh and clean. He has a horse cart and a two-story house with a garden. The garden is spacious with trees and flowers growing in it. He has a young boy and girl for servants (Fuchibe, p. 18-19).

Another member of the delegation was Moriyama Einosuke who had learned his English from Ranald McDonald. Ranald, who as a nine year old had departed Fort Vancouver for Red River in 1834 just before the Japanese arrived, was nonetheless inspired by the story of Otokichi and his two fellow Japanese. All four had studied in the Fort Vancouver school.

In January 1867, Otokichi died in a sanitarium located in a Singaporean coconut plantation. His grave was located in February 2004, his body was cremated, and the following year half of his ashes were returned to Onoura, Japan, his hometown.

PS: HBCA FtVanCB 10, John McLoughlin's May 18, 1834 letter to Governor & Committee, fo. 15d; FtVanCB 10, John McLoughlin's Nov. 18, 1834 letter to Governor & Council, fos. 4-6; ShMiscPap 14, fo. 35d PPS: Dickey SS: R. MacDonald; Kohl, p. 20-28; the first attempted return to Japan found in E. W. King's "Notes on the Voyage of the Morrison from Canton to Japan," The Claims of Japan and Malasia Upon Christendom, Exhibited in Notes of Voyages Made in 1837, New York, 1839; S. Wells Williams, "Narrative of a Voyage of the Ship Morrison," Chinese Repository, vol. 6, 1837, 209-29, 353-80; Gutzlaff's report of the voyage the voyage is found in Foreign Office, China Correspondence, vol. 21, Elliot to Foreign Office, No. 58, Enc. 3, Sept. 4, 1837, Public Records Office [PRO], London; the second return to Japan found in "Journal of Occurrences: H.M.B.S. Mariner's Visit to Japan," Chinese Repository, vol. 19, #510 and Alfred Laurence Halloran's Wae Yang Jin: Eight Month's Journal Kept on Board One of Her Majesty's Sloops of War During Visits to Loochoo, Japan, and Pootoo, London, 1856, p. 74; Singapore encounter in Tokuzo Fuchibe's, "Okonikki" [Journal of a trip to Europe] in Kengai shisetsu nikki sanshu [An anthology of diaries of a mission sent abroad], ed., Nihon Shiseki Kyokai, vol 98, 1972, pp. 18-19]

Ottehoh (fl. 1817 - 1839) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: Hawaiian Islands - 1798

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia River (1817 - 1823); Untraced vocation, Fort George [Astoria] (1823 - 1825); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1825 - 1826); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1829); Scullion, Fort Vancouver (1829 - 1831); Passenger, Ganymede (barque) (1831); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1832 - 1833); Middleman? (high wage), Fort Simpson (1833 - 1834); Middleman? (high wage), Fort McLoughlin (1834 - 1835); Middleman, Fort McLoughlin (1835 - 1839); Passenger, Vancouver (barque) (1839).

Ottehoh joined the fur trade around 1817 from Oahu and worked almost continuously for over twenty years for the HBC. During this time he appears to have been, in part, a dishwasher. He was discharged from the Columbia on November 1, 1831, and returned to Oahu, sailing on the Ganymede. Less than a year later, on September 5, 1832, he was rehired in Oahu to work in the Columbia once again. He was finally discharged, likely in Oahu, on July 26, 1839.

No family has been located.

PS: HBCA YFASA 2-7, 9, 11-14, 19; FtGeo[Ast]AB 11-12; YFDS 2a, 3a-3b, 4b-7, 10; FtVanASA 1-6 PPS: McLoughlin, p. 230

Otto, John (fl. 1816) (Undetermined origin)

Maritime employee

NWC Seaman, Columbia (schooner) (1816).

John Otto worked as a seaman on the NWC schooner Columbia for two months in 1816, the same year it was in both Macao and the Northwest coast. He has not subsequently been traced.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 1

Ouamtany, Michel (Old Michel) [variation: Ouamtanie, Ouantane] (c. 1775 - 1828) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: Lower Canada [Quebec] - c. 1775

Death: Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - June 26, 1828

Fur trade employee

NWC Untraced vocation, Pacific slopes (1816); HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1821 - 1824); Bowsman, Columbia Department (1824 - 1826); Bowsman, McLeod's Umpqua Expedition (1826 - 1827); Bowsman, Fort Vancouver (1827 - 1828).

Michel Ouamtany entered the fur trade, most likely with the NWC, around 1798 and was sometimes referred to as Old Michel. He was first recorded on the Pacific slopes in 1816 but may have arrived earlier and most likely worked the brigade to Montreal. He joined the HBC in 1821 and, as next to nothing was written of him or the quality his work, only a small glimpse was provided on May 1826, when the fifty-year old bowsman was employed covering saddles with skins on McLeod's expedition. Old Michel died June 26, 1828 of unstated causes at Fort Vancouver at the age of fifty-three.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 1; HBCA YFASA 1-8; FtVanAB 10, 19; FtVanASA 1; FtVanPJ 2; YFDS 2a, 3a

Ouamtany, Thomas [variation: Tomo, Tomma, Thomas, Tomo the Interpreter, One-arm Tomo Ouamtany, Cluamtany] (c. 1824 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Columbia Department, Pacific Northwest (to an Iroquois father and Chinook mother)

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Victoria (1843 - 1845); Interpreter, Fort Victoria (1845 - 1847); Interpreter, Fort Victoria (1847 - 1848); Carpenter, Fort Victoria (1847 - 1848); Interpreter, Fort Victoria (1848 - 1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1851 - 1854); Interpreter, Nanaimo (1856 - 1858).

Thomas Ouamtany appears to have joined the HBC around 1843 from Red River and may be the son of Michel Ouamtany. If so, Thomas had probably been sent to Red River by the HBC when his father died at Fort Vancouver in 1828. When Thomas returned to the coast, he spent the majority of his career at Fort Victoria acting as interpreter, and in 1851, was a member of a party investigating reports of coal deposits at Cowichan. He began work at Nanaimo on January 31, 1856 for general work and served as an interpreter for at least one of Adam Grant Horne's expeditions; he remained on the books, however, until 1858, probably doing assorted jobs. In spite of having only one arm, (Bate, p. 3) which had been severed at the shoulder, (Crt-Gaols, p. 56) Ouamtany gained a reputation of being a very handy man with an axe and of being a leader amongst the Iroquois. As well, he was given the name "One Arm Tomo" to distinguish himself from the full blooded Iroquois, Thomas Sagoyawatha, or "Big Tomo", also working in the area. Because of Ouamtany's ability with languages, he was often called upon when a reliable competent interpreter was needed and, at times had to travel back to Victoria to interpret for court cases. In 1863 he was accused of having murdered his wife but was acquitted (Evening Express) and in May 1867, was imprisoned for three months for "selling spirits to Indians" (Crt-Gaols, p. 56). He has not been subsequently traced.

Thomas Ouamtany had one recorded wife and child. On February 17, 1850 at Fort Victoria, he married Eugenie (?-?) a Cowichan native. On November 1, 1850 when their child, Elisa (?-bap.1850-?) was baptised, the mother was listed as Emilie (?-?) of unknown origin. Eugenie and Emilie were likely one and the same.

PS: HBCA YFASA 23-32; FtVicASA 1-4, 7; BCA NanJ 1; BCCR StAndC; The Daily Evening Express, Aug. 6, 1863; BCGR-CrtR-Gaols PPS: HBRs XXXII, p. 180 SS: Bate, p. 3

Oui, Patrick (fl. 1812 - 1814) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

PFC Passenger, Beaver (ship) (1811); Labourer, Fort George [Astoria] (1814).

Just how the Hawaiian Patrick Oui secured a French name has not been traced, but he probably arrived on the PFC vessel Beaver in May 1812. He was on record on April 4, 1814 as being prepared to work for the NWC through the summer at Fort George [Astoria].

PPS: ChSoc LVII, p. 711

Ouimette, Ignace (c. 1821 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Rigaud, Lower Canada - c. 1821

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1840 - 1842).

Ignace Ouimette joined the HBC from Rigaud in 1839. His contract ended in 1842 and in that spring or summer he returned east of the Rockies to Canada.

PS: HBCA YFASA 19-21; FtVanASA 6-7

Oullet, Joseph [variation: Ouellet] (fl. 1850 - 1852) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1850 - 1851); Middleman, New Caledonia (1851 - 1852).

Joseph Oullet worked briefly for the HBC in the Columbia/New Caledonia area until outfit 1851-1852 when he was transferred to Athabasca.

PS: HBCA YFASA 30-32; YFDS 22; FtVicASA 1-3

Oulu (fl. 1839 - 1846) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1845).

Oulu joined the HBC from Oahu in 1839. His contract ended in 1843 but his last day of work was November 10, 1842, at which point he returned to Oahu. However, he was re-engaged on a contract that ended in 1846. He worked until December 10, 1845, again at Fort Vancouver, at which point he again returned to Oahu, where he received his final HBC wages.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22, 24-25; FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 13, 16; SandIsAB 5

Outred, Aaron (c. 1810 - ?) (British)

Birth: possibly in or near Northfleet, Kent, England - c. 1810 (born to Aaron Outred and Mary Emary)

Maritime employee

HBC Steward, Columbia (barque) (1835 - 1836); Ordinary seaman, Columbia (barque) (1836 - 1837).

Aaron Outred, who appears to have been raised near Gravesend, joined the HBC in London on August 29, 1835, as a steward for five years after having sailed on the merchant vessel Penyardpark. He sailed to the Northwest Coast on the Columbia but when the vessel reached the Columbia River on March 20, 1836, Outred was demoted as he was "no longer fit to be steward through drunkenness and misconduct" (log of Columbia, 1, fo. 99). He continued with the vessel as it went back and forth to the Sandwich Islands and arrived back in England on May 10, 1837.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMisPap 4a; log of Columbia 1; FtVanASA 3; YFASA 16; IGI file

Ouvre, Jean Baptiste [standard: Ouvré] (c. 1791 - c. 1849) (Canadian: French)

Birth: Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1791

Death: probably Pacific Northwest - c. 1849

Fur trade employee

PFC Milieu, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (1810 - 1812); Milieu, Flathead Post [Fort Connah, Saleesh House] (October 13, 1813); Milieu, Fort George [Astoria] (winter 1813 - 1814); NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1814 - 1821); HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1821 - 1824); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (1824 - 1825); Middleman, Columbia Department (1825 - 1826); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1829); Cook, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1829); PFC Middleman, Columbia Department (1829 - 1830); HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1830 - 1833); Untraced vocation, Fort Langley (1833 - 1834); Untraced vocation, Fort Nisqually (1833); Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1834 - 1842); Cook, Fort Nisqually (1834 - 1842); Interpreter, Fort Nisqually (1834 - 1842); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1842 - 1843).

Jean Baptiste Ouvré had a long career in the fur trade. Ouvre joined Wilson Price Hunt's PFC overland expedition at Mackinac around August 2, 1810, crossed over the Continental Divide in late summer 1811 and arrived at Astoria on February 19, 1812. On October 20, 1813, when the PFC was taken over by the NWC he entered the service of the latter, staying with it in the Columbia Department until it was in turn taken over by the HBC in 1821. From that point on, he worked as a middleman and interpreter until the 1840s, with the exception of 1828-1829, when he took on cook's duties. He was rarely mentioned in early journals of the time but, on October 6, 1829, J. W. Dease mentioned in his diary that Ouvre had "brought from his division 133 beaver, 44 others." However, he frequently appeared in the Fort Nisqually journals doing general labouring tasks, cooking and setting out on trading excursions around the Puget Sound area, no doubt because of his lengthy experience in the fur trade. For example, on December 13, 1833, he was sent by William F. Tolmie with goods to "break ground at Whidbey's island" (Dickey) in the hopes of establishing a post there but he was not successful. In one February 1836 entry, Ouvre, almost out of character, went off on a tour of pleasure to deliver a letter but returned, three days later, having lost the letters, given away his capote and wrapped in a blanket. By 1837, he appeared to be living with his family in a house, possibly outside the palisades and, by November 1838, was cooking for Tolmie's wife. He appears to have retired around 1842 and between 1843-1847 he appears on the books with movement on his account indicating he was still alive or that his family was working his account.

Jean Baptiste Ouvré appears to have had two wives and four children. On July 15, 1838, around the Fort Vancouver area, the Anglican minister, Herbert Beaver, baptised Marianne (?-1838-?) whose mother was Angeline. Somewhere between August 30 and September 12, 1839, at Fort Nisqually, the Catholic priests married Ouvre to Jany Simpson, Teoutit, Nisqually. Their children were Louise (c.1834-?), Thérèse (c.1836-?) and Jean Baptiste (1839-?).

Ouvre's River [Duwamish River] was named after J. B. Ouvre.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10; HBCA NWCAB 9, 10; HBCA YFASA 1-2, 4-9, 11-15, 19-20, 22-26; FtGeo[Ast]AB 12; YFDS 2a, 3a, 4a-7; FtVanAB 10, 19; FtVanASA 1-6; HBCABio; BCA BCCR CCCath PPS: K. W. Porter, Roll of Overland, p. 110; Dickey; CCR 1a

See Also: Gregoire, Antoine (Son-in-Law); Lebrun, Hercule (Son-in-Law)

Overall, John (fl. 1826 - 1828) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Boy, William & Ann (brig) (1826 - 1828).

John Overall shipped on with the HBC in London in September 1826 and sailed to the coast on a supply voyage of the William & Ann. The vessel did no coastal trading and it was an uneventful voyage overall except that one of the two ship's boys (the other being Richard Green) accidentally broke the ship's barometer on April 20, 1827 (log of William & Ann, fo. 96). Overall arrived back in London with the vessel in February 1828.

PS: HBCA log of William & Ann 4

Owtii (fl. 1844) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1844).

Owtii was likely hired by the HBC in Oahu in 1844. He worked at Fort Vancouver from July 12 to November 12, 1844, whereupon he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24; YFDS 15

Oxley, John (fl. 1841 - 1845) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime officer

HBC 2nd mate, Vancouver (barque) (1841 - 1844).

John Oxley joined the HBC as a ship's officer in London on August 26, 1841 and sailed to the coast on the barque Vancouver. After arriving at Fort Vancouver on April 14, 1842, he sailed around to several coastal posts for the following year; however, by the end of 1843, Oxley was showing rebellion against his superiors. In November 1843 he carelessly lost overboard the tiller and rudder of an onboard vessel and, on the way to the Sandwich Islands, he was lax about taking in the sails and openly rebelled against the captain and 1st mate. As a result, he was sent to his cabin off duty and, on December 27, 1843, was discharged at Oahu, expressing no intention of returning to England soon. Before his discharge, he signed over his entire account to his mother, Harriet, who without John's knowledge had died some months before. (His aunt, Mary Ann Groves, his mother's executor, later managed to collect the sum from the HBC London office.) John likely soon shipped out on another unnamed vessel and by June 1845 was back in London where he signed an approval from his salary to be transferred to his aunt.

Two undelivered 1843 letters from an urbane brother written from The Baltic Coffee House in London and one 1844 letter from an aunt in Bermonsey announcing the death of his mother, now rest at the HBCA.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 11; FtVanASA 7-8; YFASA 22-23; log of Vancouver [3], 1; MisI 5 PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 171-79

Pa-ay-lay (fl. 1830 - 1850) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1833); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1833 - 1836); Middleman, South Party (1836 - 1838); PSAC Middleman, Cowlitz Farm (1838 - 1841); HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1843); PSAC Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1843 - 1844); HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1845); Boute, Fort Vancouver (1845 - 1846); Steersman, Fort Vancouver (1846 - 1849); Passenger, Columbia (barque) (1849); Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1850).

Pa-ay-lay joined the HBC from Oahu in 1830 and worked for it continuously for almost twenty years. After his arrival in the Columbia, he was taken north where he participated in the construction of Fort Simpson [Nass] on the Nass River. Afterwards he worked at or around Fort Vancouver. His contract was to end in 1850, and he left for Oahu on October 31, 1849 aboard the barque Columbia. He was paid in Honolulu, but then rejoined the Cowlitz to sail back to the coast, perhaps because of a family he had formed there. He has not been traced further, nor has any family.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2-7; YFDS 4a-7, 16-21; PSACAB 3; YFASA 11-15; 19-20, 22-29; SandIsAB 10

Pacquin, Louis [variation: Paquin] (fl. 1813 - 1814) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

NWC Spokane House & Columbia River (1811 - 1812) (with David Thompson); Gouvernail, Fort George [Astoria] (1813 - 1814).

Louis Pacquin was with David Thompson in 1811-1812, possibly as a freeman. He may have been part of the large group that made their way up the Missouri around 1803, eventually settling with the Flathead. In June 1811 at a rapid of the Salseesh River, he lost his wife, child and property. Other casualties were François Desjarlais, his wife and four children. Louis re-contracted with the NWC in the Columbia on a two year contract as a gouvernail in 1812 and was last traced at Fort George [Astoria] in 1814.

The names of Pacquin's family have not been traced.

PS: OA Thompson's Journals; HBCA NWCAB 10

Paget (Basteny), Antoine [variation: Paquet (Bostony)] (c. 1753 - ?) (Canadian: French or Mixed descent)

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

HBC Milieu, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1821 - 1822); NWC Trapper, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1821 - 1822); HBC Milieu, Columbia Department (1822 - 1823); Trapper, Snake Party (1824 - 1825).

Antoine Paget worked for the NWC and continued his employment with the HBC in 1821. In 1823, when he was "on the wrong side of 70", (Ross, p. 241) he participated in the burning of a Piegan fort in revenge for the death of Michel Bourdon. On February 10, 1824, he joined Alexander Ross' nine month Snake Party trapping expedition from Prairie de Cheveaux, near Flathead Post, as a freeman trapper in charge of a lodge of two people. At this point he must have been quite old for Ross thought that he was not worth equipping. Also, by March 30, 1824, he was lagging behind the rest of the party and so he was left by the party while it crossed the mountains. By April 18, however, it was determined that Paget had deserted. He must have returned to Flathead Post on his own for, by December 20, 1824, he joined Peter Skene Ogden for his 1824-1825 expedition into the Snake Country.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 9; HBCA FtGeoAC 4, 10; SnkCoPJ 1, 2 SS: A. Ross, The Fur Hunters, p. 241

Paget, Charles (fl. 1821 - 1822) (Undetermined origin)Fur trade employee

HBC Milieu, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822).

Charles Paget was a member of a large group of NWC employees which transferred to the HBC in 1821 at the time of coalition.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 9; YFASA 1

Pahwack, Raccoon (fl. 1817 - 1824) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands - 1796

Death: possibly Columbia Department, Pacific Northwest - 1824

Fur trade employee

NWC Milieu, Columbia Department (1817 - 1822); HBC Milieu, Fort Okanagan (spring 1822); Milieu, Columbia Department (1822 - 1825).

Raccoon Pahwack, who joined the fur trade in 1817 at just over twenty years of age, worked for the NWC and continued his employment with the HBC. Although he was tracked working in the spring of 1822 at the interior post of Okanagan, he may have worked there for a longer period. He may have died in 1824.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 9; FtGeo[Ast]AB 4; YFASA 1a-3a, 4a

Pakee [1] [variation: Packee] (fl. 1830 - 1836) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1835); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1835 - 1836).

Pakee joined the HBC from Oahu around 1830. After his arrival on the Northwest Coast, he headed north, where he was in on the construction of the first Fort Simpson Nass River site; he subsequently took part in its dismantling in 1834. At that time, in August, 1834, he fell from the gallery, fracturing his skull. Dr. William Fraser Tolmie rushed to the fort on the brig Dryad with surgical instruments in hand, but he found that Pakee had only stunned himself severely (Tolmie, p. 290) and consequently left after a few days of observation. Pakee was brought to the new Simpson site on September 1, 1834, where he was to continue his work, but his injury may have been more severe than Tolmie diagnosed, for he received only partial wages for outfit 1834-1835. During that same outfit, the period of moving the fort, fellow Sandwich Islanders, Jemmy Mahoy and Jem Mamuka were likewise disabled. Pakee worked in the Columbia until about 1836, at which point he likely returned to the Sandwich Islands.

Pakee [1] and an unknown Chinook woman were the parents of Thomas Pakee (1829-39).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; YFDS 4a-5c; YFASA 11-14; FtSimp[N]PJ 3 PPS: W. F. Tolmie, p. 290; D. Lee & Frost, p. 169

Pakee [2] (fl. 1840 - 1859) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: Hawaiian Islands - 1819

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1842); Labourer, Snake Party (1842 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Nez Percés (1843 - 1845); Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1845); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1845 - 1850); Labourer, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1850 - 1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1851 - 1852); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1852 - 1853); Labourer, Belle Vue Sheep Farm (1858 - 1859).

Pakee [2] joined the HBC in 1840 in Oahu. Pakee [2] worked at a variety of posts and on coastal shipping. In April 1850 he deserted with three other Hawaiians, but must have soon returned to work. In 1853 he joined the colonial militia, the Voltigeurs, and stayed with this force until it was disbanded in 1858 when he took employment at the HBC San Juan Island sheep farm. He returned to Victoria and then Nanaimo. On November 7, 1865, a grey haired, five foot ten inch [178 cm] forty-six year old Hawaiian, "Parkee" was sentenced in Nanaimo [BC] to three months hard labour for selling spirits to the Indians. At that time, Pakee could neither read nor write, nor did he profess to subscribe to any Western religion.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-32; FtVanASA 6-7; log of Vancouver [3] 2; FtVicASA 1- 2; BelleVuePJ 2; BCA BCGR-Crt-Gaol
PPS: S. A. Anderson, The Physical Structure, p. 166-185; Dickey

Pakeeknaak, Thomas (fl. 1814) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

NWC Labourer, Fort George [Astoria] (1814).

Thomas Pakeeknaak is on record on April 4, 1814 as being prepared to work for the NWC through the summer at Fort George [formerly Astoria].

PPS: ChSoc LVII, p. 711

Pakeokeo (fl. 1845 - 1849) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Nez Perces (1845 - 1848); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1848 - 1849); Passenger, Columbia (barque) (1849).

Pakeokeo joined the HBC from Oahu on May 7, 1845 and worked principally at Fort Nez Perces as a labourer. His contract was to have ended in 1850 but on October 31, 1849, he returned to Oahu aboard the barque Columbia and was paid his final wages.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 3, 10; YFASA 25-29; YFDS 21

Paledin [variation: Padulie] (fl. 1850) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1850).

Paledin, whose name changed considerably according to the recorder, shipped on board the HBC vessel Cowlitz in February 1850 at Honolulu and sailed to the Northwest Coast on a voyage on which the captain was unhappy with the performance of the Hawaiians. Paledin and Kula both rebelled on August 27, as their contract was up, and did not return with the rest of the crew to the vessel.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 10; log of Cowlitz 8

Palmer, George (fl. 1854 - 1855) (West Indian and African)

Birth: West Indies, Caribbean

Fur trade employee

PSAC Cook, Fort Nisqually (1854).

George Palmer was engaged as a cook at Fort Nisqually in September 27, 1854 to work for PSAC. Two months later, on December 5, he was caught selling liquor to the Indians and taken to the guard house at nearby Fort Steilacoom where he was confined.

PPS: Dickey SS: S. A. Anderson, The Physical Structure, p. 179-80

Palmer, Joseph (? - 1828) (probably American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Death: Umpqua River region [Smith River], Oregon Territory - July 14, 1828

Free trader

SJ & S Trapper, Jedediah Smith Southwest Expedition (1827 - 1828).

Joseph Palmer was a trapper on Jedediah Smith's southwest expedition of 1826-1828. He first appeared on record at the 1827 Rendezvous and left with Smith in July, heading south into California. On the way, they were attacked by Mojaves, who killed eleven of the expedition. Palmer was saved by being on a raft at the time. After a great deal of difficulty with Spanish authorities in California, the expedition headed north. In an area just north of the Umpqua River [Oregon], just after Smith set out to scout out a route to travel, the natives killed all the expedition members in camp including Palmer, except one, who managed to escape.

PPS: HBRS X, p. 61 SS: Carter, "Jedediah Smith", p. 97-104

Palupalu (fl. 1840 - 1843) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1841); PSAC Middleman, Cowlitz Farm (1841 - 1842); Labourer, Cowlitz Farm (1842 - 1843).

Palupalu joined the HBC in 1840 from Oahu and began his work at Fort Vancouver on July 1 of that year. He worked at Fort Vancouver and the Cowlitz farm until November 15, 1843, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-23; YFDS 11, 14; FtVanASA 6-7

Pambrun, Alexander (c. 1829 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: New Caledonia, British Columbia - c. 1829 (born to Pierre Chrysologue Pambrun and Catherine Humperville)

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Columbia Department general charges (1845 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1846 - 1848).

A sixteen year old Alexander Pambrun joined the HBC at Fort Vancouver at July 1, 1845 on a three-year contract. He may have worked casually there between 1848-1851.

PS: HBCA YFASA 25-30; YFDS 16

See Also: Pambrun, Pierre Chrysologue (Father); Pambrun, Thomas (Brother); Pambrun, Andrew Dominique (Brother)

Pambrun, Andrew Dominique [variation: André] (c. 1822 - 1895) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Cumberland House [Saskatchewan] - c. 1822 (born to Pierre Chrysologue Pambrun and Catherine Humperville)

Death: probably Walla Walla, Washington - 1895

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver sales shop (1851 - 1852); Clerk in charge, Fort Nez Percés (1852 - 1854); Clerk, Fort Nez Percés (1854 - 1855).

Born into the fur trade, Andrew Dominique Pambrun was sent in 1831 to be educated at the Red River Settlement. On January 2, 1851, as a school teacher now living at the residence of brother-in-law Dr. Forbes Barclay, Pambrun posted an advertisement in The Oregon City Spectator:

Day School
House next to Post Office
Reading, writing, spelling, arithmetic, book-keeping, different branches of mathematics, English grammar, geography, French and drawing, also an evening school from 6 o'clock to 8 P.M. for the benefit of young men who may be unable to attend during the day.
A. D. Pambrun Residence at Dr. Barclay's"

Later that year, on July 1, he entered the service of the HBC and began work at the Fort Vancouver sales shop. He retired in 1855 to a piece of land and may have been at the Fraser River gold fields in 1859-1860. He was appointed interpreter by Governor Stevens. In his later years, he wrote Sixty Years on the Frontier in the Pacific Northwest.

Andrew Pambrun had one wife and apparently thirteen children. In 1843 he married Maria (Mary) Cook (c.1824-1912) and later the married couple moved west to live. Five of their recorded children were Catherine (1855-?), Jeremiah (c.1860-?), James (?-?), Mary Angelique (c.1867-?) and Julius Washington (1869-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 31-32; FtVanASA 9-11; YFDS 22; HBCABio; OHS Spectator, January 2, 1851 PPS: Pambrun PPS: CCR 1a, 7a, 7b, 7c

See Also: Pambrun, Pierre Chrysologue (Father); Pambrun, Alexander (Brother); Pambrun, Thomas (Brother)

Pambrun, Pierre Chrysologue (1792 - 1841) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Quebec City, Lower Canada - December 17, 1792

Death: Walla Walla [Washington] - May 15, 1841

Fur trade officer

HBC Clerk, Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs] (1824 - 1825); Clerk, Fort St. James (1825); Clerk, New Caledonia (1825 - 1829); Clerk in charge, Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs] (1830 - 1831); Clerk, Fort Vancouver general charges (1831 - 1832); Clerk, Fort Nez Percés (1831 - 1833); Clerk in charge, Fort Nez Percés (1833 - 1840); Chief Trader, Fort Nez Percés (1840 - 1841).

Pierre Chrysologue Pambrun was one of the few French Canadians to achieve the rank of Chief Trader. He served in the War of 1812 and reached the rank of lieutenant in the French Canadian Voltigeur regiment of the British army. After he joined the HBC in 1815, he was witness to, and gave evidence at the trials of the "Seven Oaks Massacre" in Red River, Montreal and London (Narrative, p. 43-55). When he returned in outfit 1819-1820, he became a clerk in three more posts and, in 1831, he was posted to the Columbia District. George Simpson admired him for his "pluck" (HBRS XXX 224) and, although he had reservations about his business abilities, saw that he became Chief Trader in 1839. Pambrun gained a reputation, particularly among American travellers, of hospitality and helpfulness. He died in the Walla Walla area as a result of "being injured by the raised pommel of his Spanish saddle" (Simpson, p. 160) when he fell from his horse and was buried at Fort Vancouver almost three years later on March 9, 1844.

P. C. Pambrun's estate was carried into the 1860s showing varying amounts.

He formalized his marriage to Catherine (Kitty) Humpherville, daughter of Thomas Humpherville and Anna Turner, on December 8, 1838. Their children were André/Andrew Dominique (c.1821-95), Pierre II (1823-1902), Marie, (1826-90), Alexander (c.1829-1912), Thomas (1832-96), Adele/Ada (c.1835-?), Henriette (1837-1916), Jean Baptiste/John (1839-?), and Sara (1841-44).

Pierre II stayed in Manitoba and became involved in the Riel Rebellion, losing an arm in the process.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 4-6, 8-9, 11-15, 17-19; FtStJmsRD 2; FtVanASA 1-5; YFDS 3a, 4a, 5c, 7; Narrative of John Pritchard, p. 43-45; SimpsonCB; Wills; HBCABio; BCA CCCath PPS: G. Simpson, p. 160; HBRS IV, p. 351-52; HBRS XXX, p. 224n; CCR 1a, 1b; HBRS XXII, p. 490

See Also: Pambrun, Thomas (Son); Pambrun, Alexander (Son); Pambrun, Andrew Dominique (Son)

Pambrun, Thomas (c. 1832 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: New Caledonia [British Columbia] - c. 1832 (born to Pierre Chrysologue Pambrun and Catherine Humpherville)

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1846 - 1849); Apprentice, Fort Vancouver depot (1849 - 1851); Labourer, Snake Country (1851 - 1852); Store assistant, Snake Country (1852 - 1853); Labourer, Snake Country (1853).

Thomas Pambrun, son of P. C. Pambrun, inherited two attributes from his family - curls and a gift for music (CCR 1, A-63). He was hired at Fort Vancouver by the HBC in 1846 and worked at Fort Vancouver until October 6, 1851, when he began worked in the Snake Country. He was hired under a seven-year apprenticeship and appears to have served his apprenticeship before moving on. He retired in 1853. According to the Catholic records, he later worked on the Beaverhead ranch in Montana.

Thomas Pambrun had two wives, and two step-children. His first wife was a Shoshone, who brought sons Francis and John into the marriage. His second wife was Jane Tenday, daughter of Chief Tenday of the Lemhi Tribe (CCR 1, A-63).

PS: HBCA YFASA 26-32; YFDS 17; FtVanASA 9-10 PPS: CCR 1a, 1b

See Also: Pambrun, Pierre Chrysologue (Father); Pambrun, Alexander (Brother); Pambrun, Andrew Dominique (Brother)

Pansonault, Jos. B. (fl. 1821) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Milieu, Columbia Department (1821).

Jos. B. Pansonault was a member of a large group of NWC employees who transferred to the HBC in 1821 but did not appear to work further in the Columbia.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 9

Paow, Dick (fl. 1811 - 1813) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

PFC Labourer, Tonquin (ship) (1811); Labourer, Fort George [Astoria] (1811 - 1813).

Dick Paow joined the crew of the Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn] as a labourer around February 21, 1811 when the vessel, which was operated by the PFC, stopped at Oahu and took on a complement of twelve Sandwich Islanders. One month later, on March 22, the Tonquin arrived at the mouth of the Columbia, and on April 12 Dick was noted as helping to unload the vessel. He did a variety of jobs but by 1813 was having bouts of both scurvy and (possibly) venereal disease. By May, he appears to have recovered and by November, moved into a newly completed house along with Robert Stuart, Angus Bethune and Alexander Henry.

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria

Paparee, Jem [variation: Gem Papara] (fl. 1832 - 1849) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: probably Fort Vancouver, Oregon Territory - June 1849

Fur trade employee

HBC Seaman, Fort Simpson naval service (1832 - 1835); Middleman, Snake Party (1835 - 1838); Middleman, Snake Party (1838 - 1839); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1839); Middleman, South Party (1839 - 1840); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1840 - 1841); Working passenger, Cowlitz (barque) (1841); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1849).

Jem Paparee joined the HBC in Oahu on September 6, 1832 for work in the Columbia. After three years in coastal shipping, he became a member of various overland parties involved in transporting the members of the Snake Parties to and from Fort Vancouver. In June 1841, he worked his passage back to Oahu on the Cowlitz but returned to the coast and continued to work for the Company. He died in 1849 of unstated causes.

Jem Paparee's family, if any, has not been traced.

PS: HBCA YFDS 5a-7, 9, 21; YFASA 12-15, 19-20, 22-29; FtSim[N]P] 3; FtVanASA 3-6; log of Cowlitz 1

Paylay, Alexander [variation: Pappley, Papley] (c. 1837 - 1884) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: Stromness, Orkney - c. 1837

Death: Nanaimo, British Columbia - March 9, 1884

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Norman Morison (barque) (1851); Sponsored settler, Fort Victoria general charges (1851 - 1852); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1852 - 1853); Labourer, Nanaimo (1853 - 1884).

In 1851 a young eighteen year old Alexander Paylay, whose name reveals Orcadian roots, sailed to the colony of Vancouver Island as an agricultural labourer aboard the HBC chartered ship, Norman Morison. After working at a variety of tasks at Fort Victoria for an outfit, he became a woodcutter on the HBC steamer Beaver, which supplied coastal forts and brought in furs from remote points. On September 5, 1853, he became ill and had to be landed at the port of Nanaimo where he recuperated and where he was to spend the rest of his life. In this new coal mining city, he became a labourer working with stonemason William Isbister and blacksmith George Rich on a variety of jobs related to the coal mining operations there. He continued work in Nanaimo with the Vancouver Coal Company (after the HBC sold its interests) as pithead man and weighman until his death at the relatively young age of fifty-one years of age from inflammation of the lungs. Alexander died intestate and his brother, Joseph, arrived from Scotland the following month and administered his estate.

Although Alexander officially remained a bachelor throughout his life, he did have one child, Mary Ann Papley (1860-?) to an unnamed native woman.

PS: HBCA log of Norman Morison 2; YFASA 31-32; YFDS 22; FtVicASA 1; BCA NanCorr; NanJ; StPauNan; BCA BCGR-Nanaimo Free, Mar. 12, 1884, p. 3, Apr. 19, 1884, p. 3

Paquet, Andre [standard: André] (fl. 1821 - 1822) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1821 - 1822).

André Paquet is on record as working in New Caledonia for the HBC during outfit 1821-1822.

PS: HBCA YFASA 1

Paquet, Jean Baptiste [a] [variation: Paquete, Pacquette] (c. 1823 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1823 (born to Jean Baptiste and Marie Paquet)

Death: probably Washington Territory, United States

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1845 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1846); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1846 - 1851); Carpenter, Fort Nisqually (1846); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1851 - 1853); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1853 - 1854); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1854 - 1860).

Jean Baptiste Paquet [a] joined the HBC from Montreal in 1845 and spent the next fifteen years at coastal posts. For example, when he started, he did a variety of carpentry tasks at Fort Nisqually before taking the Beaver to his next posting at Fort Simpson. He appears to have retired in 1860 and settled at Port Crescent, Washington. His wife did not accompany him to Port Crescent (but this Daily News is not consistent with Baptisms).

Jean Baptiste Paquet had one wife and six recorded children. On May 7, 1861 at Victoria, he married Marie/Mary (?-?), Nass, Tsimshian. Their children were Louis (?-bap.1853-?), Elizabeth/Isabel (1855-?), an unnamed child (1857-57), Apoline/Aroline (?-bap.1859-?), Adeline (?-bap.1861-?), and Teresa (?-bap.1864-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 25-32; log of Beaver 2; FtVicASA 1-7, 9; FtSimp[N]PJ 8; HBCABio; BCA BCCR StAndC PPS: Dickey
SS: The Daily News, Port Angeles, Washington, April 25, 1982

Paquet, Jean Baptiste [b] [variation: Paquete, Pacquette] (c. 1830 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lachine, Lower Canada - c. 1830

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1846 - 1850); Boute, New Caledonia (1850 - 1851); Middleman, New Caledonia (1851 - 1852); Middleman, Thompson River (1853); Middleman, Thompson River (1853 - 1858); Middleman, Fort Alexandria (1853).

Jean Baptiste Paquet [b] joined the HBC from Lachine in 1846 and came west on a journey that exhausted the sixteen-year old. He retired around 1858 and later took up farming in the Fort Alexandria area.

Jean Baptiste Paquet [b] had one wife two recorded children. On May 5, 1872, at about the age of forty, he married Anne Yinsogh/Yinhotsagh (c.1849-?) at the St. Joseph's Mission at Williams Lake. Their recorded children were Charles (?-?) and Philomena (c.1865-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 26-31; FtAlexPJ 7, 9; YFDS 21; FtVicASA 1-6; HBCABio; OblH-Van MarStJoWL; BCA BCCR StPetStLk

Paraou [variation: Pareou] (fl. 1840 - 1845) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1845).

Paraou joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840 and worked at Fort Vancouver. His contract expired in 1843 after which he appeared to work as a freeman. He had lost an arm, apparently, while employed. Paraou worked until July 18, 1845, at which point he returned to Oahu where he received an extra gratuity from the HBC.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-25; FtVanASA 6-7; SandIsAB 5

Pareil, Pierre [variation: Pareille] (fl. 1810 - 1811) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly St. Sulpice, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Untraced vocation, Pacific Slopes (1810 - 1811) (with David Thompson); Untraced vocation, Boat Encampment [Canoe Camp] (1810 - 1811).

Pierre Pareil joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray] from St. Sulpice on January 13, 1809 for three years as a wintering middleman in the Northwest. He first appeared in David Thompson's journals in the Athabasca Pass on November 1, 1810 when he was sent back to return with provisions. By December 13, he was back in Athabasca Pass as he was sent out to hunt. He wintered at Canoe Camp (later, Boat Encampment, near the junction of Canoe and Flat Heart [Wood] Rivers with the Columbia) until April 17, 1811, when Parel, along with Joseph Cote and Rene Vallade, started out in a newly clinker built canoe, twenty-five feet [6.1 m] in length, with Thompson down the Columbia towards the Pacific. On July 3, 1811, the party had grown to eight men when the group struck out from Ilthkoyape (Kettle Falls) towards the Pacific. He likely made it to Pacific for on August 21, 1811, he was still with Thompson at Kettle Falls on the voyage upstream.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; UBC-Koer Thompson PPS: ChSoc XL, p. 327; Belyea, p. 119, 130-32, 139-42, 170

Parente, Louis Leandre [standard: Parentè] [variation: Parrent, Parent] (fl. 1849 - 1862) (probably Canadian: French)

Birth: Trois Rivieres, Lower Canada (born to Charles Parent and Rosalie Rousseau)

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1849 - 1850); Middleman or labourer, Fort Rupert (1850 - 1853); Middleman, Columbia Department (1853 - 1854); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1856 - 1860).

Louis Leandre Parentè joined the HBC in 1849 and appears to have spent his time in northern coastal posts. He worked until 1853-1854 when his first son was born and appears to have taken some time off. This may have been from venereal disease, which he had from at least 1855. Parent returned to work in 1854 and, by 1857, Parent, who could read some French, was attending William Duncan's Night School for men. He retired in 1860 carrying on transactions with the Company until 1862.

Louis Parent had one wife and three recorded children. Louis likely married his wife Catherine (?-?), Tongas on May 16, 1853 although he was listed as "Charles" in the church records. Their children were Louis (1853-?), François (1858-?) and Charles (?-bap.1860-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 29-32; FtVicASA 1, 4-9; FtSimp[N]PJ 8; BCA BCCR StAndC; UBC-SC Duncan

Paris, Joseph (fl. 1849) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Harpooner (barque) (1848 - 1849); Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1849).

Joseph Paris joined the HBC vessel Columbia at Fort Victoria on July 11, 1849 quite possibly from the HBC chartered vessel Harpooner as he joined on the same day as Frederick William Berwick. He was only on a short time for on August 27, he deserted at Sitka. Captain James Cooper reported it to the Governor Mikhail Dmit'rivich Teben'kov who said he would send him to one of the HBC forts or the British Consul at Honolulu (log of Columbia, fo. 125).

PS: HBCA log of Columbia 10

Pariseau, Pierre [variation: Parisseau] (c. 1820 - 1892) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Jerome or St. Pierre diocese of Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1820 (born to Baptiste Pariseau and Françoise Alarie)

Death: Umpqua River, Oregon - January 21, 1892

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1841 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Umpqua (1842 - 1844); Middleman, Fort Umpqua (1844 - 1847); Middleman, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1847 - 1849); Middleman, Fort Umpqua (1849).

Pierre Pariseau joined the HBC from the Montreal area in 1840 and likely worked his entire career at Fort Umpqua. He was likely passing through Champoege on May 2, 1843, for on that day he voted against the establishment of a Provisional Government. On October 31, 1849 he deserted from Umpqua, possibly for the gold fields of nearby California. He may not have got very far for in 1850 he was noted as living as a farmer in the Dompierre household. In that same year he settled a claim in Marion County. He married a Dompierre daughter and raised a family in the St. Paul area, south of Champoege. He later moved to the Douglas County area, took a backwoods claim and lived mainly by hunting. He became a citizen in 1864 and was active until the very end, walking up to eight miles [12.9 km] a day. Pierre Pariseau died in 1892.

Pierre Pariseau had one wife and, according to Munnick, eleven children. On July 18, 1850, he married Marie [Genevieve] DonPierre (c.1834-?), daughter of the late David DonPierre and Marguerite Deshulieres. Nine of their eleven children were Pierre (1851-?), Louis (1853-?), François (1855-70), Jean Baptiste (1858-?), Marie (1859-?), Marguerite (1859-59), Joseph (1863-?), Paul (1865-75), and Charles Pierre (1870-?).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-7; YFASA 20, 22-29; YFDS 16-17, 20; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion County PPS: CCR 2b, 2c, 3a, 4c; Genealogical Material In Oregon Donation Land Claims, p. 98; OHS SB #35, p. 43 SS: Holman, p. 116

Parisien, Charles (c. 1823 - ?) (probably Mixed descent)

Birth: c. 1823

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1841 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1842 - 1843); Labourer, Snake Party (1843 - 1844).

Charles Parisien signed on with the HBC in 1841 likely in the Rupert's Land area. In 1843-1844, he transported trappers in and out of the Snake Country and was in Red River in 1845.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-7; YFASA 22-24; YFDS 14

Park, Alfred (fl. 1845 - 1849) (British: English)

Birth: probably London, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1844 - 1846); Seaman, Beaver (steamer) (1846 - 1848); Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1848 - 1849).

Alfred Park joined the HBC from London on August 26, 1844 on a five year contract and sailed to the coast on the Vancouver. The logs reveal little of his personality other than he was part of a group on the Vancouver that protested at Fort Vancouver about the crew's treatment on the voyage out. He worked on the coast until 1848-1849, when he returned to England on the Cowlitz.

PS: HBCA log of Vancouver [3] 2; ShMiscPap 11; YFASA 25-28; FtVicASA 1; YFDS 19

Parker, George (? - 1837) (Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: Yerba Buena [San Francisco], California - December 16, 1837

Fur trade employee

HBC Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1831); Seaman, Naval Department (1831 - 1832); Seaman, Fort Simpson naval service (1832 - 1833); Landsman, Dryad (brig) (1833 - 1834); Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1834 - 1835); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1835 - 1836); Middleman, South Party (1836 - 1837).

George Parker was engaged by the HBC in Oahu on June 16, 1831 to work on coastal shipping. He worked on contract (although not always as a seaman) until 1837, after which he was a freeman. He died at San Francisco on December 16, 1837. Just why his name remained on the records is a bit of a mystery but a possible answer is that the South Party worked in isolation.

PPS: HBCA ShMiscPap 14; FtVanASA 3-5; YFASA 11-15, 18; YFDS 4b-7

Parker, Harry (fl. 1834 - 1835) (Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

CRFTC Passenger, May Dacre (brig) (1834); Member, CRFTC Brigade (1834); Member, HBC Snake Party (1835); Member, CRFTC Brigade (1835).

Harry Parker was one of twenty Hawaiians recruited in Hawaii for Nathaniel J. Wyeth's CRFTC in 1834. He and the others arrived in the Columbia River in September and twelve of them set out in a brigade under Captain Joseph Thing for Fort Hall. Starting out, conditions were very difficult, with as little as two hours sleep a night and very little to eat. In November, twelve Hawaiians, including Harry and Tom Bule, deserted. Both Harry and Tom temporarily joined Thomas McKay's HBC Snake Party and were spotted on the Snake River February 12, 1835. On March 12, 1835, Wyeth found seven of his runaway Hawaiians, including Harry, at Fort Vancouver. They rejoined Wyeth and returned to Fort Hall later that year. Harry Parker has not been subsequently traced.

PPS: N. J. Wyeth, p. 250 SS: Beidleman, p. 238

Parks, John (fl. 1814) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

NWC Untraced vocation, Fort George [Astoria] (1814).

John Parks first appeared in Alexander Henry's journals on September 19, 1809 on the Saskatchewan River conducting three HBC Boats from York Factory. This would indicate that he was a member of the Company. On June 10, 1810 he was noted by Henry on the Saskatchewan (Fort Augustus? unclear) as being part of a seventeen person expedition heading for the Columbia, possibly as a member of the NWC. On Monday, March 7, 1814, he was again noted by Alexander Henry arriving at Fort George [Astoria] on a boat from Oak Point with three sturgeon - this time he was certainly a member of the NWC.

PPS: ChSoc LVII, p. 400, 451, 696

Parr, Joseph (fl. 1824 - 1826) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, William & Ann (brig) (1824 - 1826).

Joseph Parr signed on with the HBC around July, 1824 and made a return voyage to the coast on the William & Ann. On the way to the coast he went ashore without liberty; and, while sailing on the coast, the vessel traded as far north as Observatory Inlet. On the return voyage from the Columbia he was put off duty for two months as he would not do as directed and only returned January 26, 1826 when he expressed regret for his conduct. Parr did not appear to return to the coast again.

PS: HBCA log of William & Ann 1, 2

Parsons, Samuel (c. 1806 - ?) (British: English)

Birth: probably Liverpool, England - c. 1806

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Ganymede (barque) (1830 - 1831); Seaman, Vancouver (schooner) (1831 - 1832); Cook, Dryad (brig) (1832 - 1833); Seaman, Dryad (brig) (1832 - 1833); Seaman, Ganymede (barque) (1833 - 1834).

Samuel Parsons, who joined the HBC in London on November 20, 1830 for three years, sailed from England on the barque Ganymede and began his work on the coast on October 15, 1831. The following year, on October 2, 1832, he was taken on board the brig Dryad as a cook but the next month refused to cook anymore and so was replaced by Jonas Newman who also refused to cook. Eventually, Jack Harry took over cooking duties. Parsons continued working in coastal shipping as a seaman until June 26, 1833, when he left on the Ganymede for his return voyage to England and was discharged in London on February 25, 1834.

An undelivered 1833 letter to Parsons from a Catherine Connor of Robin Hood Lane, Poplar, [London], rests in the HBCA. It gives a frank description of those who had died, those in jail and those carrying on their old game. She appeared to know George William Barton, indicating that she may have run a boarding house where Parsons and other seamen stayed.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 7, 9, 14; YFASA 11-13; YFDS 4b-5b; log of Dryad 1; log of Ganymede 1; MiscI 5; Beattie & Buss, p. 38-39

Parsons, Valentine (fl. 1816) (Undetermined origin)Maritime employee

NWC Seaman, Columbia (schooner) (1816).

Valentine Parsons worked as a seaman on the NWC schooner Columbia for two months in 1816, the same year it was in both Macao and the Northwest coast.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 1

Parsons, William (fl. 1836 - 1840) (British: English)Birth: probably Kent, England*Maritime employee

HBC Steward, Nereide (barque) (1836 - 1837); Steward, Lama (brig) (1837 - 1838); Steward, Nereide (barque) (1838 - 1840).

William Parsons joined the HBC on February 13, 1836 for five years. That year he sailed to the Pacific coast and began his work in coastal shipping in the fall. He returned home on the barque Nereide in 1839 two years short of his contract and was discharged in London on April 22, 1840. He may have worked elsewhere for the deficit two years.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Nereide 2; YFASA 19; ShMiscPap 14; YFDS 7, 10; FtVanASA 3-5

Patele (fl. 1841 - 1843) (probably Hawaiian)Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands*Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1842); Labourer, Oahu (1842 - 1843); Middleman and labourer, Cadboro (schooner) (1843).

Patele joined the HBC from Oahu in 1841 and began to receive wages on July 9 of that year. His contract ended in 1844, and he returned to Oahu on October 1, 1843.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 12, 14; YFASA 22-23

Patterson, George (fl. 1839 - 1840) (British: English)Birth: probably Middlesex, England*Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1839 - 1840).

George Patterson joined the HBC in London on September 17, 1839 for five years and sailed to Fort Vancouver on the Columbia. After the Columbia sailed south to Monterey and San Francisco, Patterson and several other tried repeatedly to desert. On September 24, 1840, Patterson was successful but John Bartlett and a Sandwich Islander were less successful and were brought back to the boat. Patterson thus goes off record.

PS: BCA HBCCont; log of Columbia 4; ShMisPap 14; YFASA 20; FtVanASA 6

Patterson, John (fl. 1811 - 1813) (probably American)Birth: probably United States of America*Maritime employee

PFC Carpenter, Beaver (ship) (1811 - 1812); Carpenter, Fort George [Astoria] (1812 - 1813); Carpenter, Albatross (brig) (1813).

John Patterson was hired in New York in October 1811 to work at Astoria as a tradesman, sailing on John Jacob Astor's ship Beaver [Cornelius Sowles] on October 10th. After landing at Astoria on May 9, 1812, his subsequent detailed work indicated that of a finishing carpenter; he also worked on the boat that was being constructed at Fort Astoria. However, by January 1813, he began to complain about his rations and working conditions but an increase in rations apparently satisfied him. Nonetheless, on August 25, 1813, he left Fort Astoria with Wilson Price Hunt on the Winship vessel Albatross [William Smith]. From there he sailed to the Marqueses, thence to the Sandwich Islands in 1813. It is not known if he stayed with the vessel when it traded throughout the islands throughout 1814.

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria PPS: K. W. Porter, John Jacob Astor, vol. 1, p. 475-78 SS: Howay, A List of Trading Vessels

Paul, Charles (fl. 1848 - 1850) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1848 - 1849).

Charles Paul shipped on with the HBC on September 6, 1848 and sailed to the Northwest Coast on the Columbia. On September 28, 1849, six months after his arrival on the coast, he was stabbed in a fight with Robert Dockery and took three weeks to recover under the care of Dr. Alfred Benson at Fort Victoria. After he returned to duty on October 15, he stayed with the Columbia and arrived in London on April 18, 1850.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; log of Columbia 10; YFASA 30-31

Paul, Hus Emanuel (fl. 1837 - c. 1839) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lachine, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1838 - 1839).

Hus Emanuel Paul joined the HBC from Lachine around 1837 and was to have completed his three-year contract in 1840 but died around that time.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 4-5

Paul, Joseph (c. 1798 - 1828) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Sorel, Quebec - c. 1798

Death: junction of Maggie Creek and Humboldt River, Nevada, United States - December 18, 1828

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1817 - 1821); HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822); Middleman, York Factory (1822 - 1823); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (1822 - 1823); Middleman, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1822 - 1823); NWC Middleman, Columbia Department (1823 - 1826); Trapper, Snake Party (1824 - 1828).

There may have been more than one Joseph Paul working at the same time for the NWC as middleman from 1810-1820. The above Joseph Paul may have been about fifteen years of age when he joined the NWC on October 29, 1814 to work in the west but, also, later HBC records note that he joined about 1816. Either date is possible and between 1814-1821 the exact location of his work has not been traced but he may have been on the brigade in 1817 as he is listed as part of a group crossing the Rockies with Joseph LaRocque. In 1819, both Joseph (probably the above) and Pierre Paul got caught up in the NWC/HBC rivalry when they robbed the HBC Isle à la Crosse and were taken under warrant to York Factory. In spite of this, in 1821, with the amalgamation of the NWC and the HBC, Joseph continued with the HBC in the Columbia. On February 10, 1824 he set out on Alexander Ross' Snake expedition but caused some concern with the freemen who felt that he was getting the choice animals because he was a hired servant who often went in advance of the party. He carried on working in the Snake Country on several expeditions with Ogden, who considered him a first rate trapper. On Sunday, October 15th, 1826, François Payette and Jean Baptiste Tyeguariche, while working on their trap line, happened upon a party of three Snake Indians who had stolen seven of the expedition party's horses. When they demanded the return of the horses the Indians surrendered them along with some food and arrows, but Tyeguariche, unsatisfied (as the same group had previously stolen horses from them) began to beat them, and a struggle erupted between the two groups. One Indian was killed and both trappers were so severely wounded that they had to flee. In anger the Indians shot arrows at four of the seven horses, killing them. Into this melee rode the mysterious "Paul", who, because of his presence, drove the Indians away and enabled the horseless and gunless trappers to be rescued (FtVanCB 2, fo. 45d-46d). On the evening of November 24, 1828, while on his final Snake Expedition, Joseph Paul came into Ogden's camp deathly ill and requested, as was common among the natives of that region, to be thrown into the river and so end his sufferings (SnkCoPJ 8, fo. 12-12d). However, on December 6, the camp moved and carried Paul to a site near the present site of the city of Carlin, Nevada. On December 10, 1828, two men agreed to stay with him until he either recovered or died from his injuries. The two men caught up with Ogden on January 1, 1829 in Pocatello Valley, just north of the Utah-Idaho boundary, and informed him that Paul had died on December 18, "having suffered most severely" (SnkCoPJ 8, fo. 19d). Joseph Paul was buried on the north side of the Humboldt river near the present city of Carlin, Nevada. Three and a half months later, on April 15, 1829, a member of Ogden's expedition returned to the grave and found that it had not been disturbed.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; NWCAB 2, 9; HBCA YFASA 1-6; SnkCoPJ 1, 3a, 7, 8; FtVanCB 2, Ogden's October 16 [15], 1826 Sylvailes River letter to McLoughlin, fo. 45d-46d PPS: HBRs II, p. 286-87; HBRs XXVIII

Paul, Long (fl. 1824) (Undetermined origin)Free trader

HBC Trapper, Snake Party (1824).

A person identified as Long Paul set out with Alexander Ross' Snake Party on February 10, 1824 from Flathead Post. He was not mentioned again after he was initially supplied with one gun, three traps and two horses. He may be one of the other Pauls listed here.

PS: HBCA SnkCoPJ 1

Paul, Louis Hus (c. 1787 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Sorel, Lower Canada - c. 1787

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1821 - 1823); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1823 - 1824); NWC Steersman, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825); Middleman, Columbia Department (1825 - 1826); Middleman, Fort Colville (1826 - 1829); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1829 - 1830).

There may have been more than one Louis Paul, from Sorel, working for the NWC out of Fort William between 1810 and 1817 in the capacity of steersman, for, according to later HBC records, Louis Paul joined the fur trade around 1813. It is uncertain when Louis Paul began work on the Pacific slopes but, in 1821, he transferred to the HBC and continued to work in the Columbia until 1830. At that point, he returned to Montreal, where he was paid.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 9; YFASA 1-9; FtGeoAB 4, 10; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1; YFDS 2a, 3a; FtVanAB 26

Paul, Pierre [1] (fl. 1820) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Sorel, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1820).

Pierre Paul, possibly one of the many Paul's from Sorel, Lower Canada [Quebec], probably worked from 1810-1819 as a steersman on the brigade route which started at Fort William. He also may have been caught up, along with Joseph Paul, in the Northwest Company/HBC dispute when he and Joseph were caught after robbing the Isle a la Crosse post and sent to York Factory. Pierre Paul [1] appeared on Columbia accounts, in 1820, likely as a member of the brigade working for the NWC.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 7 PPS: HBRs II, p. 286-87

Paul, Pierre [2] (c. 1821 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Sorel, Lower Canada - c. 1821

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Snake Party general charges (1841 - 1842); Middleman, South Party (1842 - 1843); Middleman, Snake Party (1843 - 1844).

Pierre Paul [2] joined the HBC in 1840 from Sorel on a four year contract. In outfit 1843-1844 he transported trappers in and out of the Snake Country and, in 1844, returned to Canada.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-7; YFASA 22-23; YFDS 14

Payette, Francois (1794 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: L'Assomption, Lower Canada - 1794

Death: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Freeman

PFC Unlisted passenger, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (1811 - 1814); NWC Middleman/possibly Freeman, Pacific slopes (1814 - 1821); HBC Trapper, Spokane House area [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1821 - 1822); Messenger, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1822 - 1823); Freeman, Snake Party (1822 - 1830); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1823 - 1824); Interpreter, Snake Party (1824 - 1826); Trapper, Snake Party (1824 - 1826); Post master, Snake Party (1829 - 1832); Clerk, Work's Snake Party (1830 - 1831); Post master, Work's Snake Party (1830 - 1831); Interpreter, Work's Snake Party (1830 - 1831); Interpreter, Kootenay (Coutenais) fork (1830); Post master, Fort Colville (1832 - 1835); Trapper, Fort Colville (1835 - 1836); Post master, Fort Colville (1835 - 1836); Clerk, Snake Party (1836 - 1839); Post master, Snake Party (1838 - 1841); Clerk in charge, Fort Boise (1839); Clerk, Snake Party (1841 - 1844); Post master, Snake Party (1841 - 1844).

A young François Payette joined John Jacob Astor's PFC (through John Clarke) in Montreal on August 28, 1811, and likely took a canoe to New York. There he boarded the Astor ship Beaver and arrived at the mouth of the Columbia, and Fort Astoria, on May 9, 1812. On October 17, 1813, after the PFC was taken over by the NWC, Payette signed on with the Montreal company and, on May 1, 1814, was in the first canoe (under Duncan McDougall & Alexander McTavish) of the annual express from Fort George to Fort William. From that point on he appeared sporadically in the records; he was with Donald McKenzie in the Snake Country in 1818 and, by 1821, was a trapper working out of Spokane House where he joined the HBC at the time of amalgamation. On April 8, 1825, while heading a party of thirteen men sent to oppose the American trappers in Snake Country, he narrowly escaped being killed by the Blackfoot and had to abandon everything and rush back to camp to avoid the fate of his fellow trapper, Antoine Benoit. A year and a half later, on October 15, 1826 because of excessive punitive actions by Baptiste Tyeguariche, he was badly wounded by Snake natives near Silvies River, receiving an arrow under the ribs and another in the wrist. Over the next few years, Payette travelled with his wife in the Snake Country and, on June 9, 1833, he was noted by Nathaniel Wyeth as being seen in the Snake Country with four Nez Perces Chiefs. It was around that time that he entrusted his boy, Baptiste, to Wyeth, who not only taught him reading, writing and mathematics but also took him to Fort Vancouver, where the young lad probably attended classes. By the mid 1830s, the forty-one year old French Canadian was given charge of the Kootenay area, but inexperience in management drew criticism from his superiors. However, by September of 1839 he had been in charge of Fort Boise for about three years when Thomas H. Farnham observed that Payette was not only overseeing productive gardens but was also building an adobe wall around the fort. He also found him an amiable host. In 1840, François Payette gave notice to John McLoughlin but eventually retired east of the Rockies to Canada three years later in 1844.

The names of Payettes wife and family have not been traced, however, on March 18, 1831, it was noted that Payette's wife was so ill that the party could not move camp. She was not mentioned after that.

The Idaho town of Payette, Payette River and Payette lake were named after François Payette.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 10; HBCA NWCAB 1, 2, 10; FtSpokPJ 1; FtGeo[Ast]AB 4; FtSpokPJ 1; SnkCoPJ 2; FtVanCB 2; YFASA 1-6, 8-9, 11-15, 17-20, 23-24; FtVanASA 1-8; YFDS 3a, 4b-7; FtVanCB 8, 26; HBCA D.4/102, fos. 26d.-27 PPS: N. J. Wyeth, p. 141, 200; Farnham, Travels, p. 114 SS: ChSoc IV, p. 352-353; Haines, "Francois Payette", p. 57-61

Paynee [variation: Peney] (fl. 1844 - 1848) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: Fort Vancouver, Oregon Territory - May 20, 1848

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1848).

Paynee joined the HBC from Oahu in 1844 on a two-year contract and began work at Fort Vancouver on November 12, 1844. He appears to have worked temporarily on the schooner Cadboro, for while it was at Fort Vancouver on April 24, 1846, Paynee was sent on shore. In 1848, he died at Fort Vancouver of unspecified causes.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-26; YFDS 15, 18; log of Cadboro 5

Peace, James (1815 - ?) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: Stromness, Orkney - March 24, 1815 (born to Stewart Peace and Helen [Essen] Peace)

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1836 - 1838).

James Peace, the twenty-one year old eldest son of a Stromness tailor, had a short career with the HBC. On February 13, 1836, he joined the HBC from Stromness as a seaman on a five-year contract. He sailed to the coast and began work in coastal shipping in the fall of that year, serving on the Nereide. He deserted two years later, on June 10, 1838 in Monterey.

PS: OrkA OPR; OrkA Cen1821, Orkney-Stromness; HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 9, 14; FtVanASA 2-3; YFDS 7; YFASA 18; HBCABio

Peaennau, Joe [variation: Pea-eannau, Pannau, Pranneau, Peannau] (fl. 1836 - 1852) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1836 - 1837); Middleman, Fort Langley (1837 - 1840); Middleman, Fort McLoughlin

(1840 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Langley (1841 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Langley (1842 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1850 - 1851).

Joe Peaennau joined the HBC from Oahu in 1836. After working at a variety of coastal forts over the next fifteen years (mostly Fort Langley), he appears to have retired in 1851, for in outfit 1851-1852 he appeared at Fort Victoria but he did not receive wages.

PS: HBCA YFDS 7, 22; YFASA 19-20, 22-32; FtVanASA 3-7; FtVicASA 1-2

Pearce, Samuel (fl. 1840 - 1848) (British: English)

Birth: London, England

Maritime employee

HBC Cook, Columbia (barque) (1839 - 1841); Cook, Cowlitz (barque) (1841 - 1843); Cook, Columbia (barque) (1845 - 1848).

Samuel Pearce joined the HBC on September 17, 1839 for five years and sailed to the coast on the HBC barque Columbia. After servicing coastal posts from San Francisco north, and Honolulu, he returned to England aboard the barque Cowlitz in the fall of 1842. Just before sailing he became temporarily unfit for duty when he fell from the topgallant forecastle and hurt himself on the head. Pearce re-appeared back in the Columbia in outfit 1846-1847 and returned to England in 1848.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Columbia 4; ShMiscPap 14; YFDS 11; YFASA 20, 22, 26-27; log of Cowlitz 1; FtVanASA 6-8; PortB 1

Pearson, John (fl. 1850 - 1852) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, unidentified HBC trading vessel (1850 - 1851); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1851 - 1852).

John Pearson came to Vancouver Island about 1851 and may have worked briefly with the HBC. Shortly afterwards, he was transferred to Captain Cooper, possibly to work on Cooper's iron schooner, Alice. He may have remained in the area.

PS: HBCA YFASA 30-31; YFDS 22; FtVicASA 1-2

Pedersen, Ole [a] (fl. 1853 - 1859) (Norwegian)

Birth: probably in or near Gran, Norway

Maritime employee

HBC Labourer, Colinda (barque) (1853 - 1854); Cook, Beaver (steamer) (1854 - 1859).

Ole Pedersen [a] was one of eighteen remaining Norwegians to make it to the coast aboard the HBC chartered vessel, Colinda, on April 17, 1854. He worked for the HBC until 1859.

PS: HBCA log of Colinda 1; FtVicASA 1-7, 9

Pederson, Rund (fl. 1855 - 1856) (Norwegian)

Birth: probably in Hotor, Norway

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Columbia Department general charges (1854 - 1855); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department general charges (1854 - 1855).

The name of Rund Pederson, from Hotor, Norway, appeared on the 1855-1856 Fort Victoria sundries account with a credit of £12.18.9 to his name carried over from the previous outfit. He may have been one of the Norwegians aboard the Colinda.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 2-3

Pee (fl. 1841 - 1844) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1844).

Pee joined the HBC in Oahu in 1841 on a three-year contract. He began receiving wages on July 9, 1841 and, for the next three and a half years, worked at Fort Vancouver. His last day of work appeared to be November 23, 1844, at which point he returned to Oahu, where he received his final wages on December 31.

Peeo (fl. 1844 - 1851) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1845); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1847); Labourer, Columbia (barque) (1847 - 1848); Labourer, New Caledonia (1848 - 1849); Labourer, Fort Langley (1849 - 1851); Untraced vocation, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1851).

Peeo joined the HBC from Oahu in 1844 and for the next seven years worked from place to place in the Pacific Northwest. He retired on September 7, 1851, apparently remaining in the area.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-31; YFDS 22; FtVicASA 1-2

Peeopeeh [variation: Maillot, Magno Pupu, Peo Peow, Peo Peo, Pion Pion, Peeoh Peeoh] (c. 1798 - ?) (Hawaiian)

Birth: Hawaiian Islands - c. 1798 (born to Kanicheau and Klegina)

Death: probably Fort Langley (Old Fort Langley, Derby), British Columbia

Fur trade employee

NWC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1817 - 1821); HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1821 - 1823); Untraced vocation, Fort George [Astoria] (1823 - 1825); Sawyer, Columbia Department (1825 - 1826); Sawyer, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1827); Sawyer, Fort Langley (1827 - 1837); Middleman, Fort Langley (1837 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Langley (1842 - 1845); Cooper, Fort Langley (1845 - 1852).

According to his marriage certificate, Peeopeeh was born on the island of Hawaii to Kanicheau and Klegina. In 1817, nineteen-year-old Peeopeeh, who was rumoured to be a family relation of King Kamehamehe, joined the NWC. He claimed to have gone as overseer or guardian of the sixty men with whom he arrived. His early movements have not been traced, as the Montreal company rarely named its Kanaka employees. After the amalgamation of 1821, Peeopeeh, now a sawyer, continued on with the HBC and, in 1824, was part of an exploratory expedition seeking a suitable location at the mouth of the Fraser for a new trading post. In 1827, he helped construct Fort Langley, where he was to remain for the rest of his career. After Fort Langley was rebuilt upriver in 1840, Peeopeeh and other Sandwich Islanders remained at the old Langley or Derby site, in an area collectively known as "Kanaka Ranch," probably commuting the three miles [4.8 km] each day to the new site. Peeopeeh is said to have served as foreman of the other Hawaiians employed at the post. In 1852 he retired but his name remained on the books until 1854.

In 1858 the Hawaiians were asked to move from the Derby site to make way for a proposed new townsite to be the capital of the British mainland colony of British Columbia, a request that Peeopeeh vigorously protested to the Colonial Government. At the beginning of 1860, as soon as it was legally possible to do so, Peeopeeh and his two sons and son-in-law Ohia each pre-empted 160 acres [64.8 ha] across the Fraser River near the present day community of Maple Ridge. It is not known how long he lived after that, and the date of his death has not been traced.

Peeopeeh appears to have had one wife, Catherine (?-?), who was Kwantlen and said to be a subchief's daughter. Their children were Algace or Paiwa (c.1824-?) who had children by Ohia, Joseph Maayo (c.1826-?), Sophie (c.1830-1916) who had children by Peter Ohule as well as New Brunswicker William Nelson, and Henry, who acquired the surname of Pound (c.1835?-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 2-9, 11-15, 19-20, 22-32; FtGeo[Ast]AB 11-12; YFDS 2a, 3a-3b, 4b, 5b-7, 16; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-6; FtVicASA 1; BCA BCCR StAndC PPS: Allard, Aug. 10, 1915 SS: Laing, p. 99; Morton, p. 288; Waite, p. 3-4

See Also: Peeopeeh, Henry (Son); Ohia (Son-in-Law); Ohule, Peter (Son-in-Law); Maayo, Joseph (Son); Pound, Henry (Son)

Peeopeeh, Henry [variation: Pound] (1835 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Maple Ridge, British Columbia - 1835 (born to Peeopeeh and Catherine, Kwantlen)

Death: probably old Fort Langley area

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Langley area.

Henry, the son of long time HBC employee Peeopeeh, was born and raised, along with sisters Algace/Paiwa and Sophie and older brother Joseph Maayo, at the first site of Fort Langley. He likely worked for the HBC from time to time, although he does not appear on company records. By the mid 1850s numerous "free Kanakas" living at the Kanaka settlement at the original Fort Langley site, some of them retired employees, were employed as the need arose.

Henry and Margaret (?-?), likely a local Native woman, had at least two children. Bucie (?-bap 1860-?) and John (?-bap1860-?), were baptized in 1860 with their father's surname being given as Pound, which may have represented the Anglican cleric's attempt to anglicize Peeopeeh. No further information has been located about Henry Pound or his family.

Peers, Henry Newsham [variation: Piers] (1821 - 1864) (British: English)

Birth: Lymington, Hampshire, England - March 17, 1821 (born to Captain H. Peers of the Dragoon Guards)

Death: Colquitz farm, Colony of Vancouver Island - March 27, 1864

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice clerk, Fort Vancouver general charges (1843 - 1844); Apprentice clerk, Fort Umpqua (1844 - 1846); Clerk, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1846 - 1847); Clerk, Fort Vancouver depot (1846 - 1847); Superintended construction, Fort Hope (1848 - 1849); Temporary replacement for ailing John Tod, Fort Kamloops [Thompson's River Post, She-waps Post] (1849 - 1850); Clerk, Fort Langley (1850 - 1851); Clerk in charge, Cowlitz Farm (1851 - 1853); Manager of Cowlitz Farm on Nisqually accounts, Cowlitz Farm (1853 - 1857); Chief Trader, Cowlitz Farm (1853 - 1854).

Henry Newsham Peers was hard drinking but worked competently in the dying days of the fur trade. Expelled after eighteen months at the Royal Military Academy at Woolwich but having picked up very valuable map-making skills, he joined the HBC as an apprentice clerk in January 1841. A fine violinist and good oil painter, he was transferred to Fort Vancouver in 1843 and in 1846 during his five year stay there, was the member for Vancouver in the Oregon House of Representatives. In 1848, he joined A.C. Anderson in trying to establish a new brigade route north of the 49th parallel from Kamloops to Langley, recommended the Coquihalla valley route and oversaw the construction of Fort Hope in 1848-1849. He took charge of the Cowlitz farm in 1851 and during his six years there sometimes resided at Fort Nisqually. He retired in 1859 and returned to Vancouver Island in late 1859 or early 1860 where he had previously purchased land in the Lake District. He sailed September 1862 for a trip to England however, upon his return, he appeared to fall under the influence of friends and would do anything they told him. It was suspected that he was being drugged by them. Henry Newsham Peers died there on the Colquitz farm on March 27, 1864 no doubt from the effects of a lifetime of drinking. When Peers died, his father in law, J. M. Yale, felt that he had been poisoned and got a local lawyer to threaten to charge Peer's friends with murder unless they immediately left the country, which they did (Diar-Rem Grant, p. 129).

Henry Newsham Peers had one wife and four children. On July 13, 1851 in Victoria, Vancouver Island, Peers married Eliza Yale (c.1829-1865), one of James Murray Yale's daughters. Two daughters were: Mary (1861-?) and Elizabeth (?-bap.1865-?) and possibly Flora (?-?). Eliza Peers died on October 25, 1865 at the Colquitz farm.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 8-13; YFASA 24-32; YFDS 16; FtVicASA 1-3, 7; FtVicCB 20; Henry Newsham Peers search file; BCA BCCR-CrtR-AbstLnd; Mallandaine, p. 65; BCCR-CCCath; Diar-Rem Grant; Van-PL Colonist, March 29, 1864; TacP-FtNis Huggins PPS: ChSoc VII, p. 318-320; HBRs XXXII, p. 137-38, 158, 161

Peleraint, Alexis (c. 1810 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lachine or Riviere du Loup, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1838 - 1839); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1838 - 1840); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1839 - 1840).

Alexis Peleraint joined the HBC in 1837 and returned to Canada at the end of his three-year contract.

PS: HBCA YFASA 17-19; FtVanASA 4-5

Pelland, Alexis (c. 1829 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: Berthier, Lower Canada - c. 1829 (born to Alexis Pellan and Julie Desaliers)

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1848 - 1849); Middleman, Fort Vancouver depot (1849 - 1851).

Alexis Pelland came west over the Rockies in 1848 as an HBC employee on a three-year contract which ended in 1851. He worked at Fort Vancouver, where he met his wife and was discharged on December 25, 1851. He remained in the area at least two more years but, according to Munnick, by 1869 he was living in Chinookville on the Washington coast and engaged in fishing (CCR 1, A-63).

Alexis Pelland had one recorded wife and one child. On January 27, 1851, he married "neophyte" Emilie, Wasco (?-?) of the Fort Vancouver mission. Their recorded child was Sophie (1853-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 28-31; YFDS 22; FtVanASA 9; YFDS 19 PPS: CCR 1b

Pelland, Elie [variation: Elli, Ellie Pellant] (c. 1832 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Berthier, Lower Canada - c. 1832

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1848 - 1849); Middleman, Fort Rupert (1849 - 1851); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1851).

Ellie Pelland joined the HBC in 1848 on a three-year contract which ended in 1851. His last job was working as a woodcutter for one month in 1851 on the steamer Beaver which he left at Fort Victoria in March. He may have left the area.

PS: HBCA YFASA 29-32; log of Beaver 2; FtVicASA 1-3

Pellant, Alexis (fl. 1819) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Berthier, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Middleman, Pacific slopes (1819).

Alexis Pellant was working for the NWC when he came across the Rockies onto the Pacific slopes in 1819 with Angus Bethune and Peter Skene Ogden. He was likely on the brigade for the following year he was re-engaged to work with McTavish, McGillivray & Co. at English River for two more years.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 3; SHdeSB Liste

Pelly, Augustus (1821 - ?) (British: English)

Birth: Pernambuco, Brazil - January 28, 1821

Fur trade officer

HBC Clerk, Willamette (1844); Clerk, Fort Colville (1844 - 1845); Chief Trader, Fort Colville (1853 - 1854).

With blood lines on his side, Augustus Pelly joined the HBC on June 22, 1838 and sailed from London on the Prince George to Quebec where he served as an apprentice clerk at three posts before going on to the Columbia. In the fall of 1845 he was allowed to retire to England by ship. He rejoined again in 1848 and for the next three years, served in three posts east of the Rockies before returning to the Columbia as Chief Trader. In 1854-1855 he was allowed furlough and he retired on June 1, 1855.

On August 28, 1849, he married Anne Rose Clouston, daughter of Edward Clouston, the HBC agent in Stromness.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-25; HBCABio

See Also: Pelly, George (Relative)

Pelly, George (1791 - 1866) (British: English)

Birth: West-sub-Edge, Gloucestershire, England - April 8, 1791 (born to Reverend John Pelly)

Death: England, United Kingdom - November 30, 1866

Fur trade officer

HBC Agent, Hawaii (1833 - 1850).

First cousin of later Governor of the HBC John Henry Pelly, George Pelly was a man who followed what could have been a bright career. He was first employed as a captain in the East India Civil Service but was appointed in 1833 as HBC agent to the Sandwich [Hawaiian] Islands essentially to find a Hawaiian outlet for HBC goods from the coast and Hawaiian goods for England. He was responsible to the Chief Factor of the Columbia District. After sailing to Oahu on the brig Eagle [Captain Darby], he functioned as a clerk and agent until he replaced Richard Charlton who, upon engaging himself in the fur trade in the Northwest coast, was deemed to be in a conflict of interest position. Pelly himself went astray a few years later. In 1850, a large sum of company funds, $36,514.38.00 (which was under the care of Pelly) went missing. His servants were arrested and put in jail but it was likely that Pelly had full knowledge and, in fact participated in the disappearance. As a result, he made restitution by turning over all his Hawaiian property that he had accumulated in eighteen years of service. He was promptly issued a passport and sailed back to England in November in frail health aboard the Cowlitz, arriving in England in 1851. Fifteen years later he died, still a bachelor.

His servants at the Oahu post in 1850 were:

Curlew (head servant)

John (Joshua) - lived there possibly after the robbery

Kahuleiwiliwili

Kaikaihua (aka Jim Crow) - lived with him a long time

Kukanui - not present at time of robbery

Noa - lived with him prior to the robbery

Pauaa - lived there prior to robbery

PS: HBCA SandIsLonIC 2; YFASA 13-15, 17-20, 24-26, 28; YFDS 5c-7; FtVanASA 6-8; initial instructions in George Simpson's November 26, 1833 letter to George Pelly, A.6/23, fos. 44d-45d; charge of stealing and list of servants in October

29, 1850 affidavit A.11/62, fos. 522-523; seizure of Pelly's property in October 28, 1850 indenture between George Pelly and trustee Asher B. Bates, A.11/62, fos. 524-527d; return to England in Dugald McTavish's November 7, 1850 Sandwich Island letter to Archibald Barclay, SandIsLonIC 2, fos. 549, 567 PPS: ChSoc IV, p. 353
See Also: Pelly, Augustus (Relative)

Pelly, Robert (fl. 1840 - 1841) (British: English)

Birth: probably in or near Cheltenham, Gloucester, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1840 - 1841).

Robert Pelly joined the HBC on August 24, 1840 on a five year contract as an ordinary seaman and sailed to the coast on the coast on the Cowlitz. He reached the coast and on April 1, 1841 at Fort Vancouver, was involved in an accident in which James Adams drowned. When the vessel sailed to Honolulu, he was discharged there on June 28, 1841.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Cowlitz 1

Peltier, Louis [variation: Pelletier] (c. 1825 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1825

Death: probably Victoria, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1845 - 1846); Middleman, Fort Langley (1846 - 1848); Middleman, Fort Victoria (1848 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1850 - 1851); Labourer, Fort Shepherd (1856 - unknown).

Louis Peltier joined the HBC from Montreal in 1845. He worked at two forts, the last one being Fort Victoria, and eventually settled in the Victoria region. In 1856, as a member of the Voltigeurs [colonial police force], he helped capture three deserters from the HBC vessel, Princess Royal. He did various other duties, such as assist in the construction of Fort Shepherd, the replacement for Fort Colville.

Louis Peltier had one wife and two recorded children. At an unknown date, he married Julie (?-1858), Saanich. Their two daughters were Julie (?-bap.1850-?) and Suzanne Louise (1854-58). Wife Julie died in the Victoria region on March 15, 1858 and was buried the following day.

PS: HBCA YFASA 25-30, 32; YFDS 22; FtVicASA 1-4; FtVicCB 12; BCA BCCR StAndC SS: Morrison, "Hudson's Bay workers," p. 7

Peltier, Toussaint (c. 1810 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1810

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1841 - 1842); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1844).

Montrealer Toussaint Peltier signed a three-year contract with the HBC in 1841 and was back in Canada in 1845.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-7; YFASA 22-24

Pelton, Archibald or Joseph [variation: "Judge" Petton] (c. 1792 - 1814) (American)

Birth: possibly West Farms, Northampton, Massachusetts - c. 1792 (born to David and Hannah Pelton)

Death: Fort George [Astoria], Oregon Territory - April 1814

Fur trade employee

PFC Trapper, Andrew Henry's Fort (1810); NWC Partially deranged trapper, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (end of January, 1812); PFC Woodcutter and "Fool", Fort George [Astoria] (1812 - 1814).

Archibald or Joseph Pelton's legacy remains embedded in Chinook jargon, his otherwise obscure life being cut short. Pelton may have come from Massachusetts or Connecticut and run away at an early age, working his way into the fur trade. At seventeen or eighteen, he appears to have separated from Andrew Henry's trapping party which had been employed by Manual Lisa to trap the upper Missouri. Because of either the isolation or having witnessed the killing of other members of the trapping party, Pelton became partially deranged and took up with the Nez Perces in the Clearwater area. In January, 1812, when the Donald McKenzie detachment of the Wilson Price Hunt overland party was passing through, they found and took pity on Pelton, bringing him to Fort Astoria. There, while his mild harmless insanity continued in full view of the local natives - it was thought at first it was feigned - he worked chopping trees and making charcoal for the fort. He would disappear for days at a time living only on berries. It was during this time that a Killimuck native, part of a larger group intent on pilfering the tents under the dark of night, caught the blade of Pelton's sword which badly slashed an arm. For the next two years, the Killimucks plotted revenge, getting it one day in April 1814, when Pelton was alone two miles [3.2 km] from the fort making charcoal, by driving an ax blade into his skull. In response, Donald McTavish solicited the assistance of local chiefs, kidnapped the Killymuck culprits, and staged a show trial in which the jury was made up of both company men and native men and women. Found guilty by the jury, the culprits were executed the following morning at the end of the fort's wharf in front of a large gathering of natives.

As a result of Pelton's observed behaviour, the word "pelton" entered Chinook jargon for the word "crazy" also became the base for the word "partlelum" or "pahtlum" meaning "drunk" or full of rum or "lum" (Ruby, 150).

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria PPS: K. W. Porter, Roll of Overland, p. 110; ChSoc XLV, p. 110; HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: Cox, p. 61-62 SS: Barry, "Archibald Pelton", p. 199-201; Ruby & Brown, The Chinook Indians, p. 150

Pembrilliant, Antoine [variation: Pembrillant] (fl. 1812 - c. 1820) (Canadian: French or Mixed descent)Fur trade employee

NWC Milieu, Fort George [Astoria] (1813 - 1814).

Antoine Pembrilliant was engaged with the NWC at Fort William in 1812 on a three year contact, and, in the winter of 1813-1814, was at Fort George [Astoria]. He was probably still there in 1820.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 7, 10

Pensonant, J. Benoit (fl. 1821 - 1822) (Canadian: French or Mixed descent)Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822).

J. Benoit Pensonant worked for the HBC in the Columbia District during outfit 1821-1822 and may have been a member of the brigade.

PS: HBCA YFASA 1

Penwell, Lieven [variation: Levin] (fl. 1834 - 1836) (Irish)Birth: probably Derry, Ireland*Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Dryad (brig) (1834 - 1836).

Leiven Penwell joined the HBC in Oahu on January 11, 1834 and signed a contract on March 29, 1834 as a seaman, originally for two years. By May of that year he worked on the Dryad and returned to England on it on October 1, 1835.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 14-15; YFDS 5c-6; FtVanASA 3

Pepin, Antoine [variation: Papin] (fl. 1810 - 1814) (Canadian: French)Birth: possibly Montreal, Lower Canada*Fur trade employee

PFC Milieu, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (1810 - 1812); Milieu, Fort Okanagan (October 13, 1813); Milieu, Fort George [Astoria] (winter 1813 - 1814); Milieu, Brigade to Fort William (1814).

Antoine Pepin signed a contract on June 16, 1810 with Alexander McKay, then a proprietor of the PFC, to work in Indian Country as a wintering middleman for five years. He then joined Wilson Price Hunt's PFC overland expedition one month later at Lachine around July 6, 1810. He crossed the Continental Divide with the group in late summer, 1811, arriving at Astoria around February 20, 1812. In the fall of 1813 he was at Fort Okanagan and at Fort George [Astoria] during the winter of 1813-1814. Pepin did not join the NWC, returning to Fort William and Montreal the following spring in 1814.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: K. W. Porter, Roll of Overland, p. 110; Coues, p. 875

Pepin, Etienne [variation: Antoine Maille, Magice] (c. 1798 - ?) (Canadian: French)Birth: Yamaska, Lower Canada - c. 1798 (born to Michel Magice and Marguerite Pepin)*Death: Fort Langley, British Columbia*Fur trade employee

HBC Blacksmith, Fort Langley (1827 - 1860).

Etienne Pepin joined the HBC from Yamaska in 1827 and came west with the York Factory Express in the fall. It is unknown why he used such a variety of names but Pepin was his mother's name. He served his entire career at Fort Langley as a blacksmith and farmer. He worked until 1860, at which point he may have carried on transactions for a year but then disappeared from record. He likely died in the area.

Etienne Pepin appears to have had one or more wives and any number of children. In 1830, he had a wife and no children, but, by 1841 had a Uiskwin woman, and children Marie (c.1835-?) and François (c.1838-?). On July 21, 1856 he married Isabelle, (?-?), Kwantlan/Keitose. Their child was Simon (1855-?).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 1-3; YFASA 7-9, 11-15, 19-20, 22-32; YFDS 3a, 3b, 4b-7; FtVicASA 1-7, 9; HBCABio; BCA BCCR StAndC PPS: E. Ermatinger, p. 105 SS: Morton, p. 263

Pepin (Lachance), Pierre [variation: Papin] (c. 1818 - 1888) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1818 (born to Guillaume Pepin and Catherine Gendron)

Death: Grand Ronde, Oregon - July 21, 1888

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1838 - 1839); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1839 - 1840); Blacksmith, Fort Vancouver (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1840 - 1841); Stoker, Beaver (steamer) (1841 - 1842).

Trained by his father as a blacksmith, Pierre Pepin (Lachance) joined the HBC in at Berthier 1838, apparently against his father's wishes. He spent his working career in the Columbia area returning to Canada, then east of the Rockies, in the spring or summer of 1842. He returned to the Columbia Department area, retiring in outfit 1842-1843 to farm in the St. Paul, Oregon area and in 1843, voted against the establishment of a Provisional Government. There he and his wife raised a very large family and probably because of this, the family was beset with poverty. He is noted as having made the cross at the local Catholic church. According to the Catholic Records, the children all ended up at the Grand Ronde Reserve in their later years. Pierre himself died at Grand Ronde on July 21, 1888, and was buried in the St. Patrick's Cemetery, long ago abandoned, in Muddy Valley.

Pierre Pepin had one wife and fifteen children. On January 8, 1844, at St. Paul, Oregon, he married Susanne Gaudritch/Goodrich, mixed descent, and lame daughter of John Goodrich and Nancy Dobin. Their children were Alfred (c.1842-?), Pierre II (1845-?), Julien (1846-?), Julie (1848-?), Marie (1851-?), Joseph (1853-?), Celeste (1854-?), Clementine (1856-?), Adolphine (1858-?), Delmer Jeanne (1860-?), an unnamed twin (c.1867-67), Thomas (c.1867-?), Ele'onore (1868-70), Marcelline (1871-72) and Narcisse (1873-?).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 5-7, 10; YFASA 19-21; HBCABio; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion County PPS: CCR 1a, 2a, 2b, 2c, 6b SS: Mary Ann Michelle, Just a Memorandum (out of Grand Rond Reserve); Holman, p. 116

Pepper, Samuel (fl. 1849 - 1850) (British)

Birth: possibly near Lymington, Hampshire, England - ? (born to J. and H. Pepper)

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1850); Crew member, Beaver (steamer) (1850).

Samuel Pepper joined the HBC in 1849 in London and arrived at Fort Victoria on March 24 1850. Shortly after his arrival he joined the steamer Beaver but didn't work very long for on, June 19 at Fort Victoria, along with fellow crew members Jean Baptiste Dechamp, Namotto and Baptiste Kanataconda, deserted. He took all his personal effects and and probably left the Island as he would have had a hard time seeking employment in an area dominated by the HBC.

An undelivered 1850 letter rests in the HBCA. His mother "H" and father "T" Pepper, who were residing at Hurst Castle near Lymington, Hampshire mention several brothers and sisters and were full of questions about Vancouver Island.

PS: HBCA on N.M., B.223/d/195; PortB 1; log of Beaver 2; YFASA 30; FtVicASA 1-2; YFDS 21; ShMiscPap 9a; HBCABio PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 252-54

Pereau, Pierre [variation: Perreau] (c. 1817 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably in or near Lachine or Sorel, Lower Canada - c. 1817

Death: probably New Caledonia, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1837 - 1838); Middleman, New Caledonia (1838 - 1844); Labourer, New Caledonia (1844 - 1845); Middleman, New Caledonia (1845 - 1852); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1852 - 1853); Middleman, New Caledonia (1853 - 1860); Untraced vocation, Western Department (1860 - 1861); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1861 - 1862); Labourer, New Caledonia (1862 - 1863); Labourer, Fort Alexandria (1864 - 1866).

Pierre Pereau joined the HBC from Lachine or Sorel in 1837 and officially retired from service on December 31, 1863. However he carried on working for another three years.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 4-7; YFASA 17, 19-20, 22-32; FtVicASA 1-13

Perrault, Antoine (c. 1787 - 1828) (probably Mixed descent)

Birth: c. 1787

Death: Hood Canal [Washington] - January 1828

Fur trade employee

HBC Steersman, Columbia Department (1822 - 1824); Steersman, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1827); Steersman, Fort Vancouver (1827 - 1828); Steersman, Fort Langley (1827 - 1828).

Antoine Perrault joined the fur trade around 1808, likely within the Rupert's Land area, and in the early 1820s was likely a member of the cross country brigade or express. Between 1824-1826 he was at Forts Dunvegan and Chipewyan and in June 1827, he was part of a group who set out to establish Fort Langley. On December 2, 1828, his party left Fort Vancouver with dispatches for Fort Langley. They arrived on December 27, 1827 and began their return journey on January 3, 1828. A short time later, while passing through the Hood Canal area he and four other HBC employees were killed while they were sleeping for their clothes and arms by the Clallam Indians. An unauthorized punitive expedition sent out that summer from Fort Vancouver to avenge their deaths saw twenty-two Clallam natives killed, their village burned and a native woman, who had been part of the original HBC party, retaken.

PS: HBCA YFDS 2; FtVanASA 1; FtVanAB 10; YFASA 6-7; YFDS 2a; HBCA Antoine Perreault search file PPS: HBRS III, p. 447, 448

Perrault, Jacques (c. 1800 - 1831) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Maskinongé, Lower Canada - c. 1800

Death: Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - February 5, 1831

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1823 - 1824); Middleman, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825); Labourer, Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs] (1825); Middleman, New Caledonia (1825 - 1826); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1827); Middleman, Fort Langley (1827 - 1828); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1828 - 1829); Middleman, New Caledonia (1829 - 1830); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1831).

Jacques Perrault joined the fur trade around 1815 from Maskinongé. He served at a variety of forts and was in on the construction of Fort Langley in 1827-1828. He died February 5, 1831 at Fort Vancouver.

PS: HBCA YFDS 1a; FtStJmsLS 1; YFASA 4-10; YFDS 2a; FtVanAB 10; FtStJmsRD 3; FtVanASA 1-2; YFDS 3a-4a; FtVanAB 28

Perrault, Jean Baptiste (c. 1797 - c. 1857) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably at St. Antoine, Riviere du Loup or St. François, Lower Canada - c. 1797

Death: Willamette Valley, Oregon – before 1857

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1819 - 1821); HBC Employee, probably Carpenter, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822); Carpenter, Fort George [Astoria] (1822 - 1825); Carpenter, Columbia Department (1825 - 1826); Carpenter, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1828); Carpenter, Southern Expedition (1828 - 1830); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1831); Carpenter, Fort Vancouver (1831 - 1834); Carpenter, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1834 - 1835); Wheelwright/Stocking a rifle, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1836); Settler, Willamette (1836 – 1842+).

Master carpenter and builder, Jean Baptiste Perrault, appears to have first joined the NWC on May 10, 1815 from St. François, to work at Sault St. Marie. In 1819, he crossed the Rockies with an NWC group led by Angus Bethune and Peter Skene Ogden and spent the rest of his career on the Pacific slopes. For the next fourteen years, he worked at several locations in the lower Columbia and, in outfit 1833-1834, settled in the Willamette Valley. From that point on he took on odd jobs as, for example, in outfit 1835-1836 when he was paid for being a wheelwright and stocking a rifle and 1836-1837 for being a carpenter and in the following outfit, sold furs and grain to the HBC. His claim was near the mouth of the Yamhill River and by 1842 had a productive farm on fifty enclosed acres [20.2 ha].

Jean Baptiste Perrault had two wives and three recorded children. His first wife, a Chinook woman may have been a daughter of Chinook Chief Concomely. Two daughters, Reinette (c.1820-?) and Marie Anne (c.1823-?), lived near Perrault with their respective husbands near the big bend of the Willamette. On January 21, 1839 after the possible death of his first wife, he married Angele Tichailis (c.1803-?) and had one recorded daughter, Lucie (1844-?).

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 3, 9; YFASA 1-9, 11-15; FtGeo[Ast]AB 10-12; YFDS 2a, 3a-7, 10-11; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-6; OHS 1842 Census; CCR 1a, 2a
See Also: Larison, John (Son-in-Law); Bourgeau, Silvan (Relative)

Perrault, Joseph (fl. 1816 - 1825) (Canadian: French or Mixed descent)

Freeman

NWC Brigade member, Pacific slopes (1816); HBC Freeman trapper, Columbia Department (1822 - 1823); Freeman trapper, Snake Party (1824 - 1825).

There were several Joseph Perraults working for the NWC at the same time. The above Joseph Perrault probably first appeared on record on the Pacific slopes in 1816. At that time, he may have been travelling on the Brigade for wages were paid to his wife. He next appeared in the Columbia working for the HBC in outfit 1822-1823. On February 10, 1824, he was camped outside Flathead Post at Prairie de Cheveaux with a large group of freeman trappers; Perrault and the group then joined Alexander Ross' nine month Snake Party trapping expedition from there. At the end of the expedition, he returned to Flathead Post and on December 20 struck out with Peter Skene Ogden's Snake party. Three days later, he was out hunting and brought in 3/4 of a deer. Nothing else was mentioned of him until May 24, 1825 when he and eleven others deserted with all their furs to the American camp at Weber River. He did not pay his debts to the HBC and has not been traced after that.

Joseph Perrault may have had a family and been travelling with his wife since he was a lodge owner on the Snake expeditions.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 1; HBCA FtGeo[Ast]/AB 10; SnkCoPJ 1, 2, 3a

Perrault, Louis (fl. 1810 - 1815) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Lanoraie, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (1813 - 1814).

Louis Perrault was engaged in 1810 or 1811 in Montreal by the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] on a three year contact and, by the winter of 1813-1814, was found in Fort George [Astoria]. He was to be free in Montreal in 1815.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 10

Perrault, William [variation: Guillaume] (fl. 1810 - 1814) (Canadian: French or Mixed descent)

Maritime employee

NWC Cabin boy, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811); PFC Boy, Fort George [Astoria] (1811 - 1813); NWC Boy, Willamette Post (1813 - 1814).

William Perrault, who came out as a passenger on the Tonquin in 1811 as a mere cabin boy with the PFC, had a close brush with death aboard the vessel. While the vessel was on the coast, Perrault climbed into the shrouds to get a better view and fell into the sea. The crew threw him benches and casks and a lowered boat picked the non-swimmer up after he was thirty-eight minutes in the water. He was lifeless for half an hour but was revived with apparently no ill effects. His overalls, full of tar and grease, operated like a life preserver. He made it to the Columbia and was last traced at the Willamette Post in the winter of 1813-1814.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: ChSoc XLV, p. 48, 58

Perrier, Moyse [variation: Moise Perier] (fl. 1844 - 1847) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly St. Polycarpe, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1844 - 1846); Middleman, Fort Alexandria (1846 - 1847); Middleman, Thompson River (1846 - 1847).

Moyse Perrier joined the HBC in 1844 and returned to Canada in 1847 at the end of his contract.

PS: YFASA 24-26; FtAlexPJ 7

Perry, Daniel [variation: Purry] (fl. 1811 - 1812) (probably American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Fur trade employee

PFC Blacksmith and passenger, Beaver (ship) (1811 - 1812); Blacksmith, Fort George [Astoria] (1812).

Daniel Perry was engaged by Astor's PFC in New York in October, 1811 as a blacksmith. He sailed from New York on the Beaver [Cornelius Sowle] arriving at Fort Astoria May 9, 1812. As he appeared only once on the records, he likely stayed on the Beaver rather than working at Astoria. If so, he was likely in Sitka in October and with the vessel when it was interned in Canton.

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria SS: K. W. Porter, John Jacob Astor, p. 475-78; Howay, A List of Trading Vessels

Perry, Thomas [variation: Parry] (fl. 1834 - 1840) (British: English)

Birth: probably Nantwich, Cheshire, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Lama (brig) (1834 - 1836); Cook, Lama (brig) (1836 - 1837); Cook, Cadboro (schooner) (1837 - 1839); Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1839 - 1840).

Thomas Perry joined the HBC on October 8, 1834. He eventually returned to the British Isles on the barque Nereide and was discharged in London on April 22, 1840.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 14-15, 19; YFDS 5c-7, 10; FtVanASA 3-5; log of Nereide 2; HBCCont

Perry, William (fl. 1834 - 1836) (British: English)

Birth: probably Liverpool, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Dryad (brig) (1834 - 1836).

William Perry joined the HBC in Oahu (along with Lieven Penwell) on January 10, 1834 and signed a contract on March 29, 1834 as a seaman for two years. By May of that year he was working on the Dryad which supplied coastal posts and the Sandwich Islands and returned with it to England on October 1, 1835. He has not been traced beyond his arrival in England in April, 1836.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 14-15; YFDS 5c-6; FtVanASA 3

Petaín, Jacques (fl. 1821) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

NWC Milieu, Columbia Department (1821).

Jacques Petaín was a member of a large group of NWC employees who transferred to the HBC at the time of coalition in 1821.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 9

Peter [1] (fl. 1811) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: Cape Disappointment, Oregon Territory - March 24, 1811

Maritime employee

NWC Seaman, Tonquin (ship) (1811).

Peter [1] joined the crew of the Tonquin [Capt. J. Thorn] as a seaman in February 1811 when the vessel operated by the PFC stopped at Hawaii. After arriving at the mouth of the Columbia on March 22, 1811, and after two days of efforts to establish a safe passage across the bar, the captain sent out Peter, fellow Sandwich Islander Harry, Stephen Weeks, Job. Aiken, and John Coles in the pinnace to take soundings. When the small vessel filled with water, Aiken and Coles were lost but Weeks, Harry and Peter stripped off their shirts and managed to right the pinnace, bailing it out with their hands. The cold, however, was too much for Peter, and he succumbed to the cold after the pinnace made it to shore. Weeks and Harry were rescued and on March 28, PFC clerks Gabriel Franchere and François Benjamin Pillet returned with six Sandwich Islanders and interred Peter's body at the beach.

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria PPS: ChSoc XLV, p. 73-75

Peter [2] (fl. 1837 - 1844) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1838 - 1839); Passenger, Vancouver (barque) (1840); Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1841 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Victoria (1843 - 1844); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1844).

Peter [2] joined the HBC from Oahu in 1837. At the end of his two-year contract, he returned to Oahu in 1839 on the Vancouver. He renewed his contract with the Company and worked at a variety of locations in the Columbia Department, from the Alaskan panhandle to the southern bend of the Columbia. His last day of work with the Company was November 12, 1844, at which point he returned to Oahu and received his wages on Honolulu on December 31. He may have returned independently to the Columbia for, on April 27, 1845 at Fort Vancouver, a Pierre Jean aka Peter Wahi was baptised by the Catholic priests.

PS: HBCA YFASA 19-20, 22-24; YFDS 10, 15; FtVanASA 4-7; ShMiscPap 14; SandIsAB 3 PPS:CCR 1b

Peter [3] (fl. 1853) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Pekin (ship) (1853); Seaman, Mary Catherine (ship) (1853).

Peter [2] and [3] may be the same person. This Peter shipped aboard the HBC chartered vessel Pekin in Honolulu, probably in the summer of 1853, sailed to the Northwest Coast, and arrived back in Honolulu September 27, 1853 on the Mary Catherine. He was given the final balances of his wages when he arrived back.

PS: HBCA SandIsLonIC 3

Peterson, Charles F. (fl. 1851 - 1852) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1851 - 1852).

Charles F. Peterson made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison. While on the coast, he would have visited several coastal posts.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Peterson, John [1] (fl. 1814) (possibly British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

NWC Seaman, Columbia (schooner) (1814).

John Peterson got caught up in a mutiny plot on his way to the coast on the schooner Columbia in June 1814. The plot was hatched as the vessel was rounding Cape Horn on June 14, 1814 and the plan of Peterson and seamen John Decruz, John Peterson and boatswain John Carpenter to kill the first mate captain and officers was exposed by fellow crew member Thomas Smoke. As the officers had been warned, the mutiny didn't materialize and the four were put in irons. As Carpenter confessed, he was put in irons separate from the rest who had threatened to murder him for his confession. Peterson presumably disembarked at Fort Astoria where he disappears from record. (His friend, Carpenter, on the other hand, continued to make a nuisance of himself.)

PPS: Barry, "Peter Corney's", p. 356-57

Peterson, John [2] (fl. 1826 - 1828) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Cook, William & Ann (brig) (1826 - 1828).

John Peterson shipped on with the HBC in London in September 1826 and sailed to the coast on a supply voyage of the William & Ann. The vessel did no coastal trading and it was an uneventful voyage for Peterson. He arrived back in London with the vessel in February 1828.

PS: HBCA log of William & Ann 1

Petit, Amable (c. 1803 - 1876) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Berthier, Lower Canada - c. 1803

Death: St. Paul, Oregon - July 16, 1876

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Colville (1829 - 1831); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1831 - 1837); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1842); Settler, Willamette (1841+).

Amable Petit joined the HBC from Berthier in 1829. He spent the majority of his career at Fort Vancouver where he worked until December 15, 1841. From that point on, he became a settler in the Willamette Valley where he farmed and raised a family. In 1850, he settled his claim in the area. By September 1852, he was employed at the St. Paul mission and later was noted as being a verger. He died in July 1867 and was buried in St. Paul two days later.

Amable Petit likely had two wives and eleven children. He appears to have come west in 1829, leaving a wife, Marianne Boudrie/Beaudry and two sons, Amable (c.1822-?) and Hubert (?-m 1849) in Yamaska, Canada. However, on March 27, 1837, Amable Petit and Susanne Tawakon (?-1878) were married by Herbert Beaver; additionally, on December 27, 1838 their marriage was reconfirmed in the Catholic faith by a Catholic Priest. He and second wife Susanne had nine children: Charles (c.1837-73), Henri (1837-?), Marie (c.1838-73), Celeste (1842-58), Pierre (1845-?), François (1850-?), Louise (1853-54), Louisa Philomene (1855-?) and Flavie (1857-78).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2-6; YFDS 3b, 4b-7, 12; YFASA 9, 11-15, 19-21; BCA BCCR CCCath; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion County PPS: CCR 1a, 2a, 2b, 2c, 3a; Genealogical Material In Oregon Donation Land Claims, p. 74

Petit (Gobin), Jean Baptiste [variation: Petite] (c. 1811 - 1898) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Michel de Yamaska, Lower Canada - c. 1811 (born to Antoine Gobin and Angelique Gaucher)

Death: Marion County [Champoeg], Oregon Territory - October 28, 1898

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1832 - 1833); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1833 - 1834); Middleman, Fort McLoughlin (1834 - 1835); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1837); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1839); Middleman, South Party (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1841); Settler, Willamette (1841).

Jean Baptiste Petit, from St. Michel de Yamaska, joined the HBC in 1831 as a middleman and spent outfit 1831-1832 in Lac La Pluie before coming to the Columbia. He retired in 1841 and settled in the Willamette River Valley to become a farmer. He died in the parish of Brooks, Oregon in 1898 at the age, he claimed, of ninety-three although he may have been eighty-five. Because of his advanced age he outlived most of his children.

Jean Baptiste Petit (Gobin) had three wives and nine or more children. By the time he had settled in the Willamette, he and an unnamed Indian woman had two sons, Toussaint (1835-?) and Jean Baptiste (II) (1837-58). On August 23, 1841 he married Marguerite Vernier (c.1819-58); their children were: François Xavier (1842-?), Angelique (1845-73), Julie (1849-76), Isabelle (1851-?), Antoine (1854-54), and Joseph (1856-?). His wife Marguerite died at St. Louis on May 7, 1858 and ten years later he married Elizabeth Depot on June 1, 1868 at St. Louis.

PS: HBCA YFASA 11-14, 19-21; YFDS 5a-7; FtVanASA 6; HBCABio; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion County PPS: CCR 1a, 2a, 3a, 3b

Petit, Thomas (1797 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Yamaska, Lower Canada - 1797

Death: possibly Red River Settlement [Manitoba]

Fur trade employee

HBC Steersman, Columbia Department (1828 - 1829); Steersman, Fort Vancouver (1829 - 1830).

Thomas Petit joined the HBC as a steersman on November 10, 1820 (although later records indicate 1817), as a gouvernail/steersman. Between 1821-1828 he was a steersman in three districts east of the Rockies (English River, Lac La Pluie, and Athabasca) before coming to the Columbia in 1828. On July 5, 1830 he returned east of the mountains, served in the Saskatchewan and Lac La Pluie Districts and in 1835 retired to Red River.

Thomas Petit had one wife and two children. On May 31, 1825, he married Jeunevieve Cadotte with whom he had at least one son and one daughter.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 8-9; YFDS 3b; HBCABio

Petit (Gobin), Antoine [a] (c. 1805 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Michel de Yamaska, Lower Canada - c. 1805

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1825 - 1826); Labourer, McLeod's Umpqua Expedition (1826); Untraced vocation, Umpqua Expedition (1826 - 1827); FSB Middleman, New Caledonia (1827 - 1829); HBC Middleman, Thompson River (1829 - 1835); Middleman and route, Thompson River (1835 - 1836); Middleman, Thompson River (1836 - 1841); Middleman, South Party (1841 - 1842); Middleman, Fort Vancouver depot (1842 - 1843); PSAC Middleman, Cowlitz Farm (1843 - 1844); HBC Stoker, Beaver (steamer) (1843 - 1844) (for four months); PSAC Middleman, Cowlitz Farm (1843); Labourer, Cowlitz Farm (1844 - 1845); HBC Horsekeeper, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1849).

Antoine Petit (a) joined the HBC in 1825 from the parish of St. Michel de Yamaska, coming to the Columbia in the same year. He didn't appear often in the records, but, on Saturday, July 16, 1826, Alexander Roderick McLeod, who called him Gobin, referred to him as "one of our unexperienced hands" (FtVanPJ 2, fo. 16). In outfit 1835-1836 he was also employed as a route on the Athabasca River as part of the brigade. His departure in 1849 may have been desertion prompted by the California Gold Rush for he is listed but without wages. He may have returned to the area but did not work for the HBC.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 1-6; YFASA 5-9, 11-15, 19-20, 22-32; YFDS 2a, 3a-3b, 4b-7, 14; HBCABio; FtVanPJ 2

Petit (Gobin), Antoine [b] (c. 1811 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Yamaska, Lower Canada - c. 1811

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1831 - 1832); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1832 - 1834); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1834); Middleman, Columbia Department (1834 - 1836).

Antoine Petit (Gobin) [b], a HBC employee, was exchanged from Saskatchewan for another employee in the fall of 1831. He left the Columbia for east of the Rockies on October 1, 1834.

PS: HBCA YFDS 4b-5c; YFASA 12-15

Petrain, Joseph [variation: Petrin, Petrait] (c. 1820 - 1876) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1820 (born to Jacques Petrain and Marie Anne Placie)

Death: probably Washington Territory - 1876

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1843 - 1846); Baker, Fort Vancouver (1843 - 1846); Baker, Fort Vancouver (1848 - 1849).

Joseph Petrain joined the HBC at Lachine in 1837 and worked as a middleman and baker at Fort Vancouver. On March 1, 1849, he went to California, a year short of the end of his contract. Petrain returned in November and established a 526 acre [212.9 ha] claim in Fruit Valley, north of Vancouver. In 1857, he was contracted to work as a carpenter and later he was called in as a witness over HBC claims in the area.

Joseph Petrain had two successive wives and seven recorded children. On April 19, 1843, he married a fourteen-year old Marie Wagner (c.1829-47). Their short-lived children were Catherine (1844-44), Joseph (1845-46), and Joseph Ovide (1846-48). A still young Marie/Marianne died on December 20, 1847. On August 14, 1848, he married Catherine Dolan, from Ireland. Their recorded children were James (1849-?), Charles (1851-?), Mary Jane (1853-?), and Julie Agnes (1855-55).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 4-7, 9; YFASA 19-20, 22-28; YFDS 19 PPS: CCR 1b; Washington Territory Donation Land Claims, p. 186

Petrelus, Peter [variation: Pontilliows] (fl. 1848 - 1849) (possibly British)

Birth: possibly British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1848 - 1849).

Peter Petrelus joined the HBC in London on September 6, 1848 as a seaman on the barque Columbia. He sailed to the coast and, on May 6, 1849 he and eight others deserted to join the American parties heading toward the mines (some days before, the whole ship's company had applied to Captain James Cooper for their discharge). Although his name remained on the books for four years, he likely did not work again for the HBC.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; log of Columbia 10; FtVanCB 38; YFASA 30-31

Petty, Charles H. (fl. 1850 - 1851) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1851).

Charles H. Petty made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply vessel, Norman Morison. While on the coast, he would have serviced Fort Simpson and Sitka.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; YFASA 30-31

Philips, Charles [variation: Phillips] (fl. 1848 - 1861) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1848); Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1850); Cuddy servant, Princess Royal (barque) (1858 - 1861).

Charles Philips joined the HBC barque Vancouver when it passed through Oahu. He sailed with it to the mouth of the Columbia where it was wrecked on May 7, 1848. According to Vancouver records, he "settled at Columbia" (ShMiscPap 11, fo. 21d-22). Other records, however, indicate that he, or a person of the same name, may have later become part of the outward crew of the Norman Morison, a vessel which first brought settlers to Vancouver Island.

He appears to have picked up work in 1858 by acting as a cuddly servant on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 11; YFASA 29-31; log of Princess Royal 5-7 SS: Mouat, p. 213

Phillips, James M. (fl. 1852 - 1853) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Landsman, Norman Morison (barque) (1852 - 1853).

James M. Phillips, who appears to have been in the military, made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison.

A short undelivered December 23, 1852 letter to Phillips from a cousin, James Beard, conveying family information, rests in the HBCA.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; ShMiscPap 9a PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 282-83

Phillips, John [variation: Phillip] (fl. 1833 - 1835) (British: English)

Birth: probably London, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Eagle (brig) (1833).

John Phillip joined the HBC on December 7, 1833 for five years and left London shortly after for the Northwest Coast on the brig Eagle. After a delay caused by three stops, Phillips and the Eagle arrived at Fort Vancouver on October 3, 1834. There was further delay when the Eagle had to help the brig Lama unload its goods when the latter became stuck downriver. After the completion of the building of a fur storage room and the loading of furs from the Pacific slopes destined for England, the Eagle departed Fort Vancouver and arrived back in London in June 1835. After his arrival, Phillips did not continue to serve on the Eagle, but appears to have worked on another HBC vessel to complete his contract.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 14; log of Eagle 2

Phillips, John [b] (fl. 1848 - 1849) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Cook, Columbia (barque) (1848 - 1849).

John Phillips [b] shipped on with the HBC in London in September 1848 and sailed to the coast on the Columbia. He appeared twice in the logs, once for having fought with the steward James Brooks on the outward voyage, and once at Fort Vancouver on June 1, 1849 for deserting the vessel almost a month after nine of his shipmates left for the gold fields of California. The results of his efforts to find gold have not been traced.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; log of Columbia 10; YFASA 30-31

Phillips, John [a] (fl. 1849 - 1856) (Undetermined origin)

Birth: possibly St. Mary's, England

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1850); Middleman, Fort Rupert (1850 - 1851); Labourer, Fort Rupert (1851 - 1852); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1854 - 1856).

John Phillips [a] came to Vancouver Island from England on the Norman Morison. After arriving at Fort Victoria on March 24, 1850, he spent the next four years at Fort Rupert. He disappeared from record around 1856.

PS: HBCA YFASA 29-32; FtVicASA 1-4

Phillips, William [variation: Philips] (fl. 1835 - 1841) (British: English)

Birth: probably in or near Southampton, Hampshire, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Beaver (steamer) (1835 - 1840); Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1840 - 1841).

William Phillips joined the HBC on August 29, 1835 for five years and came to the coast on the stripped down Beaver, which on the coast became an operational steamer. In May 1837, he joined William Wilson and George George on a work stoppage, possibly as a ruse to get higher pay and in January 1838 was actively involved in a full scale mutiny. Phillips worked on the steamer until October 31, 1840, the end of his contract, and returned to England on the barque Vancouver shortly after.

Picard, Abraham (fl. 1821 - 1828) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1821 - 1824); Middleman, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825); Middleman, New Caledonia (1825 - 1826); Middleman, Thompson River (1826 - 1827); Montreal Pay List, Thompson River (1827 - 1828).

Abraham Picard worked for the HBC in New Caledonia and returned to Montreal in 1827.

PS: HBCA YFASA 1-2, 4-6, 8; YFDS 1a, 2a; FtStJmsLS 1

Picard, Andre [standard: André] [variation: Piccard] (c. 1781 - 1846) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Thomas, Quebec - c. 1781

Death: St. Paul, Oregon Territory - May 9, 1846

Fur trade employee

NWC Milieu, Columbia Department (1811 - 1813); Milieu, New Caledonia (winter 1813 - 1814); Milieu, Columbia Department or New Caledonia (1814 - 1822); HBC Middleman, Thompson River (1822 - 1823); Middleman, Fort Okanagan (1822 - 1823); Milieu or middleman, Columbia Department (1823 - 1826); Middleman, Thompson River (1825 - 1826); Interpreter, Thompson River (1825 - 1826); Interpreter in charge, Thompson River/Spokane (1826 - 1827); Middleman, Thompson River/Spokane (1826 - 1827); Middleman, Fort Okanagan (1827 - 1829); Interpreter in charge, Fort Okanagan (1827 - 1829); Middleman, Thompson River (1828 - 1831); Post master and middleman, Thompson River (1831 - 1832); Interpreter, Thompson River (1832 - 1836); No wages for District statements, Fort Vancouver general charges (1833 - 1834); Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1834 - 1836) (no furs for outfit); Settler, Willamette (1836 - 1842+).

André Picard joined the NWC in 1800 and worked with them at an unknown location to 1811. Between 1811-1814 he was found working in the Columbia or New Caledonia and is presumed to have worked there until the coalition, at which time he joined the HBC. He spent most of his career as a middleman but later on became an interpreter. In 1827, when Picard was in charge of Okanagan, Thompson River clerk Archibald McDonald noted that Picard was "Ingenious - speaks the Okanakan well - is weak as a Voyageur" (HBRs X, p. 229). In 1833-1834, he sold horses to botanist, David Douglas, who was once again in the area. In 1836-1842 he is listed as being a settler and freeman in the Willamette River Valley during which time he sold furs and grain to the Company. He died in 1846 at St. Paul, Oregon. Being one of the twelve earliest settlers on French Prairie, Picard is celebrated by a plaque on a boulder at Old St. Paul Cemetery.

André Picard had two wives and at least five children. With his first wife, who had died before 1839, he no doubt had at least one daughter, most likely Emelie (c.1822-c.1900) for by 1827 was noted by Simpson as having a wife and two girls. He chose Marie/Marguerite Okanogan as his wife probably around 1830 and formalized his marriage on January 21, 1839. His recorded children with Marie/Marguerite were Jean Baptiste (c.1830-?), Basile (c.1832-1843) and Regis (c.1836-?).

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 9, 10; HBCA FtKamPJ 1; FtVanAB 10; YFASA 1, 4-9, 11-15; FtVanASA 1-6; FtKamPJ 2; YFDS 2a-3a, 5b-5c, 8, 10-11; HBCABio PPS: HBRs X, p. 229; CCR 1a, 2a

See Also: Laframboise, Michel (Son-in-Law); Robillard, Cuthbert (Relative)

Piccard, Maurice [variation: Morrice Picard] (fl. 1813 - 1825) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

NWC Milieu, Willamette Post (1813 - 1814); Milieu, Brigade to Fort William (1814); Untraced vocation, Snake Country (1825).

Maurice Piccard joined the NWC at Fort William in 1813 on a two year contract. He spent the winter of 1813-1814 at the Willamette Post and returned to Fort William and Montreal in the spring of 1814. By 1825, he was working as a freeman working out of Fort des Prairies and was encountered just east of the Continental Divide in Montana as part of the Snake expedition. He took P. S. Ogden's letter explaining the 1825 desertion to the Americans back to Edmonton House.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: HBRs XIII, p. 64n1, 243; Coues, p.875

Pichette (Dupré), Louis (c. 1800 - 1876) (Canadian: French)

Birth: St. Ours, Lower Canada - c. 1800 (born to Joseph Pichet and Angélique Ménard)

Death: St. Paul, Oregon - October 28, 1876

Fur trade employee

NWC Middleman, Pacific slopes (1821); HBC Brigade member, New Caledonia (1821 - 1824); Middleman, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825); Brigade member, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825); Middleman, New Caledonia (1825 - 1828); Middleman, Fort Colville (1828 - 1829); Trapper, Snake Party (1829 - 1833); Middleman, Snake Party (1829 - 1833); Untraced vocation (no wages), Fort Vancouver general charges (1833 - 1834); Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1834 - 1836); Trapper, Thomas McKay's Snake Party (1836 - 1840); Settler, Willamette (1841 - 1842).

Louis Pichette joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] in 1820 to work in the Northwest for three years and may have been part of the brigade from Athabasca to the Pacific slopes. In 1821, at the time of the coalition, he continued on with the HBC and spent most of his career on various trapping expeditions. In 1839 he settled a claim along Champoege Creek. Family tradition has it that he was a brigade runner carrying messages from brigades in the fields to headquarters. He died October 28, 1876 at St. Paul, Oregon.

Louis Pichette had two wives and (according to Munnick) twenty-one children. He had Edouard (1830-?) by an unnamed woman with whom he travelled in the Snake Country. On February 3, 1840, he formalized his marriage to Marguerite Bercier (c.1814-1890). Their recorded children were an unnamed child (1830-?), Louis (c.1832-before 1857), Dominique (c.1837-before 1863), Roc/Roque (1838-1902), Esther (1840-1860), Charles (1842-?), Catherine (1844-?), Emilie (1845-?), Vitale (c.1847-?), Louise Soulange (1848-?), Marie? (?-1850), Marguerite (1851-?), Marie (c.1853-?), an unnamed child (?-1854), Cecile (1856-?), Julianne (1857-?), Narcisse (1860-1863). (5 children are unaccounted for.) Marguerite (Bercier) Pichette died February 1, 1890 at St. Paul.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA YFDS 1a, 3b, 4b-7; FtStJmsLS 1; YFASA 1-2, 4-9, 11-15; FtAlexPJ 1; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-6; SnkCoPJ 9; HBCABio; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion County PPS: CCR 1a, 2a, 2b, 2c SS: Québécois in Orégon, p. 274-75

Picotte, Augustine (c. 1796 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably L'Assomption, Lower Canada - c. 1796

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1825 - 1826); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1826 - 1827).

Augustine Picotte was in the fur trade from about 1816 and by 1824 was working for the HBC at Lesser Slave Lake. He then spent two outfits in New Caledonia and in 1827 was paid in Montreal.

PS: HBCA YFASA 4-6

Piercy, George Frederick (fl. 1830 - 1843) (British: English)

Birth: probably London, England

Maritime employee

HBC Apprentice, Dryad (brig) (1830 - 1834); Seaman, Dryad (brig) (1835 - 1836); Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1837 - 1838); Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1838 - 1839); Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1839); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1839 - 1840); Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1840 - 1841); Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1841); Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1841 - 1843).

George Frederick Piercy joined the HBC, possibly on January 1, 1830, as an apprentice seaman. He served out his apprenticeship working out of Fort Simpson on the Dryad, which serviced the Coast down to California and the Sandwich Islands for five years, and left on the same vessel for England in October 1835. After his arrival back in England around April 1836 he joined the last voyage of the HBC Eagle to Hudson Bay and had to winter on its shores. Before he reached London on October 13, 1837 he rejoined the HBC for a further five years. He sailed to the Northwest Coast from England once again on the barque Columbia and began working once again on coastal shipping on November 1, 1838. He sailed to England on the barque Cowlitz in the fall of 1842.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 14; log of Eagle 3; log of Columbia 3; FtVanASA 2-6, 8; YFASA 11-15, 20, 22; YFDS 4a—6, 9, 11; log of Cowlitz 1

Piette (Francant), Francois [standard: François] [variation: Faneant, Faneaiant, Fanianint, Fanevant, Fanian, Faignant, Fannaux] (c. 1798 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Sorel, Vaudreuil or Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1798

Death: possibly Cowlitz, Washington Territory

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1817); HBC Milieu, Columbia Department (1821 - 1824); NWC Milieu, Snake Party (1824 - 1825); HBC Trapper, Snake Party (1824 - 1825); Middleman, Columbia Department (1825 - 1826); Middleman, South Party (1826 - 1827); Middleman, Fort Langley (1827 - 1829); Steersman, Fort Langley (1827 - 1829); Steersman, Fort Langley (1829 - 1830); Boute, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1831); Steersman, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1836); Settler, Willamette or Cowlitz (1836 - 1838); Settler, Cowlitz (1838 - 1842+).

François Piette joined the NWC in 1817 and that year crossed the Rockies with Joseph LaRocque and transferred to the HBC in 1821. In 1824, he was engaged by Alexander Ross for his nine month trek through the Snake Country. One month after his return to Flathead Post, in the fall of 1824, he left that post for the Snake Country with Ogden's 1824-1825 Snake Expedition. Little mention was made of him but on September 14, 1825, Piette was sent by Ogden with dispatches as the Indian hired for the job refused to do it. In November, 1826, while on McLeod's Umpqua expedition, he and John Kennedy accompanied a botanist in the Umpqua River region. Piette worked at coastal fort sites, taking his family with him, and was in on the construction of Fort Langley in 1827, gradually moving up the coast with his family. In 1831 he was in on the building of the Nass River site of Fort Simpson as well as the construction of the 1834 relocated site at McLoughlin Harbour. Perhaps he wasn't used to the tides - on August 8, 1834, shortly after he arrived at the new site, he failed to secure a boat which drifted out to sea. Thereafter he appeared fairly frequently squaring timber, etc. for a new boat. He and his family left Fort Simpson in 1836 and went south to settle in the Willamette where they stayed for a year before moving to the Cowlitz area. In 1839, he helped the priests to establish their mission.

François Piette had one wife and two recorded children. On April 8, 1839, then farmer Piette formalized his marriage to Félicite, Sassetté. Their recorded children were Mathilde (c.1828), and Rachel (c.1836-?).

PS: HBCA NW CAB 2, 9; FtSimp[N]PJ 3; YFASA 1-9, 11-15; SnkCoPJ 1, 2; YFDS 3a-3b, 4b-7, 10-11; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 2-6; FtSimp[N]PJ 3 PPS: D. Douglas, Journal, p. 235-38; CCR 1a; Québécois in Orégon, p. 267

Pike, Jonas (fl. 1849 - 1887) (British: English)

Birth: probably Dorset, England

Death: November 1887

HBC Passenger, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1850 - 1851); PSAC Labourer, Cowlitz Farm (1851 - 1852); Labourer, Cowlitz Farm (1852 - 1853); Labourer, Cowlitz Farm (1853 - 1854).

Jonas Pike joined HBC/PSAC in England and came to Vancouver Island on the Norman Morison. He first worked for the HBC at Fort Simpson, where he refused to do duty on September 3, 1850, and then joined PSAC, working at the Cowlitz farm (Washington). He retired in 1854 and there was some movement on his account for the following year indicating that he may have been somewhere in the area.

PS: HBCA YFASA 29-32; YFDS 21; FtVicASA 1; FtVicDS 1; FtVanASA 9-11; PSACAB 37; Van-PL Colonist, January 24, 1888, p. 4 SS: Mouat, p. 213

Pilcher, Joshua (1790 - 1847) (American)

Birth: Culpeper, Virginia, United States - March 15, 1790 (born to Joshua and Nancy Pilcher)

Death: St. Louis, Missouri, United States - June 5, 1847

Fur trade officer

MFC Partner, Missouri Fur Company (1827); Trader, Rendezvous (1828); AFC Trader, Rendezvous (1836).

Joshua Pilcher, a St. Louis fur trader, had studied medicine and become a hatter before moving to St. Louis in 1815. Two years later he was one of the directors of the Bank of St. Louis. In 1819 he became a member of the Missouri Fur Company and the following year took over as president upon the death of its president, Manuel Lisa. In the winter of 1828-1829, Pilcher visited the HBC Flathead Post along with David Jackson, and had to exchange their very few furs they had for much needed supplies. He proposed in a letter to George Simpson that both the MFC and the HBC unite against Smith Jackson and Sublette, but Simpson rejected this (HBRX X, 56). Pilcher remained head of the MFC until it was dissolved between 1828-1830. He then joined the American Fur Company in charge of its affairs near Council Bluffs in 1831. In 1837 he became Indian agent for the Upper Missouri tribes and in 1838, succeeded William Clark as superintendent of Indian Affairs at St. Louis. He held this post until his death in 1847. According to Chittenden, Joshua Pilcher was a "man of good ability, strict integrity of character, and high standing in business and social circles" (Chittenden, p. 158).

PS: HBCA FtVanAB 23; MHS Chouteau PPS: HBRX X, p. xliii, 56 SS: Chittenden, p. 158; DAB Drumm, p. 601

Pill, Charles (fl. 1851 - 1852) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Cook, Norman Morison (barque) (1851 - 1852).

Charles Pill made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison. While on the coast, he would have visited several coastal posts.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Pillet, Francois Benjamin [standard: François] [variation: Francis] (fl. 1810 - 1814) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Death: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

PFC Passenger, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811); Clerk, Flatheads (October 13, 1813); Clerk, Fort George [Astoria] (winter 1813 - 1814).

Prior to coming to the coast François Benjamin Pillet learned fluent Cree indicating some prior experience in the fur trade. His interest was drawn to the PFC in the summer of 1810 when he hired on in Montreal. He, along with many other Canadiens, went to New York where he boarded the Tonquin for the Columbia, arriving at the mouth of the River in March 1811. After assisting in the construction of Fort Astoria, he left the post with David Stuart for the interior in July for two and a half months. That December, he joined Robert Stuart's group to investigate the possibility of erecting a post on the Willamette River. At the end of the following June he went with John Clarke's party to found Spokane House. One year later, in the spring of 1813, he was sent to oppose NWC clerk Nicholas Montour who was in charge of the Kootenae post situated at the southern end of the Kootenay River loop [Montana]. Somewhere around this time, Pillet and Montour had a duel, the only damage being bullet holes in their clothes. In the summer of 1813 when the PFC partners had decided to surrender Astoria to the NWC, Pillet chose not to join the NWC and bided his time fishing for sturgeon at Oak Point. On April 4, 1814, he left Fort George in a brigade of ten canoes returning east overland; however, he almost didn't make it for, on May 25th, his canoe hit some rocks and overturned. Fellow passengers Olivier Roy Lapensée and André Belanger were drowned but Pillet, William Wallace and a man named Harteau were rescued. After arriving in Canada, Pillet set himself up on a farm on the Ottawa River at the village of Lake of the Two Mountains, inhabited mostly by Iroquois and focused on a plain near the Roman Catholic church. On September 19, 1817, Ross Cox spent a couple of hours with Pillet and his family noting that Pillet:

...had a snug farm, a comfortable house, a handsome wife, and two pretty children, and altogether appeared to be in happy circumstances (Cox, p. 304)

Pillet was still living in 1854 but details of Pillet's family have not been traced.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: ChSoc LVX, p. 48, 86, 88, 92, 96, 115, 144, 145, 164-65, 195; A. Ross, Adventures, p. 103, 213, 248; Cox, p. 59, 75, 86, 101, 106, 304

Pillon, Jean Baptiste (fl. 1810 - 1816) (probably Canadian)

Birth: possibly in or near D'Autray, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

PFC Milieu, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (1810 - 1812); Milieu, Fort George [Astoria] (1813); Milieu, Fort Kootenay (1813 - 1814).

Jean Baptiste Pillon joined Wilson Price Hunt's PFC overland expedition at Mackinac around August 4, 1810. He crossed the Continental Divide in late summer, 1811, arriving at Fort Astoria around February 19, 1812. At Fort George [Astoria] he was engaged by the NWC on the October 17, 1813 when it took over the PFC. On January 13, 1816, a Jean Baptiste Pillon, from D'Autray, was engaged by McTavish, McGillivray & Co., to work at Fort William for three years as a middleman.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10; SHdeSB Liste

Pillon, Paul (fl. 1821 - 1825) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Pointe Claire, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822).

Paul Pillon originally signed on with the NWC [Jacques Vinet dit Larente] to work at Red River in the broad capacity of an everyday voyageur and farmer. In 1821, at the amalgamation of the HBC and the NWC, he may have signed on with the HBC for he is on record as working for the HBC in the Columbia District, probably as a member of the brigade, in outfit 1821-1822. An 1825 contract shows him working east of the Rockies as a middleman and/or route.

In 1824 Paul Pillon was betrothed to Helen Keith, daughter of James Keith.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA YFASA 1; HBCCont; Wills

Pin, Joseph (c. 1795 - c. 1841) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Sorel, Lower Canada - c. 1795

Death: Willamette Valley, Oregon Territory - c. 1841

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1821); HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1821 - 1826); Middleman, Fort Nez Perces (spring 1822); Middleman, Snake Party (1824 - 1825); Middleman, Fort Colville (1826 - 1838); Middleman, Fort Nisqually sheep farm (1838 - 1841); Settler, Willamette (1841).

Joseph Pin was engaged by the NWC [Alexander McKenzie] on September 17, 1814 to work at Michillimacinac as a middleman. The following year, he began work in the Northwest and, in 1817-1818, crossed the Rockies with Joseph Larocque. At the time of the coalition in 1821, he joined the HBC and in the 1820s was on Peter Skene Ogden's Snake Expedition. Little is known of him but, on March 21, 1825, Pin was ordered by William Kittson to pursue the groups horses which had been scattered by a surprise visit from a huge herd of buffalo. By July 16, of that year, he was heading back with Kittson and eighteen horses loaded with furs. He continued to work at a varied of posts until November 30, 1841 at which point he settled in the Willamette Valley of Oregon. Joseph Pin appears to have succumbed around that time.

After the death of Joseph, the family had a hard time. The Catholic Records cite family oral tradition that the two month old daughter Marguerite had "a hard time surviving, because her mother had no milk for her. She had to subsist on broth made from the heads of fish, which she sucked through a goose quill stuck in a whiskey bottle" (CCR 1, A-65).

Joseph Pin had one wife and five recorded children. On April 19, 1839, he formalized his marriage to Marguerite Kwe'he'ssest, Pend d'Oreille. Their children were Joseph II (c.1827-?), Nancy (1830-?), Jean Baptiste (c.1833-?), François (c.1836-?) and Marguerite (1839-1925). When widow Marguerite died in 1851, daughter Marguerite (1839-1925) was made a ward of Dr. John McLoughlin in Oregon City.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 2, 9; HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 4; YFASA 1, 3-9, 11-15, 19-21; SnkCoPJ 2, 3a; YFDS 2a, 3a-3b, 6-7, 12; FtVanAB 10; PSACAB 3; HBCA FtVanASA 1-6; HBCABio PPS: CCR 1a, 2a
See Also: Gravelle, Gideon (Son-in-Law)

Pincing, Charles (fl. 1852 - 1853) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1852 - 1853).

Charles Pincing made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison. While on the coast, he would have visited several coastal posts and appears to have made this voyage his only employment with the HBC.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Pineau, Joseph (fl. 1835 - 1846) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Sorel, Lower Canada

Death: probably Willamette Valley, Oregon

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Snake Party (1835 - 1837); Trapper, Snake Party (1837 - 1842); Middleman, Snake Party (1842 - 1845); Settler, Willamette (1845 - 1846).

Joseph Pineau joined the HBC from Sorel in 1835 and worked as a middleman and trapper in the Snake Country for the next ten years. He then settled in the Willamette.

Joseph Pineau partnered with a Snake woman (?-?) and had an unknown number of children. Four of their recorded children were Marguerite (c.1845-48), Louise (1846-?), an unnamed daughter (1847-48), and Angele (1848-?).

PS: OHS FtHallAB; HBCA YFASA 15, 19-20, 22-25; YFDS 6-7, 10; FtVanASA 3-7 PPS: CCR 2a, 3a

Pion, Louis [variation: Peon] (fl. 1813 - 1825) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly St. Anne, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Carpenter, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] of Fort Flathead (October 13, 1813); Carpenter, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1813 - 1821); Interpreter, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1813 - 1821); Labourer, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1813 - 1821); HBC Carpenter, Fort Okanagan (1821 - 1824); Interpreter, Fort Okanagan (1821 - 1824); Interpreter, Columbia Department (1824 - 1825).

Louis Pion joined the PFC in Montreal on August 26, 1811 to work as a middleman and carpenter for six months in Indian Country but went on to work for the NWC and HBC. The talented carpenter, who excelled at making tables, chairs, etc., and interpreter, sometimes doubled as a clerk. He still carried on associations with French Canada, for, on March 21, 1820, £35.11.1 was removed from his wages to pay a Thomas McCord for rent due on property in St. Anne. In the 1820s he became the subject of protracted correspondence between George Simpson and McGillivray, Thain & Company over the terms of his contract. Simpson felt that he was paid too much, was no clerk and had become too friendly with those above him. Consequently, Pion returned to Canada in 1824-1825.

Around 1814-1815, Pion appears to have paired with a native woman Mary "Sukomelk", daughter of the Okanagan tribe hereditary chief "Huistesmetxe" [1780-1865] (Walking Grizzly Bear) of the Douglas Lake area and the union most likely brought son William Pion into the world around 1816. Another son was Baptiste (c.1820-?) who was born in the Spokane area.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 10; NWCAB 2, 8, 9, 10; YFASA 1, 4; Servants' Characters and Staff Records, 1822-1830, A.34/g, p. 112; George Simpson August 18, 1825 letter to Mss. McGillivray Thain & Co. in Correspondence Book Outward (General) 1824-25, D.4/5, p. 73 PPS: HBRIS III, p. 85, 94-95, 452; HBCABio; Washington Territory Donation Land Claims, p. 171 SS: Dictionnaire Généalogique des Familles Canadiennes, vol 6, p. 375

Pion, William [variation: Peon, Peone, Puen] (c. 1816 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Colville/Colville Valley, Pacific Northwest - c. 1816 (born to Louis Pion and Okanagan native Mary "Sukomelk")

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

HBC Native apprentice, Thompson River (1828 - 1836); Middleman, Thompson River (1836 - 1837); Discharged, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Thompson River (1838 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Colville (1840 - 1842); Settler, Willamette (1842 - 1843).

William Pion joined the HBC in approximately 1828 and had a career that spanned both the fur trade and gold rush. After the fur trade, he worked as a guide, packer and linguist. His family adopted the name "Kalamalka" which, according to a local native linguist, is actually "Taramalka" meaning "round hill at the head of long lake." In outfit 1842-1843 he became a settler in the Willamette River Valley. In 1852 he settled a claim of 319 acres [129.1 ha] in Walla Walla County. In 1858 he became a packer for miners and in July of that year narrowly escaped with his life in an attack at McLaughlin Canyon in Washington Territory. He received a serious scalp wound. The following year, William packed in the Oblate Missionary, Father Pandosy and his group from Fort Colville to L'Anse au Sable and in the winter of 1859-1860, he took horses with supplies from Thompson River to the starving Indians in the Nicola Valley. In 1860, he sold his claim in Walla Walla and for his heroic efforts of taking in supplies, he was awarded scrip for a square mile [2.6 sq. km] of land which he located next to land which he pre-empted in the Kelowna area. In 1861 he discovered gold in the Cherry Creek area and with the proceeds built a fine house. Sometime after 1862, the building burned to the ground, and Peon, possibly for the crime of ripping the scalp off an Indian, was outlawed from the area by Judge Haynes. Peon headed south for a few years, leaving the deed in the care of a neighbour. When he returned, the deed had been stolen and other people were living on his land. William, who was illiterate, could apparently not prove his claim. The time and place of William's death have not been located.

William Pion's family life is unclear. In the 1820s he coupled with Charlotte, Okanagan and had one child, Anne (?-?) who claimed she was born in 1824. This begs for a much older William. Later, he took as a wife Julie LaRoche (c.1820-?) daughter of Chief Nicolas, Okanagan and half sister to Mary, one of his father's wives. They had several children, some of whom were Gideon (?-?), Bazile (c.1838-?), Baptiste (?-?) and Marie (c.1839-?).

The descendants of William claim that Bonaparte Creek and Mountain in the U.S. Okanagan side, were named after his descendant's family although it was more like named directly after the French emperor.

PS: HBCA YFASA 9, 11-12, 14-15, 17, 19-20, 22-23; FtVanASA 2-7; YFDS 4b-7; FtVanCB 41; HBCABio; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion County PPS: Washington Territory Donation Land Claims, p. 171 SS: Buckland, F. M., "Peon" as cited in The Fourteenth Report of the Okanagan Historical Society, 1950, pp. 35-43; Corner, Ray, "Glenmore" as cited in The Thirty Fifth Report of the Okanagan Historical Society, 124-25; Laing, p. 471
See Also: Laprade, Alexis (Son-in-Law)

Pitt, William (fl. 1841 - 1844) (British: English)

Birth: probably London, England

Maritime employee

HBC Cook, Vancouver (barque) (1841 - 1844).

William Pitt joined the HBC from London on September 1, 1841 originally as a seaman but soon found himself cooking because of the instability of Mr. Harper, the cook. He did other jobs for, on December 19, 1842, while sawing wood on the windlass, he accidentally cut through two strands of the fore tack. Other than that, he uneventfully continued with the same vessel until he returned to London on June 11, 1844.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 11; log of Vancouver [3] 1; YFASA 22-23

Plante, Antoine [1] (fl. 1804 - 1814) (probably Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Ours, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

PFC Milieu, Pacific slopes (1812 - 1813); NWC Milieu, Fort George [Astoria] (October 13, 1813); Milieu, Thompson

River (winter 1813 - 1814).

More than one Antoine Plante was working in the fur trade at the same time but the above Antoine Plante may have joined the NWC [McTavish, Frobisher] on April 28, 1804 from St. Ours, Lower Canada. That same year, he was found in the Red Lake area. Six years later, between August 4, 1810 and February 19, 1811, between Mackinac and Nadoway [Nawdoway], the above Antoine Plante joined Wilson Price Hunt's PFC overland expedition. He crossed the Continental Divide in late summer, 1811, arriving at Fort Astoria on February 19, 1812. Plante joined the NWC on 23 Oct, 1813, and wintered at Thompson River. As he disappeared from records at that time, he may have headed for Montreal in April, 1814. Antoine Plante [1], according to Jerome Peltier, may possibly be the father or uncle of Antoine Plante [2].

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: K. W. Porter, Roll of Overland, p. 110 SS: Coues, p. 268; Peltier, Antoine Plante, Mountain Man, p. 7

See Also: Plante, Antoine (possible Son); Onskanha, Louis (Relative)

Plante, Antoine [2] (c. 1812 - 1890) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Oregon Territory - c. 1812 (possibly born to Antoine Plante [1] and a Flathead woman)

Death: near Arlee, Montana, United States - February 15, 1890

Freeman

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1828 - 1830); Trapper, Snake Party (1830 - 1832); Trapper, Fort Colville (1832 - 1837); Trapper, New Caledonia (1837 - 1838); Trapper, Fort Colville (1838 - 1839); Freeman trapper, Columbia Department (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Colville (1840 - 1843); Deroineur, Fort Colville (1843 - 1846); Trapper, Fort Colville (1849 - 1843).

One year after joining the HBC, a seventeen year old Antoine Plante [2], described as a "half-breed Flathead Indian" (Mullan, p. 30), was found herding horses from Fort Nez Percés to Fort Vancouver an association that would repeat itself. In the 1840s according to his biographer, the enterprising Plante built a horse herd, from which he would exchange one fattened horse for two worn-out horses brought in by the immigrants. In 1849, Plante and his family tried their luck in the California gold fields. However, his gains were spent curing a fever which left him bald. Around 1852, Plante and his family settled on the Spokane River at a strategic crossing, about forty miles [64.4 km] east of Spokane and in the 1850s guided government parties. Around 1856, Plante and his brother-in-law began a ferry service between their farms on the Spokane River; this service ran until 1865 when a nearby bridge upriver put him out of business. During the native rebellions, Plante's homestead was burned to the ground. In 1878 and now classified as an Indian, he had to move out of his homestead to make way for white settlers and a railroad. That year, he and other former fur traders moved into the Jocko Valley of Montana Territory but five years later, he lost more land to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company right of way. Antoine Plant died near Arlee, Montana on the Jacko River in February and was buried in the St. Ignatius cemetery, Montana, on the 15th of that month.

According to his biographer, Antoine Plante had two wives and three children. In 1834 he married Mary Thérèse, (?-?), Pend Orielle. Their children were Julia (1836-?) and François (1838-?). After Antoine and Mary Thérèse separated, Mary Thérèse married Thomas Stensgar. Plante then married Mary (?-?) a Flathead native and they had one son, Charles (?-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 8-9, 12-15, 19-20, 22-25, 27; FtVanASA 3-7; YFDS 3a-3b, 4b-7, 11, 14 PPS: McLoughlin, Letters of, p. 1, 3; Owen, p. 182; Mullan, p. 30 SS: Peltier, Antoine Plante; The Mountain, p. 291-296; C. M. Williams, p. 107-117; Kingston, "Colville Road..." p. 75

See Also: Plante, Antoine (possible Father); Stensgar, Thomas (Relative); Onskanha, Louis (Relative)

Plante, Charles (c. 1791 - 1854) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably in or near St. Cuthbert, Lower Canada - c. 1791

Death: while returning from California gold fields - 1854

Freeman

NWC Milieu, North West Company (1811); Milieu, Pacific slopes (1821); HBC Milieu, Columbia Department (1821 - 1824); NWC Middleman trapper, Snake Party (1824 - 1826); HBC Freeman, Snake Country (1826 - 1827); Freeman trapper, Snake Party (1828 - 1833); Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1833 - 1834); Trapper but no furs, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1834 - 1835); Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1835 - 1836); NWC Trapper, Columbia Department (1836 - 1837); Trapper, Willamette (1837 - 1838); HBC Settler, Willamette (1838 - 1842+).

Charles Plante joined the NWC from Montreal on December 22, 1810 as a wintering milieu for three years. In 1821, while in the Columbia, he transferred to the HBC becoming a freeman in 1826. He served with Peter S. Ogden on his Snake Country expeditions and was considered a valuable man in the fur trade. In 1830, Ogden told John Work that Plante, Augustin Finlay and Louis Kanota were natural leaders in the fur trade. Plante took out a land claim a few miles north of St. Paul and by 1842 had a productive farm on one-hundred enclosed acres [40.5 ha]. During this time, he continued to sell furs and grain to the Company. Between February and June 1854 he was in California seeking gold and when he returned to register his land claim, he made it to the Surveyor's Office but couldn't make it all the way home, dying at the home of his friend Charles Rondeau.

Charles Plante had six wives and three recorded children. By his first wife, an unnamed woman, he had sons Jean Baptiste (c.1828-1843) and Xavier (c.1830-?). Next, he married Agathe, Cayuse (c.1820-1842) on January 21, 1839. They had no recorded children. Then, three years later on February 7, 1842, one month after Agathe's death on January 5, Charles married Susanne, Cayuse (c.1823-43). They had one child, Magdeleine (c.1842-?). After that, on April 24, 1843, four months after Susanne's death on January 10, Charles married Elizabeth, Chinook (c.1829-1843). They had no recorded children. Then, on December 18, 1843, two months after the death of his fourteen or twenty year old wife Elizabeth (records contradictory) on October 23, 1843, he tied the knot again, this time to Pelagie, Chinook (c.1791-1851). They had no recorded children. Pelagie died seven years later on September 22, 1851 and, less than three months later, on December 17, 1851, Charles married Marguerite Youlka, Uculet, widow of Jean Baptiste Dubreuil. They had no recorded children.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 9; HBCA YFASA 1-6, 9, 12-14; YFDS 3b, 4b-6, 8, 10-11; FtVanASA 2-6; FtVanCB 6; OHS 1842 Census; HBRS XXVIII, p. 137 PPS: CCR 1a, 2a, 2b
See Also: Dubreuil, Jean Baptiste (Relative)

Plante, Michel (fl. 1828 - 1832) (Mixed descent)

Death: Salmon River [Idaho] - February 1832

Freeman

HBC Boute, Fort Vancouver (1828 - 1830); Freeman trapper, Snake Party (1830 - 1832).

Michel Plante began working for the HBC in 1828, possibly as a freeman trapper. He joined John Work's expeditions into the Snake area. After leaving Fort Vancouver on August 18, 1832, he became violently ill with malaria and almost died. Around February, 1832, while trying to descend the Salmon river in a hide canoe, Plante and Augustin Dumais drowned. On March 21, 1832, his brother-in-law, who had been travelling with him in the brigade, died of hemlock poisoning.

It is suspected that Michel Plante had one wife, Charlotte, Chinook, and one recorded child Antoine (c.1832-?) whose father, an employee, was the "late....Plante".

PS: HBCA YFASA 8-0, 11-12; YFDS 3a-3b, 4b-5a; FtVanAB 19; FtVanASA 2; SnkCoPJ 11 PPS: CCR 1a

Plomer, Harry [variation: Henry] (fl. 1830 - 1838) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia Department (1829 - 1830); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1831); Passenger, Ganymede (barque) (1831).

Harry Plomer could possibly be a European who worked out of Hawaii. He began work on coastal shipping with the HBC on February 1, 1830. He was discharged to Oahu on November 1, 1831 sailing in the Ganymede. He likely reappeared in the Columbia again in 1838, when apparently employed as a labourer.

Harry Plomer had one wife, a native, Peggy (?-?) of unknown origin, and one recorded son, George (?-bap.1838-?). His son was baptized Anglican at Fort Vancouver, indicating the family was living there or nearby at the time.

PS: HBCA FVASA 2; YFDS 3b-4b; YFASA 9, 11; BCA BCCR CCCath PPS: McLoughlin, p. 230

Plomondo, Simon [variation: Plamandon, Plamondo, Plamondeau, Plomando, Plomondon] (c. 1802 - 1881) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably St. Francois district of Trois Rivières, Lower Canada - c. 1802

Death: probably Cowlitz area, Washington Territory - 1881

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1823 - 1824); Middleman, Fort St. James (1824); Labourer, Fort Alexandria (1824 - 1825); Middleman, New Caledonia (1825 - 1827); Middleman, Fort Langley (1827 - 1828); Middleman, Fort Colville (1827 - 1828); Middleman, Fort Langley (1828 - 1830); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1831); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1834); Untraced vocation, Fort Nisqually (1834 - 1835); Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1835 - 1836); PSAC Farmer, Cowlitz (1835 - 1865).

Tall handsome Simon Plomondo appears to have descended from New Englanders captured by the Abenaki as children and raised by them. Unlike his second cousin, François Noel Annance, Simon did not have the benefit of an education. He left his St. François home at the age of fifteen and joined the NWC in Athabasca as a middleman in 1820. At the time of the coalition one year later, he joined the HBC and continued as a middleman in Athabasca before moving to the Caledonia area in 1823. He worked steadily until November 1, 1834 and, in 1835, went from being a middleman to a farmer in the Cowlitz where from 1836 he farmed for the rest of his life. His 1829-1830 marital partnership with the daughter of the Cowlitz trader, Scanewah, certainly would have put him in good stead with any natives in the area. After retiring, at which point he appeared to have only one arm, he did the odd job for PSAC but all did not go well. His third known wife, Harriet Pelletier, niece to F. N. Blanchet, one of the Roman Catholic priests who established a mission in the area, went to live with her sisters in Vancouver and Oregon City. Plomondo was appointed Indian Agent in 1855 but he held the position for less than a year during that tense time as it was felt that he was too close to the natives. Plomondo was left to raise his mixed native family and in doing so, incurred debts; he had to sell his farm and spent his old age living with friends and relatives.

Simon Plomondo had several wives and children. An Athabasca or New Caledonia family have not been traced. Around 1829-1830, he partnered with the daughter of the Cowlitz trader Scanewah (?-c.1839) and together they appear to have had Sophie (c.1830-?), Simon (c.1831-?), There`se (1831-?), Marie Anne (c.1834-?), and Genevieve (c.1836). On April 8, 1839, he married Emelie [Finlay], Squeshise, mixed descent widow of Pierre Bercier. Their recorded children were Lena (1837-?), Moyse (1840-?), Angelique (1841-?) and Baptiste (c.1843-?). After the death of Emelie, he married Louise Henriette Pelletier (c.1812-?), the niece of Archbishop François Blanchet. Their only child was Francis (c.1849-?).

The town of Toledo, Washington is the approximate site known as Plamondon's Landing.

PS: HBCA YFDS 1a, 3a-7, 10-11; FtStJmsLS 1; FtStJmsRD 3; FtAlexPJ 1; YFASA 4-9, 11-14; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-6; log of Columbia 4; FtVicCB 30; PSACAB 3; HBCABio; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Lewis County PPS: CCR 1a SS: Wallin; The Fort Langley Journals
See Also: Cottenoire, Michel Jr. (Son-in-Law); Annance, Francis Noel (Relative); Annance, Joseph (Relative); Bercier, Pierre (Relative)

Plouff, Joseph (fl. 1814 - 1822) (Canadian: French or Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly St. Pierre, Berthier, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Middleman, Pacific slopes (1817); HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822).

Several Joseph Plouffs, from a variety of locations in Lower Canada, were active in the fur trade from 1793. This Joseph Plouff was probably engaged by the NWC on June 21, 1814 as a middleman in the Northwest. He renewed his contract in 1816 to work at Fort William and was found on record on the Pacific slopes in 1817 when he was listed with a group crossing the Rockies with Joseph LaRocque. He was still working for the NWC in 1821 when he joined the HBC but appears to have left the Columbia area for Montreal that year.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; NWCAB 2, 9; HBCA YFASA 1; FtGeo[Ast]AB 7

Plouffe, Antoine [variation: Plouf] (c. 1809 - 1836) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Sorel, Lower Canada - c. 1809

Death: Flathead River, Columbia Department - July 1836

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Colville (1828 - 1835); Boute, Fort Colville (1835 - 1836).

Antoine Plouffe joined the HBC in 1828 and in outfit 1829-1830 received an extra gratuity for services to George Simpson. He was to have worked to the end of his contract in 1838 but drowned in the Flathead River in July 1836.

He appears to have had one wife, Angelique Slawa, and two children, Rosalie (c.1834-?) and Charlotte (c.1836-?). Rosalie was raised by her uncle Joseph.

PS: HBCA YFASA 8-9; 11-16; YFDS 3b, 4b-7; FtVanASA 2-4 PPS: CCR 1a
See Also: Boucher, James (Son-in-Law)

Plouffe (Carillon), Joseph [variation: Plouff, Plouf] (c. 1809 - 1849) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Berthier, Lower Canada - c. 1809

Death: Oregon City, Oregon - June 8, 1849

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1831 - 1832); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1832 - 1836); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1836 - 1837); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1842); Blacksmith, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1844); Blacksmith, Willamette (1844 - 1846).

Joseph Plouffe (Carillon), according to the Morice's Dictionnaire historique des Canadiens, was born on April 10, 1797 at Berthier to Louis and Suzanne [Desrosiers] Plouffe but, likely more accurate is the HBC abstracts, which say he was born c.1809 in Berthier. Nothing is known of his early life but he joined the HBC in 1831 making his way west across the Rockies to Fort Vancouver where he was given his first assignment at Fort Simpson. At the Nass site, he broke his leg and, after four years in the area, he returned to Fort Vancouver where, from 1842-1844 he worked as a blacksmith pounding out nails and other such items at the blacksmith's shop inside the stockades. From 1844 to his retirement in 1846, he worked at the Company blacksmith shop in the Willamette and during this time had likely settled in the area. In 1849, like many from French Prairie, Plouffe caught gold fever, left his family and seven children on the farm and headed south to California. After leaving, he learned that his wife, Thérèse, had left their house to follow James Boucher. Plouffe returned to try to locate his wife and eventually located Thérèse and James in Oregon City where, after several arguments, Plouffe was shot by James Boucher in the lower abdomen. The musket ball lodged in Plouffe's bone and he died instantly. Governor Lane of Oregon ordered an inquest on the body but Boucher fled north to continue his life in New Caledonia. Widow Thérèse married Baptiste LaRoque on September 9, 1850.

Joseph Plouffe had one wife and eight children. On June 17, 1839 he married Thérèse Makaina (?-?), daughter of the Hawaiian, Makaina, and Louise, Chehalis. Their recorded children were Rosalie (1840-?), Henriette (1841-47), Marie (1843-?), Archange (1844-51), Joseph (1845-50), Gedeon (1847-?), Jean Baptiste (1848-?) and Marie Louise (1849-?).

PS: HBCA FtSimp[N]PJ 3; YFASA 11-15, 19-20, 22-26; YFDS 4b, 5b-7; FtVanASA 3-6 PPS: CCR 1a, 1b, 2a, 2b, 3a, 4a SS: Morice, Dictionnaire Historique, p. 37
See Also: Mackaina (Father-in-Law)

Ploughboy, Joe (c. 1812 - ?) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: Hawaiian Islands - c. 1812

Fur trade employee

HBC Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1831); Seaman, Naval Department (1831 - 1832); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1832 - 1833); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1833 - 1837); Sawmill, Fort Vancouver (1833); Middleman, Nereide (barque) (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1840); Middleman, South Party (1840 - 1843); Middleman, California Estate (1843 - 1844); Middleman, South Party (1843 - 1844); Labourer, California Estate (1844 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1846 - 1847); Labourer, Snake Party (1847 - 1848); Labourer, Fort Nez Percés (1848 - 1849); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1849).

Joe Ploughboy enlisted with the HBC on June 16, 1831 in Oahu. He worked in a variety of places throughout the Columbia, including California, and, on September 5, 1849, the thirty-seven year old Sandwich Islander deserted, most likely for the gold fields of California.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 11-15, 19-20, 22-29; YFDS 4a, 5a-7, 21; FtVanCB 9; FtVanASA 3-7

Poah, Paul [variation: Pooao, Poak] (fl. 1814 - 1823) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: Hawaiian Islands

Death: probably Columbia Department, Pacific Northwest

Fur trade employee

PFC Labourer, Tonquin (ship) (1811); Labourer, Fort George [Astoria] (1811 - 1813); NWC Labourer, Fort George [Astoria] (1814); HBC Milieu, Columbia Department (1821 - 1823).

Paul Poah became a twelve-year employee of the fur trade. Poah joined the crew of the Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn] as a labourer around February 21, 1811 when the vessel stopped at Oahu and took on a complement of twelve Sandwich Islanders. One month later, on March 22, the Tonquin arrived at the mouth of the Columbia and, on April 12, Paul was noted at helping to unload the vessel. The Sandwich Islander stayed on shore, helped to construct the fort at Astoria and, on October 12 of that year, sailed up the Columbia River on the maiden voyage of the newly constructed vessel Dolly. When the PFC was taken over by the NWC, Poah stayed on with the latter. He likely continued with the NWC in the area between 1814 and 1821, when he transferred to the HBC. His movements have not been traced after 1823, but he quite likely married and settled locally.

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria; HBCA NWCAB 9; YFASA 2 PPS: ChSoc LVII, p. 711

Poirier, Antoine (fl. 1851 - 1852) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Snake Country (1851 - 1852).

Antoine Poirier began work for the HBC in the Snake Country on July 18, 1851. He retired in 1852 and has not been traced after that. He is likely the same Antoine Poirier listed in the 1848 Muster Rolls in 1848 during the Cayuse War, at which point he was a private in D, 7th Company.

PS: HBCA YFASA 31-21; YFDS 22; FtVanASA 9 PPS: Victor, The Early Indian Wars, p. 515

Poirier, Basil [variation: Basile, Basil Porrier] (c. 1774 - c. 1844) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1774/1788

Death: Willamette Valley, Oregon - c. July 16, 1844

Fur trade employee

NWC Middleman, Pacific slopes (1821); HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (1822 - 1823); Baker, Fort George [Astoria] (1823 - 1825); Baker, Columbia Department (1825 - 1826); Baker, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1844).

Bazil Poirier was engaged by the NWC from Montreal on December 27, 1810 to work for one season as a middleman and baker at Fort William. The following year he was posted at Fort William for three years and, after crossing the Rockies at an unknown date, worked as a baker, mostly at Fort Vancouver. He would have worked in the bakery in the old fort on the bluff and at two different bakeries in the new fort on the plains from 1829 making bread for the fort personnel and sea biscuits for the ships. His tools would have included a head axe, water bucket, dough cutters, a candlestick, kettles, pots, scales, weights, bisquit stamps and, of course, a large baking oven (1844 Inventory). While he was still employed, he died on his farm, across the river on the Portland side, on July 16, 1844. At the bakery, he was replaced by his assistant Joseph Petrain.

Bazil Poirier had three wives and seven children. His first wife he left behind in Canada. As early as 1823 he became the husband of Helene, Celiast, Clatsop; their children were: Xavier (c.1823-?), François (c.1825-?) and Alexander (c.1831?-?). When Helene learned that Bazil had a wife living in Canada, she left him to make her home with her sister, Mrs. Joseph Gervais. The three boys were later returned to their father. On December 29, 1838 he formalized his marriage to Louise Moatwas/Watelchie. Their children were Basile II (1834-?), Joseph (c.1836-1906), Pierre (1838-?), Ange`le (1840-?).

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 9; HBCA YFASA 1-6, 8-9, 11-15, 19-20, 22-24; FtGeo[Ast]AB 10-12; YFDS 2a, 3a, 5c-7; FtVanAB, B.223/d/155, MS 165; FtVanASA 1-6; BCA BCCR CCCath PPS: CCR 1a, 1b
See Also: Deroche, Charles (Son-in-Law); Haquet, Marie Louis (Son-in-Law); Labelle, Isaac (Relative)

Poirier, Jean Baptiste (c. 1807 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Vaudreuil, Lower Canada - c. 1807

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1829 - 1833).

Jean Baptiste Poirier joined the HBC from Vaudreuil in 1829 and he returned to Canada in 1833 at the end of his contract.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; YFASA 9, 11-13; YFDS 3b, 4b-5a

Poirier, Joseph [variation: Poere] (c. 1830 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: Lower Canada [Quebec] - c. 1830

Death: Sooke, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1849 - 1850); Middleman, Fort Vancouver depot (1850 - 1851); Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1851).

A nineteen year old Joseph Poirier joined the HBC from Quebec in 1849 as the fur trade was winding down in the Pacific Northwest. He retired one year early in 1851. For the next few years, his movements have not been traced but around 1859, he joined a large cavalcade with freight wagons and a pack train travelling through Washington territory to British Columbia. Along with the J. B. Brule and family, he settled at the mouth of the Sooke River (now Milne's Landing) adjacent to the Sooke [T'Sou-ke] longhouses and homesite. There he and the Brulez' rafted in sheep and cattle to supply the Vancouver Island exploring expedition and so began a livestock industry in the area. He pre-empted land there, sold it and moved with his growing family, his wife being the granddaughter of Brulez, to a nearby site. Later he worked for a logging contractor in Sooke and Saanich.

Joseph Poirier family life is unclear for he apparently had two wives and children and children by both of them; his second wife already had children by her first husband. On March 30, 1865 he married Helena/Ellen [Brulez] Thomas (1856-1925), daughter of Joseph and Marie Anne (of mixed Iroquois descent) Brule. They are said to have had fifteen children. Those recorded were Joseph (1868-1948), Marion/Maria Anna (1870-?), Adolphus (1871-?), William (1874-?), Louisa (1876-?), Ellen (c.1877-?), Jacob (1878-?), Maria Isabella (1880-1939), James (1883-?), Peter (1885-?), Adele (1889-?), Sarah (1890-c.1928) and Cecile (1893-?). Ellen Sr. died in 1925 and was buried in Milnes Landing cemetery in the Indian Graveyard. In 1901, a Maryan Poirier was listed as being the mother of the Poirier children.

PS: HBCA YFASA 29-32; YFDS 22; FtVanASA 9; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Clark County; BCA BCCR StAndC; Van-PL 1881, 1891 and 1901 Canada Census, Sooke SS: Peers, "A grandmother of"
See Also: Brulez, Jean Baptiste (Relative)

Poirier, Toussaint [variation: Touiessout Poirier] (c. 1786 - 1850) (Canadian: French)

Birth: Montreal or Vaudreuil, Lower Canada - c. 1786

Death: St. Louis, Oregon - April 22, 1850

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1818 - 1821); HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1821 - ?); Boute, Fort George [Astoria] (1824); Cooper, Fort George [Astoria] (1824 - 1826); Cooper, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1839); Settler, Willamette (1841 - 1842+).

Toussaint Poirier joined the NWC from Canada on February 2, 1817 as a middleman bound for Temiscaming. The following year, in 1818, he came across the Rockies onto the Pacific slopes with John Haldane and P. S. Ogden. He stayed in the area through 1821 at which point he joined the HBC. He appears to have spent much of his career with the HBC at Fort Vancouver as a cooper, the last few years as a freeman. (His brother Bazil was baker at the fort.) There he would have worked in the cooper's shed outside the south-east wall or the shop down by the river making his barrels. Although his work record finished in 1836, he probably did some casual work in 1838 and retired to farm in the Willamette in November of that year. By 1844 he was blind and invalid. Both he and his wife, Catherine, also known as Marguerite, Chinook, died in 1850. Catherine/Marguerite died on January 28, and Touiessout on April 22, at St. Louis.

Touiessout Poirier had one wife and five children. On January 21, 1839, he formalized his marriage to Catherine, Clatsop (Marguerite, Chinook) (c.1800-50) at Fort Vancouver. Their children were Marie (c.1825-1914), Antoine (c.1831-?), Louison (1838-?), Rose (1839-1916) and Joseph (1843-?).

PS: HBCA NWCAB 4, 9; HBCA YFASA 1-9, 11-15, 18; FtGeo[Ast]AB 12; YFDS 2a, 5b-6; FtVanASA 1-6; BCA BCCR CCCath PPS: CCR 1a, 2a, 3a
See Also: Delard, Joseph (Son-in-Law)

Pollard, Charles [variation: Polland] (fl. 1853 - 1854) (Undetermined origin)Other

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1853 - 1854).

Charles Pollard appeared on the 1853-1854 Fort Victoria servants' abstracts with no additional information.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1

Pollock, Robert (fl. 1849 - 1851) (British)Birth: probably British Isles*Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1851).

Robert Pollock made one return voyage to the Coast on the HBC vessel Norman Morison. He would have stopped at Fort Simpson and Sitka before returning to England.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Pookarakara, Bob [variation: Packanakra] (fl. 1811 - 1814) (probably Hawaiian)Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands*Fur trade employee

PFC Labourer, Tonquin (ship) (1811); Labourer, Fort George [Astoria] (1811 - 1814); Hunter, Fort George [Astoria] (1811 - 1814).

Bob Pookarakara joined the crew of the Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn] as a labourer around February 21, 1811 when the vessel stopped at Oahu. After his arrival, on March 22, he began working as a labourer but by the fall, when he went to winter at Young's Bay with the Iroquois hunter and his family, he appears to have become a hunter. On April 4, 1814, he left Astoria to travel overland with the Brigade and likely arrived at Fort William by July of that year.

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria

Poonoroara (fl. 1844 - 1849) (probably Hawaiian)Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands*Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1845); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1849).

Poonoroara joined the HBC from Oahu in 1844 and worked as a labourer at Fort Vancouver. He deserted in the early part of 1849 probably for the gold fields of California.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-29

Poopoo (fl. 1840 - 1843) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Nisqually (1841 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1842 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1843).

Poopoo joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840 and began working at Fort Vancouver on July 14 of that year. He worked largely as a labourer at Forts Vancouver and Nisqually until November 15, 1843, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-23; YFDS 11, 14; FtVanASA 6-7

Pope, George (fl. 1856 - 1857) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Boatswain, Princess Royal (barque) (1856 - 1857).

George Pope made one return voyage from London to the Northwest Coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; log of Princess Royal 3

Popoay (fl. 1830 - 1835) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1832); Labourer, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1832 - 1833); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1833 - 1834); Labourer, Fort McLoughlin (1834 - 1835); Passenger, Ganymede (barque) (1835).

Popoay joined the HBC in April 1830. He worked intermittently on the north coast at Forts Simpson and McLoughlin and at Fort Vancouver. He is on record as leaving Fort Vancouver for Oahu on the barque Ganymede on October 3, 1835 and being discharged in Oahu in 1835. He was paid his final HBC wage there.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2-3; YFDS 4a-6; YFASA 11-15; SandIsLonIC 1

Pora (fl. 1830 - 1832) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade officer

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1832); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver (1832).

Pora joined the HBC from Oahu in April 1830. He was discharged to Oahu July 16, 1832.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; YFDS 4a-4b; YFASA 11-12

Portelance, Narcisse (c. 1804 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably L'Assomption, Lower Canada - c. 1804

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Colville (1828 - 1830); Boule, Fort Colville (1830 - 1831).

Narcisse Portelance joined the HBC in 1828. In outfit 1829-1830 he received an extra gratuity for services to George Simpson, who had visited there. By 1831-1832, he was back in Montreal.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; YFASA 8-9, 11; YFDS 4a

Porteur, Joseph (c. 1799 - 1834) (Native: Athapaskan-Carrier [Dakelh])

Birth: New Caledonia [British Columbia] - c. 1799

Death: New Caledonia [British Columbia] - 1834

Freeman

HBC Interpreter, New Caledonia (1822 - 1824); Interpreter, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825); Interpreter, New Caledonia (1825 - 1826); Freeman, New Caledonia (1826 - 182); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1831 - 1834).

Joseph Porteur, a native Carrier with a French equivalent name, was in the fur trade service from 1808. Because of his ability to speak Carrier, he was hired as an interpreter but he also fished and carried wood for the HBC from 1822 until 1825, when he was discharged. During the late fall of 1823 at Fort George, after having unsuccessfully tried to light a fire out of green wood and in a very exhausted state, Porteur received a vicious, brutal beating from John Tod and James

M. Yale who almost killed him. Porteur, who was considered a very valuable employee by John Stuart, kept the details to himself and only later under questioning as to why he didn't want to return to Fort George, relayed the story to Stuart who subsequently took the two to task. Porteur was hired on again, possibly as a freeman trapper until 1827 and may have continued working on his own. He came back into the service in 1831 for three outfits and died somewhere in the "Columbia" in 1834, possibly at Fort St. James or in the Columbia proper.

PS: HBCA YFASA 2, 4-6, 11-14; YFDS 1a-1b, 4b-5b; FtStjmsRD 1; McLlkPJ 1, 2; FtStjmsLS 2

Porteus, William [variation: Porteous] (? - 1849) (Undetermined origin)

Death: California, United States - 1849Freeman

HBC Apprentice clerk, New Caledonia (1837 - 1838); Clerk, New Caledonia (1838 - 1844); Clerk, Fort Connolly (1845 - 1846); Clerk, New Caledonia (1846 - 1847); Freeman, Willamette (1847+).

William Porteus, who joined the HBC in 1837, appeared to be quite unsuited for the fur trade, but lasted a surprising ten years with the Company. His troubles began after working for eight years in the New Caledonia area as a clerk. In 1845, under Manson's orders to replace an outgoing W. Lane, Porteus was stationed in Fort Connolly, a place he detested and soon deserted. In 1846 such was his distaste that he pleaded to Manson that he would be compelled to leave again as, he claimed, the place was going to be attacked by the Sekanais; on May 20th, 1846, he appeared at Stuart Lake, having abandoned his post once again with the excuse that there was no food even though he had been provided with nets and expert fishermen. He was compelled to return being offered the choice of a passage out with low pay or his old post. As he chose the former, his return at low pay provided him with the excuse to complain about his financial situation. When this didn't work, he claimed that the fish, a source of food, had disappeared once again. In 1847 he returned to Stuart Lake and joined Paul Fraser's Brigade. In spite of the fact that he was told he would lose his four years of wages and anything he owned which was in the Company's hands if he disobeyed Fraser, Porteus deserted after only two days with a native and headed for Fort Alexandria. At Fort Alexandria the officers tried their best to ignore the troublemaker who in turn wrote Fraser blaming him for the trouble. He made his way south on the Brigade route and by outfit 1847-1848, he was a freeman in the Willamette. The following year he went to California to try his hand at searching for gold but died like so many others of unknown causes.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 4-8; YFASA 17-20, 24-27; FtVanCB 37 PPS: HBRS XIX SS: Morice, The History of, p. 245, 249, 250, 251

Portneuf, Ignace (fl. 1817 - 1821) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Francois, Lower CanadaFur trade employee

NWC Clerk, Pacific slopes (1817 - 1821); Interpreter, Pacific slopes (1817 - 1821).

Ignace Portneuf joined the NWC on January 11, 1817 (the same day as Joseph) and that same year crossed the Rockies with Joseph LaRocque. He was still working west of the Rockies on May 1, 1821 when his wages were paid to his mother but was not likely retained by the HBC at the time of coalition.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; NWCAB 2, 3, 8

Portneuf, Joseph (c. 1797 - 1830) (Native: Abenaki)

Birth: probably St. Francois, Lower Canada - c. 1797Death: Dalles des Morts (Death Rapids) [British Columbia] – July 3, 1830*Fur trade employee

NWC Hunter, Pacific slopes (1819 - 1821); Boatman, Pacific slopes (1819 - 1821); HBC Employee, Columbia Department (1821 - 1823); Employee, Fort George [Astoria] (1823 - 1824); Steersman, Fort George [Astoria] (1824 - 1826); Trapper, Snake Party (1826 - 1830); Steersman, Snake Party (1826 - 1830).

A twenty year old Joseph Portneuf first signed on with the fur trade from the parish of St. François on January 11, 1817 under fur entrepreneur Pierre Rocheblave to serve in the Northwest for three years as a milieu and hunter. At the time of coalition, he joined the HBC in the Columbia. He worked on Snake Expeditions and may have been in July 1830, steering a boat in which he and eleven others, including his wife and two children, drowned. He and the small crew were engulfed in a whirlpool in the lower part of the Dalles. Additionally, three-hundred beaver pelts were lost.

Joseph Portneuf appears to have had one son, Joseph Jr. (?-1836), who died of tuberculosis while attending the Methodist Mission school in the Willamette, and two other sons, names unknown, who perished when the canoe they were travelling in capsized at Dalles des Morts.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 9; HBCA YFASA 1-10; FtGeo[Ast]AB 11; FtVanASA 1-2; YFDS 3b SS: Munnick, p. 25

Portneuf, Louis (fl. 1818 - 1822) (probably Native: Abenaki)

Birth: possibly St. Francois, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Boatman, Pacific slopes (1818 - 1821); Hunter, Pacific slopes (1818 - 1821); HBC Milieu, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822).

Louis Portneuf joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray] from St. François on June 22, 1818 to work in the Columbia River area as a boatman and hunter for three years. In that same year, he came across the Rockies with Mr. Haldane and P. S. Ogden. He was a member of a large group of NWC employees who transferred to the HBC in 1821 at the time of coalition but went off records in 1822.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 3, 9; YFASA 1

Potter, Henry (fl. 1814) (possibly British)

Birth: possibly British Isles

Maritime employee

NWC Crew member, Columbia (schooner) (1814).

Henry Potter was a crew member of the NWC schooner Columbia in 1814 on the Northwest Coast. If he had joined the Columbia in November 1813, when she sailed from England, he would have arrived at the Columbia on June 29, 1814, traded on the coast that season, and, sailing east via Hawaii, arrived at Canton on March 28, 1815 under John Jennings. It is unlikely he stayed with the ship until the end of 1817, when she was sold to King Kamehameha I as he does not appear on subsequent records.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 1 PPS: Corney, Early Voyages, p. 69, 73, 76, 84A

Pottinger, William [a] [variation: Pottenger] (c. 1814 - 1887) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: Westray, Orkney - c. September 1814 (born to James and Isabel [Cormick] Pottinger)

Death: Victoria, British Columbia - March 19, 1887

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1835); Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1835 - 1836); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1836 - 1837); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1837 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1843 - 1853).

William Pottinger joined the HBC as a labourer in Orkney on April 20, 1835, sailing in June and arriving at York Factory in August. After travelling overland, he began work at Fort Simpson. There he spent a successful career there, partly under John Work and raised a family. He did the usual jobs at the post, guarding its interests against thievery and had his share of accidents, laying him up for more than a month at a time. His work ranged from dressing leather and skinning and salting deer to washing house floors, gardening and cleaning muskets. In 1842 he was sent to Fort Stikine for a brief period with a group of men to bring stability to that post after the murder of John McLoughlin Jr. In 1846 his name was added to an unsuccessful PSAC claim around Fort Nisqually. He sailed south in November 1852 and, from then on, lived at the Hillside farm in Victoria where he was employed by Work, as a gardener. He died at Hillside in his seventy-third year.

William Pottinger had a native wife at Fort Simpson and together they had James (c.1843-1909).

PS: OrkA OPR; HBCA HBCCont; log of Prince Rupert IV 8; YFASA 15, 19-20, 22-32; YFDS 6-7; FtVanASA 3-7; FtVicASA 1-3; FtSimp[N]PJ 4-7; HBCABio; BCA PSACFtNis; BCCR StAndC; BCGR-Nanaimo Free, March 23, 1887, p. 3; Van-PL Colonist, March 19, 1887, p. 3

Potts, Daniel T. (fl. 1827 - 1828) (American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Free trader

Ash. Member, Rendezvous (1826 - 1828).

Daniel Potts is remembered for a letter he wrote to his brother describing the harsh winter of 1827-1828.

PPS: HBRS XXVIII, p. 37n SS: D. L. Morgan, The West of William, p. 181; Gowans, p. 15-23

Potvin, Jacques (c. 1794 - 1830) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Sorel, Lower Canada - c. 1794

Death: Dalles des Morts (Death Rapids) [British Columbia] - July 3, 1830

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1821 - 1824); Middleman, Columbia Department (1824 - 1826);

Middleman, Snake Party (1826 - 1830).

Jacques Potvin entered the fur trade around 1819 and worked in various Snake Expeditions. On July 3, 1830, he, along with twelve others, drowned while their boat became engulfed in a whirlpool in the the lower part of the Dalles.

PS: HBCA YFASA 1-10; FtVanASA 1-2; YFDS 3b; William Kittson August 12, 1830 letter to John Rowand D.4/125, fo. 50

Potvin, Jean Baptiste (fl. 1841 - 1843) (probably Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1841 - 1843).

Jean Baptiste Potvin joined the HBC in 1841 and worked in the Columbia for two outfits.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-7

Potvin, Pierre (c. 1794 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly St. Ours, Lower Canada - c. 1794

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1822 - 1824); Middleman, Columbia Department (1824 - 1825);

Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1825 - 1826).

Pierre Potvin joined the HBC the Montreal area on January 9, 1821 and is on record as having worked in the Columbia between 1822 and 1825. In 1825 he was transferred to the York Factory accounts and by 1826-1827, was back in Montreal.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 2-6; FtVanAB 2a

Poucher, William (fl. 1833 - 1837) (British: English)

Birth: probably Middlesex, England

Maritime employee

HBC Steward, Eagle (brig) (1833 - 1834); Steward, Lama (brig) (1834 - 1835); Seaman, Ganymede (barque) (1835 - 1837).

William Poucher joined the HBC in London in June 1833 as a ship's steward and in December of that year sailed on the brig Eagle. After his arrival at Fort Vancouver in October 1834, he serviced HBC coastal posts for the next three years. On October 19, 1836, he departed for London on the Ganymede but on the way back hurt his wrist requiring hospitalization in Valparaíso and, after his arrival in London on March 30, 1837, a stay of seven weeks at the Westminster Hospital (log of Ganymede, 3, fo. 211d; ibid, 4, fo. 49). It was feared that his wrist would have to be amputated but he sought treatment elsewhere and his wrist was saved (Beattie & Buss, p. 83). By November of that year, he was working as a gardener at Shorter's, possibly at Sydenham Common in Kent.

Undelivered letters at the HBCA mention a father, who had died in 1836 while Poucher was sailing and a mother, then still alive. Also mentioned were the names of five brothers and sisters.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 14-15; YFDS 5c-6; log of Ganymede 3, 4; FtVanASA 3; MiscI 5; Beattie & Buss, p. 79-84

Pouhow [variation: Pouhou, Powhou] (fl. 1840 - 1846) (Hawaiian)

Birth: Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Stikine (1840 - 1846).

Pouhow may have attended missionary school in Oahu before joining the HBC in 1840, as he was able to read Biblical scripture. After arriving at Fort Vancouver in April, he made his way to his first and only assignment, Fort Stikine, which he reached on the steamer Beaver on June 13. During the next six years, he appeared to spend the majority of his time in the saw pits.

On July 26, 1841, Pouhow was involved in a minor scuffle with a local Native who had consumed too much alcohol:

It seems by report that it was the Indian that began to push him and on recovering he pretended to hit him but did not do so. The Indian immediately took up a piece of wood and struck Powhow with it. He then knocked around the Indian and gave him a few clouts. The relations of the aggressor then came with guns to stop our work from going on and threatened to kill the first man they would see. They then went before our interpreter who was gone for salmon and took a slave from him. (FtStikPJ 2, fo. 44)

Pouhow, who suffered no repercussions from the fray, was an exception in the servants' plot to kill the post manager, John McLoughlin Jr. Through the fall and spring the punitive beatings meted out by a sometimes drunken McLoughlin had grown progressively more severe, around Christmas time the servants plotted to kill him if he were not removed. All but Pouhow signed the agreement and on the evening of the murder when the Hawaiians were called to arms by McLoughlin to protect him. It was for naught, for McLoughlin was murdered early that morning, on April 21, but Pouhow was the only servant not suspected of complicity. Powpow helped to carry McLoughlin's body into a room and likely helped to wash and dry it. When murderer Pierre Kanaguasse tried to take McLoughlin's ring from the corpse, Powpow took it from Kanaguasse and later gave it to McLoughlin's wife. He also testified that he had seen young McLoughlin drunk only twice. As a reward for his non-involvement, Pouhow continued to work uninterrupted at Stikine until December 10, 1846, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-26; FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 17; FtStikPJ 1-2; FtVanCB 29-31 PPS: ChSoc VI, p. 358

Pourere (fl. 1840) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840).

Pourere joined the HBC from Oahu on February 15, 1840 and is on record as working at Fort Vancouver until November 15 of that year. At that point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20; FtVanASA 6; YFDS 11

Powell, Charles [variation: Powill] (fl. 1840 - 1841) (British: English)

Birth: probably Hull, Yorkshire, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1840 - 1841).

Charles Powell joined the HBC in London on August 24, 1840 as a seaman for five years and sailed to the coast on the barque Cowlitz. He was not a well person for, not long after his arrival he was placed in the Fort Vancouver hospital and on the first side trip to Honolulu, was transported ashore to sick lodgings. He did not appear to improve that much and so, on July 14, 1841, shortly before the Cowlitz sailed back to the coast, Powell was discharged at his own request and was not heard from again.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Cowlitz 1; YFASA 22-23

Powers, Gilbert (c. 1797 - 1838) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably in or near Fond du Lac, Athabasca [Alberta] - c. 1797

Death: Columbia River, Pacific Northwest - August 11, 1838

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Middleman or bouté, Snake Party (1831 - 1832); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1832 - 1838).

Gilbert Powers joined the HBC on August 24, 1823 and worked in Athabasca until he came to Fort Vancouver in 1830. He drowned August 11, 1838 and was buried by Rev. Beaver on August 13, 1838 at Fort Vancouver.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; FtVanASA 2; YFDS 4a-7; YFASA 11, 13-15, 18; BCA BCCR CCCath

Powlins (fl. 1822 - 1823) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Employee, Columbia Department (1822 - 1823).

Powlins appeared once on the books in outfit 1822-1823 with a note that he had returned to the Islands. He appears to have worked only a short time in the Columbia area.

PS: HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 10

Powrowie, Joseph (fl. 1821) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

NWC Milieu, Columbia Department (1821).

Joseph Powrowie was working for the NWC in 1821 when he joined the HBC. He may have worked for a short time for the HBC after that.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 9; HBCA YFASA 8

See Also: Powrowrie, Jack (possible Relative or the Same Person)

Powrowrie, Jack [variation: Paraaurice] (fl. 1811 - 1814) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Oahu, Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

PFC Labourer, Tonquin (ship) (1811); Labourer, Fort George [Astoria] (1811 - 1814).

Jack Powrowrie came to the Columbia on March 22, 1811 on the Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn] as a PFC labourer. On April 12, Jack Powrowrie was noted at helping to unload the vessel and the following year was catching sturgeon as food for the trappers. He continued work with the NWC and, on April 4, 1814, he was prepared to work through the summer but, later that month was sent to Fort George from Tongue Point very ill with venereal disease. He does not appear on record after that; however, he could be related to (or even the same as) Joseph Powrowie.

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria PPS: ChSoc LVII, p. 711, 722

See Also: Powrowie, Joseph (possible Relative or the Same Person)

Prattent, George (c. 1811 - ?) (British: English)

Birth: Devonport, Devon, England - c. 1811

Maritime officer

HBC 2nd mate, Nereide (barque) (1833 - 1835); 2nd mate, Columbia (barque) (1835 - 1836); 2nd mate, Beaver (steamer) (1836); 2nd mate, Columbia (barque) (1836 - 1837).

George Prattent joined the HBC on May 3, 1833 as the 2nd mate for three years and sailed to the Coast on the Nereide. At one point during the voyage, which took almost two years round trip, a frustrated Prattent refused to continue writing the log. Back in London, on August 29, 1835, eleven days after he married, he signed a second contract as 2nd mate and returned to the Northwest Coast on the HBC vessel Columbia. During the voyage, Prattent had a dispute with Captain Darby and as a result, on February 23, 1836 in the Sandwich Islands [Hawaii], Prattent transferred to the Beaver, while the Beaver's officer came on board the Columbia. When he arrived on the coast, Mr. Prattent charged Darby with not only being drunk, but also illegally obtaining furs and trading these furs as well as other HBC goods in the Sandwich Islands. Darby, in turn, charged Prattent with (a) being drunk on duty, (b) leaving his watch in charge of inexperienced crew members and (c) being on shore in Oahu and neglecting his duty on board. Prattent denied the charges and called for a court of enquiry which took place on May 3, 1836 at Fort Vancouver, the event being presided over by five HBC officers. After interviewing several crew members, the court was only able to only prove the charge of his leaving his watch. Prattent begged McLoughlin to be allowed to continue as six months at Fort George was punishment enough. Nonetheless, Prattent and Darby both sailed on the Columbia back to England (1836-1837) and on November 15, 1837, both Darby and Prattent were dismissed from the service of the HBC with the following directive from the Governor and Committee:

We were so much dissatisfied with the conduct of Capt. Darby and Mr. Prattent, that their further services have been dispensed with... (Gov. & Comm. Letter fo. 117).

Arguments between the two continued in England and Prattent was so unnerved by the affair, and his wife's illnesses, that he and his wife may have sailed to Australia.

George Prattent was married but no children have been traced. On August 18, 1835 at St. Paul, Middlesex, he married Anne Coull.

An undelivered 1837 letter from his sister, G. M. Coull of Chelsea, giving a morbid description of Anne maladies, rests in the HBCA.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 4a, 14; log of Nereide 1; log of Columbia 1; FtVanASA 3-4; YFASA 16; FtVanCB 11,12; HBCA Governor and Committee's November 15, 1837 letter to James Douglas, A.6/24, fo. 117; others HBCA A.1/60, fo. 55d; A.10/4, fo. 387-389; Misc 5; HBCABio PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 89-93

Predith, Walter (fl. 1833 - 1835) (British: English)

Birth: possibly in or near Stepney, Middlesex, England

Maritime employee

HBC Steward, Nereide (barque) (1833 - 1835).

Walter Predith joined the HBC in London on April 11, 1833 as a steward for three years and sailed on May 4, on the Nereide [James Langtry]. Eventually, after some delays because of leaks in the vessel, he arrived at Fort Vancouver almost a year later on April 23, 1834. Because the vessel was not wanted for coastal trade Predith left that fall for London. On March 25, 1835, when the Nereide stopped at Valpariso, Walter Predith deserted. He may have shipped out on another vessel as the HBC agent forwarded Predith's letters back to London and took the postage out of wages due him.

Two undelivered 1833 letters addressed to Predith from his sister and brother-in-law Sarah and Henry Kidman, of 14 Bethnel Green East [London], possibly a lodging house, and a Henry Kidman, rest in the HBCA.

Presse, François [standard: François Pressé] (c. 1815 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Trois Rivières, Lower Canada - c. 1815 (born to François Presse and Marianne Baron)

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Stikine (1840 - 1842); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1842 - 1844); Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1846 - 1847).

François Pressé, an admittedly tough individual of mixed descent, had an undeserved nasty reputation largely created from the pen of an angry Dr. John McLoughlin seeking justice for the death of his son. After joining the HBC at an unknown date, Presse, the "bully" was "dismissed for attempting to shoot a man at Moose Factory" (FtVanCB 31, fo. 164) and was turned out of the Southern Department. Apparently unaffected by his dismissal, he rejoined the HBC from the Trois Rivières or Montreal area in 1839 and, subsequent to making his way to the coast, was sent north to work as a watchman at Fort Stikine to keep him out of trouble and prevent him from deserting. Deemed a "passable" worker (FtStikPJ 1, fo. 1) by William Glen Rae, Presse kept an unblemished record for six months but, on December 23, 1840, inadvertently got involved in a scuffle with local native Chief Shakes, Shakes' wife and a slave who grabbed and pounded Presse in order to get rum from the fort he felt was owed the chief. In the altercation, Presse struck back cutting Shakes' face badly. Humiliated by the pummeling the irascible chief returned to his lodge, destroyed some of his property and killed one of his own slaves to assuage his own anger. Pressé, however, emerged none the worse for wear (FtStikPJ 1, fo. 22). Sometime after his arrival he chose a Stikine wife, quite possibly named Marie, who appears to have stayed with him until her death in 1857. In 1842, things did not go well for Pressé. On April 20, 1842, Pressé was put in irons by John McLoughlin Jr. thus giving cause for suspicion of his complicity in the latter's murder. On April 21, 1842 when all had been drinking, Pierre Kanaquasse, one of the co-conspirators in the murder of McLoughlin Jr., took a shot at Pressé whom he mistook for McLoughlin. The shot missed but young McLoughlin was shot and killed during the night and Pressé was arrested as a co-conspirator. In 1843, Pressé and Kanaquasse were delivered by James Douglas to the Russians at Sitka to await trial but the Russians would not prosecute and so Pressé and others were taken south to Fort Vancouver in 1844. During that voyage to Fort Vancouver, a piece of wood fell on him, injuring him and so he avoided being sent to York Factory along with fourteen other co-conspirators. Between 1844-1846, his movements are uncertain for he may have been in semi-confinement at Fort Vancouver. He appeared to be back in service in 1846-1847 and between December 30, 1846 and January 11, 1847 was doing a variety of jobs at Fort Nisqually. He appeared to stop work in 1847 and in 1847-1848 was listed as being "free at Willamette." He may have moved north again for he last appeared on record in the Victoria region in 1857. He has not been traced after that.

François Pressé had one or more wives and two recorded children. On August 16, 1847, Marie (1841-?) his daughter to a Stikine woman was baptised. On October 9, 1854 in the Victoria region, a François Pressé, probably the same person, married Marie (?-1857), Tsimpshian (the Stikine wife?), who died and was buried on April 28, 1857. A further child may have been François Jr. (?-bap.1857-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 10-20, 2224, 26-27; FtVanASA 6; FtVanCB 3, 29-31, John McLoughlin's Feb. 1, 1844 letter to George Simpson, fo. 164; BCA BCCR StAndC PPS: CCR 2b; Dickey

Preston, William [a] (fl. 1850 - 1851) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Pekin (ship) (1851).

William Preston was hired in Britain by the HBC to work as a blacksmith at Fort Rupert. However, on July 19, 1851, upon reading Fort Vancouver on the Pekin, he deserted and left for parts unknown.

PS: HBCA YFASA 30-31; YFDS 22; FtVicASA 1 PPS: HBRS XXXII, p. 209

Prevost, Joseph [standard: Prévost] (c. 1811 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1811

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1832 - 1833); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1833 - 1834); Middleman, Fort McLoughlin (1834 - 1835).

Joseph Prévost joined the HBC from the Montreal area in 1832 and spent three years working in the Columbia. He most likely signed a further contract in 1836 as a middleman and winterer to probably work east of the Rockies for a further three years but he deserted on May 18.

PS: HBCA YFASA 12-14; YFDS 5a-5c; HBCCont

Prevost, Toussaint [standard: Prévost] (c. 1792 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1792

Fur trade employee

HBC Boute, Fort Vancouver general charges (1831 - 1832); Boute, Fort Vancouver (1832 - 1834).

Toussaint Prévost joined the HBC from Montreal in 1831 on a three year contract. He appears to have worked at Fort Vancouver the entire time before returning east of the Rockies.

PS: HBCA YFASA 11-13; YFDS 4b-5b; HBRS I, p. 461

Proulx, Charles (c. 1816 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Baie du Febvre, Lower Canada - c. 1816

Death: probably Oregon Territory

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Langley (1833 - 1834); Boute, Fort Simpson (1834 - 1836); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1836 - 1842); Boute, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1843); Boute, Fort Vancouver general charges (1843 - 1844); Boute, Columbia Department general charges (1844 - 1846); Boute, Fort Vancouver general charges (1846 - 1847); Boute, Columbia Department (1847 - 1848); Boute, Columbia Department general charges (1848 - 1849).

Charles Proulx joined the HBC possibly from St. Antoine in 1833 and worked the Columbia between the Cascades and Fort Vancouver. On March 1, 1849, he went to California, presumably for the gold fields there. He returned to the Vancouver area and most likely lived in the village to the west of the fort, quite likely in a house next between the Catholic church and the Latties. In the fall of 1849 he claimed two-hundred acres [80.9 ha] in Clark County.

Charles Proulx had two wives by the same name and one recorded child. On January 28, 1839, he married Mary Chehalis (c.1822-1840). A year later, on February 13, 1840, Mary died and was buried in the fort cemetery. Six years later, on January 2, 1846, he married another Marie Chehalis and together they had a son Isidore (1854-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 13-15, 19-20, 22-28; YFDS 5b, 6-7, 19; FtSimp[N]PJ 3; FtVanASA 3-7, 9; UBC-SC Covington Map, 1846
PPS: CCR 1a, 1b; Washington Territory Donation Land Claims, p. 181

Proulx, François [standard: François] (c. 1821 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1821/1825 (born to Raphael (or Baptist) Proulx and Madelaine Raimond)

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1844 - 1845); Middleman, Snake Party (1845 - 1847); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1847 - 1849); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1850 - 1852).

François Proulx joined the HBC possibly from from St. Aimé in 1843. His contract was to have ended in 1851 but he deserted in 1849, probably for the gold fields of California. He reappeared on record once again in 1850 once again working as a middleman. On October 1, 1852, he was discharged from Fort Vancouver.

He had one wife and a one recorded daughter. On January 2, 1847, he married Catherine, Chinook, their daughter being Louise (1852-1852).

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-29, 31; YFDS 22; FtVanASA 9 PPS: CCR 1b

Proveau, Jean Baptiste [a] [variation: Preveau, Provost, Proreau, Provo] (c. 1789 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Trois Rivières, Province of Quebec - c. 1789

Fur trade employee

NWC Milieu, Willamette Post (winter 1813 - 1814); HBC Milieu, Columbia Department (1821 - 1823); Milieu, Fort George [Astoria] (1823 - 1825); Boatbuilder, Fort George [Astoria] (1823 - 1825); Boatbuilder, Columbia Department (1825 - 1826); Boatbuilder, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1839); Settler, Cowlitz (1841 - 1842).

Jean Baptiste Proveau [a] joined the NWC from Trois Rivières around 1803 and was found at the Willamette Post in the winter of 1813-1814. At the time of coalition, he joined the HBC, and worked with them until he was discharged on June 1, 1839 at Cowlitz where he became a settler on 641 acres [259.4 ha].

Little is known of his family; in 1850 he was living in the same household as Isabell (c.1820-?) [possibly wife Elizabeth], Hariett (c.1838-?), Matilda (c.1847-?) and Isaac (c.1842-?). (The 1850 census had him born in 1810 but this is most likely in error unless it was [b] that moved to Lewis Co.)

PS: HBCA NWCAB 9, 10; HBCA YFASA 1-9, 11-15, 19; FtGeo[Ast]AB 11-12; YFDS 2a, 3a3b, 4b-7, 10; FtVanASA 1-6; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Lewis County PPS: Washington Territory Donation Land Claims, p. 162

Proveau, Jean Baptiste [b] [variation: Preveau, Prevost] (c. 1805 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Michel de. Yamaska, Lower Canada - c. 1805

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Colville (1829 - 1830); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1831); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1846); Settler, Willamette (1846 - 1846).

Jean Baptiste Proveau (Preveau) [b] joined the HBC in 1829. He worked until November 30, 1846, often at carpentry work, at which point he retired to the Willamette Valley to settle.

Proveau had an unnamed wife and child (?-1839).

PS: HBCA YFDS 3b, 4b-7, 17; FtVanASA 2-6; YFASA 9, 11-15, 19-20, 22-26; FtSimp[N]PJ 3-4

Proveau, Louis [variation: Prevost, Provost, Preveau, Provo] (1805 - 1846) (probably Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly St. Michel de. Yamaska, Lower Canada - 1805

Death: probably Colville Valley, Oregon Territory [Washington] - 1846

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Colville (1828 - 1830); Boute, Fort Colville (1830 - 1832); Middleman, Fort Colville (1832 - 1834); Boute, Fort Colville (1834 - 1835); Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1835 - 1837); Boatbuilder, Fort Colville (1837 - 1846).

Louis Preveau, variously described as a mixed descent French Canadian, Abenaki or Iroquois, joined the HBC in 1828 and spent most of the next eighteen years working at Fort Colville. In outfit 1829-1830, he received an extra gratuity for his services to George Simpson, who had visited the area but was not noted in Simpson's journal. Proveau's contract ended in 1838 after which he continued to work as a freeman. He died in 1846 in the Fort Colville area and was buried at the nearby St. Paul's mission cemetery.

Louis Proveau had one recorded wife and one recorded daughter. His daughter Victoire (1839-?) was born to Julie, woman of the Lakes.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2-6; YFASA 8-9, 11-15, 19-20, 22-27; YFDS 3a-7 PPS: CCR 1a; Louis Proveau descendant

Provero (fl. c. 1830 - 1833) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Seaman or labourer, Vancouver (schooner) (1830); Seaman or labourer, Cadboro (schooner) (1831); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1831 - 1832); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1832 - 1833); Passenger, Dryad (brig) (1833).

Provero joined the HBC in April 1830. He sailed on vessels supplying coastal posts and then worked on land in the Fort Vancouver area. At the end of his contract he was discharged and left the Columbia for Oahu on November 1, 1833 on the brig Dryad.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 14; FtVanASA 2; YFDS 4a-5b; YFASA 11-13

Provost, Etienne [standard: Étienne] (c. 1782 - 1850) (Canadian: French)

Birth: Province of Quebec - c. 1782 (born to Albert Provost and Marianne Menard)

Death: probably St. Louis, Missouri - July 3, 1850

Fur trade employee

Ash. Trapper, Pacific slopes (1824 - 1837); Fur trader, Pacific slopes (1824 - 1837).

Étienne Provost who was connected to the St. Louis fur trade and encountered the South Pass as early as 1823, spent many of his early years east of the Rockies in in Spanish territory, such as Taos, New Mexico. Around 1823-1824, Provost crossed the Continental Divide and reached the Green River. In the fall of 1824, he almost became the victim of a Snake Indian revenge attack in retaliation for an incident incurred by Alexander Ross and his Iroquois. Provost, along with three or four of his men, managed to escape, the rest were killed. In the next spring he returned to the same area and at Weber River [Utah] along with "3 Canadians, a Russian and an old Spaniard" (SnkCoPJ 3a, fo. 18) on May 23, 1825 and happened upon P. S. Ogden's Snake party when Ogden's party was accosted by William H. Ashley's fur traders, causing many to desert. Provost worked for variety of partnership configurations over the years and was still active at the 1837 Rendezvous. In 1843 he was a guide for Audubon - his last trip to the mountains was probably in 1847 after which time he settled in St. Louis.

Provost had one wife and an undetermined number of children. On August 14, 1829, he married Marie Rose Sallé dit Lajoie, daughter of Lambert Sallé dit Lajoie and Madeleine Delor. One child lived into adulthood.

A city, river and valley in Utah [as Provo] are named after Etienne Provost.

PS: MHS Ashley 2; HBCA SnkCoPJ 3a SS: Chittenden, p. 261, 271, 275, 276, 280; D. L. Morgan, Jedediah Smith, p. 145-48;

Provost, Jean Baptiste [variation: Prevost] (fl. 1810 - 1811) (Undetermined origin)Death: Snake River, Pacific Northwest - December 1811*Fur trade employee*PFC Voyageur, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (1810 - 1811).

Jean Baptiste Provost joined Wilson Price Hunt's PFC overland expedition at Mackinac on August 4, 1810. Late in the summer of 1811, he crossed the Continental Divide with the expedition; but, on December 12, 1811, while in a starved state and making his way in a canoe down the Snake River, became deranged and excited at the prospect of food, upset the canoe in which he was in, and drowned.

PPS: K. W. Porter, Roll of Overland, p. 110; A. Ross, Adventures, p. 181

Prudhomme, Bazil [variation: Bazill] (fl. 1821 - 1826) (Canadian: French)Birth: possibly St. Sulpice, Lower Canada*Fur trade employee*NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1821); HBC Milieu, Columbia Department (1821 - 1823); Milieu, Fort Nez Percés (spring 1822); Milieu, Snake Party (1824 - 1825).

Bazil Prudhomme signed on with the NWC from St. Suplice on January 4, 1820 as a winterer for three years in the Northwest. He was a member of a large group of NWC employees who transferred to the HBC in 1821 at the time of coalition. He was part of Ogden's 1824-1825 expedition, and, on May 25, 1825, being without debt to Ogden, deserted to the Americans claiming that any debt that was owed was more than covered by money the Company held for him. However, on April 10, 1826, under the name of Gabriel, Prudhomme paid back money which was owed to Ogden. From that point on he disappeared from record. (There is a possibility that Bazil and Gabriel Prudhomme may be one and the same person because of their initial entry dates, only two months apart, and their coincidental career paths. If one person signed under two different names, he would have been supplied twice.)

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 9; HBCA FtGeo[As]AB 4; YFASA 1-2; HBCCont; SnkCoPJ 2, 3a, 4

Prudhomme, Francois [standard: François] (c. 1805 - ?) (Canadian: French)Birth: probably Lavaltrie, Lower Canada - c. 1805*Fur trade employee*HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1833); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1833).

François Prudhomme joined the HBC in 1830. He worked until September 20, 1833 and may have returned east of the Rockies.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; YFDS 4a-5b; YFASA 11-13

Prudhomme, Gabriel (fl. 1820 - 1834) (Canadian: French)Birth: possibly L'Assomption, Lower Canada*Freeman*HBC Trapper, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1822 - 1823); Freeman trapper, Snake Party (1824); Freeman, Columbia Department (1825 - 1826); Freeman, Columbia Department (1827 - 1830); Freeman trapper, Columbia Department (1831 - 1834).

Gabriel Prudhomme (who may be the same as Bazil) may have joined the NWC from L'Assomption on March 6, 1820 as a winterer in the Northwest for two years. In 1822, he may have been running furs between Spokane and Saskatchewan. On February 10, 1824, along with many other freeman trappers, he appeared in the Columbia in charge of a lodge of two people on Prairie de Cheveux (near Flathead Post). On that day he joined Alexander Ross' nine month trapping expedition into Snake Country. (Because he completed the Ross expedition but did not join the following 1824-1825 Ogden expedition, as did most of the Ross group, there is a possibility that Gabriel, who did join, is the same as Bazil Prudhomme.) He was a freeman in 1827-1828 working out of Fort Colville. His name appeared on the 1833-1834 accounts without further information.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA SnkCoPJ 1; YFASA 5, 8-9, 11-13; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1; YFASA 13

Puahili, Jim [a] [variation: Jem Puahalele] (fl. 1834 - 1840) (probably Hawaiian)Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands*Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman (steersman's wages?), Fort Simpson (1834 - 1836); Middleman (steersman's wages?), Umpqua (1836 - 1837); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1838 - 1839); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1839 - 1840); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1839 - 1840).

Jim Puahili [a] joined the HBC in 1834. He worked as a steersman at Forts Simpson and Vancouver as well as a woodcutter on the HBC steamer Beaver, and was discharged at the end of his contract into retirement in Oahu on November 15, 1840.

PS: HBCA YFASA 14-15, 19-20; YFDS 5c-7, 11; FtVanASA 3-6; FtSimp[N]P] 3

Puahili, Jim [b] (fl. 1836 - 1837) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1836 - 1837).

Jim Puahili [b] appears in the servants' lists but with no designation or contract. In outfit 1837-1838 he appeared only on the the sundries account. He may be the same person as Jim Puahili [a], but the HBC lists them as separate individuals.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 3-4; YFDS 7

Puili (fl. 1844 - 1846) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1846).

Puili joined the HBC from Oahu in 1844 on a three-year contract. He worked as a labourer at Forts Vancouver and Nisqually until November 30, 1846, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-26; YFDS 17

Pulhelee, George [variation: Pulhili, Pulaylay] (fl. 1829 - 1833) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1829 - 1831); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1833); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver (1833).

George Pulhelee probably joined the HBC late in 1829. He was taken north where he helped to construct the original Fort Simpson [Nass]. He returned to Fort Vancouver in 1833 and left for Oahu at the end of his contract on November 3, 1833.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; YFDS 4a-5b; YFASA 11-13

Punebaka [variation: Punnabaka] (fl. 1840 - 1852) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1843); Labourer, Snake Party (1843 - 1845); Goer and comer, Snake Party (1845); PSAC Labourer, Cowlitz Farm (1847 - 1849); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1849 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1850 - 1852).

Punebaka joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840 and worked at Fort Vancouver and as a goer and comer with the Snake Party. As his contract ended in 1845, he worked until December 10 of that year, at which point he returned to Oahu. He re-enlisted and, during the measles outbreak in the winter of 1847-1848, found himself looking after the other Sandwich Islanders who were ill at the Cowlitz Farm. He became a woodcutter on the Beaver, sailing for the last time from Fort Simpson to Victoria on the Mary Dare on September 1, 1852 and began his official retirement one month later. He may have stayed for a short time in the area.

Punebaka's family, if any, has not been traced.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-25, 27-32; FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 16; FtVicDS 1; FtVicASA 1-5; FtSimp[N]P] 7

Purchase, George (fl. 1830) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime officer

HBC 1st mate, Ganymede (barque) (1830 - 1832).

George Purchase joined the HBC on November 20, 1830 as a ship's officer for three years, and shortly after departed on the Ganymede for Fort Vancouver. He departed Fort Vancouver in November 1831 and arrived back in London in 1832.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 7

Purvis, James (fl. 1823 - 1824) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Boy, Lively (brig) (1823 - 1824).

James Purvis worked as a young boy aboard the Lively, a brig chartered by the HBC. On January 3, 1823, he sailed from Table Bay, Cape of Good Hope and rounded the Horn in March. In July he may have witnessed an altercation between the ship's owner and captain, Robert Ritchie and fellow youth William Forbes. Purvis himself was fairly quiet until August 3, 1823, when he and Charles Homock absconded with the Jolly boat around 3 a.m. A group of natives captured Purvis, who was sent back to the ship. He sailed from Fort George on August 6 and arrived in England on March 25, 1824.

PS: HBCA log of Lively 1; ShipExt

Queenville, Colville [variation: Quenville, Quenneville] (c. 1809 - 1833) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Colville Valley [Washington] - c. 1809 (born to Michel Kinville)

Death: Snake Country, Pacific Northwest - October 31, 1833

Fur trade employee

HBC Native apprentice, Fort Colville (1829 - 1833).

Native apprentice Colville Queenville's father, Michel Kinville, had been in the Colville/Colville area with David Thompson when his son was born. Colville likely grew up in the area or returned to the area after his father was killed. He entered the service of the HBC in 1829, spending his entire career at the Columbia River post. Sometime in 1833, he evidently entered the Snake Country and was wounded by the Snake Indians. He probably died of these wounds in late October 1833, as he was paid until November 1, 1833.

PS: HBCA YFDS 3b, 4b-5b; FtVanASA 2; YFASA 9, 11-13 SS: Michel Quenneville descendant

Query, Jean Baptiste (fl. 1821 - 1822) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1821 - 1822).

Jean Baptiste Query worked for the HBC in New Caledonia during outfit 1821-1822.

PS: HBCA YFASA 1

Quesnel, Amable (c. 1790 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Vaudreuil, Lower Canada - c. 1790

Death: probably Willamette Valley, Oregon

Freeman

NWC Middleman, French Prairie [Willamette] (1813 - 1814); HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (1822); NWC Middleman, Columbia Department (1822 - 1826); HBC Middleman, Snake Party (1826 - 1827); Freeman, Snake Party (1827 - 1830); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1831); Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1831 - 1834); NWC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1834 - 1835); HBC Trapper, Fort Vancouver (1834 - 1835); NWC Middleman, Fort Nisqually (1835 - 1838); HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1839); Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); Settler, Willamette (1840 - 1842).

Amable Quesnel was engaged by the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] from Rigault on July 17, 1810 to work in Temiscaming and, by 1813, was part of a large group of NWC employees in the Columbia. He may have stayed in the Columbia for he was there at the time of amalgamation in 1821 when he transferred to the HBC. At that time, he perhaps was not happy with his work for, in 1822, he was part of a group of sixteen men who deserted after having been fitted out at Fort George with articles for the spring and fall hunt. He returned to work, however, and spent several years on Snake expeditions. From 1836 he worked on a three-year contract which came to an end in 1839. At that point he appears to have become a settler in the Willamette Valley, probably St. Louis, Oregon.

Amable Quesnel appears to have had two wives and two recorded children. By his first native wife, Marie, he had He'le'ne (?-bap.1840-?). His second wife was Angelique, Chehalis, their children being Josette Marie (1832-?) and François (?-bap.1837-?). He may have had several other children.

Quesnel, Jules Maurice (1786 - 1842) (Canadian: French)

Birth: Montreal, Province of Quebec - 1786 (born to Louis Joseph Marie Quesnel and Marie Josephte Deslandes)

Death: Montreal, Canada East [Quebec] - May 20, 1842

Fur trade employee

NWC Clerk, New Caledonia (1807 - 1811).

According to Quesnel biographers, Jules Quesnel was not the first Quesnel with a sense of adventure for his father, Joseph Quesnel, was Canada's first opera composer. In 1779, Joseph Quesnel, as captain of a French vessel running munitions to the Americans during the War of Independence was captured by the British and taken to Quebec. After being granted safe conduct by the governor, Joseph set up a fur trading and wine-import business at Boucherville, outside Montreal, at the same time composing music and writing plays and poems. It was this atmosphere that Jules Maurice and his twelve siblings grew up. Jules received an education and joined the North West Company as a clerk and in 1804 was in Edmonton. He crossed the Rockies in 1807 accompanied by fellow clerk Hugh Faries, with supplies from Montreal. Of the two, Simon Fraser chose Quesnel to accompany him on the dangerous trip down the Fraser River in 1808 to its mouth and back again. In November 1810, Quesnel reopened Fraser Lake post after it had been closed and the following year left New Caledonia and the NWC complaining bitterly about the debilitating effects of the work, food and the climate. On his way back, he escorted one of Daniel Harmon's children. He entered the Montreal militia at the beginning of the War of 1812 and thereonafter carried on a variety of businesses, mainly out of Montreal. In 1838 he was appointed a member of the Special Council of Lower Canada, and, in 1841 was a member of the Legislative Council of United Canada. The following year he died in Montreal.

Jules Quesnel had one wife, Josette Cotté, the daughter of fur trade merchant, Gabriel Cotté. They had no children.

Quesnel Lake and River were named after Jules Maurice Quesnel by Simon Fraser. The town of Quesnel is named after the river.

PPS: Fraser, p. 61; Harmon, A Journal of Voyages, p. 160-161, 165; ChSoc XXII, p. 493 SS: The Canadian Encyclopedia, Barclay McMillan, [biography of Louis J. M. Quesnel] p. 1533; DCB Deslauriers

Quintal (Dubois), Francois [standard: François] (c. 1810 - 1863) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably La Prairie, Lower Canada - c. 1810

Death: Fort Simpson [Nass], British Columbia - 1863

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1832 - 1833); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1833 - 1834); Middleman, Fort McLoughlin (1834 - 1836); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1836 - 1838); Steward, Beaver (steamer) (1838 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1840 - 1854); Baker, Fort Simpson (1854 - 1860); Steward, Fort Simpson (1854 - 1860); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1860 - 1862).

François Quintal (Dubois) signed on with the HBC from LaPrairie in 1832 and spent the next thirty-two years of his life with the company, mostly at coastal forts. In 1857, while he was at Fort Simpson, Quintal, who could read and write but few words was recruited by missionary William Duncan for his Men's Night School. By August 8, 1859, Quintal had become insolvent and so took all his property outside to his wife's house. In the early 1830s at Fort Simpson, or thereabouts, Quintal took as a wife Austeen who was likely a Tongass native. Circumstances of her departure from Quintal are unknown but her subsequent movements are. It seems that after she left Quintal she returned to the Tongass area and at some time had an argument with a Point Stewart or Cape Fox native over some blankets. An argument ensued and she cut the cheek of the other person. In retribution, she was captured, stripped, cut, mangled, and "treated without mercy" for her efforts (FtSimp[N]PJ 3, fo. 122d-123). Quintal himself retired in 1862 and died the following spring after which Duncan requested that his account, and the proceeds of the sale of his clothes, be paid to his widow.

François Quintal's family life is unclear. He probably had two wives, one being Austeen (?-?), whom he had left by 1837, and the other, Odelia (?-?). Three of his children were: an unnamed child (?-1852), Pierre (1853-?) and Odeal (1855-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 12-16, 19-20, 22-32; YFDS 5a-7; FtVanASA 3-6; FtVicASA 1-12; FtSimp[N]PJ 3, 6-8; FtVicCB 23; BCA B.C. Mainland Church Records; UBC-SC Duncan

Quintal, Laurent (c. 1799 - c. 1861) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably in or near St. Constant, LaPrairie or St. Pierre, Lower Canada - c. 1799

Death: on a farm near Calapooya Creek, Oregon, United States - c. 1861

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1823 - 1824); Trapper, Snake Party (1824 - 1825); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1827); Trapper, Snake Party (1827 - 1833); Untraced vocation (no wages on District Statements), Fort Vancouver general charges (1833 - 1834); Middleman, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1834 - 1836); Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1834 - 1836); Trapper, South Party (1836 - 1839); Settler, Willamette (1841 - 1842).

Laurent Quintal joined the fur trade on February 21, 1817 from St. Constant for service in the Northwest and appeared in the Columbia in 1823. On February 10, 1824, he was engaged and supplied by Alexander Ross for his 1824 Snake Country expedition. As part of P. S. Ogden's 1824-1825 Snake Expedition he left Flathead Post in the fall of 1824 for the Snake Country with the usual supplies and chose not to desert the expedition when several of his colleagues left the party on May 24-25, 1825 at Weber River. He continued on working in the Snake country for the next few years but when he left Vancouver on August 18, 1831, he appears to have caught malaria for he had recurring fits the following month. Also on that same expedition, on June 20, 1832, his party was attacked by three hundred Blackfeet and his horse was killed. By 1842, he appeared to have a productive farm on fifty enclosed acres [20.2 ha] in the Willamette in conjunction with a "Beauvais" (Beauvais?). The 1850 census listed him as being in Marion County [Oregon]. Around 1861, he settled in Douglas County [Oregon] near Calapooya Creek, and enjoyed alcohol and lots of friends. He foretold his own death one morning for on the same day: "when binding wheat in his field he was bitten by a rattlesnake and died in a few hours" (Abdill, Pioneer Life).

Laurent Quintal had one wife and ten recorded children. On July 9, 1839 he formalized his marriage to Marie Anne, Nipissing (c.1816-?) a daughter of Louis Nipissing and a woman of the country. Their children were Louis (c.1835-?), Rosalie (c.1837-?), Zoe (1840-?), Laurent II (1842-42), Louis Toussaint (1843-?), Marianne (1848-?), Esther (1851-?), Marie Elizabeth (1854-?), Louise (1856-?) and François (1859-?). Isabelle Quintal (?-conf.1860-?) may also have been a daughter.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA YFASA 1-9, 11-16; SnkCoPJ 1, 2, 3a, 11; YFDS 2a, 4b-5c, 7; FtVanASA 1-6; OHS 1842 Census; 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion County PPS: CCR 1a, 2a, 2b, 3a, 5a SS: George Abdill via Samuel Handsaker, Pioneer Life

Raby (Payan), Abraham [variation: Roby, Rabie, Rabis] (c. 1822 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: Vaudreuil, Lower Canada - c. 1822 (born to Jean Baptiste Rabie and Madelaine Poirier)

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1843); Middleman, Cowlitz Farm (1843 - 1846); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1846 - 1849); Assistant steward, Fort Vancouver (1848 - 1849); Middleman, Fort Umpqua (1849 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1852 - 1853).

Abraham Raby (Payan) joined the HBC in 1839. On June 16, 1850, he became a freeman and he retired in Clark Co. to his 319 acre [129.1 ha] allotment. He worked off and on for the HBC for the next three years and retired in 1853. Raby raised a family in the Fort Vancouver/Willamette area and was last on record in 1861. On November 25, 1860, he sold his land to the Sisters of Charity of the House of Providence.

Abraham Raby appears to have one wife and seven children. On January 12, 1843 at Fort Vancouver, he married sixteen year old orphan Julie, Cassino Tchinouk (c.1827-?) who appears also to have been named Louise and Catherine in the Catholic records. Their children were Mathilde (1844-?), Moise (?-bap.1846-?), Baptiste (1849-49), Joseph (?-bap.1849-?), François (1850-50), Marie Philomene (1854-54) and François [2] (?-bap.1861-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 19-20, 22-31; YFDS 19, 21, 23; FtVanASA 6-7, 9-10; FtVicDS 1 PPS: CCR 1a, 1b, 2b; Washington Territory Donation Land Claims

Raby, James (fl. 1854 - 1858) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department general charges (1854 - 1856); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department general charges (1857 - 1858).

James Raby appeared to work for the HBC off and on while probably living in the Fort Victoria area.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 2-8

Racine (Noyer), Jean (c. 1808 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Barthelemy (d. of Montreal), Lower Canada - c. 1808

Fur trade employee

HBC Blacksmith, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Blacksmith, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1833); Blacksmith, Fort Vancouver (1833 - 1835).

Jean Racine (Noyer) joined the HBC in 1830 and fulfilled his five year contract on the coast.

Raddon, Lewis [variation: Lewes] (c. 1825 - ?) (British: English)

Birth: probably Devon, England - c. 1825

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1846 - 1848); Seaman, Beaver (steamer) (1848 - 1849).

Lewis Raddon joined the HBC in London on October 2, 1846 and sailed to the coast on the Cowlitz. On November 25, 1848, after running supplies from Oahu to Sitka, he left the vessel at Fort Victoria. The following year he deserted, presumably for the gold fields of California.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; log of Cowlitz 6; YFASA 27-29; YFDS 20

Raddon, Robert (c. 1825 - ?) (British: English)

Birth: probably Devon, England - c. 1825

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1846 - 1849).

Robert Raddon joined the HBC in London on October 28, 1846 and sailed to the coast on the Mary Dare. He stayed with the vessel for fifteen months after its arrival but, like many others, caught gold fever and deserted on August 20 or 24, 1849.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; YFASA 27-29; YFDS 20

Rae, William Glen (c. 1809 - 1845) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: Orphir, Pomona or Westray, Orkney - c. December 25, 1809 (born to John Rae and Margaret [Glen] Rae)

Death: Yerba Buena [San Francisco], California - January 19, 1845

Fur trade employee

HBC Clerk, Fort Vancouver general charges (1834 - 1835); Clerk, Fort Colvile (1835 - 1836); Clerk, Fort Nez Percés (1835 - 1836); Superintended building, Fort Umpqua (1836); Clerk, Kootenae House (1836 - 1837); Clerk, Fort Vancouver depot (1836 - 1837); Clerk, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1840); Supercargo, Cadboro (schooner) [to Yerba Buena] (1837); Clerk, Fort Stikine (1840 - 1841); Clerk in charge, Yerba Buena Post [San Francisco] (1841 - 1842); Chief Trader, Yerba Buena Post [San Francisco] (1842 - 1845).

William Glen Rae came from a distinguished HBC family and ran the southernmost HBC post in continental North America, but his habits eventually led to his own destruction. Son of a factor to landowner/laird Sir William Honeyman, Rae grew up at "Clestrain", the Honeyman manor house in Orphir, across the bay from Stromness, Orkney. As his father was also the Stromness agent for the HBC, several members of the Rae family served with the company. Brother Richard served between 1830-1837 but retired because of ill health. Younger brother Dr. John Rae (1813-1893) searched for the remnants of the Franklin expedition and mapped the Arctic. William himself joined the HBC in 1827, sailed for Montreal in June and on November 7, 1827 at Lachine, signed a contract as an apprentice clerk. During his first season, his eye was injured by the discharge of a fowling piece (a light gun for shooting birds), inflicting an injury that was a plague him for the rest of his life. He returned twice to England for treatment; later applications of poultices to the eye and devices to blister the temples and the nape of the neck didn't help and he was reduced to a skeleton. In 1832 he led a disastrous expedition to the United States to purchase sheep for the Red River experimental farm but only 250 out of twelve-hundred returned alive. On October 16, 1834, he arrived at Fort Vancouver to begin a whole chain of appointments. In his first appointment to Fort Colvile he spent part of his time in Fort Nez Percés, assisting P.C. Pambrum, who was having difficulty with the natives. Meanwhile, in 1840, his mother was busy evicting tardy tenants from Rae's Rendall property in Orkney. In 1841 he was posted to Yerba Buena [San Francisco] and given the appointment of Chief Trader. He arrived at Monterey via Honolulu in August and was joined by his wife at the end of the year. After setting up the most southerly HBC post in North America, a combination of bad business, political and domestic moves led to his downfall. Imbued with the spirit of driving the Americans out of the Pacific Northwest and the threatened with the closure of the post, not only did Rae drink heavily and take opium, he kept company with people such as Robert Ridley who may have talked him into committing large quantities of HBC guns, ammunition, etc., on credit to insurgents who were trying to overthrow General Micheltorena. So worrisome were his activities that the British Vice Consul tried to counsel him out of his habits. Additionally, Rae was reputed to have taken on a mistress. On January 19, 1845, feeling that Micheltorena was going to win and sensing that all was lost, Rae wrote a second suicide note, confronted his wife and blew his brains out in front of her. The body was put in a coffin and buried and when the Vancouver came with Dugald McTavish and David McLoughlin to wind up his affairs the following year in June and tried to take the coffin back to Fort Vancouver, it had so putrified because of a leaking coffin and emitted such a smell, it could not be brought on board. Rae's body was reburied and rested in San Francisco until about 1858 when the glass covered coffin was dug up - his head was not with the rest of his remains. His family returned to Fort Vancouver and Oregon City.

William Glen Rae had one wife and three children. In 1838, Rae married Eloisa McLoughlin (c.1818) Lake Superior born daughter of Dr. John McLoughlin. Their children were John (c.1840-?), Margarit (c.1841-?) and Eloisa (c.1842-?). By 1850 the widow Eloisa had moved back into the house of Dr. John McLoughlin and in that year, she married Daniel Harvey of Oregon.

PS: OrkA OPR; HBCA HBCCont; log of Prince Rupert IV 3, 4; YFASA 13-17, 17-20, 24; YFDS 5c-7; FtVanASA 3-8; FtVanCB 33; log of Vancouver [3] 2; SandIsLonIC 2, fo. 44; SimpsonCB; HBCA William Glen Rae search file; MHS Chouteau; OrkA property evictions in Summons of removing and Payment, Orkney Archives, SC 11/5, 1840/138; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Clackamas Co. PPS: HBRS VI, p. 268 SS: HBRS IV, p. 353-55; Bancroft, History of California, p. 217, 593-94

See Also: McLoughlin, Dr. John (Father-in-Law); Harvey, Daniel (Son-in-Law)

Rae, Y. W. (fl. 1843 - 1844) (Undetermined origin)

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1843).

Y. W. Rae is a mystery in that he appeared only once on the records as a seaman working on the HBC barque Vancouver at Fort Simpson in 1843. He may have continued with the vessel which arrived in London on June 11, 1844.

PS: HBCA log of Vancouver [3] 1

Rahilee, Columbia [variation: Rahilu] (fl. 1830 - 1831) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Passenger, Ganymede (barque) (1831).

Columbia Rahilu joined the HBC in 1830 and was discharged to Oahu on November 1, 1831, sailing on the Ganymede.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; YFDS 4a; YFASA 11 PPS: McLoughlin, p. 230

Raine, Benjamin [variation: Rene] (c. 1830 - 1874) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Sorel, Lower Canada - c. 1830

Death: probably Victoria, British Columbia - October 19, 1874

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1848 - 1849); Middleman, Fort Rupert (1849 - 1850); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1850 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1852 - 1853); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1853 - 1854); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1854 - 1859).

Benjamin Raine came west over the Rockies in 1848 to work for the HBC. He worked at coastal posts and in 1857, the illiterate Raine was recruited by missionary William Duncan for his Men's Night School but it is not known how long he studied. Perhaps this change of lifestyle was in response to a fight Raine had with Tahenna in January of that year, during which he had bitten off a part of the Hawaiian's lip (FtSimp[N]PJ 8, fo. 77d). Raine retired in 1859 and after that he likely moved around for in 1866 his son Paul was born in Dungeness, Washington. Raine died in 1874 of unspecified causes, likely at Victoria, B. C.

Benjamin Raine had one wife and at least five children. On January 23, 1860 in Victoria, he confirmed his marriage to Agnes (?-?), likely a native from the north coast. Their five recorded children were Sophie (1855-?), Lucie (1858-?), George (1860-?), Paul (1866-70) and Matilda (1869-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 27-32; YFDS 19; FtVicASA 1-9; HBCABio; FtSimp[N]PJ 7-8; BCA BCCR StAndC; UBC-SC Duncan

Ralph, Joseph (fl. 1827 - 1831) (probably British: English)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Eagle (brig) (1827 - 1828); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1828); Seaman, HBC Naval Department (1828 - 1830); Seaman, Vancouver (schooner) (1830); Seaman, Eagle (brig) (1830 - 1831).

Joseph Ralph joined the HBC in London as a seaman on September 12, 1827 and started what was supposed to be a round trip with the outfit to the Columbia aboard the brig Eagle. However, on June 10, 1828, while the Eagle was at Fort Vancouver being loaded and getting ready for the return voyage to London, Ralph chose to stay and work on the Cadboro. Two years later, on October 1, 1830, he left the Columbia for Europe on the brig Eagle and arrived back in London around April, 1831.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 8-10; YFDS 3a-4a; FtVanASA 2

Ramsay, George [variation: Lamaysee, Lamazee, Lamsoi, Lamazu] (c. 1780s - ?) (British and Tillamook)

Birth: probably Oregon Territory, Pacific Northwest - c. 1780 (born to Old Ramsay)

Death: probably Pacific Northwest, North America

Maritime employee

PFC Interpreter, Tonquin (ship) (1811); River Pilot, Fort George [Astoria] (1813 - ?); Crew/Pilot?, Hersilia (brig) (1823 - 1824); Crew/Pilot?, Lama (brig) (1830).

George Ramsay claimed to be the lone survivor of the Tonquin disaster, however evidence does not support this. Son of a mysteriously shipwrecked but untraceable Scot or Englishman, Old Ramsay, and a Tillamook native woman, George Ramsay was most likely born near Nehalem Bay, Oregon, forty miles [64.4 km] south of the mouth of the Columbia River, probably in the 1780s. Unlike his brother Jack, who took on the features of his father, George took on the features of his mother and his head was flattened, disguising his mixed descent lineage. By 1811 he was in Gray's Harbour area, Chinook territory. Having made two voyages on trading ships, and speaking both French and English as well as several other native languages, he was hired on as an interpreter for the ill-fated Tonquin. Evidence suggests that he may have been an interpreter on the Tonquin when it was on the Columbia River but he did not proceed with the crew on its disastrous voyage north [see Joseachall]; however, according to him he did and he claimed that he had made some effort to prevent the disaster in the vicinity of Clayoquot Sound, but was not successful, and all but himself were eventually killed. Captured by the Clayoquot Sound natives, he was held as a slave for two years until his friends ransomed him. In 1813 he returned to the Fort George [Astoria] area and appears to have worked the area as a pilot for a number of years in those dangerous waters. In 1830 his right eye was scratched out by a hair seal but that did not prevent him from working as pilot; in 1834 he worked for J. K. Townsend on Nathaniel Wyeth's brig, the May Dacre. He continued to act as pilot (in competition with another less competent George working the mouth of the river), up to at least 1841, when U.S. Admiral Charles Wilkes mentioned using his services.

PPS: ChSoc XLV, p. 124-27 SS: Barry, "Astorians Who Became", p. 296-301
See Also: Ramsay, Old (Father); Ramsey, Jack (Brother)

Ramsay, Old (c. 1760 - c. 1790) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles - c. 1760s

Death: probably Baker's Bay [Oregon] - c. 1790s

Other

U.A. Shipwrecked, unidentified trading vessel (1782 - 1782).

The identity of Old Ramsay and his ship is one of the big mysteries of the early lower Columbia. According to Tillamook oral tradition, a ship of unknown origin was wrecked at Nehalem Bay on the Oregon coast (about forty miles [64.4 km] south of the mouth of the Columbia) around 1780. (Cox claimed he deserted) Part of the ship broke off and drifted into the bay carrying an unconscious red-haired youth of Scottish or English origin by the name of Ramsay. He was revived by the Tillamooks and went on to marry a native girl with whom he had several children, one of whom was Jack, who took on his father's features and was spared of having his head flattened, and, another was George, who took on his mother's features had his head flattened and eventually ended up at Baker's Bay in Chinook territory. When an epidemic of smallpox was exterminating the tribe, Ramsay left his family to help nurse the natives fend off the disease. However, he caught smallpox himself and, according to Cox, died around 1790.

PPS: Cox, p. 151-52 SS: Barry, "Astorian Who Became", p. 296-301
See Also: Ramsay, George (Son); Ramsey, Jack (Son)

Ramsey, Jack [variation: Ramsay] (c. 1780 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably mouth of the Columbia River, Pacific Northwest - c. 1780s (born to Old Ramsay and a Tillamook mother)

Death: probably Pacific Northwest

Other

U.A. Visitor, Fort Clatsop (1805); Untraced vocation, Fort George [Astoria] (1813 - ?).

Jack Ramsay was the offspring of a very early intermarriage in the Pacific Northwest. The son of the shipwrecked Old Ramsay and brother to George Ramsay, Jack Ramsay took on his father's features and was spared having his head flattened in the local style. He was first noted in written records by Lewis and Clark on December 31, 1805 when they were establishing Fort Clatsop. They noted that the twenty-five year old was half white, freckled, and had long dusky red hair he understood some English but did not speak it fluently. Around 1813, Ross Cox made similar observations about Ramsay at Fort Astoria:

An Indian belonging to a small tribe on the coast, to the southward of the Clatsops, occasionally visited the fort. He was a perfect lusus naturae and his history was rather curious. His skin was fair, his face partially freckled and his hair quite red. He was about five feet ten inches [178 cm] high, was slender, but remarkably well made; his head had not undergone the flattening process; and he was called Jack Ramsay, in consequence of that name having been punctured on his left arm. The Indians allege that his father was an English sailor, who had deserted from a trading vessel, and had lived many years among their tribe, one of whom he married; that when Jack was born he insisted on preserving the child's head in its natural state, and while young, had punctured the arm in the above manner. Old Ramsay had died about twenty years before this period; he had several more children but Jack was the only red-head one among them. He was the only half-bred I ever saw with red hair, as that race in general partake of the swarthy hue derived from their maternal ancestors. Poor Jack was fond of his father's countrymen, and had the decency to wear trousers whenever he came to the fort. We therefore make a collection of old clothes for his use, sufficient to last him for many years (Cox, p. 151-52).

Records of his marriage or children have not been located. His date of death is unknown.

Jack Ramsay's daughter married Alexander Duncan Birnie, a guide.

PPS: Thwaites, Original Journals, vol. III, p. 301; Cox, p. 151-52 SS: Barry, "Astorians Who Became", p. 296-301

See Also: Ramsay, George (Brother); Ramsay, Old (Father); Haquet, Marie Louis (Relative)

Randal, John [variation: Rendall] (c. 1801 - ?) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: possibly Stromness, Orkney - c. 1801

Death: probably London, England

Fur trade employee

HBC Boatbuilder, Columbia Department (1825 - 1826); Boatbuilder, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1828).

John Randal joined the HBC around 1820. At the end of his contract in 1828 he went to York Factory with the Express and may have returned to the Orkneys; however, by 1843 he had settled in central London. That year, when he wrote to his old friend John Spence (with whom he had worked at Fort Vancouver) he was married, and had two children, a boy and a girl. Although he was happy to be settled after a lifetime of wandering, he longed for the fresh air of the Northwest Coast and complained how the London pollution was affecting his health (Beattie & Buss, p. 76).

PS: HBCA YFDS 2a; FtVanAB 2, 15; FtVanASA 1; YFASA 5-7 PPS: E. Ermatinger, p. 113; Beattie & Buss, p. 76-77

Ranne, Peter (? - 1828) (probably American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Death: Umpqua River, Oregon Territory - July 14, 1828

Free trader

SJ & S Trapper, Jedediah Smith Southwest Expedition (1826 - 1828).

Peter Ranne was a trapper on Jedediah Smith's southwest expedition of 1826-1828. He first appeared on record at the 1826 Rendezvous and left with Smith in August, heading south, crossing the Colorado River and into California. After a great deal of difficulty with Spanish authorities in California, the expedition headed north. In an area just north of the Umpqua River [Oregon], just after Smith set out to scout out a route to travel, the natives killed all the expedition members remaining in camp including Ranne, except one, who managed to escape.

PPS: HBRS X, p. 61 SS: Carter, "Jedediah Smith", p. 97-104

Ransom, Samuel (fl. 1845) (possibly British)

Birth: possibly British Isles

Other

RAC Employee, Sitka (1845); HBC Passenger, Vancouver (barque) (1845).

Samuel Ransom may have been an employee of the RAC. It was known that he was brought to Sitka by a Russian vessel and had become indebted to the company, possibly just for the voyage. When the HBC vessel Vancouver arrived at Sitka on July 16, 1845, Ransom asked if he could work his passage to the Columbia. The crew freed him by paying for his debts and he was carried to the Columbia. What happened to him after that has not been traced.

PS: HBCA log of Vancouver [3] 2

Rappa, Moniday (fl. 1832 - 1840) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Seaman, Fort Simpson naval service (1832 - 1833); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1833 - 1834); Middleman? (high wage), Fort McLoughlin (1834 - 1835); Middleman, Fort McLoughlin (1835 - 1836); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1836 - 1838); Landsman, Nereide (barque) (1838); Passenger, Vancouver (barque) (1839); Untraced vocation, Oahu (1840).

Moniday Rappa joined the HBC in Oahu on September 6, 1832 and worked principally at Fort Simpsons and McLoughlin. He took passage back to Oahu in the Vancouver and landed there in December 1839. He may have continued to work at the Oahu establishment, for he is recorded as being discharged in 1840 at the end of his contract.

PS: HBCA YFDS 5a-7, 10; YFASA 12-15, 19; FtVanASA 3-6; ShMiscPap 14

Rashihitita, Michel [variation: Rashitito] (fl. 1816 - 1820) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1816); Employee, New Caledonia (1820).

Michel Rashihitita worked for the NWC on the Pacific slopes in 1816. That same year, cash was paid to his sister. In 1820, he received an advance in New Caledonia and may have been a member of the Brigade.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 1

Rassunssen, Lars (fl. 1854 - 1855) (Scandinavian)

Birth: probably Europe

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1854 - 1855).

Lars Rassunssen appeared to work briefly for the HBC and may have come off the Colinda.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 2, 4

Rattine [variation: Ratline] (fl. 1843 - 1847) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: Fort Vancouver, Oregon Territory - 1847

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort George [Astoria] (1843 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1845 - 1847).

Rattine appeared in the Columbia area at Fort George in outfit 1843-1844 on a contract that ended in 1846. He died the following year.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 8; YFASA 23-27; YFDS 16

Raven, George (fl. 1856 - 1857) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Boy, Princess Royal (barque) (1856 - 1857).

George Raven sailed to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal. After reaching Victoria, he deserted on February 27, 1857.

PS: HBCA log of Princess Royal 3; PortB 1

Rayaume, Joseph (c. 1813 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Remi, Lower Canada - c. 1813

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1834 - 1835); Steersman, Snake Party (1835 - 1837); Middleman on Montreal Pay List, Columbia Department (1837 - 1838).

Joseph Rayaume joined the HBC in 1834 and returned to Canada at the end of his contract in 1837.

PS: HBCA YFASA 14-17; YFDS 5c-6; FtVanASA 3-4

See Also: Rayaume, Julian (Brother)

Rayaume, Julian (c. 1812 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Remi, Lower Canada - c. 1812

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1834 - 1835); Steersman, Snake Party (1835 - 1836); Middleman, Columbia Department (1836 - 1837); Middleman on Montreal Pay List, Columbia Department (1837 - 1838).

Julian Rayaume joined the HBC from St. Remi in 1834 and returned to Canada at the end of his contract in March 1837. He may be an older brother to Joseph Rayaume.

PS: HBCA YFASA 14-17; YFDS 5c-6; FtVanASA 3-4

See Also: Rayaume, Joseph (Brother)

Raymond, Camille [variation: Camil] (c. 1813 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably La Prairie, Lower Canada - c. 1813

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation (no wages), New Caledonia (1833 - 1834); Middleman, New Caledonia (1834 - 1836); Labourer (ouvrier), Fort Vancouver (1836 - 1838); Labourer (ouvrier), Fort Simpson (1838 - 1839); Blacksmith, Fort Simpson (1839 - 1842); Tinsmith, Fort Simpson (1842 - 1848); "Forgeron" or blacksmith, Fort Simpson (1848 - 1849); Blacksmith, Fort Simpson (1849 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1852 - 1854); Blacksmith, Fort Langley (1863 - 1864).

Camille Raymond, an independent minded blacksmith, had a nose for trouble. Right away after joining the HBC in 1833, the twenty-year old forfeited his wages for that outfit, by order of Governor George Simpson, for desertion in the Peace River area. He soon rejoined and worked at New Caledonia for two outfits. When he was working at his next location, Fort Vancouver, he came down with a bad case of venereal disease that affected his work for a number of years, particularly at Fort Simpson where he spent fourteen years of his twenty-two year career with the HBC. Considered a valuable employee, Raymond's bad habits were rather easily forgiven. For example, on October 5, 1839 at Fort Simpson, under the pretext of going off hunting, he brought a woman (who belonged to another man) into the fort, entering and exiting the fort via the drain. When it was found out, the woman was ordered from the fort and Raymond was reprimanded but he took the reprimand lightly, for the next day, again under the pretext of hunting, Raymond emptied his chest, leaving only a carrot of tobacco, and departed with his woman to offer his services to the Russians at Stikine. As a HBC reward of two blankets was offered for his return, three days later he was brought back. His lover stood by him saying that if he were to be put in irons, she would too. After he begged forgiveness and she was ordered from the fort, he carried on as usual as if nothing had happened, making the usual half axes and small bowls (porringers) for trade. His lover returned to Tongass the following month but was ordered to return to Tongass once again by John F. Kennedy, the surgeon/clerk and acting head. To add to Raymond's misery, in March 1840, a gun burst in his hands causing him to be off work for several weeks. He then went to Fort Victoria where he began work on August 24, 1852. He purchased a town lot in September 1853 around the time he left the HBC and carried on transactions and some part time work. In December 1863, he went to Langley for a number of months to make beaver trap springs and to do other blacksmith work.

Camille Raymond had one wife (referred to as Madam Barnett, from the Tongass area, in the 1839 Fort Simpson journals) and one recorded child. On February 17, 1850, he legitimized his marriage to Louise, a native from the north. Their recorded child was Catherine (?-bap.1849-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 13-16, 19-20, 22-32; YFDS 5b-7, 23; FtSimp[N]PJ 4; FtVanASA 3-7; FtVicDS 1; FtVicASA 1-4; FtVicCB 24; BCA BCGR-CrtR-Land; BCCR StAndC

Raymond, Joseph (c. 1805 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1805

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1845 - 1846); Middleman, Fort Vancouver depot (1846 - 1849); Baker, Fort Vancouver depot (1849 - 1852); Labourer, Chinook Point (1852 - 1853); Labourer, Columbia Department (1853 - 1854); Labourer, Cauweeman store [Cowlitz River] (1854).

Joseph Raymond joined the HBC from Montreal in 1845 on a three-year contract. In later years he spent some time at smaller posts, like Chinook Point, where he took time off indicating less than steady employment. He eventually retired from the Cauweeman post in the Willamette Valley in 1854.

PS: HBCA YFASA 25-32; FtVanASA 9-11; YFDS 23; FtVicDS 1; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Clark Co.

Raymond, Narcisse [variation: Raimond, Remon] (c. 1816 - c. 1866) (Canadian: French)

Birth: Prairie du Madelaine, Lower Canada [Quebec] - c. 1816

Death: probably Frenchtown [Lowden], Washington Territory – before 1867

Fur trade employee

HBC Interpreter, runner and guide, Snake Country (1833 - 1847); Interpreter, runner and guide, Fort Hall (1833 - 1847); Trapper, Snake Country (1833 - 1834); Trapper, Fort Hall (1833 - 1834); Middleman, Snake Country (1834 - 1837); Middleman, Fort Hall (1834 - 1837); Trapper, Fort Hall (1837 - 1839); Trapper, Snake Country (1837 - 1839); Middleman, Snake Country (1839 - 1842); Middleman, Fort Hall (1839 - 1842); Drouineur, Snake Country (1842 - 1846); Drouineur, Fort Hall (1842 - 1846); Interpreter, Snake Country (1847 - 1850); Interpreter, Fort Hall (1847 - 1850).

Narcise Raymond entered the service of the HBC from Laprairie in 1833, arrived on the Pacific Slopes in October of that year and worked his entire career in the Snake River/Fort Hall area. He was beset with the usual problems that went with that area. In the spring of 1842, Raymond was sent out from Fort Hall to visit an American Camp near Green River to secure old debts from individuals in the camp. When he returned to his nearby base camp, however, he found that, in his absence, all his trading goods and eleven horses had been stolen most likely, he presumed, by the Americans (FtVanCB 29, fo. 83-83d). By 1844 the Snake country returns were not doing well, as a result, Raymond led a party of twenty-six free trappers and engaged servants to the "Quyatierra" [Quenterra] country in the fall, returning the following summer. Richard Grant placed Narcisse in charge as he felt that he was "a very trusty young man who has a little learning, [and has]...behaved well" (Grant's letter, fo. 289d-290). He may have been absent or simply was not available to pick up his wages in outfit 1846-1847 for he was not paid for that outfit. After his retirement in 1850, he continued transactions with the Company to 1853. In September 1853, he settled on 640 acres [259 ha] in Walla Walla County in an area which was to become Frenchtown. A highway monument marks the spot of one of the battles of the Cayuse War that was fought on his land. As well, a marble obelisk nearby on the site of the old St. Rose Mission cemetery bears his name on the common monument for the pioneers buried there. He was appointed sheriff of Walla Walla County in 1854 by the first Washington Legislature, and he took charge of Fort Walla Walla in 1855 in order to protect the settlers "forted up" there.

Narcisse Raymond had one wife and an undetermined number of children. Through his wife, Pauline Walla Walla or Alla? (c.1816-?) with whom he united in May, 1846 in Willamette, Clackamas Co, Oregon Territory, he was able to establish a relationship to numerous natives in the region. One recorded daughter was Cecile (c.1845-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 13-15, 19-20, 22-31; YFDS 5b-7; FtVanASA 3-7, 9; FtVanCB 29, McLoughlin to Governor, Oct. 31, 1842 letter, fo. 83-83d; Chief Trader Richard Grant's March 11, 1845 letter to George Simpson, D.5/13, fos. 289d-290; HBCAbio; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Clark Co. PPS: CCR 1a, 1b, 7c; Washington Territory Donation Land Claims, p. 205

Raymond, William (c. 1809 - 1832) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Rupert's Land, British North America - c. 1809

Death: Snake Country, Pacific Northwest - March 14, 1832

Maritime employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1827); Apprentice seaman, Naval Department/Coastal Trade (1827 - 1830); Native apprentice seaman, Vancouver (schooner) (1830); Native apprentice seaman, Naval Department (1830 - 1831); Middleman, Snake Party (1831 - 1832).

William Raymond entered the service of the HBC in 1820, apparently at the age of eleven, had a relatively short career with the Company. Young Raymond worked largely out of Fort Vancouver as an apprentice in the Naval Department. In 1831 he joined Work's Snake party and on August 8, 1831, he came down with malaria. On January 30, 1832, while camped in the Snake Country, the trapping party he was with was attacked by three-hundred Blackfoot. Many horses were killed and Raymond was wounded in the thigh. The attackers were driven off but Raymond's wound proved to be fatal. From that point he suffered immensely. He was unable to eat and shrank to a skeleton; and, gangrene set in. William Raymond died on March 14.

PS: HBCA YFDS 2a, 4b-5a; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-2; YFASA 6-9, 11-12; SnkCoPJ 11; ShMiscPap 14

Rea, Frederick W. [variation: Rae] (fl. 1842 - 1844) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1842 - 1843); Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1843 - 1844); Boatswain, Vancouver (barque) (1843 - 1844).

Nine months after joining the HBC barque Columbia on September 6, 1842, Frederick W. Rea arrived on the Northwest Coast. A month after arriving on the coast, he transferred to the Vancouver on June 9, 1843 for coastal trading and his voyage back to London where he arrived on June 10, 1844. In Oahu, during the voyage back, he was promoted to boatswain as the second officer John Oxley was discharged.

An undelivered 1843 newsy letter written in London by his sister Emma revealed that Captain Charles Humphreys and his wife were close friends of the Reas. The letter rests in the HBCA.

PS: HBCA log of Columbia 6; log of Vancouver [3] 1; MiscI 5 PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 179-181

Read, John (fl. 1856 - 1857) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Boy, Princess Royal (barque) (1856 - 1857).

John Read made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Reay, Archibald (fl. 1849 - 1851) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Sailmaker, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1851); Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1851).

Archibald Reay made one return voyage to the Coast on the HBC vessel Norman Morison. He would have stopped at Fort Simpson and Sitka before returning to England.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Redler, William [variation: Ridler] (? - 1838) (British: English)

Birth: probably in or near Gravesend, Kent, England

Death: Columbia River, Pacific Northwest - January 26, 1838

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1836); Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1836 - 1837); Gunner, Nereide (barque) (1836); Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1837 - 1838); Gunner, Nereide (barque) (1837 - 1838); Boatswain, Nereide (barque) (1837 - 1838).

William Redler joined the HBC on February 13, 1836 as a seaman and gunner for five years. He arrived in the Northwest Coast in fall, 1836, worked almost three months in coastal shipping before boarding the Columbia in November, 1836 for his journey back to England. He returned to the Columbia and was promoted to boatswain but demoted back to foremast man by John McLoughlin when, on the orders of 1st mate Charles Dodd, he refused to have the mutineers of the Nereide whipped. Before he was able to complete his contract, he drowned on a snowy day in January 26, 1838 while trying to cross the Columbia River in a small sailboat with Captain David Home and three other crew members. For details of the accident, see Home.

William Redler had one wife, Mary, whom he married on July 1, 1822 in Portsmouth, England. She wrote from No. 6 Love Lane, Shadwell to claim the money remaining in his account. By November 1838 she received the equivalent of one year's salary from the HBC secretary, Mr. Smith.

An undelivered 1838 letter to William from his sister that rests in the HBCA, unknowingly written four months after his death, conveys the news of their own mother's death in 1837.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 14; FtVanASA 3-5; YFDS 7-8; YFASA 17; FtVanCB 18; HBCABio PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 115-18

Redsull, Thomas Timms [variation: Jacques or James] (1827 - 1913) (British: English)

Birth: Deal, Kent, England - November 15, 1827 (born to Thomas and Elizabeth Redsull)

Death: probably Oregon - March 3, 1913

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Vancouver Island Colony (1849 - 1850); Storekeeper, Vancouver Island Colony (1850 - 1852); In charge, Chinook Store (1852); Storekeeper, Chinook Store (1852).

Thomas Timms Redsull joined the HBC in 1848. He may have been living at Lerwick when he embarked on the Prince Rupert at Stromness on June 21, 1848 as one of eleven passengers from the Shetlands who travelled between the decks to York Factory. The following year, on November 18, 1849, he arrived in Oregon. For the 1850 Census, he was in Lewis Co. (Washington) under the name of Thomas Jacques Redsull, likely the same person. He appears to have retired in 1851, was rehired, was discharged on November 4, 1852, and settled a claim in Washington County, Oregon. Redsull became a citizen on May 3, 1858 in Multnomah Co., Oregon. When, in 1911, two years before his death, he talked to a newspaper reporter, he spun tall tales which are inconsistent with written records (OHS SB #37). He died on March 3, 1913.

By 1850 Thomas T. Redsull had two wives and two recorded children. On February 2, 1852, Thomas married Helene (c.1830-?), Shtelleman, at Stellamaris Mission at Chinook Point. (She was probably the same as wife "Mary" listed in the 1850 Lewis Co. Census.) This was a second ceremony for, in 1851, he had married the same Helen on Clatsop Plains in Oregon at the Presbyterian mission of Lewis Thompson. Together they had Henry (c.1844) and Emma Marie (1850-?). Two years later, on May 5, 1854 he married Amelia, of unknown origin, in Washington County, Oregon Territory.

PS: HBCA log of Prince Rupert V 9; YFASA 29-32; FtVanASA 9; FtVicDS 1; HBCABio; voyage out; OHS SB#37, p. 103; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Lewis Co. PPS: CCR 1c; Genealogical Material in Oregon Donation Land Claims, p. 26

Reed, James [1] (fl. 1826 - 1828) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, William & Ann (brig) (1826 - 1828).

James Reed, who could also be James Murray Reid, came to the coast on the HBC vessel on a supply voyage of the William & Ann. The vessel did no coastal trading and it was an uneventful voyage for Reed. He arrived back in London with the vessel in February 1828.

PS: HBCA log of William & Ann 1

Reed, James [2] (fl. 1854 - 1855) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1854 - 1855).

James Reed made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Reed, John [variation: Reid] (? - c. 1814) (Irish)

Birth: probably Ireland

Death: Snake Country, Pacific Northwest - c. January 1814

Fur trade employee

PFC Clerk, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (1810 - 1812); Clerk, Fort George [Astoria] (1812); Clerk, Snake River (October 13, 1813).

John Reed didn't have much luck with the natives of the Snake River area. A clerk who joined Wilson Price Hunt's overland expedition at Mackinac in August, 1810, he crossed the Continental Divide in late summer 1811 and arrived at Astoria, January 18, 1812 with Robert McClellan, Donald McKenzie and eight others - well after the fort was built. As he knew the overland route he left two months later, on March 30, 1812, with dispatches for John Jacob Astor. He didn't make it far for he was wounded by the natives, taken to Fort Okanogan and on May 11 was brought back to Fort Astoria. In January of the next year, 1813, he led a party to the Willamette, constructing a house near Vale Oregon and, when returning to Fort Astoria on March 20, brought back the news of the house built by William Wallace and John C. Halsey near present day Salem. In the summer of 1813 he was sent with a party to the Snake River country and sometime in 1813 he built a second house on a point south of the old mouth of Boise River, Idaho [near the site of Caldwell]. During January of 1814 he was killed by the Bannock natives, most likely, as Gabriel Franchère states, "[in] revenge...for the hanging of one of their men for theft by Mr. [John] Clarke and his party in the previous spring" (ChSoc XLV, p. 153).

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria; HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: K. W. Porter, Roll of Overland, p. 110; ChSoc XLV, p. 28, 108, 111-13, 118, 120, 149, 152-53

Reeder, Nicholas (fl. 1824 - 1828) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime officer

HBC Gunner, William & Ann (brig) (1824 - 1826); Seaman, William & Ann (brig) (1836 - 1828).

Nicholas Reeder made two return voyages to the coast on the HBC vessel William & Ann. He probably joined the voyage some time in July 1824 and eventually left the vessel in February 1828. As he is not mentioned further in the ships logs, little is known of him.

PS: HBCA log of William & Ann 1, 4

Regner, Jacob [variation: Reznor, Rezner, Reesner, Regnier] (? - 1814) (American)

Birth: probably Kentucky, United States

Death: Snake Country, Pacific Northwest - January 1814

Freeman

MFC Hunter, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (1811 - 1812); PFC Freeman hunter, Snake Country (winter 1813 - 1814).

Jacob Regner, Kentucky mountain man, met an unfortunate end in the fur trade. On May 26th, 1811, while returning east as a Missouri Fur Company man from the Snake River/Andrew Henry's Fort area, he joined the westward-bound Wilson Price Hunt's PFC overland expedition as a freeman hunter for a two year period. Late that same summer, he and the group re-crossed the Continental Divide and was again at Henry's Fort in October. There he joined with Joseph Miller, an Astorian partner, and hunters John Hobaugh, the aging Edward Robinson and Martin H. Cass to trap beaver in the area. The small group travelled and trapped beaver for nearly a year, being robbed twice. In September 1812, Miller decided to join Robert Stuart's group returning eastward from Astoria leaving Regner and his trapping partners to continue trapping. A year later, in September 1813, Regner, Hobaugh and Robinson (by this time, Cass had disappeared), having been robbed just fifteen days previously, encountered John Reed's eastward-bound party and decided to join it. A few months later, in January 1814, while a member of the this party, Jacob Regner and the whole of the Reed party was killed in the Snake River region by the Bannock Indians (possibly Northern Paiute) in retaliation for Clark having killed one of their own. Pierre Dorion's wife reported the deaths of the trappers several months later when she encountered Gabriel Franchere in the vicinity of the Yakima River.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: K. W. Porter, Roll of Overland, p. 111; ChSoc XLV, p. 152-53; A. Ross, Adventures, p. 228, 279
SS: Chittenden, p. 186, 191, 207, 225

Reid, James (fl. 1852 - 1855) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Otter (steamer) (1852 - 1855).

James Reid, not to be confused with the following J. R., came to Vancouver Island on the HBC steamer Otter. Little is known of him but by 1855, he missed work, perhaps from drinking, as he was absent from duty for several days in San Francisco and ill for several days after. On December 18, 1855 in Victoria, he refused duty and was discharged.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; log of Otter 1; FtVicASA 1-5

Reid, James Murray [variation: Reed] (1802 - 1868) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: Orkney, United Kingdom - October 15, 1802

Death: Victoria, British Columbia - April 24, 1868

Maritime officer

HBC Master, Vancouver (brigantine) (1852 - 1853).

James Murray Reid worked for the HBC for twenty-eight years but was blamed for the loss of a ship on the Northwest Coast and dismissed. Reid had sailed on vessels to Hudson Bay previously and, in 1852, made his way to the Northwest Coast with his wife and two daughters in command of the Vancouver. When the comparatively new Vancouver left Fort Simpson in August 1853 and was heading for Rose Spit [Queen Charlotte Islands] his supercargo, Captain Swanson, being familiar with the waters, gave him and the quartermaster a course to take. When Swanson went to bed, Reid changed course and ran the ship hard aground on Rose Spit in a high wind. The local Haidas claimed her even though Reid and his officers stayed aboard and Swanson and the 1st mate made their way to Port Simpson. Captain Dodd returned on the Beaver and, with Reid, set the Vancouver alight after drenching her with oil. Reid was dismissed from service around October 1853, and the following month purchased a town lot in Victoria. Before he settled, he commanded the ill-fated Colinda back to the British Isles. The settled Reid then became involved in the mercantile business and his wife and daughters carried on a haberdashery business. He died in April 24, 1868 of a painful illness.

Reid Island, Trincomali channel, is named after Captain James Murray Reid.

PS: HBCA log of Prince of Wales I 13-16; log of Prince Rupert V 1-10; PortB 1; FtVicASA 1-3; FtVicCB 11; BCA BCGR-CrtR-Land; FtSimp[N]PJ 1; log of Vancouver [4] 1; Van-PL Colonist, April 25, 1868, p. 3 SS: Lewis & Dryden, p. 47; Helmcken, p. 54-55, 113; Walbran, p. 419-20
See Also: Macdonald, William John (Son-in-Law)

Reid, John (fl. 1856 - 1857) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Boy, Princess Royal (barque) (1856 - 1857).

John Reid joined the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal in London on August 19, 1856 and made one return voyage to the Northwest Coast.

PS: HBCA log of Princess Royal 3

Reid, Robert (fl. 1849 - 1858) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: probably Orkney, United Kingdom

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1850); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1850 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1852 - 1854); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1854 - 1856); Steerage passenger, Princess Royal (barque) (1856); Steerage passenger, Princess Royal (barque) (1858).

Robert Reid arrived on Vancouver Island on the Norman Morison on March 24, 1850 as part of the HBC obligation to settle Vancouver Island. In June, Reid joined the steamer Beaver for two years and then appeared to work steadily on land until 1856. On February 12, 1856, after receiving a letter of recommendation from James Douglas, he departed with his child on the Princess Royal for London, arriving on June 21st. He then left London in September with his wife and child for Vancouver Island on the Princess Royal. The visit was short, for one month after their arrival at Victoria in February 1858, Reid, his wife, and child all departed for the British Isles once again. The reason for their departure has not been determined.

The names of Robert Reid's wife and child (?-1857) have not been traced.

PS: HBCA YFASA 29-32; log of Beaver 2; FtVicASA 1-5; FtVicCB 12; log of Princess Royal 2; FtSimp[N]P] 7 SS: Mouat, p. 213

Reitch, Peter (fl. 1849 - 1859) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1851); Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1858 - 1859).

Peter Reitch made two return voyages to the Coast on HBC supply vessels. On the first voyage, he would have stopped at Fort Simpson and Sitka before returning to England.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; log of Princess Royal 5

Rendall, James (c. 1792 - ?) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: probably Evie, Orkney - c. 1792

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1829); Cooper, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Cooper, Fort Langley (1831 - 1846); Passenger, Cowlitz (barque) (1845 - 1846).

James Rendall joined the HBC from Orkney on June 14, 1820 as a cooper, originally for five years. Where he spent the first ten years of employment have not been traced, but it is likely he returned to Orkney before sailing back again in 1829; he came to the Columbia in 1830. In 1840, James Rendall's health apparently deteriorated for John McLoughlin noted that "Rendall the Fort Langley Cooper is in such bad health, we cannot depend on him" (FtVanCB 26, fo. 5d). He worked until December 10, 1845, at which point he returned to the British Isles ("home") on the barque Cowlitz. Just prior to his return, James Douglas, in a letter to Archibald Barclay, HBC secretary, praised Rendall as "...one of the company's old and most faithful servants..." and recommended that Barclay give him the "best recommendation that can be given to an honest industrious tradesman" (FtVanCB 35, fo. 89d). As Rendall had accumulated a considerable amount of money during his work at Fort Langley, it is doubtful that he had a wife or family there. Rendall's activities after his return to Orkney have not been traced.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Prince Rupert IV 3; FtVanASA 2-6; YFDS 4a-7, 16; YFASA 11-14, 19-20, 22-25; FtVanCB 26, John McLoughlin's Mar. 20, 1840 Fort Vancouver letter to George Simpson, fo. 5d; FtVanCB 35, James Douglas' December 17, 1845 Fort Vancouver letter to Archibald Barclay, fo. 89d; A.16/48, [£336.11.8 transferred to his Kirkness account] fo. 28d

Reubascan, John (? - 1828) (probably American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Death: Umpqua River, Oregon Territory - July 14, 1828

Free trader

SJ & S Trapper, Jedediah Smith Southwest Expedition (1826 - 1828).

John Reubascan was a trapper on Jedediah Smith's southwest expedition of 1826-1828. He first appeared on record at the 1826 Rendezvous and left with Smith in August, heading south, crossing the Colorado River and into California. After a great deal of difficulty with Spanish authorities in California, the expedition headed north. In an area just north of the Umpqua River [Oregon], just after Smith and two others set out to scout out a route to travel, the natives killed all the expedition members remaining in camp including Reubascan, except one, who managed to escape.

PPS: HBRS X, p. 61 SS: Carter, "Jedediah Smith", p. 97-104

Reveau, John (fl. 1811 - 1813) (probably American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Maritime officer

PFC Carpenter, Beaver (ship) (1811 - 1812); Carpenter, Fort George [Astoria] (1812 - 1813); Carpenter, Albatross (brig) (1813).

John Reveau was hired in New York in October 1811 to work at Astoria, sailing on John Jacob Astor's ship Beaver [Cornelius Sowles] on October 10th. After landing at Astoria on May 9, 1812, his subsequent work did not appear in the journals at the time. On August 25, 1813, he left Fort Astoria with Wilson Price Hunt on the Winship vessel Albatross [William Smith]. From there he would have sailed to the Marquesas, thence to the Sandwich Islands in 1813. It is not known if he stayed with the vessel when it traded throughout the islands throughout 1814.

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria PPS: K. W. Porter, John Jacob Astor, p. 475-78 SS: Howay, A List of Trading Vessels

Reynolds, Robert (fl. 1855 - 1856) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1855 - 1856).

Robert Reynolds made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Rhene (Selahony), Jean Baptiste (fl. 1854 - 1859) (Mixed native descent)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec] (probably born to Rhene Selahony and possibly an unnamed Carrier [Dakelh] woman)

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Langley (1854 - 1855); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1855 - 1856); Boute, New Caledonia (1856 - 1859).

Jean Baptiste Rhene appeared to work for the HBC off and on for a number of years.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 2-7

Rhodes, Benjamin (fl. 1811 - 1812) (probably American)

Birth: probably United States of America, North America

Maritime officer

PFC 1st mate, Beaver (ship) (1811 - 1812).

Benjamin Rhodes sailed with John Jacob Astor's Beaver from New York Harbour on October 17, 1811 for the North West Coast. Alfred Seton chronicled him from February 6, 1812 to May 8, 1812. During this time Rhodes appeared to be a competent ship's officer and, on April 12, 1812, got into an argument with Ross Cox who insisted on playing the fife within earshot of the officers' cabin. After arriving at Astoria on May 9, 1812, Rhodes likely continued the voyage north in the fall and later to Canton, where Captain Sowle had the ship interned to avoid capture during the War of 1812. He likely continued on with Sowle to Boston.

PPS: R. F. Jones, p. 59-85

Rhodes, Godfrey (c. 1815 - 1897) (British: English)

Birth: Middlesex, England - c. 1815 (born to Godfrey and Susannah Rhodes)

Death: Honolulu, Oahu, Hawaiian Islands - September 8, 1897

Other

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1835 - 1836); Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1836); Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1836 - 1837).

As Godfrey Rhodes had served with the merchant vessel Eliza, he had gained some seagoing experience before he joined the HBC in London on August 29, 1835 as an ordinary seaman. While sailing to the coast on the Columbia he stopped at Hawaii before arriving at Fort Vancouver in March 1836. He made an additional return trip to Honolulu on the Columbia before he began working in coastal shipping servicing coastal posts on the Nereide. In the fall of 1836, he transferred back to the barque Columbia for its return voyage to London but he had been so taken with Hawaii, he asked for and received his discharge there in 1837. Although not involved in the fur trade again, he returned once again to the Northwest Coast in January 1840 on the Unity to return Northwest Coast natives who had been left in Hawaii by whalers. In the 1840s Rhodes settled on Kauai to grow coffee and produce but, because of heavy rains, abandoned the project in 1852. In 1847, however, he was registered as a naturalized Hawaiian citizen and merchant residing in Honolulu and during this time, he carried on active business transactions with his old HBC employer under the name "G. Rhodes & Co." and was elected several times to the legislature. He became prosperous and, according to the HBC, Rhodes and his family long time "good customers to the establishment..." (SandIsLonIC 3, fo. 423). At one point, he was involved in a land dispute with Richard Charlton, the British Consul in Honolulu. He retired from political life in 1886 and went to California because of failing health but returned to Hawaii in 1892. He had a close relationship with Hawaiian royalty for, in 1854, he was a caller at the palace the night Kamehameha III died and, in 1891, was at the death-bed of King David Kalakaua in San Francisco the night he died. When Rhodes returned to Hawaii, he was appointed to the Privy Council by Queen Liliuokalani. As well, he favoured the independence of Hawaii over a Reciprocity Treaty with the United States. A brother, Henry Rhodes, came to Hawaii in the 1840s and was appointed Hawaiian consul in Victoria.

Godfrey Rhodes appears to have had three successive wives. The first may have been named Anna Louisa (?-?), the second was Maria Camila Marin [Marini] (?-1874) (daughter of Francisco de Paula Marin) whom he married on December 14, 1840 in Honolulu. Maria died on October 28 or 29, 1841. His third wife was Nancy Chapman, whom he married in January 1882. He is known to have had at least one child.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 4a, 14; log of Columbia 1; FtVanASA 3-5; YFDS 7; YFASA 17; SandIsAB 6; SandIsLonIC 2, 3; HSA PacificCA, Sept. 8, 1897, p. 1; HHS Friend, Feb. 4, 1882, p. 21; HMCS SReynolds] PPS: Varigny, Fourteen Years in the Sandwich Islands, p. 252

Ribbins, Richard (fl. 1849 - 1851) (British: English)

Birth: possibly Puxley, England (born to John and Margaret Ribbins)

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Cowlitz (barque) (1849 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1850); Labourer, Norman Morison (barque) (1850 - 1851).

Richard Ribbins sailed to Vancouver Island from London as a passenger on the HBC barque Cowlitz, arriving March 1850. After his arrival, he worked at Fort Victoria for a brief period, until September 10th, 1850, at which point he left for the British Isles aboard the Norman Morison. He has not been traced after his arrival back in London in February 1851. He may not have had the heart to stay after his arrival at Vancouver Island, for on the way out, his good friend Edward Parrot, a non-swimmer, drowned in Hawaii while trying to swim.

Undelivered family correspondence to both Edward and Richard, rests in the HBCA. The girlfriends of both wrote a combined letter.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 5; YFASA 29-30; FtVicASA 1; YFDS 21; FtVicAB 3a; MiscI 5 PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 358-61

Rice, Arden H. (fl. 1821 - 1823) (probably American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Maritime employee

U.A. Ordinary seaman, Onybee (brig) (1821 - 1823).

Arden H. Rice is first tracked in the Sandwich Islands in 1822 when he came under the new captain of the Onybee, Eliab Grimes. He had likely left Boston July 9, 1821 on the Onybee [William Henry McNeill] when it sailed to the Pacific. Rice was with the vessel as it traded on the Northwest Coast in 1822-1823 in opposition to the HBC and thereon after disappears from record. A certain Captain Rice, captain of the ship Superior out of New London, frequented the Hawaiian Island from 1828; by 1833 he was sailing with his wife. This may be the same person.

PS: HMCS SReynolds]; CU-B log of Inore/Eagle SS: Howay, A List of Trading Vessels

Richard (fl. 1825) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Maritime employee

MW Labourer, Convoy (brig) (1825).

Richard shipped aboard the Josiah Marshall brig, Convoy [Capt. Wm. H. McNeill] at Oahu after it arrived at that Island on March 16, 1825 to unload cargo and take on supplies for the Northwest Coast. After sailing April 1 as a labourer, Richard and the vessel traded for a season, returning to Honolulu on November 2. It is not known whether he continued to sail with the Convoy.

PS: BCA log of Convoy SS: Howay, A List of Trading Vessels

Richard, Joseph (c. 1811 - c. 1833) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Paul, Quebec - c. 1811

Death: Fort McLoughlin [British Columbia] - c. October 10, 1833

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1832 - 1833); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1833); Middleman, Fort McLoughlin (1833).

In short, Joseph Richard's bad behaviour and ignorance of the local natives sealed his own terrible fate on the Northwest Coast. In 1832 at the age of twenty-two, he joined the HBC as a middleman, crossing to the country to Fort Vancouver. There he was assigned to Fort Simpson and then Fort McLoughlin which was in the process of construction. At Fort McLoughlin, because of apparent bad behaviour and the resulting severe punishment by strict disciplinarian Donald Manson, Richard deserted the post with plans to go into hiding at a nearby native village. On his way, he met some boys who promised to take him to the village but they insisted on taking one piece of clothing after another until he at last refused to comply with their demands. At that point the boys stoned him to death. (The real story of Joseph Richard's fate was discovered only several years after the fact.)

At the time of Richard's disappearance, the officers of the post took local chief Kyath/Tyest, a.k.a. "Boston" as hostage to secure the release of Richard whom they thought was being held captive. When the HBC men went out to secure water, they were attacked and several on both sides were injured with knives, axes and bullets. Finally, peace was achieved when the chief was sent out with a blanket, shirt and tobacco, and other natives were compensated and treated at the post for their injuries.

PS: HBCA YFASA 12-14; YFDS 5a-5b; FtMcLouPJ 1 PPS: BCA Diar-Rem Anderson, p. 9-11

Richards, John (fl. 1856 - 1857) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Death: Atlantic Ocean, aboard the Princess Royal - April 12, 1857

Maritime employee

HBC Cook, Princess Royal (barque) (1856 - 1857).

When John Richards joined the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal in London on August 19, 1856 for his return voyage to the Northwest Coast, he was likely already ill with consumption. On the return leg, he died, was buried at sea, and his effects were sold to the rest of the crew the following day.

PS: HBCA log of Princess Royal 3

Richards, William (fl. 1852 - 1859) (possibly British)

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1852 - 1853).

William Richards appears to have been a sponsored immigrant who may have done some odd jobs with the HBC in the Victoria area. In January 1859 he purchased one-hundred acres [40.5 ha] in the Metchosin area and presumably continued to live there.

PS: HBCA YFASA 32; FtVicASA 1; BCA BCGR-CrtR-AbstLnd

Richardson, Benjamin (fl. 1856 - 1857) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles - 1857

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1856 - 1857).

Benjamin Richardson joined the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal in London on August 19, 1856 and made one return voyage to the Northwest Coast.

PS: HBCA log of Princess Royal 3; PortB 1

Richardson, Thomas (fl. 1842 - 1844) (British: English)

Birth: possibly London, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1842 - 1843); Cook, Columbia (barque) (1843 - 1844).

Thomas Richardson shipped on with the HBC around September 6, 1842 in London and sailed to the coast on the Columbia. While he was on the coast he helped to service several coastal posts; during one such voyage to Honolulu he replaced William Bell as the ship's cook. On one of the visits to Honolulu, however, he asked for and received a discharge.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 8; YFASA 23-24; log of Columbia 6

Riche (Lafleche), Augustin [standard: Riché] (c. 1802 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Sorel, Lower Canada - c. 1802

Fur trade employee

HBC Blacksmith, New Caledonia (1829 - 1833).

Augustin Riché (Lafleche) joined the HBC from Fort William Henry in 1829 on a three year contract. He spent the next three years in New Caledonia and, in 1833, returned east of the Rockies at the end of his contract. Riché continued work with the Company as he signed a further contract at Montreal on March 21, 1838, for three additional years as a blacksmith.

PS: HBCA YFDS 3b, 4b-5a; FtVanASA 2; YFASA 9, 11-12; HBCCont

Richmond, Rev. John P. (fl. 1839 - 1842) (American)

Birth: United States of America

Other

U.A. Passenger, Laussane (ship) (1839 - 1840); Medical missionary, Nisqually Methodist Mission (1840 - 1842); Passenger, Chenamus (brig) (1842).

John Richmond and his family came from New York to the Pacific Northwest to reinforce the Methodist missionary contingent in the Pacific Northwest. Richmond and his wife and four children were assigned to the mission near the HBC's Fort Nisqually, a small site previously established by Rev. David Leslie and William Holden Willson under orders of Jason Lee. The family didn't appear to have much interaction with the nearby fort's workforce ½ mile [0.8 km] away but, in 1841, he was visited by George Simpson on his round the world tour. In August 1842, he was present at Nisqually for the deposition of Pierre Kanaguassé. At one point, the Richmonds had to rescue one of their children from a native who had failed to obtain it in trade. However, because of a combination of previous Catholic inroads into the fur trade and its surrounding culture, native disinterest in conversions as well as Dr. Richmond's health, the mission was abandoned in 1842. In September 1842 the Richmond family (wife and four children) departed on the Chenamus [John Couch] for Hawaii.

PS: HBCA FtVanCB 29; G. Simpson, Narrative, p. 181; HMCS SReynoldsJ SS: Bancroft, History of Oregon, vol. I, p. 189; Canse, p. 199; Carpenter, Fort Nisqually, p. 97-101

Richmonds, William (fl. 1834 - 1835) (probably American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Fur trade employee

CRFTC Employee, Fort Hall (1834 - 1835).

William Richmonds joined the Nathaniel J. Wyeth expedition of 1834 as part of a group to establish the CRFTC on the Pacific slopes. Heay have joined the expedition en route and the expedition on the Upper Snake River, near the mouth of the Portneuf River, to build the CRFTC trading post of Fort Hall. A stockade was built in the summer of 1834 and a total of twelve men stayed to winter over. Richmonds may have gone out on hunting parties and may have departed for an unknown location in the summer of 1835.

PS: OHS FtHallAB SS: O. Russell, p. 157

Ricknell, William (fl. 1857 - 1858) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Boy, Princess Royal (barque) (1857 - 1858).

William Ricknell made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Ridley, James Henry (fl. c. 1830 - 1840) (British: English)

Birth: possibly London, England

Maritime employee

HBC Apprentice, Dryad (brig) (1830 - 1835); Seaman, Dryad (brig) (1835 - 1836); Passenger from York Factory to Britain, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1837); Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1837 - 1838); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1838 - 1839); Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1839 - 1840).

James H. Ridley joined the HBC before 1830 in London and served out his apprenticeship on a Hudson Bay run of the Prince Rupert and on the Dryad serving coastal posts. He arrived back in England on the Dryad in April 1836 and, on November 18, 1837 after a Hudson Bay run, signed an additional contract for five years. He sailed to the coast but, because of an injury, had to spend some time in the Fort Vancouver hospital. He spent an additional year on the coast before arriving back in London April 22, 1840.

PS: HBCA log of Prince Rupert IV 4, 10; HBCCont; ShMisPap 14; YFASA 11-15, 19; YFDS 4b-6, 9-10; FtVanASA 3, 5; log of Columbia 3; log of Nereide 2

Ridley, Robert (c. 1819 - 1851) (British: English)Birth: London, England - c. 1819Death: San Francisco, California - 1851Fur trade employee*HBC Clerk, San Francisco (1844 - 1845).

Handsome, heavy drinking cockney, Robert Ridley (also known as Richard or Joseph with a middle initial of T., J. or F), had a brief association with the HBC and the fur trade and was blamed, in part, for bringing William Glen Rae to ruin. Around 1840, the English sailor and clerk was found in command of John Augustus Sutter's launch and, in 1841, was sent by Sutter to take charge of old Fort Ross, which Sutter had just purchased from the Russians. By 1844, a twenty-five year old Ridley was working as HBC clerk with William Glen Rae at Yerba Buena, was a corporal in the militia and had just got married. According to British Vice Consul, J. A. Forbes:

This Young Man was employed by Mr. Rae for collecting about the Bay and being of a forward volatile disposition, insinuated himself so much and associated so much with Mr. Rae that this gentleman was induced to assist him in getting married immediately permitting him to reside with his wife in the Company's house. I cannot say that I think Ridley dishonest, but I am certain that he had told Mr. Rae many untruths and Contributed greatly to involve that gentleman in many difficulties (FtVanCB 32, fo. 189d).

Around the beginning of 1845, because the "intrigue" of Ridley and others, Rae committed $48,000 of HBC supplies to insurgents aiming to overthrow General Micheltorena. After both Ridley and Rae actually joined the insurgents as volunteers, Rae, unable to extricate himself from the situation, committed suicide. After Rae's death, Ridley sued the HBC for services rendered and won a considerable sum, for which he was termed "swindler" by Dugald MacTavish (FtVanCB 35, fo. 75-75d) who was sent to finalize HBC affairs; Ridley left the HBC, built a house on the corner of Monterey and California Streets and, in 1846, became captain of the port. He became a second magistrate [alcalde] but was removed from office in a dispute. Since he was a "Mexican" official, he was arrested in July by the Bears [American republicans] and put into prison at Sutter's fort but released to get votes for magistrate in September. In 1847, he kept a saloon in San Francisco and for a time went to Monterey. In 1848 he was appointed magistrate at the San Francisco Mission where he spent the rest of his life. He died there in 1851. After his death, his heirs were unsuccessful claimants for his property, the Visitacion Rancho (Bancroft, p. 695).

Robert Ridley had one wife, Juana Briones of North Beach. No children have been traced.

PS: HBCA FtVanCB 32, James A Forbes Jan. 21, 1845 letter to John McLoughlin, fo. 189-89d; FtVanCB 35, P. S. Odgen/James Douglas Fort Vancouver March 15, 1847 letter to George Simpson, fo. 75-75d PPS: Essig, p. 98 SS: Bancroft, History of California, vol. v, p. 695

Riley, Samuel (fl. 1831 - 1835) (British: English)Birth: probably in or near Deal, Kent, EnglandMaritime employee*HBC Seaman, Eagle (brig) (1831 - 1832); Seaman, Lama (brig) (1832 - 1834); Seaman, Eagle (brig) (1834 - 1835).

Samuel Riley joined the HBC on September 24, 1831 for three years. He arrived in the Columbia aboard the brig Eagle and began work in coastal shipping on October 26, 1832. He worked on coastal shipping for two years and on November 10, 1834, he was transferred back to the Eagle and returned to England.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFDS 5a-5b; ShMisPap 14; YFASA 12-13; YFDS 5c

Rising, Horace (c. 1823 - 1859) (British: English)Death: Rocky Point near Victoria, British Columbia - January 19, 1859Fur trade employee*HBC Sponsored settler, Fort Victoria (1853 - 1855).

Horace Rising arrived at Fort Victoria in 1853, probably as a sponsored settler, and worked for a brief period for the HBC. The following year, in May 1854, he purchased a town lot in Victoria and in 1857, thirty-five acres [14.2 ha] in the Esquimalt District, and lived in the area for the next five years. In 1859, he died at Rocky Point and was buried on January 19th.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1-3; BCA BCCR CCCath; BCGR-CrtR-Land

Ritchie, Andrew (c. 1812 - 1837) (Canadian: English)Birth: probably St. Benoit, Lower Canada - c. 1812Death: Columbia Cascades (Rapids), Pacific Northwest - March 18, 1837Fur trade employee*HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1834 - 1835); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1835)

- 1837).

Andrew Ritchie, from St. Benoit, didn't get far in life after joining the HBC in 1833. He served one three-year contract and was beginning another when, on March 18, 1837, he drowned at the Cascades.

PS: HBCA YFASA 14-15, 17; YFDS 5c-7; FtVanASA 3-4

Ritchie, John (fl. 1845 - 1846) (probably British: English)Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1845 - 1846).

John Ritchie, who joined the HBC in 1845, appeared in the Columbia in outfit 1845-1846. He returned to the British Isles aboard the barque Cowlitz in outfit 1845-1846 and made at least one Hudson Bay run after that.

PS: HBCA YFASA 25; log of Prince Rupert V 8

Ritchie, Robert (fl. 1822 - 1824) (probably British)Birth: probably British Isles*Maritime officer

HBC Captain, Lively (brig) (1822 - 1824).

Robert Ritchie was owner and captain of the brig Lively when it was chartered by the HBC on September 4, 1822 to run to the Columbia. On January 3, 1823, Captain Ritchie sailed from Table Bay, Cape of Good Hope, rounded the Horn in March and by July, was in the North Pacific Ocean. Little is known of Ritchie's character but he was obviously a man of discipline and in charge, as evidenced by an incident on July 1, 1823. That day, when the pipe smoking captain found the young boy, William Forbes, smoking in the galley, he reminded him that there was no by the crew smoking on board, ripped the pipe out of the lad's mouth and threw it overboard. When Forbes became abusive, Ritchie struck him. Forbes struck back. An angry Forbes then obtained the cook's axe and threatened the now bloodied captain. Ritchie defused the situation by retiring to clean up. When he returned, Forbes was still on deck, this time with an open knife. Ritchie hit him with one blow and put the lad under arrest. When the ship arrived at the Columbia on July 15, 1823, Ritchie had Forbes confined in Fort George. The departure with furs from Fort George was delayed by the drunken behaviour of the mate and the apprentices who absconded with the jolly boat. After a court of enquiry to discuss the mates habits, the ship sailed on August 6th with the carpenter now replacing the mate. Around New Years, while anchored at Rio de Janeiro, Ritchie had further trouble with some of his younger crew taking the small boat without leave. Ritchie arrived back in London on March 25, 1824 without further incident. For his efforts, Captain Ritchie was voted a gratuity of £50 on May 19, 1824. Robert Ritchie has not been traced after that.

PS: HBCA log of Lively 1; ShipExt

Ritmire, William [variation: Retmire] (fl. 1844 - 1847) (British: English)Birth: probably London, England*Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1844 - 1847).

William Ritmire joined the HBC in London on August 26, 1844 on a five-year contract as a seaman. He made a return visit to the coast on the Vancouver and was part of a group that protested the treatment by the officers on the outward voyage. He also spent some time in the hospitals of Sitka and Fort Vancouver for an unspecified illness.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 11; YFASA 25-26; YFDS 17

Rivard (Huard), Jean (c. 1820 - ?) (Canadian: French)Birth: probably Lachine, Lower Canada - c. 1820*Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1838 - 1839); Middleman, Fort Nisqually (1839 - 1841); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1841 - 1842).

Jean Rivard (Huard) joined the HBC from Lachine in 1838 on a three-year contract and returned to Canada in the spring or summer of 1842.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 5-7; YFASA 19-21

Rivet, Francois [standard: François] [variation: Reeve, Rives, Rivey, Reevey, Revi] (c. 1759 - 1852) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Arpentigny or St. Sulpice, Lower Canada - c. 1759

Death: St. Paul, Oregon - September 24, 1852

Freeman

U.S. Gov't Untraced vocation, Lewis and Clark Expedition (1804); NWC Interpreter, Flatheads (1810); Freeman interpreter, Flatheads (winter 1813 - 1814); HBC Interpreter, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1821 - 1822); Trapper, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1821 - 1822); Interpreter, Columbia Department (1822 - 1824); Boute, Columbia Department (1822 - 1824); Interpreter, Columbia Department (1824 - 1826); Interpreter, Snake Party (1824 - 1825); Interpreter, Fort Colville (1826 - 1837); Settler, Willamette (1837 - 1842+).

François Rivet saw much of the history of the fur trade of the West. After leaving the Montreal area, he was on the Great Plains of North America for years before he joined the Lewis and Clark expedition in 1804, likely in an escort function at Kaskaskia. On May 26, 1804, he was attached to Sergeant Charles Floyd's mess at River du Bois. Rivet was discharged when Floyd died on August 20, 1804, and wintered with Baptiste Deschamps, Etienne Malboeuf and Alexander Carson in a small hut next to Fort Mandan. In the following spring, Rivet and Philippe Degrais built a canoe and went down the Missouri to the Arikara nation. He was near this same village on August 21, 1806, when Clark passed through on his return trek. Rivet's movements between 1806-1810 are unclear but he was likely in the area of Saleesh House, the area of his wife's people, before 1810. In March 1810, he assisted David Thompson in the Saleesh area to secure the property of trapper Mr. Courter, who had just died. By 1813, and now in his fifties, Rivet was at Fort Astoria as a freeman and signed on with the NWC, agreeing to work with them for two more years. He probably stayed west of the Rockies (likely in the Flatheads area) with the NWC until 1821 when he joined the HBC at the time of coalition as an interpreter. In 1824-1825 he worked for both Alexander Ross and P. S. Ogden's Snake parties. As an old man in 1828, he began his nine-year stay at Fort Colville, where he acted as interpreter when he was not doing a little iron work for the Columbia boats. In 1837 he became a settler in the Willamette taking a claim south of St. Paul, Oregon, late in 1839. He became a U.S. citizen in 1851 and died at St. Paul on September 25, 1852 at the age of ninety-five. His ninety-seven year old wife, Thérèse, died in St. Paul three weeks later on October 13, 1852.

François Rivet had one wife and two recorded children. On January 21, 1839 at Fort Vancouver, he formalized his marriage to Thérèse Flathead (c.1755-1852), whose daughter by an earlier union was Julia, later wife of P. S. Ogden. (Thérèse's family and relatives lived near the site of Thompson's Saleesh House.) Their recorded children were Antoine (c.1814-?) and Joseph (c.1816-?).

PS: HBCA NWCAB 9, 10; HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 4; YFASA 1-9, 11-15; SnkCoPJ 2; YFDS 2a, 3a-3b, 4b-7, 10-11; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-6; OHS George Roberts' March 25, 1879 letter to Mr. F. F. Victor; Oregon Statesman, Apr. 9, 1853, p. 3 PPS: Lewis and Clark, May 26, 1804, August 20, 1804; UBC-Koer Thompson, March 3-4, 1810; CCR 1a, 2b SS: C. G. Clarke, "The Roster of", p. 295-96

See Also: Rivet, Francois Jr. (Son); Flathead, Julia (Relative); Ogden, Peter Skene (Relative)

Rivet, Francois Jr. [standard: François] (c. 1816 - 1830) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Pacific Northwest - c. 1816 (born to Francois Rivet and Thérèse, Flathead)

Death: The Dalles, Columbia River - July 3, 1830

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Snake Party (1828 - 1830).

François Rivet Junior followed his father's footsteps by being a member of various Snake expeditions. He was a member of the group of twelve people from Ogden's 1830 Snake Expedition who drowned in a whirlpool in the Dalles on July 3, 1830.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; William Kittson's letter of 12 August 1830 to John Rowand, D.4/125, fo.50

See Also: Rivet, Francois (Father)

Robere, Francois [standard: François] (fl. 1846 - 1847) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1846 - 1847).

François Robere appeared receiving wages in the Columbia Department from the HBC in outfit 1846-1847. He may have been a member of the cross-country brigade.

PS: HBCA YFASA 26

Robert (fl. 1825) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Maritime employee

MW Labourer, Convoy (brig) (1825).

Robert shipped aboard the Josiah Marshall brig, Convoy [Wm. H. McNeill] at Oahu after it arrived at that Island on March 16, 1825 to unload cargo and take on supplies for the Northwest Coast. After sailing April 1, Robert and the vessel traded for a season, returning to Honolulu November 2. It is not known whether he continued to sail with the Convoy.

PS: BCA log of Convoy SS: Howay, A List of Trading Vessels

Robert, Francois [standard: François] (fl. 1810 - 1814) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Maskinongé, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

PFC Middleman, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (1810 - 1812); NWC Middleman, Fort Flatheads and/or Spokane House (October 13, 1813); Middleman, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1813 - 1814).

François Robert may have been in Montreal when he was signed into the Pacific Fur Company by partner Alexander McKay on May 23, 1810 to work as a middleman for five years in Indian Country. Over a month later, around July 6, he joined Wilson Price Hunt's PFC overland expedition at Lachine, Lower Canada [Quebec]. By late summer of the following year, he and the expedition crossed the Continental Divide and, around February 18, 1812, reached Fort Astoria. While in the Pacific Northwest, he worked in the Fort Flatheads and Spokane House and on October 16, 1813, joined the NWC when it took over the PFC. He likely returned to Montreal in the spring of 1814. It is probable he signed a further contract from St. Philippe in 1818 with his old acquaintance, former PFC clerk, William Wallace Matthews, and possibly from St. André in 1820 to work in the Northwest for three years as a middleman; however, the latter is not certain.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: K. W. Porter, Roll of Overland, p. 111

Robert, Joseph (fl. 1830) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Goer and comer, Columbia Department (1830).

Joseph Robert was a comer and goer into the Columbia in the summer of 1830 from Lower Red River. In 1830-1831, he was a Montreal summerman.

PS: HBCA FtVanAB 26; YFASA 10

Roberts, Charles (c. 1781 - 1811) (American)

Birth: probably New York, New York - c. 1781

Death: Clayoquot Sound, Vancouver Island - June 1811

Maritime employee

PFC Seaman, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811).

Charles Roberts joined John Jacob Astor's Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn] as a seaman some time before September 3, 1810, for its voyage to the Northwest Coast. Roberts departed September 8 on the New York vessel for its tempestuous journey around the Horn but managed to avoid the harsh punitive temper and measures of the captain. During a brief stopover in February 1811 in the Sandwich Islands, Roberts was confined below for trying to desert ship. On March 22, the Tonquin arrived at the mouth of the Columbia. Roberts stayed on the vessel as it proceeded north to Clayoquot Sound, Vancouver Island. There, in June, the vessel was attacked and all crew members, except the interpreter died when the ship was attacked and blown up.

PS: USNA Tonquin PPS: ChSoc XLV, p. 49; A. Ross, Adventures, p. 58

Roberts, Edwin (fl. 1840 - 1849) (British: English)

Birth: possibly Liverpool or Plymouth, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Conlitz (barque) (1840 - 1845); Seaman, Beaver (steamer) (1845 - 1846); Boatswain, Columbia (barque) (1846 - 1847); 2nd Officer, Columbia (barque) (1847 - 1849).

Edwin Roberts joined the HBC in London on August 24, 1840 as a seaman originally for five years and came twice to the coast on the Conlitz. During the first voyage, his career did not look promising for on September 12, 1841 in San Francisco, he and John Garret were caught stealing sugar that was cargo belonging to the missionaries and two days later he tried to desert. He made two further voyages on the Columbia and rose through the ranks, but deserted in May 1849 for the California gold fields with eight other seamen, James Brooks, John Phillips, William Baker, John Thompson, William Murray, Abraham Dyke, Abraham Holland, Peter Petrelius and Alex Brands. Several of the crew had asked for a discharge but it was not granted, and so Roberts, who was in charge of the stores, raided the stores and left with the men. He appeared on the account books for four more years before his name was finally dropped.

An 1842 family letter from his brother or brother-in-law, S. W. Jones in Liverpool, was undelivered and rests at the HBCA.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Cowlitz 1; FtVanASA 6-8; YFASA 22, 24-27, 30-32; P. S. Ogden's May 16, 1849 Fort Vancouver letter to Archibald Barclay, Correspondence, A.11/70, fos. 368-69; log of Columbia 9-10; MiscI 5 PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 159-161

Roberts, George Barber (1816 - 1883) (British: English)

Birth: England, United Kingdom - 1816

Death: Cathlamet, Washington Territory - 1883

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice, Ganymede (barque) (1830 - 1831); Apprentice, Cadboro (schooner) (1831); Apprentice, Naval Department (1831 - 1832); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver (1832 - 1834); Untraced vocation, Naval Department (1832 - 1836); Apprentice, Dryad (brig) (1834 - 1835); Teacher, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1836); Post master, Fort Vancouver (1836 - 1842); Clerk, Fort Vancouver (1836 - 1842); Passenger, Cowlitz (barque) (1842); Post master, Fort Vancouver (1843 - 1846); Clerk, Fort Vancouver (1843 - 1846); Clerk manager, Cowlitz Farm (1846 - 1851).

George Barber Roberts was a Greenwich Hospital Apprentice who sailed from England in the Ganymede in 1830, arriving in Fort Vancouver in 1831. However, because he was hurt, he remained on shore to work through his HBC apprenticeship and, around 1835, took over teaching duties from Cyrus Shepard at the Fort Vancouver school. He was given a variety of tasks but, unhappy at being ranked a post master, returned to England in retirement as a cabin passenger in 1842 on the Cowlitz. In England he married his cousin and rejoined the HBC returning to the Columbia in 1843. During the latter part of his employment with the HBC, a time in which he was in charge of the Cowlitz farm, Roberts wrote a journal and letters that chronicled the decline of the company as well as the struggles through the measles epidemic of 1848. In July 1850, his wife died of typhoid. He retired on September 1, 1851 and settled on a Donation Land Claim of 321 acres [130 ha] in the Nawaukum Prairie about seven miles [11.3 km] away from the Cowlitz farm. Around 1854, while he was living on this farm, he became a naturalized American citizen and began to take part in public life. In May 1859, he leased the HBC Cowlitz farm and outlying pastures and moved there with his family, ostensibly to secure the PSAC claim. Life was not easy there, for his neighbours, determined to dispossess the HBC of its land, ploughed up Robert's land and took his crops. As he was unable to pre-empt the land after the HBC/PSAC settled the claim, he moved to Cathlamet in 1871. There he conducted the affairs of James Birnie who had a wharf, sold wood to seamboats, and kept a hotel. Roberts was also elected county probate judge, treasurer and deputy auditor. Three years after his second wife died in 1880, he died and was buried in the Cathlamet pioneer cemetery.

George Barber Roberts had two wives and three recorded children. While he was in London in 1843, he married Martha Crabbe (c.1818-50) of Aldborough, his cousin. She died on July 22, 1850 on the Cowlitz farm in childbirth and was buried two days later. Their children were George (1844-?), Frances (1848-67) and Emma (1850-70). In May 1855 he married Rose Birnie (?-1880), of Aberdeen, Scotland and sister to James Birnie.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 11-14, 17-20, 22, 24-31; YFDS 4b, 5b-7, 22; FtVanASA 3-9; FtVanCB 29, 31; FtNisCBin 1; PSACAB 37; HBCA Evidence on the Part of the PSAC Claimants given at the British and American Joint Commission at Victoria, Vancouver Island on September 15, 1865, p. 67, 68; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Lewis Co.; OHS Spectator, Aug. 22, 1850, p. 3; BCA Diar-Rem Roberts; TacP-FtNis Huggins PPS: CCR 1a; Washington Territory Donation Land Claims, p. 82 SS: Bancroft, History of Oregon, vol. I, p. 38-39; G. B. Roberts, p. 101-174, 175-235
See Also: Birnie, James (Relative)

Roberts, John (fl. 1851 - 1852) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1851 - 1852).

John Roberts made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison. While on the coast, he would have visited several coastal posts.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Roberts, Owen (fl. 1841 - 1843) (British: Welsh)

Birth: probably in or near Barmouth, Wales

Maritime officer

HBC Boatswain, Cowlitz (barque) (1841 - 1843).

Owen Roberts joined the HBC in London on August 24, 1840 as a seaman for five years and made one return voyage to the coast.

Roberts, Peter (fl. 1830 - 1831) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1830); Seaman, Eagle (brig) (1830 - 1831).

Peter Roberts began work for HBC as a seaman in the Columbia on February 1, 1830. He left the Columbia for Europe on the brig Eagle on October 1, 1830 and arrived in London in 1831.

PS: HBCA YFASA 9-10; YFDS 3b-4a; ShMisPap 14; FtVanASA 2

Robertson, David [a] (1800 - ?) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: Tenston, Sandwick, Orkney - June 29, 1800 (born to John Robertson and Helen [Slater] Robertson)

Death: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1828); Seaman, HBC Naval Department (1829 - 1830); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1832); Seaman, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1832); Passenger, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1833 - 1834).

David Robertson (a) went to sea at an early age for, at the age of twenty-one, he was a sailor plying the straits, probably the Hudson Straits. On January 28, 1828, however, he decided to venture further for he signed on as a sailor for five years with the HBC, a company with which previous generations of Robertsons had been familiar. Six months later, he sailed to Hudson Bay and made his way overland. After reaching the coast, he worked at the docks of Fort Vancouver until 1832 when he retraced his steps to York Factory, boarded a vessel in September 1833 but did not sail in it as it was grounded, until 1834 when he returned to the Orkneys. During the 1830s, he appears to have made several more runs to Hudson Bay on HBC vessels. He has not been subsequently traced but an 1843 letter from his brother, James Robertson (1791-?), to James Dickson (?-?) would indicate that he was still alive at that time but likely living elsewhere.

David Robertson appears to have had one wife and one recorded child. His wife may have been Isobel Flett (?-?) whom he married in Tenston in 1821. An unnamed daughter was born in 1822. Subsequent children have not been traced.

PS: OrkA Cen1821, Orkney-Sandwick; HBCA log of Prince Rupert IV 2, 7-8, 11; HBCCont; YFASA 9, 11; FtVanASA 2; YFDS 4a-4b; James Robertson's June 19, 1843 letter to James Dickson as found in Beattie and Buss, p. 325-26

Robertson, David [b] [variation: Robinson] (c. 1813 - ?) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: probably East Voy, Sandwick, Orkney - c. 1813 (born to Peter Robertson and Catherine [Hourston] Robertson)

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince of Wales (ship) (1830); Passenger, Prince Rupert (ship) (1830); Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1831 - 1832); Seaman, Dryad (brig) (1832); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1832 - 1833); Seaman, Fort Simpson naval service (1833 - 1834); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1834 - 1835); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1837); Middleman, Thompson River (1837 - 1839); Passenger, Prince Rupert (ship) (1839 - 1840).

David Robertson (b), eldest brother of James and Samuel Robertson, left his Orkney farm at East Voy on or before May 11, 1830 and joined the HBC as a labourer for five years. After sailing from Stromness at the end of the month on the Prince of Wales for York Factory and making his way overland to the Pacific Northwest, he was assigned to the coastal Fort Simpson where he worked for three years. Apparently working quietly and efficiently to the end of his second contract in 1839, he then crossed the continent and returned to the British Isles aboard the Prince Rupert. While at York Factory, however, John McLoughlin refused to write a certificate of good character as he felt Robertson was "a lazy fellow" (FtVanCB 24, fo. 43d). Once again in Orkney, David moved back in with his family and brothers and, as eldest brother, took over the running of the farm. As he had probably acquired enough money abroad to begin a family, he got married in 1842. From that point on, he raised a family on his ten acre [4 ha] East Voy farm.

David Robertson [b] had one wife and three recorded children. On February 24, 1842, he married Helen Slater (c.1820-?) in Sandwick. His children were William (c.1844-?), Helen (c.1852-?), Alexander (c.1854-?) and Mary (c.1856-?).

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Prince of Wales I 9; log of Prince Rupert IV 4; FtSimp[N]PJ 3; YFASA 11-12, 14-15, 18; YFDS 4b-7; log of Dryad 1; FtVanASA 3-5; FtVanCB 24, John McLoughlin's July 5, 1839 York Factory letter to George Simpson, fo. 43d; OrkA Cen1821, 1841, 1851, and 1861, Orkney-Sandwick; OPR

See Also: Robertson, James (Brother); Robertson, Samuel (Brother)

Robertson, Francis (c. 1788 - 1811) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Georgia, United States - c. 1788 (Mulatto)

Death: Clayoquot Sound, Vancouver Island - June 1811

Maritime employee

PFC Steward, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811).

Twenty-two year old Georgian native Francis Robertson joined John Jacob Astor's Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn] in New York as a steward some time before September 3, 1810, for its voyage to the Northwest Coast. The five foot eight and a half inch [174 cm] Robertson departed September 8 on the New York vessel for its tempestuous journey around the Horn but managed to avoid the harsh punitive temper and measures of the captain. However, he died at Clayoquot Sound after the ship was attacked and blown up.

PS: USNA Tonquin PPS: ChSoc XLV p. 49

Robertson, James [1] [variation: John] (fl. 1842 - 1843) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Greenoch, Scotland, United Kingdom

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1842 - 1843).

James Robertson [1] joined the HBC in Honolulu on August 16, 1842 and, after making a brief trip to Fort Vancouver, returned to England on the barque Cowlitz, leaving in the fall of 1842.

PS: HBCA log of Cowlitz 1; YFASA 22; FtVanASA 7-8

Robertson, James [2] (c. 1827 - 1852) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: East Voy (?), Sandwick, Orkney - c. 1827 (born to Peter Robertson and Catherine [Hourston] Robertson)

Death: Flathead District, Pacific Northwest - February 24, 1852

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1847); Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1848 - 1849); Servant, Fort Colville (1849 - 1851); Labourer, Fort Colville (1851 - 1852).

James Robertson [2] like his two brothers before him, David and Samuel, joined the HBC in 1847 on a five year contract that ended in 1852. He came west over the Rockies in 1848 and began to work that year. After three years of working around the Fort Colville area, he died at Flatheads on February 24, 1852 of "fierce consumption" or some other disease. According to A. C. Anderson, who reported on the death, Robertson was "an excellent young man and very handy in many ways"; as he left no will, his property was sold at auction and credited to his account (Anderson, fo. 4).

PS: OrkA Cen1841, Orkney-Sandwick; HBCA log of Prince Rupert V 8; YFASA 28-32; YFDS 19-22; FtColMis 1, fo. 4
See Also: Robertson, David (Brother); Robertson, Samuel (Brother)

Robertson, Robert [variation: Robbie] (? - 1912) (British: Shetlander)

Birth: possibly in or near Yell, Shetland Islands, Scotland

Death: Whonnock, British Columbia - May 3, 1912

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, New Caledonia (1852 - 1860).

Robert Robertson joined the HBC in 1851 from Yell, Shetland, and spent his first year under general charges in the Northern Department. For the next seven years, he worked in New Caledonia and, retired in 1860, taking up residence in Whonnock, B. C. where he pre-empted 160 acres [64.8 ha] in 1870. There he appeared to carry on carpentry and, as a boatman on the Fraser River, became well known for his strength in rowing his boat long distances both for and against the tidal influences on the river. In spite of a "rough, awkward, and brusque" (Dunn, p. 54) appearance he was known for his kindness and willingness to talk about his early life in Shetland and religious subjects. He died in Whonnock and was buried on May 3, 1912.

Robert Robertson had one wife and several children. He took as a wife, Jane [Chenassenat/S-lastena] (c.1841-?), Nicomen/Stalo. Their children were Andrew (c.1861-88), William (c.1863-?), Robert (c.1864-?), Charlotte (c.1867-?), Mary (?-1896?), Barbara (1869-?), Andrina (1871-?), and Jane (Marie Jenny Elizabeth?) (c.1875-?).

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1-7, 9; HBCABio; Van-PL 1881 and 1891 Canada Census, New Westminster; Oblate Records, Vancouver, B.C. SS: Rev. A. Dunn, p. 52-54; Laing, p. 103; Braches, p. 6

Robertson, Samuel [1] [variation: Robinson] (c. 1824 - 1897) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: Sandwick, Orkney - c. April 18, 1824 (born to Peter Robertson and Catherine [Hourston] Robertson)

Death: probably Maple Ridge (Albion), British Columbia - 1897

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1843); Labourer, Cadboro (schooner) (1844 - 1845); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1847); Labourer, Fort Langley (1847 - 1849); Boatbuilder, Fort Langley (1849 - 1858); Carpenter, Fort Langley (1849 - 1858).

As elder brother David Robertson, a former HBC employee, had returned from the Pacific Northwest to take over the family farm, got married and was having a first child, Samuel [1] had little choice but to leave the small nine or ten acre [3.6 or 4 ha] Orkney family farm and enter the service of the HBC in 1843. (Brother James was to make the same decision three years later.) Samuel sailed to York Factory and made his way to the Columbia region where he worked for three years before being transferred to Fort Langley. There he worked for the rest of his career as a boatbuilder and carpenter, participating in the construction of nearby Fort Hope. Rather than live in Fort Langley, he chose to live across the river at Albion where he took a wife. As there were rumours that the capital of the about-to be formed Colony of British Columbia might be situated in nearby Derby, he built himself a combination saloon/roadhouse, "What Cheer House" in Derby or across the river in Albion working with James Rodgers. (Setting up roadhouses was not an unusual activity for HBC employees at that time trying to secure on-going income.) In 1858 the Colony of British Columbia was formed with its temporary capital at Fort Langley and Samuel Robertson retired. On February 7, 1860, he took out a pre-emption claim on 160 acres [64.8] in Albion. Here he was to stay for the rest of his life and subsequently considerably enlarged his claim. In 1860 he dismantled "What Cheer House" and reconstructed it up-river at the palisades of Fort Langley as "The British Columbia Liquor Company" no doubt to capture the trade of the thirsty miners passing through. Samuel continued to farm in Albion, importing fruit trees from Scotland and grafting hardier varieties onto crabapple trees. He is also reputed to have driven cattle up from Oregon. Robertson died on his Albion farm on December 17, 1897 and, along with his first wife Julia, was buried at Fort Langley.

Samuel Robertson had two wives and three children. Around 1853, he took as a wife, Julia Casimir (1834-84), daughter of Stolo Chief Skah. Til. Their marriage was formalized on June 2, 1876. Their children were Mary (1853-?), Donald (1857-87) and James Lewis (1860-1945). Julia died on July 22, 1884. Samuel later married the English widow of William Edge, killed in a slide in 1880.

PS: OrkA OPR; OrkA Cen1841, Orkney-Sandwick; HBCA log of Prince Rupert V 3; YFASA 24-32; FtVicASA 1-6; Diar-Rem Robertson PPS: BCA BCGR-Vic. Gazette, July 21, 1858, p. 3; pre-emption in Whonnock Community Association Historical Project, Summer 1986, (Records transcribed and compiled by Fred Braches, 1996) card file SS: Waite, p. 120, p. 263; Laing, p. 98; descendants of Samuel Robertson

See Also: Robertson, David (Brother); Robertson, James (Brother)

Robertson, Samuel [2] (c. 1831 - 1853) (Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly Fort Pelly, Saskatchewan - c. 1831 (born to CF Colin Robertson and Theresa [Chalifoux] Robertson)

Death: probably Fort Nisqually, Washington Territory - 1853

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice clerk, Fort Victoria (1850); Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1850).

One of seven children, Samuel Robertson was baptised in August 1831 likely shortly after his birth. On July 25, 1849, when he was approximately eighteen years old, he joined the HBC in London sailing for Vancouver Island on the barque Cowlitz. There, an impetuous young Robertson, about whom Governor George Simpson had concerns, (Simpson letter, p. 57) began his work surveying the fur trade lands with Captain Walter C. Grant. By May 1850 he was copying letters at the Fort. However, according to Douglas, Robertson "behaved in a disgraceful manner" (FtVicCB 8, fo. 275d) and accumulated a number of debts. Young Robertson tossed it all aside and deserted from Fort Victoria on July 6, 1850 along with one of Grant's men, went south, and took work as a day labourer at Fort Nisqually. He died in 1853.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 5; YFASA 30; George Simpson letter to James Douglas, March 26, 1850, D.4/71, p. 57; FtVicCB 8, James Douglas' July 16, 1850 Fort Victoria letter to Archibald Barclay, A.11/72, fo. 275d; YFDS 21; FtVicASA 1; HBCABio

Robertson, William [variation: Robinson] (fl. c. 1830 - 1835) (American or British)

Birth: probably United States of America

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Lama (brig) (1830 - 1834); Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1834 - 1835); Seaman, Eagle (brig) (1834 - 1835).

William Robertson, a captain's nightmare who also went by the name of Robinson, joined the Lama [William Henry McNeill] either in Boston, before it sailed in October 1830 or in Oahu while it was there on its outward journey March 11-29, 1831. On May 31, 1831, while on the coast aboard the Lama under the name Robinson, he was put in irons for stealing from the arm's chest. On July 18, 1831, at Kaiganee harbor, Robinson, Samuel Ferguson and Joseph Hursey in a fit of drunken bravado tried to take over the ship and jumped overboard, only to be brought back. If that wasn't enough, a few weeks later at Sitka, he, along with Milton Hurst and Francis Grennell, packed up his belongings, as well as some stolen muskets and cartridges, and deserted but likewise was returned to the vessel. Robinson stayed with the vessel until it was sold to the HBC in Oahu in August 1832 and joined the HBC there under the name of Robertson on September 4, along with several other Lama crew members for work in the Columbia. He sailed back to the coast on the Lama and serviced coastal ports and Oahu from this vessel for two more years and, on March 1, 1834 joined the crew of the barque Nereide to return to the coast from Oahu. He was on the ship's manifest on May 28, 1824 to sail back to England but apparently didn't as he transferred to the brig Eagle on November 10, 1834 and sailed to London. On April 6, 1835, he was sent ashore at St. Helena for mutinous conduct and, apparently, left there.

PS: BCA log of Lama 1; HBCA ShMiscPap 14; log of Nereide 1; log of Eagle 2; YFDS 5a-5c; YFASA 12-14

Robillard (Lambert), Cuthbert [variation: Culbert] (c. 1808 - ?) (Canadian: probably French and English)

Birth: in or near Montreal or Lachine, Lower Canada - c. 1808

Death: probably Willamette Valley, Oregon

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Thompson River (1838 - 1841); Untraced vocation, Fort Okanagan (August 1839); Middleman, Fort Colville (1841 - 1842); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1844 - 1845); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1845 - 1846); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1845 - 1846).

Cuthbert Robillard joined the HBC from the Montreal area in 1837. His three-year contract ended in 1840. Father Demers found him in Fort Okanagan in 1839. He returned to Canada in the spring or summer of 1842, signed a three year contract on April 28, 1843 (with the proviso that he could become a freeman in 1846) and reappeared again in the Columbia in 1844. Robillard retired to a farm on French Prairie in 1846.

Cuthbert Robillard (who appeared later as Cuthbert Lambert) married Marie Okanogan, widow of André Picard at St. Paul, Oregon, on November 9, 1846. They had no recorded children.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 4-7; YFASA 19-21, 24-26; HBCCont; YFDS 16; PPS: CCR 1a, 1b, 2a
See Also: Picard, Andre (Relative)

Robillard, Joseph (c. 1832 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: Ste. Elizabeth, Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1832 (born to Antoine Robillard and Rose Gadoury or Gabourey)

Death: probably Western Canada

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1848 - 1849); Middleman, Fort Rupert (1849 - 1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Rupert (1851 - 1853); Labourer, Belle Vue Sheep Farm (1858 - 1859).

Joseph Robillard joined the HBC from St. Felix de Valois in 1848 and came west over the Rockies that year. From that point on, he spent the majority of his five-year career with the Company at Fort Rupert. He retired from the Company in 1853 but he carried on transactions with the HBC until 1857. It was around this time he went to San Juan Island where he began farming on his own as well as working on the HBC sheep farm when he wasn't working his own claim and raising a family. He appears to have left the area by 1871.

Joseph Robillard's family records are not entirely clear; he may have had two successive wives and five recorded children. On May 28, 1856 in the Victoria area, Joseph married Rose (?-?), Kwakiutl. Their children appear to have been Joseph (?-bap.1853-?), Pierre (1855-?), Joseph (?-bap.1857-?) and Pierre (?-1861-?). Another wife appears to have been Louise (?-?), Tsutsalia, with whom he had Louisa (?-bap.1866-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 28-32; YFDS 19; FtVicASA 1, 3-4; BelleVuePJ 2; BCA BCCR StAndC

Robin, Francois [variation: François] (c. 1802 - ?) (probably Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1802

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1832 - 1835).

François Robin joined the HBC from Montreal in 1832 and worked three years in the New Caledonia area.

PS: HBCA YFASA 12-14; YFDS 5a-5c

Robinson, Edward (c. 1745 - 1814) (American)

Birth: Kentucky, United States - c. 1745

Death: Snake Country, Pacific Northwest - January 1814

Freeman

PFC Member, Andrew Henry's Fort (1810 - 1811); Freeman hunter, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (1811 - 1812); Freeman hunter, Andrew Henry's Fort (1812); Freeman hunter, Snake Country (1813 - 1814).

Some time during his long career in the fur trade, Edward Robinson encountered hostile natives, was "scalped" and survived (Irving, p. 242). In 1810, he was working for the Missouri Fur Company under Andrew Henry when Henry crossed the Continental Divide and built Henry's Fort on the Upper Snake (Henry's Fork) River. Robinson and several other men wintered at the fort but lack of food caused the group to eat their horses and set out for St. Louis in the spring as support from the St. Louis company was not forthcoming. It was during this eastward return trip, in May 1811, that the sixty-six year old Robinson joined Wilson Price Hunt's westward bound PFC overland expedition. Robinson then returned with the overland Astorians to Henry's Fort where they arrived in October 1811. On October 9, Robinson was left at Henry's Fort along with John Miller, John Hobach, and Jacob Rezner and Martin H. Cass to trap beaver. The small group trapped, travelling for nearly a year going probably to Bear River, Utah and Great Salt Lake. They were robbed twice by the Arapahoes. From there they went westward during the spring and summer until, in September 1812, they were met by Robert Stuart returning eastward from Astoria. At the time of the meeting Robinson's small group (without Cass who had unaccountably disappeared) was in considerable want as they had been robbed repeatedly by the natives. Miller joined Stuart's party leaving Robinson and his trapping partners to continue trapping. A year later, in September 1813, Robinson, Hobaugh and Regner, having been robbed just fifteen days previously, joined John Reed's party, which had entered the area. A few months later, in January 1814, while a member of the Reed party in the Snake River region, an aging Robinson and his trapping partners were killed by the Bannock Indians [possibly Northern Paiute] apparently in retaliation for Clark having punitively killed one of their own over the theft of a metal cup. Later that year, Madame Dorion reported his death to Gabriel Franchere when she and her children encountered the Astorians in the Yakima River area.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: K. W. Porter, Roll of Overland, p. 111; A. Ross, Adventures, p. 228, 279 SS: HBRS XIII, p. xxviii; Chittenden, p. 186, 191, 207, 225 SS: Irving, Astoria, p. 242, 448-49

Robinson, George [variation: Robertson] (fl. 1841 - 1845) (British: English)

Birth: possibly London, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1841 - 1843); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1843 - 1844); Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1844 - 1845).

George Robinson joined the HBC in London on August 30, 1841 on a five-year contract. After coming to the coast, he serviced the various coastal posts on the Cadboro until May 1844 when he and fellow crewman Joseph Horne, instead of carrying liquor on board the vessel, as they had been ordered, drank it. Consequently, Captain James Scarborough put both in handcuffs in the forecabin overnight, and six days later they were transferred to the barque Columbia for their voyage home (log of Cadboro 5, fo. 62-63d). George Robinson continued his obstreperous behaviour on board ship and in Honolulu, and did not appear to return to the coast again.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 11; FtVanASA 7; YFASA 22-24; log of Cadboro 5; log of Columbia 6

Robinson, James (fl. 1852 - 1853) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1852 - 1853).

James Robinson sailed to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison. He was likely on the coast when he was discharged, probably into another vessel.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Robinson, John Fisher [variation: Robertson] (fl. 1833 - 1840) (British: English)

Birth: probably in or near Maryport, parish of Hamilton, Cumberland, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Eagle (brig) (1833 - 1834); Seaman, Fort Simpson naval service (1834 - 1835); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1835 - 1836); Seaman (partial wages), Fort Vancouver (1836 - 1837); Schoolmaster and Church clerk, Fort Vancouver (1836 - 1837); Schoolmaster, Fort Vancouver general charges (1837 - 1839); Church clerk, Fort Vancouver general charges (1837 - 1839); Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1839 - 1840).

John Robinson, who appears to have had some education and a great ability to charm, joined the HBC in London on December 7, 1833 as a seaman but, in time, became a schoolmaster and church clerk at Fort Vancouver. After spending two years on coastal shipping, Robinson was recommended by the newly-arrived Rev. Herbert Beaver and asked by John McLoughlin to replace teacher John Ball, who had left the previous year, and teach the mixed descent and native children at the Columbia River post. During his teaching, Robinson, now also a church clerk, further impressed the Beavers, who not only overlooked his alcoholism but also recommended that he be promoted to 2nd officer on one of the company's ships on his journey home. On October 30, 1838 at the end of his contract, as Robinson was about to leave on the HBC barque Columbia in company with the Beavers, he was recalled to Fort Vancouver by James Douglas who was responding to rumours of Robinson's behaviour. After an investigation in early 1839, Douglas found that Robinson had been molesting young girls in his care and as a result he was put on trial at Fort Vancouver and found guilty. As punishment Robinson was tied to one of the guns in front of the McLoughlin-Douglas house and flogged even though some of the district officers felt that he should have been shot. In October 1839, John Fisher Robinson was put aboard the Nereide for the voyage back to England and was discharged in London on April 22, 1840.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 14-15, 18-19; YFDS 5c-7, 10; ShMiscPap 14; FtVanASA 3; log of Nereide 2; UBC-SC Ematinger PPS: Beaver, p. 83

Robson, Anthony (fl. 1813 - 1818) (British)Maritime officer

PFC Captain, Columbia (schooner) (1813 - 1814); Captain, Columbia (brig) (1817 - 1818).

Anthony Robson became master of the NWC schooner Columbia and sailed from the Thames, England on November 26, 1813, arriving at the Columbia River, June 29, 1814. He left that river August 26, and was at the Queen Charlotte Islands, and was in Sitka, September 2, 1814. He traded with the Russians there and leaving on September 27, returned to the Columbia, where she took a cargo of furs for China. Sailing from the Columbia by way of the Hawaiian Islands, she anchored in Macao Roads on March 9, 1815. Robson left her at Canton March 28, 1815, and John Jennings took command. Robson appears to have made his way back to Europe where he took command of a different Columbia, departed in 1817, and arrived at the coast in 1818. Little is known of Robson other than Camille de Roquefeuil's observation that he "spoke in a very loose and unconnected manner, and had nothing of the officer in his dress and manners. He went away at three o'clock in the morning, after having had a severe fall upon deck" (Roquefeuil, p. 105). Nothing else is known of him.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 5 PPS: Roquefeuil, p. 105; Corney, Voyages in the Northern, p. 38 SS: Howay, A List of Trading Vessels

Robson, James (fl. 1830 - 1832) (probably British)Birth: probably British Isles*Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Dryad (brig) (1830 - 1831); Seaman, Ganymede (barque) (1831 - 1832).

James Robson was a seaman working for the HBC when he sailed to the Northwest Coast from England in January 1830. He began his work as a seaman in the Columbia on August 18, 1830 and the following year, on November 1, 1831, left for England on the barque Ganymede.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; YFDS 4a; YFASA 11

Rocher, Joseph (c. 1806 - 1841) (probably Mixed descent)Birth: c. 1806*Death: Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - December 1841*Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1834 - 1835); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1837); Middleman, Fort Nisqually (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1838 - 1839); PSAC Middleman, Cowlitz Farm (1839 - 1841); HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1841).

Joseph Rocher joined the HBC in 1834 and worked primarily in the Nisqually and Cowlitz area. He is likely the same Joseph Rocher who first appeared as a steersman in Ungava between 1830-1833 and, in 1834, under general charges at Island Lake. That year he left the services because of ill health. He then appeared at Fort Vancouver that same year. Between March 1837 and February 1838, the time during which he appeared on the Fort Nisqually records, Rocher performed a variety of tasks ranging from building fences and buildings to reaping oats and making road repairs. In the summer of 1837 both he and his wife, Cecile, were inoculated, as were the rest of the members of the Fort, against smallpox. Two years later, just two months after she had formally married Rocher, Cecile died. Two years subsequent to her death, Rocher appears to have gone insane ("several months of alienation of mind" [CCR 2a, p. 39]) which is perhaps why he was removed to Fort Vancouver at the end of his contract in 1841. On December 28, 1841 he was found dead and was buried the same day in the Catholic cemetery at Fort Vancouver. It was sheer coincidence that William Kittson, who had also been removed from Fort Nisqually to Fort Vancouver because of illness, was buried that same day.

Joseph Rocher had one wife and no recorded children. On May 28, 1839, he formalized his marriage to Cecile, Chinook (c.1819-39). However, two months later (on July 30) she died was buried at the Catholic mission at Cowlitz.

PS: HBCA YFASA 14-15, 19-21; YFDS 5c-7, 12; FtVanASA 3-7; PSACAB 3; HBCA Joseph Rocher search file; PPS: Dickey; CCR 1a, 2a

Rochquelaure (? - 1830) (Undetermined origin)

Death: Dalles des Morts (Death Rapids) [British Columbia] - July 1830

Fur trade employee

HBC Mr. Ogden's slave or cook, Snake Party (1827 - 1830).

Rochquelaure was listed as part of Ogden's Snake Expedition of 1827-1829. According to William Kittson in a letter dated August 12, 1830 to John Rowand, Rochquelaure was listed as a slave or cook to Mr. Ogden. He along with eleven others drowned in a whirlpool at the Dalles in July 1830 (three-hundred beaver pelts were lost as well).

PS: HBCA SnkCoPJ 7; William Kittson's letter of August 12, 1830 to John Rowand, D.4/125, fo.50

Rocquebrune, Antoine Jr. (c. 1809 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Vaudreuil, Lower Canada - c. 1811 (born to Antoine Rocquebrune Sr.)

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1827 - 1828); Middleman, Thompson River (1829 - 1830).

Antoine Rocquebrune may have joined the HBC as early as 1827. In 1829-1831 he travelled from Montreal to the Columbia via York Factory and Saskatchewan. He most likely returned to Montreal along with his father in outfit 1831-1832 as he appears on that pay list.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 1-2; YFASA 9, 11; YFDS 3b; HBCABio

See Also: Rocquebrune, Antoine Sr. (Father); Rocquebrune, Olivier (possible Relative)

Rocquebrune, Antoine Sr. (c. 1795 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Vaudreuil, Lower Canada - c. 1795

Fur trade employee

HBC Steersman, Fort Vancouver (1829 - 1830); Boute, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1831); Boute on Montreal Pay List, Columbia District (1831 - 1832).

Antoine Rocquebrune joined the HBC in 1829 and that year, he travelled between Montreal, York Factory, Saskatchewan and the Columbia. His three-year contract ended in 1831 and in outfit 1831-1832 was in Montreal.

PS: HBCA YFASA 9, 11; YFDS 3b; FtVanASA 2; HBCABio

See Also: Rocquebrune, Antoine Jr. (Son); Rocquebrune, Olivier (possible Relative)

Rocquebrune, Joseph (c. 1803 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Rigaud, Lower Canada - c. 1803

Death: probably Willamette Valley, Oregon

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1827 - 1829); Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1829 - 1830); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1831); Middleman, Snake Party (1831 - 1833); Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1833 - 1834); Middleman, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1834 - 1836); Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1834 - 1836); Trapper, South Party (1836 - 1839); PSAC Labourer, Cowlitz Farm (1840 - 1841); HBC Settler, Willamette (1841 - 1842+).

Joseph Rocquebrune joined the HBC from the Montreal area in 1827 and spent most of his fourteen year career with the Company, largely in the lower Columbia area. In 1828 he travelled from Montreal to the Columbia District via Michipicoten and York Factory. He was scarcely mentioned in the records so it can be assumed that he was not involved in any catastrophic events. Rocquebrune became a settler in the Willamette Valley around 1841, settling first in the St. Louis area and later moving to St. Paul, Oregon where he raised a family. By 1842, when he was listed as LaRoque Breau in the Census, he had a productive farm of fifty acres [20.2 ha] with assorted animals and crops.

Joseph Rocquebrune had two successive wives and ten or eleven children. On April 8, 1839, he married Lisette (?-?), Walla Walla and together they had Joseph (1839-?), Marie Celeste (1837-?), Bellane (?-bap.1837-?), Veronique (?-m.1860-?), Olivier (1843-49), Helene (1848-?) and Roch (1852-57). When wife Lisette died, Rocquebrune married Marguerite Souilliere (?-?), the widow of David Dompierre, and had sons Olivier (1857-?) and John Julien (c.1859-81). François (?-?) and Marguerite (?-?), both confirmed on October 21, 1860 at St. Paul, were likely children although Marguerite may also have been wife Marguerite Souilliere.

PS: HBCA YFASA 7-9, 11-13, 15; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 2-6; YFDS 3a-7; PSACAB 3; HBCABio; BCA BCCR CCCath; OHS 1842 Census PPS: CCR 1a, 2b, 2c, 3a

See Also: Donpierre, David (Relative); Liard, Thémire (Son-in-Law)

Rocquebrune, Olivier [variation: Roquebrune] (fl. c. 1811 - 1818) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Rigaud, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1816).

Olivier Rocquebrune possibly joined the NWC on December 30, 1811 from Rigaud, Lower Canada [Quebec] as a middleman in the Northwest and renewed his contract to work at Fort William. In 1816 he was on the Pacific slopes, probably as a member of the brigade, having received an advances in Montreal and Fort William. He appears to have worked at Fort William until 1818.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 1

See Also: Rocquebrune, Antoine Jr. (possible Relative); Rocquebrune, Antoine Sr. (possible Relative)

Rodgers, William [variation: Rogers] (fl. 1833 - 1837) (British: Scottish)

Birth: in or near Kirkalay, parish of Highchurch, Fife, Scotland

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Eagle (brig) (1833 - 1834); Seaman, Lama (brig) (1834 - 1837).

William Rodgers joined the HBC on December 7, 1833 in England for five years. He travelled to the Northwest coast aboard the brig Eagle and on November 10, 1834, began his services in the Columbia. However, because he was intoxicated on September 19, 1834 while the ship was at the Columbia River bar, he fell from the fore top mast and had to be hospitalized for four days after the vessel arrived at Fort Vancouver (log of Eagle, 2, fo. 115d, 118). His contract was to have expired in 1838 but he was discharged in Oahu on July 31, 1837.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Eagle 2; ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 14-15, 17; YFDS 5d-8; FtVanASA 3-4

Rodgers, Yachens [variation: Tachens, Yacehens, Zacheus Rogers] (fl. 1809 - 1816) (Undetermined origin and probably American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Maritime officer

U.A. Carpenter, Albatross (brig) (1809 - 1816); NWC Carpenter, Columbia (schooner) (1816).

Yachens Rodgers appears to have joined the Winship brig, Albatross in Boston in July 1809. He departed Boston in in July 1809 and arrived at the Columbia River May 26, 1810. He was likely instrumental in the unsuccessful establishment of a settlement on the River. Rogers may have stayed with the Albatross until 1816 for, during that year, he worked as a carpenter on the NWC schooner Columbia for two months. That same year, the Columbia was in both Macao and on the Northwest coast.

PS: PrivMS Albatross; HBCA NWCAB 1

Roe, Charles (1806 - 1859) (American)

Birth: New York, New York - 1806

Death: Willamette Valley, Oregon - 1859

Fur trade employee

Wyeth Member, Wyeth's 2nd Expedition (1834).

Born in 1806 and raised in the same New York City, Charles Roe became a religious fanatic who was later hanged for killing his wife. Roe came to Oregon with Nathaniel Wyeth on his second expedition of 1834 and probably worked at Fort William (Sauvies Island). By 1837 he was a carpenter in the Willamette Valley and became influenced by the Methodist Mission; thereafter he joined the Oregon Temperance Society. After the death of his first wife, he remarried in 1856. In 1859, in a quarrel with his second wife Angelica, he killed her and was hanged for his misdeed.

Charles J. Roe had two wives. The first was Nancy McKay (?-?) whom he married on July 16, 1837. After Nancy's death, he married Angelica (?-1859), also of mixed descent. No children have been traced.

PPS: Carey, "Oregon Mission Record Book," p. 264 SS: Brosnan, "The Signers", p. 184-85; Hussey, Champoege: Place of, p. 87-88

Rogers, Harrison G. (? - 1828) (probably American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Death: Umpqua River, Oregon Territory - July 14, 1828

Fur trade employee

SJ & S Clerk, Jedediah Smith Southwest Expedition (1826 - 1828).

Harrison G. Rogers was a clerk to Jedediah Smith on his southwest expedition of 1826-1828. He first appeared on record at the 1826 Rendezvous and left with Smith in August, heading south, crossing the Colorado River and into California. After a great deal of difficulty with Spanish authorities in California, the expedition headed north. According to the native version, in an area just north of the Umpqua River [Oregon], just after Smith and two others set out to scout out a route to travel, Rogers attempted to force a woman into his tent and knocked down her brother, who had tried to protect her. The natives then massacred all the expedition members in camp except one, who managed to escape.

PPS: HBRS X, p. 61 SS: Carter, "Jedediah Smith", p. 97-104

Rogers, Thomas (fl. 1845 - 1846) (Undetermined origin)Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Comlitz (barque) (1845 - 1846).

Thomas Rogers, who joined the HBC in 1845, appeared in the Columbia in outfit 1845-1846 and returned to the British Isles that outfit aboard the barque Comlitz.

PS: HBCA YFASA 25

Roi, Jean Baptiste (c. 1793 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Remi, Lower Canada - c. 1793

Fur trade employee

HBC Blacksmith, Fort Vancouver general charges (1834 - 1835); Blacksmith, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1836); Blacksmith, Fort Simpson (1836 - 1838); Blacksmith, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1839).

Jean Baptiste Roi joined the HBC from St. Remi in 1834. He did a variety of jobs at Fort Simpson such as making shingles. His contract ended in 1839 at which point he retired and returned to Canada.

PS: HBCA YFASA 14-15, 18-19; YFDS 5c-7; FtVanASA 3-5

Roi, Pierre [variation: Peter Roy, King] (c. 1821 - 1885) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Sorel, Lower Canada - c. 1821

Death: Chewelah, Washington Territory, United States - 1885

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1840 - 1844); Officer's servant, New Caledonia (1844 - 1845); Middleman, New Caledonia (1845 - 1847); Middleman, Fort Alexandria (1847 - 1848); Middleman, New Caledonia (1848 - 1851); House builder, New Caledonia (1851 - 1853); House builder, Fort Alexandria (1853); Miller, Fort Colville (1854 - 1858).

Pierre Roi joined the service of the HBC in 1840 from Sorel, Quebec, and spent the first thirteen years of his career in New Caledonia. He appeared to do a variety of jobs for during that time, in outfit 1852-1853, he received an extra gratuity for housebuilding, a skill that he found useful the rest of his life. Roi retired in 1853 but re-enlisted as a miller at Fort Colville. He finally retired in 1858 to his farm in Chewelah where he had the only blacksmith shop. According to author Walt E. Goodman, Roi Americanized his name to Peter King, hewed and framed logs, made farm implements, etc., as well as raised a large family. Dances and many parties were held in the Roi [King] residence. This tranquil life was brought to an abrupt end in 1885 when Peter died as a result of an accident. He was first buried in the Pine Knoll Indian cemetery but later his remains were reburied in the Chewelah Catholic Cemetery. After Pierre's death, his wife carried on with the farm until 1918 when she sold it. She died in a Catholic home in Wendle, Idaho on October 28, 1925 and was buried beside her husband in the Chewelah Catholic Cemetery.

Pierre [Roi] King had one wife and twelve children. In 1853 he married Mary Anne Finlay (c.1834-1925). Their children were Pierre (c.1853-?), Sophia (?-?), Mary (?-?), Julia (?-?), Louise (?-?), Martina (?-?), William (?-?), Patrick (?-?), Louis Henry (?-?), Eliza (?-?) and Marshall (?-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-32; FtVanASA 6-7, 9-13; YFDS 22; FtVicDS 1, 15; FtAlexPJ 7, 9; FtVicASA 1-3; HBCABio; BCA BCGR-Marriage SS: Goodman, p. 41-42

Roi (Portelance), Olivier (c. 1809 - 1839) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Chateauguay (Pres Eglise), Lower Canada - c. 1809

Death: probably Fort Umpqua area, Oregon Territory - November 23, 1839

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1833 - 1834); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1834 - 1836); Middleman, Fort McLoughlin (1836 - 1837); Middleman, Fort Umpqua (1837 - 1839).

Olivier (Portelance) Roi joined the HBC in 1833. He served at a variety of forts and was accidentally shot and killed

November 23, 1839 by Norman Henry, likely in the Umpqua area.

PS: HBCA FtSimp[N]PJ 3; YFDS 5b-7, 10; YFASA 13-15, 19; FtVanASA 3-6

Rollin, Joseph [variation: Rollis, Rolland] (fl. 1850 - 1852) (Undetermined origin)Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Alexandria (1850 - 1851); Middleman, New Caledonia (1851 - 1852).

Joseph Rollis worked for the HBC in the New Caledonia area. He appeared to retire in 1852 and his name was carried on the books for two more years indicating he may have remained in the area.

PS: BCA Alexandria; HBCA YFASA 30-32; FtVicASA 1

Romney, Charles (fl. 1856 - 1857) (British)Birth: probably British Isles*Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1856 - 1857).

Charles Romney joined the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal in London on August 19, 1856 and made one return voyage to the Northwest Coast.

PS: HBCA log of Princess Royal 3; PortB 1

Rondeau, Antoine (fl. 1827 - 1830) (Canadian: French)Birth: probably St. Ours, Lower Canada*Fur trade employee

HBC Steersman, New Caledonia (1827 - 1829); Steersman, Fort Nez Percés (1829).

Antoine Rondeau worked as a steersman on the Pacific slopes after coming west with the returning York Factory Express in the fall of 1827. He retired in 1829 and by 1830 was in Montreal where he was paid.

PS: HBCA FtVanAB 10, 26; FtVanASA 1; YFASA 7-10; YFDS 2b, 3b PPS: E. Ermatinger, p. 105

Rondeau, Charles (c. 1793 - 1855) (Canadian: French)Birth: probably Sorel, Lower Canada - c. 1793*Death: St. Louis, Oregon - August 21, 1855*Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1822 - 1824); Middleman, Snake Party (1824 - 1833); Trapper, Snake Party (1824 - 1833); Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1833 - 1836); Farmer, Willamette (1836 - 1837); Settler, Willamette (1837 - 1842+).

Charles Rondeau, from Sorel, joined the fur trade around 1815 and worked for the next twenty-two years mainly as a middleman and trapper in the Columbia/Snake region. His Snake expeditions were rather uneventful although he did lose a horse to the Blackfeet Indians, not an uncommon occurrence. He eventually became a settler in the Willamette around 1837 and continued to sell furs and grain to the Company. He is on record as having returned east of the Rockies to Canada in 1839 but he returned to his farm in the Willamette and in 1842 had a productive farm on forty enclosed acres [16.2 ha]. In 1843, he voted against the establishment of a Provisional Government in the area. He died, presumably on his farm, in 1855.

Charles Rondeau had four successive wives and six recorded children. His first wife was Lizette Bellaire (?-c.1835) (daughter of Register Bellaire) with whom he had three children: Angelique (c.1829-50), George (c.1833-69) and Genevieve (c.1835-79). After wife Lizette's death he married a daughter of "Old Portneuf"; she died while they were visiting Old Portneuf on French Prairie 1837. His third wife was Agathe Dupate (McKay) (c.1820-48). Their three recorded children were Jean Baptiste (1842-?), Charles II (1844-?) and Thomas (c.1847-after 1927). On July 23, 1849, he married Elizabeth (c.1825-?), a native living at the house of Baptiste Aubichon.

PS: HBCA YFASA 2-9, 11-15, 18; FtVanASA 1-6; YFDS 3b, 4b-6, 8, 10-11; BCA BCCR CCCath; OHS 1842 Census; 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion Co. PPS: CCR 1a, 2a, 3a, 3b, 3c SS: Holman, p. 116
See Also: Lafontasie, Charles (Son-in-Law); Bellaire, Registre (Father-in-Law)

Rondeau, Joseph (fl. 1821 - 1826) (Canadian: French)Birth: Lower Canada [Quebec]*Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Fort George [Astoria] (1821); HBC Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1821 - 1822); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (1822 - 1823); Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1822 - 1823).

Two Joseph Rondeaus from Lower Canada [Quebec] joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] on the same day in 1819; one was a member of a large group of NWC employees who transferred to the HBC in 1821 at the time of coalition. He worked in the Columbia until 1822-1823 at which point he returned to Montreal. A Joseph Rondeau signed two further contracts in 1824 and 1826 to work east of the Rockies.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 9; FtGeo[Ast]AB 4, 10; YFASA 1-2; HBCCont

Rondeau, Louis (c. 1801 - 1860s) (Canadian: French)

Birth: Montreal or Berthier, Lower Canada - c. 1801 (born to Joseph Rondeau and Agathe Dalcour)

Death: probably Willamette Valley, Oregon – 1860s

Fur trade employee

NWC Middleman, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822); HBC Middleman, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1822 - 1823); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (1822 - 1823); Middleman, Columbia Department (1823 - 1826); Trapper, Snake Party (1824 - 1833); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1833); Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1834 - 1836); Middleman, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1834 - 1836); Middleman, South Party (1836 - 1837); Trapper, South Party (1836 - 1837); Middleman, South Party (1838 - 1839); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1839 - 1840); Middleman, South Party (1840 - 1844); NWC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1844 - 1845); HBC Settler, Willamette (1845 - 1846).

After nineteen-year-old Louis Rondeau joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray] on January 4, 1820 from St. Ours for three years as a wintering middleman, he spent practically all his career in the fur trade in the Columbia and on Snake parties. During the 1830s he appears to have been a freeman working off and on for the HBC. By 1845-1846 he had become a settler in the Willamette.

Louis Rondeau had three successive wives and one recorded child. His first wife was one of Concomley's daughters, Marguerite, the former wife of Duncan McDougal. Their little daughter Marie was born on the brigade going to California and was reared by Chief Factor James Douglas after Marguerite died in about 1834. On October 3, 1842, he married Henriette, Yogalta (?-1846) at St. Paul, Oregon. They had no recorded children. In the latter part of his life, Rondeau lived at Baker's Bay with Marie Rondeau Ducheny. Both he and Marie are buried in a spot where Columbia (Fort) Park now stands near the mouth of the Columbia.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 9; HBCA YFASA 1-6, 8-9, 11-15, 19-20, 22-23, 25; FtGeo[Ast]AB 10; SnkCoPJ 2; FtVanASA 1-6; YFDS 3b, 4b-7 PPS: CCR 1b, 2a
See Also: Duchainais, Rocque (Son-in-Law)

Rondeau, Pierre (fl. 1821 - 1823) (possibly Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly St. Ours, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1821); HBC Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1821 - 1822); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (1822 - 1823).

There were several Pierre Rondeaus in the fur trade but the above, from St. Ours, appears to have joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] on January 4, 1820 to work for three years in the Northwest. He may have crossed the Rockies to the west that same year for, in 1821, at the time of coalition, he was a member of a large group of NWC employees who transferred to the HBC. He worked until outfit 1822-1823 when he returned to Montreal.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 9; HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 4, 10; YFASA 1, 3

Roots, George (fl. 1857 - 1858) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1857 - 1858).

George Roots made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Roots, Jem [variation: Gem] (fl. 1841 - 1844) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Cowlitz (barque) (1841); PSAC Middleman, Cowlitz Farm (1841 - 1842); Labourer, Cowlitz Farm (1842 - 1844).

Jem Roots joined the HBC in Honolulu around July 15, 1841 under a three-year contract and sailed to the Northwest

Coast on the Conlitz. He spent the next three years until November 24, 1844 working as a farm labourer on the Cowlitz farm, at which time he returned to Oahu. He received his final wages in Oahu on December 31.

PS: HBCA log of Cowlitz 1; FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 12, 17; YFASA 22-25; SandIsAB 3

Ropeyarn, Jack (fl. 1827, 1836 - 1849) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Seaman, Onyhee (brig) (1827); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1836); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1836 - 1837); Middleman, Dr. Marcus Whitman (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1843 - 1845); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1846); Cook, Fort Vancouver depot (1846 - 1848); Cook, Willamette Falls (1848 - 1849).

Jack Ropeyarn, from Oahu, worked in both the maritime and land-based fur trade. The Sandwich Islander joined the brig Onyhee in January 1827, sailed to the Northwest Coast and returned to Oahu in July, when he was discharged. His activities for the next nine years have not been traced but he likely had some association with the fur trade. He joined the HBC in Oahu in January 1836 and in 1837-1838, he worked for the missionary Dr. Marcus Whitman. He retired before June 1, 1849, as he received no wages for outfit 1849-1850. Ropeyarn remained in the area but a family, if it existed, has not been traced.

PS: CHS Owhyhee; HBCA FtVanASA 3-7; YFDS 6-7; YFASA 15, 19-20, 22, 24-30; FtVicASA 1

Rosindale, William (fl. 1838 - 1841) (British: English)

Birth: probably Hull, Yorkshire, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1838 - 1841).

William Rosindale joined the HBC in London on October 29, 1838 for five years. He sailed to the coast on one return voyage and arrived back in London in the spring of 1841.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 11; YFASA 19-20; YFDS 10-11; FtVanASA 6

Ross, Alexander (1783 - 1856) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Scotland, United Kingdom - May 9, 1783

Death: Red River Settlement [Manitoba] - October 23, 1856

Fur trade employee

PFC Passenger, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811); Untraced vocation, Fort George [Astoria] (1811); Clerk, Fort Okanagan (1811 - 1813); NWC Clerk, Fort George [Astoria] (1813 - 1814); Second in command, Fort George [Astoria] (1816); Clerk, Fort Kamloops [Thompson's River Post, She-waps Post] (1817); Founder and builder, Fort Nez Percés (1818); In charge, Fort Nez Percés (1818 - 1821); HBC In charge, Fort Nez Percés (1821 - 1823); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1823 - 1824); Clerk, Columbia Department (1824 - 1825).

In 1804 Alexander Ross came to Canada and for several years, and taught school in Glengarry, Upper Canada. In May 1810, he was offered a clerkship from Montreal by Alexander McKay in John Jacob Astor's PFC with a promise of a partnership in three years and subsequently canoed to New York, departing Sept 6, 1810 on the Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn] for the West Coast. From March until September 1811 he assisted in the construction of Fort Astoria and in September he travelled inland, established Fort Okanogan and was in charge of the fort several times thereafter. He also married an Okanogan native woman with whom he had several children over the years, a marriage that gave him insight into native culture. On the other hand, Ross was critical of Astor and thought that he had a reckless indifference to his people and that the shoddy goods that Astor had provided, were "useless trash and unsaleable trumpery" (Ross, p. 154). Therefore, after the PFC's Fort Astoria was bought out by the NWC, he willingly joined the latter. The feelings appear to have been mutual as Irving called Ross "as foolish a pedant as ever lived" (Irving, p. 37). Ross chronicled abuse and violence by both natives and non-natives but he was not above violence himself. On February 20, 1814, while at Fort George, for example, he attacked carpenter and middleman Benjamin Duchesne with a dirk slashing his face and shirt, all because Duchesne had been mending his stockings and would not raise the flag for the day (ChSoc LVII, p. 682). As clerk at various posts and with the 1824 Snake expedition he was almost driven to distraction during the time of the independent Iroquois. In the spring of 1825 he and his family went to the Red River where he received a grant of one-hundred acres [40.5 ha] of land; he also taught school at the settlement. In the settlement colony he became enmeshed in the legal system, becoming sheriff of Assiniboia and commander of the volunteer corps. As well, he was captain of the police, magistrate, commissioner and court examiner. He died at Red River.

Publications: Drawing on his own earlier diaries, still vivid recollections, etc., Ross became a prolific writer, publishing Adventures of the First Settlers on the Oregon or Columbia River, London, 1849, The Fur Hunters of the Far West; a Narrative of Adventures in the Oregon and Rocky Mountains, (1855), and The Red River Settlement (1856).

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10; HBCA NWCAB 9, 10; YFASA 1, 3-4; FtVanAB 2a; SnkCoPJ 1 PPS: ChSoc XLV, 48, 75, 78, 86, 88,

Ross, Bernard Rogan (1827 - 1874) (Irish)

Birth: Londonderry, Ireland - September 25, 1827 (born to James Ross and Elizabeth [Rogan] Ross)

Death: June 21, 1874

Fur trade employee

HBC Clerk, Columbia Department (1854 - 1855).

Bernard Rogan joined the HBC in 1843, probably from Dublin. Between 1843-1854 he served in a variety of posts as apprentice clerk and clerk east of Rockies. At the end of his sojourn in the Columbia District, he became Chief Trader and retired in 1872.

Bernard Rogan Ross appears to have had two wives. He had a son Edward (?-?) by one wife and by the second wife, three lawful children: Mary Annabella (?-?), Francis Curtis (?-?) and Bernard William (?-?).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 10; Wills; HBCABio

Ross, Charles (1831 - 1905) (Mixed descent)

Birth: 1831 (born to Charles George and Isabella Mainville Ross)

Death: Nisqually area, Washington - February 1905

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Nisqually and outstations(1849 - 1859).

Born into the fur trade, Charles Ross was sent to London for a brief education and was hired by the PSAC in 1847. After a year's employment, he moved out to brother John's farm before setting up his own. He worked at nearby Fort Nisqually and various PSAC outstations for a number of years and eventually settled with his family on the Nisqually Indian reservation lands to farm. According to Huggins, Ross could just barely read and write. On the reservation he was an employee of the Indian Agency when its headquarters was there. He was buried at the Ross cemetery on the Nisqually reservation.

Charles Ross had one wife, Catherine Tumalt (c.1834-1917), and at least eleven children. Together they had Mary Amelia Rose (1853-?), Catherine (Katie) (1856?-?), Cecelia (c.1857-88), Sarah (1862?-66), Florence (1867-?), Francis (Frank) (1869-1930), Charles (1871?-?), Elizabeth (1873-?), James William (1875?), Isobelle (1877?-?) and John (1880-1918). William (?-bap.1862-?) who was baptised in Victoria on July 11, 1862, was likely another son. According to Huggins, Catherine Tumalt was half Iroquois and half Nisqually.

PS: HL Nisqually; HBCA FtVanASA 9-12; BCA BCCR StAndC SS: Carpenter, Fort Nisqually, p. 133; TacP-FtNis Huggins
See Also: Ross, Charles George (Father); Ross, John (Brother); Ross, Isabella Mainville (Mother); Ross, Walter Phipps (Brother)

Ross, Charles George (? - 1844) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Kincaid, Inverness, Scotland

Death: Victoria, British Columbia - June 28, 1844

Fur trade officer

HBC Clerk, Thompson River (1822 - 1823); Clerk, Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs] (1824 - 1826); Clerk in charge, Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs] (1826 - 1827); Clerk in charge, Fort Connolly (1827 - 1831); Clerk, Fort St. James (winter 1831 - 1832); Clerk in charge, McLeod Lake Post (1832); Clerk, Fort McLoughlin (1838 - 1842); Untraced vocation, South Party (1838); Clerk in charge of Brigade from Ft. Edmonton, Fort Vancouver (1838); Chief Trader in charge, Fort McLoughlin (1842 - 1843); Chief Trader in charge of construction, Fort Victoria (1843 - 1844).

Charles Ross joined the HBC as a clerk in 1818 and served at two posts before coming to the Thompson River District in 1822. After spending the next year east of the Rockies, he returned to serve as a clerk at Fort Kilmaurs [Babine] under William Connolly, who criticized him for initially incurring the anger of the local Babines. Otherwise in 1832 George Simpson admired his education and conduct but took issue with his appearance and attitude to business (HBRs xxx p. 225). From 1832 to 1835 he was stationed east of the Rockies until he took a year's leave of absence in England and Scotland because of ill health. He returned to North America in 1836 and Fort Vancouver in 1838. He then led a southern party to Trinidad Bay where he failed to meet the Michel Laframboise party; subsequently he returned to Vancouver to perform such duties such as taking farm implements to the Cowlitz farm. Because Donald Manson was in ill health in Fort McLoughlin, Ross was sent there in 1838, and took charge in 1839. At the end of 1842 he was promoted to Chief Trader and when Fort McLoughlin was abandoned in 1843, he went to southern Vancouver Island to erect Fort Victoria where he remained in charge until his death from appendicitis. He was first buried near the fort at Johnson Street cemetery and was eventually moved to the Quadra Street Cemetery. The family had lived in the fort for several years before they bought land at Ross Bay and built their family house.

Charles Ross had one wife and nine children. At Lac la Pluie, he married Isabella Mainville (1809-85), daughter of Joseph Mainville and Josette, an Indian woman in Michilimackinac District. In the Anglican records, he formalized his marriage to Isabella on October 11, 1838. Together that had John (1823-?), Walter (1827-?), Elizabeth (1829-1859), Charles Jr. (1831-1905), Catherine (1832-1916), Alex (1835-1876), Francis (1837-1910), Mary Amelia (1840-?) and Flora (1842-1897).

PS: HBCA YFASA 4-6, 8-9, 11, 17-20; HBCCont; YFDS 5a; FtVanASA 1-2, 4-8; SimpsonCB; HBCABio; BCA BCCR
CCCath PPS: HBRS VI, p. 402-04; HBRS XXII, p.495; HBRS XXX, p. 225 SS: Lugin, p. 71-72; Ross descendant
See Also: Ross, Isabella Mainville (Relative); Ross, Charles (Son); Ross, John (Son); Ross, Walter Phipps (Son)

Ross, Clarke (fl. 1818 - 1823) (possibly Canadian: English)

Birth: possibly Montreal, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Accountant/Bookkeeper, Pacific slopes (1818 - 1821); Bookkeeper, Fort George [Astoria] (1820 - 1821); HBC Clerk, Columbia Department (1821 - 1823).

Clarke Ross signed on with the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray] from Montreal on April 24, 1818 as an accounting clerk or bookkeeper for four years. That same year he crossed the Rockies in a NWC party led by Angus Bethune and James McMillan and likely went straight to Fort George [Astoria] where he likely spent the majority of his time. In 1819, consistent with a previous agreement, his wages went to support his father. He was retained by the HBC at the time of coalition and, in July 1823, on his way to retirement in Canada, he was temporarily appointed clerk at Norway House.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 2, 3, 9; YFASA 1-2; FtGeo[Ast]AB 10 PPS: HBRS III, p. 55, 453

Ross, Daniel (fl. 1821 - 1824) (Undetermined origin)

Death: an Indian Camp in the McLeod Lake area, New Caledonia - March 11, 1824

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1821 - 1824).

The background of Daniel Ross has not been traced but he was likely in the fur trade for some time before he came to New Caledonia. Between 1821-1824 he was an employee of the HBC in New Caledonia where he likely transported goods between the closely connected northern posts. In March, 1824, he had been ill for a short time and had started out from McLeod Lake for Fort Babine [Kilmaurs] that day but, because he had such severe pains in his bowels, had to turn back. He made it as far as an Indian camp, and died there.

If Daniel Ross had a family, it has not been traced.

PS: HBCA YFASA 1-2; YFDS 1a; FtFrasPJ 1; McLkCB 1

Ross, David (fl. 1823 - 1827) (possibly Canadian: English)

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1823 - 1824); Guide, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825); Guide, New Caledonia (1825 - 1826); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1826 - 1827).

David Ross worked in New Caledonia in the early 1820s and returned to Montreal at the end of his contract in 1826-1827.

PS: HBCA YFDS 1a; FtStJmsLS 1; YFASA 4-6

Ross, Donald (c. 1794 - 1852) (British: Scottish)

Birth: possibly Stornoway, Lewis, Ross, Scotland – between 1794 and 1797

Death: Lower Fort Garry [Manitoba] - November 19, 1852

Fur trade employee

HBC Clerk, Fort Vancouver (1828 - 1829); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver sundries accounts (1837 - 1838).

Donald Ross joined the HBC in 1816 as a writer and spent the next ten years at York Factory and Cumberland House. As a writer, he spent most of his life east of the Rockies becoming confidential secretary to George Simpson. He spent 1826-1827 in this role and accompanied Simpson on his visit to the Columbia in 1828. He became Chief Trader in 1829 and Chief Factor in 1839. He also served at Norway House where he spent twenty-one years and died in 1852 at Lower Fort Garry.

PS: HBCA YFASA 8; FtVanASA 3-4; log of Prince Rupert IV 4; SimpsonCB PPS: HBRS III, p. 453; HBRS XXII, p. 496;
HBRS XXX, p. 198
See Also: Clouston, Robert (Son-in-Law); McDonald, Angus (Relative)

Ross, Isabella Mainville (? - c. 1885) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Lac La Pluie, Ontario (born to fur trader Mainville and an Ojibwa mother)

Death: Victoria, British Columbia - c. 1885

Other

U.A. Fur trader's wife, Pacific slopes (1822 - 1844).

Isabella Ross is symbolic of the fur trade wives who steadfastly stayed with their partners but received little recognition for their contributions. Like so many born into the fur trade, Isabella married into the fur trade by taking a partner, Charles Ross, a rising clerk in the HBC. Together, they crossed the Rockies - where she was to spend the rest of her life. Like many other women connected to the fur trade, very little mention is made of her in written documents. However, George Simpson saw fit to mention her in the published version of the journals of his travels:

Talking of wives, the wife of Mr. Ross, of this fort, [McLoughlin], a Saulteau half-breed from Lac La Pluie, lately displayed great courage. Some Indians, while trading, in her husband's absence, with her son in the shop of the establishment, drew their knives upon the boy. On hearing this, the lady, pike in hand, chased the cowardly rascals from post to pillar, till she drove them out of the fort. "If such are the white women," said the discomfited savages, "what must the white men be [like]?" (Simpson, p. 204).

After her husband, who had great affection for Isabella, died prematurely, she stayed at Nisqually with her family until 1851 when she took up residence on a large piece of land at Victoria in her name. There, she lived out the rest of her life.

Isabella Melville, Merilia or Mainville (?-1885) married Charles Ross at Lac la Pluie (Pioneer, p. 71). In the Anglican records, he formalized his marriage to Isabella on October 11, 1838. Together they had nine children (see Charles George Ross).

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 2-5; BCA BRGR-CrtR-AbstLnd; Charles Ross Papers, "Isabella Ross" PPS: G. Simpson, Narrative, p. 204

See Also: Ross, Charles George (Relative); Ross, Charles (Son); Ross, John (Son); Ross, Walter Phipps (Son)

Ross, Jacques (c. 1803 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Maskinongé, Lower Canada - c. 1803

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1830); Middleman, Thompson River (1830 - 1831); Middleman, Fort Alexandria (1830 - 1831); Middleman, New Caledonia (1831 - 1834).

Jacques Ross (whose name denotes a blending of the Scottish and French societies), joined the HBC in 1830, and worked out his three year contract in the southern British Columbia area.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; YFASA 11-13; YFDS 4b-5b; FtAlexAB 1

Ross, John [variation: Roses] (c. 1822 - 1863) (Mixed descent)

Birth: c. 1822 (born to Charles George and Isabella Mainville Ross)

Death: Oakland Estate in Victoria, British Columbia - December 14, 1863

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort McLoughlin (1840 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Victoria (1843 - 1845); Indian trader, Fort Victoria (1845 - 1846); Indian trader, Fort Nisqually (1846 - 1848); PSAC Labourer, Belle Vue Sheep Farm (1854).

Born into the fur trade, John Ross was hired in 1840 and began his career at Fort McLoughlin. In 1845 he was reprimanded for breaking the HBC code and associating with Joseph Champagne and his wife. In July 1846, because of ill health, he went to Nisqually with his brother, Walter. He was paid through Fort Victoria until December 31, 1846 and during that time, with the consent of PSAC, began to build a house on Squally Plain about two miles [3.2 km] southwest of the fort. With the assistance of PSAC employees, he put together a house in the first few months of 1847 and was joined by his mother and brother Charles. He carried out all the farming duties. He went to Cowlitz in November 1851 and in June 1852 made over to the Company all his cattle running wild in the Nisqually. By April 1853, he decided to leave Cowlitz and settle in the Fort Victoria area, sailing April 19, 1853 from Nisqually. He tried his hand at the sheep farm on San Juan Island but left on June 15, 1854 to build a barn for his mother. While he was in Victoria, he bought the claim of the deceased Rev. Robert John Staines. On November 23, 1859, he tried to reclaim his Nisqually property, apparently unsuccessfully. On December 14, 1863, at the age of forty-one, he appears to have died on the Oakland Estate in Victoria, B. C.

John Ross had one wife and six recorded children. At some unknown date and place, he married Genevieve Plamondon (?-?), daughter of Simon Plamondon. Their children were Charles Simon (?-bap.1854-?) [likely named after the parent's respective fathers], Jean Baptiste (1855-55), Pierre (?-bap.1857-?), Marie Emilie (1859-?), François (1861-62) and Alexandre Julien (?-bap.1862-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-27; FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 17; FtVicCB 30; BelleVuePJ 1; HBCABio; BCA BCCR StAndC; Van-PL Colonist, December 14, 1863, p. 3 PPS: Dickey SS: Carpenter, Fort Nisqually, p. 132-33
See Also: Ross, Charles (Brother); Ross, Charles George (Father); Ross, Isabella Mainville (Mother); Ross, Walter Phipps (Brother)

Ross, Robert (fl. 1852 - 1853) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1852 - 1853).

Robert Ross made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison. While on the coast, he would have visited several coastal posts.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Ross, Walter Phipps (c. 1823 - 1855) (Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly Thompson River Post - c. 1823 (born to Charles George and Isabella Mainville Ross)

Death: possibly Victoria, British Columbia - February 1, 1855

Fur trade employee

HBC Post master, Fort Nisqually (1846 - 1849); PSAC Manager, Tlithlow farm (1849 - 1852); Clerk, Tlithlow farm (1849 - 1852); Post master, Tlithlow farm (1849 - 1852); HBC Clerk, Fort Victoria Indian shop (1853); PSAC Manager, Tlithlow farm (1853 - 1855); Clerk, Tlithlow farm (1853 - 1855); Post master, Tlithlow farm (1853 - 1855).

Walter Phipps Ross was hired at Fort Nisqually late in 1846 and worked largely as a farm manager of one of the PSAC outstations for the next nine years. According to Huggins, he was a first class clerk. He died in the winter of 1855 at Victoria leaving a wife, two girls and a boy and a large credit of £196.16.4.

PS: HL Nisqually; HBCA YFASA 28-32; FtVanASA 9-10; FtVicASA 1-2; FtVicCB 6, 7; HBCABio; TacP-FtNis Huggins
See Also: Ross, Charles (Brother); Ross, Charles George (Father); Ross, Isabella Mainville (Mother); Ross, John (Brother)

Ross (Rocque), George (c. 1829 - 1833) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Trapper, Fort Colville (1829 - 1830); Trapper, Snake Party (1830 - 1831); Middleman, Snake Party (1831 - 1832); Trapper, Columbia Department (1832 - 1833); Trapper, Snake Party (1832 - 1833).

George Ross (Rocque) joined the HBC in 1829. He spent the majority of his time in the Snake country and on May 29, 1831, his horse drowned while crossing a swollen river. He was mentioned several times in the journals and, on August 17, 1833, he deserted.

PS: HBCA YFDS 3b, 4b-5a; FtVanASA 2, fo. 25d; YFASA 9, 12-13; SnkCoPJ 10

Rost, Peter (fl. 1834 - 1835) (probably American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Fur trade employee

CRFTC Employee, Fort Hall (1834 - 1835).

Peter Rost joined the Nathaniel J. Wyeth expedition of 1834 as part of a group to establish the Columbia River Fishing and Trading Company on the Pacific slopes to function in opposition to the HBC. Rost, who may have joined the expedition en route, left the expedition on the upper Snake River, near the mouth of the Portneuf River, to build a CRFTC trading post which they called Fort Hall, after one of the directors of the company. A stockade was built in the summer of 1834 and a total of twelve men stayed to winter over. Rost may have gone out on hunting parties that fall and winter and may have departed for an unknown location in the summer of 1835.

PS: OHS FtHallAB SS: O. Russell, p. 157

Roussain, Charles [variation: Roussin] (c. 1795 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: c. 1795 (French Canadian and Saulteaux)

Fur trade employee

HBC Post master, Saskatchewan (but on Columbia list) (1829 - 1830); Post master, Saskatchewan (but on Columbia list) (1829 - 1839); In charge, Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs] (1831); Clerk, New Caledonia (1831 - 1834); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver sundries accounts (1836 - 1839).

Charles Roussain, an enigmatic figure who worked for three separate fur trade companies, was kept on by the HBC to prevent him being troublesome in opposition (HBRS XXX, p. 235). He joined the NWC in 1816 and transferred to the HBC in 1821; but, in 1824, deserted to the American Fur Company. He returned to the HBC working at Norway House and came to New Caledonia in 1831. Little is known of his work in New Caledonia, but according to A. G. Morice, Roussain wrote in a beautiful hand in French but couldn't spell well (Morice, p. 166). He then worked in the Athabasca area 1834-1839, when he retired to Canada. He re-entered the service in 1843 and was in charge of four posts in the Lake Superior District and Lac La Pluie until August 31, 1849, when he retired again. He never rose above the rank of post master.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; FtVanASA 2-5; YFASA 9, 11-13; YFDS 4b-5b; HBCABio; Charles Roussain search file PPS: HBRs XXX, p. 235 SS: Morice, History of, p. 166
See Also: Donpier, David (probable Father)

Roussel (Sanssoucis), Benjamin [variation: Rouselle, Roucelle] (fl. 1810 - 1818) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Lachine, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

PFC Passenger, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811); Shoemaker, Fort George [Astoria] (October 13, 1813); Shoemaker, Fort George [Astoria] (winter 1813 - 1814); Middleman, Brigade to Fort William (1814).

Shoemaker Benjamin Roussel joined John Jacob Astors PFC in the Montreal area where, on July 23, 1810, he signed a contract with PFC partner, Alexander McKay to work for three years in far off Indian Country. Shortly afterwards, he joined a canoe brigade for New York, where, on September 6, 1810, he sailed on the PFC vessel Tonquin. After a tempestuous voyage around the Horn, he arrived at the mouth of the Columbia in the latter part of March 1811. He likely stayed in the Fort George area and, in the winter of 1813-1814, after the PFC took over the NWC, he appears not to have joined the NWC but appears to have returned to Montreal in the spring of 1814. He was re-engaged in 1816 to work in Upper Canada [Ontario] to work as a middleman and in 1818, by his old friend, former PFC clerk, William Wallace Matthews, to work for two years as a middleman and cook at an unspecified location.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: ChSoc XLV, p. 48

Roussil, Augustin [1] [variation: Augustus Roussel, Russie] (c. 1780 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Terrebonne, Lower Canada - c. 1780

Fur trade employee

PFC Passenger, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811); Untraced vocation, Fort George [Astoria] (1811 - 1813); NWC Blacksmith, Fort George [Astoria] (1813 - 1821); HBC Blacksmith, Fort George [Astoria] (1822 - 1825); Blacksmith, Columbia Department (1825 - 1826); Blacksmith, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1832).

Augustin Roussil appears to have been a very competent blacksmith who rarely made the journals in his twenty-two years in the Columbia. On May 14, 1810, he joined John Jacob Astor's PFC, through Alexander McKay, making his way with other employees down to New York where he sailed for the Northwest Coast on the Tonquin on September 6, 1810 arriving at the mouth of the Columbia in March 1811. In 1813, when the PFC was taken over by the NWC, he joined the latter, and likewise, the HBC, when it took over the NWC. A rare appearance in the journals occurred on February 28, 1814 in Henry's journal - Roussel had been the victim of some kind of injury or ailment; by February 20, he began to move on two crutches and five days later was down to one crutch. For the rest of the time he quietly served at two forts, Fort George (Astoria) and Fort Vancouver; and, in 1825, John McLoughlin stated that should Roussel have an accident, the Fort would be without ironworks. Roussel carried on his work, raising a family until his contract expired in 1832 and he returned east of the Rockies in October 1832. As a gratuity, the "worthy, honest deserving" (FtVanCB 8, fo. 6) Roussil received "6 mos. Wages allowed him in consideration of his long and faithful service" (YFDS 5a, fo. 39b).

Augustin Roussil's family records are not entirely clear but it appears that Augustine had one wife, Rose (?-?), Chinook, and two children, Augustine (1825-55) and Catherine (?-1860).

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 9, 10; HBCA YFASA 1-9, 11-12; FtGeo[Ast]Ab 11, 12; YFDS 2a-3b, 4b-5a; FtVanAB 2; FtVanASA 1-2; FtVanCB 1, 8, John McLoughlin's June 23, 1832 Fort Vancouver letter to Simon McGillivray, fo. 6; HBCABio PPS: ChSoc XLV, p. 48; ChSoc LVII, p. 685, 719
See Also: Roussil, Augustine Jr. (Son)

Roussil, Augustine Jr. [2] [variation: Russie] (c. 1825 - 1855) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - c. 1825 (born to Augustine Roussil Sr. and Rose, Chinook [Tchinouk])

Death: St. Paul, Oregon - April 6, 1855

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); Middleman, South Party (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1842); Middleman, South Party (1842 - 1844); Settler, Willamette (1843 - 1844).

Augustine Roussil joined the HBC in 1839 under a three-year contract. After that he appears to have been a freeman.

He settled in the Willamette in outfit 1843-1844 and in 1850 was listed as a farmer. Augustine Roussil died on April 6, 1855 at St. Paul.

Augustine Roussil had one wife and six children. On April 29, 1844, he married Anna or Agnes (c.1824-?) [Anne Norwest], Tiyikwari (daughter of Jean Baptiste and Judith Taikwari) in St. Paul. Their children were Joseph (1844-?), Augustin (1846-?), Paul Marie (1849-?), Marie Angle (1851-52), Marguerite (1853-?) and Hyacinthe (c.1855-?). Upon his death, Roussil's widow, Agnes, married William Tison.

PS: HBCA YFASA 19-20, 22-23; FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 14; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion Co. PPS: CCR 2a, 2b

See Also: Roussil, Augustin (Father)

Rowand, Dr. Alexander (? - 1889) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Rupert's Land, British North America (born to John Rowand and Louise Umphreville)

Death: probably Quebec, Canada

Fur trade officer

HBC Passenger, Beaver (steamer) (1841); Passenger, Cowlitz (barque) (1841 - 1842); Passenger, Vancouver (barque) (1842).

Alexander Rowand, who studied medicine at Edinburgh University, accompanied his fifty-four year old father, John Rowand Sr., for part of George Simpson's 1841-1842 trip around the world. In 1841 the two went from Red River, went down the Columbia River, and from Fort Nisqually took the steamer Beaver north to Fort Stikine. There in September, he disembarked with his ill father for ten days while his father recuperated before both returned south on the steamer. In December, Rowand and his father left the Columbia on the Cowlitz for California and the Sandwich Islands. In Honolulu, they and John McLoughlin separated from the Simpson expedition and arrived back on the coast in April 1842 on the Vancouver just in time for Alexander to sail north. At Sitka, he rejoined the Simpson expedition, sailed on the RAC steamer Aleksandr for Okhotsk and the subsequent trek across Siberia. Rowand kept copious notes and were likely became the basis, at least in part, of Simpson's Round the World publication. Alexander Rowand went on to successfully establish a practice in Quebec from 1847.

When Alexander Rowand died, he left a widow, two sons and four daughters.

PS: HBCA FtStikPJ 1; log of Cowlitz, 1; log of Vancouver [3], 1; FtVanCB 30; PPS: Simpson, Narrative of a Journey SS: HBRS II, p. 240-41

See Also: Rowand, John Sr. (Father)

Rowand, John Sr. (c. 1787 - 1854) (British: English and Canadian)

Birth: Montreal, Province of Quebec - c. 1787

Death: Fort Pitt [Saskatchewan] - May 30, 1854

Fur trade officer

HBC Passenger, Beaver (steamer) (1841); Passenger, Cowlitz (1841 - 1842); Passenger, Vancouver (barque) (1842).

Son of an assistant surgeon who worked at the Montreal General Hospital, John Rowand entered a seven-year apprenticeship with the NWC on May 20, 1803 and worked his way up through the ranks in a variety of posts east of the Rockies. Just prior to amalgamation in 1821, he was made a partner and at amalgamation was made Chief Trader in the HBC. He held posts mainly in the Saskatchewan District until 1841, at which point the now valuable HBC officer, accompanied by his son, escorted Sir George Simpson from Red River into the Columbia. His wife's native heritage, her wealth, and ability to interpret had given Rowand considerable prestige amongst the natives en route. The journey was not uneventful for, along the way, Rowand's horse stumbled, and Rowand cut his face and broke his breastbone. As well, his pants floated away while he was taking his morning bath and they had to be rescued. On the group's flying visit north from Fort Nisqually, Rowand took ill and was left by Stikine between September 20 and October 3. There, he was told of but did not observe the apparently violent behaviour of John McLoughlin Jr., who was later assassinated by his men. The inconclusiveness of Rowand's evidence later only exacerbated the rift between John McLoughlin Sr. and Simpson and led to the formers resignation. At Fort George on December 3, 1841, the party boarded the Cowlitz for California and Oahu where the party split up. Rowand and his son returned to the coast in April 1842 on the Vancouver. John returned back overland to his post and family at Edmonton House while son Alexander continued with the Simpson's round-the-world journey. Rowand Sr. had built the Big House at Edmonton House, aka "Rowand's Folly" which, for many years was the wonder of the west. It was three stories high and had hundreds of small glass window panes. In May 1854, while accompanying the outward brigade, Rowand died suddenly at Fort Pitt, where his son John Rowand Jr. was in charge. As Rowand had wanted to be buried in Montreal, the body was disinterred in the winter of 1855-1856 and, after being transported circuitously through Norway House, Red River, York Factory, London and Liverpool, it was finally buried in Montreal around the beginning of 1857.

Oral tradition held that Rowand married Louise Umphreville [Umfreville] after she rescued him from a fall from a horse. They had several children.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; FtVanASA 5; FtStikPJ 1; FtVanCB 30; FtVicCB 10; SimpsonCB; PSACWills 1 PPS: G. Simpson, Narrative

Rowland, William (fl. 1846 - c. 1854?) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1846 - 1847).

William Rowland shipped on with the HBC in London on October 2, 1846 and sailed for the coast on the Cowlitz. While running supplies as far north as Sitka, Rowland complained about the food and working conditions and was discharged in Honolulu on December 2, 1847. He may have returned to the area and taken an unnamed native woman as a wife for a William Rowland fathered a son James (1854-?) in Nanaimo.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; log of Cowlitz 6; YFASA 27-29; FtVicASA 1

Roy (Lapensee), Bazile [standard: Lapensée] (? - 1811) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lachine, Lower Canada

Death: mouth of the Columbia River, Pacific Northwest - March 22, 1811

Fur trade employee

PFC Passenger, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811).

Bazile Roy, brother of Ignace, had a short tragic career in the fur trade. He was likely in the Montreal area on July 18, 1810, when he signed by Alexander McKay into the Pacific Fur Company to work as a middleman for five years. Then, he, his brother, Ignace, and another Roy from Lachine joined a canoe brigade to New York where they boarded the PFC vessel, Tonquin. After departure on September 6, they rounded the Horn in a rather tempestuous voyage and arrived at the mouth of the Columbia late the following March. However, on March 22, 1811, while attempting to cross the uncharted bar, Bazile, Olivier Roy and six others, having little sea-going ability, drowned. Alexander Ross gave a somewhat dramatic account of the deaths.

PS: SHdeSB Liste PPS: HBRS XLV, p. 48, 71, 74; A. Ross, Adventures, p. 54-56
See Also: Roy, Ignace (Brother)

Roy, Etienne [standard: Étienne] [variation: Roi] (fl. 1824 - 1825) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Rivière du Loup, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

HBC Bowsman, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825); Steersman, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825).

Etienne Roy worked for the HBC in New Caledonia during outfit 1824-1825 and was probably a member of the cross-country brigade.

PS: HBCA YFASA 4; FtStJmsLS 1

Roy (Lapensee), Ignace [standard: Lapensée] (? - 1811) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lachine, Lower Canada

Death: mouth of the Columbia River, Pacific Northwest - March 22, 1811

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811).

Ignace (Jean Baptiste?) Lapensée signed with the PFC July 18, 1810, the same day as his brother Bazile, as well as Olivier Roy; all three men were from Lachine and all three met tragic deaths within a few years. Ignace (Jean Baptiste on the 1810 contract) drowned on March 22, 1811, along with his brother (and six others) while trying to cross the bar at the mouth of the Columbia. He had no sea-going skills. For more details, see Bazile Roy (Lapensee).

PS: SHdeSB Liste PPS: ChSoc XLV, p. 48, 71, 74; A. Ross, Adventures, p. 54-56
See Also: Roy, Bazile (Brother)

Roy, Jean Baptiste [variation: Roi] (fl. 1823 - 1827) (Undetermined origin)

Birth: possibly Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1823 - 1824); Untraced vocation, Snake Party (1824 - 1825); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1825 - 1826); Untraced vocation, Fort Colville (1826 - 1827).

Jean Baptiste Roy worked for the HBC in the Columbia District in the 1820s and was back in Montreal in 1827.

PS: HBCA YFASA 3-6, 8

Roy, Joseph [c] (c. 1802 - ?) (Undetermined origin)

Birth: c. 1802

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

HBC Blacksmith, New Caledonia (1821 - 1823); Middleman, New Caledonia (1821 - 1823).

Joseph Roy came to the Pacific slopes as a NWC employee in 1820. The following year he was likely on the Brigade route when he was retained by the HBC. He worked for the HBC for two years in New Caledonia and, on May 10, 1823, he signed a one or two year contract as blacksmith and middleman. By 1823-1824 he was likely in Western Red River. By 1828 he was in Fort Simpson in the Mackenzie District and he signed further contracts in 1835-1836.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 7; HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 1-3

Roy (Portelance), Joseph [variation: Roi] (c. 1794 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly in or near Cedres, Lower Canada - c. 1794

Fur trade employee

NWC Middleman, Pacific slopes (1817); Middleman, New Caledonia (1820); HBC Middleman, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1821 - 1822); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1822 - 1824); Steersman, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825); Bowsman, New Caledonia (1825 - 1826); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1826 - 1827).

Joseph Roy (Portelance) joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] on December 1, 1815 to work as a middleman at Fort William. He came west over the Rockies with Joseph LaRocque in 1817, possibly as a member of the brigade and, by 1821, was a member of a large group of NWC employees who transferred to the HBC. He worked generally in New Caledonia until 1826-1827, when he picked up his pay in Montreal - indicating his return to that city. He has not subsequently been traced.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 2, 7, 9; HBCA FtGeo[As]AB 4; YFASA 1, 5-6; YFDS 1a; FtStJmsLS 1

Roy (Lapensee), Olivier [standard: Lapensée] [variation: Roi] (? - 1814) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Lachine, Lower Canada

Death: Athabasca River, Alberta - May 25, 1814

Fur trade employee

PFC Passenger, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811); Middleman, Flatheads (October 13, 1813); Middleman, Flatheads (winter 1813 - 1814).

Olivier Roy, also called Lapensée, was signed on to work with the PFC on July 18, 1810 (probably in the Montreal area) by PFC partner, Alexander McKay. After making his way to New York in a canoe brigade, he boarded the PFC vessel, the Tonquin, which left New York on September 6, 1810 and arrived at the future Astoria at the mouth of the Columbia the following spring. Olivier did not join the NWC but decided return east. He never made it. While he was on the Athabasca River, he and André Belanger drowned when their canoe upset.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: ChSoc XLV, p. 48, 164

Roy, Thomas [1] [variation: Roi] (c. 1795 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: St. Jacques, Lower Canada - c. 1795

Death: probably Oregon, United States

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1822 - 1824); Middleman, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825); Labourer, Fort Fraser (1825); Middleman, New Caledonia (1825 - 1839); Interpreter, New Caledonia (1839 - 1840); Settler, Willamette (1840 - 1842).

Thomas Roy, from St. Jacques joined the fur trade in 1819 and during the 1830s worked as a freeman. In outfit 1840-1841 he retired to the Willamette and in 1843, voted against the establishment of a Provisional Government. In 1850 he was noted as being a farmer in the Marion County.

By 1850 Thomas Roy had one wife, Marie (c.1822-?), and three children: André (c.1837-?), Thomas (c.1841-?) and Rosalie (c.1843-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 1-2, 4-9, 11-15, 20; YFDS 1a, 3b, 5c-7, 11; FtStJmsLS 1; FtVanAB 4; FtStJmsRD 3; FtVanASA 1-6; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion Co.; HBCABio SS: Holman, p. 116

Roy, Thomas [2] (fl. 1842 - 1849) (Canadian: French)

Birth: in or near Grand St. Ours or Montreal, Lower Canada

Death: possibly Canada

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Nisqually (1843 - 1844); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1844 - 1845); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1844 - 1845); Middleman, Fort Colvile (1846 - 1849).

Thomas Roy joined the HBC from the Montreal area in 1842 and retired twice from the Company. He first retired in 1845 and returned to Canada. He rejoined again in 1846 and retired a second time to Canada in 1849.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 7; YFASA 22-24, 26-28; HBCABio

Royal, Langley (fl. 1832 - 1837) (British: English)

Birth: probably Norfolk, England

Maritime employee

HBC Apprentice, Ganymede (barque) (1832 - 1834); Seaman, Ganymede (barque) (1834 - 1835); Steward, Ganymede (barque) (1836 - 1837).

Langley Royal was an apprentice on the HBC vessel Ganymede in 1832 and may have started with it two years earlier. He sailed to the coast in 1832 on a supply run and, after returning to England with the fur returns and a short trip to Hudson Bay and back, contracted with the HBC December 13, 1834 as an ordinary seaman for five years. He returned to the coast on the same vessel and eventually arrived back in London on March 25, 1837. He has not been traced beyond that point.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 7; log of Ganymede 4; YFASA 15-16; YFDS 6; FtVanASA 3; ShMiscPap 14

Royal, Robert (c. 1796 - ?) (British: English)

Birth: Stourbridge, Worcester, England - c. 1796

Maritime officer

HBC Master, Ganymede (barque) (1832 - 1834); Master, Nereide (barque) (1835 - 1836); Master, Columbia (barque) (1836 - 1837).

Robert Royal had a twenty-six year career with the HBC naval department, part of which was spent servicing the Columbia Department. He first appeared in 1829-1830 in HBC records as being in command of the chartered vessel Montcalm, sailing on the annual supply voyage from England to York Factory. The following year, he was in command of the chartered vessel Camden, also supplying York Factory. However, in 1832-1834, he was in command of the HBC ship Ganymede, sailing from England to Fort Vancouver and return. In 1834 he also sailed the Ganymede from England to Moose Factory, Ungava Bay and return, and the following year, doing the same route as commander of the Prince of Wales. In 1836, as master of the barque Nereide, he sailed to the coast where he stayed for almost two months before returning to England in charge of the barque Columbia, likely in November 1836. That was his last visit to the coast; from 1838 to 1856 he commanded vessels: Prince of Wales (1838-1841), Prince Albert (1842-1853) and Prince Arthur (1854-1856) on supply runs to Moose Factory. On January 1, 1857, while he was living at 6 Jubilee Street, Stepney [London], Middlesex, he retired.

PS: HBCA log of Ganymede 1; ShMiscPap 14; FtVanASA 3; YFASA 16; YFDS 7; log of Prince of Wales I 16; log of Prince Albert 1-11; HBCA Robert Royal search file

Roye, Simon (fl. 1850 - 1851) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably in or near “Lashinaits” (Lachenaie?), Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1850 - 1851).

Simon Roye joined the HBC on April 11, 1850 as a labourer for three years. Although he really belonged to the Saskatchewan Department, he picked up his wages in the Columbia in outfit 1850-1851, indicating that he was probably working the Communication Route.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 30

Rudland, William (c. 1815 - ?) (British: English)

Birth: England, United Kingdom - c. 1815

Fur trade employee

HBC Immigrant passenger, Cowlitz (barque) (1849 - 1850); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1850 - 1853); Stoker, Beaver (steamer) (1850 - 1853); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1853 - 1858); Carpenter, Fort Simpson (1862 - 1863).

William Rudland came to Vancouver Island on the Cowlitz as a HBC labourer, likely with the intention of staying. On June 20, 1850, at Fort Victoria, he joined the steamer Beaver and journeyed north to the Fort Simpson area, choosing to settle there and raise a family while he worked for the HBC. There he did a variety of carpentry work, from making coffins to repairing vessels. He sent at least one child to missionary William Duncan's early school and himself, being illiterate, attended Duncan's Men's Night School. Duncan later hired Rudland to run his store in his absence but had to caution him to treat the natives less abruptly. Rudland's wife, Mary, also became involved in William Duncan's activities. In August 1862, he was engaged for six months as a carpenter and the following year in January was dismissed as there was no more work for him. From that point he went to live with his native wife with his wife's people.

William Rudland had one wife, Mary (c.1826-?) at least one child, James (1854-?). Sarah (c.1858-?) may have been a daughter or a step-daughter.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 5; YFASA 29-32; log of Beaver 2; FtVicASA 1-7; FtSimpPJ 8-9; BCA FtSimp[N]PJ 1; UBC-SC Duncan SS: Murray, The Devil and Mr. Duncan, p. 107, [Mary's activities] p. 112

Russel, Edward (fl. 1829 - 1830) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Goer and comer, Fort Vancouver (1829 - 1830).

Edward Russel is on the HBC records for outfit 1829-1830. He was likely a comer and goer to the Columbia and in 1830, returned to Europe.

PS: HBCA YFASA 9; FtVanAB 26

Russell, Osborne (1814 - 1892) (American)

Birth: Maine, United States - June 12, 1814 (born to George G. Russell and Eleanor Power)

Death: Placerville, California, United States - August 26, 1892

Free trader

CRFTC Trapper, Snake Country (1834).

In his early life in Maine Osborne Russell had a reasonable education and he was able to read and understand French. Around 1830, he ran away to sea but soon deserted in New York, choosing instead to enter the fur trade. In 1834 in Independence, Missouri, he joined Nathaniel J. Wyeth's westward bound expedition functioning as the Columbia River Fishing and Trading Company. Russell stopped with a small group on the Upper Snake River and built Fort Hall. After wintering over and receiving a discharge from Wyeth, he joined Jim Bridger's brigade of old Rocky Mountain Fur Company men. By 1837 he was a free trapper working out of Fort Hall, which had been taken over by the HBC. Around this time, Russell went through a kind of religious conversion, joined the Elijah White wagon train and settled in the Willamette Valley, thus beginning the second stage of his life. Shortly after voting for a Provisional Government in May 1843, he lost the sight of one eye in a blasting accident and decided to study law. Nicknamed "Judge", he became a member of the Executive Committee of the fledgling government and made a formal land claim in 1845. That year, however, he suffered political defeat and so began to write his Journal of a Trapper. In 1847 he briefly re-entered politics, becoming amongst other things, a member of the territorial legislature. In September 1848, caught by gold fever, Russel moved to California where he was to live out the rest of his life around the Sacramento area. There he started a series of businesses from a boarding house to a provision store business to operating two trading vessels between Sacramento and Portland. After Russell's partner ran off with one of the vessels and company funds, Russell was financially ruined and spent the rest of his life trying to pay off debtors. At the age of seventy-eight, paralyzed from the waist down, he died at the county hospital in 1892.

Published manuscript: Osborne's Journal of a Trapper was published more than once, the most comprehensive edition being under the editorship of Aubrey L. Haines, and from his introduction of which most of the above information has been drawn. Haines route maps are invaluable. Osborne's writing reflects the eye of an articulate observer, honest observations for the time.

PS: HBCA FtVanCB 33 SS: O. Russell, p. v-xv; DAB Ghent; Holman, p. 115

Rutherford, Thomas (fl. 1852 - 1853) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Carpenter, Norman Morison (barque) (1852 - 1853).

Thomas Rutherford made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison. While on the coast, he would have visited several coastal posts.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Ryan, William (c. 1794 - ?) (British: English)

Birth: probably England, United Kingdom - c. 1794

Maritime officer

HBC Untraced vocation, Isabella (brig) (1829 - 1830); Captain, Vancouver (barque) (1830 - 1831); Captain, Ganymede (barque) (1831 - 1832); 1st mate, Ganymede (barque) (1832 - 1833); Captain, Cadboro (schooner) (1833 - 1834); Mate, Cadboro (schooner) (1834 - 1835); Passenger, Dryad (brig) (1835 - 1836).

William Ryan joined the HBC on September 1829, sailing the HBC brig Isabella to the Columbia River. On May 2, 1830, while entering the Columbia, he mistook Chinook point for Cape Disappointment, and came in through the breakers south of the channel. On shore, Donald Manson could see that the Isabella was going into the wrong channel and tried to direct it by lighting a fire on Clatsop Point and Sandy Island but Ryan, thinking that the fires were made by natives who would murder his crew, dismissed the fires. Consequently, the Isabella hit bottom, lost a rudder, drifted into the breakers and stuck fast. Ryan and crew secured the boat with an anchor and threw much of the cargo overboard to lighten it. Not realizing that the tide would raise the boat and feeling that the ship would be imminently broken up, Ryan and crew abandoned her and began to make their way to Fort Vancouver. The next morning, natives sent by Manson found the boat abandoned but that evening the cable snapped and the Isabella drifted onto a spit where she was wrecked. George Simpson ascribed Ryan's error in judgement to a lack of talent even though he thought he was a man of character (HBCS XXX p. 225). John McLoughlin Sr. found him to be the opposite. Nevertheless, on November 18, 1830, Ryan captained the Vancouver to Oahu with a load of lumber and by April of the next year, was sailing the same vessel to Fort Simpson. On November 1, 1831, he departed for England as captain of the Ganymede. He arrived back safely in 1832, but the Governor and Committee had lost confidence in him and so he signed a further contract on September 15 as a 1st mate for three years on the returning Ganymede. He began wages in the Columbia on July 18, 1833 and was transferred from the Ganymede to the Columbia Naval Service. Between 1833-1835, his movements are unclear; but, he is on record as leaving the Columbia aboard the Dryad on October 1, 1835, where he is presumed to have retired upon reaching England.

William Ryan had a wife but her name has not been traced.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; FtVanAB 31; FtVanCB 6, 11; YFDS 4b, 5b-6; log of Ganymede 1; YFASA 11, 13-15; FtVanASA 3; SimpsonCB PPS: HBCS IV, p. 233, 355; HBCS XXX, p. 225

Rye, Edwin (c. 1816 - ?) (British: English)

Birth: Cornwall, England - c. 1816

Maritime employee

HBC Apprentice, Cadboro (schooner) (1831); Apprentice, Naval Department (1831 - 1832); Apprentice, Fort Simpson naval service (1832); Apprentice, Dryad (brig) (1833); Apprentice, Eagle (brig) (1834 - 1835); Apprentice, Columbia (barque) (1835 - 1836).

Edwin Rye was hired as an indentured servant by HBC secretary William Smith from the Greenwich Hospital for £100 on November 1, 1830. He had been educated at the Upper School of the Hospital and was to serve as an apprentice seaman for the Company. Rye left England aboard the brig Eagle on November 10, 1834 and made a return on the Columbia. He has not been traced beyond his arrival in London on May 10, 1837, the end of his apprenticeship.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 4a, 14; YFASA 11-14, 16; YFDS 4b-5c; FtVanASA 3; log of Columbia 1

Sabiston, James (c. 1829 - c. 1880) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: possibly in or near Stromness, Orkney - c. 1829

Death: probably Cariboo District, British Columbia - c. 1880

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, ship Prince of Wales II (1850); Labourer, New Caledonia general charges (1851 - 1852); Labourer, New Caledonia (1852 - 1858); Post master, Stuart's Lake (1860 - 1861); Post master, Thompson River (1861 - 1862); Post master, Fort Alexandria (1862 - 1865); Post master, Thompson River (1865 - 1866); Post master, Shuswap (1866 - 1869).

According to family tradition James Sabiston, who joined the HBC from Stromness May 30, 1850, had been a teacher in Orkney before he decided to leave the islands. On June 18, 1850, he sailed on the Prince of Wales to York Factory, where he arrived on August 20. From there he made his way to the New Caledonia area where he worked at a variety of posts until at least 1869. He was in charge of the Savona warehouses until 1873.

James Sabiston took as a wife, Yatchinma [Matilda], Carrier, who had previously been married to William Fordyce, a Shetlander. Matilda brought one daughter into the marriage but James and Matilda had no children.

Several sites are named after James Sabiston: Sabiston Road, Sabiston Creek and Sabiston Lake.

PS: HBCA log of Prince of Wales II 1; YFASA 31-32; YFDS 22; FtVicASA 1-16; FtVicCB 18, 23, 27; FtAlexPJ 10; FtAlexPJ 10; HBCABio SS: "Area Glimpses in 1870's," Kamloops Daily Sentinel, Sept. 10, 1986; Sabiston descendant

Sabiston, John [a] [variation: John Flett Sabiston] (1828 - 1902) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: Walls or Kirkwall, Orkney - 1828Death: Nanaimo, British Columbia - April 17, 1902Fur trade employee*HBC Passenger, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1850); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1850 - 1854); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1854 - 1856); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1856 - 1858).

The life of John Flett Sabiston came full circle in the New World. In 1842 in Orkney, seventeen year old Sabiston transported Captain [later Sir] John Franklin, who was visiting on the Erebus, from Stromness to Kirkwall and back again. Twenty-five years later in Nanaimo, a forty-two year old Sabiston, now a pilot, found himself rowing a still-grieving widow, Lady [Jane Griffin] Franklin, and her travelling companion niece, around some islands off Nanaimo. For Sabiston, this was just one of many episodes in his textured life. In 1849 he signed on with the HBC in England as a sponsored settler and subsequently arrived in Victoria on the Norman Morison in March 1850. Like many of the sponsored settlers, Sabiston began work with the HBC probably to pay off travel debts. He was first assigned to the steamer Beaver, thence to Fort Simpson where he spent the following four years. In 1857 the literate Sabiston was recruited by missionary William Duncan for his Men's Night School; his son John was recruited for the day school. At Simpson he took a wife but, by 1858, when both Sabiston and his wife decided to make a business out of selling HBC rum to the natives and freely giving away HBC blankets to those whom they felt deserved them, William Henry McNeill decided to send both of them away on the first possible ship. Sabiston's wife was temporarily banished from the fort; she took all her children and an immense quantity of property out of the fort and went to live in the Indian lodges. Because Capt. Dodd of the steamer Beaver would or could not take them as passengers, on September 29, 1858, Sabiston, his family and thirteen canoe loads of natives went south on a rough trip, narrowly avoiding trouble with the Bella Bella natives. Sabiston then began a new life in Nanaimo being placed in charge of the HBC sawmill and was later foreman of all outside labour. He went on to work for the Vancouver Coal Mining and Land Company and in 1867 he became a pilot. According to Dryden, his first work after leaving the coal company was piloting the steamship John L. Stephens from Nanaimo to Sitka with United States troops for Alaska. In the 1870s he took command of the sealer Wanderer working the area of Barkley Sound. John Sabiston died in Nanaimo on April 17, 1902.

John Sabiston's family life is complex for he appears to have had more than one wife and an untraceable number of children. On February 14, 1858, with an unnamed native wife (?-?) at Fort Simpson he appears to have had Isabella (c.1858-?) or another unnamed child. Another child was likely John (1853-?). On March 6, 1859 in Nanaimo, he married Jane Taylor (c.1836-?), who was born in Canada. William Thomas (1874-?) was the adopted son of John Sabiston and Margaret. Another son was John (?-?), who predeceased his father.

PS: HBCA YFASA 29-32; log of Beaver 2; FtVicASA 1-6, 9; FtSimp[N]PJ 8; log of Princess Royal 5; BCA BCCR EbMCNan; BCGR-Nanaimo Free, Feb. 1, 1879, p. 3, April 18, 1902; UBC-SC Duncan PPS: Cracroft, p. 126-27 SS: Mouat, p. 213; Lewis & Dryden, p. 40-41; Murray, p. 18

Sabiston, John [b] (fl. 1853 - 1859) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: probably Walls, Orkney, ScotlandFur trade employee*HBC Labourer, New Caledonia (1853 - 1858).

John Sabiston [b], who worked for five years in central British Columbia, most likely took the Princess Royal back to the British Isles which sailed March 27, 1859 from Victoria.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1-7, 9; log of Princess Royal 5

Sabiston, Joseph (fl. 1844 - 1848) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: probably Stromness, OrkneyFur trade employee*HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1844); Labourer, Columbia Department (1847 - 1848).

Joseph Sabiston joined the HBC from Stromness in 1844 on a five year contract sailing to York Factory that year. However, he worked for only one outfit on the Pacific slopes.

PS: HBCA log of Prince Rupert V 2; YFASA 27

Sabiston, Peter [variation: Sabaston, Sabeston] (c. 1833 - 1892) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: Orkney, United Kingdom - c. 1833Death: Nanaimo, British Columbia - September 29, 1892Fur trade employee*HBC Steerage passenger, Norman Morison (barque) (1851); Labourer, Fort Victoria general charges (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1852 - 1857); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1857 - 1858).

A young eighteen-year old Peter Sabiston joined the HBC in Orkney in 1851 to serve as an agricultural labourer on Vancouver Island. On May 28, 1851 he left England on the Norman Morison and sailed around the Horn, arriving at Fort Victoria on October 30 of that year. The change of locale must have been a shock for in short order, he ran away from Victoria to the northerly coastal Fort Simpson. There, under the pretext of being ill, he avoided working at all costs much to the consternation and cynicism of his bosses. In fact, at the fort, Sabiston, along with fellow Orcadians James Leask and William Garrioch, tried to precipitate an unsuccessful strike for more provisions of pork and flour. His unhappiness at Fort Simpson ended around 1857 when he apparently abandoned his native wife and headed south for Nanaimo. For then next year, he appears to have done some non-contract work for the Company but eventually settled into farming and remarried. In 1859 he purchased eighty-eight acres [35.6 ha] in the Mountain District. In January, 1877, he tried to run for office in Nanaimo - not only was he defeated but he was also called an "oppositionist" by his successful opponent (Colonist, p. 3). In 1881, a settled Peter Sabiston went on a three month visit with his wife to San Francisco and in 1886, they visited the Orkneys possibly to visit an ailing father. By 1884 he was a one of the directors of the People's Steam Navigation Company. He died in Nanaimo, aged fifty-nine, around September 29, 1892.

Peter Sabiston had two or more wives and at least two children. At Fort Simpson, he had an unnamed native wife and two children, one living to 1853 and another, 1857. On February 16, 1863, a licence was issued for the marriage of Peter Sabiston and Lucy Bate, whom he married on April 19, 1863 in Nanaimo.

PS: HBCA log of Norman Morison 2; YFASA 32; YFDS 22; FtVicASA 1-7; FtSimp[N]PJ 7-8; BCA BCGR-CrtR-AbstLnd; BCGR-VICSMarriageL; BCCR StPaulNan; Van-PL Colonist, January 25, 1877, p. 3; Van-PL 1881 Canada Census, Vancouver District, Nanaimo-Noonas Bay sub-district; BCGR-Nanaimo Free, Nov. 16, 1881, p. 3, Oct. 4, 1884, p. 3, April 28, 1886, p. 3, Mar. 7, 1888, p. 3, Sept. 29, 1892 p. 3
See Also: Leask, James; Garrioch, William L.

Sacahandsta, Thomas (fl. 1816) (Native: probably Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1816).

Thomas Sacahandsta first was on the Pacific slopes in 1816 as an employee of the NWC. That same year, cash was paid to his mother by the NWC. He may have been part of the Brigade.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 1

Saganakei, Jean Baptiste [variation: Saganakee, Sakanakee] (fl. 1813 - 1822) (Native: Nipising)

Birth: possibly Lac Des Deux Montagnes [Lake of Two Mountains], Lower Canada

Freeman

NWC Hunter, Kootenae House (1810 - 1811); Bowsman, Fort George [Astoria] (winter 1813 - 1814); Trapper, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1821 - 1822).

Jean Baptiste Saganakei, described by Franchere as an "old Indian," is noted in the Columbia records because of a particular incident. Saganakei first appeared in the Columbia with James McMillan and Nicolas Montour when they travelled to Kootenae House, at the head of the Columbia River, in 1810-1811. While at Fort William in 1813 he renewed his services for one year and by January, 1814, was back in the Columbia. On January 3, 1814, he struck out from Astoria for Kootenae House; around January 8th while portaging the falls on the Columbia with Alexander Stewart and others that the local natives, who were enacting their traditional right of tariff extraction, first stole goods from the Nor'westers and then attacked in force. In the melee, Saganakei hid behind some rocks to "kill some of the thieves", and received an arrow in his side (ChSoc XLV, p. 139). Thinking he was dead, the group abandoned him and fled in their canoes. After staying behind the rocks for a night, he began to make his way back to the Fort downstream. As he had lost his flint, he could not hunt and soon found himself making a raft to cross the river. In weakened condition, he finally reached a native village and was seized. His freedom was bought with several blankets and he was taken by to Fort George in pitiful condition. Saganakei appeared to stay in the area, probably as a freeman trapper, for he was noted, in 1820, as going east over the Rockies. He must have returned for he was still active in 1821-1822.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10; FtGeo[Ast]AB 4 PPS: ChSoc LVII, p. 632, 632n, 638, 638n, 643; ChSoc XLV, p. 139, 141

Sago, Frank (fl. 1815) (Undetermined origin)

Maritime employee

NWC Seaman, Columbia (schooner) (1815 - 1816).

Frank Sago signed on with the NWC schooner Columbia on March 26, 1815 in Macao and was a crew member when the ship on was on the Northwest Coast trading for furs. He was paid off in Macao on February 29, 1816 but stayed with the schooner for an undetermined length of time.

Sagoganiukas, Ignace [variation: Sagoganeukas] (c. 1816 - 1850) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably in or near Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1816

Death: probably Fort Colville area, Oregon Territory [Washington] - March 9, 1850

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1836 - 1837); Middleman, New Caledonia (1837 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1841); Middleman, New Caledonia (1841 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1843 - 1844); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1845); Boute, Columbia Department (1845 - 1846); Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1846 - 1847); Middleman, Columbia Department (1847 - 1848); Middleman, Fort Colville (1848 - 1850).

Ignace Sagoganiukas joined the HBC in 1836 and worked on the Pacific Slopes for the next fourteen years. In 1848-1849, he did not work the full outfit, possibly because of illness, for he died the following year of unstated causes, likely in the Fort Colville area.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 3-7; YFDS 7, 19; YFASA 19-20, 22-29

Sagogetsta, Charles (? - 1852) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: possibly Lachine, Lower Canada

Death: probably Fort Vancouver, Oregon Territory - 1852

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman and bote on Athabasca River, Fort Vancouver general charges (1837 - 1838); Middleman and bote on Fraser River, New Caledonia (1838 - 1839); Boute, Fort Vancouver (1839 - 1843); Boute, Fort Vancouver general charges (1843 - 1844); Boute, Fort Vancouver general charges (1843 - 1844); Boute, Fort Vancouver general charges (1852).

Charles Sagotetsta joined the HBC from Lachine in 1836 and went east of the Rockies in 1844 at the end of his contract. He made it back to the area but was discharged on July 10, 1852, soon after which he died of unstated causes.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 4-7, 9; YFDS 8-9, 22; YFASA 19-20, 22-23; FtVicDS 1

Sagohandsta, Louis [1] [variation: Sacohandsta] (fl. 1818 - 1830) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1818 - 1821).

Louis Sagohnandsta [1] is possibly the same as or related to Louis Sagohandsta [2]. In 1818, he was noted as being on a brigade with Angus Bethune and James McMillan and receiving advances in the following spring; he appeared again in 1821, indicating that he was likely a member of the Brigade. He likely re-joined the HBC on March 11, 1829 as a steersman and bowsman for three years in the Northern Department and by the following summer he was a summerman in Montreal.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 2, 3, 7

Sagohanosta, Louis [2] [variation: Sagohansta, Sagohandsta] (c. 1798 - ?) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1798

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1835 - 1836); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1836 - 1838).

Louis Sagohanosta [2] was on the Pacific slopes in 1835 and returned to Montreal in March 1838 at the end of his three-year contract. In June 1837 he was described as an old man who was often very ill; for that reason he may be the above Louis Sagohandsta [1].

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFDS 6-7; FtVanASA 3-5; YFASA 9, 15, 17-18; FtSimp[N]PJ 3

Sagoshaneuchta, Louis (c. 1805 - 1837) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1805

Death: Columbia Cascades (Rapids), Pacific Northwest - March 18, 1837

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1831 - 1832); Middleman, Fort Langley (1832 - 1834); Boute, Fort Nisqually (1835 - 1836); Boute, Fort Nisqually (1836 - 1837).

Louis Sagoshaneuchta joined the HBC in 1831 and served for six years at mainly two posts before he drowned at the Cascades on the Columbia River in the spring of 1837. He was buried two months later on May 9, 1837 at Fort Vancouver by Rev. Herbert Beaver, the Anglican priest.

Louis Sagoshaneuchta had one wife, Marie Anne, Nisqually (?-?) and two recorded children, Catherine (1834-?) and Ignace (1837-?).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 3-4; YFASA 9, 11-15; YFDS 4b-7; HBCABio; BCA BCCR CCCath PPS: CCR 1a

Sagoyawatha, Thomas (Big/Grand Tomo, Toma) [variation: Sagoyawaha, Sagiowatti, Sagarawetti, Sakoihoite] (1811 - ?) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably St. Regis, Lower Canada - 1811

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1836 - 1837); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Fort McLoughlin (1838 - 1843); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1843 - 1844); Middleman, Fort Victoria (1844 - 1846); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1846 - 1847); Stoker, Beaver (steamer) (1847 - 1850); Middleman, Fort Victoria (1850 - 1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1851 - 1853); Axeman, Nanaimo (1853 - 1858); Untraced vocation, Fort Langley (1858 - 1861); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1861 - 1862).

Thomas Sagoyawatha, who bears the family name of the great Seneca Iroquois orator and Iroquois nationalist, "Red Jacket", or Sagoyewatha, joined the HBC in 1836 from St. Regis and afterwards spent almost his entire career on the coast. He had the reputation of being quarrelsome and was often involved in brawls. On July 21, 1851 Sagoyawatha was shot and almost died in the Victoria area in an altercation with George Newman, the motive for which was unclear (BCGR-CrtR.Misc). In another fight with a native, one of his fingers was bitten off (NanJ, p. 59). He raised a family but his movements after 1862 are unclear.

On April 29, 1850, Thomas Sagoyawatha married Josephine (?-?), Kakaish (?) and had three or four recorded children. Their children were Joseph (?-1850), Thomas (?-bap.1853-?), and Mariam (?-?) who may be the same as Marie (?-bap.1855-?).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 3-7; YFDS 7, 17, 23; YFASA 19-20, 22, 24-32; FtVicDS 1; FtVicASA 1, 6-11; BCA BCGR-CrtR-Misc G.38.81; BCA PJ NanJ; BCA BCCR StAndC SS: Bate, p. 1; Wright, p. 226-27

Sagoyenhas, Joseph (c. 1816 - ?) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1816

Fur trade employee

PSAC Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1836 - 1837); Middleman, Snake Party (1837 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1844).

Joseph Sagoyenhas joined the HBC from Sault St. Louis in 1836. His contract ended in 1844 at which point he returned to Canada.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 3-7; YFDS 7; YFASA 19-20, 22-23; PSACAB 3

Sakoereka, Baptiste (fl. 1822) (Native: probably Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Death: Spokane House, Columbia District - 1822

Freeman

U.A. Freeman, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1822); Freeman, Lesser Slave Lake (1822).

Baptiste Sakoereka was found working as a freeman around Fort Spokane when he died in the summer of 1822.

PS: HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 10

Sakoiarokon, Pierre [variation: Sakorarokon] (c. 1809 - ?) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1809

Death: possibly West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1834 - 1835); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1836); Boute, Fort Vancouver general charges (1836 - 1837); Boute, New Caledonia (1837 - 1838); Boute, Fort Vancouver general charges (1841 - 1842).

Pierre Sakoiarokon joined the HBC in 1833 and served as a bote on the Athabasca River on his way out to the Columbia in 1834. He appears to have served on the Brigade and, at the end of his contract, is on record as going over the Rockies in March, 1838. From July 1, 1838, he worked out a three-year York Factory contract east of the Rockies.

However, in 1841-1842 he re-appeared on an August 1, 1841 Norway House contract in which he was exempted from carrying a load across the mountain indicating a possible infirmity.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 14, 21; YFDS 5c-7; FtVanASA 3-7

Salioheni, Ignace [variation: Soliohone, Serianane] (fl. 1813 - 1822) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: possibly Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Freeman

NWC Steersman, Willamette Post (winter 1813 - 1814); Steersman, Brigade to Fort William (1814); Freeman, Fort George [Astoria] (spring 1820); HBC Trapper, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1821 - 1822); Freeman trapper, Snake Party (1822).

Ignace Salioheni was working for the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray] as early as 1800 and, by 1804 he was at Fort des Prairies. He likely worked as a steersman and guide with David Thompson in 1811 and was re-engaged by the NWC as a steersman in the Columbia in 1813. He spent the winter of 1814 with his family at the Willamette post which he left in March, 1814 for Fort George [Astoria]. On April 4, 1814, he left Fort George as a guide for William Wallace's brigade canoe up the Columbia, a river with which he was familiar. Ignace's wife and children were left at Fort George [Astoria] and, according to Henry she was a strong character who vigorously defended her family on April 19, 1814:

[There was a] battle between Mrs. McDougall and Ignace's woman regarding the latter's children, who were playing with some trifling things, when the former lady, who is haughty and imperious, took the playthings from them and set them bawling; the consequence was a slap from the mother. Royalty was offended, and a dreadful row ensued. Some women landed in the bay, unknown to me; but hearing of it, I ordered them off (Coues, p. 891).

Three weeks later, on May 6, Ignace's wife and family were sent outside the fort to the house with the Nepisangués to make room for storage inside the fort. After guiding the canoe up the river, Salioheni no doubt returned to Fort George but his movements for the next six years have not been traced. He probably stayed on the Pacific slopes as a freeman with his family for he appeared at Fort George in the spring of 1820. In 1823, it was noted that he had been a freeman who may have deserted, for he failed to come out of the Snake Country in the fall of 1822.

The names of Ignace Salioheni's wife and family have not been traced.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 10; NAC Keith, p. 44; HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 4; FtSpokRD 1 PPS: Coues, p. 860, 875, 891, 908, 1009

See Also: Salioheni, Ignace's stepson (Step-Son)

Salioheni, Ignace's stepson [variation: Soliohone] (fl. 1822) (possibly Native or Mixed native descent)

Birth: probably West of the Rockies

Freeman

HBC Trapper, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1821 - 1822); Freeman trapper, Snake Party (1822).

Ignace Salioheni's stepson was likely a young man when he and his step-father failed to emerge from the Snake Country in the fall of 1822.

PS: HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 4; FtSpokRD 1

See Also: Salioheni, Ignace (Step-Father)

Sam (fl. 1840 - 1844) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Oahu, Hawaiian Islands

Death: probably Oahu, Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1840 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1843 - 1844).

Sam joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840 on a three-year contract. He was first assigned to Fort Taku, which was being constructed at the time. He worked on this northerly coastal fort on the Alaskan panhandle for three outfits before he was transferred to Fort Victoria. There he worked until November 23, 1844, at which point he returned to Oahu and was given his final wages on December 31 in Honolulu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-24; FtVanASA 6-7; SandIsAB 3

Samuel (fl. 1825) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Maritime employee

MW Seaman, Convoy (brig) (1825).

Samuel shipped aboard the Convoy [Wm. H. McNeill] at Oahu after it arrived at that Island on March 16, 1825 to unload cargo and take on supplies for the Northwest Coast. After sailing April 1 as a labourer, Samuel and the vessel traded for a season on the Northwest Coast, returning to Honolulu November 2. It is not known whether he continued to sail with the Convoy.

PS: BCA log of Convoy SS: Howay, A List of Trading Vessels

Samuelson, Matthias (fl. 1854 - 1855) (probably British)Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria general charges (1854 - 1855).

Matthias Samuelson was found working in outfit 1854-1855 on a contract that ended in 1859. He appears not to have completed his contract for he left for "home" (most likely the British Isles) in May, 1855.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 2, 3

Samuhumu (fl. 1840 - 1849) (probably Hawaiian)Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands*Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1843 - 1849).

Samuhumu joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840. He spent his entire working career at Fort Vancouver until he deserted on July 20, 1849, likely for the gold fields of California.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-29; FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 20

Sancisse, Michel [variation: Sansouce, Sanscousie, Sansouci, Sanssousie, Sanscousis] (fl. 1821 - 1822)
(Undetermined origin)Birth: probably La Prairie, Lower Canada*Fur trade employee

HBC Bowsman or steersman, New Caledonia (1821 - 1822).

Michel Sancisse had spent some time in the fur trade before he was found working for the HBC in New Caledonia in outfit 1821-1822. A total of twenty-three NWC contracts, dating as early as 1797, were found under the name Michel Sansoucy from La Prairie, probably representing two or three separate people of the same name working at a variety of locations. If anything, it indicated a strong family tradition in the fur trade. Michel Sancisse has not been traced after 1822.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA YFASA 1

Sangster, James (? - 1858) (British: Scottish)Birth: Port Glasgow, Scotland*Death: Esquimalt, Colony of Vancouver Island - October 18, 1858*Maritime officer

HBC Boy, Eagle (brig) (1827 - 1829); Seaman, Eagle (brig) (1831 - 1832); Seaman, Fort Simpson naval service (1832 - 1833); 2nd mate, Fort Simpson naval service (1833 - 1835); 2nd mate and 1st mate, Cadboro (schooner) (1835 - 1836); 1st mate, Columbia Department (1836 - 1837); 1st mate and master, Lama (brig) (1837 - 1838); 1st mate, Beaver (steamer) (1838 - 1840); 1st mate, Vancouver (barque) (1840 - 1843); 1st mate, Beaver (steamer) (1843 - 1844); 1st mate, Cowlitz (barque) (1844 - 1846); 1st mate and clerk, Fort Vancouver general charges (1846 - 1847); Officer, Columbia Department (1847 - 1848); Commander, Cadboro (schooner) (1848 - 1851); Pilot (maritime), Driver (sloop) (1849); Commander, Una (brigantine) (1851).

James Sangster joined the HBC ship Eagle on September 8, 1827 as a ship's boy and sailed on the supply voyage to Fort Vancouver and back. He renewed again on September 24, 1831 for three years as a seaman and returned to the Columbia on the brig Eagle. Over a twenty year career, he worked his way up to ship's commander servicing the coast, the Sandwich Islands and, occasionally, London. He was a likable, competent, skilled officer and commander, had his share of work stoppages but was, according to George Simpson, "...a confirmed drunkard" (HBRs XXIV, p. 135). After he retired on July 6, 1851, he purchased twenty acres [8.1 ha] in Esquimalt and became pilot in general, harbourmaster, Collector of Customs and Victoria's first postmaster. Being a man of the sea, he would sit on top of Beacon Hill [Victoria] with spy glass in hand looking for any Company or other ship rounding Rocky Point. When he became Postmaster, he assumed the Fort house previously inhabited by James Yates and had a wicket-like window installed so that he could pass mail through it (the house later became John Sebastian Helmken's office). Sangster didn't want people coming into his house asking for mail or seeing him shaking after drinking. He built a house in Esquimalt where he had a small garden. However, the years of drinking took their toll, his health began to fail and, in October 1858, he committed suicide by cutting his own throat and was buried three days later. (Movements on his estate appeared until 1865 indicating that relatives may have been accessing his account.)

Sangster's Plains are named after James Sangster.

One undelivered 1840 letter from his sixty year old mother M., from Bow Common, rests in the HBCA. A needy widow living at Bow Commons, she pleaded to her son for more money.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Eagle 1; YFDS 5a-5b, 6, 8, 11, 22; YFASA 12-15, 17-20, 24-32; ShMiscPap 14; FtVanASA 3-8; FtVicASA 1-4, 8-12; FtVanCB 33; log of Cadboro 6; MiscI 5; BCA BCGR-CrtR-AbstLnd; BCCR CCCath; TacP-FtNis Huggins PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 149-51; HBRS XXIV, p. 135; Helmcken, p. 125-126

Sanicce, Lardemarke (fl. 1825) (possibly Native or Mixed descent)Free trader

U.A. Trapper, Rendezvous (1825).

Lardemark Sanicce appeared on the records as acquiring several goods at the 1825 Rendezvous at Henry's Fork [Wyoming] from William Ashley, who had brought them overland from St. Louis. Nothing else is known of Sanicce, who probably attended other Rendezvous' as well as continued trapping in the Rocky Mountains.

PS: MHS Ashley 1

Sans Facon, Francois [standard: François Sans Façon] (fl. 1810 - 1825) (Canadian: French or Mixed descent)Birth: possibly Lower Canada [Quebec]*Freeman

NWC Freeman hunter, Flathead District (1810); HBC Freeman trapper, Snake Party (1824 - 1825).

François Sans Facon met David Thompson in 1810 at a camp in the Clark Fork and Flathead Rivers area. At that time, Thompson purchased furs from Charpentier to pay the latter for his burying the unfortunate Mr. Courter and to settle Courter's estate. He appears to have stayed in the area, for in 1824-1825 he was part of the Snake Expedition. He was last recorded on May 25, 1825 assisting P. S. Ogden when many of the expedition members were deserting to Johnson Gardner of the American trapping group.

PS: ShdeSB Liste; ChSoc XL, p. 302-03

Sanson, Michel [variation: Sampson, Samson] (fl. 1813 - 1815) (probably Canadian: French)Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]*Death: Pacific Northwest - February 23, 1815*Fur trade employee

PFC Blacksmith, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (1811 - 1812); Blacksmith, Fort George [Astoria] (1812 - 1815).

Michel Sanson may have been working in the fur trade before he became a member of Wilson Price Hunt's PFC overland expedition, possibly in 1810. His overland party, led by Donald McKenzie, arrived at Astoria via canoe on January 18, 1812. There he worked as a blacksmith, made blanket capots for Indian trade from blankets that could not be traded and made charcoal. On October 23, 1813, when the PFC was bought out by the NWC, Sanson joined the latter and continued working in the area. On February 23, 1815, Sanson and two others were killed by natives.

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria; HBCA NWCAB 10; NWCAB 10; NAC Keith, p. 25

Sansouce, Joseph [variation: Sansouci] (c. 1805 - c. 1883) (Canadian: French)Birth: probably St. Eustache, Lower Canada - c. 1805*Death: possibly Salem, Oregon - c. February 5, 1883*Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1833 - 1834); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1834 - 1839); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1839 - 1844); Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1844 - 1845); Middleman, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1849); Middleman, Champoege (1849 - 1850); Middleman, Willamette (1850 - 1851).

Joseph Sansouce joined the HBC from Lower Canada in 1833. After reaching the coast, he went to Fort Simpson where he was in on building the second site on Dundas Island. There, on November 15-16, 1837, when he was sent out with a boy to shoot a deer, he was clad only in a shirt and trousers and was without a capot. He got lost and came back cold and hungry the next morning (FtSimp[N]PJ 3, fo. 154d-155). Luck wasn't with him in June 1838 when he was practice shooting. The bullet glanced off a post and wounded the local surgeon, John F. Kennedy in the hand (FtSimp[N]PJ 4, fo. 22d). Sansouce went east of the Rockies to Canada in 1840 but returned to the Columbia. During his eighteen year career with the Company, he worked at a variety of locations throughout the Columbia. He must have been quite successful for in 1850 he was listed in the Willamette as a labourer, living by himself with $5,000 worth of assets. He retired the following year, 1851 and appeared to carry on transactions with the Company until 1853.

Sansouci's later life is hard to follow. He possibly had a family with an Umpqua woman for younger Sansoucis' (Jenny, Marianne and Paul Umpqua Sansouci) show up on the Grand Ronde Reservation in Oregon in the 1860s. On April 6, 1860, Joseph himself appears to have been a witness for a friend, John Larrison, who was buried in St. Louis. A San Souci, possibly Joseph, died on February 5, 1883 in Salem, Oregon, and was buried the following day. In both church entries, he was known by his last name only.

PS: HBCA YFASA 13-15, 20, 22-25, 27-32; YFDS 5c-7; FtVanASA 3-7, 9; FtSimp[N]PJ 3-4; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion Co PPS: CCR 3a, 6a, 6b

Saondaquequa, Lazard (fl. 1822) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Freeman

U.A. Freeman trapper, Snake Country (1822).

It is not known when Lazard Saondaquequa came to the Pacific slopes but in September 1822, he was found to be a member of Pierre Tevanitagon's independent band of Iroquois trappers. He and other members, Charles Onahariohou and Michel Atihatarenes, would have sold furs to the HBC.

PS: HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 4

Sassanare, Francois Xavier [standard: François Xavier] [variation: Sachsannarie, Sasanarie] (fl. 1824 - 1825) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: possibly Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada

Freeman

NWC Freeman trapper, Snake Party (1819); HBC Freeman trapper, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1821 - 1822); Freeman trapper, Snake Party (1824 - 1825); Freeman trapper, American Party (1825 - 1825).

François Xavier Sassanare may have joined the NWC [McTavish, Frobisher & Co.] from Sault St. Louis as early as December 26, 1800. Before crossing the Rockies, he worked at Michillimackinac and Fort William and just when he came over has not been traced but he is noted as having deserted from Donald McKenzie in the Snake Country in the fall of 1819. In 1824 at Prairie de Cheveaux (near Flathead post) he joined Alexander Ross' Snake Country trapping expedition. Although Ross considered him a "good trapper", (SnkCoPJ 1, fo. 2) Ross quickly changed his mind and by March 30, 1824 felt that Sassanare had not been worth equipping for the expedition; (SnkCoPJ 1, fo. 11) this was not unusual as Ross was at odds with most of the Iroquois on the trip. By August 3, 1824, he sarcastically noted that Sassanare's idea of "fair dealing" was to give away one year's worth of hunt at one time (SnkCoPJ 1, fo. 41d). As a result of this, Sassanare wanted to leave the party the next day with his now starving family (along with Crevais and his equally famished family) and go back to the Salmon River area so as to get fish but Ross talked them out of it. By September of that year, Ross was saying that Sassanare was "a leading character among the black squad" and that he should be "sent to some distant post" (SnkCoPJ 1, fo. 51). In spite of these conflicts, Sassanare returned to Flathead post where he joined Ogden for his 1824-1825 Snake Country expedition. With Ogden he apparently carried on without incident until May 26, 1825, the day after a large number of the freemen deserted the party at Weber River. Then, Sassanare and Crevais reported that their traps had been robbed but, actually, they may have sold their furs to the Americans. Finally, on May 29, 1825, Sassanare, being only one of many, deserted. His desertion was recorded by William Kittson in the following way:

Another scamp left us on the road, it is not surprising he being an Iroquois by the Name of Fras. Sasanare. He took nothing with him but his riding horse. Left wife and furs behind. Fair weather. Plenty Buffaloes and many killed (SnkCoPJ 3a, fo. 20).

The fate of François Xavier Sassanare has not been traced nor have the names or fate of his family.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 4; HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 4; SnkCoPJ 1, 2, 3a

Satakarass, Pierre [variation: Satakarras] (c. 1788 - ?) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1788

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

NWC Boute, Pacific slopes (1821); HBC Boute, New Caledonia (1821 - 1823); Boute, Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs] (1822 - 1823); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1823 - 1824); Steersman, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825); Steersman, New Caledonia (1825 - 1826); Boute or steersman, Thompson River (1826 - 1830); Boute, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1831); Boute, Snake Party (1831 - 1833); Middleman and boute, Fort Vancouver general charges (1833 - 1834); Boute, Fort Vancouver general charges (1834 - 1835); Boute, Fort Colville (1835 - 1836); Middleman, Fort Colville (1836 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Langley (1841 - 1842); Middleman, Fort Colville (1842 - 1844); Middleman, Willamette (1844 - 1845); Untraced vocation, Oahu (1845 - 1846).

Pierre Satakarass joined the fur trade in 1795. By 1820 he was on the Pacific slopes acting as a steersman on the brigade to Fort William and in the late fall of 1822, helped to establish a new post at the end of Babine Lake. He appears to have worked on contract until 1831 after which he worked as a freeman. While he was at Thompson River in 1827, clerk Archibald McDonald noted that Satakarass was a "... good quiet Iroquois" but not adapted for duty of Thompson River (HBRX X, p. 229). He appears to have worked for about fifty years in the fur trade and eventually retired to the Willamette on July 31, 1844. In outfit 1845-1846, while not working for the Company, he appears on record as being in Oahu. This may be a misprint.

PS: HBCA NWC Servants' Contracts F5/3; NWCAB 9; HBCA YFASA 1-2, 4-5, 7-9, 11-15, 19-20, 22-25; YFDS 1a, 2a, 3a-3b, 4b-7, 15; HBCCont; FtBabPJ 1; FtStJmsLS 1; FtVanAB 10; FtKamPJ 2; FtVanASA 1-6 PPS: HBRX X, p. 229

Satakarata (Rabesca), Francois [standard: François] (c. 1831 - c. 1854) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Death: probably Nanaimo, Colony of Vancouver Island - c. 1854

Fur trade employee

HBC Native apprentice, Fort Victoria (1845 - 1847); Middleman, Fort Victoria (1847 - 1848); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1848 - 1850); Untraced vocation, Beaver (steamer) (1850 - 1851).

As François Satakarata joined the HBC October 7, 1845 as an apprentice, he was probably around fourteen years of age at the time. In 1851 or 1852, after working for the HBC at both Fort Victoria and on the Beaver, he began work at Nanaimo where he was an axeman involved in the construction of various buildings, including the sawmill. There he led a rough life and, as a result of getting into many fights, developed a very disfigured face. He met his death by drowning at an unspecified date, probably after 1854, as his name, with no movement on his accounts, was carried on HBC accounts from that date to 1857.

François Satakarata had one wife, Marie, native, whom he married on January 7, 1850.

PS: HBCA YFASA 25-31; YFDS 16; log of Beaver 2; FtVicASA 1-3; FtVicCB 10; BCA BCCR StAndC SS: Bate, p. 3
See Also: Satakarata (Rabesca), Louis (probable Relative)

Satakarata (Rabesca), Louis (c. 1794 - 1852) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: possibly Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1794

Death: Fort Victoria (Victoria), British Columbia - September 1, 1852

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1814 - 1824); Middleman, Columbia Department (1824 - 1826); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1827); Middleman, Fort Langley (1827 - 1845); Middleman, Fort Victoria (1845 - 1849); Middleman or labourer, Fort Victoria (1849 - 1850); Middleman and labourer, Fort Victoria (1850 - 1851); Middleman, Fort Victoria (1851 - 1852); Labourer, Fort Victoria sales shop (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria sales shop (1852).

Louis Satakarata joined the NWC in 1814 and presumably served in the Columbia until 1821, when he joined the HBC. He then served out his career in Fort Langley and Fort Victoria until his death on September 1, 1852. Transactions were carried on his account until 1858, indicating the presence of family members in the area.

Louis had at least one recorded son, François (c.1831-c.1853). Other daughters may have been Theresa (?-?) and Louise (c.1820-1850).

PS: HBCA YFASA 3-9, 11-15, 19-20, 22-32; YFDS 2a, 3a, 6-7, 23; FtVanASA 1-6; FtVicDS 1; FtVicASA 1-5; HBCABio; BCA BCCR StAndC PPS: CCR 3a

See Also: Satakarata, Francois (probable Relative)

Saucier, Norbert (fl. 1849 - 1853) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1849 - 1850); Middleman, Fort Alexandria (1850 - 1851); Middleman, New Caledonia (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Thompson River (1852 - 1853).

Norbert Saucier joined the HBC in 1849 and worked until April 1, 1853, after which he departed the area. As his account was active for the next two years, he may have stayed in the area.

PS: HBCA YFASA 29-32; FtVicASA 1-2; FtVicDS 1; FtVanASA 9; FtAlexPJ 9

Saunders, Charles (fl. 1852 - 1853) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime officer

HBC Surgeon, Norman Morison (barque) (1852 - 1853).

Charles Saunders made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison as a ship's surgeon. During the voyage, he would have had to attend to the considerable number of immigrant labourers destined for Vancouver Island and the large crew. While on the coast, he would have visited several coastal posts.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Saunders, John Alexander [variation: Sanders] (c. 1801 - 1876) (Canadian: English)

Birth: Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1801

Death: Portland, Oregon - April 20, 1876

Freeman

HBC Freeman trapper, American Party (? – fall 1827); Freeman trader, Ogden's Snake Party (1828 - 1829); Freeman trapper, Ogden's Snake Party (1830 - 1831); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1832 - 1833); Blacksmith, Fort Vancouver (1833); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1833 - 1840); Settler, Willamette (1841+).

John Alexander Saunders, known as Jean Pierre Alexander Sanders in the Catholic Records, entered the service of the HBC in the Columbia in 1828 as a trapper. It is possible that he was with the American camp until the fall of 1827 and subsequently joined Peter S. Ogden in the Snake Country on March 3, 1828. He stayed on and was with Work's Snake party and separated from the party under a group headed by Alexander Carson on September 7, 1830. He may have continued under John Work in the Snake country but reappeared at Fort Vancouver in 1832. He served as a middleman in Fort Vancouver until June 1, 1841, when he became a settler in the Willamette River Valley and by 1842 was running a productive farm on fifty enclosed acres [20.2 ha]. There is some confusion over the time and date of the death of Saunders. In April 1876, a "70" year old Jean Pierre Alexander Sanders died at Portland and was buried in Gervais in April 20, 1876.

John A. Saunders appears to have had three successive wives and twelve recorded children. His first wife was Catherine Chinook (?-c.1836). His daughters by Catherine were Marie Anne, (c.1831-?) and Marie Sophie (1834-72). On December 29, 1838 after the apparent death or departure of Catherine, he married Susanne (Veronica?) Gameville/Yamhill 'Kope'/Klou (c.1821-42). His children by Susanne were Marguerite (1837-?), André (1839-?) and Veronica (1840-?). On May 23, 1842, two months after the death of Susanne on March 22, 1842, he married a fifteen year old Lisette (c.1827-63) from above the Grand Dalles. Their children were Jean Baptiste (1845-?), Marie Christine (1847-?), Elizabeth (1849-50), Joseph (c.1853-58), François (1856-?), Elizabeth (1858-?) and Esther (1861-?).

PS: HBCA SnkCoPJ 7, 9; YFDS 3a, 5a-7; YFASA 12-15, 19-20; FtVanASA 2-6; FtVanCB 9; HBCABio; OHS 1842 Census
PPS: CCR 1a, 2a, 3a, 3b, 3c

Saunders, John N. (fl. 1858 - 1871) (British: English)

Birth: probably in or near Bow, Middlesex, England

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1858 - 1859); Clerk, Fort Langley (1859 - 1860); Clerk in charge, Fort Alexandria (1860 - 1862).

John Saunders joined the HBC on September 1, 1858 as a clerk for five years and worked at Forts Langley and Alexandria. Latterly, his management of the place was called into question when so many quit or were discharged under him. Even though he requested to be released from his contract in the spring of 1862, he appeared to work until 1863 at which point he took up ranching in the vicinity of Fort Alexandria. By 1865, correspondence between Saunders and William Manson, then in charge of Alexandria became very heated over the ranching of Saunders horses on HBC land. In 1860, while Saunders had been working in New Caledonia, Saunders pre-empted 160 acres [64.8 ha] in the area south of Fort Langley; however, there is no evidence that he ever settled on the claim. However, on Nov. 12, 1861, he and two others pre-empted 480 acres [194.2 ha] on more familiar territory fifteen miles [24.1 km] from Alexandria on the Fraser River. By 1871, he appears to have been mining in the Williams Creek area.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; FtVicASA 6-11; FtAlexCB 1; FtVicCB 18, 23; HBCABio SS: Mallandaine, p. 77 SS: Laing, p. 170, 322

Saunders, Palm (fl. 1832 - 1856) (probably Mixed descent)

Birth: Moose River HBC District [Ontario] - 1832

Fur trade employee

HBC Boue on Athabasca River, Columbia Department general charges (1844 - 1845); Middleman, Beaver (steamer)

(1845 - 1846); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1845 - 1846).

Palm Saunders joined the HBC in 1836 and functioned as an apprentice labourer for the next six years at Rupert River. He worked as an apprentice labourer in the Moose District and Lake Superior before coming to the Columbia in outfit 1844-1845 with a contract that was to end in 1848. On his way out he acted as a route on the Athabasca River. He worked on the steamer Beaver until 1846 and in 1847 returned to Red River. From there he went to Oxford House where, in the final year of his contract and only a few weeks after his arrival, he became completely rebellious, struck an inoffensive young lad and threatened murder and vengeance who would not stop work with him. The officer in charge, Laurence Robertson, tried to reason with him but Saunders damaged the seed potatoes, again threatened Robertson and went to bed in an act of defiance. Palm Saunders was then ejected from the post. Nine years later, on March 10, 1856, he signed an additional contract at the Fort Gary/Red River Settlement to act as a fisherman for one year.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-25; YFDS 15-16; Laurence Robertson's June 1, 1847 Oxford House letter to William Mactavish, B.239/c/4, [rebellion] fos. 12-14d; HBCCont; HBCABio

Saunders, Richard (fl. 1855 - 1856) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Steward, Princess Royal (barque) (1855 - 1856).

Richard Saunders made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Saurenrego, Jean Baptiste [variation: Sauenrego, Sawenrego, Sowenrege] (fl. 1824 - 1825) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Freeman

HBC Freeman trapper, Snake Party (1824 - 1825); Freeman trapper, American Party (1825).

Jean Baptiste Saurénrego first came on fur trade records on February 10, 1824, when he was camped on the Prairie de Cheveaux outside Flathead Post. On that day he joined Alexander Ross' nine month HBC Snake Country trapping expedition, in spite of the fact that he was deemed unfit for Snake Country. He wasn't alone, for practically all the Iroquois were similarly described by Ross who was nearing the end of his fur trading career. After his return, he joined Ogden's 1824-1825 expedition into Snake Country. However, on May 24, 1825, he deserted Ogden's party for the American party, leaving his debts unpaid.

PS: HBCA SnkCoPJ 1, 2, 3a

Sauve (Laplante), Laurent [standard: Sauvé] (1794 - 1858) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Aux Deboules (Deboulie), Lower Canada - 1794

Death: St. Paul, Oregon - August 2, 1858

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1821 - 1822); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1823 - 1824); Cook, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1827); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1827); Middleman, Fort Langley (1827 - 1828); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1828 - 1829); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1829 - 1831); Cowherd, Fort Vancouver (1829 - 1831); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1831); Dairyman, Fort Vancouver (1831 - 1834); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1831 - 1834); Dairyman, Fort Vancouver (1831 - 1834); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1834 - 1837); Cowherd, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1842); Cowherd, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1844); Settler, Willamette (1844 - 1846+).

Laurent Sauvé (Laplante) joined the fur trade around 1817. A July 7, 1822 contract signed at Norway House shows him working in the Mackenzie River area. In 1823-1824, he appeared in the New Caledonia area from another district, probably Mackenzie, for in the following outfit, he was back in the area. He was in on the construction of Fort Langley but spent most of his career in the Fort Vancouver area. He was placed in charge of the HBC's dairy herds (one-hundred cows with three-hundred additional cattle) on Wappato Island, which was renamed Sauvie's Island after him. He retired in 1844, moving to French Prairie where he carried on with his own farm; and, in outfit 1844-1845 he ran an account with the Company. He died in 1858 and was buried in St. Paul.

Laurent Sauvé had two successive wives and two children. He first married native Josephite, Tlalam/Tsik, (?-1848), by whom he had two children, Catherine (c.1839-52) and John (?-1848). Following her death, around May, 1848, he married Françoise Walla Walla/Cayouse on April 9, 1850, widow of Thomas Tawakon and Paul Builbault.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFDS 1a, 2a, 3a-7; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-6; YFASA 1, 4, 7-9, 11, 13-15, 19, 20, 22-25; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion Co. PPS: CCR 2b SS: McArthur, Oregon Geographic Names; Spencer, p. 43-47
See Also: Sauve, Leon (probable Relative); Champagne, Joseph (Son-in-Law)

Sauve (Laplane), Leon [standard: Sauvé] (1802 - 1833) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Vaudreuil, Lower Canada - 1802

Death: Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - May 1833

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1825 - 1829); Middleman, Thompson River (1829 - 1830); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1831); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1832); Middleman, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1832 - 1833); Ploughing, Fort Vancouver (1833).

Leon Sauvé (Laplane) joined the HBC in 1825 as a middleman and was working as a freeman in 1830-1831. He died at Fort Vancouver in May, 1833 of unspecified causes.

PS: HBCA YFASA 5-9, 11-13; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-2; YFDS 3a-5b; FtVanCB 9

See Also: Sauve, Laurent (probable Relative)

Savage, Frederick (fl. 1852 - 1853) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Cook, Norman Morison (barque) (1852 - 1853).

Frederick Savage made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison. While on the coast he liked what he saw and wanted to stay and so married Jane Froud, the former dairy maid to Thomas Skinner. However, because he could not find a substitute cook to replace him for the return voyage, Savage and his new bride had to make the return voyage together to the British Isles. They did not appear to return to settle. (It is possible that he was related to William Savage, whose wife was also a milk maid.)

Frederick Savage married Jane Froud on February 19, 1853 in an Anglican ceremony in Victoria.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; FtVicCB 6

Savard, Joseph (c. 1819 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1819

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1840 - 1841); Seaman, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1842); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1842 - 1843); Untraced vocation, Beaver (steamer) (1843 - 1844); Middleman, Fort Stikine (1844 - 1845); Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1845).

Joseph Savard was at Fort Vancouver when he joined the HBC's Columbia as a seaman in 1840. He spent the majority of his time on coastal work from California to Alaska and returned east of the Rockies to Canada in 1845; his contract ended in 1846. There is a possibility he stayed at Nisqually until 1846.

PS: HBCA log of Columbia 4; ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 20, 22-24; YFDS 11; FtVanASA 6-7; S. A. Anderson, The Physical Structure, p. 167-68

Savoie, Jean Baptiste [variation: Sovoie] (c. 1811 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1811

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1836 - 1837); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1837).

Montrealer Jean Baptiste Savoie (Sovoie) joined the HBC in 1836 on a three-year contract. However, in 1837, presumably before the end of his contract in 1839, he deserted at the American Rendezvous.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 3-4; YFDS 7; YFASA 17

Sawagata (Sagogetsu), Charles (c. 1851 - 1853) (Native: possibly Iroquois)

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1850 - 1851); Boute, Columbia Department general charges (1851 - 1853).

Charles Sawagata appears to have joined the HBC in 1850 on a contract that ended in 1853.

PS: HBCA YFASA 30-32

Sayer, Pierre Guillaume (c. 1796 - c. 1849) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Fond du Lac [Saskatchewan] - c. 1796 (born to John Sayer and Obemau-unoqua (Nancy?))Death: after May 1849Fur trade employee*HBC Bowsman, New Caledonia (1825 - 1826); Bowsman, Columbia Department (1826 - 1827).

Pierre Guillaume Sayer made legal history in Canada. According to his biographer, when his father returned to Lower Canada in about 1806, Pierre stayed in the Fond du Lac region with his mother, integrating with other mixed descent children. He joined the NWC in 1818, the year his father died, and came to New Caledonia from Athabasca in 1825. He appeared to get in trouble more than once for around that time he forfeited his wages, having deserted at Fort Laloche on September 1, 1825 along with friends Peter Grant and Ignace McDonell. The three obviously made their way into New Caledonia for according to William Connolly's undated Fort St. James journal entry in outfit 1825-1826, Sayer was hanging around with his three friends of British parentage:

Three Rascals are Pierre Guillaume Sayer, Peter Grant and Ignace McDonnell all three half Breeds. They stole three new Guns out of a case which they broke open (FtStJmsPJ 5).

Understandably, he did not receive wages in outfit 1825-1826. After one more outfit on the Pacific slopes, he returned to Red River where he married and began to farm. In the 1840s he was caught taking furs and selling them within the HBC monopoly. When he came to trial in 1849, he claimed the furs he sold in Pembina (ND) were exchanges for presents with relatives. Although he was found guilty, he was not punished as he firmly believed that the Metis had been "permitted to trade freely" (Morton, p. 777) from 1821. Sayer's acquittal effectively broke or severely damaged the HBC monopoly.

In 1835 Pierre Guillaume Sayer married Josette Frobisher, the mixed descent daughter of Alexander Frobisher and a native woman. They had seven boys and six girls.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 5a; YFASA 4-6; YFDS 1b; FtStJmsPJ 5; HBCAbio SS: DCB Morton; Morin; Sprague & Frye; Van Kirk, "Many Tender Ties", p. 80

Sayer, Robert [variation: Thomas] (fl. 1830 - 1835) (British: English)

Birth: probably British IslesMaritime employee*HBC Apprentice, Dryad (brig) (1830); Apprentice, Naval Department (1830 - 1832); Apprentice, Lama (brig) (1832 - 1833); Apprentice, Fort Simpson naval service (1833 - 1834); Apprentice, Nereide (barque) (1834 - 1835).

Robert Sayer, a Greenwich Hospital apprentice variously called Robert and Thomas in the records, joined the HBC as an apprentice seaman around 1830, likely coming to the Northwest Coast on the Dryad. There, stationed at Fort Simpson, he served out his apprenticeship in coastal shipping until April 30, 1834, when he joined the Nereide and eventually departed on it for England. He would have arrived in London in May 1835.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 14; log of Nereide 1; FtVanASA 2; YFDS 4a-5c; YFASA 11-14

Scarborough, James Allan (1805 - 1855) (British: English)

Birth: probably in or near Stafford, Essex, England - 1805 (born to James and Anne Scarborough)Death: probably Chinook, Washington Territory - February 4, 1855Maritime officer*HBC 2nd mate, Isabella (brig) (1829 - 1830); 2nd mate, Dryad (brig) (1830 - 1831); 1st mate, Cadboro (schooner) (1831 - 1832); 1st mate, Dryad (brig) (1832); 2nd mate, Lama (brig) (1832 - 1833); 1st mate, Lama (brig) (1833 - 1836); 1st mate, Nereide (barque) (1836 - 1837); 1st mate, Beaver (steamer) (1837 - 1838); Captain, Cadboro (schooner) (1838 - 1847); Captain, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1847 - 1850).

James Scarborough joined the HBC on October 31, 1829 and was appointed second mate and boatswain of the Isabella. (The ship was lost the following year.) In 1832 John McLoughlin Sr. claimed there were several complaints about him because he didn't have the respect of the men and appeared to be fond of liquor. In spite of the implied incompetence, his sketch of Camosun Harbour (Victoria) was considered good enough to be copied by Lieut. M. Vavasour of the Royal Engineers. Also he was cleared of any charges of misconduct in the mutiny on the Beaver in 1838. In 1842, George Simpson was annoyed that Scarborough took his family on board the Cadboro when it was against Company rules. He was continually promoted and, by 1849, already had a functioning farm at the mouth of the Columbia. He was discharged July 23, 1850 when he began to act "as one bereft of reason" (FtVanCB 39, fo. 47d) and went to his claim at Chinook Point. He then acted as a bar pilot until his death. He died intestate, a widower, in 1855, and was survived by Edwin and Robert, two of his four sons, who were left in the care of James Birnie. His farm, a conspicuous landmark for approaching vessels, consisted of fruit trees and a large herd of cattle and was reputedly cultivated by his wife. He introduced pigs and Shanghai chickens from China and also took pains to bring ornamental shrubbery, perhaps introducing the "Mission Rose." Stories persist, most likely because of his sea-faring background, of his lost grave and a buried treasure.

James Scarborough had one wife and six children. On October 30, 1843, Scarborough formalized his marriage to Paley TemaiKamae/Ann Elizabeth (c.1812-52), a native Chinook, at Fort Vancouver. Their recorded children were James (1842-?), John (c.1843-?) Charles (c.1845-49), Xavier (c.1846-?), Edwin (c.1847-?) and Robert (1851-?).

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Isabella 1; ShMiscPap 14; FtVanASA 2—9; YFASA 11-15, 17-20, 24-30; YFDS 4b-7, 18, 21; log of Dryad 1; FtVanCB 8, 23, 39, P. S. Ogden's June 19, 1850 Fort Vancouver letter to A. Barclay, fo. 47d; Scarborough's sketch of Camosan [Victoria] harbour HBCA, map folder, 408; HBCA log of Columbia 10; Wills; HBCA James Allan Scarborough search file; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Lewis Co. PPS: ChSoc IV, p. 355-56; ChSoc VI, p. 294; Labonte, p. 265; CCR 1b, 1c SS: Hussey, Chinook Point, p. 17-21

Scarth, James [variation: Jimmie] (c. 1790 - early 1870s) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Leith, Edinburgh, Scotland - c. 1790

Death: probably Washington Territory, United States - 1870

Fur trade employee

HBC Carpenter, Columbia (barque) (1839 - 1841); Carpenter, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1851); Carpenter, Fort Nisqually (1851 - 1853); Pensioner, Fort Nisqually (1851 - 1853); "Blind", Fort Nisqually (1853 - 1855); Pensioner, Fort Nisqually (1855 - 1867).

James Scarth spent his younger years as a foreman in a shipyard of the East India Company in one of the large river cities in the East Indies. Part of his job was marking teak trees in the forest to be cut up for ships. On September 17, 1839 when he was in his late forties, he joined the HBC as a ship's carpenter. During the next ten years at Fort Vancouver he worked on ships that moored near the fort as, for example, on November 25, 1844 he was noted as cutting planks for the schooner Cadboro and March 5, 1845, doing carpentry work on the same ship. During these years, he also worked out of Fort George/Astoria. In 1845 he built a model of a ship to replace the aging, leaky Cadboro. What transpired, his pride and joy, was the eight-four ton schooner Prince of Wales which sailed very well, although many people "thought her a very ugly dry-goods-box like craft, more like a barge than a ship" (Huggins, p. 156). By 1851, although he was still listed as a ship's carpenter, he may have begun to go blind (he was quite blind by 1853) and was rewarded for his previous good work with the use of a little house near the beach store at Fort Nisqually. Now married and sporting a gray mane, the pensioner spun wildly entertaining tales of his early life in India and Burma, where he claimed he was part of the Burmese War. According to Huggins, people came from long distances just to pry him with alcohol for his stories. Sometimes the alcohol, which he also distributed, got the better of him for, on February 3, 1853, "Jimmie", as he was referred to at this time, was beaten up and severely injured by Gukynum (Cut-face Charlie) when the latter found himself cut off from Jimmie's supply. Gukynum was arrested, taken to the bastion and flogged. Tough old Scarth healed and for the next three years continued living with his wife and child in his little house, receiving and entertaining friends. On October 21, 1856, he was brought up from the house on the beach into Fort Nisqually as wife Nancy had left him and he had no one to care for him. Three years later she died and Jimmie lived within the fort until at least 1863. He died in the early 1870s.

James Scarth had one wife and one recorded daughter. On July 9, 1850, probably in Victoria, he married Nancy (c.1812-59), a native who had been a slave amongst the Chinook Indians. Nancy died on July 5, 1859. They had a daughter who was also called Nancy (c.1847-?).

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Columbia 4; ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 20, 22-32; FtVanASA 9-17; YFDS 11; FtVicDS 1; FtVicASA 9-15; log of Cadboro 5; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Lewis Co.; BCA BCCR CCCath; TacP-FtNis Huggins PPS: HBRS XXXII, p. 7; Huggins, "Reminiscences of Puget," p. 155-58 SS: S. A. Anderson, The Physical Structure, p. 174-180

Schmidt, John (fl. 1851 - 1852) (probably British or German)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1851 - 1852).

John Schmidt made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison. While on the coast, he would have visited several coastal posts.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Schrivver, Charles (fl. 1834 - 1835) (probably American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Fur trade employee

CRFTC Employee, Fort Hall (1834 - 1835).

Charles Schriver joined the Nathaniel J. Wyeth expedition of 1834 as part of a group to establish the Columbia River Fishing and Trading Company on the Pacific slopes to function in opposition to the HBC. Schriver, who may have joined the expedition en route, left the expedition on the upper Snake River, near the mouth of the Portneuf River, to build a CRFTC trading post which they called Fort Hall. Schriver may have gone out on hunting parties that fall and winter from the post and may have departed for an unknown location in the summer of 1835.

PS: OHS FtHallAB SS: O. Russell, p. 157

Schuyler, Robert Sutton (fl. 1840 - 1842) (British: English)

Birth: probably London, England

Maritime employee

HBC Apprentice, Columbia (barque) (1837 - 1842).

Robert Schuyler served out his apprenticeship from London on the HBC's vessel Columbia. He made two return voyages to the coast.

PS: HBCA log of Columbia 3; ShMiscPap 14; YFDS 11; YFASA 20-21; FtVanASA 6-7

Scott, Hiram (? - 1827) (American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Death: "Scott's Bluff" [Nebraska]s – Fall of 1827

Fur trade employee

Ash. Fur trader, Rendezvous (1827).

Accurate details of Hiram Scott's later life are difficult to come by as the story of his last years is somewhat legendary. According to Gowans, on April 12, 1827, Scott and James Bruffee left St. Louis in charge of a group of forty-six of Ashley & Co.'s men heading for the 1827 Rendezvous. Others have put Scott's adventure before. The group dragged along a four pounder cannon on wheels for protection. On the return from the Rendezvous on the Platt River, Scott became so ill that he was left behind by Bruffee with two companions who were to take him out. Bruffee waited downstream but finally gave up and continued on his way. When Scott and his two companions finally arrived at Bruffee's location, Bruffee had already left. As Scott was in a bad way, he was left to die and was devoured by wolves. Another version has Scott's two companions deserting him and an ill Scott crawling sixty miles [96.6 km] before he died. His bones were found the following year by William Sublette and David Jackson; this area was then named Scott's Bluff [Nebraska].

PS: MHS Campbell SS: Irving, The Adventures of Captain, p. 41-42; Gowans, p. 33, 36, 37; Chittenden, p. 467-68

Scott, John (c. 1827 - ?) (Canadian: English)

Birth: probably Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1827

Fur trade employee

HBC Officer's servant, Fort Colville (1845 - 1847); District cook, Fort Colville (1847 - 1848).

John Scott joined the HBC from Montreal in 1845 on a three-year contract retiring in 1848.

PS: HBCA YFASA 25-27; YFDS 16-18

Scott, John [b] (? - 1849) (British)

Birth: Stanay or Stranay, British Isles

Death: Columbia Department, Pacific Northwest - 1849

Fur trade officer

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1847); Labourer, Columbia Department general charges (1848 - 1849).

John Scott [b], from Stanay or Stranay (York Factory 1849-1850), joined the HBC in 1847 and came over the Rockies in 1848. His contract was to have ended in 1852, but his career was cut short as he died in 1849 of unspecified causes.

PS: HBCA log of Prince Rupert V 8; YFASA 28-29; YFDS 19

Scott, Thomas (1801 - ?) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: Harray Orkney, United Kingdom - March 15, 1801 (born to Magnus Scott and Marjery Anderson)

Death: probably Orkney, United Kingdom

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1842); Blacksmith, Columbia Department general charges (1844 - 1845); Blacksmith, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1847); Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1847).

Thomas Scott was forty-one years old when he was hired by the HBC on June 1, 1842 on a five-year contract. Up to that time he had been living with his father as a blacksmith on their Fursbreck farm. Scott's reasons for signing up were no doubt to acquire capital to start a family for, on March 15, 1842, three months before he signed up, he married in Harray. The newly married Scott left his pregnant wife on June 29th, and sailed to York Factory to begin the journey overland. He arrived at Fort Vancouver in outfit 1844-1845 where he worked at any one of the four forges and four anvils with the other smithies in the blacksmith's shop within the palisades. At the end of his contract in 1847, after more than two uneventful years of making nails and other such items at the fort, he made his way back over the Rockies and returned to the British Isles on the ship Prince Rupert. Back in the Orkneys, he purchased land and, by 1861, was living in Sunnybank with his wife and children.

Thomas Scott had one wife and four children. On March 15, 1842, he married Mary Smith (c.1817-?) and together they had four children: Jane (c.1843-?), Margaret (c.1850-?), Mary (c.1853-?) and Thomas (c.1854-?).

PS: OrkA OPR; OrkA Cen1841, Orkney-Harray, Cen1861 Orkney-Birsay; HBCA log of Prince Rupert V 1, 8; HBCCont; YFASA 24-27

Scouler, Dr. John [variation: Scoller] (fl. 1824 - 1826) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Glasgow, Scotland

Maritime officer

HBC Surgeon, William & Ann (brig) (July 25, 1824 - 1826); Naturalist, William & Ann (brig) (July 25, 1824 - 1826).

Dr. John Scouler, of Glasgow, was noted for his observations, largely of fauna on the Pacific Northwest coast, while he was surgeon aboard the William & Ann [Capt. Henry Hanwell, Jr.]. In 1824, Scouler was hired as a surgeon by the HBC which, by allowing the Glasgow doctor to pursue his hobby of exploring the natural history of the area, would further the company's commercial interests. He left Gravesend on July 25, 1824 on the William & Ann in the company of Scottish botanist David Douglas who, although he had been hired by the Royal Horticultural Society, was also under the aegis of the HBC. After arriving at Cape Disappointment on April 3, 1825, the ship took almost a week to enter the Columbia because of bad weather. Subsequently, Scouler stopped at both Forts George [Astoria] and Vancouver and, on April 30, at Oak Point, where, because the doctor ran into one of the Gervais brothers taking his very ill daughter to Fort George, wrote a prescription so that Fort George clerk, Alexander McKenzie, could administer the correct medicines. The fate of the child is unknown. Scouler stayed on the ship and, in June, while Douglas headed inland, Scouler sailed up the coast, stopping at the Queen Charlotte Islands, where, on July 26, 1825, he met Captains John Kelly of the Omyhyhee and Seth Barker of the Volunteer. After sailing to Dundas Island and the Nass area, he headed south to Nootka, where, on July 30, he met Macquinna and his two sons. The Nootka chief recognized a picture of John Meares which Scouler had with him (probably the lithograph portrait of Meares from his, Voyages, published in 1790). At the beginning of August, he arrived back at Fort George on the William & Ann but sailed north again. On August 28, off Tatooche Island, a slave, who had been sold to the local natives by the notorious Captain George Washington Ayers, came aboard. Some time after October 22, 1825, after gathering more specimens and making more observations along the coast, Scouler sailed back to England on the William & Ann with many of Douglas' specimens, while Douglas remained in the area. During his stay, the HBC was pressed into service collecting specimens for John Work, who was noted as having gathered seeds and flowers for Douglas, and quite possibly Scouler. Scouler has not been traced after arriving back in the U.K.

PS: HBCA SnkCoPJ 3a; FtVanPJ 1; log of William & Ann 1 PPS: Scouler, "Account of a Voyage"; Scouler, "Journal of a Voyage", p. 159-205; Scouler, Observations on, p. 215-50; Scouler & Douglas, p. 378-80; D. Douglas, Journal, p. 77, 146

Scudder, Thomas (fl. 1852 - 1857) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Fur trade employee

HBC Steerage passenger, Norman Morison (barque) (1852 - 1853); Shepherd, Fort Victoria (1853 - 1854); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1853 - 1854); Shepherd, Belle Vue Sheep Farm (1854 - 1857); Labourer, Belle Vue Sheep Farm (1854 - 1857).

Thomas Scudder came to the Pacific Coast along with HBC sponsored settlers on the Norman Morison. After arriving in January 1853, he worked briefly at Fort Victoria before starting work on San Juan Island as a shepherd. He goes of record in 1857.

PS: HBCA log of Norman Morison 3; YFASA 32; FtVicASA 1-5; BelleVuePJ 1

Seguin (Laderoute), Xavier [variation: LeDeroute, Lad route] (1800 - 1864) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Vaudreuil, Lower Canada - 1800

Death: Washington Territory, United States - December 17, 1864

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia District (1821 - 1824); Middleman, Columbia Department (1824 - 1826); Middleman, Snake Party (1825 - 1827); Member, York Factory Express (HBC) (1827 - 1828); Middleman, South Party (1828 - 1831); Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1831 - 1833); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1833 - 1834); Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1835 - 1836); Farmer, Willamette (1836 - 1837); Settler, Willamette (1837 - 1842).

Xavier Seguin joined the fur trade in 1819 from Vaudreuil and was with the HBC as early as 1820-1821. He went to the Columbia in 1822 and worked on various expeditions, gave a one year notice of his retirement in 1828, and became a freeman in 1831. Little is recorded of him except in December 1826, when he fell behind and Alexander Roderick McLeod had to go to his assistance. He eventually settled in the Willamette Valley in the late 1830s, and later voted against the establishment of a Provisional Government in 1843. He settled on a claim near Fairfield in 1847 and was listed as a farmer in 1854. Xavier Seguin (Laderoute) died in 1864.

François Xavier Seguin (Laderoute) had two successive wives and fifteen recorded children. Laderoute's first wife was Julie Gervais (c.1820-45), daughter of his neighbour, Joseph Gervais. According to the Catholic Records, he was "married by Jason Lee, the Methodist missionary, in 1838 and frequently mentioned by him." The marriage was later reenacted by Father Blanchet on January 23, 1839. Their four recorded children were Joseph (c.1835-?), Victoire (c.1837), Isadore (1841-?), and François Xavier (1844-?). After Julie died on July 11, 1845, he chose Marie Anne Ouvre as a wife. The eleven recorded children by Marie Ann were Julien (1846-?), Julie (1847-48), Louis (1849-?), Gedeon (1851-?), Christine (1853-?), François (1854-?), Charles (1856-?), William (1859-?) David (1861-?), Marie (c.1863-?) and Hyacinthe Jeremie (1864-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 1-9, 11-14; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-6; YFDS 2a-3b, 4b-5b, 6, 10-11; HBCABio; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion Co. PPS: HBRS XIII, p. 261; HBRS XXIII, p. 197; E. Ermatinger, p. 105, 113; CCR 1a, 2a, 2b, 3a SS: Holman, p. 116

Seirer, Toussaint [variation: Seirez] (c. 1804 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lachine, Lower Canada - c. 1804

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1837 - 1840).

Toussaint Seirer joined the HBC in 1837 from Lachine on a three-year contract and returned east in the fall of 1840.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 4-5; YFASA 17, 19-20

Selahoanay, Rhene [standard: Rhené] [variation: Salahoang, Salahong, Selahoany] (c. 1791 - 1854) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lac Des Deux Montagnes [Lake of Two Mountains], Lower Canada - c. 1791

Death: Fort Alexandria - January 15, 1854

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1823 - 1824); Steersman, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825); Bowsmen, New Caledonia (1825 - 1830); Canoe maker, New Caledonia (1830 - 1831); Bowsmen, Fort Vancouver general charges (1831 - 1832); Bowsmen, New Caledonia (1832 - 1835); Bowsmen, New Caledonia (1835 - 1836); Boute, New Caledonia (1836 - 1842); Guide, New Caledonia (1842 - 1844); Guide, Fort Alexandria (1844 - 1845); Guide and bote, New Caledonia (1845 - 1847); Boute, New Caledonia (1847 - 1850); Boute, Fort Alexandria (1850 - 1852); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1852 - 1853); Boute, Columbia Department (1853 - 1854).

Rhené Selahoanay worked off and on as a freeman for the HBC. He worked generally as a bowsmen but in outfit 1829-1830 was given a gratuity for making canoes. He was a guide on the Fraser River in 1845-1846. At his death in 1854, Douglas declared him an old and faithful servant; Selahoanay's possessions were sold and the proceeds went to his estate. Movement on his account for the next three years indicated surviving family in the area.

Rhene Selahonay had an unnamed wife and one child Jean Baptiste (c.1836-?). His wife died May 21, 1844 at Fort Alexandria having suffered for a long time from "common leprosy in the country" (FtAlexPJ 6, fo. 4d). Jean Baptiste appears to have worked casually for the HBC.

PS: HBCA FtStJmsLS 1; YFASA 4-5, 7-9, 11-15, 17, 19-20, 22-32; FtAlexPJ 6, 8; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-6; YFDS 1a, 3a-7, 16; FtVicASA 1-6; FtVicCB 10; BCA FtAlex 1

Sereurier, Jeremie [variation: Jerrimie, Jeremiah, Gereme Serurier, Surrurier, Serrurier] (c. 1831 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: Lachine, Lower Canada - c. 1831 (born to Pierre Serrurier and Françoise LaSalle)

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1848 - 1849); Woodcutter, Fort Simpson (1849 - 1850); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1850 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Beaver (steamer) (1852 - 1853); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1853 - 1854); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1854 - 1860); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1861 - 1862); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1864 - 1865); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1869).

Jeremie Sereurier joined the HBC in 1848 and came west over the Rockies that year. He spent most of his twenty-three year career with the Company at Fort Simpson where he deserted several times, each time voluntarily returning to work. In the latter years, his work was sporadic. He may have moved in part to Metlakatla and periodically visited Victoria where he looked after family matters.

Jeremie Sereurier appears to have had two wives and four recorded children. At Fort Simpson his wife delivered a baby girl (1852-1852) and male twins (1853-?), one of whom died (1853-1853). On January 3, 1854, while on a visit to Fort Victoria, he married Lucie (?-?), Nass. On April 21, 1863, while on another visit to Victoria, a daughter, Lucie (?-?) was baptised. There may have been other children. By 1872, he was a widower and married Betsey (Wesquatahs), Gitlan on February 12, 1872 at Metlakatla, B. C. No further children have been traced.

PS: HBCA YFASA 28-32; YFDS 19-20; FtVicASA 1-10, 12-14; FtSimp[N]PJ 7-8; BCA BCCR StAndC; Diar-Rem Morison; BCGR-Marriage

Servant, Jacques (c. 1796 - 1854) (Canadian: French)

Birth: Vaudreuil, Lower Canada - c. 1796 (born to Jacques Servant and Josephte Charlebois)

Death: St. Paul, Oregon - June 2, 1854

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1817); Middleman, Columbia Department (1821); HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1821 - 1824); Middleman, Thompson River/Fort Okanagan (1822 - 1823); Middleman, New Caledonia (1823 - 1826); Middleman, Fort Colville (1826 - 1828); Middleman, Fort Colville (1828 - 1834); Boute, Fort Colville (1834 - 1837); Middleman, Fort Nez Perces (1837 - 1839); Middleman and boute, Fort Nez Perces (1839 - 1840); Boute, Fort Nez Perces (1840 - 1841); NWC Settler, Willamette (1841 - 1854).

Jacques Servant joined the fur trade in 1817 but his family tradition says that he came a few years earlier with Etienne Lucier and Louis Labonte and with Astorian overlander Wilson Price Hunt although he shows up on neither the Hunt overland records or the 1813-1814 Astoria/Fort George records. He is on record, however, crossing the Rockies onto the Pacific Slopes with Jacques LaRocque in 1817. He subsequently appeared on record in 1821 in New Caledonia, worked approximately eleven years in Fort Colville and four years at Fort Nez Perces. He worked with the HBC until November 30, 1841 at which point he became a settler in the Willamette. He still maintained his loyalty to the HBC for he voted against the establishment of a Provisional Government in 1843. Servant took a claim in the central area of French Prairie in the St. Paul parish, raised a large family and died at St. Paul in 1854 at his residence.

Jacques Servant had one wife and eight recorded children. On January 8, 1842, he formalized his marriage to Josephte Sinemaule (c.1815-?), Nez Perce (also called Okanogan). Their children were Marie Anne/Magdalen (c.1825-1863), Marie (c.1830-?), Marguerite (c.1833-1848), Antoine (c.1836-?), Angelique (1838-1849), Pierre (c.1841-1887), Elizabeth (1843-1845), Josette/Josephte (1845-1857) François Xavier (?-1847), and Moise (1850-1879). His widow married Pierre Lacourse I on August 4, 1856.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 2, 9; YFASA 1-9, 11-15, 19-21; FtKampPJ 1; YFDS 2a, 3a-3b, 4b-7, 12; FtVanASA 1-6; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion Co.; OHS Statesman, June 13, 1854, p. 3 PPS: CCR 1a, 2a, 2b, 2c SS: Holman, p. 116
See Also: Jeaudoins, Charles (Son-in-Law); Lacourse, Pierre (Relative)

Seton, Alfred (c. 1793 - 1859) (American: Scottish)

Birth: New York, New York - c. 1793 (born to James and Mary [Hoffman] Seton)

Death: New York, New York - May 22, 1859

Fur trade employee

PFC Passenger, Beaver (ship) (1811 - 1812); Employee, Snake Country (1812 - 1813); Clerk, Fort George [Astoria] (1812 - 1813); Clerk, Fort George [Astoria] (1813 - 1814).

After studying two years at Columbia College, and because he came from a genteel New York mercantile family, Alfred Seton joined John Jacob Astor's PFC for five years in the hope that he could return an independent gentleman. He arrived at Fort Astoria on May 9, 1812 on the Beaver [Cornelius Sowle]. Upon his arrival, he headed north with David Stuart, William Wallace Matthews and Donald McGillis to establish a post on the Thompson River. In late spring or early summer of that year, he went with Donald McKenzie to the Snake River area, returning in January, 1813. He spent the rest of the winter at Wallace House in the Willamette and, on March 20, he returned to Fort Astoria. In the last part of 1813 and the first part of 1814, he was in the interior. On April 2, 1814, he left on the Pedlar, was captured in California and taken to San Blas, crossed the Isthmus and arrived in Carthagena, Colombia poverty stricken. He told his story to British naval Capt. Benthams who gave him a passage to Jamaica. From there he managed to get to New York where he carried on trade with South America. By 1828 he was a fur merchant in Manhattan and in the 1830s, was the principal backer of Captain Benjamin Louis Eulalie de Bonneville's expedition (1832-1835). In 1841, Seton left the fur business for the marine insurance business when he and a group of New Yorkers formed the successful Sun Mutual Insurance Company. He held various positions within the Company and the underwriting trade until 1859, the year he died.

Alfred Seton had one wife and at least two children. In 1819, he married Frances Barnewall (?-?). The children's names have not been traced.

Published Manuscripts: Seton's 1811-15 journal was lent to (and apparently kept by) Washington Irving when the latter was composing Astoria between 1834-36, and resurfaced only in 1847 as a water-stained mice eaten notebook, now faithfully restored. Seton also wrote of his adventures in two installments (May and July, 1835) called "Life on the Oregon," in the American Monthly Magazine edited by his cousin, Charles F. Hoffman.
PS: HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: R. F. Jones; ChSoc LVII, p. 659, 672, 692, 692n, 698; ChSoc XLV, p. 112, 115, 118, 128, 145, 194-95; Seton, "Life on the Oregon" SS: Irving, The Adventures of Captain, p. 17

Seutchineele, Pierre (fl. 1825) (probably Native or Mixed descent)

Free trader

U.A. Freeman trapper, Rendezvous (1825).

Pierre Seutchineele appeared on the records as acquiring several goods at the 1825 Rendezvous at Henry's Fork [Wyoming] from William Ashley, who had brought them overland from St. Louis. Given his name, he is likely a native from one of the east coast or Great Lakes nations. Nothing else is known of Seutchineele, who probably attended other Rendezvous as well as continued trapping in the Rocky Mountains.

PS: MHS Ashley 1

Sevaret, Lewis (? - 1817) (Undetermined origin)

Death: Fort George [Astoria], Oregon - January 7, 1817Other

NWC Untraced vocation, Fort George [Astoria] (1817).

Nothing is known of Lewis Sevaret, other than he died at Fort George January 7, 1817.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 4

Sevigny, Augustin [variation: Sevinger] (fl. 1849 - 1853) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1849 - 1850); Middleman, New Caledonia (1850 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Thompson River (1852 - 1853).

Augustin Sevigny joined the HBC in 1849 and departed Thompson River on April 1, 1853 a short time after the end of his contract. Movement on his account for the next two years indicate that he may have stayed a short time in the area.

PS: HBCA YFASA 29-32; FtVicDS 1; FtVicASA 1-3; FtVanASA 9; FtAlexPJ 9

Shaegoskatsta (Le Frise), Louis [variation: Shoegoskatsta, Shoegosthansta, Shargashatsh, Maranda] (1796 - ?) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - 1796Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1816 - 1818); HBC Trapper, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1821 - 1822); Middleman, Pacific slopes (1822 - 1826); Boule or steersman, Thompson River (1826 - 1827); Middleman and boule to York Factory, Fort Vancouver (1827 - 1828); Trapper, South Party (1828 - 1831); Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1831 - 1836); Trapper, South Party (1836 - 1844).

Louis Shaegoskatsta, with the nomenclature of le frise or "curly", entered the fur trade around 1815 and first appeared on record in the Columbia in 1816 with wages going to his mother. In 1827, at Thompson River, Archibald McDonald noted that Shaegoskatsta was "a most submissive man, but not adapted for the duty of this place" (HBRS X, p. 229) and in 1828, he gave a one year notice to retire from his regular contract. From that time on, he spent the majority of his time on southern expeditions and was a freeman in 1832. It was around this time that he met his wife Churatheia or Louise, a Kalapuya native. When he retired around 1844-1845 he appeared to use the name Maranda and appeared to stay in the area until 1847 but then disappeared from record.

Louis Shaegoskatsta had one wife and two recorded children. On July 12, 1839, he legitimized his marriage to Louise, Kalapuya or Churatheia (c.1814-?). Their children were Marie Anne (c.1832-?) and Michel (c.1836-?). Marie Anne later married Joseph, the stepson of Jean Baptiste Brulez and, upon Joseph's death, Jean Baptiste Vautrin.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 1; HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 4, 10; YFASA 2-9, 11-16, 19-20, 22-26; FtKamPJ 2; YFDS 2a-3b, 4b-7; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-6 PPS: E. Ermatinger, p. 105, 113; HBRS X, p. 229; CCR 1a, 2b

Shanagrate, Louis [standard: Shanagraté] [variation: Shanagaraté, Shanagoronte] (? - 1835) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: possibly Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada

Death: Columbia Department, Pacific Northwest - September 1835Freeman

NWC Employee, Columbia Department (1816 - 1818); HBC Freeman trapper, Columbia Department (1822 - 1823); Hunter, Snake Party (1826 - 1827); Trapper, South Party (1828 - 1831); Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1831 - 1835).

Louis Shanagraté joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] on June 1, 1814 to serve as a steersman at Fort William. Two years later, he was in the Columbia, having his wages paid to his wife. Thereafter, his appearance in the records was sporadic but, as a freeman he likely depended, to some extent, on trade with the HBC to support his family. He worked on the Snake Expedition of 1826 as a hunter but spent much of his time getting food for his family. He died of a burst blood vessel in his lung around September 1, 1835 for that was the date that Dr. John McLoughlin called on Jason Lee to perform the service. According to Hussey, he likely had a farm at Champoege.

Upon his death he was a widower and left three children, Isabel (?-1837), Joseph (?-?) and Nicholas (?-1835) and four Indian slaves, Look-tu (?-?), Car-toosh (?-?), Mah-loo-ah Ahikalt (?-?) and Solomon (?-?), in the care of the Protestant Mission on the Willamette. Shortly after the slaves died or ran away and two of his children also died.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWC 1, 2; FtGeo[Ast]AB 10; John McLoughlin's March 20, 1827 letter to George Simpson, fo. 52d; FtVanASA 2-3; YFDS 3a-3b, 4a-6; YFASA 11, 13-16; HBCABio PPS: Shephard, p. 84-85 SS: Hussey, Champoege: Place of, p. 76; Munnick, p. 26

Shannon, James (fl. 1822 - 1823) (possibly American)Birth: probably United States of America*Maritime employee

U.A. Seaman, Onyhee (brig) (1822 - 1823).

James Shannon was first tracked in the Sandwich Islands on January 21, 1822 when he was hired by the new captain of the Onyhee, Eliab Grimes. Just how he got to Oahu is unknown. Shannon was with the vessel as it traded on the Northwest Coast in 1822-1823.

PS: CU-B log of Inore/Eagle SS: Howay, A List of Trading Vessels

Sharing [variation: Shaving] (fl. 1840 - 1845) (probably Hawaiian)Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands*Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1840 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1843 - 1844); Labourer, Beaver (steamer) (1844 - 1845); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1845 - 1846).

Sharing joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840 and worked at Forts Nez Percés and Vancouver and as a woodcutter on the Beaver. As his contract ended in 1845, he worked until December 31, 1845, at which point he returned to Oahu, where he was paid off.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-25; FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 16; SandIsAB 5

Shatackoani, Jacques [variation: Sho-ta-co-any, Shota-co-any, Shatackhoane, Shaseaseroani, Thathaine] (fl. 1810 - 1830) (Native: Iroquois)Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada*Freeman

NWC Bowsman, Fort George [Astoria] (winter 1813 - 1814); Bowsman, Brigade to Fort William (1814); Employee, Pacific slopes (1818 - 1819); HBC Freeman, Fort George [Astoria] (1822 - 1823); Bowsman, South Party (1828 - 1830).

Jacques Shatackoani joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] on May 6, 1810 to work in Temiscaming. While in Montreal in 1811 he signed a further contract and was at Fort George [Astoria] during winter 1813-1814; he left April 4, 1814 in the ten-canoe Brigade for Fort William and Montreal. He probably continued working on the Brigade for the NWC but, with amalgamation, found himself a freeman in 1822. He was last on record as a member of Roderick McLeod's Southern Expedition of 1828-1830. He may have left a family for, according to Catholic records, several progeny were born to an "Iroquois Jacques."

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 2, 10; FtGeo[Ast]AB 10; YFDS 3a-3b PPS: CCR 1a, 1b; Coues, p. 875

Shatagaronishe , Pierre (fl. 1817) (Native: probably Iroquois)Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]*Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1817).

Pierre Shatagaronishe crossed the Rockies onto the Pacific slopes with Joseph LaRocque's groups in 1817.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 2

Shaw, Andrew (fl. 1855 - 1856) (British)

Birth: probably British IslesMaritime employee*HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1855 - 1856).

Andrew Shaw made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Shaw, Angus (c. 1829 - ?) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Harris, Outer Hebrides, Scotland - c. 1829Fur trade employee*HBC Passenger, Prince Albert (barque) (1849); Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1849); Labourer, Fort Alexandria (1850 - 1851); Labourer, Thompson River (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1852 - 1853); Labourer, New Caledonia (1853 - 1856); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1856 - 1858).

After sailing from Stornoway to York Factory and making his way overland, Angus Shaw worked for the HBC for a period of eight years.

PS: BCA FtAlex 1; HBCA log of Prince Albert 8; log of Prince Rupert V 10; YFASA 30-32; FtVicASA 1-6

Shaw, William (fl. 1815 - 1816) (Undetermined origin)

Maritime officerNWC Gunner, Columbia (schooner) (1815).

William Shaw signed on with the NWC schooner Columbia as a gunner on July 19, 1815, probably at Fort George [Astoria] for its travels on the Northwest Coast. He replaced Antoine Guinette who was discharged. Shaw was paid off on February 29, 1816 in Macao or Canton at which point he went to Amsterdam on the ship Isabella bound for Boston.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 5

Shepard, Cyrus (1799 - 1840) (American)

Birth: Acton or Phillipston Massachusetts, United States - August 14, 1799 (born to Stephen Shepard and Prudence Adams)Death: Willamette Valley, Oregon Territory - January 1, 1840*Other*Wyeth Member, Columbia River Fishing and Trading Company (1834); HBC School teacher, Fort Vancouver (1834 - 1835).

Cyrus Shepard, from a Massachusetts farming family, taught school at Marlborough Massachusetts where he became a Methodist. As a result of this, in 1834, he became a lay member of Jason Lee's Methodist Episcopal Mission to Oregon which came west with the Wyeth expedition of that year. After arriving, he replaced Solomon H. Smith as teacher at Fort Vancouver, when the latter moved to the Willamette, and taught about thirty mixed descent youth the sciences and religion. The pupils who had made the most progress were the three Japanese sailors who were rescued from the Macah natives. After a year of teaching, Shepherd went to the Willamette where his Methodist mission school for Indians succeeded Smith's school on French Prairie. Shepard became seriously ill in the autumn of 1839 and, because of complications arising from an amputated leg, died in January 1840. He was buried the following day in a very large funeral.

Cyrus Shepard had one wife and two children. On July 16, 1837 (?) in Oregon, he married Susan Downing of Lynn, Massachusetts, to whom he had been previously engaged. They had two daughters, Allna Maria Lee (1838-67) and Alice Adams (1840-1909).

Manuscript: The original and typewritten transcript of "The Journal of Cyrus Shepard's Trip Across the Plains with the Wyeth Expedition in 1834 and His Life and Labours Among the Indians of Oregon Territory, March 3, 1834 to December 20, 1835" are in Beinecke Rare Book and Manuscript Library, Yale University. The Clark County Genealogical Society published the transcript in 1986.

PPS: Carey, "Introduction to the Mission", p. 264 SS: Pollard, p. 286; Brosnan, "The Signers", p. 177; Gilman and Angel, Diary of Cyrus Shepard

Shoosmith, Stephen F. (fl. 1834 - 1835) (possibly British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Dryad (brig) (1834 - 1835).

Stephen Shoosmith was engaged by the HBC in Oahu likely in the latter half of 1834 and sailed to the Coast. The following year, in June 1835, he was discharged in Oahu from the Dryad.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 14-15; YFDS 5c-6

Shorienton, Jean Baptiste [variation: Shorihenton] (fl. 1816 - 1822) (Native: probably Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Freeman

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1816); Trapper, Snake Party (1819); HBC Trapper, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1821 - 1822); Freeman trapper, Columbia Department (1822 - 1823).

Jean Baptiste Shorienton first appeared on record in the Columbia in 1816 with his wages being paid to his wife. He was in the Snake Country with Donald McKenzie in the fall of 1819 when he deserted and likely stayed around as he went east of the Rockies in the fall of 1821. (There is a possibility that he was back in the area in 1822 as he appeared on the Fort George account.)

PS: HBCA NWCAB 1; FtGeo[Ast]AB 4, 10; PPS: Ross, The Fur Hunters of the Far West, p. 149

Shuttleworth, Henry Hardinge Digby [variation: Bigby, Begby] (c. 1834 - 1900) (British)

Birth: Chattuck, Sylhet, Bengal, India - c. December 3, 1834 (born to Digby and Elizabeth Shuttleworth)

Death: New Westminster, British Columbia - August 12, 1900

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice clerk, Fort Colville (1853 - 1857); Clerk, Fort Alexandria (1859 - 1860).

Son of a colonial indigo planter and baptised in Calcutta, Henry Hardinge Digby Shuttleworth joined the HBC on May 31, 1852 in London, England. He served his first year as an apprentice clerk in the Northern Department and then came west of the Rockies. Under HBC employ, he accumulated a large debt from unexplained spending habits. A gifted linguist (becoming familiar with Interior Salish Okanagan and Nicola languages) he was a man who would take chances. For example, on April 1856 during the native insurgency, he carried information on the affairs of the HBC Fort Colville to Fort Vancouver escorted by a party of friendly Spokane Indians. On May 22, 1859, Shuttleworth turned up at Thompson River, re-entering the service, but parted ways within a year at Fort Alexandria after the birth of a son. Clerk Shuttleworth then turned his talents to raising stock and running the mails by packtrains. By 1872 he was running mail from Penticton to the boundary, and, in 1875, he was raising stock in the Similkameen Valley. In 1877 he pre-empted land at Keremeos and in the 1880s he was carrying mail over the Hope-Princeton Trail. In 1896 he was a rancher at Courtenay Lake, Nicola. Henry Digby Shuttleworth died in 1900 at Royal Columbia Hospital, New Westminster, B. C., of influenza and pneumonia.

Henry Shuttleworth appears to have had two or three wives and seven children. His first marriage was apparently at Colville [Colville] to Isabel (?-?), the daughter of chief See-whel-ken, Colville. They had a son, William (1860-?). A second wife was also called Isabel (?-?) and possibly the same person. Isabel died shortly after they moved to Keremes. They had four children: Henry/Harry (c.1860-1950), Charles Edward (c.1872-1896), George (c.1866-1959) and Lillian (c.1873-?). Shuttleworth was a widower by September 15, 1889, when he married Celestine Guteirez (c.1854-?) herself a widow and the daughter of Antoine and Lucy Chis-kilo-to. Children were Harold P. (1881-?) and Gerald P. (1891-1962).

Shuttleworth Creek (entering the Okanagan River south of Skaha Lake), was named after Henry Digby Shuttleworth (OHS #22, p. 142).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 9-14; FtVicASA 7-8; FtVanCB 42; FtAlexPJ 10; HBCABio; BCA FtKamPJ 1; BCGR-RBDM; New Westminster Hospital Records, Aug. 12, 1900; Van-PL 1891 Canada Census, Yale, Hope PPS: "Voter's List for the Rock Creek", p. 19-21 SS: An Historical Gazetteer of Okanagan Similkameen, as cited in The Twenty Second Report, Okanagan Historical Society, 1958, p. 142; Sismey, p. 136-139; Forging a New Hope: Struggles and Dreams 1848-1948, Hope, 1984, p. 186, 197-98; Buckland, "Settlement at L'Anse", p. 26; Laing, p. 441; compiled biography courtesy of Jean & Roderick Barman

Sicard (Anvarfal?), Xavier [variation: Cainfel?, Carufel?] (fl. 1840 - 1843) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Montreal, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Cowlitz Farm (1841 - 1842); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1843).

Xavier Sicard (Anvarfal?) joined the HBC from Montreal in 1840 on a three-year contract. In the spring of 1843, he returned to Canada.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-8; YFASA 20, 22

Silvaille, Antoine [variation: Sylvaille] (c. 1796 - 1830) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Sorel, Lower Canada - c. 1796

Death: The Dalles, Columbia River - July 3, 1830

Freeman

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1822 - 1824); Trapper, Snake Party (1824); Steersman, Snake Party (1824 - 1825); Trapper, Snake Party (1824 - 1825); Freeman trapper, Snake Party (1825 - 1830).

Antoine Silvaille joined the NWC in 1814 and was employed in the English River District; he later transferred to the HBC and was in the Columbia Department in 1822. He joined Alexander Ross' Snake Party on February 10, 1824 followed by P. S. Ogden's, later that same year. It was during an Ogden expedition in 1826 when leading a separate party in eastern Oregon he discovered a river (which drains into Malheur Lake) which was subsequently named after him. He continued with Ogden on his subsequent Snake Party expeditions leading separate groups which made frequent contact with Ogden's party; hence, his name appeared frequently but there was little of his character other than Ogden feeling that he was "the most trustworthy man" he had at his disposal (SnkCoPJ 7, fo. 68d-69). On May 20th, 1828, he and his separated party were attacked by a party of 150 Blackfeet which killed a woman in the party. The group also lost all its horses (SnkCoPJ 7, fo. 87). Antoine Silvaille met his end in the Columbia River where he, along with eleven others, drowned in a whirlpool in the lower part of the Dalles on the Columbia while returning from a Snake expedition in July 3, 1830.

No record of a surviving family has been traced.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 5a; YFASA 2-6, 8-9; FtVanASA 1-2; YFDS 3b-4a; SnkCoPJ 1, 2, 7; FtVanCB 2; death reported in William Kittson's August 12, 1830 letter to John Rowand, D.4/125, fo. 50

Silvestre, Jean Baptiste [variation: Sylvestre] (c. 1811 - 1851) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly in or near St. Cuthbert or Maskinongé, Lower Canada - c. 1811

Death: St. Paul, Oregon - September 20, 1851

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1834 - 1835); Middleman, Columbia Department (1834 - 1836); Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1836 - 1837); Middleman, Snake Party (1837 - 1841); Middleman, South Party (1841 - 1842); Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1842 - 1843); Middleman, Snake Party (1843 - 1847); Middleman, Snake Party (1847 - 1849).

Jean Baptiste Silvestre joined the HBC in 1834 and for the next sixteen years he worked mainly in the South and Snake parties until he became a freeman on August 6, 1849. He probably became a farmer in the Willamette Valley; but, it was short-lived. Silvestre died in St. Paul on September 20, 1851 and was most likely buried in the local cemetery.

PS: HBCA YFASA 14-15, 19-20, 22-30; YFDS 5c-7, 20; FtVanASA 3-7, 9 PPS: CCR 2b

Silvestre, Xavier (? - 1848) (Undetermined origin)

Death: Pacific Northwest - August 9, 1848

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1848 - 1849).

Xavier Silvestre was an employee of the HBC when he drowned August 9, 1848.

PS: HBCA YFASA 28; YFDS 19

Simcoe, Thomas (fl. 1843 - 1845) (British: English)

Birth: possibly London, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1842 - 1845).

Thomas Simcoe made a round trip voyage to the coast on the HBC vessel Columbia leaving England on September 9, 1842. While on the coast he would have visited several coastal posts as well as Oahu. On the return journey, he was noted as overindulging in Honolulu. Simcoe has not been traced beyond his arrival in London on May 24, 1845.

PS: HBCA log of Columbia 6, 7; FtVanASA 8; YFASA 23-25

Simpson, Aemilius (1793 - 1831) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Dingwall, Ross, Scotland - 1793 (born to Alexander Simpson)

Death: Fort Simpson [Nass], British Columbia - September 2, 1831

Maritime officer

HBC Clerk, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1827); Hydrographer/Clerk/Founder, Fort Langley (1827); Commander/Hydrographer, Cadboro (schooner) (1827 - 1830); Commander, Dryad (brig) (1830 - 1831); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1831).

Aemilius Simpson had the distinction of being a cousin-by-marriage of Governor George Simpson, a half brother of Thomas Simpson, the Arctic explorer. He also introduced the first apple trees to the North Pacific Coast and had an HBC post named after him. His mother died in childbirth; as a result, his father remarried, this time to George Simpson's aunt. Aemilius joined the Royal Navy as a voluntary midshipman in 1806 and rose to the rank of Lieutenant before retiring in 1816. Upon the recommendation of George Simpson in 1826, he joined the company as a hydrographer and surveyor reaching Fort Vancouver on November 2, 1826 as superintendent of shipping of the west coast. The following year, he was given command of the Cadboro when it arrived. That year he took soundings in the Fraser River and help found Fort Langley. Three years later in 1829 he was involved in trading negotiations with the Russian American Company in Sitka. He became Chief Trader in 1830 and the following year helped to establish a post at mouth of the Nass River where he died in 1831. The post was later moved to the Tsimshian Peninsula and renamed Fort Simpson in his honour. His body was also removed to the new site, reinterred and surrounded by a white picket fence.

Aemilius Simpson had a son, Horatio Nelson Simpson (?-?) by Margaret McLennan (?-?).

PS: HBCA FtVanPJ 3; YFASA 6, 8-9, 11; FtVanASA 1-2; YFDS 4b; SimpsonCB; Wills PPS: HBRS III, p. 454-55; HBRS XXX, p. 198-99

See Also: Simpson, Alexander (Father); Simpson, Sir George (Relative); Simpson, Horatio Nelson (Son); Simpson, George Stewart (Relative)

Simpson, Alexander (c. 1811 - ?) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Dingwall, Ross, Scotland - c. 1811 (born to Alexander Simpson and Mary Simpson, a sister of the father of Sir George Simpson)

Death: probably Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Fort Vancouver (1839); For observation and enquiry, Hawaii (1839: 2 months only); Clerk, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); Clerk, Hawaii (1840 - 1841); Observer, Hawaii (1840).

In spite of the fact that Alexander Simpson was a cousin by marriage to Sir George Simpson and half-brother to Aemilius Simpson, his fur-trade career of was never very steadfast. He joined the HBC as an apprentice clerk on December 12, 1827 sailing for North America the following spring. Between 1828 and 1839 he was at four posts, the last being at Moose Factory. Originally posted to assist George Pelly in the Hawaiian Islands in 1839, Simpson went there to observe and enquire into the state of affairs and returned to Fort Vancouver two months later. He did likewise in the summer of 1840 and in January 1841 headed back to England to comfort the family over a death in the family. That year he was raised to Chief Trader and, upon recommendation from the Governor that he be posted in Hawaii, sailed for the Islands in September 1841 only to find that George Simpson had already appointed George Traill Allan, a clerk who was much more likely to get along with Pelly, to the position. As he wouldn't take a position anywhere else, he took an absence in 1842-1843, staying to oversee an unrelated bankruptcy of the British Consul, Richard Charlton. However, the king refused to accept Simpson's role as consul and so he left on February 25, 1843. After arriving in England he resigned in June 1843 and returned to Scotland.

Publications: The Sandwich Islands, (London, 1843) and The Life and Travels of Thomas Simpson, the Arctic Discoverer (London 1845).

PS: HBCA YFASA 19-20; SimpsonCB; Wills; HMCS SReynoldsJ PPS: HBRS VI, p. 404-06; HBRS XXX, p.228

See Also: Simpson, Aemilius (Brother); Simpson, Sir George (Relative); Simpson, George Stewart (Relative); Simpson, Horatio Nelson (Relative)

Simpson, George Stewart (1827 - 1894) (probably Canadian: Scottish and probably Native)

Birth: possibly Red River Settlement [Manitoba] - 1827 (born to Sir George Simpson and Margaret Taylor)

Death: Victoria, British Columbia - March 13, 1894

Fur trade officer

HBC Apprentice, Fort Vancouver general charges (1841 - 1842); Apprentice, Honolulu (1842 - 1845); Clerk, Honolulu (1845 - 1847); Clerk, Fort Colville (1847 - 1848); Clerk, Thompson River (1848 - 1850); Clerk, Fort Victoria sales shop (1850 - 1857); Clerk disposable, Western Department (1857 - 1858); Chief Trader, Western Department (1858 - 1860).

George Stewart Simpson came to Fort Vancouver as a boy of eight with with the 1836 Brigade. In 1838, according to Rev. Herbert Beaver, young Simpson had arrived "decently clothed" but two years later, he was running about "in appearance like a beggar's child, and at one time suffered so much from sores, brought on entirely by the neglect of Chief Factor McLoughlin's woman, under whose charge he was placed" (Beaver, p. 84). Young Simpson had probably got his sores from flea bites from his beating furs in the large fur house at the fort, a job that young children often did. In 1841, he joined the HBC, likely at Fort Vancouver, and joined his father, Sir George Simpson, for a voyage to Honolulu where he spent the next four years in apprenticeship. He rose through the ranks and around 1858 became Chief Trader. He spent the last two years of his working career (1860-1862) as Chief Trader at Fort Dunvegan in the Athabasca Department but returned to the coast in 1864 when he pre-empted 320 acres [129.5 ha] in the Fraser Valley. George Stewart Simpson died on March 13, 1894 at his residence on Cook Street in Victoria, B. C.

On June 12, 1857 at Fort Langley, Simpson married Isabella Yale (c.1840-?), daughter of James Murray Yale and together they had four children, George (1858-1926), Eliza Aurelia (1865-72), Miles/Mylles Yale (1869-?) and James (1872-1898).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-7; Ships' Logs Cowlitz [barque] 1840-42, C.1/257; YFASA 22-25, 27-32; FtVicASA 1-7; HBCABio; Van-PL Colonist, March 15, 1894, p. 5; BCA BCCR CCCath PPS: Beaver, p. 84

See Also: Simpson, Sir George (Father); Simpson, Aemilius (Relative); Simpson, Alexander (Relative); Simpson, Horatio Nelson (Relative)

Simpson, Horatio Nelson (fl. 1836 - 1841) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Dingwall, Ross, Scotland (born to Captain Aemilius Simpson)

Maritime employee

HBC Apprentice, Nereide (barque) (1836 - 1838); Apprentice, Cadboro (schooner) (1838); Apprentice, Nereide (barque) (1838 - 1839); Apprentice, Vancouver (barque) (1839 - 1841).

Horatio Nelson Simpson joined the HBC on February 10, 1836 (four and a half years after the death of his father), on a five-year contract as an apprentice seaman in the naval department. He arrived in the Columbia in the fall of 1836 and spent the next four years on a variety of ships. At the end of his contract he arrived back in England in the spring of 1841 on the schooner Vancouver. The following year, he was to make a run to Hudson Bay but was replaced by another man at the last minute.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 14; FtVanASA 3-6; YFDS 7, 10-11; YFASA 19-20; Wills; log of Prince Rupert V 1

See Also: Simpson, Aemilius (Father); Simpson, Alexander (Relative); Simpson, Sir George (Relative); Simpson, George Stewart (Relative)

Simpson, James (fl. 1838 - 1850) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Scotland

Death: probably British Isles

Maritime officer

HBC Carpenter, Vancouver (barque) (1838 - 1840); Carpenter, Cadboro (schooner) (1840 - 1841); Carpenter, Beaver (steamer) (1841 - 1842); Carpenter, Cowlitz (barque) (1842 - 1843); Carpenter, Columbia (barque) (1848 - 1850).

Ten months after his marriage, James Simpson, brother in law to Alexander Duncan, joined the HBC from London on October 29, 1838. After sailing to the coast on the barque Vancouver, he spent the next three years on coastal shipping servicing posts from Sitka to the Sandwich Islands. At the end of his contract, he arrived back in England on the barque Cowlitz on May 9, 1843. Five years later he made a round trip on the Columbia to the coast, where he resisted the temptation of California gold, and between June and October 1850 made one round trip to Hudson Bay on the Prince Rupert. He seems to have then left the service and has not been traced further.

James Simpson had one wife, Margaret Walker (?-?) of Dumfermline, Fife, Scotland whom he married on January 5, 1838 and three children, Archibald (1839-?), Christian (?-?) and Margaret (1849-?).

Six newsy but undelivered letters, written between 1842-1849 by wife Margaret to her husband rest in the HBCA.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 11, 14, 4a, 5; YFASA 19-20, 22; YFDS 10-11; FtVanASA 6-8; PorB 1; log of Prince Rupert V 11; HBCABio PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 152-59

See Also: Duncan, Alexander (Relative)

Simpson, John (c. 1808 - 1842) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Rupert's Land, British North America - c. 1808

Death: probably Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - June 21, 1842

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, York Factory Express (HBC) (1827 - 1828); Cook, Fort Vancouver (1828 - 1829); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1828 - 1829); Middleman, New Caledonia (1829 - 1832); Servant on the Express, Fort Colville (1831 - 1832); Middleman, New Caledonia (1832 - 1835); Middleman and bout on Athabasca River, Fort Vancouver general charges (1837 - 1838); Middleman and bout, Cowlitz Farm (1838 - 1839); Middleman, Cowlitz Farm (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1842).

John Simpson joined the HBC in 1825 at Fort Garry spending some time with the York Factory Express. He appeared to work on the Express until the late 1830s when his life became a little more sedentary. He died in 1842 of unspecified causes.

PS: HBCA FtSimp[N]PJ 4; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-6; YFASA 7-9, 11-14, 17, 20, 22; YFDS 3a-3b, 4b-5c, 8-9, 13 PPS: E. Ermatinger, p. 105, 113

Simpson, John Jr. (fl. 1845 - 1856) (Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice post master, Columbia Department general charges (1845 - 1846); Apprentice post master, Fort George [Astoria] (1846 - 1847); Apprentice post master, Fort Simpson (1847 - 1850); Clerk, Fort Langley (1850 - 1851); Clerk, Thompson River (1851 - 1854); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1854 - 1855); Clerk, Columbia Department (1855 - 1856); Post master, Fort Colville (1856 - 1857); Clerk, Columbia Department (1856).

John Simpson, was engaged by the HBC in 1845 on a five year contract. (The parentage of John Simpson Jr. Is problematic as he was deemed to be the son of the preceding John Simpson who was in the area in 1838 and who never rose above the rank of middleman. However, in 1845 young John was given the job as apprentice postmaster, a position usually reserved for sons of officers. When Herbert Beaver baptized John Simpson in July 1838, English cleric named young John's father as George Simpson and mother as Margaret Taylor, which, given the fluidity of family relationships, is also possible.) In 1856 he retired but he appears to have worked beyond his retirement for the Company. He appeared to carry on transactions with the HBC until 1864.

PS: HBCA YFASA 25-32; FtVicASA 1-7, 9, 11-12; YFDS 17; FtVanASA 12-14; HBCA John Simpson search file; BCA BCCR CCCath

See Also: Simpson, Sir George (possible Father)

Simpson, Sir George (c. 1787 - 1860) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Lochbroom, Scotland - c. 1787

Death: Lachine, Canada East [Quebec] - September 7, 1860

Fur trade officer

HBC Untraced vocation, HBC (1820 - 1860).

Short and born out of wedlock, George Simpson was a most able governor of the HBC from 1821 to 1860. He was charitable to those who agreed with him, but to those who did not, as is evidenced by the "Character Book", he savaged with a vitriolic pen. However, as his descendants point out, that particular writing was for his own personal consumption. Simpson entered the HBC around 1818 and in 1820 he was sent by London to North America to take charge should the then Governor William Williams be arrested by the NWC. In 1821 he was made governor of the Northern Department and from 1826 until his death, governor of all the HBC trading territories in British North America. During his life in the Company he crossed the continent three times - in 1824, 1828 and 1841 - visiting posts in record time. In 1833 he made his headquarters at Lachine and in 1841-1842 he made an trip across Siberia to St. Petersburg as described in his Narrative. He was knighted in 1841. In his later life he was a director of the North Shore Railway Company of Montreal and of the Champlain Railroad; as well, he was on the Montreal board of the bank of British North America. Much has been written on George Simpson but one of the best is J. S. Galbraith's 1976 publication, The Little Emperor – Governor Simpson of the HBC.

Prior to marrying his cousin, Frances Ramsey Simpson, in 1830, George Simpson coupled with Betsey Sinclair, the mixed descent daughter of a HBC officer in 1821, and Margaret Taylor (another mixed descent HBC offspring) in about 1826. During this time he also had another unidentified mistress in Lachine. With his mistress in Lachine he had a son, James Keith Simpson; with Betsey, he had one daughter; with Margaret, he had two sons; and, with Frances, he had two sons and three daughters. It has been speculated that he also had numerous other children with several unnamed native women.

Publication: Narrative of an Overland Journey Around the World During the Years 1841 and 1842, vol. I & II, London: Henry Colburn, 1847.

PS: HBCA FtVicCB 22; FtSimp[N]PJ 6 PPS: HBRS I, p. 466-67 SS: DCB Galbraith; Van Kirk, "Many Tender Ties", p. 161, 163; a Simpson descendant

See Also: Simpson, Aemilius (Relative); Simpson, Alexander (Relative); Simpson, Horatio Nelson (Relative); Hogue, Amable (Relative); Hopkins, Edward Martin; McTavish, John George; Simpson, John Jr. (possible Son); Simpson, George Stewart (Son)

Sinclair, Captain Alexander (? - 1832) (American)

Birth: United States of America

Death: Pierre's Hole [Idaho] - July 18, 1832

Free trader

U.A. Trader, Pacific slopes (1832).

Captain Alexander Sinclair from Arkansas led a group of free trappers to the 1832 Rendezvous at Pierre's Hole. When the Rendezvous broke up on July 17, Sinclair and his men joined Milton Sublette, Nathaniel J. Wyeth and their men who were going to follow the Snake River Valley. On July 18, when some Gros Ventres approached, Antoine Godin shot and killed a chief; thus began the Battle of Pierre's Hole. During this skirmish, Sinclair was shot and killed.

SS: Chittenden, p. 297-98

Sinclair, Gordon (fl. 1824 - 1826) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, William & Ann (brig) (1824 - 1826).

Gordon Sinclair joined the HBC around July, 1824 and made a return voyage to the coast on the William & Ann. While on the coast the vessel traded as far north as Observatory Inlet, and arrived back in London on April 15, 1826.

PS: HBCA log of William & Ann 1

Sinclair, James [a] (fl. 1830 - 1835) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Caithness, Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Carpenter, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1831); House carpenter, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1834); House carpenter, Fort Vancouver (1834 - 1835).

James Sinclair, from Thurso, Caithness, Scotland, joined the HBC on June 2, 1829 as a labourer and house carpenter for five years. He worked until the end of his contract, July 1, 1835, and in October 1835 went east over the Rockies. The records are unclear, but, between August 1 and September 12, 1835, he may have worked in Fort Colville before going east.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; FtVanASA 2-3; YFDS 4a-6; YFASA 11-15

Sinclair, James [e] (fl. 1842 - 1847) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: probably South Ronaldsay, Orkney

Death: probably England

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1843); Labourer, Columbia Department general charges (1844 - 1845); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1846); Passenger, Vancouver (barque) (1846 - 1847); Cooper, Fort Vancouver depot (1846).

James Sinclair was hired by the HBC in Orkney on December 14, 1842 on a five-year contract and sailed to York Factory the following year. On his voyage out, he kept watch and did other labouring jobs aboard ship. At Fort Vancouver he worked as a labourer and finally as a cooper, until December 10, 1846, at which point he returned to England. He returned an invalid, unable to use his legs.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Prince Rupert V 3; YFASA 24-26; YFDS 17; log of Vancouver [3] 2

Sinclair, James (c. 1806 - 1856) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Oxford House [Manitoba] - c. 1806 (born to William Sinclair and Margaret [Holden] Nahovway)

Death: Bradford's Store [Cascade Locks, Oregon] - March 26, 1856

Fur trade officer

HBC Leader, Red River Migration (1841); Clerk, Columbia Department general charges (1854 - 1855); Agent, Fort Nez Percés (1855).

Following the wishes of his deceased Orcadian father, twelve year old James Sinclair and his ailing (soon to die) younger brother John, were taken to Orkney, Scotland, to receive schooling. James worked at the farm of his uncle after hours until he was able to go to Edinburgh University in the autumn of 1822. There he studied the arts and some law until 1826 when he signed on as an apprentice with the HBC for a year, sailing in 1826 for Moose Factory. At the end of one year, he returned to Red River, and as a free trader was suspected of creating unrest among the Métis. In 1841, in a HBC effort to populate the Columbia and diffuse the potential Métis unrest, Sinclair led the Red River migration to the Columbia over the Rockies and down the Columbia to Fort Vancouver where the migrants were placed on farms at Cowlitz and Nisqually. In 1841-1842 Sinclair travelled back to Fort Garry where he resumed his private trading. Pressure was put on him to stop trading and, as a result, in 1846, Sinclair went to London to put his case to the British Government, receiving a judgement of £100 for underpayment by the HBC. Upon his return, he travelled south of the border for trade. In 1850 Governor George Simpson sent Sinclair to the Columbia to report on the state of affairs of the deteriorating HBC posts. Further, in 1854 Sinclair led a second group of migrants back to the Columbia, leaving his family at Fort Walla Walla on the way down. He returned there in January 1855 and took charge of the post where, in the spring, Governor Stevens held conferences with natives from various tribes in an effort to get them to relinquish their lands and move onto reservations. Rather than lose their rights, the natives intensified their resistance, and actively fought back. In October of that year, Sinclair, his family and Fort Walla Walla had been marked for attack and on the 13th of that month, he was ordered to leave by the Indian Agent, Nathan Olney. As a preventative measure, he had his men dump the fort's ammunition (powder and balls) into the river to stop it falling into Indian hands. In November, he was assigned by the HBC officers at Fort Vancouver to the Oregon Volunteers and American troops under Colonel J. K. Kelly to wage a campaign against the natives of the area of his old fort. As part of this group, he went with others to the defence of the Cascades where, on March 26, 1856 at the door of Bradford's store while under fire and trying to help someone through the door, he was shot in the head. Two days later, as the siege continued, his body was slipped quietly into the river by his interpreter John McBain. The following day the survivors (eighteen had been killed) were rescued by the American cavalry and Sinclair's body was taken back to Fort Vancouver for a Masonic burial. (A story persists that the ghost of his deceased mother, Nahowway, who was buried outside the door of the St. John's Anglican Cathedral in Winnipeg, was the cause of the organ mysteriously playing on its own. Because of this, her ghost had to be exorcised.)

James W. Sinclair had three successive wives and eleven children. In December, 1829 at Red River, he married Elizabeth Bird (?-1845) and together they had Elizabeth (?-1834), Alexander (1833-34), Harriet (1832-?), Emma (?-1843), Louise (c.1841-1843) and an unnamed child (1845-?). After Elizabeth's death in 1845, he had a daughter, named Mary (?-bap.1848-?), by Jane Whitford. He then married Mary Campbell (daughter of Colin Campbell and a Cree woman) and together they had Mary/Maria (?-1855 or 1856), Jane (1851-?), Agnes (?-?) and an unnamed boy (c.1856-?). After the death of James, Mary Campbell Sinclair married an Indian Agent, Nathen Olney. They lived together one week and divorced one year later.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 10-12; FtVicASA 3-4; FtVanCB 41 PPS: CCR 1b; OHS Oregonian, Apr. 5, 1856, p. 2 SS: Lent

Sinclair, John (fl. 1832 - 1833) (probably American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Fur trade employee

Wyeth Member, Wyeth's 1st Expedition (1832); Passenger, Dryad (brig) (1833).

John Sinclair, a close friend of John Ball, joined the 1st expedition of Nathaniel J. Wyeth in Baltimore in early 1832. Both Sinclair and Ball stayed with the expedition, while many quit, and reached Fort Vancouver in October of that year. Unlike Ball or other members, Sinclair did not appear to work for the HBC at Fort Vancouver but when released by Wyeth in early 1833, tried farming with Ball in the Willamette Valley. Both Sinclair and Ball stayed around to harvest the crop and then shipped out on the Dryad in October 1833. While the Dryad was at Golden Gate harbour [California], Sinclair and Ball split up, Ball staying with the Dryad while Sinclair shipped aboard the Boston bound whaler Helvetius. He probably reached New England but has not been traced after that.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 14 PPS: CCR 1a, 1b SS: Overmeyer, p. 99-100
See Also: Ball, John

Sinclair, John Logan (c. 1830 - ?) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: probably Stromness, Orkney - c. 1830

Maritime officer

HBC Apprentice, Vancouver (barque) (1844 - 1848); Apprentice, Cadboro (schooner) (1848); Apprentice or seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1848 - 1849); 3rd mate, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1851); 2nd mate, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1850 - 1851); 1st mate, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1851 - 1852); 1st mate, Cadboro (schooner) (1853 - 1854); 1st mate, Vancouver (brigantine) (1853); 1st mate, Prince Albert (barque) (1855); 1st mate, Princess Royal (barque) (1857 - 1858); Captain, Princess Royal (barque) (1858 - 1859); Captain, Beaver (steamer) (1859).

After John Logan Sinclair joined the HBC on August 21, 1844, he sailed to the coast on the barque Vancouver. When, on May 7, 1848 his vessel was wrecked at the mouth of the Columbia River, he was assigned to the schooner Cadboro under Captain James Sangster and returned to England on the Prince Albert. From that point on, a competent Sinclair rose quickly through the ranks while he made several return voyages to the coast and one to Hudson Bay as 2nd mate on the Prince Arthur in 1856. He returned to the coast on the Princess Royal and became captain of the Beaver in 1859.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 11; YFASA 24-26, 29-32; FtVicDS 1; FtVicASA 1-4, 6; FtVicCB 7; log of Cadboro 6; PortB 1; log of Princess Royal 4-5

Sinclair, Magnus [variation: John] (fl. 1849 - 1854) (probably British: Scottish)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Una (brigantine) (1849 - 1851); Seaman, Beaver (steamer) (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1852 - 1853); Untraced vocation, Beaver (steamer) (1853 - 1854).

Magnus Sinclair came to the coast on the HBC brig Una and in March 1851 joined the steamer Beaver under the name John Sinclair. He has not been tracked after his work on the steamer Beaver in 1854 and he may have left the area.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 10; log of Beaver 2; YFASA 30-32; FtVicASA 1-2

Sinclair, Thomas [a] (1791 - ?) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: Orkney, United Kingdom - November 20, 1791 (born to Thomas Sinclair and Mary [Sclater] Sinclair)

Maritime officer

HBC Sloopmaster, Cadboro (schooner) (1826 - 1831); 1st mate, Cadboro (schooner) (1826 - 1831); Captain, Cadboro (schooner) (1831 - 1833); Passenger, Ganymede (barque) (1833 - 1834).

Thomas Sinclair, with the "manner & appearance of a good rough Seaman" (HBRX XXX, p. 456) and with an accompanying drinking problem, joined the HBC on May 24, 1824 as a sloop master, originally for five years. He first served as sloop-master at York Factory from 1824-1826. In 1826, after he was chosen by Lieut. Aemilius Simpson to act as mate on the schooner Cadboro, he crossed the continent to the Columbia in a brigade led by Simpson. He was with the Cadboro during the establishment of both Fort Langley in 1827 and Fort Nass in 1831. By 1831, however, he applied to return to England but agreed to stay if his wages were increased. During that year, according to George Simpson's character evaluation, when Aemilius Simpson was ill, Sinclair was usually too intoxicated to offer assistance. On the death of Simpson, Thomas Sinclair became master of the Cadboro, but a year later his crew mutinied and McLoughlin agreed that he should be sent home. He left in the fall of 1833 on the barque Ganymede and returned to England in February 1834.

Thomas Sinclair's family records in the Columbia are unclear. According to the obituary of the husband of Mary [Sinclair] Weston, Thomas had a daughter Mary (1833-1884) by an unnamed Clatsop-Chinook woman, daughter of Chief Cowhicalas.

PS: OrkA OPR Orkney-Kirkwall & St. Ola; HBCA HBCCont; FtVanPJ; YFDS 2a, 4b-5b; FtVanASA 1-2; YFASA 8-9, 11-13; FtVanCB 8, 9 PS: HBRX III, p. 114, 456; HBRX XXX, p. 199 SS: CCR 1a, 1b

Sinclair, William Jr. (1827 - 1899) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Lac La Pluie, Ontario - September 25, 1827 (born to CF William Sinclair and Mary Wadin McKay Sinclair)

Death: Fraser Lake, British Columbia - October 30, 1899

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice post master, San Francisco (1843 - 1845); Apprentice post master, Fort Vancouver (1845 - 1849); Clerk, Fort Vancouver (1849 - 1851); Clerk, Fort Colville general charges (1851 - 1853); Clerk, Fort Vancouver (1853 - 1854); Clerk, Fort Hall (1854 - 1855); Clerk, Snake Country (1855 - 1856); Clerk, Pend d'Oreille (1856 - 1857); In charge, Cowlitz Farm (1857 - 1859); Clerk, Fort Colville (1864 - 1865); Clerk, Fort Shepherd (1864 - 1865); Assistant to C.T.J.W. McKay, Thompson River (1864 - 1865); Post master, Bella Coola (1878 - 1882); Purser, Otter (steamer) (1882); Untraced vocation, Fort Kamloops [Thompson's River Post, She-waps Post] (1882 - 1884); Untraced vocation, Hazelton, Fort Yale, Langley and Fraser Lake (1884 - 1899).

In 1843 at the age of fifteen, William Sinclair Jr. was assigned by McLoughlin to assist to his son-in-law William Glen Rae in the San Francisco post. In 1845, after Rae committed suicide by shooting himself, Sinclair returned to Vancouver as an apprentice post master, becoming clerk four years later. He was posted at a variety of posts up to 1859 but bolted from the service of the HBC after being assigned to Fort Colville, the lure of the gold rush in British Columbia was too strong to keep Sinclair at his post. He could not be induced to come back and spent time at Fort Owen in the Flathead Country. He spent late 1862 and part of 1863 in London, England and rejoined the HBC in 1863 only to leave it two years later on May 31, 1865. Between 1868 and 1869 Sinclair was on the move again, living in Elizabethtown and Brockville, Ontario respectively. Back on Vancouver Island in 1878, this otherwise trustworthy HBC servant was put in charge of the Bella Coola post until it closed, at which point he took the job of purser on a company steamer. He served at a variety of posts until October 30, 1899, when, like Rae years before, he committed suicide by shooting himself; he was buried at Fraser Lake on November 3, 1899.

Sinclair's wife, Eloisa Jemina Kittson (July 25, 1836-1927), daughter of William Kittson and Helene McDonald and step daughter of Richard Grant, was living in Victoria at the time of his death. It is difficult to ascertain when his wife travelled with him. One son James William (July 27, 1858-June 21, 1861) was born at Cowlitz and died in New Westminster. One daughter was probably Julia Jessie (1864-?), born at Victoria.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-28, 30-32; YFDS 22; FtVanASA 9-15; FtVicASA 9, 11-14; FtVicCB 27; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon

Sirard, Joseph (c. 1830 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Sorel, Lower Canada - c. 1830

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1848 - 1849).

Joseph Sirard came west over the Rockies to work with the HBC in 1848 on a contract that ended in 1851. In 1849 he probably went south for California gold.

PS: HBCA YFASA 28-32; YFDS 19

Sivigny, Joseph (c. 1801 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably L'Assomption, Lower Canada - c. 1801

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1823 - 1824); Middleman, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825); Middleman, New Caledonia (1825 - 1826).

Joseph Sivigny joined the NWC from the parish of L'Assomption in 1820 serving his first year at Lachine. He continued on with the HBC after the coalition and for two years (1821-1823) worked as a middleman in Athabasca before working in West Caledonia. His contract ended in 1826 but in 1825 he returned to Montreal.

PS: HBCA YFDS 1a; FtStJmsLS 1; YFASA 4-5; HBCABio

Slaight, Aaron (fl. c. 1788 - 1811) (American)

Birth: probably New York, New York - c. 1788

Death: probably Clayoquot Sound, Vancouver Island - June 1811

Maritime employee

PFC Sailmaker, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811?).

The fate of twenty two year old New York native Aaron Slaight is unknown. Slaight joined John Jacob Astor's Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn] in New York as a sail maker some time before September 3, 1810, for its voyage to the Northwest Coast but did not appear on Gabriel Franchere's list of crew members. He may have been replaced by sail maker, John Coles, before the ship sailed on September 8. He may have left the Tonquin in New York harbour before it sailed and thus saved himself from catastrophe.

PS: USNA Tonquin

Slater, James (fl. 1851 - 1852) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1851 - 1852).

James Slater made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison. While on the coast, he would have visited several coastal posts.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Slater, John B. (fl. 1846 - 1852) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Whiteness, Yelland, Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver depot (1852).

John Slater joined the HBC on May 18, 1846 as a sloop for five years. He appeared in the Columbia in outfit 1851-1852 but his contract was annulled by John Ballenden of Fort Vancouver August 1, 1852 and he was discharged. No reason was given and he has not been traced after that.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 31; YFDS 22; FtVanASA 9; FtVicDS 1

Slater, Thomas (c. 1826 - ?) (British: Shetlander)

Birth: probably in or near Tingwall, Shetland Islands, United Kingdom - c. 1826

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Albert (barque) (1842); Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1842); Labourer, Columbia

Department general charges (1844 - 1845); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1847); Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1847).

Thomas Slater joined the HBC from Lerwick, Shetland in 1842, sailed to York Factory, and made his way overland, working one contract at Fort Vancouver. At the end of his contract, he retraced his steps and sailed back to Shetland on the Prince Rupert.

PS: HBCA log of Prince Albert 1; log of Prince Rupert V 2, 8; YFASA 24-27

Sloat, Benjamin [variation: Sloats] (fl. 1835 - 1836) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Snake Party (1835 - 1836).

Benjamin Sloats appears to have joined the HBC in 1835 and is on record as being discharged in Snake Country around 1836. He may have been discharged for improper conduct and began work with Nathaniel Wyeth's Company. John McLoughlin wanted assurances that he not be taken back.

PS: HBCA YFASA 15-16; YFDS 6-7; FtVanASA 3; FtVanCB 15

Smith, Angus (fl. 1854 - 1855) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1854 - 1855).

Angus Smith made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Smith, Charles [1] (fl. 1842 - 1843) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Crew member, Columbia (barque) (1842 - 1843).

Charles Smith was a crew member of the barque Columbia in outfit 1842-1843.

PS: HBCA YFASA 22

Smith, Charles [2] (fl. 1851 - 1852) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Crew member, Norman Morison (barque) (1852).

Charles Smith [2] was in the Columbia area when he disobeyed Captain David Wishart of the Norman Morison and was imprisoned for part of the return voyage.

PS: HBCA FtVicCB 4

Smith, Charles [3] (fl. 1856 - 1857) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1856 - 1859).

Charles Smith, possibly the above, joined the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal in London on August 19, 1856 and made two return voyages to the Northwest Coast.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; log of Princess Royal 3-5

Smith, David (fl. 1848 - 1852) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1848); Blacksmith, Fort Colvile general charges (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver depot (1852).

David Smith joined the HBC in 1848 on a contract that ended in 1854. He sailed to Hudson Bay and made his way west three years later. He did not complete his contract, deserting in 1852.

Smith, Donald [a] (fl. 1837 - 1842) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Lochs, Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1837); Boatbuilder, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); Boatbuilder, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1841); Boatbuilder, Cadboro (schooner) (1841 - 1842); Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1842).

Donald Smith joined the HBC on June 5, 1837 from the Hebrides as a boatbuilder for five years. He embarked for Hudson Bay at Stornoway on June 21, 1837 and arrived in the Columbia in 1839. There he appears to have been attached to Fort Vancouver and schooner Cadboro. At the end of his contract in the spring or summer of 1842 he returned east over the Rockies and to the British Isles, sailing on the Prince Rupert.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Prince Rupert IV 10; YFASA 19-22; FtVanASA 6-7; log of Prince Rupert V 1

Smith, George (fl. 1837 - 1850) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Sumatra (barque) (1837 - 1838).

George Smith came to the coast on the HBC chartered ship Sumatra. He left England in February 1837 and in August arrived in Oahu where he overstayed his shore leave by two days. He spent about a month at Fort Vancouver and arrived back in London in April 1838. (A George Smith sailed to the coast on the Comlitz in 1849 but deserted in Honolulu in 1850 before reaching the coast.)

PS: HBCA log of the Sumatra 1

Smith, J. (fl. 1854 - 1855) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1854 - 1855).

J. Smith made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Smith, Jedediah Strong (1799 - 1831) (American)

Birth: Jericho (now Bainbridge), New York - January 6, 1799 (born to Jedediah and Sarah Strong Smith)

Death: Cimarron [Oklahoma] - May 27, 1831

Fur trade officer

Ash. Member, Ashley Trading Co. (1822); SJ & S Founder with David E. Jackson and William L. Sublette, Rocky Mountain Fur Company (1826); Expedition leader, Umpqua Expedition (1828).

Humourless, religious and tough, Jedediah Strong Smith blazed many American fur trading trails in Southern Oregon and California - Smith sported a receding hairline, the result of a grizzly bear opening his scalp. Jedediah Smith Jr. went to work at the age of thirteen after receiving some schooling. In 1822, Smith joined the General William Ashley Trading Company in St. Louis and headed for the headwaters of the Missouri, narrowly escaping death at the Arikaree villages on June 1, 1823. In 1826 David E. Jackson, William L. Sublette, and Jedediah Smith formed a partnership and bought out Ashley. In June of 1828, during one of his many fur trading expeditions (this time through the Umpqua River), all but three members of his expedition were killed in an attack by local Indians; both sides claimed the other provoked the fight. Subsequently, Smith made his way to Fort Vancouver where he encountered another member of the expedition who had managed to escape. Dr. John McLoughlin sent out a party under Alexander McLeod to recover the horses and furs, for which he paid Smith generously. Smith stayed at Fort Vancouver until March 1829; when he left he carried correspondence from John Dominis of the brig Omyhybee, which had been trading on the Columbia River. Smith was eventually killed May 27, 1831, in the Cimarron by Comanche Indians while he was trading on the Santa Fe Trail.

PS: HBCA YFDS 3a; FtVanAB 21a; FtVanCB 4; HU-HL JMarshallLB SS: Carter, "Jedediah Smith"; D. L. Morgan, Jedediah Smith; B. A. Wilson, p. 43

Smith, John [1] (fl. 1830 - 1832) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Ganymede (barque) (1830 - 1832).

John Smith shipped on with the HBC vessel Ganymede around November 1830 and sailed to Fort Vancouver. He would have returned to London in 1832.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 7

Smith, John [a] (c. 1811 - ?) (British: English)

Birth: Yarmouth, Norfolk, England - c. 1811

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1835 - 1836); Seaman, Lama (brig) (1836 - 1837); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1837 - 1838); Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1838); Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1838 - 1839); Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1839 - 1840).

John Smith served on the merchant vessel Mary before he joined the HBC in London on August 29, 1835 as a seaman for five years. He then came to the Northwest Coast aboard the Columbia. After working on coastal shipping for two years, he returned to the British Isles on the barque Columbia. He appears to have signed on again but he may have stayed in the British Isles for a John Smith ([b?] from "London") signed on at the same time, and a single entry continued in the books.

A letter dated April 22, 1838, written by his mother in London, Eleanor Smith, rests in the HBCA.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 4a, 14; log of Columbia 1, 3; FtVanASA 3-5, 7; YFDS 7, 9-10; YFASA 18-19

Smith, John [b] (fl. 1838 - 1844) (British: English)

Birth: probably London, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1838 - 1840); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1840 - 1843); Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1843 - 1844).

John Smith joined the HBC on November 5, 1838 in London as a seaman for five years and came to the coast on the HBC barque Vancouver. From 1840, he worked on coastal shipping, visiting a variety of ports for over two years and eventually arrived back in London on June 11, 1844, aboard the Vancouver.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 11; YFASA 18-20, 22-23; FtVanASA 5-7; YFDS 10

Smith, John [2] (fl. 1846 - 1849) (British: English)

Birth: probably Devon, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1846 - 1849).

John Smith [3] joined the HBC on October 2, 1846 and made one return voyage to the Pacific coast on the Cowlitz. After supplying several coastal posts and Oahu, he arrived back in London on May 24, 1849.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; YFASA 27-28

Smith, John [b2] (c. 1829 - ?) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Barras, Isle of Lewis, Scotland - c. 1829 (born to Murdoch Smith)

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Albert (barque) (1849); Labourer, Fort Alexandria (1850 - 1851); Labourer, Thompson River (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1852 - 1855); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1855 - 1860).

John Smith [b1] joined the HBC in 1849 and sailed to York Factory, making his way overland. At Thompson River he deserted and went to Victoria. There he and others tried to desert but he was caught and transported to Fort Simpson. On April 13, 1853, he walked away from his gate-keeping duty. When he was told to return, he refused and was put in irons in the bastion for four days until he agreed to return to the gate. Like most others at the fort at that time, he had venereal disease for which he was treated. His contract ended in 1855 and he sailed to Victoria on the steamer Otter but he may have stayed in the area for a number of years. (He may be the same John Julius Bruno Smith who was living at Plumper's Pass in 1888. This John Smith travelled extensively throughout the Pacific area and had a great many experiences.)

PS: BCA FtAlex 1; HBCA log of Prince Albert 8; log of Prince Rupert V 10; YFASA 29-32; FtVicASA 1-9; FtSimp[N]PJ 7-8; BCA The Evening Standard, Nov. 10, 1888, p. 4

Smith, John [3] (fl. 1854 - 1855) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1854 - 1855).

John Smith made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Smith, Malcolm [b] (c. 1814 - ?) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Bragie, Barras, Lewis, Scotland - c. 1814/1817

Death: possibly Fort William, Sauvie Island, Oregon

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1833 - 1834); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1834 - 1839); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1839 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1842); Dairyman, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1842); Dairyman, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1852).

Malcolm Smith (b) joined the HBC on June 20, 1832 from the outer Hebrides as a labourer, originally for five years. He boarded the Prince Rupert IV on June 23, at Stornoway as a sloop (crewman), sailing June 26. After a two month voyage, he disembarked at York Factory on August 24 and made his way to the Columbia. He spent the next twenty years largely at Fort Vancouver, spending the last few years working in the HBC's dairy industry; he retired there in 1852. In 1849, he was likely living on Sauvie Island but his movements have not been subsequently traced.

Malcolm Smith had one wife, Mary, Cowlitz (?-?), and four recorded children. Their children were Marie Malcolm (1848-?), Catherine (?-bap.1853-?), Joseph Malcolm (1854-?) and Elizabeth (1855-?).

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 13-15, 19-20, 22-32; YFDS 5b-7; FtVanASA 3-7, 9 PPS: CCR 1b

Smith, Norman [b] (fl. 1847 - 1849) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Stornoway, Scotland

Fur trade officer

HBC Labourer, Columbia Department general charges (1848 - 1849); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1849).

Norman Smith joined the HBC from Stornoway in 1847 on a contract that was to have ended in 1851. He came over the Rockies in 1848 and worked until August 31, 1849 when he deserted, most likely for the gold fields of California.

PS: HBCA YFASA 28-29; YFDS 19-20

Smith, Philip (1813 - c. 1861) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Mariwck [Mariveg], Lochs, Scotland - 1813 (born to Louis Smith and Margaret MacLennan)

Death: Cromore, Lochs, Ross, Scotland - before 1861

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1837); Boatman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Stikine (1841 - 1842); Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1843 - 1844); Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1844).

Philip Smith was probably born and raised in the family croft in Marwick [Mariveg], in the Lochs area of the Isle of Lewis. Little did the Gaelic and English speaking twenty-four year old Hebridean know when he joined the HBC on June 8, 1837 for five years, that he would leave such a wide paper trail and a swirl of controversy. After arriving at York Factory, Smith appears to have first worked east of the Rockies; the young boatman/sloop crossed the continent with John McLoughlin Sr., who was returning from England, in 1839 to Fort Vancouver and then headed north to the Alaskan Panhandle, first to Fort Taku and then to Fort Stikine, run by John McLoughlin, Jr. On November 1, 1841, this "soft and able", yet "soft and timid" (FtVanCB 29, fo. 31d) man, took a local wife, the daughter of a chief. Interpretations of Smith's character vary considerably for Governor George Simpson had reported to him that Smith was a perfectly upright character, a "a steady well conducted man" (FtVanCB 29, fo. 24d) while Dr. John McLoughlin Sr., said he had an "Ill Nature and Bad temper and [was] getting into difficulties with other men" (FtVanCB 31, fo. 177) and that he was "the most Criminal man among these [Fort Stikine's] men" (FtVanCB 31, fo. 165d). According to McLoughlin Sr., Smith saw Heroux load his gun but did nothing to warn John McLoughlin Jr. Smith, in turn, swore that McLoughlin was not only beating his men but was also was embezzling from the Company, the latter charge not entirely without foundation as George Simpson admitted that McLoughlin Jr. had been rather generous to women with Company property. Whatever the truth about Smith's character, he was indirectly involved in the murder McLoughlin, Jr. at Fort Stikine in that he knew about the murder (signing an agreement with the other men, and watching a gun being loaded) beforehand without attempting to inform the young McLoughlin of the plot against his life. Phillip Smith stayed in the area for two years after the end of his contract in 1842 while letters flew back and forth on how to punish the men of Fort Stikine. Eventually, he and fourteen others were sent to York Factory by McLoughlin to be dealt with there. No doubt when he returned to the British Isles in 1844 via the Prince Rupert Phillip Smith was relieved to leave the adventures in the New World behind him.

A year after he returned to the quiet of the Hebrides, Smith married a girl from Cromore, in the Lochs area, not far from his original home at Marwick. Here he raised his young family in a croft at 2 Cromore but died before 1861, when his wife was noted in the Census as being a widow. Eventually, the widow Smith, giving up the Cromore croft, followed her youngest son and his family to Stornoway, where she died in 1896.

Phillip Smith had two successive wives. The first was the above unnamed daughter of a local chief at Fort Stikine. His departure from the area brought about an end to the first marriage. When he returned to the Hebrides he married Gormelia MacLeod (?-1896) of Cromore. Together, they had two sons, John (1848-?) and Alex (1850-?).

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Prince Rupert IV 10; YFASA 20, 22-24; FtVanASA 6; FtStikPJ 1; FtVanCB 29, fo. 31d; FtVanCB 29, George Simpson's Jan. 5, 1843 London letter to Governor & Committee, B.223/b/29 fo. 24d; FtVanCB 30-31, John McLoughlin's Feb. 1, 1844 Fort Vancouver letter to George Simpson, fo. 165d, B.223/b/31, fo. 177; log of Prince Rupert V 4; OrkA 1861 UK Census SS: Lewis and Harris researcher

Smith, Robert (fl. 1848 - 1850) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1848 - 1850).

Robert Smith joined the HBC in London on September 6, 1848 and made one return voyage to the coast on the Columbia. He arrived back in London in spring 1850 and made a further return voyage to Hudson Bay that year.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; log of Columbia 10; YFASA 30-31; log of Prince Rupert V 11

Smith, Solomon Howard (1809 - 1876) (American)

Birth: New Hampshire, United States - December 26, 1809

Death: Oregon State, United States - August 14, 1876

Fur trade employee

HBC School teacher, Fort Vancouver (1833 - 1834); Settler, Willamette (1836 - 1837).

Solomon H. Smith, an adventurous physician, taught school at Fort Vancouver for a brief period. After studying medicine in Norwich Academy, Vermont, working as a clerk and fisherman, he came to Fort Vancouver with Nathaniel Wyeth's party in 1832 and stayed on with his friend Calvin Tibbets. From March, 1833, he succeeded schoolteacher John Ball and taught school at Fort Vancouver for eighteen or more months. In 1833 he became romantically involved (later solemnized by Jason Lee in 1837) with Chief Cobaway's daughter Celiast (Helen) who was at that time married to baker Bazil Poirier (himself having a wife in the east), taking her to Salem to live. While staying in the Gervais house, Smith opened a school there. In 1836 they moved to the mouth of Chehalem Creek on the north bank of the Willamette opposite McKay's settlement. He helped Ewing Young build a sawmill and started a farm of his own. His wife wasn't satisfied there so they settled closer to her people on Clatsop Plains in 1840. There he practiced medicine and operated a dairy farm and in 1843, he voted at Champoege for the establishment of a Provisional Government. In 1849, Smith opened a store at Skipanon and, in 1851 operated a sawmill on Lewis and Clark River. He also was a school director, a county commissioner and member of the state senate. He died August 14, 1876.

Solomon H. Smith had one wife, Celiast or Helen/Ellen, Clatsop, whom he married on February 11, 1837, and together had seven children, six of whom were Charlotte (?-?), Josephine (c.1835-?), Hélène Levina (c.1837-51), Henry (?-?), Agnes (?-?) and Silas (?-?). In addition, they raised a French Canadian by the name of Eli, one Bill Stoddard, possibly a mixed descent son of Walter Stoddard, and Jessie Bill, a Hawaiian slave they bought from a sailor named Bill.

Smith Lake in Clatsop County was named after Solomon H. Smith.

PS: HBCA YFASA 13-14; FVASA 3; YFDS 5b-7, 10 PPS: CCR 1a; "Oregon Mission Record Book," p. 264 SS: Brosnan, "The Signers", p. 182; Miller, p. 57-58; Hussey, Champoege: Place of, p. 67-68; Holman, p. 115; Overmeyer, p. 100-01

Smith, Thomas [1] (c. 1808 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Rupert's Land - c. 1808 (born to Mr. Smith and a Cree woman)

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Freeman

HBC Trapper, South Party (1828 - 1831); Hunter and trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1830 - 1831); Hunter, Snake Party (1831 - 1832); Middleman, Snake Party (1832 - 1833); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1833 - 1834); Middleman, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1834 - 1835); Hunter, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1835 - 1836); Trapper, South Party (1836 - 1837); Middleman, South Party (1836 - 1837); Trapper, South Party (1837 - 1839);

Freeman trapper, Columbia Department (1839 - 1841); Trapper, South Party (1841 - 1842); Middleman, South Party (1842 - 1844).

Thomas Smith joined the HBC in 1828 and spent his career in the 1830s as a trapper in the Columbia District. He went off record in 1844.

Thomas Smith had one wife and possibly one recorded child. On January 29, 1844, he married Marguerite, Nisqually (1827-?). If his wife was also Marguerite, Walla Walla, their recorded child was Marie (c.1845-?).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2-6; YFASA 8-9, 11-15, 19-20, 22-25; YFDS 3a-7; FtVanAB 28; CCR 1b, 3a

Smith, Thomas [2] (fl. 1833 - 1835) (British: English)

Birth: probably Kent, England

Maritime officer

HBC Carpenter, Nereide (barque) (1833 - 1835).

Thomas Smith [2] joined the HBC in London on May 4, 1833 as a carpenter for three years, a time meant to be served on Columbia Department coastal shipping. He sailed on the Nereide on May 4, 1833 on an arduous almost year long voyage to the Northwest Coast. He was kept busy the entire voyage which was delayed months as it had to stop at Plymouth and Lisbon for repairs. After his arrival at Fort Vancouver on April 23, 1834 and a quick turnaround, Smith left the Columbia River post on May 28, 1834 for an equally long return voyage. After stopping at Valparaiso, the vessel eventually arrived back in London May 28, 1835.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Nereide 1; ShMiscPap 14

Smith, Thomas [3] (fl. 1850 - 1854) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Fur trade employee

HBC Immigrant passenger, Tory (barque) (1850 - 1851); Labourer, Fort Victoria farm (1851 - 1853); Labourer, Recovery (brig) (1853 - 1854).

Thomas Smith came to Vancouver Island as a HBC servant settler aboard the Tory. After arriving at Fort Victoria on May 9, 1851, he worked at various HBC locations until 1854 when he appeared to retire, probably having served out his contract.

PS: HBCA YFASA 30-32; FtVicASA 1-2

Smith, William [a] (fl. 1827 - 1831) (British)

Birth: possibly in or near Portsea, England

Maritime employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Eagle (brig) (1827 - 1829); Seaman, HBC Naval Department (1828 - 1830); Seaman, Eagle (brig) (1830 - 1831).

William Smith joined the HBC on September 3, 1827 and made the 1827-1829 round trip from London to Fort Vancouver and back again on a supply trip. His vessel sailed from London on September 14, 1827 and arrived at Fort Vancouver on May 28, 1828. After unloading supplies, picking up furs, and taking on ballast at Fort George, the Eagle crossed the bar on August 20, 1827 and arrived at the London docks on February 13, 1829; Smith was discharged the following day. He likely rejoined the Eagle at the end of that year for he was on it when it left the Columbia for Europe on October 1, 1830.

PS: HBCA log of Eagle 1; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-2; YFASA 7-10; YFDS 2b-3a, 4a

Smith, William [b] (fl. 1830 - 1831) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Dryad (brig) (1830); Seaman, Vancouver (schooner) (1830).

William Smith [b], probably from England, most likely joined the HBC on January 9, 1830 as a seaman for three years. He deserted in outfit 1830-1831, possibly in August 1830 or five months after his arrival date of August 16th, and as a result, forfeited his wages. A William Smith appeared as a seaman on the schooner Vancouver on November 10, 1830.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; FtVanASA 2; YFASA 9; YFDS 4a; ShMiscPap 14

Smith, William [c] (fl. 1832 - 1835) (possibly African and American)

Maritime employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver (1832 - 1833); Cook, Dryad (brig) (1833 - 1835).

William Smith [c] was engaged by the HBC in Oahu on September 3, 1832. He worked until November 1, 1833 and was sent to Oahu on the Dryad. He returned to the Columbia and, on September 1, 1834, was employed building the new site of Fort Simpson on the Tsimshian peninsula. He was eventually discharged in Oahu in May, 1835.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 12-15; YFDS 5a-5c; FtSimp[N]PJ 3

Smith, William [a1] (fl. 1846 - 1848) (British: English)

Birth: possibly Stepney, Middlesex, England - ? (born to E. and J. Smith)

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1846 - 1848); Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1847 - 1848).

William Smith [3] joined the HBC in London on October 28, 1846 as a seaman on the brig Mary Dare and arrived at Fort Victoria on May 23, 1847. He worked on coastal shipping for one year until October 29, 1847 when he joined the Columbia for its return voyage from Fort Victoria. He arrived back in London on May 22, 1848.

In April 1847, his parents, E. and J. Smith of Stepney, Middlesex, wrote him a newsy and affectionate letter but it was undelivered and found its way into the HBCA. Three newspapers they sent separately may have arrived.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; log of Columbia 9; YFASA 27; HBCABio PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 215-16

Smith, William (fl. 1854 - 1859) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department general charges (1854 - 1856); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1856 - 1859).

William Smith appeared to work sporadically for the HBC at Fort Victoria and, by 1864 was dead.

It is quite possible that William Smith had one wife and children. His wife would have been a native, Anna (?-c.1865), from San Juan Island. Their children were William (1864-?) and Thomas Joseph (c.1865-1866). When Anna died around 1865, Thomas Joseph and William were adopted by Dutchman John Gerrison and his native wife.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 2-6, 9; BCA StAndC

Smyth, Charles (fl. 1851 - 1852) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1851 - 1852).

Charles Smyth made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison. While on the coast, he would have visited several coastal posts.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Sonart, George (fl. 1849 - 1850) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Rupert (1850).

George Sonart received an advance from the HBC in England in outfit 1849-1850 as part of the Company's plan to colonize and settle Vancouver Island. After reaching Fort Victoria, he sailed to Fort Rupert, a place from which he deserted on June 18, 1850.

PS: HBCA YFASA 29; YFDS 61

Soncisse, Michel (fl. 1821 - 1822) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1821 - 1822).

Michel Soncisse worked for the HBC in New Caledonia in outfit 1821-1822 and appears to have left the area at that time.

PS: HBCA YFASA 1

Soto (c. 1750 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably near the Columbia Cascades (Rapids), Pacific Northwest - c. 1750 (born to Kanopee)

Death: Pacific Northwest

Other

U.A. 18th Century exploration (? - ?).

Soto was a mixed descent offspring of a shipwrecked Spaniard and a woman from the Cascades. He was discovered by Gabriel Franchere on May 8, 1811 living at the Cascades on the Columbia River as a blind old man; he may have been born as early as 1750. The mere existence of Soto challenges the notion that the first non-native encounter on the Columbia River was with Robert Gray in 1792. The Spaniards had obviously been there before, although, they may have been part of an off-course ship from the Philippines bound for Central America. Apparently Soto's father was shipwrecked at the mouth of the Columbia and all but four of the crew were killed by the Clatsops. Soto's father, Kanopee, along with three others, went to the Cascades where he lived for a short while before striking out overland for European habitation. A very young Soto never heard from his father again and he continued to live with the natives.

PPS: ChSoc XLV, p. 83; SS: Ruby & Brown, The Chinook Indians, p. 29

See Also: Kanopee (Father)

Soulliere, Francois [standard: François] [variation: Souliere] (c. 1809 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Cuthbert, Lower Canada - c. 1809

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1832 - 1833); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1833 - 1835).

François Soulliere joined the HBC as a middleman in 1832. He appears to have served one contract in the Columbia before disappearing from records.

PS: HBCA FtSimp[N]PJ 3; YFASA 12-14; YFDS 5a-5c

Spence, John [c/a (1820-1833 as “c”; 1838-53 as “a”)] (c. 1798 - 1865) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: probably Stromness, Orkney - c. 1798

Death: Victoria, Colony of Vancouver Island - September 29, 1865

Maritime employee

HBC Boatbuilder, Fort Vancouver (1825 - 1833); Boatbuilder, Columbia Department (1825 - 1833); Passenger to Orkney, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1834); Carpenter on runs to and from Hudson Bay, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1835 - 1838); Carpenter on London to Columbia voyage, Vancouver (barque) (1838 - 1839); Carpenter, Cadboro (schooner) (1839 - 1840); Boatbuilder, Fort Vancouver depot (1840 - 1842); Boatbuilder, Cadboro (schooner) (1842 - 1843); Carpenter, Columbia (barque) (1843); Carpenter, Vancouver (barque) (1843 - 1847); Carpenter, Beaver (steamer) (1847 - 1861); Pensioner, Fort Victoria (1861 - 1863).

Twenty-two year old Stromness boatbuilder, John Spence, first joined the HBC on June 6, 1820. He made his way to North America where he worked from 1821-1825 as a boatbuilder at Cumberland post, Saskatchewan. In 1825, he crossed the continent to spend the next seven years working out of Forts Vancouver and Simpson. In 1833, after thirteen years of working in North America and with mixed emotions leaving a native wife behind, Spence began his return to Europe, crossing the country and wintering at Churchill and York Factory. Between 1835-1838 he worked on HBC Hudson Bay runs which enabled him to see his Orkney relations, and at the end of the year [now with an “a” designation] made his way back to the Northwest Coast. Once again, from July to August 1844, he was back in Stromness visiting his sister for the last time. From September 1844, when he sailed for the Columbia, he worked as a carpenter, until 1861, when he finally retired in Victoria as a pensioner. In all, he appears to have been a very competent carpenter as, for example, he built a small boat for the schooner Cadboro. From 1854, having chosen the Pacific coast as his permanent residence, he began buying property in Victoria and married in 1863. His married life did not last long for on September 26, 1865 he wrote out his will, which he signed with a shaky hand. Three days later, at the age of sixty-seven, he died, his funeral being held at his residence on Superior Street. He was buried on October 2 in the Naval corner of the old Quadra Street Cemetery in Victoria.

Between 1825-1833, John Spence partnered with a native, Margaret, but they had no children. Many years later on February 17, 1863 in Victoria he married Maria Robinson (sister of George Robinson). They did not appear to have children.

Two undelivered 1843 letters, from sister Betsy Clouston of Stromness and John Rendall of London respectively, rest in the HBCA. Also found in the archives is a September 17, 1835 letter written by Spence himself at York Factory to friend Joseph Spence, who would leave the Columbia before the letter arrived.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 5-8, 11-12; logs of Prince Rupert IV 7-11; YFDS 2a, 3a, 4b-5a, 10; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-8; HBCCont; YFASA 20, 22-23, 25-32; log of Columbia 6; log of Vancouver [3] 2; FtVicASA 1-12; HBCABio; log of Cadboro 5; MiscI 5; BCA BCGR-CrtR-Land; BCGR-VICSMarriageL; Van-PL Colonist, February 18, 1863, p. 3, September 30, 1865, p. 3
SS: Fawcett, p. 138; John Spence's will; Beattie & Buss, p. 70-77

Spence, John [e] (fl. 1851 - 1860) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: possibly Stromness, Orkney

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince of Wales II (barque) (1851); Labourer, Fort Victoria general charges (1852 - 1853); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1853 - 1857); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1857 - 1859); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1859 - 1860).

John Spence [e] sailed from Stromness to Hudson Bay and came overland to the Northwest Coast. He worked for the HBC until 1859 when he worked part-time. By August 1857, he was probably working on coastal shipping while his wife remained at Fort Simpson. At that time his entrepreneurial spouse sold four bottles of rum or brandy from inside the fort, creating considerable intoxication around the post. Spence remained ashore from May 1858 for about a year.

The name of Spence's wife has not been traced.

PS: HBCA log of Prince of Wales II 2; YFASA 32; FtVicASA 1-5, 7; FtAlex[N]PJ 8

Spence, Joseph (1803 - ?) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: "Beboran", Harray, Orkney - March 8, 1803 (born to Jacob Spence and Jacobina [Flett] Spence)

Maritime employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1828); Sailor, Columbia Department (1829 - 1830); Seaman, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1833); Seaman, Vancouver (schooner) (1833); Seaman, Fort Simpson naval service (1833 - 1834); Carpenter, Lama (brig) (1834 - 1835); Carpenter, Cadboro (schooner) (1835); Carpenter, Beaver (steamer) (1835 - 1836); Carpenter, Columbia (barque) (1836).

Joseph Spence joined the HBC on January 14, 1828 as a sailor for five years and six months later he sailed to Hudson Bay. From there, he made his way overland to Fort Vancouver. He worked in the Columbia Department for nine years in coastal shipping until June 1836 when he left on the barque Columbia. In a matter of weeks he deserted in Oahu and has not been traced further.

An undelivered 1835 letter from a John Spence, then on the Prince Rupert, rests in the HBCA.

PS: OrkA OPR Orkney-Harray, HBCA log of Prince Rupert IV 2; HBCCont; HBCAbio; YFASA 9, 11-17; FtVanASA 2-3; YFDS 4a-7; FtVanCB 9; ShMiscPap 14; MiscI 5

Spence, Peter (fl. 1851 - 1854) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Fur trade employee

HBC Steerage passenger, Norman Morison (barque) (1851); Sponsored settler, Fort Victoria general charges (1851 - 1852); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1852 - 1853); Untraced vocation, Beaver (steamer) (1853 - 1854).

Peter Spence came to the Pacific Coast as a HBC sponsored settler aboard the Norman Morison. From October 30, 1850, he worked off his expenses on the steamer Beaver.

PS: HBCA log of Norman Morison 2; YFASA 31-32; YFDS 22; FtVicASA 1-2

Spence, William [e] (c. 1829 - ?) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: probably Birsay, Orkney

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince of Wales II (barque) (1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria general charges (1852 - 1853); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1853 - 1857); Steerage passenger, Princess Royal (barque) (1857 - 1858); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1858 - 1859).

William Spence [e] sailed from Stromness to Hudson Bay and made his way overland to the Pacific slopes. He worked in the Fort Victoria area for the HBC from 1852 to March 1857. The area must have been to his liking for he returned to the British Isles to bring back his wife on the return voyage of the Princess Royal. After their arrival on February 11, 1858, he continued working with the HBC for the next year to January 1, 1859, when he was dismissed. He appears to have become a tailor and raised a family in the Victoria area.

The name of William Spence's wife has not been traced but two children appear to have been William Jr. (c.1858-?) and Elizabeth (c.1864-?).

PS: HBCA log of Prince of Wales II 2; YFASA 32; FtVicASA 1-6, 9; log of Princess Royal 3-4

Spenser, Edward [variation: Spencer] (c. 1822 - 1898) (probably Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly York Factory [Manitoba] - c. 1822

Death: Washington State, United States - 1898

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); Apprentice, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1845); Steward, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1849); Defence keeper, Fort Vancouver depot (1847 - 1849); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver depot (1847 - 1849); Interpreter in charge, Fort George [Astoria] (1849 - 1850); Interpreter in charge, Fort Vancouver (1849 - 1850); Interpreter, Vancouver Island trade (1850 - 1851); Post master, Cawecoman store [Cowlitz River] (1851 - April 1858); Post master, Fort Nisqually (February 1858 - June 1858); PSAC Post master, Fort Nisqually (1858 - 1862).

Son of an HBC officer and hired on in the York Factory area in 1839, Edward Spenser spent his working career in the Columbia area. In 1849 he went south to look for gold but returned to Fort Vancouver on January 16, 1850; and, in the 1850 census, Spenser appeared to be living alone without a family. He retired in 1850-1851 but re-emerged as a post master at a variety of posts. He sold a large volume of goods from the Cawecoman store, but when it was found out that he sold a large amount on credit, which was very difficult to collect, he was reprimanded. He retired in the 1860s and went on to live with several mixed descent fur traders in the vicinity of Roy.

PS: HBCA YFASA 19-20, 22-30, 32; FtVanASA 6-17; YFDS 20-22; FtVicDS 1; FtVanCB 41; HBCABio; BCA Diar-Rem Lowe 1; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Clark Co.

Spenser, John (1790 - ?) (British: English)

Birth: England-1790 (born to Alex Lean, Secretary of the HBC)

Death: possibly Upper Canada [Ontario]

Fur trade officer

HBC Chief Trader, Columbia Department (1826 - 1827).

Son of Alex Lean, Secretary of the HBC, John Spenser, and once 'a Blue Coat Boy', was educated at Christ's Hospital. He joined the HBC around 1806 and between 1806-1824, served at a variety of posts east of the Rockies. He became Chief Trader in 1826 and was appointed to the Columbia District in outfit 1826-1827 after he was accused of mismanaging Lac La Ronge. In 1827 he went on furlough. He retired in 1828 and rejoined in 1834. He was retired to Red River in 1857 and Goderich, Upper Canada [Ontario] in 1861. He was still alive in 1863 and apparently still writing a good script in his seventies.

PS: HBCA YFASA 6 PPS: HBRS III, p. 40; HBRS I, p. 468-70

Spenser, William (c. 1823 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Hudson Bay, Rupert's Land - c. 1823

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice, Fort Vancouver general charges (1840); Passenger/Servant, Vancouver (barque) (1840); Apprentice, Honolulu (1840 - 1842); Apprentice, Fort Vancouver general charges (1842 - 1843); Apprentice, Fort Vancouver depot (1843 - 1844).

A native from the Hudson Bay area, William Spenser entered the service of the HBC in 1838, serving his first two years as an apprentice in the Lake Superior area. He came to the coast as a servant of Alexander Simpson and travelled with him to Honolulu on the barque Vancouver. He left the Columbia in 1844 and worked at four posts east of the Rockies as an interpreter, post master and clerk until 1874. He most likely retired in 1874.

PS: HBCA YFASA 19-20, 22-23; ShMiscPap 14; FtVanASA 6-8; HBCABio

Spicer, Henry (fl. 1811 - 1813) (probably American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Maritime employee

PFC Carpenter, Beaver (ship) (1811 - 1812); Carpenter, Fort George [Astoria] (1812 - 1813); Carpenter, Albatross (brig) (1813).

Henry Spicer was hired in New York in October 1811 to work at Astoria, sailing on John Jacob Astor's ship Beaver [Cornelius Sowles] on October 10th. After landing at Astoria on May 9, 1812, his subsequent work did not appear in the journals at the time. On August 25, 1813, he left Fort Astoria with Wilson Price Hunt on the Winship vessel Albatross [William Smith]. From there he would have sailed to the Marquesas Islands, thence to the Sandwich Islands in 1813. It is not known if he stayed with the vessel when it traded in the Islands throughout 1814.

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria PPS: K. W. Porter, John Jacob Astor, p. 475-78 SS: Howay, A List of Trading Vessels

Spillet, James R. (fl. 1857 - 1862) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Apprentice, Princess Royal (barque) (1857 - 1862).

James R. Spillet made four return voyages to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal, as part of his seaman apprenticeship.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; log of Princess Royal 4-7

Spindelov, William (fl. 1839 - 1842) (Canadian or British: English)

Birth: possibly Quebec City, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

HBC Farm servant, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1842); Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1842).

William Spindelov joined the HBC from Lower Canada on May 23, 1838 as a farm servant for five years. He appears to have served out his time at Fort Vancouver, and in the spring or summer of 1842, he went east over the Rockies, sailing "home" to the British Isles in 1842 on the Prince Rupert.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 19-22; FtVanASA 6-7; log of Prince Rupert V 1

Spring, John (fl. 1848 - 1849) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1847 - 1848); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1848).

John Spring joined the HBC barque Vancouver in Oahu in March, 1848 and sailed to the coast. As the vessel came to grief at the mouth of the Columbia in May, Spring was assigned the following month to the Cadboro. On Saturday, October 28, 1848 at Fort Langley, on the pretext of having to wash his clothes, he refused to load the schooner on a Saturday afternoon, which was normally a free time. As a result of this, he and two others who supported him were sent to the fort by James Douglas to be confined to a house; their bedding followed. They were replaced by five Sandwich Islanders but, not liking their new situation, Spring and friends returned to the ship and were once again taken back to the fort. He may have been sent home shortly after this for he appears in the HBC abstracts simply as having returned to England in outfit 1848-1849. A pencilled notation "see servol. retired" appeared on the 1849-1850 abstracts.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 11; YFASA 28-29; log of Cadboro 6

Spun yarn [1] (fl. 1815) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Maritime employee

NWC Crew member, Columbia (schooner) (1815).

Hawaiian Spun yarn [1] worked as a crew member on the NWC schooner Columbia when it was on the Northwest Coast trading furs in 1815. His relationship to Spun yarn [2] and [3] is unknown; they are possibly the same person. However, if he is all three, he would have been eight years old at the time.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 1, 5

Spun yarn [2] [variation: Spunlare] (fl. 1807 - 1853) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands - 1807

Death: Fort Vancouver, Washington Territory - June 15, 1853

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Middleman, Fort Colville (1831 - 1834); Middleman or labourer, Fort Nez Percés (1834 - 1835); Middleman, Snake Party (1835 - 1839); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1839 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1843); Cooper, Fort Vancouver (1843 - 1849); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1849 - 1850); Cooper, Fort Vancouver (1849 - 1853).

Spun yarn [2], who may also be the above Spun yarns, joined the HBC from Oahu in 1830. He worked at various locations in the Columbia Department for a number of years until he became a cooper at Fort Vancouver in 1843. By 1851 he was the only full-fledged cooper left at Fort Vancouver, being paid £30 a year. His obviously non-Hawaiian name in English denotes cloth, a common trade item, but to the Catholic priests at Fort Vancouver it became "Spaniard" or "L'Espangol." He died and was buried on June 15, 1853, a time when many Hawaiians were dying at the fort from diseases brought by the US Army from the Isthmus of Panama. The 1850 US Census has him born in 1823 and the Catholic Church records have him born around 1814.

Spun yarn had one named wife, Emilie, possibly more, and five children. The Spun yarn children were Olive [1840-?], François Xavier (c.1843-?), Catherine (1843), Louis (c.1847-?), and Jean (c.1849-?).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2-6, 9-10; YFDS 4a-7, 11, 22; YFASA 11-15, 19-20, 22-32; OHS 1850 Census, Clark Co.; OHS FtHallAB
PPS: CCR 1b, 4a

Spun yarn [3] (fl. 1825) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Maritime employee

MW Labourer, Convoy (brig) (1825).

Spun yarn shipped aboard the Josiah Marshall brig, Convoy [Wm. H. McNeill] at Oahu after it arrived at that Island on March 16, 1825 to unload cargo and take on supplies for the Northwest Coast. After sailing April 1 as a labourer, Spun yarn and the vessel traded on the Northwest Coast for a season, returning to Honolulu November 2. It is not known whether he continued to sail with the Convoy and has not been subsequently traced.

PS: BCA log of Convoy SS: Howay, A List of Trading Vessels

Ssanonton, Louis (fl. 1830 - 1831) (Native: probably Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1830 - 1831).

Louis Ssanonton appears on record as working for the HBC in 1830-1831 in the Columbia District.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2, fo. 15d

St. Amant, Joseph [variation: Amand] (fl. 1810 - 1822) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

PFC Untraced vocation, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (1810 - 1812); Steersman, Fort George [Astoria] (October 12, 1813); NWC Steersman, Willamette Post (winter 1813 - 1814); HBC Trapper, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1821 - 1822); Untraced vocation, Snake Party (1822).

Joseph St. Amant joined Wilson Price Hunt's PFC overland expedition in Mackinac around July 31, 1810. He crossed the Continental Divide with the group in late summer, 1811, arriving at Fort Astoria in early 1812. In May of that year he almost cut his foot off but appeared to recover quickly. Two years later, on March 30, 1814, he joined the NWC for the summer. As such he was free to hunt in the Willamette in the winter. He was at Fort George on April 4, 1814 and left on the express as a helmsman to Fort William on May 1, 1814. It has not been determined when he returned but he appeared later as a member of a Snake party which did not come out in 1822. He most likely deserted to the Missouri fur traders.

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria; HBCA NWCAB 10; FtGeo[Ast]AB 4; FtSpokRD 1 PPS: K. W. Porter, Roll of Overland, p. 111; ChSoc LVII, p. 706

St. Andre, Pierre [standard: St. André] (c. 1811 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Paul, Lower Canada - c. 1811

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1832 - 1833); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1833 - 1834); Middleman, Fort McLoughlin (1834 - 1835); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1836); Middleman, Snake Party (1837 - 1839); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1839 - 1843).

Pierre St. André joined the HBC from St. Paul in 1832. He quietly worked at various posts throughout the Columbia Department and in the spring of 1843, when his contract ended, returned east of the Rockies to Canada to his place of initial appointment. Like many others he returned to the Columbia to settle and raise a family. According to Munnick, in 1852, he was a settler at Chinookville, Washington.

On February 11, 1839 he married Marie Mathlomet (?-?) at Fort Vancouver. Their children were Pierre (1837-?), Ellen (1840-?), and Louis (1843-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 12-15, 19-20, 22; YFDS 5a-7; FtVanASA 3-6, 8 PPS: CCR 1a, 1b, 2a
See Also: Davies, Alexander (Son-in-Law)

St. Arnaude, Joseph [variation: St. Arno, St. Arnaud, St. Arnoud] (c. 1832 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Sorel, Lower Canada - c. 1832

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1847 - 1848); Middleman, New Caledonia (1848 - 1850); Middleman, Fort Rupert (1850 - 1853); Labourer, Nanaimo (1853 - 1854); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1854 - 1866); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1869).

Joseph St. Arnaude joined the HBC in 1847 and, around the time of the revolt of the Scottish miners, came to Fort Rupert. He was sent from there in March 1853 to Nanaimo on the Recovery to help set up the new coal mine and then headed north. He continued working on and off at coastal points and was working at Fort Simpson in September 1869. By 1871, a then literate St. Arnaude was living at Metlakatla where he married.

On August 15, 1871 at Metlakatla, Joseph St. Arnaude married Pellamnay (c.1837-?), Kisechlebo.

PS: HBCA YFASA 27-32; FtVicASA 1-5, 7-9; FtVicCB 7, 23; FtSimp[N]PJ 8-9; BCA Diar-Rem Morison, p. 67; BCGR-Marriage

St. Aubin, Guillaume (c. 1821 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1821

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1842); Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1842 - 1843).

Guillaume St. Aubin joined the HBC from Montreal in 1840 on a three year contract. In the spring of 1843, at the end of the contract, he returned east of the Rockies to Canada.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22; FtVanASA 6-8

St. Denis, Hyacinth (c. 1803 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Rigaud, Lower Canada - c. 1803

Fur trade employee

HBC Boute, Columbia Department (1830 - 1831); Boute, New Caledonia (1831 - 1835).

Hyacinth St. Denis appears to have joined the HBC in 1830 from Rigaud, and either deserted or was delayed in the Athabasca (Peace River) in outfit 1830-1831. By 1831, he was in New Caledonia where he worked until 1835.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; YFASA 10-14; YFDS 4b-5c

St. Dennis, Hyacinth (c. 1799 - ?) (probably Canadian: French)

Birth: probably in or near Rivière à la Graise, Lower Canada - c. 1799

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1828 - 1829); On Montreal Pay List, Columbia Department (1829 - 1830).

Hyacinth St. Dennis joined the fur trade in 1819 or 1820 and first worked in the north (on November 6, 1822, he signed a one year contract as middleman at Fort Resolution, Great Slave Lake) before coming to the Columbia.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 5, 7-9

St. Gelin, Alexis (c. 1821 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec] - c. 1821

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1841 - 1842); Middleman, Cowlitz Farm (1842 - 1844); Boute, New Caledonia (1844 - 1845); Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1845 - 1846); Boute, Fort Vancouver general charges (1846 - 1847); Boute, Columbia Department (1847 - 1848); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department general charges (1847 - 1848); Boute, Columbia Department (1848 - 1849).

Alexis St. Gelin joined the HBC in 1839. In his eight year career with the Company he worked at a variety of locations throughout the greater Columbia area. In the spring of 1847 St. Gelin accompanied Thomas Lowe on the express to York Factory. He returned and his contract was to have ended in 1852 but he deserted on February 21, 1849, (YFASA 28, p. 91b) most likely for the gold fields of California.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-7; YFASA 22-28; YFDS 15, 19; Diar-Rem Lowe 3

St. Germain, Adolphe (c. 1816 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lachine, Lower Canada - c. 1816

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Snake Party (1838 - 1839); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1839); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1839 - 1840).

Adolphe St. Germain joined the HBC from Lachine in 1837 on a three year contract. In outfit 1838-1839 he helped to transport Snake Party members to and from Fort Vancouver and returned to Canada in 1840.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 4-5; YFDS 9; YFASA 19

St. Germain, Saulteux [variation: Sateau, Souteau] (fl. 1823 - 1832) (Native: Saulteaux)

Birth: possibly Upper Canada [Ontario]

Death: Snake Country, Pacific Northwest - July 8, 1832

Freeman

HBC Trapper, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1821 - 1822); Trapper, Snake Party (1823); Freeman trapper, Snake Party (1824 - 1825); Freeman trapper, Snake Party (1830 - 1832).

Saulteux St. Germain, the brother of Jacko Finlay's mother, was in the fur trade from at least 1821. By 1824, Alexander Ross found both Saulteaux and his nephew both unfit for outfitting for his Snake Expedition and didn't want him along. They came along anyway and when they were not advanced ammunition and threatened to head back from the party, Ross threatened to strip them naked in humiliation. The threat appeared to work for neither were further reprimanded in the expedition. At the end of the Ross expedition, Saulteaux continued on with Ogden's 1824-1825 Expedition and on July 16, 1825 he had become ill and on the west fork of the Missouri, left the party, only to continue with William Kittson. He continued to work in the Snake Country appearing in the Work journals as having close calls with natives. He worked until 1832 when, it is assumed, he was killed by the Snake Indians.

PS: HBCA SnkCoPJ 1, 2, 9-11; YFASA 12-13; YFDS 5a

See Also: Finlay, Augustin Yoostah (Relative); Finlay, Francois Benetsee (Relative); Finlay, Keyackie (Relative); Finlay, Miaquam (Relative); Finlay, Raphael Jr (Relative)

St. Gre, Gabriel [standard: Gré] [variation: Sansregret] (c. 1817 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Red River Settlement [Manitoba] - c. 1817

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman and bouté in Athabasca River, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1840 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Victoria (1843 - 1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1851 - 1853).

Gabriel St. Gré joined the HBC in 1839. He worked at a post on the Alaskan panhandle for three years and spent the next ten years of his fourteen year career with the Company at Fort Victoria. He retired from the Company in 1853 and in 1859, purchased one-hundred acres in the Shownigan District.

Gabriel St. Gré had one wife, Marianne (?-?), Saanich, and seven children. Their children were Josephine (1849-49), Caroline (1850-50), Marie Angele (1853-57), Joseph (1856-57), Pierre (1858-58), Magdaline (?-bap.1860) and Catherine (?-bap.1864-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 19-20, 22-32; YFDS 10; FtVanASA 6-7; FtVicASA 1-2; BCA BCGR-CrtR-AbstLnd; BCCR StAndC

St. Gre, Louis [standard: Gré] (c. 1820 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Red River Settlement [Manitoba] - c. 1820

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman and bouté in Athabasca River, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1842).

Louis St. Gré joined the HBC from the Red River settlement, as did Gabriel, on a three-year contract in 1839. In the spring or summer of 1842, at the end of his contract, he returned east over the Rockies.

PS: HBCA YFASA 19-20; YFDS 10; FtVanASA 6-7

St. Martin, Joseph (c. 1786 - 1825) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Sorel, Province of Quebec - c. 1786

Death: September 1825

Fur trade employee

NWC Bowsman, Fort George [Astoria] (1813 - 1814); Bowsman, Brigade to Fort William (1814); Bowsman, Fort George [Astoria] (1816); HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria]

(1822 - 1825).

Joseph St. Martin may have been with David Thompson in 1808; on August 8, 1812 he contracted with the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] to work at Sault St. Marie or Fort William and was re-contracted the following year to work as a middleman and bowsman in the Northwest. After wintering 1813-1814 at Fort George [Astoria] he joined the large ten canoe Brigade for Fort William and Montreal as a guide but was soon back on the Pacific slopes. Little survives on record, but in 1816, he was a member of Alexander Ross' party out to bring back Jacob, the Russian Blacksmith, who cut St. Martin severely on the arm during the capture. From 1821 on he continued to work for the HBC and in 1824 he was attached to the Fort George store. He drowned September 1825 at an unknown location.

Joseph St. Martin had one wife and two recorded daughters. He married a Chinook woman with whom he had two daughters - Genevieve (c.1814-?) and Marie (c.1821-c.1907).

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 5a, 9, 10; HBCA YFASA 1, 4-5; FtGeo[Ast]AB 10-12; HBCAbio PPS: A. Ross, The Fur Hunters, p. 63-64; Coues, p. 875; CCR 1a, 2a

St. Martin, Sauveur (c. 1804 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lachine, Lower Canada - c. 1804

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Fort Nisqually (1838 - 1840).

Sauveur St. Martin joined the HBC from Lachine in 1837 on a three year contract which ended in 1840.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 4-5; YFASA 19

St. Michel, Louis (fl. 1810 - 1822) (probably Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

PFC Middleman, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (1810 - 1812); Middleman, Snake Country (1813); NWC Middleman, Willamette Post (1813 - 1814); Middleman, Brigade to Fort William (1814); HBC Trapper, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1821 - 1822); Untraced vocation, Snake Party (1822).

Louis St. Michel joined Wilson Price Hunt's PFC overland expedition likely in St. Louis around September 8, 1810. Late that summer, he and the group crossed the Continental Divide and was at Mad (Snake) River on September 30, 1811. At that time he detached from the main group to trap beaver with Alexander Carson. He was robbed by the Crow in the spring of 1812 and was subsequently picked up by the John Reed party and taken by Donald McKenzie to Astoria, where he arrived January 16, 1813. He appeared not to have yet joined the NWC by the winter of 1813-1814 and he left Fort George [Astoria] for Montreal on April 4, 1814. He may have continued with the NWC for he reappeared again at Spokane House in outfit 1821-1822. In 1822 he is suspected of having deserted, possibly to the Missouri based fur trade.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10; HBCA NWCAB 10; FtGeo[Ast]AB 4; FtSpokRD 1 PPS: K. W. Porter, Roll of Overland, p. 111

St. Pierre, Francois [standard: François] (c. 1805 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Riviere du Loup, Lower Canada - c. 1805

Fur trade employee

HBC Cooper, Fort Vancouver general charges (1832 - 1833); Cooper, Fort Vancouver (1833 - 1837); Cooper, Fort Vancouver general charges (1837 - 1838); Cooper, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1840).

François St. Pierre joined the HBC from Riviere du Loup in 1832 and worked as cooper at Fort Vancouver for the next eight years. At the end of his contract in 1840 he may have returned to Canada.

On June 4, 1838, while he was at Fort Vancouver, he married Ursule GrosLouis (?-?) in an Anglican ceremony by Rev. Herbert Beaver. The marriage was performed again on December 27th by the Catholic priests.

PS: HBCA YFASA 12-15, 19; YFDS 5a-7; FtVanASA 3-5; BCA BCCR CCCath PPS: CCR 1a

St. Pierre, Olivier (c. 1807 - 1830) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Trois Rivières, Lower Canada - c. 1807 (born to Joseph St. Pierre and Marie-Anne Blondin)

Death: Columbia River, Pacific Northwest - October 25, 1830

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830).

Olivier St. Pierre joined the HBC from Trois Rivières as a middleman possibly around 1830 and before he had a chance to pursue his career, drowned in the Columbia River on October 25th of that year.

Olivier St. Pierre left behind a wife, Nelly [Eleanore] Duplessis, in Trois Rivières, whom he had married in 1827.

An undelivered 1831 Trois Rivières letter from unsuspecting wife Nelly, now resting in the HBCA reveals heightened, perhaps prescient concerns. “sÿ je navais Pas Craint Les reproche Jamais je naurais Consentie a ton Depart [If I hadn’t feared reproach I would never have consented to your departure]” (Beattie & Buss, p. 299-300).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; FtVanAB 28; YFDS 4a; YFASA 10; MiscI 5; HBCABio PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 299-302

Stageold, Peter [variation: Stagevold] (fl. 1853 - 1854) (possibly Norwegian)

Birth: possibly Norway

Other

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1853 - 1854).

Peter Stageold may have been one of the Norwegians who came out on the Colinda. Nothing more is known of him.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1-2

Stanfield, Thomas (fl. 1832 - 1834) (British: English)

Birth: probably in or near Bermondsey, Surrey, England

Maritime employee

HBC Cook, Ganymede (barque) (1832 - 1834).

Thomas Stanfield joined the HBC in London on September 15, 1832 as a cook for three years. He sailed to the Pacific on the supply barque Ganymede and, while at Honolulu in April 1833, rowed the ship’s small boat ashore without permission and had to be sent back by force by the British Consul. During the five months he spent on the coast, he no doubt went ashore at many of the posts to which the supplies were delivered. Stanfield stayed with the vessel, arrived back in London with the fur returns and, on February 24, 1834, was discharged.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Ganymede 1; YFASA 12; YFDS 5b; ShMiscPap 14

Staniford, Benjamin [variation: Stamford, Stanford] (fl. 1831 - 1834) (British: English)

Birth: possibly England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Eagle (brig) (1831 - 1832); Steward, Dryad (brig) (1832 - 1833); Passenger, Ganymede (barque) (1833 - 1834).

Benjamin Staniford joined the HBC on September 24, 1831 in England as a steward for three years. He arrived in the Columbia aboard the brig Eagle and began work on coastal shipping servicing coastal posts after transferring to the brig Dryad on October 26, 1832. He worked as a steward for almost a year to September 10, 1833, before returning to England on the brig Ganymede.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFDS 5a-5b; YFASA 12-13; log of Dryad 1; ShMiscPap 14

Stanton, George (fl. 1841 - 1842) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1841).

George Stanton, who may not have made it to the coast, joined the HBC in Honolulu on July 14, 1841 and was discharged there at an unknown date that same year. He may have been the George Staunton who joined the Charles Wilkes U.S. Navy exploring expedition as an ordinary seaman in Sydney and then deserted at Oahu around 1840. It is also possible, but not likely, that he was a cook on the Labouchere in 1858-59. If he was, he would have been discharged in Victoria around 1859.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 12; YFASA 22; PortB 1; Wilkes, Narrative of the United, p. lii

Stanton, William (fl. 1854 - 1857) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Boy, Princess Royal (barque) (1854 - 1855); Boy, Princess Royal (barque) (1856 - 1857).

William Stanton made two return voyages to the Northwest Coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; log of Princess Royal 3

Stensholdt, Ole Larson [variation: Larsen Stenscholdt] (fl. 1855 - 1856) (probably Norwegian)

Birth: probably Norway

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1854 - 1856).

Ole Larson Stensholdt appeared to work sporadically for the HBC and may have been part of the Norwegian group that set out on the Colinda.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 2-3

Stensgair, John [b] [variation: Stainger] (1816 - ?) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: Birsay, Orkney - December 21, 1816 (born to John Stensgair and Mary [Harcus] Stensgair)

Death: probably Vancouver area, Washington

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1838); Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1845); Miller, Fort Vancouver (1845 - 1851).

John Stensgair (b) joined the HBC on March 15, 1838 as a labourer, originally for five years. After sailing to York Factory that spring, he came across country with about thirty people, arriving in Fort Vancouver in 1839. After farming, working as a canoe man and a miller, he became a freeman around January 1851, retiring in the area. He was still alive in the 1880s.

Around 1843, Stensgair began living with an unnamed native woman, whom he married two years later. Together they had seven children, all of whom were baptised Catholic.

PS: OrkA OPR Orkney-Birsay; HBCA HBCCont; log of Prince Rupert IV 11; YFASA 19-20, 22-30; FtVanASA 6-7, 9; YFDS 18, 21 PPS: In the Supreme Court, p. 61-67

Stensgair, Thomas (c. 1819 - 1891) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: probably Birsay, Orkney - c. 1819

Death: probably Addy area, Washington

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince of Wales IV (ship) (1838); Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Colville (1840 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Colville (1842 - 1847); Assistant trader, Fort Colville (1847 - 1848); Middleman, Fort Colville (1848 - 1849); Assistant trader, Fort Colville (1849 - 1851); Labourer, Fort Colville (1852).

Thomas Stensgair joined the HBC on March 29, 1838 as a labourer. He sailed from Orkney to York Factory on the same ship as Angus McDonald, who later took charge of Colville, a post to which Thomas was attached for twelve years. He retired in 1852 and settled on a homestead two miles [3.2 km] north of Addy.

Thomas Stensgair, according to Antoine Plante biographer, Jerome Peltier, had two wives and four children. His first wife, a Spokane native woman who died of smallpox, apparently left him no children. Stensgair then married Antoine Plante's wife Mary Thérèse (a.k.a. Julia?) (c.1830-?), Pend Oreille, sometime between 1840 and 1855 and they apparently had ten children. Eight of their children were Tom (?-?), John (?-?), James (?-?) Maggie (1855), Charles (?-?), Nancy (?-?), Isaac (1865-?) and Alec (?-?).

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Prince Rupert IV, 11; YFASA 19-20, 22-26, 28-32; YFDS 18; FtVanASA 6-7, 9; SS: The History of North Washington, p. 201; 281; Peltier, Antoine Plante, p. 12
See Also: Plante, Antoine [2] (Relative)

Sterling, James [variation: Sterling] (fl. 1829 - 1838) (British: English)

Birth: possibly Kent, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Isabella (brig) (1829 - 1830); Seaman, Dryad (brig) (1830 - 1832); Seaman, Eagle (brig) (1832 - 1834); Seaman, Lama (brig) (1834 - 1837); Seaman, Beaver (steamer) (1837 - 1838); Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1838 - 1839).

James Sterling joined the HBC on October 31, 1829 as a seaman and sailed to the coast on the Isabella which was wrecked at the mouth of the Columbia in May 1830. He spent the next eight years servicing the Columbia and making voyages back and forth to England. Little is mentioned of him in the records but in January 1838, he and William Wilson were caned for drunken insolence and shortly afterwards joined a mutiny aboard the Beaver. He left the Pacific coast for the British Isles aboard the barque Columbia on November 1, 1838.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Isabella 1; ShMiscPap 14; FtVanASA 2-5; YFASA 11-12, 14-15, 18; YFDS 4b-5a, 5c-8; log of Dryad 1; FtSimp[N]PJ 3

Sterne, Henry [variation: Storm] (fl. 1844 - 1846) (Belgian)

Birth: probably in or near Antwerp, Belgium

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1844); Seaman, Cowlitz (1844 - 1846).

Henry, whose last name was variously spelled Sterne (from Abstracts) or Storm (according to the Ship's Logs) signed on with the HBC in 1844 on a four-year contract. He first worked on the Cadboro and on September 10, 1844 at Fort Victoria, was reassigned to the barque Cowlitz on which he returned the British Isles.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-25; log of Cadboro 5

Stewart, Alexander [variation: Stuart] (c. 1780 - 1840) (Undetermined origin)

Birth: c. 1780

Death: June 7, 1840

Fur trade officer

NWC Partner, Fort George [Astoria] (1813 - 1814); Partner, Fort George [Astoria] (1813 - 1815); Partner, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1813 - 1815); Partner, Fort Okanagan (1813 - 1815).

Alexander Stewart entered the fur trade as an apprentice clerk in 1796 and rose through the ranks east of the Rockies. In 1813 he was named a partner of the NWC at which point he came to the Columbia area with Alexander Henry. Between 1813-1815 he was at Fort Astoria, Spokane and Okanagan. On January 3, 1814, Stuart and James Keith left on an expedition to supply interior posts; at a portage of the Cascades on the Columbia he was shot twice with arrows (once in the shoulder and once in the side), his stone pipe stopping a fatal penetration. He became very ill afterwards but had recovered by April during the journey back. From 1815 he worked east of the Rockies becoming Chief Factor at amalgamation. Around 1832 he was granted a leave of absence from Albany because of ill health and retired on June 1, 1833.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 10; HBCABio PPS: HBRS XXX, p. 170; ChSoc XLV, p. 131, 136-39, 142, 145n, 155n, 157-58, 162; ChSoc LVII, p. 628, 628n, 632-35, 638, 638n, 640-65, 666, 670, 671, 678, 685

Stewart, John (fl. 1852 - 1853) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime officer

HBC 3rd mate, Norman Morison (barque) (1852 - 1853).

John Stewart sailed to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison. He was likely on the coast when he deserted the vessel.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Stewart, Robert (fl. 1831 - 1837) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near White Horn, Galloway, Scotland

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Ganymede (barque) (1830 - 1831); Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1831 - 1832); Seaman, Fort Simpson naval service (1832 - 1833); Seaman, Dryad (brig) (1833 - 1835); Untraced vocation, Cadboro (schooner) (1835); Seaman, Dryad (brig) (1835 - 1836).

Robert Stewart joined the HBC on November 20, 1830 and sailed to the Coast on the barque Ganymede beginning work on October 15, 1831. He worked on coastal shipping and on October 1, 1835, he was transferred from the schooner Cadboro to the Dryad and departed for England. He arrived on April 1836 and soon joined the crew of the Eagle for its last arduous last voyage to Hudson Bay. Here Stewart and others had to winter on shore before returning to London where they arrived in October 1837.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 7, 14; YFASA 11-15; YFDS 4b-6; FtVanASA 3

Stewart, William Drummond (1795 - 1871) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Murthly Castle, Perthshire (County of Perth), Scotland - December 26, 1795 (born to Sir George Stewart, 17th Lord of Grandtully, Fifth Baronet of Murthly and Catherine Drummond)

Death: Scotland, United Kingdom - April 28, 1871

Other

IND. Amateur traveler, Pacific slopes (1832 - 1839).

William Drummond Stewart, a complex Scottish aristocrat, functioned on the periphery of the fur trade in the area which is now the United States of America. Having served in the Battle of Waterloo in 1815 and retired at half pay after he was appointed Captain in 1820, Stewart travelled to a variety of countries, probably supported by his mother. In 1829 he had a child by Christina Stewart, a laundry maid, whom he went on to marry in 1830 but failed to live with her there after. In 1832, Stewart sailed to New York. From there, provided with letters of introduction to the principals of the fur trade, he crossed to St. Louis, Missouri, and got to know the fur trade establishment, including William Clark, then superintendent of Indian Affairs. In 1833, after paying Robert Campbell $500, he joined the William Sublette-Campbell caravan heading for the Rendezvous. Where he spent that winter in 1834 is unknown, but he attended the Rendezvous and then travelled with the Nathaniel J. Wyeth party to Fort Vancouver where he presented his letter of introduction to John McLoughlin. From there he probably travelled to the mouth of the Columbia and elsewhere in the region, and attended the 1835 and 1836 Rendezvous with Antoine Clement, who was his travelling companion for ten years. The rest of his life, chronicled in his biography, saw him inheriting a title and castle, writing two novels, bringing painters and natives to his castle, travelling extensively, and eventually, after his death, being mercifully spared from seeing his fortune dissipated by an adopted son.

Published Manuscripts: Stewart wrote two novels, begun on the trail and loosely based on his own life, Altowan, or Incidents of Life and Adventure in the Rocky Mountains published in New York in 1846 by J. W. Webb, and Edward Warren were, according to his biographers, "written in a stiff, affected style and made extremely dull reading."

Biography: Mae Reed Porter and Odessa Davenport wrote an engaging biography called Scotsman in Buckskin: Sir William Drummond Stewart and The Rocky Mountain Fur Trade, Hastings House, New York, 1963. Many details above are drawn from it.

PS: HBCA YFASA 14; FtVanCB 10 SS: Oregon Historical Quarterly, vol. LVII, Sept. 1957, p. 210-11; M. R. Porter & Davenport

Stockand, James (1821 - 1888) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: Sandwick, Orkney - April 13, 1821 (born to Samuel Stockand and Margaret [Hay/Thay/Shay] Stockand)

Death: Victoria, British Columbia - December 7, 1888

Fur trade employee

HBC Steerage passenger, Norman Morison (barque) (1851); Sponsored settler, Fort Victoria general charges (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1852 - 1854); Carpenter, Fort Victoria (1854 - 1856).

James Stockand joined the HBC from Stromness in 1851 as an HBC sponsored settler to work as a carpenter. He left England on the Norman Morison with his wife and child on May 28, 1851 and arrived five months later at Fort Victoria on October 30. There he worked until his contract ended in 1856. On July 17, 1858, as tens of thousands of gold seekers were arriving in Victoria on their way to the Fraser, Stockand, who was at Swan Lake House, put up for sale seventy to ninety acres of his 103 acres that he had purchased in 1855. He stayed on in the area raising his family and between 1861-1865 carried on transactions with the HBC. By 1874 he was living on Herald Street and working as a labourer in Victoria; from that point on his movements are unclear as he was unexplainably absent from the 1881 Census. He died on December 7, 1888 in Victoria.

James Stockand had one wife and seven recorded children. On January 30, 1840, in Sandwick, Orkney, James married an Isabelle Begg or Bake (c.1823-?), the daughter of Isabella Nesbith [Nesbit?] and Robert Bake [Begg?]. Their children, one of whom was born in Scotland, were Dinah Mary (1841-1927), Emilia (1852-1892), Samuel (1853-1927), James (1855-?), Marguerite (1856-?), John (c.1860-1927), Charles (?-bap.1867-1887), Isabella (1867-?), Helen (?-?), William (?-?) and Susan (?-?). Wife Isabel died in August 1867 in Victoria.

PS: OrkA OPR Orkney-Sandwick; HBCA log of Norman Morison 2; YFASA 31-32; YFDS 22; FtVicASA 1-4, 9-12; BCA BCCR StAndC; BCA Vic. Gazette, p. 2; Mallandaine, p. 49; Van-PL Colonist, January 22, 1887, p. 1

See Also: Johnstone, James (Son-in-Law)

Stockwell, William (fl. 1852 - 1853) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime officer

HBC Boatswain, Norman Morison (barque) (1852 - 1853).

William Stockwell made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison. While on the coast, he would have visited several coastal posts.

PS: HBCA Portb 1

Stoddard, Walter (c. 1814 - ?) (British: English)

Birth: probably in or near Rotheshithe, Surrey, England - c. 1814 (born to Joseph Hicks Stoddard)

Maritime officer

HBC 2nd mate, Nereide (barque) (1836 - 1837); 2nd mate and periodically 1st mate, Beaver (steamer) (1837 - 1840); Untraced vocation, Vancouver (barque) (1840 - 1841).

Walter Stoddard, a.k.a. Wanton Destailleur Stoddard, fared better in the service of the HBC than did his disgraced brother-in-law, Captain John Minors. Apparently from "Rotheshithe", Surrey, although his father's lived in Deptford, Stoddard joined the HBC on February 13, 1836 as a 2nd mate for five years and made his way to the coast. In December 1837, he was temporarily left at Fort McLoughlin to make sure everything ran smoothly as Donald Manson was ill. Otherwise, he worked uneventfully in coastal shipping and arrived back England in the spring of 1841 on the barque Vancouver.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 14; FtSimp[N]PJ 3; FtVanASA 3-6; YFDS 7, 9, 11; YFASA 17-20; ShMiscPap 9; Joseph Hicks Stoddard's May 24, 1839 letter to H.B.C., A.10/8, fo. 278-279
See Also: Minors, John (Relative)

Stokes, James (fl. 1832 - 1833) (British: English)

Birth: possibly in or near London, Middlesex, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Ganymede (barque) (1832 - 1833).

James Stokes probably never made it to the Northwest coast. He joined the HBC in London on September 15, 1832 for three years; and, after he left England, began appearing in the log of the Ganymede for his rebellions, insults, refusal to work and generally poor behaviour. He last appeared on the record near Oahu on March 28, 1833, answering questions before the British Consul. As he appeared no more in the records, he was probably discharged there.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Ganymede 1

Stokum, Richard [variation: Slocum, Slocum] (c. 1813 - ?) (British: English)

Birth: possibly London, England - c. 1813

Maritime employee

HBC Cook, Cadboro (schooner) (1831); Seaman, Naval Department (1831 - 1832); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1832 - 1833); Working in the barn, Fort Vancouver (1833); Seaman, Vancouver (schooner) (1833); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1833); Seaman, Fort Simpson naval service (1834 - 1835); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1837); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1837 - 1839); Sailor, Beaver (steamer) (1839 - 1840); Seaman, Beaver (steamer) (1840 - 1946); Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1846 - 1849).

Richard Stokum or Slocum joined the HBC on February 1, 1831 in Oahu for a two year appointment. However, he remained with the Company for eighteen years, during the latter years of which, he was listed mainly as Stokum. Stokum had a house and wife at Nisqually, but after her death he may have lost heart for, on September 22, 1849 he deserted, most likely for the gold fields of California.

Richard Stokum/Slocum had a wife at Nisqually. She died July 28, 1849.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 11-14, 19-20, 22-29; YFDS 4b-7, 20; FtVanASA 3-6; FtVanCB 9 PPS: Dickey

Stone, Peter (fl. 1851 - 1852) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1851 - 1852).

Peter Stone made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison. While on the coast, he would have visited several coastal posts but during this time he disobeyed the captain and was imprisoned for part of the return voyage.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; FtVicCB 4

Storey, Thomas (fl. 1838 - 1849) (British: English)

Birth: probably in or near London, Middlesex, England

Death: probably England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1838 - 1844).

Thomas Story joined the HBC on October 29, 1838 in London as a seaman for five years. He made two return voyages to the coast on the HBC barque Vancouver and visited several coastal ports as far north as Sitka, distributing supplies on each one and arrived back in London on June 10, 1844. Five years later, in 1849, he signed up as a crew member for the Norman Morison but did not embark.

An 1843 undelivered letter from a sister, Ann, from Stoke Newington [London] reveals a sister who had fallen on hard times hoping that her brother would come to make her life a little less miserable. Her letter rests in the HBCA.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscpap 11; YFASA 19-20, 22-23; YFDS 10-11; FtVanASA 6-7; PortB 1; MiscI 5 PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 168-171

Stripe, Thomas (c. 1825 - ?) (Irish)

Birth: possibly Waterford, Ireland - c. 1825

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1841 - 1842); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1844).

Thomas Stripe signed on with the HBC in 1841 in Montreal and spent one three-year contract at Fort Vancouver. In 1844 he retired and returned to Canada.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-8; YFASA 22-23; HBCABio

Stuart, Charles Edward [variation: Stewart] (1817 - 1863) (British: English)

Birth: Bristol, England, United Kingdom - 1817

Death: off Sangster Island, British Columbia - December 9, 1863

Maritime officer

HBC 1st mate, Columbia (barque) (1842 - 1844); 1st mate, Cadboro (schooner) (1844 - 1845); 1st mate, Vancouver (barque) (1845 - 1848); Master, Una (brigantine) (1849 - 1851); Commander, Beaver (steamer) (1851 - 1852); Supercargo, Recovery (brig) (1852 - 1853); Commander, Cadboro (schooner) (1852 - 1853); Master, Cadboro (schooner) (1853 - 1854); Untraced vocation, Nanaimo (1853 - 1854); Clerk, Nanaimo (1855 - 1859).

Charles Edward Stuart joined the HBC in 1842 and like many other British sea captains, had problems with alcohol. During his first six years as ship's officer he experienced his vessel, Vancouver, coming to grief at the mouth of the Columbia in 1848. He began to command vessels in 1849 and in 1854 purchased a town lot in Victoria. This "captain" status carried weight for in 1856, as a candidate for Nanaimo, he was elected to the first legislative assembly but was disqualified (as he didn't own property there) and so Dr. John F. Kennedy was elected in his stead. He was resident manager of the Company's post in Nanaimo but was discharged in 1859 because of chronic drunkenness and appeared to carry on minor transactions with the Company until 1860. In 1860 he established his own post at Ucluelet, Barkely Sound. In December of that year, the Peruvian brigantine Florencia was shipwrecked in the area. As the captain had drowned, Stuart purchased the wreck of the vessel from the first mate for $100, an act which was later repudiated in Victoria by the authorities. He died December 19, 1863 on board the sloop Red Rover, off Sangster Island and was buried in the old cemetery at Nanaimo.

Stuart point, Protection Island, Stuart Anchorage, Grenville Channel, Studart Channel, east coast of Vancouver Island, and Stuart Island, Haro Strait were named after Charles Edward Stuart.

PS: HBCA log of Columbia 6; FtVanASA 8; YFASA 24-26, 29-32; PortB 1; FtVicASA 1-7; YFDS 17; HBCABio; BCA BCGR-CritR-Land; Van-PL Colonist, October 10, 1859, January 12, 1861, December 30, 1863 SS: Walbran, p. 474-75; Helmcken, p. 333; Norcross, Company on the

Stuart, David [variation: Stewart] (c. 1765 - 1853) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Wigtonshire, Scotland - c. 1765

Death: Detroit, Michigan - October 18, 1853

Fur trade officer

PFC Partner and passenger, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811); Builder, Fort George [Astoria] (1811); Founder, Fort Okanagan (September 1811); Founder, Thompson River (August 1812 - 1813); Proprietor, Fort George [Astoria] (winter 1813 - 1814).

David Stuart emigrated to Canada some time before 1800. He may have been employed by the NWC before 1810 but his records are not extant. In 1810 he joined John Jacob Astor of the PFC as a partner and on September 8, 1810 left New York on the ill-fated Tonquin, arriving at the mouth of the Columbia in March 1811. He established Fort Astoria, Fort Okanagan and Fort Kamloops as well as helped, in May 1812, rescue Wilson Price Hunt expedition overlanders Ramsay Crooks and John Day at the mouth of the Umatilla River. He objected to the sale of Fort Astoria to the NWC. In January, 1814, he was attacked between Seal Falls and the Grand Rapids on the Columbia. Later that month Stuart retrieved his stolen goods by taking a chief hostage. As he was a partner with the PFC, he didn't join the NWC and on April 4, 1814, joined a brigade of ten canoes heading east over the Rockies. After he returned to the middle west, he continued his employment with the American Fur Company. In 1833 he retired and on October 18, 1853, he died at Detroit in the home of his nephew's widow.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: ChSoc XLV; ChSoc LVII, pp. 633, 634, 652, 660, 688, 691, 698, 700

Stuart, John [1] [variation: Stewart] (1779 - 1847) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Strathsprey, Scotland - 1779 (born to Donald Stuart)

Death: at his place Springfield House, near Forres, Scotland - January 14, 1847

Fur trade officer

NWC Co-founder, McLeod Lake Post (1805); Co-founder, Fort St. James (1806); Co-founder, Fort Fraser (1806); Explorer on Fraser River, with Simon Fraser (1808); Superintendent, New Caledonia (1809 - 1813); Proprietor, Fort George [Astoria] (winter 1813 - 1814); Superintendent, McLeod Lake Post (1814 - 1821); HBC Chief Factor, McLeod Lake Post (1821 - 1824).

John Stuart, an unusually literate Scot, joined the NWC in 1796 as an apprentice clerk. During his time west of the Rockies he co-founded a number of posts and explored the area with Simon Fraser, resulting in his name becoming synonymous with the New Caledonia area. In 1808, for example, he discovered on a voyage with Fraser that the Fraser River was not the Columbia. In 1809 he was placed in charge of New Caledonia and in 1813 was made a partner in the NWC. In the spring of 1813, he helped to establish the southern communication route to the Columbia thus avoiding the inefficient easterly route from McLeod Lake. It was in October on this journey south with John George McTavish and Joseph Larocque that he bought out the PFC at Fort Astoria on behalf of the NWC. At the Coalition of 1821, he became Chief Factor and remained in charge of the district until 1824. His life took a turn in 1829-1830 when he found himself caught up in the complications of European morals and "country wife" marriages. At that time, while looking after Margaret Taylor, the cast-off wife of George Simpson and sister to his own wife Mary, George Simpson returned from England with a new English wife, Frances. To complicate matters in the following winter he was also left with the cast-off country wife of McTavish, both of whom he had to negotiate financial provisions and new husbands. Because of this, he ran afoul of Simpson and was removed to the remote Mackenzie River district where he stayed from 1832-1835. In 1835 he took a four year furlough after which he left the Company. He died in 1847 at his house in Scotland.

The total number of John Stuart's wives and children have not been determined. In the early 1820s John Stuart had a short lived marriage to Françoise Laurain who had been married to Orkney clerk Joshua Halcro. In the mid 1820s he had a complicated relationship with Mary Taylor but an extra-marital relationship to Francis Noel Annance spelled the end to that union. In the 1830s he coupled with Catherine La Valle with whom they had two sons.

Stuart Lake, B. C. is named after John Stuart.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAb 10; SimpsonCB SS: HBRS I, p. 469; HBRS XXX, p. 174-75, 174-75n SS: HBRS XXII, p. 500 SS: Van Kirk, "Many Tender Ties", p. 122, 168-70, 187, 276[n77], 276[n84]; DCB Smith

Stuart, John [2] [variation: Stewart] (c. 1796 - ?) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Scotland, United Kingdom - c. 1796

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1836 - 1837).

John Stuart [2] sailed on the Harriot of London before he joined the HBC in Honolulu on February 8, 1836 to replace a crew member on the Columbia's outward voyage to the coast. He stayed with the vessel and returned with it to England. However, in Honolulu he drank much of the time and was so sick for the rest of the voyage that he had to be replaced. He may not have been paid for no wages were attributed to his name.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 4a; FtVanASA 3; YFASA 16

Stuart, Robert (1785 - 1848) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Callander, Perthshire, Scotland - February 19, 1785

Death: Chicago, Illinois, United States - October 28, 1848

Fur trade employee

PFC Partner and passenger, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811); Untraced vocation, Fort George [Astoria] (1811 - 1812).

Robert Stuart was educated in Paris and in 1806, came to Montreal and joined the NWC. Later in 1810 he joined the PFC and sailed on the Tonquin September 6, 1810, arriving at the mouth of the Columbia March 22, 1811. In October of that year, he was on the maiden voyage of the Columbia-built Dolly, and in December went up the Willamette with Benjamin Pillet and Donald McGillis to investigate the possibility of building a post on the river. On June 29, 1812 he returned overland to New York with dispatches for Astor. His small party consisted of Robert McClellan, Ramsay Crooks (both of whom had given up their partnerships), and four others. As a member of the American Fur Company he went on to manage Michilimackinac between 1819 and 1833, when he left the AFC and settled in Detroit, Michigan. Here he served as State Treasurer in 1840-1841 and for the next four years was an Indian agent. Stuart died in Chicago in 1848.

Before 1816, Robert Stuart married Elizabeth Emma Sullivan with whom he had nine children.

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria PPS: ChSoc XLV PPS: HBRS XXII, p. 500-01 SS: Lavender, Fists in the Wilderness; DAB Ghent

Stubbs, Thomas (fl. 1834 - 1838) (British: English)

Birth: probably in or near Islington, Middlesex, England

Maritime employee

HBC Cook, Ganymede (barque) (1834 - 1835); Cook, Cadboro (schooner) (1835 - 1837); Cook, Sumatra (barque) (1837 - 1838).

Thomas Stubbs joined the HBC in London on December 13, 1834 as a cook for five years. He sailed to the Columbia aboard the Ganymede and on September 14, 1835, transferred to the Cadboro. He left the Columbia on October 26, 1837 via the Sumatra for England where he arrived the following April.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 7; log of Ganymede 4; ShMiscPap 14; YFDS 6-8; YFASA 15; FtVanASA 3-5

Sublette, Andrew (fl. 1830s - 1850s) (American)

Birth: Somerset, Pulaski County, Kentucky, United States (born to Phillip Allen Sublette and Isabella [Whitley] Sublette)

Death: California, United States - 1850

Free trader

SJ & S Trapper, Pacific slopes (1832 - 1835); Fur trader, Pacific slopes (1832 - 1835).

Andrew Sublette first came to the 1832 Rendezvous at Pierre's Hole with his older brother, William, and in the 1830s was moving with Thomas Fitzpatrick until at least 1835. In the 1840s Andrew lived at the Sublette farm in Sulphur Springs, Missouri for several years. After 1849 he pursued gold and went to California, settling in Los Angeles. By this time he was a bear hunter; he had a fatal encounter with a bear when, after killing the one, he was attacked by its mate who emerged from the bushes. Sublette could not reload his gun in time - he and his dog fought off the bear, which he eventually killed. However, Sublette never recovered from the wounds he sustained in the encounter. After Sublette died, his faithful dog refused to eat or drink and also succumbed.

SS: Chittenden, p. 824; Sunder, p. 223, 233, 245; Gowans, p. 64, 121

Sublette, Milton G. (? - 1837) (American)

Birth: Somerset, Pulaski, Kentucky, United States (born to Phillip Allen Sublette and Isabella [Whitley] Sublette)

Death: Fort Laramie [Wyoming] - April 5, 1837

Free trader

RMFC Fur trader, Pacific slopes (1830 - 1835).

Milton G. Sublette also traded on the Pacific slopes. On August 4, 1830 at a Rendezvous near South Pass, Milton, along with Thomas Fitzpatrick, Henry Fraeb, Jean Baptiste Gervais and James Bridger, purchased the shares of Jedediah Smith, David Jackson and William Sublette and formed the Rocky Mountain Fur Company. On December 22, 1831, Milton, Fraeb, Gervais and Bridger encamped in the Snake Country (near the junction of the Salmon and Lemhi rivers) with a party of seventy near to the camp of the HBC Snake Party led by John Work and an AFC group of forty men led by Lucien Fontenelle. In 1832 at Ogden's hole, Milton was stabbed in the leg, an injury which slowed him down. In 1833 he struck an agreement with the returning Nathaniel J. Wyeth to supply the RMFC with goods in 1834, an agreement which older brother William refused to honour. Over time, Milton's leg injury developed a bone tumor of lowgrade malignancy in 1835, and he had to drop out of an expedition to the mountains. His leg was amputated twice but it did not stop the disease and he died in 1837.

PS: HBCA SnkCoPJ 11 SS: Sunder, p. 223; Hafen & A. W., p. 36; Chittenden, p. 254

Sublette, Pinckney W. (? - 1828) (American)

Birth: probably Kentucky, United States

Death: Portneuf River, Pacific Northwest - February 23, 1828

Free trader

SJ & S Trapper, Pacific slopes (1827 - 1828).

Pinckney W. Sublette travelled with his brother William to the 1827 Rendezvous at Bear Lake [Utah] as part of the Smith, Jackson and Sublette brigade. His efforts on the Pacific slopes did not last long for, as part of Samuel Tullock's party, he was attacked and killed on the Portneuf River in the winter of 1828.

PPS: W. M. Anderson, p. 360, 361, 369 SS: D. L. Morgan, p. 294, 341, 344; Gowans, p. 33; Sunder, p. 224, 227

Sublette, William Lewis (1799 - 1845) (American)

Birth: probably Stanford, Kentucky, United States - September 31, 1799 (born to Phillip Allen Sublette and Isabella [Whitley] Sublette)

Death: Exchange Hotel in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, United States - July 23, 1845

Free trader

SJ & S Trapper, Rendezvous (1825); Fur trader, Smith, Jackson and Sublette (1826 - 1830); Businessman, Smith, Jackson and Sublette (1826 - 1830).

Of the four Sublette brothers who entered the fur trade, William Lewis was the most durable. The six foot two [188 cm] William joined the William H. Ashley-Andrew Henry company in 1823 for an excursion to the upper Missouri-Yellowstone country where he escaped with his life from an attack by the Arikara. In June 1824, he crossed the South Pass [Wyoming] and passed the winter of 1824-1825 in what is now southern Idaho. The party set out in the spring and by May joined another American group under John Weber at Bear River where Peter Skene Ogden was challenged. In 1826 Sublette, Jedediah S. Smith and David E. Jackson assumed Ashley's assets and, for the next four years, he attended Rendezvous on both sides of the Continental Divide and went back and forth to St. Louis. At the 1830 Rendezvous, he and his partners sold out to Thomas Fitzpatrick, Jim Bridger, Milton Sublette, Henry Fraeb and Jean Baptiste Gervais, but still sent a supply train to this new Rocky Mountain Fur Company. On May 13, 1832, he joined Nathaniel Wyeth heading west, but after the Rendezvous when they decamped, William was wounded in the arm from an attack by the Blackfeet, and so returned to St. Louis. In December 1832 he went into business with Robert Campbell and competed successfully with the American Fur Company in the upper Missouri and successfully shut out Nathaniel J. Wyeth from selling his previously agreed to supplies at the July 1834 Green River Rendezvous. The depression of 1839 reduced profits and the partnership with Campbell was dissolved on January 14, 1842. He entered a variety of business ventures and was married in March, 1844. During the summer of 1845 he went east to spend the summer in New Jersey but died on the way of tuberculosis. The body was sent back and he was buried on his farm, but was reinterred several years later to the Bellfontaine Cemetery, St. Louis.

SS: Chittenden, p. 254-57; Sunder, p. 223-235; DAB Drumm

Sutherland, John (c. 1836 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Fort Garry [Manitoba] - c. 1836 (born to James Sutherland and a native woman)

Death: possibly Fort Langley area, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman and labourer, New Caledonia (1853 - 1856); Labourer, New Caledonia (1856 - 1870).

John Sutherland joined the HBC in 1853 as a general labourer. He worked until 1861-1862 at which point he appears to have taken a break before returning the following outfit. He retired from the HBC on June 18, 1870.

On September 20, 1870, he married Annie Ketlo (c.1860-?) daughter of an Indian Chief, at St. Patrick's Church, Langley, B. C. and may have stayed in the area.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1-16, 18; Van-PL 1881 Canada Census; BCA BCGR-Marriage

Sutherland, Joseph (c. 1809 - ?) (Canadian: English)

Birth: probably St. Barthelemy (d. of Montreal), Lower Canada - c. 1809

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Colville (1842 - 1845).

Joseph Sutherland joined the HBC in Canada East [Quebec] in 1842 on a three-year contract at the end of which he returned to Canada.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 7; YFASA 22-24

Swain, William [variation: Swan] (fl. 1828) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: possibly South Ronaldsay, Orkney

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia Department (1828).

William Swain or Swan joined the HBC from Orkney on September 6, 1828 for three years. Although he was assigned to ships servicing the Columbia, he did not appear on those abstracts.

PS: HBCA HBCCont

Swan, John Pearson (? - 1828) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Death: mouth of the Columbia River, Pacific Northwest - March 10, 1828

Maritime officer

HBC 1st mate, William & Ann (brig) (1824 - 1826); Captain, Cadboro (schooner) (1826 - 1827); Mate, William & Ann (brig) (1827 - 1828); Captain, William & Ann (brig) (1828 - 1829).

John Pearson Swan joined the HBC in June 1824; and from 1824 to 1826 he served on the William & Ann on its voyages to and from the Columbia and in coastal waters. It was during the latter, on June 6, 1825, that he was noted as being careless with a gun which fired sending the ball through the deck, narrowly missing the carpenter (FtVanPJ 1, fo. 2d).

In September, 1826, while he was in London, he was appointed master of the Cadboro which he sailed to the coast but, when the Cadboro was put at the disposal of Captain Aemilius Simpson for the exploration for the Fraser River, Swan returned to England as mate of the William & Ann, arriving in England in early 1828. On September 16th, of that year, having been appointed Commander of the William & Ann, Swan sailed from Plymouth with the chartered consort Ganymede [Leonard John Hayne]. The slower Ganymede parted company in a storm in the Bay of Biscay allowing the William & Ann to arrive at Oahu on February 15, 1828 without her consort. A few days later the William & Ann sailed for the Columbia with the Cadboro. Within a few days, the faster William & Ann again parted company with the Cadboro and by March 10, 1828, crossed the bar of the Columbia but failed to make a tack and became stuck on a bar in the South breakers. The ship was abandoned and Captain Swan, the mate and all twenty-six of her crew and passengers drowned, although there was lingering suspicion at the time that all twenty-six had been murdered. There was also some dispute as to whether Swan's body was actually found amongst the five recovered washed shore:

One of the latter [bodies recovered] found on the 8th May at high water mark buried in the sand except the face, but as it had been eat up by the Birds though the remainder of the body was in perfect preservation I could not ascertain exactly if it was Capt. Swan; though it seems to me it was, others to whom he was equally well known think not, his Jacket and Trowsers were of Second blue Cloth, there was no mark of Violence on the body and two Watches were found on him, which with his Neck handkerchief are forwarded (FtVanCB 5, fo. 9).

John Pearson Swan's widow Elizabeth was granted a gratuity of £40 in December, 1829.

PS: HBCA FtVanPJ 1; log of William & Ann 1; YFASA 7; FtVanCB 5, John McLoughlin's Aug. 5, 1829 letter to Governor & Committee, fo. 9 PPS: HBRS X, p. 104-08; ChSoc IV, p. 356 SS: Howay, A List of Trading Vessels

Swancoe, Thomas [variation: Swantcol] (fl. 1856 - 1857) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1856 - 1857).

Thomas Swancoe joined the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal in London on August 19, 1856 and sailed to the Northwest Coast. After he reached Victoria he deserted on February 27, 1857.

PS: HBCA log of Princess Royal 3

Swanson, John [variation: Swantson] (c. 1827 - 1872) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Hudson Bay, Rupert's Land - c. 1827 (born to William Swanson and Anne Brown)

Death: Victoria, British Columbia - October 21, 1872

Maritime employee

HBC Apprentice, Cadboro (schooner) (1842 - 1845); Apprentice, Vancouver (barque) (1845 - 1846); Apprentice, Columbia (barque) (1846 - 1847); Apprentice, Cowlitz (barque) (1847 - 1848); Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1848 - 1849); 2nd mate, Cowlitz (barque) (1849 - 1850); 1st mate or 2nd mate, Beaver (steamer) (1850 - 1852); Mate, Beaver (steamer) (1852 - 1853); 1st mate, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1852 - 1853); Mate, Vancouver (brigantine) (1853); Master, Otter (steamer) (1855); Master, Beaver (ship) (1856 - 1859); Master, Labouchere (steamer) (1859 - 1863); Master, Otter (steamer) (1863 - 1865); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1863 - 1864); Master, Otter (steamer) and Enterprise (ship) (1865 - 1866); Master, Enterprise (steamer) (1866 - 1872).

John Swanson, brother to Joseph Swanson and William Swanson, signed on with the HBC in Rupert's Land in 1842 and spent his entire career with coastal shipping on a variety of vessels. He started with the barque Cadboro in 1842 and helped clear away the brush for the area that was to be Fort Victoria. After having served his apprenticeship on the coast, he was sent by James Douglas as part of the crew of the barque Cowlitz to England "for the purpose of learning navigation to qualify himself for promotion in the service" (FtVanCB 38, fo. 70). Swanson returned also via the Cowlitz. He purchased acreage in the Victoria area in 1857. On October 21, 1872, as Captain of the Enterprise, an American built sidewheeler which ran between Victoria and New Westminster, he died after returning to Victoria. He was a respected man for upon his death, flags on the Government Buildings, City Council Chambers and at many private residences, flew at half mast.

Swanson had at least two wives and four children. The first wife was a mixed descent person (?-1852) probably from the Fort Simpson area. On November 27, they had twin boys, one of whom died immediately. The mother died one month later. On December 20, 1860, a licence was issued for the marriage of John Swanson and Catherine Harris (1847-1937). They had at least four children, one of whom was Charles L. (c.1860-86).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 7; YFASA 22-28, 30-32; log of Columbia 9; log of Vancouver [3] 2; FtVicASA 1-16, 20; log of Cadboro 5; FtVanCB 38, James Douglas' Dec. 8, 1848 Fort Victoria letter to Archibald Barclay, fo. 70; PortB 1; FtSim[N]PJ 7; HBCABio; BCA Vancouver [4]; BCGR-VICSMarriageL; Van-PL Colonist, Oct. 22, 1872, p. 4 SS: BCHQ News, Summer, 1991, p. 3-6

See Also: Swanson, Joseph (Brother); Swanson, William (Brother)

Swanson, Joseph [variation: Swantson] (1821 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Rupert's Land, British North America - 1821 (born to William Swanson and Anne Brown)

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice, Fort Vancouver general charges (1840 - 1841); Apprentice, California Estate (1841 - 1843); Sloop, Fort Vancouver general charges (1843 - 1844); Sloop, Columbia Department (1844 - 1845).

Joseph Swanson joined the HBC in 1835 from Red River and came to the Columbia around 1840. Shortly after he was stationed in California and may have spent the majority of his time there; he was discharged there in 1845.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-25; FtVanASA 6-7

See Also: Swanson, John (Brother); Swanson, William (Brother)

Swanson, William [variation: Swanton, Swanston] (1819 - 1843) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Rupert's Land, British North America - 1819 (born to William Swanson and Anne Brown)

Death: The Dalles, Columbia River - July 4, 1843

Fur trade employee

HBC Sailor, Thompson River general charges (1841 - 1842); Sloop, Thompson River general charges (1842 - 1843); Sloop, Fort Vancouver general charges (June 1 – July, 1843).

William Swanson, brother to Joseph and John, joined the HBC from Rupert's Land in 1835, when he became a sailor on the sloop Union, and worked east of the Rockies until 1841. From 1841-1843, he worked west of the Rockies on a contract would have ended in 1846 but, on July 3 or 4, 1843, while he was attempting to pole a Brigade boat up through the Columbia Dalles, his setting pole slipped. He fell out of the boat into the water hitting his head on a rock which rendered him unconscious before he drowned.

An 1844 HBCA undelivered letter from his sister and brother in law in Harray, Orkney, revealed that William's old girlfriend was living in London with a policeman by the name of William Tulloch.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-7; YFASA 22-23; YFDS 14; John McLoughlin's August 1, 1843 letter to the Governor and Committee of the HBC, A.11/70, fo. 33; HBCABio PPS: Beattie & Buss, p.326-28

See Also: Swanson, John (Brother); Swanson, Joseph (Brother)

Sweden, Charles (fl. 1851 - 1852) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1851 - 1852).

Charles Sweden made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison. While on the coast, he would have visited several coastal posts.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Swift, Charles (? - 1828) (probably American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Death: Umpqua River region [Smith River], Oregon - July 14, 1828

Fur trade employee

SJ & S Trapper, Jedediah Smith Southwest Expedition (1827 - 1828).

Charles Swift was a trapper on Jedediah Smith's southwest expedition of 1827-1828. He first appeared on record at the 1827 Rendezvous and left with Smith in July, heading south into California. On the way they were attacked by Mojaves, who killed ten of the expedition. After a great deal of difficulty with Spanish authorities in California, the expedition headed north. In an area just north of the Umpqua River [Oregon], just after Smith and two others set out to scout out a route to travel, the natives killed all the expedition members remaining in camp including Swift, except one, who managed to escape.

PPS: HBRS X, p. 61 SS: Carter, "Jedediah Smith," p. 97-104

Ta-i [variation: Peter Tahi, Tai, Téay] (fl. c. 1830? - 1848) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: Fort Langley - 1848

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman or labourer, Fort Langley (1830 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Langley (1842 - 1848).

Ta-i joined the HBC from Oahu in April 1830. Other than assisting with the construction of Fort Nisqually in 1834, he spent his entire career at Fort Langley until his death in 1848.

On 4 September 1841 at the Stellamaris Mission at the mouth the Columbia River, Eugene, aged sixteen months, was baptized Catholic as a natural child of Téay and of a Sauitch woman.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2-7; YFDS 4a-7; YFASA 11-15; 19-20; 22-29 PPS: Dickey; CCR 1a

Taeaaipou (fl. 1848 - 1849) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Langley (1848 - 1849).

Taeaaipou was found in 1848-1849 working on a contract that ended in 1850.

PS: HBCA YFASA 28

Taeaanui (fl. 1840 - 1845) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Snake Party (1841); PSAC Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1841 - 1843); HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1843 - 1845).

Taeaanui joined the from Oahu HBC in 1840. He was assigned to the Snake Party but was transferred to Fort Nisqually around the end of 1841. As his contract ended in 1845, he worked until July 18, 1845, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-25; YFDS 12, 16; FtVanASA 6-7

Tagauche, Thomas [variation: Tagouche] (fl. 1821 - 1826) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822); Steersman, Flatheads (1825 - 1826).

Iroquois Thomas Tagauche, an employee of the HBC from at least 1821, is on record as having deserted the employ of the Company from the Flatheads on February 4, 1826. He forfeited his wages for that outfit.

PS: HBCA YFASA 1, 3-5

Tahako (fl. 1840 - 1852) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1845); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1849); Labourer, Thompson River (1849 - 1851); Untraced vocation, Thompson River (1851 - 1852).

Tahako joined the HBC from Oahu on a three-year contract in 1840 and for the next dozen years worked mostly at Fort Vancouver. In outfit 1851-1852 he was located at Thompson River but did not receive wages. He remained on the books for four more years, indicating that he may have still been in the area.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-32; FtVanASA 6-7; FtVicASA 1-2

Tahanoe (fl. c. 1830? - 1832) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1832).

Tahanoe joined the HBC in April 1830. He was discharged to Oahu on July 16, 1832.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; YFDS 4a-5a; YFASA 11-12

Tahayree (fl. 1840 - 1844) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1840 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1844).

Tahyree joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840 on a three-year contract. He was sent first to northerly Fort Taku and then to Fort Vancouver. At the end of his contract, he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-23; FtVanASA 6-7

Taheenou (fl. 1840 - 1846) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Stikine (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Langley (1841 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Langley (1842 - 1846).

Taheenou joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840. He worked at Forts Stikine and Langley until December 10, 1846, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-26; FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 17

Taheerinai [variation: Taherinai, Taheerina] (fl. 1840 - 1850) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1850).

Taheerinai joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840 on a three-year contract. He worked until November 15, 1843, at which point he returned to Oahu. He probably re-enlisted right away and returned to Fort Vancouver. He deserted around November, 1850.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-30; FVASA 6-7; YFDS 14, 21

Tahenna [variation: Tahanna, Tahouna] (fl. 1844 - 1859) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1845); Goer and comer, Snake Party (1845 - 1846); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1846 - 1847); Labourer, Fort Stikine (1847 - 1849); Labourer, Fort Rupert (1849 - 1850); Labourer, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1850 - 1851); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1851 - 1852); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1852 - 1859).

Tahenna joined the HBC from Oahu in 1844 and spent the next fifteen years working at coastal forts and on vessels as a woodcutter. He may have been literate in Hawaiian, for when he was recruited for missionary William Duncan's Men's Night School at Fort Simpson in 1857, he could not read and write in English, implying that he could in Hawaiian. On January 2, 1857, while in a fight with Benjamin Raine, he had a piece of his lip bit off. His contract ended in 1859 and, on March 7 of that year, he sailed south to Victoria on the Labouchere.

Tahenna appeared to have one wife, Cecile (?-?), of unknown origin, and one child Louis Auguste (?-?), who was baptised Catholic on September 15, 1850.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-32; YFDS 16; log of Beaver 2; FtVicASA 1-7; FtSimp[N]PJ 7-8; BCA BCCR StAndC; UBC-SC Duncan

Tahetsaronsari, Jacques [variation: Tahetsaronsarai] (c. 1805 - ?) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1805

Fur trade employee

HBC Boute, Fort Vancouver general charges (1831 - 1832); Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1832 - 1833); Boute, New Caledonia (1833 - 1834); Middleman, New Caledonia (1834 - 1835); Boute, Thompson River (1835 - 1836); Boute, Fort Colville (1836 - 1837); Boute, Cadboro (schooner) (1837 - 1838); Boute, Fort Colville (1838 - 1847).

Jacques Tahetsaronsari joined the HBC in 1831 and from 1836 appears to have been a freeman. In 1847 he went to the Willamette.

PS: HBCA YFASA 11-15, 19-20, 22-27; YFDS 4b, 5b-7; FtVanASA 3-6

Tahoora (fl. 1822 - 1823) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Columbia Department (1822 - 1823).

Tahoora was working in the Columbia area around 1822-1823. He returned to his island at that time.

PS: HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 10

Tahouay [variation: Tahoway, Tahaouay] (fl. 1840 - 1852) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1840 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1842 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Stikine (1843 - 1849); Labourer, Fort Rupert (1849 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1850 - 1852).

Tahouay joined the HBC in 1840 from Oahu. He worked at a variety of coastal forts until September 1, 1852 when he sailed south from Fort Simpson on the Mary Dare and retired on October 1, 1852. He probably stayed in the area for some time.

Tahouay had a family. A daughter died October 15, 1849 at Fort Rupert.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-32; FtVanASA 6-7; FtVicDS 1; FtVicASA 3; FtSimp[N]PJ 7

Tahowna [variation: Joseph Cahoon, Tahaoune, Tahauni, Tahawini, Tahowia, Tahaounie] (fl. 1844 - 1873) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: probably San Juan, Washington Territory - July 22, 1873

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1845); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1846); Labourer, Thompson River (1846 - 1849); Labourer, New Caledonia (1849 - 1850); Cook, Fort Alexandria (1850 - 1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1851 - 1853); Untraced vocation, San Juan Island/Victoria area (1853 - 1873).

Tahowna joined the HBC from Oahu in 1844 on a three-year contract. He worked at both the interior and coast before retiring nine years later in 1853 and for the next four years carried on transactions with the HBC. From 1853 on, he may have spread his time between Fort Langley, where one of his children was baptised in 1853, and Victoria. In 1870 he was a farmer raising a family on his own land on the disputed island of San Juan.

Tahowna chose Salehexia/Tseleachei/Sara (?-?), a Kwantlen woman, as his wife. Their recorded children were Basile (?-bap.1853-?), Julie (c.1855-?), Mary (?-bap.1865-?), and Joseph Edward (?-bap.1867-?). On December 19, 1870, Paul Tahouna married a woman named Mary in a Catholic ceremony. Joseph Tahaouni, so named, died a Catholic on July 22, 1873.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-32; YFDS 21; FtVicASA 1-2; BCA BCCR StAndC; WSA 1870 US Census, Washington Territory, San Juan Island

Tai-a-nui, Jim [variation: Jim] (fl. 1834 - 1836) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation (high wage), Fort Simpson (1834 - 1836); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1836).

Jim Tai-a-nui joined the HBC from Oahu in 1834. Around December 1836, at the end of his three-year contract, he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA FtSimp[N]PJ 3; YFASA 14-15; YFDS 5c-7; FtVanASA 3-4

Tait, John [b] [variation: Tate] (c. 1810 - 1835) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: possibly in or near Stromness, Orkney or Rupert's Land - c. 1810 (born to John Tait [a])

Death: Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - January 17, 1835

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1829 - 1831); Boatbuilder, Fort Vancouver general charges (1829 - 1831); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1831 - 1835); Boatbuilder, Fort Vancouver (1831 - 1835).

John Tait signed on with the HBC in Orkney, on, May 6, 1829 for five years. He signed an additional contract in 1831. He died of consumption at Fort Vancouver on January 17, 1835. His funeral service was read by James Douglas.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; FtVanASA 2; YFDS 4a-5c; YFASA 11-14; death in Officers' and Servants' Ledgers, A.16/48; HBCABio PPS: Shephard, p. 76

Tait, John [new "b"] (c. 1831 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly Rupert's Land [Manitoba area] - c. 1831

Death: possibly Kamloops area, British Columbia

Fur trade officer

HBC Assistant millwright/CF Ballenden's servant, Fort Vancouver general charges (1851 - 1852); 1st mate, Fort

Vancouver general charges (1851 - 1852); Steward, Fort Vancouver depot (1852 - 1854); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver depot (1854 - 1857); Storeman, Fort Vancouver depot (1858 - 1860); Clerk, Fort Victoria (1860 - 1866); Clerk, Fort Victoria sales shop (1861 - 1862); Clerk, Fort Victoria sales shop (1862 - 1866); Clerk, Fort Victoria and Fort Shepherd (1867 - 1868); Clerk, Fort Shepherd (1868 - 1869); Clerk, Similkameen Post (1869 - 1871); Chief Trader, Fort Kamloops [Thompson's River Post, She-waps Post] (1872 - 1874); Chief Factor, Fort Kamloops [Thompson's River Post, She-waps Post] (1874 - 1884).

John Tait, 1/8 native, hailed from the Manitoba area and had a Scottish father and mother from the Ontario area. Tait spoke good Cree, French and English. In 1851, at the age of twenty, he joined with the HBC and began working his way up through the ranks at Fort Vancouver from assistant millwright. He may have retired temporarily in 1855 and re-enlisted. He retired on June 1, 1885 and took up farming in the Kamloops area.

John Tait had one wife, Margaret (?-?) and several children: Emma Jane (1862-?), Mara Arabella (1863-?), Alice (c.1867-?) and Lily (c.1874-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 31-32; YFDS 22; FtVanASA 9-12, 14-15; FtVicASA 9-16; HBCABio; BCA BCCR StJohVic; Van-PL 1881 & 1891 Canada Censuses, Yale, Kamloops SS: Laing, p. 438; Howay, "Archibald McDonald", p. 211-212; "Area Glimpses in 1870s," Kamloops Daily Sentinel, Sept. 10, 1986, [retired to farm]

Takakenrat, Ignace (fl. 1810 - 1822) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada
Freeman

NWC Middleman, Columbia Department (1817 - 1818); Trapper, Snake Party (1819); HBC Freeman trapper, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1821 - 1822).

Ignace Takakenrat first joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] on May 4, 1810 from Sault St. Louis to work at Temiscaming, likely as a middleman. From 1813-1814, he was at Amherstburg par la Grande Riviere and from 1814-1816 at Fort William as a middleman. On December 28, 1816 he further signed as a winterer for three years and came across the Rockies with Joseph Laroque's party in 1817. In the fall of 1819, he was working with Donald McKenzie in the Snake Country when he deserted. He appeared to remain a freeman in the Snake Country for, in 1822, he was noted as not coming out of the Snake Country in the fall of 1822. He likely deserted for the second time.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 1; FtGeo[Ast]AB 4; HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 4, 10; FtSpokRD 1

Talao [variation: Taluo] (fl. 1837 - 1841) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Snake Party (1837 - 1841).

Taluo joined the HBC from Oahu in 1837 and began work with the Snake Party on July 31 of that year. He worked as a goer and comer for the trappers into the Snake River country until November 20, 1841, when he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 4-7; YFDS 8, 12; YFASA 19-21

Tamaherry (fl. 1844 - 1849) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Willamette (1844 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1846 - 1849).

Tamaherry joined the HBC from Oahu in 1844 and worked in the Willamette. In 1847-1849 it was noted that he was employed by John McLoughlin, who had charge of Fort Vancouver. He retired in 1849 and remained in the area.

Tamaherry's family, if any, has not been traced.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-29; YFDS 18-19

Tamoree, George (fl. 1834 - c. 1837?) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1834 - 1835); Dr. Gairdner's personal servant, Ganymede (barque) (1835 - 1836); Untraced vocation, Oahu (1836).

George Tamoree, from Oahu, first appeared on record in outfit 1834-1835 in the Columbia. He left Fort Vancouver for Oahu on the barque Ganymede on October 3, 1835 as the ailing Dr. Meredith Gairdner's personal steward. Just how long he stayed with Gairdner is uncertain, but he is on record as being discharged in 1836-1837 in Oahu, although this may reflect his 1835 discharge.

PS: HBCA YFASA 14-15; YFDS 5c-6; FtVanASA 3

Tamoree, Joe (fl. 1832 - 1837) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian IslandsFur trade employee

HBC Seaman, Lama (brig) (1832 - 1833); Seaman, Fort Simpson naval service (1833 - 1834); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1834 - 1835); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1835 - 1836); Middleman or labourer, Fort Umpqua (1836 - 1837); Seaman, Lama (brig) (1837).

Joe Tamoree joined the HBC in Oahu on September 6, 1832 for work in the Columbia and sailed to the Northwest Coast on the brig Lama. Around 1835, he broke from his sea-faring tradition and worked on land at Forts Vancouver and Umpqua. His contract ended in 1837, and he sailed to Oahu on the Lama and was discharged there on July 16, 1837.

PS: HBCA FtSimp[N]PJ 3; YFDS 5a-8; ShMisPap 14; YFASA 12-15, 17; FtVanASA 3-5

Tanarison, Joseph (fl. 1846 - 1848) (Native: probably Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower CanadaFur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1847 - 1848).

Joseph Tanarison joined the HBC in 1846 on a three year contract and may have been in the Columbia as part of the cross-country brigade.

PS: HBCA YFASA 27

Tanero [variation: Tamero] (fl. c. 1830? - 1835) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian IslandsDeath: probably Oahu, Hawaiian Islands*Fur trade employee

HBC Seaman or labourer, Cadboro (schooner) (1830); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1834); Labourer, Fort McLoughlin (1834 - 1835); Passenger, Dryad (brig) (1835).

Tanero joined the HBC in April 1830. He worked at coastal forts and, on March 14, 1835, was discharged as a disabled person and returned to the Sandwich Islands aboard the Dryad.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 14; FtSimp[N]PJ 3; FtVanASA 2; YFDS 4a-5c; YFASA 11-15

Taoutu [variation: Taoutoo, Taeutoo] (fl. 1837 - 1848) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian IslandsFur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Snake Party (1837 - 1841); PSAC Middleman, Cowlitz Farm (1841 - 1842); Labourer, Cowlitz Farm (1842 - 1843); HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1843 - 1844); PSAC Labourer, Cowlitz Farm (1844 - 1845); HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1847 - 1848).

Taoutu joined the HBC from Oahu in 1837 and began his work with the Snake Party on July 31 of that year. During his four years in the Snake Country, he appeared to transport people and goods back and forth from Fort Vancouver. As his contract ended in 1845, he worked until December 11 of that year, at which point he returned to Oahu. He re-enlisted and was in Fort Vancouver in 1847 but worked only until July 6 of that year, at which point he returned once more to Oahu. He reengaged again in 1848 but did not appear in further HBC records.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 4-7; YFDS 8, 11, 16, 18; YFASA 19-20, 22-25, 27; SandIsAB 5, 7

Tapow, Joseph [variation: Joe Tapou] (fl. 1840 - 1859) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian IslandsFur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840); Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1840 - 1841); PSAC Labourer, Fort Nisqually outstations (1841 - 1842); Shepherd, Fort Nisqually outstations (1842 - 1851); Shepherd and labourer, Fort Nisqually (1851 - 1854); Shepherd and labourer, Fort Nisqually outstations (1854 - 1856); Shepherd, Fort Nisqually outstations (1858 - 1859).

Joseph Tapow joined the HBC in Oahu in 1840 under a three-year contract. He began his career as a seaman but spent the next fifteen years working on land as a shepherd at the Fort Nisqually and its outstations of Tenalquot, Puyallup and Tlithlow. He left in 1856 but returned in 1858 to work for two more years.

Joseph Tapow had at least one child by 1853.

PS: HBCA log of Columbia 4; ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 20, 22-32; YFDS 11; FtVanASA 6-7, 9-13; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Lewis Co. PPS: S. A. Anderson, The Physical Structure, p. 166-185; Dickey

Tappage (Regnier), Alexander (1841 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: New Caledonia – c. 1841 (born to Jean Baptiste Tappage (Regnier))

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1857 - 1858); Middleman, New Caledonia (1858 - 1860); Untraced vocation, Western Department (1860 - 1861); Middleman or labourer, Fort Alexandria (1861 - 1861); Labourer, New Caledonia (1868 - 1869).

Alex Regnier (Tappage) joined the HBC when he was about sixteen years old, and, like his father before him, worked in the New Caledonia area. Tappage worked until March 4, 1861, when he deserted, stealing three bags of flour which he distributed to the Indians. He probably remained in the area, and rejoined the company in 1868 for one season. He subsequently became a farmer in the Fort Alexandria region.

Alexander Tappage's family life is unclear for he appears to have had at least three children by three different women. By Maria, he had Baptiste (c.1864-?); by Matilda, he had Elizabeth (?-bap.1867-?) and by Julienne Batisan, he had Rosalie (?-bap.1874-?). In 1891, Rosie (with whom he was living) may have been another wife.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 5-16; FtAlexCB 1; BCA BCCR StPetStLk; BCGR-BCVS-RBDM; Van-PL 1891 Canada Census, Caribou, Alexandria

See Also: Tappage (Regnier), Jean Baptiste (Father); Tappage (Regnier), Joseph (Brother)

Tappage (Regnier), Jean Baptiste (c. 1799 - 1849) (probably Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly Red River area [Manitoba] or the Hudson's Bay area - c. 1799

Death: probably New Caledonia [British Columbia] - October 6, 1849

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1830); Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges/Fort Alexandria (1830 - 1831); Middleman and bouté, New Caledonia (1831 - 1849).

Jean Baptiste Tappage (Regnier), hired from Red River, appeared to work as a freeman in 1830 and under yearly contracts from 1831 with the HBC. He appears to have been a valuable steersman guiding boats down the Fraser River. He died on October 6, 1849 of unspecified causes. After his death, HBC books carried a credit under his name for several years, probably for the benefit of his surviving family.

Jean Baptiste Tappage had one wife, Onteloy (?-?), a Fort George native woman and three children. Their children were Joseph (c.1838-?), Alexander (c.1841-?) and William (c.1848-75).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2-7; YFDS 4a-7, 9-11, 14-20; FtAlexAB 1; YFASA 11-15, 19, 22-29; FtVicASA 1-3, 5-6, 10, 12-13; BCA BCCR StPetStLk

See Also: Tappage (Regnier), Alexander (Son); Tappage (Regnier), Joseph (Son)

Tappage (Regnier), Joseph (1838 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: New Caledonia [British Columbia] - 1838 (born to Jean Baptiste Tappage (Regnier))

Death: probably New Caledonia, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1855 - 1856); Middleman, New Caledonia (1856 - 1860); Untraced vocation, Western Department (1860 - 1861); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1861 - 1862); Labourer, New Caledonia (1862 - 1892).

Joseph Tappage (Regnier) began work with the HBC two years before his brother, Alexander. He appears to have stayed within the Fort Alexandria area. In 1891 while he was still working for the HBC, Joseph Tappage and his wife were living in the same household as Charles Ogden at Quesnel and working as a general labourer.

Joseph Tappage's family life is unclear. He and Tsoss (?), had a son, Donald (c.1879-?). No other children were recorded. A later wife was Nellie/Ellen (c.1850-?); in 1901, they had two adopted children living with them, Henrietta (c.1886-?) and Duncan Bouche (c.1881-?).

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 3-15; BCA BCCR StJosMiss; Van-PL 1891 Census, Cariboo, Quesnel; Van-PL 1901 Canada Census, Yale & Cariboo

See Also: Tappage (Regnier), Alexander (Brother); Tappage (Regnier), Jean Baptiste (Father)

Tarantanta, Louis [variation: Tarontanta] (c. 1804 - ?) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably in or near St. Regis or Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1804

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Thompson River general charges (1841 - 1842); Boute, New Caledonia (1842 - 1844).

Louis Tarantanta joined the HBC in 1841. At the end of his three-year contract, he returned to Canada.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-7; YFASA 22-23

Tareaepou [variation: Timothy Kliapoo, Terrapou, Teraeopau, Tereaepou, Taeepow] (fl. 1847 - 1859) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Langley (1847 - 1852); Freeman labourer, Derby (1852 - 1859).

Tareaepou, from Oahu, began work with the HBC as a labourer at Fort Langley on August 19, 1847 and worked there through 1852. He may have remained at the nearby Kanaka Village at Derby, working as a freeman.

On December 25, 1859, the Anglican cleric at Derby indicated that Timothy Kliapoo and Tekoyah, likely a local Native woman, were the parents of Margaret (?-1859-?), who he baptised. The cleric described Kliapoo as a “Kanaker” labourer living at Derby.

PS: HBCA YFASA 27-32; YFDS 18; FtVicASA 1-2; BCA BCCR StJohDivDerb

Tarihongo, Francois Xavier [standard: François] [variation: Tarihonge] (c. 1799 - 1828) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: possibly Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1799

Death: Hood Canal [Washington] - January 1828

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Columbia Department (1816); Trapper, Snake Party (1819); HBC Trapper, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1821 - 1822); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1821 - 1824); Steersman, Columbia Department (1824 - 1826); Steersman, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1827); Steersman, Fort Langley (1827 - 1828).

Iroquois François Xavier Tarihongo joined the NWC in 1815 and was in the Columbia Department in 1816 when cash was paid to his mother. His work habits were erratic for, in the following year, he did not appear to receive wages and, in the fall of 1819, he deserted Donald McKenzie’s Snake Country party. The desertion appears to have been temporary for, by 1821 he carried on with the HBC when the two companies merged. By June, 1827, Tarihongo was a member of the original group that began the construction of Fort Langley. There, he squared logs for the bastion, prepared and set up pickets and, on October 7, 1827, he set out to test the area for beaver before travelling back to Fort Vancouver. On December 2, 1827, he was a member of a party that left Fort Vancouver with dispatches for Fort Langley; the party arrived at Fort Langley on December 27, 1827 and began its return journey on January 3, 1828. A short time later, while passing through the Hood Canal area, François Xavier Tarihongo and four other members of the party, including the leader, Alexander McKenzie, were killed for their clothes and arms by formerly friendly Clallam Indians. That summer, a subsequent HBC punitive expedition to avenge their deaths, saw twenty-one Clallam natives killed, their village burned and a native woman, who had been part of the original HBC party, retaken.

François Xavier Tarihongo’s family has not been traced.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 1, 2; FtGeo[Ast]AB 4; YFASA 1-8; YFDS 2a-2b; FtVanASA 1; FtLangPJ 1; FtVanCB 4

Taroua (fl. 1844 - 1847) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1847); Labourer, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1847).

Taroua joined the HBC from Oahu in 1844 on a three-year contract. He worked at Fort Vancouver until October 15, 1847, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-27; YFDS 18

Tarpaulin [variation: Taipaulin] (c. 1843 - 1852) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: Hawaiian Islands - c. 1820

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

PSAC Labourer, Cowlitz Farm (1843 - 1847); HBC Labourer, Fort Victoria (1847 - 1848); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1848 - 1849); Labourer, Columbia Department (1851 - 1852).

Tarpaulin, from Oahu, appeared in the Columbia in outfit 1843-1844 with a contract which ended in 1846. He worked on the Cowlitz farm until November 10, 1847, at which point he returned to Oahu. He was re-engaged again at Oahu and began work at Fort Vancouver on October 1, 1848. He was not to work long, for on October 10, 1849 he deserted from Fort Vancouver. He may have gone to California, but he likely stayed in the area or returned there, for he appeared in the US Census of 1850 as well as in the Columbia records of 1851-1852. He became a freeman in 1852.

Tarpaulin's family, if any, has not been traced.

PS: HBCA YFASA 23-27, 31-32; YFDS 18-20; FtVanASA 8-9; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Clark Co.

Tasitaharie, Henrie [variation: Tashitahorie, Tasehaheri, Tasechaluri] (fl. 1814 - 1821) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada

Freeman

NWC Employee, Columbia Department (1814 - 1817); Freeman, Columbia Department (1814 - 1817); Trapper, Snake Party (1819); Freeman, Snake Party (1819); Trapper, Columbia Department (1821).

Henrie Tasitaharie joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] on October 30, 1814, from Montreal as a wintering middleman for three years. He probably completed his contract on the Pacific slopes for, in 1816, he was in the area when his cash was paid to his wife. By the fall of 1819, he was working in the Snake Country for at that time he deserted from Donald McKenzie's party. He appeared to stay in the area for two more years for, in the fall of 1821, he returned east of the Rockies.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 1; FtGeo[Ast]AB 4 PPS: A. Ross, The Fur Hunters, p. 149

Tasitayerie, Alexis [variation: Alex Tassitayerie] (fl. 1849 - 1862) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1849 - 1850); Middleman, Fort Victoria (1850 - 1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1851 - 1852); Middleman, Thompson River (1852 - 1853); Untraced vocation, Thompson River (1852 - 1853); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1856 - 1860); Untraced vocation, Western Department (1860 - 1861); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1861 - 1862).

Alexis Tasitayerie joined the HBC in 1849 and worked west of the Rockies until 1862. He may have had a drinking problem for on July 21, 1856, he stripped himself and sold all his possessions and clothes and bedding for rum and rations. Nonetheless, in September 1858, he started superintending the house that the HBC built for the Anglican missionary, William Duncan at Fort Simpson.

PS: HBCA YFASA 29-32; FtVicASA 1-11; FtSimp[N]PJ 8

Tatooa (fl. 1837 - 1849) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade officer

HBC Middleman, Snake Party (1837 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1849).

Tatooa joined the HBC from Oahu in 1837 and began work with the Snake Party on July 31 of that year. He worked continually with a travelling party and was likely a goer and comer, transporting trappers in and out of the country from Fort Vancouver. He worked until November 20, 1841, at which point he returned to Oahu. He re-engaged in 1844 and spent the next five years working at Fort Vancouver before he deserted, most likely for the gold fields of California.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 4-7; YFDS 8, 12; YFASA 19-21, 24-29

Tatouira (c. 1798 - 1826) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: Hawaiian Islands - c. 1798

Death: Columbia Department, Pacific Northwest - 1826

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia River (1817 - 1822); Untraced vocation, Fort Nez Percés (spring 1822); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1822 - 1826).

Tatouira joined the fur trade around 1817 and was with the HBC in the Columbia District in the early 1820s. He was deceased by 1826.

PS: HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 4; YFASA 2-5

Tauriton, Thomas (fl. 1825 - 1826) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Trapper, Snake Party (1825 - 1826).

Thomas Tauriton was a member of Ogden's Snake party expedition when he deserted on January 31, 1826 along with Jean Baptiste Tyguerie as both feared dying if they attempted to cross the mountains.

PPS: HBRS XIII, p. 122, Ogden's Feb. 2, 1826 Burnt River letter to Governor, p. 259-61

Tawanarion, Michel [variation: Taonaneyon, Tawenargon, Tawenharion] (c. 1790 - ?) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec] - c. 1790

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1817 - 1818); Employee, New Caledonia (1820); HBC Boute, Columbia Department (1821 - 1823); NWC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1823 - 1824); HBC Bowsman, Columbia Department (1824 - 1826); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1826 - 1827).

Michel Tawanarion joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] on June 1, 1814 to work as a 2nd steersman to work at Fort William. In 1817, he crossed the Rockies with Joseph LaRocque's party. He must have stayed in the area for he was one of a large group of NWC employees that transferred to the HBC in 1821 at the time of coalition and he returned to Montreal in 1826-1827.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 2, 7, 9; HBCA YFASA 1-6

Tayapapa [variation: Taiépepe] (fl. 1840 - 1847) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: Fort Vancouver, Oregon Territory - December 12, 1847

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Snake Party (1841 - 1842); Labourer, Snake Party (1842 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1843 - 1847).

Tayapapa joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840 as a middleman and labourer. During his career, he worked in the Snake area and Fort Vancouver. He died at Fort Vancouver on December 13, 1847 of the measles, a disease which killed many of his fellow Sandwich Islanders at that time.

Tayapapa fathered a child, Joseph (1847-48), by an unnamed Native woman.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-27; FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 18; BCA Lowe 1a PPS: CCR 1b

Tayarouyokarari, Michel (fl. 1851 - 1855) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Colville general charges (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Fort Colville (1852 - 1853); Labourer, Columbia Department (1853 - 1854); Boute, Fort Colville (1854 - 1855).

Iroquois Michel Tayarouyokarari joined the HBC in 1851 and retired in 1855.

PS: HBCA YFASA 31-32; FtVanASA 9-12

Tayba (fl. c. 1830? - 1833) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1833); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver (1833).

Tayba joined the HBC in April 1830. He was taken likely as a labourer to Fort Simpson [Nass], where he helped to construct the original fort on the Nass River site. At the end of his contract, likely 1833, he returned to Fort Vancouver and, on November 1, 1833, embarked for his return voyage to Oahu.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; YFDS 4a-5b; YFASA 12-13

Tayentas, Joseph (c. 1809 - 1848) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1809

Death: Fort Vancouver, Oregon Territory - February 28, 1848

Fur trade employee

HBC Boute, Fort Vancouver general charges (1832 - 1833); Boute, Fort Colville (1833 - 1834); Boute, Fort Vancouver general charges (1834 - 1836); Guide , Fort Vancouver general charges (1836 - 1848); Guide , York Factory (1836).

Joseph Tayentas joined the HBC in 1831. From 1835-1836 he was a guide to and from York Factory and, according to Thomas Lowe, "was considered one of the most efficient men in the Columbia" (Lowe, p. 65). On February 20, 1848, during the very rainy spring of 1848, he caught a lung infection at Fort Vancouver. It appears to have developed into pneumonia - four days later he died and was buried at Fort Vancouver the following day.

Little is known of the family life of Joseph Tayentas but, at Fort Vancouver, he did father a boy, André (1841-?) to an unnamed native woman.

PS: HBCA YFASA 12-15, 19-20, 22-29; YFDS 5a-7; FtVanASA 3-6; BCA Diar-Rem Lowe 1, p. 65 PPS: CCR 1a

Taylor, George (fl. 1840 - 1846) (British: English)

Birth: probably Crowle, Lincolnshire, England

Maritime employee

HBC Carpenter, Cowlitz (barque) (1840 - 1843); Carpenter, Beaver (steamer) (1843 - 1845); Carpenter, Cowlitz (barque) (1845 - 1846).

George Taylor joined the HBC in London on August 25, 1840 for five years and sailed to the coast on the Cowlitz. After working on coastal shipping for four years, he returned to the British Isles on the barque Cowlitz in outfit 1845-1846.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; FtVanASA 6-7; YFASA 22-25

Taylor, Henry (fl. 1837 - 1841) (British: English)

Birth: possibly London, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1837 - 1838); Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1838 - 1839); Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1839 - 1841).

Henry Taylor joined the HBC in London on November 18, 1837 as a seaman on a five year contract. He sailed to the Pacific Northwest aboard the barque Columbia and began work on coastal shipping on November 1, 1838, servicing coastal posts. He arrived back in England on the Vancouver in spring of 1841.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Columbia 2; YFASA 19-20; ShMiscPap 14; YFDS 7, 10-11; FtVanASA 5-6

Taylor, James [b] (c. 1794 - ?) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: probably in or near Morwick, Birsay, Orkney - c. 1794

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, New Caledonia (1821 - 1822); Labourer, Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs] (1822 - 1823); Bowsman, York Factory (1823 - 1826).

James Taylor joined the HBC on April 25, 1817. Between 1817-1820 he was a labourer at Cumberland House and Edmonton House. Between June 7-July 16, 1820 he was employed by Captain John Franklin and spent the rest of that outfit at Fort Edmonton. He came to New Caledonia in 1821 and in the late fall of 1822 helped to establish a new post at the north end of Babine Lake; he left the area shortly after. Between 1823-1826 he was a bowsman at York Factory. In 1826-1831 he was a colonist at Red River and between 1831-1850 received no wages, only having interest credited.

James Taylor had one wife and ten children. On October 9, 1828, he married Mary Inkster (1811-?). The names of the children have not been traced.

PS: HBCA YFASA 1-2; FtBabPJ 1; YFDS 1a; HBCABio

Taylor, James [a/b] (fl. 1832 - 1836) (British: English)

Birth: probably in or near Ratcliffe, Middlesex, England

Maritime employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Ganymede (barque) (1832 - 1833); Seaman, Vancouver (schooner) (1833); Seaman, Fort Simpson naval service (1833 - 1835); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1835); Seaman, Dryad (brig) (1835 - 1836).

James Taylor joined the HBC in London on September 15, 1832 as a seaman for three years. On the voyage out, he replaced Charles Cluet as steward but, five months later, he was found to be so dirty and had destroyed so many supplies, that Cluet was reinstated. Taylor began work on coastal ships on May 17, 1833 and for a time, worked out of Fort Simpson. He left the coast on October 1, 1835 and arrived back in England in April 1836 at the end of his contract.

Taylor, James [d] (c. 1814 - 1900) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: possibly South Ronaldsay, Orkney - c. 1814

Death: Sauvie Island, Oregon - March 30, 1900

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince of Wales (ship) (1833); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1833 - 1834); Middleman or labourer, New Caledonia (1834 - 1835); Middleman, New Caledonia (1835 - 1838); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1845); Dairyman, Fort Vancouver (1845 - 1850).

James Taylor joined the HBC on April 26, 1833 in Orkney and embarked for the Hudson Bay after which he worked in the New Caledonia area for about four years. He then was transferred to Fort Vancouver where he spent considerable time working as a dairyman. He worked until March 1, 1849 at which point he left for California, most likely for the gold fields there. Upon returning, he worked a short time at Fort Vancouver and became a freeman on October 3, 1850. He first lived in a cabin which he built in Oregon City and then moved to Sauve Island to work at the dairy. James Taylor died in 1900 on Sauve Island at the age of eighty-six and was buried April 6 near his home beside his wife.

James Taylor appears to have had two wives and possibly six children. His first wife was Jeanne, Chinook (?-1847) who died December 21, 1847 of the measles. Their two recorded boys were James William (1844-?) and Jean (1847-?). His second wife was an unnamed woman (?-1893) and between them, they had Edwin (?-?), George (?-?), Mary (?-?) and Emma (?-?).

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Prince of Wales I 10; YFASA 13-14, 19-20, 22-28; YFDS 5c-7, 12, 19; FtVanASA 3-7, 9; BCA Diar-Rem Lowe 1, p. 62; OHS SB#56, p. 194 PPS: CCR 1b

Taylor, James [e] (fl. 1834 - 1836) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia Department (1834 - 1835); Seaman, Dryad (brig) (1835 - 1836).

James Taylor [e] worked as a seaman for the HBC and left the Columbia for England on the brig Dryad on October 1, 1835.

PS: HBCA YFASA 14-15; YFDS 6

Taylor, James (c. 1830 - 1907) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: Birsay, Orkney - c. 1830

Death: St. Mary's Hospital, New Westminster, British Columbia - November 30, 1907

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince of Wales II (barque) (1851); Blacksmith, Fort Victoria general charges (1852 - 1853); Blacksmith, Fort Langley (1853 - 1862).

When James Taylor [2] joined the HBC in Birsay in 1851, he had already been trained as a blacksmith and barrel-maker. He sailed to Hudson Bay, made his way overland and arrived on the Coast in 1852. He worked as a blacksmith at Fort Langley where he was to put his talents to work for the rest of his working career with HBC. He appears to have ended his work with the HBC sometime in the early 1860s. Sometime in the late 1860s, he purchased farmland west of the fort and built a blacksmith shop and entered into a partnership with William Willison Gibbs in the operation of the Fort Langley Hotel. In the 1870s his hotel, within the newly incorporated municipality of Langley, ran into financial trouble when the municipality voted in favour of prohibition. In 1887 he sold his blacksmith shop to a recently arrived settler, William John McIntosh. Taylor continued to live at Langley, died in New Westminster in 1907 and was buried in the family plot in the old Fort Langley cemetery.

James Taylor had two successive wives and seven recorded children. Around 1861 he married Catherine Fallardeau (1841-1874), daughter of Narcisse Fallardeau, a long time HBC employee. Their children were Ann (c.1861-?), George (1863-1941), Catherine (1865-1943), John James (1868-1931), Mary (c.1870-1910), Margaret (1871-1966) and Peter (1874-1965). After wife Catherine's death on December 30, 1874, James married Barbara Jamieson (c.1839-1909) of Aberdeenshire, Scotland. Barbara died on June 23, 1909 and was also buried in the Taylor plot at the old Fort Langley cemetery.

PS: HBCA log of Prince of Wales II 2; YFASA 32; FtVicASA 1, 3-10; Van-PL 1881, 1891, 1901 Canada Censuses SS: Waite, p. 68, 69, 265; James Taylor descendant

Taylor, John (fl. 1830 - 1839) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: probably Stromness, Orkney

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Ganymede (barque) (1830 - 1831); Seaman, Vancouver (schooner) (1831 - 1833); Seaman, Ganymede (barque) (1833 - 1834); Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1837 - 1839).

John Taylor joined the HBC in London on November 20, 1830. After sailing to the Pacific coast, he began work on October 15, 1831 mainly supplying coastal posts. He worked on the coast until May 17, 1833 and then returned to England on the barque Ganymede. He signed an additional contract in 1837 for the return voyage to the coast on the Columbia and arrived back in London May 20, 1839.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; HBCA ShMiscPap 7, 14; YFASA 11-13; YFDS 4b-5b; log of Ganymede 1; FtVanASA 5

Taylor, Peter (? - 1837) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Red River Settlement [Manitoba] (born to George Taylor, Red River sloopmaster)

Death: McTavish Bay, Northwest Territories - December 12, 1837

Maritime employee

HBC Native apprentice, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1827); Native apprentice, Coastal Trade (1827 - 1830); Native apprentice, Fort Vancouver coastal trade (1827 - 1831); Apprentice, Cadboro (schooner) (1830); Native apprentice, Naval Department (1830 - 1831); Middleman, Arctic Land Expedition (1833 - 1835); Member, Arctic Discovery Expedition with Dease and Simpson (1836 - 1837).

Peter Taylor was hired on by the HBC as a native apprentice seaman in 1826 at which point he went to the Columbia for five years. From 1831 he appears to have gone north on various expeditions and in early August, 1837 was one of the men who accompanied Simpson on foot when exploring the coast between Boat Extreme and Point Barrow. On their way back to Fort Confidence, they stopped at Fort Norman and Dease and Simpson wrote dispatches which Taylor and Ferdinand Wentzel took to Fort Resolution, on the south shore of Great Slave Lake. On December 12, 1837, in McTavish Bay and while Taylor was returning to Fort Simpson, he died from starvation, fatigue and an old pulmonary complaint. Taylor died a single man, intestate.

PS: HBCA YFDS 2a; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-3; D 4/113, p. 146; YFASA 6-9; YFDS 3a-3b; George Simpson's April 1, 1841 letter to HBC Governor, D.4/112, fo. 146; ShMiscPap 14; HBCABio

Taylor, Richard (fl. 1830) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Goer and comer, Columbia Department (1830).

Richard Taylor was a comer and goer into the Columbia Department in the summer of 1830.

PS: HBCA FtVanAB 26

Taylor, Thomas (1797 - 1879) (Mixed descent)

Birth: York Factory [Manitoba] - 1797 (born to George Taylor and Jane, Cree)

Death: Ontario, Canada - December 18, 1879

Fur trade employee

HBC Personal servant, Columbia Department (1824 - 1825); Personal servant, Columbia Department (1828 - 1829).

Thomas Taylor, a fastidious personal servant of George Simpson from 1821-1830, came twice to the Pacific slopes each time in a servant capacity. In 1825, while hunting deer on the return journey, Taylor and George Bird separated from the party and, after considerable privation and near starvation, were able to drag themselves into the post at Swan River, in a territory that Taylor had vaguely recalled from his youth. Related by marriage, he was the mixed descent brother of Margaret Taylor and thus brother-in-law to George Simpson. Taylor joined the HBC in 1815, and after finishing his role as servant, was in charge of various posts east of the Rockies; he was promoted to clerk in 1843. Taylor retired in 1855 and died in Ontario.

Thomas Taylor married Mary Keith (1814-66), mixed descent daughter of Chief Factor James Keith, a marriage arranged by both Simpson and Keith.

PS: HBCA YFASA 3-5, 8; FtVanAB 26; FtGeo[Ast]AB 12; SimpsonCB PPS: G. Simpson, Narrative, p. 76-78; HBRs XXX p. 233 SS: HBRs X, p. xviii; Van Kirk, "Many Tender Ties", p. 161, 162, 163; The Belhumeur Homepage: <http://ww3.sympatico.ca/larry.quinto/taylor.htm>; G. Simpson, Fur Trade, p. 356-57

Taylor, William (fl. 1838 - c. 1850) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Death: possibly Hawaiian Islands - c. February 3, 1850

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1839 - 1840); Untraced vocation, Oahu (1840).

William Taylor joined the HBC in London on October 29, 1838 on a five-year contract. He sailed to the coast aboard the HBC barque Vancouver and serviced several posts while he was on the coast. In late 1840 on the return voyage back to England, he was discharged in Oahu for untraced reasons. (This may be the same English William Taylor who, after residing on the Islands for a period of eighteen years, died at Lahaina on February 3, 1850, at the age of sixty-three.)

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 19-20; YFDS 10; FtVanASA 6; HHS Friend, April 1, 1850, p. 32

Tcharongwatie, Michel [variation: Techarongwatie, Teharongwatie] (fl. 1816) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

NWC Middleman, Pacific slopes (1816 - 1818).

Michel Tcharongwatie joined the NWC [Roderick McKenzie] on September 10, 1814 to work as a middleman at Michillimackinac. He was on record as being on the Pacific slopes in 1816 when cash, possibly his wages, was paid to his mother. Tcharongwatie was likely on the Brigade route for 1818 saw him returning west of the Rockies with Angus Bethune and James McMillan.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 1, 2

Tchigt, Charles [variation: Charlot Tse'te', Stete, Tcheigte] (c. 1798 - ?) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1798

Fur trade employee

HBC Trapper, Columbia Department (1822) (with Miaquin Martin); Voyageur, York Factory Express (HBC) (1822 - 1823); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1823 - 1824); Interpreter, Columbia Department (1824 - 1826); Interpreter, Fort Colville (1826 - 1827); Untraced vocation, Thompson River (1827 - 1828); Interpreter, South Party (1828 - 1830); Trapper, South Party (1830 - 1831); Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1831 - 1836); Interpreter, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1831 - 1836); Settler, Willamette (1836 - 1842).

Charles Tchigte joined the NWC on December 15, 1818 as a hunter for four years in Indian Country. This may have taken him to the Columbia for, at the time of coalition he joined the HBC in 1821 at an unknown location. Up to February 19, 1822, he was a member of Miaquin Martin's independent band of Iroquois trapping the area, was sent home the following month as a voyageur but appears to have returned the following outfit. In April 1832 he was a member of Michel Laframboise's crew sent to avenge the Tillamooks for the murder of two trappers (Thomas Canasawarette and Pierre Kakawaquiron). He eventually became a settler in 1837 in the Willamette Valley and continued to sell furs and grain to the Company. He was one of the signers of a petition asking for priests to be sent to the area. The 1850 census has him born in 1780 but this is unlikely.

He had three successive wives and two recorded children, although, there were likely more. The first wife, Charlotte Pend d'Oreille, was the mother of Agathe Charlot (c.1835-?). Marie Thomas (Canasawarette?) was the second wife and appears to have died. Their child may have been Susanne (c.1845-?). On May 2, 1847, he married a Calapooia woman usually mentioned as Thérèse (c.1832-?). Their one recorded child was Laurent (c.1846-51).

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 4, 10; YFASA 2-9, 11-15; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-6; YFDS 2a, 3a-3b, 5a-6, 8, 10-11; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion Co. PPS: CCR 1a, 2a, 2b
See Also: Canasawarette, Thomas (Father-in-Law)

Teaheererey [variation: Teeahererey] (fl. 1840 - 1849) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Langley (1841 - 1843); PSAC Labourer, Cowlitz Farm (1843 - 1847); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1847 - 1849); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver farm (1849).

Teaheererey joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840 on a three year contract and began his career in northern Fort Taku. He worked along the coastal area, and finally at the Fort Vancouver Farm, from which he deserted on September 10, 1849. He likely headed for the California gold fields.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-29; FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 20

Tea, Isaac (fl. 1815) (Undetermined origin)

Maritime employee

NWC Crew member, Columbia (schooner) (1815).

Isaac Tea, who signed on in the Sandwich Islands, was a crew member of the NWC schooner Columbia when it traded in the waters of the Northwest Coast. He appeared work only the one season.

Tecanarane, Michel (fl. 1813 - 1816) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: possibly Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1816).

When Michel Tecanarane first joined the NWC [Isaac W. Clarke] on July 20, 1813, he was already a steersman indicating previous experience in the fur trade. That year he worked at Amherstburg; in 1814 he was at Michillimackinac with Roderick McKenzie and, that same year, at Fort William as a bowsman with McTavish, McGillivray & Co. He first appeared on record on the Pacific slopes in 1816 as an employee of the NWC. In that year, cash was paid to his wife.

The name of Michel Tecanarane's wife has not been traced.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 1

Tecanasogan, Pierre (fl. 1814 - 1822) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: possibly Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

HBC Member of Miaquin Martin's band, Flathead District/Snake Country area (1822).

When Pierre Tecanasogan joined the NWC on June 15, 1814; when he was assigned to Michillimackinac, he was already a steersman, indicating previous experience in the fur trade. As a contracted member of McTavish McGillivray & Co. in 1818, he was assigned to work for four years as a hunter in Indian Country. It is not certain when he came to the Pacific slopes, but by 1822, he was a member of Miaquin Martin's independent band of fur traders. When that gang broke up around around the time of the coalition of the HBC and NWC, Tecanasogan was sent home in the spring of 1822 because the independent trappers were considered a burden by the HBC. (Joseph Tecanosegon is a likely relative.)

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 4, 10

See Also: Tecanosegon, Joseph (probable Relative)

Tecanatassin, Pierre (fl. 1814 – 1822) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: possibly Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Steersman or middleman, Pacific slopes (1818 - 1821); HBC Trapper, Fort George [Astoria] (1821 - 1822).

Pierre Tecanatassin, from Sault St. Louis, joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] on May 13, 1814 to work as a middleman at Fort William but two months later, during the final turbulent years of the War of 1812, was assigned by the NWC to Michillimackinac as a steersman. In 1818 he was on record as crossing the Rockies to the Pacific slopes in a party with Angus Bethune and James McMillan. He was probably in the Fort George [Astoria] area in 1822; however, after being fitted out by the HBC with articles for the spring and fall hunt, Tecanatassin, along with fifteen others, deserted.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 2, 3; FtGeo[Ast]AB 4

Tecanosegon, Joseph [variation: Tecanasegon] (c. 1802 - ?) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1802

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1831 - 1832); Boute, New Caledonia (1832 - 1834).

Joseph Tecanosegon joined the HBC in 1831 on a three-year contract, serving it out on the Pacific slopes.

PS: HBCA YFASA 11-13; YFDS 4b-5b

See Also: Tecanasogan, Pierre (probable Relative)

Tecawatiron, Charles (Gros Charles) [variation: Tecaweateron, Tecaweaitron] (c. 1794 - 1843) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1794

Death: probably Fort Colville, Columbia Department - October 20, 1843

Fur trade employee

HBC Employee, Pacific slopes (1816); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1821 - 1823); Boute, Fort George [Astoria] (1822); Bowsman, York Factory Express (HBC) (1822 - 1823); Bowsman, Columbia Department (1824 - 1830); Boute, Fort Colville (1826 - 1844).

Charles Tecawatiron (or Gros Charles as he was also known) joined the NWC around 1815 and the following year was working on the Pacific slopes. In that year cash or his wages were paid to his mother. In 1822, after signing a contract at Fort George and being outfitted with articles for the spring and fall hunt, he and fifteen others deserted. However in the following outfit, he appears to have returned to work on the brigade. In outfit 1828-1829, he received an extra gratuity for his services to George Simpson, who had visited there. He appears to have had a long career around the Fort Colville area. He died on October 20, 1843 while he was working out of Fort Colville.

Details of Charles Tecawatiron's family have not been traced.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 1; HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 4, 10; YFASA 1-2, 4-9, 11-15, 20, 22-23; HBCCont; YFDS 2a-3b, 4b-7, 14; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-6

Teela (fl. 1836 - 1844) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1836 - 1838); Middleman, Fort Umpqua (1838 - 1839); Middleman, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1839 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Umpqua (1842 - 1844); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844).

Teela joined the HBC in 1836 from Oahu and spent most of his time working in actual transactions with native Americans. He worked until November 23, 1844 at which point he returned to Oahu and has not been traced beyond receiving his final wages at the Honolulu office on December 31st.

PS: HBCA YFASA 19-20, 22-24; YFDS 7, 15; FtVanASA 3-7; SandsAB 3

Tehongagarate, Joseph (c. 1794 - ?) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1794

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

HBC Member, Columbia Department (1822) (with Miaquin Martin); Member, York Factory Express (HBC) (1822 - 1823); Untraced vocation, Fort George [Astoria] (1823 - 1824); Interpreter, Columbia Department (1824 - 1826); Interpreter, Fort Nez Percés (1826 - 1830); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1831); Interpreter, Fort Nez Percés (1831 - 1834); Member, Thomas McKay's Trapping Party (1834 - 1835); Middleman, Snake Party (1835 - 1837); Middleman, Fort Colville (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Snake Party (1838 - 1840); Settler, Willamette (1840 - 1842); Trapper, South Party (1843 - 1844).

Joseph Tehongagarate joined the fur trade in 1819 or 1821. Up to February 19, 1822, an uncertain period around the time of the amalgamation of the NWC and the HBC, he worked with Miaquin Martin's band of independent trappers. The following outfit, he returned to the area where he continued to work as an interpreter and middleman. He worked mainly in the southern Columbia area and on October 31, 1840 was discharged from the Company to become a settler in the Willamette Valley around 1841.

PS: HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 4, 10; YFASA 1, 4-9, 11-15; 19-20, 23; FtGeo[Ast]AB 11; YFDS 2a, 3a-4b, 5b-7, 11; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-6

Tehotarachten, Jacques [variation: Jacob Tecotarisin] (fl. 1824 - 1826) (Native: probably Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Freeman

HBC Freeman, Snake Party (1822 - 1823); Freeman, Columbia Department (1824 - 1825); on Montreal Pay List, Columbia Department (1825 - 1826).

Jacques Tehotarachten was a member of Miaquin Martin's band of trappers who essentially worked on their own and thus was probably working in the area in or before 1821. He next appeared on record in outfit 1822-1823 when he accompanied Finan McDonald into the Snake Country, possibly as a freeman. On February 10, 1824 as a freeman, he was about to embark from Flat Head Post with Alexander Ross' Snake Party. At that point, Ross felt that he was "unfit for Snake Country" (SnkCoPJ 1, fo. 2). Ross' prognosis was accurate for three days later Tehotarachten said that he did not want to proceed and left the party on the 15th. When Ross returned to Prairie de Camass near Flat Head Post on November 23, 1824, he met a remorseful and apologetic Tehotarachten. In spite of his remorse, the still-angry Ross called Tehotarachten a "vagabond of the first degree" (SnkCoPJ 1, fo. 58). In 1825, Tehotarachten joined the Express back to Montreal where he was paid.

PS: HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 10; FtSpokRD 1; SnkCoPJ 1; YFASA 4-5; FtVanAB 1

Tellier, George (fl. 1829) (British: English)

Birth: probably in or near St. Clements, Middlesex, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia Department (1829).

George Tellier joined the HBC on October 31, 1829 as a seaman for three years. Although he was assigned to ships which serviced the Columbia, he did not appear on those abstracts.

PS: HBCA HBCCont

Tellier, Maxime (c. 1804 - 1826) (Undetermined origin)

Death: McLeod Lake, New Caledonia - July 29, 1826

Fur trade employee

HBC Employee, McLeod Lake Post (1825 - 1826).

Maxime Tellier, who joined the HBC in 1825 on a three year contract, died after only one year of employment. He became ill for two weeks, possibly with an inflammation of the thyroid, and died on July 29, 1826. Tellier's death was considered a great loss to his boss, John Tod.

PS: HBCA YFASA 5-6; FtStJmsCB 5

Tenetoresere, Francois Xavier [standard: François Xavier] [variation: Teanetorensé] (fl. 1818 - 1822) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Freeman

HBC Freeman trapper, McDonald/Bourdon's Snake Party (1822).

François Xavier Tenetoresere joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] on December 19, 1818 as a hunter for four years in Indian Country. By 1822, he was a freeman trapper working in the Miquiam Martin band in 1822 in the Snake Country. He could very likely have been in the area before this date and left when Martin's band of Iroquois men dissolved around that time. Tenetoresere failed to come out of the Snake country in the fall of 1822 and may have deserted or departed back to Canada.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 10; FtSpokRD 1; FtGeo[Ast]AB 10

Tenonwatase, Thomas [variation: Tehonwatase] (c. 1789 - 1837) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1789

Death: Cascade Mountains, Pacific Northwest - March 18, 1837

Fur trade employee

HBC Steersman, Fort Vancouver (1829 - 1830); Boute, New Caledonia (1830 - 1831); Steersman, Fort Nez Percés (1831 - 1832); Boute, Fort Vancouver general charges (1836 - 1837).

Thomas Tenonwatase joined the HBC in 1828. In 1832, he left the Pacific slopes for Montreal, where he was paid. His contract was to have ended in 1839 but he drowned in the Cascades on March 18, 1837. He was buried at Fort Vancouver two months later, on May 14, 1837 by Rev. Herbert Beaver.

PS: HBCA YFASA 9, 11-12; YFDS 3b, 4b, 7; FtVanASA 2-4; BCA BCCR CCCath

Teonetaneka, Joseph (c. 1809 - ?) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1835 - 1838).

Joseph Teonetaneka joined the HBC in 1835. In 1837-1838, he acted as a bote on the Fraser River. In March 1838, at the end of his three-year contract, he returned to Montreal where he was paid.

PS: HBCA YFASA 15, 17-18; YFDS 6-8; FtVanASA 3-5

Teonsarakonta, Charles [variation: Teousarakonta] (c. 1825 - ?) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1825

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1846 - 1847); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1847 - 1849); Boute, Columbia Department general charges (1849 - 1850); Labourer, Columbia Department general charges (1853 - 1854); Boute, Fort Colville (1854 - 1855).

Iroquois Charles Teonsarakonta joined the HBC in 1846. He worked at Fort Simpson until the end of his contract and went off record in 1850. He likely remained in the Columbia as he continued transactions on his account. He rejoined the service at Fort Colville and retired in 1854.

Teouee [variation: Teowee] (fl. c. 1837? - 1839) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian IslandsFur trade employee*HBC Middleman, Snake Party (1837 - 1839); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1839); Passenger, Vancouver (barque) (1839).

Teouee joined the HBC in Oahu in 1836 or 1837, beginning his work with the Snake Party on July 31 of that year. He worked through his three-year contract and left for Oahu on the Vancouver on November 15, 1839.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 4-5; YFDS 8; YFASA 19; ShMiscPap 14

Teow, Isaac (fl. 1814) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian IslandsFur trade employee*NWC Labourer, Fort George [Astoria] (1814).

Isaac Teow is on record on April 4, 1814 as being prepared to work for the NWC through the summer at Fort George [formerly Astoria].

PPS: ChSoc LVII, p. 711

Terepoena [variation: Teupoena] (fl. 1840 - 1850) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian IslandsFur trade employee*HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1845); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1848); Labourer, Fort Langley (1848 - 1849); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1849 - 1850).

Terepoena joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840. He worked at various posts, as needed, until 1850, at which point his HBC account remained static, indicating a probable return to Hawaii.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-32; FtVanASA 6-7

Terry, Stephen (fl. 1825) (probably American)

Birth: probably United States of AmericaFree trader*U.A. Trapper, Rendezvous (1825).

Stephen Terry appeared on the records as acquiring several goods at the 1825 Rendezvous at Henry's Fork [Wyoming] from William Ashley, who had brought them overland from St. Louis. Terry probably attended other Rendezvous' as well as continued trapping in the Rocky Mountains.

PS: MHS Ashley 1

Tetreau, Louis (c. 1814 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: St. Laurent (d. of Montreal), Lower Canada - c. 1814Fur trade employee*HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1833 - 1834); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1834 - 1839); Middleman, Snake Party (1839).

Louis Tetreau joined the HBC in 1833 and was in New Caledonia for one outfit. In 1839 he renewed a three-year contract but deserted in June 1839. In actuality, Tetreau had little choice for, while amongst the Flathead Indians, he had mistreated some horses and had been told to leave in an easterly direction. In doing so, he left behind at Fort Vancouver a native wife and child who reintegrated with her Cathlamet people. According to the priests, had Tetreau been able to take his pregnant wife with him into the Flathead region, they would never have been separated.

Louis Tetreau had one recorded wife and one recorded child. He married Catherine, Kathlomat (1822-?) on February 11, 1839 at Fort Vancouver. Their child was Philomene (1839-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 13-15, 19; YFDS 5b-7; FtVanASA 3-6 PPS: CCR 1a; Québécois in Orégon, p. 276-77

Tevanitagon, Charles (fl. 1824) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec] (born to Pierre Tevanitagon)Freeman

HBC Freeman, Snake Party (1824 - 1845).

Son of Iroquois chief, Pierre Tevanitagon, young Charles accompanied his father and brother(?) on Alexander Ross' 1824 Snake Party. On March 3, 1824, he was called a "thieving youth" (SnkCoPJ 1, fo. 6) when he and Gabriel Prudhomme independently traded with some Nez Percés Indians who followed the party. By March 30, a frustrated Ross felt that Charles and eight others were injurious to the party (SnkCoPJ 1, fo. 11d). He went on to join the following Ogden expedition.

PS: HBCA SnkCoPJ 1, 2

See Also: Tevanitagon, Pierre (Father); Tevanitagon, Ignace (Brother)

Tevanitagon, Ignace (fl. 1824) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec] (born to Pierre Tevanitagon)

Freeman

HBC Freeman trapper, Snake Party (1824 - 1825).

On February 10, 1824, Ignace Tevanitagon, who was certainly the son of Pierre Tevanitagon, was camped on the Prairie de Cheveaux outside Flat Head post where both joined Alexander Ross' nine month Snake Party. If he was a son, he was old enough to be listed separately from his father and like his father was listed as being unfit for Snake Country. He completed the expedition and joined the following Ogden 1824-1825 expedition. It is not known whether he travelled with Pierre Tevanitagon when the latter deserted in Snake Country in the following outfit, for he was not listed in the original roster.

PS: HBCA SnkCoPJ 1, 2

See Also: Tevanitagon, Charles (Brother); Tevanitagon, Pierre (Father)

Tevanitagon, Pierre [variation: Tevanitogan] (? - 1828) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Death: Snake Country, Pacific Northwest - 1828

Freeman

HBC Trapper, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1821 - 1822); Freeman leader, Columbia Department (1822 - 1823); Trapper, Snake Party (1824 - 1825); Trapper, Ashley's Snake Party (1825 - 1828).

Iroquois chief Pierre Tevanitagon and his two sons, Charles and Ignace, first appeared on record in 1822-1823 as accompanying Finan McDonald into the Snake Country in the spring of 1823 in charge of a band of Iroquois freemen. The three were then found with the 1824 Snake Expedition of Alexander Ross. Even though Ross felt that Tevanitagon was not fit for Snake Country, he nonetheless found him co-operative and influential enough to put him in charge of the petulant and irritable Iroquois of that expedition. On June 12, 1824 he split from Ross' party with twelve men and in August or September he "got into a Scrape with the Snakes" (SnkCoPJ 1, fo. 47d) when he took revenge against the Snakes because one of Pierre's horses was stolen. This event led to subsequent punitive killings on both sides and hence troubled relations. Tevanitagon returned in November of that year, to join Ogden's expedition the following month at Flat Head post. However, the following spring on May 24, 1825, he had had enough and, after a scuffle over horses, deserted at Weber River (south of the 42 parallel, technically in Mexican territory) for the American party headed by Johnson Gardner - without paying his debts. Tevanitagon may have grown tired of his new bosses for on April 10, 1826, he repaid part of his debt to Ogden. However, he continued with the American party and met his end with them. He was with Robert Campbell at Red Rock Creek (a tributary to Jefferson River at Pierre's Hole) when, in February 1828, the Blackfoot came to trade, an argument ensued, shots were fired and Tevanitagon was killed. Before his body could be rescued, he was scalped and his body chopped to pieces. His body must have been taken to the Blackfoot village for when the traders reached the deserted village, all they found was a portion of Tevanitagon's feet.

PS: HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 4, 10; SnkCoPJ 1, 2, 3a, 4; Pierre Tevanitagon search file SS: D. L. Morgan, The West of William, p. 186

See Also: Tevanitagon, Charles (Son); Tevanitagon, Ignace (Son)

Tewatcon, Thomas [variation: Tawakon, Tawatcon, Tawatoan, Towawn] (c. 1796 - c. 1853) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: possibly Sault St. Louis or Lac des Deux Montagnes, Lower Canada - c. 1796

Death: Pacific Northwest - c. 1853

Freeman

NWC Middleman, Pacific slopes (1816 - 1818); HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1821 - 1824); Freeman, Columbia Department (1824 - 1827); Trapper, Snake Party (1827 - 1828); Trapper, South Party (1828 - 1830); Trapper, Snake Party (1830 - 1832); Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1834 - 1835); Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1835 - 1836); Middleman, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1835 - 1836); Middleman, South Party (1836 - 1837); Trapper, South Party (1836 - 1837); Middleman, South Party (1837 - 1844).

Thomas Tewarton joined the NWC [Roderick McKenzie] on September 16, 1814 as a middleman to work in Michillimackinac. Two years later, he was in the Columbia at which point, cash was paid to his wife. He may have worked on the Brigades as he was recorded in 1818 as crossing west over the Rockies with a large NWC party headed by Angus Bethune and James McMillan. He then reappeared on HBC records in 1821. During his roughly twenty-two year period in the Columbia Department, he worked on a variety of expeditions to the Snake Country and to the South. His contract ended in 1843-1844 at which point he appears to have retired. He died before 1854.

Thomas Tewarton had two successive wives and seven recorded children. His first wife was an unnamed Chinook woman with whom he had Thomas II (c.1820-48), Catherine (c.1820-?) and Susanne (c.1821-?). On July 8, 1839, Thomas married Françoise/Louise Walla Walla, or Cayuse probably at Fort Vancouver. Their four children were Pierre (c.1836-?), Louise (c.1837-?), André (1844-?) and Philomene (1846-?). Thomas II died in the home of Joseph McLoughlin; Joseph himself died a few months later. His widow married Paul Guilbault and then Laurent Sauve.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 2, 5a; YFASA 1-6, 14-15, 22-24; YFDS 3a-3b, 5c-7; FtVanASA 3-6 PPS: CCR 1a, 2a, 2b
See Also: Guilbeau, Paul (Relative)

Tewhattohewnie, George [variation: Tewhattahewnie, Tewattohewnie] (fl. 1813 - 1824) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Freeman

HBC Bowsman, Willamette Post (winter 1813 - 1814); Steersman, Willamette Post (winter 1813 - 1814); NWC Middleman, Columbia Department (1821); HBC Freeman, Columbia Department (1824).

George Tewhattohewnie, stationed at Fort William [Lake Superior], was at Fort George in 1813 and joined the brigade for its return east in April 1814. He came back to the Columbia at an unknown date with the NWC for he was part of a large group of NWC employees that transferred to the HBC at the time of coalition in 1821. By 1822-1823 he was a freeman and, by 1824 he was hunting at "Chihalis Bay" [Gray's Harbor] with several slaves shooting sea otter. When the 1824-1825 Fraser River James McMillan expedition from Fort George was passing through, George took one slave from several whom he sent back to Fort George, and joined the group to explore for the future site of Fort Langley. His hunting in the area and possession of slaves suggests that he married locally inheriting his wife's slaves and hunting rights.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10; NWCAB 9; BCA Work 1824 PPS: Coues, p. 871

Teyecaleyeeaoeye, Lazard [variation: Teycalayecourge, Teycateyecowige] (fl. 1822 - 1825) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Freeman

HBC Freeman trapper, Snake Party (1822); Freeman trapper, Snake Party (1825).

Lazard Teyecaleyeeaoeye first joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] on December 15, 1818 to work in Indian Country for four years as a hunter. His movements for the next four years have not been traced but, by 1822, he was part of Miaquin Martin's band of Iroquois freeman traders working in the Snake Country. He deserted in the fall of 1822 and presumably carried on working with the Americans. He next appeared on May 23, 1825 with Jack McLeod (who had also deserted), along with three Canadians, a Russian and an old Spaniard in a group led by Etienne Provost. On the following day, while technically in Mexican territory below the forty second parallel, Lazard rallied for the destruction of Ogden's party saying "we are Superior in numbers to them let us fire & pillage them" (SnkCoPJ 2, fo. 25). He advanced with a cocked gun but Ogden stood his ground and Lazard backed off. A large number did follow with desertions and Lazard Teyecaleyeeaoeye was not seen again.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; FtGeo[Ast]AB 10; FtSpokRD 1; SnkCoPJ 2, 3a

Teyoharate, Joachim [variation: Teyohoarate] (c. 1815 - c. 1854) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1815

Death: Victoria, Colony of Vancouver Island - c. March 24, 1854

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1846 - 1847); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1847 - 1848); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1848 - 1849); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1848 - 1849); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1849 - 1853); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1853 - 1854).

Joachim Teyoharate joined the HBC in 1846. He spent the majority of his working career at Fort Simpson, (where he raised a family) and on the steamer Beaver. He died, probably in the Victoria area, in March 1854 and was buried on March 24. His account showed movement for two years after his death indicating that family members may have been using up his credit.

Joachim Teyoharate took an unnamed Nass woman (?-?) as his wife. Their children were Rosalie (1853-57) and Michel (?-bap.1853-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 26-32; FtVicASA 1-3; BCA BCCR StAndC

Theroux (Laferte), Olivier [variation: Laforte] (1810 - 1863) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Yamaska, Lower Canada - 1810

Death: Fort Kamloops [Thompson River Post, She-waps Post], Columbia Department - November 3, 1863

Fur trade employee

HBC Boute, Fort Vancouver general charges (1832 - 1833); Middleman, New Caledonia (1833 - 1842); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1842 - 1845); Fisherman, Fort Alexandria (1845 - 1847); Boute, New Caledonia (1847 - 1848); Fisherman, New Caledonia (1848 - 1850); Boute, Fort Alexandria (1850 - 1851); Boute, New Caledonia (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1852 - 1853); Untraced vocation, Thompson River (1853 - 1856); Boute, Fort Alexandria and Thompson River (1853); Boute, Thompson River (1856 - 1860); Sundries account only, Western Department (1860 - 1861); Untraced vocation, Thompson River (1861 - 1862); Labourer, Thompson River (1862 - 1863).

Olivier Theroux (Laferte) joined the HBC on February 16, 1828. He spent his time in the New Caledonia area and died at Kamloops on November 3, 1863.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFDS 5a-7, 15; FtAlexPJ 6; YFASA 13-15, 19-20, 24-32; FtVanASA 3-6; FtVicASA 1-12; FtAlexPJ 9; BCA FtAlex

Therrien, Pierre [variation: Thervien] (c. 1803 - 1830) (Canadian: French)

Birth: Lower Canada [Quebec] - c. 1803

Death: Fort Langley - August 18, 1830

Fur trade employee

HBC Bowsman, Fort Langley (1827 - 1830).

Pierre Therrien joined the fur trade around 1818 and appeared in the Columbia in 1827, coming west that fall with the returning Express. He had a short three year career for he was accidentally killed at Fort Langley by the wadding of a cannon that was fired from the schooner Vancouver to salute the fort just as the vessel was departing. The wad of top yarn caught him in the right groin and shattered his thigh right down to his knee. He died in two hours.

PS: HBCA FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-2; YFASA 7-10; YFDS 3a-3b PPS: E. Ermatinger, p. 105; A. McDonald, p. 80-81

Thestironsara, Pierre [variation: Thisteronsenac] (fl. 1819 - 1820) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Freeman

U.A. Freeman trapper, New Caledonia (1819 - 1820).

Pierre Thisteronsenac, one of the many free Iroquois who roamed the west and occasionally worked for either the NWC or HBC, actually trapped and traded for the HBC prior to 1821. In December 1819, he was a member of the HBC party of free Iroquois which went from Smoky River into New Caledonia to trap. Throughout 1820, they trapped and traded, much to the surprise of the NWC. They returned east of the Rockies in October, 1820 with a great quantity of furs, much to the consternation of the NWC. Thisteronsenac disappeared from record at the merging of the two companies.

PPS: HBRS II, p. 214, 261

Thew, William (c. 1816 - ?) (British: English)

Birth: probably in or near St. George, Hanover Square, London, England - c. 1816

Fur trade employee

HBC Clerk, New Caledonia (1837 - 1842).

William Thew did not have a good reputation in the fur trade. He joined the HBC on May 28, 1834 as an apprentice clerk for five years and appeared in New Caledonia in 1837. The priest/historian Father Morice spoke rather bluntly of him:

Thew, the very man he [Ogden] cautioned to show some consideration to a subordinate, has remained famous at Fraser Lake for his autocratic ways, his uncontrollable temper, and his cruelty to his men. This led to violent scenes, followed sometimes by desertion. We must say that in the beginning some of those who had to complain of him were unfortunately punished by Ogden, who as too prone to believe a gentleman against a plebeian (Morice p. 200).

Thew himself had considerable disputes with P.S. Ogden. He also showed contempt and meanness toward the Indians and almost lost his life more than once because of it. In 1841, while at Fraser Lake, he gave an Indian called "Saint Paul" by the employees, such a drubbing that the Indians from the nearby village banded together, marched to the fort, broke down the gates and threatened Thew with his life. He threw down gifts promising to make Saint Paul a chief and to compensate him. After events like these, French Canadians continued to desert, even the very loyal Baptiste LaPierre. In the spring or summer of 1842 Thew went east over the Rockies and returned via the Prince Rupert to the British Isles in 1843.

An undelivered 1847 letter to Thew from Colin Fraser of Jasper House, rests in the HBCA.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; FtVanASA 4-7; YFASA 18-20, 22-23; MiscI 5 SS: Morice, The History of, p. 199-206

Thibeault, Francois [standard: François] (fl. 1849 - 1850) (Undetermined origin)Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1849 - 1850).

François Thibeault, who joined the HBC in 1849, appears to have put in an appearance in the Columbia as he drew on the sundry account and received his wages but was not assigned to a specific district.

PS: HBCA YFASA 29

Thibeault, George (c. 1820 - ?) (Canadian: French)Birth: L'Assomption, Lower Canada - c. 1820 (born to Etienne Thibeault and Renette Richard)*Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1841 - 1842); Middleman, New Caledonia (1842 - 1849); Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1848 - 1849); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1849 - 1850); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1850 - 1851); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1851); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1855 - 1856).

George Thibeault joined the HBC from Montreal in 1841 and worked at a variety of locations in the greater Columbia Department over a fifteen year period. In May 1852, after eleven years of relatively uneventful employment, Thibeault and his wife had an altercation at Fort Simpson with the gatekeeper who would not let her relatives into the post. Shortly after, on September 1, he sailed south on the Mary Dare and, on October 1, 1852, he retired from the service. He appeared to return to work casually for the HBC in outfit 1855-1856 and by 1870, he was no longer in the area.

George Thibeault had one wife and three recorded children. On December 11, 1852 in Victoria, he married Lucie (?-?) "Sabissins" [Tsimshian]. Their children were Philomene (1852-52), Francis Xavier (?-bap.1853-?), and Catherine (?-bap.1857-?).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-7; YFASA 22-32; log of Beaver 2; FtVicDS 1; FtVicASA 1-2; HBCABio; FtSimp[N]P] 7; BCA BCCR StAndC PPS: Mallandaine

Thibeault, Isaac [variation: Thebeault] (c. 1804 - ?) (Canadian: French)Birth: Sorel, Lower Canada - c. 1804*Death: possibly West of the Rockies*Fur trade employee

HBC Blacksmith, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Blacksmith, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1833); Blacksmith, Fort Vancouver (1833 - 1835).

Isaac Thibeault joined the HBC in 1830 on a three-year contract. He began work around 1831 and was taken north to assist in the construction of the original Fort Simpson [Nass] on the Nass River. In outfit 1833-1834 he returned to Fort Vancouver.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; YFASA 11-14; YFDS 4a-5c

Thibeault, Joachim [variation: Joseph] (c. 1812 - ?) (Canadian: French)Birth: probably St. Paul, Lower Canada - c. 1812*Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1832 - 1833); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1832 - 1834); Middleman, Fort McLoughlin (1834 - 1835); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1838); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1839 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1843 - 1851).

Joachim Thibeault joined the HBC in 1832 and worked in both the Columbia and New Caledonia districts. According to the 1850 Census, he was in Lewis County (Washington) with a family and continued to have transactions with the Company for two years after his retirement in 1851.

By 1850, Joachim Thibeault had a wife and two recorded children. He was married to Louisa (c.1821-?), of unknown origin, and had son Joachim (c.1836-38) and a daughter Eunice (1840-?).

PS: HBCA FtSimp[N]PJ 3; YFASA 12-15, 19-20, 22-32; YFDS 5a-5b, 6-7; FtVanASA 3-9; HBCABio; BCA BCCR CCCath; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Lewis Co. SS: CCR 1a, 1b

Thibeault, Joseph (c. 1824 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1824 (born to Joseph Thibeault and Archange Belanger)

Death: possibly Oregon Territory, Pacific Northwest

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1845); Mess servant, Fort Vancouver (1845 - 1846); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1846 - 1848); Middleman, Fort Nisqually (1848 - 1849); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1849 - 1851).

Joseph Thibeault joined the HBC in 1841 and worked as a middleman until he retired on August 10, 1851. He remained in the area.

Joseph Thibeault had one wife and one recorded child. On September 15, 1845, he married fifteen year old Henriette, Snohomish (c.1830-?), probably at Fort Vancouver, and they had a daughter Marie Idelle (c.1851-1851). No other children were recorded.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-8; YFASA 22-32; YFDS 16, 22; HBCABio; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon, Clark Co. PPS: CCR 1b

Thing, Joseph (fl. 1834 - 1838) (American)

Birth: Kentucky, United States

Fur trade officer

CRFTC Mapper, Pacific slopes (1834); Clerk, Fort Hall (1834); Clerk in charge, Fort Hall (1835 - 1836); Clerk, Rendezvous (1836); HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver sundries accounts (1837 - 1838).

Joseph Thing made his way overland in 1834 onto the Pacific slopes as a land-travelling Boston sea captain employed by Nathaniel J. Wyeth for his ill-fated attempt to establish the Columbia River Fishing and Trading Company in the Columbia. Thing, who had been brought in to measure the route by astronomical observation, was part of Wyeth's 2nd Expedition which left Independence, Missouri on April 28, 1834. On the way, he headed hunting and trapping parties. In April, 1835, Thing took twelve men with him to establish a post on the Salmon River but the plans had to be abandoned when the Blackfoot caused them to escape to Fort Hall with only their horses. In 1835, he took charge of Wyeth's operations at Fort Hall and became known for his Southern hospitality. In the spring of 1836, with the knowledge that Wyeth's financially failed Company was to be sold and, with the power to sell off the Fort Hall assets (the fort, traps, horses, furs, etc), Thing went to the June 1836 American Rendezvous on Green River. There, as HBC's John McLeod Jr. found his prices too high, Thing sold the traps and horses to Lucien Fontenelle and Andrew Drips of the American Fur Company. In 1837, he sold the fort, for $500 as well as the furs, goods, etc. to a mutually satisfactory amount to HBC Chief Trader John McLeod. After the dissolution of his company, Wyeth wrote to the HBC securing a passage for Thing by the "route of Communication, or to the Sandwich islands, if required." (He appeared on the HBC Fort Vancouver 1837-1838 sundries account.)

PS: HBCA Correspondence [Nathaniel Wyeth] A.10/3, fo. 495; FtVanASA 4; N. J. Wyeth's Dec. 5, 1836 letter to HBC Gov. & Committee A.10/3, fo. 496; FtVanCB 17; OHS FtHallAB PPS: O. Russell, p. 1, 9, 13, 38, 155

Thirouac, Damase (c. 1819 - ?) (Undetermined origin)

Birth: possibly L'Islet, Lower Canada - c. 1819

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1842 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Alexandria (1843); Miller, New Caledonia (1843 - 1844); Carpenter, New Caledonia (1843 - 1844); Miller, New Caledonia (1844 - 1845).

Damase Thirouac joined the HBC in 1842 on a three-year contract. He returned to Canada in 1845.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 7; YFASA 22-24; FtAlexPJ 5; YFDS 14-15

Thomas, Daniel [1] (fl. 1837 - 1838) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Sumatra (barque) (1837 - 1838).

Daniel Thomas came to the coast on the HBC chartered ship Sumatra. He left England in February 1837 and, in August, arrived in Oahu where he overstayed his shore leave by two days. He spent about a month at Fort Vancouver and arrived back in London in April 1838. (He may be the same as the following Daniel Thomas.)

PS: HBCA log of Sumatra 1

Thomas, Daniel [2] (fl. 1843 - 1844) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1843 - 1844).

Daniel Thomas may not have been an employee of the HBC as he appears on the sundry accounts of the records for outfit 1843-44.

PS: HBCA YFASA 23

Thomas, Dr. William (fl. 1854 - 1857) (British)

Birth: probably British IslesMaritime officer

HBC Surgeon, Princess Royal (barque) (1854); Surgeon, Nanaimo (1854 - 1857); Surgeon, Princess Royal (barque) (1857).

William Thomas came to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal. It was an unfortunate and tempestuous voyage - seven children, one miner and one miner's wife, died; the passengers complained bitterly about the provisions provided. After the arrival at Victoria, Thomas fought with the ship's officers and was put under arrest for breach of discipline. Consequently, he was put ashore and replaced on the vessel by Dr. Alfred Benson. He worked at Nanaimo for almost two and a half years, replacing Dr. Johnston in Colvile Town before being replaced himself by Benson. He then rejoined the Princess Royal in March 1857 and returned to the British Isles.

PS: HBCA log of Princess Royal 1, 3; PortB 1; BCA PJ Nan]

Thomas, John [1] (fl. 1834 - 1837) (Undetermined origin)

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (schooner) (1833); Seaman, Fort Simpson naval service (1834 - 1835); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1835 - 1836); Seaman, Ganymede (barque) (1836 - 1837).

John Thomas [2] was working on the coastal schooner Vancouver by May 1833. Although he is purported to have left on the barque Ganymede for London on April 15, 1836, he was not on the crew list and did not receive wages for that outfit. Just what happened to John Thomas [2] is a bit of a mystery unless he went to the Sandwich Islands and reengaged with the HBC four years later and, thus, may be the following John Thomas.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 14-16; YFDS 5c-6

Thomas, John [2] (fl. 1840 - 1844) (possibly Polynesian)

Birth: possibly Hawaiian IslandsFur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1840 - 1843); Middleman and labourer, Fort Victoria (1843 - 1844).

John Thomas joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840. He was first assigned to northerly coastal Fort Taku that was being constructed at the time. There he worked for three outfits until he was assigned to the new Fort Victoria in 1843. He worked at the Vancouver Island fort until November 23, 1844, at which point he returned to Oahu. He received his final payout at the Honolulu office.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-24; FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 15; SandIsAB 3

Thomas, William H. (W.) (c. 1856 - 1857) (possibly British)

Birth: possibly British IslesFur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1856 - 1857).

William Thomas deserted from the HBC barque Cowlitz in Honolulu on its way to the coast on January 28, 1850 and most likely headed for the gold fields of California. The William H. Thomas who appeared in the Fort Victoria area in 1856-1857 could be the same person. He may have been working in some capacity with the HBC for, by the beginning of outfit 1857-1858, he had accrued a credit of £202.9.11.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 4-5

Thompson, Andrew (fl. 1847 - 1848) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1847 - 1848).

Andrew Thompson joined the HBC barque Vancouver in London as a seaman on September 22, 1847 and sailed to the Coast. As the vessel was wrecked at the mouth of the Columbia when it arrived on May 7, 1848, Thompson may have left the service as the Vancouver records indicate that he “settled at Columbia.” His name remained on HBC accounts for five years indicating that he may have indeed remained in the area.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 11; YFASA 29-32

Thompson, Charles (fl. 1855 - 1856) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1855 - 1856).

Charles Thompson made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Thompson, David (1770 - 1887) (British: English)

Birth: London, England - April 30, 1770 (born to Welsh parents)

Death: Longueuil, Quebec - February 10, 1887

Fur trade officer

HBC Cartographer, Kootenae House (1807); Cartographer, Flathead Post [Fort Connah, Saleesh House] (1809); Cartographer, Kullyspell House (Kalispeel Post) (1809); Cartographer, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1810).

David Thompson produced volumes of exquisitely drawn maps covering an area of over two million square miles [5,179,976.2 sq. km] of North America. At the age of seven an impoverished Thompson was sent to the Grey Coat London Charity school where he studied mathematics. At the age of fourteen, he was articled to the HBC and began working at Fort Churchill where he learned Algonkian customs and language; he also studied the local flora and fauna.

In 1786, he set out to trade for furs and witnessed the ruinous effects of alcohol on the natives. While recuperating from a broken leg in 1788, he learned astronomy and surveying from the practical astronomer, Philip Turnor. From that point on, Thompson developed a mania for surveying. In May 1797, after a run of bad luck, Thompson quit the HBC and walked seventy-five miles [112.7 km] to the nearest NWC post to join up with them. After being promoted to partner in 1804, Thompson was given the task of establishing trading posts on the Pacific slope. Over the next several years, Thompson encountered Howse Pass, and founded Kootenae House (1807), Kullyspell [Kalispeel] House (1809) and Saleesh [Salish] or Flathead House (1809). During this time he came within thirty miles [48.3 km] of a southward flowing Columbia River but he didn't reach the mouth of the River and Fort Astoria, until July 15, 1811, returning upriver one week later. Just why he reached the mouth of the river when he did in 1811 after weeks of seeming procrastination continues to be a source of controversy amongst historians. Fear of attack by the Peigan natives may have caused him to lose his nerve and delay his voyage. The following year he retired from the fur trade, settling in Terrebonne, Lower Canada and Williamstown, Upper Canada respectively but the bankruptcy of the NWC reduced his income. Between 1816 and 1826 Thompson was employed surveying the boundary between British territory and the United States and was later employed on other surveys. All did not go well, however, for he set his sons up in business and when they went bankrupt, he was forced to sell his own property. In the 1840s he started to write, hoping for an income but he didn't have enough entrepreneurial acumen to promote himself as an author. Suffering from intermittent blindness in the last nine years of his life, he depended on the charity of his son-in-law and was obliged to sell his own clothes and precious instruments to stay alive. In 1857, at the age of eighty-seven, he died and was buried in the Mount Royal Cemetery in Montreal. His loyal wife followed him in death three months later.

David Thompson had one wife and thirteen children. In 1799 at Isle a la Crosse, he married Charlotte Small (also sought after by fellow explorer Alexander MacKenzie) the mixed descent daughter of NWC partner Patrick Small. Together they sixteen children.

PS: UBC-Koer Thompson; RosL-Ph Astoria PPS: Hopwood; ChSoc XL; HBRS XXII, p. 502 SS: DCB Nicks; Nisbet, Sources of the; Nisbet, The Mapmaker's Eye; S. R. Brown; J. K. Smith; D'Arcy

Thompson, Dixey Wildes (1803 - ?) (American)

Birth: Topham (Topsham?), Maine, United States - May 2, 1803 (born to Alexander Thompson and Lydia Wildes)
Maritime officer

MW Captain, Convoy (brig) (1827 - 1829).

Boston trader Dixey Wildes Thompson, a relative of Dixey Wildes, first appeared on the North West Coast in 1829 as captain of the Marshall and Wildes brig Convoy, although he appears to have been captain since 1827. On January 10, 1829 he left Oahu for the Columbia River and spent much of 1829 trading furs in company with the Owhyhee [John Dominis] in opposition to the HBC. It was on that voyage that Thompson's vessel or the Owhyhee may have carried malaria or the "intermittent fever" to the lower Columbia. The Convoy appears to have stayed near Fort George but Thompson himself went up to the Falls to deal with Bache Goodriche, their contact person on the river. After apparently trading successfully, the Convoy went to Juan de Fuca and returned to Oahu on November 1, 1829. As the vessel was in bad condition it was apparently sold off to other interests. Later, in 1836, Thompson may have been captain of the Rasselas that ran, in part, between Kamchatska and Sitka although Joseph O. Carter was listed in most records as being captain.

PS: HU-HL JMarshallLB; CHS log of Owhyhee; HBCA FtVanCB 8 SS: Howay, A List of Trading Vessels; Malloy, p. 90

Thompson, James [1] (fl. 1844 - 1847) (British: Scottish)

Birth: possibly in or near Lerwick, Shetland Islands, Scotland

Maritime employee

HBC Boatswain, Vancouver (barque) (1844 - 1847).

James Thompson joined the HBC in London on August 26, 1844 on a five year contract and made one return voyage to the coast on the Vancouver. Little in the logs reveal anything of his personality.

PS: HBCA log of Vancouver [3] 2; ShMiscPap 11; YFASA 25-26; YFDS 17

Thompson, James [2] (fl. 1851 - 1859) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably Walls, Orkney, Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, New Caledonia general charges (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Thompson River (1852 - 1853); Labourer, Thompson River (1853 - 1856); Untraced vocation, Beaver (steamer) (1856 - 1857); Stoker, Beaver (steamer) (1857 - 1858); Ordinary seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1858 - 1859).

James Thompson, from Walls, worked for the HBC in a variety of capacities. He eventually returned to England on the supply vessel Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA YFASA 31-32; YFDS 22; FtVicASA 1-7; log of Princess Royal 5

Thompson, John [1] (fl. 1814) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

NWC Labourer or clerk, Fort George [Astoria] (1814).

This Mr. Thompson (named John Thompson by Coues vol. 2, p. 760) appeared on record on November 30, 1813 at Fort Astoria. He was still there on March 6, 1814.

PPS: ChSoc LVII, p. 616, 617, 695, 696; Coues, p. 760

Thompson, John [2] (fl. 1824 - 1826) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Boy, William & Ann (brig) (1824 - 1826).

Young John Thompson signed on with the HBC around July 1824 and made a return voyage to the coast on the William & Ann. While on the coast the vessel traded as far north as Observatory Inlet. Thompson arrived back in London on April 15, 1826.

PS: HBCA log of William & Ann 1

Thompson, John [3] (fl. 1848 - 1849) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1848 - 1849).

John Thompson, who appears to have made at least one Hudson Bay run, re-joined the HBC in London on September 6, 1848 as seaman and sailed to the coast on the Columbia. On May 5, 1849, while at Fort Vancouver, Thompson caught the gold fever and, along with eight others, deserted for the mines of California.

PS: HBCA log of Prince Rupert V 3; PortB 1; log of Columbia 10; YFASA 30-31; P. S. Ogden's May 16, 1849 Fort Vancouver letter to Archibald Barclay, Correspondence, A.11/70, [deserted to join American parties] fos. 368-69

Thompson, John [4] [variation: Thomson] (fl. 1849 - 1853) (British)

Birth: possibly Carlisle, Cumberland, EnglandMaritime employee*HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1851); Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1852 - 1853).

John Thompson came to the coast, perhaps twice, on the Norman Morison. When Thompson, who refused to do duty on May 11, 1850, returned to London, he signed a petition to claim £25 that James Douglas had promised, for good behaviour (Beattie & Buss, p. 243). A second John Thompson, or possibly the same person, sailed on the 1852-1853 return voyage and also petitioned the company for the same gratuity.

An undelivered July 5, 1850 letter from his brother James in Carlisle, speaks of a brother William and a father who was unable to use his arm. His brother wrote the letter slightly inebriated having just come back from the races.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; YFASA 32; log of Norman Morison 1; ShMiscPap 9a PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 242-43

Thompson, Niels [variation: Neils, Neills] (fl. 1841 - 1844) (British: English)

Birth: possibly London, EnglandMaritime employee*HBC Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1842 - 1843); Seaman, Beaver (steamer) (1843 - 1845); Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1845 - 1847).

Niels Thompson joined the HBC in London on August 30, 1841 on a five-year contract. He sailed to the coast on the barque Vancouver and, after working on coastal trade, arrived back in London on June 11, 1844.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 7; YFASA 22-26; log of Vancouver [3] 2; YFDS 17

Thorn, James [variation: Thorne] (fl. 1846 - 1867) (British: English)

Birth: probably in or near Woolwich, London, EnglandDeath: probably Victoria, British ColumbiaMaritime employee*HBC Passenger, Cowlitz (barque) (1846 - 1847); Engineer, Beaver (steamer) (1847 - 1852); Engineer, Otter (steamer) (1852 - 1854).

James Thorn joined the HBC in 1846 replacing engineer Joseph Carless on the steamer Beaver after he arrived at Fort Victoria on March 22, 1847. As an engineer he was first class but he was also an alcoholic with a terrible temper. He wanted to retire in 1850 and on January 16, 1852, after being replaced by John Henry Johnson, he left for the British Isles on the Norman Morison, returning to Victoria on the steamer Otter with his wife and family to settle. Back on the Island, he was given two shares in a steam sawmill to secure his services as an engineer. However, because he continued to drink and neglect his duty, he was dismissed and, in January 1855, permanently severed his connections with the HBC by taking employment with the Amercian steamer Major Tompkins. He stayed in the area and entered municipal politics in 1862. He was tough and resolute, writing letters to the editor of the local newspaper when he wanted something looked into. In 1864, he beat up and dragged off to jail a native employee who had tried to rob him and, in 1865 in a jurisdictional dispute over the local church reserve, he noisily tore down the church fence during the night. He was defeated in 1865 municipal elections and was still around in 1867 but did not appear in the directory of 1871.

The names of his family members have not been traced.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; YFASA 26-31; log of Otter 1; FtVicASA 1-4; YFDS 18, 22; FtVicCB 11; John Work's December 18, 1850 Fort Simpson letter to Eden Colville, D.7/1; Van-PL Colonist, July 9, 1864, p. 3, Sept. 1, 1865, p. 3, Nov. 13, 1867, p. 3 PPS: HBRS XXXII, p. 24, 24n, 53, 55, 63, 163, 163n, 182n, 242

Thornburg, Mr. (? - 1835) (probably American)

Birth: probably United States of AmericaDeath: Fort William, Sauvie Island, Oregon - July 4, 1835Fur trade employee*Wyeth Tailor, Columbia River Fishing and Trading Company (1834); Tailor, Fort William (1834 - 1835).

Mr. Thornburg was working at Fort William (Nathaniel J. Wyeth's Columbia River Trading and Fishing Company Sauve Island post) in July 1835. The alcoholic tailor arrived at Fort Vancouver on November 5, 1834 with the overland expedition. Some weeks prior to July 1835, Thornburg had got into a serious argument with Thomas J. Hubbard at Fort William on Sauve Island, apparently over a woman. Thornburn had been drinking heavily and had threatened the life of Hubbard. Thornburn was so alcoholic that he went on board the May Dacre and emptied the alcohol which had preserved John K. Townsend's specimens, ruining the collection. On the morning of July 4, 1835, Thornburg entered Hubbard's apartment with a gun and knife but Hubbard shot him, wrestled with him briefly and threw him outside, whereupon Thornburg expired. An enquiry exonerated Hubbard and deemed it justifiable homicide.

PPS: Townsend, "Narrative of a Journey..." p. 323-325

Thornhill, Thomas (fl. 1854 - 1855) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1854 - 1855).

Thomas Thornhill made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Thorsen, Johannes (fl. 1853 - 1854) (probably Norwegian)

Birth: probably Norway

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1853 - 1854).

Johannes Thorsen, who may have been a Norwegian employee who came to the coast via the Colinda, appeared briefly on HBC accounts.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1-2

Tiainno (fl. 1839 - 1842) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1839 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1842).

Tiainno joined the HBC in Oahu in 1839. He worked at Fort Vancouver until June 24, 1842, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 19-20, 22; FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 13

Tiaroniaksentenion, Joseph (fl. 1847 - 1848) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1847 - 1848).

Joseph Tiaroniaksentenion joined the HBC in 1847 and appeared briefly on HBC accounts, perhaps with the cross country express.

PS: HBCA YFASA 27

Tibbets, Calvin [variation: Tibbetts] (? - 1849) (American)

Birth: Massachusetts or Maine, United States

Death: Pacific Ocean - 1849

Fur trade employee

Wyeth Member, Wyeth's 1st Expedition (1832 - 1833); U.A. Settler, Willamette (1833 - 1849); Wyeth Gratuities for services, Fort Vancouver (1834 - 1836).

Calvin Tibbets, on the periphery of the fur trade, appears to have done some minor work in the 1830s for the HBC, possibly as a stonecutter. One of the earliest American settlers in the Willamette, Tibbets came out with the 1st expedition of Nathaniel J. Wyeth in 1832 and along with Solomon H. Smith, stayed in the area. Both men became lifelong friends. Tibbets settled in the Willamette near Champoeig in 1833 or 1834 until 1840. In 1837 he was a member of the Ewing Young party which brought in cattle from California. In 1840, when his friend Solomon Smith moved on the urging of his wife to Clatsop Plains, Tibbets followed. In 1841 he was sent to California by Commodore Charles Wilkes and in 1843 voted for the provisional government and in 1845 was named one of the three judges for the Clatsop District by the Legislature. He caught gold fever in early 1849 and went to California. In August of that year, while returning from the California by sea, he died from cholera and appears to have been buried at sea.

Calvin Tibbets had one wife, a Clatsop native (?-?) and two children.

PS: HBCA YFASA 14; YFDS 5c-7 SS: Hussey, Champoege: Place of, p. 67; Dobbs, p. 35; Brosnan, "The Signers", p. 183-84; Lyman, History of Oregon, vol. III, p. 254; Holman, p. 115; Overmeyer, p. 101

Tiegne, Thomas [variation: Tie-g-ne, Tieene, Tiewne, Tiesne, Thieigehne, Tieone, Tiene, Thigthne, Theone] (c. 1796 - ?) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1796

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Freeman

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1816); HBC Trapper, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1821 - 1822); Freeman trapper, Columbia Department (1822 - 1823); Middleman, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825); Labourer, Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs] (1825); Middleman, New Caledonia (1825 - 1828); Middleman, Fort St. James (1828 - 1829); Middleman, Fort Alexandria (1829 - 1830); Boute, New Caledonia (1830 - 1831); Boute, New Caledonia (1831 - 1835); Boute, New Caledonia (1836 - 1842); Middleman, New Caledonia (1842 - 1844).

Thomas Tiegne first appeared on NWC fur trade records in 1816 on the Pacific slopes when cash was paid to his wife while he was working in the area. In the fall of 1819, when he was working in the Snake Country with Donald McKenzie, he deserted. In 1822-1823 he was a freeman working for the HBC in the Columbia but headed North to Fort St. James and New Caledonia where he spent the rest of his career. He rose to the rank of bote but in outfit 1842-1843 at the age of around forty-seven, and for unstated reasons, his bote status was reduced to that of a middleman as he was "unfit to act as Boute" (YFDS fo. 36b). He worked until 1844 (when his contract ended) and may have stayed in the area or left.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 1; FtGeo[Ast]AB 4; HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 4, 10; FtStjmsLS 1; YFASA 2, 4-9, 11-15, 19-20, 22-27; YFDS 3b-7, 13; FtVanAB 10; FtStjmsRD 3; FtVanASA 1-7; FtAlexAB 1

Timeoy [a] [variation: Time-oy] (fl. c. 1830? - 1835) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1834); Labourer, Fort McLoughlin (1834 - 1835); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver (1835); Passenger, Ganymede (barque) (1835).

Timeoy (a) joined the HBC from Oahu in April 1830. He worked at coastal forts for the next four years and left Fort Vancouver for Oahu on the barque Ganymede on October 3, 1835. Upon his arrival in Oahu, he was paid his final HBC wage.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2-4; FtSimp[N]PJ 3; YFDS 4a-6; YFASA 11-15; ShMisPap 14; SandIsLonIC 1

Timeoy [b] (fl. 1836 - 1849) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Umpqua (1836 - 1839); Middleman, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1839 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Umpqua (1842 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1846 - 1848); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1848 - 1849).

Timeoy [b] was engaged at Oahu in January 1836 by the HBC. For the next thirteen years, Timeoy worked in the Fort Vancouver/Umpqua area and, on August 31, 1849, he deserted, most likely for the gold fields of California.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-29; YFDS 6-7, 16-17, 20; FtVanASA 3-7

Timmer, John (fl. 1834 - 1835) (probably American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Fur trade employee

CRFTC Employee, Fort Hall (1834 - 1835).

John Timmer joined the Nathaniel J. Wyeth expedition of 1834 as part of a group to establish the CRFTC on the Pacific slopes. Timmer, who may have joined the expedition en route, left the expedition on the Upper Snake River, near the mouth of the Portneuf River, to build Fort Hall. A stockade was built in the summer of 1834 and a total of twelve men stayed to winter over. Timmer may have gone out on hunting parties that fall and winter and may have departed for an unknown location in the summer of 1835.

PS: OHS FtHallAB SS: O. Russell, p. 157

Tobias, James (fl. 1846 - c. 1847) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1846 - 1847).

James Tobias joined the HBC vessel Cowlitz in London on October 2, 1846 and sailed to the coast. He sailed to various coastal posts and in 1847 was paid off in Honolulu.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Tocagerunton, Joseph (c. 1809 - ?) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1809

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1831 - 1832); Boute, New Caledonia (1833 - 1834); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1834 - 1835).

Joseph Tocagerunton joined the HBC in 1831 on a three year contract, the majority of which he worked through in New Caledonia.

PS: HBCA YFASA 11-14; YFDS 4b, 5b-5c

Tod, James (c. 1818 - 1904) (Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly Island Lake HBC District [Manitoba] - c. 1818 (born to John Tod and Catherine Birston)

Death: Victoria, British Columbia - 1904

Fur trade employee

HBC Millwright, Fort Vancouver (1839 - 1840); Carpenter, Fort Vancouver (1839 - 1840); Millwright, Fort Vancouver (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1840 - 1841); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1841).

James Tod was left east of the Rockies by his father when the HBC clerk was sent to New Caledonia in 1823. However, young James received an education at Rev. David T. Jones' boarding school at Red River and joined the HBC in 1839. He came to Fort Vancouver where his father was stationed but was sent north to the difficult post of Fort Taku. Because his uncle needed help in building John Tod's future retirement farm in St. Thomas, Canada West [Ontario], young James was sent east over the Rockies in the spring of 1841. However, at St. Thomas, the mild mannered James could not agree with his uncle, Simeon Todd, who was managing the farm, and so quit. James made his way back to the Coast and his father bought him a 187 acre [75.7 ha] farm at Cedar Hill [Victoria] where James married and raised a family, developing and extending his property into an extensive and successful "Spring Bank Farm." In 1863, James' mother, Catherine Birston, returned and dispensed herbal medicines and may have cared for James' wife, Flora, who had occasional fits of mental instability. Always somewhat distant from his father, James inherited nothing from his father's estate; he had become successful in his own right. James Tod died in Victoria in 1904 at the age of eighty-six.

James Tod had one wife and sixteen children. On October 15, 1857 in Victoria, James Tod married Flora McAulay (c.1842-?), daughter of Donald McAulay. Their children were Catherine (1858-?), James (1860-?), John (c.1862-?), Donald (c.1864-?), Flora (c.1866-?), Frederick (c.1868-?), Charles (c.1870-?), William (c.1872-?), Mary (1873-?), Miles (1876-?), Laurence (c.1876-?), Fanny (1878-?), Gladys (1878-?) Thomas (c.1880-?), Albert Henry (1881-?) and Frances (1882-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 19-20; FtVanASA 6; Van-PL 1881 Census, Vancouver district, Victoria sub district; BCA BCGR-Deaths; BCCR CCCath; BCCR StLukCH SS: Belyk, p. 20, 100, 144, 176, 188

See Also: Tod, John (Father)

Tod, John (1794 - 1882) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Loch Lomond, Dumbartonshire, Scotland - October 1794 (born to James Tod and Jane Greenshields)

Death: Victoria, British Columbia - August 31, 1882

Fur trade officer

HBC Clerk assistant to J. M. Yale, Fort George [Astoria] (1823 - 1824); Clerk in charge, McLeod Lake Post (1824 - 1832); Chief Trader, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1839); Chief Trader in charge, Cowlitz Farm (1839 - 1840); Chief Trader in charge, Fort Alexandria (1840); Chief Trader in charge, Thompson River (1841 - 1842); Chief Trader in charge, Fort Alexandria (1842); Chief Trader in charge, Thompson River (1842 - 1849); Chief Trader in charge, Fort Nisqually (1849 - 1850).

Because a teenage John Tod[d] was fired as assistant clerk from a Glasgow cotton goods warehouse, in 1811 he joined the HBC as assistant clerk as part of the Earl of Selkirk's Red River plans. In 1823, after twelve years at posts east of the Rockies and dropping a "d" from his name, he was transferred to New Caledonia. He left his wife and son James behind. At McLeod Lake, often malnourished, he settled into eight years of a lonely existence tempered only by a sympathetic local native wife. In 1832, despondent over illness, lack of advancement and the departure of his friend Edward Ermatinger from the service, Tod resigned and headed for York Factory, leaving his latest wife and child behind. There he was persuaded to stay and in 1834, after being promoted to Chief Trader, sailed on a much needed year's leave for England, leaving behind yet another wife. On the voyage, he met Eliza Waugh who had worked in Red River, married her in London and returned in 1835. Back in Rupert's Land, Tod's wife became increasingly mentally unstable and so, in late summer, 1837, Tod, wife Eliza and daughter Emmaline Jean sailed once again for England. After arriving, Tod left his unstable Eliza (who was eventually committed to an asylum) with her parents in Wales and returned with his infant daughter in early 1838 to Montreal depositing her with relatives in Lower Canada. While returning to the Columbia with the brigade in 1838, twelve people drowned and with the formation of Puget Sound Agricultural Company Tod was appointed manager of the new farm in Cowlitz. In the 1847-1848 measles epidemic which killed countless natives, he diffused a tense situation by inoculating natives, thus disabling their fighting arms. After a leave and furlough, he retired to 109 acres [44.1 ha] at Oak Bay, near Victoria. He went on to become a member of the Provisional Council of Vancouver Island and was opposed to the HBC control of the colony of Vancouver Island. He purchased 187 acres [75.7 ha] at Cedar Hill for his son James and further land in the Lake District. John Tod died of cancer in 1882 and was buried in the Ross Bay Cemetery.

John Tod had a complex family life of five successive wives and ten or more children. While at Island Lake, he had a relationship with Catherine Birston, mixed descent daughter of Magnus Birston. They had one child, James (c.1818-1904). At Fort McLeod he took on an unnamed native wife, probably Sekani, and fathered at least one daughter. In the Nelson district he was the companion of a local native woman. Eliza Waugh (?-1857) was his next wife with whom he had Emmaline Jean (1835-1928). Eliza died at a London asylum, May 12, 1857. On August 19, 1863, John Tod married Sophie a.k.a. Martha (c.1826-83) Lolo. Their children were Mary (1843-?), Isaac (c.1849-?), Elizabeth (1856-?), John (c.1845-?), Alex (c.1847-?), William (c.1853-81) and Simeon/Tim (c.1859-?). Sophie died on September 9, 1883.

Tod Creek, Saanich Arm, Tod Inlet and Tod Mountain (near Kamloops) were named after John Tod.

PS: HBCA YFASA 3-6, 8-9, 11, 18, 24, 27-29; FtVanASA 1-2, 5-8; FtVicASA 1-2, 14-16; SimpsonCB; Wills; BCA BCGR-CrtR-AbstLnd; BCGR-VICSMarriageL; BCCR StAndC; Van-PL 1881 Canada Census, Vancouver District, Victoria sub-district PPS: HBRS III, p. 459-60; HBRS XXX, p. 229-30; CCR 1a, 1b SS: B.C.Historical Quarterly, vol. XVIII (1954), p. 133-238; DCB Ormsby; Belyk; Walbran, p. 490
See Also: Leolo, Jean Baptiste (Father-in-Law); Tod, James (Son)

Todd, Robert [variation: Tod] (fl. 1852 - 1863) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Rupert's Land, British North America

Death: probably Kamloops area, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice post master, New Caledonia general charges (1852 - 1853); Apprentice post master, New Caledonia (1853 - 1855); Apprentice clerk, Thompson River (1855 - 1856); Clerk, Thompson River (1856 - 1857); Clerk, New Caledonia (1857 - 1860); Clerk, Thompson River (1860 - 1863).

Robert Todd was probably about fourteen years of age when he became an apprentice with the HBC in New Caledonia. By 1856, he was, to the satisfaction of his HBC employer, looking after livestock in the Kamloops area in a firm and decisive way. His biggest problem were local natives helping themselves to the stock. He retired from service on July 31, 1863.

PS: HBCA YFASA 32; FtVicASA 1-14; FtVicCB 13

Todd, William (c. 1784 - 1851) (Irish)

Birth: Ireland - c. 1784

Death: Red River Settlement [Manitoba] - December 22, 1851

Fur trade officer

HBC Surgeon and clerk, Coastal Trade (1827 - 1828); Surgeon and clerk, Fort Vancouver (1828 - 1829).

Irish born William Todd joined the HBC as a surgeon in 1816. Between 1816 and 1827 he was employed at a variety of posts east of the Rockies and came over with the returning Express in September 1827. After a brief stint in the Columbia District, he returned to the Red River district becoming Chief Trader in 1831. In that year, Simpson thought that because of his lack of French and business knowledge, as well as his drinking habits, he would not go far (HBRS XXX, p. 200) but Todd worked with the HBC until his death twenty years later.

William Todd had two wives and six children. He married Marianne between 1830-1835 and had two children. On August 20, 1839, he married Eliz. Dennet (d. 1844) and together they had four children. He worked steadily at a variety of posts until he was granted furlough in 1851, dying on December 22 of that year. Four of their children were Albert (?-?), Samuel (?-?), Elizabeth (?-?) and Mary (?-?).

Todd, William Jr. (fl. 1842 - 1866) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Red River Settlement [Manitoba]

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice post master, Fort Vancouver general charges (1842 - 1843); Apprentice post master, Thompson River (1843 - 1844); Apprentice post master, New Caledonia (1844 - 1846); Post master, New Caledonia (1846 - 1847); Clerk, New Caledonia (1847 - 1848); Post master, New Caledonia (1848 - 1849); Clerk, New Caledonia (1849 - 1852); Clerk, Connolly Lake (1852 - 1865); Clerk, Bear Lake (1866).

William Todd Jr. joined the HBC in 1841. He left the service on September 1, 1864. He may have continued on at Bear Lake, for a William Todd and wife Mary had a child, Donald (1866-?) there.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 7-8; YFASA 24-32; FtVicASA 1-13; FtVicCB 6, 23, 27 SS: Homick, p. 41-42

Tohem (fl. 1844) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844).

Tohem was likely hired by the HBC in Oahu in 1844. After he arrived on the coast, he worked at Fort Vancouver until November 12, 1844, at which point he returned back to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24; YFDS 15

Toherongenghiton, Charles [variation: Te-ho-ron-hy-a-ge-ton, Cheweorontageton, Tchirongheageton] (fl. 1816) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: possibly Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Middleman, Pacific slopes (1816).

Iroquois Charles Toherongenghiton joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] on January 7, 1811 to work in Temiscaming. From January 3, 1815, he was assigned to Fort William as a middleman and was first on record on the Pacific slopes in 1816, probably as a member of the brigade. In that year, he was married, for cash was paid to his wife.

The name of his wife has not been traced.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 1

Tohoeangta, Paul [variation: Tohoeansta, Tohoinsta, Tohensta] (c. 1808 - ?) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1808

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1831 - 1833); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1833 - 1834); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1834 - 1836); Middleman or route, Fort Vancouver (1836 - 1837); Route, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1842).

Iroquois Paul Thoeangta joined the HBC in 1831 or 1832. In the spring or summer of 1842, when his contract ended, he returned to Canada.

PS: HBCA YFASA 11-15, 19-21; YFDS 4b-7; FtVanASA 3-7

Toi-o-foe (fl. 1830 - 1833) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Maritime employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Seaman, Dryad (brig) (1831 - 1832); Seaman, Fort Simpson naval service (1832 - 1833); Cook, Vancouver (schooner) (1833); Passenger, Dryad (brig) (1833).

Toi-o-foe joined the HBC in April 1830. He worked on coastal vessels as a seaman and cook until November 1, 1833, when he returned to Oahu aboard the brig Dryad.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; YFDS 4a-5b; YFASA 11-13; ShMiscPap 14

Tokatani, Michel [variation: Takatani] (c. 1811 - 1855) (Native: probably Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1811

Death: Fort Alexandria, New Caledonia - January 22, 1855

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1835 - 1842); Boute, Fort Alexandria (1842); Boute, New Caledonia (1842 - 1852); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1852 - 1853); Boute, Fort Alexandria (1853 - 1855).

Michel Tokatani joined the HBC in 1835 and spent his entire working career in the New Caledonia area, most likely at Fort Alexandria. He had some problems in his later years; first, in 1853 with an ulcer on his right arm and, in January 1855, he caught a prevailing disease which was sweeping through the native population and died in violent convulsions that month. He had been previously weakened by an infection in his left arm. He was buried the following day at the Fort Alexandria cemetery behind the fort.

Michel Tokatani had one wife (whom he had already left) when she died on February 15, 1848, probably of the measles which was sweeping through the area at the time.

PS: HBCA YFASA 15, 19-20, 22-32; YFDS 6-8; FtVanASA 5-7; FtAlexPJ 5, 7, 9; FtVicASA 1-6, 9

Tolloway, Robert R. (fl. 1852 - 1853) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1852 - 1853).

Robert R. Tolloway sailed to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison. He was likely on the coast when he deserted.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Tolmie, William Fraser (1812 - 1886) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Inverness, Scotland - February 3, 1812

Death: Victoria, British Columbia - December 8, 1886

Fur trade officer

HBC Passenger, Ganymede (barque) (1832 - 1833); Surgeon and clerk, Fort Simpson (1833 - 1834); Surgeon and clerk, Fort McLoughlin (1834 - 1836); Surgeon and clerk, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1836 - 1841); Passenger, Prince Albert (barque) (1841); Surgeon and clerk, Fort Nisqually (1843 - 1847); Chief Trader, Fort Nisqually (1847 - 1855); Chief Factor, Fort Nisqually (1855); Chief Factor, Fort Nisqually (1856 - 1859); PSAC Agent, Fort Nisqually (1856 - 1859); HBC Chief Factor, Western Department (1859 - 1860); Chief Factor, Fort Victoria (1860 - 1870); Board of Management, Fort Victoria (1860 - 1870).

William Fraser Tolmie's serious, scientifically minded, priggish and religious character was seemingly out of step with the business of trading pelts. Nonetheless, this English and Gaelic speaking Scot had a rich full life in the fur trade, agriculture community and politics. On September 12, 1832, after receiving a licence from the Faculty of Physicians and Surgeons of Glasgow, which did not qualify him to be a full physician, he joined the HBC as a "surgeon" and clerk for five years. Three days later he sailed for the remote Pacific Northwest aboard the Ganymede. During the three years after his arrival he went on a botany expedition to Mount Rainier and recorded his impressions of events at northern forts ranging from the troublesome evacuation of the Fort Simpson Nass River site to the celebrations of the men at Fort McLoughlin. It was at Fort McLoughlin that he discovered from local natives that coal was freely available at Beaver Harbour, the future site of Fort Rupert. In 1841, he returned to the British Isles on the Prince Albert and visited France, where he took a post-graduate course in medicine and polished up his Parisien French. In 1843 he returned to the Pacific Northwest and was put in charge of the Puget Sound Agriculture Company at Fort Nisqually until 1859. During this time he married and began to raise a family, brought in cattle stock from California, made a drive of three-thousand surplus sheep to the Willamette Valley and, in June, 1846, after the international border was drawn, was elected to represent Lewis County [Washington] to the House of Representatives which met in Oregon City. At that time, Tolmie along with sixteen others, tried unsuccessfully to lay claim to 640 acres [259 ha] (one square mile) [2.6 sq. km] of land around Fort Nisqually, land to which the HBC/Puget Sound Agricultural Company held possessory rights. Between 1852 and 1857 he purchased several hundred acres in the Victoria District. During the Indian War of 1855-1856 his genuine respect for the native people aroused suspicion from the Americans. In July 1859, as Nisqually was to be sold, Tolmie moved with his family to the Cloverdale farm area, an eleven-hundred acre [445.2 ha] tract of land near Victoria, where he built a stone house. Even though, two years later, in 1862, he pre-empted fifty acres [20.2 ha] just south of Fort Langley and a further sixty-six acres [26.7 ha] in 1858, he never took up residence there. He was on the Board of Management from 1861-1870 and retired on June 1, 1871. Between 1860-1866, he was a member of Vancouver Island's House of Assembly and between 1874-1878 was in the Legislative Assembly of British Columbia. He wrote "Comparative Vocabularies of the Indian Tribes of British Columbia" (1884) and his journals have also been published under the name "The Journals of William Fraser Tolmie" (1963). In 1866, he imported quail to his Cloverdale farm, the descendants of which can still be seen roaming around Victoria today. Descendants of the acacia which he brought into the area in 1833 from Hawaii also survive throughout the Pacific Northwest.

William Fraser Tolmie had one wife and fourteen children. On February 19, 1849 he married Jane Work (1827-80), daughter of John Work. Jane Tolmie died at Victoria, B. C., June 23, 1880. Their children were Alexander John (1851-1903), William Fraser Jr. (1852-1926), John Work (1854-1934), James Work (1855/56-1917), Henry Work (1857-1939), Roderick Finlayson (1858-1924), May Fraser (1860-1934), Jane Work (1862-1935), Annie Fraser (1863-1865), Margaret Cecilia (1865-1865), Maria Cecilia (?-bap.1865-?), Simon Fraser (1867-1937) and Josephine/Josette Catherine (1869-1949). Simon Fraser Tolmie was premier of British Columbia, 1928-1933.

Tolmie peak [Washington], Mount Tolmie [B.C.] as well as Tolmie Channel [Princess Royal Island] were named after Tolmie. His name was also given to a number of shrubs and flowers such as saxifraga tolmiei, carex tolmiei, and tolmiea menziesii.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Ganymede 1; YFASA 12-15, 17-20, 24-32; YFDS 5b-7; FtVanASA 3-6, 8-14; FtVanCB 20, 26, 30; FtVicASA 1-2, 4, 7-16; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Lewis Co.; BCA BCGR-CrtR-AbstLnd; PSACFeNis; BCCR CCCath; Van-PL 1881 Canada Census, Vancouver District, Victoria sub district; RossBayCem PPS: TacP-FtNis Huggins SS: S. F. Tolmie, p. 227-40; Mitchell, Howard T., biographical introduction in The Journal of William Fraser Tolmie, p. 1-10
See Also: Work, John (Father-in-Law); Work, John Jr. (Relative)

Tolyah, John (fl. 1839 - 1840) (Undetermined origin)

Other

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1839 - 1840).

A mystery entry: John Tolyah is on the outfit 1839-1840 record as running a debt of almost £8 with the HBC but he doesn't appear to have been employed by them.

PS: HBCA YFASA 19, p. 79a

Tom [1] (fl. 1825) (Native: probably Haida)

Birth: probably Queen Charlotte Islands, British Columbia

Other

HBC Guide, William & Ann (brig) (1825).

Tom had an uncommon ability with languages that he probably learned from the Boston traders, and thus was able to convey his innate native abilities and anecdotes about American sea captains to others. On June 5, 1825, when he boarded the HBC brig William & Ann at Skidegate, Queen Charlotte Island [Haida Gwaii], a surprised clerk Alexander McKenzie found him to be a "most sensitive, communicative" person, and noted that he spoke "more English than we expected and evidently appears to be brought up in the Yankes School" (FtVanPJ, fo. 7). Not only did he have an intimate knowledge of the geography from Nootka to Kaigany, but he was also able to give an accounting of the inventory of furs that each area possessed. Additionally, he was able to give the list of ships that had called in at the Queen Charlotte Islands and was able to identify them from afar before anyone else. He was able to keep the crew amused with a "fund of anecdotes" (FtVanPJ 1, fo. 9) mainly about the American captains who had frequented the area.

PS: HBCA FtVanPJ 1; log of William & Ann 1

Tom [2] (fl. 1836 - 1839) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1836 - 1839); Passenger, Vancouver (barque) (1839).

Tom [2] was engaged by the HBC in Oahu in January, 1836 on a three-year contract and worked at Fort Vancouver. He left for Oahu on the Vancouver on November 15, 1839.

PS: HBCA YFASA 15, 19; YFDS 6-7; FtVanASA 3-5; ShMiscPap 14

Tomkins, James [variation: John Tonkins, Jonkins, Tonkins, Jenkins] (fl. 1841 - 1849) (British: English)

Birth: probably London or Dorset, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1841 - 1843); Seaman, Beaver (steamer) (1843 - 1845); Seaman, Conlitz (barque) (1845 - 1849).

John Tomkins joined the HBC in London on August 30, 1841 and sailed to the coast on the barque Vancouver. After working quietly for seven years on coastal shipping and supply runs from London, he arrived back in London on May 24, 1849.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 11; log of Vancouver [3] 1; FtVanASA 7-8; YFASA 23-25, 27-29; PortB 1

Tommo (fl. 1844 - 1863) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: probably Victoria, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Snake Party (1844 - 1845); Goer and comer, Snake Party (1845 - 1846); Labourer, Snake Party (1846 - 1847); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1847 - 1848); Labourer, Fort Nez Percés (1848 - 1849); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1849 - 1850); Labourer, Columbia Department (1853).

Tommo joined the HBC from Oahu in 1844 on a three-year contract. For unstated reasons, he was discharged on February 6, 1850, at which point he returned to Oahu. He returned to the Columbia, for he was back on the books in 1853 and was noted as retiring that same year. He continued living in the area, for ten years later in May, 1863, he acted as an interpreter for the constabulary of Victoria.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-30; YFDS 16, 20; FtVanASA 9-10; BCA Colonial

Tommy (fl. 1834) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

CRFTC Passenger, May Dacre (brig) (1834); Member, Columbia River Fishing and Trading Company (1834).

Tommy was one of twenty Hawaiians who joined Nathaniel J. Wyeth's Columbia River Fishing and Trading Company in Hawaii in 1834 and reached Fort Hall just before Christmas.

PPS: Beidleman, p. 238

Too, Toby (? - 1811) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Oahu, Hawaiian Islands

Death: probably Clayoquot Sound, Vancouver Island - June 1811

Fur trade employee

PFC Labourer, Tonquin (ship) (1811); Temporary labourer, Fort George [Astoria] (1811).

Toby Too joined the crew of the Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn] as a labourer around February 21, 1811 when the vessel stopped at Oahu and took on a complement of twelve Sandwich Islanders. One month later, on March 22, the Tonquin arrived at the mouth of the Columbia and, on April 12, Toby was noted at helping to unload the vessel. As Toby did not appear in further Fort Astoria records, he likely stayed on as part of the crew when the vessel sailed on June 5 for Newwitti. However, when the vessel anchored at Clayoquot Sound, the vessel was attacked and Toby Too was killed along with the entire crew except one.

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria PPS: ChSoc XLV, p. 73-74

Tooa (fl. 1837 - 1849) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: Fort Vancouver, Oregon Territory - July 7, 1849

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Willamette Mission (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1849).

Tooa joined the HBC in July 1837 from Oahu on a three-year contract and began his work at Fort Vancouver on August 10 of that year. On November 12, 1837 he was transferred to the service of missionary Jason Lee, where he appears to have worked for about a year before returning to Fort Vancouver. On July 7, 1849 he died at Fort Vancouver of unstated causes. He was likely buried in the fort's graveyard.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 1; FtVanASA 4, 6-7; YFDS 8, 20; YFASA 17, 22-29

Tooharamokoo (fl. 1836 - 1837) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1836 - 1837).

Tooharamokoo, from Oahu, was hired and discharged in outfit 1836-1837, having worked only six months at Fort

Vancouver. A notation on the York Factory records said that he had "Gone to Woahu."

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 3; YFDS 7; YFASA 21

Toohareroa (fl. 1840 - 1849) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1845); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1846 - 1849).

Toohareroa joined the HBC from Oahu in 1840. He worked at Fort Vancouver until December 10, 1845, at which time he returned to Oahu and, during August of that year, had part of his salary transferred to his mother. He may have been drawn back to the Pacific slopes for family reasons. He re-enlisted in 1846 and went back to work at Fort Vancouver. In 1849 he deserted, probably in the spring, and likely for the gold fields of California.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-25, 27-29; FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 16; SandIsAB 5

Toopanehe [standard: Toopanehé] [variation: Tupanehe, Toopanihe] (fl. 1840 - 1847) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

PSAC Shepherd, Fort Nisqually (1840 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1842 - 1843); HBC Labourer, Beaver (steamer) (1843 - 1844); Labourer, Columbia Department general charges (1844 - 1845); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1844 - 1845); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1846 - 1847).

Toopanehé joined the HBC in Oahu in 1840 on a three-year contract and worked first at Fort Nisqually and then on the Beaver as a labourer and woodcutter. He returned to Oahu in early 1845 but re-engaged May 7, 1845 and worked in the Columbia until July 6, 1847, at which point he returned to Oahu for the final time.

PS: HBCA YFASA 20, 22-24, 26-27; FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 16, 18; SandIsAB 3

Toovyoora [variation: Toouyora, Toouyova] (fl. c. 1830 - 1848) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - January 2, 1848

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1834); Labourer, Fort McLoughlin (1834 - 1836); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1836 - 1848).

Toouyora joined the HBC from Oahu in April 1830. He worked for five years at the northern posts of Simpson and McLoughlin before being transferred to Fort Vancouver in 1836. He died at Fort Vancouver in 1848, in the middle of the measles epidemic, which killed several of his fellow Sandwich Islanders at the fort.

Toovyoora's family, if any, had not been traced.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2-7; YFDS 4a-7; YFASA 11-15, 19-20, 22-27

Topa [variation: Toopa] (fl. 1845 - 1848) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Maritime employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1845); Stoker, Beaver (steamer) (1846 - 1847); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1847 - 1848).

Topa was hired by the HBC in Oahu on May 7, 1845. After arriving on the coast, he worked at Fort Vancouver until November 12, at which point he returned to Oahu. He was re-engaged and appeared once again in the Columbia in outfit 1846-1847. He worked as a stoker and woodcutter on the Beaver until December 5, 1848, at which point he returned to Oahu for the last time, ending his career on the coast.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24, 26-28; YFDS 15, 19

Toro (c. 1815 - ?) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands - c. 1815

Death: probably Willamette Valley, Oregon

Freeman

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Langley (1830 - 1831); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1834); Labourer, Fort McLoughlin (1834 - 1835); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Vancouver saw mills

(1843 - 1844); Labourer, Willamette (1844 - 1846); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1846 - 1847); Freeman, Willamette (1847 - 1848); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1850).

Toro joined the HBC from Oahu in April 1830 and worked at various locations along the coast. In outfit 1847-1848 he was noted as being free in Willamette. He returned to work for the Company and, on August 10, 1850, retired, remaining in the area.

Toro's family, if any, has not been traced.

PS: HBCA YFASA 11-15; 19-20, 22-27; 30-31; FtVanASA 2-7, 9; YFDS 4a-7; 19-20; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Clark Co.

Toronheanenton, Jacques (fl. 1821) (probably Iroquois)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort George [Astoria] (1821).

Jacques Toronheanenton was likely a member of the brigade when he appeared at Fort George in the latter part of July, 1821. He may have been in Athabasca or Cumberland House.

PS: HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 1

Torstensen, Ole (fl. 1853 - 1854) (possibly Norwegian)

Birth: probably Norway

Other

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1853 - 1854).

Ole Torstensen may have been a Norwegian who came out on the Colinda.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1, fo. 37d; FtVicASA 2, fo. 35d

Touai (fl. 1854 - 1860) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Rupert (1854 - 1860).

Touai spent six years working at an HBC Vancouver Island post.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 2-7

Touin, Charles [variation: Toin, Twan, Thouin] (c. 1813 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1813

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1833 - 1835); Steersman, New Caledonia (1835 - 1836); Middleman, New Caledonia (1836 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1842); Middleman, New Caledonia (1842 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs] (1843); Middleman, New Caledonia (1843 - 1844); Boute, New Caledonia (1844 - 1845); Interpreter, New Caledonia (1845 - 1846); Middleman, New Caledonia (1846 - 1848); Middleman, Fort Alexandria (1848 - 1850); Middleman, New Caledonia (1853 - 1855); Middleman, Fort Alexandria (1855); Middleman, New Caledonia (1855 - 1856); Middleman, Thompson River (1856 - 1857); Untraced vocation, Fort Hope (1859 - 1860); Untraced vocation, Western Department (1860 - 1861).

Charles Touin, from a Montreal family who had been in the fur trade for some time, joined the HBC in 1833 leaving behind a wife whom he had married in 1829. According to the priests twelve years later, she was behaving badly ("elle se conduit mal") ("Québécois," p. 277) which may have been the cause or result of the departure of Charles. The twenty year old French Canadian then travelled west to New Caledonia where he was to spend the rest of his not uneventful career. In 1842, he contributed towards the establishment of a mission at Stuart Lake. In 1843 he was indirectly involved in, if not a cause of the William Morwick affair at Fort Babine for he challenged Lekwe to a duel and grazed him with salt shot. Lekwe, in retaliation, rushed Touin and stabbed him twice in the arm. Thinking that Lekwe had been killed by Morwick, father-in-law "Grand Visage" shot Morwick through the pallsades. Touin escaped to Stuart Lake with the news that he delivered to P.S. Ogden. Much of his time was spent at Fort Alexandria where he took a wife and raised a family. He retired in 1850 but returned to work in 1853. Touin worked off and on until about 1861 when he appears to have finally retired. From that point on he has not been traced. Son, John S. Twan, later purchased the site of Fort Alexandria in 1895 and, in 1922, fearing collapse of the old walls, razed the buildings and used the logs as firewood.

Charles Touin had two successive wives and at least three children. His first wife was Marguerite Dubois (?-?) whom he married on September 8, 1829 in Montreal and referred to above. They did not appear to have children. On the Pacific slopes, he took as his wife, Mary or Marie Cletses. Their children were, an unnamed son (?-1848), John Sanford (c.1849-1946) and an unnamed daughter (?-1855).

PS: HBCA YFASA 13-15, 19-20, 22-30; YFDS 5b-7, 15-16; FtVanASA 3-7; FtVicASA 1-9; FtAlexPJ 7; HBCABio; BCA PJ FtStJmsA 1; OblH-Van MarStJoWL SS: Morice, The History of, p. 212-214, 227-28; G. R. Elliott, p. 15; Laing, p. 320; Québécois in Orégon, p. 277

Toupin, Jean [variation: Toussin, Tupin] (c. 1797 - 1862) (Canadian: French)

Birth: St. Joseph or Maskinongé, Lower Canada - c. 1797

Death: St. Louis, Oregon - September 14, 1862

Fur trade employee

NWC Middleman, Columbia Department (1817); Middleman and route, Columbia Department (1821); HBC Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1821 - 1822); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1822 - 1824); Interpreter, Columbia Department (1824 - 1826); Interpreter, Fort Nez Percés (1826 - 1827); Interpreter, Fort Colville (1827 - 1829); Trapper, Snake Party (1829 - 1832); Trapper, Snake Party (1832 - 1833); Interpreter, Snake Party (1832 - 1833); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1833 - 1834) (wages from November 1, 1833); Interpreter, Fort Nez Percés (1834 - 1841); Settler, Willamette (1841 - 1842).

Jean Toupin joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray] on January 8, 1817 and crossed the Rockies with Joseph LaRocque's party that year. He joined the HBC in 1821 and worked in the Columbia and Snake region. Little has been written of him but on June 20, 1831, he killed his horse as he had nothing else to eat as he did on June 19 of the following year. He was an interpreter at Fort Nez Percés from 1821 and was considered to be "quarrelsome and unreliable." He was a messenger "back and forth" following the Whitman killings (CCR I, A-79). He was the third husband of Marie L'Aguivoise Dorion, the widow of Pierre Dorion who also was a guide for the PCF. He settled to become a farmer and died in the parish of St. Louis in the Willamette valley in 1862.

Jean Toupin had two successive wives and more than three children. The name of his first wife is unknown and the number of their children undetermined. On July 19, 1841, he formalized his marriage to Marie L'Aguivoise Dorion (c.1786-50) who brought children Marguerite Vernier (c.1819-?) and Jean Baptiste Dorion (c.1816-?) into the marriage. The subsequent Toupin children were François (c.1825-?), Marie Anne (c.1827-?) and Angelique (c.1831-?).

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 9, 10; FtGeo[Ast]AB 4; YFASA 1-5, 7-9, 11-15, 19-21; YFDS 2a, 3a-7; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-6; SnkCoPJ 10-11; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion Co. PPS: CCR 1a, 2a, 3a
See Also: Collette, Octave (probable Son-in-Law); Dorion, Marie L'Aguivoise (Relative); Dorion, Pierre (Relative); Vagnier, Louis Joseph (Relative); Gay, George Kirby (possible Son-in-Law)

Touramano (fl. 1830 - 1832) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1832).

Touramano joined the HBC in April 1830. He worked at Forts Vancouver and Simpson and was discharged to Oahu on July 16, 1832.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; YFDS 4a-4b; YFASA 11-12

Touranquash, Jacques [variation: Toranquash, Tranquash] (c. 1779 - 1829) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1779

Death: Fraser Lake, New Caledonia - January 20, 1829

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1821 - 1824); Middleman, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825); Middleman, New Caledonia (1825 - 1829); Middleman, Fraser Lake (1829).

Jacques Touranquash was around thirty-eight years old when he began working for the HBC in 1817. He has not been tracked as having worked with the NWC previous to that. From 1821 he worked in New Caledonia as a middleman but he was seldom mentioned in the journals so he appeared to competently carry out his work. On January 20, 1829, at the age of fifty, he was at the Upper Forks, obviously the wrong place and the wrong time for there a local native, Bugh Chin, (FtStJmsCB 6, p. 170) having being reproached for having beaten his wife and other misdeeds took out his anger on poor old Jacques and shot him in the back of a head. Jacques was stripped of his clothes and his dogs killed. Jacques' murder did not appear to have anything to do with the executions the previous summer when the killers of Duncan Livinginston were executed. He was simply in the wrong place at the wrong time (HBRS X, p. 240). Jacques Touranquash did not appear to have a family.

Tourawhyheine [variation: Tourawhyheene, Taureauathenie, Tourewanhie, Touracoahina] (c. 1801 - ?)
(probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands - c. 1801

Death: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

NWC Untraced vocation, North West Company (1817 - 1821); HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1821 - 1823); Untraced vocation, Fort George [Astoria] (1823 - 1825); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1825 - 1826); Labourer, South Party (Umpqua Expedition) (1826 - 1827); Middleman, Thompson River (1827 - 1829); Middleman and labourer, Fort Vancouver (1829 - 1830); Middleman and labourer, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1830 - 1834); Labourer, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1834 - 1835); Seaman or passenger, Eagle (brig) (1834); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1836); Middleman, South Party (1836 - 1837); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1838); Landsman, Nereide (barque) (1838 - 1839); Passenger, Vancouver (barque) (1839); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1843); Middleman, Snake Party (1843 - 1845); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1847).

Tourawhyheine joined the NWC in 1817 and worked for thirty years in the fur trade, almost all the time around Fort Vancouver. He transferred to the HBC on the amalgamation in 1821. On Saturday October 14, 1826 on an expedition to the Umpqua [Oregon], he "lost his horse with his traps and other property" (FtVanPJ 4, fo. 4a). On Tuesday, February 13, 1827, he, along with fellow employees Alexis Aubichon and Charles Jeaudoin confirmed to expedition leader Chief Trader Alexander Roderick McLeod that Ignace, a freeman on the expedition, had died at the hands of the Indians in retaliation for a gun accidentally going off. On December 1, 1834, he left for Oahu on the brig Eagle and did not receive wages in 1835. He re-enlisted in Oahu in January 1836 and returned to the Columbia. He was eventually discharged in Oahu from the Vancouver around the end of November 1839, just after the end of his last contract, owing over £17 to the Company. He reappeared again in outfit 1842-1843 and worked in both the Snake Country and Fort Vancouver until July 6, 1847, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 2-9, 11-15, 19, 22-27; YFDS 2a, 3a-4a, 5a-7, 10, 18; FtGeo[Ast]AB 12; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-7; FtVanPJ 2, 4

Turgeon, Michel [variation: Turgon, Turgeon] (c. 1810 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Yamaska, Lower Canada - c. 1810

Death: possibly Washington Territory

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1831 - 1832); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver (1832 - 1833); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1833 - 1834); Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1834 - 1836); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1836 - 1837); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1837 - 1839); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1839 - 1840); Stoker, Beaver (steamer) (1839 - 1840); Stoker, Beaver (steamer) (1840 - 1842); Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1843 - 1844); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1844 - 1845); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1844 - 1845); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1845 - 1846); Middleman, Fort Nisqually (1846 - 1847); Freeman, Fort Nisqually (1847+).

Michel Turgon, from Yamaska joined the HBC in 1831 spending part of his time working on ships. After his contract ended in 1839, he worked as a freeman. In the spring or summer of 1842 he returned east of the Rockies to Canada. He reappeared in the Columbia in outfit 1843-1844 on a contract that ended in 1846. In outfit 1847-1848 he was listed as being free at Nisqually and in 1850 appeared to be living without a family in Marion County.

PS: HBCA YFASA 11-15, 19-21, 23-27; YFDS 4b-5b, 6-7; FtVanASA 3-7; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion Co.

Touron, Joseph [variation: Tourron, Tourin] (fl. 1838 - 1839) (Undetermined origin)

Death: probably East of the Rocky Mountains

Freeman

HBC Freeman, Columbia Department (1838 - 1839).

Joseph Touron/Tourin is listed as a freeman in the Columbia Department in outfit 1838-1839. He may have been the same Joseph Tourron who signed a contract in 1828 at York Factory. He was likely the same Joseph Tourron who began work as a NWC employee in 1820, joined the HBC in 1821 and worked largely in the Saskatchewan area until 1834-1835 when he retired to the Red River Settlement. He likely drifted west from there but cannot be tracked in any subsequent Columbia Department records.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 18; HBCABio

Towai [variation: Tawai] (c. 1788 - ?) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands - c. 1788

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia River (1817 - 1823); Untraced vocation, Fort George [Astoria] (1823 - 1825); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1825 - 1826); Untraced vocation, South Party, Umpqua Expedition (1826 - 1827); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1827 - 1833); Pigherd, Fort Vancouver (1833 - 1839); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1839 - 1846).

Towai joined the NWC in 1817 and became a labourer for of the HBC from 1821. In October 1825 he was part of a group of Hawaiians accused of having stolen trade goods of the William & Ann, but denied any involvement. He is also mentioned on December 18, 1826 when he was sick and in need of medical attention. Towai spent many years working under John Cox and with Orohuay as pigherds at the Fort Vancouver farm. His contract ended in 1842 but he worked until November 20, 1841 when he returned to Oahu. He was re-engaged again for he appeared in the Columbia in 1844-1845. He worked until July 18, 1845, at which point he retired to Oahu.

Towai had a son named William Tawai.

PS: HBCA YFASA 2-9, 11-15, 20-21, 24-25; FtGeo[Ast]AB 11-12; FtVanAB 10; FtVan ASA 1-7; YFDS 3a-3b, 4b-7, 12, 16; FtVanPJ 4; FtVanCB 2; A. McDonald, p. 29

Towello (fl. 1843 - 1845) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1843 - 1844); Middleman, Cowlitz Farm (1844 - 1845).

Towello, from Oahu, appears to have been engaged at Fort Vancouver on August 8, 1843 on a contract that ended in 1845. Just how he got to the fort has not been determined. For the next two outfits and until December 10, 1845, he worked as a farm labourer, at which point he returned to Oahu where he received his final HBC wages.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 8; YFASA 23-25; YFDS 14, 16; SandIsAB 5

Towhay [variation: Touhay] (fl. 1839 - 1844) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

PSAC Middleman and labourer, Cowlitz Farm (1839 - 1841); HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Vancouver saw mills (1843 - 1844).

Towhay joined the HBC in Oahu in 1839 on a three-year contract. He worked as a labourer, latterly in the Fort Vancouver saw mills, until November 23, 1844, at which time he returned to Oahu. He received his final wages at the Honolulu office on December 31, 1844.

PS: HBCA YFASA 19-20, 22-24; PSACAB 3; FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 15; SandIsAB 3

Townsend, John Kirk [variation: Townshend] (fl. 1834 - 1838) (American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Fur trade officer

HBC Guest, Fort Vancouver (1834); Surgeon, Fort Vancouver general charges (1835 - 1837); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1837 - 1838).

John Kirk Townsend, along with Thomas Nuttall, provided the discredited Nathaniel J. Wyeth commercial expedition with scientific credibility. Townsend, an American surgeon and ornithologist, had joined the expedition in early 1834 and arrived at Fort Vancouver in the Company of William Nuttall on November 6, 1834. There, Dr. John McLoughlin put Townsend's surgical skills to use when the regular surgeon at the time, Dr. Meredith Gairdner, who had been stricken with tuberculosis, sailed to Hawaii. Many of Townsends specimens which he had preserved in a gallon [4.5 l] bottle of alcohol, were ruined when the alcoholic tailor, Mr. Thornburg, decanted the alcohol for his own personal use.

Published Manuscript: Townsend wrote Narrative of a Journey Across the Rocky Mountains.
PS: HBCA YFASA 14-17; YFDS 6; FtVanCB 17 PPS: Townsend, Narrative of a Journey Across the Rocky Mountains

Townsend, William (fl. 1857 - 1871) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Death: probably Vancouver Island, British Columbia

Maritime employee

HBC Butcher, Princess Royal (barque) (1857 - 1858); Butcher, Princess Royal (barque) (1860 - 1861).

William Townsend came twice to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal. The second time he was discharged at Victoria on January 24, 1861 and likely stayed for a W. B. Townsend, poulterer, etc., was working on Fort Street, Victoria in 1871.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; Mallandaine

Trask, Elbridge (1815 - 1863) (American)

Birth: Beverly, Massachusetts, United States - June 15, 1815

Death: Tillamook, Oregon - June 23, 1863

Free trader

CRFTC (?) Crew member, May Dacre (brig) (1835); Employee, May Dacre (brig) (1835); AFC Free Trader, Mountain man, Snake Country, Yellowstone, Wyoming area (1836 - 1842).

Elbridge Trask came to the Pacific Northwest as a crewmember of Nathaniel J. Wyeth's ship, as part of Wyeth's second attempt at establishing a trading enterprise in the Pacific Northwest. The five foot ten inch [177.8 cm], two hundred pound [90.7 kg] Trask decided to stay and on September 30, 1835 signed on with the Wyeth's Columbia River Fishing and Trading Company. After the collapse of Wyeth's enterprise, Trask served mainly as a mountain man in the Yellowstone, Rocky Mountain and Snake River area. He also worked alongside Osborne Russell who found him:

"a young man, from Beverly, Mass and being bred a sailor he was not much of a landsman, woodsman or hunter but a great easy good natured fellow..." (Russell, p. 96).

In 1842 Trask joined a wagon train heading west to the Willamette Valley and on it met a widowed Hannah Able and her baby girl. When they reached the Willamette, the couple married that October. The small family first settled on Clatsop Plains, near Astoria before moving to Tillamook, Oregon in 1852. There the Trasks raised their full complement of ten children and Elbridge served a variety of positions in the community. Trask was buried in the Tillamook Pioneer Cemetery and was honoured with a river, mountain and park being named after him.

PS: OHS FtHallAB PPS: O. Russell, p. 94, 96, 104, 105, 108, 109, 111, 123, 170

Traveller, Francis (fl. 1856 - 1857) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1856 - 1857).

Francis Traveller joined the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal in London on August 19, 1856 and made one return voyage to the Northwest Coast.

PS: HBCA log of the Princess Royal 3; PortB 1

Trembly, Narcisse (c. 1825 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly St. Isidore, Lower Canada - c. 1825

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1842 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1843 - 1845).

Narcisse Trembly joined the HBC from St. Isidore in 1842 on a three-year contract. He worked at Fort Vancouver until 1845.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 7; YFASA 22-24
See Also: Trembly, Raphael (Relative)

Trembly, Raphael [variation: Raffael] (c. 1820 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Isidore, Lower Canada - c. 1820

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1842 - 1849); Interpreter, New Caledonia (1849 - 1850); Middleman, New Caledonia (1850 - 1852); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1852 - 1853); Middleman, New Caledonia (1853 - 1860); Untraced vocation, Western Department (1860 - 1861); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1861 - 1862); Labourer, New Caledonia (1862 - 1864).

Raffael Trembly joined the HBC from St. Isidore in 1842. He eventually deserted on September 20, 1864.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 7; YFASA 22-32; YFDS 20; FtVicASA 1-12
See Also: Trembly, Narcisse (Relative)

Trenchemontagne, François M. [variation: Tranchemontagne, Franchemontagne] (fl. 1801 - 1814) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Anne, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (winter 1813 - 1814); Middleman, Brigade to Fort William (1814).

François M. Trenchemontagne was attached to NWC canoe brigades. He is first recorded as having joined the NWC McTavish partnership on September 23, 1801 to work at Grand Portage [Minnesota] a year before the NWC headquarters was rebuilt northward as Fort William [Thunder Bay, Ontario]. By 1807, he was working as a middleman out of Tamiscamin [Quebec], and in 1813 arrived in the Columbia on a one year NWC contract. On January 3, 1814, he and four others struck out for Kootenae House and over the Rockies to Fort des Prairies. He returned in the spring and on April 4th joined a canoe with six others for the canoe brigade to Fort William where, if he completed the journey, would have arrived in July of that year. He probably continued to Montreal.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: ChSoc LVII, p. 632-33; Coues, p. 782, 871

See Also: Trenchemontagne, Joseph (probable Relative)

Trenchemontagne, Joseph [variation: Franchemontagne] (fl. 1811 - 1812) (probably Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

NWC Member, Flathead Post [Fort Connah, Saleesh House] (1811 - 1812) (with David Thompson).

Joseph Trenchemontagne, no doubt a relative of François, acted as a hunter for David Thompson while they were wintering over at Saleesh House. In April, he headed off to the Columbia River.

PS: UBC-Koer Thompson

See Also: Trenchemontagne, François M. (Relative)

Trepagnier, François [variation: Trepanier] (fl. 1810 - 1814) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Riviere du Loup, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

PFC Steersman, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (1810 - 1812); Steersman, Flathead Post [Fort Connah, Saleesh House] (October 13, 1813); Steersman, Fort George [Astoria] (winter 1813 - 1814); Guide, Brigade to Fort William (1814).

François Trepagnier joined the PFC in the Montreal area when he signed a contract with Alexander McKay on June 5, 1810 to work for five years in far off Indian Country as a middleman. He then joined Wilson Price Hunt's PFC Overland Expedition around July 6, 1810 at Lachine. Trepagnier likely crossed over the Continental Divide in late summer, 1811 and arrived at Astoria at the beginning of 1812. He joined the NWC on October 22, 1813 and departed for Fort William and Montreal with the brigade of April 1814.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 10; HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: K. W. Porter, Roll of Overland, p. 107; Coues, p. 872

Trivett, John Frederick (fl. 1856 - 1861) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime officer

HBC Captain, Princess Royal (barque) (1856 - 1858); Captain, Labouchere (steamer) (1858 - 1859); Captain, Princess Royal (barque) (1859 - 1861).

John F. Trivett commanded two major vessels for the HBC to Vancouver Island during the last years of HBC prominence on the West Coast. During some of these voyages, his wife and daughter sailed with him. He appeared to be a man of good will for, in 1857, he oversaw the presentation of a silver plate to John Sebastian Helmcken from the appreciative colonists of Vancouver Island. In 1858-1859 he brought out the paddle steamer Labouchere but then returned to the command of the Princess Royal. When he left the coast, he had accumulated a large credit of £135.28.

Trivett Point, on Princess Royal Island, and Trivett Island, on Penphrase passage, Sutej Channel, B.C. were both named after John Frederick Trivett.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; FtVicASA 7-9; log of Princess Royal 3-5; BCA Diar-Rem Melrose SS: Walbran, p. 496

Trottier, Antoine (fl. 1850 - 1851) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Anne, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1850 - 1851).

Antoine Trottier/Trotier, from the Montreal area, joined the HBC on May 15, 1850 as a middleman and winterer for three years. Although attached to the Saskatchewan Department, Trottier picked up his 1850-1851 wages in the Columbia Department.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 30

Trudeau, Felix (fl. 1841 - 1844) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Montreal, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Thompson River general charges (1841 - 1842); Middleman, Fort Colville (1842 - 1845).

Montrealer Felix Trudeau joined the HBC in 1841 on a three-year contract. He deserted from his contract at Fort Colville on August 23, 1844.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-7; YFASA 22-23; YFDS 15

Trudelle, Jean Baptiste (c. 1819 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1819

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); Middleman, New Caledonia (1840 - 1841); Blacksmith, New Caledonia (1841 - 1842); Middleman, New Caledonia (1842 - 1844).

Montrealer Jean Baptiste Trudelle joined the HBC in 1839 under a three-year contract. He returned east over the Rockies to Canada in 1844.

PS: HBCA YFASA 19-20, 22-23; FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 12

Trudelle, Louis [variation: Trudel] (c. 1821 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1821

Death: probably San Juan Islands, Washington

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Taku [Fort Durham] (1840 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Stikine (1843 - 1848); Middleman, Fort Victoria (1848 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1850 - 1851); Labourer, Fort Victoria (1851 - 1852).

Louis Trudelle joined the HBC in 1839 and spent about eight years on the Alaskan panhandle at two of the HBC forts there. As he was likely at the Stikine post after the murder of John McLoughlin Jr., he swore out a deposition that the murder had been part of a plot to "take the lives of the Officers of that Establishment" (FtVanCB 31, fo. 226). Trudel then worked his way south, beginning work at Fort Nisqually on April 15, 1850 to work for a year before settling.

There he did everything from carpentry to sheep washing, to hoeing potatoes and left for Victoria on February 21, 1851, finally retiring in 1852. He first purchased land in Victoria, then set down roots in Saanich, after purchasing two-hundred acres [80.9 ha] there, and was the first to plant apple trees in the area. After some time, he sold his farm to an American and moved to the American San Juan Islands. On the 1880 U.S. Census, a Louis Trudelle (c.1817-?) was living on Orcas Island with a wife and two step-children.

The records of Louis Trudelle's family are somewhat confusing. He likely had four wives and four recorded children. On December 31, 1849, he married Julie Sahte [Saanich] (1823-50), who had been baptised on August 13 of that year. Four days later, on January 3, 1850, Julie died. One recorded child with Julie was Helene (?-bap.1849-?). The following month, on February 17, 1850, he legitimized his marriage to Marie (c.1829-?), Cowichan. Later in 1850, Louis Trudelle, who had moved south to Fort Nisqually, was found with one wife, Betsy (c.1830-?) of unknown origin. Two other Trudelle children were Louis (c.1841-65) and [daughter] Angebrek (c.1847-?). Their mothers may have been Julie or an earlier fourth wife, likely from the Stikine area.

PS: HBCA YFASA 19-29, 22-32; FtVanASA 6-7, 9; FtVanCB 31, McLoughlin's Nov. 29, 1844 letter to Governor and Committee, B.223/b/31, fo. 226; BCA BCGR-CrtR-Land; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Lewis Co.; BCA BCCR StAndC; WSA 1880 U.S. Census, San Juan, Orcas PPS: Dickey

True, Alfred (? - 1835) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Death: Pacific Ocean - December 9, 1835

Maritime employee

HBC Captain's apprentice, Ganymede (barque) (1830 - 1831); Captain's apprentice, Vancouver (schooner) (1831); Apprentice, Fort Simpson naval service (1832 - 1833); Apprentice, Lama (brig) (1834); Captain's apprentice, Dryad (brig) (1834 - 1835).

Alfred True joined the HBC in London on October 6, 1830 and sailed to the coast on the Ganymede. He became Captain Charles Kipling's apprentice on the Dryad in 1833 and left the Columbia for England on the Dryad on October 1, 1835. True, however had long been ill and on December 9, 1835, two days out of Oahu, he died and his body was immediately committed to the deep.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 7, 14; YFDS 5a-6; log of Dryad 1, 2; YFASA 12-14; FtVanASA 3

Trueman, James (fl. 1842 - 1843) (possibly British)

Birth: possibly British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Carpenter, Valleyfield (ship) (1842 - 1843).

James Trueman sailed to the coast as a carpenter on the HBC chartered ship Valleyfield. He was extremely busy during the voyage as the vessel leaked badly and had to stop at Valparaiso for repairs. He swore out a deposition after he returned to London attesting to the Valleyfield's unseaworthiness.

PS: HBCA FtVanCB 29; ShMiscPap 12

Truman, Nicholas (fl. 1847) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1847).

Nicholas Truman shipped on with the HBC, possibly in London around the beginning of October 1845 or elsewhere and sailed to the coast on the Columbia. After making supply runs as far north as Sitka and the Sandwich Islands, Truman left the vessel in Oahu on August 12, 1847.

PS: HBCA log of Columbia, 9

Trumbull, Guy [variation: Trumbul] (? - 1832) (American)

Birth: probably New England, United States

Death: Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - November 7, 1832

Fur trade employee

Wyeth Employee, Wyeth's 1st Expedition (1832).

Guy Trumbull was one of the few 1st Nathaniel J. Wyeth expedition members who made it over the Rockies and into the Columbia. He probably came from New England and left there on March 11, 1832 on the overland Wyeth journey. On his way, he had a colic attack on the Platte River and almost died. Trumbull arrived at Fort Vancouver on October 29 and was there for a little more than a week when he had a second attack of colic and died on November 7, 1832 at Fort Vancouver. According to Bancroft, it was from overeating. He was buried by the officers of the HBC.

PPS: N. J. Wyeth, vol. 1, p. 75

Tsoo, Tom (fl. 1832 - 1836) (possibly Hawaiian or Chinese)

Fur trade employee

HBC Seaman, Fort Simpson naval service (1832 - 1833); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver (1833 - 1834); Untraced vocation, Columbia District (1834 - 1836).

Tom Tsoo joined the HBC in Oahu on September 6, 1832 for work in the Columbia. In outfit 1834-1835, it was noted that he was disabled and as a result received only partial wages.

PS: HBCA YFDS 8-10; YFASA 12-15

Tuaha (fl. 1830 - 1845) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian IslandsFur trade employee*HBC Labourer, Vancouver (schooner) (1830); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Seaman, Vancouver (schooner) (1830); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1833); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1833 - 1834); Seaman, Lama (brig) (1834); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1834 - 1845).

Tuaha joined the HBC in April 1830. Thereafter he appears to have been assigned to land work and was probably one of the many Hawaiians living in Fort Vancouver's Kanaka village. At one point he sailed down the Coast as far as Monterey on the Lama. As his contract ended in 1845 he worked until December 10 of that year, at which point he returned to Oahu where he received his final HBC wages.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 14; FtVanASA 2-6; YFDS 4a-7, 16; YFASA 11-15; 19-20, 22-25; SandIsAB 5

Tuana, Thomas [variation: Tuannan] (fl. 1811 - 1813) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian IslandsDeath: possibly Hawaiian Islands*Maritime employee*PFC Passenger and labourer, Tonquin (ship) (1811); Labourer, Fort George [Astoria] (1811 - 1813); Passenger, Albatross (brig) (1813).

Thomas Tuana had a difficult two-year period in the fur trade, being as he was laid up almost the entire time with venereal disease. Tuana joined the crew of the Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn] as a labourer around February 21, 1811 when the Astor vessel stopped at Oahu and took on a complement of twelve Sandwich Islanders. One month later, on March 22, the Tonquin arrived at the mouth of the Columbia and, on April 12, Thomas was noted at helping to unload the vessel. However, from that time on, he was sick almost continually and in 1812, was described as an "old invalid." Matters became so desperate that the officers in charge of Fort Astoria decided to try some folk medicine; that is, they killed and eviscerated a horse and put Tuana in the body of the still warm horse. All of the workers stopped to witness this extraordinary event but signs of improvement were apocryphal and did not materialize. In the spring of 1813, however, he was able to do some garden work. Eventually, on August 26, 1813, Thomas Tuana was sent back on the Albatross to the Sandwich Islands a debilitated man.

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria

Tuarumaku, Jack [variation: Tueromoko, Tuarumaka] (fl. 1832 - 1836) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian IslandsFur trade employee*HBC Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1832 - 1834); Passenger or crew, Eagle (brig) (1834); Labourer (high wage), Fort Simpson (1834 - 1836); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1836).

Jack Tuarumaku was engaged by the HBC in Oahu on September 6, 1832. On December 1, 1834, he left for Oahu aboard the brig Eagle, probably to visit his family. He re-enlisted with the Company in January, 1836 and returned to the Columbia. He appears with wages on the 1836-1837 records with the notation that he had gone to Oahu, likely in December 1836.

PS: HBCA YFASA 12-16; YFDS 5a-7; ShMiscPap 14; FtVanASA 3-4; FtSimp[N]PJ 3

Tubb, George (fl. 1840 - 1843) (British: English)

Birth: probably London, EnglandDeath: Atlantic Ocean - May 1, 1843*Maritime employee*HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1840 - 1843).

George Tubb joined the HBC in London on August 24, 1840 for five years and sailed to the coast on the Cowlitz. After arriving in February 1841, he sailed to various coastal posts from Monterey to Sitka but seemed partial to Honolulu for on a side trip there in August 1842 he tried several times to desert and had to be put in irons and confined below. Apparently chastened by the event, he worked quietly for the next eight months but, on the voyage home in a heavy squall running at ten knots, he fell overboard from the fore top gallant yard arm and couldn't be rescued. The Cowlitz docked nine days later in London without Tubb.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Cowlitz 1; FtVanASA 6-8; YFASA 22-23

Tucker, Nathaniel (fl. 1856 - 1857) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1856 - 1857).

Nathaniel Tucker joined the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal in London on August 19, 1856 and made one return voyage to the Northwest Coast.

PS: HBCA log of the Princess Royal 3; PortB 1

Tulloch, Samuel [variation: Tullock] (fl. 1827 - 1832) (American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Fur trade officer

AFC Trapper, Rendezvous (1827); Leader, American Snake Party (1827 - 1828).

Samuel Tulloch worked for two American fur companies, Smith, Jackson & Sublette and the American Fur Company; as well, he travelled and stayed with members of the HBC brigades. He was probably at the 1827 Rendezvous and from September of that year travelled with Thomas McKay's brigade until he and his men joined Peter S. Ogden at the mouth of the Portneuf River in December 1827 for the winter. During this time, Ogden found Tulloch to be "a decent kind of fellow" (SnkCoPJ 7, fo. 32). Shortly after his departure up the Portneuf on March 26, 1828, Tulloch was attacked by a party of thirty to forty Blackfeet [Amuchabas] and injured in the wrist. Not only did he lose $4000 worth of furs, forty-four horses and much merchandise, but he was also appeared permanently crippled in the hand. At the 1829 Rendezvous, when Tulloch was challenged by an intoxicated French Canadian by the name of "Bray", Tulloch hit him with his good fist killing him with one blow. In 1832, while a member of the American Fur Company, Tulloch built Fort Cass, an AFC post in Crow country on the Yellowstone River. The post, which was abandoned in 1835, was also known as Tulloch's Fort.

PS: HBCA SnkCoPJ 7; MHS Campbell; MHS Chouteau PPS: Chardon, p. 298 SS: D. L. Morgan, Jedediah Smith, p. 294; Gowans, p. 35; Chittenden, p. 964-65

Tupy (fl. c. 1830? - 1833) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: Fort George [Astoria], Oregon Territory - March 18, 1833

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1833); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1833); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (1833).

Tupy joined the HBC in April 1830. He died at Fort George [former Astoria] March 18, 1833 of unstated causes.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; YFDS 4a-5b; YFASA 11-13

Turcot, Pierre [variation: Tourcotte] (c. 1827 - 1865) (Undetermined origin)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1827

Death: Victoria, Colony of Vancouver Island - July 14, 1865

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1847 - 1848); Middleman, New Caledonia (1848 - 1849); Boute, New Caledonia (1849 - 1850); Boute, Fort Victoria (1850 - 1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1851 - 1852); Middleman and labourer, Fort Simpson (1852 - 1860); Untraced vocation, Western Department (1860 - 1861); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1861 - 1862).

Pierre Turcot, joined the HBC in 1847 and spent the first three years in New Caledonia. On August 28, 1852 he began work at Fort Simpson. Although he was chastised within the journals for being a wife beater nevertheless he appeared to work competently and within the rules. At one point in November 1856 his father-in-law took Turcot's wife and child with him. On October 6, 1857, he had to ask permission to return to the fort after being off work for drunkenness the previous month. Two weeks later, perhaps in a moment of remorse, the illiterate Turcot was recruited by missionary William Duncan for his Men's Night School but it is not known how long he studied. By 1858-1859, Turcot had accumulated a very large debt of £324.18.6 but reduced it to £18.18.5 by the time he left in 1862. He appears to have moved to Victoria where he carried on transactions with the company. Pierre Turcot died in July 1865 and was buried July 14 in the Victoria area.

PS: HBCA YFASA 27-32; YFDS 20; FtAlexPJ 8; FtVicASA 1-11; FtSimp[N]PJ 7-8; BCA BCCR StAndC; UBC-SC Duncan

Turcotte, Jean Baptiste [variation: Turcot] (? - c. 1813) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly in or near Tanneries de Roland, near Lachine, Lower Canada

Death: probably Snake Country, Pacific Northwest - c. December 1813

Fur trade employee

PFC Untraced vocation, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (1810 - 1812); Middleman, Snake River (1813 - 1814); Member, Reed's Snake Party (1814).

Jean Baptiste Turcotte, who may have been in the fur trade as early as 1804, joined the PFC on June 6, 1810 when he signed a contract with PFC partner, Alexander McKay, in the Montreal area to work for five years as a middleman in far off Indian Country. He then joined Wilson Price Hunt's PFC Overland Expedition in Lachine or Montreal around July 6, 1810. He crossed the Continental Divide in late summer 1811 and joined Ramsay Crooks' group, which he later left when he was in the Snake River area sometime in February of 1812. He was subsequently picked up by John Reed and brought by Donald McKenzie to Astoria where he arrived on June 12, 1812. While he was on contract until 1815, in the summer of 1813 Turcotte was sent with Reed's party to the Snake River area. Shortly thereafter, Jean Baptiste Turcotte succumbed to tuberculosis (scrofula).

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: K. W. Porter, Roll of Overland, p. 112; ChSoc XLV, p. 153n

Turgeon, Joseph (c. 1807 - ?) (Undetermined origin)

Birth: c. 1807

Fur trade employee

HBC Tinsmith, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Tinsmith, Columbia Department sundries account (1831 - 1832).

Joseph Turgeon joined the HBC in 1830. His contract ended in 1833 at which point he returned to Montreal, where he was paid.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; YFDS 4a-4b; YFASA 11-12

Turnbull, Charles (c. 1827 - ?) (Canadian: English)

Birth: probably Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1827

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Columbia Department general charges (1845 - 1846); Middleman, Fort Vancouver depot (1846 - 1847); Middleman, Willamette Falls (1847 - 1848).

Charles Turnbull, from Montreal, joined the HBC in 1845 on a three-year contract, retiring in 1848.

PS: HBCA YFASA 25-27

Turner, John (? - 1847) (American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Death: California, United States - 1847

Fur trade employee

HBC Trapper, Jedediah Smith Southwest Expedition (1827 - 1828); Trapper, South Party (1828 - 1831); Freeman trapper, Snake Party (1830 - 1831); Trapper, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1833 - 1834).

John Turner worked for both American and British fur traders. He joined Jedediah Smith's expedition from the 1827 Rendezvous and had two close brushes with death. The first was when the Mojaves attacked the expedition in the south killing ten of its members. The second was in Oregon when the expedition was attacked on July 14, 1828 and fourteen of the expedition were killed. Turner stayed in Oregon and worked for the HBC. According to Francis D. Haines, Turner also joined Ewing Young in California in January 1833 (Snake Country, p. 152-53). He was with Work in 1831 for on September 7, 1830, he joined Alexander Carson's five member party (Turner, Pierre Despot, Jerome Cloutier, John Saunders and Jean Baptiste Jean) to trap the Weizer and Payette Rivers and some of the waters of the Salmon River. According to the York Factory accounts, he left Michel Laframboise's party in November to join the American party.

PS: HBCA YFDS 3a-3b; SnkCoPJ 9; YFASA 13; YFDS 5b PPS: HBRS X, p. 61; Haines, The Snake Country Expedition, p. 152-153 SS: Carter, "Jedediah Smith", p. 97-104; D. L. Morgan, Jedediah Smith, p. 236, 259, 267, 269

Tuwia, Jack [variation: Tuwea] (fl. 1834) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Eagle (brig) (1834); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver (1834).

Jack Tuwia was on the Eagle in 1834 as a HBC employee and was discharged at the Columbia River from the ship. He left Fort Vancouver for Oahu on December 1, 1834 aboard the Eagle.

PS: HBCA YFASA 14; SandIsM 1; ShMisPap 14

Tuzo, Henry [variation: Aiken Atkinson/Aiken] (1831 - 1890) (Canadian)

Birth: possibly Lower Canada [Quebec] - 1831

Death: Hillside, Warlingham, England, United Kingdom - August 1890

Fur trade officer

HBC Surgeon, Fort Vancouver (1853 - 1858); Apprentice clerk, Fort Vancouver (1853 - 1858); Clerk, Fort Victoria depot (1860 - 1865); Chief Trader, Fort Victoria depot (1865 - 1869).

Henry Atkinson or Aiken Tuzo joined the HBC in 1853 from Montreal on a five year contract as an apprentice clerk and surgeon. He came across the continent, arriving at Fort Vancouver in November 1853 and worked there until the end of his contract in 1858. Around 1859 or 1860 he went north and became employed at Victoria selling and valuing land. In 1866, he assisted in seeking legal counsel for HBC interests in Oregon and Washington Territory. Later, he also superintended the construction of buildings and improvements in the city. He worked until about 1869 and in 1871 he managed the Bank of North America; his residence at that time was on Foul Bay Road. By 1874 he was the manager of the BNA in New York. As he had accumulated considerable wealth during his career, he chose to emigrate to England where, employing local labour, he built several mansions and a school near London. By the spring of 1890, the benefactor's health had begun to decline and he made a lengthy tour to Eastern Europe, Egypt and Asia Minor. He returned to his estate where he died that fall.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 9-14; FtVicASA 4, 6, 8-16; "British and American Joint Commission on the Hudson's Bay and Puget Sound Agricultural Companies Claims", Victoria, Aug. 1, 1865; FtVicCB 28; Mallandaine, p. 40; Van-PL Colonist, Sept. 6, 1890, p. 5

Tyah (c. 1814 - 1838) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: Hawaiian Islands - c. 1814

Death: Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - September 20, 1838

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1838).

Tyah joined the HBC from Oahu in July 1837, beginning his work at Fort Vancouver on August 10 of that year. However, before he was able to complete his three-year obligation, the twenty-four year old Sandwich Islander died at Fort Vancouver September 20, 1838 and was buried at the fort the following day by Anglican minister Herbert Beaver.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 1; FtVanASA 4-5; YFDS 8; YFASA 18; BCA BCCR CCCath

Tye, John [1] (fl. 1856 - 1857) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1856 - 1857).

John Tye sailed to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal. After reaching Victoria, this John Tye and the following John Tye (likely a relative) deserted on February 27, 1857.

PS: HBCA log of Princess Royal 3

Tye, John [2] (fl. 1856 - 1857) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1856 - 1857).

This John Tye also deserted after he sailed to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal. Neither Tyes show up on any other record.

PS: HBCA log of Princess Royal 3; PortB 1

Tyeguariche (Norwest), Jean Baptiste [variation: Tyikwarhi, Tayequariche, Tayeqaenche, Ottawa, Norwest, Nordouest, Norez] (c. 1799 - 1855) (Native: Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1799

Death: possibly Willamette Valley, Oregon - 1855

Fur trade employee

NWC Middleman, Pacific slopes (1817 - 1821); HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1821 - 1824); Cook, Columbia Department (1824 - 1825); Cook, Snake Party (1825 - 1830); Trapper, Columbia Department (1830 - 1831); Cook, Columbia Department (1831 - 1835); Trapper, South Party (1840 - 1844).

Jean Baptiste Tyeguariche joined the NWC on December 18, 1816 and crossed the Rockies with Joseph LaRocque in 1817. He appeared to be a Brigade member at various time and, after the coalition of the NWC and HBC, he continued to stay in the Columbia or be part of the York Factory Brigade. By 1826, as a member of P. S. Ogden's Snake Country party, Tyeguariche and Thomas Taurnton started to panic about crossing the mountains in the harsh winter conditions and so deserted on January 30. The desertion didn't last long for while working as a cook for Ogden's 1826-1827 Snake Expedition, he almost got himself killed in a skirmish. It all started in Snake Country on Saturday, October 15, 1826 when Tyeguariche and François Payette, returning from their traps, encountered and chased three Snake natives who had stolen seven of their horses. After they caught them they demanded restitution to which the Indians complied with roots, provisions and arrows. Not being satisfied - as these same Indians had stolen horses before - Tyeguariche began to beat them with a whip handle. The Indians, naturally, having paid their penalty and now suffering the humiliation of a beating, turned on both men, one seizing Tyeguariche and two others Payette. During the ensuing scuffle Tyeguarich, having received an arrow in the ribs and one in the back, and Payette, an arrow in the ribs and wrist and after having killed one of the Indians, fled, abandoning their horses, arms and blankets. The two remaining Indians, in retribution, fired at and killed four of the seven horses but the sight of an oncoming Joseph Paul on horseback caused them to flee. Ogden's journal leaves a fast fading Tyeguariche on Friday the 21st, a premature conclusion as he appears more than once in later years (HBRS XXIII, p. 13-14). Tyeguariche became a freeman in 1827 and continued working with the Company until outfit 1843-1844, when he retired into the Willamette Valley of Oregon to become a farmer. He has not been traced after that.

Jean Baptiste Tyeguariche had two wives and six recorded children. On July 8, 1839 at Fort Vancouver, Tyeguariche formalized his marriage to Judith (Josette) Walla Walla. Their children were Catherine (c.1824-?), Agnès (c.1829-?), Thomas (c.1831-1888), Marie Anne (c.1832-?) Lazare (c.1835-?) and Cécile (c.1837-?). Judith died sometime before 1847 at which time he was married to Henriette Pend d'Oreille. Henriette died in February 1852.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 2, 3, 9; HBCA YFASA 1-9, 11-14, 22- 23; HBRS XIII, p. 259-60 P. S. Ogden's February 2, 1826 Burnt River letter to Governor, Northern Department, [desertion of January 30, 1826, D.4/119, fos. 33-34d as found in p. 259-60; SnkCoPJ 4; YFDS 14; HBCABio; FtVanASA 1-6 PPS: HBRS XXIII, p. 13-14, 137-38; CCR 1a, 2a, 2b

Tyler, William (fl. 1832 - 1835) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Carpenter, Lama (brig) (1832 - 1834); Carpenter, Eagle (brig) (1834 - 1835).

William Tyler joined the HBC in Oahu as a carpenter on September 4, 1832 for work in the Columbia. He sailed to the coast on the brig Lama and appears to have been on the same vessel as it serviced the coastal posts for the next two years. On November 10, 1834, he was transferred to the brig Eagle, a ship on which he left the Columbia for London. As he held a vital position, he probably continued the voyage through to London rather than leaving the vessel in Oahu.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 14; YFDS 5a-5c; YFASA 12-14

Ula Ula [variation: Ulla Ulla] (fl. 1841 - 1842) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - 1842

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1842).

Ula Ula joined the HBC from Oahu in 1841 for three years and began receiving wages on July 9 of that year. Before he could complete his obligated period, he died at Fort Vancouver in 1842. There is no record of his burial, but his wages were paid to his relatives in Hawaii.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 12; YFASA 22; SandIsAB 3

Ulderich, William (fl. 1832 - 1835) (probably American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Maritime officer

HBC Mate, Lama (brig) (1832 - 1833); Mate, Vancouver (schooner) (1833); Mate, Cadboro (schooner) (1833); Supernumerary, Lama (brig) (1834); Passenger, Eagle (brig) (1834).

William Ulderich (along with 2nd mate Ephraim Hanson and Captain William Henry McNeill of the Lama) was engaged at Oahu by Roderick Finlayson as 2nd mate at Oahu on September 1, 1832 for the HBC. He and the two others had some experience on the coast and with the natives, having worked from the Lama previously, before it was purchased by the HBC. Under the HBC, Ulderich worked on coastal shipping out of Fort Simpson from the end of 1832 until December 1, 1834, when he was sent to Oahu aboard the brig Eagle. He likely returned to American based shipping after that.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 12-14; YFDS 5a-5c; FtVanCB 8, 10

Umi Umi (fl. 1844 - 1846) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1846).

Umi Umi, from Oahu, joined the HBC in 1844 on a three-year contract. He worked until November 30, 1846, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-26; YFDS 17

Umpreville, Canote [variation: Canote Umfreville, Humpherville] (c. 1788 - 1842) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Athabasca [Alberta] - c. 1788

Death: Okanagan Dalles [British Columbia] - May 31, 1842

Fur trade employee

NWC Devant, Fort George [Astoria] (winter 1813 - 1814); Steersman, Brigade to Fort William (1814); Steersman, Pacific slopes (1821); HBC Boute, Columbia Department (1821 - 1824); Bowsman, Columbia Department (1824 - 1826); Bowsman, Fort Colville (1826 - 1830); Guide, Fort Colville (1830 - 1831); Guide or bowsman, Fort Colville (1831 - 1835); Guide, Fort Colville (1835 - 1842).

Canote Umpreville is first recorded as joining the NWC in 1813, as an experienced canoe man, and continued in this capacity with the HBC in 1821 from the time of coalition. He made at least one transcontinental journey and is recorded as working for George Simpson when he was in the area in the late 1820s. From the 1830s he worked out of the Fort Colville area sometimes as a freeman for hire. For example, in November 1833, he left Laframboise's Party to join the American Party. On May 31, 1842, while on the P. S. Ogden/Donald Manson brigade, this highly valued Columbia River guide, along with Pierre Martineau, David Flett, Louison Boucher and André Areuhonianté drowned when their boat was swamped in the Dalles above Okanagan. His widow and five small children went to live with her step-son Pierre (Wakan) Humpherville on French Prairie.

Umpreville had two wives and up to eleven children. His first wife was Pauline Sinpoil, by whom he had three children, Pierre (?-?), Isabelle (c. 1823-?) and Gregoire (c. 1825-?). After her death he married Marguerite (Marie) Michina who bore seven or eight children. Six of these children were Louise (c.1831-?), Jeanne (c.1833-?), Nancy (c. 1834-?), Josephite (c.1837-?), Louis (1838-?) and Fe'licite (1840-?).

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 9, 10; HBCA YFASA 1-9, 11-15, 19-20, 22; YFDS 2a, 3a-3b, 4b-7; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-7; FtVanCB 29 PPS: CCR 1a

See Also: Umpreville, John (Son); Umpreville, Pierre (Son); Chamberlain, Adolphe (probable Son-in-Law); Lafontasie, Charles (Son-in-Law)

Umpreville, John (fl. 1841 - 1848) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably West of the Rockies (probably born to Canote Umpreville)

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Colville (1841 - 1842).

John Umpreville, likely the son of Canote Umpherville, joined the HBC in 1841 under a two-year contract. On August 15, 1842, he settled in the Willamette Valley of Oregon. He appeared on the Muster Rolls as having served in 1848 (a private in D, I, J, 7th Company) in the Cayuse War under the name John Ampreville. His brother Gregoire likely served in the same war (a private in D, I, J, 9th Company).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 13; YFASA 22 PPS: Victor, The Early Indian Wars, p. 503

See Also: Umpreville, Canote (probable Father); Umpreville, Pierre (Brother)

Umpreville, Pierre (Waccan) [variation: Wakan Umphreville, Humpherville] (c. 1817 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: c. 1817 (born to Canote Umpreville and Pauline Sinpoil)

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice, Fort Colville (1835 - 1842); Untraced vocation, Fort Colville (1842 - 1843).

Pierre Umpreville joined the HBC in 1835. After his contract ended in 1840, he worked as a freeman and on September 30, 1842, he left the HBC to settle in the Willamette. He tried unsuccessfully to get title to his claim south of St. Louis - only the intervention of Father Blanchet, who said that he was single and looking after seven orphans and a step-mother, reversed the decision. (Umpreville was head of the Humpherville/Martineau families who had drowned in the 1842 river accident.) Also, according to the Oregon City Argus, at the time of the 1861 winter flood, "Wacom Umpherville rescued thirty persons between Champoege and Fairfield, taking fifteen of them from one house, to which they had fled for refuge" (CCR 1, A-38).

PS: HBCA YFASA 15, 19-20, 22; YFDS 6-7, 13; FtVanASA 3-7 PPS: CCR 1a, 1b, 2b
See Also: Umpreville, Canote (Father); Umpreville, John (Brother)

Underwood, Thomas (fl. 1853 - 1862) (Undetermined origin)

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

HBC Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1853 - 1854); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1856 - 1857); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1857 - 1860).

Thomas Underwood worked for the HBC and raised a family in the Fort Simpson area. On October 22, 1857, Underwood, who was illiterate, was recruited by missionary William Duncan for his Men's Night School. Underwood retired in 1860 but carried on transactions until 1862.

Thomas Underwood had an unnamed native wife (?-?) and one boy (1857-?).

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1-2, 4-9; FtSimp[N]PJ 8; UBC-SC Duncan

Uneau, Michel (fl. 1822 - 1830s) (Undetermined origin)

Freeman

HBC Employee, Columbia Department (1822 - 1823); Freeman trapper, Snake Party (1824 - 1825).

Michel Uneau appeared in the Fort George account books of 1822-1823. The following year, even though Alexander Ross thought Uneau was not worth equipping for his Snake Expedition, he took him on and he returned to the Flathead post in November of that year. The following month he joined Peter Skene Ogden's Snake Country expedition and may have stayed in the area for he appeared in the Fort Hall account books in the 1830s.

PS: HBCA SnkCoPJ 1, 2; OHS FtHallAB

Upahee (fl. 1830 - 1850) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Freeman

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830? - 1831); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1832); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1832 - 1850).

Upahee joined the HBC in April 1830. He spent the majority of his working career at Fort Vancouver before he became a freeman and retired in 1850.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2-7, 9; YFDS 4a-7; YFASA 11-15, 19-20, 22, 27-32

Upay (fl. 1844 - 1846) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1846).

Upay, from Oahu, joined the HBC in 1844 on a three-year contract. He worked at Fort Vancouver as a labourer until August 6, 1846, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-26; YFDS 17

Urno, Pierre [variation: Renaud] (fl. 1852 - 1858) (Canadian: French)

Birth: Montreal, Lower Canada (born to Jean Baptiste Renaud and Marie Valade)

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria general charges (1852 - 1853); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1853 - 1854); Middleman, Fort Langley (1854 - 1858).

Pierre Urno appears to have deserted from the York Factory Express at Fort Nisqually. At that time, W. F. Tolmie called him a "worthless little Canadian" (FtNisCBout 2, fo. 13d). In spite of this, Urno went on to work for the HBC on the Pacific slopes as a middleman, spending the majority of his career at Fort Langley.

Pierre Urno had one wife, Cecile (?-?) "Pelaltoch" whom he married on July 21, 1856. No children were recorded.

PS: HBCA YFASA 32; FtVicASA 1-5; FtNisCBout 2, W. F. Tolmie's Nov. 29, 1852 Fort Nisqually letter to James Douglas, fo. 13d; BCA BCCR StAndC

Urquhart, William (fl. 1830 - 1832) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably in or near Rosslyn, Urquhart, Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1832).

William Urquhart joined the HBC from Scotland on June 16, 1829 as a labourer for five years. He appears to have worked in the Columbia for two years and put in part of his time as a farmer. He returned to Europe in 1832.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; FtVanASA 2; FtVanAB 28; YFDS 4a-4b; YFASA 10-12

Ussagore, Ignace (c. 1813 - 1838) (Native: probably Iroquois)

Birth: probably Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada - c. 1813

Death: Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - November 10, 1838

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1836); Middleman, New Caledonia (1836 - 1838); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver (November 1838).

Ignace Ussagore joined the HBC in 1835 and died at Fort Vancouver in 1838 of unknown causes, well before his contract ended in 1840.

PS: HBCA YFASA 14-15, 18; YFDS 6-7; FtVanASA 2-5

Vagnier, Louis Joseph [variation: Vernier, Vaignoit] (fl. 1814 - 1821) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

NWC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1814 - 1821); Employee, Pacific slopes (1817).

Louis Joseph Vagnier (Vernier) first appeared on records crossing the Rockies in 1817 with Joseph LaRocque's party but had been in the area at least three years prior.

Louis Joseph Vagnier was the second husband of Madame Marie Dorion between the years 1814 and 1821. They had one daughter, Marguerite (c.1821-58).

PS: HBCA NWCAB 2 PPS: CCR 1a, 1b

See Also: Dorion, Marie L'Aguivoise (Relative); Dorion, Pierre (Relative); Toupin, Jean (Relative)

Vallade, Rehene [variation: Rene Valade] (fl. 1807 - 1814) (Undetermined origin)

Birth: possibly Quinchien, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Member, Boat Encampment [Canoe Camp] (1810 - 1811) (with David Thompson); Member, Columbia River (1811) (with David Thompson); Middleman, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (winter 1813 - 1814).

Rehene Vallade, from Quinchien, first joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray] on February 26, 1807 on a contract which was notarized in Montreal. Exactly where he spent the next three years has not been traced but he first appeared in David Thompson's journals on December 29, 1810 on his way to the Athabasca Pass area having started from Boggy Hall at the end of October. He crossed Athabasca Pass at the beginning of January and wintered at Canoe Camp (later, Boat Encampment, near the junction of Canoe and Flat Heart [Wood] Rivers with the Columbia) until April 17, 1811. At that time, Vallade, along with Joseph Cote and Pierre Pariel, the only three who "had the courage to risque the chances of the Voyage", (ChSoc XL p. 327) started out in a newly clinker built canoe, twenty-five feet [7.6 m] in length, with Thompson down the Columbia towards the Pacific. He probably stayed in the Columbia for the next year for he was in the area when he signed a further two year contract in 1812. He was at Spokane House during the winter of 1813-1814 but was not part of the large brigade which began its return voyage overland on April 4, 1814. As he was to be free in Montreal that year, he probably returned by a separate brigade.

PS: ShdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: Belyea, p. 132, 141, 250; ChSoc XL, p. 327

Valle, Andre [standard: André] [variation: Vallar] (fl. 1810 - 1812) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Lower Canada [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

PFC Untraced vocation, W. P. Hunt Overland Expedition (1810 - 1812); Labourer, Fort George [Astoria] (1812); Member, Stuart's Overland Expedition (1812).

André Valle first appeared on Wilson Price Hunt's PFC overland expedition records on November 29, 1810 at Nondawa. He crossed the Continental Divide with the group in late summer 1811 and reached Astoria on January 18, 1812. On March 22, 1812, he set out from Fort Astoria for St. Louis with Robert Stuart, but was attacked at the Dalles and had to turn back. On June 29, Valle, Stuart, Benjamin Jones, Frances Leclerc, Ramsay Crooks and Robert McClellan struck out once again for St. Louis.

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria PPS: K. W. Porter, Roll of Overland, p. 112; A. Ross, Adventures, p. 199

Valle, Antoine [variation: LaValle] (fl. 1817 - 1834) (Canadian: French or Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly Sorel, Lower Canada
Freeman

NWC Middleman, Columbia Department (1817); Freeman trapper, Snake Party (1824 - 1825); Freeman, Columbia Department (1825 - 1830); Freeman trapper, Columbia Department (1831 - 1834).

Antoine Valle signed on with the NWC on January 8, 1817 under the name Antoine Lavalley, as a wintering middleman for three years in the Northwest. As his contract expired in 1820, he may have left the area at that time for he is not on the list of NWC employees who transferred to the HBC within the Columbia. In the fall of 1822, he came back across the Rockies from the Saskatchewan and, in the spring of 1823, accompanied Finan McDonald into the Snake Country probably as a freeman. On February 10, 1824, when he joined Alexander Ross at Flat Head post for the upcoming Snake expedition, he was a family man, in charge of a lodge and deemed a good trapper. No sooner were they underway on February 21, 1824 than his twelve year old son died. Valle's lodge and two others stopped for the day in mourning. He carried on, however, until August 20, 1824 at the Weizer River when he and twelve others deserted Ross. By December 20, 1824, he was ready once again for another Snake Country expedition for at Flat Head post he became a member of Ogden's Snake country expedition, with one gun, nine horses and six traps. He was not listed as a deserter from the expedition and may have continued with it until it returned to Flat Head post.

Antoine Valle had an unnamed wife and a boy (c.1812-1824).

PS: ShdeSB Liste; FtGeo[Ast]AB 10; FtSpokRD 1; SnkCoPJ 1, 2, YFASA 5-6, 8-9, 11-13; FtVanASA 1

Vallette, Joseph [variation: Valet] (c. 1831 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Red River Settlement [Manitoba] - c. 1831

Death: probably New Caledonia, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman and labourer, New Caledonia (1853 - 1856); Boute, New Caledonia (1856 - 1862); Labourer, New Caledonia (1862 - 1863); Labourer, New Caledonia (1866 - 1883).

Joseph Vallette entered the employ of the HBC in 1852 and worked in various positions in New Caledonia until he retired in outfit 1882-1883.

In June, 1871, Joseph took as a wife, Atehiah hie (?-?), a native woman of Stuart Lake. Together, they had François (c.1870-?), Sophie (c.1871-?) and Christine (c.1873-?).

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1-12, 14-30; HBCABio; Van-PL 1881 Canada Census, Stuart Lake; BCA BCCR StPetStLk; BCA BCGR-Manion

Valois, Jean Baptiste (c. 1804 - 1830) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Cuthbert, Lower Canada - c. 1804

Death: Columbia River, Pacific Northwest - October 25, 1830

Fur trade employee

HBC Blacksmith, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830).

Jean Baptiste Valois joined the HBC as a blacksmith in 1830. He had a very short career in the Columbia for he drowned on October 25th of that year.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2; FtVanAB 28; YFDS 4a; YFASA 9

Van Dervere, Peter (c. 1789 - 1811) (American)

Birth: probably New Jersey, United States - c. 1789

Death: possibly Clayoquot Sound, Vancouver Island - June 1811

Maritime employee

PFC Ordinary seaman, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811).

Peter Van Dervere is a mystery. He joined John Jacob Astor's Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn] in New York as a seaman some time before September 3, 1810 for its voyage to the Northwest Coast but did not appear on Gabriel Franchere's list of crew members. He may have departed September 8 on the New York vessel for its tempestuous journey around the Horn, arriving at the mouth of the Columbia on March 22, 1811, and ultimately suffering the same fate as the other crew members in July. On the other hand, he may have had a change of heart and left the Tonquin in New York harbour before it sailed.

PS: USNA Tonquin

Vandalle, Louis [a] [variation: Vandal, Vandale, Vandal] (c. 1800 - 1862) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably in or near Sorel or Lac La Biche, Lower Canada - c. 1800

Death: St. Louis, Oregon - September 28, 1862

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Columbia District (1815 - 1821); HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1821 - 1822); Middleman, Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs] (1822 - 1823); Middleman, New Caledonia (1823 - 1824); Middleman, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825); Middleman, New Caledonia (1825 - 1828); Labourer, Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs] (1825); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1829 - 1831); Boute, New Caledonia (1831 - 1842); Settler, Willamette (1841 - 1842).

Louis Vandal [a] joined the NWC in 1815 most likely as a middleman, and later the HBC in 1821. In the late fall of 1822, he helped to build a new post at the north end of Babine Lake. He served through until 1827 when he deserted and lived with the natives for the better part of a year. However, he returned to work with the Company. Later he took a claim on the swampy southern part of French Prairie, Oregon, where he farmed, and became a naturalized U.S. Citizen in 1851. He died in the St. Louis parish on September 28, 1862.

Louis Vandalle had one wife and five recorded children. On June 19, 1841 at St. Paul, Oregon, he formalized his marriage to Unat/Catherine Porteuse/Nankas Elias, Carrier (c.1801-66). Their recorded children were Louis (c.1834-52) Genevieve (1839-?), Marie (1842-?), Cecile (1844-?) and Catherine (1847-?). Catherine Porteuse died on May 9, 1866 at St. Louis.

PS: HBCA FtStJmsLS 1; YFASA 1-2, 47, 11-14, 19-21; FtBabPJ 1; YFDS 2b, 3b, 4b-7; FtStJmsRD 3; FtStJmsCB 6; FtVanASA 2-6; HBCABio; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion Co. PPS: CCR 1a, 2a, 3a

Vandalle, Louis [b] [variation: Vandal] (c. 1819 - 1859) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Sorel, Lower Canada - c. 1819 (born to Augustin Vandal and Josephthe Bourivet)

Death: St. Louis, Oregon - October 8, 1859

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1838 - 1839); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1839 - 1840); Middleman, South Party (1840 - 1844); Settler, Willamette (1844 - 1844).

Louis Vandelle joined the HBC in 1838 and worked as a middleman around Fort Vancouver and on the South Party until he retired to French Prairie in 1843-44. Vandalle farmed and raised a family on French Prairie. He appears to have not supported the establishment of a Provisional Government in 1843. Vandalle was stabbed to death on October 8, 1859 by Tobias Marchetti (CCR 1, A-80). He was buried in the St. Louis Cemetery.

Louis Vandalle [b] had two wives and eight children. On September 14, 1840, he married Ce'cile McDonald (?-1848), mixed descent daughter of Chief Trader Allan McDonald. Their two children were Jean Baptiste (1846-?) and Esther (c.1844-?). On June 12, 1848, a short time after Cecile's death in 1848, Vandalle married a thirteen year old Marie Anne De'lard (c.1835-?), daughter of Joseph De'lard. Their six children were Marie (1851-52), Leandre (1853-53), Catherine (1854-?), Claire (1856-?), Helene (1858-?), and Eleanore (1860-?). After his sudden death in 1859, his widow married Medard Foisy, and still later, Joseph Morrel (CR. 80).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 5-7; YFASA 18-20, 22; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion Co. PPS: CCR 1a, 1b, 2a, 3a; Genealogical Material In Oregon Donation Land Claims, p. 94 SS: Holman, p. 116

Vanderburgh, William Henry [variation: Vandenbourg] (c. 1798 - 1832) (American)

Birth: Vincennes, Indiana, United States - c. 1792 (born to Henry Vanderburgh)

Death: Pacific Northwest - October 14, 1832

Fur trade employee

MFC Fur trader, Pacific slopes (1827 - 1832).

William Henry Vanderburgh, whose father was a judge of the Indiana territory, came to the fur trade through West Point. By 1823 he was a trader working with Joshua Pilcher and the Missouri Fur Company. In August, 1823 he saw action with the Aricara and was given the rank of Captain by Colonel Leavenworth; and, by 1827, he was trading west of the Continental Divide. After the MFC, he entered the American Fur Company in charge of expeditions and in 1832 was at the Pierre's Hole Rendezvous. To Vanderburgh, this was Teton Fork of the Columbia. Competition was fierce with the Rocky Mountain Fur Company and, according to Gowans, Thomas Fitzpatrick and James Bridger of the RMFC led Vanderburgh and others purposefully into dangerous Blackfeet territory. There he was killed.

Vanderhoof, Egbert [variation: Vanderhuff] (c. 1787 - 1811) (probably American: Dutch)

Birth: probably New York, New York - c. 1787

Death: Clayoquot Sound, Vancouver Island - June 1811

Fur trade employee

PFC Tailor, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811).

Twenty-three year old New York native Egbert Vanderhoof joined John Jacob Astor's Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn] as a tailor some time before September 3, 1810, for its voyage to the Northwest Coast. Vanderhoof departed September 8 on the New York vessel and managed to avoid the harsh punitive temper and measures of the captain. He died when the vessel was attacked at Clayoquot Sound.

PS: USNA Tonquin PPS: ChSoc LVX, p. 49

Varasen, Jens [variation: Varsan] (fl. 1853 - 1854) (possibly Norwegian)

Birth: possibly Norway

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1853 - 1854).

Jens Varasen appeared on the 1853-54 Fort Victoria servants' abstracts with no additional information. He many have been one of the Norwegians who came out on the Colinda.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1-2

Vasquez, Pierre Louis (1798 - 1868) (probably American and probably Spanish)

Birth: St. Louis, Missouri - October 3, 1798 (born to Benito Vasquez and Julie Pepin)

Death: Westport, Missouri, United States - 1868

Fur trade employee

S & C Trapper, Rendezvous (1833).

Louis Vasquez entered the fur trade probably in his early teens trading mostly east of the Rockies in a variety of trading business agreements. He was too young to be the "old Spaniard" who appeared at Peter Skene Ogden's camp on the Weber River on May 23, 1825; according to his biography, he entered the Rockies in October of that year along with Jedediah Smith. He was at Pierre's Hole in 1832 and was listed as leaving St. Louis on April 7, 1833 as part of Robert Campbell's expedition to the Rendezvous of that year. He spent several years in the Rocky Mountains and spent his last years in the St. Louis, Westport, Missouri area.

PS: HBCA SnkCoPJ 3a PPS: Larpenteur, p. 17; W. M. Anderson, p. 373-77

Vassal, Louis (c. 1823 - 1896) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Red River Settlement [Manitoba] - c. 1823

Death: Grand Ronde Reservation, Oregon, United States - November 25, 1896

Fur trade employee

HBC Native apprentice, Fort Vancouver (1835 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1843 - 1845).

Louis Vassal joined the HBC in 1835 at the young age of twelve and worked mainly at Fort Vancouver for the next ten years. He settled in the Willamette in 1845 and, in 1848, was baptised at St. Paul in 1848 when he was dangerously ill but he survived to live on. At that time he was living at Grande Prairie near St. Louis. Some time later, he moved to the Grand Ronde Reservation, likely to be with his wife's family. Louis Vassal died November 25, 1896, on the Grand Ronde Reservation.

Louis Vassal had two wives and five recorded children. On July 2, 1848, he formalized his marriage to Catherine Atalo/Ki-yah-tol (1818-53), a Lower Chinook from Baker's Bay (although the Census Rolls of 1906 say she was half Chinook and half Clatsop). Their children were Isidore (1844-before 1848), Victoire (1846-?), Flore (1848-died early), Adelaide (1850-50) and Moyse (1852-52). After Catherine died in 1853 (Census Rolls), he chose as a wife Charlotte Siletz (c.1838-68), who died on May 24, 1868 on the Grande Ronde Reservation.

PS: HBCA YFASA 15, 19-20, 22-25; YFDS 6-7; FtVanASA 3-7 PPS: CCR 1a, 2a, 2b, 3a, 6a, 6b

Vassal, Stanislas (fl. 1818) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Montreal, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1818 - 1819).

Stanislas Vassal appears to have spent a short period on the Pacific slopes. He joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray] in Montreal on April 17, 1818 and travelled west of the Rockies in a group led by Angus Bethune and James McMillan. On October 22, 1819, possibly just before he was leaving, he paid Pascal Cote £12.10 to support his "Indian Girl." He has not been traced after that.

PS: ShdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 2-4

Vaudry, Pierre [variation: Veaudry] (c. 1823 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1823

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Snake Party (1840 - 1842).

Pierre Vaudry joined the HBC in 1840 on a three-year contract. He spent two outfits in the Snake Country taking people in and out from Fort Vancouver and appears to have deserted around 1842.

PS: HBCA YFASA 29, 22-23; YFDS 11; FtVanASA 6-7

Vaughan, Edward (fl. 1840 - 1842) (British: Welsh)

Birth: probably in or near Rhyls, Wales

Maritime employee

HBC Ordinary seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1840 - 1842).

Edward Vaughan joined the HBC on August 24, 1840 as an ordinary seaman for five years and sailed to the coast on the Cowlitz. Little is mentioned of him except in Honolulu on March 16, 1842, on a side trip from the coast when, under apparent lax discipline, the whole crew became intoxicated. Vaughan himself stole wine that was meant for the Russian American Company and it was likely shortly after he deserted. Thus he goes off record.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Cowlitz 1; FtVanASA 6-7; YFASA 22

Vaureur, Onesemie [variation: Lizieme, Lazieme, Varieur, Varier] (c. 1830 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Aime, Lower Canada - c. 1830

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1847? - 1848); Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1848 - 1849); Middleman, Fort Rupert (1849 - 1852); Woodcutter, Beaver (steamer) (1852 - 1853); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1853 - 1854).

Onesemie Vaureur came west over the Rockies to work for the HBC in 1848. In 1854, after working as a middleman and woodcutter at Fort Rupert and the steamer Beaver, he appears to have retired. Some time after that he moved to the disputed territory of San Juan Island and has been traced until 1871.

Onesemie Vaureur had one wife and three recorded children. Possibly in the early 1860s he married Catherine Deluna (?-?) variously described as a person of mixed descent or a "Sitkum Indian." Their children were Eliza Paulina (?-bap.1866-?), Lizzy (?-bap.1868-?) and Marie Magdalen (1871-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 27-32; YFDS 19; FtVicASA 1-2; BCA BCCR StAndC

Vautrin, Francois Xavier [standard: François Xavier] [variation: Voutrait, Vaudrain] (1815 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: St. Phillipe, Lower Canada - May 10, 1815 (born to Pierre Vautrin and Agathe Baudin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1834 - 1835); Middleman, Columbia Department (1835 - 1837); Middleman, Fort Langley (1837 - 1852).

François Xavier Vautrin, and brother of Jean Baptiste Vautrin, joined the HBC from St. Edouard in 1834 as a middleman. After spending the majority of his nineteen-year career at Fort Langley, François retired around 1852 and for the next ten years periodically carried on transactions with the Company on southern Vancouver Island. On April 10, 1860 he pre-empted land in the Shawnigan district, and a few years later his brother also pre-empted land nearby. In 1861, both brothers worked at a nearby Mill Bay sawmill and both continued to farm in the Cowichan area at least until 1881. Some time before 1885, brother Jean Baptiste and family moved to Oregon, likely to be with his wife's relatives. It is not known what happened to François Xavier and family for by 1891, they were no longer in the Cowichan Valley. There is a possibility that François or his son drifted south to Oregon to be with Jean Baptiste's family on or near the Grand Ronde reservation for a Francis Vautrin was confirmed into St. Michael's church there on July 2, 1890. The elder François Xavier's death is not recorded on available records.

François Xavier had two wives and five recorded children. His first wife was Emily (?-?), Kwoithe, who appears to have died or was abandoned before 1841. Their child Florence (c.1838-?) was baptised on September 4, 1841 at Fort Vancouver. Eleven years later, on December 11, 1852, in the Victoria region, François Xavier legitimized his marriage to Marie (c.1821-?), Kwantlen. Their children were Emilie/Amelia (c.1841-91), Helene (c.1846-64), Catherine (1849-?), Rosalie (c.1852-54) and François Xavier Jr. (1857-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 14-15, 19-20, 22-32; YFDS 5c-7; FtVanASA 3-7; FtVicASA 1-2, 4-7, 9; HBCABio; BCA St. Ann's Convent School register cited in Jean Barman to B.C. Archives January 9, 1994 correspondence; BCCR StAndC; BCCR StElizRC; BCGR-Pre-Emption; Van-PL 1881 Canada Census, Vancouver District, Cowichan subdistrict PPS: CCR 1a, 6b SS: Dougan, p. 153-55; Vautrin descendant
See Also: Vautrin, Jean Baptiste (Brother)

Vautrin, Jean Baptiste [variation: Vautrain] (1813 - 1893) (Mixed descent)

Birth: St. Phillipe, Lower Canada - February 1, 1813 (born to Pierre Vautrin and Agathe Baudin)

Death: Grand Ronde Reservation, Oregon - February 18, 1893

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1833 - 1844); Middleman, Fort Fluzcuz (1844 - 1845); Middleman, New Caledonia (1845 - 1846); Middleman, Fort Alexandria (1846 - 1848); Middleman, New Caledonia (1848 - 1850); Horse Guard, Fort Alexandria (1850 - 1851); Middleman, Fort Victoria (1851 - 1852).

Jean Baptiste Vautrin, brother of François Xavier Vautrin, was hired on by the HBC from St. Edouard in 1833 as a middleman and spent most of his working career in the New Caledonia area. He helped establish Fort Fluzcuz in 1844. In 1846, after the international border was drawn, he became part of the A.C. Anderson Overland Expedition to establish a route to the coast. He worked until October 25, 1852 and in the 1850s he homesteaded one-hundred acres [40.5 ha] on Vancouver Island where he cleared a small meadow near the sea and made shingles for sale. In 1861 Vautrin worked with his brother at the Mill Bay Sawmill but then appears to have moved to Sooke; but on September 3, 1870, he pre-empted land there beside his brother. All the girls of the family appeared as registered students at St. Ann's Convent School, a Cowichan school for daughters of mixed native/non-native descent. Both brothers continued to farm in the Cowichan area at least until 1881. Before July 1885, Jean Baptiste, and at least three of his children went south to live either on or near the Grand Ronde Indian Reservation in Oregon, U.S.A., likely to be closer to his wife's relatives. Old Jean Baptiste died on February 18, 1893 at the age of eighty and was buried on the Grand Ronde Reservation.

Jean Baptiste Vautrin had three successive wives and possibly eleven recorded children. When he was working at Fort Alexandria in the 1840s, his wife was one of Jean Baptiste Leolo's daughters. She was taken ill and died on Nov. 9, 1846, after giving birth to a still-born child. No other children have been traced. On December 11, 1852 in the Victoria area, he married Elizabeth (?-1857), Songhees, who died and was buried on March 20, 1857. Their one recorded child was Pierre Elie (1852-53). On July 26, 1860 again in the Victoria area, he married the widow of Joseph Brule, Marianne (Mary Ann) Legros (c.1823-1922). Their eight children were Julienne (?-bap.1861-?) Louisa [Louisa Theodora?] (1865-?), Pierre/Peter (1864-?), Mary Anne [Marie Louise?] (?-bap.1865-?), Jean Baptiste (?-bap.1869-?), Catherine/Katherina (1870-97) Clare Olive (?-?) and Francisco Xavier (1879-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 13-15, 19-20, 22-32; YFDS 5b-7, 19, 21; FtVanASA 3-7; FtAlexPJ 6-8; FtKamPJ 3; FtVicDS 1; FtVicASA 1-2; BCA FtAlex; HBCABio; BCA BCCR StAndC; BCCR StElizRC; BCA, St. Ann's Convent School register cited in Jean Barman to BCA January 9, 1994 correspondence; BCGR-Pre-Emption PPS: CCR 1a, 6a, 6b SS: Dougan, p. 153-55; Vautrin descendant
See Also: Vautrin, Francois Xavier (Brother); Leolo, Jean Baptiste (Father-in-Law)

Venn, John [variation: James Vinn, Vine] (fl. 1840s - 1873) (British: English)

Birth: probably England

Death: South Saanich, Vancouver Island - October 28, 1873

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Cowlitz (barque) (1849 - 1850); Gardener, Fort Victoria (1850 - 1851); Untraced vocation, Fort Victoria (1851 - 1852); Labourer, Otter (steamer) (1853); Labourer, Fort Nisqually (1854 - 1855); Labourer, Otter (steamer) (1855).

John Venn came to the Fort Victoria from London on the HBC vessel Cowlitz probably with the intention of staying rather than returning after completing his contract. He soon found work as a gardener and, by 1853, was working on the steamer Otter. In November of that year he shattered his right hand while firing off a signal gun from the vessel at Nisqually. A chloroformed Venn was then operated on at the PSAC post by Dr. William F. Tolmie and Dr. I. A. Haden, an US army surgeon from nearby Fort Steilacoom. He recuperated at Nisqually, where he purchased a lot of soap, no doubt to keep his injured hand clean. By April 1854, he was working again in gardens in the Nisqually area, this time for the PSAC rather than the HBC. That year he paid off his medical bill to Dr. Tolmie and worked briefly for the HBC until September 20, 1855, at which point he "left" the service. He took work as a farm labourer on Vancouver Island and, on October 28, 1873, while he was working for Henry Simpson in South Saanich, he tried to slow a runaway wagon which flipped and fatally crushed him beneath.

No family has been traced.

Vennance, Maxim (c. 1821 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: in or near Riviere du Loup (Temiscouata Co.), Lower Canada - c. 1821Fur trade employee*HBC Middleman, Thompson River (1845 - 1846).

Maxim Vennance joined the HBC in 1844 on a three-year contract. He served one outfit at Thompson River. In 1846 he was in the Saskatchewan District and, the following year, 1847, he retired.

PS: HBCA YFASA 25; HBCA Maxim Vennance search file

Verboncaur, Amable (c. 1804 - 1841) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Maskinongé, Lower Canada - c. 1804Death: possibly Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - July 4, 1841*Fur trade employee*HBC Middleman, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825); Middleman, New Caledonia (1825 - 1829); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1829 - 1841).

Amable Verboncaur joined the fur trade from Maskinonge around 1823. After spending about five years in New Caledonia he went south to Fort Vancouver where he worked to the end of his contract in 1840. Subsequently, he worked as a freeman but died on July 4, 1841 possibly at Fort Vancouver; however, as there is no Catholic record of his burial, he may have died elsewhere.

PS: HBCA FtStJmsLS 1; YFASA 4-9, 11-15, 19-21; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-6; YFDS 3a-3b, 4b-7, 12

Vergel, Thomas (fl. 1825) (possibly American)

Birth: possibly United States of AmericaFree trader*U.A. Trapper, Rendezvous (1825).

Thomas Vergel appeared on the records as acquiring several goods at the 1825 Rendezvous at Henry's Fork [Wyoming] from William Ashley, who had brought them overland from St. Louis. Nothing else is known of Vergel who probably attended other Rendezvous' and continued trapping in the Rocky Mountains.

PS: MHS Ashley 2

Versailles, Baptiste (fl. 1853 - 1860) (probably Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly Red River Settlement [Manitoba]Fur trade employee*HBC Middleman and labourer, New Caledonia (1853 - 1856); Middleman, New Caledonia (1856 - 1858); Middleman, New Caledonia (1859 - 1860).

Baptiste Versailles worked for the HBC until he deserted from the New Caledonia Brigade at Lac La Hache on July 31, 1858; he did not receive wages for that outfit. However, he re-appeared again and was rehired.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1-7; FtAlexPJ 10

Versailles, Pierre (c. 1838 - 1860) (Mixed descent)

Death: Victoria, Colony of Vancouver Island - April 20, 1860Fur trade employee*HBC Middleman, Fort Victoria general charges (1852 - 1853); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1853 - 1854); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1854 - 1856); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1858 - 1859).

Pierre Versailles worked for the HBC as a middleman off and on for seven years. From 1856, he worked sporadically, for example, in outfit 1856-1857 he was in New Caledonia but did not receive wages. He eventually ended up in the Victoria region and died and was buried there.

He appears to have had one wife, a person of unknown origin, possibly from Nanaimo. Their daughter Emilie (?-?) was baptised on August 26, 1856 in Nanaimo.

PS: HBCA YFASA 32; FtVicASA 1-3, 5-7; BCA BCCR StAndC

Verstille, Peter (c. 1793 - 1811) (American)

Birth: probably Connecticut, United States - c. 1793

Death: Clayoquot Sound, Vancouver Island - June 1811

Maritime employee

PFC Ordinary seaman, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811).

Seventeen year old Connecticut native, Peter Verstille, joined John Jacob Astor's Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn] as an ordinary seaman some time before September 3, 1810, for its voyage to the Northwest Coast. Verstille departed September 8 on the New York vessel for its tempestuous journey around the Horn but managed to avoid the harsh punitive temper and measures of the captain. Verstille stayed on the vessel after his arrival at the Columbia River and proceeded north with it to Clayoquot Sound, Vancouver Island. There he was killed in an attack and the ship was destroyed.

PS: USNA Tonquin PPS: ChSoc XLV, p. 49

Viau, Olivier (c. 1811 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Contrecoeur, Lower Canada - c. 1811

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1832 - 1833); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1833 - 1835).

Olivier Viau joined the HBC in 1832 and worked through one contract on the Pacific Slopes.

PS: HBCA FtSimp[N]PJ 3; YFASA 12-14; YFDS 5a-5c

Vielle, Andre [standard: André] (c. 1800 - ?) (probably Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Montreal, Lower Canada - c. 1800

Fur trade employee

HBC Blacksmith, Fort Vancouver (1829 - 1832).

André Vielle joined the HBC from Montreal in 1829 on a three-year contract. In outfit 1832-1833, he returned to the city, where he was paid.

PS: HBCA YFASA 9, 11-12; YFDS 3b, 4b; FtVanASA 2

Villandrie, Alexis (fl. 1821 - 1823) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1821); HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1821 - 1823).

Alexis Villandrie was a member of a large group of NWC employees who transferred to the HBC in 1821 at the time of coalition. In outfit 1822-1823, he picked up his pay in Montreal indicating his return to that city.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 9; YFASA 1-2

Villandrie, Pierre [variation: Vellandrie, Villandre] (c. 1787 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably Sorel, Province of Quebec - c. 1787

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

NWC Employee, Pacific slopes (1818 - 1821); HBC Middleman, Columbia Department (1821 - 1823); Middleman, Fort George [Astoria] (1823 - 1825); Middleman, Columbia Department (1825 - 1826); Middleman, Snake Party (1826 - 1827); Middleman, Snake Party (1827 - 1828); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1827 - 1828); Middleman, Snake Party (1828 - 1829); Middleman, South Party (1829 - 1830); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1831); Middleman, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1834); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1834 - 1835); Blacksmith, Fort Vancouver (1834 - 1835).

Pierre Villandrie, from Sorel, appears to have joined the NWC around 1813 although he may have joined earlier. In 1818, he crossed over the Rockies in a NWC party headed by Angus Bethune and James McMillan and may have stayed on, or worked on the Brigades, until 1821, when he joined the HBC. From that point on he worked at a variety of locations until 1835 when he disappeared from record. In spite of his lengthy service with the fur trade nothing is known about his personality or family.

PS: ShdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 2, 5a, 9; YFASA 1-9, 11-14; FtGeo[Ast]AB 10-12; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-2; YFDS 3a-3b, 4b-5c PPS: HBRS XXIII, p. 2

Vincent, Abraham (fl. 1820 - 1828) (possibly Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly L'Assomption, Quebec

Death: probably East of the Rocky Mountains

Fur trade employee

NWC Wintering milieu, Columbia River (1820 - 1821); HBC Milieu, Columbia River (1821 - 1822); NWC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1827); HBC Middleman, Fort Langley (1827 - 1828); Labourer on Montreal Pay List, Fort Langley (1828 - 1829).

Abraham Vincent may have signed on from L'Assomption with the NWC as early as December 1, 1810, for three years. Ten years later, in 1820, he wintered over in the Columbia for two years. Vincent signed on with the HBC on June 29, 1822 at Norway House in the Athabasca area, and worked in the Columbia from 1826. In 1827 he was sent north to assist the construction of Fort Langley where he spent most of his time recovering from venereal disease and the equally harsh mercury treatment. He regained sufficient health to return to Montreal with the York Factory Express in the spring of 1828.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 7; NWC Contract F5/3; HBCA HBCCont; FtLangPJ 1-3; YFDS 2a-3a; FtVanASA, fo. 12d; YFASA 6-8; FtVanAB 10, 15 PPS: E. Ermatinger, p. 113

Vincent, Joseph [1] (fl. 1818 - 1820) (Native: possibly Iroquois)

Birth: possibly Sault St. Louis, Lower Canada

Fur trade employee

NWC Middleman, Pacific slopes (1818 - 1821).

Joseph Vincent first appeared on the Pacific slopes after crossing the Rockies with a NWC group led by Angus Bethune and James McMillan in 1818. He appears to have stayed in the area until 1820 for, on September 8, 1820, he signed a further contract with the NWC in Montreal as a wintering middleman in the Northwest for three more years.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 2, 3; SHdeSB Liste; FtGeo[Ast]AB 1

Vincent, Joseph [2] (fl. 1830) (British: English)

Birth: probably in or near Poole, Dorset, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Ganymede (barque) (1830 - 1832).

Joseph Vincent joined the HBC in London on November 20, 1830 as a seaman for three years and shortly after sailed for Fort Vancouver on the barque Ganymede. He left in November 1831 and arrived back in London in 1832.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 7

Vine, Edward (fl. 1851 - 1852) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1851 - 1852).

Edward Vine made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison. While on the coast, he would have visited several coastal posts.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Vinette (Larente), Felix (1796 - 1828) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Anne, Lower Canada - 1796

Death: Okanagan Dalles [British Columbia] - May 29, 1828

Fur trade officer

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1826 - 1827); Middleman, New Caledonia (1827 - 1828).

Felix Vinette (Larente) worked for the HBC in the Columbia District in the late 1820s. While descending the Columbia River with William Connolly on May 29, 1828, he (along with André Laforte [Plassis] and Pierre Kanatagonit) drowned at Priests Rapids.

PS: HBCA FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1; YFASA 7-8; YFDS 3a PPS: HBRS IV, p. 57; HBRS X, p. 28

Virgin, Thomas (? - 1828) (probably American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Death: Umpqua River region [Smith River], Oregon - July 14, 1828

Fur trade employee

SJ & S Trapper, Jedediah Smith Southwest Expedition (1827 - 1828).

Thomas Virgin first appeared on record at the 1827 Rendezvous and left with Smith in July, heading south and into California. On the way, they were attacked by Mojaves, who killed ten of the expedition. After a great deal of difficulty with Spanish authorities in California, the expedition headed north. In an area just north of the Umpqua River [Oregon], just after Smith and two others set out to scout out a route to travel, the natives killed all the expedition members who remained in camp including Virgin, except one, who managed to escape.

PPS: HBRS X, p. 61 SS: Carter, "Jedediah Smith", p. 97-104

Vital, Fabien (? - 1838) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Lachine, Lower Canada

Death: Dalles des Morts (Death Rapids) [British Columbia] - October 22, 1838

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1838).

Fabien Vital joined the HBC from Lachine in 1838 on a three-year contract. He was on his way to his job in the Columbia Department when he drowned below the Dalles des Morts on the Columbia River. James Douglas described his death in a letter to the Governor:

...A Boat which Mr. Tod had sent back from the Upper Columbia Lake, left the Boat Encampment on the 22nd October with the last of the party. In the evening of the same day, when running one of the Rapids below Dalles des Morts, the Boat unfortunately filled, and the following persons perished in attempting to gain the shore...[7 named, 5 unnamed]...in all twelve persons, who have travelled from their distant homes to find an untimely grave beneath the raging waters of the Columbia (FtVanCB 20, fo.36-36d).

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2-5; YFDS 9; YFASA 18; FtVanCB 20, Douglas Nov. 7, 1838 letter to Gov. & Committee, fo. 36-36d

Vivet, Louis (Sanschagrin) [variation: Vivette] (c. 1796 - 1844) (Canadian: French)

Birth: St. Laurent (d. of Montreal), Lower Canada - c. 1796

Death: St. Paul, Oregon Territory - June 25, 1844

Fur trade employee

NWC Tinsmith, Fort George [Astoria] (1821); HBC Tinsmith, Fort George [Astoria] (1821 - 1826); NWC Tinsmith, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1837); Trapper, South Party (1837 - 1842).

Louis Vivet, from Faubourg St. Laurent, joined the NWC [Pierre Rocheblave] on December 31, 1819 to work as a tinsmith in the Northwest for three years. He probably came west right away for he was on the Pacific slopes in 1821 when he joined the HBC during the amalgamation with NWC. He spent much of his career as a tinsmith but the last five years as a trapper. After his contract ended in 1840, he appeared to work as a freeman. On September 21, 1842, he left the employ of the HBC to settle in the Willamette Valley. After a short illness in St. Paul, Oregon, he died, age forty-seven, on June 25, 1844 at the home of Etienne Lucier and was buried the following day.

Louis Vivet had one wife, Lisette (?-before 1843), Chinook/Commashioua, and two recorded children, Henriette (c.1829-?) and Narcisse (1831-70).

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 9; HBCA YFASA 1-9, 11-15, 22; YFDS 2a, 3a, 4a-7, 13; FtGeoAB 11; FtVanASA 1-6, 8; BCA BCCR CCCath PPS: CCR 2a, 2c

Vivier, Olivier (fl. 1845 - 1846) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1845 - 1846).

Likely a member of the brigade, Olivier Vivier appeared in the Columbia in outfit 1845-1846 as he received a gratuity for crossing the mountains.

PS: HBCA YFDS 16

Vizina, Simon [variation: Virzina] (c. 1809 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: probably St. Benoit, Lower Canada - c. 1809

Death: probably Canada East [Quebec]

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1833 - 1837); Middleman, Beaver (steamer) (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1840); Boute, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1841); Boute, Fort Nisqually (1841 - 1842); Boute, Fort Stikine (1842 - 1843).

Simon Virzina joined the HBC in 1833, the same year he was in the Athabasca area, and spent the next ten years mainly along the Northwest Coast. He returned to Canada in 1844.

PS: HBCA YFASA 13-15, 19-20, 22-23; YFDS 5b-7; FtVanASA 3-7

Voyer, Pierre (c. 1818 - ?) (Canadian: French)

Birth: possibly Quebec City, Lower Canada - c. 1818

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Snake Party (1840 - 1841); Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1841 - 1842).

Pierre Voyer joined the HBC in 1839 on a three year contract. In the spring or summer of 1842 he returned to Canada.

PS: HBCA YFASA 19-21; FtVanASA 6-7

Waahela (fl. 1844 - 1850) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Snake Party (1844 - 1845); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1846); Labourer, Snake Party (1846 - 1847); Labourer, Snake Country (1847 - 1848); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1848 - 1851).

Waahela joined the HBC from Oahu in 1844 and worked with the Snake Party and at Fort Vancouver. Although his contract was to have ended in 1851, he deserted around the end of July 1850.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-30; YFDS 21; FtVanASA 9

Wade, Thomas (? - 1852) (British: English)

Birth: probably in or near Gravesend, Kent, England

Death: Pacific Northwest - October 3, 1852

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Ganymede (barque) (1834 - 1837); Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1837 - 1838); Seaman, Beaver (steamer) (1838 - 1841); Boatswain, Beaver (steamer) (1841 - 1845); Mate, Beaver (steamer) (1845 - 1846); Boatswain and mate, Beaver (steamer) (1846 - 1847); Mate/1st Officer, Beaver (steamer) (1847 - 1850); Officer, Columbia Department general charges (1850 - 1851).

Thomas Wade made a voyage to Hudson Bay before he renewed his contract with the HBC on December 13, 1834 as a seaman for five years. He then made a round trip to the Northwest Coast aboard the barque Ganymede. On the way back, William Wade, probably Thomas' brother, deserted at Valparaíso, Chile, but Thomas stayed with the vessel. Thomas returned permanently to the coast on the Columbia and from August 21, 1838 and spent the next twelve years working on the steamer Beaver. In 1846, in response to the establishment of the international border, Wade along with sixteen others, unsuccessfully laid claim to 640 acres [259 ha] (one square mile) [2.6 sq. km] of land around Fort Nisqually, land to which the HBC/PSAC held possessory rights. In all, Wade spent fifteen years in the service, rising to the rank of mate. He retired October 8, 1850 with a large debt of £145.4.6. Sometime around October 3, 1852, while in "a fit of intoxication", he blew his brains out.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 7, 14; YFDS 6, 9, 12, 16-17, 21; log of Ganymede 4; FtVanASA 3-7; YFASA 16, 19-20, 22-31; log of Columbia 3; BCA PSACFtNis PPS: Dickey
See Also: Wade, William (Brother)

Wade, William (fl. 1834 - 1836) (British: English)

Birth: probably Gravesend, Kent, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Ganymede (barque) (1834 - 1836).

William Wade, quite likely a brother of Thomas, also joined the HBC on December 13, 1834 as a seaman for five years on what was to be a round trip to the Pacific Northwest. He sailed to the coast aboard the barque Ganymede and left the Columbia River for the return voyage on May 3, 1836. On August 2, 1836 at Valparaíso he and four others were sent to the local hospital for an undisclosed illness. He was apparently cured, however, in the following month on September 10, he and John Woodworth "left the jolly boat fast to the wharf and run away." They could not be found and the vessel sailed without them.

Wadsworth, William (fl. 1806 - 1817) (American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Maritime employee

PFC Navigator, Beaver (ship) (1812); Master of shallops, Fort George [Astoria] (1812); Clerk, Beaver (ship) (1812).

William Wadsworth was a ship's officer who had disembarked in 1806 at the island of Hawaii over a disagreement with his captain and, considered valuable for his education by King Kamehameha I, settled into domestic bliss after he was presented a wife by Kamehameha. Six years later, when the Beaver [Cornelius Sowle] arrived on its way to the Columbia River, Wadsworth was hired on by John Clarke as a clerk and navigator ostensibly to take charge of one of the schooners to be built at Astoria, hence his designation, "Master of Shallops." Wadsworth insisted, however, on taking his Hawaiian wife with him to the Columbia. After disembarking at Astoria on May 11, 1812, he spent one month sounding the river from the Dolly and then departed with the vessel in June leaving the charge of the schooner to someone else. He sailed to Sitka. He and his wife were back in the islands by late 1813 when he took command of the Russian vessel Il'mena and in January 1814, sailed to Fort Ross [California] with supplies and to hunt sea otter. Luck changed, however, for some of the crew and hunters were seized by Spaniards and the ship was damaged in November 1815 just as it was about to leave to Sitka. The leaking vessel returned to Hawaii in 1816 but a suspicious George Anton Schäffer, who considered Wadsworth a drunkard, thief and traitor to the RAC and Russia, had him arrested and imprisoned on the Kad'iak. In May 1817, after five months of confinement, Wadsworth escaped, was sheltered by the natives and later that year took command of the RAC vessel Lydia conveying RAC sandalwood to Canton. Wadsworth has not been subsequently traced.

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria PPS: R. F. Jones, p. 80-81; Cox, p. 40; R. A. Pierce, Russia's Hawaiian

Wagner, Peter (c. 1799 - 1865) (Canadian: English)

Birth: possibly St. Laurent (d. of Montreal), Lower Canada - c. 1799

Death: probably Oregon State, United States – June 14, 1865

Fur trade employee

HBC Employee, Pacific slopes (1821); Middleman or butcher, Fort George [Astoria] (1821 - 1826); Cowherd, Fort Vancouver (1826 - 1829); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1829 - 1830); Butcher, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1834); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1834 - 1836); Butcher, Fort Vancouver (1836 - 1839); Butcher, Fort Vancouver (1839 - 1840); Dairyman, Fort Vancouver (1839 - 1840); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1840 - 1842).

When Wagner joined the NWC [McTavish, McGillivray & Co.] on December 13, 1819 from Montreal to work in the Northwest, he was living at the house of Joseph Poitras in the St. Laurent area. The twenty-year old Wagner may have come directly to the Pacific slopes, and, in 1821 at the time of coalition, he continued his employment with the HBC. Little is known of his life for he spent the majority of his career at Fort Vancouver working as a butcher. Occasionally notations would appear such as, in 1829 he accompanied George Barnston to Fort Colville. After working for sixteen years for the Company as a middleman and butcher, he retired on December 31, 1841 to the Fallatine Country. He then took a claim on the big bend of the Willamette, to the south of Etienne Lucier. In 1850, he was listed as a farmer in Marion County. In 1865, three months after the death of his wife, Peter Wagner died.

Peter Wagner had one (possibly two) wives and five (possibly six) children. On June 10, 1839 he formalized his marriage to Marie Stens (Stomis), Chinook [c.1805-1865] (she may be the Lizette (c.1810--?) of the 1850 Census). Their children were: Marie Anne (c.1829-47)-although her mother is listed as "Louise"-perhaps another wife, Rose (c. 1836-61), Marie (1839-?), Elizabeth (c.1840-63), Scholastique (same as Elizabeth?) (1841-?) and Marguerite (1844-51). Wife Marie Stens died on the farm on March 24, 1865, at the age of sixty.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 9; HBCA YFASA 1-9, 11-15, 19-21; YFDS 2a, 3a-3b, 4b-7, 12; FtVanAB 10; FtGeo[Ast]AB 11-12; FtVanASA 1-6; BCA BCCR CCCath; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Marion Co. PPS: CCR 1a, 1b, 2b, 2c, 3a, 4a
See Also: Chiffmanaplin, George (Son-in-Law)

Waha (fl. 1837 - 1840) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1837 - 1840).

Waha joined the HBC at Oahu in July 1837 on a three-year contract and began his work at Fort Vancouver on August 10 of that year. He was discharged in outfit 1840-41.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 1; YFASA 19-20; YFDS 8; FtVanASA 4-5

Wahaila (fl. 1857) (probably Hawaiian)Birth: probably Hawaiian IslandsFur trade employee*PSAC Shepherd, Fort Nisqually outstation (1857).

Wahaila was listed as a shepherd at a Fort Nisqually outstation in the 1857 servants' accounts. He may be Waahela who deserted from Fort Vancouver in 1850.

PPS: S. A. Anderson, The Physical Structure, p. 183

Wahaloola (fl. 1844 - 1847) (probably Hawaiian)Birth: probably Hawaiian IslandsDeath: probably Hawaiian IslandsFur trade employee*HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1844 - 1845); Labourer, Snake Party (1845 - 1847); Labourer, Snake Country (1847 - 1848).

Wahaloola joined the HBC from Oahu in 1844 on a three-year contract. He worked in the Snake Country until August 15, 1847, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-27; YFDS 18

Wahinahulu [variation: Whyhanalalu] (c. 1826 - ?) (probably Hawaiian)Birth: Hawaiian Islands - c. 1826Death: probably Hawaiian IslandsFur trade employee*HBC Passenger, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1850); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1850 - 1852).

Wahinahulu joined the HBC in Honolulu in 1850 for two years. He worked at Fort Vancouver, lived probably in the neighbouring Kanaka Village, was discharged in 1852, and possibly made his way back to Oahu.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 10; YFASA 30-32; FtVanASA 9; OHS 1850 Oregon Census, Clark Co.

Waiakanaloo [variation: Waiakanalou, Waikanaloo] (fl. 1845 - 1853) (probably Hawaiian)Birth: probably Hawaiian IslandsDeath: Fort Langley - September 2, 1853Fur trade employee*HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1847); Labourer, Thompson River (1847 - 1848); Labourer, New Caledonia (1848 - 1850); Labourer, Fort Langley (1850 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Fort Langley (1852 - 1853); Labourer, Fort Langley (1853).

Waiakanaloo joined the HBC from Oahu on May 7, 1845 and was dispatched to various locations. On September 2, 1853, while stationed at Fort Langley, he died, his death being reported to his friends in the Sandwich Islands. As there was no further movement on his account (he left a large credit of £21.1.6 which wasn't touched for five years), he may not have left a family in the area.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 3; YFASA 25-26, 28-32; FtVicASA 1-6; FtLangCB 2; FtVicCB 10

Waihaikia (fl. 1850) (probably Hawaiian)Birth: probably Hawaiian IslandsDeath: probably Hawaiian IslandsMaritime employee*HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1850).

Waihaikia served on the HBC vessel Cowlitz February 3 to September 17, 1850 from Oahu to the Northwest Coast and back again. On August 27, at Honolulu he and the other Hawaiian crewmen refused to work claiming their contract was up but nonetheless returned to work for another month.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 10, 11; log of Cowlitz 8

Wain, George (fl. 1857 - 1858) (British)Birth: probably British IslesMaritime employee*HBC Boy, Princess Royal (barque) (1857 - 1858).

George Wain made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Wain, Henry (c. 1827 - 1914) (British: English)

Birth: Wilmington, Kent, England - c. September 14, 1826 (born to Thomas and Elizabeth Wain)

Death: Saanich, Vancouver Island - February 13, 1914

Fur trade employee

HBC Immigrant passenger, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1850); Carpenter, Fort Victoria (1850); Carpenter, Norman Morison (barque) (1850 - 1851); Carpenter, Fort Victoria general charges (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Recovery (brig) (1852 - 1853).

Henry Wain, who was trained as a carpenter, came twice to Vancouver Island on the first and second voyages of the Norman Morison. He first arrived at Fort Victoria on March 24, 1850 and worked for six months at the head of Esquimalt Bay building a flour-mill until September, at which point he transferred back to the Norman Morison for his return to the British Isles. He took the journey out again the following year, leaving England May 18, 1851, arriving at Fort Victoria on October 30. He may have worked around the fort until he joined the crew of the Recovery on June 7, 1852. During this time, he also may have worked on the Craigflower School and appears to have worked at a variety of jobs until January 1855, when, he returned to England on the Princess Royal, married and returned on the same vessel with his wife and child, this time to settle. From this point on, he leased and in 1863 purchased another farm in North Saanich which he made into a hotel. The farm supplied the beer hops and the Wain Hotel became a drinking spot, social center and polling station for the area. Wain, who also became postmaster, was not beyond settling matters with his fists and was cited twice for assault. Other than that, he lived out a productive life on his farm until February 14, 1914 when he died at the age of eighty-eight.

Henry Wain appears to have had one wife and four children. In 1881 he was married to a Sarah Davis (c.1829-1906) daughter of William and Mary Davis of Dartford, England. They had eight children, four of whom were Ellen (c.1867-?), Harry (c.1868-?), Alexander (c.1870-?) and William T. (c.1872-?). Sarah Wain died March 21, 1906 at the age of seventy-seven.

PS: HBCA YFASA 29-32; YFDS 21-22; log of Norman Morison 2; FtVicCB 3; FtVicDS 1; FtVicASA 1-3; log of Princess Royal 3; BCA 1871 Victoria Directory, p. 40; Van-PL 1881 Canada Census, Vancouver District, North and South Saanich sub-district, p. 3; Van-PL Colonist, April 21, 1865, p. 3 SS: Mouat, p. 213; B. Morison, "Henry Wain", p. 7

Walia (fl. 1849 - 1851) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1849); Labourer, Fort Rupert (1849 - 1851).

Walia appears to have joined the HBC in Honolulu and, on March 1849, sailed to Fort Victoria on the Mary Dare. He worked until 1851 at the coal mining post of Fort Rupert and then disappeared from record.

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 9; YFASA 29-32; FtVicASA 1-6

Walker, Andrew (fl. 1848 - 1850) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1848 - 1850).

Andrew Walker shipped with the HBC in London as a seaman on September 6, 1848 and sailed to the coast on the Columbia. On the outward voyage, as steward, as James Brooks had been stealing liquor, Walker took his place. While on the coast, he visited coastal posts such as Sitka and Fort Victoria before October 31, 1849 when he resumed the job of seaman for the return journey. His movements from that point are uncertain and even though his name appeared on future accounts, he is not believed to have returned to the coast again.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; log of Columbia 10; YFASA 30

Walker, Courtney Meade (c. 1804 - 1887) (American)

Birth: Pennsylvania, United States - c. 1804

Death: Oregon City, Oregon - 1887

Fur trade officer

HBC Untraced vocation (debt entry only), Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1835 - 1836); In charge, Fort William (1836); Untraced vocation, Fort Nisqually (1836); Post master, Fort Vancouver (1836 - 1837); Clerk, Snake Party (1837 - 1839); Clerk, Fort Hall (1839 - 1840).

In 1834 Courtney Meade Walker was in Richmond, Missouri when he joined Nathaniel J. Wyeth's second westward expedition as a lay clerical assistant to Methodist missionary Daniel Lee. After arriving at Fort Vancouver on September 14, 1834 and fulfilling a one-year contract to establish a Willamette mission, (Johnson, p. 107) he was placed in charge of Wyeth's post on Sauvie Island. When it closed shortly thereafter, he took up employment with the HBC on July 1, 1836 and was sent to Fort Nisqually and, finding the work not that difficult, agreed to be sent out to Snake Country. There, on September 1839, Walker greeted a wounded, bedraggled and appreciative trapper Osborne Russell by feeding him "tea Cakes butter milk dried meat etc" (Russell, p. 108). Walker was at Fort Hall and Boise until December 1840 when he wished to leave and was discharged, long before his contract ran out in 1842. In 1841-1842 he showed a debt going into the outfit and so may have stayed on in the Snake Country area. Some time after that he made his way back to Yamhill and by 1844, was, with others, petitioning the Provisional Government to build a road "from the Robins Nest to the Falls of Yam-Hill River" (FtVanCB 31, fo. 51d). In his later years it was noted that he always managed to dress well and "had the appearance of a man of culture and leisure," (Scott, p. 24) perhaps exemplified by the fact that, on May 26, 1841, he purchased two volumes of Shakespeare from Ewing Young's estate (Young, p. 280).

Walker had one wife and two recorded children. He married Margaret McTavish, daughter of John George McTavish and Nancy McKenzie and together they had a son Joseph Raymond Jacob Walker (1864-?) and a daughter, Helen (?-?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 15, 17-20; YFDS 6-7, 11; FtVanASA 3-6; FtVanCB 12, 31; N. J. Wyeth's Dec. 5, 1836 letter to HBC Gov. & Committee A.10/3, fo. 496; FtVanCB 31, fo. 51d; HBCA Courtney M. Walker search file; HBCAbio PPS: O. Russell, p. 108; CCR 5c; Dickey SS: OHQ, vol. VII, p. 254; (clarify??); H. W. Scott, "Jason Lee's Place", p. 23-24; Loewenberg, p. 81-82; Brosnan, Jason Lee; Clement; Young, p. 280; R. C. Johnson, p. 107;
http://historicoregoncity.org/HOC/index.php?option=com_content&view=article&id=78&Itemid=110

Walker, Donald (c. 1829 - 1912) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably on North Uist, Scotland - c. 1829

Death: Kamloops area, British Columbia - November 1912

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Albert (barque) (1849); Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1849); Labourer, New Caledonia general charges (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Fort St. James (1852 - 1854); Untraced vocation, Thompson River (1854 - 1856); In charge, Fort Hope (1856 - 1859).

Donald Walker joined the HBC in 1849, sailed to York Factory and by 1851 was in the Fort St. James area where he worked for two years. He served at a variety of posts in the New Caledonia area and, during the winters, drove dog teams. In the spring of 1854, while at the Dalles des Morts on the Upper Columbia, Walker was rescued by Angus McDonald, of Colville. Walker spent the next eight years working at posts on the Thompson/Fraser River areas, most likely as a labourer. From 1855 he was in charge of Fort Hope but in early 1859, was retired because he was "addicted to dissipated habits" (FtLangCB 2, fo. 152). Between 1859-1865 he tried mining and even packed mail for the Barnard Express. In 1865 he pre-empted 160 acres [64.8 ha] of land on the South Branch of the Thompson River, nearly forty miles [64.4 km] from Kamloops. Here he maintained a collection of Gaelic poetry and raised a family in the area. Donald Walker died in 1912 at the age of eighty-four.

Donald Walker appears to have had two wives and eleven children. While he was working at Hope, he chose as a wife an unknown, native woman ("Teitel"?). Their children likely were Angus David (?-bap.1856-?), Allan (c.1862-?), James (c.1865-?), and Jennie (c.1868-?). Mary J. (c.1869-?) may also have come from this union. Walker's first wife appears to have died around 1868 or 1869. He next took Cathy/Catherine/Kate or Skral-kat (?-?), Yale. Their children were Angus Donald (1870-?), Annie Marguerite (1872-?), Catherine (c.1874-?), Marion (c.1877-?), Jessie Juliana (c.1878-?) and Isabella Flora (1880-?).

Published narrative: Walker's narrative is found in two instalments in the Inland Sentinel (Kamloops) on February 9th and 12th, 1904. It gives a detailed description of his trials and tribulations during his employment with the HBC.
 PS: HBCA log of Prince Albert, 8; log of Prince Rupert V, 10; YFASA 31-32; YFDS 22; FtVicASA 1-6; FtAlexPJ 9; FtLangCB 2; John Work's Dec. 7, 1858 Victoria letter to J. M. Yale, fo. 152; family information: BCA BCCR, StAndC; KA Oblate; 1881 Canada Census, Yale District; SS: Howay, "Archibald McDonald," pp. 212-14; Laing, Colonial Farm Settlers, p. 407; "A Pioneer's Experiences, Narrative of Life and Adventure with the H. B. Co., Inland Sentinel, Kamloops, Feb. 9, 1904, Feb. 12, 1904

Walker, George (fl. 1851 - 1852) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1851 - 1852).

George Walker made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison. While on the coast, he would have visited several coastal posts.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Walker, Joel P. (1797 - 1879) (American)

Birth: Roan County, Tennessee, United States - 1797Death: 1879Free trader*U.A. Immigrant, Rendezvous (1840).

Joel P. Walker, the elder brother of Joseph Reddeford Walker, was involved in the fur trade mostly east of the Rockies and, when he appeared west of the Rockies at the 1840 Rendezvous, he was an immigrant settler making his way across the country. The name is here for clarification.

Publication: Joel P. Walker, A Pioneer of Pioneers: Narrative of Adventures thro' Alabama, Florida, New Mexico, Oregon, California, &c., Los Angeles: G. Dawson, 1953.
SS: Ardis M. Walker, p. 291

Walker, Joseph Reddeford (1798 - 1876) (American)

Birth: Goodchland County, Virginia, United States - December 13, 1798Death: Manzanita Ranch, California, United States - October 27, 1876Free trader*AFC Untraced vocation, Pacific slopes (1832+).

Fur trader Joseph R. Walker, although somewhat of a footnote in Pacific Northwest fur trade history, is best known for his geographic knowledge of the southern Pacific slopes and his trips to and eventual settling in California. In 1832, after spending some time in the southwest and Missouri, an experienced Walker joined Captain Benjamin Bonneville's expedition, crossing the Continental Divide to the Green River where they constructed a post but moved to a more suitable site to winter on the Salmon River. In July 1833, Walker was sent out with a large group of men for the Pacific where he wintered over at Mission San Juan Bautista, the San Joaquin Valley and Monterey. He attended both the 1834 and 1835 Rendezvous with Bonneville. From 1836 he carried on with the American Fur Company and attended Rendezvous' up to at least 1838. By 1843 he was in business with James Bridger and Louis Vasquez working out of Fort Bridger and guided several expeditions in and out of California. During the California gold rush, Walker got involved in supplying miners and tried ranching himself in the San Isidro area. By the 1860's he was involved in gold mining in Arizona and he participated in the suppression of the vigorous opposition by the natives. He returned to California in 1867 and lived on his nephew's ranch in Contra Costa County.

Numerous lakes, rivers, passes and districts were named after Joseph Walker. His family members have not been traced but a painting of Joseph R. Walker and his native wife by Alfred Jacob Miller rests in the Walters Art Gallery, Baltimore.

PPS: Irving, The Adventures of Captain; Leonard, Adventures of Zenas Leonard, p. 64 SS: W. M. Anderson, p. 377-386; Ardis M. Walker, p. 291-310; D. S. Watson; DAB Ghent

Walker, William (fl. 1848 - 1850) (British)

Birth: British IslesFur trade employee*HBC Passenger, Harpooner (ship) or Columbia (barque) (1848 - 1849); Blacksmith at coal mines, Fort Rupert (1849 - 1850).

William Walker joined the HBC in London and, originally assigned to Fort Vancouver, came to the coast on the Columbia on March 16th, 1849. He may have had a change of plans for he was also on the passenger list of the Harpooner which left in November 1848. He would have arrived in Victoria on the latter June 1, 1849. After arriving at Fort Victoria he sailed north to the new mining venture at Fort Rupert, probably on the Mary Dare. At Fort Rupert, Walker stopped work along with other colliers and deserted on July 18, 1850, about two weeks after the main body of deserting colliers. Like the others, he concealed himself aboard the barque England and left for California.

PS: HBCA log of Columbia 10; YFASA 28-30; YFDS 20 PPS: HBRs XXXII, p. 110

Wall, Richard (fl. 1848 - 1850) (probably British)

Birth: probably British IslesFur trade employee*HBC Steward, Vancouver (barque) (1848); Steward, Fort Vancouver depot (1848 - 1849); Steward, Columbia (barque) (1849 - 1850).

Richard Wall joined the HBC likely in 1848 and came to the coast on the barque Vancouver. On November 1, 1848, he began work at Fort Vancouver as a steward. Almost a year later, on October 31, 1849, he joined the Columbia and returned to the British Isles.

PS: HBCA YFASA 28-30; YFDS 19-20; log of Columbia 10

Wallace, Robert [variation: William] (fl. 1837 - 1840) (Undetermined origin)

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1837 - 1838); Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1838 - 1839); Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1839 - 1840).

Robert and William Wallace joined the HBC on the same day, November 18, 1837, for service in the Columbia and their names appear as either one or the other in the records so there is reason to suspect that they are one and the same person. However, Robert appears to be the name more used, although William appears on one crew list for the Columbia. Regardless, this Wallace sailed to the coast aboard the barque Columbia and began work on coastal shipping on November 1, 1838. Robert left for the British Isles on the barque Nereide in October 1839 and was discharged in London April 22, 1840.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Columbia 3; FtVanASA 5; YFDS 9-10; YFASA 19; ShMiscPap 14; log of Nereide 2

Wallace, William (fl. 1810 - 1818) (American: Scottish)

Fur trade employee

PFC Clerk and passenger, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811); Clerk, Fort George [Astoria] (1811 - 1812); Clerk, Willamette or Wallace House (1812 - 1814); Clerk, Fort George [Astoria] (October 13, 1813).

William Wallace, a clerk, joined the PFC on May 24, 1810 when he signed a contract with PFC partner, Alexander McKay to work as a clerk and tailor for five years. Later in the summer, joined a canoe brigade from Lachine to New York where he boarded and sailed on the Tonquin September 6, 1810. Wallace survived the tempestuous voyage around the Horn and arrived at the mouth of the Columbia on March 22, 1811 whereupon he assisted with the construction of Fort Astoria. He was sent to winter with J. Cook Halsey on the Willamette in November 23, 1812 exploring the river for approximately fifty miles [80.5 km]. He constructed Willamette or Wallace House in 1812 approximately one mile [1.6 km] north of the present city of Salem, Oregon. After wintering at the fort, he returned to Astoria on May 25, 1813 bringing with them seventeen packs of furs and thirty-two bales of dried meat. In September 1813 he set off for the interior with Donald McKenzie and Alfred Seton to carry a variety of goods to the men, inform them of the arrangements made with Wilson Price Hunt, and to bring back all the furs as well as the Sandwich Islanders who were to be repatriated. On November 18, 1813, he set out with ten men in two wooden canoes to reinforce the Willamette post. Wallace returned to the fort and on April 4, 1814 in a brigade of ten canoes and between seventy-eight to ninety people set out for Canada. On May 25, he almost lost his life when the canoe he and others were in hit some rocks and broke up. Fellow returnees Olivier Roy Lapensee and André Belanger drowned. By June of that year, he was in Moose Lake, Canada. He signed on again in 1818 to work in Michillimackinac for five years and has not been traced after that.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 10 PPS: ChSoc XLV, p. 48, 116, 118, 128, 164; ChSoc LVII, p. 611, 611n, 640, 665, 704, 706 SS: Lavendar, The Fist in the Wilderness, p. 134

Wallis, Charles [variation: Wallace] (fl. 1842 - 1848) (British: English)

Birth: probably Kent, England (born to J. & S. Wallis)Maritime employee

HBC Apprentice, Diamond (barque) (1842 - 1843); Apprentice, Columbia (barque) (1843 - 1846); Apprentice, Vancouver (barque) (1846); Apprentice, Columbia (barque) (1846 - 1848).

Charles Wallis signed on with the HBC in London, England as an apprentice seaman on November 30, 1842 and came to the coast on the HBC chartered ship Diamond. On the coast on July 1, 1843, he transferred to the HBC barque Columbia and eventually arrived back in London on May 22, 1848.

A flurry of letters, all written between September 17-19, 1847 from London parents and relatives of all ages, were gathered up by the father and sent off. The many letters, which exuded family affection, mysteriously took a circuitous route overland and were only at Sault St. Marie by 1849. They now rest at the HBCA.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; FtVanASA 8; log of Columbia 6, 10; YFASA 23-24, 26-27, 29-30; MiscI 5; PortB 1; log of Vancouver [3] 2 PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 218-22

Wallis, Richard (fl. 1833 - 1835) (British)

Birth: probably British IslesMaritime employee

HBC 2nd Apprentice, Nereide (barque) (1833 - 1835).

Richard Wallis was a young second apprentice with the HBC when he sailed on the Nereide on April 8, 1833 on an arduous almost year-long voyage to the Northwest Coast. He had an equally long return voyage, departing Fort Vancouver in May 1834 and arriving back in London May 28, 1835.

Walls, William [variation: Wals] (c. 1811 - ?) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: South Parish, South Ronaldsay, Orkney - c. November 21, 1811

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1829); Middleman, Fort Colville (1830 - 1831); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1831 - 1833); Personal servant to Roderick Finlayson, Fort Simpson (1833 - 1834).

William Walls, who joined the HBC on April 21, 1829 as a labourer for five years, sailed to Hudson Bay, and made his way overland to the Columbia where he served one contract before returning east of the Rockies around 1834.

PS: OrkA OPR South Ronaldsay and Burray; HBCA log of Prince Rupert IV 3; HBCCont; FtVanASA 2; YFASA 11-13; YFDS 4b-5b

Walsh, Thomas (fl. 1851 - 1855) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1851); Seaman, Una (brigantine) (1851 - 1852); Seaman, Recovery (brig) (1852).

Thomas Walsh came to the coast in 1851 as a seaman on the HBC's barque Norman Morison. He worked on the Una until it was wrecked in January 1852 and joined the crew of the Recovery for a short time before deserting in the Queen Charlotte Islands. He may have been drawn by the gold that was being discovered there for it brought six American vessels with over two-hundred passengers there to take advantage of the short lived discovery. His account showed movement until 1855, indicating he may have been in the area.

An 1852 letter written by Walsh's sister Mary then in Drogheda, Ireland, was undelivered and rests in the HBCA. It conveyed the news of many deaths in the family as well as the near impoverishment of the rest of the family.

PS: HBCA log of Norman Morison 2; YFASA 31-32; YFDS 22; FtVicDS 1; FtVicASA 1-2; MiscI 5 PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 254-56

Walter, Richard [variation: Walters] (fl. 1856 - 1858) (British)

Birth: British Isles

Maritime officer

HBC 3rd mate, Princess Royal (barque) (1856 - 1858).

Richard Walter made two successive voyages to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal. The second time, he was ordered to leave the vessel in Victoria for bad conduct.

PS: HBCA log of Princess Royal 3-4; PortB 1

Wang, Christian (fl. 1853 - 1854) (possibly Chinese)

Birth: possibly China

Other

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1853 - 1854).

Christian Wang's name appeared on the 1853-1854 Fort Victoria servants' abstracts with no further information. The name could be Chinese as it evokes a missionary induced name. At the beginning of outfit 1854-1855, he showed a debt of £8.19.6 on the Fort Victoria sundries accounts but still no wages indicating that he was carrying out transactions with the HBC, but not working directly for them.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1-2

Wany, Samuel H. (fl. 1855 - 1856) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1855 - 1856).

Samuel H. Wany made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Wapastooten, Murdoch (fl. 1852 - 1853) (Native: Cree or Mixed descent)

Birth: probably East of the Rocky Mountains

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Columbia Department general charges (1852 - 1853).

Murdoch Wapastooten (a Cree name for "white hat") began work for the HBC on August 1, 1852.

PS: HBCA YFASA 32; YFDS 23; Humphrey Buffalo, Hobema, Alberta

Wapping, John (c. 1823 - ?) (possibly Mixed descent)

Birth: c. 1823

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Nisqually general charges (1841 - 1842); Middleman, Fort Nez Percés (1842 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1848).

John Wapping was hired on by the HBC within the HBC territory in 1841 on a three year contract. However, by outfit 1843-44, he did not receive wages and was listed as an invalid. In outfit 1844-45, he drew from the credit of almost £13 he had with the Company but didn't appear to work. He went back to work again in outfit 1845-46. He worked until September 1, 1848 at which point he became a freeman.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-7; YFASA 22-28; YFDS 19

Ward, James (fl. 1858 - 1862) (probably British: English)

Birth: probably England

Maritime officer

HBC 2nd mate, Princess Royal (barque) (1858 - 1859); Mate, Labouchère (steamer) (1860 - 1862); 2nd mate, Princess Royal (barque) (1862).

James Ward worked as a ship's officer for the HBC and sailed at least twice to the Northwest Coast. He has not been traced beyond his arrival back in London on July 2, 1862.

PS: HBCA log of Princess Royal 5, 7; FtVicASA 8-11

Ward, John (fl. 1834 - 1835) (probably American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Free trader

CRFTC Employee, Fort Hall (1834 - 1835).

John Ward joined the Nathaniel J. Wyeth expedition of 1834 as part of a group to establish the CRFTC on the Pacific slopes. He may have joined the expedition en route, and left the expedition on the upper Snake River, near the mouth of the Portneuf River, to build Fort Hall. A stockade was built in the summer of 1834 and a total of twelve men stayed to winter over. Ward may have gone out on hunting parties that fall and winter and may have departed for an unknown location in the summer of 1835.

PS: OHS FtHallAB SS: O. Russell, p. 157

Ward, John [2] [variation: Wards] (fl. 1849 - 1853) (Undetermined origin)

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Columbia Department general charges (1849 - 1850); Middleman, Fort Alexandria (1850 - 1852).

John Ward joined the HBC in 1849 on a contract that ended in 1852. He appeared to work at Fort Alexandria for one contract only and may have stayed in the area until 1853.

PS: HBCA YFASA 29-32; FtVicASA 1-2; FtVanASA 9; FtAlexPJ 9; BCA FtAlex 1

Ward, John C. [1] (fl. 1830 - 1835) (probably British: English)

Birth: England

Maritime employee

HBC Apprentice, Dryad (brig) (1830 - 1832); Apprentice, Lama (brig) (1832 - 1833); Apprentice, Fort Simpson naval service (1833 - 1834); Apprentice, Nereide (barque) (1834).

John Ward joined the HBC around 1830 as a young apprentice seaman from the Greenwich Hospital, arriving in the Columbia some time after that on the Dryad. He worked in coastal shipping until May 1834, when he returned to England on the barque Nereide.

Ward, Luke (fl. 1842 - 1844) (British)

Birth: possibly London, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1842 - 1843); Steward, Columbia (barque) (1843 - 1844).

Luke Ward shipped on board the HBC vessel Columbia around September 6, 1842 in London and sailed to the coast. On July 6, 1843, just before a supply run to Sitka, Ward was appointed steward of the vessel. On a further run to Oahu, Ward, probably at his own request, was discharged in Honolulu on March 30, 1844.

PS: HBCA log of Columbia 6; FtVanASA 8; YFASA 23-24

Ward, Thomas [1] (fl. 1824 - 1826) (British)

Birth: British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, William & Ann (brig) (1824 - 1826).

Thomas Ward signed on with the HBC around July 1824 and made a return voyage to the coast on the William & Ann. While on the coast the vessel traded as far north as Observatory Inlet and arrived back in London on April 15, 1826.

PS: HBCA log of William & Ann 1

Ward, Thomas [2] (fl. 1856 - 1857) (British)

Birth: British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Steward, Princess Royal (barque) (1856 - 1857).

Thomas Ward joined the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal in London and made one return voyage to the Northwest Coast. He was a heavy drinker and suffered from delirium tremens (log of Princess Royal 3, fo. 113).

PS: HBCA log of Princess Royal 3; PortB 1

Wards, Henry (fl. 1830 - 1834) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: probably Stromness, Orkney (born to Margaret)

Fur trade employee

HBC Boatbuilder, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1832); Boatbuilder, Fort Simpson naval service (1832 - 1834); Boatbuilder, Fort Vancouver (1834).

Henry Wards joined the HBC from Orkney on May 5, 1829 as a boatbuilder for five years. (In 1821, although absent, he appeared to belong to a family with a widowed mother, Margaret (c.1755-?), one brother, John (c.1791-?) a shipbuilder, and another brother and sister.) However, no wages were allowed him in outfit 1834-35 for he was "put off duty" in 1834 and sent to the east side. He may not have returned to Orkney for he did not appear on any further records there.

PS: OrkA 1821 U.K. Census, Orkney-Stromness; HBCA FtVanASA 2; YFDS 4a-5c; YFASA 11-14

Wark, John McAdoo [variation: Work] (1829 - 1909) (Irish)

Birth: Londonderry, Ireland - October 12, 1829 (born to Joseph and Jane Wark)

Death: Victoria, British Columbia - December 29, 1909

Fur trade employee

HBC Immigrant passenger, Tory (barque) (1850 - 1851); Apprentice clerk, Fort Simpson (1851 - 1854); Apprentice clerk, Fort Vancouver sales shop (1854 - 1857); Clerk, Fort Vancouver sales shop (1857 - 1860); Clerk, Fort Victoria (1860 - 1861); Chief Trader, Fort Victoria (1861 - 1866); Chief Trader, Caribou (1866 - 1869).

John M. Wark, hired from Templemore, Ireland, came to Vancouver Island aboard the HBC chartered Tory as an apprentice clerk. However, soon after his arrival at Fort Victoria on May 9, 1851, this nephew of John Work was put to work as an apprentice clerk at Fort Simpson. Over the years he stayed with the HBC, and was clerk at Fort Vancouver when it was closed. By 1881 he was living with his family in James Bay, Victoria.

John M. Wark married Amelia Birnie (1836-1918) the daughter of James Birnie and Charlotte Beaulieu. Their children were an unnamed son (?-1860), Jane (c.1861-?), John Henry (c.1863-1943) Charlotte (1864-1949), Mary Amelia (1866-1887) and Charles Lowe (1867-1953). Amelia died October 17, 1918 in Victoria, B. C.

PS: HBCA YFASA 30-32; FtVicASA 1-2; FtVanASA 9-15; FtVicASA 2-3, 5, 9-16; Wash-SL Nisqually Papers; BCA

Washington, George [variation: George Créol] (c. 1812 - ?) (American, Mixed descent)

Birth: Virginia, United States - c. 1812

Death: probably Willamette Valley, Oregon

Maritime employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Cook, Lama (brig) (1831); Cook, Vancouver (schooner) (1831); Cook, Dryad (brig) (1832); Seaman, Fort Simpson naval service (1832 - 1833); Middleman or labourer, Fort Vancouver (1833 - 1840); Settler, Willamette (1840 - 1842+).

George Washington, of mixed descent (census) or a creole from Virginia, was another American who worked for the HBC. He worked mainly in the coastal areas from 1830 and was on the American brig Lama [William Henry McNeill] in 1831, probably having temporarily transferred from the Vancouver [William Ryan]; in outfit 1833-1834 he was also called Joseph Washington. He became a settler in the Willamette at the end of his contract in 1839 and was listed as living there in 1850.

Washington's ancestry is problematic. Members of the Quinault Tribe today say George Creol was the cook-pilot known as George Washington, mentioned by Lee and Frost as being a better cook than pilot. He appears to have been an African American-Hawaiian or some like combination in his heritage, and the waved or crinkled hair of his race was handed down to his children. The baskets woven by his descendants also suggest origins other than the Northwest Coast.

George Washington's "Indian wife" was unnamed in the Church record, but according to tribal record she was called Mary, "Lahwatkin's sister", and died around 1877, aged forty-nine. Their children Marthe and Joseph were baptized in the 1850's, but died before having children, as did two later sons. One surviving daughter, Marguaret, married George Squamauk (Skamack) and became the mother and grandmother of numerous well-known descendants in northern Washington. In a deposition in 1906 Margaret said she "thought" her father had been white; it is likely she meant he was of some other blood than Native Indian (C.R. A-17).

PS: BCA log of Lama 1; HBCA ShMiscPap 14; log of Dryad 1; FtVanASA 3-6; YFDS 4a-5a, 5c-7; YFASA 11-15, 19-20; OHS 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory, Clackamas Co. SS: CCR 1a, 1b

Wassantoolin, Murdoch [variation: Murdo Wassatoolia] (fl. 1852 - 1888) (Native or Mixed descent)

Birth: Rupert's Land, British North America

Death: probably New Caledonia, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Columbia Department (1852 - 1853); Labourer, New Caledonia (1853 - 1863); Labourer, Fort Alexandria (1863 - 1865); Labourer, New Caledonia (1865 - 1888).

Murdoch Wassantoolin began work for the HBC on August 1, 1852 along with friend "Bully" Hunter. He worked thirty-six years in the New Caledonia area until outfit 1887-1888, when he retired. No family has been traced.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1-16; FtVicDS 1

Watkins, John [variation: Watkin] (fl. 1845 - 1848) (British: English)

Birth: British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1845 - 1848).

John Watkins, who likely studied at the Greenwich Hospital, joined the HBC in London on September 29, 1845 on a five-year contract and sailed to the Northwest Coast on the barque Columbia. On May 19, 1846, at the mouth of the Columbia Watkins got involved in a fight after the carpenter, John Duncan, had pinned down Henry Winchcomb. Watkins kicked Duncan between the eyes, disfiguring him and threatened to do the same to the 1st mate if he put him in irons (log of Columbia 9, fo. 97d-98). Three days later Watkins apologized and life carried on. After servicing the coast for a year and a half, Watkins returned on the same vessel, arriving in London May 22, 1848.

An undelivered 1847 London letter from his sister, Mary and brother-in-law, Robert Hayes who conveyed the family news, rests at the HBCA. Mentioned in the letter as waiting for Watkins return, was a Caroline Taylor, who may have been a prospective bride.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; log of Columbia 9; YFASA 26-27; MiscI 5 PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 216-17

Watson, George [1] [variation: John] (fl. 1841 - 1847) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Cowlitz (barque) (1841); Middleman, Fort Vancouver (1841 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1842 - 1845); Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1845); Labourer, Fort Vancouver (1845 - 1847).

George Watson, who also went by the name of John, joined the HBC in Honolulu on July 15, 1841 and came to the coast on the Cowlitz. He worked mainly at Fort Vancouver and also on coastal shipping before returning to Oahu in 1847.

PS: HBCA log of Cowlitz 1; FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 12; YFASA 22-27; log of Vancouver [3] 2

Watson, George [2] (fl. 1850 - 1852) (British)

Birth: British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Apprentice engineer, Una (brigantine) (1850); Apprentice engineer, Beaver (steamer) (1850 - 1852); Passenger, Norman Morison (barque) (1852).

George Watson [2] came to Vancouver Island on the brig Una apparently as a qualified engineer. His qualifications were doubtful, however, for when he joined the steamer Beaver he didn't appear to be up to the job and often refused duty. On January 16, 1852 before the end of his contract, he was sent home to the British Isles on the Norman Morison.

PS: HBCA YFASA 29-32; log of Beaver 2; YFDS 22 PPS: HBRS XXXII, p. 158n

Watson, John [variation: William] (fl. 1843 - 1853) (British)

Birth: possibly London, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1842 - 1845); Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1849 - 1850).

John Watson, who went by the name of William on the ships' logs, made one Hudson Bay run before he sailed to the coast on the HBC vessel Columbia. (A John Watson made a Hudson Bay run on the Prince Albert in 1843.) Little is known of him except that he was ill on the outward voyage and, at one point refused to help the mate heave the ship and became abusive. Other than that, he worked quietly on the coast between May 12, 1843 and November 13, 1844 servicing various posts such as Sitka and Oahu. He overindulged in Honolulu and arrived back in London in October 1845. He sailed to the coast again in 1849 on the Cowlitz but deserted with many of the crew in Honolulu before reaching the coast. He continued work there with the HBC until at least March 1853 when he goes off record, with the name William Watson.

PS: HBCA log of Prince Albert 2; log of Columbia 6, 8; FtVanASA 8; YFASA 23-24; PortB 1; log of Cowlitz 9; SandIsAB 12; SandIsLonIC 2

Wavicareea [variation: Wavickareea, Wavichareea] (fl. 1830 - 1853) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman or labourer, Fort Langley (1830 - 1831); Seaman or labourer, Dryad (brig) (1831 - 1832); Middleman or labourer, Fort Langley (1832 - 1842); Labourer, Fort Langley (1842 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Fort Langley (1852 - 1853).

Wavicareea, from Oahu, joined the HBC in April 1830 and spent his entire career at Fort Langley with the exception of a short stint with the brig Dryad. He retired around 1853 and his name was carried on the books until 1859, although there appeared to be no transactions on his account.

Wavicareea had an unnamed Uiskwin woman as a wife, and two children, Robert (c.1835-?) and Adam (c.1836-?), who were both baptized Catholic in 1841.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 14; FtVanASA 2-7; YFDS 4a-6; YFASA 11-15, 19-20, 22-32; FtVicASA 1-6 SS: Laing, p. 103; Morton, p. 270
See Also: Wavickareea, Robert (Son)

Wavickareea, Robert [variation: Wawakina, Winacarry, Wivacaria, Wivacarry, Yavicareea] (c. 1835 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: Fort Langley - c. 1835 (born to Wavicareea and an "Uiskin" woman)

Death: probably Port Haney [Maple Ridge], British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Langley (1853 - 1862).

Robert Wavickareea, like his Sandwich Islander father, worked for the HBC at Fort Langley. There he appears to have worked as a cooper as well as doing other jobs such as salting fish. He retired from the HBC around 1862, although his name was carried on the books for two more years. In 1874 he pre-empted 160 acres [64.8 ha] at Port Haney and raised a family there. He eventually acquired 480 acres [194.2 ha] from others. He was still active in 1895.

Robert Wavikareea appears to have had one, possibly two wives, who were variously described as a Quytlen [Kwantlen?] and Marguerite (?-?), Sta-ei-els [Chehelis?:] and a native of Kretsins [Katsey?] as well as nine recorded children. His children were Robert (?-bap.1856-?), John (c.1856-?), Susan (c.1861-?), Blanche (c.1864-?), George (1867-?), Henry (c.1870-?), Lawrence Robert (1871-?), Lavinia (c.1872-?), and Frank (c.1875-?). The family was Catholic. The family adopted their father's first name of Robert as a surname.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1-11; OblH-Van; BCA BCCR StAndC; Van-PL 1881 Canada Census, New Westminster District, North SS: Laing, p. 100; Morton, p. 270
See Also: Wavicareea (Father)

Webster, Robert (fl. 1842 - 1848) (British: English)

Birth: England

Maritime employee

HBC Carpenter, Vancouver (barque) (1842 - 1843); Carpenter, Cadboro (schooner) (1843 - 1847); Carpenter, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1847); Carpenter, Columbia (barque) (1847 - 1848).

Robert Webster joined the HBC in London as a ship's carpenter on August 30, 1841 sailing to the coast on the HBC barque Vancouver. On October 31, 1843 Webster became carpenter on the Cadboro, where, as one of the busiest men on the crew of the leaky old schooner, he caulked the decks, hull, and waterways, cut planks for the hull, fitted wedges for the masts, made oars for the jolly boat, made jacksaws for the gaff, cut spars, etc. All of this work began to wear on Robert Webster who, on March 26, 1844 between Forts Langley and Victoria, fought with another crew member, William Campbell, who kicked him in the eye so hard he was unable to work (log of Cadboro 5, fo. 52d). On August 26, 1844 while at Fort Nisqually, he quarrelled with the mate, William A. Mouat, who accused him of falling asleep on night watch. As a result, on July 26, 1845, while at Fort Langley, Webster said that he had been a slave long enough (log of Cadboro 5, fo. 109d). In February 1847 he and four other crew members succeeded in having Mouat removed from the Cadboro. The captain asked Mr. Finlayson at Fort Victoria to remove Mr. Mouat but Finlayson refused and so Mr. Mouat was sent by the captain to Fort Vancouver aboard the brig Henry [Capt. Kilborn], which took him as far as Baker's Bay (log of Cadboro 6, fo. 32d). Robert Webster was replaced by Andrew Crawford and, two vessels later, he returned to London, arriving May 22, 1848.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 11; FtVanASA 7; YFASA 22-27; log of Cadboro 5, 6; log of Columbia 9

Weeks, Henry [variation: John Weeks, Wicks] (c. 1791 - ?) (American)

Birth: probably New York, New York - c. 1791

Fur trade employee

PFC Carpenter, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811); Carpenter, Fort George [Astoria] (1811 - ?).

Twenty year old Henry Weeks joined John Jacob Astor's Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn] as a carpenter some time before September 3, 1810, for its voyage to the Northwest Coast. Weeks departed September 8 on the New York vessel for its tempestuous journey around the Horn but managed to avoid the harsh punitive temper and measures of the captain. After a brief stopover in February 1811 in the Sandwich Islands where twelve Sandwich Islanders were picked up, the Tonquin arrived at the mouth of the Columbia March 22. Weeks intended on staying on the vessel along with Stephen Weeks but at the last minute was replaced with Johann Koaster. This act saved his life for all but one who sailed with the Tonquin were killed within weeks. He appears to have stayed at Fort Astoria but did not appear on any other lists.

PS: USNA Tonquin; RosL-Ph Astoria PPS: ChSoc XLV, p. 49
See Also: Weeks, Stephen (probable Brother)

Weeks, Stephen (c. 1776 - 1811) (American)

Birth: probably New York, New York - c. 1776

Death: Clayoquot Sound, Vancouver Island - June 1811

Maritime employee

PFC Armorer, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811); Blacksmith, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811).

Stephen Weeks, probably the older brother or close relative of Henry Weeks, joined the crew of the Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn] as armorer or blacksmith some time before September 3, 1810. After rounding the Horn and stopping briefly at Hawaii, Weeks arrived at the mouth of the Columbia on March 22, 1811. In an effort to establish a safe passage across the bar, the captain sent out Weeks, Job. Aiken, John Coles and two Sandwich Islanders, Harry and Peter in the pinnace.

However, the when vessel filled with water, Aiken and Coles were lost but Weeks, Harry and Peter managed to right the pinnace and the two Sandwich Islanders bailed it out with their hands. Peter, however, succumbed to the cold. Weeks, who accused his rescuers of abandoning him, and Harry were rescued and Weeks rejoined the Tonquin which sailed to Clayoquot Sound. There the vessel was attacked and all the crew but one were killed.

PS: USNA Tonquin; RosL-Ph Astoria PPS: ChSoc XLV, p. 48; A. Ross, Adventures, p. 62-65
See Also: Weeks, Henry (Brother)

Weinbourne, Robert [variation: Wainbourne, Wenbourne, Wenborn] (fl. 1847 - 1853) (British)

Birth: British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Apprentice, Otter (steamer) (1852 - 1854).

Robert Weinbourne apprenticed with the HBC on Hudson Bay runs from 1847 on the Prince Albert until the fall of 1852. On November 3, 1852 near the end of his apprenticeship, he joined the HBC steamer Otter in London, but didn't get underway until February 23, 1853. He reached the end of his apprenticeship, becoming an able bodied seaman, as the vessel was passing through the Straits of Magellan. This appeared to give him a new sense of importance for on July 30, just before reaching Fort Victoria, he refused to work in the coal section saying it was not the duty of a seaman. As a result, on August 16, 1853, twelve days after arriving in Victoria he was discharged and left the ship. He may have shipped out on another vessel.

PS: HBCA log of Prince Albert 7-11; PortB 1; log of Otter 1; FtVicASA 1-2

Weller, Joseph (fl. 1843 - 1849) (British)

Birth: possibly West Farley (Firle, Sussex?), England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1844 - 1845); Seaman, Beaver (steamer) (1845 - 1848); Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1848 - 1849).

Joseph Weller joined the HBC in 1843 on a five-year contract. He came to the coast on the barque Cowlitz and worked for three years on coastal shipping on the Beaver. He left the coast for England on October 31, 1848 aboard the barque Cowlitz.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-28; YFDS 19

Wentzel, William (c. 1819 - ?) (Mixed descent)

Birth: possibly Athabasca [Alberta] - c. 1819

Death: possibly Pacific Northwest

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver general charges (1842 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Alexandria (1843 - 1846); Labourer, New Caledonia (1843 - 1846); Middleman, Fort Nez Perces (1846 - 1848); Middleman, Snake Country (1848 - 1850); Middleman, Fort Vancouver depot (1850 - 1851); Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1851 - 1852).

Possibly a relative of Willard Ferdinand Wentzell (1777-1832), native William Wentzel joined the HBC in 1842. For the next ten years he worked at a variety of locations on the Pacific slopes. In the spring of 1847, he accompanied Thomas Low on the Hudson's Bay Express. He retired in 1852.

PS: HBCA YFASA 22-32; FtVanASA 7, 9; FtAlexPJ 5, 7; BCA Lowe 3 PPS: HBRS I, p. 472

Westcott, Edward (fl. 1849 - 1851) (British)

Birth: British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Steward, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1851).

Edward Westcott made one return voyage to the Coast on the HBC vessel Norman Morison. He would have stopped at Fort Simpson and Sitka before returning to England.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Westthorp, Samuel (c. 1826 - ?) (British: English)

Birth: probably London, England - c. 1826

Maritime employee

HBC Apprentice, Cowlitz (barque) (1840 - 1843); Apprentice, Cowlitz (barque) (1844 - 1845); Seaman, Beaver (steamer) (1845 - 1846); Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1846 - 1847).

Samuel Westhorp joined the HBC in London in 1840 as an apprentice seaman and sailed to the coast on the Cowlitz. In the fall of 1842 he returned to England aboard the barque Cowlitz. In 1844, however, he was re-engaged and worked until November 28, 1846. Later that same year he joined the Vancouver for his final voyage back to London.

PS: HBCA log of Cowlitz 1; FtVanASA 6-8; YFASA 22-26; YFDS 17

Weston, William [a] (c. 1824 - 1889) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles - c. 1824

Death: Nanaimo Hospital, British Columbia - October 21, 1889

Fur trade officer

HBC Passenger, Otter (steamer) (1852 - 1853).

William Weston [a] came to Vancouver Island as a passenger (William Western) aboard the HBC steamer Otter. He was on HBC accounts until 1855 but was likely working in the position of First Constable in Nanaimo under Governor Douglas. He apparently had a very springy walk and wore his pants too short, which caused Governor Douglas to comment in 1857, "Why Weston, how you have grown!" (Bate, p. 3). He died at the Nanaimo Hospital on October 21, 1889.

PS: HBCA log of Otter 1; YFASA 32; FtVicASA 1-2; FtVanASA 10; Van-PL Colonist, Oct. 22, 1889, p. 1 SS: Bate, p. 3

Weyland, James [variation: Wayland, Weiland] (fl. 1847 - 1849) (British)

Birth: British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Apprentice, Vancouver (barque) (1847 - 1848); Apprentice, Cadboro (schooner) (1848 - 1849).

James Weyland joined the HBC barque Vancouver in London on September 17, 1847 as an apprentice seaman and sailed to the coast. As the vessel was wrecked when it arrived on the coast on May 7, 1848, Weyland was assigned elsewhere. On December 5, 1848, at Fort Victoria, he joined the schooner Cadboro. Only five months later at Fort Langley on April 16, 1849, Weyland, along with fellow apprentice Robert Allud and one other crew-member, stopped working as he refused to work in the rain. Weyland returned to work after being told by the captain that what he was doing was wrong. The upstart apprentice deserted on September 10, 1849, presumably for the gold fields of California.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 11; YFASA 28-29; YFDS 19-20; log of Cadboro 6

Weynton, Alexander John (fl. 1846 - 1849) (British: English)

Birth: probably London, England (born to Captain Weynton)

Maritime officer

HBC Captain, Cowlitz (barque) (1846 - 1850).

Alexander John Weynton was brother to Stephenson Weynton and son of Captain Weynton who in 1856 became London's HBC marine superintendent. Alexander was appointed commander of the barque Cowlitz on July 31, 1846 and made two return voyages to the Northwest Coast, the second voyage being considerably more eventful than the first. In the winter of 1849-1850, while returning to the coast, a combination of apparent lax discipline and the lure of the gold rush in California caused almost the entire crew to desert in Honolulu. When the three apprentices demanded higher wages there, they were imprisoned first on the ship and then on land to await transportation from the Sandwich Islands back to England. Weynton replaced the crew with Sandwich Islanders and sailed to the coast where the Cowlitz grounded on a bar in the Fraser River before sailing safely to Honolulu with a cargo of salmon intact. Weynton sailed the ship back to England.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; YFASA 27-28 PPS: HBRs XXXII, p. 77-78, 101n, 122 SS: Walbran, p. 527

See Also: Weynton, Stephenson (Brother)

Weynton, Stephenson (fl. 1852 - 1869) (British: English)

Birth: probably Middlesex, England (born to Captain Weynton)

Death: probably California, United States

Fur trade employee

HBC Cabin class passenger, Norman Morison (barque) (1851); Apprentice clerk, Fort Victoria general charges (1851 - 1852); Apprentice clerk, Fort Victoria (1852 - 1856); Apprentice clerk, Fort Simpson (1856 - 1858); Clerk, Fort Simpson (1858 - 1859); Clerk, Fort Colville (1860 - 1865); Clerk, Fort Victoria (1865 - 1866); Clerk, Fort Victoria, Fort Rupert, Fort Langley (1866 - 1867); Clerk, Otter (steamer) (1867 - 1868).

Stephenson Weynton, brother to Alexander John Weynton and son of the marine superintendent of the HBC in England, entered the service of the HBC in 1851 as a clerk arriving at Fort Victoria on October 20, 1851. From that point, while serving at a variety of posts, until 1868 when he retired from the service, he had a bit of a wandering spirit; at Fort Simpson Weynton often went on canoe excursions, sometimes staying away from the fort for as long as two days. He has not been traced after that but may have gone to San Francisco.

Stephenson Weynton had one recorded wife, Emma O'Brien (c.1850-69) who had been born in New Orleans to P. & Emma O'Brien. She died on September 9, 1869 while she was in San Francisco and had been completely blind some months before her death.

PS: HBCA YFASA 31-32; YFDS 22; FtVicASA 1-6, 8-15; FtVanASA 16-17; FtVicCB 27; FtSimp[N]PJ 8; HBCA Stephenson Weynton search file; Van-PL Colonist, September 18, 1869, p. 3 SS: Walbran, p. 527

See Also: Weynton, Alexander John (Brother)

Wheaton, Edward (fl. 1856 - 1857) (British)

Birth: British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1856 - 1857).

Edward Wheaton joined the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal in London on August 19, 1856 and made one return voyage to the Northwest Coast.

PS: HBCA log of the Princess Royal 3; PortB 1

Wheeler, Josiah [variation: Joshua Wheeler, Weller] (fl. 1844 - 1850) (British: English)

Birth: probably London, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1844 - 1847); Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1849 - 1850).

Josiah Wheeler joined the HBC in London on August 26, 1844 on a five-year contract and made one return voyage to the coast. The logs reveal nothing of his personality other than he was part of a group that protested at Fort Vancouver how they were treated on the voyage out. In December 1846, he left for the British Isles and arrived in London, July 13, 1847. He joined the barque Cowlitz on August 1, 1849 and sailed for the coast but deserted en route in Honolulu on January 28, 1850 with the California gold fields in mind.

PS: HBCA log of Vancouver [3] 2; ShMiscPap 11; YFASA 25-26; YFDS 17; PortB 1; log of Cowlitz 8

Whitaker, Robert (fl. 1830 - 1835) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Apprentice, Dryad (brig) (1830 - 1831); Apprentice, Vancouver (schooner) (1831); Apprentice, Lama (brig) (1832); Apprentice, Fort Simpson naval service (1832 - 1834); Apprentice, Nereide (barque) (1834).

Robert Whitaker, a Greenwich Hospital apprentice joined the HBC around the beginning of 1830 as an apprentice seaman and appears to have come to the Pacific Coast on the Dryad. He served out his apprenticeship in coastal shipping until May 1834, when he left on the barque Nereide for England.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 14; FtVanASA 2; YFASA 11-14; YFDS 4a-5c

Whitbread, John (fl. 1853 - 1859) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Fur trade employee

HBC Cook, Fort Simpson (1853 - 1854); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1854 - 1855).

John Whitbread worked for the HBC. He appeared to work sporadically from an undetermined date around the Fort Victoria area and, by 1859 was working at PSAC farms.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1-4; PSACAB 38

White, Alfred E. (fl. 1840 - 1845) (British: English)

Birth: probably London, England

Maritime employee

HBC Apprentice, Columbia (barque) (1839 - 1845).

Alfred E. White joined the HBC in London in late 1839 as an apprentice seaman and worked out his apprenticeship going back and forth twice from London to the Northwest Coast over a period of five years. During his time on the coast, he would have visited several coastal posts and visited Honolulu several times. He has not been traced beyond his arrival in England in May 1845.

White, John [1] (c. 1777 - 1811) (American)

Birth: probably Massachusetts [United States] - c. 1777

Death: Clayoquot Sound, Vancouver Island - June 1811

Maritime employee

PFC Seaman, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811).

Thirty three year old Massachusetts native, John White joined John Jacob Astor's Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn] in New York as a seaman some time before September 3, 1810, for its voyage to the Northwest Coast. The five foot eight inch [175 cm] White departed September 8 on the New York vessel and arrived at the mouth of the Columbia March 22, 1811. White continued with the voyage and in June 1811, when the ship was at anchor in Clayoquot Sound, was killed when the vessel was attacked and destroyed.

PS: USNA Tonquin PPS: ChSoc XLV, p. 49

White, John [2] (fl. 1847 - 1848) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Death: possibly Oregon Territory, Pacific Northwest

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1847 - 1848).

John White joined the HBC barque Vancouver in London as a seaman on September 22, 1847 and sailed to the coast. After the vessel was wrecked on its arrival at the mouth of the Columbia on May 7, 1848, White may have left the employ of the HBC and settled in Oregon territory for the Vancouver records indicate that he "settled at Columbia." He remained on HBC account books for another five years but cannot be traced further.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 11; YFASA 29-32

White, Mr. (fl. 1825) (possibly American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Free trader

U.A. Trapper, Rendezvous (1825).

Mr. White appeared on the records as acquiring several goods at the 1825 Rendezvous at Henry's Fork [Wyoming] from William Ashley, who had brought them overland from St. Louis. Nothing else is known of Mr. White who probably attended other Rendezvous' as well as continued trapping in the Rocky Mountains.

PS: MHS Ashley 1

White, Thomas (fl. 1846 - 1847) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1846 - 1847).

Thomas White joined the HBC in London on October 28, 1846 and sailed to the coast on the brig Mary Dare. He did not work long in the area, for after reaching the coast with supplies on May 23, 1847, and carrying on coastal shipping, he deserted ship while he was in Honolulu on August 15, 1847.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; YFASA 27; YFDS 18

White, William (fl. 1855 - 1858) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1855 - 1856); Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1857 - 1858).

William White made two return voyages to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA log of Princess Royal 4; PortB 1

Whiteway, James (fl. 1820 - 1821) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Death: probably East of the Rocky Mountains

Fur trade employee

HBC Reconnaissance trader, Kootenae House (1820).

James Whiteway apparently worked as a clerk for the HBC in the spring of 1820 at Fort Edmonton when he was sent with a company of Indians west of the Rockies to try to persuade the natives to forgo trading with the Northwest Company and, instead, trade furs with the HBC at Rocky Mountain House. After considerable privation, he managed to contact some Kootenay natives who said they would trade but inter-tribal warfare precluded them from carrying it out. Whiteway returned to Edmonton that December.

PS: HBCA Edmonton Journal 1820-21, B.60/e/4

Whitford, John (c. 1824 - ?) (Undetermined origin)

Birth: c. 1824

Death: probably West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1842 - 1843); Labourer, Fort Nez Percés (1843 - 1846); Labourer, Snake Party (1846 - 1849); Boule, Snake Party (1849).

John Whitford joined the HBC within the HBC trading area in 1842 originally on a three-year contract. He began his career at Fort Nez Percés and finished it off in the Snake Country. On August 1, 1849 he deserted, possibly for the gold fields of California. (His life has not been traced after that with certainty for, in the late fall, 1864, he appeared to be in Victoria carrying on transactions with the HBC.)

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 7; YFASA 22-29; YFDS 20; FtVicCB 25

Whiting, James (fl. 1824 - 1826) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Boy, William & Ann (brig) (1824 - 1826).

Young James Whiting signed on with the HBC around July 1824 and made a return voyage to the coast on the William & Ann. While on the coast the vessel traded as far north as Observatory Inlet and arrived back in London on April 15, 1826.

PS: HBCA log of William & Ann 1

Whitman, Dr. Marcus (1802 - 1847) (American)

Birth: Federal Hollow [Rushville], New York - September 4, 1802 (born to Beza Whitman and Alice Green)

Death: Waiilatpu Mission, near Walla Walla, Washington - November 29, 1847

Other

U.A. Travelling missionary, Rendezvous (1835 - 1836); Missionary, Whitman Mission (1836 - 1847).

From 1832, Marcus Whitman put his study of medicine to work for the Presbyterian-Congregationalist American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions. In 1835, he went on a tour of investigation with Rev. Samuel Parker, travelling to the Green River Rendezvous. There he successfully extracted a three-year old three inch [7.6 cm] Blackfoot iron arrow from the back of Jim Bridger (Ismert, p. 258). After returning east he married Narcissa Prentiss [1808-47] in 1836. Under the aegis of the American Fur Company he, along with the Rev. Henry Harmon Spalding and his wife, and William Henry Gray, (Russell, p. 41) travelled west again through Forts Hall and Boise to Fort Vancouver. They had brought with them a wheeled cart as far as Fort Boise where they abandoned it (Chittenden, p. 647). They then returned to a site at Waiilatpu in Cayuse Indian Country "about 25 miles [40.2 km] south of Walla Walla" to establish a mission (FtVanCB 12, fo. 3). He worked amongst the natives building an agricultural base that would attract the natives to the base so that they could be Christianized. However, needing support from a board that had temporarily curtailed the missionary work, he returned east in 1842-1843 to New York, Boston and Washington. After straightening out missionary affairs and urging Americans to settle in the disputed territory, he returned. However, with the rush of white immigrants and with the onslaught of measles which was taking the natives in great numbers, the Cayuse grew uneasy, eventually turning on the members of the mission, killing most. News of the massacre helped in passing the 1848 bill that changed Oregon from a mere possession to a US territory. Today the mission has been reconstructed as a monument to Marcus and Narcissa Whitman.

Marcus and Narcissa Whitman had one child who was drowned near their mission site in Mill Creek.

PS: FtVanCB 12; FtVanCB 12 McLoughlin Nov. 15, 1836 letter to Gov. & Committee, fo. 3; FtVan CB 28, 37 PPS: O. Russell, p. 41; Townsend, "Narrative of a Journey across the Rocky Mountains" p. 352 SS: DAB Shafer; Drury, Marcus Whitman; Drury, Marcus and Narcissa; Ismert, p. 258; Chittenden, p. 647

Whitman, Joseph (c. 1802 - ?) (probably British)

Birth: possibly St. Martins (d. of London), England

Death: possibly England

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, New Caledonia (1821 - 1822); Middleman, Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs] (1822 - 1823); Middleman, New Caledonia (1823 - 1824); Middleman, Fort St. James (1824 - 1825); Labourer, Fort Babine [Fort Kilmaurs] (1825); Middleman, New Caledonia (1825 - 1826); Passenger, Prince of Wales (ship) (1826).

Joseph Whitman entered the fur trade in 1819 and in 1819-1820 worked as a middleman at Great Slave Lake and in 1820-1821 as a middleman at Fort Wedderburn. He was on the Pacific slopes by 1821 and in the fall of 1822 he helped to build a new post at the north end of Babine Lake. He worked for the HBC in New Caledonia to 1826 and then headed for Hudson Bay. On September 20, 1826, he left York Factory on the Prince of Wales [John Davison] and arrived in London, October 26, 1826. He has not been traced after that.

PS: HBCA YFASA 1-2, 4-6; YFDS 1a; FtBabPJ 1; FtStJmsLS 1; FtStJmsRD 3; log of Prince of Wales I 5; HBCA Joseph Whitman search file PPS: HBRS I, p. 473

Whittier, Phineas (fl. 1832 - 1834) (probably American)

Birth: probably Boston, Massachusetts

Fur trade employee

Wyeth Gunsmith, Wyeth's 1st Expedition (1832); HBC Temporary employee, Fort Vancouver (1832 - 1833); Passenger, Dryad (brig) (1833).

Phineas Whittier came to the Pacific slopes from the Boston area as part of the first expedition of Nathaniel J. Wyeth. He left on March 11, 1832 and arrived at Fort Vancouver on October 29th of that year. As the expedition was not successful, Whittier worked temporarily for the HBC at Fort Vancouver over the winter and into 1833. In October 1833, he shipped on the Dryad as passenger to the Sandwich Islands but, while he was at Golden Gate harbor [California], reshipped, along with William Breck and John Sinclair, on the whaler Helvetius (which was loading hides), as the vessel would arrive sooner in Boston.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 13-14; YFDS 5c SS: Overmeyer, p. 99

Whycanne (fl. 1822 - 1824) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1822 - 1823); Labourer, Fort George [Astoria] (1823 - 1824).

Whycanne worked for the HBC at Fort George from 1822-1824.

PS: HBCA YFASA 2-3; FtGeo[Ast]AB 11

Wiappeoo (fl. 1841) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Oahu, Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1841).

Wiappeoo, from Oahu, began work with the HBC on July 9, 1841 and laboured as a middleman at Fort Vancouver until November 20, 1841, at which point he returned to the Sandwich Islands.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-7; YFDS 12; YFASA 21

Wilkes, Lieutenant Charles (1798 - 1877) (American)

Birth: New York, New York - April 3, 1798

Death: Washington D.C., United States - February 8, 1877

Maritime officer

U.S. Gov't Officer, Wilkes Expedition (May – October 1841).

To further US interests in the Pacific Northwest and elsewhere, Charles Wilkes came to the coast with a naval squadron (U.S.S. Vincennes and U.S.S. Porpoise) as part of a much larger scientific expedition backed by the U.S. Government. Educated by his father and entering the merchant service in 1815, by 1833 Wilkes was designated head of the Department of Charts and Instruments of the Navy. Beginning in 1838, and after having been given a squadron of ships and scientists, Wilkes sailed around the Horn on the expedition. On his visit to the Pacific Northwest, one of his ships, the U.S.S. Peacock was wrecked in 1841 at the mouth of the Columbia. However, his observations at the time, when screened through the bias of the time, shed a light on the customs and manners of the people of the area.

Nonetheless, the Americans in the Willamette valley thought Wilkes too soft and felt he was influenced by the hospitality of the HBC even though Wilkes eventually recommended that the US secure the territory from California to Alaska for itself. The expedition produced five initial volumes that are illuminating but must be read with caution. Eventually, twenty volumes of reports were produced. An impetuous man who was court-martialed twice, Wilkes eventually reached the rank of rear admiral on the retired list of 1866. He died eleven years later and was eventually buried in Arlington Cemetery.

PS: HBCA FtVanCB 29, 30 PPS: HBRV VI, p. 37, 41 SS: <http://www.history.navy.mil/danfs/w8/wilkes-iv.htm>;
<http://www.arlingtoncemetery.net/cwilkes.htm>

Wilkins, William (fl. 1855 - 1856) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1855 - 1856).

William Wilkins made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Wilkinson, James (fl. 1856 - 1857) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Sailmaker, Princess Royal (barque) (1856 - 1857).

James Wilkinson joined the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal in London on August 19, 1856 and made one return voyage to the Northwest Coast.

PS: HBCA log of the Princess Royal 3; PortB 1

Wiley, John (fl. 1847 - 1853) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Death: probably Nanaimo, British Columbia – late fall 1853

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1847 - 1848); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1848 - 1849); Seaman, Beaver (steamer) (1849).

John Wiley joined the HBC barque Vancouver in London on September 25, 1847 and sailed to the coast. As his vessel was wrecked at the mouth of the Columbia upon its arrival on May 7, 1848, he was assigned to the schooner Cadboro the following month at Fort Victoria. He deserted on August 20, 1849, quite likely for the gold fields of California. Wiley probably returned and was likely working at Nanaimo when news of his death was sent to Victoria.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 11; YFASA 28-29; YFDS 19; log of Cadboro 6; FtVicCB 10

William (fl. 1830 - 1840) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Death: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1830 - 1831); Untraced vocation, Fort Simpson (1831 - 1834); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver (1834 - 1835); Middleman, Fort Colville (1835 - 1836); A. McDonald's servant, Fort Colville (1836 - 1837); Middleman, Snake Party (1837 - 1838); Middleman, Snake Party and Fort Vancouver (1838 - 1839); Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1839 - 1840).

William was hired by the HBC in 1830 from Oahu. After serving at Fort Simpson, he spent time at interior posts. In the middle 1830s he worked as a servant to the head of Fort Colville, Archibald McDonald. In outfit 1838-1839 he was involved in transporting Snake Party members to and from Fort Vancouver and was discharged in Oahu in outfit 1840-1841.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 2-6; YFDS 4a-7; YFASA 11-15, 19-20

Williams, Frederick (c. 1824 - ?) (British: English)

Birth: probably Camberwell, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1846 - 1847); Seaman, Fort Vancouver depot (1847 - 1848); Seaman, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1848 - 1849).

Frederick Williams shipped on with the HBC vessel Cowlitz in London on October 2, 1846 and sailed to the coast. On May 5, 1847, he left the Cowlitz and worked on coastal shipping until August 20 or 24, 1849 when he deserted, probably for California.

PS: HBCA YFASA 27-29; YFDS 18, 20; PortB 1; log of Cowlitz 6

Williams, George (fl. 1852 - 1853) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1852 - 1853).

George Williams made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC immigrant supply ship, Norman Morison. While on the coast, he would have visited several coastal posts.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Williams, Henry (fl. 1844 - 1847) (British: English)

Birth: probably in or near Camberwell, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cowlitz (barque) (1844 - 1845); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1845 - 1846); Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1846); Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1846 - 1847).

Henry Williams joined the HBC in London around September 1843 on a five-year contract and sailed to the coast on the Cowlitz. On December 17, 1845 at Fort Victoria, Williams joined the schooner Cadboro and the following spring ran into some problems. On May 2, 1846, while at anchor at Baker's Bay, Henry asked James Scarborough if he could go ashore to wash his clothes as the crew was due its regular Saturday afternoon off. The Captain denied his request and, through the first mate, William Mouat, demanded that Williams get back in the boat. Williams refused, reiterating that his presence wasn't necessary, and verbally abused the Captain who threatened to put him in irons if he did not obey him. When the Captain ordered him below and pushed him towards the hatch, Williams threatened to knock his head off if he didn't take his hand off him. The rest of the crew indicated their support for Williams who, along with two others, were put off duty until June 2, 1846, when Williams and one other were transferred to the barque Columbia (log of Cadboro, 5, fo. 152-152d). On November 28, 1846 he transferred to the Vancouver for his return voyage to London. As a celebration of his departure, he went AWOL in Honolulu on a two day drinking binge.

PS: HBCA YFASA 24-26; log of Columbia 9; YFDS 17; log of Cadboro 5; log of Vancouver [3] 2

Williams, John [a] [variation: William] (c. 1810 - 1839) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: possibly in or near Kirkwall or Gruras, Stennas, Orkney - c. 1810

Death: Fort Vancouver, Columbia Department - May 12, 1839

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince of Wales (ship) (1830); Passenger, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1830); Untraced vocation, Fort Vancouver general charges (1831 - 1832); Seaman, Dryad (brig) (1832) (as William Williams); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1832 - 1833); Seaman, Fort Simpson naval service (1833 - 1834); Labourer, Fort Simpson (1834 - 1835); Middleman or labourer, Fort Langley (1835 - 1836); Middleman, Fort Nisqually (1836 - 1838); Middleman, Snake Party and Fort Vancouver (1839).

(John Williams' origins are obscure - he may have been the John Lesley Williams born and christened on August 4, 1810 in Kirkwall to John and Jean [Linay] Williams. John Sr. was in the 9th Veteran Battalion in Kirkwall. As a young man he likely went from Kirkwall to Stennas to work on a farm from which he enlisted.) John Williams joined the HBC on June 1, 1830 as a labourer for five years, sailed to York Factory and made his way overland to the coast. He may be the same William Williams who was working on the Dryad and transferred to Fort Simpson on August 7, 1832. In outfit 1838-1839 he helped to transport Snake Party members to and from Fort Vancouver. He died at Fort Vancouver, May 12, 1839.

PS: OrkA OPR Kirkwall & St. Ola, Baptisms 1783-1819; HBCA HBCCont; log of Prince Rupert IV 4; FtSimp[N]PJ 3; YFASA 11, 13-14, 19; YFDS 4b-7, 9; log of Dryad 1; FtVanASA 3-4

Williams, John [b] (fl. 1833 - 1837) (British: English)

Birth: probably in or near All Saints Parish, London, Middlesex, England

Fur trade employee

HBC Carpenter, Eagle (brig) (1833 - 1834); Carpenter, Fort Simpson naval service (1834 - 1835); Carpenter, Ganymede (barque) (1836 - 1837).

John Williams [b] joined the HBC in London as a carpenter for five years on December 7, 1833 and three days later was under way on the Eagle. The day after arriving at Fort Vancouver, he and three others were put in the fort hospital and possibly because of his illness, on November 10, 1834, began his work in the Columbia rather than return on the Eagle. His stay has not been chronicled but he was noted in April 1836 as giving the Cadboro a seaworthy report when two other HBC captains had condemned it. His assessment was supported by John McLoughlin, who attested to the quality of his work (FtVanCB 15, fo. 11). John Williams left for England on the Ganymede on April 15, 1836.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 14; FtVanASA 3; YFDS 5c-6; FtVanCB 15, McLoughlin's April 9, 1836 Fort Vancouver letter to Governor and Committee, fo. 11; ShMiscPap 14; log of Ganymede 4

Williams, John [c] (c. 1789 - ?) (British: Welsh)

Birth: Milford, Pembroke, Wales - c. 1789

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1835 - 1836).

John Williams [c] served on the merchant vessel Bengal Merchant before he joined the HBC on August 29, 1835 in London as a seaman for five years. He made one round trip to the Northwest Coast and arrived back in London on the Columbia on May 10, 1837.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 4a, 14; FtVanASA 3; YFASA 16

Williams, Richard (fl. 1838 - 1840) (American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Death: probably Willamette Valley, Oregon

Fur trade employee

U.A. Blacksmith, Lapwai Mission (1838 - 1839).

Richard Williams, who appears to have trapped in the mountains in the 1830s, was employed by Henry H. Spalding at his mission as a blacksmith in December 1838. Around this time, Spalding married Williams to a native woman, whom he subsequently abused. Consequently, she ran away; but she was captured and given seventy lashes. Williams left for the Willamette in 1840 where he appears to have become part of the settler society.

PPS: FtVanCB 31 PPS: Drury, The Diaries and Letters, p. 25, 173, 250, 256

Williams, Robert (? - 1877) (British: English)

Birth: possibly "Thiddlehurst," "Christchurch Co., Tent," England, United Kingdom - (born to James and Mary Ann Williams)?

Death: between Massett, Queen Charlotte Islands, and Fort Simpson - June 8, 1877

Fur trade employee

HBC 1st mate, Tory (barque) (1851 - 1852); 1st mate, Vancouver (brigantine) (1852 - 1853); Mate, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1853 - 1854); Clerk, Fort Victoria (1860 - 1861); Clerk, Labouchere (steamer) (1861 - 1862); Clerk, Fort Victoria (1862 - 1865); Clerk in charge, Fort Alexandria (1865 - 1867); Clerk, Caribou and district (1867 - 1869); In charge, Quesnel (1869 - 1874); In charge, Fort Victoria depot (1874+).

Robert Williams, a "strong handsome good natured" person, travelled the world on ships and, when out of money in Australia, made a living by singing in public (Helmcken, p. 125). Back in London he joined the HBC in around 1851 and came to the coast, first on the Tory and next on the Vancouver - which later came to grief on the Queen Charlotte Islands. Some time after, he made the coast and British Columbia his home and rose through the ranks of the HBC. Because of his close association with Charles Dodd of the Labouchere, he married Dodd's daughter. He drowned on June 3, 1877 on the Queen Charlotte Islands while on a tour of inspection of the company's northern posts.

On December 22, 1860 Robert Williams married Elizabeth Ann Dodd, daughter of Charles and Grace Dodd.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1-3, 7; log of Mary Dare 4; FtVicASA 8-14, 16, 25; FtVicCB 7; Wills; BCA BCGR-VICSMarriageL; Van-PL Colonist, Dec. 29, 1860, June 8, 1877, June 27, 1877; BCA Victoria Wesleyan Church records [born in "Thiddlehurst"] on Dec. 22, 1860 marriage licence SS: Helmcken, p. 125

Williams, Thomas [1] (c. 1783 - 1811) (American and possibly Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Virginia, United States - c. 1783

Death: Clayoquot Sound, Vancouver Island - June 1811

Maritime employee

PFC Cook, Tonquin (ship) (1810 - 1811).

Of full or part African ancestry, twenty-seven year old Thomas Williams joined John Jacob Astor's Tonquin [Jonathan Thorn] in New York as a cook some time before September 3, 1810 for its voyage to the Northwest Coast. Williams departed September 8 from New York and arrived at the mouth of the Columbia March 22. He stayed on the vessel as it proceeded north to Clayoquot Sound, Vancouver Island where he and most of the crew were killed.

PS: USNA Tonquin PPS: ChSoc XLV, p. 49

Williams, Thomas [2] (c. 1798 - ?) (British: Welsh)

Birth: St. Peter's, Carmarthen, South Wales - c. 1798

Fur trade employee

HBC Clerk, New Caledonia (1822 - 1823).

Thomas Williams joined the HBC on May 3, 1820 as a clerk for five years. While he worked for the HBC in New Caledonia in outfit 1822-1823, he appears to have been a very competent clerk.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 2

Williams, William (Old Bill) Sherley (1787 - 1849) (American)

Birth: Horse Creek, old Rutherford County, North Carolina, United States - June 3, 1787 (born to Joseph Williams and Sarah Musick)

Death: New Mexico, United States - March 21, 1849

Free trader

U.A. Trapper, Rock Mountain Rendezvous (1825).

William Sherley Williams was unusual for his time - he was more of a Renaissance man than a mountain man, having a critical knowledge of several native languages, Latin and Greek, as well as being conversant in literature, politics and comparative religion. He even tried his hand at watercolour sketches. Taken to St. Louis at the early age sixteen, the six-foot [183 cm] tall Williams went to trap near, live with, and marry into the Osage nation. In the War of 1812, he became a Mounted Ranger and later served as an interpreter. By 1821 Williams had produced a two-thousand word English-Osage dictionary. In 1824-1825 he was trapping on the Pacific slopes in the Flathead area and attended Rendezvous' from 1825 into the 1830s. His later activities were mainly in the Mexican held area and he was eventually killed in New Mexico.

PS: MHS Ashley 2 SS: Voelker, p. 193-222

Williamson, David (fl. 1852 - 1854) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (brigantine) (1852 - 1853).

David Williamson joined the HBC in London on June 24, 1852 and soon sailed to the coast on the Vancouver. He appears to have stayed on the vessel until August 1853 when it ran aground on the Queen Charlotte Islands and likely returned to London on an untraced vessel.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; FtVicASA 1

Williamson, James (fl. 1850 - 1852) (British: Scottish)

Birth: probably on or near Uist, Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Columbia Department (1851 - 1852).

James Williamson, from Uist, joined the HBC in 1850 on a contract that ended in 1855.

PS: HBCA YFASA 31

Williamson, Joseph (fl. 1853 - 1854) (Undetermined origin)

Maritime employee

HBC Untraced vocation, Mary Dare (brigantine) (1853 - 1854).

Joseph Williamson appeared briefly on HBC records in 1853-1854.

PS: HBCA FtVicASA 1-2

Williamson, Robert (fl. 1823 - 1824) (Undetermined origin)

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Lively (brig) (1823 - 1824).

Robert Williamson was a seaman aboard the Lively, a brig chartered by the HBC. On January 3, 1823, he sailed from

Table Bay, Cape of Good Hope and rounded the Horn in March. In July he witnessed an altercation between the ship's owner and captain, Robert Ritchie and the boy William Forbes; as a result he swore out a deposition on July 2, 1823. He further appeared at a court of enquiry held at Fort George August 3, 1823 to discuss the drinking habits of the 1st mate. Williamson sailed from Fort George three days later and arrived in England on March 25, 1824.

PS: HBCA log of Lively 1; ShipExt

Willing, Augustin [variation: Augustine Welling, Willings] (1819 - ?) (probably Canadian: English or Canadian: French)

Birth: Montreal, Lower Canada - June 4, 1819 (born to Augustin Willing and Marie Piquette)

Death: possibly West of the Rockies

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Vancouver general charges (1842 - 1843); Middleman, Fort Langley (1843 - 1848); Interpreter and assistant trader, Fort Langley (1848 - 1850); Middleman, Fort Langley (1850 - 1852); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1853 - 1854); Labourer, Fort Langley (1854 - 1858).

Augustin Willing joined the HBC from Montreal on April 9, 1841 as a middleman and spent his entire career at Fort Langley. Little is known of him but, in 1846, in response to the establishment of the international border, Willing along with sixteen others, unsuccessfully laid claim to 640 acres [259 ha] (one square mile) [2.6 sq. Km] of land around Fort Nisqually, land to which HBC/PSAC held possessory rights. His work was interrupted in the early 1850s but he worked from 1854-1858, finally retiring that year to work as an interpreter for the British Border Commission. He was still in the area in 1859-1860 but has not been traced after that.

Augustin Willing had one wife and two recorded children. On July 21, 1856 at Fort Langley, he married Julie (?-?), Saanich or Cowichan. Their children were George (1853-?) and Elisabeth (?-bap.1858-?).

PS: HBCA HBCCont; FtVanASA 7; YFASA 22-32; YFDS 19-20; FtVicASA 1-5, 7; FtLangCB 1; BCA PSACFtNis; BCCR StAndC SS: Morton, p. 267

Wilmot, John [variation: Wilmore, Willmore, Wilbner] (c. 1810 - ?) (British: English)

Birth: possibly London, England - c. 1810

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Nereide (barque) (1836 - 1838); Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1838 - 1845).

John Wilmot first joined the HBC ship Nereide on February 10, 1836 at the London docks for what was to be a nine-year service with the London Company. Three days later he sailed to the Northwest Coast where he arrived in August and continued with the ship as it traded along the coast. In 1837, he was part of a mutiny aboard the Nereide and he left on the HBC barque Columbia on November 1, 1838 for London where he arrived May 21, 1839. Nonetheless, he returned twice to the Pacific Coast on the Columbia and, on one return journey was appointed cook. He was likely quite familiar with the coast and its peoples by the time he finally returned to London on May 22, 1845.

One undelivered 1838 letter from his sister, Elizabeth Scott of Kingsland [Herefordshire], England rests in the HBCA. She was concerned as she was getting only half of John's wages from the HBC. She also asked John not to share the letter with his shipmates as she was "a shemed" of her poor writing.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 9, 14; FtVanASA 3-8; FDS 7, 9, 11; FtVanCB 18; log of Columbia 3, 4; YFASA 18, 20-21, 23-24; HBCA B.239/g/23, 34; MiscI 5 PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 120-21

Wilson, Andrew (fl. 1847 - 1849) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1847 - 1848); Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1848 - 1849).

Andrew Wilson joined the HBC barque Vancouver in London on September 22, 1847 and sailed to the coast. As his vessel was wrecked at the mouth of the Columbia when it arrived on May 7, 1848, the following month, at Fort Victoria, he was assigned to the schooner Cadboro. However, he deserted, most likely for the gold fields of California, on September 10, 1849.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 11; YFASA 28-29; YFDS 19-20; log of Cadboro 6

Wilson, Charles (fl. 1855 - 1856) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1855 - 1856).

Charles Wilson made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Wilson, Edward (fl. 1841 - 1847) (British: English)

Birth: probably London, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1841 - 1843); Seaman, Beaver (steamer) (1843 - 1845); Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1845 - 1847).

Edward Wilson joined the HBC in London on September 8, 1841 on a five-year contract. He worked on coastal shipping and arrived back in London on the barque Vancouver on July 13, 1847.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 11; log of Vancouver [3] 1; FtVanASA 7; YFASA 22-26; YFDS 17

Wilson, James (fl. 1815 - 1816) (Undetermined origin)

Maritime employee

NWC Seaman, Columbia (schooner) (1815).

James Wilson [1] signed on with the NWC schooner Columbia on July 21, 1815 while the ship was in the Columbia, probably at Fort George [Astoria]. He was paid off on February 10, 1816 while the ship was likely in southern China and impressed into service on HMS Horatio.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 1

Wilson, James [a] (1804 - ?) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: Stromness, Orkney - 1804 (born to Robert Wilson and Janet McKinnie or McKennie)

Maritime employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1828); Seaman, Columbia Department (1829 - 1830); Seaman, Fort Vancouver (1830 - 1831); Seaman, Dryad (brig) (1831 - 1833); Passenger, Ganymede (barque) (1833 - 1834).

James Wilson [a] joined the HBC probably in Stromness on January 4, 1828 as an able seaman for five years. He sailed to York Factory and came across the continent with the brigade to the Columbia where he began work as a seaman. He worked in coastal shipping until September 11, 1833 when he left for England aboard the barque Ganymede. James Wilson has not been tracked beyond his arrival in London on February 23, 1834.

Two 1833 letters, one undelivered letter from James' Orkney parents and one from his brother Robert in York Factory, rest at the HBCA. Robert, who stayed with the HBC until 1864, supported both parents who were getting frail, blind and deaf and were unable to run their farm. He chastised James for not doing the same.

PS: HBCA log of Prince Rupert IV 2; HBCCont; ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 9, 11-13; FtVanASA 2; YFDS 4b-5b; MiscI 5; Beattie & Buss, p. 43-48

Wilson, Robert [1] (fl. 1841 - 1843) (British: English)

Birth: probably London, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1841 - 1843).

Robert Wilson joined the HBC in London on September 1, 1841 on a five-year contract. He sailed to the coast on the barque Vancouver, but heavy drinking interfered with his work and at one point he was jailed at Oahu. As a result, the following year, on December 27, 1843, he was discharged from the vessel at Oahu on its return voyage and thus went off HBC records.

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 11; log of Vancouver [3], 1; FtVanASA 7; YFASA 22-23

Wilson, Robert [2] (fl. 1854 - 1855) (British)

Birth: possibly Stromness, Orkney

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Princess Royal (barque) (1854 - 1855).

Robert Wilson made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal. An undelivered 1854 Stromness, Orkney letter from his aunt and uncle, James and Barbara, rests at the HBCA.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; ShMiscPap; log of Princess Royal 1 PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 283-84

Wilson, William (fl. 1811 - 1822) (possibly Canadian: English)

Birth: possibly Montreal, Lower CanadaDeath: probably Upper Canada [Ontario]Fur trade employee

PFC Cooper, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (October 13, 1813); NWC Cooper, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (winter 1813 - 1814); Cooper, Pacific slopes (1819); HBC Boute, Columbia Department (1821 - 1822).

William Wilson first joined the NWC [John Clarke] from Montreal to work in the wild country for five years as a middleman and bowsman, or steersman after two years. He came to the Pacific slopes as a Pacific Fur Company cooper and joined the NWC in 1813 when the former was taken over by the latter. During his eight year service on the Pacific slopes, he saved his money for, in September, 1819, he paid a certain William England £25 to procure a patent for lands granted him in Upper Canada [Ontario]. However, he stayed in the area for two more years and was a member of a large group of NWC employees who transferred at the time of coalition in 1821 to the HBC. He appears to have left the area shortly after the coalition and likely went back to work his land in Upper Canada.

PS: SHdeSB Liste; HBCA NWCAB 10; HBCA NWCAB 4, 9, 10; YFASA 1, p. 80a

Wilson, William [b] [variation: Willson] (fl. 1826 - 1836) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: probably Kirkwall, Orkney (born to Donald and Jean Wilson)Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Cadboro (schooner) (1826 - 1830); Seaman, Eagle (brig) (1830 - 1831).

William Wilson [b] likely spent a good part of his life in his parents' rented cottage in Kirkwall, Orkney before joining the HBC on September 16, 1826 in London as a seaman for three years. Six days later, he sailed the Cadboro to the coast where he arrived in the spring of 1827. During the next three years on the coast he would have been part of a punitive expedition and witnessed the death of a fellow Orcadian crew member. As well during this time, he dutifully sent money home to his grateful parents who sent him warm socks and mittens in spite of the fact they were in dire straits as their cottage had been sold and torn down. He transferred to the Eagle in October 1, 1830 and sailed at the end of the month for London. He appears to have joined the Eagle again when it passed through Orkney on a Hudson Bay run in 1836.

Two undelivered 1830 Kirkwall, Orkney letters from his parents rest in the HBCA.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 4; log of Cadboro 1; YFASA 7-10; FtVanAB 10; FtVanASA 1-2; YFDS 2a, 3a, 4a; log of Eagle 3; MiscI 5 PPS: Beattie & Buss, p. 19-21

Wilson, William [c1] (fl. 1829 - 1832) (British: English)

Birth: possibly St. George in the East, Middlesex, EnglandMaritime employee

HBC Seaman, Isabella (brig) (1829 - 1830); Cook, Vancouver (schooner) (1830 - 1831); Seaman cook, Ganymede (barque) (1831 - 1832).

William Wilson [c] joined the HBC on October 31, 1829 as a seaman and cook for three years from St. George in the East, Middlesex, England. He appeared in the Columbia on the brig Isabella which was wrecked when it tried to cross the Columbia bar in May 1830. After a run to Oahu on the Vancouver, he returned to England on November 1, 1831 departing on the barque Ganymede. He appears to have completed one contract.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; log of Isabella 1; ShMiscPap 7, 14; FtVanASA 2; YFASA 9, 11; YFDS 7, 9 SS: Lewis & Dryden, p. 16

Wilson, William [c2] (fl. 1835 - 1839) (British: English)

Birth: possibly Devonport, Devon, EnglandMaritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1835 - 1836); Seaman, Beaver (steamer) (1835 - 1836); Seaman, Beaver (steamer) (1836 - 1838); Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1838 - 1839).

William Wilson [c2], possibly the same as William Wilson [c1], joined the HBC, on August 29, 1835, as a seaman for three years from Devonport [Devonport], Devon, England. He appeared to have different work habits than his namesake as revealed by the February 17, 1836 log entry of the steamer Beaver while it was anchored at Honolulu. On a Sunday, he went on shore leave against orders of Captain David Home. The Captain then asked the Hawaiian British Consul, Richard Charlton, to take Wilson off the ship for punishment but Wilson "showing great contrition for his offence and the rest of the people begging that he not be punished, and that they would be answerable for his conduct in the future, I [Home] reprimanded him and sent him to his duty" (Lewis & Dryden, p. 16). However, while ashore at Fort Simpson in May 1837, he was equally truculent, refusing to store wood on the steamer Beaver as it wasn't, according to him, the duty of a seaman. After John Work called him "a great forecastle lawyer," as he had encouraged others to join him, Work put him in irons until he promised to obey (FtSimp[N]PJ 3, fo. 108d). Wilson was caned for drunken insolence in January 1838, (FtSimp[N]PJ 3, fo. 166d-167) participated in a subsequent mutiny, and went off duty on March 27, 1838. He left the Columbia for England on the barque Columbia on November 1, 1838.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; ShMiscPap 7, 14; FtVanASA 3-5; YFASA 18; YFDS 9; log of Columbia 3; FtSimp[N]PJ 3 SS: Lewis & Dryden, p. 16

Winchcomb, Henry (fl. 1846 - 1848) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1845 - 1846); Seaman, Vancouver (barque) (1846 - 1847); Seaman, Columbia (barque) (1847 - 1848).

Henry Winchcomb shipped with the HBC in London on October 1, 1845 on a five-year contract and sailed to the coast on the Columbia. In May 1846 while the ship was on the Columbia River, he was accused of stealing soap; consequently, he got into a fight and was transferred to another vessel. Winchcomb rejoined the Columbia before it left the coast and arrived back in London on May 22, 1848.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; log of Columbia 9; YFASA 26-27

Wishart, David Durham (fl. 1850 - 1856) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime officer

HBC Commander, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1853); Commander, Princess Royal (barque) (1853 - 1856).

David Durham Wishart's work ran peripheral to the Columbia fur trade. He was in command of the HBC ship, Norman Morison, on all three of her voyages that brought settlers and servants from London to Vancouver Island between 1849-1853. On the first voyage, which arrived at Fort Victoria in March 25, 1850, he sold goods that he had brought with him to the locals and the remainder to the Company at fifty percent over prime cost (HBRS, XXXII, p. 121). The Company later objected to this practice and he had to discontinue such personal non-Company trade. In spite of Chief Factor James Douglas's many laudatory comments about Wishart, Wishart became annoyed at him when, in order to prevent desertions of crew members to California, Douglas doubled the wages of his crew of the Norman Morison without consulting Wishart (HBRS, XXXII, p. 187). This act angered Wishart and the Governor and Committee instructed Douglas not to do it again. On the second voyage the crew became mutinous over dirty ship's water, mouldy bread and tasteless tea. Douglas sentenced fifteen of them to twelve weeks in jail and had some difficulty getting the cargo away on time (HBRS, XXXII, p. 230). Wishart commanded one more voyage of the Norman Morison to Vancouver Island, arriving on January 16, 1853. By 1854, Wishart was in command of the Princess Royal that brought coal miners from England to Nanaimo. In 1856 he relinquished command of the ship to Captain J. S. Trivett because of an aversion to James Douglas at Fort Victoria. He then sailed on other HBC ships to Hudson Bay for a number of years, but not to Vancouver Island.

PS: HBCA PortB 1; YFASA 30-31; FtVicASA 2-5 PPS: HBRS, XXXII, p. 79, 87, 120, 120n, ibid Douglas' Sept 13, 1850 letter to Barclay, A.11/72, fo. 315-316d, p. 121; ibid p. 121n, ibid Douglas' May 1, 1851 letter to Barclay, A.11/73, fo. 126-127d, p. 187, ibid, p. 188; Douglas' Nov. 23, 1851 letter to Barclay, A.11/73, fo. 210-213; ibid 230, 231, 245; Helmcken, p. 76n2

Wishart, George (fl. 1849 - 1850) (British)

Birth: possibly Orphir, Orkney (born to James and Ann Wishart)

Death: Shushatie (near Fort Rupert) [British Columbia] - July 7, 1850

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1850); Untraced vocation, Fort Rupert (July, 1850).

George Wishart was in his late teens when he left England in 1849 as a seaman aboard the HBC Norman Morison on its first voyage to Vancouver Island. On May 11, 1850, shortly after his arrival at Fort Victoria Wishart deserted and, with fellow deserters Alfred F. Hale, Charles Lobb and his brother James, was secreted aboard a coal carrier, the barque England, then at anchor in the Offing. The vessel then sailed to Fort Rupert with the deserters on board. Fearing punishment from the local magistrate at the fort, the deserters fled to an island and were killed by the Newitsee or Haida Indians after one of them destroyed a canoe with a stone. George was stripped and put in a hollow tree. After his body was located, he was brought back to nearby Fort Rupert on July 16 and buried. (For a complete story of the misadventure and subsequent reaction, see entry for Alfred F. Hale.)

One undelivered 1850 London letter from his father rests in the HBCA. It was written a matter of days before George was killed.

Wishart, James (fl. 1849 - 1850) (British)

Birth: possibly Orphir, Orkney (born to James and Ann Wishart)

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Norman Morison (barque) (1849 - 1850); Untraced vocation, Fort Rupert (July, 1850).

James Wishart received cash in England and Canada from the HBC for the journey as a crew member to Vancouver Island aboard the supply and immigrant ship, Norman Morison. After arriving at Fort Victoria/Esquimalt harbour on March 24, 1850, James, his brother George Wishart, Charles Lobb and Albert F. Hale, no doubt enticed by the stories of gold in California, deserted the Norman Morison on May 11 for the coal carrier, the barque England lying at anchor nearby. The England then sailed north to Fort Rupert with the four deserters aboard. After arriving in waters off the fort, the deserters got word that the newly appointed magistrate, Dr. John Sebastian Helmcken, was coming on board to apprehend them. What transpired after that is somewhat unclear for James either hid himself on board or left on a canoe with the three others. George Wishart, Charles Lobb and Albert F. Hale, however, were murdered by the Newitsee Indians when the three deserters, in fear for their lives, had attacked them. After Fort Rupert's apprentice clerk Charles Beardmore unsuccessfully tried to gain the surrender of the murderers from the Newitsee village, he returned to the England to get some assistance and have some of the crew to identify the murder victims. James Wishart, apparently having returned to the England, was at the rail:

...a brother of one of the murdered men, threatened to jump down and be revenged, and being prevented said he would sail about for twenty years to be revenged... (Helmcken, p. 318).

James sailed away on the England for California and has not subsequently been traced.

One undelivered 1850 London letter from his father rests in the HBCA. (see George Wishart, above.)

PS: HBCA PortB 1; log of Norman Morison 1; YFASA 30-32; MiscI 5 PPS: HBRS XXXII, p. lxxii-lxxviii, 124-127; Helmcken, p. 312-318; Beattie & Buss, p. 248-52

See Also: Hale, Albert F.; Wishart, George (Brother); Lobb, Charles

Woahoo (fl. 1845 - 1847) (probably Hawaiian)

Birth: probably Hawaiian Islands

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, Fort Vancouver depot (1845 - 1847).

Woahoo joined the HBC in 1845 in Oahu on a three-year contract. He worked at Fort Vancouver until October 15, 1847, at which point he returned to Oahu.

PS: HBCA YFASA 25-27; YFDS 18

Wood, Harry (fl. 1854 - 1855) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Boy, Princess Royal (barque) (1854 - 1855).

Harry Wood made one return voyage to the coast on the HBC supply vessel, Princess Royal.

PS: HBCA PortB 1

Wood, Thomas (fl. 1829 - 1833) (British: Welsh)

Birth: probably in or near Manorbier, Pembroke, Wales

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Isabella (brig) (1829 - 1830); Seaman, Vancouver (schooner) (1830); Seaman, Dryad (brig) (1830 - 1831); Seaman, Naval Department (1831 - 1832); Seaman, Fort Simpson naval service (1832 - 1833); Seaman, Eagle (brig) (1832 - 1833).

Thomas Wood joined the HBC on October 31, 1829 as a seaman and sailed to the Northwest Coast on the brig Isabella which was wrecked at the mouth of the Columbia in May 1830. He spent the next three years servicing coastal posts and returned to England on the brig Eagle on October 26, 1832 at the end of his contract

PS: HBCA log of Isabella 1; ShMiscPap 14; FtVanASA 2; YFASA 11-12; YFDS 5a

Wood, William (fl. 1838 - 1843) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Edinburgh, Scotland

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice, Columbia (barque) (1838 - 1839); Clerk, Columbia Department (1839 - 1840); Clerk, Snake Party (1840 - 1841); Apprentice clerk, Honolulu (1841).

William Wood came to the coast as a HBC apprentice seaman on the barque Columbia. After servicing coastal posts, he arrived back in London in the spring of 1839 and signed on with the HBC as a "clerk for general service" for three years. He worked in both the Columbia Department and Oahu, retired in 1841 near the end of his contract, and was still working on Honolulu in 1843.

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 5; HBCCont; ShMiscPap 14; YFASA 19-20, 22; FtVanASA 6-7; ShMiscPap, 14; SandIsM 1

Woodman, John (fl. 1832 - 1833) (American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Fur trade employee

Wyeth Member, Wyeth's 1st Expedition (1832 - 1833).

John Woodman, as a member of the 1st expedition of Nathaniel J. Wyeth, travelled from New England across the Rockies to Fort Vancouver in 1832. When he was released by Wyeth from the expedition at Fort Vancouver in October or November, 1832, he did not appear to work for the HBC as some of his fellow adventurers did. However, in 1833, Woodman, along with expedition member Wiggin Abbott, was rehired by Wyeth for the return journey. Woodman didn't get very far, however, as he quarrelled with Wyeth in the Flathead River area and was released with half pay on April 28, 1833. The following month he reappeared, half starved, and was not heard from again. He may have joined another trapping company at the Rendezvous in July, but this is only speculation.

PPS: N. J. Wyeth, p. 191 SS: Overmeyer, p. 100

Woodworth, John (fl. 1835 - 1836) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Ganymede (barque) (1835 - 1836).

John Woodworth was engaged at Fort Vancouver on September 10, 1835 as a seaman and sailed on the Ganymede on a round trip voyage to Oahu. He left the Columbia on May 3, 1836 supposedly for a return voyage to London. However, on September 18, 1836 he deserted in Valparaíso along with William Wade and thus goes off record.

PS: HBCA YFASA 15, 17; YFDS 6; log of Ganymede 4; FtVanASA 3; ShMiscPap 14

Work, John (c. 1792 - 1861) (Irish)

Birth: County Donegal, Ireland - c. 1792 (born to Henry Wark and Sarah McAdoo)

Death: Victoria, British Columbia - December 22, 1861

Fur trade officer

HBC Clerk, Spokane House [Fort Spokane, Spokane Falls] (1823 - 1825); Clerk and manager, Flathead Post [Fort Connah, Saleesh House] (1825 - 1826); Clerk, Fort Colville (1826 - 1829); Clerk, Flathead Post [Fort Connah, Saleesh House] (1829 - 1830); Chief Trader, Snake Party (1830 - 1832); Trader, Bonaventura (Sacramento) Valley expedition (1832 - 1833); Chief Trader, Fort Vancouver general charges (1833 - 1834); Chief Trader, South Party (1834); Chief Trader, Fort Vancouver (1834); Chief Trader, Lama (brig) (1835 - 1837); Chief Trader, Pacific slopes (1835 - 1837); Chief Trader, Fort Simpson (1837 - 1846); Chief Factor, Fort Simpson (1846 - 1849); Chief Factor, Columbia Department (1850 - 1858); Chief Factor, Columbia Department (1859 - 1860); Chief Factor, Fort Victoria (1861 - 1861).

Twenty-two year old Irish born John Wark joined the HBC from Stromness, Orkney as a writer on June 15, 1814, changing his name at that time to Work. He began his career at York Factory as a steward and rose through the ranks to become clerk. After he and Peter Skene Ogden went west of the Rockies to Spokane House in 1823, he participated in a variety of excursions and was often on the move. For example, Work helped construct Fort Colville and accompanied James McMillan to the Fraser River to seek a site for the future Fort Langley; as well, in June 1829, he was part of the group that sought restitution from the Clatsops for the property taken from the wrecked William & Ann. He also led expeditions into the Snake, Flathead and southerly areas and in 1834, when he succeeded his friend Ogden in the management of the coastal trade, he made several trips up and down the coast. The Work family left Port Simpson in 1850 for Victoria where they bought land. He held both a management position in the Company and, from 1857, was a member of the Legislative Council of the Colony of Vancouver Island, until his death on December 22, 1861.

John Work had two successive wives and thirteen children. Earlier in his life he married a native woman from Red River and had two daughters. In 1825 George Simpson suggested to Dr. John McLoughlin that Work marry the daughter of a Cayuse chief to cement relations but this does not appear to have happened for, in 1826 at Fort Spokane, he took as a wife, Josette Legace (c.1812-96), the daughter of Pierre Legace and Emma, the daughter of a Nez Perce chief. They formalized their marriage on November 6, 1849. Together they had twelve children: Jane (1827-80), Sarah (1829-1906), Letitia (1831-1910), Margaret (1836-1907), Mary (1837-1919), John (1839-1886), Catherine (1842-1869), Josette (1843-?), Henry (1844-56), David (1846-78), Cecilia Josephine (1849-?) and possibly Suzette (1854-97).

Work Channel, Observatory Inlet, Wark Island, Graham Reach and Work Point in Victoria Harbour are named after John Work.

Manuscripts: Work left behind extensive journals, the originals of which are at the HBCA and UBCSC; transcripts can be found in the BCA. Many have been reprinted in the British Columbia, Washington, Oregon and California Historical quarterlies.
PS: HBCA FtVanASA 1-8; YFASA 3-6, 8-9, 11-12, 17-18, 24, 27-32; YFDS 4b-5a, 6-7; FtVicASA 1-10; FtVicCB 22; SimpsonCB; Wills; HBCABio; BCA BCGR-CrtR-AbstLnd; PSACFtNis; BCCR CCCath; Van-PL 1881 Canada Census, Vancouver District, Victoria sub district, Johnson St. Ward PPS: HBRS IV, p. 356-58; HBRS XXX, p. 199; Van-PL Colonist, Dec. 22, 1861, p. 3 SS: Lugin, p. 60-64; Walbran, p. 522-523
See Also: Finlayson, Roderick (Son-in-Law); Grahame, James Allen (Son-in-Law); Huggins, Edward (Son-in-Law); Legace, Peter Jr. (Relative); Work, John Jr. (Son); Legace, Charles (Relative); Tolmie, William Fraser (Son-in-Law)

Work, John Jr. (fl. 1851 - 1852) (Mixed descent)

Birth: probably Fort Simpson [Nass], British Columbia - 1839 (born to John Work and Josette Legace)

Death: 1886

Fur trade employee

HBC Apprentice clerk, Fort Simpson (1851 - 1852).

John Work Jr. followed his father's footsteps in the HBC.

PS: HBCA YFASA 31
See Also: Work, John (Father); Tolmie, William Fraser (Relative)

Worth, John (fl. 1823 - 1824) (British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime officer

HBC 2nd mate, Lively (brig) (1823 - 1824).

John Worth was a second mate aboard the Lively, a brig chartered by the HBC. On January 3, 1823, he sailed from Table Bay, Cape of Good Hope and rounded the Horn in March. In July he witnessed an altercation between the ship's owner and captain, Robert Ritchie and the boy William Forbes; as a result he swore out a deposition on July 2, 1823 (log of Lively, fo. 93d). He later appeared at a court of enquiry held at Fort George on August 3, 1823 regarding the conduct of the 1st mate, Mr. H. M. Hartridge who had been inebriated (ibid, fo. 109d). Hartridge was replaced, not by Worth, but by the carpenter, Mr. Miller. A bypassed (and probably unhappy) Mr. Worth sailed from Fort George two days later and, on December 30th, went on shore without leave at Rio de Janeiro (ibid, fo. 184). He turned up two days later having spent New Year's Eve in Rio (ibid, fo. 185). The ship soon sailed and Worth arrived in England on March 25, 1824.

PS: HBCA log of Lively 1; ShipExt

Wright, Augustus (fl. 1824 - 1825) (American)

Birth: probably United States of America

Maritime employee

MW Boy, Convoy (brig) (1825).

Augustus Wright shipped aboard the Convoy [William Henry McNeill] in Boston as a ship's boy before it sailed for the Northwest Coast on October 25, 1824. Unlike fellow ship's boy, William White, Augustus did not desert when the ship touched at San Fernandez Island. After arriving at Honolulu on March 16, 1825 and discharging cargo, it took on supplies for the Northwest Coast, departing April 1. Wright and the vessel traded for a season, returning to Honolulu November 2. It is not known whether he continued to sail with the Convoy back to the Northwest Coast for the 1826-1827 trading seasons.

PS: BCA log of Convoy SS: Howay, A List of Trading Vessels

Wyeth, Nathaniel Jarvis (1802 - 1856) (American)

Birth: Massachusetts, United States - January 29, 1802 (born to Jacob Wyeth and Elizabeth Jarvis)

Death: Cambridge, Massachusetts – August 31, 1856

Fur trade officer

Wyeth Guest, Fort Vancouver (winter 1833); Builder, Fort Hall (1834); Builder, Fort William (1835); Gratuity for services, Fort Vancouver Indian Trade (1835 - 1836).

Nathaniel J. Wyeth twice tried unsuccessfully to establish a commercial enterprise on the Pacific slopes. In 1831, fired up by Boston schoolmaster Hall J. Kelly about the possibilities of a commercial and agricultural colony on the Columbia River, Wyeth launched a loosely organized westward expedition. While sending a supply ship, the Sultana, around the Horn, his overland expedition of twenty-four men left the Boston area on March 11, 1832, with impractical wheeled boat-wagons which were abandoned in Independence [Missouri]. On the way, several men deserted (including his younger brother), but Wyeth continued west for a month with a party of Milton G. Sublette and arrived at Fort Vancouver on October 29th, with only eleven of his original party. Because his supply ship was wrecked on the Society Islands and Wyeth had to rely on the HBC and winter over at Fort Vancouver, he discharged his men and in February 1833, headed east. On his way back he struck an agreement M. G. Sublette on behalf of the Rocky Mountain Fur Company to bring out three thousand dollars worth of merchandise for trade. He arrived at Cambridge, Mass. on November 7, 1833 where he organized a second expedition under the Columbia River Fishing and Trading Company. Wyeth and company now had plans for fur trading posts, a salmon fishery, a colony, etc., and sent the May Dacre around the Horn to meet him at the Columbia once again. This time he left Boston on February 7, 1834 accompanied by missionaries Jason and Daniel Lee and scientists Thomas Nuttall and John Kirk Townsend and others. However, Milton's older brother William L. Sublette and Thomas Fitzpatrick refused to honour the contract, dissolved the Rocky Mountain Fur Company and formed a new one, thus shutting out Wyeth. Burdened now with surplus goods, the practical minded Wyeth set up Fort Hall (named after a business partner) in July-August 1834 on the Snake River and arrived in Fort Vancouver two months later on September 14th. This time, most of the fifty-eight expedition members made it onto the Pacific slopes. After laying out his own farm in the Willamette Valley, he constructed Fort William on Wapato [Sauvie] Island from where he shipped lumber and salmon to Hawaii. Even though he gained the admiration and friendship of Fort Vancouver's John McLoughlin, Wyeth could not stand up to competition from the London company. Within a year, fourteen of his men were lost through drowning and encounters with the natives. Others became ill, just as Wyeth did in 1835; consequently, he sold Fort Hall to the HBC and returned east in 1836, a defeated man. A year later, however, he petitioned Congress for a land grant on Sauvie's Island claiming that he had established an orchard there. Nevertheless, Wyeth stayed in Boston and returned to his old business of shipping ice to the West Indies.

In 1824 he married his cousin, Elizabeth Jarvis, but did not raise a family on the Pacific slopes.

Published manuscripts: Selected Wyeth correspondence from 1831-1836 was compiled and published in 1899 by the University of Oregon and the Oregon Historical Society. Included are business and personal correspondence as well as two journals. The journal of his first expedition (June 6, 1832-Sept. 30, 1833) begins thirty-five days into the expedition. The journal of the second expedition runs from May 5, 1834-April 13, 1835. The Oregon Historical Society retains the Columbia River Fishing and Trading Company Letterbook, 1839-1837 as well as the Fort Hall Account Books July 31, 1834-August 1837, consisting of two ledgers and a journal.
PS: HBCA YFASA 13, 15; YFDS 7; FtVanASA 4; N. J. Wyeth's Dec. 5, 1836 letter to HBC Gov. & Committee A.10/3, fos. 496-97; OHS FtHallAB; CRFTCCB; MHS Chouteau PPS: N. J. Wyeth; J. B. Wyeth SS: Chittenden, p. 434-56; DAB Shafer; Hussey, Champoe; Place of, p. 68-71; OHS Oregonian, April 12, 1888

Yale , James Murray [variation: Yeal] (c. 1798 - 1871) (Canadian: English)

Birth: Lachine, Lower Canada - c. 1798

Death: Stromness, Burnside Rd., Victoria, British Columbia - May 7, 1871

Fur trade officer

HBC Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1821 - 1823); Clerk, Fort George [New Caledonia] (1821 - 1824); Untraced vocation, Fort Alexandria (summer 1824); Untraced vocation, Fort St. James (1825 - 1826); Untraced vocation, Fort Alexandria (1826 - 1827); Medical reasons, Fort Vancouver (1827 - 1828); Untraced vocation, Fort Langley (1828 - 1859); Chief Trader in charge, Fort Langley (1833 - 1859).

James Murray Yale, a diminutive man under five feet [152 cm] in height, joined the HBC in 1815 as a clerk at Fort Wedderburn. On April 2, 1817, during the heady years of HBC-NWC conflict, he suffered the indignity of being made prisoner by the NWC at Fort Chipewyan. After being dismissed as prisoner in September, he worked east of the Rockies until 1820. From 1821, until his retirement in 1862, he served out the rest of his time in New Caledonia and Columbia districts. Early carelessness, however, seems to have limited his advancement. In 1823 at Fort George, while he had left the post unsupervised to visit friends, his native wife was caught having an affair with a man by two servants, Joseph Bagnoit and Belonie Duplant, who were murdered to cover their discovery. Even though Yale was exonerated, he was thought to be negligent. Given the additional factor that George Simpson felt Yale's education was too limited, he was not promoted to Chief Trader until outfit 1843-44. (A descendant felt that Simpson suffered from a short-man syndrome and because Yale was actually shorter than him, could easily dominate him by holding back promotions.) Yale was well thought of and trusted by the men with whom he worked but never advanced beyond Chief Trader even though he had been put in charge of Fort Langley from the time of the departure of Archibald McDonald in 1833. Yale went on furlough in outfit 1859-60 and retired soon after - he settled near Victoria. There, he built a house which he gave to his daughter and son-in-law, John Manson. He died in 1871 in Victoria.

James Murray Yale had at least three wives and several daughters. The first, at Fort George, a daughter of Talphe, had been previously purchased by a Carrier man and, even though she was married to Yale, continued the relationship with her Carrier husband. At Fort George, when she was caught with her husband by the two HBC servants, the two men were murdered and the wife ran away with the murderers. At Fort Langley on November, 18, 1828, Yale married Quaitlin Chief Nicamuns' daughter, who was actually married to a man named Scatchad. However, in 1833, this second wife abandoned Yale and her baby, Eliza (c.1829-?) who had to be taken care of by Yale. James Murray Yale then chose a third wife; their children were Aurelia (1839-1931) and Isabella (1840-?).

Fort Yale [Yale, B.C.] was named after James Murray Yale.

PS: HBCA YFASA 1-6, 8-9, 11-15, 17-20, 23-24, 27-32; FtVanASA 1-8; YFDS 3a, 6-7; FtVicASA 1-14; FtLangPJ 1-3; SimpsonCB; Wills; Van-PL Colonist, Jan. 20, 1931 PPS: HBR5 I, p. 473-74; HBR5 XXII, p. 505; HBR5 XXX, p. 230 SS: DCB Lamb; Lugin; BCA Diar-Rem Yale; Morton, p. 214; Yale descendant
See Also: Manson, John Duncan (Son-in-Law)

Yates, James (1819 - 1900) (British: Scottish)

Birth: Linlithgow, Scotland - January 21, 1819

Death: Porto Belle, a suburb of Edinburgh, Scotland - February 24, 1900

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Harpooner (barque) (1848 - 1849); Shipwright, Beaver (ship) (1849 - 1850); Shipwright, Fort Victoria (1850 - 1851).

The early life of James Yates is not clear. According to a biographer, when he was young, James Yates' parents moved him to Fifeshire where he grew up and was educated, although Bishop George Hills claimed that he came from Orkney; both may be true. As early as 1843, he was on runs to Hudson Bay on the Prince Rupert as a ship's carpenter and in 1849 arrived at Fort Victoria on the Harpooner. For the next eighteen months he superintended the discharge and freighting of cargo. He continued to work as a shipwright and on January 29, 1851 became a freeman having had his articles successfully cancelled. According to Huggins, Yates had a querulous disposition and the Board of Management was happy to see him go. At the end of eighteen months he purchased acreage and started his own business as a liquor merchant, real estate dealer and trader - businesses at which he was very successful. Yates continued to carry on transactions with the HBC until 1856. In 1856 he was elected to the first Legislative Assembly of Vancouver Island as a representative of Victoria. In 1860, having made his fortune, he took his family back to Scotland where he settled at Porto Bello, a suburb of Edinburgh. He returned to Vancouver for two years to sort out his land ownership claims, returning to Scotland for the last time in 1864.

James Yates married Mary Powell (1824-98), daughter of Welsh architect, Evan Powell, in October 1848, just before they sailed. Together they had seven children: Emma Frances (?-bap.1850-?) named after Emma Staines, Harriet Elizabeth Sinclair (?-bap.1851-?), Agnes (1853-56), Mary (1854-?), James Stuart (1857-1950), Harry (1859-1907) and Catherine Jane (1861-?).

PS: HBCA log of Prince Rupert V 3, 6, 9; PortB 1; YFASA 29-31; FtVicASA 1-4; HBCABio; TacP-FtNis Huggins, Mar. 1, 1900; BCA AbstLnd; BCCR CCCath; AngProvS Hills; Van-PL Colonist, February 24, 1900, p. 2 SS: Kerr, p. 325; Helmcken, p. 112, fn1; <http://www/maureenduffus.com>; family descendant

Yates, William (1833 - ?) (British: Shetlander)

Birth: Lerwick, Shetland Islands, United Kingdom - July 16, 1833

Death: probably Hope area, British Columbia

Fur trade employee

HBC Labourer, New Caledonia general charges (1851 - 1852); Labourer, Fort Langley (1851 - 1852); Untraced vocation, New Caledonia (1852 - 1853); Labourer, New Caledonia (1853 - 1855); Untraced vocation, Fort Langley (1855 - 1857); Labourer, Fort Langley (1857 - 1859); Untraced vocation, Columbia Department (1859 - 1861); Untraced vocation, Fort Hope (1861 - 1862); Labourer, Fort Hope (1862 - 1865); Post master, Fort Hope (1865 - 1870); Post master, Fort Hope (1871 - 1887); Post master, Fort Hope (1890 - 1891).

William Yates island hopped at a young age with his family to Stromness, Orkney where his boatbuilding father found work. In 1849 at the age of sixteen, young William was recruited from Stromness by Dr. Hamilton for the HBC and in 1851 he crossed the Rockies to New Caledonia through the Yellow Head Pass and Tete Jaune Cache with thirty others. His first six months were spent at Fort George and the next three years at Fort St. James working under Donald Manson, as well as McLeod Lake, where for six months he was left in charge as a tender or clerk. In 1854 he came to Fort Langley where, under James Yale, he tried unsuccessfully to open up the Chilliwack area for Company farm animals. At one point he was sent to Fort Yale to assist in construction at the trading house. He was in charge of the Fort Hope store for a considerable time and during this time saw the miners passing through for the gold rush, river gunfights which were wrongly blamed on the natives as well as the wrongful hanging of a native, the dismantling of the fort palisades, the closing of the store, the accidental blowing up of one of the fort cannons by an amateur, etc. For many years he also had a wild gander which seemed to terrorize all but him. On October 1, 1859, he pre-empted forty acres [16.2 ha] 1.5 miles [2.4 km] northeast of Hope on the east side of the Quequella River. Yates' ability to speak several languages, including: French, Cayuse French, several Algonkian languages (besides the local Salishan dialects), allowed him to keep the peace between the miners and the local natives during the turbulent times of the gold rush.

William Yates had one wife, Mary Yiamtenal (c.1846-?), a native, and four children. His children were William (1863-?), Christina (1870-?), Louisa (1873-?) and James (1879-27?).

PS: HBCA YFASA 31-32; YFDS 22; FtVicASA 1-16; Van-PL 1881 Canada Census, Yale District; BCA Diar-Rem Yates
PPS: Allison, p. 7, 11, 91n SS: Laing, p. 220

Yorke, George [variation: York] (fl. 1850 - 1852) (Undetermined ethnicity)

Fur trade employee

HBC Middleman, Fort Alexandria (1850 - 1851); Middleman, Thompson River (1851 - 1852).

George Yorke worked for the HBC and retired in outfit 1851-1852, and may have remained for a short time in the area.

PS: BCA FtAlex; HBCA YFASA 30-32; FtVicASA 1-3

Yorston, Magnus (fl. 1839 - 1842) (British: Orcadian Scot)

Birth: probably in or near St. Ola, Orkney, United Kingdom

Death: probably British Isles

Fur trade employee

HBC Passenger, Prince Rupert IV (ship) (1838); House carpenter, Columbia Department general charges (1839 - 1840); Passenger, Prince Rupert V (barque) (1842).

Magnus Yorston joined the HBC on March 26, 1838 as a house carpenter for five years. He was most likely heading for the Columbia but remained in the Saskatchewan District and returned to the British Isles in 1842.

PS: HBCA log of Prince Rupert IV 11; YFASA 19; log of Prince Rupert V 1

Young, Ewing (c. 1810 - 1841) (American)

Birth: Knox County, Tennessee, United States - c. 1810

Death: Oregon Territory, Pacific Northwest - February 1841

Free trader

U.A. Settler, Willamette Valley (1834 - 1841).

Ewing Young only very briefly tapped into the HBC fur trade by selling furs to the Company. He had little formal schooling and became a cabinet maker but then turned to trapping, working in and out of the California area from 1828-1831. In 1834, in San Diego he met Oregon promoter Hall Jackson Kelly and along with twelve others and two-hundred Californian horses went to Fort Vancouver, arriving October 27, 1834. However, as the horses were suspected as having been stolen (FtVanCB 10, fo. 35), John McLoughlin would have nothing to do with him, although he was given credit for some of his furs. In November 1834 he established a claim on the bank of the Willamette opposite Champoege seeking additional income through distilling which prompted a petition against him in 1838. His name was partially cleared a year earlier in 1837, when with the help of the U.S. Navy's William A. Slacum, he organized the Willamette Cattle Company and with ten others, brought in six-hundred head of cattle north. In 1838 he also erected a sawmill and had become a respected citizen by the time of his death three years later. His death however, presented problems, for he was without heirs and there was a need to probate his rather substantial estate. This called for the election of a probate judge. An heir in the form of a Joaquim Young did turn up after the probate and was awarded almost $5000.00 as settlement by the Oregon Provisional Government.

The name of his wife in Taos has not been traced.

PS: HBCA YFDS 10; FtVanCB 10, McLoughlin's Nov. 18, 1834 letter to Governor, fo. 35 SS: Brosnan, "The Signers", p. 180-181; DAB Ghent; Holmes, Ewing Young, p. 180

Young, Francis (fl. 1828) (British: English)

Birth: probably Northumberland, England

Maritime employee

HBC Seaman, Columbia Department (1828).

Francis Young joined the HBC on September 6, 1828 for three years. He was assigned to ships servicing the Columbia but did not appear on those abstracts.

PS: HBCA HBCCont

Young, Robert (fl. 1830 - 1833) (probably British)

Birth: probably British Isles

Maritime officer

HBC 2nd mate, Dryad (brig) (1830 - 1831); 1st mate, Dryad (brig) (1831 - 1832); 2nd mate, Eagle (brig) (1832 - 1833).

Robert Young joined the HBC in England on January 9, 1830 as second mate for three years. He arrived in the Columbia where he worked on coastal shipping for the next two years. Robert Young left the Columbia for London on the brig Eagle on October 25, 1832 at the end of his contract.

PS: HBCA HBCCont; FtVanASA 2; YFDS 4a-5a; YFASA 11-12; log of Dryad 1

Zastre, Gonzague [variation: Gonraque] (c. 1800 - ?) (Canadian: German and French)

Birth: Berthier, Lower Canada - c. April 5, 1800 (born to Jean-André Zass and Marie Coutray)

Death: probably East of the Rocky Mountains

Fur trade employee

HBC Steersman, Columbia Department or New Caledonia (1826 - 1827); Steersman, New Caledonia (1827 - 1828).

Gonzague Zastre, born Louis Gonzague Isaac Zastre and whose surname is a combination of his parents' surnames, joined the fur trade around 1819 from Berthier and in outfits 1821-1826 worked in the Athabasca. He was in New Caledonia from 1826-1828 at which point he went out with the Express to the Saskatchewan district where he worked until 1831, becoming a freeman trapper. He, along with his wife and six children, all joined up with the Red River emigrants to come to the Columbia. However, they had second thoughts at Edmonton and dropped out (PSACMisc 1). He did not turn up on further Pacific slopes records. At that point, it was noted he was a trapper.

Zastre married Angelique Parisien (?-?) on May 28, 1833 at St. Boniface, Red River [Manitoba], daughter of Jean Baptiste Parisien Sr. & Lisette or Louise Bercier.

PS: HBCA YFASA 1-2, 4-7, 9; FtVanASA 1; FtVanAB 10, 15; FtCol Mis 1; PSACMisc 1; HBCAbio

Appendices

Fur Trade Posts or Forts

Fur trade posts were more than physical structures grounded in a virgin exploitable landscape and justified with profit and loss statements. The posts were negotiated spaces in which people lived, worked and forged relationships, all set within a context of numerically superior and well-established natives and native cultures. The planners and builders of the fur trade posts usually chose native nexus points of trade, food gathering and cultural activities that had developed over the millennia. Negotiation for space was made easier by the fact that the post stores contained a myriad of items on which, in exchange for natives bringing in furs as well as food, the local population grew more dependent. As a bonus, natives of the immediate area, the “homeguard” so to speak, could exact a toll from more distant peoples trading at the posts. This quid pro quo arrangement gave the fur trade companies and natives a mutual security and, for the companies, access to well-established trails and routes to effect business. Relationships were forged and families developed, forever changing the lives of not only the native population but also the fur traders, their families and children. The posts then were agencies of change both for the people working in them as well as for the indigenous populations. Conflict resolution was only sometimes bloody and most often resolved peacefully by compensation. On another level, fur trade posts were the embodiment of “Lives Lived.”

Sometimes the end dates of operation of a post are difficult to ascertain as there was often a phasing out of operation. Sometimes the posts’ operations morphed into stores which were placed nearby offsite or the posts were sold to private interests and continued under different ownership. Other times records do not give an indication of when operations ceased.

The Fur Trade Posts and Expeditions by Geographic Area

New Caledonia Posts

IMAGE 77 Map of New Caledonia Posts. Google Maps, 2010.

1. McLeod Lake Post (NWC-HBC) 1805-1968
2. Fort St. James (NWC-HBC) 1806-1952
3. Fraser Lake (NWC-HBC) 1806-1914

4. Fort George [NC] (NWC-HBC) 1807-1915
5. Fort Babine (HBC) 1822-1971
6. Fort Alexandria (NWC-HBC) 1821-1960s
7. Fort Chilcotin (HBC) 1829-1844
8. Tluz-Kuz Post (HBC) 1844-1849
9. Connolly Post (HBC) 1827-1892

Kootenay River Posts

IMAGE 78 Map of Kootenay River Posts. Google Maps, 2010.

1. Kootenae House (NWC) 1807-1814
2. Kootenai Falls House (NWC) 1808-1809
3. Kootenai House (NWC) 1813-1821
4. Kootenay Fort (PFC) 1813-1814
5. Kooteney Post (HBC) 1821-1871

Flathead Posts

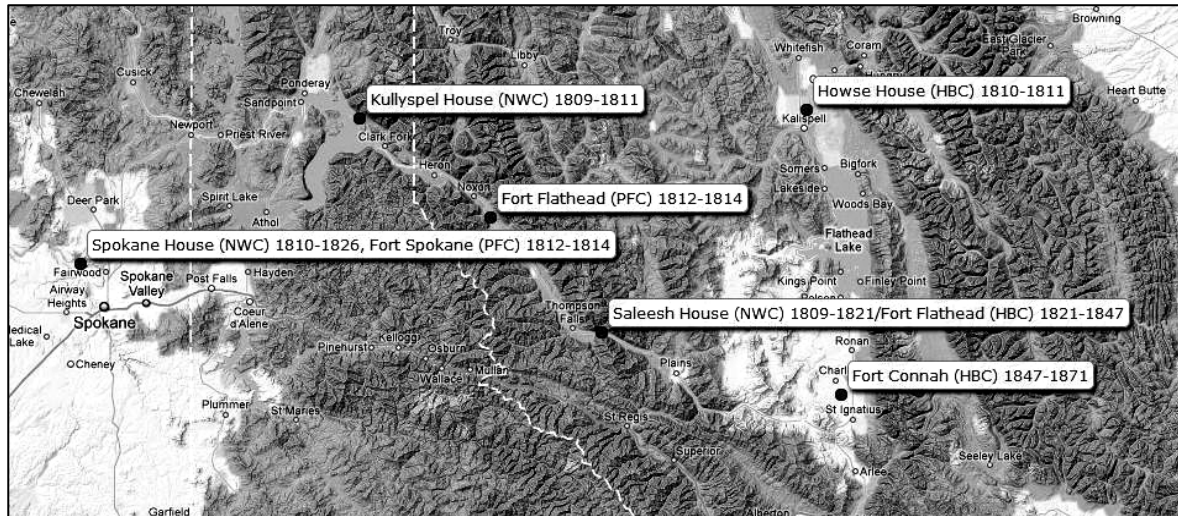

IMAGE 79 Map of Flathead Posts. Google Maps, 2010.

1. Kullyspel House (NWC) 1809-1811
2. Saleesh House (NWC) 1809-1821
3. Spokane House (NWC) 1810-1826, Fort Spokane (PFC) 1812-1814
4. Howse House (HBC) 1810-1811
5. Fort Flathead (PFC) 1812-1814
6. Fort Flathead/Saleesh House (HBC) 1821-1847
7. Fort Connah (HBC) 1847-1871
8. Jeremy Pinch's Establishment 1807

Snake River Posts and Expeditions

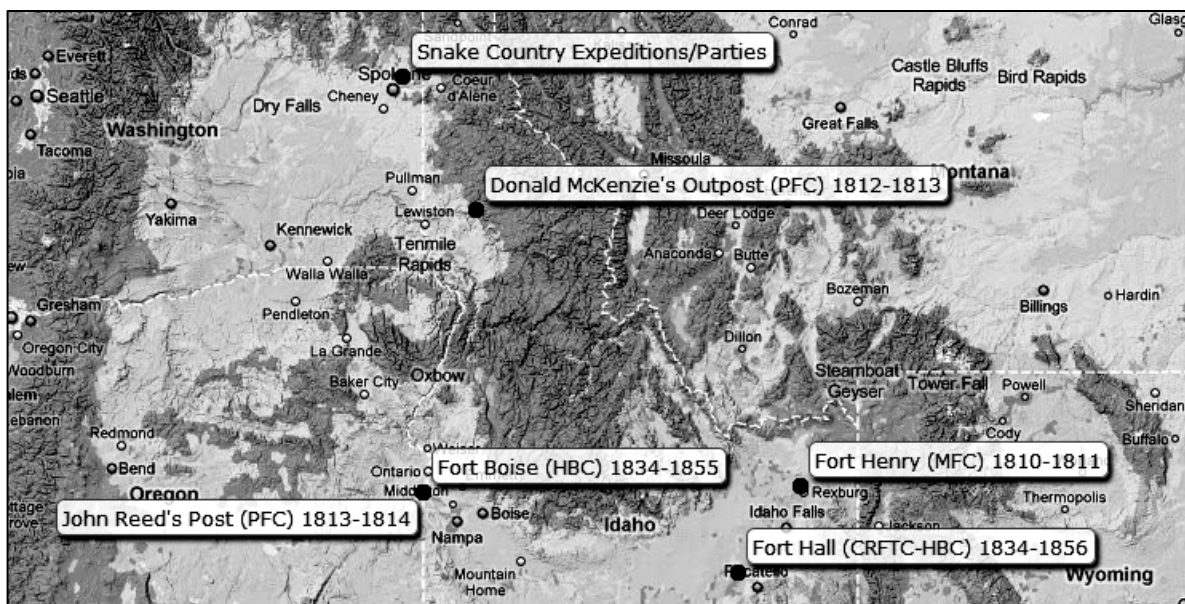

IMAGE 80 Snake River Posts. Google Maps, 2010.

1. Snake Country Expeditions/Parties (NWC-HBC, etc.) 1811-1850
2. Fort Henry (MFC) 1810-1811
3. Donald McKenzies Outpost (PFC) 1812-1813
4. John Reed's Post (PFC) 1813-1814
5. Fort Hall (CRFTC-HBC) 1834-1856
6. Fort Boise (HBC) 1834-1855

The Okanogan River/Thompson River Posts

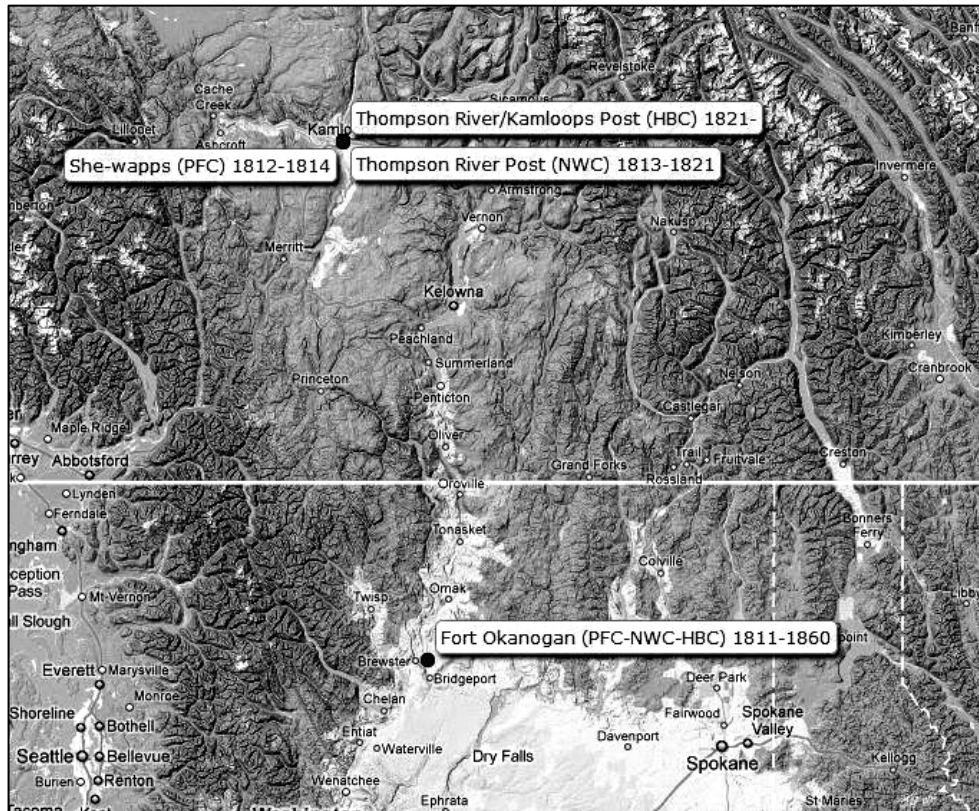

IMAGE 81 Map of Okanogan River/Thompson River Posts. Google Maps, 2010.

1. Fort Okanogan (PFC-NWC-HBC) 1811-1860
2. She-wapps (PFC) 1812-1814
3. Thompson River Post (NWC) 1813-1821
4. Thompson River/Kamloops Post (HBC) 1821-

The Columbia River Posts 1811-1871

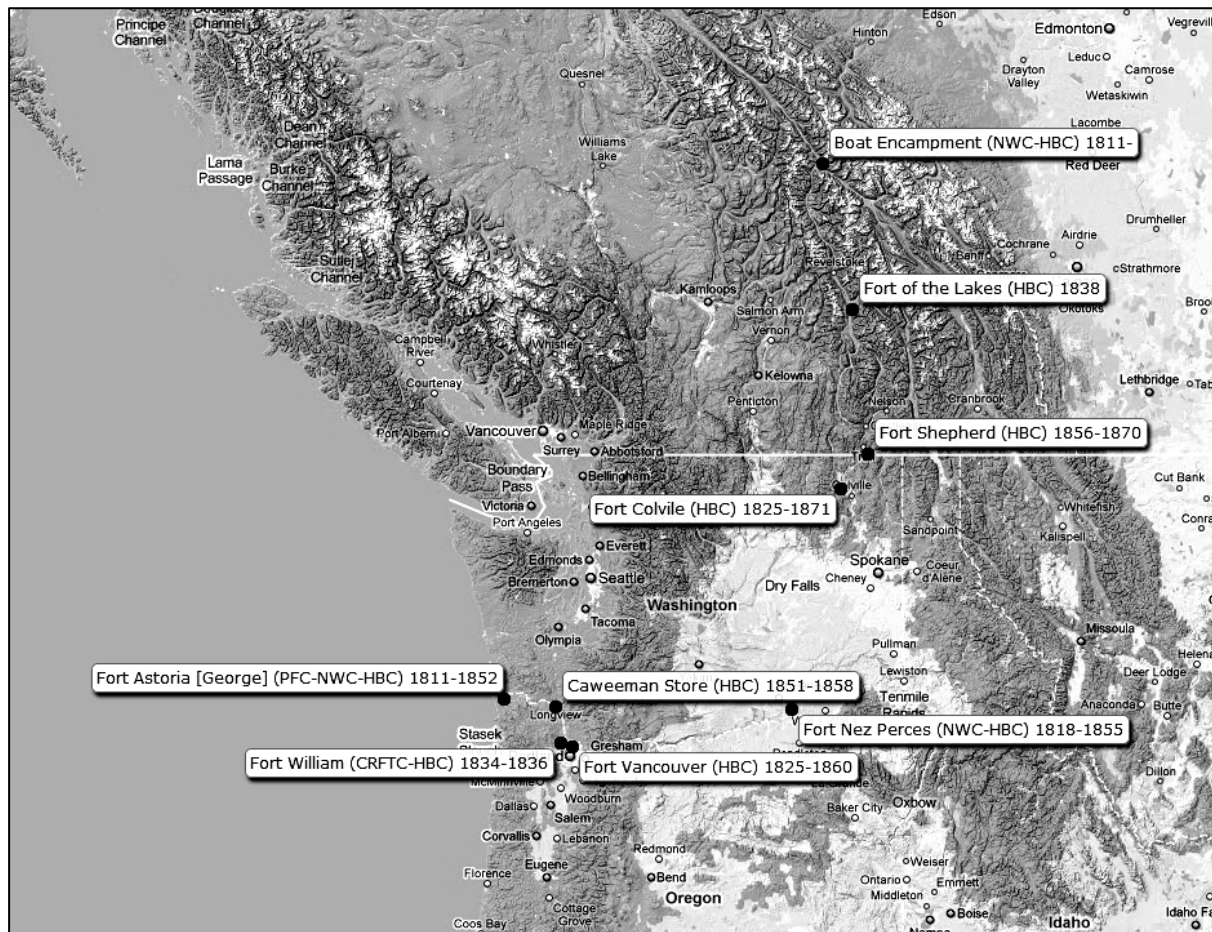

IMAGE 82 Map of Columbia River Posts. Google Maps, 2010.

1. Fort Astoria [George] (PFC-NWC-HBC) 1811-1852
2. Caweeman store (HBC) 1851-1858
3. Fort William (CRFTC-HBC) 1834-1836
4. Fort Vancouver (HBC) 1825-1860
5. Fort Nez Perces (NWC-HBC) 1818-1855
6. Fort Colville (HBC) 1825-1871
7. Fort Shepherd (HBC) 1856-1870
8. Fort of the Lakes (HBC) 1838
9. Boat Encampment (NWC-HBC) 1811-

The Willamette River Posts

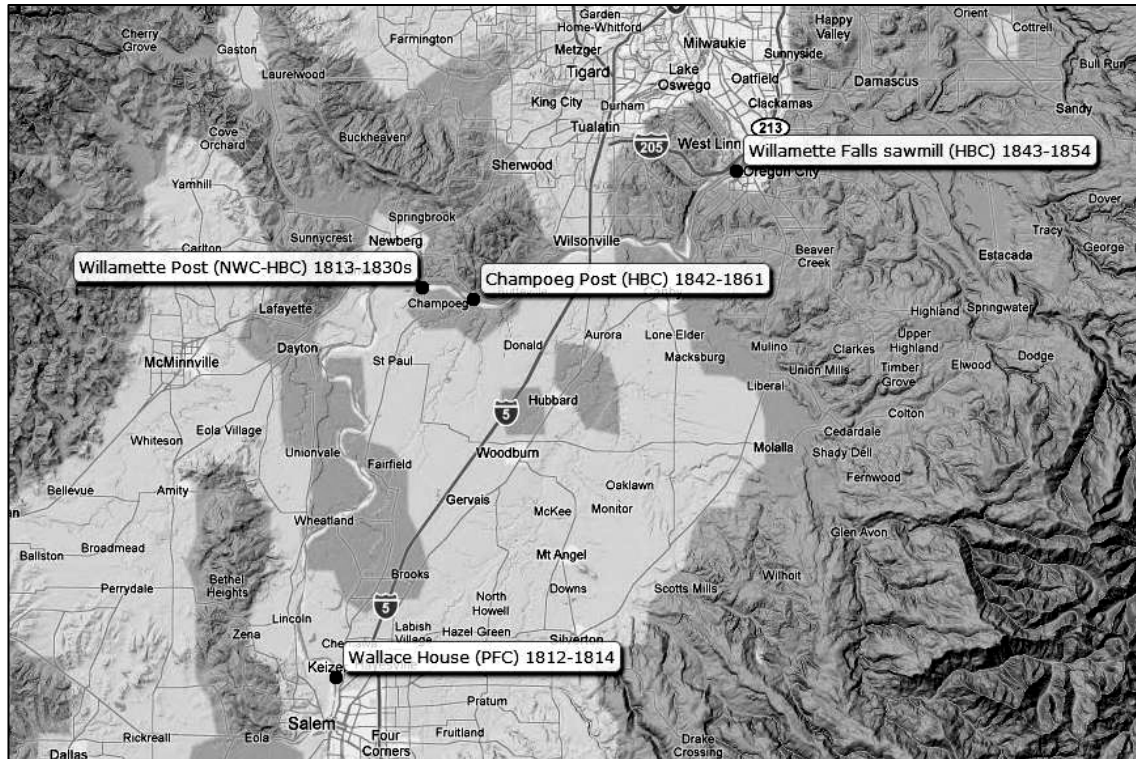

IMAGE 83 Map of Willamette River Posts. Google Maps, 2010.

1. Wallace House (PFC) 1812-1814
2. Willamette Post (NWC, HBC) 1813-1830s
3. Champoeg post (HBC) 1842-1861
4. Willamette Falls sawmill (HBC) 1843-1854

Southern Oregon Expeditions and Posts

IMAGE 84 Map of Southern Oregon Posts. Google Maps, 2010.

1. Southward Expeditions (NWC-HBC-SJS)
2. McKay's Old Establishment (NWC) 1820-?
3. Desportes' Camp 1826-?
5. Fort Umpqua (HBC) 1836-1852

Coastal Posts

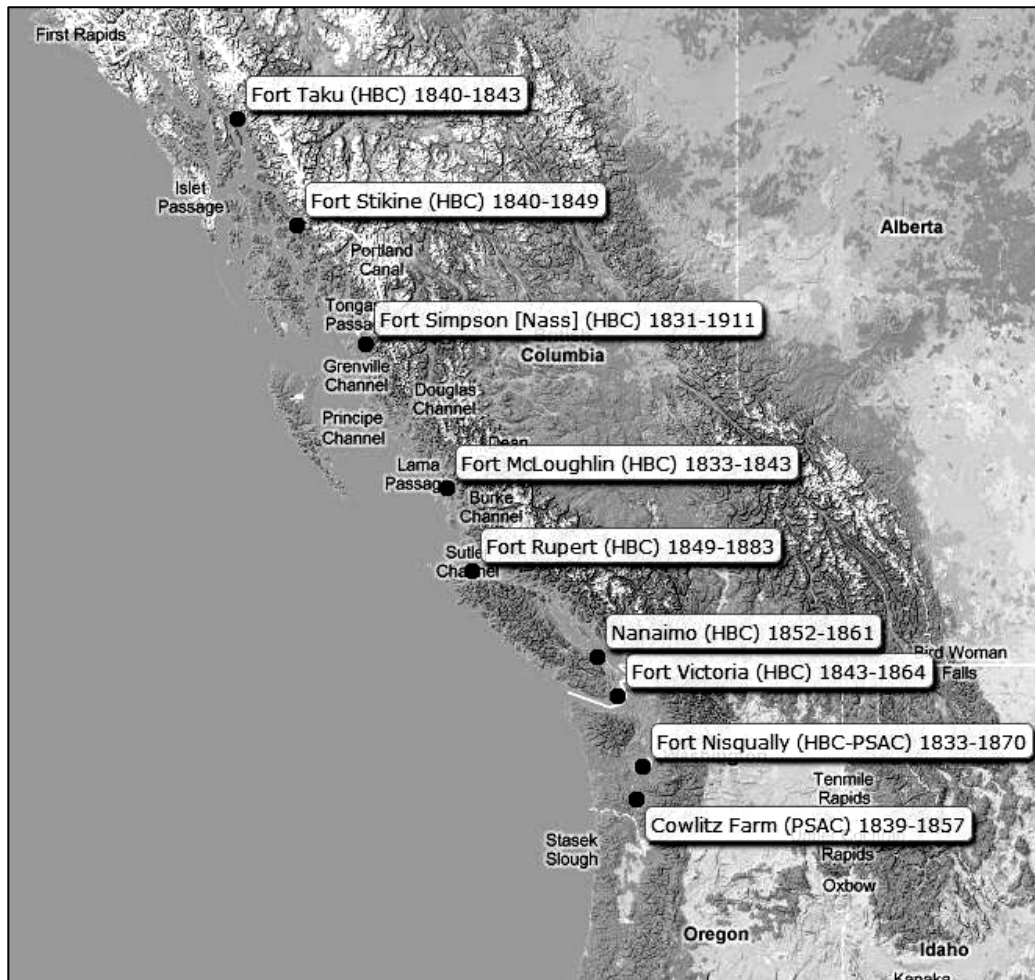

IMAGE 85 Map of Coastal Posts. Google Maps, 2010.

1. Fort Nisqually (HBC-PSAC) 1833-1870
2. Cowlitz Farm (PSAC) 1839-1857
3. Fort Victoria (HBC) 1843-1864
4. Nanaimo (HBC) 1852-1861
5. Fort Rupert (HBC) 1849-1883
6. Fort McLoughlin (HBC) 1833-1843
7. Fort Simpson [Nass] (HBC) 1831-1911
8. Fort Stikine (HBC) 1840-1849
10. Fort Taku (HBC) 1840-1843

Lower Fraser River Posts

IMAGE 86 Map of Lower Fraser River Posts. Google Maps, 2010.

1. Fort Langley (HBC) 1827-1896
2. Fort Hope (HBC) 1848-1860
3. Fort Yale (HBC) 1848-1849

Posts Outside the Pacific Northwest but Under its Aegis

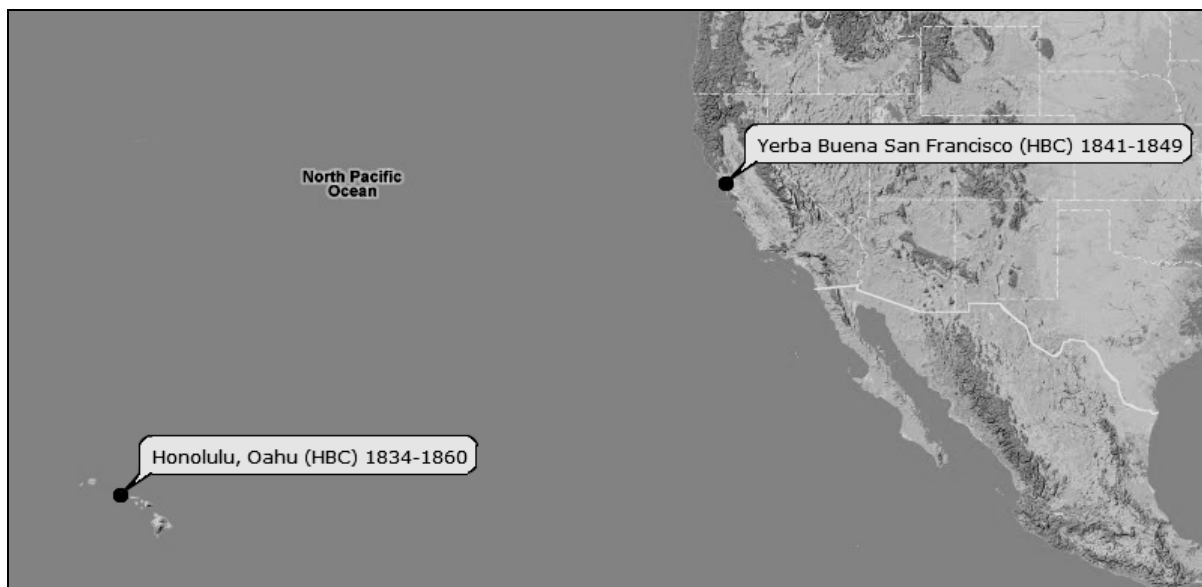

IMAGE 87 Map of Posts Outside the Pacific Northwest but Under its Aegis. Google Maps, 2010.

1. Yerba Buena San Francisco (HBC) 1841-1849
2. Honolulu, Hawai'i (HBC) 1834-1860

New Caledonia Posts

New Caledonia

New Caledonia was a geographic area in present day north-central British Columbia in which a collection of nine interdependent North West Company posts were erected, several of which were set up by Simon Fraser from 1805. This interdependency was necessary to the survival of the NWC/HBC fur trade and its personnel in the area for, if essential annual fish runs failed in either the Fraser or Babine-Skeena River system, the other could be tapped, a linkage long recognized by the indigenous Athabaskan population. Trails were long established, for this is how trade items from the coast found their way inland. Alexander Mackenzie relied on these trails to get from the Fraser River to the Pacific Ocean and back in 1793. The route east was via the Peace River or up the Fraser over the Yellowhead and Athabasca Passes. Because of the interdependent nature of this collection of posts, during any one outfit a person might find himself working at several posts, and thus names on the accounts would simply state New Caledonia.

The men working in New Caledonia had to adjust to several changes. The harsh weather and chronic shortage of food was somewhat alleviated with gardens and with oxen and horses that were eventually brought in to plough the soil. With the change of management in 1821 came an adjustment to a more centralized HBC control. Furs, once taken out in an eastward direction, were eventually taken south to be shipped out by boat via the Columbia River. Lastly, with the advent of the Colony of British Columbia in 1858 and the relinquishment of HBC monopoly control, the employees were faced with considerably more options for themselves and their families.

Around fifty employees could be found working in the area during a winter. During the summer, however, servants, particularly Canadiens would return to Canada, or points in between, reducing the numbers significantly.

Personnel in New Caledonia (not post specific), 1805-1860s:

Allard, Joseph [b]; Anarise, Joseph; Anderson, Alexander C.; Arahota, Charles; Arewhonianta, Andre; Assanayenton, Jean Baptiste; Asselin, Isidore; Atachsasar, Ignace; Atariachtoo, Thomas; Awetarongquash, Louis; Ayotte, Firmin; Balau; Bates, Thomas; Beardy, Henry; Beland, Francois; Bellanger, Alexis; Bouche, Francis; Boucher, James; Boucher, Jean Baptiste [c]; Boucher, Jean Baptiste [d]; Boucher, Jean Marie; Bouche, Louison; Boucher, Pierre; Bourgeau, Joseph; Brasconnier, Jean Baptiste; Brunel, Joseph; Cadotte, Pierre; Cameron, Duncan; Cantin, Jean Baptiste; Chabotte, Jean Baptiste; Chalifoux, Vincent; Charbonneau, Abraham; Charles, Marc; Charles, Thomas; Chartier, Charles; Connolly, William; Cook, Peter Joseph; Couturier, Jacques; Crete, Edouard; Cumming, John; Danneau, Antoine; Daunais, Louis Aime; Davis, William; Desastin, Louis; Desautel, Joseph; Deschamps, Michel; Deschiquette, Francois; Desjardines, Jean Baptiste; Desmarrais, Goddy; Dionne, Cyprien; Douillette, Emanuel; Dubeau, Louis; Dubois, Andre; Dubois, Pierre; Duquette, Antoine; Dusseau, Joseph; Fallardeau, Michel; Favel, Charles; Fisher, Alexander; Fraser, Paul; Gagnon, Joseph; Gagnon, Louis; Gagnon, Luc; Gendron, Alexis; Gignagne, Jean; Goudie, John; Gouin, Pierre; Grant, Peter; Gregoire, Antoine; Gregoire, Etienne; Griffin, Charles; Guille, Simon; Ham; Hamel, Charles; Jacques, Joseph; Jironway, Louis; Johnstone, James; Joyalle, Etienne; Kaonasse, Michel; Kaichenhenrat, Ignace; Kaimaina; Kainoalau; Kalemaka; Kamai; Kanarikown, Michel; Kanatasse, Narcisse; Keahanele; Keave, Tom; Kee; Kikoa; Kikapalale; Labelle, Isaac; Lacourse, Amable; Lacourse, Francois; Lacourse, Theodore; Lacroix, Miche; Laframboise, Francois; Laframboise, Francois [b]; Lambert, Etienne; Lambert, Felix; Lambroise, Michel; Lanctot, Camille; Lane, William F.; Lapierre, Jean Baptiste [a]; Larance, Supplie; Larance, Theodore; Larose, Isidore; Latendre, Joseph [a]; Latreille, Alexander; Lebrun, Joseph; Leclaire, Aime; Ledoux, Jean Baptiste; Lefevre, Joseph [a]; Lefevre [Bonnin], Joseph [b]; Lefevre, Pierre; Leonard, Jean Baptiste; Letendre, Pierre; Liard, Thamiere; Linneard, John; Lorimier [Martineau], Michel; McBean, William; McDonald, Alexander; McDougall, John; McGillivray, Montrose; McIntosh, John; McIver, John [a]; McKay, Alexander; McKenzie, Ferdinand; McKinlay, Archibald; McLean, Donald [c]; McLean, John [c]; McLeod, Murdoch [d]; Maayo; Mahou; Manson, Donald; Manson, William; Martel, Octave; Maxwell, Henry; Montigny, Edouard; Montigny, Narcisse; Morelle, Joseph; Morrison, Thomas; Morwick, William; Namhollow; Naukanna; Neron, Augustin; Ogden, Michel; Ogden, Peter; Ogden, Peter Skene; Ohule; Onawanoron, Joseph; Ouillet, Joseph; Paquet, Jean Baptiste [b]; Peeo; Peers, Henry N.; Pereau, Pierre; Perrier, Moyse; Porteous, William; Roi, Pierre; Roi, Thomas; Rollin, Joseph;

Sabiston, James; Sagoganeukas, Ignace; Sagogetsta, Charles; St. Arnaud, Joseph; St. Gelin, Alexis; Sakoiarokon, Pierre; Saucier, Norbert; Selahoany, Rhene; Seirez, Toussaint; Sevigny, Augustine; Shaw, Angus; Tahowna; Tappage [Regnier], Jean Baptiste; Tarontanta, Louis; Taylor, James [d]; Teonetaneka, Joseph; Theroux [Laferte], Olivier; Thew, William; Thibeault, George; Thibeault, Joachim; Therouac, Damase; Tiegne, Thomas; Tod, John; Todd, William Jr.; Tokatane, Michel; Touin, Charles; Trembly, Raphael; Trudelle, Jean Baptiste; Turcot, Pierre; Ussagore, Ignace; Vandal, Louis; Vautrin, Jean Baptiste; Vizina, Simon; Waiakanaloo; Walker, Donald; Ward, John; Wentzell, William; Yates, William

PS: HBCA YFDS 7-23; YFASA 1-33; FtVanASA 1-17;

New Caledonia Posts (NWC-HBC) 1805-1892

1. McLeod Lake/Trout Lake Post (NWC-HBC) 1805-1968
2. Fort St. James/Stuart Lake (NWC-HBC) 1806-1952
3. Fraser Lake/Fort Fraser (NWC-HBC) 1806-1914
4. Fort George [NC] (NWC-HBC) 1807-1915
5. Fort Babine/Fort Kilmaurs (HBC) 1822-1971
6. Fort Alexandria (NWC-HBC) 1821-1860s
7. Fort Chilcotin (HBC) 1829-1844
8. Tluz-Kuz Post (HBC) 1844-1849
9. Fort Connolly (HBC) 1827-1892

1.

McLeod Lake Post (NWC/HBC) 1805-1968

(aka Trout Lake, LaMalice's Fort, Trout Lake post, Fort Simpson, Fort McLeod)

IMAGE 88 McLeod Lake Post, Parks Canada reconstruction. Photograph by author, 1991.

Erected in 1805 just east of the Continental Divide, and originally named Trout Lake, McLeod Lake post, which was renamed around 1810 after a North West Company trading partner, was the first of its kind built in New Caledonia. It was a jumping off point for Fort St. James which could be accessed by an overland trail. Established in Sekani traditional territory, it operated almost continuously until it finally closed in 1968. Originally located on a sandy bar approximately one mile from the present site and run by a clerk and two servants, it was rebuilt numerous times over 163 years and changed locations several times. Generally the post was located in the area where the lake narrowed to form the northeast flowing Pack River. The local food was small whitefish and trout but generally, personnel survived on dried fish brought in from Fort St. James over the approximately one hundred mile portage by dogs in winter.

Despite the location having pasturage for horses and cattle and fertile soil for growing hardier vegetables, it was not considered a choice location and was at one point during the latter part of the 19th century called “Fort Misery.” It was an area of little sunlight and the snowstorms sometimes buried the post (J. McLean, p. 144). HBC head Simpson called it “the most wretched place in Indian Country” (Simpson, p. 17). Although native women played a necessary role, they also had become problematic, for several more independent women appeared to desert their men at will. On the other hand, some became so dependant they could not be got rid of. For example, on January 22, 1824, one long-time resident had to be sent off with a servant to Fort St. James because “for years [she] did much injury to the Post, She being I believe the worst Tongue of any Woman in the Country” (McLLkPJ 1, p. 50). Perhaps some of this could be explained by the fact that the small numbers of Sekani in the area were “persecuted by the Beaver tribe to the east and by the Carrier tribes further to the west” and that starvation was not infrequent (Johnson, p. 24).

Several buildings of the post were rebuilt under the auspices of Parks Canada (representatives of the warehouse, servant’s house, dwelling/store and guest house) and can be visited today. No fur traders have been traced as settling in the immediate area.

Managers of McLeod Lake, 1805-1868:

Simon Fraser	proprietor	1805
Paul Bouche (LaMalice)		1805-1806
James McDougall		1805-?
John Stuart	Chief Factor	1823-1824
John Tod	clerk	1825-1827
James Douglas	clerk	1825-1827
John Tod	clerk	1830-1831
Charles Ross	clerk	1832
Paul Fraser	clerk	1834-1843
Alexander C. Anderson	clerk	1843-1844
John McIntosh	clerk	1844-1845
Paul Fraser	Chief Trader	1845-1848
Donald McLean [c]	clerk	1848-1850
Peter Jr. Ogden	clerk	1850-1853
Ferdinand McKenzie	clerk	1853-1855
*	*	*
Gavin Hamilton	clerk?	1868-1869
Joseph Gordon	post master	1882-1885
Robert Tibbet Alexander	appren. post master	1887-1888
Ernest S. Peters		1888-1891
Robert Tibbet Alexander	apprentice post master	1892-1895
William Ware	clerk	1895-1901
Thomas Hammett		1901-1905
John Munro		1910
Ivor B. Guest		1918
Thomas Hammett		1919-1920
H. Bradshaw		1921
H. Muir		1922-1923
J. E. McIntyre		1928-1930
William Glennie		1940-1946
C. Hamilton		1947-1948
(not traced)		(1948-1968)
CLOSED		1968

Personnel at McLeod Lake (partial list only), 1805-1858:

Bouche (La Malice), Paul; D'Allaire, P.; Fraser, Paul; Fraser, Simon; Gagnon, Louis; Goudie, John; Harmon, Daniel Williams; Hamilton, Gavin; Lambert, Paul; Letendre, Joseph; McKenzie, Ferdinand; McGillivray, William; McIntosh, John; Ross, Charles; Stuart, John; Tellier, Maxime; Tod, John; Yates, William

PS: HBCA: McLkPJ 1-4; McLkCB 1, McLkRD 1; YFDS 18; FtStJmsPJ 1-21; HBCA McLeod Lake compiled post history; PPS: Fraser; Harmon, A Journal of Voyages; Simpson, Dispatch; J. McLean SS: Johnson, "McLeod Lake Post".

2.

Fort St. James (NWC-HBC) 1806-1952 (aka Nakasley, Naukazeleh, Fort Nakasleh, Nakraztl, Stuart's Lake, Stewart's Lake, Fort New Caledonia)

IMAGE 89 Fort St. James Post, Parks Canada reconstruction. Photograph by author, 1991.

Fort St. James, situated approximately one mile from the mouth of Stuarts River on the north east shore of Stuart's Lake, grew to become the major post in New Caledonia and many of mixed descent in the area can claim some link to the post. After Simon Fraser and James McDougall spent Christmas 1805 at Fort Dunvegan plotting their next move west, McDougall returned to Fort McLeod and made a three and a half day overland reconnaissance trip to Stuart Lake where he found the natives friendly and although their economy was dependant on fishing rather than fur, he saw the potential. Fraser, on the other hand, chose to take Alexander Mackenzie's very difficult route up the Parsnip River, over the Divide, down the treacherous James Creek and following Herrick and McGregor Creeks to the Fraser, making his way up the Nechako and Stuart River to Stuart's Lake, a full month in duration. This obviated McDougall's route over Fraser's and soon after his arrival in 1806 a post was begun. First given a name reflecting the geography expressed by the local Carrier [Dakelh] natives and then changed to Stuart Lake, after his trustworthy colleague, John Stuart, the base of the post was laid out as headquarters for the New Caledonia District. This was to be the main receiving point for European goods for trade and the center to which furs were sent, pressed and baled for the European market. After the HBC assumed control, it was given the name Fort St. James. Unlike most other posts, since Fort St. James was to be an administrative post, a senior officer ran the post and district while clerks took on the job of managing various aspects of the post.

According to the surviving HBC records, the men were always in a constant state of rebuilding the post, cutting trees, dragging them by oxen to a saw pit, squaring and cutting them into boards for the flooring and the roofs. The log walls were chinked with light mud or lime to reflect the light. Men appeared to live within the stockade with their wives and children as well as lateral relatives. During the dry season, pits were dug to make charcoal for the blacksmith's shop turning out endless trade goods, and in the winter the men were kept busying making sledges and snowshoes.

Food was always a consideration and the steady diet of fish had to be supplemented by garden produce. In May potatoes were planted followed by turnips, barley, onions, peas, carrots, beets and cabbage. By the end of May usually everything but the onions and carrots would have sprouted. However, sometimes a frost in June or July would ruin a crop of potatoes, although the potatoes grown inside the palisades or by the gates had a better chance of surviving. To keep spirits up during leaner times, the men were often treated with extra food or invited into the main hall to share some rum. Many times, however, the men at the post were spared near-starvation when local Carrier chief Qua and his family would appear with fish or other traded food.

In 1919, the trading store and contents burned, spelling an end to Fort St. James which had lost its strategic function years before. The post closed permanently in 1952 and is today a National Historic Site open to the public.

Fort St. James Managers, who were coincidently administrators of New Caledonia to 1858, followed by Managers of post to 1913:

John Stuart (NWC)	proprietor	1806-1809
Daniel Harmon	clerk	1811-1817
John Stuart (HBC)	proprietor	1823-1824
William Connolly	Chief Factor	1825-1827
James Douglas	clerk	(winter) 1826-1827
William Connolly	Chief Factor	1827-1831
Peter Warren Dease	Chief Factor	1831-1835
Peter Skene Ogden	Chief Factor	1836-1844
Donald Manson	Chief Trader	1844-1845

IMAGE 90 Kwah's graveboard on grave located on Fort St. James Indian Reserve near the Stuart River, "Here lie the remains of Great Chief Kwah. Born about 1755, Died spring of 1840. He once had in his hands the life of (future Sir) James Douglas but was great enough to refrain from taking it." Photograph by author, 1991.

John Lee Lewes	Chief Factor	1845-1847
Donald Manson	Chief Trader	1847-1855
*	*	*
J. M. Lindsay Alexander		1885
Alexander C. Murray	clerk	1887-1890
William E. Trail	Chief Trader	1890-1892

H. A. E. Greenwood
A. C. Murray

apprentice clerk

1900-1901
1901-1913

Personnel at Fort St. James (partial list only but includes clerks who took on administrative functions of the post), 1806-1858:

Anderson, Alexander C.; Arionga, Jean Baptiste; Bellique, Pierre; Bird, James; Bouche, George Waccan; Bouche, Joseph; Bouche, James; Boucher, Jean Baptiste (Waccan); Boucher, Jean Marie; Boucher, Pierre, Brasconnier, Jean Baptiste; Brown, William; Cadrant, Michel; Caillé, André; Canot; Cardin, Jean Baptiste; Charles, Thomas; Como; Cornoyer, Emanuel; Coutie, Alexis; Crochetier, Louis; Delonie, Louis Henry; Deschamps, Michel; Desloges, Hyacinth; Douglas, James; Dubois, Andre; Fraser, Simon; Godin, Amable; Goselin, Louis, Guibache, Martin; Guilbeau, Paul, Harmon, Daniel Williams; Hamilton, Gavin; Hodgson, Thomas; Jolibois, Jean Baptiste; Lacroix, Michel; Laforte, André; Lefrenier, Charles; Lanorie, Amable; Lapierre, Jean Baptiste; Lasserte, Guillaume; Lebrun, Joseph; Leolo, Jean Baptiste; Lepine, Joseph; Livingstone, Duncan; Lizotte, Pierre; Logan, Kenneth; Lowe, William; McArthur, Neil McLean; McDonell, John; McDougall, James; McGillivray, Montrose; McGruer, Alexander; Mackenzie, Benjamin; McKenzie, Ferdinand; McKenzie, Patrick; McKinlay, Archibald; McLean, John; McLeod, Murdoch; Maxwell, Henry; Ogden, Peter, Jr.; Ogden, Isaac; Ossin, Louis; Pambrun, Pierre C.; Paul, Louis; Perrault, Jacques; Picard, Abraham; Pichette, Louis; Plomondo, Simon; Porteur, Joseph; Ross, Charles; Ross, David; Roy, Etienne; Roy (Portenlance), Joseph; Roy, Thomas; Satakarass, Pierare; Sayer, Pierre Guillaume; Selahoanay, Rhené; Sivigny, Josph; Thew, William; Tiegne, Thomas; Touraquash, Jacques; Vandal, Louis [a]; Verboncaur, Amable; Walker, Donald; Whitman, Joseph; Yale, James Murray; Yates, William.

PS: HBCA FtStJmsPJ 1-21; FtStJmsRD 1-5; FtStJmsLS 1; FtStJmsCB 5-9; FtStJmsAB 1-15; FtStJms M 1; Fort St. James compiled post history PPS: Fraser

3.

Fraser Lake (NWC-HBC) 1806-1914
(aka Natleh, Fort Fraser, Frazers Lake)

IMAGE 91 Fort Fraser, A-05021, courtesy of the Royal BC Museum, BC Archives.

Starting as a temporary camp established by Simon Fraser in 1806 at the southeast end of Fraser Lake to get fish for his southerly trip, Fraser Lake post grew into a long lasting establishment. The initial camp was abandoned but re-established in 1810, only to be abandoned again the following year. Still on the east end of Fraser Lake and about a mile from its outlet, the post was re-established again in 1814 and continued at different sites within a small area until 1914, one hundred years later. During times of food shortage, Fraser Lake could be depended upon for a supply of fish or, alternatively, fish could be procured from the Stuart River or Babine River runs. Natleh and the native village of Stilla at the west end of the lake could be relied upon for fresh and dried salmon. Fraser Lake also made valiant attempts at growing its own food.

On May 10, 1815, Daniel Williams Harmon wrote:

We have surrounded a piece of ground with palisades, for a garden, in which we have planted a few potatoes, and sowed onion, carrot, beet and parsnip and sowed onion, carrot, beet and parsnip seeds, and a little barley. I have, also, planted a very little Indian corn, without the expectation that it will come to maturity. The nights in this region are too cool, and the summers are too short, to admit of its ripening. There is not a month in the whole year, in which water does not congeal; though the air in the day time, in the summer, is warm, and we even have a few days of sultry weather (Harmon, A Journal of Voyages, p. 210).

Little is known of family establishment and activities at Fraser Lake, but on December 26, 1823 one of the men built a cabin for a woman who was to do fishing for the post.

With the advent of WWI, the drop in fur prices and the completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, Fort Fraser was abandoned. The site fell into private hands and was turned over to the provincial government to be Beaumont Provincial Park, reflecting the name of the last owner.

IMAGE 92 Building reputed to have been part of Fort Fraser.
Photograph by author, 1991.

Managers of Fort Fraser, 1806-1858:

Simon Fraser	proprietor (NWC)	1806-1807
(post closed)		(1807-1810)
Daniel W. Harmon		1810-1811
(post closed)		(1811-1814)
Daniel W. Harmon		1814-1820
George McDougall		1817-1820
Thomas Fleming		1820
Samuel Black		1820
James McDougall		1820-1821
Thomas Fleming		1821
William Brown	clerk? (HBC)	1821-1822
John McDonell	clerk	1821, 1822-1826
Joseph McGillivray	Chief Trader	1826-1828
James McDougall	clerk	1828-1829
Alexander Fisher	Chief Trader	1829-1830
Peter Warren Dease	Chief Factor	1830-1831
Thomas Dears	clerk in charge	1830-1831
Jean B. [Waccan] Bouche	interpreter	summer 1831
Donald McKenzie	clerk	1831-1836

Archibald McKinlay	clerk	1836-1837
Alexander C. Anderson	clerk	1837-1838
Charles Ross	clerk	1839-1841
William McBean	clerk	1841-1842
William Fletcher Lane	clerk in charge	1842-1845
William Todd	post master	1845
Peter Jr. Ogden	clerk in charge	1845-1848
Ferdinand McKenzie	clerk	1848
Montrose McGillivray	clerk	1848-1849
Ferdinand McKenzie	clerk	1849-1852
William Manson	clerk in charge	1852-1854
John Manson		1854
William Manson		1854-1855
Joseph Lebrun		1855
John D. Manson		1855-1862
*	*	*
Henry J. Moberley		1862-1864
Peter Ogden	appren. clerk	1864-1870
Hamilton Moffat		1870
William Manson	Chief Trader	1870-1872
Charles Ogden	clerk	1872-1873
J. M. L. Alexander, Jr.	clerk	1873-1875
	Chief Trader	1875-1879
A. C. Murray	appren. clerk	1879-1880
Henry Anderson	clerk	1880-1883
A. C. Murray	clerk	1883-1885
(post closed)		(1885-1887)
William Sinclair	clerk	1887-1899
H. A. E. Greenwoth	clerk	c. 1899
E. S. Peters	clerk	c. 1899-1910
J. MacPherson		1910
W. Bunting		1910-1914

Personnel at Fraser Lake (partial list), 1806-1858:

Caille, André, Fleming, Thomas; Harmon, Daniel Williams; Laroque, Joseph; Lebrun, Joseph; McKenzie, Ferdinand; Ogden, Petter, Jr.; Quesnel, Jules Maurice; Sinclair, William, Jr.; Touranquash, Jacques

PS: HBCA: FtFrasPJ 1; FtStJmsPJ 1-21; HBCA Fraser Lake compiled post history PPS: Harmon, A Journal of Voyages

4.
Fort George [NC] (NWC-HBC) 1807-1915
(aka Chala-oo-chick)

IMAGE 93 Old Fort George, B-00337, courtesy of Royal BC Museum, BC Archives.

This was one of eight fur trading forts in British North America with the name Fort George that reflected deference to the Hanoverian descended king then on the English throne. To distinguish it from the former Fort Astoria, renamed Fort George, this Fort George is followed in this study by a [NC], indicating its New Caledonia location. It is also possible that this post in 1821 was named after George Simpson rather than the monarch. Strategically located at the forks of the Nechako and Fraser River, the first post was constructed by Simon Fraser in 1807 as a yet unnamed staging post for his perilous trip down the Fraser in 1808. When this voyage was complete, the temporary post at the forks was abandoned. In 1820, George McDougall, armed with orders to establish a new post at the confluence of the Nechako and Fraser Rivers to obtain salmon, instead built a post (Chala-oo-chick) at the mouth of the Chilako and Nechako Rivers, possibly to head off or compete with HBC Iroquois who were in the area. By the end of 1821 the post was named Fort George but as trade was not up to expectations, John Stuart ordered that the post at the original Simon Fraser site be re-established. The new post was strategically placed to facilitate travel both down river to Fort Alexandria or up river to Yellow Head Pass. It hadn't been opened a year when two HBC servants were killed after they had threatened to reveal the indiscretions of J. M. Yale's wife. As a result of this, the post was closed and not reopened until 1829-1830 and appeared to remain in the same location which, in today's terms, rests on the west bank of the Fraser about one mile south of the confluence of the Nechako and Fraser at the east end of 20th Avenue within the city of Prince George. Over time the site grew and incorporated a small garden and from 1828 cows and pigs were added to the agricultural base. By the 1890s, the post still contained a variety of buildings reflecting the men, the fur trade, local agriculture and the ever present smoke house used for curing salmon.

IMAGE 94 Reconstructed bastion, Fort George site. Photograph by author, 1991.

The post was active until 1915, when it closed permanently and the buildings burned. According to archeological surveys, the ground upon which the post lay has been so riddled with construction that little remains of the site itself. In 1968, the City of Prince George built a museum and stockade with two bastions in Fort George Park on the original site but fire destroyed the museum and artifacts in 1975.

Managers of Fort George, 1806-1858:

Simon Fraser (NWC) (abandoned 1808-?)	proprietor	1807
George McDougall (NWC)		1820-1821
Hodgson (NWC)		1821
James Murray Yale (abandoned 1824-1830)	clerk	1821-1824
William McGillivray	clerk	1830-1831
George Linton	clerk	1834-1836
John McLean	clerk	1836-1837
William Porteous	clerk	1837-1845
Peter Ogden Jr.	clerk	1845-1846
William Porteous	clerk	1846-1847
Montrose McGillivray	post master	1847-1848
Peter Ogden Jr.	clerk	1848-1850
Thomas Charles	clerk	1850-1855
*	*	*
Charles Griffin Ogden	clerk	1874-1893, 1895-1901
E. L. Kepner		1901-1904
J. H. Reid		1904-1907
James Cowie		1907

Personnel at Fort George (partial list), 1807-1858:

Bagnoit, Joseph; Bibeau, Jacques; Boulard, Michel; Duplante, Belonie; Faries, Hugh; Johnston, William [c]; McLean, John; Ogden, Peter, Jr.

HBCA FtStJmsPJ 1-21; FtStJmsRD 1-5; FtStJmsLS 1; FtStJmsCB 5-9; FtStJmsAB 1-15; FtStJms M 1; Fort George compiled post history
PPS: Fraser; JS: Klan & Trower, p. 19-20; Sedgwick, p. 26; conversations with Yvonne Klan.; 1977 British Columbia Archaeological Site
 Inventory Form; Runnals

5.

Fort Babine (HBC) 1822-1971 (aka Babine Lake, Fort Kilmaurs)

IMAGE 95 Fort Babine site to 1871, now Old Fort. Photograph by author, 1991.

Fort Babine was strategic in the New Caledonia network of posts for two reasons. First, it was meant to capture furs that might go down the Babine-Skeena Rivers to the passing trading ships at the mouth for as early as January 1812, George McDougall and William Daniel Harmon found goods that had been traded upriver from the coast, as had Simon Fraser before. Second, it was to serve as a food supply of fish when the runs in the Fraser River basin failed to appear, were small, or were late. Initially named Kilmaurs after William Brown's parish in Ayrshire, Scotland, according to Babine oral tradition, it appears to have been built northeast of the site that was thought to be the original site. It was apparently flooded out on this area in the first spring and was then moved to the higher, but rockier Fort Point on a narrow isthmus protruding into the lake. That site, which is still lived on as a settlement, was moved in 1871 to a site where the Babine River outflows from the lake into the Babine River.

Family life endured at the post. An ailing William Brown had two children by his wife. Some marriages were arranged. For example, on May 26, 1825, “Duncan [Livingston] took into himself a wife, a Cree half breed, brought here by Mr. Brown from McLeod’s Lake” (FtBabPJ 3, p. 10). On July 23rd she gave birth to a son (ibid, p. 34). Wives were employed, not just supporting their men. On May 31, 1825, “Vandall’s woman set two nets yesterday and visited them today...” (ibid, p. 10). Murder was avenged, for when Duncan Livingston was murdered, his half brother, Wacaan Boucher took revenge. Family relationships came first, for when Carrier Joseph Porteur had heard that his brother may have been drowned, he immediately deserted and went in search of him (FtBabCB 1, fo. 22d-23).

A Hudson’s Bay Company store stood at the last site until relatively recently when closed in June 1971. The Babine Dene name is Wit-Tat (Water dam or where water stops”) and the native name for Old Fort Babine was Ne-to-ato (“White Man’s Fort”).

Managers of Fort Babine, 1822-1870:

William Brown	Chief Trader	1822-1826
Charles Ross	clerk in charge	1826-1827
Pierre Chrysologue Pambrun	clerk in charge	1830-1831
Charles Roussain	temporarily in charge	1831
William McBean	post master	1838-1840
John McIntosh	clerk in charge	1842-1844
Duncan Cameron	post master	1844-1845
Thomas Charles	clerk?	1848-1849
Charles John Griffin	clerk in charge	1851-1852
Peter Ogden, Jr.	clerk in charge	1853-1854
	Chief Trader	1854-1859
*	*	*
Gavin Hamilton	clerk	1860-1866
Hamilton Moffatq	Chief Trader	1869-1870

Complement of personnel at Fort Babine (partial list), 1822-1870:

Arionga, Jean Baptiste; Cadrant, Michel; Canot; Cardin, Jean Baptiste; Coutie, Alexis; Crochetier, Louis; Delonie, Louis Henry; Dubois, Andre; Fleming, Thomas; Gagnon, Louis; Goselin, Louis; Guilbeau, Paul; Lacroix, Michel; Lefevre, Joseph; Lefevre (Bonin), Joseph [b]; Livingston, Duncan; Lizotte, Pierre; Logan, Kenneth; Lonctin, Antoine; Manson, William; Martin, Alexis; O’Doharty, William St. George; Perrault, Jacques; Roussain, Charles; Satakarass, Pierre; Taylor, James; Tiegne, Thomas; Touin, Charles; Vandal, Louis [a]; Whitman, Jospeh

PS: HBCA: FtBabPJ 1-4; FtBabCB 1-3; FtStJmsPJ 1-21; HBCA Babine Lake compiled post history SS: British Columbia Historic Sites Advisory Report , nd; P. G. Lewis, p. 26-34; French & Ware; Smith, Gordon, “Fort Babine” The Province, Oct. 17, 1926; British Columbia Archaeological Site Survey Form, Sept. 1966; British Columbia Archaeological Site Survey Form, August 11, 1974.

6.
Fort Alexandria (NWC-HBC) 1821-1860s
(aka Fort Alexander)

IMAGE 96 Fort Alexandria, G-05983, courtesy of Royal BC Museum, BC Archives.

Fort Alexandria lies at a strategic point on the Fraser River. The point, three hundred miles south of Fort St. James, was well known as the place where the rapids began, resulting in the Fraser River being unnavigable from that point to the end of the Fraser Canyon. In June 1793 local natives informed Alexander Mackenzie of this reality when he reached the area (Mackenzie, p. 314), forcing him to begin ascending the river again. John Stuart, having taken the perilous journey down the Fraser River in 1808 and knowing that the rapids began in the river at a point later called Alexandria after Alexander Mackenzie, took the route overland in 1813 to the Kamloops area, on to Okanagan Lake and down the Okanagan River to the Columbia and thence to the Pacific Ocean, establishing the viability of an ocean route to bring in trade goods to New Caledonia. Although goods were taken north on this route from 1814 (Harmon, A Journal of Voyages, p. 153) and a building or two was apparently erected to support this (G. R. Elliott, p. 14), it wasn't until 1820 that furs were taken out and 1821 that Fort Alexandria as we know it was built on the east bank as a staging post between the Fraser River and the Okanagan. Although the records are thin, they would have constructed a warehouse, store, various quarters, the men's own houses, plus large corrals to retain the many hundreds of horses needed for the cross country brigade. In the 1820s, aside from a Chief Trader and clerk, there was anywhere from four to six men at the post with several children in tow. During the 1820s, as the area was the convergent point for several native nations, native to native relationships was tempestuous but by 1836, everything appears to have quieted down and so the post was moved to a fertile bench across the river where new buildings were erected.

IMAGE 97 Church on Fort Alexandria east bank site, Alexandria No. 1 Reserve. Photograph by author, 1991.

Life was busy at Fort Alexandria transferring the furs from the boats to the horse brigades on their way to Kamloops and south and transferring supplies from the south from the horses onto boats. Men were also kept busy repairing their houses or in the fields where the barley turned out good crops or preparing saddles and horses for the brigades. Longtime fur trade employee, Leolo, together with his immediate and extended family held sway. Leolo's brother appeared often in the journals. When Leolo's daughter, who was married to fur trader Jean Baptiste Vautrin, died, there was some concern about the implications on the post itself.

Families spent their lives at the posts and were buried in the post graveyard. In the 1860s, however, when options opened elsewhere, discipline broke down frequently. In spite of this, several families decided to live out their lives in the area after the fur trade operations had ceased.

By the 1860s the onset of the Caribou gold rush resulted in a decline in trade but the HBC turned this to opportunity. A restaurant and other buildings were erected on the east bank to deal with the new reality. By 1867, Quesnel became the nearby supply depot and Alexandria post was reduced to an agricultural supply function for Quesnel with an individual contracted to manage the farm. John S. Twan (son of Charles Touin) received a Crown Grant for the original site of the fort and fearing a collapse of the original structures, razed the buildings and used the pieces for firewood (G. R. Elliott, p. 15).

Managers of Fort Alexandria, 1821-1858:

McDougall, George	Chief Trader?	1821-1826
McGillivray, Joseph	Chief Trader	1826-1828
McDougall, George		1828-1829
Pambrun, P. C.	clerk	1829-1830
Fisher, Alexander	Chief Trader	1830-1839
Tod, John	Chief Trader	1839-1843
Manson, Donald	Chief Trader	1843-1844
Anderson, Alexander C.	clerk	1844-1846
Tod, John	Chief Trader	1846-1847
Allan, George Traill	Chief Trader	1847-1848
Peers, Henry N.	clerk	1848-1850
McLean, Donald	clerk	1840-1855
	Chief Trader	1855
Ogden, Peter	Chief Trader	1855
McKenzie, Ferdinand	clerk?	[?]-1860
*	*	*
Saunders, John	clerk	1861-1863
Sabiston, James	post master	1863-1865
Williams, Robert	clerk	1865-1867

Personnel of Fort Alexandria, 1821-1867:

Allard, Joseph [b]; Ayotte, Firmin; Bellanger, Alexis; Bellique, Pierre; Bird, James; Bouche, George Waccan; Bouche, Jean Marie; Bouche, William; Bourke, Joseph; Brisbois, Charles; Campbell, Wastayap; Canot; Charles, Thomas; Chartier, Charles; Cooper, Thomas; Coutts, Alexander; Dauphin, Ceasar; Desastin (Marineau), Louis; Desloges, Hyacinth; Dionne, Cyprien; Douillette, Emanuel; Dubois, Andre; Dusseault, Joseph; Fallarreau, Michel; Gregoire, Antoine; Gregoire, Etienne; Gignagne, Jean; Kanatasse, Narcisse; Kirton, Peter; Lapierre, Jean Baptiste; Larose, Isidore; Leolo, Jean Baptiste; Linniard, John; McAulay, Donald [b]; McBean, William Scott; McDonald, Angus; McDonnell, Eneas; McFaddin, James; McIntosh, John; McIver, John [a]; McLeod, Ewan/Hugh; McLeod, Murdoch (d); McLeod, Murdoch (e); McNeil, George; Majeau, Ambroise; Manson, William; Matthu, Louis; Maxwell, Henry; Morel, Leon; Morrison, Thomas; Paquet, Jean Baptiste; Namahalo; Perreault, Pierre; Plomondo, Simon; Rollin, Joseph; Saucier, Norbert; Selohoanay, Rhené; Shaw, Angus; Smith, John; Tahowna; Tappage, Alexander; Tappage, Jean Baptiste; Tappage, Joseph; Theroux (Laferte), Oliver; Tokatani, Michael; Touin Charles; Vautrin, Jean Baptiste; Ward, John; Wassantoolia, Murdoch; Wentzell, William; Yale, James Murray; York, James

PS: HBCA FtAlexPJ 1-11; FtAlexCB 1-2; FtAlexAB 1-2; FtAlexDR 1; FtAlex M 1; FtStjmsPJ 1-21; HBCA Fort Alexandria compiled post history; BCA Papers relating to Fort Alexandria PPS: HBRX X, p. 189-221; Harmon, A Journal of Voyages; SS: Morice, The History of, p. 122, 176, 194, 289; G. R. Elliott

7. Fort Chilcotin (HBC) 1829-1844

IMAGE 98 Fort Chilcotin site. Photograph by author, 1991.

An on again-off again outpost of Fort Alexandria, Fort Chilcotin was set up to capture the Chilcotin trade at the confluence of the Chilco and Chilcotin Rivers. An exploratory expedition as early as 1822 showed some promise and a plan to open it in 1823 was thwarted when personnel elsewhere were redirected because of the murders at Fort George and Fort St. John. A further exploratory visit by William Connolly in 1825 found the natives fractious and disputatious with their neighbours. Two years later plans were again put on hold even though hostilities had abated but the salmon runs were so poor that the Chilcotin [Tsilquot'in] had to abandon the area and head towards the coast for food, a move necessary every three of four years. In 1829, when the post was finally set up, local Alexandria natives refused to go to Chilcotin as still fresh were the memories of hostilities (FtStJmsCB 7, fo. 6d-9d, 24d-25). By the mid 1830s, they may also have brought in "two Milch Cows, one Calf and a Bull" (BCA FtChil 1). Often closed for months at a stretch for various reasons, it was abandoned again in 1835-1836. Because of potential hostilities during the winter of 1838-1839, the post palisade had to be strengthened and two bastions built. One possible cause of the hostilities is that there was a settlement and trading point here, indicated by the presence of depressions from native subterranean houses. By the spring of 1839, they were back to planting a garden of potatoes. However by 1842, they were beginning to make trips to the Fluz Kluz area. The HBC finally closed the Chilcotin post in September 1844 in favour of Tluz-Kuz and the farm animals returned to Alexandria. Today there is a bee farm opposite the site.

Managers of Fort Chilcotin, 1829-1844:

George McDougall		1829-1830
(closed)		(Feb.-fall 1830)
(untraced manager)		(winter 1830-1831)
(closed)		(summer 1831)
William Fletcher Lane	clerk in charge	1834
(closed)		(1835-1836)
John McIntosh	clerk in charge	1837
Baptiste LaPierre	in charge	Aug-Oct 1837
William McBean	clerk in charge	1837-1840?
Donald McLean	clerk in charge	1840?-1842
Baptiste LaPierre	in charge	Feb.-May 1842
Donald McLean	clerk in charge	1843-1844
(closed permanently)		(1844)

Personnel at Fort Chilcotin (partial list), 1829-1844:

Annance, F. N.; Bellique, Pierre; Boucher, Baptiste Jr.; LaPierre, Jean Baptiste; Leonard, Jean Baptiste; Liard, Thamire; Vandale, Louis;

*PS: HBCA FtAlexPJ 1-6; FtStJmsCB 7, Connolly's October 1, 1829 Stuart Lake instructions to McDougall at Alexandria, fo. 6d-9d;
FtStJmsCB 7, fo. 24d-25 McDougall's October 10, 1829 reply to Connolly; FtStJmsPJ 15-17; BCA FtChil 1, p. 13 PPS: HBRS III, xxxvii, lxiv; JS: British Columbia Archaeological Site Inventory Form, nd; B.C. Historic Site Report, nd.*

8.

Tluz-Cuz Post (HBC) 1844-1849 (aka Fluz kuz, Tluzkuss, Tluz-Kuz, Sluz cuz, Klooskurs)

Tluz-Cuz on Lake Tluzcuz, seventy miles north of Chilcotin, was a small post that was set up in 1844 to replace the Chilcotin post to intercept beaver that were going to the coast from the Nas-Cotin villages attached to Fort George and Alexandria. It was a uniquely placed high activity center since the Lake was the nucleus where all the surrounding roads unite, being directly on the track followed by Sir Alex. MacKenzie on his way to the extremity of Milbank Sound... (HBCA, D.5/8, fo. 40-40d).

Furs were no longer taken to the coast with the closure of Fort McLoughlin in 1843 although tobacco and other goods traded from the Americans on the coast meant that furs were still being traded there. A year after it was established, Forts George and Fraser determined that it was drawing trade away. The Tluz-Cuz post functioned until 1849.

Managers of Tluz-Cuz Post, 1843-1849:

Donald McLean	clerk	1843-1845
William Todd		1844-1845
Thomas Charles	appr. clerk	1845-1848
Montrose McGillivray	post master	1848-1849

Personnel at Tluz-Cuz post (partial list), 1843-1849:

Lapierre, Jean Baptiste; Liard, Thamire; McLean, Donald [c]; Vautrin, Jean Baptiste;

PS: HBCA FtAlexPJ 6-7; HBCA Fluz Cuz compiled post history

9.

Connolly post (HBC) 1827-1892
(aka Connelly, Connolly Lake, Fort Connolly, Bear Lake, Little Bear Lake)

IMAGE 99 "Beaver hunting at Fort Connolly," (1870s). Sketches of Hudson Bay life by H. Bullock Webster, 1874-1880, UBC Rare Books and Special Collections.

Fort Connolly, situated in Sekani territory and named after Chief Factor William Connolly, was built at the north end of Bear Lake [British Columbia] where the lake narrows to form the Bear-Sustut tributary to the Skeena River. In 1824, the Sekani of the area were visited by Samuel Black who proposed a post in the area (HBRS XVIII) to capture their trade in furs. Arranged by Waccan Bouche and James Douglas in 1826, construction began in late 1826 or early 1827 likely under Douglas and Charles Ross. It wasn't always smooth sailing as on November 13, 1829, it was recorded that:

The only unusual circumstance which occurred during the summer at that place [Fort Connolly], was a very unexpected and equally unwelcome visit from a Party of 17 Atnahs who entered the fort by stealth and proceeded to the very brink of violence; Mr. Ross however in a very creditable way contrived to clear the fort of them, and they promised to return in the course of next summer with whatever furs they may be able to collect for the purpose of trade (HBCA Fort St. James Post Journal 1827-29, B.188/a/15).

Never a major post and appearing to have changed locations more than once, trade began to fall off as early as 1834 with the establishment of the more northern Fort Halkett and it was abandoned in 1878. It was managed by a clerk and had up to half a dozen men attached to the post. It was re-established in 1881 and finally abandoned in the summer of 1892. By 1891, the buildings had fallen into ruin, the fallen chimney of the dwelling house having destroyed most of the structure. The approximate site is contained within the Bear Lake Indian Reserve #4.

Managers of Fort Connolly, 1826-1892:

James Douglas	clerk	summer 1827
Charles Ross	clerk	1827-1829
John McDonell	clerk	1829-1830
Charles Ross	clerk	1830-1831
Thomas Dears	clerk	1832-1836
John McIntosh	clerk	1836-1842
William McBean	clerk	1842-1844
(untraced)	(untraced)	1844-1858
*	*	*
Thomas M. Hamilton	clerk	1874-?
James Bird		1879
J. M. Alexander		1865-1866
James Gordon	post master	1887-1888
M. P. Collins		1888-1889

Personnel at Fort Connelly (partial list), 1826-1858:

Bird, James; Brasconnier, Jean Baptiste; Hunter, John; Keeam, Charles; McKenzie, Ferdinand; Porteus, William; Spamayou; Wassantaolin, Murdock

*PS: HBCA FtStJmsRD 4-5; FtStJmsCB 5-9; FtStJmsAB 7-15; 1891 Connolly post Inspection report, B/301/e/1; HBCA Fort post history .JS: British Columbia Archaeological Site Survey Form, July 10, 1972; Morice, The History of, p. 133-38*

The Kootenay and Flathead Posts

The Kootenay and Flathead posts were a network of trading posts established mostly by David Thompson, before his 1812 retirement from the fur trade to Montreal. As his years of experience in the fur trade had taught him to exploit long established native trading patterns, the posts he established, and subsequent later posts put in place by others, were meant to overlay an existing native trading network. As a bonus, the Kootenay/Flathead area was considered to have the highest quality beaver within the Columbia region.

The Kootenay/Kootenai River Posts 1807-1864

IMAGE 100 Possible site of Kootenay Fort (PFC), east of vermiculite factory about five miles upstream from Libby, Montana. Photograph by author, 1992.

Cootenais/Kootenae/Kootenay/Koutonnais/Kouttanois

The Kootenay Posts are defined geographically by the Kootenay [British Columbia]/Kootenai [Montana] River and ethnically by the Kootenay [Ktunaxa First Nation] who occupied the area. With the exception of Kootenae House, the Kootenai posts were considered more as fluid rendezvous distribution/trading points than permanent posts as they were in operation only a few months of the year. They were apt to change locations over time due to changes in weather and trading patterns. As a result, the placement of the posts is difficult to pinpoint with any accuracy although they appeared in the space along the Kootenai River between modern Libby and Jennings, Montana at the bottom of the Kootenai River that loops into Montana. The Kootenay posts are grouped as follows:

1. Kootenae House (NWC) 1807-1814
2. Kootenai Falls House (NWC) 1808-1809
3. Kootenai House (NWC) 1813-1821
4. Kootenay Fort (PFC) 1813-1814
5. Kooteney Post (HBC) 1821-1871

1. Kootenae House (NWC) 1807-1814

After David Thompson travelled through Howse Pass in the fall of 1807 to initiate NWC trade west of the Rockies south of Simon Fraser's working area, he constructed Kootenae House as a focal point for trade with the Kootenay natives. Strategically the post ultimately had a defensive function, as his first attempt at building a post on a nearby lake was thwarted when Thompson was advised by the local Kootenay natives that it was indefensible from the marauding Peigan [Blackfoot]. So, abandoning a warehouse he had already constructed, Thompson moved to a higher more defensible point north of Lake Windermere near where Toby Creek flows into the Columbia.

...and we there build Log Houses, and strongly stockaded it on three sides, the other side rising on the steep bank of the River...The Stockades were all ball proof, as well as the Logs of the Houses (ChSoc XL Narrative, p. 273-74).

To illustrate this statement, he drew a plan in his journals.

During the winter months of 1807 music would have been heard from the post. Thompson had brought in a small barrel organ in which could be inserted any one of the seven barrels that Thompson carried with him. The barrels were "wooden disks bristling with pins and bridges of flat-section brass wire" (Nisbet, The Mapmaker's Eye, p. 51) and carried tunes ranging from popular reels and tunes of the day to sacred music which included music from George Frederic Handel, still popular forty-nine years after his death in England. No doubt Thompson, his family and their men passed many nights listening to any of the forty-nine tunes on the barrels. This no doubt would have been supplemented with songs and tunes from the French Canadians.

During Thompson's time there, they were visited by several groups of Peigan which he later concluded had been scrutinizing the post's palisaded defenses, but the earlier journals indicate that they were more curious onlookers who were a bit of a nuisance. In June 1808, after exploring southward down the Kootenay, he took his family east to Rainy Lake House. He returned in November to winter and trade for furs. In April 1809, he took furs to Fort Augustus (Edmonton) and returned in the late summer to build forts farther to the south. Kootenay House must have stood for a number of years for the last mention of the post is in Alexander Henry's journal of Jan. 3, 1814. By 1810, however, the post had served its function even though it became a temporary stopping area for fur traders, Joseph Howse, parties of freemen, James McMillan and Nicholas Montour in 1810, Alexander Henry, John McDonald of Garth, John George McTavish and James McMillan in 1811-1812 and James Keith in 1814. Today the site is marked with a Parks Canada cairn. Although many chimney stones had been used for later roadside construction, enough remained to help identify the spot. As well, archaeological work in 2005 confirmed the extent of the palisade (Nisbet, The Mapmaker's Eye, p. 44).

Manager of Kootenae House, 1807-1812:

Thompson, David	surveyor	1807-1809
McDonald, Finan	clerk	1811-1812

Complement of personnel at Kootenae House, 1807-1811:

Beaulieu; Bercier; Bouche; Clement; Howse, Joseph; Landreville, Charles; Le Camble; McDonald, Finan; McMillan, James; Montour, Nicholas; Mousseau; (David Thompson's family 1807-08; Charlotte Small, Fannie [6], Samuel [3] and Emma [1]), Saganakei, Jean Baptiste; Thoebine?; Tranchemontagne/Franchemontagne, Joseph

PS: UBC-Koer Thompson; PPS: ChSoc XL; A. J. Henry, January 3, 1814; Travels in Western North America; Hopwood; Belyea SS: T. C. Elliot, "The Fur Trade in the Columbia River..." Oregon Historical, p. 241-251; White, p. 251-263; Nisbet, The Mapmaker's Eye, p. 5; Smiley, p. 40-47; Unsourced: copy of 1927 survey of site; newspaper clipping, "A Memorial to a Great Explorer", undated; BC Government Historical Site Report

2.

Kootenai Falls House (NWC) 1808-09

In 1808 somewhere above Kootenai Falls on the Kootenai River, Finan McDonald and three assistants built a warehouse for his trade goods and wintered over in two leather tents (ChSocXL, p. 276n). During the winter, he sent two of his men on a trip to Pend d'Orielle/Pend Oreille Lake. This post appears to have been on a bench above the Kootenai River northwest of the present city of Libby. Just how long this post lasted has not been traced possibly just the winter.

Manager of Kootenae House, 1807-1812:

Finan McDonald	clerk	1808-1809
----------------	-------	-----------

Personnel at Kootenai Falls House (partial list), 1807-1812:

Boiverd, Boulard

PS: UBC-Koer Thompson; PPS: Cox, pp. 189-194, 229; ChSocXL; A. J. Henry, January 3, 1814; Belyea SS: T. C. Elliot, "The Fur Trade in the Columbia River..." Oregon Historical, p. 241-251; White, p. 251-263; Nisbet, The Mapmaker's Eye, p. 51

3.

Kootenai House (NWC) 1813-1821

Speculatively, this site was located on the north bank of the Kootenai River not far from the settlement of Jennings, Montana. Founded probably by Nicholas Montour, it is unlikely that this site was held until 1821 and possible that the NWC moved into the PFC site not far away in 1813-1814 (see #4).

Managers of Kootenai House:

Montour, Nicholas	clerk	1813-1814
-------------------	-------	-----------

Personnel at Kootenai House, 1813-1814:

Methode, Francois; Ostiserico, Jacques

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10; O. W. Johnson

4.

Kootenay Fort (PFC) 1813-1814

The PFC plan to challenge the NWC on its home turf saw the construction of Kootenay Fort on the north bank of the Kootenai River, about five miles upstream from Libby on the west side of Rainy Creek identifiable by a Vermiculite plant on the west side. While this site is not certain, a walk around the site revealed evidence of prehistoric occupation of detritus and scrapers. Conversation with a Kootenay historian revealed that a flintlock was found there in the 1950s. It is possible that this site became the location of the NWC post when it assumed ownership of the PFC. This also may be the site where fur trader Benjamin Pillet had a duel with Nicholas Montour (Cox, 106; Ross, 213).

Manager of Kootenai Fort, 1813-1814:

Francois Benjamin Pillet	clerk	1813-1814
--------------------------	-------	-----------

Personnel at Kootenai Fort (partial list), 1813-1814:

Delorme, Jean Baptiste; Le Compte, Alexis; Pillon, Jean Baptiste

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10; PPS: Cox, Adventures, p. 106; Ross, Adventures, p. 213; SS: Elliott, "The Fur Trade".

5.

Kootenay Post (HBC) 1821-1871

Kootenay Post occupied at least three sites. Location of the early HBC Kootenai River trading post is problematic because of a lack of documentation. These posts during the 1820s comprised very few buildings and were occupied only a few months of the year, the site[s] being treated as a rendezvous point[s] for both summer and fall trips by a clerk and six men, from Spokane House to 1826 and from Fort Colville from 1826. The sites became even less important when the Kootenay's went overland and began to trade at the Flathead posts or were doing activities other than hunting. The posts houses were very temporary. By 1830 a summer trip was performed by land with horses and fall trips by water.

Site #1 (1821-1837). It is assumed that when the HBC acquired the NWC, it also acquired the NWC site on the Kootenai River near Jennings which may or may not be the same site as above.

Managers of site #1, 1821-1825:

(not traced)		1821-1825
William Kittson	clerk	1825
Thomas Dears	clerk	1826-1827
William Kittson	clerk	1828-1829
John Warren Dease?	Chief Trader	1826-1829?
William Kittson	clerk	1831
William Kittson	clerk	1834
Alexander Anderson	clerk	1835
William Glenn Rae	clerk	1836
Charles Ross	clerk	1837

Site #2 (1837-1860). The second HBC site was established nine years before the international boundary was drawn possibly by Edward Berland who moved the post to Tobacco Plains just five miles south of the border.

Managers of site #2, 1839-1859:

(unnamed, probably Edouard Berland)	interpreter	1839-1840
J. McPherson	post master	1841
P. McKenzie	apprentice post master	1842-1843
Edouard Berland	interpreter & post master	1844-1853
(unnamed)	interpreter	1855-1859

Site #3 (1860-1871). When the boundaries were finalized by the boundary commission, the HBC site south of the international boundary was moved north back into British territory, then the province of British Columbia. The post closed in the spring of 1871.

Managers of site #3, 1862-1871:

John "Scotty" Linklater	post master	1862-1863
Michael Phillipps	post master	1863-1871

The Flathead Posts

The Flathead posts are defined geographically by the westward flowing Flathead, Clark Fork and Pend Oreille river system which David Thompson called the Saleesh River. This corresponds with the Salish Arc of the Flathead, Pend Oreille/Kalispel and Spokane tribes who all spoke allied versions of the Interior Salish language. The NWC Spokane House and PFC Fort Spokane were the distribution and administrative centres for their Flathead posts.

1. Kullyspel House (NWC) 1809-1811
2. Saleesh House (NWC) 1809-1821
3. Spokane House (NWC) 1810-1826), Fort Spokane (PFC) 1812-1813
4. Howse House (HBC) 1810-1811
5. Fort Flathead (PFC) 1812-1814
6. Fort Flathead/Saleesh House (HBC) 1821-1847
7. Fort Connah (HBC) 1847-1871
8. Jeremy Pinch's Establishment 1807

With the exception of Howse House and the Pacific Fur Company post, the forts were run from Fort Spokane from 1813-1825 and, after that from Fort Colville, the post records of which include the names of many of the Flathead personnel.

1.

Kullyspel House [NWC] 1809-1811

IMAGE 101 Drowned site of Kullyspel House, Lake Pend d'Oreille, Idaho. Photograph by author, 1992.

Kullyspel/Kullyspell/Kalispel House was built in September 1809 by David Thompson specifically for trade with the Kalispel Indians. He had accessed Pend Oreille Lake from Kootenai River on a well-trodden Flathead trail (Nisbet, The Mapmaker's Eye, p. 72-75). Built in sixteen days with the aid of horses pulling the heavy wood, it consisted of a seven foot high house and a warehouse with two floors, possibly two stories. The roofs were chinked with mud and grass. After the original construction, Finan McDonald was left in charge. Kullyspel was maintained as a post until about 1811, when it was felt that the local natives were not interested in obtaining fur and its operations were rolled into those of Fort Spokane. Kullyspel House was located on the east side of Lake Pend d'Oreille, one and a half miles from the mouth of the river on a peninsula of land that had long been a communal gathering place. In modern terms, it stood at a point extending into the lake between Hope and Clarks Fork stations on the Northern Pacific Railway and was commonly called Indian Meadows. The site is now drowned and a marker two miles away marks its presence.

Manager of Kullyspel House, 1809-?:

Finan McDonald

clerk

1809-?

Complement of personnel at Kullyspel House, 1809-1811:

Beaulieu; Boucher, Baptiste; Finlay, Jacques Raphael (and family); McDonald, Finan; Thompson, David

PS: UBC-Koer Thompson; PPS: Belyea, p. 108-111; SS: Nisbet, The Mapmaker's Eye

2.

Saleesh House 1/Flathead Post [NWC] 1809-1821

The North West Company's Saleesh House was strategically located on a traditional native wintering and trading site on the route connecting the higher mountain country to the Flathead Lake area. The area was not only rich in beaver but had a guaranteed supply of food as the Flathead Lake area was on the route to bison hunting grounds, a rich source of pemmican. David Thompson chose the site in November 1809 after he had finished constructing Kulleyspell House and in 1810, a native trail (Skeetshoo Road) was utilized enabling those at Saleesh House to travel down the Clark Fork River, through Pend Oreille Lake and from a point on the Pend Oreille River, to use the "road" (or trail) to Spokane House. In 1812 David Thompson rebuilt the House into a more permanent structure.

In the winter of 1813-1814, Ross Cox described it as follows:

It had a good trading store, a comfortable house for the men, and a snug box for ourselves; all situated on a point formed by the junction of a bold mountain torrent with the Flat-head river, and surrounded on all sides with high and thickly wooded hills, covered with pine, spruce, larch, beech, birch, and cedar (Cox, p. 118).

During his stay, he witnessed a horrifically awful revenge torture and execution of a Blackfoot captured by the local Flathead Indians.

Under the later HBC regime, the site was better known as Flathead Post. Today the site can be located on the Clark Fork River, about three miles above Thompson Falls, Montana. Although the post was in existence until 1821 under the NWC, the records are too sparse to follow its changes in location.

Managers of Saleesh House [NWC], 1809-1814:

Thompson, David	partner	winter 1809-1810
McDonald, Finan	clerk	winter 1810-1811
Thompson, David	partner	winter 1811-1812
McDonald, Finan	clerk	winter 1812-1813
McMillan, James	clerk	winter 1813-1814
(untraced)		(1814-1821)

Probable and possible personnel at Saleesh House/Flathead Fort (1809-1814):

Bellanger, André; Bostonais (Page), A (?); Bourdon, Michel (?); Dupuis, Francois; Finlay, Jacco; Hoole, Louis Capois (?); Landreville, Charles; Loyer, Charles; Rivet, François (?);

PS: UBC-Koer Thompson PPS: Cox, p. 118-20; ChSocXL; Belyea SS: T. C. Elliot, "The Fur Trade in the Columbia River..." Oregon Historical, p. 241-251; White, p. 251-263

3.

Spokane/Spokan House (NWC & HBC) 1810-1826

IMAGE 102 Spokane House monument on site:
"Spokane House. First Permanent White Settlement in State of Washington. Established by Northwest Fur Company 1810. Located between this monument and the confluence of Spokane and Little Spokane Rivers. Pacific Fur Company of John Jacob Astor, an American concern, built rival trading post in 1812. Taken over by Northwest Company 1813. By Hudson's Bay Company 1821. Governor Stevens camped and conferred with Indians 1853. Erected by Spokane County Pioneer Society, 1949."
 Photograph by author, 1992.

The first site of the North West Company's Spokane House, located where the little Spokane River joins the Spokane River (west of the present city of Spokane), was chosen around 1810 by David Thompson to capture established native trade. Strategically, the area had been a meeting place for natives who would come for gambling, horseracing and fishing and could be approached in five different ways using well trodden native paths. The routes were:

From the Columbia River: (1) from Kettle Falls up the Colville River to its source and overland to the Spokane River; (2) from the Columbia River confluence directly up the Spokane River;

From the Pend Oreille River: (1) from the Pend Oreille River [near Pend Oreille Lake] utilizing the Skeetshoo Indian Road to the Spokane River; (2) from further down the Pend Oreille River overland using the Kullyspell Road directly to Spokane House;

From the Snake River: (1) from the Snake River north paralleling the Palouse River and Rock Creek to Spokane using the old Shawpatin Road (Nisbet, Sources of the, p. 142, 159, 218; Nisbet, The Mapmaker's Eye, p. 121).

The location seemed ideal in terms of a long established native template. Consequently, this small post with a few buildings became the principal NWC distributing and wintering point for the Upper Columbia, Kootenay and Flathead areas from 1810 to 1826. Its construction was begun in 1810 by Finan McDonald and Jaco Finlay and others. Because the PFC had established a rival post approximately one quarter to one half mile away which was built to impress, when the NWC bought out the PFC, the NWC moved from its original site and into the larger PFC site retaining the name Spokane House. (An aerial photograph appearing in Peltier, p. 35, speculates as to the location of the original 1810 NWC post.) In 1818, because of the relatively land-locked location of Spokane House, the NWC decided to build a more conveniently located Fort Nez Percés in the Walla Walla area (A. Ross, The Fur Hunters, p. 117). In 1821 after the amalgamation with the NWC, Spokane House was taken over and rebuilt by the Hudson's Bay Company. As Spokane House was a popular and friendly environment and an early launching place for Snake Expeditions, many freemen were often found staying in the area for periods of time resulting in frowned-on inefficiencies. As such, and because some of the freemen names appeared in the journals they have also been added to the usual annual employee names (one officer, one to two clerks, labourers, blacksmiths, carpenters and coopers, etc.) thus conflating the size of the actual contracted employees at the post. In 1824, George Simpson found the “delightfully situated” (G. Simpson, Fur Trade, p. 43) Spokane House far too unproductive, with far too many layabouts and so the following year on his way upriver, decided to move the site to Kettle Falls on the Columbia River (ibid, p. 43-48, 133-136). Soon after, it was abandoned by the HBC in favour of a more accessible Columbia River site, to be named Fort Colville. The extended Finlay family stayed on at the old site, and old Jocco Finlay died there in 1828.

Markers denote the site today, which is about ten miles northwest of the city of Spokane and its memory is kept alive by a group called Friends of Spokane House.

Fort Spokane (PFC) 1812-1813

Fort Spokane was a short-lived Pacific Fur Company post. In June 1812, as part of the PFC expansion phase into North West Company trading territory, PFC employees Benjamin Pillet, Donald McLennan, Russell Farnham and Ross Cox, under John Clarke, set out from Astoria to the site of the NWC post of Spokane House where they set up an adjacent impressive looking rival post (ChSocXLV, p. 115, McDougall, p. 100; Cox, p. 100). The small group set to work chopping trees and in October departed to set up additional posts farther afield. Fort Spokane was turned over to the NWC in 1813-1814.

Managers at Spokane Houses/Fort Spokane, 1810-1826:

North West Company Post (Spokan/Spokane House), 1810-1821

MacDonald, Finan	builder	1810-1811
McMillan, A. (James)	Chief Trader	1812
Stewart, Alexander	proprietor	1813-1815
McMillan, A. (James)	Chief Trader	1816
McKenzie, Donald	clerk	1817
(not traced)		(1817-1821)

Pacific Fur Company (Fort Spokane), 1812-1813

Clarke, John	partner	1812
--------------	---------	------

Hudson's Bay Company Post (Spokane House), 1821-1826

Lewes, John Lee	Chief Trader	1821-1823
Kennedy, Alexander	Chief Factor	1822-1823
Ogden, Peter Skene	Chief Trader	1823-1825
Work, John	clerk	1825-1826
Dease, John Warren	Chief Trader	1825-1826

Personnel at Spokan/Spokane House: NWC/ PFC/HBC, 1810-1826:

Aniwarian, Louis; Beauchamp, Jean Baptiste; Benoit, Antoine; Bercier, Pierre; Bernier, Julian; Birnie, James; Boucher, Charles; Boucher, Jean Baptiste; Bourdon, Michel; Brugier, Pierre; Chalifoux, Andre; Chotorioikon, Jean Baptiste; Clement, Antoine; Connor, Patrick; Cotté, Joseph; Cox, Ross; Crevais, Charles; Dease, John Warren; Degrais, Pierre Phillipe; Dehodonwassare, Ignace; Farnham, Russel; Finlay, Bonhomme; Finlay, Jacques Raphael; Finlay, (James) Raphael, Jr.; Finlay, Nicholas; Gardepie, Jean Baptiste; Geaudreau, Jean Baptiste; Goddin, Thiery; Godin, Antoine; Grenier, Joseph; Groslin, Charles; Haldane, John; Hatcheorouquasha, Ignace (John Grey); Hodgens, Francis Wm; Hubert, Joachim; Jacquette, Charles; Kanatioha, Louis; Kanetagon, Ignace; Kanetagon, Louis; Kanonswasse, Martin; Kanota, Louis; Karaganyate, Pierre; Karatohon, Laurent; Kassawessa, Pierre; Kayenquaretcha, Lazard; Kennedy, Alexander; Kittson, William; Labonté, Louis; La Gasse, Charles; Landreville, Charles; Laurent, Francois; Lewes, John Lee; Loyer, Charles; Lussier, Bazil; McDonald, Finan; McLennan, Donald; McTavish, Alexander; McTavish, John George; Montour, Nicholas; Narkareta, Thomas; Ogden, Peter Skene; Oniaze, Étienne; Ostiserico, Paget, Antoine; Jacques; Paquin, Louis; Paul, Joseph; Paul, Louis; Payette, François; Picard, André; Pillet, Francis Benjamin; Pion, Louis; Prudhomme, Gabriel; Rivet, François; Robert, François; Rondeau, Louis; Ross, Alexander; Roy, Joseph; Saganakei, Jean Baptiste; St. Amant, Joseph; St. Germain, Saulteux, St. Michel, Louis; Sakoeroka, Baptiste; Salioheni, Ignace; Salioheni (stepson of Ignace); Sassanare, François Xavier; Shaegoskatsta, Louis; Shorienton, Jean Baptiste; Stewart, Alexander; Takakenrat, Ignace; Tarihongo, François Xavier; Tchigte, Charles; Tehongagarate, Joseph; Tevanitagon, Pierre; Thompson, David; Tiegne, Thomas; Vallade, Rhene; Wilson, William; Work, John

PS: UBCKoer Thompson; HBCA NWCAB 9, 10; FtSpokPJ 1; FtSpokRD 1-2; YFASA 1-5; FtGeo[Ast]AB 1-12; SnkCoRD 1-2; SnkCoPJ 1-6; HBCA Spokane House post history PPS: A. Ross, The Fur Hunters; G. Simpson, Fur Trade; ChSocXLV; Cox; McDougall; SS: Peltier, “Neglected Spokane”; Nisbet, Sources of the, Nisbet, The Mapmaker's Eye; <http://www.friendsofspokanehouse.com/fortreconstruction.html>

4.

Howse House [HBC] 1810-1811

IMAGE 103 Area thought to be the site of Howse House, near Kalispell, Montana. Photograph by author, 1992.

Largely ignored, the first Hudson's Bay Company “trading” post west of the Rockies was built by Joseph Howse in the autumn of 1810 as a temporary wintering post on the Flathead River. Its location is believed to be two miles north of the present day Kalispell, Montana. Howse occupied the post for the winter of 1810-1811, abandoned it and returned to Rocky Mountain House in January 1811.

Managers of Howse House, 1810-1811:

Joseph Howse

in charge

1810-1811

Complement of personnel at Howse House (partial list), 1810-1811:

Finlay, Jacko plus sixteen other untraced servants and four natives.

PPS: A. Ross, The Fur Hunters, p. 211; Coues, p. 672; SS: HBRS II, [bio] p. 221-23; Nisbet, The Mapmaker's Eye, p. 70-71; Nisbet, Sources of the, p. 143, 163

5. Fort Flathead [PFC] 1812-1814

IMAGE 104 Drowned Fort Flathead site (PFC) near Noxon, Montana. Photograph by author, 1992.

This once-strategic site on the north side of the Clark Fork River near Noxon, Sanders County, Montana is now drowned by the Noxon Reservoir. After assisting in the construction of Fort Spokane, Ross Cox, Russel Farnham and twelve men with fourteen loaded horses set out on October 12, 1812 for the Flathead area to build a post to be in opposition to the NWC post already there. By November 10th, they had reached a friendly Flathead tribe and found that strategically this group had access to beaver and buffalo meat and so:

...before three weeks we had erected the frame of a good substantial building, which in another week was roofed in, and afforded a welcome shelter to the poor fellows [those with Cox], whose only covering was their blankets (Cox, p. 102).

Cox, who left Russel Farnham in charge, had a plank canoe built so he could descend the River back to the Spokan area.

Managers of Fort Flathead [PFC], 1812-1813:

Ross Cox	clerk	1812
Russell Farnham	clerk	1812-1813

Complement of PFC employees at Flathead Fort, 1812-1814:

Bostonais (Page), A (?); Bourdon, Michel (?); Guerin, Moise; Hoole, Louis Capois (?); Laliberte, Louis, La Valle, Louis; Rivet, François (?); Roi, Olivier

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10; PPS: Cox, p. 102; Nisbet correspondence

6. Fort Flathead/Saleesh House 2 [HBC] 1821-1847

IMAGE 105 Area of Fort Flathead (HBC) on or near Clark's Fork near Eddy Station, Montana. Photograph by author, 1992.

This Hudson's Bay Company post, also named Fort Flathead, or Saleesh House, was a continuation of the North West Company post of the same name but is treated separately here as its locations likely changed over the years. The extant NWC records are too sparse to follow with any accuracy all the changes, if any. One later HBC location was at Clark Fork, near Eddy, Montana. This HBC post appeared to be no more than "a row of huts 6 in number, low, linked together under one cover having the appearance of deserted booths" (D. L. Morgan, Jedediah Smith, p. 133). Used by Ogden as a launching spot for his 1824 Snake Expedition, it was in operation for approximately twenty-three years and in the late 1820s experienced American opposition in the area. It can also be called a second Saleesh House.

Managers of HBC Fort Flathead/Fort Saleesh, 1823-1846:

Finan McDonald	clerk	1821-1823
Alexander Ross	clerk	1824
John Work	clerk	1825
John Warren Dease	Chief Trader	1826-1828
John Work	clerk	1829
William Kittson	clerk	1830
Francis Heron	Chief Trader	1831
Francis Ermatinger	clerk	1832-1838
Angus McDonald [b]	general servant	1839
Donald McLean	clerk	1840-1841
John McPherson	post master	1842-1843
Augustus E. Pelly	clerk	1844
Peter Ogden, Jr.	clerk	1846

Complement of Fort Flatheads personnel, 1821-1846:

(Not traced 1821-1846 but it would appear that at there was a complement of at least eight men per season.)

PPS: A. Ross, The Fur Hunters, p. 207, 208, 213, 217, 254, 274; HBRX X, p. 47-50, 54, 56; SS: HBCA Post extract; Schafer, "Documents," p. 60; SS: D. L. Morgan, Jedediah Smith, p. 133; White, p. 251-263; Elliot, "Peter Skene Ogden," p. 247; A. H. Smith, p. 47-54

7. Fort Connah [HBC] 1847-1871

IMAGE 106 Site of Fort Connah, Post Creek, Lake County, Montana. Photograph by author, 1992.

Fort Connah, a relocation of the above HBC post of Fort Flathead/Saleeh came to be located on Post Creek, Lake County, Montana, six miles north of St. Ignatius Mission. It was the last of the Hudson's Bay Company posts which were constructed on what was to become U.S. territory. The relocation was considered necessary as it was closer to the newer Indian route, as so many natives were drawn to the St. Ignatius Mission area. Consequently in 1846, Neil McLean McArthur began construction of the post that was to replace the Flathead post. It was completed the following year by Angus McDonald who named it Connah, after a Scottish river valley, but because an employee couldn't pronounce the name, it became Connah. In the 1850s, because the post was on an Indian Reservation, the Flathead Treaty Indian agent ordered that it be closed but apparently it stayed open until the 1860s when, because of competition from Helena, Montana, thirty miles east of Flathead, trade was declined and the post was closed for good in 1871.

Managers of Fort Connah, 1846-1871:

McArthur, Neil M.	apprentice clerk	1846-1847
McDonald, Angus	clerk	1848-1852
Ogden, Michael	post master	1853-1860
McLaurin, Lachlan	clerk	1861-1864
Fitsstubbbs, Napoleon	post master	1865
McKenzie, James	post master	1866
McDonald, Duncan	clerk	1867-1870

Complement of employees at Fort Connah, 1846-1871:

Finlay, Francois; Finlay, David; (because many of the men were paid out of the Fort Colville accounts it is difficult to track which individuals worked at Fort Connah.

PS: HBCA YFDS 18; HBCA Flathead Post compiled post history; JS: Partoll, "Fort Connah," p. 399-415

8. "Jeremy Pinch's Establishment" 1807

This fort is an historical mystery, and quite likely a hoax. A military "Fort Lewis" was apparently the temporary quarters of an American U.S. Army Captain Zachary Perch/Jeremy Pinch and his men, supposedly somewhere in the location of the Columbia basin. When David Thompson was building his Kootenae House in August, 1807, a letter signed by two U.S. military officers and dated July 10, 1807 arrived from "Fort Lewis, Columbia", outlining rules of behavior for foreigners trading with Indians in U.S. territory. At the end of December, a second letter, supposedly from a Jeremy Pinch (likely Zachary Perch) at Poltito Palton Lake and dated September 29, 1807 arrived with similar instructions. No "Fort Lewis" or any of the named expedition members can be confirmed by any historical record or native oral tradition from the area. American historian Jack Nisbet cites a likely candidate as "John McClallan, a former US Army artillery captian and personal acquaintant of Meriwether Lewis" (Nisbet, The Mapmaker's Eye, p. 50). Others have speculated that it may have been a hoax perpetrated by Lisa or General James Wilkinson, the slightly devious civil governor and military commandant of the recently purchased U.S. territory. Additionally, Jeremy Pinch may possibly have been an employee of Manuel Lisa's Missouri Fur Company, and had engaged several of Lewis and Clark's men and apparently crossed the Divide around 1807. The problem is that none of the names appear in fur trade history.

The location of the fort is unknown. If the possible post was west of the Continental Divide, it could have been at the mouth of the Clearwater or Snake River, or somewhere on the Clark Fork or Spokane. It may also have been the Courter's fort near present day Montana.

Managers of Jeremy Pinch's Establishment, c.1807:

Perch, Zachary	Capt. & Comm. Off.	1807
Pinch, Jeremy	Lieut	1807

Complement of employees at Zachary Perch/Jeremy Pinch's Establishments, c.1807:

Coulter, John?	member?	1807
Roseman, James	Lieutenant	1807
Braithwaite	General	1807
(Thirty-six other members)

PS: UBCK Koer Thompson; SS: Elliott, "The Strange Case," p. 188-199; Ghent, "'Jeremy Pinch' Again", p. 307-14; Tyrell, p. 391-97; J. S. Douglas, "Jeremy Pinch and the," p. 425-31; O. W. Johnson, pp. 173-74, 184, 217

Snake Country Trapping and Trappers, 1810-1850: An Overview

By definition the Snake Country expeditions would include the Snake River drainage basin but in a broader context, extended into east over the Continental Divide, and at one point down to the Gulf of California.

IMAGE 107 Snake River, Idaho. National Park Service, 2006.

Although the Snake Country had become the trading area of British and Canadian fur companies from 1813, American groups had been entering Snake Country from the east from Lewis and Clark in 1804-1806 and Andrew Henry in the winter of 1810-1811. Wilson Price Hunt's group had trekked through the area in 1810-1811 leaving a trapping party at the abandoned Henry's Fort. Donald McKenzie set up a temporary post in 1812-1813 on behalf of the PFC as did John Reed in 1813-1814 to retrieve a cache which Hunt had put aside but his post on the Boise River was considered intrusive into the high traffic native area and so his party was killed off. However, the War of 1812 intervened and the Snake Country fur trade did not get back on track until 1816.

Donald McKenzie, who had become familiar with the Snake Country while coming overland with Wilson Price Hunt's Party in 1811, had made an attempt to set up a PFC post in 1812 on the Clearwater to capture the furs but this was short-lived and he returned east when the PFC was taken over by the NWC. Hired back on as a NWC employee, McKenzie was given the job of organizing the interior and the Snake Country with Alexander Ross recording his ventures (A. Ross, The Fur Hunters). It was at this time that the NWC adapted the horse as a major conveyor of people and goods thus opening up territory previously not accessible to canoes (HBRS XIII, xxxi). Breaking with tradition, the brigade system would not rely on trade with the natives as brigade members would trap the furs themselves. McKenzie's first step in 1818 was to set up Fort Nez Perces as a staging point for several Snake Country expeditions. The first party

...left the fort at the end of September, 1818. It consisted of 55 men, 195 horses, 300 beaver traps, and a considerable stock of merchandise under the command of McKenzie (HBRS XIII, xxxii).

His group was replenished several times, returning in 1821 in July, thus setting up the pattern for Snake Country Expedition patterns.

During the transition years of 1821-1824 from NWC to HBC, expedition start points were transferred to Flathead Post where contracted servants and freemen with their families would gather in their lodges or tents to ready themselves for departure. There, amongst the clammer of different languages and an array of ethnicities, they would be issued guns, ammunition and traps for which they would later pay in furs. The wives, although rarely mentioned, were vital, making clothes, preparing food, setting up tents and skinning the catches.

HBC head George Simpson felt that the mixture of freemen, whom he detested because of their independent ways and many of whom had been in the area since the dissolution of the PFC, and Nez Perces would be harmful to the Snake Expeditions.

...our Freeman are composed of Europeans, Canadians, Americans, Iroquois, half breeds of all the different Nations on the West side the Mountain and the Women are Natives of every tribe on both sides; such a motley congregation it is quite impossible to keep under any control or restraint; they would be constantly gambling buying chopping & changing of women Slaves Horses & Dogs with the Natives, quarrels would follow as a matter of course and the consequences might be fatal both to the Establishment and Expedition (G. Simpson, Fur Trade, p. 56).

The large group would leave in February to trap beaver, and fan out from a prescribed route to capture furs in as wide an area as possible. In 1824, the numbers were consistent as Ross' party left Flathead post with fifty-four men, 206 traps, sixty-two guns and 231 horses.

American competition was always present in the Snake Country. Recognizing American competition as early as 1824, Simpson wanted to destroy all the Beaver "as fast as possible" (G. Simpson, Fur Trade, p. 46). By 1827 he was still advocating the stripping of the land of furs to discourage American traders, trappers and colonizers (HBRS, lxviii). The American presence was in the form of a variety of evolving and ever changing St. Louis partnerships (under various company names) involving the main players of Manuel Lisa, the Choteaus, Andrew Henry, Joshua Pilcher, David Jackson, William Henry Ashley, Jedediah Strong Smith, the Sublette brothers, Robert Campbell, Thomas Fitzpatrick and Jean Baptiste Gervais. They initiated and took advantage of the various Rendezvous in and around the Rocky Mountains from 1826-1840 to trade for furs (Gowans). Consequently, American fur traders could remain in the field for several years, being replenished each year at a Rendezvous. In terms of the biographies, not all individuals who worked for these partnerships and who worked in the Snake Country can be traced. Later, independents such as Nathaniel Jarvis Wyeth and Captain Bonneville tried unsuccessfully to forge a living in the Snake and Columbia regions.

The presence of the Americans represented opportunity for the individual fur trader who felt that some of the profit should be shared. Actually, the reasons for the desertion were two-fold. Many of the fur traders had retained an antipathy for the HBC during the heady days of HBC-NWC rivalry (HBRS XIII, xlv-xlv). Secondly, as prices paid for the furs by the Americans were much higher, desertion was not a difficult decision to make for the fur traders.

Leaders of Snake Country NWC-HBC Expeditions, 1818-1834:

Donald McKenzie	proprietor	1818-1821
Finan McDonald	clerk	1821-1824
Alexander Ross		1824
Peter Skene Ogden		1824-1829
John Work		1831-1834

Contracted and free traders from a variety of companies and partnerships who can be traced as trapping in Snake Country, 1818-1850:

Adams, George; Allard, Ovide; Anaractaeara, Pierre; Annance, Joseph; Ariuhoniata, André; Atihataroes, Michel; Aupu; Azure, Antoine; Beardy, Henry; Beauchamp, Baptiste; Beauchemin, Edouard; Beaudoin, François; Belay; Benoit, Antoine; Bercier, Pierre; Berland, Edouard; Boisvert, Louis; Bostonais (Page), A.; Boucher, Jean Baptiste [1]; Bourdon, Michel; Brancheau, Thomas; Bridger, Jim; Brisbois, Olivier; Bruce, Antoine; Brulez, Jean Baptiste; Bule, Tom; Burdod; Cadotte, Pierre; Calder, John; Campbell, William; Canning, William; Cantara, Antoine; Carpentier, Charles; Carson, Alexander; Chalifoux, André; Champagne, François; Charbonneau, Abraham; Charles, Pierre; Charpentier, François; Cheenook, Philip; Clement, Antoine; Cloutier, Jerome; Com; Cook, Richard; Conner, Patrick; Corbin, Pierre; Cornoyer, Joseph; Craigie, James; Crevais, Antoine; Crevais, Charles; Daunais, Louis Aimé; Dauny, Louis; Dears, Thomas; Dechamp, Antoine; Dechamp, Pierre; Dehodionwassere, Ignace; Delard, Joseph; Delorme, Jean Baptiste; Denoyer, Edouard; Depot, Pierre; Deschamps, Pierre; Desjardines, Jean Baptiste; Deslard, Joseph; Despard, Joseph; Dorion, Pierre; Douglas, James; Dubeau, Louis; Dubois, Pierre; Dubreuille, Jean Baptiste; Dufort, Charles; Dumais, Augustin; Dupont, Nicholas; Dupuy, Nicholas; Duval, Denis; Eleahoy; Ermatinger, Francis; Favel, John [a]; Finlay, Augustin; Finlay, François Benetsee; Finlay, James; Finlay, Keyackie; Finlay, Miquiam; Finlay, Nicholas; Finlay, Pinasta; Forcier, Narcisse; Gadoua, Jean Baptiste; Gardepie, Jean Baptiste; Geaudreau, Jean Baptiste Sr.; Geaudreau, Jean Baptiste Jr.; George, Thomas; Gervais, Jean Baptiste; Goddin, Thierry; Godin, Antoine; Goodriche, Bache; Grandmason, Louis; Grant, Richard; Grenier, Joseph; Groselin, Charles; Guilbeau, Paul; Guille, Simon; Haona; Harvey, Andrew; Hatchiorququasha, Ignace (John Grey); Henry, Norman; Hodgens, François William; Hoolapa; Hoole, Antoine [a]; Hubert, Joachim; Iaukeo; Isaac, Jean, Jean Baptiste; Jean, Joseph Louis; Jeaudoins, Charles; Johnson, John; Johnstone, William [d]; Joyalle, Étienne; Kahoolanou; Kaiumakau; Kaipumaku; Kakaraguiron, Pierre; Kalama; Kaluaikai; Kanate, Gregoire; Kanetagon, Louis; Kanota, Louis; Kanotahare, Pierre; Karaganacon, Michel; Karaganyate, Pierre; Karatohon, Laurant; Kassawessa, Pierre; Kayenquaretcha, Lazard; Keavé, Tom; Keavé-haccow; Keharoha; Kittson, William; Kennedy, John [a]; King, Bill; Kittson, William; Konea; Koneva; Korhooa; Laforte, Louis; Laforte (Plassis), Michel; Larance, Theodore; Larocque, Joseph Sebastien; Launge, Jacques; Laval, Louis; Lavoie, Jean Baptiste; Lawler, Jack; Lefevre, Jean Baptiste; Lepine, François; L'Etang, Pierre; Letendre, Antoine; Liard, François Xavier; Lonctain, André; Louis, Joseph; Loyer, Charles; McDonald, Angus [b]; Lucier, Étienne; McDonald, Donald [f]; McDonald; Finan; McIver, James; McKay, Charles; McKay, Thomas; McKenzie, Archibald; McKinley, Archibald; McLean, Donald [c]; McLeod, Angus [c]; McLeod, John; McLeod, Murdoch; McLeod, Roderick; Maikai; Majeau, Ambroise; Majeau, Pierre; Mamuka, Jem; Manoa, Joe; Martin, Miaquin; Martineau, Alexis; Martineau, Pierre; Matte, Maxime; Menard, Jean; Methode, François; Millejours, Augustin; Mocuman, Louis; Moku; Montigny, Narcisse; Montour, Nicholas; Naharou; Nahouree; Nakarsketa, Thomas; Namacooouroria; Nauka; Newberd, James; Nigre; Obichon, Jean Baptiste; O'Brien, P.; O'Connor, Patrick; Ogden, Charles; Ogden, Peter Skene; Onaharashan, Charles; Oniaze, Étienne; Oskononton, Nicholas; Osticeroko, Jacques; Otoetanie, Michel; Paget, Antoine; Pakee; Pambrun, Thomas; Parisien, Charles; Parker, Harry; Paul, Joseph; Paul, Long; Paul, Pierre; Paparee, Jem; Payette, François; Perrault, Joseph; Piccard, Maurice; Pichette, Louis; Piette, François; Pin, Joseph; Pineau, Joseph; Plante, Antoine; Plante, Charles; Plante, Michel; Ploughboy, Joe; Poirier, Antoine; Portneuf, Joseph; Potvin, Jacques; Powers, Gilbert; Proulx, François; Prudhomme, Bazil; Prudhomme, Gabriel; Punebaka; Quesnel, Amable; Quintal, Laurent; Rayaume, Joseph; Rayaume, Julian; Raymond, Narcisse; Raymond, William; Rivet, François; Rivet, François Jr.; (Rochquelaure); Rocquebrun, Joseph; Rondeau, Charles; Rondeau, Louis; Ross (Rocque), George; Roy, Jean Baptiste; Russell, Osborne; Sagoyenhas, Joseph; St. Amant, Joseph; St. Andre, Pierre; St. Germain, Adolphe; St. Germain, Saulteaux; St. Michel, Louis; Salioheni, Ignace; stepson of Ignace Salioheni; Sansfacon, François; Saodaquequa, Lazard; Sassanare, François Xavier; Satakarass, Pierre; Saunders, John; Sauenregio, Jean Baptiste; Seguin, Xavier; Shanagraté, Louis; Shorienton, Jean Baptiste; Silvaille, Antoine; Silvestre, Jean Baptiste; Sinclair, William Jr.; Sloats, Benjamin; Smith, Thomas; (Spokane, Baptiste); Soloheni, Ignace; Solioheni, Ignace's stepson; Spun yarn; Sublette, Milton G.; Taceanui; Tahenna; Takakenrat, Ignace; Talao; Taoutoo; Tarihongo, François Xavier; Tasitaharie, Henrie; Tariton, Thomas; Tatooa; Tayapapa; Tecanasogan, Pierre; Tehongagarate, Joseph; Tehotarachten, Jacques; Tenetoresque, Francois Xavier; Teouee; Tetreau, Louis; Tevanitagon, Ignace; Tevanitagon, Pierre; Tawatcon, Thomas; Teycaleyeeoe, Lazard; Tommo; Toupin, Jean; Tourawhyheine, Trask, Elbridge; Tulloch, Samuel; Turner, John; Tyeguariche, Jean Baptiste; Uneau, Michel; Valle, Antoine; Vaudry, Pierre;

Villandrie, Pierre; Voyer, Pierre; Waahela; Wahaloola; Walker, Courtney Meade; Ward, John; Wentzell, William; Whitford, John; William; Williams, John; Wood, William; Work, John

PS: HBCA SnkCoPJ 1-11; SnkCoRD 1; FtSpokPJ 1; FtSpokRD 1-2; YFDS 3-5, 7, 9-12; FtVanASA 7-43; PPS: HBRS XIII, Ogden's Snake Country Journals, 1824-26; HBRS XXIII, Ogden's Snake Country Journal, 1826-27; HBRS XXVIII, Ogden's Snake Country Journals, 1827-29; A. Ross, The Fur Hunters; G. Simpson, Fur Trade, p. 46; JS: Irving, Astoria, 240-241; D. L. Morgan, Jedediah Smith; Gowans

Snake River Posts

1. Fort Henry (MFC) 1810-1811
2. Donald McKenzies Outpost (PFC) 1812-1813
3. John Reed's Post (PFC) 1813-1814
4. Fort Hall (CRFTC-HBC) 1834-1856
5. Fort Boise (HBC) 1834-1855

1.

Fort Henry or Henry's Post (MFC) 1810-1811

IMAGE 108 Marker for Fort Andrew Henry (Fort Henry) near St. Anthony, Idaho. Photograph by author, 1992.

Henry's Post was a temporary wintering post set up in the fall of 1810, essentially to avoid conflict with natives on the east side of the Continental Divide. Because in the summer of 1810, Missouri Fur Company partner Andrew Henry was encountering problems with the Blackfeet in the Three Forks area, he went south, crossing over the Divide and encamped on the north fork of the Snake River, now Henry's Fork. There the small group spent a harsh winter in the cabins they built and were forced to eat their horses. In the spring, since food was so scarce, they split up. One group under Henry headed north back over the Divide and down the Yellowstone River, another group headed to New Mexico and a third, under John Hoback, headed east. Hoback encountered Wilson Price Hunt's westward overland expedition and guided Hunt's men back to the now-abandoned Henry's post. It was no longer used after that apart from visiting trappers.

Complement of Personnel at Henry's Post, 1810-1811

Cather, L.; Henry, Andrew; Hoback, John; Jackson, B.; McBride, P; Robinson, Edward, Reznor, Jacob; Weir, W.

There is some dispute as to the actual location of the short-lived site, one putting it near the village of Egan, another some seven miles north of Rexburg and yet another, a few miles from St. Anthony. Several stones with the names of the personnel inscribed have been located within a few miles of the sites.

SS: Irving, Astoria, p. 240; Chittenden, p. 144-45; Brooks, p. 7-9; Deal, p. 67-68; Forbush, p. 75-77; Clements (manuscript) p. 29-34

2.

Donald McKenzie's Outpost (PFC) 1812-1813

This was a PFC winter shelter on the Clearwater River five miles above the junction with the Snake River in Nez Perce country. It was built to fulfill a promise to the natives who had aided the overland expedition the previous year. PFC partner Donald Mackenzie set out from Astoria on June 29, 1812 specifically to capture furs “about the banks of the Lewis [Clearwater] River” (ChSocXLV, p. 115) but fulfilling a promise and strategically placing a post to capture the fur market are quite different matters. The post had to be built of driftwood from the river as there were no trees in the area. The group of “20 men 1 boy & 1 squaw” put it together in three weeks in September 1812. The resulting temporary post:

...consisted of a store, a house for the men & one for Mr. McK and myself [Alfred Seton]. The method of building was as follows. Logs were piled up about six feet high, fitted to each other in the ends. A ridge pole [was raised] about 4 feet above the square & the ...these plank forming the [roof]...[spaces] filled up with mud—the chimneys in the center of the house build of mud (R. F. Jones, p. 104).

However crude it may have been, the outpost served its purpose. Clerk Reed continued on to Caldron Linn [near Murtaugh, ID] to retrieve a cache of goods secreted by the westward overland expedition the year before only to find that most of it had been discovered and looted.

The Lewis River post was not to last, for Mackenzie received news through Alfred Seton who had spoken at the company's Spokane post to PFC partner John Clarke who had heard from men at the nearby NWC Spokane House that war had been declared by the US against Britain. Given poor fur returns and fear over what might transpire, at the end of December they buried all their trade goods under the floors, burned the buildings and left for Astoria in January. When they returned to the outpost in the spring with seventeen Canadian voyageurs, the caches had been looted. Through sheer bravado, they were successful at retrieving much of the cache (Seton, “Life on the Oregon.” Oregon Historical, 187-204).

Complement of PFC Employees at Donald McKenzie's Outpost, 1812-1813

Mackenzie, Donald; Reed, John; Seton, Alfred; (plus seventeen or more unnamed voyageurs)

PPS: ChSoc XLV, p. 115; R. F. Jones, p. 104; Seton, “Life on the Oregon.” Oregon Historical, 187-204

3.

John Reed's Boise Post (PFC) 1813-1814

Intended as a temporary wintering post and thus lacking a defensive palisade (Cox, p. 138), the Boise Post was built by PFC employee John Reed/Reid after the purchase of the PFC by the NWC. Reed/Reid traveled into Snake Country to let those PFC employees in the area know that their company was leaving the Pacific slopes. Reed located the post central to a strategic native trading area, at the confluence of the Boise and Snake Rivers. However this was to his disadvantage as, before the winter was out, Reed and the rest of the party, except Pierre Dorion's wife and children, were killed by a Bannock band in January 1814.

Complement of PFC employees at Reed's Boise post, 1813-1814:

Delauney, Pierre; Dorion, Pierre; Hobough, John; LaChapitre, André; Landrie, Francois; Le Clere, Giles; Reid, John; Reznor, Jacob; Robinson, Edward

PS: ChSocXLV, p. 152-53; R. F. Jones, p. 197; A. Ross, Adventures, p. 276-82; Cox, p. 136-38; SS: Barry, "Madame Dorion"; Irving, Astoria, p. 446-49

4. Fort Hall (CRFTC-HBC) 1834-1856

IMAGE 109 Outside view of Fort Hall on Snake River, or Lewis' Fork of the Columbia River, F-00840, courtesy of Royal BC Museum, BC Archives.

Fort Hall was an “accidental” post. Situated north of present-day Pocatell Idaho, approximately nine miles above the junction of Snake and Portneuf Rivers, Fort Hall came about as a result of a business deal gone sour. In 1833 when Boston ice-merchant Nathaniel Jarvis Wyeth was returning from an initial poorly organized but well intentioned business foray that would ultimately fail onto the Pacific slopes, he struck a bargain on August 14, 1833 with Milton Sublette of the Rocky Mountain Fur Company to bring back the following year $3,000 worth of merchandise required by the RMFC (Chittenden, p. 446-47). Back in Boston he reorganized a more business-like Columbia River Fishing and Trading Company to carry out his new venture plus the contract for supplies for the RMFC. However, on his way back under the excuse of too much competition in the area, the RMFC reconsolidated into a new partnership of Fitzpatrick, Sublette and Bridger which allowed the principals to back out of the original contract with Wyeth. Stuck with $3,000 worth of merchandise, the ever-optimistic Wyeth carried on with his cargo, 126 horses and forty men to the Snake River where he immediately chose a site where the smaller streams of the Portneuf River, Ross Fork, Bannock Creek and Blackfoot River converge, to build a post where he could unload his merchandise. He named it Fort Hall after Henry Hall, the oldest member of his Boston company (N. J. Wyeth, p. 227). After a month of building he left Robert Evans in charge along with eleven men, fourteen horses and mules and three cows (ibid) in what was to become more of a supply post than a fur trade post. Out competed by the HBC, the fort was sold in 1837 to the HBC which rebuilt it with adobe and ran it until the summer of 1856. Throughout its life, it was staffed with one officer and/or clerk and eleven to twelve other personnel.

The Fort Hall complex was unique in that all the buildings were made of adobe, the locally available building material. The walls, one hundred feet by eighty feet, thirteen feet high and nineteen inches thick surrounded a number of two storey buildings and contained two bastions. The buildings were for dwelling, storage, sales and blacksmith work. Two large horse yards were similarly surrounded by adobe.

Even though it was off the main trail “for Oregon and California emigrant traffic, . . . many west bound travelers went out of their way to visit or obtain stock or supplies there” (Jones, p. 2). According to a fur trader’s letter of June 13, 1904, at one point, there were ten acres of discarded property left by the emigrants passing through (TacP-FtNis Huggins). The post was closed in 1856. Now inundated, the site is located on the Fort Hall Indian Reservation.

Managers of Fort Hall, 1834-1856:

Evans, Robert	in charge for Wyeth	1834-1835
Wyeth, Nathaniel	proprietor	1835-1836
Thing, Captain		1836-1837
McKay, Thomas (HBC)	clerk	1837-1838
Ermatinger, Francis	clerk	1838-1841
	Chief Trader	1841-1842
Grant, Richard	Chief Trader	1842-1851
McArthur, Neil McLean	clerk	1851-1854
Sinclair, William	clerk	1854-1856

Complement of CRFT & HBC Personnel at Fort Hall, 1834-1856:

As Fort Hall records are very thin and the location designation of workers was often “Snake Country,” some names of those who worked at Fort Hall from the mid 1830s can be found in the Snake Expedition names below. (Those with a question mark may have worked at Fort Boise; those with brackets do not appear in the biographies.)

Adams, George; (Alkai, Nicholas?); Allard, Ovide; Baker, Abel, Jr.; Boisclair, Esdros; Brancheau, Thomas; Brisbois, Olivier; Bule, Tom; Bull; Cairnes, Robert; Callahan, Thomas; Charles, William; Charpentier, Charles?; Coffin, Charles; Colin, Antoine?; Collins, John?; Cook, James?; (Corbain); Courtoie, Augustin?; Crownriver?; Deblo; (Dejinlay, Joseph); Deschamp, Pierre?; Dick; Dido; Favel, John?; Finlay, Nicholas?; Gale, Joseph; George, Thomas?; Godin, Antoine; Haona; Hoolapa?; Hynds, John; (Ibrais, Jean?); Isaac; Johnston, William [d]; Kanate, Gregoire?; Kanseau; King, Bill; Laroque, Joseph?; (Laverdure?); Lawler, Jack; Long, Ira; (McDophin?); McDonald, Angus; McKay, Thomas; Manoa, Joe?; Matte, Maxime?; Maxwell, Henry; Maxwell, John; Montigny, Narcisse?; Mocuman, Louis?; Nott, Samuel; Parker, Harry; Pichette, Louis?; Pineau, Joseph?; Paparee, Jem?; Raymond, Narcisse; Richmonds, William; Rost, Peter; Osborne, Russell; Sagoyyenhas, Joseph?; Schrivier, Charles; Silvestre, Jean Baptiste?; Sinclair, William Jr.; Talao?; Taoutu?; Tatooa?; Tetreau, Louis?; Tehongagarate, Joseph?; Thing, Joseph; Timmer, John; Tommy; Walker, Courtney Meade; Ward, John; Wyeth, Nathaniel Jarvis

IMAGE 110 Countryside near drowned site of Fort Hall, Idaho. Photograph by author, 1992.

PS: OHS FtHallAB; CRFTCLet; HBCA FtVanASA 4-17; FtVanCB 2, 1836 Wyeth proposal to HBC, fo. 33-34; FtVanCB 2, 12, 17, 20; 23; 29, 31; HBCA Fort Hall compiled post history; TacP-FtNis Huggins, Huggins’ June 13, 1904 letter to Clarence B. Bagley of Seattle PPS: N. J. Wyeth; HBRS VI, p. 190-1911 HBCA Fort post history; Jones; SS: Chittenden, p. 446-47; Beidleman; 1990s discussions with Tony Galloway Sr., Fort Hall Indian Reservation; 2008 Jim Payne correspondence regarding location.

5.
Fort Boise (HBC) 1834-1855
(aka Fort Boisse, Fort Boissee, River Poussie)

IMAGE 111 Area near disappeared site of Fort Boise. Photograph by author, 1992.

Fort Boise was located in a traditional native high traffic trading and food-gathering area a few miles above the confluence of the Boise and Snake Rivers. There the Shoshoni, Nez Perce, Umatilla, Cayuse, Bannock and Paiute natives (IdHS NR) would gather on a regular basis. Two early fur traders had tried unsuccessfully to establish posts in the area: John Reed/Reid in 1813-1814 and Donald McKenzie in 1819-1820. In 1834, a third post was put together by Thomas McKay, largely on his own resources on behalf of the HBC to be in opposition to Wyeth's Fort Hall. According to the Idaho Historical Society, "the first building was a single log building, or rather one of light cottonwood poles, with an enclosure 100 ft. square." It was rebuilt during the winter of 1836-1837 as the sods and poles could not "withstand floods and fires" (IdHS OldFB, p. 2). In 1838, the HBC site was moved by clerk Francois Payette closer to the confluence of the two rivers in 1838 and built of adobe, the bricks for which could be made nearby. As the area had been largely stripped of its fur bearing animals, the reason for building this was for its one manager and about seven servants to out-compete the American opposition.

The new substantial fort was surrounded by four hundred feet of adobe wall twelve and a half feet high by one and a half feet thick. Inside were five large buildings and on the walls were two, two story bastions. Outside, a horse park, ninety by eighty feet was surrounded with a seven foot high adobe wall. By 1845 it had two acres under cultivation, 1991 sheep, seventy-three pigs, seventeen horses and twenty-seven bovine cattle (Simpson; Warre). Although it became a regular visiting point for native Indians and Oregon-bound settlers it was partially destroyed by floods in 1853 and attempts to rebuild the following year as well as nearby native hostilities caused it to be abandoned in 1855. Because of floods and the changing course of the river, the site today no longer exists. The HBC sought compensation for it in 1865.

Little is known about the social life around Fort Boise but focus seemed to be on the good natured demeanor of Francois Payette who greeted many people on their way through.

Managers of Fort Boise, 1835-1855:

McKay, Thomas		1834-1835
Payette, Francois?		1835-1837
McLean, Donald		1837-1838
Payette, Francois		1838-1844
Craigie, James	interpreter	1844-1852
Thomas Redsull		1851 (five months)
McIver, James		1852-1853
Pambrun, Thomas	interpreter	1853-1854
Ogden, Charles		1854
Charles, William		1855

Complement of personnel who may have worked at Fort Boise 1834-1855:

(Those with question mark may have worked at Fort Hall; those with brackets do not appear in the biographies.)

IMAGE 112 Old Fort Boise marker:
"Approximate Site of Fort Boise."
Photograph by author, 1992.

(Alkai, Nicholas?); Charpentier, Charles?; Colin, Antoine?; Collins, John?; Cook, James?; (Corbain); (Dejinlay, Joseph); Courtoie, Augustin?; Craigie, James Crownriver?; Deschamp, Pierre?; Favel, John?; Finlay, Nicholas?; George, Thomas?; Hoolapa?; (Ibrais, Jean?); Kanate, Gregoire?; (Laverdure?); Larocque, Joseph?; (McDophin?); Manoa, Joe?; Matte, Maxime?; Montigny, Narcisse?; Mocuman, Louis?; Payette, François; Pichette, Louis?; Pineau, Joseph?; Paparee, Jem?; Sagoyyenhas, Joseph?; Silvestre, Jean Baptiste?; Talao?; Taoutu?; Tatooa?; Tetreau, Louis?; Tehongagarate, Joseph?; Walker, Courtney M.

PS: HBCA YFASA 14-33; YFDS 5-23; FtVanASA 3-10; FtVicASA 1-2; Ogden and Douglas' March 19, 1847 letter to George Simpson, D.5/19, fo. 408; HBCA fort history; IdHS Red; PPS: HBCA Lieut. Henry J. Warre and Lieut. M. Vavasour November 1, 1845 report; SS: IdHS OldFB; IdHS OldFBH; IdHS OldFBES; IdHS NR; SS: Haines, "Francois Payette", p. 57-61.

Thompson River/Okanogan posts 1811-1870

The Thompson River and Okanogan posts are linked as they were important posts on the New Caledonia Brigade route which, from 1813, connected the New Caledonia posts with the Columbia River, a route for taking furs south or bringing supplies north. Some years later, outgoing furs from New Caledonia became part of a brigade of horses were shipped down the Fraser River by boat to Fort Alexandria which was the last post on the river before it became unnavigable. Waiting on the east bank at Alexandria in large corrals were hundreds of horses, many of which were loaded with one ninety pound bale on either side. The brigade of horses then went overland to the Kamloops post where they were joined by more horses and a combined brigade headed to the Okanogan Lakes. As the north-south Okanogan Lakes were subject to sudden winds making boating too risky, the brigade continued all the way to the Columbia River where the strategic Okanogan post was located as a transfer point from which furs could be boated to Fort Vancouver. When the international border was drawn and this north-south link was cut, in 1847 Fort Okanogan became linked to the Colville district (Chance, p. 3).

IMAGE 113 Fort Okanogan (photo of painting), A-01033, courtesy of Royal BC Museum, BC Archives.

1. Okanogan River Post (PFC-NWC-HBC) 1811-1860
2. She-wapps (PFC) 1812-1814
3. Thompson River Post (NWC) 1813-1821
4. Thompson River Post/Kamloops (HBC) 1821-

1.

Okanogan River Post (PFC-NWC-HBC) 1811-1860

(Many variations of spelling. Okanogan applies to USA, Okanagan applies to Canada)

Fort Okanogan was originally established in September 1811 by David Stuart and Alexander Ross of the Pacific Fur Company a half mile up on the east bank of the Okanogan River from the confluence with the Columbia River. The first efforts were modest:

...we commenced erecting a small dwelling-house, sixteen by twenty feet, chiefly constructed of drift wood, being more handing and easier got than standing timber... (A. Ross, Adventures, p. 145).

Subsequently Ross was left alone there from September to March 1812 with his dog Weasel, “Every day seemed a week, every night a month” (Ibid, p. 146). With only the Bible to read, his hair turned gray and once, thinking a skunk was an intruder, he shot it, the smell of which lingered long afterwards (Ibid, p. 142-150). It was not a happy two years for Ross.

From the spring of 1816 Ross Cox set about rebuilding the post taking advantage of available driftwood again and by September they:

“... had erected a new dwelling-house for the person in charge, containing four excellent rooms and a large dining-hall, two good houses for themen, and a spacious store for the furs and merchandise, to which was attached a shop for trading with the natives. The whole was surrounded by strong palisades fifteen feet high, and flanked by two bastions. Each bastion had, in its lower story, a light brass four-pounder; and the upper, loop-holes were left for the use of musketry” (Cox, p. 203-04).

During the rebuilding time, they feasted on “salmon, horse, wild-fowl, grouse, and small deer, with tea and coffee.” Absent were milk, bread and butter (Cox, p. 204). They had to work around intense heat and mosquitoes which were kept away by smoking pipes or burning rotting wood in iron pots. The horses which had their manes and tails clipped suffered terribly as they were unable to protect themselves against bugs. Any rattlesnakes they found in the buildings or their beds, they turned into meals providing the serpents did not bite themselves first, making them poisonous to eat.

About a decade after the HBC assumed control of the post, the site and hence a new end to the brigade trail was moved down to the Columbia River proper. The new post surrounded with a stockade and two bastions had the usual dwelling houses, kitchen, and dairy and outside were facilities for cows, pigs and, of course, horses. Never considered profitable for furs as the area was not rich in furs, it was considered necessary to maintain the transfer point for the brigade. This post was considered a difficult post and sometimes the workers were reduced to eating dog meat. Always considered part of the Thompson River district, after the drawing of the international boundary, the post fell under Fort Colville’s jurisdiction (Chance, p. 3). It operated until 1860 when it was abandoned and the staff and stock were transferred to Keremeos in British Columbia.

IMAGE 114 Cariboo Trail sign erected by the Okanogan County Historical Society of Washington reads: “This beautiful river valley forms a natural north-south passage, used for centuries by Indians later came Hudson’s Bay Company fur brigades, packing pelts from Canada [i.e. New Caledonia] to Fort Okanogan. Hardly had the dust settled from the last brigade (1846) when prospectors began drifting through, panning for gold. The big strikes in the Cariboo produced a rush in the early 60s to feed the hungry miners, Cowboys and cusswords drive thousands of cattle past here to the gold fields around Barkerville, B.C. The last drive was in 1868. Someone ought to tell the TV writers about this trail. It ran for 600 miles, about as far as the Chisholm trail back east and with a lot more ups and downs.” Photograph by author, 1992.

Managers of Fort Okanogan (including temporary appointments), 1811-1860:

Alexander Ross	proprietor	1811-1813
William Wallace Matthews	clerk	1813
Alexander Stewart		1815?
Alexander Ross	proprietor	1814-1816
Ross Cox		1816-1817
William Kittson	clerk	1822-1823
Louis Pion	interpreter	1823-1824
James Birnie	clerk	1824-1827
Francis Noel Annance	clerk	1826
Francis Ermatinger	clerk	1826-1827
(unnamed)	labourer	1829-1831
(unnamed)	interpreter	1834-1844
Jean Gingras	post master	1841
Antoine Felix (Palaquin)	boute in charge	1842-1843
Joachim LaFleur	interpreter	1844-1856
Kirorole, Jean Baptiste	horsekeeper in charge	1852-1853
Francois Dechiquette	interpreter	1856-1860

Complement of personnel at Fort Okanogan, 1811,1860:

Belleau, Jean Baptiste; Boulard, Michel; Cardinal, Guillaume; Delorme, Jean Baptiste; Deschiquette, Francois; Felix (Palaquin), Antoine; Gingras, Jean; Gregoire, Francois; Jacquette, Charles; Kirorole, Jean Baptiste; Lafontasie, Jacques; Lefleur, Joachim; McGillis, Donald; Macleod, Jack; McGillivray, Joseph; McLennan, Donald; Montigny, Ovide de; Pepin, Antoine; Pahwak, Racoon; Picard, Andre; Pion, Louis; Robillard, Cuthbert; Stuart, David; Servant, Jacques

PS: HBCA NWCAB 8; FtGeo[Ast]AB 4; FtSpokRD 1; FtVanASA 2-3, 5; FtVanCB 1, 17, 20; HBCA Fort post history; TacP-FtNis Huggins, PPS: A. Ross, Adventures; A. Ross, The Fur Hunters; Cox; D. Douglas, Journal, p. 160, 255; A. McDonald SS: Chance; B. A. Wilson

The Thompson River/Kamloops Forts (PFC-NWC-HBC) 1812-1870 (aka She-wapps, Shuswap, Fort Thompson, Thompson's Fort, Thompson River)

A strategic area for three companies was the confluence of the North and South Thompson Rivers which is now overlain with the city of Kamloops. The original name Cumcloups is a native name meaning the meeting of the rivers.

2.

She-wapps (PFC) 1812-1814 (aka Shuswap)

The first non-native into the area was David Stuart who had left Alexander Ross at Fort Okanogan and carried on to the Thompson River area where he traded from September 1811 to March 1812, promising the natives that he would return and build a post (A. Ross, Adventures, p. 151). Stuart brought Alexander Ross back with him in May 1812 and Stuart returned later that year to build a post in the promising area (ibid, p. 199-200).

When Stuart and Ross returned to the area, Ross brought along with him Michel Boulard who had been exchanged for John Cox to accompany David Thompson up the Columbia. Boulard, however, was lobbying the local natives for a second wife. According to Ross:

He was as full of latent tricks as a serpent is of guile. Unknown to me, the old fellow had been teasing the Indians for a wife, and had already an old squaw at his heels, but could not raise the wind to pay the whole purchase-money. With an air of effrontery he asked me to unload one of my horses to satisfy the demands of the old father-in-law, and because I refused him, he threatened to leave me and to remain with the savages. Provoked at his conduct, I suddenly turned round and horsewhipped the fellow, and, fortunately, the Indians did not interfere. The castigation had a good effect: it brought the amorous gallant to his senses—the squaw was left behind (A. Ross, Adventures, p. 201).

The post did not last long for the PFC was bought out by the NWC in 1813, some PFC employees wintered over at the post into 1814 before it was abandoned to the NWC. Today, on the south bank of the Thompson River in Riverside Park, a brass plaque marks the probable location of the PFC post.

Managers of She-wapps, 1812-1814:

David Stuart	partner	1812
--------------	---------	------

Complement of personnel at She-wapps, 1812-1814:

Boulard, Michel; Felix, Prisque; Montigny, Ovid; McLennan, Donald; Plante, Antoine; Ross, Alexander

3. Thompson River Post (NWC) 1813-1821

When the NWC reached the Pacific in 1812, they soon set about building forts in competition with the PFC. In 1813, Joseph LaRocque was sent to build a post very close to the one built by the PFC at Thompson River. The exact location is unknown. It could have been on the same side or different side of the Thompson River. There were complaints about the volatility of the natives. For example, in 1815 when Charles Charette, who had been left in charge of the post went on a six day journey north to the Fraser to fish, he took along with him a young man who had been brought up at the post. While setting up camp one evening they quarreled and the young man shot Charette dead. According to Ross, raising natives at the post had a negative effect on them:

..all those Indians who had been harboured among the whites were far more malevolent and treacherous than those who had never the same indulgence shown to them (A. Ross, Fur Hunters, p. 48).

Employees could not always be depended upon as well. For example, in 1817 just before the party reached She-Wapps, Alexander Ross left one of the fur traders to take care of Bazil (?) Brousseau (Aland) who was nearing the point of death, but the man left to guard him ran off when he was some natives approaching. Some time afterwards, a healed Brousseau wandered into the post accompanied by friendly Indians. This post remained a strategic post up to and including the time that the HBC amalgamated with the NWC.

NWC Managers of post 1813-1821:

Joseph LaRocque	clerk	1813
Alexander Ross	clerk	1814-1815
Charles Charette	middleman	1815
Alexander Ross	clerk	1817

NWC Personnel at Thompson River post, 1813-1821:

Bernier, Julian; Boullard, Michel; Brousseau (Aland), Bazil?; Chevrette, Charles; Cott, Charles; Latrielle, Antoine; McDonald, Finan

4.

Thompson's River Post (HBC) 1821-1870 (aka Fort Kamloops)

When the HBC moved into the Thompson River area it built a post possibly on the site of the old NWC post on the north side of the river on the east side of the north branch. Simpson found that tough leadership at the post was necessary as the natives by 1824 had become “more daring and independent” under J. McLeod’s leadership and so he was soon replaced. By 1828, Simpson had not changed his mind about the local Indians failing completely to see that they put their own welfare first.

The country about Thompsons River, is poor in Beaver and small Furs; and the Natives are exceedingly indolent: for the means of subsistence they depend chief on Salmon, which their River generally affords in abundance; but when that fails, they contrive to maintain themselves on Roots & dried berries, a species of living, closely allied to Starvation (HBRS X, p. 31).

At this point the complement of personnel at the post comprised one to two officers (Chief Trader), one post master and eleven to thirteen other personnel (boute, brigade member, hunter, interpreter, labourer, middleman, officer's servant and trader.) He also found that:

The Post of Kamloops, or Thompsons River, is a very unprofitable Establishment, and the principal cause of its being kept up as the people could be employed to more advantage elsewhere, is the danger to which the New Caledonia outfits and returns would be exposed, from the Natives of Thompsons River in passing to and from Vancouver, if we were to withdraw from their country (HBRS X, p. 30).

He went on to advise:

The Natives are upon the whole well disposed towards the Whites, but being numerous, it is considered advisable to keep a larger complement of people than the Trade can well afford to guard against accident (HBRS X, p. 31).

Unlike other posts, the seeds of tension at Thompson River were sown with the scarcity of food and the unrealistic expectations of the HBC which made them more of a thorn than a benefit. To help oversee order, Jean Baptiste Lolo (aka St. Paul) was hired on at the age of thirty. Reputedly of mixed Iroquois descent, of which there is no proof, the Iroquois attribution may have been bestowed on him as he exhibited tough characteristics for which the Iroquois were known. According to biographer Mary Balf:

He served as interpreter, tripman, and postmaster, but his real importance was as an official liaison officer between the company and the Indians of all the interior Salish tribes. Respected by both, Lolo helped maintain the balance of power between them with remarkable dexterity (DCB Balf).

Still, a strong hand was felt necessary to keep the natives from turning against this foreign presence in their midst. His name was Samuel Black, a person whose toughness did little for public relations. As a result, in a dispute with Shuswap chief Tranquille over the ownership of a gun, Tranquille’s sudden death and Black being the suspected cause, Black was killed with relative ease by Tranquille’s nephew.

After this the site was moved across the river on the north side of the Thompson but on the west bank of the north branch, a much easier access for the brigades coming from Alexandria.

With the advent of the discovery of Gold, Thompson River took on a more defined role as outfitter. This required the site to be moved in 1863 to the south side of the Thompson River for accessibility to the gold miners. The old post remained until 1941 when was demolished. The tradition carried on with an HBC store.

Managers at Thompson River, 1823-1870:

J. McLeod	Chief Trader	1823-1825
Archibald McDonnell	clerk	1825-1826
Francis Ermatinger	clerk	1829-1831
Samuel Black	Chief Trader	1834-1841
A. McKinlay	clerk	1841-1842
Donald Manson	Chief Trader	1842-1843
D. Cameron	post master	1842-1844
John Tod	Chief Trader	1843-1846

William Todd	post master	1844-1845
Neil McLean McArthur	clerk	1845-1846
John Tod	Chief Trader	1846-1849
Henry Newsham Peers		1849-1850
George Simpson	clerk	1849-1851
Paul Fraser	Chief Trader	1850-1854
John Simpson	clerk	1851-1852
Michael Ogden	post master	1851-1852
Kenneth Logan, James Simpson	clerk	1852-1853
John Simpson	clerk	1853-1855
Donald McLean	Chief Trader	1854-1859
*	*	*
William Manson		1859-1862
Joseph William McKay	Chief Trader	1860-1864
Hamilton Moffat		1867-1870

Complement of personnel at Thompson River, 1823-1870:

(Names in brackets not covered in biographies.)

Allarie, John; Atachsarar, Ignace; Ballenden, Jacob; Bates, Thomas [b]; Bellant, Francois; Beaudoin, Francois; Beardy, Henry; Ben; Black, Samuel; Bourdignon, Thomas; Bourk, James; Bourke, Joseph; Cahararai, Ignace; Cameron, Duncan E.; Chabotte, Jean Baptiste; (Chaniabisus); Charbonneau, Abraham; Charette, Antoine; Clairmont, Joseph; Cussiant, James; Cummings, John; Danneau, Antoine; Dauphin, Cesaire; Dears, Thomas; Dechiquette, Francois; Desastin, Louis; Desautel, Joseph; Desmarais, Goddy; Douillette, Emanuel; Ermatinger, Francis; Fallardeau, Michel; Favel, Charles; Felix, Antoine; Felix, William; Flett, Magnus; Fraser, Paul; Gendron, Alexis; Gilbeault, Hilard; Gignagne, Jean; Gingras, Jean; Goudie, John; Gouin, Pierre; (Grablunal); Hamel, Charles; (Hopital); Hunter, Andrew [b]; Hunter, Louie; Iasitayerie, Alexis; Jean, Joseph Baptiste; Jironway, Louis; Johnson, Alexis; Kaiehenrat, Ignace; Kanonswasse, Martin; Karonhitchego, Laurent; Kea; Lacourse, Theodore; Lafleur, Joachim; Laferte, Olivier; Lamprant, Antoine; Lamprant, Louis; Lancotot, Camille; Laprade, Alexis; L'Ecuyer, Francois [a]; L'Ecuyer, Jean Baptiste; Lefevre, Pierre; Leolo, Jean Baptiste; Leonard, Jean Baptiste; Liard, Thamiere; Lorimer [Martineau], Michel; McAuly, Donald; McDonald, Angus; McDonald, Archibald; McDougall, John; McIver, John; McKay, Jean Baptiste; McKenzie, Patrick; McLeod, Donald; McLeod, Ewan; McLeod, Murdoch [e]; McNeill, George; Manson, Donald; Manson, Louis; Martel, Octave; Martineau, Michel; Mathu, Louis; (Michel); Miny, Louis; Montigny, Edward; Montigny, Narcisse; Moreau, Joseph; Naukanna; Neron, Augustin; Newbird, James; Ogden, Michael; Pacquette, Baptiste; Peeo; Peers, Henry N.; Petit [Gobin], Antoine [a]; Picard, Andre; Pion (Peon), Louis; Pion, William; Robertson, David [b]; Robillard, Cuthbert; Ross, Charles; Satakarrass, Pierre; Saucier, Norbert; Seigny, Augustin; Shaw, Angus; Simpson, George Jr.; Simpson, John; Sinclair, William Jr.; Smith, John [d]; Swanson, William; Tahako; Tahowna; (Tansoble); Tarantants, Louis; Thompson, James; Tod, John; Tod, R.; Todd, William; Tourawhyheene; Trudeau, Felix; (Tuparuk); Venance, Maxime; Waiakanalao; Yorke, George;

HBCA NWCAB 10; YFDS 7-23; FtKamPJ 1-3; FtVanASA 1-17; HBCA post history; PPS: ChSocXLV, p. 115; A. Ross, Fur Hunters; HBRS X SS: Balf, A History of the District; Johnson, "Old Fort Kamloops; F. H. Johnson; G. Brown and Lamb; Morse, Cumloops; Morse, Kamloops; DCB Balf

The Columbia River Posts 1811-1871

Of the two rivers in the Pacific Northwest that provided access to the Continental Divide from the Pacific Ocean, only the 1240+ mile Columbia River was practical for navigation. Hence it was a prize river for fur trade posts. Once one passed over the ever shifting highly dangerous Columbia River bar at its mouth, all the falls or rapids could be easily portaged around, unlike the Fraser River with its impossible Fraser River Canyon. As well, it provided access southward to the Willamette Valley through the Willamette River, access northward to the Okanagan through the Okanagan/Okanagan River, access to the Grand Tetons through the Snake River, access to the Umatilla area through the Walla Walla River and access to the Kootenay area through the Kootenay River. Of the seven posts along the river, three were major.

1. Fort Astoria [George] (PFC-NWC-HBC) 1811-1852
2. Cauweeman store (HBC) 1851-1858
3. Fort William (CRFTC) 1834-1836
4. Fort Vancouver (HBC) 1825-1860
5. Fort Nez Perces (NWC-HBC) 1818-1855
6. Fort Colville (HBC) 1825-1871
7. Fort Shepherd (HBC) 1856-1870
8. Fort of the Lakes (HBC) 1838
9. Boat Encampment (NWC-HBC) 1811+

1.

Fort Astoria/George (PFC-NWC-HBC) 1811-1852

IMAGE 115 Fort Astoria, PDP01718, courtesy of Royal BC Museum, BC Archives.

Although not the first post on the Columbia River, the New York based Pacific Fur Company's Fort Astoria [George] was unique in many ways. In the late eighteenth century Maritime fur trade ships would winter over at the mouth of the river. In 1795 the men of the maritime fur trader Ruby had planted an experimental garden on a sandy island at the mouth of the River (BCA log of Ruby, p. 42, 104). Lewis and Clark had built a wintering post nearby in 1805. In 1810 the Winships of Boston from their ship Albatross, tried to set up a post at Oak Point but were defeated by the rising river (PrivMS log of Albatross). In the late eighteenth century Maritime fur trade ships would winter over at the mouth of the river. As well, mixed descent people had been living in the area and upriver for some time (BCA log of Ruby, p. 95; Cox, p. 151-52; ChSocXLV, p. 83). What made Fort Astoria unique however was that it was the first post to establish inland posts (Okanogan, Spokane, She-Waps, Fort Flathead, Kootenay Fort, Donald Mackenzie's post, John Reed's Boise post) from the coast. Further, it was positioned for maritime access to the Chinese market rather than being at a nexus of critical aboriginal cultural and trading routes.

Fort Astoria was constructed beginning April 1811 on the south bank of the Columbia River, with the arrival of men from the ship Tonquin dispatched for that purpose. These personnel were reinforced by members of the Wilson Price Hunt overland expedition who straggled in at various times. During its lifetime, Astoria changed hands three times. John Jacob Astor's PFC held it from 1811 to 1813. On October 16, 1813, it was purchased by the Montreal-based North West Company after a tense on-site standoff and drawn out negotiations. Finally in 1821, the London-based Hudson's Bay Company assumed ownership when it took over its NWC rival. Legal ownership, however, was not that simple. Complications began in December 1813 when in an overzealous act of bravado Royal Navy Captain William Black of HMS Raccoon claimed Astoria as a spoil of war replete with a bottle of madeira smashed against a flagpole. While doing so he renamed it Fort George. However, his actions caught up with him when the Treaty of Ghent demanded a return by 1818 of all spoils of war to their original owners. Consequently in October 1818 British and American commissioners aboard the HMS Blossom off Fort George exchanged documents and the American flag was raised once again. However, this meant nothing to the North West Company and later Hudson's Bay Company who carried on as if this reversion had never happened.

Fort Astoria/George is important for its extensive written record on political and social interactions recorded by literate clerks and others. Native-fur trader interactions manifest themselves in a variety of ways. Negotiations for space were not recorded but the PFC was generous handing out gifts. A few years after establishment, Duncan McDougall and Thomas McKay married daughters of the most prominent local chief, Comcomly. Earlier, when a son of Comcomly heard that colourful English barmaid Jane Barnes, who had been brought out as a consort, would be sent home, he offered a handsome dowry for her hand in marriage (Cox, p. 140-141). The new rules of the game were made visible when punishment of wrong-doers was a public event. When the killers of the deranged Archibald Pelton were executed on the Company wharf, the event was witnessed by canoe loads of people (Cox, p. 144, Barry, "Astorians Who Became," p. 199-201). The deranged actions of Pelton left such an impression that the Chinook word for crazy became "pelton" (Dictionary of the Chinook Jargon, p.20). McDougall's marriage to a high ranking Chinook woman resulted in a testing of the social order when, over a trifling matter, his wife took on the lower order wife of Iroquois Ignace Salioheni resulting in a brawl in which several of the women ended up in the water (Coues, p. 891). Fur traders' lives become visible. Hawaiians were given traditional Hawaiian burial rites by their fellow Hawaiians (ChSocXLV, p. 74-75). On the other hand, the Hawaiians were willing to try something new when one agreed to be placed inside the body of an eviscerated horse to try to cure his VD (RosL-Ph Astoria). The records reveal something of past activities. The mixed descent children of a long dead marooned English sailor appeared. One later found employment as a pilot on the river. Such a cauldron of interaction no doubt gave the mixed descent Ranald McDonald his curiosity for knowledge and a future of adventure (B. MacDonald, p. 74-92).

Loyalties of the fur traders were tested when the Canadian North West Company forced/negotiated the sale of the American Pacific Fur Company in 1813 to the former. Almost a decade later, servants had to decide, if it wasn't already decided for them, to join the Hudson's Bay Company or work as a freeman outside the companies.

Physically, the post was similar to other posts, comprising a palisade, two bastions, various residences, a hospital, etc. However, when George Simpson arrived there in 1824, he found an unsustainable non-productive post of 150 persons (seventy men and eighty or so Chinook women and their mixed descent children) (G. Simpson, Fur Trade, p. 66, 90) and suggested it be moved to the north side of the Columbia and by 1825 it was in a state of ruin (Scouler, "Journal of a Voyage," p. 277). It was re-opened in 1829 to compete with the American vessels Onlyhee and Convoy which were in the area looking for furs. Its ownership of Astoria was finally settled with the drawing of the international boundary treaty in 1846.

Various artifacts have been found at the site and are today on display at the Columbia River Maritime Museum in Astoria. One of the most striking is a gravestone, probably the oldest non-native stone gravestone in the Pacific Northwest, which reads:

In memory of D. McTavish, Aged 42 years. Drowned Crossing this River, May 22, 1814.

Ross Cox noted that he had been buried

In a handsome spot behind the northeast bastion of Fort George...a small monument, tolerably well engraved points to the future Indian trader the last earthly remains of the enterprising Donald McTavish (Cox, p. 145).

A reconstructed bastion exists today but not on the exact site. Several markers put up by various organizations pay homage to both the post and the enterprising Ranald McDonald.

Managers at Fort Astoria/Fort George, 1811-1852:

Duncan McDougall/ Wilson Price Hunt	PFC partners	1811-1813
Cameron, J. D.	Chief Factor in charge	1823
Kennedy, Alexander/ McLoughlin, John	Chief Factors in charge	1824-1825
(CLOSED)		(1825-1829)
Manson, Donald	clerk	1829-1831
Dunn, John	post master	1837
Birnie, James	clerk	1839-1846
Lattie, Alexander	ship's mate	1846
Forrest, Charles	clerk	1847-1848
McNeill, William Henry	Chief Trader in charge	1848
Craigie, William	labourer	1849
Spencer, Edward	interpreter	1849-1850
Maxwell, Henry	clerk	1850-1851
Redsull, Thomas	storekeeper	(Ch.Pt.)1851-1852

Personnel at Fort Astoria/Fort George, 1811-1852:

Fur trade employees working varying lengths of time from 1811-1851 at Fort Astoria/Fort George; Pacific Fur Company [1811-1813 as Fort Astoria], North West Company [1813-1821 as Fort George] and Hudson's Bay Company Employees [1821-51 as Fort George]

Aliaa; America; André, Louis; Apissases; Ashton, Joseph; Aubichon, Alexis; Baker, Micajah; (Barnes, Jane); Bell, George; Bellaire, Registre; Belleau, Antoine; Bellevenalle, Jean Baptiste; Ben; Benoit, Antoine; Bercier, Pierre; Bethune, Angus; Birnie, James; Boisvert, Augustin; Boucher, Charles; Boucher, Jean Baptiste [1]; Bourdon, Pierre; Bowithick, Joseph; Brousseau, Bazil; Brugier, Pierre; Bruguier, Regis; Cadotte, Laurent; Caine, William; Cameron, John Dugald; Canasawarrette, Thomas; Canning, William; Canton, James; Cardinal, Guillaume; Cardin, Jean Baptiste; Carpenter, Joseph; Carriere, Michel; Carson, Alexander; Cartier, Joseph; Cawanaia; Champagne, Francois Xavier; Charles, Pierre; Chester; Choput, Charles; Clarke, John; Chausee, Bonaventure; Clapp, Benjamin; Coah, James; Collie, Henry; Cone, George; Connor, Patrick; Cotté, Joseph [1]; Cotté, Joseph [2]; Cottenoir, Michel; Cox, John; Cox, Ross; Craigie, William; Croley, Dr. John; Crooks, Ramsey; Cummins, Edward; Delauney, Joseph; Dauphine, Louis; Day, John; Decrutz, John; Degrais, Pierre Phillippe; Delard, Pierre; Delauney, Pierre; Denille, Louis; D'Eon, Timothe; Depot, Pierre; Deslard, Pierre; Desmarais, Joseph; Desmarais, Louis; Dick; Drinville, Louis; Dubois, Francois; Dubreuil, Jean Baptiste; Ducharquette, Francois; Duchesne, Benjamin; Dufresne, Andre; Duhamel, Pierre; Dunn, John Thompson; Farnham, Russell; Felix, Prisque; Finlay, Bonhomme; Finlay, Thorburn; Flanagan, Moses; Fleurie, Antoine; Forrest, Charles; Franchere, Gabriel; Fraser, Alexander; Gardepied, Jean Bap.; Gay, George Kirby; Gauthier, Francois; Gervais, Joseph; Gingras, Jean; Goddin, Thiery; Goulais, Jacques; Gregoire, Etienne; Halsey, J. Cook; Happy, John; Harry; Harteau, Jacques; Henry, Alexander; Henry, William; Hereea; Hodgens, Francis William; Hunt, William Price; Jacob, the blacksmith; Jacqueline, Charles; Jaudoins, Charles; Jeremie, Paul Denis; Jimo; Johnson, William; Jones; Jones, Benjamin; Joshua; Kaharrow; Kakaraquiron, Pierre; Kanak, Frank; Kanota, Louis; Karimou, William; Keave[b]; Keechanah; Keemo, James; Keith, James; Kennedy, Alexander; Kennedy, John [a]; Kipling, Pisk; Landrie, Joseph; Labonte, Jean Baptiste; La Bonte, Louis; Lacourse, Pierre; Lafontasie, Jacques; Laforte, Michel; Lafosin, Charles; Laframboise, Michel; LaGasse, Charles; Landrie, Francois; Landrie, Joseph [1]; Lanson, Michel; Lapham, Lewis L.; Laprade, Alexis; La Plante, Louis [1]; Lapierre, Joseph; Laroque, Joseph; Lattey, Alexander; Lavallee, Louis; Le Clair, Francois; Le Compte, Alexis; Le Course, Pierre; Lefevre, Laurent; Little, John; Lucier, Bazile; Lucier, Charles; Lucier, Etienne (Amable); McClellan, Robert; McDonald, John; McDougall, Duncan; McGillis, Donald; Mackay, Jean Amble.; McKay, Jean Baptiste Depatie; McKay, Kenneth; McKay, Philip; McKay, Thomas; McKenzie, Alexander; McKenzie, Donald [1]; McLennan,

Donald; McMillan, James; McNeil, Hector; McNeill, William Henry; McTavish, Donald; McTavish, John George; Mackaina; Madotehisam, Ignace; Mahoy, Jemmy; Majeau, Pierre; Manson, Donald; Marrouna; Martial, Francois; Mascon, Alexis; Matthews, William Wallace; Maxwell, Henry; Milligan, Richard; Molle, Jean Marie; Monique, Nicholas; Montigny, Ovide de; Moumouto; Mousseau, Louis; Mumford, William P.; Naaco, George; Noah, Harry Bell; Oniaze, Etienne; Oroora; Ottehoh; Oui, Patrick; Ouvre, Jean Baptiste; Pacquin, Louis; Pakeeknaak, Thomas; Paow, Dick; Parks, John; Patterson, John; Payette, Francois; Peeopeeoh; Pelton, Joseph; Pembrilliant, Antoine; Pepin, Antoine; Perrault, Jean Baptiste; Perrault, Louis; Perrault, William; Perry, Daniel; Pillet, Francois Benjamin; Pillon, John Baptiste; Plante, Antoine; Poah, Paul; Poirier, Bazil; Poirier, Toussant; Pookarakara, Bob; Powrowrie, Jack; Quesnel, Amable; Roussel, Augustin; St. Amant, Joseph; St. Martin, Joseph; Saknakie, J. B.; Sanson, Michel; Seton, Alfred; Shatackoani, Jacques; Stewart, Alexander; Stewart, David; Stewart, John; Teow, Isaac; Trenchemontagne, Frs. M.; Trepagnier, Francois; Umfreville, Canotte; Wakeman, Joseph;

BCA log of Ruby, p. 42, p. 95, p. 104; PrivMS Albatross; RosL-Ph Astoria, Nov. 24, 1812; HBCA NWCAB 1-10; FtGeo[Ast]AB 1-12; FtVanASA 1-17; HBCA Fort George and Cape Disappointment compiled post history PPS: R. F. Jones; ChSocXLV, p. 83; Coues, p. 891; McDougall; Henry; Journal; Cox, p. 140-141, p. 151-52; A. Ross, Adventures; Corney, Voyages in the Northern; G. Simpson, Fur Trade; Scouler, "Journal of a Voyage," p. 277 SS: Dictionary of the Chinook Jargon, p. 20; Irving, Astoria; Barry, "Astorians Who Became"; Elliot, "The Surrender at Astoria"; Judson; K. W. Porter, "The cruise of the"; K. W. Porter, Joseph Ashton; K. W. Porter, John Jacob Astor; Chittenden; Phillips, vol. II

2. Caweeman Store (HBC) 1851-1858 (aka Coweemun, Caweemeen, Caweeman post)

After the flurry of activity of the gold rush to the south in California, Caweemun store was set up at the mouth of the Cowlitz River to capture the trade with incoming immigrants. Little is known of it except that the post master sold a large volume of goods from the Caweeman store, but when it was found out that he sold a large amount on credit, which was very difficult to collect, he was reprimanded.

Managers attached to Caweeman store, 1851-1858:

Edward Spenser	post master	1851-1858
----------------	-------------	-----------

Complement of personnel at Caweeman Store:

Beauchemin, Baptiste

HBCA FtVanASA 9-13; HBCA Edward Spenser bio SS: Hussey, Fort Vancouver, p. 198

3. Fort William (CRFTC, HBC) 1834-1836

IMAGE 116 Graveyard of some family members who were the last employees of the HBC operations at Fort William, Sauve Island, Oregon.

Located on “Wappatoo” [Sauvie] Island [Oregon] at the confluence of the Willamette and Columbia Rivers, Fort William was the second post to be set up on the lower Columbia River by Boston area entrepreneurs. The first was begun in the summer of 1810 at Oak Point by the Winship brothers, who were flooded out by the rising river. Nathaniel Jarvis Wyeth, in 1834 on his more organized second visit to the Columbia under his ambitiously organized Columbia River Fishing and Trading Company succumbed to the rich flood plain soil and established a post near Warrior Point [home to the Naw-moo-it group] on the north end of Sauvie island but was likewise flooded out in short order. At the same time, he laid claim to farmland on the Willamette anticipating a long stay. Undaunted, the following spring he relocated to a point on Multnomah channel opposite a trail “with a view to easy communication with the Tualatin plain” (McArthur, Oregon Geographic Names, p. 345). All did not go well for aside from competition from the HBC, it was found that when their support vessel May Dacre in November 1834, took timber etc. to Hawaii and returned with cattle, sheep and goats, it could be done cheaper with other ships and so it was sent back to Boston in December. At the post, Wyeth built a seventy foot house boat and sixty foot long canoe to support his enterprise but by September 1835 he had to admit that the salmon fishing had not gone well (N.J. Wyeth, p. 153). That month he had to admit to his brother Charles in Baltimore:

Our salmon fishing has not succeeded. Half a cargo only obtained. Our people are sick and dying off like rotten sheep of bilious disorders (N. J. Wyeth, p. 153).

Attempts at fur trading were equally unsuccessful. Wyeth decided to abandon the project in the spring of 1836 and he returned to Boston where he requested that the HBC assist him to dissolve the operation. The post was dismantled and the HBC oversaw the establishment of a dairy in its place. Ewing Young managed to secure the boiler which he used as a still (see Young bio).

Personnel and manager of Fort William (partial list), 1834-1836:

Baker, Abel, Jr.; Dick; Hubbard, Thomas Jefferson; Roe, Charles, Thornburg, Mr.; Walker, Courtney Meade, Wyeth, Nathaniel Jarvis

PS: PrivMS log of Albatross; OHS FtHallAB, CRFTCLet; HBCA Correspondence [Nathaniel Wyeth], A.10/3, fo. 497; PPS; N. J. Wyeth; Townsend, Narrative of a Journey; SS: McArthur, Oregon Geographic Names, p. 345; Barry, Old Fort William, A. J. Allen, Ten Years in Oregon, p. 78.

4.
Fort Vancouver (HBC) 1825-1860

IMAGE 117 Fort Vancouver, A-04355, courtesy of Royal BC Museum, BC Archives.

Fort Vancouver, meant to replace Fort Astoria [George] was never intended to be the giant it became. According to HBC head George Simpson on his first 1824 visit to the Pacific slopes, a new centralized administrative center would be located on the Fraser River as it would be “more central both for the Coast and interior trade” (G. Simpson, Fur Trade, p. 73). A Fraser River post would also give the HBC a competitive advantage over American traders doing business with the Russians directly to the north. While recognizing that the Americans had a strong claim to south of the Columbia as well as the Snake River based on the exploits of Lewis and Clark (G. Simpson, Fur Trade, p. 53-54, 67), Simpson appears to have figured that a new replacement establishment opposite the mouth of the Willamette would meet all immediate local HBC needs:

“The place we have selected is beautiful... and the County is so open that from the Establishment there is good Horseback to any part of the interior; a Farm to any extent may be made there, the pasture is good and innumerable herds of Swine can fatten so as to be fit for the Knife merely on Nutricious Root...Indian Corn and other Grain cannot fail of thriving; it is much better than that of the Coast say at Point George being less exposed to the Sea Air” (G. Simpson, Fur Trade, p. 87).

Being located upriver from the old Fort Astoria [George] had the additional advantage of bypassing the sometimes costly influence of three principal native chiefs, Concomly of the Chinook, Schannaway of the Cowlitz and Casseno of the Chinook people. Additionally Fort Vancouver's location was strategic for it was approaching the area where a vessel could sail without encountering rapids; as well, it was a discrete, non-interfering distance from a major native gathering and trading place of Celilo.

Started in 1824, a somewhat modest post was built high on a defensible bluff above the plain back from the river. Water had to be awkwardly transported in barrels from the river. However, in 1828-1829, when it was found that Fort Langley was not the hoped-for access to the interior, the Vancouver site was moved to the much more expansive plain just above the flood zone. From that point, Fort Vancouver became a very large and continually expanding concern employing two to five officers (Chief Factor, Chief Trader), three to seven clerks, apprentice clerks, post masters and apprentice post masters and 102-146 other personnel (all occupations represented). In many ways Fort Vancouver was a city organized on a paternalistic hierarchical model with activities going on inside the post representing the administrative aspects of the operation, and activities going on outside representing the support side of the operation.

IMAGE 118 Reconstructed Storehouse, Fort Vancouver. Photograph by author, 1992.

Inside the post of the second site

The post with an inside area of approximately four acres at its maximum was surrounded with a palisade approximately 730+ ft x 325+ ft. If defensive bastions had been erected, they were not mentioned by a visitor in 1834 and their absence was noted by another arrival in 1841 (Townsend, Narrative; Wilkes, Narrative of the United). Up to that time, there was no perceived threat from the natives but by 1845, there was some fear that the large number of Americans arriving in the area might take it upon themselves to attack the post. A bastion was then constructed lending visual credence to the term “fort.”

Prominent within the enclosure was the “Big House” a substantial residence of Chief Factor John McLoughlin and family and of James Douglas and his wife. On special occasions, the large meeting room was used for marriages and special celebrations when ordinary servants were invited in. Otherwise, it was off limits and represented the seat of the operational head.

Another very prominent building was the “Bachelor’s” Quarters (153 x 33 ft). Not just for any bachelor, this was “...the principal residence of the [approx. seventeen, some with families] subordinate officers and clerks and as the place where guests were most often housed” (Hussey, Fort Vancouver, Historic Structures Report, Historical Data, Vol. 1 & 2). Rooms were likely heated separately with fireplaces but were considered far too primitive for the likes of Rev. Herbert Beaver and his ever complaining wife. The Bachelor’s Hall, part of the same structure, came to life after supper where people gathered, smoked, played songs, and told stories. It also housed a sitting room for visitors where they could relax and write letters. Also quite possibly housed within this structure were the libraries of the post. Fort Vancouver had two formal libraries, one belonging to the Company and the other a subscription affair known as the ‘Columbia Library’ (ibid, p. 189). (See Appendix: What the men read.) There is no record of the subscription library holdings but it likely contained, along with contemporary books, newspapers, journals and magazines. It is not known if those literate Metis who had been trained by the black robes at Red River, or other literate servants, had access to any of these books for, according to Hussey, “Tradesmen, voyageurs, and labourers were not permitted to enter the quarters of the “gentlemen”...for social purposes, even upon invitation” (Ibid, p. 135).

The clerks worked long hours in the office, another building where they daily kept the letter books, Inventory books, Indents, Columbia scheme books, Columbia indent books, fur invoice books, store invoice books, servants’ account books, abstracts of accounts, district statements, shop accounts, etc. Some of these have survived, being held along with other HBC records in the Hudson’s Bay Archives in Winnipeg and available to researchers.

Inside the post was the old Fort Vancouver school. Aside from the usual tables, slates, rulers, etc., it was well supplied with textbooks covering the three “R”s – including several religious books, dictionaries, readers -in all several hundred separate items. The school, begun in 1832 with a succession of teachers like John Ball, Solomon H. Smith, Cyrus Shepard, and George B. Roberts was successful at teaching mixed descent and native children, one pupil of whom was Ranald McDonald. HBC clerk John Thompson Dunn described its purpose:

The school is for the benefit of the half breed children of the officers and servants of the Company, and of many orphan children of the Indians who have been in the Company’s employment. They are taught English (sometimes French), writing, arithmetic, and geography; and are subsequently either apprenticed to traders in Canada; or kept in the Company’s service (J. T. Dunn, p. 103).

However, troubles began with the arrival of the Anglic cleric, Rev. and Mrs. Herbert Beaver when the student population was about sixty in number. Because Beaver insisted on teaching as if all belonged to the Church of England, McLoughlin, himself a Catholic, separated out the students of Catholic faith and taught them the rudiments of Roman Catholicism. Further difficulties arose as many students of differing ages spoke only the language of their parents resulting in the necessity of overcoming a large number of linguistic barriers, including Japanese of the three Japanese crewmen (Iwakichi, Kykichi and Otokichi) who had been rescued from slavery from their Makah masters. Attendees comprised a mixture of students of all ages. Children of all ages and both sexes sleeping in the school at night and the failure to inculcate Victorian values into the restless youth, as well as the ever changing teachers including one who molested young girls, saw in the early 1840s the school change to a manual labour school (Hussey, Fort Vancouver, Historic Structures Report, Historical Data, Volume 2, p. 291-317). By the mid 1840s, with the arrival of William R. Kaulehelehe, the school had become the Owhyhee Church and two new schools were begun back of the fort. However, it appears they never became fully operational.

Within the stockades there was a bakery, granary, storehouse and many other buildings meant to support the operation. For example, the blacksmith's shop would be where George Aitken, Joseph Ovide Beauchamp, George Folster and Thomas would have worked metal from the iron store (a place of scrap iron) in their forges with their hammers, tongs, vices, grindstones, etc. to produce saleable items. The bakery would have been capable of turning out as many as two hundred loaves of bread a day.

In the open space in the centre of all this Townsend noted the activities in 1834:

Here the Indians assemble with their multifarious articles of trade, beaver, otter, venison, and various other game, and here, once a week, several scores of Canadians are employed, beating the furs which have been collected, in order to free them from dust and vermin (Townsend, p. 170).

Outside the Stockades

Aside from the vast farmland under cultivation, and various farms outside the stockades, one of the most prominent features on the plain to the southwest of the fort site was the settled area named "Kanaka Village". Although the Hawaiians played a major role in the fur trade, they were only part of the picture in Kanaka Village, many of whom were living on the various farms, including the two upstream mills (Hussey, Fort Vancouver, Historic Structures Report, Historical Data, Volume 2, p. 291-317). The number of log cabins appears to have ranged from the thirty to forty that visiting John K. Townsend observed in 1834 to the fifty observed by Wilkes in 1841 (Wilkes, Narrative of the United, p. 6, WHQ, 1915-26, p. 37). These two witnesses give a sense of bustling order:

...the village, which consists of about fifty comfortable log houses, placed in regular order on each side of the road. They are inhabited by the company's servants, and were swarming with children, whites, half-breeds, and pure Indians (Wilkes, Narrative of the United, p. 326-27).

and:

On the farm...huts which are occupied by Canadians, and others attached to the establishment. These huts are placed in rows, with broad lanes or streets between them, and the whole lot looks like a very neat and beautiful village. The most fastidious cleanliness appears to be observed; the women may be seen sweeping the streets and scrubbing the door-sills... (Townsend, p. 171-72).

All people arriving to work on the Pacific slopes came through Fort Vancouver, thus inflating the numbers of people actually working at the post and environs. New arrivals coming up the river on sailing vessels or down the rivers in canoes were likely housed in some of the Kanaka Village log cabins for the few days, weeks or months and worked in the vicinity before they were sent out to their various assignments. If they arrived during the summer and the cabins were full, they may have been housed in tents as was botanist David Douglas in 1825, when he arrived at the first post (D. Douglas, Journal, p. 107).

A hospital was erected possibly in 1833 by Dr. Meredith Gairdner, who was the post surgeon (Hussey, Fort Vancouver, p. 220), near the river bank so that seamen could be taken directly there, a place of convenience should isolation be required.

The boat sheds by the river would have been the place where Jimmy Scarth built the Prince of Wales in 1845. Smaller vessels like York boats would probably have been built there as well.

A Roman Catholic Church, taking care of spiritual needs, was constructed just north west of the post in 1846. Prior to that, services had been held within the fort compound.

The hundreds of acres that were fenced in produced first quality wheat, carrots, potatoes and parsnips. Corn didn't do as well as it did at Walla Walla and the melons were small but the apples were so prolific that the branches would break if they were not propped up. Much of this was the work of William Bruce who, after returning to England at the end of his contract, came back to work the gardens until he died of old age. Further along the river was a grist mill, powered by horse and a threshing mill powered by water (Townsend, p. 171).

The post continued to function after the drawing of the international boundary in 1846 and even prospered with the California gold rush. However, as more settlers moved in and appropriated Company cattle for themselves, even though the HBC had mutually beneficial relations with the military Fort Vancouver which had moved in next door, it eventually abandoned the post in 1860, the last outstanding claim of which was settled in 1871. In June 1948, Fort Vancouver was declared a national monument and in 1961 a National Historic Site. It has been faithfully rebuilt and is now a research center.

Managers of Fort Vancouver, 1825-1860:

McLoughlin, John	Chief Factor	1825-1837
Douglas, James	Chief Trader	1837-1838
McLoughlin, John	Chief Factor	1839-1846
Douglas, James	Chief Factor	1846-1849
Ogden, Peter Skene	Chief Factor	1849-1851
Ballenden, John	Chief Factor	1851-1853
Grahame, James A.	clerk	1853-1854
	Chief Trader	1854-1860

Complement of employees at Fort Vancouver, 1825-1860:

Adam; Adams [Kaanana], Jack; Ahoo; Aganey; Agonaiska; Aikane; Aiken, George; Alauka; Alias; Alioa; Aliou; Aliva; Allan, George Taill; Allan, Robert [b]; Allard, John Baptiste; Allard, Joseph [a]; America; Anderson, Alexander C.; Anderson, James; Anderson, Robert [a]; Anderson, Robert [b]; André, Louis; Anewscatcha, Antoine; Arcouet, Leon; Arionase, J.; Arquoitte, Amable; Asselin, Isidore; Atachunish, Thomas; Ateassta, Pierre; Aurtaronquash (Awetaronquash), Louis; Azure, Antoine Jr.; Badayac (Laplant), Pierre; Bahia; Baikie, James; Baker, James; Baker, Joe; Balau; Baldero, W.; Ballenden, James; Ballenden, John; Barklay, Dr. Forbes; Bates, Thomas [a]; Bayfield, Charles; Beauchemin, Edouard; Beaudouin, Caesar; Beaulieu, Joseph; Beardy, Henry; Beaver, Herbert; Belair, Louis; Beland, Francois; Beland, Pierre; Belanger, Edouard; Belay; Belgarde, Joseph; Bell, Charles; Bell, John; Ben; Benson, Alfred R.; Bergevin, Felix; Bergevin (Langevin), Joseph; Berland (Beland?), Charles; Beveau (Boisclair), Joseph; Bichan, James; Billy; Bird, Nicholas; Birnie, James; Block; Boisclair, Esdros; Bouche, Francois; Bourgeau, Pierre; Bourke, Joseph; Boyer, Joseph; Brannan, James; Brisbois, Olivier; Brouillet, Hypolite; Brown, Thomas [b]; Brown, William [a]; Brown, William [c]; Bruce, William; Brulez, Jean Baptiste; Brunel, Joseph; Cadotte, Pierre; Caille (Bisconet), Isaac; Cakaeo; Calder, John; Campbell, Colin; Campbell, Kenneth; Canning, William; Carrier, Onizime; Carter, Joseph L.; Caesar; Cashga, Michel; Cawanaia; Chalifoux, Jean Baptiste; Chalifoux, Maurice; Chamberlain, Adolphe; Champagne, Joseph; Charbonneau, Abraham; Charbonneau, Edouard; Charlebois, Frances; Charlebois, Paul; Charles, John; Charles, Marc; Charles, William; Charley; Charpentier, Francis; Chastellain, Louis; Chiffmanaplin, George; Clark, Francis; Clouston, John; Clouston, Robert; Collette, Octave; Collie, Henry; Collin, Antoine; Columbia; Com; Como; Como, Thomas; Cook, James; Cook, Peter Joseph; Cook, Richard; Corbeil, Jean Baptiste; Corbin, Pierre; Cornoyor, Joseph; Coté, Francois Xavier; Cottenoire, Michel [a]; Courtture, Joseph; Couturier, Olivier; Courville, Bazil; Cowelitz; Cowie; Cowie, Robert; Cox, John; Craigie, William [b]; Crate, William F.; Crete, Edouard; Crownriver; Cumming, Cuthbert; Curister, David; Dagenais, Suplien; Dahonte, Jacques; Daigneau, Eduoard; Daines, Henry; Dajenais, Suplien; Daubin, Olivier; Dauny, Louis (dup?); Daunais, Louis Aime; Dauphine, Olivier; Davie, Malcolm; Davies, Alexander; Dease, Peter Warren; Dease, Napoleon; Dechamp, Antoine; Dechamp, Baptiste; Dechamp, Francis; Dechamp, Pierre; Dechiquette, Francois; Degrais, Pierre Philippe; Degré, Jean Baptiste; Delonie, Louis; Deroche, Charles; Desaire, Pierre; Desasten (Marineau), Louis; Desjardines, Jean Baptiste; Despard, Joseph; Diamare (Baron), Charles; Dick; Dickson, James; Dickson, Joseph; Donpier, David; Dorion, Jean Baptiste; Douglas, James; Duchainais, Rocque; Ducharme (Maron), Joseph; Dudouaire, Felix; Dumond, Alexander; Dunn, John; Dupere (fils), Joseph; Durval, Denis; Edgar, John; Edwards, Edward; Edwards, John; Ehu; Eleahoy; Ermatinger, Francis; Faito; Falardeau, Louis; Fannons (Farrons) Dominique; Farris, Hugh; Fenton, John; Fevrier (Laramie), Benjamin; Finlay, John; Finlayson, Duncan; Finalyson, Roderick; Fisette (Fiset),

Charles; Flett, John; Fleury, Benone; Fleury, Joseph; Fleury, Michel; Folster, George; Forcier, Louis; Forcier, Narcisse; Forrest, Charles; Fortier, Etienne; Foubister, Thomas; Fraser, John; Gagnier, Jean Baptiste; Gagnon, Joseph; Gairdner, Meredith; Gariepy, Casimir; Garson, James; Gendron, Joseph; George; George (Coleman), Jean Baptiste; Gilbeau, Paul; Gilbeault, Hilard; Gilbot, Pierre; Gladman, William; Glynn, John; Grahame, James A.; Grahame, Jeffrey C.; Gravelle, Gideon; Green, William; Griffiths, Thomas J.; Groom, George; Guibache, Martin; Guilbeau, Paul; Guille, Simon; Gunn, Adam; Gunn, John; Ham; Hamlyn, Dr. Richard; Haona; Haquet, Marie; Hardisty, Joseph W.; Harriot, John Edward; Harvey, Andrew; Harvey, Daniel; Harvey, George; Hawaii; Hebert, Cadmin; Henri, Francis (Francois); Henry, Norman; Hereea; Heroux, Jean; Heroux, Urbain; Hetling, Henry E.; Honno; Honolulu; Hontow, Peter; Hoolapa; Hoole, James; Hughson, Andrew; Iaukeo; Inkster, John [e]; Iomanno; Isbister, John Jr.; Itati; Jack, Long; James, John; Jasy, Toussaint; Jeaudoin, Charles; Jeremie (Dinant), Jean; Jim; Jironeway (Jirongway), Louis; Jobon (Jobin?), Jeoffry; John; Johnston, John [b]; Johnston, Robert; Johnstone, James; Johnstone, John [b]; Johnstone, Robert [a]; Jollibois, Jean Baptiste; Joyalle, Etienne; Kaehetou; Kahannui; Kahela; Kahoolanou; Kai; Kaihe; Kaikuanna; Kaikuawhine; Kailimai; Kaimaina; Kaimoalau; Kakarrow; Kalama; Kalemaka; Kaluaikai; Kaluailehua; Kamai; Kamaka; Kamakeha; Kamikalooa; Kane; Kanelupu; Kaneoukai; Kanoha; Kapahu; Kapawa; Kapooa; Karonhitchego; Karrymouvie; Kaumaie; Kaulehelehe, William R.; Kea; Keala; Keahi; Keave [b]; Keave, Tom; Keavehaccow; Keekaneh; Kehoroua; Kehou; Kehow; Kekahuna; Kennedy, Dr. John Fred.; Keo; Kepling, Pisk; Kikapalale; Kiona; Konea; Koneva; Korhooa; Kuana; Kuawaa; Kudanish, Mystic; Kuluialehua; Kupihea; Labelle, Isaac; Lacourse, Amable; Labonté, Louis; Laeoitti; Lambert, Felix; Landrie, Joseph; Lane, Richard; Laperdrie blanche, Jacques; Larance, Theodore; Lattie, Alexander Jr.; Leask, Henry; Ledoux [Daunt], Louis; Lewes, Adolphus Lee; L'Hussier, Antoine; Like; Logan, Kenneth; Logan, Robert; Logie, James; Lowe, Thomas; McBean, William; McDonald, Angus [a]; McDonald, John [c]; McDonald, William; McIntosh, Archibald; McIsaac, Allan; McKay, Alexander; McKay, James; McKay, Philip; McKenzie, Alexander; McKenzie, Benjamin; McKenzie, George; McKinlay, Archibald; McLeod, Angus [c]; McLeod, Murdoch [a]; McLeod, Murdoch [c]; McLeod, Murdoch [c or d]; McLeod, Alexander Roderick; McLeod, John [e]; McLeod, Roderick; McLoughlin, David; McLoughlin, Dr. John; McLoughlin, John; McLoughlin, Joseph; McPhail, John; Mactavish, Dugald; Mahou; Mahoy, Bill; Mamuka, Jem; Manene; Mano; Manoa, Joe; Manson, Donald; Martin, Norman [a]; Meheula; Mikapako; Moku; Mollay, James; Morrison, Alexander [a]; Morrison, Alexander [b]; Moumouton; Mowat, Andrew; Mowat, Hugh; Mowee; Naeve; Naharrow; Nahoa; Namhollow; Namotto; Napahay; Napoua; Nauka; Naukanna; Nelu; Newanna; Newbird, James; Niaupalu; Nigre; Nohiau; Nouhee; O'Brien, John; Ogden, Peter Skene; Ohule; Omand, Edward [b]; Oniaze, Baptiste; Oniaze, Etienne; Opunui; Oroheeay, Alexander; Orooa; Oulu; Paaylay; Pakeokeo; Pambrun, Alexander; Pambrun, Andrew D.; Pambrun, Thomas; Paparee, Jem; Paraou; Paynee; Peeo; Peers, Henry Newsham; Pelland, Alexis; Perrault, Jean Baptiste; Petite, Antoine; Petrain, Joseph; Plante, Antoine; Plante, Charles; Plante, Michel; Plomer, Harry; Plomondo, Simon; Ploughboy, Joe; Poirier, Bazil; Poirier, Joseph; Poirier, Touiessout; Poonoroara; Powers, Gilbert; Proulx, Francois; Puili; Raby (Payan), Abraham; Rae, William Glen; Ratline; Raymond, Joseph; Raymond, William; Regnier, Tappage; Roberts, George B.; Robertson, Samuel; Rocan (Bastien), Narcisse; Rocquebrune, Antoine; Rocbrune, Joseph; Rocquebrune, Thomas; Ropeyarn, Jack; Ross, Charles; Ross, Donald; Roussil, Augustin; Samuhumu; Sansouci, Joseph; Scarth, James; Scott, Thomas; Simpson, Captain Aemilius; Simpson, Alexander; Sinclair, James [e]; Sinclair, William Jr.; Slater, John [b]; Slater, Thomas; Smith, David; Smith, Malcolm [b]; Smith, Norman; Spencer, Edward; Spunaryn; Stensgair, John [b]; Taeaanui; Tahako; Taherinai; Tahowna; Tamaherry; Taoutoo; Taroua; Tarpaulin; Tate, John; Tatooa; Tayapapa; Taylor, James [d]; Taylor, Peter; Teeahererey; Teherinai; Teripoena; Thibeault, Joachim; Thibeault, Joseph; Timeoy [b]; Todd (Tod), John; Tommo; Tooa; Tooharerva; Toopanehe; Toovyooa; Topa; Toro; Tourawhyhene; Towai; Tuaha; Turgeon, Joseph; Turnbull, Charles; Umi Umi; Upahi; Upay; Vivet, Louis; Waahela; Waahinalulu; Wagner, Peter; Wahinahulu; Waikanalooa; Wall, Richard; Wapping, John; Wentzell, William; Williams, Frederick; Woahoo; Watson, George; Woahoo; Work, John; Yale, John Murray

HBCA FtVanAB 1-34, 155, 160; FtVanASA 1-17; FtVanCB 1-43; YFASA 6-33; YFDS 1a-23; HBCCont; HBCABio; COI&A; Wills; FtVicDS 1; FtVicCB 1-18; HBCA Fort Vancouver compiled post history; BCA Lowe 1; PPS: G. Simpson, Fur Trade; HBRS IV; HBRS VI; HBRS VII; HBRS X; HBRS XXXII; Wilkes, Narrative of the United; Simpson, Narrative; Townsend, Narrative of a Journey; D. Douglas, Journal; CCR 1a, 1b; SS: Hussey, Fort Vancouver Historic Structures Report, Historical Data, Vol. 1 & 2; Hussey, A History of Fort Vancouver 5.

Fort Nez Perces (HBC) 1818-1855

IMAGE 119 Site of Fort Nez Perces (Old Fort Walla Walla), A-01029, courtesy of Royal BC Museum, BC Archives.

Fort Nez Perces was established in 1818 by the North West Company's Donald McKenzie and Alexander Ross as a staging post for Snake Country Expeditions. It was strategically located at the confluence of three rivers that afforded access to the Athabasca Pass, the Grand Tetons and Rocky Mountain Rendezvous and the Umatilla area via the smaller Walla Walla River. Built by ninety-five men, it was located about a half mile south side of the Walla Walla/Columbia River confluence.

The site was remarkable among the natives as being the ground on which some years before Lewis and Clarke of the American exploring expedition ratified, according to Indian report, a general peace between themselves and tribes of the adjacent inland by the celebration of feasting and dancing for several days. It was rendered remarkable as a spot on which difficulties already notices had taken place between the whites and the natives. And it was rendered still more remarkable as being considered the most hostile spot on the whole line of communication. A spot which the whites, it was said, could never hold with safety. The spot for Nez Perces fort was however marked out on a level point upon the east bank of the Columbia, forming something like an island in the flood, and by means of a tributary stream, a peninsula at low water (A. Ross, The Fur Hunters, p. 119).

The Nez Perces operation was run by one officer, a clerk and six to eight men. When George Simpson arrived there in November 1824, he suggested moving the post north of the Walla Walla River given that Lewis and Clarke had made some prior claim:

...we are given to understand that the American Government claims the Sovereignty of the tract of Country laying on the South side of the River Columbia from where Captns Lewis and Clarke fell upon it (say at the Forks of Nez Perces or Lewis's River) ... (G. Simpson, Fur Trade, p. 53-54).

He went on to conclude:

In the event of the Americans establishing their claim to the Country laying on the South side of the Columbia below Nez Perces or Louis's river it would be necessary to remove this post to the North side of the Main Stream... (ibid, 59).

Consequently, over the protestations of the natives (FtVanCB 2) the site was removed to the north side. In spite of potential hostilities from local natives, Simpson found it strategic to maintain the post there as central to the Snake Expeditions. In his 1829 dispatch Simpson felt:

This post has never been very productive, as the country in its neighbourhood is not very rich, and the natives who are a bold Warlike race do little else than rove about in search of Scalps, plunder and amusement (HBRs X, p. 51).

The air of tension around the site was sometimes palpable. For example in January 1832 a young native who had been turned out of post and supposedly called an “old woman” (a ruse for a larger sin of having run away with Fallardeau’s wife) went to his lodge, painted his face and began killing Company cattle. Within three hours, he had killed one of his own who had objected to his slaughter (FtNPPJ 2).

A similar nastiness prevailed within the HBC servants as well. In September of 1831, one of the Rondeaus, possibly Louis, and his wife beat their slave, who was identified as a Hawaiian, so severely that the Chief trader had to intervene (FtNPPJ 1).

On the lighter side, simpler gardening activities took place. We know this as on April 30, 1831, the goats ate all of the radishes that George Barnston had planted (FtNPPJ 1). As well, corn (quite possibly maize) was able to grow quite readily in the local soil.

The personnel at Nez Percés/Walla Walla were a welcome relief to the American overlanders coming to settle in Oregon. It burned in 1841, was rebuilt and eventually abandoned in October 1855 on instructions of the U.S. Indian Agent, Olney.

IMAGE 120 Site of Fort Nez Percés (where train cars are) with Columbia River’s wallula Gap in the center of the picture. Photograph by author, 1992.

Managers of Fort Nez Percés, 1818-1855:

Donald McKenzie	Proprietor	1818
Alexander Ross (NWC)	Proprietor	1818-1821
Alexander Ross (HBC)		1821-1823
John Warren Dease	Chief Trader	1823-1825
Samuel Black	Chief Trader	1825-1830
George Barnston		1830-1831
Simon McGillivray Jr.	Chief Trader	1831-1832
Pierre Chry. Pambrun	clerk	1832-1840
	Chief Trader	1840-1841
Archibald McKinlay	clerk	1841-1846
William McBean	clerk	1846-1852
Richard Grant	Chief Trader	1851-1852?
Andrew D. Pambrun	clerk	1852-1855
James Sinclair		1855

Complement of personnel in Fort Nez Percés, 1818-1855:

Anderson, Robert [b]; Annance, Francis Noel; Arpent, Noel; Auger, Nicholas or Joseph; Beauchemin, Edouard; Berston, Miles; Bird, Charles; Boisclair, Esdros; Bouchard, Elie; Brunel, Joseph; Charles Campo; Charpentier, François; Collin, Antoine; Cook, Richard; Couture, Joseph; Crete, Edouard; Cummings, John; Dauny, Louis; Desaire, Pierre; Dorion, Jean Baptiste; Drinville, Louis; Dubois, Louis; Fallardeau, Michel; Groat, Malcolm; Guilbeau, Paul; Henri, Francois; Hoole, Antoine [a]; Itati; Joyalle, Étienne; Kaharrow; Kalama; Kelly, Barney; Kirk,

John; Kittson, William; Lachance, William; Lacourse, Amable; Larance, Theodore; Lavalle, Martial; Lefevre, Jean Baptiste; L'Etang, Pierre; Liard, François; McArthur, Neil McLean; McBean, William; McDonald, Donald [?]; McIver, Donald [c]; McGillivray, Simon; McKay, Thomas; McKinlay, Archibald; McNeill, William, Jr.; Marouna, Mungo; Martineau, Olivier; Martineau, Pierre; Maxwell, Henry; Meloche, Antoine; Montgomery, Angus; Morelle, Joseph; Morissette, Toussaint; Narimma; Nerin, Augustin; Ogden, Charles; Oniaze, Etienne; Pakee; Pakeokeo; Pambrun, Andrew Dominique; Pambrun, Pierre Chrysologue; Parker, George; Pin, Joseph; Peter; Ploughboy, Joe; Poirier, Joseph; Proveau, Louis; Prudhomme, Bazil; Rae, William Glen; Rocquebrune, Joseph; Rondeau, Antoine; Rondeau, Joseph; Rondeau, Pierre; St. Aubin, Guillaume; Servant, Jacques; Sharing; Sinclair, James; Spun yarn; Sylvestre, Jean Baptiste; Tahetsaronari, Jacques; Tatouira; Tehongarate, Joseph; Tenonwatase, Thomas; Tommo; Toupin, Jean; Turgeon, Michel; Voyer, Pierre; Wapping, John; Wentzell, William; Whitford, John

HBCA FtNPPJ 1, April 30, 1832, fo. 7d, Sept. 28, 1831, fo. 33d; FtNPPJ 2, Guile Platte's son kills cattle and Saste, Jan 11, 1832, fo. 8d-9; FtNPC 1; FtNPRD 1-2; YFDS 7-23; FtVanASA 1-17; FtVanCB 2 McLoughlin's September 1, 1826 letter to Governor & committee, FtVanCB 2, fo. 20-20d; HBCA post history; PPS: A. Ross, The Fur Hunters; G. Simpson, Fur Trade; HBRS X, Dispatch

6.

Fort Colville (HBC) 1825-1871

IMAGE 121 Fort Colville (c. 1850), A-01846, courtesy of Royal BC Museum, BC Archives.

Fort Colville, situated on a flood plain and named after a director of the HBC, was the second most important site on the Columbia River. On the instructions of George Simpson on his first cross continent tour in 1825, Fort Colville was established in 1825 to replace the former North West Company Spokane House which had been the centre of operations in the area (HBRS X, p. 43-48, 133-136). A critical food gathering and meeting place for several different Interior Salishan groups, the new site allowed access to the northwest through the Kettle River and the northeast through the Old Kalipel Trail. As well, it lay directly on the communication route connecting the Pacific Ocean with the Rockies. In negotiating shared space, the local Sxoielpi natives agreed that since the traders were able to “get good [food] out of stones and sand” and could manage “to live very well without fish” (G. Simpson, Narrative, p. 152), the HBC were ceded land on a flood plain about a mile above Kettle or Chaudiere Falls, so called because of the cauldron shapes that had been carved out of the rocks by the water (Kane, p. 114; G. Simpson, Narrative, p. 153).

This agreement enabled the HBC to build a walled wooden post with bastions about three quarters of a mile back from the river in the middle of fertile farming area, which they exploited.

...the farm is remarkably productive. Cattle thrive well, while the crops are abundant. The wheat, which weighs from sixty-three to sixty-five pounds a bushel, yields twenty or thirty returns; maize also flourishes, but does not ripen still the month of September; potatoes, peas, oats, barley, turnips, melons, cucumbers, &c., are plentiful. A grist mill, which is driven by water, is attached to the establishment; and the bread, what we ate, was decidedly the best that we had seen in the whole country (G. Simpson, Narrative, p. 151).

The enclosed fur house, storehouse, dwelling house and officer's quarters and the farming area and water powered grist mill were maintained by a Chief Trader or Chief Factor, one to two clerks, apprentice clerks and post masters. The twenty-nine to thirty-six other personnel (assistant traders, blacksmiths, boutes, carpenters, general servants, guides, interpreters, labourers, middlemen, officer's servants, traders, trappers) operated at the site as well as within the Flathead area and so the number of people assigned to this particular site are somewhat misleading.

IMAGE 122 Drowned site of Fort Colville from bluffs of St. Paul's Mission, St. Paul's Mission. Photograph by author, 1992.

Because of its negotiated space and fertile land, it developed a permanence that went well beyond its fur trading function. Botanist David Douglas always felt welcome there. In 1841 Simpson noted:

The houses are of cedar neatly built and well furnished; and the whole place bears a cleaner and more comfortable aspect than any establishment between itself and Red River (G. Simpson, Narrative, p. 150).

IMAGE 123 St. Paul's Mission. Photograph by author, 1992.

As well, personnel at Fort Colville tended to stay for greater lengths of time. For example, James Goudie worked for twenty-one years at the HBC mill turning out flour that was sent to various posts in the Pacific Northwest. Working with him was the musically inclined John Greig, a distant relative of the Norwegian composer Edvard Greig. Both employees found their way to retirement in Victoria. Still others settled in the area.

Given its relaxed atmosphere, the post became a popular destination for US army personnel after the border was drawn because of a mix-up in annual orders. Because Jason Allard had erred when he ordered the annual supply of two hundred lbs of cheese and had inadvertently ordered two thousand lbs of cheese he stored it in rum barrels which gave it such a unique taste that people came from miles around to taste Allard's cheese.

Longer than other posts, Fort Colville functioned continually until 1871 when it was closed and the trade transferred to Fort Shepherd, just north of the British Columbia border. Angus McDonald tried unsuccessfully to pre-empt the land and later moved with his family to the Mission Valley area, Flathead Reservation of Montana where he devoted himself to stock raising until his death in 1889. His son Donald, however, was successful in establishing a claim of two hundred acres at the site. Daughter Christina had a British Columbia lake named after her for while she was on a trip with her father, she plunged into the lake to rescue her father's papers which had fallen into the water (Akrigg & Akrigg, 1001 British Columbia, p. 42).

In the summer of 1910, the old bastion burned down and in 1941 the area was flooded with the waters of Lake Roosevelt rising behind Grand Coulee Dam, the Washington thus drowning the Fort Colville site. The former site can be viewed from the site of St. Paul's Mission top of the bluffs that now surround the reservoir. When first visited by archaeologists in the spring of 1970, the only structural indications of any consequence protruding through the silt were the toppled chimneys of the trader's house.

Managers of Fort Colville, 1825-1871:

Dease, John Warren	Chief Trader	1825-1829
Heron, Francis	Chief Trader	1829-1831
Ermatinger, Francis	clerk	1831-1832
Heron, Francis	Chief Trader	1833-1835
McDonald, Archibald	Chief Trader	1835-1842
	Chief Factor	1842-1844
Ermatinger, Francis	Chief Trader	1844-1846
Fraser, Paul	Chief Trader	1845-1846
Lewes, John Lee	Chief Factor	1846-1848
Ogden, Peter Skene	Chief Factor	1846-1849
Anderson, Alexander C.	Chief Trader	1849-1853
Pelly, A. E.	Chief Trader	1853-1854
McDonald, Angus	clerk	1854-1871
McKay, J. W.	Chief Trader	1871

Complement of personnel at Fort Colville, 1825-1860:

IMAGE 124 Fort Colville Marker: "Near here stood Fort Colville of the Hudson's Bay Company 1826-1871: George Simpson, John Work, Archibald McDonald, Angus MacDonald. Erected by the Washington State Historical Society, 1932. Here began trade, farming, milling and stock raising in Stevens County." Photograph by author, 1992.

Anasse, Baptiste; Andre, Louis; Annance, Francois Noel; Atachsarar, Ignace; Ateassta, Pierre Aurtaronquash/Awetaronquash, Louis; Ballenden, Jacob; Ballenden, James; Beland, Francois; Belay; Berland, Edward (Edouard); Birnie, James; Blenkinsop, George; Boucher/Bouché, Baptiste; Bouchez, Vital; Bourdignon, Antoine; Bourgeau, Joseph; Brissotte, Hypolite; Brouillet, Hypolite; Brown, Louis; Chabotte, Jean Baptiste; Chalifoux, Andre; Chalifoux, Maurice; Charette, Antoine; Charlebois, Francois; Charlebois, Paul; Cook, James; Cormack, John; Corriacca; Craigie, William [b]; Craigie, William [c]; Curister, David; Davie, Malcolm; Davie, William; Dears, Thomas; Dease, John Warren; Dease, Napoleon; Degrais, Pierre Philipe; Denoyer, Edouard; Desautel, Joseph; Deschiquette, Francois; Desloges, Hyacynth; Dubois, Pierre; Dumais, Augustin; Dumet, Moise; Dumond, Alexander; Dupre, Nazaire; Duquette, Antoine; Ermatinger, Francis; Felix (Palaquin), Antoine; Finlay, Augustin; Finlay, David; Finlay, Miaquam; Finlay, Pinasta; Flett, David; Flett, Magnus; Flett, Thomas; Forcier, Louis; Fraser, Paul; Gadoua, Charles; Gardupuis, Alexis; Garrick, John; Garrioch, William L.; Gauthier, Laurent; Gendron, Alexis; George (Coleman), Jean Baptiste; Gilbealt, Hilard; Gilbot, Pierre; Goudie, James; Gouin, Pierre; Grant, Peter; Grieg, John; Guibache, Martin; Harvey, Andrew; Heramb, Toller; Hereea; Heron, Francis; Hoole, Antoine; Hubert, Francois Xavier; Hubert, Joachim; Inkster, John [c]; Irvine, Peter [a]; Johnston, John [b]; Kainhewait, Ignace; Kanatasse, Narcisse; Kanonswasse, Martin; Kaonasse, Michel; Karaganyate, Pierre; Kee; Kelly, Barney; Kirorole, (Jean) Baptiste; Kittson, William; Labonté, Louis; Lacharite, Henri; Lacourse, Pierre; Lafleur, Joachim; Lafontasie, Charles; Lafontasie, Louis; Laframboise, Francois; Lefevre, Jean Baptiste; Lefevre, Louis; L'Etang, Pierre; Lagrave, Godfroi; Lajoie, Jean Baptiste; Landrie, Joseph [a]; Landrie, Joseph [b]; Lapierre, Jean Bapt. [a]; Lapierre, Joseph [2]; Larance, Supplie; Larose, Isidore; Leask, John [c]; Leclair, Isadore or Theodore; Leslie, Colin; Lewes, John Lee; Like; Linklater, John [b]; McArthur, Neil McLean; McDonald, Angus [a]; McDonald, Angus [b]; McDonald, Archibald; McDougall, John; Macdougall, John G.; McGillivray, Simon Jr.; McIntosh, John Jr. [2]; McIver, Donald [c]; McIver, James; McKay, Jean Baptiste; McKay, John [a]; McKay, Murdoch; McKenzie, George; McKenzie, Patrick; McLean, Donald [c]; McLeod, Angus [c]; McLeod, Donald [b]; McLeod, Neil [a]; McPherson, John; Malois (Malouin), Fabien; Margary, Herbert; Martin, Donald; Martin/Martine, Eduoard; Martineau, Alexis; Martineau,

Pierre; Mathu, Louis; Monde, Jean; Montour, Nicholas; Morelle, Joseph; Morrison, Alexander [a]; Mousette, Narcisse; Murray, Daniel; Nerin, Augustin; Ogden, Michael; Ogilvy, John. D. B.; Paul, Louis Hus; Payette, Francois; Pelly, Augustus; Petit, Amable; Pichette, Louis (Dupre); Pin, Joseph; Pion, William; Plante, Antoine; Plomondon, Simon; Plouffe/Plouf, Antoine; Portelance, Narcisse; Proveau, Jean Baptiste; Proveau, Louis; Prudhomme, Gabriel; Queenville, Colville; Rae, William Glen; Rivet, Francois; Robertson, James [2]; Robillard (Lambert), Cuthbert; Roi, Pierre; Ross (Rocque), George; Roy, Jean Baptiste; Roy, Thomas [2]; Sagoganiukas, Ignace; Satakarass, Pierre; Scott, John; Servant, Jacques; Shuttleworth, Henry D.; Simpson, George S. Jr.; Simpson, John [2]; Simpson, John [3]; Sinclair, James [a]; Sinclair, William Jr.; Smith, David; Spunyarn [2]; Stensgair, Thomas; Sutherland, Joseph; Tahetsaronsari, Jacques; Tayarouyokarari, Michel; Tayentas, Joseph; Tchigt, Charles; Tecawatiron, Charles; Tehongagarate, Joseph; Teonsarakonta, Charles; Toupin, Jean; Trudeau, Felix; Umphreville, Canote; Umpreville, John; Umpreville [Waccan] Pierre; Walls, William; Weynton, Stephenson; William; Work, John

PS: HBCA FtColPJ 1; FtColC 1; FtColRD 1-3; FtColMis 1; YFASA 1-33; FtVanASA 1-16; YFDS 7-23; FtVicASA 1-12;
HBCA compiled Post history; PPS: HBRS X; G. Simpson, Narrative; D. Douglas, Journal, p. 69, 165, 246, 247; Kane, p. 114; SS: Chance;
Akrigg & Akrigg, 1001 British Columbia, p. 42; Cole, "Exile in the Wilderness"; Nute, "A Botanist at Fort Colville"

7. Fort Shepherd (HBC) 1856-1870

IMAGE 125 Remnant of Fort Shepherd, A-04255, courtesy of Royal BC Museum, BC Archives.

Fort Shepherd was a footnote as a HBC post. Constructed in 1856 by retired servants of the HBC opposite the mouth of the Pend d'Oreille River just north of the international boundary, it was built to replace Fort Colville. However, because of a lack of arable and pasture land, it was abandoned in 1860, only to be opened two years later as a depot for goods. It was closed in 1870 and burned down two years later.

Managers of Fort Shepherd, 1856-1870:

Angus McDonald	Chief Trader	1856-1857
George Blenkinsop	Chief Trader	1857-1859
Herbert Margary	clerk	1859
James Cooke		1859-1860
(unnamed interpreter)		1863-1864
William Sinclair	clerk	1864-1865
Joseph Hardisty	Chief Trader	1865-1869
Jason O. Allard	apprentice clerk	1869-1870

Complement of personnel at Fort Shepherd:

(Not traced)

IMAGE 126 Site of Fort Shepherd. Photograph by author, 1993.

PS: HBCA Post history; Elsie Turnbull, "Fort Shepherd", The Beaver, Autumn 1959, p. 42-47

8. Fort of the Lakes (HBC) 1838 (aka McKay's House)

Very little is known about the minor post, Fort of the Lakes, which was constructed in the late 1830s near the entrance of the Columbia River into the Arrow Lakes. It may have been constructed to capture the trade of the local Lakes Indians. Modeste Demers spent much of the month of October here in 1838 baptizing the children of the post master and several natives and their children. Other than that, it quickly disappeared from record.

Managers of the post:

John McKay

Post master

1838

PS: CCR 1a, p 13-24

9. Boat Encampment (NWC-HBC) 1811+

Located at the head of Columbia River navigation near the mouth of the Canoe River and near the Athabasca Pass, Boat Encampment was a point of transshipment and a cache rather than a fur trade post. It was where the pack trains from Jasper House met the boats from down the Columbia and was important for the shipment of goods and people in either direction.

Willamette River posts (PFC-NWC-HBC) 1812-1851

No serious large-scale fur trade post building was attempted south of the Columbia River by the British fur trade companies as US sovereignty claims in this area were generally recognized by most non-native groups. At the same time, the only American fur trade establishment was a temporary one established by the PFC.

1. Wallace House (PFC) 1812-1814
2. Willamette Post (NWC-HBC) 1813-1830s
3. Champoeg Post (HBC) 1842-1861
4. Willamette Falls sawmill (HBC) 1843-1851

1.

Wallace House (PFC) 1812-1814 (aka Calapooya Fort)

Wallace House was established strategically as an outpost to the PFC's Fort Astoria which had sent men up the Willamette River. It was built in 1812 by William Wallace and John C. Halsey along with fourteen men on the east side of the river now incorporated into present-day Salem, Oregon. When Donald McKenzie and men quit their post and their arrival at Fort Astoria led to a stress on the food supply, a number of hands were sent to Wallace House where the food supply was plentiful.

Some Personnel of Wallace House, 1813-1814:

(Those with question mark may have wintered 1813-1814 at either Wallace House or the NWC Willamette Post.)

Baker, Micajah; Carson, Alexander?; Day, John?; Flanagan, Moses?; Halsey, John C.; Harteau, Jacques?; Lucier, Etienne; McKay, Thomas; McKenzie, Donald; Martial, François; Reed, John; Ross, Alexander; St. Amant, Joseph?; Seton, Alfred; Wallace, William

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10; PPS: McDougall; Seton; R. F. Jones; Franchère; ChSoc XLV SS: Barry, "Site of Wallace "

2.

Willamette Post (NWC, HBC) 1813-1830s (aka Fort Calipuyaw, Henry's Trading Post, Henry's Post)

Willamette Post was built in 1813, being variously sited SE of present-day Newburg, Oregon or three miles up the Willamette River from Champoege. The instigator was NWC clerk William Henry following the arrival of the NWC on the coast. A group of twenty-nine people, including Henry's wife and child, began construction in December 1813. The group consisted of "6 Sandwich Islanders, 4 Iroquois, 1 Missawyi, 1 Nipisang, 16 Canadians, & 1 American" (R. F. Jones, p. 134). Originally the post consisted of one or more buildings and was taken over in 1821 by the HBC when it assumed the assets of the NWC. It remained in place until at least the 1830s when it was moved into by Pierre Bellique who eventually took it over as part of his own land claim.

NWC personnel at Willamette Post, 1813-1814):

(Those with question marks may have wintered 1813-1814 at either Wallace House or the NWC Willamette Post.)

Belleau, Jean Baptiste; Brousseau, Bazile; Canning, William; Carson, Alexander?; Day, John?; Dufresne, Andre; Flanagan, Moses; Harteau, Jacques; La Bonté, Jean Baptiste; Laframboise, Michel; Lucier, Etienne?; McGillis, Donald; Mackay, Thomas; Martial, François; Mascon, Alexis; Milligan, Richard; Perrault, William; St. Amant, Joseph?; St. Michel, Louis; Wallace, William

PS: HBCA NWCAB 10; PPS: R. F. Jones, p. 133-34; ChSoc XLV , p. 143-44; ChSoc LVII; SS: CCR 1 Pierre Bellique Annotation, A-6 3.

Champoege Post (HBC) 1842-1861 (aka Champoege, Champoege, Champua, Champooiak, Champoiac, Champooiac, Chanepooick, Campment de Sable, Champment de Sable)

Champoege Post was an HBC store on the right (south) bank, of the Willamette River in the present day Champoege State Park. Planned in 1840 (FtVanCB 27, fo. 41), it was set up in 1842 to capture the trade in settlers' wheat. The enterprise consisted of a thrashing mill, dwelling house, granary, kiln, garden and sixty foot wharf. The buildings were washed away in a flood in 1861.

Managers of Champoeg Post, 1842-1861:

George Barber Roberts	post master	1842-1843
Angus McDonald [a]	post master & clerk	1844-1848
Joseph Hardisty	appr. post master	1848-1849
Henry Maxwell	clerk	1850
Lane, Chase & Co.,	agents	1851-1852
Allan McKinlay & Co.	agents	1852
(untraced)		(1852-1861)

Personnel at Champoeg post:

Groom, George; Sansouci, Joseph

PS: HBCA YFDS 17-20; FtVanCB 27, John McLoughlin's Sept. 21, 1840 letter to Tolmie, fo. 41; HBCA Champoeg compiled post history SS: Hussey, Champoeg: Place of, p. 110-111, p. 208-209, p. 222-223

4.

Saw and grist mills at Willamette Falls (HBC) 1843-1851

The HBC late-starting sawmill and grist mill at Willamette Falls were a complicated affair. As far back as 1829, Fort Vancouver head John McLoughlin planned to build an HBC mill at the Falls and made preliminary construction preparations, including a small house, through to 1832 (FtVanCB 32, fo. 182). Instead, mills were constructed at Fort Vancouver. Eleven years later in 1843 McLoughlin constructed the mills at the Falls. By then, conditions had changed with the arrival of American immigrants, the advent of the Provisional Government and a bias against the HBC presence. By this time there was also a tug of war over jurisdiction of British subjects (FtVanCB 31, fo. 104) and their inability to pre-empt land (FtVanCB 32, fo. 192-195d). Further plans existed for another private mill to be built. Consequently that year McLoughlin, with HBC financing, constructed his mills under his own name then assumed full ownership in 1845, buying out the HBC (FtVanCB 34, fo. 18). In 1846 as the HBC would no longer provide personnel to run the mills (FtVanCB 33, fo. 29) McLoughlin leased out the sawmill to a private individual (HBRS VII, p. lxi) but kept the grist mill retaining the HBC workers, over 60% of whom were Hawaiian. The workers remained on HBC books until 1851.

Managers at Willamette Falls, 1843-1851:

Ermatinger, Francis	Chief Trader	1843-1846
McKinlay, Archibald	Chief Trader	1846-1849
Lane, Richard	clerk	1850-1851
McArthur, Neil McLean	clerk	1850-1851

Complement of personnel at Willamette Falls sawmill, 1843-1851:

Aikane; Awana; Bichan, James; Caille [Biscornet], Paschel; Cakaeo; Charley; Dupere, Joseph; Eleahoy; Fenton, John; Groom, George; Horie/Hourie, Simon; Kaikuawhene; Kanelupu; Kapawa; Kaumaia; Keala; Keehaneh; Keekahuna; Keharoha; Kuluaillehua; Lane, Richard; Lewes, Adophus Lee; McDonald, Murdoch; McKenzie, George; Maalo; Mahou; Mahoy, Bill; Oroora; Ropeyarn, Jack; Sansouci, Joseph; Tamoherry; Toro; Towhay; Turnbull, Charles

PS: HBCA YFDS 14, 16-21; John McLoughlin Aug. 12, 1844 letter to Governor, FtVanCB 31, fo. 104; YFDS, fo. 192-195d; YFDS 32, fo. 182; YFDS 33, fo. 29 John McLoughlin's Nov. 20, 1845 letter to Governor; YFDS 34, fo. 18 P. S. Ogden's Mar. 19, 1846 Fort Vancouver letter to Simpson PPS: HBRS VII, xli-xlv, xlix, lxi, 118n 119n 120n, 137, 142n, 156, 204, 211, 218, 257

Southward Trapping and Trappers (NWC-HBC-SJ&S) 1818-1843

South Expeditions from 1818 were problematic in several ways. Along with having to negotiate with the local natives, fur traders found themselves in a stew pot of non-native claims to the territory. First there was Spain. The 1493 Papal bull splitting the known world had been reinforced in 1513 by Vasco Nuñez de Balboa giving Spain what Europe considered to be its claim to the eastern shores of the Pacific. Reinforced by a military and missionary presence into California and even a 1775 act of Spanish sovereignty in present day Alaska, Spain was in retreat by 1795 to Monterey, California leaving itself and Britain to share trading rights in the Pacific Northwest. Enter American claims. An American named the Columbia River after his ship; this was followed by Lewis and Clark's 1804-1806 expedition to the coast and John Jacob Astor's establishment of a post at Astoria. To further complicate matters, the Adams-Onís Treaty between Spain and the United States drawing the Spanish claim line at the 42nd parallel was ratified by Spain and the US in 1820 and 1821 respectively. This gave perceived legitimacy to American claims north of the California border into formerly claimed Spanish territory. However, as the Mexican ratification was delayed until 1831 there was enough ambiguity to allow fur traders, British and American, to exploit loopholes.

It was into this ambiguity of claims that the southward expeditions took place. As early as 1816 the NWC had decided use horses in both the Snake and south areas adopting the American policy of using horses as the major conveyor of people and goods to open a larger territory not traversed by rivers (HBRS XIII, xxxi). When the first NWC Southern Expedition got underway in 1818, southward was the only direction remaining to the men as a previous scuffle largely involving the Iroquois and Chinooks had left twelve men, women and children dead thus cutting off the Chinook territory for trade (A. Ross, The Fur Hunters, p. 129-30). As a result a "party numbering in all sixty men and headed by two half breed clerks from Canada" (ibid, p. 132) set out, but their expedition turned into a disaster. In the Umpqua region, when the natives showed a disinterest in trade, the Iroquois held back their horses. When the natives protested, the Iroquois opened fire and fourteen innocent natives lay dead.

This disastrous initial foray into southern Oregon was probably the impetus that drove the natives of that region to react so strongly against the men of the 1828 Jedediah Strong Smith group, fourteen of whom the natives killed in what should have been a minor dispute. Southern expeditions had wintering sites south of present-day Stockton, California, and other expeditions penetrated deep into Spanish territory beneath the Adams-Onís line. Their temporary sites will not be dealt with here.

The experience of the south expeditions, however, left important consequences. First, many found the Willamette Valley to be to their liking and were amongst the first settlers. Second, as they were very familiar with the territory in Northern California having spent years in the area, they became guides for the thousands of miners who swept into the northern California area with the discovery of gold there.

Leaders/managers of south expeditions, 1825-1843:

Finan McDonald & Thomas McKay	1825
Alexander McLeod & Donald Manson	1826-1829
Jedediah Strong Smith (SJ&S)	1828
Peter Skene Ogden	1829-1830
John Work	1832-1833
Michel Laframboise	1834-1835
Thomas McKay	1836
Michel Laframboise	1836-1839
Thomas McKay & Michel Laframboise	1840-1841
Francis Ermatinger	1841-1842
Michel Laframboise	1842
Francis Ermatinger	1843

Members of various HBC and other Southern Expeditions, 1826-1843:

Agoniasta, Thomas; (Andries step son); America; Aubichon, Alexis; Azure, Antoine; Beaudoin, Casar; Beaulieu, Joseph; Bergevin, Felix; Birnie, James; *Black, Arthur; Boisvert, Louis; Bostonnois, Jean Baptiste; Cadrette; Canasawarrette, Thomas; Canasawarette, Ignace; Cannon (Canning) William; Cartreah; Champagne, Francois [a]; Charles, Pierre; Cook, Richard; Cook, Thomas; Corbeil, Jean Baptiste; Cornoyer, Joseph; Couturier, Olivier; Dahonte, Jacques; Davis, Thomas [a]; Daws, Thomas; Dechamp, Antoine; Depaty (McKay), Jean Baptiste; Desrivieres, Pierre; Dick; Douglas, David; Dubreuil, Jean Baptiste; Dupaty, Jean Baptiste; Dupont, Nicholas; Ermatinger, Francis; Favel, John; Finlay, John; Gaiter, John; Gardepie, Jean Baptiste; Gendron, Joseph; Gervais, Joseph; Hanna, John; Henry, Norman; Little Ignace; (Jacques); Jean, Jean Baptiste; Jeaudoins, Charles; Jobin, Jeoffry; Johnston, William; Joyalle, Etienne; Kakaraquiron, Pierre; Kanota, Louis; Keekanneh; Kennedy, John; Kipling, Thomas Pisk; Klyne, Joseph; Liard, Francois Xavier; Lamframboise, Michel; La Plant, Abraham; La Point, Joseph; Lavalle, Martial; Lazarus, Manuel; *Leland, Richard; L'Etang, Pierre; Liard, Francois Xavier; Louis, Joseph; Lucier, Amable/Etienne; McCoy, Martin; McKay, Thomas; McLeod, Alexander Roderick; McLoughlin, Joseph; Malois, Fabien; Mamuka, Jem; Maréchal, Touissant; Martineau, Pierre; Moku; Moko?; Montigny, Naracisse; Obichon, Jean Baptiste; Ohpoonuey; Onskanha, Louis; Ossin, Louis; Oteotanie, Michel; Ouamtanie, Michel; Pa-ay-lay; (Palkanoot); Palmer, Joseph Palmer; Parker, George; Petit [Gobin], Antoine [a] Petit [Gobin], Jean Baptiste; Perrault, Jean Baptiste; Picard, Andre; Piette (Faneant), François; Ploughboy, Joe; Quesnel, Amable; Quintal, Laurant; (Qutteh); Ranne, Peter; Reubascan, John; Rocquebrune, Joseph; Rogers, Harrison G.; Rondeau, Louis; Roussil, Augustine; Seguin (Laderoute), Xavier; Shaegoskatsta, Louis; Shanagarate, Louis; Shatackoani, Jacques; Silvestre, Jean Baptiste; *Smith, Jedediah Strong; Smith, Thomas; Swift, Charles; Tchigte, Charles; Tewatcon, Thomas; (Tolyak, John); Tourawhyhene; Towai; Turner, John; Tyeguariche, Baptiste; Vandal, Louis [b]; Villandrie, Pierre; Virgin, Thomas; Vivet, Louis; Warfield, James; (Wassaya)

* Jedediah Strong Smith 1828 expedition member who was killed

* *Jedediah Strong Smith 1828 expedition member who survived

PS: HBCA YFDS 3-4, 7-12; FtVanPJ 2, 4-6; FtVanASA 1-17; PPS: HBRS v. XXIII: 142; A. Ross, The Fur Hunters

Southern Oregon Posts

Within the confines of the Pacific Northwest, the Umpqua River was the first river south of the Columbia River and Willamette Valley that connected the ocean with the interior. Being south of the Willamette on the south side of the Calapooya mountains, it was at the beginning of the southern hilly and mountainous area extending to the California border, then Spanish-Mexican territory. As such it was an important area for fur trading and the capture of beaver pelts. The Umpqua River valley was traditional territory of four different language groups in the early nineteenth century: the Southern Molalla, two Umpqua language groups, the Yoncalla (or Calapooya) and, after 1830, the Klickitat Indians who settled after invading from north of the Columbia. Although Alexander Ross cited the area as being full of beaver (A. Ross, Adventures, p. 237) the local Calapooya were disinterested in the fur trade and resulting violence had left a legacy of mistrust (A. Ross, The Fur Hunters, p. 132-33). In spite of this, fur traders managed to erect two minor Umpqua sites along the Umpqua River and one major one. Not dealt with are McLeod's 1826-1827 camp on the more southerly Coquille River, and an unknown 1832 Chief Trader John McLeod and Michel Laframboise (L. M. Scott, "John Work's Journey," p. 257) site possibly on the Elk River and Work's 1834 sites on the Elk River near its confluence with the Umpqua.

PS: FtVanPJ 2, 4-6; PPS: A. Ross, Adventures; L. M. Scott, "John Work's Journey"

Two minor sites along the Umpqua River, 1820-1832

1. McKay's Old Establishment (1820-?)

IMAGE 127 McKay's Old Establishment, Google Maps, 2010.

This site, also known as Fort McKay, McKay's Fort, Old Establishment and McRoy's Fort, and reputed to be at the juncture of the Umpqua and Calapooya Rivers, is problematic; nonetheless, the Douglas County Museum has placed a plaque there noting its previous existence. John Work in 1834 located it six miles further away opposite the mouth of Hubbard Creek. Even the source of its name was problematic. The name has been attributed to both freeman Jean Baptiste Deportes/Depatie McKay and North West Company employee Thomas McKay who was also in the area in 1820 (Schlesser, p. 15). No physical remains have been traced. The records are too sparse to recall individuals who worked from the site but this site became a well-known gathering point for those trappers going between Fort Vancouver and the trapping areas of northern California.

SS: Schlesser; Douglas Co. Parks/Douglas Co. Museum sign

2. Desportes' Camp, 1826-?

This second Umpqua River site was set up in or before 1826 by Jean Baptiste Desportes/Depatie McKay along with Chief Trader John McLeod. According to historian Norman Dennis Schlessler, it was possibly situated on Parrot Creek not far from present day Roseburg. Alexander McLeod was there in December 1826 but he and his party would have been visitors and as such, no list follows of people who worked out of the site.

J.S: Schlessler

Fort Umpqua (HBC) 1836-1852

IMAGE 128 Fort Umpqua, Google Maps, 2010.

Fort Umpqua, the most permanent of its kind in the area, lasted sixteen years. The site, chosen by long-time area resident Jean Baptiste Gagnier, was on the south banks of the Umpqua River about thirty to forty feet above the river bed on a fertile bench and was later approved by William Glenn Rae (Schlessler, p. 16). As the site, a quarter mile above the mouth of Elk Creek opposite old Work's camp, had sufficient ground for raising food, construction commenced.

The HBC records are thin, but one of the best glimpses we get of the post is in the following year on August 22nd, 1837 when American missionaries “were made welcome to all the comforts the place afforded” (Hines, Oregon: Its History, p. 98).

This fort, or rather trading post, stands on the south bank of the Umpqua river, on a little plain comprising about two hundred acres of land, thirty of which are under cultivation. It is forty miles from the Pacific ocean and advantageously situated for the purposes for which it was established, namely, the collection of beaver and other furs from the Indians along the coast and in the interior. The fort itself consists of three or four little log huts built on three sides of a square, and covered with cedar bark. These huts are stockaded by poles set in the ground, and rising twelve feet high, and at two opposite corners of the enclosure thus formed, there were two bastions commanding all sides of the fort, and containing means for the defense of the establishment against the attacks of the Indians who were frequently quite troublesome in this region (Hines, Oregon: Its History, p. 98).

In the first few years, Fort Umpqua was relatively self sustaining with forty acres under cultivation and it became fairly prosperous bringing in furs (FtVanCB 23, fo. 12d-13). For much of the post's life, J. B. Gagnier, who had married locally, became an itinerant trader, going outside the post to trade. The rest of the post was run by a clerk and five to seven other (labourers, a carpenter, and a cooper). However, for untraced reasons, natives besieged the post in 1839 but left after a few were wounded in the skirmish (Hines, Oregon: Its History, p. 98). In 1845, the Company recognized the U.S. jurisdiction below the Columbia in return for the right of the Company to collect debts in the American territory and later on, the post, which had become a mere trading station, helped supply American settlers. Still, in the 1850s, when the stockades were taken down leaving only the dwelling, barns and out houses, the farmland was still in “a fine state of cultivation” (Bancroft, History of the Northwest, p. 708). On November 15, 1851 (FtVanCB 39, fo. 95), the dwelling house and kitchen were destroyed by fire (FtVanCB 39, 103), probably taking many HBC records with it, and consequently Thomas Redsult, the storekeeper was discharged on Nov. 4, 1852. Johnson George King, who had ordered in from London numerous books had been let go the month before (Oliphant, "The Library of a Fur Trader" p. 30-32) and headed off to Australia. Jean Baptiste Gagnier chose to settle with his family on the coast. The following year, the land and cattle, which had often been shot while they belonged to the HBC, were turned over to a Mr. Chapman who finally took it over in a Donation Land Claim (Schlessner, p. 34).

Managers of Fort Umpqua, 1837-1855:

James Birnie	clerk	1837-1838
Jean Baptiste Gagnier	interpreter	1838-1843
Paul Fraser	clerk	1843-1844
	Chief Trader	1844-1845
William McBean	clerk	1845-1846
Jean Baptiste Gagnier	interpreter	1846-1851
King, Johnson G.	clerk and surgeon	1851-1853
Robert Tod	post master	1853-1855

Complement of personnel at Fort Umpqua, 1836-1852:

Aliva; Anderson, Robert; Ariohonianta, André; Askitt, Norman; Baker, Joe; Beauchemin, Baptiste; Beauchemin, Edward; Beaulieu, Joseph; Chappendale, William; Collie, Henry; Desjardines, Jean Baptiste; Desriviers, Pierre; Fisette, Charles; Fraser, John [a]; Gagnier, Jean Baptiste; Harvey, Andrew; Henry, Norman; Jeremie (Dinant), Jean; Kahoorie; Kaikuaahine; Kanaikalua; Keane; Keroha; Kenrick, John; Kercha; King, Johnson G.; Jones; King, Johnson G.; Kipling, Thomas; Konea; Lambert, Felix; Lorimier (Martineau), Michel; McAskill, Norman; McDonald, Donald; McGillivray, Hector; McKay, John [e]; McKay, Kenneth; McKay, Malcolm?; McKay, Murdoch; McIsaac, Allen; Montigny (Montgomery), Narcisse; Mytie; Nahoa; Pambrun, Thomas; Pariseau, Pierre; Peers, Henry Newsham Puahelo, Jem; Raby (Payen), Abraham; Rattine; Redsull, Thomas; Roi (Portelance), Olivier; Tamoree, Joe; Teela; Timeoy [b]

*PS: HBCA YFASA 6; YFDS 16-22; FtVanASA 4-17; FtVanCB 23, fo. 12d-13 James Douglas' Oct. 14, 1849 Fort Vancouver letter to Governor and Committee; FtVanCB 39, fo. 95 J. Ballenden's Dec. 20, 1851 Fort Vancouver letter to A. Barclay; FtVanCB 39, fo. 103 J. Ballenden's Jan. 21, 1852 Fort Vancouver letter to A. Barclay; HBCA Fort Umpqua compiled post history; PPS: Hines, Oregon, Its History; Schlessner, p. 16; SS: Evans; Bancroft, History of the Northwest; Bancroft, History of Oregon; Oliphant, "The Library of A Fur Trader"*

Coastal Posts

1. Fort Nisqually (HBC-PSAC) 1833-1870
2. Cowlitz Farm (PSAC) 1839-1857
3. Fort Victoria (HBC) 1843-1860s
4. Nanaimo (HBC) 1852-1861
5. Fort Rupert (HBC) 1849-1883
6. Fort McLoughlin (HBC) 1833-1843
7. Fort Simpson [Nass] (HBC) 1831-1911
8. Fort Stikine (HBC) 1840-1849
9. Fort Taku (HBC) 1840-1843

1.
Fort Nisqually (HBC-PSAC), 1833-1870

IMAGE 129 Fort Nisqually, A-04330, courtesy of Royal BC Museum, BC Archives.

Fort Nisqually began as a fur collection post strategically placed at the end of Puget Sound where it meets a Columbia River shortcut commonly called the Cowlitz Portage, roughly the route of today's Interstate 5 highway. The general area was proposed as early as 1830 to take advantage of agriculture and timber potentials and to possibly replace the awkwardly situated Fort Vancouver (G. Simpson, Fur Trade, p. 322). A storage shed was built on the beach in 1832, likely following negotiations with the local Sequalitchew village beside which it was built. The visibility of the HBC shed would have provided a visible mutual security to both the Sequalitchew and the HBC (Carpenter, Fort Nisqually, p. 36). The following year in May (Dickey), post construction was begun on the flat grassy area on top of the bluff to the south of the creek following the standard pattern of HBC posts with stockades, bastions, kitchen, officer's house, labourers' dwellings, stores and shops and trade shops. It would have served a fur-trade function for the first part of the first decade but crop raising and livestock management began as well as part of the diversification of the HBC, taking advantage of the grasslands in the low-lying Nisqually bottoms.

The lives of the HBC servants at the post reflected a diminishment of fur related duties and progressively more agricultural duties. This would not have been a problem for those Canadians from Lower Canada who still maintained connections with the old seigneurial system where agriculture played a major role.

In 1839 with the decline of the fur trade and the HBC Russian American Company Agreement to provide food to Russian America, the Puget Sound Agricultural Company was established, changing the complexion of the post. To accommodate this, a second replacement site was constructed in 1843 about a mile to the east of the first fort site on flat land on the southern bank of the Sequalitchew Creek at a point about a half-mile above the area where the ravine begins to slope to the sea. While they built the usual post buildings there appeared to be no reason for a defensive structure but a lone bastion was built just in case. Now, PSAC farms (Kull Kullee, Muck, Puyallup, Sastuc, Spaheuh, Steilacoom, Tenalquot, Tlithlow, Whyatchie and Yelm) spread over several square miles (Crooks, Past Reflections). As the lives of the workers at the various sites became wholly focused on agricultural production, a different type of person was hired although many from the old fur trade days made the transition.

A new reality took place in the 1840s and tensions grew after the drawing of the international border. Because of the influx of settlers and the measles epidemic, stockades were finally erected late 1848 or early 1849 (S. A. Anderson, The Physical Structure, 112-113). The first recorded challenge came on May 1, 1849 when a group of natives threatened the post.

Tensions rose again in 1855 with the general growing resistance of the native peoples but the Fort Nisqually servants and posts were relatively unscathed leading some to believe that the HBC was complicit in the uprising. The second site lasted into the 1860s.

Many of the later workers at the post are not covered in this study. However, some, like Jimmy Scarth, a ship designer and builder who made his way into the HBC via India, chose to live out his life at Nisqually, choosing, like many others, a native wife.

Life at the post carried on until May 1870 when it was purchased by PSAC clerk Edward Huggins. Huggins, recognizing the historical value of the post, went on to become one of the founding members of the Washington State Historical Society.

IMAGE 130 Fort Nisqually artifacts recovered from first Fort Nisqually site. Photograph by author, 1991.

Hudson's Bay Company and Puget Sound Agriculture Company Employees of Fort Nisqually and surrounding farms from 1833-1870

Managers of Fort Nisqually, 1833-1870:

Francis Heron	Chief Trader	1833-1834
William Kittson	clerk	1834-1840
Alexander C. Anderson	clerk	1840-1841
Joseph Thomas Heath		1841
William Henry McNeill	Chief Trader	1841-1842
Angus McDonald [a]	appr. clerk	1841-1842
	clerk/postmaster	1842-1843
Tolmie, William Fraser	clerk & surgeon	1843-1847
	Chief Trader	1847-1855
	C. F., Agent PSAC	1855-1859
*	*	*
Edward Huggins	clerk	1859-1870

Complement of personnel who worked for both the HBC and PSAC at Fort Nisqually, 1833-1860:

Allard, Joseph; Allard, Ovid; Anderson, Alexander C.; Atkinson, William; Badayac (Laplane), Pierre; Bates, Thomas; Bayfield, Charles; Beauvais, Pierre; Borabora, George; Bottineau, Basil; Boulanger, Charles; Bourgeau, Silvan; Brown, William; Carless, Joseph; Charbonneau, Joseph; Chartier, Antoine; Chalifoux, Jean Baptiste; Collette, Octave; Cooper, Thomas; Cournoyer, Edouard; Cowie; Cush; Daines, Henry; Delonie, Louis Henry; Fannons, Dominique; Finlayson, Roderick, Jr.; Forrest, Charles; Goudie, James; Gullion, Charles; Harber, George; Hayward, George; Honnu; Hudson, William; Jolibois, Baptiste; Kalama; Kaneoukai; Keavéhaccow; Kennedy, Frederick W.; Kittson, William; Lafleur, Jean Baptiste; Lagace, Pierre Sr.; Laowala; Latour (Ballard), Louis; Lavalle, Martial; Leclair, Louis; Legg, William; Lepain, Abraham; L'Hussier (Lucien), Antoine; Linklater, Thomas; Logan, Kenneth; McRae, John; McDonald, Anawiscum; McDonald, Angus [a]; McDonald, Angus [c]; McDonald, Murdoch [b]; McFaddin, James; McLeod, Ewan (Huey); McLeod, John [d]; McLeod, Murdoch [c]; McPhail, John; Millar, James [c]; Nahoua; Napahay (Alick); Nouhee; Ohia; Ouvre, Jean Baptiste; Paquet, Jean Baptiste [a]; Pin, Joseph; Poopoo; Presse, François; Puili; Quesnel, Amable; Rivard (Huard), Jean; Rocher, Joseph; Ross, Charles Jr.; Ross, John; Ross, Walter Phipps; Roy, Thomas; Sagohaneuchta, Louis; St. Martin, Sauveur; Savard, Joseph; Scarth, James; Slocum, Richard; Spenser, Edward; Taeenanui; Tapou, Joseph; Thibeault, Joseph; Tod, John; Toopanehe; Trudelle, Louis; Turgon, Michel; Venn, James; Vizina, Simon; Wahaila; Williams, John [a];

Complement of personnel who worked exclusively for PSAC at Fort Nisqually but whose bios are not included:

Arioha; Aucock, John; Audey, Peter; Audey, William; Barnes, Henry; Barr, George; Bastien, Isaac; Bastien, Louis; Beinston, Adam; Beinston, William; Bourdon, Joseph; Bull, John; Butler, Peter; Carre, Jean Baptiste; Cheesman, William; Child, Thomas; Chinook; Class, James; Cross, William; Daly, Robert; Daniels, George; Dean, Thomas Aubrey; Dean, George; Dean, Thomas; Edgar, John; Edwards, George; Ehoo; Fannons, Dominique, Jr.; Flett, John; Gale, John; Gohome; Gorridge, Alfred; Gravelle, Narcisse; Grieg, William; Gwakany; Hoare, Edward; Hoolio; Huggins, Edward; Johnson, John [c]; Johnson, Charles; Kahannui; Kahili; Kalikeeney; Kelocha; Kingdom, John; Koemi, Sam; Kuphai; Lagace, Charles; Lagace, Peter Jr.; Lapoitre, Jean Baptiste; Larson, Peter; Ledoux, Louis (Daunt); Linklater, John; Lord, Richard; Louttit, William; Low, Jacob; McLean, Charles; McNeill, Alfred; Martineau, Bazil; Mathe, Eloise; Matthew, Frances; Miztucasvie, William; Moar, John Spenser Logan; Montgomery, John E. [a]; Mour, Henry; Mowat, Henry; Niaupalu; Nelson, Matthew; Northover, William; Palmer, George; Perry, Henry; Rabjohn, Fred; Ross, George; St. Martin, André; Sales, W.; Sanjoy, Jose; Shearer, Edward; Skinner, Ambrose W.; Tamaree; Tawaii, William; Taylor, Samuel; Tekowe; Thornhill, Richard; Wilson, Peter; Wooden, M. D.; Wren, Charles; Young, William

HBCA HBCCont; YFASA 13-33; YFDS 5-23; FtVanASA 3-17; FtVanCB 4-43; FtVicAB 1-6; FtVicASA 1-17; FtVicDS 1; FtVicCB 1-30; FtNisCBout 1-3; FtNisCBin 1, 30; YFDS 7-23; PSACCB 1, 2; PSACAB 8-32; PSACAB37-39; HBCA Fort Nisqually compiled post history; BCA PJ PSACReport; HL Nisqually 1,2 PPS: Dickey; Wilkes, Narrative of the United; SS: S. A. Anderson, The Physical Structure; Carpenter, Fort Nisqually; Carpenter, “A Source Book”; Crooks, Past Reflections; Galbraith, “The British and Americans”

2. Cowlitz Farm (HBC-PSAC), 1839-1860s

While not exactly a coastal post, the Cowlitz farm served a very close relationship with the coastal post of Fort Nisqually. The Hudson's Bay Company grazing lands, also known as the Cowlitz farm were set up in 1839 under the aegis of the Puget Sound Agriculture Company on the east end of Cowlitz prairie on Puget Sound as a feeder to Forts Nisqually and Vancouver. In 1838 a Catholic mission was set up there and in 1841 it became a place of settlement for seven families of James Sinclair's party which had arrived from Red River. The farm, five miles by two miles on the east end of Cowlitz prairie, consisted of three hundred acres of upland prairie with a clay loam that was good for growing cereals. The many outbuildings and stables and a two storey granary 125 feet by sixty feet, were run by one officer (Chief Trader) or a post master and twenty-two to twenty-four other personnel. Some long time fur traders at the end of their careers chose this as an easier job. Others only briefly touched the fur trade before working on the farm.

Managers of Cowlitz farm, 1838-1857:

McLoughlin, Joseph	in charge	1838-1839
Tod, John;	Chief Trader	1839-1840
Ermatinger, Francis;	Chief Trader	1842-1843
Logan, Robert	post master	1843-1844
Forrest, Charles	post master	1845-1846
Logan, Robert;	post master	1845-1848
Roberts, George B.;	clerk	1846-1851
Peers, Henry N.	clerk	1851-1853
	Chief Trader	1853-1857

Complement of personnel who worked at Cowlitz Farm as well as for the HBC, 1839-1857:

Awetaronquash, Louis; Badayac [Laplanche], Pierre; Bergevin, Joseph; Bouchard, Olivier; Carrier, Onizime; Chalifoux, Jean Baptiste; Couturier, Olivier; Cottenoire, Michel; Davie, Malcolm; Dumet, Moysse; Duperron, Pierre; Durval, Denis; Fevrier [Laramie], Benjamin; Friday; Garant, Augustin; Gilbeault, Hilaire; Honolulu; Hoolapa; Iomanno; Johnson, Alexis; Joyalle, Etienne; Kai; Kalama; Kamaikaloo; Kamaka; Kehoroua; Konea; Labelle, Isaac; Lagg, William; Lahowbalow; Lavalle, Martial; Long, Joseph; Loziere, Ignace; McDougall, John; McLoughlin, Joseph; McLeod, Allan; McNeill, William Jr.; McPherson, Angus; Maalo; Mowat, Andrew; Mowee; Nemane [Taylor]; Nouhee; Pa-ay-lay; Palupalu; Petit [Gobin], Antoine; Piette [Faniant], Francois; Pike, Jonas; Plomondon, Simon; Punebaka; Raby [Payon], Abraham; Rocher, Joseph; St. Gelin, Alexis; Simpson, John; Taoutoo; Tarpaulin; Teaheererey; Towello; Towhay.

Complement of personnel who worked exclusively for PSAC (not in bios), 1839-1857:

Bill; Bolduc, Francois; Bourdon, Joseph; Bull, John; Daigneau, Baptiste; Denoyer, Francois; Ehoo; Ehu; Guerin [Lajoie], Laurant; Hoolio; Johnson, John [c]; Lapoitre, Jean Baptiste; Leask, Henry; Leclair, David; Leclair, Dominique; Leclair, Louis [b]; Ledoux [Daunt], Louis; Logan, Robert; Mamala; Marro; Matthe, Elois; Nahuaolu; Paddock, James; Roots, Jem; Rowawa; St. Martin, Andre; Sicard [Carufel], Xavier; Sutherland, John; Tekowe.

PS: HBCA post history; YFDS 9-23 PPS: Simpson, Narrative, p. 178; Huggins, "Reminiscences of Puget", p. 165-66

3.

Fort Victoria (HBC), 1843-1864
(aka Fort Camosun [to August 1843], Fort Albert [Aug-Dec. 1843])

IMAGE 131 Fort Victoria, A-00903, courtesy of Royal BC Museum, BC Archives.

Fort Victoria, so named after the reigning English Queen, was set up on the south end of Vancouver Island to function as a depot for Pacific trade and to replace abandoned Forts McLoughlin and Taku which could be better serviced from ships. As well, as a depot it was an alternative site to Fort Vancouver prior to the drawing of the international boundary in 1846. It was also an effort by the HBC, in a time when the fur trade was in decline, to assert the claim of southern Vancouver Island as British territory as the southern part of the island fell below the 49th parallel. Always situated in one location, the site of Fort Victoria, in the middle of present-day Victoria, British Columbia, began operations in 1843. Within its 300 x 330 sq. feet and eighteen feet high stockade, it administered from its eight buildings supplies to HBC operations with several co-managers and around thirty personnel.

In 1849, when the HBC took over the additional function of settlement of the colony of Vancouver Island, large scale farms were set up in Victoria and Esquimalt, to be administered by both the HBC and PSAC. As the HBC administered Fort Victoria, often paying for labour in kind rather than with money, historians still argue just how effective the HBC was at running a currency based colony (Pethick, Victoria, The Fort, p. 112; Mackie, The Colonization of). However, a large number of retired servants chose to settle in the area, obviously drawn by the salubrious climate and the draw of old fur trade friends. Operations from the fort were effectively finished by 1860 and the post was in a decrepit state. Any association with the fur trade quickly diminished with news of the 1858 Fraser River gold rush on the adjacent mainland and Victoria literally exploded overnight from about seven hundred people to around thirty thousand arriving to be equipped on the way to seek gold.

Although fur trader James Douglas was associated with many sites in both the New Caledonia and Columbia Departments of the HBC, he is probably best remembered for ending his career in Fort Victoria. There, as the Governor of Vancouver Island and, later, of mainland British Columbia, he would stroll the streets in his finest, sometimes being ridiculed behind his back by British colonial immigrants who had no idea of the complexity of his full life. Many retired members of the HBC including the wife of the post's builder Charles Ross, were given large chunks of land in the Victoria area which were, over their remaining years, subdivided and sold off. Ordinary servants chose land further out.

Not all officers enjoyed the immediate largesse of the Company for by 1860 Chief Trader John McAdoo Wark lamented his own conditions as well as those of the buildings:

I am now living in the Fort, in the rooms which were formerly the land office but I understand the pickets will soon be pulled down and I presume the old houses will be removed and I do not know where we will live. It is certainly time something was done with these old buildings for they are in a most dilapidated condition. Bad as the houses at Vancouver were, they were a paradise to these (WSA Wark).

In 1864, two years after the city of Victoria was incorporated, the old fort was demolished but the HBC presence continued in the city in the form of a department store. Victoria took on the tone of a respectable English town, replete with private schools.

(Not listed are the farms associated with Fort Victoria: Constance Cove farm, Craigflower Farm, Esquimalt Farm, Uplands Farm, and Viewfield Farm. As well, the San Juan Island Belle Vue Farm with its eleven sub-farms are not listed.)

Co-Managers at Fort Victoria, 1843-1858:

Charles Ross	Chief Trader	1843-1845
Roderick Finlayson	clerk	1844-1850
	Chief Trader	1850-1855
Dugald McTavish	clerk	1845-1846
	Chief Trader	1846-1847
J. W. McKay	clerk	1849-1850/1851-1852
J. H. Benson	clerk	1850-1851
Douglas, James	Chief Factor	1849-1852
George Simpson	clerk	1851-1852
C. Griffin	clerk	1853-1855

Complement of personnel at Fort Victoria, 1843-1858:

Alani, Joseph [a]; Assincharu, Louis; Bahia; Barthelemy, George; Bates, Thomas [a]; Bayley, Charles A.; Bayley, Thomas; Beauchamp, Joseph Ovide; Ben; Benson, Alfred R.; Blundell, John; Bole, John; Bond, Charles; Bottineau, Bazil; Brown, Peter; Cathie, James; Cesar; Champagne, Joseph; Chapman, John; Charbonneau, Joseph; Charpentier, Joseph; Clap, Louis P.; Cluet, Joseph; Cole, Captain; Cole, Philip; Cole, Thomas; Corbin, Israel; Cote, Francois Xavier; Couturier, Pierre; Crittle, John; Dean, Thomas; Deroche, Charles; Douglas, James; Dredge, Thomas; Dubeau, Louis; Dupuis, Jean Baptiste; Dupuis, Louis; Dutnall, John; Ebony; Elliott, Jonathan; Faito; Fallardeau, Louis; Fenton, John; Field, Thomas; Finlay, John; Finlayson, Roderick; Firth, Robert; Fish, Charles; Flett, John [d]; Foot, William; Francis, James; Friday; Gagnon, Antoine; Gariepy, Cassimir; Golledge, Richard; Gorridge, Alvey; Gravelle, Francois; Gray, Joseph; Grinham, Thomas; Gullion, Charles; Gunn, David; Guthrie, William; Hainault [Dechamp], Henry; Halcro, Gideon; Hall, Thomas; Hanham, George; Harkness, William; Harry, William; Harvey, George; Harvey, Robert; Hawkins, George; Helmcken, John S.; Holland, George; Horie, John; Humphreys, John; Hutson, William; Iasitayerie, Alexis; Irvine, Robert; Jeal, Herbert; Jupp, James; Irvine, John; Kaau, John; Kahaloukulu; Kahoorie; Kamackeha; Kamai; Kanhetara, Ignace; Kanome; Karohunana, Ignace; Keave [a]; Keave, Tom; Kealoha; Kee; Kehou; Konea; Kuana; Kuawaa; Labonte, Charles or Michel; Lafleur, Michel; Lane, James; Lecuyer, Francois[a]; Lowe, Jacob; Lymon [Lemon], John; McArthur, Neil McLean; McDonald, Angus [c]; McDonald, Angus [c]; McDonald, William F.; McDougall, Hugh; McKay, Joseph William; McKenzie, George; McNeill, William Jr.; McPhail, Angus; Maalo; Marro; Martin, Norman [a]; Mason, George; Maurice, Joseph; Merriman, Peter; Metcalf, William; Minie, Frederique; Moore, Samuel; Morel, Leon; Nahoua; Naukanna; Nehanoui; Newbird, James; Niven, Charles A.; Ohule; Okaia; Omai; Oneaste, Lazard; Oumtany, Thomas; Paddock, James; Paennau, Joe; Pakee; Parsons, William; Peltier, Louis; Peter; Pike, Caleb; Pike, Edward; Pike, William; Porter, Robert; Raymond, Camil; Ribbins, Richard; Robertson, Samuel; Ross, Charles; Ross, John; Sagoyawatha, Thomas; St. Gre, Gabriel; Sam; Satakarata, Francois; Satakarata, Louis; Short, Eli; Sims, Walter; Simpson, George, Jr.; Skea, David; Smith, Richard; Smith, Thomas; Staines, Rev.; Stockand, James; Stone, Edward; Tahowna; Tarpaulin; Thomas, John; Trudelle, Louis; Turcot, Pierre; Vautrin, Jean Baptiste; Venn, John; Wain, Henry; Weynton, Stephenson; Wickham, Benjamin; Wiles, Emanuel; Williams, Alfred; Williams, Thomas; Work, John; Yates, James IMAGE 132 Nanaimo Bastion, A-04341, courtesy of Royal BC Museum, BC Archives.

PS: HBCA FtVicAB 1-6; FtVicASA 1-39; FtVicPJ 1; FtVicDS 1; FtVicCB 1-30; YFDS 14-23; HBCA Fort Victoria compiled post history; BCA AngCAVic; StAndC; StJohVic; Vic. Daily Times; Vic. Gazette; WSA Wark, John M. Wark's July 6, 1860 Victoria letter to E. Huggins, Reel 2; Van-PL Colonist; Mallandaine PPS: Fawcett; HBRS XXXII; JS: Lamb, "The Founding of Fort"; Lamb, "Some Notes on the"; Lamb, "The Governorship of"; Lugin; Pethick, Victoria, The Fort; Van Kirk, "Tracing the Fortunes"; Mackie, "The Colonization of"

4.

Nanaimo (HBC) 1852-1861

Nanaimo gets only a brief mention here because, although it was an HBC site even with a lone bastion, it never really had a role in the fur trade. Its primary function was to extract coal and it brought out miners from England for that purpose. They are not included in the biographies.

In December 1854, the complement of men working at Nanaimo was:

Mining Department

1 manager
28 miners

1 engine assistant
3 carpenters

1 blacksmith
1 blacksmith assistant

1 millwright

5 labourers

1 clerk in charge
1 interpreter
1 store man

1 carpenter
5 labourers

1 school master

PS: HBCA VICMC; FtVicCB 5b, 7, 10, 11, 12, 14; BCA PJ NanCorr; NanJ SS: Norcross, The Warm Land; Norcross, Nanaimo Retrospective; Norcross, Company on the; P. M. Johnson, A Short History of; Ralston

A black and white photograph showing a steep, rocky hillside. On the left, there is a small wooden building with a dark, gabled roof. To the right, a larger wooden building with vertical siding is visible. A wooden staircase with a railing leads up the hillside towards the larger building. The ground is covered in rocks and debris. The sky is light and overcast.

Fort Rupert on north east Vancouver Island was a failure as a post. High grade coal, found there in 1836 by Peter Arthur the engineer of the steamer Beaver, was ignored for thirteen years until the HBC decided to exploit it. Everything that could go wrong - did. A site appears to have been negotiated with little effort but the expectation of miners from an industrial society, being brought out from England, did not mix well with that of the HBC servant class, which had always functioned under HBC paternalism. As well, opportunities at this late date were opening up elsewhere. Consequently, after their arrival at the site in September 1849, the English colliers rebelled at being assigned simple labouring jobs considering that the Company had broken contract with them. It was hard even for the HBC to adjust to, as the Fort Rupert clerk was reminded in August 1851 that he was not running a fur trade establishment (FtVicCB 3, fo. 119d).

The miners could not get used to the idea of HBC monopoly blocking them from freely trading with the Indians, especially when the Indians gave them salmon or other gifts, even as compensation for stolen property (Diar-Rem Muir). Native feelings were incensed when their conciliatory offers of compensation were rebuffed.

IMAGE 134 Fort Rupert's surviving chimney.
Photograph by author, 1990.

By May 1850 discipline had broken down to such an extent that rum, fighting and reckless shooting were becoming commonplace. Miners were jailed.

To further complicate matters, on May 23, 1850, the US vessel Massachusetts arrived and immediately created unrest by spreading stories of the riches to be gained in California. When the vessel England arrived to recoal, it was seen as a vehicle to the riches of California. Consequently, several deserters from the HBC vessel Norman Morison found refuge on it but when they saw the approach of the steamer HBC Beaver, three fled into the woods. A reward of ten blankets per person was offered for the return of the men although they may not have been the trigger for the calamity that followed. The frightened deserters' behaviour in rebuffing any friendly nature gesture by brandishing an ax and throwing stones, resulted in them being killed. Punishment for the killings was brutal for, in spite of native offers of compensation for the killings, their village was shot up. In July 1851, this was followed up by an attack on the strongly fortified camp that the Nehwittis had built on a small island in Bull Harbour (Helmcken, p. 306-24).

Because of poisoned relations with the natives, poor quality coal and a less than co-operative work force, the mining at Fort Rupert was abandoned. The operations were moved to Nanaimo during 1852-1853 (FrVicCB 6, p. 178) and a smaller post was retained on the old site. The post was run by Robert Hunt who, after the HBC withdrew from the operation, purchased it and a member of the Hunt family continued to run it until well into the twentieth century.

Paradoxically, the post ultimately proved to be a boon to the local Kuakuitl [Kwakwaka'wakw]. A prolific wood carving culture, local carvers who customarily painted their totems white (crushed shell, lime), black (charcoal and fish oil), blue (blue clay or berries) and red (vermillion) could now use oil based paints which came in a multitude of colours. Consequently the colourful totems became so widespread that the generic totem pole image comes from this northern Vancouver Island area, with a little help from the HBC.

Managers of Fort Rupert, 1849-1882:

William Henry McNeill,	Chief Trader	1849-1850
George Blenkinsop	clerk	1850-1852
John Work	Chief Factor	1852-1853
George Blenkinsop	clerk	1853-1856
	Chief Trader	1856-1857
Hamilton Moffatt	clerk	1857-1859
*	*	*
William Mitchell	ship's master	1859-1860
Herbert G. Lewis	clerk	1860-1862
Hamilton Moffatt	clerk	1862-1864
Pym Nevins Compton	clerk	1864-1867
William A. Mouat	Chief Trader	1867-1871
Robert Hunt	post master	1871-1882

Complement of Fort Rupert personnel who also had connections to the fur trade, 1849-1882:

IMAGE 135 Fort Rupert sign: "Historic Site. First Coal Mine. The discovery of coal led to the building of fort Rupert in 1849. The coal was poor & there were labour problems including BC's first strike. When better deposits were found at Nanaimo, the mine was abandoned." Photograph by author, 1990.

Balau; Balthazard, André; Beardmore, Charles Owen; Bell, Charles; Blenkinsop, George; Bottineau, Bazil; Cabana, Francois Xavier; Cedras, Joseph; Cole, Captain; Corsey, William; Couturier, Pierre; D'Arche, Joseph; Deroche, Joseph; Fallardeau, Louis; Ferron, Adolphus; Fortier, Jean Baptiste; Gaborie, Joseph; Godin, Joseph; Helmcken, John S.; Holland, James; Horne, Adam; Hunt, Robert; Kainoalau; Kaiwaiwai; Kanackanui; Kanome; Karehoua; Karoooha; Kealoha; Kimo; Kuawaa; Lagarde, Joseph; Lagg, William; Lagrange, Godfroi; Lagrange, Jean Baptiste; Laperdoux blanche, Pierre; Lavoie, Maxime; Lebine, Leon; Linklater, James; Mahoy; Martin, Jonathan; Moffatt, Hamilton; Montret, Louis; Morel, Leon; Nahoua; Narimma; Okaia; Oteokorie, Louis; Parente, Louis; Pelland, Elie; Raine, Benjamin; Robillard, Joseph; St. Arnaude, Joseph; Tahenna; Tahouay; Vaureur, Onesemie; Walia

Complement of personnel at Fort Rupert: those sponsored settlers and others who were working briefly to pay off debts and are not followed with biographies:

Beacheno, Edmund; Clarke, Robert; Finlay, Christopher; Frichette, Pierre; Friday; Isbister, William; Johnson, George; Leach, Peter; Malcolm, John; Mills, George; Payne, Charles; Pearse, Edward; Phillips, John; Preston, William; Ritch, William; Ricketts, Samuel; Sampson, Henry; Sampson, William; Sonart, George; Stove, James; Whiffen, Richard; Willoughby, John

Complement of personnel at Fort Rupert: those hired exclusively for the purposes of mining coal and are not followed with biographies:

Dunsmuir, Robert; French, Adam; French, Archibald; Gilmour, Boyd; Hunter, Andrew [a]; Hunter, John; McGregor, John; Muir, Andrew; Muir, Archibald; Muir, John, Sr.; Muir, John, Jr.; Muir, Michael; Muir, Robert; Quggley, Arthur; Smith, John [a]; Walker, Edward; Walker, William

HBCA FtRupPJ 1; FtRupM; YFDS 20-23 James Douglas' Aug. 15, 1851 letter to George Blenkinsop ; FtVicCB 3, fo. 119d; YFDS 6, , p. 178 James Douglas' Mar. 14, 1853 Fort Victoria letter to Governor and Council of Northern Department; BCA Diar-Rem Muir PPS: Helmcken, p. 105-07, p. 135, p. 306-24; JS: Ralston; Newsome

6.
Fort McLoughlin (HBC) 1833-1843
(aka Milbanke)

IMAGE 136 Bella Bella with Fort McLoughlin enclosure, B-03570, courtesy of Royal BC Museum, BC Archives.

The area of Milbanke Sound on the British Columbia coast had been a high traffic area for trade for the Heiltsuk-Bella Bella peoples in the maritime fur trade from the late eighteenth century. During this time and later they vigorously defended their traditional trading rights. A hint of this took place in 1805. On June 13th of that year in Spiller Passage, perhaps tiring of the amount of traffic, they took the usual pilfering, or exacting of tolls from maritime vessels in their own territory up a notch when, unprovoked, they attacked the Boston ship Atahualpa and killed the captain, nine of his men and injured nine more (CU-B log of Atahualpa).

It was with this knowledge that Fort McLoughlin was cautiously built in 1833 on an Island near Bella Bella on the east side of Campbell Island by Donald Manson along with forty French Canadians and Kanakas with the Dryad offering protection as they were building (Diar-Rem Anderson, p. 5). No written record exists for the negotiation of the site although it was most certainly done. The post, whose construction began in May of that year was to act as both a supply fort for the maritime fur trade and a fur trading post and was to be manned by twelve men.

Inside the stockades, measuring 150 feet by 140 feet, a variety of buildings were constructed of heavy timber (W. F. Tolmie, p. 258). A cautionary lookout was put in place.

Inside the fort, round the pickets and about four feet and a half from the top, is a gallery run round the fort. Here a watchman is continually kept on the lookout, and a one-pound swivel placed over the gate: this protects the gateway (J. Dunn, The Oregon Territory, p. 177).

Still, not all employees exercised caution. In 1833, Joseph Richard, who had been punished as an act of discipline, went into hiding outside the stockades in a nearby native camp. As a way of trying to get Richard back from the village, men from the post seized the “well disposed” local chief Tyest (Diar-Rem Anderson, p. 9) and held him as hostage. The problem was that they had to go outside the walls to get water and when doing so were attacked. One man received an ax blow to the shoulder. Another did not make it back but was exchanged for the chief (FtMcLouPJ, fo. 1-3; J. Dunn, The Oregon Territory, p. 167-70).

Our man was produced, clad by the Indians in an entirely new suit of broadcloth and we clothed our hostage with a blanket and some other articles of clothing. Some years afterwards we discovered that our man, Mr. Richards had been stoned to death by some boys, who had promised to take him to a village, but they insisted upon taking one piece after another to his clothing, until he at last refused to comply with their demands, then they boys stoned him to death. He was a deserter from the fort (Diar-Rem Anderson, p. 10-II).

According to John Work in September 1835, the native discontent arose from the very presence of the HBC which discouraged the presence of the American vessels from which the natives obtained higher prices. As well, the home guard natives no longer received their usual tribute when the interior tribes came right to the post (Work, The Journal of John Work, January, p. 77). The following year, as a precaution against hostilities, visiting trading natives were “kept near the gate and Indian hall; they are not allowed to enter the fort square, with the exception of the chiefs” (Dunn, The Oregon Territory, p. 177-78).

Continued tension, an inhospitable climate, a constant diet of dried salmon and poor harvests from the post’s garden, induced a homesickness in the men and many refused to renew their contracts at the post (Work, The Journal of John Work, January, p. 78). As a result, many Hawaiians were recruited to work in their place.

After some time, however, relations warmed and the natives even supplied potatoes for the fort’s garden. In spite of this, the Fort McLoughlin experiment only lasted a decade for when it was felt that coastal trade could be more efficiently carried out from the decks of the Beaver, the post was abandoned in 1843. The natives reportedly burned whatever was left for the iron nails remaining in the wood.

Ownership was never relinquished for it was reopened in 1873 (Ministry Report) this time only with a smaller trading post but surrounded by a stockade. This post was finally rented out to John Clayton of Bella Coola, for $5.00 a month (Large, Drums and Scalpel, p. 4).

Managers of Fort McLoughlin, 1833-1843:

Manson, Donald	clerk	1833-1839
Kennedy, John	surgeon & clerk	1839-1840
Anderson, Alexander C.	clerk	1840-1841
Ross, Charles	clerk	1841-1843
Francis Ermatinger	Chief Trader	1843

Personnel at Fort McLoughlin, 1833-1834:

Anderson, Robert [a]; Assincharu, Louis; Barthelemy, George; Belgrade, Joseph; Borabora, George; Bottineau, Bazil; Brulez, Jean Baptiste; Burger, George; Caillé (Biscornet), Paschal; Champagne, Joseph; Charbonneau, Antoine; Charley; Chartier, Antoine; Corbiel, Jean Baptiste; Dunn, John Thompson; Dupere, Joseph; Eleahoy; Fleury, Benone; Folster, George; Gagnon, Antoine; Grave, Alexander; Horapapa, John; Kaau, John; Kamakeha; Karohuhana, Ignace; Keekanah; Keharoha; Kipling, Thomas Pisk; L’Ecuyer, François; Levigne, Jean Baptiste; Linklater, Thomas; Long, Joseph; Lymon (Lemon), John; Malois, Fabien; Matte; Mytie; Namaurooa; Omai; Onearste, Lazard; Oroora; Ottehoh; Peannau, Joe; Petit, Jean Baptiste; Popoay; Prévost, Joseph; Quintal (Dubois), Francois; Rappa, Moniday; Richard, Joseph; Roi (Portelance), Olivier; Ross, Charles; Ross, John; Sagoyawatha, Thomas; St. André, Pierre; Tanero; Thibeault, Joachim; Timeoy [a]; Tolmie, William Fraser; Toouyora; Toro.

PS: YU-Bein Clinton; HBCA FtMcLouPJ 1; FtMcLouDR1; FtVanASA 3-7; YFDS 7-13; HBCA Fort McLoughlin compiled post history; BCA Diar-Rem Anderson PPS: Tolmie, Physician and Fur Trader, p. 258-280, 291-320; Work, The Journal of John Work, January; Dunn, The Oregon Territory SS: Large, Drums and Scalpel; Report, July 29, 1982, Ministry of Provincial Secretary and Government Services

7.

Fort Simpson [Nass] (HBC) 1831-1911
(aka Fort Nass, Port Simpson, Lax Kw'alaams)

IMAGE 137 First site of Fort Simpson on Nass River. Photograph by author, 1993.

Fort Simpson, originally situated from 1831-1833 on an impractical toe hold of land near the mouth of the Nass River, was one of the most significant and enduring fur trading posts on the coast. The first site may have seemed logical from a maritime point of view to superintendent of HBC's marine department Captain Aemelius Simpson. It also made some sense from a logistical point of view in that it could intercept furs coming from the interior down the Skeena, Nass, Observatory Inlet and Portland Canal, furs that were destined for awaiting American ships on the coast or even the Russian American Company. The early death of Simpson due to "an Inflammation of the Liver" (HBRS IV, p. 231) resulted in his name eventually being given over to the post. The builders had made the best of what they had as Tolmie noted on Sunday, June 15, 1834:

Several lodges of the Nasse tribe are scattered around the Fort. An excellent path leads from the landing place to the Fort Gate. Within everything is nicely arranged--court macadamized--pathways of cedar logs formed & over the central one extending from the inner gate to the hall door, a broad awning is spread--houses whitewashed outside--Dwelling house covered with cedar shingles which form a very neat roof, wainscoted within (W. F. Tolmie, p. 283).

In spite of this idyllic scene, according to historian Ken Favrholt:

it became apparent that the [first] location was not a good choice -- problems of tides, shifting chanel and sandbars, shallow water and winds hampered the operation of a post dependent on trading ships being able to come close to the fort itself. Lack of good water supply and poor soil for gardening were probably other site factors which prompted the removal of the fort (Favrholt, "Fort Simpson, B.C.", p. 5).

Consequently, the post was closed and moved out to the coast to the tip of the Tsimpsean Peninsula to a location called Lax Kw'alaams or "place of wild roses" (Favrholt, "Fort Simpson, B.C.", p. 5). The actual transition was problematic as the local homeguard Tsimshian, having grown accustomed to such a post in their midst, on September 2, 1834 didn't take kindly to the move, and tried everything to prevent it, even firing guns from the bluffs as the place was being dismantled and carried away (W. F. Tolmie, p. 289-292). Little remains of the old site today except a graveyard, containing such individuals as the first wife of William Henry McNeill.

The second site at Point Maskelyne on the Tsimpsean Peninsula became the major coastal transshipment point between Fort Vancouver and Sitka and even more so when Forts McLoughlin and Taku were closed in 1843. Bolstered by an 1839 signed agreement between the Russian American Company and the HBC to allow trading within Russian American territory it was considered important enough for a physician or surgeon to be permanently located there. A stockade encompassing about three acres contained the usual quarters for about twenty plus workers, working areas and shops. It became a place where families were formed and endured for generations with many children, wives and servants buried on a knoll behind the post. Today many in Lax Kw'alaams (renamed from Port Simpson to its original name) can trace their families back to the days of the HBC fort. It was also a place where Haida, from Massett, Skidegate and Kygarney, Kwatkiutl from Vancouver Island, Haisla from Kitimat, Tlingit from Stikine, Tongass, and Hanya and Tsimshian from the Nass, Skeena and Kitkatla areas all gathered to potlatch, trade and even bargain for slaves. In more than one case, the HBC had to intervene to save individuals from slavery (FtSimp[N]PJ 4, fo. 53d). Still, some were killed at native potlatches (FtSimp[N]PJ 8, fo. 126d). With so many gathering in one location, there were the inevitable conflicts especially with alcohol involved.

With so many groups, there was the inevitable cross-cultural misinterpretation. For example, the natives perceived the Kanakas to be nothing more than slaves (FortSimp[N]PJ 4, fo. 75). The Iroquois sometime considered themselves a cut above the rest and protested when they were not served first (FtSimp[N]PJ 9, fo. 35d-36). If a native person, particularly a woman, was perceived as having cheated against another native group, they were summarily dealt with (FtSimp[N]PJ 3, fo. 122d-123). Above all, the administrator of the post had to rise above this to keep some kind of order at least within the stockade.

IMAGE 138 1868 drawing of Fort Simpson at second site by Emil Teichman from his A Journey to Alaska in the Year 1968, 1925.

The records contain many early childhood deaths, not uncommon for that era. Many were buried in the graveyard. In fact, by 1866, the graveyard had reached maximum capacity and it was difficult to find an area in which a coffin could be placed (FtSimp[N]PJ 9, fo. 119d).

Life at the post carried on in spite of the smallpox epidemic of 1836 (FtSimp[N]PJ 3, fo. 76d-81d) and the measles epidemic of 1848. Edouard Alin acted as school teacher during the weekdays and directed Bible readings in French on Sundays from 1840-1843 and probably for longer periods. The arrival of missionary William Duncan in 1857 gave the curriculum a more Messianic thrust eventually leading the Tsimshian away from Simpson to form their own utopian community at nearby Metlakatla.

Apart from the redistribution (and status) function of potlatches, sub-economies flourished outside of the HBC economic system, even bridging it with native trade. Sometimes the wives who lived within the stockades with the assistance of their husbands pilfered supplies and alcohol which they resold to the natives outside the walls (FtSimp[N]PJ 8, fo. 105d; ibid 8, fo. 142). They were then banished to outside the stockade. Canoe loads of natives with women and girls as young as nine years of age, were taken off to be prostituted in both Victoria and American territories (FtSimp[N]PJ 8, fo. 161).

Fort Simpson was rebuilt in 1859 and closed in 1911, reopened in 1934, and finally, the remaining store was closed in 1954.

Managers of Fort Simpson [Nass], 1831-1850:

Peter Skene Ogden	Chief Factor	1831-1835
James Birnie	clerk	1835-1837
John Work	Chief Trader	1837-1846
	Chief Factor	1846-1849
John F.Kennedy	Chief Factor	1849-1850
John Work	Chief Factor	1850-1852
William H.McNeill	Chief Trader	1852-1859
Hamilton Moffat	Chief Trader	1859-1862; 1864-1866
*	*	*
Robert G. Cunningham		1866-1871
R. H. Hall		1877-1891

Charles W. D. Clifford	1895
George R. Robson	1900-1901
John H. Richdale	1901-1904
James A. Sharp	c.1904-1911
G. P. McColl	1934-1936
W. H. Houston	1936-1939
J. S Nelson	1939-1941
A. W. Scott	1941-1944
D. M. Cuthill	1944-1950
W. G. MacKinnon	1950
R. R. Howlett	1950

Personnel at Fort Simpson, 1821-1866:

Alin, Edouard; Allard, Joseph; Anderson, Robert [a]; Aniusheachte, Louis/Antoine; Arthur, Peter; Asselin, Isidore; Auger, Nicholas/Joseph; Auld, John; Azure, Antoine; Bagnier [Laplante], J. B.; Ballard (Latour), Louis; Balthasard, Andre; Barker; Barnaby, Charles; Bastien, Joseph; Belgarde, Joseph; Belland, Charles; Ben; Benoit, Jean Baptiste; Berentzen, Hans P.; Bibeau, Pierre; Birnie, James; Blanyan, Timothy; Boki; Bolne, Jean Baptiste; Bottineau, Basil; Bouché, George Waccan; Boulanger, Charles; Bourgeau, Silvan; Brouillet, Huypolite; Brulez, Jean Baptiste; Buck, James Dowden; Burdett, Stephen Edmunds; Burger, George; Butt, William Edward; Byniere (Laplante), Jean. Bap.; Cabana, Francois Xavier; Caillé (Biscornet) Paschal; Calder, Peter; Campbell, Alexander; Charbonneau, IMAGE 139 HBC cannon at Fort Simpson. Photograph by author, 1993.

Anntoin; Charron (Ducharmé), Narcisse; Cluet, Charles; Coayyvay; Coleman, William; Colins, Tom; Compton, Pym Nevins; Cook, James; Cook, William [b]; Coppel, John; Corbeil, Jean Baptiste; Corzey, William; Courtemanche, Joseph; Crouch, Joseph; D'Arche, Joseph; Daubin, Olivier; Dauphine, Joseph; Dauphine, Olivier; Desmarais, Goddy; Despard, Joseph; Dobbs, Francis A.; Dubord (Latourelle), Pierre; Dudouaire, Felix; Dupuis, Louis; Emptage, William H.; Engelbretton, Ole; Fahy, Patrick; Faito, George; Fallardeau, Michel; Felix (Palaquin), Antoine; Ferguson, Samuel; Finlayson, Roderick; Fleury, Benone; Fleury, Joseph; Fleury, Michel; Folster, George [b]; Foote, William; Fraser, William; Frobisher, Thomas; Gagnon, Antoine; Garrioch, William L.; Griffin, Charles J.; Guerin, Solimine; Gullion, Charles; Handley, William; Hansen, Anders; Hanson, Ephraim; Hardisty, Joseph W.; Harmes, John; Harmsworth, Henry; Hellerand, Martin L.; Henderson, Alexander York; Henry, Joseph; Horapapa, John; Horn, Adam G.; Jolibois, Jean Baptiste; Kaau, John; Kalua; Kaluahe; Kanackanui; Kanataconda, Jean Baptiste; Karehoua; Karohuhana, Ignace; Karooha; Kateman, Xavier; Kayriow; Kelly, Barney; Kelly, John; Kennedy, Dr. John F.; Kimber, Edward; Kiona; Kipling, Capt. Charles; Kuawaa; Lacroix, Michel; Laderbouche, Pierre; Lagace, Pierre; Lahaie (Jardenier), Louis; Lahaina; Lahowbalow; Lapierre, Jean Bap. [b]; Larsen, Martin; Larson, Ole; Latour (Ballard), Louis; Lattey, Alexander; Leask, James; Lebrun, Hercule; Lecompte, Alex.; Lennon, John; Lepain, Abraham; Levigne, Jean Baptiste; Lozeau, Charles; Loziere, Ignace; Lymon, John; McAulay, Donald; McAulay, John; McAulay, Neil; McDonald, Angus; McDonald, Donald [d]; McDonald, John [e]; McGillivray, Hector; McIver, Norman; McKay, George; McLennan, John; McLeod, John; McNeill, Capt. William H.; Mahoy, Jemmy; Mallette, Joseph; Malois, Fabien; Mamuka, Jem; Manoa, Joe; Manson, Donald; Manson, William; Martel, Augustin; Martel, Joseph; Martin, Charles; Masta, Antoine; Matte; Maurice, Joseph; Maurice, Louis; Mebius, Charles Fred.; Moffatt, Hamilton; Moison, Pierre; Momuto, George; Monk, Edward; Montret, Louis; Morice, Louis; Morison, Robert; Morrison, Thomas; Mousseau, Eustache; Nakahene; Namotto; Napuko, Henry or Harry, Narimma; Narua; Neilson, Johan; Nohiau; Norn, Samuel; Nyoray, Peter; Oagh, Richard; Ogden, Peter Skene; Ogilvy, John D. B.; Onearste, Lazard; Orohuay; Osborne, James; Oteakorie, Louis; Ottehoh; Pakee; Paquet, Jean Baptiste [a]; Pay-ay-lay; Paparee, Jem; Parenté, Louis Leandre; Parker, George; Petit (Gobin) Antoine; Petit, Jean Baptiste; Piette, Francois; Plomondo, Simon; Plouffe (Carillon) Joseph; Popoay; Pora; Pottinger, William; Prévost, Joseph; Proulx, Charles; Proulx, Joseph; Proveau, Jean Bap. [b]; Prudhomme, François; Puahili, Jim [a]; Pulhelee, George; Punebaka; Quintal (Dubois), Francois; Racine (Noyer), Jean; Raine, Benjamin; Rappa, Moniday; Raymond, Camille; Reid, Robert; Richard, Joseph; Richardson, George; Roi, Jean Baptiste; Robertson, David [b]; Robertson, John; Roi (Portelance), Olivier; Rudland, William; Rye, Edward; Sabiston, John; Sabiston, Peter; Sagohanosta, Louis; Sagoyawatha, Thomas; St. André, Pierre; St. Arnaude, Joseph; Sangster, James; Sansouce, Joseph; Sauvé (Leplante), Leon; Serurier, Jeremie; Simpson, Capt. Aemilius; Simpson, John; Sinclair, James; Smith, John; Smith, William [c]; Soulliere, François; Spence, John [e]; Spence, Joseph; Stewart, Robert; Stokum, Richard; Tahanoe; Tahenna; Tahouay; Tai-a-nui, Jim; Tamoree, Joe; Tanero; Tasitayerie; Tayba; Taylor, James; Teousarakonta, Charles; Teyoharate, Joachim; Thibeault, George; Thibeault, Isaac; Thibeault, Joachim; Thomas, John; Timeoy [a]; Thoeangta, Paul; Toi-o-foe; Tolmie, William Fraser; Toouyora; Toro; Touramano; Tourgeon, Michel; Tsoo, Tom; Tuaha; Tuarmaku, Jack; Tupy; Turcot, Pierre; Underwood, Thomas; Upahee; Versailles, Pierre; Viau, Olivier; Villandrie, Pierre; Walls, William; Ward, John; Wards, Henry; Wark, John, M.; Washington, George; Weynton, Stephenson; Whitaker, Robert; Whitbread, John; William; Williams, John; Williams, John [b]; Wood, Thomas; Work, John; Work, John Jr.

HBCA FtSimp[N]PJ 1-2; 3, July 16, 1837, fo. 122d-123; FtSimp[N]PJ 3, Nov. 2-1836-Dec. 20, 1836, fo. 76d-81d; FtSimp[N]PJ 4, Sept. 22, 1838, 53d; FtSimp[N]PJ 4, Jan 23, 1839, fo. 75; FtSimp[N]PJ 5-7; FtSimp[N]PJ 8, Aug. 5, 1857, fo. 105d; FtSimp[N]PJ 8, Feb. 11, 1858, fo. 126d; FtSimp[N]PJ 8, July 12, 1858, fo. 142; FtSimp[N]PJ 8, Feb. 12, 1859, fo. 161; FtSimp[N]PJ 9, Dec. 26, 1863, fo. 35d-36; FtSimp[N]PJ 9, April 9, 1866, fo. 119d; FtSimpC 1; FtSimpM 1; YFDS 7-23; HBCA Fort Simpson [Nass] compiled post history PPS: HBRS IV, p. 231 John McLoughlin's Oct. 20, 1831 letter to Gov. & Committee; W. F. Tolmie SS: Favrholt, "Fort Simpson, B.C."; Meilleur

8. Fort Stikine (1840-1849)

IMAGE 140 Old site of Fort Stikine (now Wrangell, Alaska) as seen from the water. Photograph by author, 1993.

Fort Stikine got off to a late start. The Anglo-Russian treaty of 1825 defined the southern limits of the borders of the panhandle of Russian America and its eastern border running along the crests of the Coast Mountains. At the same time it allowed access through the Stikine and Taku River systems to the HBC/English trading territory on the east side of the mountains. With this in mind, John McLoughlin proposed as early as 1831 (FtVanCB 7, fo. 10d) to build a post on the Stikine River. Taking advantage of the terms of the treaty, Peter Skene Ogden in the fall of 1833 ascended the river beyond the ten marine league (55.6 miles) exclusion zone and staked out a site with the idea of returning the following year to build it (HBRS IV, p. xc). However, when the Russians got wind of this, they proceeded to hastily construct their own post (Redoubt St. Dionysius) along the shore of Wrangell Island so when Ogden returned to the area in June 1834, he was greeted by the Russians who instructed him to immediately leave along with all his trade goods (W. F. Tolmie, 284-285). To add insult to injury, "Seix," [Shakes] the Stikine Chief also would not allow them to take furs on the river as it would be interfering with traditional Stikine trade (ibid, p. 285). As the Stikine River flowed through the convergence of Tahltan and Tlinglit territories, the Stikine were traditionally able to exact heavy tolls. For example, if a Tahltan chief wished to deal with a ship at the mouth of the Stikine River, permission and safe conduct were granted only upon payment of five hundred beaver skins (Henning, p. 46-47).

Fuming at the lost opportunity and potential loss of trade, not to mention the cost of the outfitting, for a number of years the HBC pushed the issue with the RAC so that in February 1839, both signed a ten-year treaty. Terms of the treaty were relatively simple: the HBC could erect posts on a ten-year lease of Russian land, the terms for which were two thousand land otters per year and a guaranteed food supply for ten years from the HBC/PSAC farms to the south (Tikhmenev, p. 172).

Consequently, when the HBC took possession of the Russian post on June 1, 1840 it set to work cleaning the post to get rid of the smell, mudding the walls, making a hospital, etc. The post was not naturally defensible and the walls too thin and so for the next few years the eighteen plus servants at the post were constantly working to repair and upgrade it. Sea shells were burned to make lime for whitewashing. Because of the weakness of the post, the Hawaiians had to be recruited to learn how to fire guns, their awkwardness causing the natives to heap ridicule on them. The Hawaiians later suffered terribly from the cold, sometimes getting frostbite.

It was a difficult transition from Russian to HBC presence, the Russians being original negotiators. Conflicts arose. Native disputes, fueled by alcohol and fear resulted in several natives seeking refuge within the stockade. Different groups from outside the area had to barricade themselves in their own lodges and gunfire was exchanged between lodges.

As an inducement for trade rather than negotiation from a blank slate, Stikine chief Shakes (Seix) was given a present of clothing, a gallon of rum and a kettle (FtStikPJ 1, fo. 3). In an effort to raise the price of furs, he later used the clothes in ridicule comparing it to that which he had got from the Russians. Shakes demanded that the HBC should trade on Stikine terms or to “be off” if they wanted to stay alive. He was a formidable presence, sometimes forcing his way into the fort to get rum and when confronted, would kill one of his own slaves in anger. Others, dissatisfied with prices the HBC proposed, began destroying the Russian built grist mill some distance from the fort. (The dam at the mill was destroyed by a flood September 25, 1840, [FtStikPJ 1, fo. 16] but the mill was back working on October 10th [ibid, fo. 17].) About one thousand natives were already in the area, many of whom anxiously questioned the HBC about fur prices, threatening to go to Fort Simpson if they didn’t match or better those prices. This and later groups comprised of natives from the Chilkat to Haida areas.

In spite of all this, food including fish and venison, was traded on a regular basis. The Kygarney and Chatseenay Indians brought in as much as one hundred bushels of potatoes at a time. However, even they would hold back for want of cloth. Consequently the working atmosphere was constantly tense for the men at the post.

The most significant event centered around Dr. John McLoughlin’s son, John McLoughlin, Jr. a man with a checkered working past. He was sent to Stikine in 1840 and assumed control of the post in March 1841 but in the absence of a senior person upon whom he could depend, his drinking and violent streaks became more pronounced. He denied native wives access to the post, whereas he kept his own woman in his quarters. As a result, his men conspired to kill him and shot him dead on April 21, 1842 (FtStikPJ 3, fo. 68). George Simpson, who coincidentally arrived five days after the event, dismissed the death as justifiable homicide even though the depositions presented differing opinions on the victim (Simpson, p. 181; FtVanCB 29, fo. 27-27d). A coffin was built and he was buried at the post. The following year, however, his body was disinterred and was eventually brought to Fort Vancouver where he was reburied. Even though the event took place in Russian territory, the Russians appeared to have little interest in it. Ultimately, the group thought to be involved was sent back to York Factory but eventually the whole matter came to naught and some showed up on the Pacific slopes again. This murder created endless enmity between McLoughlin and Simpson and became the cause of Dr. McLoughlin’s resignation from the HBC.

Activities carried on to a lesser extent until the fort was abandoned in 1849 at the end of the agreement. From that point on, the area was serviced by ship from Fort Victoria.

The site of Fort Stikine was built over and is now under the industrialized waterfront of Wrangell, Alaska.

Managers of Fort Stikine, 1840-1849:

Rae, William Glen	clerk	1839-1841
Anderson, Alexander C.	clerk	1841-1842

McLoughlin, John	clerk	1842
Dodd, Charles	clerk	1843-1845
McNeill, William Henry	Chief Trader	1845-1849?
Kennedy, John F.	Chief Trader	1848-1849

Personnel at Fort Stikine, 1840-1849:

Aitken, George; Anaheurase, Simon; Anahi; Balthasard, André; Blenkinsop, George; Bottineau, Basil; Boulanger, Charles; Cabana, Francois Xavier; Cedrass, Joseph; Chalifoux, Jean Baptiste; Champagne, Joseph; Cole, Captain; Collette, Octave; Corbin, Israel; Coté, Francois Xavier; Cournoyer, Edouard; Dodd, Charles; Dupuis, Louis; Fallardeau, Louis; Finlayson, Roderick; Fleury (Fleuri), Benone; Gariepy, Casimir; Gravelle, Gideon; Heron, George; Heroux, Urbain; Kahaloukulu; Kaiwaiwai; Kakepe; Kanakanui; Kanaquasse, Pierre; Karehoua; Karoooha; Kawenassa, Antoine; Keharou; Kennedy, Dr. John Fred; Kuawaa; Lagarde, Joseph; Lamb, Joe; Lassert, William; Lavoie, Maxime; LeClair, Louis; L'Hussier, Antoine; McLoughlin, John Jr.; McNeill, Capt. Wm. H.; McPherson, Thomas; Manson, Donald; Martineau, Olivier; Maloney, John; Montrais, Jean Baptiste; Morel, Leon; Naharow; Nahua/Nahoua; Narimma; Nono; Okaia; Pouhow; Presse, Francois; Rae, William Glenn; Savard, Joseph; Smith, Philip; Taheenou; Tahenna; Tahouay; Trudelle, Louis; Vizina/Virzina, Simon

PS: HBCA FtStikPJ 1-3; FtVanASA 6-8; YFDS 11-19; FtVanCB 7, fo. 10d McLoughlin Dec. 15, 1831 letter to P. S. Ogden; FtVanCB 29, fo. 27-27d, fo. 21-22, 31-32, 50-61d; FtVanCB 30; HBCA Fort Stikine compiled post history; BCA Diar-Rem Morison, p. 35-42; PPS: HBRS IV, xc; W. F. Tolmie, p. 284-85; G. Simpson, Narrative, p. 181-83; SS: Henning, p. 44-47, 88; Tikhmenev 9.

Fort Taku (HBC) 1840-1843 (aka Fort Durham, Taku, Fort Tako, Tacu, Tacou, Taco, Tacow)

IMAGE 141 Looking out onto Taku Harbour from site of Fort Taku. Photograph by author, 1993.

Fort Taku was built under the same set of conditions as Fort Stikine, under the 1839 agreement between the Hudson's Bay Company and the Russian American Fur Company (Tikhmenev, p. 172). Thought to be convenient at the time for trade with the Indians of Taku, Chilcat and Cross Sound, as well as access to the interior, the site, at the head of Taku Harbour several miles distance from the mouth of the Taku River was a poor choice for several reasons. The site was a compromise being erected midway between two rivers, the Sitka and the Taku. The area had been overtraded during the maritime fur trade which had left hostilities and there was little trading done from the interior via the Taku River. As well, the area had extensive tidal flats and so boats could access the area only at high tides. Further, the natives of the area rigorously guarded their traditional trading rights, their access to wealth and slaves.

The post was constructed in 1840 by James Douglas with pickets and bastions up and finished by August (FtStikPJ 1, fo. 13). Also called Fort Durham, after the Earl of Durham, Governor General of Canada (Upper and Lower Canada), the post was more commonly referred to by its river name. It was a modest affair having stockades of about 150 sq feet with a stream running conveniently through it and was operated by approximately eighteen personnel.

Memories from the maritime fur trade ran deep and consequently the local Taku tried to exact revenge for killings that had taken place previously from an American vessel. Shortly after construction, shots were fired, faces bloodied but all patched up with an agreed payment of furs when the Taku discovered that they were not from the same group that had created the trouble.

In the fall of 1841 George Simpson, who stated that the local natives were delighted to have a source for which they could act as intermediaries, presented an idyllic picture when he visited:

The fort, though it was only a year old, was yet very complete with wood houses, lofty pickets, and strong bastions. The establishment was maintained chiefly on the flesh of the chevreuil, which is very fat, and has an excellent flavour. Some of these deer weigh as much as a hundred and fifty pounds each; and they are so numerous, that Taku has this year sent to market twelve hundred of their skins (G. Simpson, Narrative, p. 214).

Conflicts due to misunderstanding did disturb this idyllic scene. When one native struck Dr. John F. Kennedy over a disagreement, the native was pursued by Kennedy's assistant outside the fort and was immediately taken prisoner. When Kennedy went out to rescue his assistant, he also was taken prisoner. When warning shots were fired, the "prisoners" were ransomed for four blankets (G. Simpson, Narrative, p. 214).

In the summer of 1841, Roderick Finlayson gave an account of the local chief killing ten slaves, requiring the HBC men look after their dead bodies (Finlayson quoted in Olson, p. 51-52).

Fort Taku, along with Fort McLoughlin, was abandoned in 1843 as it was unprofitable and could just as well be serviced by the steamer Beaver. The site is now on privately held land.

Manager of Fort Taku or Durham, 1840-1843:

Kennedy, John F.	clerk & surgeon	1840-1843
------------------	-----------------	-----------

Complement of personnel at Fort Taku, 1840-1843:

Allard, Joseph; Anaheurarse, Simon; Assencharu, Louis; Baker, Joe; Balthasar, Andre; Charpentier, Joseph; Corbin, Israel; Douglas, James; Dupuis, Jean Baptiste; Fallardeau, Louis; Finlay, John; Finlayson, Roderick; Fleury, Benone; Gravelle, Francois; Heroux, Jean; Heroux, Urbain; Kamakeha; Kanhetara, Jacques; Karehoua; Keave; Kennedy, Dr. John Fred.; Labonte, Michel or Charles; Lavoie, Maxime; Levigne, Augustin; Lowe, Thomas; Lowpirani; Nakahene; Nehanoui; Nono; O'Brien, John; Omai; Opunui; Ouimette, Ignace; Pepin, Pierre (Lachance); Peter; St. Gre, Gabriel; Sam; Smith, Philip; Tahayree; Tahouay; Teaheererey; Thomas, John; Tod, James; Trudelle, Louis;

PS: HBCA FtStikPJ 1, letter received August 18, 1840, fo. 13; FtVanASA 6-7; YFASA 19-22; YFDS 11-13; HBCA Fort Taku compiled post history; PPS: G. Simpson, Narrative, p. 214, 215; SS: Olson; Tikhmenev

Lower Fraser River Posts

1. Fort Langley (HBC) 1827-1886
2. Fort Hope (HBC) 1848-1860
3. Fort Yale (HBC) 1848-1849

1.

Fort Langley (HBC) 1827-1886

IMAGE 142 Fort Langley, C-09126, courtesy of Royal BC Museum, BC Archives.

Fort Langley on the lower Fraser River was originally set up to be the Pacific Depot, a central point for opposition to American ships that were trading along the coast. As well, because the Americans were likely to eventually acquire territory south of the Columbia River, the post was meant to make unnecessary the overland brigade route south to the Columbia. Hence, in 1824, James McMillan with a group of thirty-nine men made their way north from Fort George [Astoria] to the Fraser River and chose the site. In spite of doubts of his own that the Fraser River was incapable of carrying boatloads of furs, George Simpson insisted that the post be built in 1827. It was only in 1828 when he came down the turbulent river that he realized the impracticality of his decision and how Fort Langley could never be a major post. The Pacific Depot role fell to Fort Vancouver.

The first site, a medium size post, lasted from 1827 to 1839. A large number of buildings were placed inside a stockaded wall 120 x 170 feet. In 1839, with the newly forged food supply agreement with the Russian American Company in Alaska, the post was moved four km upstream closer to the agriculture fields. However, shortly after it was built, Jean Baptiste Brulez accidentally burned the post down. It was rebuilt and continued operations until 1886. In its heyday, the workforce comprised one Chief Factor or Chief Trader, one clerk or post master, and fourteen to twenty-four other personnel (assistant traders, blacksmiths, boat builders, boutes, carpenters, coopers, interpreters, labourers, middlemen).

Here early liaisons were set up for the mutual benefit of the local natives and fur traders. Archibald McDonald pressed clerk James Murray Yale into marrying the daughter of a leading family. After gifts were liberally distributed, it was found that the daughter was already married and she was turfed out. She was brought back by a Kwantlen chief, who was rewarded for his efforts. In 1830, Yale fathered a child with his Kwantlen wife. The brother of the bride's father followed the same course by bringing in ten women and three or four young girls to be married off. Like his relatives, these women were also already married (MacLachlan, Fort Langley Journals).

Other women hung around the potato fields. Liaisons developed. One person was caught trying to haul a woman up through the porthole in the bastion. Cohabitation followed and relationships developed after appropriate gift giving to the relatives. Of the individuals who had their wives with them at Langley for various periods of time over a period of thirty years, forty-eight had a total of 166 children (Barman, "Family Life," p. 18). Although many carried their families to various posts, seven individuals pre-empted land in the immediate area (ibid, p. 23).

The nature of the fur trade changed, first in 1839 with the added agricultural component.

The nature of work at Fort Langley made the families interdependent. The jobs of the fur traders had evolved... As self-sufficiency was the rule of the day for each post, large gardens and dairy farms developed. So, besides trading manufactured goods from the store for furs, our "fur trader" could be sowing seeds, weeding, hoeing, thrashing, milking cows, making barrels, boiling brine, curing fish and working at a forge making any number of metal tools. Although spared the endless cutting and squaring of logs to replace building and pickets in the palisade, the wives, secured and prepared the food, sewed, kept the children in tow, made clothes, etc. This veil of domesticity belies the importance of the wives' extended ties to the wider community, not to mention their knowledge of the ability to survive in the area. Almost as soon as the children were able to handle it, they were put to work. They might be beating furs to get rid of the dirt and bugs, some of which would have bitten them, leaving sores. While the clerk or officers might be negotiating fish sales at the wharf, the children would have to carry the fish up into the fort where their mothers would split the fish and put them in brine. As soon as they were able, the children might be carrying milk from the dairy cattle from the large field to the east of the fort, back up the hill and inside the fort, where the mother would churn it into butter. The children might feed the chickens, tend the sheep and cows, or groom the horses. There was little room for education. Unlike Forts Vancouver, Victoria and Simpson there was no teacher at Fort Langley. The children had to pick up what little education they could get from their parents or another interested person (Watson, "Family Life" p. 25-26).

In 1858 when gold was discovered Fort Langley went through another major change, that of supplying miners. The operations of the post, which closed in 1886, were carried on by an HBC store constructed in the nearby village of Fort Langley.

Today, Fort Langley, retaining one original building, has been faithfully reconstructed to almost its original size as a National Historic Site welcoming visitors. Part of the site had been lost to make way for a railway.

Managers at Fort Langley, 1827-1858:

McMillan, James	Chief Factor	1827-1828
McDonald, Archibald	Chief Trader	1828-1833
Heron, Francis	Chief Trader	1833-1834
Yale, James Murray	clerk	1833-1844
	Chief Trader	1844-1859
*	*	*
George Blenkinsop	Chief Trader	1860
William Henry Newton	clerk	1860-1865
Ovide Allard	clerk	1865-1874
William Henry Newton	clerk	1874-1875
Henry Wark	post master	1875-1886
William Sinclair	post master	1886-1887
James M. Drummond	clerk	1887-1892
Walter Wilkie		1892-1893
Frank Powell		1893-1896

Complement of personnel at Fort Langley, 1827-1860:

Allard, Ovide; Annance, Francois Noel; Arquoitte, Amable; Atariachta, Thomas; Atkinson, William; Ayotte, Fermin; Bailey, Richard; Baker, James; Barnston, George; Bell, John; Boisvert, Louis; Borabora, George; Bouchard, Olivier; Brosseau (LaFleur) Bazil; Brown, William (a); Brulez, Jean Baptiste; Cakaeo; Charles, Pierre; Como; Cornoyer, Joseph; Cromarty, William; Danneau, Antoine; Dease, Napoleon; Delonie, Louis; Dionne, Cyprenne; Dubois, Jean Baptiste; Emptage, William; Ettue, Jean Baptiste; Fallardeau, Narcisse; Faron, Dominique; Finlay, John; Gravalle, Francoise; Hamilton, Gavin; Harkness, William; Hereea; Heron, Francis; Holland, George; Issetayerie, Alexis;

Kailimai; Kainoalau; Kalemaka; Kauai; Kea; Keahanele; Kee; Kekoa; Kennedy, John; Lahowbalow; Lambert, Etienne; Laowalla; Latreille, Alexander; Logan, Kenneth; McDonald, Anawiscum; McDonald, Archibald; McFadden, James; McKenzie, Alexander; McMillan, James; McPhail, Angus; Maayo, Joseph; Manson, Donald; Minie, Frederique; Mitchell, George; Mokowhehe; Naharrou; Naukanna; Newton, William Henry; Ohia, Charles; Ohule; Ohule (Peter); Oniaze, Etienne; Ossin, Louis; Otchin, John; Peaennau, Joe/John; Peeo; Peeohpeeoh; Peers, Henry Newsham; Peltier, Louis; Pepin, Etienne; Perrault, Antoine; Perrault, Jacques; Piette (Faniant), Francois; Plomondon, Simon; Rendall, James; Robertson, Samuel; Satakarata, Louis; Sauve (Laplante), Laurent; Simpson, Capt. Aemilius; Simpson, John; Taeaepou; Taheenou; Ta-I; Tarihonga, François Xavier; Taylor, James; Teaherery; Tereaepoa; Thervien, Pierre; Urno, Pierre; Vautrin, Xavier; Vincent, Abraham; Waikanaloe; Walker, Donald; Wavicareea; Willing, Augustus/Augustin; Work, John; Work, William; Yale, James Murray; Yates, William;

PS: BCA PJ FtLanPJ 1; FtLanS 1-2; HBCA FtLangPJ 1-3; FtLangCB 1-2; FtLangMI 1; FtVanASA 2-17; YFASA 7-33; YFDS 7-23; HBCA Fort Langley compiled post history PPS: MacLachlan, Fort Langley Journals; BCA Yale; SS: Cullen, The History of Fort; Rev. A. Dunn; MacLachlin, “The Founding of Fort Langley; MacLachlin, “The Case for Fancis Annance”; Morton; Nelson; Waite; Carlson; Barman, “Family Life”; Watson, “Family Life”; Cole, “Archibald McDonald’s Fort Langley”

2. Fort Hope (HBC) 1848-1860

IMAGE 143 Fort Hope, Google Maps, 2010.

Fort Hope, at the end of the Fraser Valley, was built in 1848 as a staging/supply fort at Hope, British Columbia, at the junction of the Coquihalla and Fraser Rivers. Its function was well beyond that of a fur trade post, being a place where transshipment could be made between the brigade pack train and the Fraser River boats. Hence it will not be dealt with in this study.

3.
Fort Yale (HBC) 1848-1849

IMAGE 144 Fort Yale, Google Maps, 2010.

Fort Yale was built in 1848 on the west bank of the Fraser River as a supply transition point. Its location was the farthest area up the river that a flat-bottomed paddle wheeler could go without encountering rapids. It is not part of this study.

Posts outside the Pacific Northwest but under its Jurisdiction

1. Yerba Buena San Francisco (HBC) 1841-1849
2. Honolulu, Hawai'i (HBC) 1834-1860

1.
California Establishment (HBC) 1841-1849
Yerba Buena (San Francisco)

The Yerba Buena post was different in that it was in Mexican territory where English speakers disproportionate to their numbers had begun to cut into various aspects of trade (G. Simpson, Narrative, p. 292-93). In its efforts to expand trade, on March 20, 1839, the London Committee instructed George Simpson:

At San Francisco or Monterey we think a store for the sale of British manufactured goods and other articles constantly in demand at the Missions and by the Settlers or residents...might be opened with advantage... (HBRS VII, p. xxi).

Initially Mexican authorities were disinterested; as well, there were HBC doubts that such a venture would be profitable but, during the winter of 1840-1841, James Douglas managed to convince both Governor Juan Bautista Alvarado and General Mariano Guadalupe Vallejo to issue a permit for hunting in the California area as well as allow an establishment to be built at Yerba Buena [which was renamed San Francisco in 1847] (HBRS VII, p. xxiii). In 1841, William Glenn Rae managed to pay a very high price for a site (HBRS XXIX, p. 86) on the waterfront (on the west side of present-day Montgomery Street between Sacramento and Clay) from which they carried out their business in collecting hides and tallow, while selling salmon, flour and other commodities. For a variety of reasons, Yerba Buena was not successful, employing Rae, a clerk and four to five men. As well, Rae came under the personal influence of a young Cockney, John Ridley whom Rae employed to collect hides and tallow around the Bay. He helped Ridley through the marriage process and boarded him and his wife in the HBC compound (FtVanCB 32, fo. 189d). As well, Ridley may have talked Ray into committing $48,000 worth of HBC guns and ammunition on credit to insurgents who were trying to overthrow General Manuel Micheltorena. Imbued with guilt, on January 19, 1845, Rae outlined the amounts committed, wrote out a will (FtVanCB 33, fo. 198) and shot himself in front of his wife. British Vice Consul, J. A. Forbes moved into the compound (FtVanCB 33, fo. 193, 195-195d) until March 1846 to prevent looting and until Dugald McTavish arrived to sell the property and close down HBC operations.

In April 1968 on Commercial Street in San Francisco, a bronze plaque was mounted on a wall across the street from the United States Mint and Subtreasury commemorating the short lived post.

Managers at California Post, 1841-1846:

William Glen Rae	clerk	1841-1844
	Chief Trader	1844-1845
James Alexander Forbes	British Vice-Consul	1845-1846
	acting HBC agent

Personnel at California Post, 1841-1846:

Bastien (Rocan), Narcisse; Birnie, Robert; Kahorie; Kai; McGillivray, Montrose; Mikiloah; Montrais, Jean Baptiste; Nyoray, Peter; Ploughboy; Sinclair, William Jr.; Swanson, Joseph

PS: HBCA FtVanASA 6-8; YFDS 12-16; FtVanCB 33, B.223/b/33, fo. 187-91; ibid, fo. 193; Forbes April 8, 1845 letter to John McLoughlin, B.223/b/33, fo. 195-195d; Wm G. Rae's Jan. 18, 1845 letter "To all whom it may concern", B.223/b/33, fo. 196bd; Wm. G. Rae's Jan. 20 [sic] 1845 will, B.223/b/33, fo. 198; PPS: HBR VII, p. xxi, A.6/25, fo. 28; G. Simpson, Narrative, p. 292-93; HBR XXIX, p. 86 SS: Blake; Bancroft, History of California

2.

The Honolulu Establishment (HBC) 1834-1860 (aka Hawaii outpost, Honolulu Agency)

IMAGE 145 Main building inside the Hudson's Bay Company compound in Honolulu at the convergence of Queen and Forts Streets. From a drawing by Paul Emmert and produced as part of a lithograph entitled View of Honolulu from the Catholic Church, by Britton and Rey, San Francisco, 1854.

It was only a matter of time before the HBC set up offices in Honolulu as, from the 1780s, Hawai'i had been part of the Northwest coast trade and a source of personnel (Barman & Watson, Leaving Paradise). Suggested by McLoughlin in 1827, agreed to by Simpson in 1828 (HBR IV, xcii, HBR X) and hurried along by the presence of Hawaiian-based Captain John Dominis of the Onhyhee and Convoy competing for trade along the coast and up the Columbia River, the HBC sent a load of lumber to Hawaii in January 1829 appointing British Consul Richard Charlton as agent. However when Charlton began trading on his own account, he was replaced in 1833 by George Pelly, the first cousin of the late governor of the HBC. After Pelly's arrival in 1834 a two story shingle-sided building was built on the north side of Nu'uuanu Street near King Street, Honolulu. The business was somewhat modest with Hawaiians and accountants being employed as needed. Hawaiians recruited for work on the coast would receive their advances here and be outfitted with blankets, seaman's boots and cold weather clothing (Spoehr, p. 33). However, by 1843 the Hawaiian authorities were grabbing back much of the advances given to the new Kanaka.

We have engaged and forwarded per the "Vancouver", as requested, twenty Kanakas upon the old terms, as per accompanying agreement. It is now much more difficult to procure men, the Government exacting from each individual three years taxes, which amounts to sixteen dollars, and leaves remaining very little for their own use previous to embarkation (FtVanCB 30, fo. 19d).

The Honolulu office was a place where Hawaiians continued to receive their final wages or a place to which they returned to renew their contracts. It was the place where HBC sailors would go with problems or seamen would sign on to HBC ships. A few HBC employees died and were buried there. Others like the retired HBC employee Godfrey Rhodes carried on good relations with the HBC.

Around 1840 the nature of the Agency changed when the HBC decided to establish a mercantile business importing everything from Wellington boots to silk umbrellas and exporting sugar, molasses, coffee, etc. (Spoehr, p. 54). This change further necessitated a move in 1846 closer to the waterfront. There at the corner of Queen and Fort Street, the HBC constructed a walled compound with four large outside gates, containing one two story high stone and adobe store with a veranda at each end; one one-story stone and adobe store with a slate roof; various sheds, a pump, well and covered reservoir. Here in the spacious offices the clerks had a good view of the harbour until 1860 when HBC operations were closed in Hawaii.

The HBC was considered a stabilizing influence in the business of early Hawai'i as well as an organization that gave valued support to the Hawaiian government without becoming involved in local politics. Further, the individual administrators were cited as helping to improve the community through various organizations (Spoehr, p. 59). One exception to this occurred in 1850 when George Pelly in whom the HBC administration had been placed from almost the beginning. As more than $38,500 of HBC money went missing from a safe in Pelly's home, his personal servants were put in jail, and Pelly was sent packing with them, making restitution by turning over his personal property. Although never proven, it would appear that Pelly may have had full knowledge of or participated in the theft.

Managers and clerks of Establishment, 1833-1860:

Charlton, Richard	British Consul/agent	1829-1833
George Pelly	agent	1833-1851
George Traill Allan	clerk	1842-1845
	Chief Trader	1845-1847
Dugald McTavish	Chief Trader	1847-1852
Robert Clouston	Chief Trader	1851-1858
John Bissett,	Chief Trader	1859-1860
McKenzie, Benjamin	clerk	1837
William Spencer	apprentice	1840-1842
Alexander Simpson	clerk	1839-1841
William Glen Rae	clerk	1841-1842
William Wood	apprentice	1841-1842
George Stewart Simpson	apprentice clerk	1842-1845
	clerk	1845-1847
Joseph Hardisty	clerk	1853-1861

George Pelly's personal servants around 1850:

(These names do not appear in the biographies.)

Curlew - head servant; John (Joshua) - lived there possibly after the robbery; Kahuleiwiliwili;
Kaikaihua (aka Jim Crow) - lived with him a long time; Kukanui - not present at time of robbery;
Noa - lived with him prior to the robbery; Pauaa - lived there prior to robbery

PS: HBCA SandIsAB 1-12; SandIsM 1; SandIsCI 1; SandIsLonIC 1-3; YFASA 13-20, 24-26, 28; FtVanCB 30 fo. 19d; YFDS 5c-7, 11-17;
FtVanASA 6-8; FtVanASA 6-8 A.11/62, fos. 522-523; FtVanASA 6-8, A.11/62, fos. 524-527d; SandIsLonIC, A.11/62, fos. 549, 567;
HBCA Sandwich Island establishment compiled post history; PPS: HBRS IV, xcii, HBRS X; JS: Spoehr, p. 27-66; Barman & Watson,
Leaving Paradise

Ships on the NorthWest Coast

Ships which serviced the land based fur trade in the Pacific Northwest were late on the scene. Before them, from 1785, 185 fur trade vessels had scoured the coast at first for sea otter followed by fur seals, followed by the pelts of land animals which had been traded down from the interior through any of the river systems. Even though sea otter pelts were sought, as early as 1789, beaver, land otter and martins were also taken in trade. It was a busy place, for in addition to that, a number of exploration and military vessels of a variety of nations also plied coastal waters. The Spanish and Russians were the first followed by the British, the Americans and others. The British, who had the advantage of working out of India and south China soon exited the scene because of punishing licencing fees from the East India Company and South Seas Company. In the last decade of the eighteenth and first decade of the nineteenth century, the maritime fur trade became almost an exclusively American enterprise out of the eastern seaboard, mainly Boston. It is logical, then, that the first vessel supporting an exclusively land based fur trade practice was American.

Captains, ships' officers and ships' companies are listed when traced. All the ships passengers are listed although they all may not appear in the biographies as, in the case of colonial Vancouver Island, they did not go on to work for the HBC, however temporarily.

PPS: Howay, Voyages of the "Columbia", p. 126.

Albatross

Nationality: American out of Boston (1809-1816)

Hawaiian out of Oahu (1816+)

Ship's Owners: The Winship Brothers (Abiel, Jonathan and Nathan) and Benjamin P. Homer of Boston (1809)

King Kamehameha I (October 1816-?)

Description of Ship: Originally a brig built by Samuel Arnold in Weymouth, Mass. in 1803, by 1809, it was a ship of three masts; seventy-seven feet eight inches long, twenty-two feet one inch beam, eleven feet five inches deep and 165 tons burthen.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1810-1816

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: Boston, July 7, 1809

arr: Northwest Coast, June 17, 1810

(sold in Hawaii, October 1816)

Purpose/function/history of ship: This trading vessel was already weather beaten when it was outfitted by the Winship Brothers in Boston to join in on the early American China trade in the Pacific and set up a trading post. After a stay of nearly two months at the Hawaiian Islands the vessel anchored at Baker's Bay in May 1810. It moved forty-five miles up the river to the Oak Point area to establish a Winship trading post on the Columbia. The Boston brothers' plan was to establish a farm on the fertile Columbia River shore to provide the Russian American Company at Sitka with the food they desperately needed. They also intended to trade beaver, mink, fox, bear, sable and muskrat. Gardens were dug and they started building their two-storey house but their efforts, however, were quickly ended in June when they were flooded out by the rising river and subsequently ushered out by the down-river Chinooks. That was their first and last attempt to establish a land base on the Northwest Coast. From that point on the vessel poached seals and sea otters off California, traded with the Russian settlement in Alaska and with the Chinese at Whampoa. Wilson Price Hunt of the PFC sailed in the Albatross back to Astoria in 1813. From that point on it traded throughout the Pacific and in 1816 was sold to King Kamehameha I for sandalwood.

Captains:

Winship, Nathan	captain	1809-1811
	alternating captain	1811-1814
Smith, William	captain	1812-1813, 1815
Winship, Nathan	captain	1816

Ship's Company (covering period 1809-1811 but not in biographies):

Adams, Alexander; Bancraft, Jeremiah; Bancraft, Robert; Bennett, James; Boling, Samuel; Brown, John Jr.; Chapman, Nathan; Corrina; Dolbeare, Joseph; Flagner, Henry; Gale, William Alden; Grover, Amos; Oliver, James; Richard; Rodgers, Yachens; Ruggles, Joseph; Smith, Robert; Smith, William; Spicer, Henry; Sumner, William; Thomson, Samuel; William; Williams, John; Woodburn, William; twenty-two unnamed Hawaiian seamen.

PS: PrivMS Albatross, p. 418; HU-Wid ColCent, June 21, 1809, April 5, 8, 12, 1815, October 9, November 6, 9, 1816, February 1, March 1, 1817; PEM log of New Hazard, August 30, September 8, 1811, October 23, November 4, 1812, July 5, 19, 20, 24, 1813; log of the Hamilton, September 1, 1811; MassHS log of Atahualpa, March 16, April 18, December 23, 1813; NY-PL Ophelia April 16, 1816 PPS: Coues, p. 795; ChSocXLV, p. 18, 21, 122, 127, 193 SS: CU-B Phelps, p. 129-35; Jerzyk, p. 175-81; Chittenden, p. 220; Corney, Early Voyages, p. 46; K. W. Porter, John Jacob Astor, p. 1149; Howay, A List of Trading Vessels, p. 83, 87, 92, 97, 107-08, 112, 171; Malloy p. 66-67

Alexander

Nationality: American

Ship's Owners: James & Thomas H. Perkins and Josiah Barker

Description of Ship: A brigantine of 270 tons built in 1816 in Charlestown, Massachusetts, changed to a ship.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1817-1821

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

#1	dep: Boston, October 15, 1816	arr: Northwest Coast, April 1817
	dep: Northwest Coast, July 1817	arr: Boston, June 28, 1820
#2	dep: Boston, October 23, 1820	arr: Northwest Coast, 1821
	dep: Northwest Coast, summer 1821	arr: Boston, 1822

Purpose/function/history of ship: A freighter rather than a trading vessel, the Alexander was the first of the Perkins' ships to carry furs for the North West Company from the Coast to Canton. On the first voyage, after discharging its trading goods and loading furs at Fort George [Astoria] it sailed for China via the Islands. After trading in Asian waters for over a year, it sailed from Canton on July 28, 1819, calling at several European ports before returning to Boston. The second voyage was much the same. The furs were sold at Canton in August 1821 and the proceeds, invested in various Chinese goods, were sent to Boston by the ship Mentor. The Alexander sailed homeward by way of Manila. The Alexander was eventually sold in 1825 in Batavia.

Captains:

Bancroft, John C.	captain	1816-1820
Comerford, Fred W.,	captain	1820-1821

Ship's Company: (Not traced)

PS: HU-Wid ColCent, October 16, 23, 1816, April 8, June 6, 1818, January 13, February 6, April 3, May 22, June 2, 10, July 3, September 8, 1819, March 29, July 1, October 20, 1820, March 20, 1822; HU-HL Notes; HBCA NWCAB [1818-19], F.4/14, [insured, J. & T. H. Perkins owners] p. 35; HBS Perkins 1, November 3, 1821, Boston Commercial Gazette, January 31, 1822; SS: Briggs, p. 652, 795; Corney, Early Voyages p. 76; O'Neil, p. 243, 267; Howay, A List of Trading Vessels; Malloy

Beaver

Nationality: American out of New York

Ship's Owners: John Jacob Astor/Pacific Fur Company (1811-1812)

John Jacob Astor, William B. Astor (1818)

Description of Ship: Ship of 480 tons, built in New York in 1805.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1812

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: New York, October 11, 1811	arr: Columbia River, May 9, 1812
dep: Northwest Coast, fall 1812	arr: New York (Not traced)

Purpose/function/history of ship: The Beaver, built for the China trade, was the second Astor ship (the first being the Tonquin) sent from New York to support the Pacific Fur Company venture at Fort Astoria. After picking up twenty-six Hawaiians (ten for the vessel, sixteen for the post), it crossed the bar on May 9, 1812 but couldn't reach Fort Astoria and so had to unload supplies via the Dolly. It then travelled north to Sitka where it arrived in October 1812. Instead of returning to Fort Astoria as arranged, Captain Soule, fearing capture, interned it in Canton and then sailed to New York. It sailed again from New York in 1817 but in October was seized by the Spaniards at Talcahuana, Chile, doubtless for alleged illegal trading. It was released the following year and returned to New York on October 6, 1820. For its seizure, the owners received damages as part of the Spanish Spoliation Claims.

Captains:

Sowle, Cornelius	captain	1811-1813
Captain Cleveland		1818

Ship's Company:

Ashton, Joseph; Baker, Micajah; Boatswain Tom & wife; Champenois, Mr.; Clapp, Benjamin; Clark, John; Cox, Ross; Dean, Mr.; Ehninger, George; Hunt, Wilson Price; Little, John; Milligan, Richard; Mumford, William P.; Nicholl, Charles A.; Patterson, John; Perry, Daniel; Rhodes, Benjamin; Seton, Alfred; Spicer, Henry; Wadsworth, William; Plus twenty-six Hawaiians

PS: RosL-Ph Astoria; HU-Wid ColCent, July 7, 1824; HBS-Bak Astor; NY-PL Gaz/Adver, June 30, 1817 PPS: HBRS XLV p. 17-18, 89, 112, 116, 121-22; Cox, p. 1-54; Astorian Adventure, p. 29-86; Coues, p. 763-64; Irving, Astoria, p. 319 JS: K. W. Porter, John Jacob Astor, p. 51; Howay, A List of Trading Vessels

S. S. Beaver (1836-1888)

Nationality: British out of various West Coast ports

Ship's Owners: Hudson's Bay Company

Description of Ship: A schooner or brigantine rigged as a steamship of 109 tons, of two masts and one funnel, one hundred feet nine inches long, twenty feet wide (or thirty-three feet, including the paddle boxes), and the depth of its hold was eleven feet. The paddle-wheels were thirteen feet in diameter, with paddles six and a half feet long which revolved, when at top speed, at thirty times a minute. It was built at the yard of Green, Wigrams and Green, Blackwell yards and launched on May 2, 1835.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1836-1888

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: London, August 29, 1835	arr: Fort Vancouver, April 10, 1836 (wrecked, 1888)
------------------------------	--

Purpose/function/history of ship: This paddle-wheeler was notable for being the first steamship on the Northwest Coast. It was not the first steamship in the Pacific, for the Spanish had been using a paddle-steamer, the Telica, since 1825 off Mexico, Central America and as far north as San Francisco. The Telica didn't last long as the captain committed suicide by blowing up the ship's cargo of gunpowder. Although the Beaver had been tested in England with the steam engine and paddle wheel, it left England on August 29, 1835 under sail and crossed the ocean with the Columbia, arriving at Fort Vancouver on April 10, 1836. When it did run under steam and paddle in the ocean, it was found that it was a rough ride and consumed large amounts of wood requiring two days of cutting for one day of travel. When the coastal forts were abandoned, it took their place trading furs. In 1852, it was seized by U.S. Government officials in Oregon for alleged breaches of Revenue laws (A.8/7). The Beaver served as a supply ship for the Company until the Fraser River Gold Rush of 1858 when the Company lost its mandate. Then it entered the passenger and freight service between Victoria and the mainland.

From 1862 to 1874 the Beaver became a hired survey ship. It was sold for $15,700 to Stafford, Saunders, Martin, Rudlin, Colman and Williams in 1874 and it was used as a workhorse and tow until 1888 when it was wrecked at Prospect Point, almost under the present Lion's Gate Bridge. Over time it was stripped by souvenir seekers and its parts ended up in both the United States and Canada. Its rocker remained on site, and its boiler found itself to the reconstructed Fort Nisqually at Point Defiance in Tacoma, Washington. The boiler, however, has been returned for it was found that it was actually made in British Columbia.

Total ship's complement during one outfit:

- 1 master
- 1-3 officers (mates)
- 1-3 engineers
- 17-25 crew members (blacksmith, boatswain, boy, carpenter, cook, laborer, middleman, seaman, steward, stoker, woodcutter)

Captains:

Home, David	1835-1837
McNeill, William Henry	1837-1842
Brotchie, William	1842-1843
Duncan, Alexander	1843-1844
Humphreys, Charles	1844-1845
Dodd, Charles	1845-1851
Stewart, Charles E.	1851-1852
Dodd, Charles	1852-1856
Swanson, John	1856-1858
Sinclair, J. L.	1859
Lewis, Herbert G.	1859-1860

Ship's Company:

Aitken, George; Anderson, Anton; Anewscatcha, Antoine/Louis; Arthur, Peter; Aruihunta, Louis; Assincharie, Louis; Atachunish, Thomas; Barrett, Henry T.; Bates, Thomas; Begg, John; Bell, Charles; Bennett, James; Bibeau, Pierre; Biggs, John; Bolne, Jean Baptiste;; Bottineau, Bazil; Boulanger, Charles; Burris, William; Brulez, Jean Baptiste; Cabana, Francois Xavier; Calder, John; Carless, Joseph; Carmac, Hugh; Cedrass, Joseph; Champagne, Joseph; Charbonneau, Joseph; Chartier, Antoine; Cole, William; Cook, William; Cooper, Thomas; Cormack, Hugh; Corney, Peter; Cotsford, Thomas; Crawford, Andrew; Crimp, Samuel; Dalrymple, John; D'Arche, Joseph; Dauphin, Joseph; Dauphin, Olivier; Davis, Thomas; Dechamp, Jean Baptiste; Desjardines, Jean Baptiste; Dick, James; Dodd, Charles; Donald, John; Dudouaire, Felix; Duncan, Peter; Dunn, John; Dupuis, Louis; Dutnall, George; Ella, Henry B.; Fairfoul, William; Flett, John (c); Foot, William; Forrest, Charles; Garipey, Casimir; Gilbert, James; Goodard, Walter; Gordon, George; Grave, Alexander; Gray, William; Green, William; Gullion, William; Hamilton, W. C.; Hamilton, George; Harber, George; Heath, William; Hellier, William; Holland, George; Hughan, David; Humphreys, John; Hus, Emanuel Paul; Itati; Jackson, William [2]; Johnson, John Henry; Johnson, Thomas; Jonkins, James; Kahaloukulu; Kaneoukai; Kanooe; Kapoua; Karae; Kataconda, Baptiste; Kawenassa, Antoine; Kendall, Mr.; Kennedy, Thomas; Kimber, Edward; Kiona; Kirk, William; Lackey, William; Lafleur, Jean Baptiste [b]; Lagarde, Joseph; Lahaie, Louis; Lamb, Joe; Lambert, John; Larson, Ole; Lattie, Alexander; Lavoie, Maxime; Lawson, Peter; Lecompte, Alexis; Lepine, William; Levanston, John; Lewis, Herbert G.; L'Hussier, Antoine; Linklater, Thomas; Lockyear, Thomas; Loziere, Ignace; McAulay, Neill; McDonald, Donald [e]; McDonald, Donald [f]; McDonald, Farquar; McDonald, John [c]; McDonald, Murdock; McIntyre, James; McKay, George; McLean, John [d]; McLennan, John; McLeod, John [d]; McLeod, Murdoch; McRae, John; Mallett, Joseph [c]; Manoa, Joe; Martel, A.; Martel, Joseph; Martin, Charles; Martin, Henry; Martineau, Michel; Matte; Maurice, Joseph; Michael, Joseph; Miles, James; Mistacroock, Joseph; Mitchell, William; Moloney, John; Moreno, Tom; Mowat, Henry; Namaurooa; Namotto; Napuko, Harry; Neilson, John; Nelu; Newell, Charles; Newman, Alfred; Nisbet, James; Nisbet, John; Nyholm, Peter; Nyoray (Nyo-r-uy), Peter; Ohia; Opunui; Pakee; Paplay, Alexander; Paquet, Jean Baptiste; Park, Alfred; Pedersen, Ole [a]; Peleraint, Alexis; Pellant, Eli; Pepin (Lachance), Pierre; Pepper, Samuel; Phillips, William; Pike, William; Prattent, Mr.; Puahele, Jim; Punebaka; Quintal (Dubois), Francois; Raddon, Lewis; Raine, Benjamin; Reid, Robert; Rivard (Huard), Jean; Roberts, Edwin; Robillard (Lambert), Cuthbert; Rowland, Matthias; Roy, Thomas [2]; Rudland, William; Sabiston, John; Sagoyawatha, Thomas; Sangster, James; Satakarata, Francois; Saunders, Palm; Savard, Joseph; Savoie, Maxime; Scarborough, James Allan; Sereurier, Jeremie; Shaving; Short, Eli; Simpson, James [1]; Sinclair, Magnus; Slocum, Richard; Spence, John [a]; Spence, Peter; Sterling, James; Stoddard, Walter; Stokum/Slokum, Richard; Swanson, John; Tademier, Louis; Tahenna; Taylor, George [2]; Teyoharate, Joachim; Thibeault, George; Thompson, James; Thompson, Neils; Thorn, James; Toopanehe; Topa; Tourgeon, Michel; Tozier, Tyneas; Turgon, Michel; Underwood, Thomas; Vaureur, Onesemie; Vizina, Simon; Wade, Thomas; Wade, William; Watson, George [2]; Weller, Joseph; Westhorp, Samuel; Willey, John; Williams, Charles; Wilson, Edward; Wilson, William; Work, William; Yates, James; Yellap, John; Jarwish Yukkup

PS: HBCA YFDS 7-23; FtVicDS 1; log of Beaver, 1847-1860, 1-3; HBCA E.109, Beaver's Books, papers, 1835-1872; HBCA C.7/14-17,177; Beaver search file .SS: Lewis & Dryden, p. 15-18; Pethick, S.S. Beaver; Delgado; J. McKay et al.

Broughton

Nationality: British out of Fort Vancouver

Ship's Owners: Hudson's Bay Company

Description of Ship: A thirty ton sloop of wooden construction built at Fort Vancouver.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1826+

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: n/a

Purpose/function/history of ship: The Broughton, an oak framed and pine planked sloop, was launched on August 7, 1826 at Fort Vancouver but it was too small for coastal service. Instead, it worked on the Columbia River and as a tender to the annual supply ships using Hudson's Bay Company employees as its seamen. It is unclear when the HBC ceased to use it.

Captains: (Not traced)

Ship's Company: (Not traced)

PS: HBCA FtVicCB 2

Cadboro

Nationality: English

Ship's Owners: Hudson's Bay Company (London) (1826-1850)

Captain Howard (1850-1862)

Description of Ship: A schooner of seventy-one tons, one deck and two masts, six guns, schooner-rigged with a standing bowsprit, built at Rye, Sussex in 1826.

Years on N.W. Coast: 1827-1862

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: London, Sept 24, 1826

arr: NW Coast, June 8, 1827

(wrecked near Port Angeles, October 1862)

Purpose/function/history of ship: The Cadboro was purchased by the HBC the same year it was built for £800 and sailed that fall from London for Fort Vancouver with thirty new HBC servants. Throughout its twenty-three year career with the Company on the Coast, it spent the majority of its time sailing between various coastal posts as well as Monterey/San Francisco and the Sandwich Islands and became part of the fur trade culture on the coast. In 1827 the newly arrived schooner sailed up the Fraser to establish Fort Langley and was part of the punitive trip as a result of the murder of clerk Alexander McKenzie. As it was so small, it often worked in tandem with other vessels for its own protection. It was never attacked (but experienced many threatening postures from the natives); one crew member lost his life ashore on Vancouver Island in the fall of 1827. Towards the end of its HBC career, it was in constant need of repair and was sold at auction in 1850 to Captain Howard for $2,450. After its sale, some HBC servants continued to serve in it and were paid through HBC accounts. From 1850, however, it acted as a coal and lumber vessel between Victoria and neighbouring ports until October 1862, when it was caught in a gale, sprang a leak, beached and destroyed by the heavy seas near Port Angeles.

Total ship's complement during one outfit:

1 master

1-2 mates

8-12 crew members (apprentice seaman, boatbuilder, boatswain, bote, carpenter, cook, laborer, seaman)

Captains:

Swan, John Pearson	1826-1827
Simpson, Aemilius	1827-1830
Sinclair, Thomas	1831-1833
Ryan, William	1833-1835
Alexander, Duncan	1835
William Brothie	1835-1838
James Allan Scarborough	1838-1848
James Sangster	1848-1851
Charles E. Stewart	1852-1854

 Hudson's Bay Company employees that worked on the Cadboro after it was sold but still paid by the HBC.

Ship's Company:

Aillud, Robert J.; Allan, Robert (b); Allen/Allan, Robert (a); Auld, John; Austen, John A.; Baptiste, Henry; Bartlett, John; Binnington, Joseph; Bird, Nicholas; Blyth, Andrew; Boys, Elias; Brasby, William; Brooks, Richard; Buck, James D.; Bullock, Thomas; Burgar, George; Butt, William Edward; Calder, John/Jack; Calder, Peter; Campbell, Archibald; Campbell, Robert; Campbell, William; Christie, James; Christopher, Isaac R.; Clark, James; Clark, William; Clipson, Joseph; Cluet, Charles; Collins, Tom; Cooper, Thomas; Coppel, John; Crawford, Andrew; Crouch, Joseph; Curtis, William; Daines, Henry; Davis, Thomas [a]; Davis, Thomas [b]; Davis, William [1]; Dixon, George [2]; Dockery, Robert; Dodd, Charles; Driver, Edward; Dunbar, Robert; Ebony; Ferguson, Samuel; Ferrow, George; Fight, John; Flinn, John; Gilbert, James; Gilley, John; Grave, Alexander; Griffiths, William [a]; Hanson, Ephraim; Hardy, Francis; Harmsworth, Henry; Harry, Jack; Heath, William; Henderson, Alexander York; Holland, George; Horne, Joseph; John, Thomas; Johnson, Robert; Johnston, Thomas; Jones, Daniel; Jones, Peter; Kainoalau; Kelly, John; Kennedy, Thomas; Kingston, William; Lackey, William; Lackey, William; Lattey, Alexander; Lawrence, Robert; Lawson, Peter; Lennon, John; Lesley, Thomas; Lodge, Martin; Low, John Sr. [a]; Low, John Jr. [b]; McGillivray, Hector; McLeod, Donald; McLeod, William; McKenzie, Alexander; Mahow/Mahou; Martindale, William; Maydle, William; Mitchell, William; Mott, Charles W.; Mouatt, William A.; Murray, Lewis; Napahay, Alick; Napuko, Henry; Neil, David; Nichols, Robert; Noowow; Norgate, Abraham; Oagh, Richard; Ohia, Charles; Osborne, James; Parker, George; Patele; Perry, Thomas; Piercy, George Frederick; Ploughboy, Joe; Provero; Rae, William Glen; Ridley, James Henry; Roberts, George B.; Roberts, Peter; Robertson, Samuel [1]; Robinson, George; Robinson, John; Rye, Edwin; Sangster, James; Sayer, Robert or Thomas; Scarborough, James; Scarth, James; Simpson, Horatio Nelson; Simpson, James; Sinclair, John; Sinclair, Thomas; Slogumas; Smith, Donald [a]; Smith, John [a?]; Smith, John [b]; Smith, William; Spence, John [a]; Spring, John; Sterling, James; Sterne/Storm, Henry; Stewart, Robert; Stokum, Richard; Stove, James; Stuart, Charles E.; Stubbs, Thomas; Swanson, John; Tahetsaronsari, Jacques; Tamero; Taylor, James; Taylor, Peter; Thomas, John; Ulderich, William; Wavicareea; Webster, Robert; Weyland, James; Willey, John; Williams, Henry; Wilson, Andrew; Wilson, William

 Hudson's Bay Company employees that worked on the Cadboro after it was sold but still paid by the HBC.

PS: HBCA log of Cadboro 1, 5-6; ShMiscPap 14; FtVanASA 4-8; YFASA 16-34; FtVicASA 1-3; YFDS 6-7, 9, 13-21, 23; FtVanCB 3; Cadboro search file; PPS: HBRS IV, p. 42, note 2; Huggins, "Reminiscences of Puget", p. 302-07; JS: Lewis & Dryden, p. 13.

Chenamus

Nationality: American out of Newburyport, Massachusetts

Ship's Owners: (Not traced)

Description of Ship: A brig.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1842-1845

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: (Not traced)

Purpose/function/history of ship: This was not a fur trading vessel, per se, but worked in opposition to the Hudson's Bay Company on the Columbia River and represents a transition of systems. Captain Couch had previously been there on the Maryland in 1840 and salted salmon at Willamette Falls. Couch in the Chenamus returned to Willamette Falls in 1842, packed one hundred barrels of salmon and departed in September. Before he left, Couch left a stock of goods at Oregon City in charge of Albert E. Wilson. Couch and the Chenamus returned in 1843 with passengers, which included missionaries, settlers and entrepreneurs. On March 5, 1844 in Honolulu harbour, the Chenamus, loaded with two hundred barrels of gunpowder, caught fire and had to be scuttled by the crew of the Modeste. It did not explode. It appeared to suffer little damage and returned to the Columbia the following month and remained there until October 1844 when it sailed to the Sandwich Islands. It was back on the coast again in 1845.

Captains:

Couch, John H.	1842-1843
----------------	-----------

PS: HBCA FtVanCB 28-29, 33; log of Columbia 6; SandIsLonIC 2; HMCS SReynoldsJ; JS: Bancroft, History of Oregon, vol. 1, p. 245; Himes, p. 342-343; Malloy, p. 135

Chinchilla

Nationality: American out of New York

Ship's Owners: (Not traced)

Description of Ship: A brig of 139 tons, built in East Haddam, Connecticut in 1823.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1826-1828

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: New York, Jan. 3, 1826

arr: Northwest Coast, 1826

(untraced after 1828)

Purpose/function/history of ship: This New York trading vessel worked out of Hawaii Islands, where it secured sandalwood from around the islands, and, over a three year period, also transported trade goods to Sitka. It first arrived at Oahu from New York on June 6, 1826 and had to be heaved out and coppered right away. After sailing around the Hawaiian Islands, it departed August 21, 1826 for its first run of supplies to Sitka, arriving back at Oahu on November 5th. After taking goods around the Hawaiian Islands for local merchants, it sailed for China March 5, 1827 with sandalwood. Arriving back with Chinese goods on August 3rd, it set out on the 16th of that month with the goods again for Sitka. It dropped off its goods, picked up more than ten thousand sealskins and arrived back in Oahu, November 4th. It sailed among the Hawaiian Islands transporting sandalwood and in June 12, 1828, sailed for the last time with trade goods to Sitka, arriving back October 11th. It appears not to return to the coast again. An account book in the Marblehead Historical Society reveals some names of crew but these have not been tracked because of the limited activities of the vessel.

Captains:

Meek, Thomas	captain	1825-1827
--------------	---------	-----------

Ship's Company:

PS: HMCS SReynolds: JS: Gibson, Otter Skins, p. 307-08; Malloy, p. 87.

Clementine

Nationality: American

Ship's Owners: (Not traced)

Description of Ship: A brig of ninety-five tons.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1835-1842?

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: (Not traced)

Purpose/function/history of ship: This trading vessel on the Northwest Coast poached and traded anything both legal and illegal at various points between 1835 and 1842. In 1835 it transported native hunters from Alaska to coastal California to hunt sea otters. On April 17, 1837, under Captain Handy, it brought Roman Catholic priests from California, where they had been banished to in 1831. Later, in 1837, it sailed under a Mr. Kilham and in 1842 it was attacked after a storm by the Tlingits who apparently stripped the ship bare. On October 5, 1841, it sailed for the Northwest Coast to get Natives to hunt otter off the Coast of California. Gibson has the Clementine trading on the Northwest Coast only in 1839.

Captains:

Kilham, Mr.	1837
Multano, Mr.	1841

Ship's Company: (Only two officers known)

Kimball, Samuel1; Fitch, Channing

PS: USNA Desphon; Maury Log Collection, vol. 18, (an abstract of the 1837 log of the Clementine copied before 1851); HMCS SReynoldsJ PPS: Dana, p. 190 JS: Gibson, Otter Skins, p. 309; Malloy, p. 88

Colinda

Nationality: British

Ship's Owners: James Tomlin and John Mills (1852-1853)

Description of Ship: A barque rigged vessel of 581 tons, 119 feet long, twenty-six feet wide, nineteen feet deep with a standing bowsprit, square sterned and carvel built, with quarter galleries and a woman figurehead, built at Southwick, Co. Durham in 1852.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1854

Voyage Departures & Arrivals:

dep:	London, August 4, 1853	arr:	Fort Victoria April 17, 1854
dep:	Fort Victoria, November 1854	arr:	London, (untraced)

Purpose/function/history of ship: The Colinda, with the captain as a minority shareholder, was chartered by the Hudson's Bay Company, through their London agent John Bonus, to bring supplies, as well as settlers and miners to the Colony of Vancouver Island. On board were 216 passengers: forty Norwegian labourers, one Swede, forty-three miners from Ayrshire with their families, a blacksmith and carpenter with families, two cabin passengers, Miss Leigh and Miss Forsyth. By November 3, 1853, as the passengers deemed that the food was unfit for consumption and requested that the ship approach land to get provisions, the vessel landed at Valdivia, Chile. However, as the captain claimed a mutiny had occurred, Admiral Moresby ordered a steamer to bring her to Valparaiso where a court could be held. During the court session the on-board physician, W. P. Coleman and Robert Ewart, spoke for the passengers. The court, held from December 19-27, 1853 and presided over by the British Consul and naval officials, ruled against the captain and charged him with all expenses. Because of the ruling, the captain had to sell off cargo to pay expenses and all but sixteen passengers left the ship. Meanwhile, word got back to London and, on April 3, 1854, a replacement for Mills, Captain J. Middleton, left from London. Coincidentally, on April 17, 1854, the Colinda arrived at Fort Victoria where the captain was acquitted of embezzlement of cargo. It is uncertain just how many passengers rejoined the vessel for the final lap of the voyage to Fort Victoria. Some, it is known, took other vessels to Vancouver Island, others, the majority of the mining families, stayed in Chile for some time working for Garland and Couzino developing the coal mines at Lota.

Captains:

Mills, John Powell	1852-1854
Reid, James Murray	1854

Ship's Company (passengers only, crew not traced):

Coleman, Henry William A.

HBC employees as passengers:

18/40 Norwegian laborers (one gunsmith & watchmaker), who made it to Vancouver Island aboard the Colinda

Anderson, Anton; Anderson, Lars; Berentzen, Hans P.; Christianson, Christian; Englebretten, Ole; Gulli, Anders; Gullickson, Johan; Halvorsen, Christian; Hansen, Anders; Hellerand, Martin Larson; Heramb, Toller; Knudsen, Even; Larson, Ole; Larson, Peter; Laturn, Paul; Neilson, Johan; Peterson, Ole [a]; Peterson, Ole [b]

PS: HBCA log of Colinda, ShMiscPap 4aa; log of Otter I [anchored at Victoria, April 18, 1854] fo. 136; Colinda search file SS: Mary Lou Stathers unpublished manuscript

Colonel Allan

Nationality: British

Ship's Owners: North West Company (operator)

Description of Ship: Brig.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1816

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: London, 1815

arr: Northwest Coast, June 1816

dep: Northwest Coast, August 1816

arr: London, probably 1817

Purpose/function/history of ship: This trading vessel (actually more a freighter than a trader) reached the Columbia River [Fort Astoria] in 1816 with trade goods. It was the last British vessel to carry North West Company furs to China from the Columbia (also see Isaac Todd, Columbia [2]); afterwards, the vessels of J. & T.H. Perkins, of Boston were contracted for the job (see Alexander, Levant, Nautilus & Houqua). Shortly after its arrival, the vessel sailed down the coast and traded with the Spanish settlements in California for specie (gold coin) and other goods. When it returned to Fort George, the valuable cargo had to be guarded round the clock. While the Colonel Allan lay at anchor at the mouth of the Columbia, the captain helped to map out the dangerous bar at the river's mouth; as well, the surgeon committed suicide with a pistol. In August, it sailed for China.

Captains:

McLellan/McLennan or Daniels

1815-1817

Ship's Company: (Only one surgeon traced)

Downie, Dr.

PS: HBCA NWCAB 1; PPS: A. Ross, The Fur Hunters, p. 59-61 SS: O'Neil, p. 243; Bancroft, History of California, v. II, p. 278; Howay, A List of Trading Vessels.

Columbia [1]

Nationality: British

Ship's Owners: Inglis Ellis & Co. and McTavish Fraser & Co.

Description of Ship: A schooner of 185 tons register, with ten nine-pounders.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1814, 1815, 1816

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: London, November 26, 1813

arr: Columbia R., June 29, 1814

(sold in Hawaii, 1818)

Purpose/function/history of ship: This vessel, owned by the principles of the North West Company, was sent out from London to not only run the furs from the Columbia to Canton also trade furs on the coast (see also Isaac Todd and Colonel Allan). After it arrived in 1814, it traded north at the Queen Charlotte Islands and Sitka before returning to Fort George [Astoria] and sailing late that year to China with the Company furs. It transported large numbers of Hawaiians to and from the Islands. Her Master Anthony Robson left the vessel at Canton March 28, 1815, and John Jennings took command. It was back at the Columbia River in July and, when it sailed north to Sitka, it found as its competitors the ships O'Cain, Isabella, and Albatross, the schooner Lydia and the brig Pedler. For the next two seasons, it repeated the same pattern and was back on the coast the following spring. Realizing the extent of the competition, it finally departed for the Hawaiian Islands on November 14, 1817 and anchored in Kawaihae Bay on December 6, 1817. Within a month the Columbia was sold to King Kamehameha I and delivered to him on May 2, 1818 at Honolulu. The officers and crew no doubt made their way from Honolulu on other vessels.

Captains:

Robson, Anthony	1813-1815
John Jennings, John	1815-1818

Ship's Company:

Abraham, William; Anderson, Peter; Andreha (Andrea), Johannes; Artigosa, Vincent; Ashton, Joseph; Baldwin, James; Belleau, Antoine; Belleau, Jean; Bethune, Angus; Bosswell (Boswell), Edward; Brown, William; Carpenter, Joseph or Jacob; Corney, Peter; Dehosrays, Juan; Delofreys, Belisaris; Dods, James; Donderfield, John; Dorion, Isidore; Edrick, Emanuel; Florianis (Florianis?), Juan; Frank, William; Gilbert, Charles; Gisser, John; Guier, John; Guinette, Antoine; Hadley, Ruben; Haft, George; Harry, George; Howse, James; Hughes, Edward; Jameison, James; John; Jones, John; Joakin, Anthony; Joakin, Frank; Junion, James; Le Plante, Louis; Limehouse, Andrew; Malcolm, William; Martin, John; Miniroe, Alexander; Namakokyan; Otto, John; Parsons, Valentine; Peterson, John; Potter, Henry; Rodgers, Yachens; Sago, Frank; Shaw, William; Smoke, Thomas; Spunyarn; Tean, Isaac; Wilson, James

PS: HBCA NWCAB 1, 3; PPS: Corney, Early Voyages, p. 69, 73, 76, 84A; Barnard, p. 94, 96 SS: Howay, A List of Trading Vessels; O'Neil, p. 254.

Columbia [2]

Nationality: British

Ship's Owners: (Not traced)

Description of Ship: A brig.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1818

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: Europe, 1817	arr: Northwest Coast, 1818
dep: Northwest Coast, unknown	arr: Europe, unknown

Purpose/function/history of ship: Columbia [2] is a mystery for its existence hinges on the word of French expedition leader Camille de Roquefeuil who encountered the Columbia [3] in August 1818 near Hecate Strait. At that point the Columbia [2] was at Hawaii and Roquefeuil claimed that Columbia [3] [Anthony Robson] had departed from Europe in November 1817. If this is accurate, Robson must have returned to Europe around 1814-1815, taken command of another Columbia, and sailed to the coast. Columbia [2] does not appear in extant North West Company records.

Captain:

Robson, Anthony	1817-1818
-----------------	-----------

Ship's Company: (Not traced)

PPS: Roquefeuil, vol. II, p. 122, 238, 241; Corney, Early Voyages p. 90; Hawaiian Historical Society Papers, No. 8, p.17f; Howay, A List of Trading Vessels

Columbia [3]

Nationality: British

Ship's Owners: Hudson's Bay Company

Description of Ship: A barque of 308 tons constructed mainly of English oak, African oak and English elm. The masts were of red pin. Built by Green, Wigram & Green, Blackwall, its length was 103 feet, breadth twenty-five feet six inches, depth eleven inches and the height between decks was six feet six inches.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1836– 1849

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

1	dep: London, Aug. 29, 1835	arr: Fort Vancouver, Mar. 19, 1836
	dep: Fort Vancouver, Nov. 12, 1836	arr: London, May 10, 1837
2	dep: London, Nov. 17, 1837	arr: Fort Vancouver, June 2, 1838
	dep: Fort Vancouver, Oct. 15, 1838	arr: London, May 20, 1839
3	dep: London, Sept. 16, 1839	arr: Fort Vancouver, April 1, 1840
	dep: Fort Vancouver, Nov. 20, 1841	arr: London, July 7, 1842
4	dep: London, Sept. 6, 1842	arr: Fort Vancouver, May 12, 1843
	dep: Fort Vancouver, Nov. 13, 1844	arr: London, May 24, 1845
5	dep: London, October 1845	arr: Fort Victoria, April 1846
	dep: Fort Victoria, Nov. 10, 1847	arr: London, spring 1848
6	dep: London, fall 1848	arr: Fort Victoria, March 17, 1849
	dep: Fort Victoria, Oct. 1849	arr: London, spring 1850

Purpose/function/history of ship: Launched in 1835, the Columbia generally made annual supply/return runs between London and the Columbia River between 1836-1849. With London as a home port, it served both the Pacific Northwest Coast posts and Sandwich Islands until April, 1850, when the HBC decided to sell the vessel.

Total ship's complement during one outfit:

- 1 master
- 1-2 officers (mates)
- 7-19 crew (apprentice seaman, boatswain, carpenter, cook, laborer, middleman, ordinary seaman, seaman)

Captains:

Darby, William	1835-1836
Royal, Robert	1836-1837
Duncan, Alexander	1837
Humphreys, Charles	1837-1844
Duncan, Alexander	1844-1848
Cooper, James	1848-1850

Ship's Company:

Ahao; Aillud, Robert J.; Allan, Magnus; Allan, Robert; Bahia; Baker, Charles; Baker, William; Barrett, Henry; Bartlett, John; Barton, George; Bec/Bichen, Henry; Bennett, George; Bennett, James; Bird, Nicholas; Blair, William; Blanchard, John?; Bonnelly, James; Borlind, Alexander; Boulton, Henry E.; Brands, Abraham or Alexander; Brasby, William; Brooks, James; Brown, Joseph; Buck, James Dowden; Buck, Jonathan; Caldicott, John W.; Camden, Thomas; Campbell, William; Cately, Edouard; Chitty, Charles; Christie, James; Clipson, Joseph; Collins, George; Coon, John; Cooper, James; Coppel, John; Corney, Peter; Cote, Francois Xavier; Cox, Francis; Cummins, James; Davis, Thomas [b]; Davis, William; Dick, James; Dockery, Robert; Doughty, Robert; Dunbar, Robert; Duncan, John; Dunn, John; Duvall, William; Dyke, Abraham; Ebony; Fawden, E. R.; Feckney, Robert; Ferrow, George; Finigan, James; Francis, Thomas; Franklin, James; Gay, Robert; Gibbs, Benjamin; Gilbert, James; Gilley, John; Glynn, John; Godfrey, John; Gordon, George; Green, William; Griffith, William [b]; Gunn, William; Hall, Joseph; Hardy, Francis; Heath, William; Henderson, Alexander York; Henly, Hugh; Hogarth, William; Holland, Abraham; Holland, Thomas; Horne, Joseph [1]; Horne, William; Howard, William; Humphreys, Charles; Hunt, Edward; Inkster, Andrew; Jack, Robert; Jackson, William [1]; Jarvis, John; Jennings, George [1]; Johnston/Johnstone, James; Kanelupu; Karooha; Keharou; Kelly, John; Kent, Matthew; Kirk, John; Kyan, John; Lackey, William; Lattie, Alexander; Lesley, Thomas; Lewis, Thomas L. (P.?) ; Lockyear, Thomas; Lodge, Martin; Lorkins, Thomas; Low, John Jr. [b]; Lucas, John; McLeod, Donald [a]; McLeod, John [f] (Jr.); Macey, Edmund; Martindale, William; Maydle, William; Miller, David; Mitchell, William; Moss, Joseph; Murphy, Henry; Murray, William; Newell, Charles; Neil, David; Nichols, John; Norgate, Abraham; Nyholm, Peter; Ohia, Charles; Outred, Aaron; Peter; Patterson, George; Paul, Charles; Pearce, Samuel; Peeo; Phillips, John; Piercy, George F.; Prattent, George; Redler, William; Rhodes, Godfrey; Richardson, Thomas; Ridley, James H.; Roberts, Edwin [1]; Robinson, George; Rye, Edwin; Savard, Joseph; Scarth, James; Schuyler, Robert S.; Simcoe, Thomas; Simpson, James; Smith, Charles; Smith, John; Smith, Robert; Spence, Joseph; Sterling, James; Stuart/Stewart, Charles E.; Stuart, John; Swanson, John; Tapow, Joseph; Taylor, Henry; Taylor, John; Thompson, John; Wade, Thomas; Walker, Andrew; Wall, Richard; Wallace, Robert or William; Wallis, Charles; Ward, Luke; Watkins, John; Watson, John; White, Alfred E.; Williams, John [c]; Willmore, John; Wilmot, John; Wilson, William [c]; Winchcomb, Henry; Wood, William

Passengers:

Aucock, John; Beaver, Rev. Herbert; Boys, William; Caesar; Holland, George; Jim; Lambert, John; McLeod, Murdoch G. [a]; Mikapako; Pa-ay-lay; Pakeokeo; Petrelius,

PS: HBCA log of Columbia 1-10; ShMiscPap , 4ab; YFDS 11-18; log of Columbia, 1844-45, HBCA C.1/1064; Miscellaneous, 1835-50, HBCA C.7/29-32; Crew lists, bills of lading, destinations, 1836-41, HBCA C.7/177, fo. 49-49d, 53-54d, 63-54, 65d-66d, 77-78, 83-83d; Columbia search file; JS: Lewis and Dryden, p. 15-17

Convoy

Nationality: American out of Boston

Ship's Owners: Josiah Marshall and Dixey Wildes of Boston
Eliab Grimes (1830s)

Description of Ship: A brig of 135 tons.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1825, 1826, 1827, 1829, 1830, 1832, 1833, 1836

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: Boston, October 25, 1824

arr: Northwest Coast, April 1825
(Not traced after 1836)

Purpose/function/history of ship: This vessel, initially under New England ownership, sailed for the Northwest Coast via Hawaii but spent the next eleven years running between Hawaii, the Northwest Coast and California and working in opposition to the Hudson's Bay Company. It spent 1825-1828 trading between the Northwest Coast and Hawaii. In 1829 it was at the mouth of the Columbia River. In July 1833, while poaching on the California coast with twenty-six Kaiganees natives, Hawaiians and others, two of its boats were lost, one which broke up and two men drowned, and another which was stolen with some prime skins. After outfitting the brig in Hawaii in 1835, Captain Bancroft sailed to Kaigani where he picked up twenty-seven hunters, most likely Kaigani Haida, from Dall and Prince of Wales Islands, Alaska. He took them to the California coast where they quarreled with other hunters; it appears that in March 1836, Bancroft sailed directly back to Honolulu with the Haida hunters on board. In April 1836, the vessel left Hawaiian Islands to return the Northwest Coast native hunters to their home territory. The vessel has not been traced further.

Captains:

McNeill, Wm. Henry	1824-1825
Dominis, John	1826
Thompson, Dixey W.	1827-1829
Bancroft, John	1835-1836

Ship's Company:

Ben; Bennett, John; Bill; Bull, John; Carter, Joseph Oliver; Cosler, John; Deon, Antonio; Fosjer. Caesar; Hall, Albert F. B.; Harry, Holland, John; Hutchins, Samuel; Jackson, William; John; Little, William C.; Low, Thomas D.; Marsh, Isaac; Moa; Richard; Robert, Samuel; Spun yarn; Wright, Augustus.

PS: HUL Columbian Centinel, October 27, 1824; CHS MS. Log of the brig Owhyhee, February 27, 1827; HMCS Stephen Reynolds MS. Journal, March 16, 19, April 1, November 2, 1825, January 14, 1826; July 24, 1833; USNA Despatches from U. S. Consuls in Honolulu, 1820-1903; PPS: HBRS IV, Captain Simpson's Report of Sept. 23, 1830, p. 305-313 JS: Howay, A List of Trading Vessels, James R. Gibson, Otter Skins, p. 307-309

Cowlitz

Nationality: English

Ship's Owners: Hudson's Bay Company

Description of Ship: This barque had the same dimensions as the Columbia and Vancouver.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1841-1850.

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

1 dep: London, August 20, 1840

arr: Fort Vancouver, March 6, 1841

	dep: Fort Vancouver, Oct. 20, 1842	arr: London, May 10, 1843
2	dep: London, Sept. 20, 1843	arr: Fort Vancouver, July 16, 1844
	dep: Fort Victoria, Dec. 18, 1845	arr: London, June 28, 1846
3	dep: London, Oct. 5, 1846,	arr: Fort Victoria, March 22, 1847
	dep: Fort Victoria, Dec. 7, 1848	arr: London, May 24, 1849
4	dep: London, Aug. 3, 1849	arr: Fort Victoria, March 17, 1850
	dep: Fort Victoria, July 9, 1850	arr: London, April 26, 1851

Purpose/function/history of ship: This vessel, which was built for the Hudson's Bay Company by Green, Wigrams & Green of Blackwall in 1840, travelled between England, the Columbia, the Alaskan posts and the Sandwich Islands. On April 25, 1850 it struck a rock in Victoria harbour and on May 18, 1850, it became grounded on a sand bank at the mouth of the Fraser River and sustained further damage. It was extensively repaired in Hawaii for its return voyage, left there on November 8, 1850 and sold in London in June 1851.

Total ship's complement during one outfit:

- 1 master (Captain or Chief Trader)
- 2 officers (mates)
- 14-18 crew members (apprentice seaman, boatswain, carpenter, cook, ordinary seaman, seaman steward)

Captains:

Brotchie, William	1841-1842
McNeill, William Henry	1842-1843
Humphreys, Charles	1844-1845
Weynton, Alexander John	1847-1850

Ship's Company:

Bartlett, John; Biggs, William; Bigmore, George; Birch, Leonard; Bird, Nicholas; Bisset, John; Blenkinsop, George; Boys, Elias; Bracebridge, John; Brodie, Robert; Brown, John [a]; Brown, John [b]; Bullock, Thomas; Burgess, Andrew; Burke, David; Christie, James; Clipson, Joseph; Cotsford, Thomas; Crawford, Andrew; Crely, John; Daines, Henry; Dalrymple, John; Davis, Thomas [a]; Dean, William; De L'Hubert, John; Dixon, George [2]; Dodd, Charles; Ella, Henry B.; Fairfoul, William; Ford, George; Fox, John; Gale, Richard; Garret, John; Gerrard, George; Gilbert, James; Goodfellow, John; Green, William; Haries, Gilbert; Harrier, John; Harris, William; Heald, Edward; Heath, William; Horne, Joseph; Hunt, Edward; James, Tobias; Jennings, George [1]; Johnstone, James; Jones, Daniel; Jonkins/Jenkins, James; Kendrick, Thomas; Kennedy, Thomas; King, Alexander; Kingston, William; Kirk, William; Lawrence, Robert; Lawson, Peter; Lewis, Herbert G.; Lewis, Peter; Lewis, Samuel; Linden, George; Little, Thomas; McCarthy, Jeremiah; Mickelfield, George; Miles, James; Millar, Joseph; Moad, George; Moir, John; Morgan, Josiah; Murray, Lewis; Nichols, John; Norgate, Abraham; Onkenden, Nelson; Orbell, Arthur; Park, Alfred; Pearce, Samuel; Piercy, George Frederick; Raddon, Lewis; Reeves, James; Ritchie, John; Roberts, Edwin; Roberts, Owen; Robertson, James; Rogers, Thomas; Rowland, William; Sangster, James; Simmonds, James; Simpson, James [1]; Smith, John [1]; Smith, George; Stanton, George; Sterne, Henry; Sutherland, John; Swanson, John; Taylor, George [2]; Thomas, William; Tobias, James; Tomkins, James; Tubb, George; Vaughan, Edward; Watson, William; Weller, Joseph/Joshua; Westthorp, Samuel; Williams, Frederick; Williams, Henry; Wilson, James

Passengers:

Blundell, John Shadrach; Chapman, John; Humphrey, Charles; Moffat, Hamilton; Parrott, Edward; Rendall, James; Ribbons, Richard; Rudland, William; Venn, John

PS: HBCA YFDS 12-13, 15-16, 18-19; log of Comlitz, 1-9; Portledge Book, 1844-60, C.3/7; SandIsIC 2; Comlitz search file.

Diamond

Nationality: British

Ship's Owners: Carter and Bonus of Leadenhall Street, London

Description of Ship: A barque.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1842

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: London, December 1842

arr: Fort Vancouver, June 30, 1843

Purpose/function/history of ship: Little is known of the Diamond that was chartered by the Hudson's Bay Company for one run to the coast. It made a non-stop run to Fort Victoria for the Puget Sound Agricultural Company and also carried goods for the Russian American Company. After that it was free but John McLoughlin negotiated with the captain to take a cargo of produce to Oahu.

Captain:

Bartholomew Fowler

1842-1843

Ship's Company: (Two apprentices and a passenger only traced)

Franklin, James; (Leese, Jacob); Wallis, Charles

PS: HBCA PSACAB 29; Diamond Search file; FtVanCB 31 fo. 192d

Diana

Nationality: American

Ship's Owners: Marshall and Wildes (1827)

Russian American Fur Company (1827-?)

Mr. French, French & Co., (Oahu) (?-1836)

Description of Ship: 195 or 199 ton brig.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1827-1837

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: (pre-1826 untraced)

arr: Northwest Coast, 1827

Purpose/function/history of ship: This trading vessel appeared to serve a variety of functions on the Northwest Coast and was probably mainly involved in the transport of goods. Over the years it went through different ownership transporting goods to and from Sitka for the Russians. John Ebbets died aboard the Diana in 1835 at sea between Canton and the Sandwich Islands and, in 1837 under new ownership, it was chartered by Dr. White and a party of missionaries. (See Malloy for a more extensive description.)

Captains:

Blanchard, Andrew

1827

Carter, Joseph O.

1833-1836

Hinckley, Mr.

1837

Ship's Company: (One passenger and a seaman only traced)

Ebbets, John; Griffiths, William

PS: HBCA FtVanCB 12, 17; USNA Desphon; HU-Wid ColCent, March 5, 1836 [death of Ebbets aboard Diana]; ShMiscPap 4a; SandIsLonIC 1 SS: Malloy, p. 96

Dolly, later the Jane

Nationality: American and then British out of Fort Astoria

Ship's Owners: Pacific Fur Company (Astor) (1811-1813) as Dolly

Northwest Company (1814) as Jane

Description of Ship: A small schooner of about ten tons (although also reports at twenty-five tons and thirty tons).

Years on N. W. Coast: 1811, 1812, 1813

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: n/a

Purpose/function/history of ship: Named after Astor's daughter Dorothea and originally intended for coastal use by Astor who had no idea of the conditions of the coast, the frame of this small vessel was built on the east coast and shipped out to the future site of Fort Astoria aboard the Tonquin. There it was assembled, launched October 2, 1811 and used as a ferry between ships and the fort. According to Alexander Ross, "having made two or three trips up the river, she was condemned, and laid aside altogether as useless." It was dismantled and laid up, then re-rigged and placed in commission. In 1814, the Dolly became the property of the North West Company and was renamed the Jane, in honor of Jane Barnes, the flaxen haired barmaid.

Captain:

Mumford, William P.

1811-1812?

Ship's Company: (Not traced)

PPS: ChSoc XLV p. 91, 91n; Franchère, p. 58; SS: Howay, A List of Trading Vessels; A. Ross, Adventures, p. 153-54.

Dryad

Nationality: British out of London

Ship's Owners: Cotfield & Shepherd (1825-1829)

Hudson's Bay Company (1829-1836)

Peter Ainsley (1836-?)

Description of Ship: A brig of 204 tons built at Fishborn, Isle of Wight in 1825. She was described as "a handsome moulded vessel, with bust head, sham galleries and flush deck. She was wood sheathed over patent felt and coppered.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1826, 1830-1835

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

1	dep: London, 1825	arr: Fort Vancouver, June 1, 1826
	dep: Fort Vancouver Sept. 7, 1826	arr: London, 1827
2	dep: London, January 1830	arr: Fort Vancouver, Aug. 16, 1830
	dep: Fort Vancouver, October 1, 1835	arr: London, April 1836

Purpose/function/history of ship: This vessel was chartered by the Hudson's Bay Company in 1825-1827 to carry the outfits to Fort Vancouver. It was then purchased in 1829 for trade service in the Columbia where she remained till 1835 when she left for London with returns of the year. She was sold in 1836 to Peter Ainsley for £1450.

Captains:

Davidson, James	1825-1826
Dunn, A.	1826-1827
Minors, John	1829-1830
Simpson, Aemilius	1830-1831
Duncan, Alexander	1831-1833
Kipling, Charles	1832-1836

Ship's Company:

Alder, Bryan; Allen, Robert; Barton, George; Bec, Henry; Blackey, James; Brothie, William; Burdett, Stephen E.; Butt, William Edward; Calder, John/Jack; Calder, Peter; Campbell, Archibald; Cluet, Charles; Coleman, William; Collyer, Charles; Coppell, John; Crisp, Isaac; Curtis, James; Curtis, William; Davis, Thomas; Duncan, Alexander; Dunn, John; Edwards, John; Flinn, John; Fraser, Charles; Frobisher, Thomas; Green, William; Hanson, Ephraim; Harnes, John; Harmsworth, H.; Harry, Jack; Henderson, Alexander; Johnson, Andrew; Johnstone, James [d]; Jones, Joseph; Lackey, William; Langley, George; Lennon, John; Lodge, Martin; McGillivray, Hector; Momuto, George; Myers, John; Newman, Jonas; Oagh, Richard; Osborne, James; Parker, George; Parsons, Samuel; Penwell, Lieven; Perry, William; Piercy, George Frederick; Ridley, James Henry; Roberts, George B.; Robertson/Robinson, David; Robson, James; Rye, Edwin; Sayer, Robert/Thomas; Scarborough, James; Shoosmith, Stephen F.; Smith, William [b];

Smith, William [c]; Staniford, Benjamin; Sterling, James; Stewart, Robert; Taylor, James [a/b]; Taylor, James [c]; Toi-o-foi; True, Alfred; Ward, John C.; Washington, George; Wavicareea; Whitaker, Robert; Williams, William; Wilson, James; Wood, Thomas; Young, Robert

Passengers:

Breck, William; Brieson, Charles; Crouch, Joseph; Ryan, William; Sinclair, John; Whittier, Phineas;

PS: HBCA YFDS 5b, 6; log of Dryad 1, 2; ShMiscPap 6, 14, 187; Dryad search file; PPS: HBRS vol. IV, p. 25.

Eagle

Nationality: British out of London

Ship's Owners: Hudson's Bay Company

Description of Ship: A 193 tons register brigantine built in Lynn, Norfolk, England, in 1824, and had a flush deck and figurehead.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1827-1834

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

1	dep: London, late 1827	arr: Fort Vancouver, May 20, 1828
	dep: Fort Vancouver, June 30, 1828	arr: London Feb. 13, 1829
2	dep: London, late 1829 or 1830	arr: Fort Vancouver June 30, 1830
	dep: Fort Vancouver, c. Oct. 1, 1830	arr: London April 18, 1831
3	dep: London, 1831 or 1832	arr: Fort Vancouver June 18, 1832
	dep: Fort Vancouver, Oct 1832	arr: London, 1833
4	dep: London: Dec. 5, 1833	arr: Fort Vancouver Nov. 2, 1834
	dep: Fort Vancouver, Nov. 1834	arr: London June 4, 1835

Purpose/function/history of ship: This supply ship, built in 1824 and bought in 1827 by the Hudson's Bay Company for its Columbia trade, spent most of its time running between London and the Columbia. In 1834 it was temporarily transferred to the Columbia trade. After it arrived back in London on June 4, 1835, the HBC decided to sell her four months later. That same month the Eagle, however, was put on the Hudson Bay-York Factory run but on July 27-28 it became stranded on rocks off Button Island, near the entrance to Hudson Strait. The ship had to winter in Hayes River and return to London and in October 1837, after leaving Fort Chimo, it was making two inches of water per hour. As it was not worth repairing, in December 7, 1837, the Eagle was sold to G. & H. A. Castle for £1140.

Captains:

Grave, John Costellow	1827-1832
Darby, William	1833-1835
Humphreys, Charles	1836-1837

Ship's Company:

Allen, Robert [a]; Baker, Charles; Batten, William; Binnington, Joseph; Bonnelly, James; Bowers, John; Briggs, Joseph; Briggs, William; Brooks, Richard; Burr, John; Cain, William; Caldicott, John W.; Campbell, Archibald; Clerk, William; Colbath, Nathan; Cole, William; Coleman, William; Coon, John; Cooper, James; Corney, Peter; Curtis, William; Davis, Thomas [b]; Davis, William; Dawkins, James; Edwards, John; Elliot, Robert; Esterby, Nathaniel; Fillier, George; Flinn, John; Francis, Thomas; Fraser, Charles; Gray, William; Handly, William; Harmes, John; Harrison, Joseph; Henry, Joseph; Hersey, Joseph; Hetherington, Alexander; Hodson, Joseph; Hughes, John; Johnstone, Robert; Jones, Joseph; Kelly, John; Kent, Mathew; Keuvero, John; Langley, George; Lodge, Martin; Low, John; McCarthy, John; McKenzie, Alexander; McLachan, Robert; Murray, William; Nicolls, Robert; Osborne, James; Philips, John; Poucher, William; Ralph, Joseph; Riley, Samuel; Roberts, Peter; Robertson, William; Robinson, John; Rodgers, William; Rye, Edwin; Sangster, James; Smith, William; Smith, William [a]; Staniford, Benjamin; Sterling/Starling, James; Tyler, William; Ulderich, William; Williams, John [b]; Wilson, William [b]; Wood, Thomas; Young, Robert

Passengers:

Ashworth, C. Howard; Boki; Burditt, Stephen Edmunds; Fight, John; Hanson, Ephraim; Harris, Harry; Iwakichi; Kawero, Tom; Kyukichi; Minors, John; Namahana; Newman, Jonas; Otokichi; Sergeant, Greely; Tourawhyheene; Tuarumaka, Jack; Turwia, Jack;

Europa

Nationality: American out of Boston

Ship's Owners: William H. Boardman & John Suter

Description of Ship: A ship of 253 tons.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1834, 1835, 1836

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: Boston, 1833?

arr: Northwest Coast, spring 1834

(untraced beyond 1836)

Purpose/function/history of ship: This vessel, built in 1822 in New Bedford, traded on the Coast in 1834 but was ordered by the Russians to leave Russian territory because of the expiry of the ten-year 1824 trading treaty between Russia and the USA. The Europa returned to Oahu where shipping protests were made. The following year it traded south of the Russian controlled panhandle and encountered a Hudson's Bay Company vessel at the Queen Charlotte Islands. In 1836, it was back in Sitka trading under a different captain and from that point on, until at least 1840, sailed in the Pacific.

Captains:

Allen, Peter

1833?-1835

Winkworth, Mr.

1836

Ship's Company:

French, William

PS: USNA DespHon; HBCA Duncan Finlayson's Sept. 29, 1836 Fort McLoughlin letter to John McLoughlin, FtVanCB 12, fo. 23d; SandIsLonIC 1; HMCS SReynolds] PPS: Work, The Journal of John Work, January [encounter, May 17, 1835] p. 42 JS: Bancroft, History of the Northwest, Malloy, p. 101.

Forager

Nationality: British

Ship's Owners: Carter & Bonus

Description of Ship: A ship of 250 tons.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1840

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: London January 1840

arr: Fort Vancouver Oct 8, 1840

dep: Fort Vancouver Oct. 26, 1840

arr: London 1841

Purpose/function/history of ship: This vessel was chartered by the Hudson's Bay Company for £2000 for one run of HBC and PSAC supplies to the Columbia. It sailed from London in January 1840, but was detained in the English Channel until February before it was able to continue. It stopped at the Sandwich Islands and delivered an outfit there before entering the Columbia River on September 7th. It made only one fur-trade related voyage to the coast.

Captain:

Thompson, George

1839-1840

Ship's Company: (None traced)

Passengers:

Edgar, John; Lewes, Adolphus Lee; Carless, Joseph; Carless, Mrs.

PS: HBCA FtVanCB 28; Forager search file; HMCS SReynolds]

Ganymede

Nationality: English out of London

Ship's Owners: 1828-1830 Richard Drew; 1830-1837 Hudson's Bay Company; 1837+ W. Mulley

Description of Ship: A barque of 213 tons, built at Chepstow in 1827.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1829, 1831, 1833, 1835, 1836?

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

#1	dep: Plymouth Sept. 16, 1828	arr: Fort Vancouver May 1829
	dep: Fort Vancouver Fall 1829	arr: London May 21, 1830
#2	dep: London Nov. 1830	arr: Fort Vancouver 1831
	dep: Fort Vancouver Nov. 1831	arr: London 1832
#3	dep: London Sept. 15, 1832	arr: Fort Vancouver May 13, 1833
	dep: Fort Vancouver Aug. 18, 1833	arr: London Feb. 24, 1834
	To Moose Factory, June 6, 1834, arriving back in London, November 9, 1834
#4	dep: London Dec. 10, 1834	arr: Fort Vancouver Aug. 5, 1835
	dep: Columbia River, May 3, 1836	arr: London March 25, 1837

Purpose/function/history of ship: The Ganymede was chartered by the Hudson's Bay Company from 1828-1830 for its Columbia supply run/furs return before it was actually purchased by them in 1830. On its first voyage, it sailed from Plymouth with the William and Ann but parted from it a few days later in a heavy gale. The William and Ann came to grief at the mouth of the Columbia and the Ganymede nearly did. On May 30, 1830, it arrived back in England via Van Dieman Land and was purchased by the Company. For the next four years, it continued to take outfit supplies to the Columbia and in 1834 did a single run to Hudson's Bay before returning to the Columbia run. It continued for one more run to the Columbia and after several stops in South America, on June 5, 1837, was sold to W. Mully for £1700. The vessel has not been traced from that point.

Captains:

Hayne, Leonard John	1828-1830
Kipling, Charles	1830-1831
Ryan, William	1831-1832
Royal, Robert	1832-1834
Eales, William	1834-1837

Ship's Company:

Alder, Bryan; Allen, Robert; Antoine, Emanuel; Barton, George; Binnington, Joseph; Blackey, James; Blyth, Andrew; Boulton, Henry E.; Brieson, Charles; Brooks, Richard; Brotchie, William; Brown, John [8]; Buck, James D; Burr, John; Clark, John; Clarke, Thomas William; Cluet, Charles; Coon, John; Crisp, Isaac; Crouch, Joseph; Curtis, James; Davis, Thomas [a]; Davison, John; Debhors, Alexander; Denison, Edward; Duncan, Alexander; Duncan, Peter; John Dunn; Eales, William; Ferguson, Samuel; Fraser, Samuel (Charles); Griffiths, William; Hamilton, William; Harmsworth, Henry; Harry, Jack; Heath, William; Hume, Thomas; John, Thomas; Johns, William; Johnson, Andrew; Johnstone, James [d]; Kipling, Charles; Kyan, John; Lattey, Alexander; Lennon, John; Loader, Charles; Lord, Ethbridge; McCarthy, John; McGarry, William or James; McLeod, William; Malcolm, John; Mannock, William; Moar, Andrew; Newman, Jonas; Nichols, Robert; Oagh, Richard; Parsons, Samuel; Poucher, William; Purchase, George; Roberts, George Barber; Robson, James; Royal, Langley; Ryan, William; Smith, John; Stanfield, Thomas; Staniford, Benjamin; Stewart, Robert; Stubbs, Thomas; Tamoree, George; Taylor, James; Taylor, John; Thomas, John; True, Alfred; Vincent, Joseph; Wade, Thomas; Wade, William; Williams, John [b]; Wilson, James; Wilson, William [c]; Woodworth, John

Passengers:

Gairdner, Meredith; Keekanah; Lahaina; Marrouna; Popoay; Sinclair, Thomas [a]; Timeoy; Tolmie, William Fraser

PS: HBCA YFDS 4b-5c; ShMiscPap 7, 14 PPS: HBRS IV, p. 72 note 2; Ganymede search file JS: Gibson, Otter Skins, p. 308-09; Lewis and Dryden, p. 14

Harpooner

Nationality: British

Ship's Owners: Samuel Henry Wright, Mount Street, Grosvenor Square, London

Description of Ship: A ship built in 1830.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1849

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: London Nov. 29, 1848

arr: Fort Victoria May 31, 1849

dep: Fort Victoria 1849

arr: London 1850

Purpose/function/history of ship: In 1848 the Harpooner was under charter to the Hudson's Bay Company and brought out miners and labourers to start up the HBC mine at Fort Rupert and eight independent settlers under a scheme by Captain Walter C. Grant to settle southern Vancouver Island. Those individuals in brackets were colliers or independent settlers and do not appear in the biographies.

Captain: (Not traced)

Ship's Company:

Boys, Elias

Passengers:

Benson, Alfred R.; Berwick, William; (Flett, John); (Fraser, William); (Grant, Capt. Walter C.); (McDonald, William); (McDonald, William); (McGregor, John); (McLeod, John); (Morrison, James); (Muir, Andrew); (Muir, Archibald); (Muir, John Jr.); (Muir, Michael); (Muir, Robert); (Munro, Thomas); (Rose, James); Tolmie, Thomas; Walker, William; Yates, James

PS: HBCA Harpooner search file; BCA Diar-Rem, Muir; SS: Ireland, p. 94

Houqua

Nationality: American out of Boston

Ship's Owners: J. & T. H. Perkins and J. P. Cushing

Description of Ship: A ship of 339 tons burthen.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1822

Departures & Arrivals:

dep: Boston, Nov. 3, 1821

arr: Northwest Coast, 1822

dep: Northwest Coast, summer 1822

arr: Boston (Not traced)

Purpose/function/history of ship: The Houqua was the last of the Perkins' ships to carry the furs of the North West Company or of the Hudson's Bay Company to Canton. The maiden voyage of this supply/trading vessel, built at South Boston in 1819 and named after a prominent Chinese merchant, was an 1819-1820 direct sailing to Canton and return. On her first voyage to the Northwest Coast for the NWC in 1821-1822, it carried sketches for entering the Columbia River. Her lading was on account of the combined companies now operating under the HBC name, the union having occurred in March, 1821, only seven months before she sailed. From the Columbia River, she carried to Canton beaver and land otter skins arriving at Whampoa on September 28, 1822. From Canton she sailed for Europe and on April 24, 1823 was at Hamburg to set to sail shortly for Boston. That voyage didn't occur, for she was at Hamburg in December 1825, and on March 6, 1826, was at Gravesend bound for Manila. It sailed to the Hawaiian Islands in 1829 and, in 1846, the Houqua was sold to New Bedford owners for a whaler. It was wrecked in the Arctic Ocean in 1851.

Captains:

Nash, Joshua

captain

1821-1823+

Blanchard, William

captain

1829

Ship's Company: (Not traced)

PS: HU-Wid ColCent, November 7, 1821, May 10, June 11, 1823, February 8, April 5, 1826; Boston Commercial Gazette, June 8, 1822, February 20, 1823 PPS: Boston MS Register of Ships as in Howay SS: Briggs, vol. 2, p. 567, 796; G. Simpson, Fur Trade, p. 177, 191, 205; Howay, A List of Trading Vessels, p. 153; Judd, [Blanchard in Honolulu, 1829] p. 51; Malloy, p. 112

Isaac Todd

Nationality: British out of London, England

Ship's Owners: North West Company

Description of Ship: A ship of 350 tons.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1814

Voyage Departures & Arrivals:

dep: Portsmouth, Eng., March 25, 1813

arr: Fort George [Astoria] April 23, 1814

dep: Fort George [Astoria] Sept. 26, 1814

arr: England 1815

Purpose/function/history of ship: Named after a Montreal merchant, the slow sailing Isaac Todd was used for regular fur and supply runs from Montreal to England and back. However, during the war of 1812, it became a letter of marque vessel that sailed from Portsmouth March 25, 1813 with orders to seize Fort Astoria from its Pacific Fur Company owners. It almost didn't sail as several of the voyageurs ashore at Portsmouth became drunk, were arrested and pressed into military service. However, an appeal to the Port Admiral had them released. Convoyed by the British frigate Phoebe, and carrying Jane Barnes who was the temporary consort to Donald MacTavish, the Isaac Todd put into San Francisco harbour for the winter before it reached Astoria. When it did arrive after its nine month voyage, the fort had already been transferred to the North West Company and the Isaac Todd became the first vessel to take NWC furs from the Pacific coast to China and convey tea to England. It returned to England with Jane Barnes on board.

Captain:

Hillier, Captain

1813-1815

Ship's Company:

Black, Mr.; Fraser, Alexander; McKenzie, Alexander; McTavish, Alexander

Passengers:

Barnes, Jane; Bethune, Angus; Jennings, John; McTavish, Donald

PS: CNA Corres-1899, p. 10; PPS: Coues, p. 762, 893, 894; Cox, p. 139; Corney, Voyages in the Northern, p. 27; ChSoc LVII, p. 27, 28, 31; SS: Howay, A List of Trading Vessels

Isabella

Nationality: English

Ship's Owners: Messrs Gilmour & Richardson (?-1829)

Hudson's Bay Company (1829-1830)

Description of Ship: A brig or snow of about 195 tons, built at Shoreham, Sussex, England.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1830

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: Blackwall, England, Oct. 29, 1829

(wrecked on Columbia bar May 3, 1830)

Purpose/function/history of ship: The Isabella worked in the British maritime trade up to 1829 and, on October 10, 1829, the HBC purchased it for £2900 to replace the William and Ann on the northwest coast trade. She sailed from Blackwall on October 30, 1829 in company with the HBC brig Eagle and ran aground on entering the Columbia on May 3, 1830. The rudder broke and the crew began unloading all the cargo and stores to lighten the vessel. By June 4, 1830, the vessel was abandoned and the crew, which had proceeded to Fort Vancouver, and most of the cargo were saved.

Captain:

Captain Ryan

1829-1830

Ship's Company: (Crew of twelve)

Allen/Allan (a), Robert; Campbell, Archibald; Clarke, Thomas William; Dennison, Edward; Eales, William; Flinn, John; Johns/Jones, William; Johnstone, James [d]; Kennedy, Dr. John F. [b]; McLeod, Angus; McLeod, William; Scarborough, James; Sterling, James; Wilson, William [c]; Wood, Thomas

PS: HBCA log of Isabella 1; FtVanASA 2; FtVanCB 6; ShMiscPap 7a; Isabella search file; SS: Lewis & Dryden, p. 14

Lama (Llama)Nationality: American and then BritishShip's Owners: Wm. H. McNeill? (?-1832)

Hudson's Bay Company (1832-1837)

Captain John Bancroft (1837-1839)

Charles Brewer (1839-?)

Description of Ship: A Boston brigantine, built in 1826, of about 145 tons, seventy-six feet six inches in length and nineteen feet nine inches in breadth. One deck, two masts, was rigged, had a square stern, no galleries and a billet head of Boston. It was coppered and was copper fastened.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1829-1838, 1841 (?)Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep:	Boston, October 7, 1830	arr:	Kygarny, April 20, 1831
dep:	Sandwich Islands, September 1832 arr.		Fort George [Astoria], October 14, 1832

Purpose/function/history of ship: The Lama, launched in 1826, apparently cruised the Pacific Northwest Coast from 1829-1830 but this cannot be substantiated. Extant records indicate it departed Boston in 1830, was at Oahu March 11-29 and arrived at Kygarny in April. It was McNeill's fifth trip around the Horn and, he vowed, his last. In August 1832, it was purchased from McNeill for $5,000 in Hawaii by Chief Factor Finlayson to replace the small sixty ton

Vancouver. From that point on it sailed the coast down to San Francisco and, in 1834, partook in the rescue of three enslaved Japanese from Cape Flattery, transporting them to Fort Vancouver. By December 1835 it was judged too small for the trade; as well, it could not be sent to Britain since it had American registry. As a result, the Governor and Committee recommended it be sold or broken up. The next year, in December 1836, it was sent to San Francisco for sale and on January 19, 1837, an agreement was struck to sell it to Captain John Bancroft who would pay for it in sea otter skins. Captain Bancroft was killed in 1838 and the vessel was returned to the Hawaiian Islands where it was purchased in January 1839 by Charles Brewer for $6,566. By 1841-1842, under Captain C. Jones and with a crew out of Boston, it was running general merchandise around the Hawaiian Islands and to Central and South America. It has not been further traced.

Captains:

McNeill, William Henry	1830-1836
Brotchie, William	1836-1837
Sangster, James	1837
Bancroft, John	1837-1838
Blinn, Richard D.	1839
Jones, C.	1840-1841

Ship's Company:

Allan, Robert; Baker, Charles; Belsey, John; Berry, Bernerd; Boki, Bonnelly, James; Brooks, Richard; Buck, James Dowden; Burditt, Stephen; Burr, John; Calder, Peter; Cole, William; Coon, John; Cooper, James; Coppel, John; Davis, Thomas [a]; Davis, Thomas [b]; Davis, William; Dean, John; Duncan, Peter; Eales, William; Eaton, Theodore; Ferguson, Samuel; Gray, William; Grennell, Francis; Griffiths, William; Handly, William; Hanson, Ephraim; Hardy, Francis; Harmsworth, Henry; Harris, Harry; Hersey, Joseph; Hurst, Milton; Jack, John; Kelly, John; Kent, Matthew; Kyan, John;

Lattey, Alexander; Lodge, Martin; Lorkins, Thomas; McAulay, Donald; McGillivray, Hector; Manoa, Joseph; Murray, William; Oagh, Richard; Osborne, James; Parsons, William; Perry, Thomas; Poucher, William; Riley, Samuel; Robertson, William; Robinson, John; Rodgers, William; Sangster, James; Sayer, Thomas; Scarborough, James; Spence, Joseph; Sterling, James; Stokum, Richard; Tamoree, Joe; Tuaha; Tyler, William; Ulderich, William; Ward, John; Whittaker, Robert

Passengers:

Horapapa, John

PS: BCA log of Lama 1; HBCA YFDS 6-8; FtVanCB 8, 15, 17; Governor's decision to sell, HBCA A.6/23, fo. 152d-153; to San Francisco for sale HBCA B.223/b/15, fo. 59d-60; ShMiscPap 14; Lama search file; HMCS SReynoldsJ; JS: Gibson, Otter Skins, p. 308-10;

Levant

Nationality: American out of Boston

Ship's Owners: J. & T. H. Perkins

Description of Ship: A ship of 264 tons, built in Charlestown, Massachusetts in 1801.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1818-1820

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

1	dep: Boston, October 17, 1817	arr: Columbia River, July 10, 1818
	dep: Columbia River, 1818	arr: Boston, May 1819
2	dep: Boston, November 5, 1819	arr: Columbia River, spring 1820
	dep: Columbia River, May 25, 1820	arr: New York, March 10, 1821

Purpose/function/history of ship: This is one of the Perkins' vessels (see also Alexander, Nautilus and Houqua) which bought North West Company goods to the Columbia and transported furs to Canton. It was done by the NWC to avoid East India Company licensing and was a cargo vessel rather than a trader. On its journey out it spent over three months at Valparaiso getting wood and water and, after unloading its cargo at the Columbia, returned to Boston via China. The second voyage was similar but it returned to New York, rather than Boston.

Captain:

Carey, Charles

1817-1821

Ship's Company: (Two seamen only traced)

Hamilton, James; Stanwood, James

PS: NY-PL log of Levant; HU-Wid ColCent, October 18, 22, 1817, [Valparaiso story] May 5, September 30, 1818, May 22, November 5, 1819 March 4, 17, 1821; JS: O'Neil, p. 243, 266; S. E. Morrison, "Boston Traders," p. 173; Howay, A List of Trading Vessels; Malloy, p. 123

Lively

Nationality: British

Ship's Owners: Robert Ritchie

Description of Ship: Brig.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1823

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: London, 1822?	arr: Fort George, July 15, 1823
dep: Fort George, August 6, 1823	arr: London, March 24, 1824

Purpose/function/history of ship: The Lively was a brig of unknown dimensions chartered by the Hudson's Bay Company on September 4, 1822 from its owner and captain. It made only one voyage to the coast as a supply vessel that brought back the fur returns. As well, the log begins on January 3, 1823 at the Cape of Good Hope (from which it sails west to Cape Horn) and ends in London, March 25, 1824.

Captain:

Ritchie, Robert

1822-1824

Ship's Company:

Burstall, Nathaniel; Emmons, James; Forbes, William; Hartridge, H. M.; Homock, Charles Aug.; Irvine, John; Miller, John; Purvis, James; Williamson, Robert; Worth, John

PS: HBCA log of Lively; Lively search file.

Mary Dare

Nationality: English

Ship's Owners: (untraced 1842-1846)

Hudson's Bay Company (1846-1854)

William Sandler (1854-?)

Description of Ship: A 149 ton brig 77.6 feet by 19.5 feet by 12.4 feet, built at Bridport, Dorset, England in 1842.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1846-1853

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: London, November 3, 1846

arr: Fort Victoria, May 23, 1847 on coast: mainly between Fort Vancouver and Victoria and Honolulu, 1847-53

dep: Fort Victoria, December 14, 1853

arr: England, May 27, 1854

Purpose/function/history of ship: The Mary Dare was purchased by the Hudson's Bay Company in the summer of 1846 sailing to the Pacific Northwest in that year. After arriving on the coast, it spent the next six years as a supply ship between Forts Vancouver and Victoria and the Sandwich Islands. Around 1848 it was converted to a brigantine and in 1854 returned to England where it was sold, in July of that year to William Sandler of Vivenhose, near Colchester, Essex.

Captains:

Cooper, James

1847-1848

Scarborough, James Allan

1848-1850

Mouatt, William A.

1851-1854

Ship's Company:

Bahia; Balls, George; Barber, Richard; Berwick, William; Blair, William; Bowen, William; Brown, William [f]; Boys, Elias; Boys, William; Brown, William [b]; Brown, William [b/f]; Casgha, Michel; Chapman, John; Dixon, George; Duncan, John; Ella, Henry B.; Frame, Thomas G.; Gale, Richard; Griffiths, Thomas J.; Hammond, J.W. or Thos.; Hogarth, William; Horne, Joseph; Kennedy, Thomas; Kimber, Edward; Kingston, William; McLeod, Archibald; Martindale, William; Miller, George; Moore, Edward; Mott, Charles W.; Mouatt, William A.; Nevin, Charles A.; Pakee; Peeo; Raddon, Robert; Sinclair, John [2]; Smith, William [3]; Swanson, John; Tahenna; White, Thomas; Williams, Frederick; Williams, Roberts [1]; Williamson, Joseph

PS: HBCA description HBCA A.7/1, fo. 68d; 1846 departure, C.1/504; Portledge Book [1844-60] C.3/7; YFDS 18-23; Miscellaneous, 1846-48, HBCA C/92; Map of route 1846-47, HBCA G.3/893, 888; log of Mary Dare 1-4; Mary Dare search file.

Maryland

Nationality: American out of Boston

Ship's Owners: Philip Cushing of Newburyport, Massachusetts

Description of Ship: One hundred ton brig, built at Wareham in 1830.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1840

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: (dates not traced)

Purpose/function/history of ship: The Maryland functioned as a trading vessel in opposition to the Hudson's Bay Company on the Columbia. This brig, under John H. Couch, first entered the Columbia on June 15, 1840, salted one hundred barrels of salmon at Willamette Falls and left on September 23 for New England leaving George W. LeBreton to oppose the HBC at the falls. According to Bancroft, Couch sold the Maryland in Hawaii and returned to Newburyport by other means. The vessel has not been traced further.

Captains:

Couch, John H.	1840
Blinn, Richard	1841
Newell, Mr.	1841

Ship's Company: (Not traced)

PS: HBCA FtVanCB 28-29, 33; JS: Bancroft, History of Oregon, vol. 1, p. 245; Malloy, p. 131

May Dacre

Nationality: American

Ship's Owners: Several owners, one of which was Nathaniel J. Wyeth.

Description of Ship: 194 ton brig, built in Calais, Maine in 1833.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1834-1835

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: Boston, January 1834	arr: Northwest Coast, September 14, 1834
dep: Northwest Coast, Dec. 1834	arr: Boston, 1835?

Purpose/function/history of ship: This supply ship was part of Nathaniel J. Wyeth's Columbia River Fishing and Trading Company and was never involved with furs. On its way to the coast it was struck by lightening and lost three months at Valparaiso undergoing repairs. In November 1834, two months after reaching the coast, the vessel sailed to the Sandwich Islands with timber, etc., and returned in the spring with cattle, sheep, goats, etc. As goods could be brought more cheaply to the Sandwich Islands by whalers and other vessels could be hired to bring goods to the coast, the vessel was sent back in December 1834 and sold in Boston in 1836.

Captain:

Lambert, James L.	1834-1836
-------------------	-----------

Ship's Company:

Trask, Elbridge

Passengers: (Eleven of twenty Hawaiians traced)

Adams, George; Bule, Tom; Bull; Deblo; Dick; Dido; Isaac; King, Bill; Lawler, Jack; Parker, Harry; Tommy

PS: HBCA YFASA 14; FtVanCB 10-11; USNA DespHon; HMCS SReynoldsJ PPS: N. J. Wyeth; Townsend, "Narrative of a Journey Across the Rocky Mountains to the Columbia River and a Visit to the", p. 177; Malloy, p. 131.

Nautilus

Nationality: American out of Boston

Ship's Owners: J. & T. H. Perkins and John P. Cushing

Description of Ship: A ship of 340 tons, built in Boston in 1818.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1819

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: Boston, October 19, 1818

arr: Columbia River, February 11, 1819

dep: Columbia River, spring 1819

arr: Boston, April 1823

Purpose/function/history of ship: This American vessel was contracted by the Northwest Company to take its furs to Canton to avoid East India Company licensing fees. After picking up furs at Fort George [Astoria] on the Columbia River, it sailed for the Hawaiian Islands, where it arrived some time in May 1819. Resuming its voyage she reached Macao on July 23, 1819, bringing the news of the death on May 8, 1819 of Kamehameha I, the King of the Hawaiian Islands. With its furs delivered, it left Canton on October 2, 1820 for Europe, and was at Cowes, February 7, 1821. After visiting the continent she returned to London where she loaded for India. It returned to Boston in 1823, was sold as a whaler in 1829 to New Bedford and was eventually lost off the coast of South America in 1843.

Captain:

Pearson, Charles

1818-1821?

Ship's Company: (Not traced)

PS: HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 14, p. 44; HU-Wid ColCent, October 21, 1818, September 8, December 29, 1819, February 16, 1820, March 29, May 30, June 12, 1821 SS: Howay, A List of Trading Vessels

Nereide

Nationality: British

Ship's Owners: (untraced owner[s] from 1821-1833)

Hudson's Bay Company (1833-c.1840)

Joseph Somes, Ratcliffe, London (1840-?)

Description of Ship: A 253 ton barque armed with ten carronades (short large-calibred guns).

Years on N. W. Coast: 1834, 1835, 1836, 1837, 1838, 1839

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

1 dep: London May 4, 1833

arr: Fort Vancouver, April 21, 1834

dep: Fort Vancouver May 28, 1834

arr: London May 28, 1835

2 dep: London November 11, 1835 (but rerigged December 1835)

arr: Fort Vancouver, September 6, 1836

Runs along coast and the Sandwich Islands, 1836-39

dep: Fort Vancouver October 8, 1839

arr: London (c.1840)

Purpose/function/history of ship: Built in Kidderpore in 1821, and bought by the Hudson's Bay Company in 1833 for £3,650, the Nereide made two runs to the Coast. Although it was an impressive looking vessel and was able to work off a lee shore, it had a small storage area carrying half the cargo of the Columbia or Vancouver with the same number of crew and thus ran at a loss. After the HBC purchase, it left London for the coast on a lengthy voyage as it had to be repaired in both Plymouth and Lisbon. Upon its return, it had a refitting of the rigging in December 1835 and, after it arrived on the coast in 1836, it did coastal trading until 1839. It ran lumber to the Sandwich Islands, brought sheep from Monterey and brought in returns from the coastal posts. The Nereide sustained some damage when it struck the bar in September 1838 and finally left the Columbia on October 8, 1839 with the season's furs, 2,435 lbs. of sheep's wool, casks of oil, twenty barrels of cured salmon and, for ballast, Vancouver Island coal. It was sold in 1840.

Total ship's complement during one outfit:

1 master

1-2 officers (mates)
 18-23 crew (apprentice seaman, boatswain, carpenter, cook, middleman, seaman, steward)

Captains:

Langtry, Joseph M.	1833-1835
Royal, Royal	1836
McNeill, William H.	1836
Home, David	1837-1838
Brotchie, William	1838-1840

Ship's Company:

Allan, Robert Allan (b); Allen/Allan, Robert (a); Barrett, Henry; Batten, William; Baunin, John; Belsey, John; Bennett, James; Blake, William; Blanchard, John; Boki; Bonnelly, James; Brown, William; Buck, John Dowden; Butt, William; Burrows, William; Chitty, Charles; Clarke, Richard; Colbert, James; Cooper, Thomas [1]; Corney, Peter [2]; Croston, Richard; Davis, Thomas [a]; Davis, William [1]; Dickerson, Thomas; Dodd, Charles; Duncan, Peter; Feckney, Robert; Ferrow, George; Gilley, John; Grave, Alexander; Gray, William; Green, James; Griffiths, William; Harmsworth, Henry; Haycock, William; Hays, John; Heald, Edward; Henderson, Alex. York; Holland, Thomas; Hooton, Quinton; Horne, Joseph; Irvin/Irvin, Joseph; Isaac; Jarvis, John; Jones, Joseph; Kai; Kelly, John; Larrett, Henry; Lattey, Alexander; Liston, Francis; Littlehales, Baker Joseph; Lodge, Martin; Low Jr., John [b]; Low Sr., John [a]; Lucas, John; McKay, James; McLeod, Donald; May, William; Moore, James; Moreno, Thomas; Murray, Alfred; Napahay; Nelson, John; Newell, Charles; Nohiau; Nyholm, Peter; Nyoray (Nyo-r-uy), Peter; Orohuay; Parsons, William; Peace, James; Perry, Thomas; Piercy, George Frederick; Ploughboy, Joe; Prattent, George; Predith, Walter; Rappa, Monday; Redler/Ridler, William; Rhodes, Godfrey; Ridley, James Henry; Robinson, John; Robinson, William; Sayer, Robert/Thomas; Scarborough, James A.; Simpson, Horatio Nelson; Smith, John [b]; Smith, Thomas; Stoddard, Walter; Taylor, Henry; Tourawhyheine; Wallace, Robert or William; Wallis, Richard; Ward, John; Whitaker, Robert; Wilmot, John; Wilson, John

Passengers:

Gunn, Adam; McAulay, John; McIvor, Norman; McKay, Philip; McLean, Donald; McLeod, John

PS: HBCA YFDS 5c, 7-10; log of Nereide 1, 2; ShMiscPap 14; FtVanCB 9-12; 15, 17, 20, 23, 26; Nereide search file.

Norman Morison

Nationality: British

Ship's Owners: Hudson's Bay Company

Description of Ship: A barque of 564 tons, 119.5 feet in length, 26.8 feet in breadth and 20.4 feet in depth, built in Moulmein, Burma of teak in 1846.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1848-1853

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

1	dep: Gravesend, England, Oct. 20, 1849	arr. Victoria, March 24, 1850
	dep: Victoria, September 23, 1850	arr: England, February 20, 1851
2	dep: Gravesend, England, May 28, 1851	arr. Victoria, Oct. 30, 1851
	dep: Victoria, January 21, 1852	arr: England, 1852
3	dep: Gravesend, England, Aug. 17, 1852	arr. Victoria, January 16, 1853
	dep: Victoria, March 8, 1853	arr: Gravesend, July 31, 1853

Purpose/function/history of ship: The Norman Morison was purchased by the Hudson's Bay Company in 1848 and carried out three voyages to the coast to help fulfil its mandate of bringing out colonists. On the first voyage, (fifty-five passengers accounted for out of a reputed eighty) it sailed on to Fort Simpson and Sitka before returning to England. On the second voyage, thirty-five passengers are accounted for. 143 passengers out of a reputed two hundred can be accounted for on the third voyage. It was sold in 1854 to a Mr. George Bagket and disappeared between 1865-1866 while on a voyage from Australia to India.

Total ship's complement during one voyage:

1 captain

4 officers (includes boatswain)
30 crew

Captain:

Wishart, David D.

1849-1853

Ship's Company:

Addington, Benjamin; Allcock, Richard; Austen, James or Thomas; Baden, John; Baker, William; Banks, Edwin; Beattie, James; Broquino, Miguel; Carpenter, Peter; Cathrick, Zechariah; Craigie, George; Craigie or Crogan, James; Drew, Joseph; Edwards, Edward; Eagrall, George; Eldershaw, William; Ella, Henry B.; Ellis, Robert W.; Emptage, W. H.; Evans, Edward H.; Faggatter, Charles; Foreman, Anthony; Gray, Lewis; Greenwood, George; Gunnell, George; Hains, Charles; Hale, Albert F.; Hart, Edwin; Hawkins, Thomas; Helmckin, John; Herbert, John; Holland, George; Henley, Hugh; Hodgson, John; Hopkins, David; Hughan, David; Jackson, William; James, Edward; Johnstone, John; Johnstone, William; Jones, Daniel; Keene, John; Kingcom, William; Knarston, Samuel; Knight, James; Lewis, Charles; Linnett, Joseph; Lobb, Charles; McLacon, Daniel; McMullin, Daniel; Mannock, Francis; Mansfield, James; Marden, William; Miller, Joseph; Morris, Enoch; Moss, Alfred A.; Murphy, Samuel; Naunton, George; Nelson, Thomas; Newman, Alfred; Norman, John; Nugent, Thomas; Pepper, Samuel; Peterson, Charles F.; Petty, Charles H.; Phillips, James M.; Pill, Charles; Pincing, Charles; Pollock, Robert; Reay, Archibald; Reitch, Peter; Roberts, John; Robinson, James; Ross, Robert; Rutherford, Thomas; Saunders, Charles; Savage, Frederick; Schmidt, John; Sinclair, John L.; Slater, James; Smyth, Charles; Stewart, John; Stockwell, William; Stone, Peter; Sweden, Charles; Thompson, John; Tolloway, Robert R.; Vine, Edward; Walker, George; Walsh, Thomas; Westcott, Edward; Williams, George; Wishart, George; Wishart, James

Passengers on 1849-1851 return voyage:

(Fifty-nine out of sixty sponsored immigrant passengers in total; wives and children not traced)

*PPS: HBRS XXXII p. 78-79; Helmcken, Reminiscences, p. 77; SS: Mouat, p. 213*

Passengers on 1851-1852 return voyage:

(Twenty-eight immigrant passengers in total; wives and children not traced)

SS: HBCA ShMiscPap 9a (May 1851)

Passengers on 1852-1853 return voyage:

(154 immigrant passengers: wives and children included)

PS: HBCA ShMiscPap 9a (1852); SS: Mouat, p. 213-214.

Otter

Nationality: British out of London

Ship's Owners: The Hudson's Bay Company (1852-1883),
Canadian Pacific Navigation Company (1883-1890),
A San Francisco wrecker (1890)

Description of Ship: A screw propellor driven steamer, schooner rigged, 220 tons burthen; length, 122 feet; beam, twenty feet; depth of hold, twelve feet. It had two oscillating engines built by Maudsley and Fields, Lambeth.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1852-1888

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: London January, 1853
(on Coast from 1853-1890)

arr: Victoria, July 5, 1853

Purpose/function/history of ship: Built for the Hudson's Bay Company by Richard and Henry Green of Blackwall, the Otter arrived on the coast to assist the Beaver which had been working on the coast for seventeen years. Between 1853-1858 it acted as a supply ship, making frequent trips to San Francisco carrying coal and produce from Company farms. Between 1858-1862 it was used as a passenger and freight vessel with the gold rush on the Fraser River, transporting people and freight from Victoria to Fort Langley and from 1862-1880 the Otter serviced the northern route.

In 1880 it ran on a rock near Bella Bella and sank but was raised and towed to Victoria where it was refitted. In 1883 it was sold to the Canadian Pacific Navigation Company which converted it to a coal hulk. In 1890 it was sold to a San Francisco wrecker who burned her at Bentinck Island for her copper.

Captains:

Joseph Millar	1852-1855
John Swanson	1855
William A. Mouatt	1855-1860/1861-1862
Lewis, Herbert G.	1862-1863/1865-1866
John Swanson	1863-1865
Lewis, Herbert G.	1865-1875
(McCulloch, William)	1875-1878
(Gardiner, J. A.)	1879-1881
(McCulloch, William)	1882

Ship's Company:

Adams, William; Ainslie, Matthew; Bates, Edward; Batter, John; Berentzen, Hans; Bond, Charles; Cheeseman, Richard; Daines, Henry; D'Arche, Joseph; Ebony; Ella, Henry B.; Flewin, Thomas; Glide, Henry; Green, Thomas; Guthrie, William Logan; Hadley, Jesse; Hammond, Edward; Harrow, James; Henborn, Robert; Henly, Hugh; Howard, Thomas; Hudson, William; Hughway, George; Hunt, Robert; Irvine, John; Kea, G.; Kendrick, Thomas; Lacroix, Michel; Lewis, Charles; Lewis, Herbert G.; Mannock, Francis; Martin, Jonathan; Ord, Thomas; Reid, James; Sewell, James; Skea, David; Thorne, James; Venn, John; Weinbourn, Robert; Weynton, Stephenson

Passengers:

Jenden, William; Leigh, William; Thorn, Mrs. & family; Western, William

Seamen, etc., generally freemen hired locally (Victoria, Nanaimo, Nisqually, San Francisco) from 1853 but not appearing in biographies. Most appear in late 1850s accounts.

(Anderson, James; Anderson, John; Atkinson, Mr.; Bain, Mr.; Bandlitz, John; Barkang, Mr.; Barton, Thomas; Blyth, Arthur; Borthers, John; Boston, Thomas; Boynton, J.; Brown, A. P.; Brown, Cornelius; Brown, Thomas; Burns, Mr.; Camson, Frank; Capland, Mr.; Chapman, Mr.; Cook, Robert; Cromor, John; Davis, Charles; Davis, Frank; Davis, John; Davis, William; Dempster, D.; Dunkin, Mr.; Eaton, William; Elliot, Mr.; Fielding, James; Flett, Mr.; Frame, Thomas; Frazer, William; Gaillard, Hugh; Gillman, Mr.; Gould, Mr.; Green, Andrew; Green, William; Grenham, Thomas; Hall, John; Hayman, Charles; Heamer, James; Hewes, James; Hodgins, Luke; Hoffman, Mr.; Horton, R.; Hughes, Thomas; Irvine, James; Jarvis, John; Jones, Charles; Jones, Stephen; Kelly, Edward; Kendale, Samuel; Kewaii; Kilcup, D.; Lampton, William; Lawrence, James; Lester, Mark; Livenson, John; MacCaffry, Peter; McDuffin, Mr.; McInnis, Donald; Martin, James; Martin, Thomas; Mast, Mr.; Mead, Mr.; Miller, James; Mills, Arthur; Munroe, Mr.; Nelson, P.; New, James; Niven, Charles; Ogilvy, James; Ott, George; Pamphlet, J.; Peterson, Mr.; Pike, Mr.; Red/Redman/Redmayne, Thomas; Reese, Thomas; Reid, Robert; Rhomar, Henry; Sanders, Joseph; Schahen; Shenegas, Mr.; Scott, George; Shaahan, H.; Sharp, Thomas; Shields, Mr.; Simmons, Mr.; Sinclair, A.; Smith, David; Smith, J.; Smith, Julien; Smith, Peter; Spence, John; Stephenson, William; Storm, John; Teir, John; Turner, William; Vine, Edward; Wall, Mr.; Williams, Mr.; Wilson, Charles; Woodback, G.; Worrough, Thomas; Yost, Frederick)

PS: HBCA log of Otter 1; PortB 1; Otter search file; SS: Hacking, p. 49, 54-55, 68-70, 71; Lewis & Dryden, p. 46

Owhyhee

Nationality: American out of Boston

Ship's Owners: Josiah Marshall and Dixey Wildes of Boston (builders in 1821)

Marshall & Wildes (1821-

Description of Ship: A brig, ninety-six feet in length and of 116 tons burthen, built in Boston in 1821.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1822-1830.

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

1	dep: Boston, July 9, 1821	arr: Northwest Coast, March 1822
	dep: Northwest Coast, 1827	arr: Boston, May 12, 1828

2	dep: Boston, August 1828	arr: Columbia River, February 1829
	dep: Northwest Coast, September 1830	arr: Boston, 1831

Purpose/function/history of ship: This trading vessel made two visits to the coast. On the first voyage, during its December 12, 1821 to February 4, 1822 stay in Honolulu on its way to the coast it changed captains and probably part of the crew. For the next five years, it traded at many sites on the Northwest Coast, from Tongass to the Columbia River to California, sending its otter and beaver furs out on other vessels. It also made voyages back and forth to the Sandwich Islands again changing captains and crew. (Its presence and that of other Boston ships at the time, prompted the Hudson's Bay Company to refocus on coastal trade.) After more than five years in the area, it sailed for Boston and, after a three month turnaround, sailed once again for the Pacific Northwest. During the second voyage, it made its presence felt by trading once again in the Columbia River area in direct opposition to the Hudson's Bay Company and may have brought malaria (intermittant fever) with it in the winter of 1829. Hall J. Kelley, however, accused Captain Dominis of giving away Kelley's Oregon settlement plan to John McLoughlin. The Onyhee did not return to the coast and has not been traced further.

Captains:

McNeill, William H.	1821-1822
Grimes, Eliab	1822-1823
Captain Kelley	1824-1825
Grimes, Eliab	1826
Dominis, John	1826-1830

Ship's Company:

Ford, Henry; Hauxhurst, Daniel; Jarvis, Perry; Jones, Mr.; Lemont, Francis A.; Murphy, George; Orton, Christopher J.; Rankin, Adam; Read, John; Rice, Arden H.; Ropeyarn, Jack; Shannon, James; Sweat, Stephen; Sylvan, James; Tamaree; Tesier, Jeremiah; Tohman, William; Wilson, Henry; Winneberger, John; Young, Mr.

PS: CHS log of Onyhee; HU-Wid ColCent, July 11, 1821, April 7, 10, 28, 1824, April 22, 1826; Boston Commercial Gazette, Aug. 19, Sep. 2, 1822, Apr. 7, 17, 1823, Apr. 8, 29, 1824, Mar. 3, 1825; HU-HL JMarshallLB; HMCS SReynoldsJ, November 16, 1823, July 20, August 8, 1824, October 28, 1825, January 14, 1826; HBCA FtVanCB 3, fo. 8 McLoughlin's July 6, 1827 Fort Vancouver letter to Gov. & Committee; HBCA FtVanCB 6, fo. 18 McLoughlin's Oct. 11, 1830 Fort Vancouver letter to Gov. & Committee; HBCA FtVanCB 8, 19d McLoughlin's Oct. 5, 1832 Fort Vancouver letter to Gov. & Committee PPS: J. S. Green, p. 15; G. Simpson, Fur Trade, p. 256, 269; Scouler, "Journal of a Voyage", p. 191; HBRS X, p. 103; Kelley, p. 86-87; JS: Howay, A List of Trading Vessels

Pedler (or Pedlar)

Nationality: American out of Boston

Ship's Owners: Oliver Keating, J. & T. C. Amory (1812-1813)

William Price Hunt/Pacific Fur Company (from January or February 1814-?)

Description of Ship: A brig of 224 tons, built in Medford, Massachusetts in 1806.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1811-1822

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

1	dep: New York, January 1811	arr: Northwest Coast, summer 1811
	dep: Northwest Coast, Oct. 1815	arr: New York, Oct. 16, 1816
2	dep: New York, c. Dec. 1819	arr: Northwest Coast, July 1820
	dep: Northwest Coast, Nov. 1822	arr: New York, 1823

Purpose/function/history of ship: The Pedler, a trading vessel, got swept up in Astor's problems and the turmoil of the War of 1812 in its first voyage to the Northwest Coast. It traded between the Aleutian Islands and Vancouver Island, wintering on the coast, and by early 1814 was in Hawaii where it was purchased by Wilson Price Hunt for the Pacific Fur Company whose Astorian adventure had had disastrous results with their own ships. It arrived February 1814 at Fort Astoria and, finding that it had already been sold to the North West Company, sailed on April 2 from the Columbia River for Sitka, Alaska carrying the employees from Fort Astoria who chose not to join the Montreal company. In August 1814, the Pedler was seized by the Spaniards upon the usual charge of illegal trading on the Californian coast, but was released in October. It then proceeded to Sitka but on July 1815 the Russians arrested her for selling ammunition to the natives. On October 2, 1815, she was released from this charge; and at the end of that month sailed from Sitka for New York by way of Hawaii, China and Europe. The second voyage was less diversionary and it bartered goods for Russian sealskins that it took to Honolulu. It returned to the coast for further trading and eventually made its way back to New York via Honolulu and Canton.

Captains:

Clark, George	1811-1814
Captain Northrop	1814
William J. Pigot captain	summer 1820
Meek, John	1819-1822?
Ebbets, John	1822
Meek, John as	1822-1823

Ship's Company: (Company not in biographies as later than land based association with W.H. Hunt)

Colburn, Charles; Dunkey, Thomas; Halsey, Robert; Hartshorne, Davis; Lear, Mr.; Merkins, John; Spooner, Charles; Walters, John;

PS: HU-Wid ColCent, September 18, October 9, 12, 23, 1816: January 26, March 17, 1821: February 2, March 16, August 17, 1822: August 23, 1823; MassHS Atahualpa, May 10, 1812: March 14, 29: April 6, 10, July 25, August 5, 1813; PEM New Hazard May 4, 7, 10: Sept. 5, 6, 9, 10, 12, 1812: Behring, Isabella, and Pedler; Arab, June 18, July 14, 17, Aug. 9, 31, 1821; MassHS Perkins; DCHS John Walter's Journal of the Pedler, 1819-22; Boston Commercial Gazette, Jan. 31, Mar. 14, May 18, June 17, Aug. 5, 19, 26, Sep. 2, 1822, Feb. 24, Mar. 28, Apr. 21, 1823 PPS: K. W. Porter, "Cruise of Astor's"; K. W. Porter "More about the Brig"; Barnard, p. 94, 99; Coues, p. 848-864; J. S. Green, p. 10; ChSoc XLV, 18, 26, 27, 144, 145, 194-95 SS: Howay, A List of Trading Vessels p. 91, 96, 141-142, 156; K. W. Porter, John Jacob Astor, Irving, Astoria, 445-46

Pekin

Nationality: British

Ship's Owners: (Not traced)

Description of Ship: (Not traced)

Years on N. W. Coast: 1851

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: England

arr: Fort Vancouver, June 29, 1851

Fort Rupert, August 9, 1851

Purpose/function/history of ship: This vessel was chartered by the Hudson's Bay Company to bring out experienced miners and goods to the Northwest Coast. It first arrived at Fort Vancouver, where the greater part of its crew deserted. One miner and a blacksmith also deserted. It then transhipped the miners north via the Mary Dare.

Captain: (Not traced)

Ship's Company: (Not traced)

Passengers:

French, Adam; French, Archibald; Gilmour, Boyd

PS: HBCA FtVicCB 3

Prince Albert

Nationality: British

Ship's Owners: Hudson's Bay Company

Description of Ship: A 303 ton ship 103' long, twenty-five feet six inches wide, seventeen feet six inches deep, built by Messrs Green, Wigham and Green in Blackwall in 1841 for the Hudson's Bay Company. It generally ran the Hudson Bay run, but in 1854, because the Vancouver had been lost in 1853 and the Mary Dare was sold in 1854, it made one supply run to the coast. After stopping at Victoria, it arrived at Nisqually on October 7, 1854 with goods directly from London, thus avoiding transshipping duties. It was eventually sold in 1856 while it lay at the East India Docks in London.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1854

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: London, February 1854

arr: Fort Victoria, Sept. 8, 1854

dep: Fort Victoria, Nov. 21, 1854

arr: London, 1855

Purpose/function/history of ship: This vessel normally did Hudson Bay runs but this time came to Vancouver Island in a colonial support function.

Captain:

Mannock, William B.

1854-1855

Ship's Company:

Clayton, Henry; Crouch, Augustus; Ella, Henry B.; Garrick, John; Green, Thomas; Hall, Robert; Henry, Robert; Jacobs, George; Joyner, William G.; Kirkness, George; Loft, Henry; McRibbon, Alexander; Newey, Joseph; Nicholson, Andrew; Riles, William; Savage, George; Thompson, George; Thompson, J. W.; Wilson, William

PS: HBCA PortB [1844-60] C.3/7, fo. 78; ShMiscPap 9aa; PSACAB 29; FtVicAB 11; Prince Albert search file; PPS: Huggins, Edward, Reminiscences of Puget, p. 125.

Prince of Wales

Nationality: English

Ship's Owners: Hudson's Bay Company (London)

Description of Ship: A finely rigged schooner of eighty-four tons, with a draft of water when fully laden of only five and a half feet.

Years on the N.W. Coast: 1845-1850s on the Columbia River.

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

built 1845 at Fort Vancouver, on river and coastal runs only

Purpose/function/history of ship: Not to be confused with the London to Hudson's Bay supply ship Prince of Wales, this Prince of Wales, also referred to as a "barge", was built in 1845 on the Columbia River by James Scarth, ship's carpenter. According to reports, it sailed and worked uncommonly well and carried a large cargo though it had only a draught of five and a half feet when fully laden. It generally sailed on the Columbia but also appeared to sail between Fort Vancouver and Fort Victoria. The Prince of Wales ended its days as a wreck on a sandbar at the mouth of the Cowlitz River.

Captains:

Johnstone, James

1845-1847

Clarke, Francis

1848?-1849

PS: HBCA YFDS 16-17; Committee FtVanCB 34, 43 description in James Douglas and John Work's Dec. 7, 1846 Fort Victoria letter to the Governor and; HBCA A/11/72, fo. 185d; Prince of Wales search file PPS: Huggins' "Reminiscences of Puget" p. 156.

Princess Royal

Nationality: British out of London

Ship's Owners: Hudson's Bay Company

Description of Ship: A barque of 583 tons built at Blackwall for the Hudson's Bay Company by Money, Wigrams & Sons of London of solid oak with a 145 foot keel, 29.5 foot beam and 18.2 foot hold.

Years on Northwest Coast: On supply runs from London to Fort Victoria and return (1854-1884)

Departures/Arrivals:

1	dep: London, June 3, 1854	arr: Esquimalt, November 23, 1854
	dep: Fort Victoria, Jan. 13, 1855	arr: London, May 25, 1855
2	dep: London, July 19, 1855	arr: Victoria, Dec. 17, 1855
	dep: Victoria, Feb. 12, 1856	arr: London, June 21, 1856
3	dep: London, Aug. 19, 1856	arr: Victoria, Jan. 16, 1857
	dep: Victoria, Mar 5, 1857	arr: London, July 4, 1857
4	dep: London, Sept. 6, 1857	arr: Victoria, Feb. 11, 1858
	dep: Victoria, March 25, 1858	arr: London, Aug. 5, 1858...

Purpose/function/history of ship: A supply ship built in London to replace the Norman Morison, the Princess Royal was designed to carry spars and furs from Fort Rupert but this idea was abandoned because of the leaky condition of its deck. Although it was on and off the coast as a supply ship for thirty years, for the purposes of this study, only the first voyage is followed in detail as it brought out miners for the Hudson's Bay Company coal mines in Nanaimo. The voyage was notable for its deaths en route: seven children, one miner and one miner's wife. The vessel anchored at Esquimalt November 23, 1854 and the miners and their families were transported to Colville Town [Nanaimo] by the Beaver and Recovery. The Princess Royal continued its supply trips between London and Fort Victoria for the next thirty years. Some of the crew continued on for several voyages beyond the 1854-1855 voyages. In 1885 the Princess Royal was sent to Moose Factory where it ended its days when it broke its keep in a snowstorm on a sandbar near Moose Island.

Captains:

Wishart, David	1854-1856
Trivett, J. F.	1856-1858
Sinclair, J. L.	1858-1859
Trivett, J. F.	1859-1861
Kingcome, W.	1861-1863
Marshall, James Nash	1864-1866
Anderson, James	1866-1880
Barfield, W.	1880-1885

Officers and Crew:

Agmoau, Charles; Ainsley, Matthew; Argent, Charles; Austen, Charles; Avain, George; Barnes, Albert; Barr, James; Batchelor, Jonah; Beale, William; Becknal, William; Benson, Alfred R.; Binnie, Robert; Bishop, George; Blackwell, T. J.; Boase, Henry; Boots, George; Bowling or Bowline, Thomas; Briggs, John; Brooks, Alfred; Bryan, James; Burge, Thomas; Burnam, Richard; Campbell, Duncan; Campbell, William; Check, Charles; Colle, John; Conner, Michel; Cook, John; Craig, William; Crawford, William; Creegan, James; Crouch, John; Daly, John; Danfoid or Davison, Jans Peter; D'Arcy, John; Darg, George; Davis, Thomas; Deas, William; Delanney, John; Delreymoy, John; Dixon, F. M.; Dobbs, Francis; Evans, Thomas; Flett, John; Flett, Robert; Found, William; Francis, Lewis; Gale, Charles; George, James; George, William; mGidyn or Gwyn, Rhys; Gillan, Frederick; Godwin, William; Gower, John; Gregg, William; Hall, William Henry; Hamer, John; Hansill, Charles; Harper, William; Harrington, John; Hawell, Thomas; Heath, Thomas; Heriot, P.; Hollyman, Edward; Hornby, A.; Jamieson, Gabriel; Jean, Martin; Johnson, David; Johnson, James; Johnson, John; Jones, Hugh; Jones, William [1]; Jones, William [2]; Kay, William; Kearns, Thomas; Kelly, George; Kent, George; Kerby, Robert; Kingcome, William; Lamplugh, William; Lefevre, T.; Lewis, Richard; Lowdell, Sydney P.; Lynch, John; McBeath, William; Magee, Robert; Mair, Peter S.; Mallery, Benjamin; Martin, John; Megan, John; Micklejohn, John; Moore, James; Morrison, J. S.; Moss, John; Murphy, William; Naunton, George; Naunton, Robert H.; Newton, John; Nisbett, John; Noth, Albert; Ogilvy, James; Pope, George; Raven, George; Read, John; Reed, James; Reynolds, Robert; Richards, John; Richardson, Benjamin; Ricknell, William; Romney, Charles; Roots, George; Saunders, Richard; Shaw, Andrew; Sinclair, John L.; Smith, Angus; Smith, Charles; Smith, J.; Smith, John; Spillet, James R.; Stanton, William; Swancoe, Thomas; Thomas, William; Thompson, Charles; Thornhill, Thomas; Townsend, William; Traveller, Francis; Tucker, Nathaniel; Tye, John [1]; Tye, John [2]; Wain, George; Walter, Richard; Wany, Samuel H.; Ward, Thomas; Wheaton, Edward; White, William; Wilkins, William; Wilkinson, James; Wilson, Charles; Wilson, Robert; Wood, Harry

Passengers on 1854-1855 return voyage:

Baker, George; Baker, John & family; Bevilockway, Joseph L.; Biggs, John; Bull, George; Clark, Charles; Dunn, Daniel & wife; Ganner, Elijah; Gilmour, Boyd; Gough, Edwin; Harrison, William; Hawkes, Thomas; Incher, William; Malpass, John; Meakin, John; Miller, Matthew; Richardson, John; Richardson, Richard; George Robinson; Sage, Jesse; Turner, Richard; Webb, Joseph; York, Thomas

Passengers on 1855-1856 return voyage:

Bayley, Thomas & wife; (Bridges, (2) Misses); Cole, Thomas; Comack, John; Cross, William; Davey, John, wife, 3 children; Eudey, Peter; Eudey, Wm. & wife; Green, Thomas, wife, child; (Greenlaw, Ann & child); (Hall, John & wife); Hall, Thomas; Harry, William; Linklater, James; McDonald, Wm & wife; (Moore, Thomas); (Morwick, James); Page, Melicent; Pemberton, Miss; Reid, Robert & child; Tait, James, wife, child; (Todd, Miss); Yellop, John

Passengers on 1856-1857 return voyage:

(Arous, Miss Mary); (Barr, Mr., wife, 2 children); (Bates, Miss Elizabeth); (Blenkinsop, Master Charles); (Blenkinsop, Master Robert); (Bryant, Cornelius); (Coles, John); (Dodd, Master Charles); (Dodd, Mary); (Graham, Master Allan); (Graham, Master James); Hall, Mr.; Irvine, Peter; (Langford, Miss); (Langford, Miss Flora); McDonald, John; McLeod, Murdoch [1]; McLeod, Murdoch [2]; (McNeil, Master Frederick); Merriman, Mrs. & child; Mills, George; (Morwick, Mr., wife, child); (Robinson, Miss); Spence, William; Wain, Mr., wife, child

Passengers on 1857-1858 return voyage:

Cole, George & wife; Cole, Thomas; (Coleen, Miss); (Elliot, Mr.); Firth, Robert, wife, child; (Mills, Thomas); (Munroe, Mrs. & 3 children); Norquay, William; Reid, Robert, wife, child; Richardson, George & wife; Rolland, Samuel; Spence, William & wife; (Trivett, Miss); (Trivett, Mrs.)

PS: HBCA logs of Princess Royal, 1-4; FtVanCB 11; Princess Royal search file; SS: Goult

Recovery or Orbit

Nationality: American, English, American

Ship's Owners: U.S. owners to 1852,

HBC from 1852-1859

British Columbia Colonial government 1859

Lennard & Green, Portland, Oregon, 1859+

Description of Ship: A brig of 154 47/95 tons.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1852-1859 (as HBC vessel)

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

n/a

Purpose/function/history of ship: This brig was bought from American owners, used by the HBC for seven years in the Pacific and was eventually sold back to American interests. Built in Dorchester County, Maryland, U.S.A. in 1845, the Orbit was brought to the Coast prior to 1850 and, amongst other things, carried supplies from Fort Victoria to Nisqually while the port was closed to HBC ships. They also sent horses, etc., via the Orbit to Fort Victoria. The vessel was purchased by the HBC agent in Honolulu for £520 ($2,500) along with its cargo of spars, squared timber and other produce and renamed Recovery. In March 1852, after repair and coppering, it was sent to the Queen Charlotte Islands with a party of five officers and forty-two men under Chief Trader John F. Kennedy to hunt for gold. For the next six years, it ran mixed cargo back and forth to the Sandwich Islands and, in July of 1858, was pressed into service as a guard ship on the Fraser River as part of the effort to control the issuing of gold licences to the huge number of miners passing through. At that point it was manned by a draft of thirty officers and men from H.M.S. Satellite. As expenses were being charged to public revenue, it was sold to the British Columbia colonial government the following year, and, around December 1859, was sold to Lennard & Green of Portland, Oregon returning to its original name, Orbit, to facilitate it re-entry through U.S. Customs. It has not been traced beyond that point.

Captain:

Mitchell, William

1852-1859

Ship's Company:

Balls, George; Cathrick, Zachariah; Ella, Henry B.; Ellis, Robert; Emptage, William H.; Gray, Joseph; Hackland, Gilbert; Hudson, William; Hughan, David; James, Edward; Kennedy, John F.; McMillin, Daniel; McMullin, David; Mankelow, Harry; Morrow, Thomas; Nelson, Thomas; Niven, Charles A.; Smith, Thomas [2]; Wain, Henry; Walsh, Thomas

PS: HBCA FtVicDS 1; YFDS 1; FtVicCB 15-18; London Inward Correspondence, 1851-60, A. 11/73-77;

Recovery search file; HL Tlithlow, Feb. 7, 1851

Sumatra

Nationality: English

Ship's Owners: Messrs. McCalmont & Co.

Description of Ship: Barque.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1837

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: London, Feb. 3, 1837

arr: Fort Vancouver, Sept. 15, 1837

dep: Fort Vancouver, Oct. 26, 1837

arr: London, April 1838

Purpose/function/history of ship: The Sumatra was a supply ship chartered by the Hudson's Bay Company from Messrs. McCalmont & Co. on Dec. 21, 1836. It made one voyage to the Northwest Coast. Dr. John McLoughlin was supposed to take his furlough in 1837 and return to England aboard the Sumatra, but he failed to do so because of ill health.

Captain:

Duncan, Alexander

captain

1837-1838

Ship's Company:

Buck, James; Budge, Henry; Charleson, John; Collings, Edward; Davis, Joseph; Harmsworth, Henry; Irwin, Joseph; McLaren, John; Marshall, Thomas; Mitchell, William; Munro, Donald; Neelson, George; Smith, George; Stubbs, Thomas; Thomas, Daniel

Passengers:

(Twenty-three unnamed Sandwich Islanders as passengers from Oahu to Fort Vancouver)

PS: HBCA log of Sumatra 1

Tonquin

Nationality: American

Ship's Owners: John Jacob Astor (Pacific Fur Company)

Description of Ship: A vessel of some 269 tons, ninety-four feet long and twenty five feet six inches wide, built in New York by Adam and Noah Brown in 1807.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1811

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: New York, September 6, 1810

arr: Columbia River, March 1811

(destroyed, late June or early July, 1811)

Purpose/function/history of ship: This well-known trading vessel was brought to the coast by a ruthless and paranoid captain who was on leave from the US Navy. He abandoned eight or nine passengers in the Falkland Islands and when they failed to return at the signal gun, Robert Stuart, whose uncle was one of the abandoned passengers, held a gun to Thorn and forced him to return to pick up the passengers. At the Sandwich Islands, after picking up thirteen additional Sandwich Islander crew, Thorn beat and discharged one regular crewmember and another deserted. In March, at the mouth of the Columbia, eight crew members and passengers were lost when they were sent out to sound the bar in impossible conditions. Later Thorn, in Clayoquot Sound, insulted a chief by rubbing a fur in the face of the chief. Against the interpreters advice to leave, Thorn stayed, the natives attacked and the interpreter who had gone aboard in Gray's Harbour survived along with three or four others who attempted an escape in a small boat but were killed nonetheless. Someone lit a fuse to the powder room causing the ship to explode killing about two hundred natives along with any remaining crew. (E. W. Giesecke postulates that, since the attack took place over a period of time, the final explosion could have occurred at Hesquiote Bay, just north of Clayoquot Sound.) Nonetheless, no remains of the vessel have ever been found. The incomplete list below is felt to be an accurate reflection of those who drowned () from the vessel or were killed (*) aboard the vessel.

Captain:

Thorn, Captain Jonathan*

1810-1811

Ship's Company:

Adams, John; Aiken, Job*; Anderson, Peter; Aymes, Edward; Coles, John*; Cox, Edward/John; Fisher, Adam*; Fox, Ebenezer ; Downs; Harry; Hill, Robert*; Johnson, William*; Josechal; Karimou, William; Keemoo, James; Koaster, Johan*; Martin, John*; Mumford, William P.; Naaco, George; Pahai, Peter; Peter*; Pookarakara, Bob; Paow, Dick; Powrowoie, Jack; Poah, Paul; Roberts, Charles*; Robertson, Francis*; Thorn, James C.; Too, Toby; Tuana, Thomas; Vanderhoof, Egbert*; Vershel/Verstille/Verbell, Peter*; Weeks, Henry; Weeks, Stephen*; White, John*; Williams, Thomas*

Passengers:

Bell, George; Belleau, Antoine; Belleau, Jean Baptiste; Brule, Louis; Farnham, Russell; Franchere, Gabriel; Jeremie, Paul Denis; Koaster, Johann; Lafantaisie, Jacques; Laframboise, Michel; Lapensée, Bazile Roy*; Lapensée, Ignace Roy*; Lapensee, Olivier Roy; Leclerc, Gilles; Lapierre, Joseph; Lewis, James*; McDougall, Duncan; McGillis, Donald; McKay, Alexander*; McKay, Thomas; McLennan (McLellan), Donald; Matthews, William Wallace; Montigny, Ovide (de); Nadeau, Joseph*; Perrault, William (Guillaume); Pillet, Francois B.; Ross, Alexander; Roussel, Augustus; Roussel, Benjamin; Stuart, David; Stuart, Robert; Wallace, William

PS: USNA Tonquin; RosL-Ph Astoria; PPS: ChSoc LXV, p. 47-49; Franchere, Adventure at Astoria; Irving, Astoria; Ross, Adventures; Cox, Adventures; MS. log of the Hamilton, July 25, 1811; MS. log of the New Hazard, August 31, 1811; SS: Howay, "The Loss of the Tonquin"; Elliot Coue's New Light, p. 777; Walbran, British Columbia Place Names, p. 92-94; Howay, A List of Trading Vessels; Giesecke, "Search for the Tonquin," ibid, "Search for the Settlement Ship."

Tory

Nationality: British

Ship's Owners: (Not traced)

Description of Ship: Barque.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1851

Departures/Arrivals:

dep: England, September 2 1850

arr: Victoria in May 9, 1851

dep: Victoria, 1851

arr: England, 1852

Purpose/function/history of ship: This was an immigrant ship chartered by the Hudson's Bay Company. During the 1850-1851 voyage, passengers played a metal flute and piano to keep themselves amused. However, by the time they arrived in Victoria, most of the food was putrified and insect ridden.

Total ship's complement during one outfit:

Captain: (Not traced)

Passengers:

Atkinson, William; Barnes, Henry; Bayley, Charles; Bayley, Thomas & family; Blinkhorn, Thomas & wife; Bond, Charles; Bond, George; Burden, John; Burris, James & wife; Cluett, Joseph; Cole, Phillip; Cole, Thomas; Cooke, George; Cooper, James & wife; Craigie, Thomas; Croghan, William; Cross, William; Culley, George; Dean, George; Dean, Thomas Aubry; Dean, Thomas, and family; Elliott, Johnathan; Fiander, Richard; Finlay, Christopher; Firth, Robert; Fish, James; Fish, Robert; Francis, James; Francis, Matthew; Garrioch, William; Geal, James; Golledge, Richard; Guthrie, William Logan;

Hall, Thomas; Hanham, George; Harber, George; Hayward, George; Hodge, Henry; Holland, James; Holland, Thomas; Horne, Adam Grant; Humphreys, John; Hunt, William; Hunter, Andrew; Huston, William Abraham; Isbister, William; Johnson, John Henry; Johnstone, George; Jupp, James; Irvine, John & wife; Isbister, William; Lane, James; Langford, Edward Edwards; Linklater, James; Longhurst, Jarves; Lyons, Dennis; McDonald, William John; Malcolm, John; Metcalf, William, wife and 1 child; Mitchell, William; Newton, William Henry; Northover, William; Parsons, Thomas; Pike, Edward; Porter, Robert; Ritch, William; Salcomb, James; Sales, William; Shute, Edwin; Skea, David; Smith, Richard; Smith, Thomas; Staples, Richard; Stockand, William; Stone, Edward; Stove, James; Stratford, Joseph & wife; Thomas, George; Thornhill, Richard & wife; Wicks, George & wife; Williams, Alfred; Wiles, Emanuel; Wark, John; Work, John; Work, William and wife

PS: HBCA PSACAB 37 JS: BC Genealogist, Summer 1972, No. 4, vol. 1.

Una

Nationality: English out of London

Ship's Owners: Mr. William Mitcheson from New Brunswick (London registered), up to Dec. 5, 1849
Hudson's Bay Company, from Dec. to 1849 to Jan. 2, 1852.

Description of Ship: A brigantine of 135 24/35 tons.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1850-1852

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: Deal, Kent, England January 6, 1850 arr: Fort Victoria June 20, 1850
(wrecked, January 1852)

Purpose/function/history of ship: Purchased by the HBC on December 5, 1849 for £950, this Pacific trading vessel sailed the following month for Vancouver Island where it served two years sailing such cargo as coal and shingles to the Sandwich Islands and cattle and furs along the coast. Shortly after its arrival it began the first of its voyages to the Sandwich Islands and later collected returns from posts such as Fort Simpson. In late December 1851, the Una, on her way down the from Queen Charlotte Islands, where she had been on a gold hunting expedition, was compelled to anchor at Cape Flattery because of contrary winds. There a few days later in January 1852, the vessel was driven aground onto Makah traditional territory by the heavy winter winds and abandoned by the crew. It was plundered and burned to the water line by the natives of Neah Bay.

Total ship's complement during one outfit:

Captain:

Stewart, Charles E.	1849-1851
Sangster, James	1851
Mitchell, William	1851-1852

Ship's Company:

Begg, John; Brown, John [a]; Davis, William [3]; Ferrier, John; Holman, Thomas; Lyons, Denis; McMillan, Neil; Merrit, Josiah; Morrow, Thomas; Nevin, Charles A.; Nutt, George M.; Sinclair, Magnus; Stockand, William; Watson, George; Williams, Charles PS: HBCA YFDS 21-22; FtVanCB 39; Una search file; PPS: Huggins, Tacoma Weekly, March 4, 1892, p. 4; HBRS XXXII.

Valleyfield

Nationality: British

Ship's Owners: Messrs. J. Chapman & Co., Leadenhall Street, London

Description of Ship: A ship of 350 tons.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1843

Departures & Arrivals:

dep: Downs, Dec. 18, 1841	arr: Fort Vancouver, July 21, 1842
dep: Fort Vancouver, 1842 or 1843	arr: London, c. September 1843

Purpose/function/history of ship: This vessel was chartered by the Hudson's Bay Company for a supply run to the Columbia as the Prince of Wales was too old and the Prince Albert was not available for the job. Under the supervision of Captain Woodward who acted for the owners, it brought boilers for the steamer Beaver, supplies for 1843 and twenty-five tons of freight for the Russian American Company. However, it was not a successful run as the lack of caulking in a seam caused a leak which damaged much of the cargo bound for Russian America and rusted the boilers for the Beaver. It was repaired in Valparaiso on its outward voyage. After dropping off its damaged cargo at Fort Vancouver and taking the boilers on to Fort Nisqually, it returned home calling at Valparaiso where it took on a cargo of copper. The Russian goods became further damaged as they sat on the docks for ten months before being taken to Sitka.

Captain:

Boulton, Henry

1841-1843

Ship's Company:

Bigg, Mr.; Bullock, Mr.; Trueman, James

Passenger:

Woodward, Captain

PS: HBCA London Outward Correspondence, A.6/25, Governor and Committee's Dec. 1, 1841 letter to McLoughlin, [cargo] fo. 155d; ShMiscPap 12 [deposition of James Trueman, Sept. 19, 1843] fo. 1 PPS: HBRS, vol VI.

Vancouver [1]

Nationality: British out of Fort Vancouver

Ship's Owners: Hudson's Bay Company

Description of Ship: A schooner of sixty tons burden built at Fort Vancouver in 1826.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1827-1834

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

n/a

Purpose/function/history of ship: This trading vessel was built, somewhat poorly, by the carpenters of the Hudson's Bay Company at the Columbia River in 1826. It sailed to the Hawaiian Islands, but more often plied the coast from 1826 to March 1834 and needed considerable ballast to keep her stable. In 1831 she was the consort to the Dryad. Under command of an inexperienced Capt. Kipling she grounded in a storm at the entrance to Portland Canal in 1832 and was out of commission for a season. She ran aground on Rose Spit on March 3, 1834. The crew, fearing attack from the local Haida who had lit several fires indicating a large presence, jumped in a small boat and rowed to Fort Simpson. The ship floated free and the natives stripped the prize of everything.

Total ship's complement during one outfit:

1 master

mates

10 crew

Captains:

Ryan, William

1830-1831

Kipling, Charles

1831-1832

Ryan, William

1833

Duncan, Alexander

1834

Ship's Company:

Baptista, John; Barton, George; Brooks, Richard; Calder, Peter; Campbell, Duncan; Clarke, Thomas William; Collyer, Charles; Curtis, James; Dennison, Edward; Duncan, Peter; Eales, William; Edwards, John; Flinn, John; Frobisher, Thomas; Hetherway, Nathaniel; Hume, Thomas; Johns, William; Johnstone, James; Johns, William; Lackey, William; Lennon, John; Lodge, Martin; Lord, E. D.; McCarthy, John; McGillivray, Hector; McLeod, Angus; McLeod, William; Nelson, William; Parsons, Samuel; Provero, Ralph, Joseph; Raymond, William; Sangster, James; Scarborough, James; Slocum, Richard; Smith, William; Spence, Joseph; Stewart, Robert; Taylor, John; Taylor, James; Thomas, John; Toe-o-foe; True, Alfred; Tuaha; Ulderich, William; Washington, George; Whitaker, Robert; Wilson, William; Wood, Thomas

PS: HBCA log of Vancouver [1] 1; ShMiscPap 14; FtVanCB 8; Vancouver (I) search file PPS: W. F. Tolmie, p. 281; SS: Lewis & Dryden, p. 13.

Vancouver [2]

Nationality: British

Ship's Owners: Hudson's Bay Company

Description of Ship: A four hundred ton barque of British or African oak or teak built on the same plan used for Prince Albert and Prince Rupert (V). Built by Green, Wigram, Green and Blackwall, it had a length of 103 feet, a breadth of twenty-five feet six inches, a depth of eleven feet and a height between decks of six feet six inches.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1839-1848

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

1	dep: England Nov. 1838	arr: Fort Vancouver c. June 1839
	dep: Fort Vancouver Nov. 23, 1840	arr: London spring 1841
2	dep: London Sept. 11, 1841	arr: Fort Vancouver April 14, 1842
	dep: Fort Vancouver Oct. 31, 1843	arr: London June 11, 1844
3	dep: London Sept. 2, 1844	arr: Fort Victoria, Feb. 18, 1845
	dep: Fort Victoria, Dec. 12, 1846	arr: London, July 13, 1847
4	dep: London, September 17, 1847	arr: lost at mouth of Columbia, May 7, 1848

Purpose/function/history of ship: This vessel was launched and purchased in 1838 by the Hudson's Bay Company and was on the coast the following year. Generally it not only carried the returns back to England but also sailed between coastal posts, California and the Sandwich Islands. One exception for its annual run was 1842-1843 when it stayed on the coast for the year. It was the first to bypass Fort Vancouver and enter Victoria harbour in 1845 directly from England and, after an apparent layover and re-caulking, the first to carry back fur returns from Fort Victoria to London in 1846-1847. The Vancouver returned in 1848 and, after unloading supplies at Fort Victoria, was wrecked at the mouth of the Columbia in May 7, 1848 on its way to Fort Vancouver and the crew dispersed to other jobs.

Total ship's complement during one outfit:

- 1 master
- 2 officers (mates)
- 13-20 crew (apprentice seaman, boatswain, carpenter, cook, laborer, seaman, steward)

Captains:

Duncan, Alexander	1838-1843
Brotchie, William	1843-1844
Mott, Andrew C.	1844-1848

Ship's Company:

Aillud, R. J.; Allan, Robert (b); Applegate, Henry; Austin, John A.; Bartlett, John; Barris, William; Biggs, William; Bird, Nicholas; Blythe, Andrew; Boak, William; Brasby, William; Brannan, James; Brown, William; Bruce, William; Bullock, Thomas, (J. W.); Burris, William; Campbell, Robert; Christopher, Isaac R.; Clark, Francis; Clarke, James; Clipson, Joseph; Cooper, James; Cooper, Thomas; Corney, Peter Minors; Crawford, Andrew; Crimp, Samuel; Davis, Joseph; Dixon, George [1]; Ebony; Fleury, Benone; Gay, Robert; Gilbert, James; Gilley, John; Green, William; Hall, Richard; Harper, Young W.; Heald, Edward; Hong; Hopkirk, Daniel; Hunt, Edward; Johnson, Andrew; Johnston, Thomas; Johnstone, James; Jones, Peter; Kanelupu; Keharoha; Kendrick, Thomas; Kirk, William; Lattey, Alexander; Lawson, Peter; Lesley, Thomas; Lockyear, Thomas; McCarthy, Jeremiah; McIntyre, James; McKay, Joseph W.; McLaughlin, James; McLeod, Donald; McLeod, John [f]; Martindale, William; Mikapako; Mitchell, William; Moore, Edward; Mott, Andrew; Mott, Charles W.; Mouat, William A.; Neimane (Taylor); Nelson, John; Newell, Charles; Nisbet, James; Nisbet, John; m Norgate,

Abraham; Oliver, John; Oxley, John; Park, Alfred; Philips, Charles; Phillips, William; Piercy, George Frederick; Pitt, William; Rae, Y. W.; Ritmire, William; Robinson, George; Rosindale, William; Sangster, James; Simpson, Horatio Nelson; Simpson, James; Sinclair, John Logan; Smith, John; Smith, John [b]; Spence, John [a]; Spring, John; Stoddard, Walter; Storey, Thomas; Stuart/Stewart, Charles E.; Swanson, John; Taylor, Henry; Taylor, William; Thompson, Andrew; Thompson, James [1]; Thompson, Neils; Tomkins, James; Watson, George [1]; Webster, Robert; Weyland, James; Wheeler, Joshua; White, John; Willey, John; Wilson, Andrew; Wilson, Edward; Wilson, Robert; Winchcomb, Henry

Passengers:

Arthur, Peter; Dick, James; Donald, John; McLaughlin, James; Moreno, Tom; Moses; Otteho; Peter; Rappa, Monday; Rowawa; Simpson, Alexander ; Spencer, William; Teowee; Tom; Tourawhyhene

PS: HBCA log of Vancouver [2] 1-2; ShMiscPap 11; SandIsLonIC 2; YFDS 10-11, 13, 16-17, 19; FtVanCB 23-38; Vancouver (II) search file.

Vancouver [3]

Nationality: British

Ship's Owners: Hudson's Bay Company

Description of Ship: A brigantine of 192 tons, outfitted with an auxiliary engine and a screw propeller.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1852-1853

Voyage Departures and Arrivals:

dep: London, 1852

arr: Fort Victoria December 1852

(wrecked, Rose Spit, August 1853)

Purpose/function/history of ship: This vessel was outfitted with a screw propeller to compete with the many faster vessels in the North Pacific with propellers. However, fast as it was, it had a very short life on the Northwest Coast and by a strange coincidence, came to grief at the very spot its namesake did nineteen years before. In December 1852, the captain arrived on the Northwest Coast in the Vancouver with his wife and two daughters. That summer it sailed to Honolulu and back. When the comparatively new Vancouver left Fort Simpson in August 1853 and was heading for Rose Spit [Queen Charlotte Islands] his supercargo, Captain Swanson, being familiar with the waters gave him and the quartermaster a course to take. When Swanson went to bed, Reid changed course and ran the ship hard aground on Rose Spit in a high wind. The local Haidas claimed her even though Reid and his officers stayed aboard and Swanson and the first mate made their way to Port Simpson. Captain Dodd returned on the Beaver and, with Reid, set the Vancouver alight after drenching her with oil. Reid was dismissed from service around October 1853.

Total ship's complement during one outfit:

- 1 master
- 2 officers (mates)
- 8 crew members

Captain:

Reid, James Murray

1852-1853

Ship's Company:

Chapman, Henry; Garson, David; Halls, George; Hawkland, Gilbert; Hourston, John; Innes, Thomas N.; Mankelow, Henry; Mild, John; Sinclair, John Logan; Williams, Robert; Williamson, David

PS: HBCA PortB 1; FtVicASA 1-3; FtSimp[N]PJ 7; FtVicCB 7; B.239/k/2, p. 60; Vancouver (III) search file; BCA Vancouver SS: Lewis & Dryden, p. 47; Helmcken, p. 54-55; Walbran, p. 419-420

Vigilant

Nationality: English

Ship's Owners: Uncertain, possibly chartered, possibly Hudson's Bay Company.

Description of Ship:

Departures/Arrivals:

dep: London, November 1823

arr: Fort George, August 25, 1824

dep: Fort George, October 7, 1824

arr: London: spring 1825?

Years on N. W. Coast: 1824

Purpose/function/history of ship: This supply ship made one return supply voyage between England the Fort Vancouver. According to George Simpson, both the Captain and the first mate (name not traced) were such heavy drinkers they had to be carried on board their own vessel. Beyond the captain, no names of the officers and crew have been traced.

Captain:

Davidson, James

1823-1825

Ship's Company: (Not traced)

PPS: G. Simpson, Fur Trade, p. 119.

William and Ann

Nationality: British

Ship's Owners: Hudson's Bay Company from 1824

Description of Ship: A cedar brig of about 161 tons built in Bermuda in 1818.

Years on N. W. Coast: 1825, 1828

Departures & Arrivals:

1 dep: Gravesend, July 27, 1824

arr: Fort George April 12, 1825

dep: Fort George October 25, 1825

arr: London April 15, 1826

2 dep: London September 25, 1826

arr: Fort Vancouver May 10, 1827

dep: Columbia R., August 23, 1827

arr: English Channel February 6, 1828

3 dep: Plymouth September 16, 1828

(wrecked: Columbia River bar March 10, 1829)

Purpose/function/history of ship: The William and Ann, purchased in 1824 by the Hudson's Bay Company for £1500, including her stores, made two successful supply trips to the Columbia from London. She first sailed July 25, 1824 with botanist David Douglas and naturalist John Scouler on board and after reaching the coast, under instructions from the London Committee, John McLoughlin sent it out to trade in opposition to the American vessels. It left the Columbia River on June 1, for Queen Charlotte Islands, and from the 23rd to the 29th, the ship coasted along the eastern side of those Islands, calling at Cumashewa and Skidegate; she then visited Portland Canal and Observatory Inlet, spending about a month trading in that vicinity. On July 26, 1825, when off Skidegate and bound for the Columbia, it met the American Brig Onhybee and barque Volunteer. Captain Kelly of the Onhybee came on board and after looking the ship over told her Captain that she was not well arranged for the purpose of trade and defence, and kindly offered to take him to his brig, but the overly cautious Hanwell turned down the offer. On July 30 it was at Nootka Sound and then spent a month trading in the Straits of Georgia. Near the beginning of September, it was back at Fort Vancouver, having collected four hundred skins. The second trip was purely a supply run but on the third voyage, the William & Ann was wrecked, March 11, 1829 in crossing the bar of the Columbia and all hands lost (the captain, the mate, fourteen men and boys from England, and ten Sandwich Islanders). The Convoy, which accompanied the ship reported its loss to Fort Vancouver. A Company vessel was sent down to investigate its loss and found the contents of the ship to be in possession of the natives. When they refused to give up their booty, the Company sent a schooner down to the village to shell it. This punitive action killed the chief and two men.

Captains:

Hanwell, Henry	1824-1828
Swan, John	1828-1829

Ship's Company:

Anderson, James; Bowers, John; Brothie, William; Davison, James; Duncan, Alexander; Green, Richard; Guthrie, Daniel; Light, William; McBeath, Hugh; Merritt, Josiah; Oliver, Robert L.; Overall, John; Parr, Joseph; Peterson, John; Reed, James; Reeder, Nicholas; Scouler, Dr. John; Sinclair, George; Swan, John P.; Thompson, John; Ward, Thomas; Whiting, James

Passenger:

Douglas, David

PS: HBCA log of William & Ann 1-4; FtVanCB 5; William and Ann search file; PPS: G. Simpson, Fur Trade, p. 240, 242, 256, 269, 270, 309; Scouler, "Journal of a Voyage"; HBRS v. IV:1 note 3; SS: Howay, A List of Trading Vessels, p. 166-67; Gibson, Otter Skins, p. 308; Lewis & Dryden, p. 14

Contemporary Russian Ships on the Pacific Northwest Coast Serving the Land Based Fur Trade

As the Russians were not part of this study, only the names of the vessels have been listed. They are mostly ships of the Russian American Company from 1799, some being from the predecessor partnerships exploiting Russian America [Alaska]. These vessels served the Russian coastal establishments as well as Fort Ross in California. Some were purchased from foreigners as they had served their time in the maritime fur trade.

Name of vessel	Years on Coast	Former Registry and name
Aktsiya	1837-1842
Naslednik Aleksandr	1840s
Amethyst	1812-1818	(American as Amethyst , 1802-1812)
Baikal	1824+	(American as Arab , 1821-1824)
Baranov	1819-1825
Bering	1813-1815	(American as Atabualpa , 1800-1814)
Borodino	1820
Chichagov	1827-1845	(American as Tally Ho , 1826-1827)
Chilcat	1834-1837
Chirikov	1809-1824
Del'Fin	1795
Sv Ekaterina	1798-1805
Elena	1824-1835
Finlandia	1818-1819
Golovin	1819-1827+	(American as Brutus , 1813-1819)
Il'mena	1813-1820	(American as Lydia , 1810-1814)
Iunona	1806-1811	(American as Juno , 1801-1806)
Kad'iak	1807-1818	(British as Myrtle , 1806-1807)
Konstantin	1809-1821
Kutuzov	1816-1822
Neva	1805-1813
Nicholai	1806-1808
Imperator Nikolai I	1837-1841
Sv Olga	1795-1803
Othotsk	1825-1855	(American as Lapwing , 1822-1825)
Otkrytie	1815
Platov	1818-1821+
Polifem	1832
Rostislav	1804-1805
Rumiantsov	1822
Rurik	1821-1827
Severnyi Orel	1796-1799

Sitka	1807
Suvarov	1813-1818
Tri Sviatitelia	1788-1795
Yermak	1804-1805

Medical Instruments and Medicines found at Fort Vancouver between 1844-1845 and distributed to posts west of the Rockies

Those in the fur trade fortunate enough to have a native wife could use her expertise on the medicinal use of native plants as a first line of defense and to effect cures of minor and major ailments. For others without wives and those with ailments of a much more serious nature, there were always the medicines and medical instruments at the posts that could be used to treat employees and natives alike. Posts with no resident physicians, would have to rely on the acumen of the officers who would be able to consult medical books if they were available. (see Appendix: What the Fur Traders Read). The following medicines and medical instruments are a compilation of the inventories at the Fort Vancouver dispensary which was used as a distribution point for other posts west of the Rocky Mountains. Although supplies varied over time, this is a fair representation of the maximum extent of the medical instruments and medicines.

Some Medical Supplies or Instruments

Amputating Instruments:	[saws, knives, etc.]
Aneurism Needles
Bistories	[surgeon's knives with a straight or narrow blade]
Bottles with stoppers:	[various sizes and colors]
Bougies:	[catgut and gum elastic [rods or tubes for exploring or dilating the passages of the body]
Catheters:	Gum elastic and silver [tubes for draining the bladder]
Cupping Instruments
Cups:	bleeding
Eye Instruments
Funnels:	glass and tin
Galvanic batteries	[a later acquisition to produce heat to cauterize blood vessels]
Kettles, buckets and pans:	[various sizes, shapes and uses]
Lancets	[instruments for removing abscesses]
Lint	[used as gauze would be used today]
Lithotomy Instruments	[instruments to make surgical incisions into the bladder, kidney to remove stones]
Mortar and pestles:	iron, bell metal and Wedgewood
Portable furnace and small hand bellows
Pots and jars with covers:	various sizes, earthen ware
Pully apparatus:	for dislocations
Scales and weights
Spatulas:	plaster, ointment and powder
Stomach pumps
Stethoscopes
Syringes:	[male and female urethra, ear, enema, penis]
Sucking bottles	[bottles heated and used to draw out poisons]
Tooth Key	[for operation on teeth]
Trephining Instruments	[instruments to remove portions of the skull]

Medicines found at Fort Vancouver 1844-1845

Many of these medicines would have been distributed to the surgeons, doctors, and officers of the Hudson's Bay Company west of the Rockies.

Acids

Aromatic Sulphuric
Citric
Distilled acetic
Nitrous
Hydrocyanic
Oxalic acid
Tartaric

Alcohol

Alkenet - Root

Aloes

[a tree resin, used to soothe skin or as a purgative]

Ammonia

[a volatile liquid used to revive people]

Carbonate
Liquor
Muriate Spirits of Ammoniacum

Antimony

Tartrate of Powder

Arsenic

[used as a poison]

White oxide
Solution

Assafoetida/Asafoetida

[a gum resin from certain Asian plants, used as antispasmodic]

Balsam - Turlington's

[a resin from trees used as an ointment]

Barytes - Solution muriate of [native barium sulphate, untraced use]

Belladonna

[extract from leaves and root of plant, reduces nausea, vomiting, menstrual cramps, bladder relief, diverticulitis, colic, peptic ulcers, irritable bowel syndrome, tremors, excessive salivation]

Extract
Leaves

Benzoin

[a tree resin used with steam for laryngitis and bronchitis]

Compound Tincture
Gum

Bismuth – Subnitrate

[a metallic chemical element used as compound to treat diarrhea and gastrointestinal diseases]

Borax

[a sodium borate compound used for...]

Camphor

[a tree extract used for repellent, local anesthetic, antimicrobial qualities]

Camphor
Gum

Cardamon seeds

[plant seeds used to reduce nausea and vomiting]

Catechu

[vegetable extract used to treat diarrhea]

Compound electuary of

Chalk - Prepared

Charcoal – Powder

[used for relief from poisoning]

Chloride of Sodium Labarraques Liquor

IMAGE 146 Trepan tools from Charles Bell's Illustrations of the Great Operations of Surgery, Trepan, Hernia, Amputation, Aneurism and Libotomy. London: Longman, Hurst, Rees, Orme, and Brown, 1821. Plate I.

Cinchoria - Compound tincture	[derivative of plant bark and leaves, used as antimalarial, bitter tonic, anti-arrhythmic]
Colchicum	[derived from plant, used to treat gout, heartburn, nausea, vomiting and diarrhea]
Root dried
Seeds
Wine
Colocynth – Powdered	[derived from plant, used as purgative]
Copaiva - Balsam of	[oil or resin, used as disinfectant to treat vaginitis, gonorrhea and psoriasis]
Copper - Sulphate of
Cubebs – Powder	[oil and paste of plant, used as mouth wash, oral and dental diseases, sore throat and gonorrhea]
Digitalis	["foxglove" extract used to treat heart conditions]
leaves
Powder
tincture
Dovers Powder	[compound that includes opium, used to treat gout, colds and fever]
Elaterium/Elaterium –Extract	[plant extract used to treat dropsy, induce abortion, an antirheumatic, analgesic, alleviates heart and kidney problems, purgative]
Ether	[chemical compound used as anesthetic]
Ether
Nitrous spirits
Rectified
Sulphuric
Galls - Powdered
Flowers
Chamomile
Conserve of Roses
Gentian - root	[root which aids digestion]
Ginger - Powder	[used for arthritis, colic, dyspepsia, gallbladder problems, diarrhea, nausea]
Guaiac	[tree derivative, used to treat syphilis]
Resin
Tincture
Shavings
Rasped
Hellebore – extract	[highly narcotic plant extract, used as purgative, nervous disorders and hysteria]
Hog's lard - prepared
Honey
Hyoscyamus	[a plant derivative used as a sedative and pain killer]
Extract
Tincture
Iodine	[chemical element, used as antiseptic]
Ipecacuanha	[root of plant used as expectorant and nauseant {for poisoning}]
Iron	[element, used to treat anemia]
Carbonate
Red oxide
Sulphate
Muriated tincture
Kino – Resin	[a tree juice, used as an astringent, treatment for diarrhea and as a gargle]
Lavender - Compound spirits of
Lead	[metal, used for plasters and stomach upsets]

Acetate of Carbonate of Lime - Chloride of
Liquorice	[plant extract used as expectorant, laxative and to treat ulcers]
Extract of Root
Magnesia	[used as compound as sedative and antiseptic]
Calcined
Carbonate
Sulphate of Manganese - powder
Manna
Mazereon – root	[shrub, used for arthritis and to produce blisters]
Mercury	[metal, used to treat syphilis]
Camphorated ointment
Ointment
Pill
Red oxide
Submuriate
Morphine [for pain relief]
Acetate Morphia
Muriate Morphia
Myrrh	[resin used to treat rheumatism and circulatory problems]
Gum
Oils
Almond
Aniseed exotic
Castor
Clove
Creosote
Croton
Lavender
Olive Rosemary
Turpentine
Oils - Volatile of Beramot of Cassia of Oreiganum of peppermint
Ointments
Calamine
Citrine
Mercurial
Camphorated mercurial
Resinous
Savine
Sulphur
Opium	[poppy extract used as sedative and analgesic]
Ammoniated tincture of Camphorated tincture of Purified
Sedative solution of Sirup of Tincture of

IMAGE 147 Fracture of the clavicle, William Gibson's Institutes and Practice of Surgery; being outlines of a course of lectures, vol. I. Philadelphia, James Kay, jun and brother; Pittsburgh, C. H. Kay, 1845. Plate XI.

	Turkey
Peels	Lemon
	Orange
Pepper – Cayenne		[improves digestion, blood circulation, heart, skin conditions]
Peppermint - Essence of		[leaf extract, alleviates indigestion, irritable bowels, menstrual cramps, cold sores, skin irritations and headaches]
Plasters		[application to sooth and alleviate various ailments]
	Acetate
	Burgundy Pitch
	Cantharides
	Court
	Lead
	Mercurial
	Mercurial with ammoniacum
	Red oxide of Iron
	Spread adhesive
Potash		[an alkaline substance used in compounds]
	Carbonate
	Castic (Caustic?)
	Chloride
	Chlorate of Hydriodate
	Nitrate
	Prepared
	Supertartrate
	Tartrate of & Soda
Potassium - Liquor of Potassae
Quinine - Sulphate of		[extract from bark of Australian tree, used to reduce fever and induce abortion]
Red Saunders Shavings
Resin – Yellow
Rhubarb		[a purgative and astringent]
	Powdered
	Russian (powdered)
Rye - Ergot of		[extract of rye fungus, induces contraction of the uterus]
Sarsaparilla – Cut		[dried root, for rheumatism, skin complaints and formerly, syphilis]
Sassafras - Root rasped		[tree bark and root extract, used to treat gallstones, bladder pain, gastrointestinal complaints, colic, menstrual pains, skin diseases, acne, syphilis, gonorrhea, arthritis, rheumatism, or, when applied, to sooth sore eyes, eradicate lice and sooth insect bites]
Senna		[shrub, used as laxative]
	Compound electuary of leaves
Silver - Nitrate of Soap – Spanish
Soda		[an alkaline substance used for indigestion]
	Carbonate
	Chloride solution of Sulphate of Phosphate of
Spermaceti		[a waxy substance used in ointments]
Sponge - Burnt
Squills		[a Mediterranean lib, used for coughs and rat poison]
	Powder
	Root dried

Sirup of
Strychnine	[a toxic alkaloid, causes contraction of the spine, etc.]
Strychnine
Nux Vomica Strychnos
Subnitrate
Sulphur	[used to fumigate {when burned}, bleach and disinfect]
Roll
Sublimed
Tragacanth – Gum	[a tree alkaloid derivative used to treat coughs]
Turpentine	[a resin used in liniments]
Spirits of Venice
Tinctures	[a medicinal solution, usually in alcohol] of Benzoin of Chincona of muriate of Iron
Uva Ursi folia
Valerian	[plant, used as a stimulant and antispasmodic]
Wax
White
Yellow
Zinc	[metal, used as antiseptic and for ointments]
Impure Carbonate
Impure Sulphate
Prepared Sulphate

PS: HBCA FtVanAB 155, 160; SS: a variety of historical medical dictionaries; John Norris, retired history of medicine professor

What Men Ordered in for Themselves, their Wives, their Children, Girlfriends and Extended Families

Each outfit, fur trade employees sent out an order for goods that they could not obtain at the local post. Most of these could be filled from the Fort Vancouver warehouse but some could come in with an outfit supplies by ship. Some of the items bristle with domesticity indicating some kind of pairing, domestic arrangement or even family. The repetitive nature of some of the goods ordered would indicate a limited selection. The higher ranked individuals ordered in two types of teas, the Twankey (a low quality tea) and Hyson (a high quality tea) possibly conceding decorum to the rank of their guests.

1.

Because of his Chief Trader rank and accompanying income Simon McGillivray Jr was able to order significantly more items than people of lesser rank in 1833, ordering twice within the same year. At that time, he had a wife, who was a mixed descent daughter out of the fur trade, and a growing family which eventually reached nine children. The content of the order reflect this family domesticity.

Image 148 Twankey Tea. Photograph by author, 2009.

March 9th Order

4 lbs Hyson Tea	2 dressing combs
4 lbs Twankey Tea	2prs broad white tape
9 yards 2 nd blue cloth	4 pairs. Washed worsted cotton hose
3 yards find blue cloth	6 bars soap
3 yards fine gray cloth	1 plain blanket, 3 points
1 dozen cotton handkerchiefs	12 yards Gray Bath coating (?)
2 cotton shawls 1/4	1 pr. Drab cord. Trousers
1 cotton shawl 9/8	1 krg L. Sugar 48 ¶
3 cotton shawls 3/4	1 jacking (?) case
1/2 ¶ coloured thread
2/9 ¶ st. thread
2 dozen needles

June 7th Order

6 yards Gray bath cout (?)	5 yards, 6 cay ribbon
12 yards fine white flannel	15 yards 4 cay ribbon
4 yards fine blue cloth	2 pair worsted hose
5 yards blue duffle	2 pairs worsted 1/2 hose
1 yd fine scarlet cloth	4 pairs cotton 1/2 hose
1 green blanket, 4 points	1 dozen (?) needles
16 yards fine stript cotton	1 paper pens
28 yards fine calico	1 medium black silk handkerchief
1 ps board tape	2 cotton 1/4 shawls
1 narrow tape	2 cotton 1/8 shawls
4 fine flannel shirts	6 handkerchiefs
8 yards fine Irish linen	4 priv. 1/2 pt. Basons
1 large fine gray black capot	2 pots blacking
3 dozen gilt vest buttons	6 ¢ Twankey tea
9 yards ribbon hair	2 lbs chocolates
10 yards Fr.....?	3 rolls Irish twist tobacco
18 skeins coloured silk	7 bars soap
6 skeins black silk	1 pr men fine Bl. (black or blue) Shorts
1/2 ¢ wk: in brades	2 pairs boys shorts
10 yards 10 cay ribbon	1 krg crushed sugar

1 fine B. Kirsey (?) vest
 3 quires post paper
 1/2 ¶ colored thread
 2/9 ¢ St. thread
 3 silk Banda handkerchief
 1/4 ¢ sponge
 1 pocket comb

1 pr draw cord trousers
 1 pr. Sharp scissors
 9 cakes Windsor soap
 2 pairs casette straps
 1/2 doz Pifers (pipes?)
 4 pairs cups and saucers

PS: BCA PJ FtBab 1

2.

William McBean, a mixed descent clerk and post master, had the beginnings of a family at Fort Babine when he ordered personal items in 1834. Around that time, he married the daughter of a fur trader and eventually moved to the more salubrious Walla Walla area.

1 fancy vest
 1 plain Bes (?) 3 prs
 1 plain Bes (?) 2 prs
 1 green Bes (?) 4 pairs
 6 fine shipt cotton Shirts
 12 yards fine flannel
 6 cotton Handkerchiefs
 2 packet silk handkerchiefs
 2 large black silk handkerchiefs
 2 pairs washed hose
 12 (bars of) soap
 1/2 dozen Calles Windsor soap
 2 narrow Colg belts
 1/2 yard scarlet cloth
 1/2 yard blue cloth
 12 yards blue ribbons
 12 skeins silk thread
 1 1/2 years Huckaback
 2 yards calico
 4 rolls Irish twist tobacco
 1/2 dozen clay pipes
 1 yd 2d blue cloth
 1 pr. 2d blue cloth trousers
 1 pr. Olive corduroy trousers
 1 cotton 2/4 shawl
 50 needles
 1 large corn (horn?) comb
 1 ivory comb
 1 fine mahogany lks glass (?)
 10 lbs raisins
 5 lbs Hyson tea
 5 lbs Twankey Tea
 1/2 keg loaf sugar
 1 quire post paper
 1 pair shoe

Image 149 Items the fur traders may have ordered. Photograph by author, 2009.

1 set shoe brushes
1 pot blacking
1 clasp knife
1 gray milled cap
1 tooth brush

PS: BCA PJ FtBab 1

Image 150 Tobacco. Photograph by author, 2009.

3.

Baptiste La Pierre a mixed descent interpreter sent out personal order in 1839 from Fort Babine. It would indicate a certain domesticity although at that time he is not recorded as having a wife and children. He died in the Fort Colville area in 1865.

1 plain blanket, 3 points	8 yards 10d ribbon
1 plain blanket, 3 ½ points	10 skeins silk thread
2 pair drab corduroy trousers	3 dozen W. C. needles
1 broad scarlet belt	1 Tape (?) d Feb c box
3 yards gray bath boating	2 bottle c. peppermint
3 yards #3 Green stroud cloth	2 bottles of Turlington balsam
3 yards 2 nd Rlew (?) cloth	1 horn comb
8 yards printed cotton	1 fine ivory comb
1 large black silk handkerchief	1 dozen rings finger ornament
2 cotton 9/8 shawl	¼ lbs white E. beads
2 cotton handkerchiefs	2 Bch B. Corn, Buch Bay (?)
2 yards 2 nd scarlet cloth	1 clir M. Flint
2 pairs worsted hose	2 polished fire steel
1 pr men's brown shoes A 9	2 scalping knives
1 yd HB white cloth	18 yards hot cordage
3 yards common white flannel	1 lb chocolate
6 yards fine blue striped cotton	6 Jew harps
3 yards common blue striped cotton	1 bag brush sugar
8 lbs yellow soap	1 gallon salt
3 carots of tobacco	2 lbs Congo Tea
9 lbs twist tobacco	1/3 yards 2 nd light blue cloth
½ ly (?) colored thread	1 common stripe cotton shirt
1 point blanket ½ point Red, blue	1 fine cotton shirt
1 dozen small vest buttons	1 covered kettle
2 white flannel shirts	4 lbs raisins

PS: BCA PJ FtStJmsA 1

4.

Charles Touin, a labourer for the HBC, had married in Montreal and appears to have left his wife there setting up a new arrangement in New Caledonia. His 1839 order may have included a female friend or a wife although by that time he did not appear to have a family. He did raise a family at Fort Alexandria from the 1840s, his children staying in the area.

½ dozen pipes	4 feathers
1 lb pepper	1 blanket, 3 ½ points
6 yards gartering	1 blanket, 2 ½ points
6 gunflints	4 yards blue list cloth
1 shirt	1 yd W. H. B. Strouds
1/3 dozen awls	1 common cloth capot
1 large horn comb	1 brown scarlet belt
1 ivory comb	1 swans down vest

1 2nd cloth vest
 1 pair Brown shoes
 1 pair Cloth trousers
 1 pair Corduroy trousers
 4 shirts, flannel and cotton
 15 tg. Tobacco
 1 pr. White hose
 4 cotton handkerchiefs
 1 black silk handkerchief
 7 yards printed cotton
 ¼ ty colored thread
 25 needles
 6 bars soap
 10 lbs sugar
 1 lb tea
 3 scaling knives
 8 yards ribbon
 1 gallon salt
 1 clasp (?) knife
 1 common drab cloth capot

2 plain blankets 3 points
 2 common cotton shirts
 1 fine cotton shirt
 1 common flannel shirt
 1 black silk handkerchief
 1 common cotton handkerchief
 1 black scarlet belt
 3 yards HB Glun (?) cloth
 7 yards fine calico
 1 yd with cloth
 4 lbs Cov. Tobacco
 9 lbs twist tobacco
 2 pairs worsted stocking
 6 bars yellow soap
 4 ly colored thread
 8 yards ribbon
 6 yards gartering
 10 lbs sugar
 1 lb tea

PS: BCA PJ FtStJmsA 1

Image 151 Men's boots. Photograph by author, 2009.

5 carots tobacco
 2 bars soap
 1 lb Congo tea
 1 bag crushed sugar
 2 scalping knives
 1 fine shirt
 1 dozen gun flints
 1 ¢ needles
 2/10 ¢ thread
 1 pr. Cord trousers
 2 common cotton shirts
 1 fine cotton shirt
 1 common flannel shirt
 3 yards common stript cotton
 1 com. Bl. (blue or black?) Capot 3 ½ ells
 1 medium black silk handkerchief

PS: BCA PJ FtBab 1

5.

In 1833 Nazaire Dupre, a fur trade worker who had come out with the Tonquin to work for the American PFC, was working at Fort Babine. His marital status at that time is uncertain for in 1839 he formalized his marriage to the daughter of a French Canadian and Okanogan woman. He may not have been married, or without a wife at that time, as his order had a strong masculine bent.

2 cotton handkerchiefs
 1 pr men's common shorts
 1 pr men's long hose
 2 yards blue list cloth
 6 yards 6 coy ribbon
 6 yards Ferrsts (?)
 1 com. Brads
 6 yards gartering
 2 horn combs
 1 blue com: black vest
 1 plain blanket, 3 points
 1 plaint blanket 2 ½ points
 1 plain blanket 1 ½ points
 2 foxtail feathers
 2 cock feathers
 1 pk Cas. Razors
 1 dozen brass rings
 25 lbs flour to be delivered at Babine
 ¼ doz tinsel hat cards
 1 tin kettle No. 3
 1 bag salt, 1 gallon

6.

André Dubois a French Canadian middleman/labourer, had a wife and children in New Caledonia from at least 1825. In 1833 he ordered in the following to Babine Lake.

5 ½ yards blue duffle	1 common blue black vest
1 plain blanket 3 ½ points	2 package silk handkerchiefs
1 plain blanket 3 points	2 cock feathers
1 plain blanket 1 ½ points	1 yd HB white strouds
10 yards fine stript cotton	1 ¶ pepper
8 ½ yards blue list cloth	3 scalping knives
2 find cotton shirts	1 cainwood knife
1 common cotton shirt	1 dozen gunflints
1 common flannel shirt	1 fine shirt
6 ¶ plug tobacco	½ fine thread
3 carrots tobacco	4 dozen needles
1 roll Irish twist tobacco	½ yd 2 nd scarlet cloth
1 hat cover	4 yards common white flannel
8 tinsel (?) hat cards	6 yards 9 cay ribbon
1 broad crimson belt	6 yards 6 cay ribbon
1 pr. 2 nd cloth trousers	10 yards Ha garters
6 yards corduroy	3 cotton handkerchief
1 bag sugar	1 cotton ¾ shawl
½ dozen Mr. coat buttons	1 cotton 9/8/ shawl
1 ¶ com: white (?) Brades	6 Indian awls
6 brass thimbles	12 skeins cold silk
1 papers pins (pens?)	2 horn combs
3 bars soap	2 ivory combs
1 pr com shorts	1 pair sharp scissors
1 pr long worsted hose	1 round tin dish1 bag salt, 1 gallon
1 Guernsey Frock	25 lbs flour to be delivered at Ft. Babine

PS: BCA PJ FtBab 1

7.

Alexis Bellanger was a high spirited mixed descent French Canadian and Cree mix bout/canoeman who was working at Fort Babine in 1833. He appears not to have had a wife at that time as his order was decidedly masculine. In 1837 he married a woman from Grand Rapids and was shot by natives in 1848 who were avenging a murder done by an unrelated Cree.

Image 152 Cooking pot. Photograph by author, 2009.

1 fine cotton shirt	3 dozen needles
1 corn cotton shirt	1 common cloth capot 3 ½ ...?
1 Guernsey Frock	1 pocket knife
2 ½ yds blue duffle	1 hat cover
1 plain blanket, 3 points	6 tinsel hat cards
1 pair bl (blue or black). Corduroy trousers	3 cock feathers
3 yards blue list cloth	1 bag loaf sugar
1 broad Sea (satin?) belt	6 yards gartering
1 medium black silk handkerchief	1 ivory comb
2 cotton handkerchief	1 horn comb
4 bars soap	1 common blue black vest
2/10 ¶ thread	1 bag salt, 1 gallon

PS: BCA PJ FtBab 1

What Fur Traders Read: Various Libraries in the Pacific Northwest during the Fur Trade

The fur trade libraries from the early 1800s provide an insight into which books those who were literate were reading. Libraries fall into three types:

- a. Company circulating library
- b. Subscription library
- c. Personal libraries

The Company circulating library had its beginnings with the Pacific Fur Company and North West Companies and was inherited by the Hudson's Bay Company when it amalgamated with the NWC. Library books were meant to be pragmatic as well as food for the soul. In the early years, there were a significant number of books on defense. However, as the years progressed, medicine/chemistry/botany books made a strong showing followed by books for the soul. What follows is a general description of the books at each post.

Subscription libraries are impossible to trace as books and newspapers would be sent by relatives and would come to individuals in packages with each supply outfit. No separate inventory was kept but the reading material would probably have been circulated amongst friends.

Books from three personal libraries are listed below by category and author. Dr. Tolmie brought his with him and added to it over the years. Archibald McKinlay gave Marcus Whitman $100 to buy books while the missionary was in Boston and, not unexpectedly, McKinlay brought back a decidedly religious assortment. Johnson George King ordered his own from London but since his job finished several months before the books arrived, it is uncertain whether he actually picked them up before he set out for Australia.

Note: As the information on the types of libraries is fragmentary, what follows is an educated guess as to the publisher and date of publication. For ease of retrieval they are broken down by category:

- a. Defense
- b. Geography/Navigation/Mathematics
- c. Medicine/Chemistry/Botany
- d. Grammar/Language
- e. Literature/Poetry/Philosophy/History/Religion
- f. Other

IMAGE 153 Library books. Ross Cox's Adventures on the Columbia River. New York: J. & J. Harper, 1832. George Simpson's 2 volume Narrative of a Journey Around the World, London: Henry Colburn, 1847. Photograph by author, 2009.

The Company Circulating Library
An Inventory of Library Books at Forts Babine, George [Astoria], Nez Perces, Spokane and Vancouver from 1821-1829 by Category

Author and Title of Book	Fur Trade Post In which book housed	Dates inventory taken
Defense
Adye, Capt Ralph Willett. Pocket Gunner. London: nd. [Eight editions were printed starting in the Napoleonic era]
	Fort George	1821-1824
	Fort Vancouver	1826-1829
Landmann, Isaac (1741-1826) Landman's Construction of Several Systems of Fortifications. London, nd. [This is one of the many military books written by a man who taught at the Royal Military Academy of Woolich between 1777 and 1815.]
	Fort George	1821-1824
A Treatise on Mines for the use of the Royal Military Academy at Woolich, London, 1815.	Fort George	1821-1824
Malortie de Martemont, Charles Stanislas de (?-?) Practical field-fortification, intended as a supplement to The theory of field fortifications. London: 1813.	Fort George	1821-1824
[Possibly Martemont's translation of Friedrich Wilhelm von Gaudi's "Instructions for officers of infantry: showing how to trace and construct all sorts of field works" London: 1804, or A treatise on the attack and defence of fortified places. London: nd.]	Fort George	1821-1824
Pleydell, John. An Essay on Field Fortification. London: 1768.
Varibans Plates on Fortifications [not traced but it could be Charles Stanislas de Malortie de Martemont's Instructions for officers on military plan drawing. London: 1805.]	Fort George	1821-1824
	Fort George	1821-1824
Geography/Navigation/Mathematics
Adams, George (1750-1795). Geometrical and graphical essays containing a general description on the mathematical instruments used in geometry, civil and military surveying... London: 1797.
	Fort George	1821-1824
"Adams Plates on Mathematical Instruments" [True title and date of publication not traced.]	Fort George	1821-1824
Almanac [This could be any number of almanacs.]	Fort Babine	1825-1826
Bowditch, Nathaniel (1773-1838). A New Practical Navigator. [published in many editions but this one could have been published in Newbury Port, MA: 1799]
	Fort George	1821-1824
"Bowditch's Dictionary" [As Bowditch's above publication is also referred to as an encyclopedia, this may be the same publication.]

“Fleming's Astronomy” [not traced]	Fort Vancouver	1826-1827
“Gazetteer” [This could be any number of Gazetteers available of the time.]	Fort George	1821-1824
Heron, Robert (1764-1807). Scotland Described [Published in at least 2 editions in the 1790s.]	Fort Babine	1825-1826
Hutton, Charles (1737-1823) “Hutton's Logarithms” [Actual title not traced as Hutton was a prolific writer on many subjects, one of which was mathematics.]	Fort Babine	1825-1826
	Fort George	1821-1824
	Fort Vancouver	1826-1829
“Hutton's Arithmetic and Key (2 vols)” [Actual title not traced.]
	Fort Babine	1825-1826
Keating, William H. (1799-1840). Narrative of an Expedition... Philadelphia: 1824. [This was an 1823 voyage to Lake Winnipeg, Lake of the Woods, with current information.]
	Fort Vancouver	1826-1829
Landmann, Isaac (1741-1826). The Field Engineer's Vade Mecum . London: 1802.
	Fort George	1821-1824
Langsdorf, George H. (1774-1852). Voyages and Travels in Various parts of the world . London: 1814
	Fort Vancouver	1826-1827
Lisianskii I. F. (1773-1837). Voyage Round the World, in the Years 1803, 4, 5, 6... London: 1814.
	Fort Vancouver	1826-1827
“McGregor's Mathematics” [not traced]
	Fort George	1821-1824
Mackenzie, Alexander (c.1764-1820). “McKenzie's Voyages.” [This could have been any one of six English language editions of epic “Voyages from Montreal...to the Frozen and Pacific oceans...” published between 1801 and 1814.]
	Fort Vancouver	1829
Meares, John (c.1756-1809). Voyages Made in the Years 1788 and 1789... London: 1790 [This was valuable in insight into coastal natives.]
	Fort Vancouver	1829
Moore, John Hamilton (?-1807). Practical Navigator and Seaman's New Daily Assistant . London: several editions, 1781-1800.
	Fort George	1821-1824
Payne, John (fl. 1800). Universal Geography Formed into a New and Entire System... [Published in at least two editions in the 1790s in London and Dublin.]
	Fort George	1821-1824
	Fort Vancouver	1826-1829
Vancouver, George (1757-1798). “Vancouver's Voyages” (3 vol.) [Five full and abridged English language editions of George Vancouver's “A voyage of Discovery...,” not all with maps, were published between 1798 and 1813. The 1798 edition was printed in three volumes.]
	Fort George	1821-1824
	Fort Vancouver	1826-1827

“Vancouver’s Charts”

[Listed separately, these maps were considered very valuable for coastal shipping.]

Fort George	1821-1824
Fort Vancouver	1826-1827

Medicine/Chemistry/Botany

IMAGE 156 Title pages to Samuel Cooper’s The First Lines of the Practice of Surgery. Boston: Timothy Bedlington, 1828.

Arbuthnot, John (1667-1735). Essay concerning the effects of air on human bodies. London: 1851.

[Republished several times, a later edition being published in 1851.]

Fort George	1821-1823
-------------	-----------

Buchan, William (1729-1805). Domestic Medicine; or, A Treatise on the Prevention and Cure of Diseases...

[Many editions published in London and Edinburgh from 1780s to 1816.]

Fort George	1821-1822
Fort Nez Percés	1822-1823
Fort Vancouver	1826-1827

Cooper, Samuel (1780-1848). A Dictionary of Practical Surgery.

[At least two editions were published between 1810-1816.]

Fort George	1821-1824
Fort Vancouver	1826-1827

Cullin, William Creech (1710-1790). Nosology: or a Systematic Arrangement of Diseases...

[Published in at least two editions, London: 1771 and Edinburgh: 1800.]

Fort George	1821-1823
-------------	-----------

First Lines of the Practice of Physic...

[Four volumes published in Edinburgh between 1778 and 1784. It would appear that two volumes were missing at the posts.]

Fort George	1821-1824
Fort Vancouver	1826-1827

The Edinburgh New Dispensatory; Containing: I The elements of Pharmaceutical Chemistry, II... Edinburgh.

[Two possible authors: William Lewis (1708-1781) with at least six editions between 1786 and 1794 or

Andrew Duncan (1773-1832) with at least three editions between 1804 and 1819.]

Fort George	1821-1824
Fort Vancouver	1826-1827

Hamilton, Alexander (1739-1802).

A Treatise on the Management of Female Complaints...

[Published at various times in Edinburgh, London and Philadelphia in the 1780s and 1790s.]

	Fort George	1821-1824
	Fort Vancouver	1826-1827
Outline of the Theory and Practice of midwifery... Edinburgh and London: 1787
	Fort George	1821-1824
	Fort Vancouver	1826-1827
Hooper, Robert (1773-1835).
A New Medical Dictionary Containing an Explanation of the Terms in Anatomy, Physiology...
[Published in several editions, one of which was in London: 1802.]
	Fort George	1821-1824
Physician's vade mecum: Containing the Symptoms, Causes, Diagnosis, Prognosis, and Treatment of Disease...
[Possibly from the 1812 simultaneous London, Edinburgh and Dublin publication. It was printed in many editions from 1790 and for five decades after Hooper's death.]
	Fort George	1821-1824
	Fort Vancouver	1826-1827
Houlston, William (1755-1815). Pharmacopoeia Chirurgica: or, Formulae for the Use of Surgeons...
[Published in London in at least two editions, 1794 and 1799.]
	Fort George	1821-1824
"Hugham on Ferns"
[Not traced.]
	Fort George	1821-1823

IMAGE 157 Title page to John Hunter's Treatise on the Venereal Disease. Second Edition. London: Sherwood, Neely and Jones, 1818.

Hunter, John (1728-1793). Treatise on the Venereal Disease .
[Several editions published in the 1780s and 1790s in London.]
	Fort George	1821-1824
	Fort Vancouver	1826-1829
Huxham, John (1692-1768). Essay on Fevers...
[Published in London in many editions from the 1750s to the 1770s.]
	Fort Vancouver	1829
Murray, John MD (1778-1820).

Elements of Chemistry
[Two volumes, several editions published in London in the 1780s and 1790s.]
	Fort George	1821-1824
System of Materia Medica (2 vol.)
[Published in many editions with different numbers of volumes, a two volume edition published in London in 1810.]
	Fort George	1821-1824
	Fort Vancouver	1826-1829
Reid, Thomas (1710-1796). Inquiry into the Human Mind on the Principles of Common Sense .
[Published in several editions from the 1760s to the 1780s in Dublin Edinburgh and London.]
	Fort George	1821-1823
“Richmond's Physiology”
[Not traced.]
	Fort George	1821-1823
	Fort Vancouver	1829
Saunders, William (1743-1817). Treatise on the Structure, Economy, and Diseases of the Liver...
[Published in London: 1793 and 1795.]
	Fort George	1821-1824
	Fort Vancouver	1826-1827
Sharp, Samuel (c.1700-1778). Treatise on the Operations of Surgery. With a Description and Representation of the Instruments used in Performing them...
[Published in London in several editions from the 1760s to the 1780s.]
	Fort George	1821-1823
	Fort Vancouver	1826-1829
“Smith's Botany (Imported 1821)”
[Not traced.]
	Fort George	1821-1824
	Fort Vancouver	1826-1827
“Thomas' Modern Practice of Physics”
[Not traced.]
	Fort George	1821-1824
	Fort Vancouver	1826-1829

Grammar/Language

Bailey, Nathan (?-1742). A Compleat English Dictionary...
[Reflecting English, French, Latin and German, at least one edition of which was published in Leipzig in 1761. This was probably retained for its multilingual aspects.]
	Fort George	1821-1824
	Fort Vancouver	1829
“Bayer's (Boyes?) Dictionary”
[Not traced.]
	Fort Vancouver	1829
“Bayer's French Dictionary”
[Not traced.]
	Fort Babine	1825-1826
“Boyes (?) Dictionary”
[Not traced.]
	Fort George	1821-1823
Chambaud, Louis (?-1776). Grammar of the French Tongue. With Prefatory Discourse...
[Several editions published in London: 1780s and 1790s.]
	Fort Babine	1825-1826

Exercises to the Rule and Construction of French Speech...
[Several editions published in London and Edinburgh: 1780s and 1790s.]
	Fort Babine	1825-1826
Coles, Elisha (c.1640-1680). Dictionary, English-Latin and Latin-English...
[Published in London in numerous editions in the 17 th and 18 th centuries]
	Fort George	1821-1822
	Fort Spokane	1822-1823
	Fort George	1823-1824
“English Grammar”
[This could be any number of such books available at the time.]
	Fort Babine	1825-1826
“Schurelis' Lexicon (2)”
[Unknown but Cornelius Schrevel (1604-1644): “ Lexicon Manuale Graeco-Latinum & Latino-Graecum... ” Published in London: 1781 comes the closest.]
	Fort George	1821-1822
	Fort George/Spokane	1822-1823

Literature/Poetry/Philosophy/History/Religion

The Bible (2 copies)	Fort Babine	1825-1826
Bickerstaffe, Isaac (1735-1812). Love in a Village, a Comic Opera in Three Acts...
[Published in numerous editions in the 18 th , 19 th and 20 th centuries.]
	Fort Babine	1825-1826
Burns, Robert (1759-1796). Poems Chiefly in the Scottish Dialect... [Widely popular and published in England and Scotland from the late 18 th century.]
	Fort Babine	1825-1826
Chambaud, Louis (?-1776). Fables Choises à l'Usage des Enfants...
[Published in London and Edinburgh in the late eighteenth and nineteenth centuries.]
	Fort Babine	1825-1826
“Cicero’s Letters” (2 vols)
[This could be any number of publications on Cicero.]
	Fort Babine	1825-1826
“Comic Logs”
[Not traced.]
	Fort Babine	1825-1826
“Feyson’s (?) Poems”
[Untraced but this could have been a colloquial reference to “ The poems of Ossian ,” by Robert Macpherson (1750-1774) published in London in 1773.]
	Fort Babine	1825-1826
Goldsmith, Oliver (c.1730-1774). Dr. Goldsmith’s Roman History Abridged by Himself for the use of Schools
[Published widely in the late 18 th and early 19 th centuries. This was preferred in the fur trade to his She Stoops to Conquer , The Vicar of Wakefield or The History of Little Goody Two-Shoes .]
	Fort Babine	1825-1826
Gordon, George, Lord Byron (1788-1824). Lara .
[A verse-tale of a Byronic-hero published in London: August 1814.]
	Fort Babine	1825-1826
“Homer's Iliad”
[Many extant publications existed at the time.]
	Fort George	1821-1823
Milton, John (1608-1674). Paradise Lost .
[An epic poem which has never gone out of print.]
	Fort Babine	1825-1826

Mohamed (c.570-632). Alcoran (The Koran). [As Alexander Ross apparently carried a copy with him, there were two copies of the Koran on the Pacific slopes.]
	Fort Babine	1825-1826
“Newy’s (?) Meditations” [Not traced.]
	Fort Babine	1825-1826
“Playfair's Natural Philosophy” [Not traced.]
	Fort George	1821-1822
	Fort Spokane	1822-1823
Shakespeare, William (1564-1616). MacBeth . [Any number of editions published in London, possibly retained for its morbid Scottish content.]
	Fort Babine	1825-1826
“Shiprick Economy of Human Life” [Although the “Shiprick” denotation cannot be traced, this is thought to be Robert Dodsley (1703-1764): “ Economy of Human Life, Translated from an Indian Manuscript ” published widely in the 18 th , 19 th and 20 th centuries.]
	Fort Babine	1825-1826
Smollett, Tobias (c.1721-1771). The Expedition of Humphrey Clinker ... [Very popular satire of the day, widely published in England in the late 18 th century.]
	Fort Babine	1825-1826
“Virgil (2)” [This could have been any number of publications involving Virgil’s writing.]
	Fort George	1821-1822
	Fort George/Spokane	1822-1823
Young, Edward (1683-1765). Complaint; or, Night-thoughts on Life, Death, and Immortality ... published in London, and later New York in the late 18 th and early 19 th centuries.]		[Widely]
	Fort Babine	1825-1826

Other

“Ayrshire Miscellany (2 vols)” [Not traced.]
	Fort Babine	1825-1826
Bingley, William (1774-1823). Useful Knowledge; or, A Familiar Account of the Various Productions of Nature, Mineral, Vegetable, and Animal ... London: 1816
	Fort George	1821-1822
	Fort Spokane	1822-1823
	Fort George	1823-1824
	Fort Vancouver	1826-1829
“French Recoil” [Not traced.]
	Fort Babine	1825-1826
“Grampian’s Diserter” [Not traced.]
	Fort Babine	1825-1826
Horsburgh, James (?-?). India Directory, or, Directions of Sailing to and from the East Indies, China, New Holland, Cape of Good Hope, Brazil and the Interjacent Parts ... [An early edition was published in London. It was published for several decades.]
	Fort George	1821-1824
	Fort Vancouver	1826-1827
“Ready Rockman”

[Not traced.]	Fort Babine	1825-1826
“Translation of the 1st Book, Titus L. Corsy” (?)
[Not traced.]	Fort George	1821-1823

PS: HBCA FtGeo[Ast]AB 2, 6, 11; FtVanAB 5, 22; FtBabCB 1825-26, B.11/b/1

Personal Libraries

Three individuals who chose to create their own libraries were:

- a. William Fraser Tolmie
- b. Archibald McKinlay
- c. Johnson George King

Their books reflect either their own tastes or the taste of others who chose the books.

William F. Tolmie’s Personal Library (1833-1937)

IMAGE 158 Library books. Photograph by author, 2009.

Avid reader William Fraser Tolmie brought over a trunk load of books and over the years added to his collection which in the end amounted to over 250 books. Additionally, some Company books may have found their way into the Tolmies library. Not all books are listed as their references are too ambiguous to trace. It appears that the library was broken up with the 1937 Tolmie Estate auction in Victoria, BC.

Geography/Navigation/Mathematics

- Cox, Ross (1793-1853). The Columbia River: or, Scenes and Adventures during a Residence of Six Years on the Western Side of the Rocky Mountains, among various Tribes of Indians hitherto unknown: together with a Journey Across the American Continent. (2 vols.) London: Henry Colburn and Richard Bentley, 1831
- Ellis, William (1794-1872). Polynesian Researches, During a Residence of nearly Six Years in the South Sea Islands; Including Descriptions of the Natural History and Scenery of the Islands- with Remarks on the History, Mythology, Traditions, Government, Arts, Manners, and Customs of the inhabitants. London: 1830
- Fraser, James Baillie (1783-1856). The Persian Adventure: Being the Sequel of “The Kuzzilbash”. London: Henry Colburn and Richard Bentley, 1830

- Guthrie, William (1708-1770). A New Geographical, Historical and Commercial Grammar; and Present State of the Several Kingdoms of the World... Illustrated with a Correct Set of Maps. London: J. Walker, etc., 1805
- Hall, Captain Basil (1788-1844). Fragments of Voyages and Travels, Including Anecdotes of a Naval Life: Chiefly for the Use of Young Persons. Edinburgh: Robert Cadell, 1832.
- Ingram, Alexander. The Principles of Arithmetic Explained in a Popular Manner. Edinburgh: 1826.

Medicine/Chemistry/Botany/Geology

- Abercrombie, John (1780-1844). Inquiries Concerning the Intellectual Powers and Investigation of Truth. Edinburgh, 1831.
- Abernethy, John, F.R.S. (1764-1831). Lectures on Anatomy, Surgery, and Pathology, including Observations on the Nature and Treatment of Local Diseases Delivered at St. Bartholomew's Hospital. London: James Bulcock, 1831.
- Anonymous. Descriptive and Illustrated Catalogue of the Physiological Series of Comparative Anatomy Contained in the Museum of the Royal College of Surgeons in London. Vol. 1. Including the Organs of Motion and Digestion. London: Taylor, 1833.
- Arnott, Neil, M.D. (1788-1874). Elements of Physics or Natural Philosophy General and Medical Explained Independently of Technical Mathematics and Containing New Disquisitions and Practical Suggestions. London: 1828.
- Bell, John (1763-1820) and Charles. The Anatomy and Physiology of the Human Body – 3 Volumes. London: Longman, 1829.
- Blundell, James, M.D. The Principles and Practice of Obstetric Medicine by Alexander Cooper Lee and Nathaniel Rogers, M.D. London: Joseph Butler, 1840.

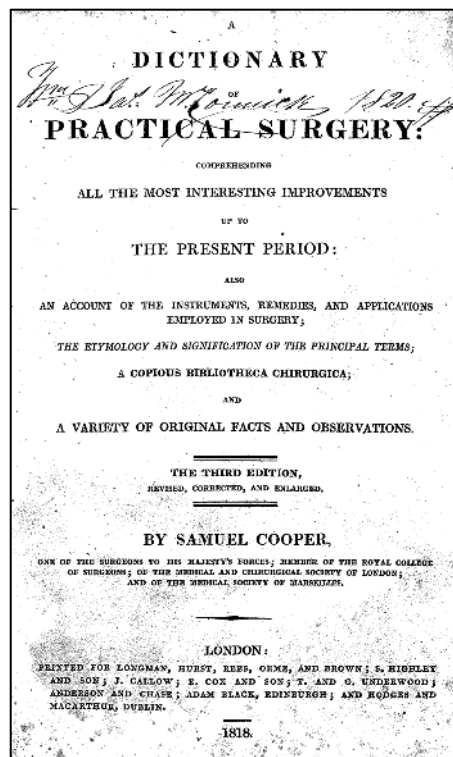

IMAGE 159 Title page to Samuel Cooper's A Dictionary of Practical Surgery, Third Edition. London: Longman et al, 1818.

- Braithwaite, W. The Retrospect of Practical Medicine and Surgery. (several volumes) London: Simpkin, Marshall, and Company, 1841-1842.

- Brande, William Thomas (1788-1866). Manual Chemistry (three volumes). London: John Murray, 1828.
- Chambers, Robert & William.
Chambers Educational Course: Rudiments of Geology (vol. 2 of 6) Edinburgh: David Page, 1845.
Chambers Educational Course: Hydrostatics, Hydraulics and Pneumatics Natural Philosophy. (vol. 3 of 6) Edinburgh: David Page, 1845.
- Christison, Robert, M.D., F.R.S.E. (1797-1882).
A Dispensatory or Commentary on the Pharmacopoeias of Great Britain. Edinburgh and London: 1842
A Treatise on Poisons, in Relation to Medical Jurisprudence, Psychology, and the Practice of Physic.
 Edinburgh: A. Black, 1832
- Clutterbuck, H. (1767-1856). An Enquiry Into the Seat And Nature of Fever; As Deducible from the Phenomena, Causes, and Consequences of The Disease, The Effects of Remedies, and the Appearances On Dissection. (8 vols.) London: 1825.
- Combe, Andrew, M.D. (1797-1847).
The Physiology of Digestion, Third Edition. London: Simpkin, Marshall & Company, 1841.
The Principles of Physiology applied to the Preservation of Health and to the Improvement of Physical and Mental Education. Edinburgh: 1832.
- Condie, D. Francis, M.D. (1796-1875). A Practical Treatise on the Diseases of Children, Fourth Edition, Revised and Augmented. Philadelphia: Blanchard & Lea, 1853.
- Cooper, Sir Astley Paston (1768-1841). Lectures on the Principles and Practice of Surgery, as Delivered in the Theatre of St. Thomas's Hospital. Taken in Short Hand. London: F. C. Westley, 1829.
- Cooper, Samuel (1780-1848). Dictionary of Practical Surgery, All the most Interesting Improvements, from the Earliest Times Down to the Present Period; an Account of the Instruments and Remedies Employed in Surgery; the Etymology and Signification of the Principal Items... London: Longman & Orme, 1838
- Cullen, William (1710-1790). First Lines of the Practice of Physic, with Notes and Observations, Practical and Explanatory and a Preliminary Discourse, in Defense of Classical Medicine by Charles Caldwell. Philadelphia: 1816.
- Davey, James George, M.D. (1813-1895). On the Nature, And Proximate Cause of Insanity. London: John Churchill 1853.
- Davis, David Daniel (1777-1841). Principles and Practice of Obstetric Medicine in a Series of Systematic Dissertations on Midwifery and on the Diseases of Women and Children, vol. 1. London: 1836.
- Forbes, John (1787-1861). Cyclopedia of Practical Medicine (4 vols.) Philadelphia: Blanchard and Lea, c. 1845.
- Good, John Mason (1764-1827). The Study of Medicine with a Physiological System of Nosology. London: Longman etc., 1840.
- Hargrave, William. A System of Operative Surgery. Dublin: Rodgers and Smith, 1831.
- Home, Sir Everad (1756-1832). Formation of Tumours. London: Longman, 1830.
- Hooker, William Jackson (1785-1865).
The British Flora. London: Longman, et al., 1830.
Flora Boreali Americana: or, The Botany of the Northern Parts of British America: Compiled Principally from the Plants Collected by Dr. Richardson & Mr. Drummond on the Late Northern Expeditions, Under Command of Captain Sir John Franklin. London: H. G. Bohn, 1840.
- Hooper, Robert, M.D., F.L.S. (1773-1835). Lexicon Medicum: or Medical Dictionary. London: 1831.
- Hope, James (1764-1847). A Treatise on the Diseases of the Heart and Great Vessels. London: William Kidd, 1832.
- Johnson, James (1777-1845). The Medico-Chirurgical Review, and Journal of Practical Medicine. New Series vol. 1. London?: c. 1836-37.

Grammar/Language

- Boileau, D. & Picquot, A. A New Dictionary, In French and English; Combining the Dictionaries of Boyser and Deletanville. London: 1831
- Ewing, Greville (1767-1841). A Greek and English Lexicon, Originally a Scripture Lexicon; and Now Adapted to the Greek Classics; with a Greek Grammar Prefixed. Glasgow: James Duncan, 1827.

Literature/Poetry/Philosophy/History/Religion

- Addison, Joseph (1672-1719).
The Miscellaneous Works. London: Lewis & Lewis, 1830.
The Spectator. Edinburgh: sometime between 1820-30.
- Bent, W. (1747-1823). The Universal Magazine of Knowledge and Pleasure. possibly published in 1780.
- Bernadin de Saint-Pierre, Jacques-Henri (1737-1814). Etudes de la Nature. Paris: Aimé André, 1825.
- Blair, Hugh (1718-1800) & James Finlayson. Sermons, to Which is Prefixed a Short Account of the Life and Character of the Author. London: T. Cadell, 1827.
- Blair, Hugh (1718-1800). A Critical Dissertation on the Poems of Ossian, The Son of Finigal. London: possibly around 1830.
- Robert Bloomfield (1766-1823). Poems. The Farmer's Boy, Good Tidings, Rural Tales, Wild Flowers. London: W. Wilton, 1827.
- Bogatsky, Karl Heinrich von (1690—1774). A Golden Treasury for the Children of God, Whose Treasure is in Heaven. York: Thomas Wilson and Son, 1809.
- Boswell, James (1740-1795). The Life of Samuel Johnson, LLD. London: John Murray, 1831.
- Burns, Robert (1759-1796). The Works of Robert Burns: Including His Letters to Clarinda, and the Whole of his Suppressed Poems, with an Essay on his Life, Genius and Character. London: William Clark, 1831.
- Butler, Samuel D.D. (1774-1839). Hudibras. A religious/poetry tract published by T. & J Allman in London: c. 1832.
- Campbell, Thomas (1777-1844). The Pleasures of Hope, with other Poems. London: Longman, 1822.
- Channing, William Ellery (1780-1842). The Works of William Ellery Channing, D. D. Glasgow: Richard Griffin and Co., 1840.
- Chateaubriand, François-Rene de (1768-1848). Genie de Christianisme. Lyon: 1827.
- Combe, George (1788-1858). The Constitution of Man Considered in Relation To External Objects. Edinburgh: Maclachlan and Stewart, before 1838.
- Cowper, William (1731-1800). Works: Poems, with a Life of the Author. Edinburg: Thomas Nelson and Peter Brown, 1831.
Table Talk & Other Poems. London: John Sharpe, 1825.
- Darley, George (1795-1846). The Works of Beaumont and Fletcher, vols. I and II. London: Edward Moxon, 1840.
- Dickens, Charles (1812-1870). The Life and Adventures of Martin Chuzzlewit. London: Chapman and Hall, 1844.
- Dibdin, Thomas Frognall (1776-1847). The Library Companion; Or The Young Man's Guide And the Old Man's Comfort, In the Choice of the Library. London: Harding, Triphook and Lepard, 1824.
- Dwight, Timothy (1778-1844), Theology; Explained and Defended in a Series of Sermons...With a Memoir of the Life of the Author. New York: Carvill, 1830.
- Goldsmith, Oliver, M.D. (c.1730-1774).
The History of Rome from the Earliest State of the Commonwealth to the dissolution of the Empire. Sandborton, N.H.: Charles Lane, 1836.
A History of the Earth and Animated Nature, With Copious Notes, Embracing Accounts of New Discoveries in Natural History. To Which is Subjoined an Appendix; Containing Explanations of Technical Terms, and an Outline of the Cuvierian and Other Systems. Glasgow: A Fullarton and Co, 1832.
Miscellaneous Works plus An Account of his Life and Writings. London: F. & D. Rivington, 1820.
- Guizot, Francois P. (1787-1874). History of the English Revolution of 1640, Commonly Called the Great Rebellion: From the Accession of Charles I to His Death. New York: D. Appleton & Co., 1846.
- Hogg, James (1770-1835). Winter Evening Tales, Collected Among the Cottagers in the South of Scotland. Edinburgh: Oliver & Boyd, 1820.
- Morgan, John Minton (1782-1854). Hampden in the Nineteenth Century in Two Volumes – Volume II. London: Edward Moxon, 1834.
- Jonson, Ben (c.1573-1637). The Works of Ben Jonson, New Edition with Biographical Memoir by William Gifford. London: Edward Moxon, 1846.
- Johnson, Samuel (1709-1784).
The Table Talk of Dr. Johnson. London: John Bumpus et al., 1825.

The Rambler. London: J. Payne and J. Bouquet, 1751.
Lives of the Most Eminent English Poets with Critical Observations on Their Works, by Samuel Johnson, LL.D. (2 vols). London: James Christie, 1822.

Other

Carr, Sir John. Tour to Scotland. published in 1807.
Chambers William & Robert. History and Present State of the British Empire. Edinburgh: 1837.
Cuvier, George (1769-1832). Animal Kingdom Arranged in Conformity with Its Organization – With Additional Descriptions of all the Species Hitherto Named and of many not before Noticed, by Edward Griffith and others. London: George B. Whittaker, 1827.
Galt, John (1779-1831). The Last of the Lairds; or The Life and Opinions of Malachi Mailings, Esq. Of Auldbiggins. Edinburgh & London: W. Blackwood, 1826.
Henry, Phillip. The Miscellaneous Works of the New Matther Henry, V.D.M. London; Joseph Ogle Robinson, 1830.
Huish, Robert (1777-1850). Memoirs of Her Late Majesty Caroline, Queen Of Great Britain: Embracing Every Circumstance Illustrative of the Most Memorable Scenes Of Her Eventful Life, From Infancy to the Period of Her Decease, Interspered with Original Letter and Other Documents, Hitherto Unpublished. London: Kelly, 1821.

SS: Anderson. "The William F. Tolmie Library."

Archibald McKinlay's Library (1845)

While Archibald McKinlay was in charge of Walla Walla/Nez Perces, he gave Marcus Whitman $100 to purchase books in Boston at the missionarie's own discretion. Consequently a collection was assembled by the Reverend David Green, one of the secretaries of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, the subject matter of which reflects the absolute unwavering certainty of belief of the Protestants at the time. The books arrived at Fort Vancouver via Honolulu in 1845. Whether or not McKinlay expected a library with such a singular focus is an open question as by the time he received them, his eyesight was getting worse and within a few years he retired to Oregon City. Nor is it known how much of the library he actually read while he was in business before being ruined by the floods in 1860-1861. It is also not known how much of the library he took with him when he moved to British Columbia in 1862.

Geography/Navigation/Mathematics

Murray, Hugh. An Encyclopedia of Geography: Comprising a Complete Description of the Earth, Physical, Statistical, Civil, and Political. Revised with Additions by Thomas G. Bradford, vol. 3. Philadelphia: Lea & Blanchard, nd.
Stephens, John Lloyd (1805-1852). Incidents of Travel in Yucatan, vol. 2. New York: 1843.

Grammar/Language

English Grammar (Brown's)

Literature/Poetry/Philosophy/History/Religion

Abott, Jacob (1803-1879).
The Young Christian: or A Familiar Illustration of the Principles of Christian Duty. Boston: 1835.
The Corner-Stone, or, A Familiar Illustration of the Principles of Christian Truth. Boston: 1834.
The Rollo Philosophy. Parts I-IV, Philadelphia: 1843-43.
Aikman, James (1779?-1860). Annals of the Persecution in Scotland from the Restoration to the Revolution. Edinburgh: 1842.
Alcott, William Andrus (1798-1859).

- The Young House-Keeper*. Boston: 1838.
- The Young Husband, or, Duties of Man in the Marriage Relation*. Boston: 1839.
- The House I Live In; or, The Human Body*. Tavoy: Karen Missionary Press, 1843.
- The Young Wife; or Duties of Woman in the Marriage Relation*. Boston: 1849.
- Alison, Sir Archibald, bart. (1792-1867). History of Europe from the Commencement of the French Revolution in 1789, to the Restoration of the Bourbons in 1815, vol. 4. New York: 1842-43.
- Bancroft, George (1800-1891). A History of the United States from the Discovery of the American Continent. Boston: 1834.
- Barnes, Albert (1798-1870). Notes, Explanatory and Practical, on the New Testament. (Many editions).
- Baxter, Richard (1615-1691). The Dying Thoughts...abridged by Benjamin Fawcett. New York: c.1830s.
Life of Richard Baxter, Presbyterian Board of Publications.
- Bickersteth, Edward (1786-1850). A Scripture Help, Designed to Assist in Reading the Bible Profitably. With Maps. Boston: 1817.
- Cobbin, Ingram. Book of Popery: Description of Origin, Progress, Doctrines, etc., of the Papal Church. Presbyterian Board of Publication, nd.
- D'Aubigne, Jean Henry Merle. History of the Great Reformation of the Sixteenth Century in Germany, Switzerland, etc., vol. 3. New York: 1843.
- Dick, Thomas (1774-1857). The Sidereal Heavens, and Other Subjects Connected with Astronomy, as Illustrative of the Character of the Deity, and the Infinity of Worlds. Philadelphia: 1845.
- Dick's Astronomy (not identified).
- Doddridge, Philip (1702-1751). The rise and Progress of Religion of the Soul. (many editions)
The English Martyrology Abridged From Fox, by Charlotte Elizabeth, vol. 2. Philadelphia: Presbyterian Board of Publications, 1843.
Essays on Romanism, by a Layman. London: Seeley, 1839.
- Guizot, François Pierre Guillaume (1787-1874). General History of Civilization in Europe, From the Fall of the Roman Empire to the French Revolution. New York: 1842.
- Hallam, Henry (1777-1859). View of the State of Europe During the Middle Ages. New York: 1843.
- Harris, John (1802-1856). The Great Commission; or, the Christian Church Constituted and Charged to Convey the Gospel to the World. Boston: 1842.
- Hetherington, William Maxwell. History of the Church of Scotland, From the Introduction of Christianity to the Period of the Disruption in 1843. New York: 1844.
- Hodge, Charles (1797-1878). The Way of Life. Written for the American Sunday School Union, and Revised by the Committee of Publication. Philadelphia: American Sunday School Union, c. 1841.
- Jenks, William, ed. (1778-1866). A Comprehensive Commentary on the Bible, With Supplement, vols. I-VI. Brattleboro, Vt., and Boston: 1834-38.
Line Upon Line. American Tract Society, nd.
The Lives of the British Reformers. Philadelphia: Presbyterian Board of Publication, nd.
- Scott, John (1777-1834). The History of the Church of Christ, Intended as a Continuation of the Church History, by Joseph Milner and Isaac Milner, vol. 3. London: 1826-1836.
Missionary Records. Presbyterian Board of Publication, nd.
- Moffat, Robert. Missionary Labors and Scenes in Southern Africa. New York and Boston: 1843.
The Mother's Magazine. New York: monthly, nd.
Narratives of Revivals of Religion in Scotland, Ireland, and Wales. Presbyterian Board of Publication, nd.
- Neander, Johann August Wilhelm (1789-1850).
The History of the Christian Religion and Church, During the First Three Centuries. New York: 1843.
History of the Planting and Training of the Christian Church by the Apostles. Edinburgh: 1842.
- Nichol, John Pringle (1804-1859). Views of the Architecture of the Heavens. In a Series of Letters to a Lady. New York: 1840.
The Peep of Day; or, A Series of the Earliest Religious Instruction the Infant Mind is Capable of Receiving. American Tract society, nd.
- Perkins, Justin (1805-1869). A Residence of Eight Years in Persia, Among the Nestorian Christians; with Notices of the Muhammedans. Andover: 1843.
- Prescott, William Hickling (1796-1859). History of the Reign of Ferdinand and Isabella, The Catholic. Boston: 1840.

- Prout, Ebenezer. Memoirs of the Life of the Rev. John Williams, Missionary to Polynesia. New York and Andover,;1843.
Remarkable Places Mentioned in the Holy Scriptures. Presbyterian Board of Publication, nd.
The Revocation of the Edict of Nantes and Its Consequences to the Protestant Churches of France and Italy, Containing Memoirs of Some of the Sufferers in the Persecution Attending That Event. Philadelphia, nd.
Scripture Portions for the Afflicted; with Reflections from Various Authors. Presbyterian Board of Publication, nd.
- Sime, W. History of the Inquisition. Presbyterian Board of Publication, nd.
- Sparks, Jared (1789-1866). Library of American Biography, vol. 10. Boston: 1834-38.
- Stevenson, George. Offices of Christ. Abridged by W. S. Plumer. Presbyterian Board of Publication, nd.
The Three-fold Cord. Presbyterian Board of Publication, nd.
- Timbs, John (1801-1875). Knowledge for the People: or, The Plain Way and Because. Familiarizing Subjects of Useful Curiosity and Amusing Research. Boston: 1832.
- Todd, John (1800-1873). Truth Made Simple: Being the First Volume of a System of Theology for Children. Character of God. Northampton: nd.
- Tracy, Joseph (1793?-1874). The Great Awakening. A History of the Revival of Religion in the Time of Edwards and Whitefield. Boston: 1842.
- Turner, Sharon (17678-1847). The Sacred History of the World, as Displayed in the Creation and Subsequent Events to the Deluge, Attempted to be Philosophically Considered, in a Series of Letters to a Son, vol. 3. New York: 1832-38.
- Wharey, J. Sketches of Church History. Presbyterian Board of Publication, nd.
- Willison, J. Christian's Scripture Director: Thoughts and Reflections;... Presbyterian board of Publication, nd.
- Wilson, Daniel (1778-1858). The Evidences of Christianity: Stated in a Popular and Practical Manner, in a Course of Lectures, on the Authenticity, Credibility, Divine Authority, and Inspiration of the New Testament, Delivered in the Paris Church of St. Mary, Islington, vol. 2. Boston: 1833.

JS: Oliphant. "The Library of Archibald McKinlay"

The Library of Johnson George King (1853)

The private library of Johnson George King was selected and ordered by himself reflecting the tastes of a lively mind. It is uncertain that King actually received his library in the Pacific Northwest for the books arrived in a tin-lined box at the Columbia River in March 1853 aboard the British barque Josephine [Capt. J. Robertson]. Johnson's HBC job ended October 9, 1852 at Umpqua, after which he left for Australia. If he didn't take them with him, he may have left instructions for the books to be forwarded.

Geography/Navigation/Mathematics

- Black's General Atlas of the World. New and revised edition.* Edinburgh: C. Black, 1840s
Black's Picturesque Tourist and Road and Railway Guide Book through England and Wales... Edinburgh: A. & C. Black, 1851.
- McCulloch, John Ramsay (1789-1864). A Dictionary, Practical, Theoretical, and Historical, of Commerce and Commercial Navigation. London: Longman et al, 1835.

Literature/Poetry/Philosophy/History/Religion

- Byron, George Gordon Noel Byron, 6th Baron (1788-1824). The Works of Lord Byron, with a Life and Illustrative Notes, by William Anderson, vol. 2. Edinburgh and London: A. Fullarton & Co., nd.
- Chambers, Robert (1802-1871). Chamber's Cyclopaedia of English Literature; a History, Critical and Biographical, of British Authors, from the Earliest to the Present Times, vol. 2. Edinburgh: W. & R. Chambers, 1844.
- Chambers, William (1800-1833). Chamber's Information for the People. London and Edinburgh: W. & R. Chambers, 1840s?.
- Chambers, William and Robert, ed. Chamber's Edinburgh Journal, Edinburgh: 1832-53.
- Combe, George (1788-1858). The Constitution of Man Considered in Relation to External Objects. Edinburgh:

- Maclachlan & Stewart, 1840.
Household Words. A Weekly Journal. Conducted by Charles Dickens. London: nd.
- Maunder, Samuel (1785-1849). Maunder's Treasury of Knowledge, and Library of Reference. London: S. Maunder, 1840s.
- Moore, Thomas (1779-1852). The Poetical Works. Collected by Himself, vol. 10. London: Longman et al, 1853.
Plutarch's Lives. nd.
- Pollok, Robert (1798-1827). The Course of Time: A Poem. Edinburgh and London: W. Blackwood and Sons, nd.
- Rogers, Samuel (1763-1855). Italy, A Poem. Part the First. London: J. Murray, 1823.
- Scott, Sir Walter (1771-1832) The Prose Works of Sir Walter Scott. 9 vol. Paris: A. & W. Galignani, 1827-34.
Song Book (not identified)
- Thackeray, William Makepeace (1811-1863). The History of Pendennis. His Fortunes and Misfortunes, His Friends, and his Greatest Enemy, vol. 2. London: Bradbury and Evans, 1849-50.

SS: Oliphant "The Library of a Fur Trader at Fort Umpqua."

Fur Traders from the various fur trade companies who became settlers in Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana and British Columbia

IMAGE 160 A farmstead in British Columbia, F. W. Howay.
British Columbia from the Earliest Times to the Present, vol. II.
Vancouver: S. J. Clark Publishing, 914. Plate facing page 81.

The term “settlement” when applied to fur traders is problematic. While working for various fur trade companies some “settled” at the posts with their families. They may have died there, returned to points east of the Rocky Mountains, or moved on to new locations. Others chose their wives’ native settlements whereas still others were nomadic with family in tow and are very difficult to pin down. The settlement list that follows incorporates the understanding associated with the Euro-American land use patterns and reflects life after a career in the fur trade. Some would fall under the term squatters while others could be classified as settlers under an organized land system. Some settled for short periods of time, while others lived out their lives ostensibly farming. This list is far from complete as it leaves out many individuals who slipped under the radar and left a trail of descendants.

The organization of settlement information is also problematic. Rather than organize settlement information by areas reflecting 19th century names of areas of land conducive to settlement, information is organized by modern day counties in the United States and by regional districts in British Columbia. These administrative units are not entirely comparable but they make retrieval from modern day maps much more accessible.

The twenty-eight regional districts in British Columbia are a much more recent phenomenon, having come about in 1965 to rationalize municipal and non-municipal services. The regional districts are governed by elected and appointed officials. They are inversely proportional to population size and boundaries change along with population. They are used here as they have, unlike the previous geographic regions, definable boundaries.

The many counties of the four US states dealt with here (Washington: thirty-nine; Oregon: thirty-six; Idaho: forty-four; Montana: fifty-six) have evolved over the years and so the modern day county boundaries are used. One exception is the continuous geographic region of Oregon’s Willamette Valley which, several years after initial settlement, was chopped into several counties, six of which are united here under the term Willamette Valley.

Oregon
(Arranged by modern State counties except for Willamette Valley)

Douglas County

Bonenfant, Antoine (1850s?); Courville, Bazil (1850s).

Eastern Oregon (county unknown)

Hubbard, Thomas Jefferson (1857).

Clackamas County (Oregon City)

Barclay, Forbes (c.1850); McLoughlin, Dr. John (1840s); Lane, Richard (1850); Pambrun, Andrew Dominique (c.1851); Tamaherry [?] (1849).

Willamette Valley — Washington, Yamhill, Polk, Clackamas, Marion and Linn Counties (Includes Champoege, Fairfield, St. Louis, St. Paul, Tualatin Plains, Woodburn)

Aiken, George (1850); Arcouet, Amable (1836); Aubichon, Alexis (1841); Baker, James (1840); Bastien (Rocan), Narcisse (1846); Beaudouin, Caesar (c.1846); Beaulieu, Joseph (?) (c.1842); Belanger, Edouard (c.1852); Bellique, Pierre (1834); Bergevin, Felix (c.1850); Boisvert, Louis (c.1841); Bouche, Francois (1843); Bouche, Jean Baptiste [d] (1843); Bourgeau, Joseph (1843); Bourgeau, Sylvan (1842); Brisbois, Olivier (1850); Brouillet, Hypolite (1840s); Brown, William [a] (unkn); Brulez, Jean Baptiste (c.1844); Brunel, Joseph (1843); Buck, Jonathan (1848); Caille (Biscornet), Paschal (1846); Cameron, Duncan (c.1845); Campo, Charles (1840s); Canasawaratte, Ignace (c.1841); Canning, William (c.1835); Chalifoux, Andre (1840); Chamberlain, Adolphe (1840s); Champagne, Francis (1841); Chiffmanaplin, George (c.1850); Cornoyer, Joseph (c.1841); Courville, Bazil (c.1844); Couture, Joseph (c.1850); Daigneau, Edouard (1850s); Degrais, Pierre Phillippe (c.1842); Delard, Joseph (c.1832); Depot, Pierre (1836); Deschamps, Pierre (1846); Desloges, Hyacinth (1837); Despard, Joseph Frederick (1837); Diamare [Baron], Charles (1847); Dompierre, David (c.1840); Dorion, Jean Baptiste (?) (1840s); Dorion [Vagnier, Toupin], Marie L'Aguiyoise (???); Dubois, Andre (1839); Dubois, Pierre (c.1844); Dubreuille, Jean Baptiste (1841); Dumond, Alexander (c.1843); Dupre, Nazaire (c.1846); Ebbert, George Wood (c.1840); Edwards, Philip Leget (1836); Felix (Palaquin), Antoine (1843); Finlay, John (1846); Forcier, Louis (1836); Gagnon, Joseph (c.1843); Gagnon, Louis (c.1843); Gagnon, Luc (c.1841); Gale, Joseph (1830s); Garant, Augustine (1842); Gardepied, Jean Baptiste (c.1841); Gay, George Kirby (c.1841); Gendron, Joseph (c.1843); George [Coleman], Jean Baptiste (c.1843); George, Thomas (1844); Gervais, Jean Baptiste (1850); Gervais, Joseph (c. 1830); Gravelle, Gideon (1840s); Gregoire, Antoine (1843); Gregoire, Etienne (1842); Groom, George (c. 1850); Guilbeau, Paul (c. 1841); Hauxhurst, Webley John (1836); Hubbard, Thomas Jefferson (1837); Hubert, Joachim (c.1842); Innes, Thomas Newman (1855); Irvine, John (c.1856); Jeaudouins, Charles (1841); Johnson, William (1836); Johnson, William Coreagal [d] (c.1851); Karonhitchego, Laurent (c.1842); Klyne, Joseph (c.1843); Labonte, Louis (1836); Lacourse, Pierre (1840); Laferte, Joachim (1845); Lafantasie, Charles (1842); Laforte (Placide), Michel (1836); Laframboise, Michel (1841); Lajoie, Jean Baptiste (1840s); Laprade, Alexis (c.1842); Laroque, Joseph Sebastien (1846); Lavalle, Martial (c.1841); Lavalle, Pierre (c.1841); Lebrun, Hercule (1845); Liard, Thamiere (1847); Lonctain, Andre (1836); Lucier, Etienne (1820s); McCarty, William (1830s); McGillivray, Napoleon Buonaparte (1844); McKay, Jean Baptiste Depatie (1830s); McKay, John (Rouge) (1847); McKay, Thomas (1833); McLean, John [a] (1847); McLeod, Donald [a] (1843); McLoughlin, Joseph (1840); Malois, Fabien (c.1843); Manson, Donald (1858); Marouna, Mungo (c.1848); Martel, Octave (c.1847); Masta, Antoine (1840); Mattieu, Francois Xavier (1842); Meek, Joseph Lafayette (1840); Mocuman, Louis (1843); Montour, Nicholas (1841); Munro, David (1844); Martin, Norman (1850); Newell, Robert (c.1840); Obichon, Jean Baptiste (1830s); Onskanha, Louis (c.1845); Ossin, Louis (1840); O'Neill, James a. [?] (c.1835); Pariseau, Pierre (1850); Perreault, Jean Baptiste (1836); Petit, Amable (1841); Petit, Jean Baptiste (1841); Petit, (Gobin), Jean Baptiste (1841); Picard, Andre (1836); Pichette, Louis (1841); Piette, Francois (1836); Pin, Joseph (1841); Pineau, Joseph (c.1845); Pion, William (c.1842); Plante, Charles (1838); Plouffe, (Carillon), Joseph (1844); Poirier, Bazil (1840s); Poirier, Toussaint (c.1841); Porteus, William (1847); Proveau, Jean Baptiste (1846); Quesnel, Amable (1840); Quintal, Laurent (c.1841); Raymond, Joseph (1854); Rivet, Francois (1837);

Rocquebrune, Joseph (1841); Rondeau, Charles (c.1837); Rondeau, Louis (c.1845); Ropeyarn, Jack (c.1849); Roussil, Augustine (c.1843); Roy, Thomas (1840); Redsull, Thomas T., (1852); Russell, Osborne (1830s); Sansouce, Joseph (c.1850); Satakarass, Peter (c.1844); Saunders, John Alexander (1841); Sauvé (Leplante), Laurent (1844); Seguin (Laderoute), Xavier (c.1837); Servant, Jacques (1841); Shepherd, Cyrus (1835); Silvester, Jean Baptiste (1849); Smith, Solomon H. (1836); Tahetsaronsari, Jacques (1847); Tchigte, Charles (c.1836); Tehongagarate, Joseph (1841); Tibbets, Calvin (c.1834); Toro (1850); Toupin, Jean (c.1841); Tyeguariche, (Norwest), Jean Baptiste (c.1843); Thompson, Andrew (1848); Thorn, James (1855); Tod, John (1852); Umpreville, John (1842); Umpreville, Pierre (1842); Vandal, Louis [a] (c.1841); Vandelle, Louis [b] (1844); Vassal, Louis (1845); Vivet, Louis (1842); Wagner, Peter (1841); Walker, Courtney Meade (1840s); Washington, George (c.1839); Wyeth, Nathaniel Jarvis (1834); Young, Ewing (c.1834).

Washington State (Arranged by modern state counties)

Clallam County (includes Port Crescent)

Paquet [a], Jean Baptiste (1860).

Clarke County (includes Cathlapotle, old Fort Vancouver area, Washougal)

Bayfield, Charles (1850s); Davies, Alexander (1853); Fiset, Charles (1852); Foubister, Thomas (1853); Lane, Richard (1853); Lewes, Adolphus (1850s); McGillivray, Napoleon Buonaparte (1846); Oagh, Richard (1831); Oniaze, Etienne (c.1850); Raby (Payan), Abraham (1830).

Columbia County (includes Scappoose)

McKay, Malcolm (1850s).

Lewis County (includes Cowlitz area)

Badayac (Laplant), Pierre (1841); Bernier, Julian (1849); Bouchard, Olivier (1843); Calder, John (c.1846); Chalifoux, Jean Baptiste (1850); Cottenoire, Michel (1837); Dauphine, Olivier (c.1845); Delonie, Louis Henry (c.1843); Joyalle, Etienne (1841); Kateman, Xavier (1846); Lajoie, Jean Baptiste (c.1842); Lagarde, Joseph (1853); Latour, Louis [?] (1847); Loziere, Ignace (1846); McDonald, William Anawiscum (1847); Piette, Francois (c.1838); Proveau [a], Jean Baptiste (c.1841); Roberts, George Barber (1851).

Pacific County (includes Chinook, Baker's Bay)

Lattie, Alexander (1846); McCarty, William (1850); Martindale, William (1851); St. André, Pierre, (1850s).

Pierce County (includes Nisqually area, Roy)

Allard, Joseph [1] (c.1847); Daines, Henry (1846); Dechamp, Jean Baptiste (c.1852); Gravelle, Francois (1849); Harber, George (1850s); Hayward, George (1850s); Kalama (1860s); Legg, William [?] (1850s); McPhail, John (1854); Ross, Charles Jr. (c.1859).

San Juan Islands (includes San Juan Island)

Low, Jacob (1850s); Naukana, William (1860).

Spokane County (includes Spokane River area)

Lanctot, Camille (1850s); Plante, Antoine (1852).

Stevens County (includes Chewalah, Colville Valley area)

Desautel, Joseph (1852); Finlay, James Raphael Jr. (1840s); McLeod, Donald (1860s); Stensgair, Thomas (1852).

Thurston County

Jeal, Herbert (1852).

Wahkiakum County (includes Cathlamet)

Allen, George Traill (1861); Birnie, James (1846); Roberts, George Barber (1871).

Walla Walla County (includes Frenchtown, present day city of Lowden)

Beauchemin, Edouard (1855); Brancheau, Thomas (1855); Brisbois, Olivier (1850); Dorion [Vagnier, Toupin], Marie L'Aguiyouse (??); Dauny, Louis Francois (1852); McBean, William (1852); Pambrun, Andrew Dominique (c.1851); Raymond, Narcisse (1853).

Idaho

(Arranged by modern state counties)

Boundary County (includes Port Hill)

McLoughlin, David (1860s?).

Lewis County (includes Lapwai Creek and Clearwater Valley)

Craig, William (1840).

Montana

(Arranged by modern state counties)

Flathead, Sanders and Lake Counties (includes Flathead Indian Reservation, Jocko Valley, St. Ignatius Mission)

Finlay, Miaquim (1850s); Finlay, Nicholas (1860s); McDonald, Angus (1870s).

Missoula County (includes Bearmouth)

McLeod, Donald (1860s).

Powell County (includes Benetese Creek and Gold Creek)

Finlay, Francois Benetese (1840s).

British Columbia

(Arranged by modern regional districts)

Bulkley-Nechako Regional District (This central British Columbia district takes in much of traditional New Caledonia fur trade territory and includes such old posts as Fort St. James, Fort Babine, etc.)

Boucher, James (1870s); Boucher, Jean Marie (?) (1870s).

Capital Regional District (This southern Vancouver Island district includes Esquimalt, Lakes District, Salt Spring Island, Sooke, Sooke River area, Victoria.)

Balthasard, Andre (1853); Bates, Edward (1858?); Batter, John (1859); Beauchamp, Joseph Ovide (1852); Begg, John (c.1856); Bond, Charles (1850s); Bottineau, Basil (?) (1850s); Brotchie, William (1850s); Cabana, Francois Xavier (1852); Cote, Francois Xavier (1850); Danneau, Antoine (?) (1850s); Finlayson, Roderick (1872); Goudie, James (1852); Hanhan, George (1880s); Hawkins, George Frederick (1850s); Helmkin, John Sebastian (1850); Helland, James (1850s); Horie, John (1850s); Hall, Thomas (1857); Hellier, William (1850s); Hodge, Henry (1850s); Johnson, John Henry (1853); Keavé (c.1855); L'Ecuyer, Francois (1850s); Leask, James (1850s); Lymon, John (1851); McKenzie, George (1850s); MacDonald, William John (1858); McDougall, Hugh (c.1855); McDougall, John (1850s); McNeill, William Henry (1854); McNeill, William Henry Jr. (1870s); Martin, Jonathan (1860s); Mitchell, William (1860s); Moffat, Hamilton (c.1873); Naukana, William (1870s); Norn, Samuel (c.1859); Presse, Francois (1840s); Peltier, Louis (1850s); Poirier, Joseph (1859); Reid, James Murray (1853); Ross, John (1850s); Stockand, James (1850s); Tolmie, William Fraser (1860s); Venn, John (c.1855); Versailles, Pierre (1859); Yale, James Murray (1860s); Yates, James (1851).

Cariboo Regional District (This is the southern area of the New Caledonia fur trading area. It includes much of the Chilcotin west of the Fraser River; it specifically includes the Fort Alexandria area, Quesnel area, and 150 Mile House.)

Bouche, William (1868); Hamilton, Gavin (1878); McArthur, Neil McLean (1854); Paquet [b], Jean Baptiste (1858); Saunders, John N. (1861).

Regional District of Central Okanagan (This district incorporates both sides of Okanagan Lake and includes Okanagan Mission.)

Sabiston, James (1860s).

Cowichan Valley Regional District (This district is on southern Vancouver Island and includes a large area centering on Cowichan, including Shawnigan Lake, Valdes Island.)

Humphreys, John (c.1856); Hutson, William Abraham (1850s); St. Gré, Gabriel (1859); Vautrin, Francois Xavier (1860); Vautrin, Jean Baptiste (1860s).

East Kootenay Regional District (This district bordering Montana, includes Tobacco Plains.)

Berland, Edouard (1853).

Fraser Valley Regional District (This upper Fraser Valley district includes Matsqui.)

D'Arche, Joseph (1869); Yates, William (1859).

Metro Vancouver Regional District (This district includes the city of Vancouver and the Lower Fraser Valley, including Albion, Langley, and Maple Ridge.)

Allard, Ovid (1864); Brousseau (Lafleur), Bazil (1860s); Cromarty, William (c.1862); Ehu (1869); Emptage, William Henry (1858); Fallardeau, Narcisse (1860s); Maayo, Joseph (1860); Morrison, Kenneth (1860); Newton, William Henry (1870s); Ohia (1860); Ohule, Peter (1860); Peeohpeeoh (1860); Robertson, Samuel (c.1858); Saunders, John N. (1860).

Regional District of Mount Waddington (This northern Vancouver Island and opposing mainland coast area incorporates Fort Rupert.)

Blenkinsop, George (c.1861); Bottineau, Basil (?) (1850s); Hunt, Robert (1885).

Nanaimo Regional District (This Vancouver Island district includes the Nanaimo area and Gabriola Island.)

Bolne, Jean Baptiste (1850s); Edgar, Magnus (1853); Kimo, James (1860); Paplay, Alexander (1850s); Sabiston, John [a] (1858); Sabiston, Peter (c.1859).

Okanagan-Similkameen Regional District (This border district includes the Similkameen River.)

Deschiquette, Francois (1860).

Skeena-Queen Charlotte Regional District (This coastal district includes Fort Simpson [Lax Kw'alaams].)

Berentzen, Hans Peter (1860); Rudland, William (c.1863).

Thompson-Nicola Regional District (includes Bonaparte River, Kamloops, Savona)

Bouche, Joseph (1860s); Leolo, Jean Baptiste (c.1845); McIver, John [a] (1871); McLean, Donald (1861); McDougall, John (1890).

Glossary

Assomption sash: A sash derived from Iroquoian carrying belts of the 18th century worn around the waist particularly by canadiens. They were generally hand woven, however, later they were mass produced in Assomption, Quebec, hence the name. Beaded carrying pouches were hung from the sash.

Barque (Bark): A seagoing vessel rigged specifically with the aftermost mast fore-and-aft rigged and the other masts square rigged. The archaic “barque” was used by the English in the fur trade well into the nineteenth century.

Bastion: A fortified tall pentagonal structure, built for defense, storage of arms and sometimes for use as a jail. The upper part often projected from the palisade to allow defensive fire from several directions. If a post was overtaken, a bastion served the same purpose as a medieval keep.

Batteaux: (Fr) Modified York boats built for conditions on the Pacific slopes.

Boute: (Fr) End or tip of something. A term for the skilled positions of bowsman and steersman in a canoe or boat. In the records it is spelled both with and without a final “e.”

Bowsman: A skilled canoeist in the bow of a canoe. Also called a devant.

Bois brûlés: (Fr) Literally “burnt wood”; a term used to describe people of mixed descent.

Brig: A two-masted square-rigged vessel with an additional lower fore-and-aft sail on the gaff (a spar on the afterside of a mast) and boom to the mainmast.

Brigade: Any group of people traveling by canoe or horse or a combination of both with the expressed purpose of carrying furs, supplies or people to a certain destination.

Briganteen: A two-masted vessel with a square-rigged foremast and fore-and-aft rigged mainmast.

Canadiens: (Fr) French Canadians

Carrot of tobacco: A plug of tobacco shaped like a carrot, used commonly as a trade item.

Carriole: A sledge with a covered framework built onto it. The purpose was to protect people and goods from the elements.

Chief Factor: The highest ranking HBC Commissioned Officers under the Deed Pools of 1821 and 1834. They could receive a little less than 1% of the profits for each outfit. Chief Factors were usually in charge of a district and had the privilege of sitting at the annual meetings of the council. They could vote on the promotions of lower ranks, such as clerks and Chief Traders.

Chief Trader: Under the Deed Pools of 1821 and 1834, they were the second rank of commissioned officers. Their share of profits was half that of Chief Factors. Often they were in charge of a larger post and after 1871 they ranked as fourth level officers.

Clerk: In the NWC and PFC clerks ranked below the partners or proprietors and in the HBC, below the officers. Clerks had various responsibilities including dispensing medicines and negotiating with natives. They were often left in charge of posts in the absence of a Chief Trader.

Coueurs de bois: (Fr) Literally “runners of the woods; a term from the 1600s and 1700s. These were unlicensed independent French Canadian fur traders who were trying to circumvent or outrun the native middlemen fur traders of the time.

Coureur de rouine, or en derouine: (Fr) An itinerant trader or a person working as one. When natives were reluctant to come to a post to trade, an employee of lesser rank was given permission to go out in the field and carry out trade on behalf of the company.

Deed Poll: A contract or legal transaction involving the transfer of property made out in one name; in the case of the HBC-NWC amalgamation, the deed or contract was executed in the name of the HBC only. The term “poll” was historical legacy deriving from the paper being “polled” or cut evenly at the edge.

Desertion: A military term used by the HBC to denote anyone who left before the end of his contract. Particularly in the early years, as all personnel were needed for the survival of the group, a person dropping out would imperil the lives of the others and so the term had some basis in logic.

Devant: (Fr) A position in the front of a canoe; the job of the bowsman was to watch for obstructions in the water.

Engagé: (Fr) Simply a fur trader under contract but it was a term often used generically to describe those engaged for work in the fur trade.

Express: Each spring the express would head eastward over the Rocky Mountains in smaller fast canoes with the account books, journals, etc. which had been gathered from the posts. They would return westward with mail, instructions, etc. Retiring servants sometimes went out with the Express following the Communication route to York Factory.

Factor: Descriptive of man in charge of an HBC post but a very misused and liberally applied term particularly in the later years to elevate the status of people working at posts. Later, after 1871, real Factors were the third rank of Commissioned Officers.

Factory: As in York Factory, it simply noted an establishment for traders doing business in a foreign country.

Forgeron: (Fr) blacksmith

Freeman: These men were free of company contracts and could work on their own.

Furlough: A leave of absence reserved for officers.

Fur Trader: The term fur traders should be applicable to the early itinerant voyageurs and, latterly, Company officers. Here it is used as a generic term for those working in the fur trade

Gallery: A raised walkway built inside and far enough below the top of the palisade to provide protection for a sentry.

Governor and Committee: A fur trade term specific to the HBC. A London Governor and a Committee were elected at each annual general meeting by shareholders in that city. The Governor was the CEO and the committee would organize fur auctions, order trade goods, hire men and arrange for shipping. All important decisions were referred to this group. Later two additional Governors were appointed in the field in British North America but the two posts were soon reduced to one with George Simpson holding the position from 1821 until his death in 1860.

Kanaka: (polynesian) A Hawaiian term meaning people.

Metis and metis: (Fr) A person of mixed Native and European descent. The upper case used in Canada denotes a legal status whereas in the USA it is used to denote persons of Native and European heritage.

Milieu: (Fr) A canoe position, the same as a middleman

Middleman: Originally the middle positions for paddlers in a canoe but later it came to cover a myriad of jobs, often that of laborer

New Caledonia brigade route: A route from New Caledonia opened in 1813 by John Stuart, down the Fraser River to Fort Alexandria, overland via horse brigade to Thompson River and Fort Okanogan and down river to Fort Vancouver.

Outfit: The period June 1st of one year to May 31st of the following year was the financial year in the fur trade when accounts were started and drawn to a close. As well, the period fitted around the trapping season.

Palisade: A protective usually wooden stockade around a post. In areas where wood was in short supply, a palisade could be built of adobe.

Partner: A person who held shares in the NWC or PFC and thus shared in the profits.

Postmaster: Laborers and tradesmen who were temporarily given command of posts in absence of other officers. This also can be spelled as post master.

Post on sill: a traditional method of building construction originating in France and brought over to New France.

Proprietor: A partner in the NWC or PFC in charge of an area that may include several posts.

Rendezvous: Originally a term applied to the annual NWC gathering at Grand Portage. It was later appropriated by the St. Louis companies, probably through their French Canadian employees, for the annual gatherings in the Rocky Mountains.

Schooner: Originally a vessel with two masts fore-and-aft rigged. Later schooners had three or four masts, the foremast being equal to or smaller than the other masts.

Servant: a contracted employee of the HBC.

Shallop: A large heavy boat used in shallow waters, a shallop is fitted with one or more masts and carrying fore-and-aft sails

Sledge: A sleigh with sturdy runners used for transport of goods in the winter.

Sloop: A small one-masted fore-and-aft rigged vessel with mainsail and jib.

Snow: A small sailing vessel resembling a brig having a main and fore mast and an additional try-sail mast close behind the mainmast. The small strong try-sail is used fore and aft in heavy weather.

Steersman: a skilled canoeist in the stern of a canoe, responsible for guiding the boat

Stockade: Also called a palisade, a stockade comprised upright logs dug into the ground. The cracks between the logs were sealed with smaller pieces of wood for protection.

Tradesman: those people skilled in a particular trade and employed as such.

Trapper: Technically a person who trapped animals but sometimes used in the generic sense of someone working in the fur trade.

Travois: (f) Derived from the French “travail,” meaning work. A transport vehicle consisting of two joined poles pulled by a horse; smaller versions were pulled by dogs.

Two spirited: A Native term used to describe someone exhibiting, amongst other things, sexual ambiguity. The traditional term “bardache” denoting the same is considered derogatory.

Voyageur: (f) Originally a term used to describe persons employed to transport goods between posts, the term has become generic and used to describe employees in any number of positions.

York boat: Boats built originally near the shores of Hudson Bay at or in the vicinity of York Factory to transport goods over territory considered too dangerous for birch bark canoes. Designed and built by Orcadians, they naturally incorporated features found in boats on those North Britain islands, features which included some Viking design elements.

Conversion Tables

METRIC	Length 1 kilometre = 1,000 metres 1 metre = 100 centimetre 1 centimetre = 10 millimetres	Volume 1 kilolitre = 1,000 litres 1 litre = 100 centilitres 1 centilitre = 10 millilitres	Weight 1 kilogram = 1,000 grams 1 gram = 100 centigrams 1 centigram = 10 milligrams
IMPERIAL	Length 1 mi. = 1,760 yd 1 yd = 3 ft 1 ft = 12 in	Volume 1 gallon. = 8 pints 1 quart = 2 pints 1 pint = 20 fluid ounces	Weight 1 pound = 16 ounces

Imperial Units	Conversion	Equal Metric Units	Metric Units	Conversion	Equal Imperial Units
Length
1 Inch	x 25.4	25.4 Millimetres	1 Millimetre	x 0.039	0.039 Inches
1 Inch	x 2.54	2.54 Centimetres	1 Centimetre	x 0.39	0.39 Inches
1 Foot	x 30.48	30.48 Centimetres	1 Metre	x 3.28	3.28 Feet
1 Yard	x 0.91	0.91 Metres	1 Metre	x 1.09	1.09 Yards
1 Mile	x 1.61	1.61 Kilometres	1 Kilometre	x 0.62	0.62 Miles
Volume
1 Pint	x 0.57	0.57 Litres	1 Litre	x 1.76	1.76 Pints
1 Quart	x 1.14	1.14 Litres	1 Litre	x 0.88	0.88 Quarts
1 Gallon	x 4.55	4.55 Litres	1 Litre	x 0.22	0.22 Gallons
Weight
1 Ounce	x 28.35	28.35 Grams	1 Gram	x 0.035	0.035 Ounces
1 Pound	x 0.45	0.45 Kilograms	1 Kilogram	x 2.20	2.20 Pounds
Temperature
1° Celsius	x 9, ÷ 5, + 32	33.8° Fahrenheit	1° Fahrenheit	- 32, x 5, ÷ 9	-17.2° Celsius

General Index

*Main entry containing description and personnel in boldface. e.g. 1016-17

- Abenaki. See Native groups (specific)
- Agriculture. See Gardening in Pacific Northwest.
See also Forts, posts and establishments:
Fort Alexandria, , Fort Astoria, Fort
Colville, Fort Fraser, Fort Langley, Fort
Nisqually, Fort Simpson, Fort St. James,
Fort Vancouver
- Alaska
Russian post acquired by HBC 97, supplying food to 80. See also Russian American Company
- Alcohol
as a trading item, 74, 97; rations to employees, 80; alcoholism, 82, 97, 120;
stealing of, 59, 119; Russian use of, 87-88;
role in murder of John McLoughlin Jr.,
97; use before suicide, 63; French
Canadian drinking, 107; intoxicated wives at fort, 119
- Allard, Lucy, 121
- American Fur Company
description of, 30; relations with HBC traders, 81; employees of, 82, 91
- American fur traders entry into the fur trade, 12-13; westward expansion, 13-14; competition with HBC on Columbia River, 79, 83; competition on land, 87; competition in Snake Country, 81. See also Companies (fur trade)
- American Overlanders
arrival in large numbers, 92-93; conveyors of measles, 101; attitude to traditional native rights, 104; pressures on fur traders, 112. See also Oregon Trail
- American Revolution
United Empire Loyalists move north to work in fur trade, 13
- American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions 88. See also Missionaries
- Andrew Henry's post. See Forts, posts and establishments: Fort Henry
- Apprentices
NWC apprentice traders, 25; as maritime deserters, 108, 109
- Ashley and Company, 77
- Assomption sash, origin of 2; illustrated 2
- Astor, John Jacob opinion of French Canadians, 2; to establish base at mouth of Columbia River, 13; intention to exploit commercial network which included Pacific Northwest, 55; meets French Canadians, 56. See also biographical entry
- Astorian Expedition. See Pacific Fur Company
- Athabasca (geographic area), 25, 53
- Athapaskan. See Native groups (major linguistic divisions)
- Ayers, Captain 57
- Babcock, Ira, 89, 92
- Ball, John, 86. See also Schools
- Batteaux
description of, 43; sawing planks for, 73
- Battle of Culloden (1746)
indirect effect on fur trade, 7
- Beaver, Jane and Herbert, 86, 88, 89
- Begbie, Mathew, 121
- Benton, Sen. Thomas Hart, 94
- Bertrand, Cyrille 107
- Bison. See Buffalo
- Black, Captain 71
- Blacksmiths
items made by, 39; other jobs done by,
62; Iroquois assisting with, 66;
Russian as, 67; repairing bellows, 72;
making clamps and drawing knives, 72;
making nails, 43, 73; blacksmith at work,
110; profession carried on as settlers, 110,
115
- Blanchet, Augustine Magloire, understood fur trade dynamics, 90;
negotiated ransom for prisoners of Cayuse,
104
- Blanchet, Francis Norbert lengthy work in Oregon leading to Archbishop rank, 90; probably responsible for asking priest to accompany French Canadians to California gold rush, 106
- Boat Encampment. See Forts, posts and establishments
- Boggy Hall,
David Thompson delivers wife to, 52
- Bois brûlé*. See Métis
- Bonuses
change of rules for HBC officers, 74
- Books. See Libraries (fur trade)
- Boredom
ways of overcoming, 68-70. See also Alcohol; Libraries (fur trade); Songs and singing
- Borthwick, J. D., 108
- Boston [MA]

- merchants involved in fur trade from, 54, 63, 79, 82, 86; Hawaiians as early visitors to, 62
- Boundary Settlement. See Oregon Treaty
- British Columbia
 proclaimed as an English colony, 118; established native reserves, 118; united with Vancouver Island, 121; joined
- Canada, 121. See also Douglas Treaties
- Brown, Jennifer, 51
- Bruff, J. Goldsborough, 108
- Buffalo
 hunt as a Métis activity, 10; hunt as a Ktunaxa activity, 20; trade in dressed buffalo hides and buffalo tongues, 79
- Burial rites, 82, 101
- Burnet, Peter, 108
- Calapooya Fort. See Forts, posts and establishments: Wallace House
- California Establishment (HBC). See Forts, posts and establishments
- California Gold Rush
 fur traders participation in, 106-08;
 desertions because of, 99, 108-10;
 desertions from north of the new international border, 112; temporary abandonment of farms, 109; description of camp at, 107; Eden Colville's opinion of fur traders in, 107; attitudes against fur trade families at, 108; Hawaiians in, 109
- Canada Jurisdiction Act (1803)
 used by HBC on Pacific slopes, 91
- Canada/US border. See International border
- Canoes
 details for construction, 43, 72; Peter Pond's idea for transport to coast, 47; destructiveness of rivers on, 48, 53, 81;
 gathering bark for, 53, 72; in New York City, 56; cottonwood dugout, 58; abandonment by W. P. Hunt on Snake River, 58; change in policy for exclusive use of in favor of horses, 63; used in open waters, 119, 120
- Cape Horn, 44
- Capot, 62
- Cariboo gold rush
 fur traders surveying for, 115; fur traders in, 120; fur trader's restaurant for, 118
- Carrier. See Native groups (specific)
- Casseno, Chief, 19
- Cattle
 Americans settlers set up own cattle companies in competition with HBC, 79;
 Willamette Cattle Company, 90; at PSAC farms, 95; settlers raising, 96; at Fort Colville, 98
- Caughnawaga/Kanawake. See Sault St. Louis
- Caweeman Store. See Forts, posts and establishments
- Cayuse. See Native groups (specific)
- Cayuse War. See Native resistance
- Celebrations
 dances at posts, 74; Mardi Gras, 74
- Champoeg
 place of political meetings, 92; murder at, 117
- Champoeg post. See Forts, posts and establishments
- Charcoal
 description of making in pits, 72; mixed with tallow as waterproofing agent, 43, 72; as medicine, 103
- Chilcotin. See Native groups (specific)
- China
 as early fur trade market, 54; as part of PFC market plan, 55; early punitive licensing fees as part of trading with, 63; fur trader descendant involved in later revolution of, 122
- Chinook. See Native groups (major linguistic divisions); See also Native groups (specific)
- Chinook jargon, trading language, 60, 65, 99
- Clallam. See Native groups (specific)
- Clatsop. See Native groups (specific)
- Clatsop, Marguerite, 54
- Clayoquot Sound
 location of destruction of Tonquin, 57
- Columbia Dalles native resistance at, 52, 62, 64; fur trade employee drownings at, 81, 82
- Columbia River
 1795-96 garden at mouth of, 49; 1810
- Winship construction of post on,
 54; as a main artery to interior, 62-63; as proposed boundary between British and US claims, 50, 79; American opposition to HBC on, 82
- Columbia River Fishing and Trading Company (CRFTC) partners, 28; ships of, 83, 87; failure of, 28
- Colville, Eden, 107. See also biography of 280
- Colville-Okanogan. See Native groups (specific)
- Comcomly (chief), 57, 61, 70
- Comcomly's son, 63
- Companies (Fur Trade)
 rules and regulations, 23. See also American Fur Company (AFC); Ashley and Company; Columbia River Fishing and Trading Company (CRFTC); Missouri Fur Company (MFC); North West Company (NWC); Hudson's Bay

- Company (HBC); Pacific Fur Company (PFC); Rocky Mountain Fur Company (RMFC); Russian American Company (RAC); Smith Jackson and Sublette (SJ&S)
- Companies (Other)
See East Indian Company; South Sea Company
- Confederated Tribes of the Colville Reservation, 111
- Confederated Tribes of the Grande Ronde Reservation, 93, 111
- Conflicts and resolutions (natives with fur traders and freemen) killing of fur traders by natives, 19, 55, 57, 60, 71, 74, 77, 81, 84-85 112; killing of natives by fur traders, 57, 71, 81, 84; native resistance at Columbia Dalles, 52, 62, 64; wrongly assumed murder at Fort Langley, 85; verbal threats to fur traders, 97, Fraser River fight, 118; natives stealing from fur traders, 60, 84
- Conflicts and resolutions (fur trade employees and companies)
 Iroquois seen as threat, 66; desertions, 75; desertions in Snake Country, 75, 81; mutiny and quitting in protest, 108, 109, 110, 116; Fur trade employee resistance, 56, 59; challenging authority, 67; resolution through reasoning, 67; resolution through killing, 84; delayed punishment, 84; killing of John McLoughlin Jr. by fellow employees, 98-99; plot to kill sea captain, 67; stealing from company, 109
- Conflicts and resolutions (fur trade employees and settlers) dispute over land, 93-94; killing over argument, 108, 117; settlers stealing from Natives, 104
- Conflicts and resolutions (native or mixed descent wives and others) native wives, 19; fur traders' wives as a force, 85; native wives in dispute, 60-61
- Conflicts and resolutions (natives and missionaries) native killing as a reaction to measles, 104-105; creating divided loyalties, 105-106
- Connolly post. See Forts, posts and establishments
- Convention of 1818, 99
- Cornwall, Ontario, 50
- Coureurs de bois*. See French Canadians
- Cowlitz Farm. See Forts, posts and establishments
- Cowlitz Rangers, fur traders as a part of, 110
- Curling, 7
- Demers, Bishop Modeste
 as Bishop of Vancouver, 90
- Delorme, Father Batholomew, accompanies French Canadians to California gold rush, 106
- Desportes' Camp. See Forts, posts and establishments
- Destruction Island [WA], 55
- Diseases
 malaria ("intermittant fever"), 82; measles, 101-03; adjustment to losses from, 104; Smallpox, 132 (n291); venereal. 59, 121
- Donation Land Act
 terms of, 101
- Donald McKenzie's Outpost. See Forts, posts and establishments
- Dogs
 as food, 64, 73; as transport, 73-74
- Dorion, Pierre, 58
- Drinking and Drunkenness. See Alcohol
- Drowning
 a family, 53; suicide by, 63; at the Columbia Dalles, 81, 82; Wyeth's men lost Through, 87; in Fraser River, 118
- Duncan, William, 119
- East India Company, 23, 63
- Education. See Schools
- Eells, Cushing, 89, 104
- Egan [ID], 54
- English (people)
 as participants in the fur trade, 14
- Entertainment,
 to overcome boredom, 68; sacred music as, 88
- Farming. See Agriculture
- Farms. See Cowlitz Farm; Fort Colville; Fort Langley; Fort Nisqually
- Fighting. See Conflict
- Fines. See Punishment
- Finlay, James (the elder), 53
- Fish and fishing
 unpredictable runs of, 74, 98; natives as suppliers of, 74, 97; horses killed when fish absent, 79; fish exports and making barrels for, 80, 95, 120; natives defending fishery, 80; as part of CRFTC plan, 87; former fur traders on Vancouver Island trading in, 113
- Flathead (area), 49, 53
- Food obtained at post through rations, purchase or trade, deer, 68; salmon, grouse, wildfowl, tea, coffee, 69; Indian rice, buffalo tongues, reindeer, 79; potatoes, 97

“Fort Misery”, 1006

Forts, posts and establishments (specific)

Andrew Henry’s Post. See Fort Henry

Boat Encampment, location, 1000; 1063

California Establishment, location, 1004;
1092-93

Caweeman Store, location, 1000; 1050

Champoeg Post, location, 1001; 1064-65

Connolly Post, location, 996; 1020-21

Cowlitz Farm, 95, beginning of, 95; production of, 96, 102, 109; location,
1003; 1073-74

Desportes’ Camp, location, 1002; 1069

Fluz-Kuz Post. See Tluz-Cuz Post

Fort Alexandria, 68, 73; daily routines, 80,
117; location, 996; 1016-17

Fort Astoria. See Fort George [Astoria]

Fort Babine, 77, in state of decay, 117;
location, 996; 1014-15

Fort Boise, agriculture gains importance,
98; location 998; 1040-41

Fort Camosun. See Fort Victoria

Fort Chilcotin, 16, 80, location 996; 1018-19

Fort Clatsop, 49

Fort Chipewyan, 47

Fort Colville, 75, 80, 90, posts administered from, 98; farm production at, 98-99; gave fur trade workers confidence, 100, 114;
replaced by Fort Shepherd, 118;
peaceful atmosphere, 120; location,
1000; 1059-62

Fort Connah, 117; location, 998; 1030-32

Fort Durham. See Fort Taku

Forts Flathead, location, 998; 1030-31; See also Fort Connah, Fort Spokane,
Howse House, Kullyspel House,
Saleesh House, Spokane House

Fort Fraser. See Fraser Lake post

Fort George [Astoria], garden at, 57, 67, 70; seized and returned because of war, 71; operations moved from, 75;
location, 1000; 1047-50

Fort George [New Caledonia], established, 50; killings at, 74, 85;
location, 996; 1013-14

Fort Hall, 28, sold to HBC. 87; role as supply depot 98; location, 998; 1038-39

Fort Henry, 54, location, 998; 1036-37

Fort Hope, 121, location, 1004; 1091

Fort Kamloops. See Thompson River posts

Fort Langley, 35; moved upstream, 81; agriculture gains importance, 95; as settlement area, 120-21, location,

1004; 1089-91

Fort McLoughlin, 18; murder at, 85; wife establishes order at, 85; Tolmie at, 96;
closing of, 98; location, 1003; 1080-81

Fort Nez Percés, early importance, 63,
69; Catholic priests at, 90; as refuge,
105; location, 1000; 1057-59

Fort Nisqually, established as PSAC operation, 95; adaptation to agriculture, 95-95; area claimed by,
101; desertions, 108; during Indian
War, 111; location, 1003; 1071-73

Fort of the Lakes, location, 1000; 1063

Fort Okanogan, established, 59; food shortage at, 64; library at, 68; native medical treatment at, 70; location,
999; 1041-43

Fort Rupert, 18; problems at, 112;
location, 1003; 1077-79

Fort Shepherd, as replacement for Fort
Colville, 118; location, 1000; 1062-63

Fort Simpson [Nass], gardens at, 96; conditions at, 118-20; location, 1003;
1082-85

Fort Spokane/Spokane House, 59; (1815)
garden produce at, 64; location, 998;
1027-29

Fort St. James, established, 50; gardening problems, 74; celebrations at, 73;
location, 996; 1008-10

Fort Stikine, 17; rebellion and murder at,
97-98; location, 1003; 1085-87

Fort Taku, 17; closing of, 98; location,
1003; 1087-88

Fort Umpqua, 16, 34; location, 1002;
1069-70

Fort Vancouver, 29, 36; as Pacific Depot, 80; school at, 86-87; students working in Garden, 86; Kanaka Village at, 95;
location, 1000; 1052-56

Fort Victoria, established, 98; settlement at, 112-15; location, 1003; 1074-76

Fort William (Columbia), 11; location,
1000; 1051

Fort William (Lake Superior) 61, 63

Fort Yale, location, 1004; 1091

Fraser Lake post, established, 50; (1816)
garden produce at, 65; location, 996;
1010-12

Honolulu Establishment, location, 1004;
1093-95

Howse House, temporary, 54; location,
998; 1029-30

Jeremy Pinch’s Establishment, 1032

John Reed’s Boise Post, location, 998;
1037

Kootenae House, Christmas at, 52;

- location, 997; 1022
- Kootenai Falls House, location, 997; 1023
- Kootenai House, location, 997; 1023
- Kootenay Fort, location, 997; 1023-24
- Kootenay Post, location, 997; 1024
- Kullyspel House, location, 998; 1025-26
- McLeod Lake Post, established, 50; location, 996; 1006-08
- Nanaimo, 1076-77
- Saleesh House(s), location, 998; 1026, 1031
- She-wapps (post), location, 999; 1043-44
- Spokane House. See Fort Spokane
- Thompson River post(s), location. 999; 1041, 1043-46
- Thuz-Cuz Post, 80; location, 996; 1019
- Wallace House, location, 1001; 1064
- Willamette Falls (sawmill), location, 1001; 1065
- Willamette Post, location, 1001; 1064
- Fraser River
 - Simon Fraser's terrifying descent of, 50
- Fraser River gold rush
 - fur trade posts become suppliers to, 80, 109; those who continued with, 110; fur traders who participated in, 118; reason for end to HBC monopoly, 99, 121
- Freemen
 - French Canadians as, 3; Iroquois as, 11, 65, 75; those working as, 24, 28, 81; with D. Thompson, 52; as alternative after contracted employment, 72; in Snake Country, 81
- French Canadians and French
 - history of in fur trade, 1-2; role of seigneurie in lives of, 3; strong association with Roman Catholic Church, 3-4; observance of religion outside Lower Canada during fur trade, 4; result of France having been defeated in Canada, 7; as part of NWC, 25, 66; daughters of in NWC, 10; as contributors to Metis population, 8-10; with Alexander Mackenzie, 48; behavior on Tonquin, 56; French as lingua franca of fur trade, 65; others speaking French, 65; French Canadians as singers, 68; children receiving Catholic instruction from McLoughlin, 86; Bible taught in French at Fort Simpson, 86-87; H. Beaver asked to conduct services in French, 88; French Canadians re-marrying in Catholic services, 88; petition for Roman Catholic priests, 89; withdrawing names from petition, 92; role in establishment of Oregon's Provision Government, 92-93; as settlers, 92-94, 100, 109; immunity to measles, 102; in California gold rush, 107-08, 111; as settlers on Vancouver Island, 115-16; Astor's opinions of, 2; Captain Thorn's opinion of, 57; Cox's opinion of, 4; Simpson's opinion of, 24, 76
- French Town, 111
- Fur trade companies. See Companies (fur trade)
- Fur trade forts/posts (physical)
 - general description, 32, 997; small, 34; moderately large, 35; large, 36; bastions, 38; blacksmith's shed, 39; carpentry shop, 39; cooperage, 39; food storage structures, 39; gallery, 37; gates, 37; Indian Shop, 38; kitchen, 40; men's quarters, 39; officer's quarters, 39; stockades, 37; warehouse, 38
- Fur Trade forts/posts (construction of and manufacturing at)
 - post-on-sill construction, 40; batteaux, 43; canoes, 43; carriages, 42; larger boats, 43-44; modified York boats, 27; sledges, 41-42; snowshoes, 41; travois, 41; various items, 73
- Fur trade forts/posts (social)
 - as negotiated spaces, 997; repairs to during summer months, 70; as refuge for Natives, 80; work routines at, 81; disintegration of social order, 97-99
- Gambling
 - fur traders gambling, 81
- Gardening in Pacific Northwest
 - 1795-96 experimental at mouth of Columbia, 55; at Fort Astoria, 57; at 1815 Spokane House, 64; at 1816 Fort Fraser, 65; turnips and barley at Fort Fraser, 65; black flies destroying crops at Fort St. James, 74; New Caledonia, 74; gardening schedule and dangers of late frost in New Caledonia, 74; manure as fertilizer, 74; horses and oxen for ploughing in New Caledonia, 79; Fort Vancouver students working in, 86; Fort Nisqually adapting to agriculture, 95-96; gains importance at Fort Langley, 95; Cowlitz farm as PSAC operation, 95; digging garden at Fort Simpson, 96; gains importance at Fort Boise, 98; production at Fort Colville, 98; gardening at Fort Colville gardens as a confidence builder, 100; Willamette settlers returning from Gold Rush to plant crops, 108; Willamette fields not planted because of California gold rush, 109
- Garden produce
 - barley, 65, 96, 98, 74; beets, 74; cabbages, 74, 115; carrots, 74; cucumbers, 98;

- maize/corn, 98; melons, 98; oats, 96, 98; onions, 74; peas, 74, 98; potatoes, 74, 98, 96; radish, 74; turnips, 65, 98, 74; wheat, 91, 96, 98; wheat sold by Willamette farmers to HBC, 91
- Gardening tools, wooden ploughs with tin, 74
- Gass, Patrick, 52
- Gervais, Theodore, 107
- Gold Rushes
See California gold rush; Cariboo gold rush; Fraser River gold rush; Montana gold rush; Yakima Reservation gold discovery; Stikine gold pursuit; Queen Charlotte Islands gold discovery
- Gray, William Henry, 104
- Gray's Harbor, 55, 57
- Grease Trail, 48
- Great Lakes, 2, 8, 53
- Haida. See Native groups (major linguistic divisions)
- Halfbreed. See mixed descent
- Harmon, George, 50
- Harmon, Lizette, 51
- Haskel, Rev. Daniel, as editor for Daniel Williams Harmon 51
- Hawaiian Establishment. See Forts, posts and establishments: Honolulu Establishment
- Hawaiians
 on Pacific Northwest Coast since 1780s, 76; culture and reasons entry into land-based fur trade, 12-13; setting up post with Winships, 54; arrival with PFC, 53, 57; continued practice of Hawaiian culture in Pacific Northwest, 57; as employees with NWC, 67; as HBC paid employees, 76; as employees of CRFTC, 28; an unusual cure for, 59; with ailments, 85; effect of measles on, 101-02; as deserters, 67; as agents for restoring order, 97; Hawaiian missionary, 90, 101, as settlers, 93, 100, 120; effects of Provisional Government rules on, 93; as Vancouver Island Voltigeurs, 114
- Hebrides, islands reason for leaving, 7
- Heiltsuk [Bella Bella] . See Native groups (specific)
- Hoh River [WA], 55
- Holliday, J. S., 106
- Home guard. See Native relations with fur trade
- Homfray, Robert, 115
- Homosexuality, 85
- Honolulu Establishment. See Forts, posts and establishments
- Horses
 as transport, 53-54, 58, 62-63, 98, 109; use in Snake Country, 81; use in New Caledonia, 73-74; as source of food, 64, 79; use in ploughing, 98; purchase from natives, 79, 81; stolen by natives, 58, 64, 81; stolen by European immigrants, 104; recovering stolen horses, 85; Iroquois objection to guarding, 75; numbers at Rocky Mountain Rendezvous, 81; brought in by Ewing Young, 90; raised by fur trade settlers, 92; stables and hay for, 79; corrals for, 96; escaping and wandering horses, 74, 79; kept at Fort Alexandria for brigade, 80; influence on Cayuse way of life, 104
- Howse House. See Forts, posts and establishments
- Hudson's Bay Company (HBC)
 charter of, 23; structure, 23-24; flag of, 24; first appearance on Pacific slopes, 54; structure after amalgamation with NWC, 24, 75-76; fur trade posts, 34-36; constructions of, 37-40; manufacturing at posts, 41-44; maritime operations, 83; moving library, 1149-57; American opposition to, 79, 81; monopoly challenged, 87, 90-94; loyalties to, 92; desertions from, 108-110; move to agriculture, 25, 95-96; composition of employees by 1841, 99; HBC interest in Oregon, 29; defense of holding Oregon, 113; de facto administration of Vancouver Island, 112-16; last foothold for monopoly on Pacific slopes, 116-120; general decline of, 117. See also Forts, posts and establishments; Libraries (fur trade); Fur trade posts, forts (general); Ships directly supporting land-based fur trade; Schools.
- Ilchee (Comcomly's daughter), 70
- Indian Wars. See Native resistance
- International border original proposal for, 79; Provisional Government plans for, 94; HBC/PSAC attempts to maximize possessory rights before drawing of, 96; signing Treaty of Washington/Oregon Treaty for, 99; problematic for loyalties and friendships, 53, 114, 117, 118; factor in number of desertions for California gold rush, 108, 112; factor in creating new brigade routes, 120
- Iroquois
 movement into fur trade, 11; Mohawks as predominant group, 10; influenced by Jesuits, 10; writing used by, 53; reliance on cultural ties, 53; Iroquois carrying belts, 21; trapping and hunting abilities, 75; wives of, 19, 60, 66, 75, 120; early

- entry onto Pacific slopes, 46, 53; enduring friendships of, 53; hired by NWC as example for others, 66; terms of contracts, 25; independent trading of, 66;
seen as threat to NWC, 67; Alexander
Ross' opinion of, 76; George Simpson's opinion of, 75; HBC reduction of, 75; resistance to authority, 66, 75-76; seen by natives as threat, 66; killed by other natives, 66, 80; revenge for killing of, 19;
as settlers selling wheat and furs to HBC,
91; Provisional Government effect on
Iroquois, 93; Iroquois and measles, 102.
See also Native groups (major linguistic divisions)
- Irving, Washington
as chronicler, 61
- Isle of Lewis, 7
- Jefferson, Thomas, 49
- Jeremy Pinch's Establishment. See Forts, posts and
establishments
- John Reed's Boise Post. See Forts, posts and establishments
- Kalispel [MT], 54
- Kamehameha, King, 72
- Kanaka Village
those living at, 93; J. Dunn's description of, 94; as a place of refuge for Hawaiians, 101; as a springboard for California gold rush, 109; deterioration of, 101; image of,
67. See also Fort Vancouver
- Karamanski, Theodore J., 66-67
- Kaulehelehe, William R, 87, 90, 101. See also Missionaries (Protestant)
- Kelley, Hall Jackson
settlement plans of, 82; as teacher, 87. See also biography of 528
- Kimo, Jim, 115
- Kinship
enduring Scottish kinship, 7; network of relationships formed by re-marriage, 54;
reciprocal kinship privileges, 75, 103;
families working together, 53; a source for conflicting loyalties, 105; as a draw for settlement, 114
- Klikitat. See Native groups (specific)
- Kluskoten [Carrier]. See Native groups (specific)
- Kootenae House. See Forts, posts and establishments
- Kootenai Falls House. See Forts, posts and establishments
- Kootenai House. See Forts, posts and establishments
- Kootenay Fort. See Forts, posts and establishments
- Kootenay/Kootenai/Ktunaxa. See Native groups
(specific)
- Kootenay Post. See Forts, posts and establishments
- Kootenay River, 49
- Kullyspel House. See Forts, posts and
establishments
- Kwah (chief) relations with, 51; grave of 1009
- Kwakuitl [Kwakwaka'wakw]. See Native groups
(specific)
- Lamb, W. Kaye, 51
- Lane, Gov., 109
- Languages
how fur traders handled, 65-66
- Laroque, Baptiste, 108
- Ledoux (Daunt), Louis, 110
- Lee, Daniel, 88-89
- Lee, Jason, 88-89, 91, 92
- Leschi (chief), 111, 112
- Lewis and Clark
Expedition of, 49-50. See also Forts, posts and establishments: Fort Clatsop
- Lewis County, 100
- Lewis, Joe, 105
- Libraries (fur trade)
Company circulating, 68-69, 1149-1156;
W. F. Tolmie's library, 1157-1161; A.
McKinlay's library, 1161-1163; J. G.
King's library, 1163-1164
- Linguistic groups, 14
- Louisiana Purchase, 49
- Lower Canada, 3
- Loyalists, United Empire (Tories in US), 13
- Loyalties of fur traders, 105
- Lushootseed. See Native groups (specific)
- Lyman, Horace, 106
- Mackie, Richard, 113
- Mardi Gras. See Celebrations
- Maritime Fur Trade
spillover into land based fur trade, 54, 55, 82
- Maritime operations, 83. See also Columbia River
Fishing and Trading Company, Hudson's
Bay Company, North West Company,
Pacific Fur Company
- Maritime activities,
in 1820s, 83; crew activities, 83; rebellions of, 84; resolutions of issues, 84. See also Ships directly supporting land based fur trade
- Marriage
"country marriages", 93; political marriages, 19, 51, 61, 70, P. S. Ogden's, 71; problematic country marriages at posts, 77; illicit activities by wives, 119;

- domestic activities at posts, 80; 1824 rules for native wives, 77; mixed descent wives, 73, 77; pivotal role of native wives, 71-72; H. Beaver's opinion of, 88; decline in importance, 114
- Marshall, James W., 106
- Marshall and Wildes Partnership, 27-28
- Marshall, Josiah, 27
- Matthieu, Francois Xavier, 93
- Maxon, Captain, 107
- McDougall, Nancy, 51
- McKay's House. See Forts, posts and establishments: Fort of the Lakes
- McKay's Old Establishment. See Forts, posts and establishments
- McLeod Lake, 50,
- McLeod Lake Post. See Forts, posts and establishments
- McMillan, Victoire, 54
- Measles. See Diseases
- Medicines and medical instruments at posts clerks as doctors, 69-70; medical instruments and medicines, 1138-1143; possible medicines used to cure measles, 103. See also Libraries
- Men's orders for goods, 1144-1148
- Métis
culture and place in the fur trade, 8-9; also known as bois brûlé, 8; proposed schools for, 9; Red River as focus for, 24; daughters as wives, 9-10. See also Mixed descent, those of (Métis)
- Michif, 10
- Miners. See Forts, posts and establishments: Nanaimo; California gold rush
- Missionaries (American Protestant) early arrivals of, 87; arrival of with Wyeth, 28, 87; perceived as threat to fur trade, 79; Lee as "more trader...than missionary", 91; role in establishing Provisional Government, 91-92; limited contact with fur traders, 90, 104; anti-HBC bias, 104
- Missionaries (English/British Protestant)
Beaver's opinions of native marriage and wives, 88-89; baptisms of fur traders, 88-89; Beavers not missed by fur traders, 89; William Duncan at Fort Simpson, 119
- Missionaries (Hawaiian Protestant)
Kaulehelehe chosen for job, 90; as teacher and preacher at Fort Vancouver, 87; home burned by US Army, 101
- Missionaries (Protestant). See biography of (Jane and) Herbert Beaver 185; biography of William R. Kaulehelehe 519-20; William Duncan; Cushing Eells; William Henry Gray; Asahel Munger; Samuel Parker; Henry Harmon Spalding; Elkanah Walker; (Narcissa and) Marcus Whitman
- Missionaries (Catholic)
French Canadian appeals for Catholic Missionaries, 89-90; arrival of priests, 90; as source of records of, 82; McLoughlin's plans for, 94; give Christian names to natives, 102; See also Augustine Malgloire Blanchet; Francois Norbert Blanchet; Bartholomew Delorme; Modeste Demers; Adrien Morice
- Missions (Protestant)
Willamette Methodist: defending American interests, 89; role in establishing Provisional Government, 91-92; decline of, 91; Waiilatpu Mission: established 89; massacre at, 99, 103-04; source of divided loyalty, 105; massacre at as cause of abandonment of other missions, 103; modern reconstruction of, 104; Tshimakain: established, 89; move away from, 104-105; Lapwai Mission: established, 89; books in Nez Percés language, 89; move away from 104 Fort Vancouver Owhyhee Church, 1054
- Missions or Mission Stations (Catholic) supported by McLoughlin to prevent Protestant influence on fur traders, 90; Cowlitz Farm, 90, 1073; St. Paul's
- Mission at Fort Colville, 98, 1060; St. Louis and St. Paul's Missions in Willamette, 93, 94; St. Joseph's College at, 106; Fort Vancouver 90,
- Missouri, 13
- Missouri Fur Company, 54, 78
- Mixed descent, those of (Métis)
description of, 8; concentrated around Red River, 10; problem of divided allegiances and loyalties, 8-9, 103-05; early attempts to establish schools for, 9; as sons, 10; sons as settlers, 114, 115; as daughters, 51; as prospective wives, 10; daughters trained at St. Paul, Oregon, 94; mixed descent daughters in colonial regime, 114; upward mobility of women, 9; other schooling for children of, 86; as wives, 62, 68, 70; wives as protectors, 85; HBC rules for wives and children, 77; as employees, 48, 51, 54, 68; as settlers, 99, 100, 111, 113-115; Donation Land Act provisions for, 100; immunity to measles, 102; caught up in Whitman affair, 103-04; kinship as a cohesive force, 114; Cox's opinion of, 9-10; Simpson's opinion of, 76; American settler opinions of, 100
- Mohawk. See Native groups (specific)
- Montana gold rush

- fur traders in, 110
- Montreal
 - As a fur trade center, 2
- Morice, Fr. Adrien, 79, 117
- Mountain Men
 - reason for emergence of, 14; as settlers, 92-93
- Multnomah (Chinook). See Native groups (specific)
- Munger, Asahel, 89
- Murder. See conflict
- Mutiny. See conflict

- Nanaimo (Halkomelem). See Native groups (specific)
- Nanaimo. See Forts, posts and establishments
- Nass River, 1082
- Nataotin [Babine] (Carrier). See Native groups (specific)
- Native fortifications
 - description of, 18
- Native groups (major linguistic divisions)
 - map of, 15; Athapaskan, 16; Coastal and Inland Chinook, 19; Haida, 17; Iroquois, 10; Kwakwaka'wakw/Wakashan, 18; Kutenai/Kutenay/Ktunaxa, 20; Salishan, 18-19; Sahaptian, 19-20; Tlingit, 16-17; Tsimshian, 17-18
- Native groups (specific) [sub-language and tribal identifiers mixed]
 - Abenaki, 8; Cayuse, 100, 104; Chilcotin, 16; Chinook, 19; Clallam, 84; Clatsop (Chinook), 19; Colville-Okanogan, 18; Heiltsuk [Bella Bella], 18; Iroquois, 10; Kluskoten (Carrier), 16; Nanaimo (Halkomelem), 18; Natliwoten (Carrier), 16; Klikitat, 19, 86; Kootenay/Kootenai/Ktunaxa, 20; Kwakwaka'wakw, 18; Lushootseed, 18; Mohawk, 10; Multnomah (Chinook), 19; Nataotin [Babine] (Carrier), 16; Nez Perce, 19; Quillayute, 55; Sekani, 16, 51; Shuswap, 18, 51; Sinapoi, 64; Songhees (Lekwungen), 18; Spokane-Kalispel-Flathead, 18; Stalo (Halkomelem), 18; Stikine (Tlingit), 17; Taku (Tlingit), 17; Talkotin (Carrier), 16; Tanotin (Carrier) 16, Tsamosan (Cowlitz) 18, Tshimshian 17-18, Taku (Tlingit) Umatilla/Tenino, 19, 68; Walla Walla, 19; Yakima, 19
- Native relations with fur trade
 - seeking protection at posts, 79; as home guard, 119, 996; trading at posts, 65, 66-67; returning lost items, 73; as medical sources, 70; native wives trading important items, 72-73; native opinions of fur traders, 64; wives at posts, 77; 1824 rules for wives, 77; wives picking up supplies, 80; items traded with fur trade posts, 79, 97; fur trader opinion of natives, 63-63,
- Native resistance (large scale)
 - Cayuse War, 104-05; 1850s Rebellions, 111-114; Yakima Wars, 107, 114
- Native trade items (besides fish and meat)
 - sap, 73; buffalo tongues, dressed buffalo hides, Indian rice, moose skins, 79; Potatoes, 97; pemmican, snowshoes, sturgeon oil, 79
- Natliwoten [Carrier]. See Native groups (specific)
- Nesmith, Col. James W., 111
- New Caledonia
 - description of, 1006; life in, 73; as a last stronghold for the HBC, 118-120
- Nez Percés. See Native groups (specific)
- North West Company (NWC)
 - disbanded Scots as backbone of, 7; structure of, 25; coat of arms and flag of, 25; United Empire Loyalists as employees of, 13; first thrust onto Pacific slopes, 47; second thrust onto Pacific slopes, 52; personnel used by John Jacob Astor, 27; takes over Pacific fur Company, 60-63; monopoly on Pacific Slopes, 63-65; charters American vessels, 27; mixed descent daughter as wives to officers, 10; suggestion of schools for half-breed children, 9; reasons for the demise of the NWC, 71; amalgamation with HBC, 8, 24
- Okanogan River Post. See Forts, posts and establishments: Fort Okanogan
- Orcadians
 - geography as a factor in fur trade employment, 4-5; crofters house, 5, 1702, conditions as a factor, 5; as bulk of HBC employees by 1770s, 5; Orcadian skills employed, 5; decline by 1790s in numbers of, 6; replaced by Scottish Highlanders, 8; children sent back to Orkney, 8; contributors to Métis gene pool, 8; legacy in North America of York boat and Red River cart, 5; wife reselling Company blankets, 119; as boat builders, 121; as settlers, 6, 114; importance of kinship ties, 114; intention to increase numbers of, 24; C. Robertson's opinion of, 6; A. G. Dallas' opinion of, 6
- Oregon Treaty. See Treaty of Washington; See also International border
- Orkney
 - as source for recruitment, 4-5
- Oregon
 - Lewis and Clark to, 49-50; Winship brothers to, 27; PFC to, 26; NWC to, 25-

- 26; HBC to, 23-25; CRFTC to, 28; left as disputed territory by 1818 Convention, 99; HBC plans for, 74; American interest in, 79; Hall J. Kelley as advocate for, 82, 86; changing reality for fur trader, 87; initial missionary thrust into, 88; petition to extend US interest in, 91; American emigrants to, 92; English disinterest in, 94; HBC attempts to hang onto, 94
- Oregon Provisional Government formation, of 89; activities, 92-94; fur traders role in, 89; Executive Committee of, 94; Legislature expands boundaries north, 94
- Oregon Territory
name for US claim, 87, 88, 89, 90, 103; name under temporary Provisional Government, 94; name as legal entity as US possession, 100, 106, 111, 112
- Oregon Treaty, 100. See International Border
- Oregon Trail
image of, 81; emigrants bringing diseases, 101
- Oxen
introduced into agriculture 1840s, 80
- Pacific Fur Company (PFC)
structure and partners of, 26; Astor's idea to exploit network of ports, 55; conditions left by maritime fur traders, 55; W. P. Hunt as John Jacob Astor's chief partner, 26; overland expedition of W. P. Hunt, 57-59; dealing with natives, 60; disharmony amongst personnel, 60-67; Tonquin as a factor in collapse, 56-57; takeover by NWC, 60-63; those who continued on in area, 60-61
- Parker, Rev. Samuel, 88
- Peace River, 53
- Perkins' Partnerships
Perkins Brothers, 27
- Petitions
traders to Red River, 91; US missionaries, 91; trader's withdrawal from, 92
- Pierre's Hole, 81
- Pigs, 98, 115
- Pika (Hawaiian), 93
- Port Simpson. See Forts, posts and establishments: Fort Simpson
- Post-on-sill construction 40, See also Fur trade posts/forts (physical): Construction techniques
- Potlatch, 14, 1082, 1082
- Provisional Government. See Oregon, Provisional Government
- Puget Sound Agricultural Company reason for founding, 96; Fort Nisqually central to, 1071-72; Cowlitz farm, 1073
- Punishment (company punishing fur traders and visa versa for) for desertion (humiliation), 72, (put in irons), 59, 108; for stealing (put in irons), 59, 67, (none), 85; for plotting death (put in irons), 67; for murder (nothing), 1086; for bad conditions (isolation), 56, (desertion) 81; for insubordination to officer (causing risk to lives of subordinates), 57; (demonstration of authority), 66; for molesting children (flogging), 86, 827
- Punishment (fur traders or companies punishing natives for) for stealing (execution), 60, 64, (forgiveness), 64, (nothing), 85, (banished to outside post), 1083; for murder (banishment by fiat) 85, 1081, (execution) 60, 84, 1015, 1048, (village being fired upon) 1078; for insubordination (flogging) 51, (castration) 85; for being a gossip (banishment from fort) 1007; for not trading (killing because of), 1066; "club law", 117
- Punishment (natives punishing fur traders and companies for) for trespass, humiliation, revenge, sexual and other violations (execution or killing) 52, 55, 57, 80, 84, 1037, 1066, 1087, (killing Company cattle) 1058, (enslavement) 55-56, (a demonstration of active opposition to) 1018, 1086; for breaking trust (execution) 74, 1013; for bringing disease (execution) 103-04; for murder (execution) 61, (no punishment) 84-85; for stealing (threats), 50
- Punishment See also Conflicts and resolutions; Canada Jurisdiction Act (1803)
- Qua. See Kwah
- Queen Charlotte Islands, 17
- Queen Charlotte Islands gold discovery fur traders dispatched by HBC to 116;
- Haida resistance to, 116
- Quillayute. See Native groups (specific)
- Rainy Lake, 52
- Red River, 10, 24, 50
- Red River Cart, 5
- Religion. See Missionaries; Missions
- Rendezvous
beginning of Rocky Mountain
- Rendezvous, 77; sign at 78
- Robertson, Colin, 8
- Robinson, John F., 86
- Rocky Mountain Fur Company, 28, 29, 1038

- Russian American Company,
1839 agreement with HBC, 80 95,
- Sahaptian. See Native groups (major linguistic divisions)
- Saleesh House. See Forts, posts and establishments
- Salish. See Native groups (major linguistic divisions)
- Sandwich Islands. See Hawaiian Islands
- San Francisco Establishment (HBC). See Forts, posts, establishments: California Establishment
- Sault St. Louis
granted exclusively for Iroquois, 10; groups split from, 11
- Sawyers
making boards for batteaux, 73;
- Peeopeeoh as, 120
- Sekani. See Native groups (specific)
- Schools
reasons for, 86; at Fort Vancouver, 86; at Fort Simpson, 86, 1083; at Metlakatla, 1083; opinions about, 86; missionary, 86; attendance by employees, 119, 1083; list of teachers, 87; textbooks and curriculum of, 86. See also biographies of John Ball 171; (Jane and) Herbert Beaver 185; John F. Robinson 826-27; Cyrus Shepard 865; Solomon H. Smith 879
- Scotland, 4, 6
- Scots
reason for Scottish role in fur trade, 6-7;
- Catholic Gaelic speaking Highlanders, 6; fallout of 1746 Battle of Culloden, 7; role of James Wolfe bringing Scots in North America, 7; as part of disbanded 78th Regiment at Quebec, 7; filled vacuum of departing bourgeois, 7; easy fit in French speaking Catholic Canada, 7-8; as plurality of partners in NWC, 25; A. Mackenzie as important NWC Scot, 48; Scottish origin of name New Caledonia, 51; use of language on Tonquin, 56, 57; HBC guided by ambitious Scot, 75; Simpson desiring more educated Scots for positions, 24, 76; Scottish difficulty with English language, 65-66; Scots as enduring employees, 77; as residents of Kanaka village, 94; families of, 100, 110, 113, 118, 112; wife of stealing and reselling alcohol, 119; as settlers, 113, 118, 120
- Seigneurie, 3
- Sekani. See Native groups (specific)
- Settlement of fur traders various reasons for settling, 90-92; in Oregon Territory, 90-94, 101-102; conflicts between fur traders and new settlers, 93-94; on Vancouver Island, 112-116; on BC mainland, 120-122. See also Settlement areas
- Settlement areas
Boundary county [ID], 1167
Bulkley-Nechako Regional District [BC], 1168
Capital Regional District [BC], 1168
Cariboo Regional District [BC], 1168
Clackamas County [OR], 1165
Clallam County [WA], 1166
Clarke County [WA], 1166
Columbia County [WA], 1166
Cowichan Valley Regional District [BC], 1169
Douglas County [OR], 1165
East Kootenay Regional district [BC], 1169
Eastern Oregon [OR], 1165
Flathead, Sanders and Lake Counties [MT], 1168
Fraser Valley Regional District [BC], 1169
Lewis County [WA], 1167
Lewis County [ID], 1168
Metro Vancouver Regional District [BC], 1169
Missoula County [MT], 1168
Nanaimo Regional District [BC], 1169
Okanagan-Similkameen Regional District [BC], 1169
Pacific County [WA], 1167
Pierce County [WA], 1167
Powell County [MT], 1168
Regional District of Central Okanagan [BC], 1168
Regional District of Mount Waddington [BC], 1169
San Juan Islands [WA], 1167
Skeena-Queen Charlotte Regional District [BC], 1169
Spokane County [WA], 1167
Stevens County [WA], 1167
Thompson-Nicola Regional District [BC], 1169
Thurston County [WA], 1167
Wahkiakum County [WA], 1167
Walla Walla County [WA], 1167
Willamette Valley (Washington, Yamhill, Polk, Clackamas, Marion and Linn Counties) [OR], 91-93, 1165
- Seven Oaks Affair, 50, 71
- Shakes (Stikine) chief 97, 1085-86
- Shaw, William 107-08
- Shepard, Cyrus, 86
- Shetlands and Shetlanders, 7

- She-wapps (post). See Forts, posts and establishments
- Shuswap. See Native groups (specific)
- Simpson, Sir George
plans for HBC on Pacific slopes, 75; first visit to area, 75; third visit to area, 85; visits to Pacific slopes and biography of, 870
- Sitka [Alaska]
Russian survivors of shipwreck to, 55;
PFC exploring relations with, 58; HBC to supply food to, 95; HBC prisoner to, 98
- Ships directly supporting land-based fur trade.
Alexander (brigantine/ship), 62, 63, 1097
Beaver (ship), 55, 58, replaces Tonquin 59, 1097-98
Beaver (steamship), 79, 84, 99, 108, 112, 1098-1100
Broughton (sloop), built at Fort Vancouver 44, 79, 1100
Cadboro (schooner), 83, 79, 99, 108, 112, 1100-01
Colonel Allen (brig), 62, 67, 1104
Columbia (barque), 79, 99, 108, 109, 1105-07
Columbia (brig), 62, 1105
Columbia (schooner), 62, 1104-05
Convoy (brig), 79, 1107
Cowlitz (barque), 79, 83, 99, 108, 1107-08
Diamond (barque), 79, chartered by HBC 83, 1108-09
Dolly/Jane (schooner), built at Fort Astoria 44, 55, 1109-10
Dryad (brig), 79, 83, 1110-11
Eagle (brigantine), 79, chartered by HBC 83, 1111
Forager (ship), 79, 83, 1112
Ganymede (barque), 79, 83, 1113
Houqua (ship), 63, 72, 1114-15
Isaac Todd (ship), 55, 1115
Isabella (brig/snow), 79, wrecked at mouth of Columbia River 83, 1115, 1116
Lama (brigantine), 79, 83, 1116-17
Levant (ship), 62, 63, 1117
Lively (brig), 72, 77, 1117-18
Mary Dare (brigantine), 99, 106, 112, 1118
May Dacre (brig), 79, supplied CRFTC 83, 109, 1119
Nautilus (ship), 62, 63, 1119-20
Nereide (barque), 79, 83, 1120-21
Norman Morrison (barque), 99, 1121-22
Otter (steamer), 99, 1122-1123
Onhyhee (brig), 72, 79, 82, 1123-1124
Pedler (brig), 55, 59, 1124-1125
Prince Albert (ship), 99, 1126
Prince of Wales (schooner), built at Fort Vancouver 44, 79, 99, 1126
Sumatra (barque), 63, 79, chartered by HBC 83, 1129
Tonquin (ship), 13, attack on 48, reasons for attack 57, replaced by Beaver (ship) 59, other 53, 55, 56, 62, 1129-1130
Valleyfield (ship), 79, chartered by HBC 83, 1131-1132
Vancouver (barque), 79, wrecked at mouth of Columbia River 83, 100?, 1133-1134
Vancouver (brigantine), 99, 1134
Vancouver (schooner), 44, 79, wrecked at Rose Spit 82, 83, 1132-1133
Vigilant (unknown rigging), 72, 77, 79, 1135
William and Ann (brig), 79, wrecked at mouth of Columbia River 83, 1135-1136
- Ships (other uses, freighters, passenger vessels, etc.)
Albatross (brig/ship), 49, 54, 59, 61, 1096
Bolivar Liberator, 96
Boston (ship), 57
Chenamus (brig), 79, 83, 1101-1102
Chinchilla (brig), 79, 83, 1102
Clementine (brig), 79, 83, 1102-1103
Colinda (barque), 99, 1103-1104
Diana (brig), 79, 83, 1109
Europa (ship), 79, 83, 1112
Harpooner (ship), 99, 112, 1114
Henry, 106
Honolulu (schooner), 106
Imperial Eagle (ship), 55
HMS Blossom, 71
HMS Modeste, 94
HMS Racoon, 71
Manchester (ship), 57
Maryland (brig), 79, 83, 1119
Nikolai (ship), 55
Pekin (ship), 99, 1125
Princess Royal (ship), 99, 1127-1128
Rasselas (ship), 79, 83
Recovery/Orbit (brig), 99, 1128-1129
Ruby (ship), 55
Tally Ho (brig), 79, 83
Tory (barque), 99, 1130-1131
Una (brigantine), 99, 1131
- Sinapoil. See Native groups (specific)
- Siskiyou Mountains, 106
- Slacum, William, 91
- Smith, Jackson and Sublette Partnership (SJS), 29
- Smith, Solomon H. See Schools
- Smoky River, 53
- Songhees. See Native groups (specific)
- Songs and singing, as an act of defiance, 50; as a reaffirming act, 65; English hymns, 68; mangling of

- Hymns, 68; as a way to overcome boredom, 68; as part of celebrations, students singing of hymns, 86
- Spalding, Henry Hamon, 104
- Snake Country Expeditions, description and personnel, 1033-36; expeditions to, 32; D. McKenzie and A. Ross reorganize, 63; plans to denude of furs, 81; work routines in Snake Country, 82; desertions in, 81
- South Expedition description and personnel, 1066-67
- Southwest Expedition, 84
- Spalding, Henry Harmon established mission, 89; moved to safer area, 104
- Spokane-Kalispel-Flathead. See Native groups (specific)
- Spokane House. See Forts, posts and establishments: Fort Spokane
- Stalo (Halkomelem). See Native groups (specific)
- St. Joseph's College, 106
- St. Lawrence, 3, 10
- St. Louis [MO] partnerships out of 28, 30
- Stevens, Gov. Isaac, 111
- Stikine River natives exacting tolls on, 1085; fur traders pursue gold in, 111
- Stromness, 5
- Starvation boiling moccasins for food, 58; forced to eat dogs or horses, 64
- Stuart's Lake. See Forts, posts and establishments: Fort St. James
- Suicide, 63
- Sunday Bible readings, 1083
- Sutter, John A., 106
- Taku Harbor [AK], 1087
- Talkotin (Carrier). See Native groups (specific)
- Tanotin (Carrier). See Native groups (specific)
- Teachers. See Schools
- Thompson, John, 109
- Thompson River posts. See Forts, posts and establishments
- Thorn, Capt. Jonathan, behavior as captain of Tonquin 55-57, 61
- Tillamook ("Killymuck"), 60
- Tlingit. See Native groups (major linguistic divisions)
- Fluz-Cuz Post [also Fluz-Kuz]. See Forts, posts and establishments
- Todd, Emmeline, 121
- Tolmie, Simon Fraser as politician, 114
- Traditional medicine ineffective against measles, 104
- Transportation. See Horses; Canoes; Batteaux.
- Traps, Trappers and Trapping crossing the Rockies to, 50; trapping as a utilitarian profession for settlers, 61; trappers conveyed by horses in Snake Country (1816), 63; change in trapping method, 63; Iroquois as trappers, 66-67, 75, 76; natives as trappers, 79; issuing of traps for Snake Country Expeditions, 81; attempt to discourage American trapping in Snake Country, 81; trappers brought in by Nathaniel Wyeth, 87; trappers negotiating at Fort Vancouver, 94
- Treaties Paris, 13; Washington (Oregon Treaty), 92, 99, 112-13; Douglas, 113-14,
- Treaty of Washington. See International border; See also Oregon Treaty
- Trout Lake Post. See Forts, posts and establishments: McLeod Lake Post
- Tsamosan (Cowlitz). See Native groups (specific)
- Tsimshian. See Native groups (major linguistic divisions)
- Two spirited. See Homosexuality
- Umatilla. See Native groups (specific)
- Umpqua, 29
- Umpqua River, 1068, 1069
- Vancouver Island colonization of, 6, 24, 112-116; as retirement area, 115
- Vancouver Island Coal Company, 25
- Van Kirk, Sylvia, 114
- Venereal Disease. See Diseases
- Vermont, 51
- Victoria as retirement area, 115
- Victoria Voltigeurs French Canadian members of 118, Hawaiian members of 114
- Waiilatpu mission Massacre at, 105-08
- Wakashan. See Kwakwaka'wakw
- Wakefieldian system, 115
- Walker, Elkanah 89, 104, 105
- Walla Walla. See Native groups (specific)
- Wallace House. See Forts, posts and establishments
- Waller, Rev. Alvan F., 89
- War of 1812, 58
- Water transportation. See Canoes; Batteaux; York Boats
- "What Cheer House", 121
- Whitman Marcus

arrival of 89; killing of, 103-04; outcome, 105
 Whitman Narcissa,
 killing of, 103-04
 Whitman Seminary [Whitman College], 104
 Wildes, Dixey, 27
 Wilkes, Commodore, 92
 Willamette Cattle Company, 90
 Willamette Falls. See Forts, posts and establishments
 Willamette Post. See Forts, posts and establishments Willamette Valley
 settlement in, 90-91; settlers selling wheat to HBC, 91, 101
 William H. Ashley-Andrew Henry Partnership, 28-29
 Williamson, Henry, 93-94
 Wilson, Albert E, sawmill of, 94
 Winnipeg House, 52
 Winship partnerships
 Winship brothers, 27; agricultural plans for Columbia, 54, 1096; Nathan, 54
 Winther, Oscar Osburn, 91
 Wolfe, Captain James, 7, 13
 Yakima. See Native groups (specific)
 Yakima Indian Reservation gold discovery, 111
 Yakima War. See Indian wars
 Yelleppit, (Walla Walla) chief, 19
 Yerba Buena. See San Francisco
 Yerba Buena Establishment. See Forts, posts and establishments: California Establishment
 York boats, 5, 73
 Youel, Chrisana, 53
 Yougoulhta, Marguerite, 107
 Young, Ewing, 91

Index of those with Biographies

Main entrys in boldface

Abbot, Wiggin, 140
Able, E., 140
Abraham, William, 140
Adams, 140
Adams, (Kaanana), 141
Adams
 George, 140-141
 James, 141,
 John, 141
 William, 141-142
Adamson, (Kaanana) John, 142
Addington, Benjamin, 142
Agenay, 142
Agmoau, Charles, 142
Agoniaska, Thomas, 142-143
Ahao, 143
Aikane, 143
Aiken, Job, 143
Aillud, Robert J., 112, 143-144
Ainslie, Matthew, 144
Aitken, George, 110, 144
Alarie, John, 144
Alauka, 144
Alder, Bryan, 144
Aliao, 145
Alin, Edouard, 87, 145
Alioa, 145
Allaire, Michel, 145
Allan
 George Traill, 100, 145-146
 Magnus, 146
 Peter, 146
 Robert [b], 146
Allard
 Antoine, 147
 Jason Ovide, 147
 Jean Baptiste, 147
 Joseph [a], 147
 Joseph, [b], 148
 Ovid, 121, 148
Allcock, Richard, 149
Allen
 Robert [a], 149
 William, 149
America, 149-150
Ames, Edward, 150
Amiot, Alexis 150
Amundson, Amund, 150
Anaheurase, Simon, 150-151
Anahi, 151
Anarachtagara, Pierre, 151
Anarize, Joseph, 151

Anasse, Baptiste, 151
Anatakarias, Peter, 152
Anatayaresse, Pierre, 152
Anawarion, Louis, 152
Anderson
 Alexander Caufield, 113, 152-153
 Anton, 153
 James [1], 153
 James [2], 153-154
 Peter, 154
 Robert [a], 154
 Robert [b], 154
 William Marshall, 154
Andre, Louis, 154-155
Andreha, Johannes, 155
Anevagueron, Jacques, 155
Anewescatcha, Antoine, 155
Annance
 Francis Noel, 155-156
 Joseph, 156
Ansell, Mr., 156
Antoine, Emanuel, 156
Apike, 156-157
Apissases (Asslin), 157
Applegate, Henry, 157
Arahota, Charles, 157
Archambault
 Antoine, 157
 Charles, 157
Arcouet, Leon, 157-158
Argent, Charles, 158
Arionase, Jacques, 158
Arionga, Jean Baptiste, 158
Ariwhoianta, Andre, 158
Arneson, Martin, 158-159
Aroza, Michel, 159
Arpent, Noel, 159
Arquoitte, Amable, 91, 110, 159
Arthur, Peter, 159-160
Artigosa, Vincent, 160
Aruihunta, Louis, 160
Asanyenton, Jean Baptiste, 160
Ashley, William Henry, 160-161
Ashton, Joseph, 161
Ashworth, Howard C., 162
Asselin, Isidore, 162
Assinchuru, Louis, 162
Atachsarar, Ignace, 162-163
Atachunish, Thomas, 163
Atariachta, Thomas, 163
Atearonquash, Louis, 163
Ateassta, Pierre, 163

Atiadongo, Ignace, 164
 Atihataroues, Michel, 164
 Atkinson, William, 164
 Aubichon
 Alexis, 164-165
 Pierre, 165
 Auger
 Celeste, 165
 Nicholas or Joseph, 165
 Auld, John, 165-166
 Aupu, 166
 Aurtaronquash, Louis, 166
 Austen
 Charles, 166
 James, 166
 John A., 166
 Avain, George, 167
 Ayotte
 Firmin, 167
 Jean Baptiste, 167
 Azure, Antoine Jr., 167
 Badayac (LaPlant), Pierre, 167-168
 Baden, John, 168
 Bagnoit, Joseph, 74, 168
 Bahia, 168
 Baikie, James, 169
 Bailey, Richard, 169
 Baker
 Abel Jr., 169
 Charles, 169
 James, 169-170
 Joe, 170
 Micajah, 170
 William [1], 109, 170
 William [2], 170
 Balau, 114, 170-171
 Baldwin, James, 171
 Ball, John, 86, 87, 91, 171
 Ballenden, Jacob, 171
 Ballenden,
 James [1], 172
 James [2], 172
 John, 172
 Balls, George, 172-173
 Balthasard, Andre, 118, 173
 Banks, Edwin, 173
 Baptista, John, 173
 Baptiste, 173-174
 Baranov, Aleksandre Andreyevich, 174
 Barber, Richard, 174
 Barclay, Forbes, 103, 174
 Barker, 175
 Barnaby, Charles, 175
 Barnes
 Albert, 175
 Jane, 61, 63, 175-176
 Barnston, George, 176

Barr, James, 176
 Barrett, Henry, 176
 Barrett, Patrick, 177
 Barris, William, 177
 Barthelemy, George, 177
 Bartlett, John, 177
 Barton, George William, 177-178
 Bastien, Joseph, 178
 Bastien, (Rocan), Narcisse, 178
 Batchelor, Jonah, 178
 Bates
 Edward, 179
 Thomas [a], 179
 Thomas [b], 179
 Batten, William, 179
 Batter, John, 179-180
 Baunin, John, 180
 Bayfield, Charles, 110, 180
 Beacheno, Edmund, 180
 Beale, William, 180
 Beardmore, Owen Charles, 181
 Beardy, Henry, 181
 Beattie, James, 181
 Beauchamp
 Jacques, 181
 Jean Baptiste, 182
 Joseph Ovide, 182
 Beauchemin
 Augustin, 182
 Baptiste, 182
 Edouard, 182-183
 Joseph, 183
 Pierre, 183
 Beaudin, Vincent, 183
 Beaudoin, Francois, 48, 183
 Beaudouin, Caesar, 100, 184
 Beaulieu, 184
 Beaulieu, Joseph, 184
 Beaulieux, Francois, 184
 Beauvais, Pierre, 185
 Beaver, Rev. Herbert, 86, 89, 185
 Beaver, Jane, 86, 89
 Becknal, William, 185
 Beckwourth, James P., 185-186
 Bee, Henry, 186
 Begg, John, 186
 Belair, Louis, 186
 Beland
 Francois, 186
 Pierre, 186-187
 Belanger, Edouard, 187
 Belay, 187
 Beleveau, Francois, 187
 Belgarde, Joseph, 187
 Belisle, Pierre, 187-188
 Bell
 Charles, 188

Frederick, 188
 George, 188
 John [b], 188-189
 Peter, 189
 William, 189
 Bellaire, Registre, 189
 Belland, Charles, 189
 Bellanger
 Alexis, 189-190, 1148
 Andre, 190
 Bellant, Alexis, 190
 Belleau
 Antoine, 190
 Jean Baptiste, 190-191
 Bellevenalle, Jean Baptiste, 191
 Bellique, Pierre, 90, 92, 191
 Belsey, John, 191
 Ben [1], 191-192
 Ben [2], 192
 Ben [3], 192
 Benjy, 192
 Bennet, John, 192
 Bennett
 George, 192-193
 James, 193
 Benoit
 Antoine, 193
 Jean Baptiste, 193
 Benson, Dr. Alfred Robson, 193-194
 Bercier, Pierre, 194
 Bereau (Boisclair), Joseph, 194
 Berentzen, Hans Peter, 120, 194-195
 Bergeron, (Langevin), Francois, 195
 Bergevin, Felix, 195
 Bergevin (Langevin), Joseph, 195
 Berland
 Edouard, 196
 Jean Baptiste, 196
 Bernard, Jean Baptiste, 196
 Bernice, Julien, 196
 Bernier, Julian, 197
 Berston, Miles, 197
 Berwick, Frederick William, 197
 Bethune, Angus, 197-198
 Bibeau
 Jacques, 198
 Pierre, 198
 Bichan, James, 198
 Bigg, Mr., 198-199
 Biggs, William, 199
 Bigmore, George, 199
 Bill, 199
 Billy, 199
 Bingham, 199-200
 Binnie, Robert, 200
 Binnington, Joseph, 200
 Birch, Leonard, 200

Bird
 Charles, 110, 200
 James, 200-201
 John, 201
 Nicholas, 201
 Birnie
 James, 82, 94, 113, 201-202
 P., 202
 Robert, 202
 Bishop, George, 202
 Bisset, John, 202
 Bissett, James, 202-203
 Bisson, Baptiste, 203
 Black
 Arthur, 203
 Mr., 203
 Samuel, 203-204
 Blackey, James, 204
 Blackwell, T. J., 204
 Blair, William, 204
 Blanchard, John, 204-205
 Blanyan, Timothy, 205
 Blenkinsop, George, 205
 Block (Taoukee), 205
 Blundell, John Shadrach, 205-206
 Blyth, Andrew, 206
 Boak, William, 206
 Boase, Henry, 206
 Boisclair, Esdros, 206
 Boisvert, 206-207
 Boisvert
 Augustin, 207
 Francois, 207
 Louis, 207
 Boki, 207
 Bolduc, Francois, 208
 Bole, John, 208
 Bolne, Jean Baptiste, 208
 Bonamis (L'Esperance), Alexis, 208
 Bond, Charles, 208
 Bonenfant, Antoine, 209
 Bonin, Joseph, 209
 Bonna
 Alexander, 209
 Xavier, 209
 Bonnelly, James, 209-210
 Bonneville, Captain B. L. E. de, 210
 Boots, George, 210
 Borabora, George, 210
 Borgne, Joseph, 210-211
 Borlind, Alexander, 211
 Bostonnais (Page), A., 211
 Bostonnais
 Jean Baptiste [1], 80, 211
 Jean Baptiste [2], 211
 Bostonnais (Tete Jaune), Pierre, 80, 211-212
 Boswell, Edward, 212

Bottineau, Basil, 115, 212
 Bouchard
 Elie, 212
 Olivier, 212-213
 Bouche
 Francois, 117, 213
 George Waccan, 117, 213
 Joseph, 117, 214
 Louison, 214
 William, 117, 214
 Bouche (La Malice),
 Jean Baptiste, 213-214
 Paul, 50, 215
 Boucher
 Baptiste, 215
 Charles, 215
 James, 108, 117, 215-16
 Jean Baptiste [1], 216
 Jean Baptiste [d], 217
 Jean Baptiste [c], 217
 Jean Marie, 117, 217
 Pierre [1], 117, 217-218
 Pierre [2], 218
 Boucher (Waccan), Jean Baptiste [c], 51, 72, 77, 116, 216-217
 Bouchez, Vital, 218
 Bouisseau, Jean Baptiste, 218
 Boulanger, Charles, 218-219
 Boulard, Michel, 62, 219
 Boulton, Henry Edward, 219-220
 Bourdeaux, Michel, 220
 Bourdignon, Antoine, 220
 Bourdon
 Michael, 220
 Pierre, 221
 Bourgeau
 Joseph, 107, 221
 Silvan, 221
 Bourke, Joseph, 221-222
 Bouvet, Francois, 222
 Bowen, William, 222
 Bowers, John, 222
 Bowthick, Joseph, 222
 Bowling, Thomas, 222
 Boyer (Laderoute), Andre, 222-223
 Boyer, Joseph, 222-23
 Boys
 Elias, 223
 William, 223
 Braguierre, Narcisse, 223
 Brancheau, Thomas, 223-224
 Brands, Abraham or Alexander, 109, 224
 Brannan, James, 110, 224
 Brasby, William, 224
 Brasconnier, Jean Baptiste, 224
 Brassard, Pierre, 224-225
 Brazeau, Joseph E., 225
 Breck, William, 225
 Brenique, Henrie, 225
 Bridger, James, 225-226
 Brieson, Charles A., 226
 Briggs, John, 226
 Briggs
 John, 226
 Joseph, 226
 William, 226
 Brisbois
 Augustin, 226
 Charles, 227
 Olivier, 227
 Brissotte, Hypolite, 227-228
 Brodie, Robert, 228
 Brooks
 Alfred, 228
 James, 109, 228
 Richard, 228
 Broquino, Miguel, 228
 Brotchie, William, 228-229
 Brouillet, Hypolite, 107, 229
 Brousseau, Bazile, 61, 120, 229
 Brousseau (LaFleur), Bazile, 229-230
 Brown
 John, 230
 John [a], 230
 John [b], 230
 John [a? b?], 230
 Joseph, 230
 Louis, 231
 Paul Valle, 72, 231
 Peter, 231
 Thomas [b], 231
 William [1], 231
 William [2], 231-232
 William [a], 232
 William [3], 232
 William [b], 232
 William [f], 232
 Bruce
 Antoine, 233
 William [a], 233
 Bruffee, James, 233
 Brugier, Pierre, 233
 Bruguierre, Regis, 61, 234
 Brule, Louis, 234
 Brulez, Jean Baptiste, 116, 234
 Bruneau, Pierre, 235
 Brunel, Joseph, 235
 Brunelle, Louis, 235
 Brusseau (dit Aland), 235
 Bruyere, Narcisse, 236
 Bryan, James, 236
 Buck
 James Dowden, 236
 Jonathan, 107, 236

Budge, Henry, 237
 Bule, Tom, 237
 Bull, 237
 Bull, John, 237
 Bullock, Thomas, 237
 Burdett, Stephen Edmunds, 237-238
 Burdod, 238
 Burge, Thomas, 238
 Burger, George, 238
 Burgess
 Andrew, 238
 Frank, 238-239
 Burke, David, 239
 Burnam, Richard, 239
 Burr, John, 239
 Burris, William, 239
 Burrows, William, 239
 Burstall, Nathaniel, 240
 Butt, William Edward, 240
 Cabana, Francois Xavier, 240
 Cadotte
 Laurent, 240
 Pierre, 240-241
 Cadrant, Michel, 241
 Cadrette, 241
 Caesar, 241
 Cagsha, Michel, 241
 Caille, Andre, 242
 Caille (Biscornet),
 Isaac, 242
 Paschal, 88, 100, 242
 Cain, William, 242
 Caine, William, 243
 Cairnes, Robert, 243
 Caisse, Michel, 243
 Cakao, 243
 Calder
 John, 100, 243
 Peter, 244
 Callahan, Thomas, 244
 Camden, Thomas, 244
 Cameron
 Duncan E., 244
 John Dugald, 244-245
 Campbell
 Archibald, 245
 Duncan [1], 245
 Duncan [2], 245
 Hugh, 245
 Kenneth, 246
 Robert [1], 246
 Robert [2], 246
 Wastayap, 246-247
 William [1], 247
 William [2], 247
 William [3], 247
 Campo, Charles, 247-248

Canasawarette, Ignace, 93, 248
 Canasawarrette, Thomas, 248
 Cancre, 48, 248
 Canning, William, 91-92, 248-249
 Canot, 249
 Cantara, Antoine, 249
 Cantard, Modeste, 249
 Cantin, Jean Baptiste, 250
 Canton, James, 250
 Cardin, Jean Baptiste, 250
 Cardinal
 Guillaume, 250
 Jacques, 250-251
 Carless, Joseph, 251
 Carpenter
 Joseph, 251
 Peter, 251-252
 Carpentier, Charles, 252
 Carriere
 Michel, 252
 Onizime, 252
 Carriveau, Joseph, 252
 Carson
 Alexander, 50, 91-92, 252-253
 Christopher Houston, 253
 Carter
 Joseph L., 253-254
 Joseph Oliver, 254
 Cartier
 Ignace, 254
 Joseph, 254
 Cartreah, 254
 Cass, Martin H., 254-255
 Cassin, Baptiste, 255
 Cately, Edouard, 255
 Cathie, James, 255
 Cathrick, Zechariah, 255
 Cawanaia, 255-256
 Cawanarde, Pierre, 256
 Cayalle, Antoine, 256
 Cedrass, Joseph, 256
 Cerre, Michael Sylvestre, 256
 Chabotte, Jean Baptiste, 257
 Chalifoux
 Andre, 257
 Jean Baptiste, 100, 257
 Maurice, 258
 Pierre, 258
 Vincent, 258
 Chamberlain, Adolphe, 88, 258
 Champagne
 Francois Xavier [a], 259
 Francois Xavier [b], 259
 Joseph, 108, 259
 Champenois, Mr., 259
 Chance, Bouascut, 260

Chapman
 Henry, 260
 Isaac N., 260
 John, 260
 Charbonneau
 Abraham, 260-261
 Antoine, 261
 Edouard, 261
 Joseph, 261
 Toussaint, 261-262
 Charette, 262
 Charette, Antoine, 262
 Charlebois
 Francois, 262
 Paul, 262
 Charles, 262-263
 Charles
 John Jr., 263
 Marc, 263
 Thomas, 113, 263
 William, 113, 264
 Charles (Langlois), Pierre, 263-264
 Charleson, John, 265
 Charley [1], 265
 Charley [2], 265
 Charlton, Richard, 265
 Charpentier
 Francois, 265-266
 Joseph, 266
 Charron, Narcisse, 266
 Chartier
 Antoine, 266
 Charles, 266-267
 Pierre, 267
 Chase, Charles, 267
 Chastellain, Louis [a], 267
 Chausee, Bonaventure, 267
 Check, Charles, 268
 Cheenook, Philip, 268
 Chester, 268
 Chevrette, Charles, 268
 Chiffmanaplin, George, 268
 Chitty, Charles, 269
 Choput, Charles, 269
 Chotoriorikon, Jean Baptiste, 269
 Christiansian, Carl M., 269
 Christianson, Christian, 269
 Christie
 Alexander Jr., 269-270
 James, 270
 Christopher, Isaac R., 270
 Christy, Edmund, 270
 Cire
 Francois, 270-271
 Joseph, 271
 Clairmont
 Francois, 271
 Joseph, 271
 Clapp, Benjamin, 271-272
 Clappin, Antoine, 272
 Clark
 Francis, 272
 John, 272
 William, 272
 Clarke
 James, 272-273
 John [1], 273
 John [2], 273
 Richard, 273
 Thomas William, 273-274
 Clement, 274
 Clement
 Antoine [1], 274
 Antoine [2], 274
 Clerk, William 274-275
 Clipson, Joseph, 275
 Clouston
 John [b], 275
 Robert, 275
 Cloutier, Jerome, 275-276
 Cluet, Charles, 276
 Clyman, James, 276
 Coah, James, 276
 Coayyvay, 276
 Coffin, Charles, 277
 Coghlan, Cornelius, 277
 Colbath, Nathan, 277
 Coldicott, John W., 277
 Cole
 Captain, 277
 William, 277-278
 Coleman, William, 278
 Coles, John, 278
 Colin, Antoine, 278
 Colin (Laliberte), Joseph, 278
 Colins, Tom, 279
 Colle, John, 279
 Collette, Octave, 279
 Collie, Henry, 279
 Collin, Antoine, 279
 Collings, Edward, 279-280
 Collins
 George, 280
 John, 280
 Collyer, Charles, 280
 Colvile, Eden, 107, 280
 Com, 280
 Como, 281
 Como, Thomas, 281
 Compton, Pym Nevins, 281-282
 Condon, Francois Xavier, 282
 Cone, George, 282
 Conner
 James, 282

Michel, 282
 Connolly
 William, 282-283
 William James, 283
 Connor, Patrick, 283
 Cook
 James [1], 284
 James [2], 284
 John, 284
 Peter Joseph, 284
 Richard, 284
 William [b], 285
 Coon, John, 285
 Cooper
 James [1], 285
 James [2], 285-286
 Thomas, 286
 Coppel, John, 286
 Corbeil, Jean Baptiste, 286
 Corbin
 Israel, 287
 Pierre, 287
 Cormack
 Hugh, 287
 John, 287
 Corney
 Peter, 287-288
 Peter Minors, 288
 Cornoyer
 Emanuel, 288
 Joseph, 288-289
 Corriacca, 289
 Corzey, William, 289
 Cosler, John, 289
 Cote, Francois Xavier, 115, 289-290
 Cotsford, Thomas Jonathan, 290
 Cotte
 Charles, 290
 Joseph [1], 290-291
 Joseph [2], 291
 Cottenoire
 Michel Jr. [b], 291
 Michel Sr. [a], 291-292
 Couch, John Heard, 292
 Cournoyer, Edouard, 292
 Courtemanche, Joseph, 292
 Courter, Mr., 292-293
 Courtoie, Augustin, 293
 Courtois, Francois, 293
 Courville, Bazil, 293
 Coutie, Alexis, 293
 Couture
 Joseph [1], 109, 293-294
 Joseph [2], 294
 Couturier
 Jacques, 294
 Olivier, 294

Pierre, 294
 Cowelitz, 294-295
 Cowie, 295
 Cowie, Robert, 295
 Cox
 Francis, G., 295
 John, 62, 67, 295-296
 Ross, 52, 61, 65, 68, 70, 296
 Craig
 William [1], 296-297
 William [2], 297
 Craigie
 George, 297
 James [1], 297
 James [2], 297
 William [a], 297-298
 William [b], 298
 William [c], 298
 Crate, William Frederick, 298
 Crawford
 Andrew, 298-299
 William, 299
 Creegan, James, 299
 Crelly, John, 299
 Crete, Edouard, 299
 Crevais
 Antoine, 299-300
 Charles, 300
 Crimp, Samuel, 300
 Crisp, Isaac, 300
 Crochetier, Louis, 300
 Croley, Dr. John, 300-301
 Cromarty, William, 120, 301
 Crooks, Ramsay, 58, 59, 301-302
 Croston, Richard, 302
 Crouch
 Augustus, 302
 John, 302
 Joseph, 302
 Crownriver, 302-303
 Cumming
 Cuthbert Jr., 303
 John, 303
 William, 61, 303
 Cummins
 Edward, 303
 James, 303
 Cunningham
 John Patrick, 303-304
 Mr., 304
 Curister, David, 304
 Curtis
 James, 304
 William, 305
 Cush, 305
 Dafoid, Jans Peter, 305
 Dagenais, Suplien, 305-306

Dahonte, Jacques, 306
 Daigneau, Edouard, 306
 Daines, Henry, 306
 Dalcourt (Champagne), Jean Baptiste, 306-307
 Dallas, Alexander Grant, 307
 Dalrymple, John, 307
 Daly, John, 307
 Danis
 Antoine, 307-308
 Jean Baptiste, 308
 Louis, 308
 Danneau, Antoine, 308
 Dannis, Jean Baptiste, 308
 Darby, William, 308
 Darg, George, 309
 Darge, William, 309
 Daubin, Olivier, 309
 Daunais, Louis Aime, 309
 Dauny, Louis Francois, 309
 Dauphin
 Caesar, 310
 Joseph, 310
 Dauphine
 Louis, 310
 Olivier, 310
 Davidson, Peter, 310-311
 Davie
 Malcolm, 311
 William, 311
 Davies, Alexander, 311
 Davis
 John, 312
 Joseph, 312
 Thomas [1], 312
 Thomas [2], 312
 Thomas[3], 312-313
 William [1], 313
 William [2], 313
 William [3], 313
 Davison, John, 313
 Dawkins, James, 313
 Daws, Thomas, 314
 Day, John, 58, 59, 314
 D'Allaire, P., 315
 D'Arche, Joseph, 315
 D'Arcy, John, 315
 D'Eau, Baptiste, 315
 D'Eon (Leblanc), Timothe, 315-316
 De L'Hubert, John, 316
 De Smet, Father Pierre Jean, 316
 Dean
 John, 316
 William, 108, 316-317
 Dears, Thomas, 317
 Deas, William, 317
 Dease
 John Warren, 317

 Napoleon, 318
 Peter Warren, 318
 Debhors, Alexander, 318
 Deblo, 318-319
 Dechamp
 Antoine, 319
 Baptiste, 319
 Francois, 319
 Jean Baptiste, 319
 Decornique, Jean Baptiste, 320
 Decruz, John, 320
 Degrais, Pierre Philippe, 320
 Degre, Jean Baptiste, 320
 Deguire (Desrosiers), Joseph, 320
 Dehodionwassere, Ignace, 321
 Dehosrays, Belasario or Juan, 321
 Dejenai, Antoine, 321
 Delanney, John, 321
 Delard
 Antoine, 321
 Joseph, 321-322
 Delauney
 Joseph, 322
 Pierre, 322
 Delcourt
 Jean Baptiste, 322-323
 Joseph, 323
 Delonie, Louis Henry, 323
 Delorme, Jean Baptiste, 323-324
 Delorme (Eneau), Joseph, 324
 Delreymoy, John, 324
 Delton, James, 324
 Demers, Bishop Modeste, 324-325
 Denault, Jeremie, 325
 Denille, Louis, 325
 Denn, George, 325
 Dennison, Edward, 325
 Denoyer, Edouard, 325
 Deon, Antonio, 326
 Depot, Pierre, 326
 Derio, John, 326
 Deroche, Charles, 326-327
 Desaire, Pierre, 327
 Desasten (Martineau), Louis, 327
 Desautel (DeGaspar), Joseph, 111, 327
 Deschamps
 Michel, 328
 Pierre, 100, 328
 Deschiquette, Francois, 328
 Desjardines, Jean Baptiste, 329
 Desjarlais
 Antoine, 329
 Francois, 54, 329
 Deslard
 Pierre [1], 329
 Pierre [2], 330
 Desloges (Lavigneur), Hyacinth, 72, 330

Desmarais
 Charles, 330
 Goddy, 330-331
 Joseph, 331
 Louis, 331

Despard
 Joseph, 331
 Joseph Frederick [a], 331

Desrivieres, Pierre, 332

Detaye, Pierre, 332

Diamare (Baron), Charles, 100, 332

Dick (Owhyhee), 332

Dick, 333

Dick, James, 333

Dickenson, Thomas, 333

Dickson
 James, 333
 Joseph, 334

Dido, 334

Dionne, Cyprien, 334

Dixon, F. M., 334

Dixon
 George [1], 334
 George [2], 335

Dobbs, Francis A., 335

Dockery, Robert, 335

Dodd
 Andrew, 335
 Charles, 113, 336

Dods, James, 336

Dominiis, John, 82, 336-337

Donald, John, 337

Donderfield, John, 337

Donpier, David, 337

Dorion
 Isadore, 338
 Jean Baptiste [1], 338
 Jean Baptiste [2], 338
 Marie L'Aguivoise, 338-339
 Pierre, 58, 339

Doughty, George, 339

Douglas
 Benjamin, 339
 David, 339-340
 Sir James, 94, 113, 121, 340-341

Douglas (Lady Douglas), Amelie, 341

Douillette, Emanuel, 115, 341

Downie, Dr., 341-342

Dredge, Thomas, 342

Drew, Joseph, 342

Drinville, Louis, 342

Drips, Andrew, 81, 342

Driver, Edward, 343

Duaime, Francois, 343

Dube, Joseph, 343

Dubeau, Louis, 343

Dubois
 Andre, 343-344, 1148
 Francois, 344
 Jean Baptiste, 344
 Pierre, 344

Dubord (Latourelle)
 Joseph, 344
 Pierre, 345

Dubreuille, Jean Baptiste, 61, 107, 345

Ducette, Charles, 345

Duchainais, Rocque, 345-346

Ducharme (Maron), Joseph, 346

Ducharquette, Francois, 61, 346

Duchesne, Benjamin, 346

Dudouaire, Felix, 119, 347

Dufort, Charles, 347

Dufresne, Andre, 347

Duhamel
 Jean Baptiste, 348
 Pierre, 348

Dumais, Augustin, 348

Dumet, Moyse, 348

Dumond (Guerette), Alexander, 348

Dunbar, Robert, 349

Duncan
 Alexander, 349
 John, 349-350
 Peter, 350

Dunn
 A., 350
 John Thompson, 94, 350

Dunord, Antoine, 351

Dupere (fils), Joseph, 351

Duperron, Pierre, 351

Duplante, Belonie, 74, 351-352

Dupont, Nicholas, 352

Dupre, Nazaire, 100, 352, 1147

Dupuid, Francois, 352

Dupuis
 Bernardin, 352
 Jean Baptiste, 353
 Leon, 353
 Louis, 353

Dupuy, Nicholas, 353

Duquette, Antoine, 354

During, Johannes, 354

Durval, Denis, 354

Dusseau, Joseph, 354

Dutnall, George, 355

Dutton, James, 355

Duvall, William, 355

Dyke, Abraham, 109, 355

Eagral, George, 355

Eales, William, 356

Ebbert, George Wood, 91, 356

Ebony, 114, 356

Eddy, Thomas, 356-357

Edgar, Magnus, 357

- Edrick, Emanuel, 357
 Edwards
 Edward [1], 357
 Edward [2], 357-358
 John, 358
 Philip Leget, 87, 358
 Ehninger, George, 59, 358
 Ehu, 120, 358-359
 Eldershaw, William, 359
 Eleahoy, 359
 Ella, Henry Bailey, 359-360
 Elliot
 Robert, 360
 William Alfred, 360
 Ellis, Robert W., 360
 Emmet, Thomas, 360
 Emmons, James, 360
 Emptage, William Henry, 120, 361
 Engelbretten, Ole, 361
 Eno (Canada)
 Francois, 361
 Antoine, 361-362
 Ermatinger
 Edward, 362
 Francis, 362
 Esterby, Nathaniel, 363
 Ettue, Jean Baptiste, 72, 363
 Evans
 Edward H., 363
 Robert, 363
 Thomas, 363
 Evererd, Pierre, 364
 Faggater, Charles, 364
 Fahy, Patrick, 364
 Fairfoul, William, 108, 364
 Faito, George, 364
 Falardeau, Louis, 364-365
 Fallardeau
 Michel, 365
 Narcisse, 121, 365-366
 Fallen, Mr., 366
 Fannons, Dominique, 366
 Faries, Hugh, 366-367
 Farnham, Russell, 367
 Farrient, Laurent Valier, 367
 Favel
 Charles, 367-368
 John [a], 368
 Fawden, E. R., 368
 Feckney, Robert, 368
 Felix (Palaquin), Antoine, 368
 Felix
 Prisque, 369
 Thomas, 369
 William, 369
 Fenton, John, 369
 Ferguson, Samuel, 369-370
 Ferrier, John, 370
 Ferris, Warren Angus, 370
 Ferron, Adolphus, 370
 Ferrow, George, 370-371
 Fevrier (Laramie), Benjamin, 371
 Fight, John, 371
 Fillier, George, 371
 Finigan, James or Thomas, 371
 Finlay
 Augustin Yoostah, 105, 371-372
 Bonhomme, 372
 Christopher, 372
 David, 372
 Francois Benetsee, 373
 Jacques Raphael (Jacko), 53, 104, 373-374
 John [1], 374
 John [2], 374
 Keyackie, 374-375
 Miaquam, 105, 375
 Nicholas, 104-05, 375-376
 Raphael Jr, 376
 Thorburn, 376
 Finlayson
 Duncan, 376-377
 Roderick, 113, 377-378
 Roderick Jr., 378
 Firth, Robert, 378
 Fiset, Charles, 378
 Fisher
 Adam, 378
 Alexander, 379
 Caesar, 379
 Fitzpatrick, Thomas, 379
 Flanagan, Moses, 61, 380
 Flathead, Julia, 380
 Fleming, Thomas, 380
 Flett
 David, 380
 John [c], 381
 John, 381
 Joseph, 381
 Magnus, 381
 Robert, 381
 Thomas, 381-382
 Fleurie, Antoine, 382
 Fleury
 Benone, 382
 Jean Baptiste, 382
 Joseph, 383
 Michel, 383
 Flewin, Thomas, 383
 Flinn, John, 383
 Floriario, Juan, 384
 Fogeraas, Johan, 384
 Folster, George, 384
 Fontenelle, Lucien B., 81, 384-385
 Fooina, 385

Foot, William, 385
 Forbes
 James Alexander, 385-386
 William, 386
 Forcier
 Etienne, 386
 Louis, 386-387
 Narcisse, 387
 Ford, George, 387
 Foreman, Anthony, 387
 Forrest, Charles, 387-388
 Fortier
 Etienne, 388
 Jean Baptiste, 388
 Foubister
 Archibald, 388
 Thomas, 388-389
 Found, William, 389
 Fox, John, 389
 Fraeb, Henry, 389
 Frame, Thomas G. or C., 389
 Franchere, Gabriel, 55, 59, 389-390
 Francis
 Louis, 390
 Thomas, 390
 Frank, William, 390
 Franklin,
 James, 391
 William, 391
 Fraser
 Alexander, 391
 Charles or Samuel, 391
 Colin, 391-392
 John [a], 392
 John [b], 392
 Paul, 392-393
 Simon, 50-51, 116, 393
 William, 393
 Freimann, Nicholas von, 393
 Friend,
 Francis, 394
 Thomas, 394
 Frobisher, Thomas Jr., 394
 Gabourie, Joseph, 394
 Gabriellet, Cosmo, 394
 Gadbrie, William L., 394
 Gadoua
 Charles, 395
 Jean Baptiste, 395
 Gagnier, Jean Baptiste, 395
 Gagnon
 Antoine, 395-396
 Jean Baptiste, 396
 Joseph, 396
 Louis, 396
 Luc, 396-397
 Gailloux, Joseph, 397
 Gairdner, Meredith, 85, 397
 Gaiter, John, 397
 Galbraith, Isaac, 397-398
 Gale
 Charles, 398
 Joseph, 398
 Richard, 398
 Gallerneau, Antoine, 398-399
 Garant, Augustin, 398-399
 Gardepied, Jean Baptiste, 61, 399
 Gardepied (Lucier), Jean Baptiste, 399
 Gardner, Johnson, 399-400
 Gardupuis, Alexis, 400
 Garguepy, Pierre, 400
 Gariepy, Casimir, 400
 Garret, John, 400
 Garrick, John, 401
 Garrioch, William L., 401
 Garson
 David, 401
 James, 401
 Gauthier
 Francois, 402
 Laurent, 402
 Gauthier (Iatesse), Francois, 402
 Gay
 George Kirby, 62, 402
 Robert, 402
 Geaudreau
 Jean Baptiste Jr., 403
 Geaudreau (Cardien), Jean Baptiste Sr., 403
 Gendron
 Alexis, 403
 Joseph, 403-404
 George [1], 404
 George [2], 404
 George
 James, 404
 Thomas, 404
 William, 404
 George, (Coleman) Jean Baptiste, 405
 Gerrard, George, 405
 Gervais
 Francois, 405
 Jean Baptiste, 405
 Joseph, 61, 406
 Giasson, Ignace, 406
 Gibbs
 Benjamin, 406-407
 Elisha, 407
 Gignagne, Jean, 407
 Gilbeault, Hilaire, 407
 Gilbert
 Charles, 407
 James, 408
 Gilbot, Pierre, 408
 Gillan, Frederick, 408

Gilley, John, 408
 Gingras
 Antoine, 408
 Francois, 409
 Jean, 409
 Gisser, John, 409
 Gladman, William, 409
 Glide, Henry, 409-410
 Glynn, John, 410
 Goddin, Thierry, 410
 Godfrey, John, 410
 Godin
 Amable, 411
 Antoine, 411
 Joseph, 411
 Godwin, William, 411
 Golledge, Richard, 411-412
 Goodfellow, John, 412
 Goodriche, Bache, 82, 412
 Goodridge, A., 412
 Gordon, George, 413
 Goselin
 Charles, 413
 Louis, 413
 Goudie
 James, 114, 413-414
 John, 414
 Gouin, Pierre, 414
 Goulais, Jacques [b], 414-415
 Goulait, Jean Baptiste, 415
 Gower, John, 415
 Grahame
 James Allen, 415
 Jeffrey C., 416
 Grandmaison, Louis, 416
 Grant
 John, 416
 Peter, 416
 Richard, 416-417
 Grave, Alexander, 417
 Gravelle
 Francois, 417
 Gideon, 417-418
 Gray
 Lewis, 418
 William, 418
 Green
 James, 418
 Richard, 418
 Thomas, 419
 William, 419
 Greenberry, John, 419
 Greenwood
 Caleb, 419
 George, 419-420
 Gregg, William, 420
 Gregoire
 Antoine, 420
 Etienne, 54, 420-421
 Francois, 421
 Greig, John, 114, 421
 Grenier, Charles, 422
 Grenier (Massa), Joseph, 422
 Grennell, Francis, 422
 Grey, John, 422
 Griffin, Charles John, 422-423
 Griffith
 William [a], 423
 William [b], 423
 Griffiths, Thomas J., 423
 Groat, Malcolm, 423-424
 Groom, George, 424
 Groslin, Charles, 424
 Guerin
 Morise, 424
 Solimine, 424
 Guibache, Martin, 424-425
 Guibeau, Joseph, 425
 Guier, John, 425
 Guilbeau, Paul, 72, 107, 425
 Guille, Simon, 425
 Guillemette, Francois, 426
 Guillion, William, 426
 Guinette, Antoine, 426
 Gullickson, Johan, 426
 Gullion, Charles Fraser, 426-427
 Gunn
 Adam, 427
 Donald, 427-428
 John, 428
 Gunnell, George, 428
 Guoin, Francois, 428
 Guthrie
 Daniel, 428
 David, 428
 William Logie, 428-429
 Gwynn, Rhys, 429
 Hackland, Gilbert Spence, 429
 Hadley
 James, 429
 Jesse, 429-430
 Ruben, 430
 Haft, George, 430
 Hainault (Dechamp), Henri, 430
 Hains, Charles, 430
 Halcrow, Gideon Gifford, 430
 Haldane, John, 431
 Hale, Albert F., 112, 431
 Hall
 Albert F. B., 431-432
 Joseph, 432
 Richard, 432
 William Henry, 432
 Halls, George, 432

Halsey, John Cook, 432
 Halvorsen, Christian, 433
 Ham, 433
 Hamel, Charles, 433
 Hamelin, 433
 Hamer, John, 433
 Hamilton
 Gavin, 433-434
 William, 434
 Hamlyn, Dr. Richard Julian, 434
 Hammond
 Edward, 435
 Thomas William, 435
 Handley, William, 435
 Hanihowa, 435
 Hanna, John, 435-436
 Hansen
 Anders, 436
 Martin, 436
 Hansill, Charles, 436
 Hanson
 Ephraim, 436
 Johan, 436
 Hanwell, Henry Jr., 436-437
 Haona, 437
 Happy, John, 437
 Haquet, Marie Louis, 107, 437
 Harber, George, 438
 Hardisty, Joseph Wordsworth, 438
 Hardy, Francis Joseph, 438
 Haries, Gilbert, 438
 Harkness
 Andre, 439
 William, 439
 Harmes, John, 439
 Harmon, Daniel Williams, 50-51, 65, 66, 68, 70, 439-440, 1011
 Harmsworth, Henry William, 440
 Harper
 John, 440
 Mr., 440
 William [b], 441
 Harrier, John, 441
 Harrington, John, 441
 Harriott, John Edward, 441
 Harris
 Harry, 442
 Moses "Black", 442
 Mr., 442
 William, 442
 Harrison
 Benjamin, 89, 442-443
 Joseph, 443
 Harrold, John, 443
 Harrow, James, 443
 Harry [1], 443
 Harry [2], 443-444

Harry [3], 444
 Harry
 George, 444
 Jack, 444
 William, 444
 Hart, Edwin, 444
 Harteau, Jacques, 445
 Hartridge, H. M., 445
 Harvey
 Andrew, 445
 Daniel, 445-446
 George, 446
 Robert, 446
 Thomas, 446
 Hatchiorauquasha (Gray), Ignace, 446-447
 Hathawiton (Thaawitha), Pierre, 447
 Hauxhurst, Webley John, 447
 Hawaapai, 448
 Hawaii, 448
 Hawell, Thomas, 448
 Hawkins
 George Frederick, 448
 Thomas, 448-449
 Haws, Jasper, 449
 Haycock, William, 449
 Hayne, Leonard John, 449-450
 Hays, John, 449-450
 Heald, Edward, 450
 Heath
 Thomas, 450
 William, 450
 Hebert, Cadmin, 450
 Hellerand, Martin Larson, 451
 Helmckin, John Sebastian, 113, 451
 Henderson, Alexander York, 451-452
 Hendricksen, Andreas, 452
 Henly, Hugh, 452
 Henri, Francois, 452
 Henry
 Alexander 'the younger', 452
 Andrew, 452-453
 Joseph, 453
 Norman, 453
 William, 453-454
 Heramb, Toller, 454
 Herbert
 John, 454
 P. J., 454
 Hereca, 67, 454
 Heriot, P., 454
 Heron
 Francis, 455
 George, 455
 Heroux
 Jean, 455
 Urbain, 97-98, 455-456
 Hersey, Joseph, 456

Heseltine, Samuel, 456
 Hetherington, Alexander, 457
 Hetherway, Felix, 457
 Hetling, Henry E., 457
 Hill, Robert, 457
 Hillier, Captain, 457
 Hines, Rev. Gustavus, 458
 Hobough, John, 458
 Hodgens, Francis William, 61, 458
 Hodgson
 John, 459
 Thomas, 459
 Hodson, Joseph, 459
 Hogarth, William, 459
 Hogg, William, 459-460
 Hogue, Amable, 460
 Holland
 Abraham, 109, 460
 George, 460
 James, 461
 John, 461
 Thomas, 461
 Hollyman, Edward, 461
 Holman, Thomas, 461-462
 Holmes
 George, 462
 John, 462
 Home, David, 462
 Homock, Charles Aug., 463
 Hong, 463
 Honno, 463
 Honnu, 463
 Honolulu, 463
 Hoolapa, 464
 Hoole
 Antoine [a], 464
 Jacques, 464
 James, 465
 Louis Capois, 465
 Hooton, Quinton, 465
 Hopkins
 David, 465
 Edward Martin, 465-466
 Hopkirk, Daniel, 466
 Horapapa, John, 466
 Horatoshan, Francois Xavier, 466
 Horie
 John, 466
 Simon, 467
 Horn, William, 467
 Hornby, A., 467
 Horne
 Adam Grant, 467-468
 Joseph, 468
 Hotesse, Etienne, 468
 Houle, Barthelemie, 468
 Houston, John, 468

Howard
 Thomas, 469
 William, 469
 Howse
 James, 469
 Joseph, 54, 469
 Hoy, Cornelius, 469
 Hubbard, Thomas Jefferson, 470
 Hubert
 Francois Xavier, 470
 Joachim, 470
 Hudson, William, 471
 Huggins, Edward, 471
 Hugham, David, 471
 Hughes
 Edward, 471
 Frederick, 472
 John, 472
 Hughson, Andrew, 472
 Highway, George, 472
 Hume, Thomas, 472
 Humphreys
 Charles, 472-473
 John, 473
 Hunt
 Edward, 473
 Robert, 474
 Wilson Price, 57-58, 59, 474
 Hunter
 Andrew [b], 474-475
 James, 475
 John [b], 475
 Huntow, Peter, 475
 Hus
 Louis Paul, 475
 Paul Emanuel, 475
 Hutchins, Samuel, 476
 Hutson, William Abraham, 476
 Hynds, John, 476
 Iasitayerie, Alexis, 476
 Iaukeo, 476
 Ignace,
 Jean, 477
 Little, 477
 Inkster,
 Andrew, 477
 John [e], 477
 Innes, Thomas Newman, 477
 Irvin, Joseph, 477-478
 Irvine
 John [1], 478
 John [2], 478
 Peter [a], 478
 Isaac, 478-479
 Isbister, John Jr., 479
 Itati, 479
 Iwakichi, 479-480

Jack, 480
 Jack
 John, 480
 Long, 480
 Robert, 480
 Jackson
 David E., 481
 William [1], 481
 William [2], 481
 William [3], 481
 William [4], 481
 Jacob, the blacksmith, 67, 482
 Jacques, Joseph, 482
 Jacqueline, Charles, 482
 Jameison, James, 482
 James
 Edward, 483
 John, 483
 Tobias, 483
 Warfield, 483
 Jamieson, Gabriel, 483
 Jarvis, John, 483
 Jary (Blumier), Toussaint, 484
 Jeal, Herbert, 484
 Jean,
 Joseph Baptiste, 484
 Martin, 484
 Jeaudoins, Charles, 100, 484-485
 Jendon, William, 485
 Jennings
 George, 485
 John, 485
 Jeremie, Paul Denis, 59, 486
 Jeremie (Dinant), Jean, 486
 Jervin, Joseph, 486
 Jervis, Herbert, 486
 Jim [1], 486
 Jim [2], 487
 Jimo, 487
 Jironeway, Louis, 487
 Joakin,
 Anthony, 487
 Frank, 487
 Jobin, Jeffery, 488
 Johansen, Johan P., 488
 John [1], 488
 John [2], 488
 John [3], 488
 John, Thomas, 488
 Johnny, Owhyhee, 489
 Johns, William, 489
 Johnson
 Alexis, 489
 Andrew [1], 489
 Andrew [2], 489
 David, 489
 Dr. George [h], 490
 James, 490
 John [1], 490
 John [2], 490
 John Henry, 490-491
 Thomas, 491
 William, 491
 William [b], 92, 491
 Johnston
 John [b], 491-492
 Robert [a], 492
 Thomas, 492
 William, 492
 William [c], 492-493
 William Coregal [d], 493
 Johnstone
 James [d], 493
 James [1], 493
 James [2], 494
 James [3], 494
 John [1], 494
 John [2], 494
 Robert, 494-495
 William, 495
 Jollibois, Jean Baptiste, 73, 115, 495
 Jomanno, 495
 Jones
 Benjamin, 496
 Daniel, 496
 Evan, 496
 Hugh, 496
 John, 496
 Joseph, 496-497
 Peter, 497
 Thomas, 497
 William [1], 497
 William [2], 497
 Joseachal, 57, 498
 Joseph, 498
 Joseph, Jean Baptiste Louis, 498
 Joshua, 498
 Joyalle, Etienne, 499
 Juissaume, Joseph Alexis, 499
 Julien, Louisson, 499
 Junion, James, 499
 Kaau, John, 499
 Kaehetou, 500
 Kahaloukulu, 500
 Kaharrow, 67, 500
 Kahela, 500
 Kahemehou, 500-501
 Kahetapou, 501
 Kahinamia, 501
 Kahoolanou, 501
 Kahoree, 501
 Kai, 501-502
 Kaihi, 502
 Kaikuanna, 502

Kaikuauhine, 502
 Kaikumakau, 502
 Kailimai, 502
 Kaimaina, 502-503
 Kaina, 503
 Kainhewait, Ignace, 503
 Kainoalau, 503
 Kaipumakau, 503
 Kaiwaiwai, 503-504
 Kakaio, 504
 Kakaraquiron, Pierre, 504
 Kakepe, 504
 Kakua, Peter, 504-505
 Kalama, 109, 505
 Kalemaku, 506
 Kalenopale, 506
 Kalua, 506
 Kaluahe, 506
 Kaluaikai, Pierre, 506-507
 Kamai, Kama, 507
 Kamaikaloa, 507
 Kamakeha, 507-508
 Kamako, 508
 Kamano, George, 508
 Kamloops, Jean Baptiste, 509
 Kanackanui, 509
 Kanackeha, 509
 Kanaguasse, Pierre, 97, 509-510
 Kanah, Frank, 67, 510
 Kanarikowa, Michel, 510
 Kanataconda, Jean Baptiste, 510
 Kanatagonet, Pierre, 511
 Kanatasse, Narcisse, 511
 Kanate, Gregoire, 511
 Kanatioha, Louis, 511
 Kane, 511
 Kanelupu, 511-512
 Kaneoukai, 512
 Kanetagon
 Ignace (Big Ignace), 512
 Louis, 512
 Kanhetara, Jacques, 513
 Kanohe, 513
 Kanome, 513
 Kanonswasse, Martin, 513
 Kanooe, 513
 Kanopee, 514
 Kanota, Louis, 514
 Kanotahare, Pierre, 514
 Kanseau, 514-515
 Kaonasse, Michel, 515
 Kapahu, 515
 Kapawa, 515
 Kapoua, 515
 Karae, 516
 Karaganacon, Michel, 516
 Karaganyate, Pierre, 516
 Karaquante, Rene, 516
 Karatohon, Laurent, 517
 Karehoua, 517
 Karimou, William, 61, 517
 Karohuhana, Ignace, 517-518
 Karonhitchego, Laurent, 93, 518
 Karooha, 518
 Karreymoure, 109, 518
 Kassawessa, Pierre, 518-519
 Kateman
 George, 519
 Xavier, 100, 519
 Kauai, 519
 Kaucrassoak, Joshua, 519
 Kaulehelehe, William R., 87, 90, 101, 519-520
 Kaumaia, 520
 Kawahiniiai, 520
 Kawationha Louis, 521
 Kawenassa, Antoine, 521
 Kawenguay, Pierre, 521
 Kawenion, Charles, 521
 Kawero, Tom, 521
 Kay, William, 521
 Kayenquaretcha, Lazard, 522
 Kayriow, 522
 Keagle, Antoine, 522
 Keahanele, 522
 Keahi, 522
 Keala, 523
 Kealoha, 523
 Kearns, Thomas, 523
 Keave [a], 114, 523
 Keave [b], 523
 Keave, Tom, 112, 114, 524
 Keave-haccow, 109, 524-525
 Kee, 525
 Keea, 525
 Keeam, Charles, 525-526
 Keekanah, 67, 526
 Keemo, James, 526
 Keene, John, 526
 Keharoha, 526
 Keharou, 527
 Kehow, 527
 Kei, 527
 Keith, James, 527
 Kekahuna, 528
 Kekko, 528
 Kekoa, 528
 Kelley, Hall Jackson, 86, 87, 528
 Kelly
 Barney, 528
 Edward, 529
 George, 529
 John, 529
 Kendrick, Thomas, 529
 Kennedy

Alexander, 529-530
 Dr. John Frederick [b], 103, 113, 114, 530
 Frederick W., 530-531
 John [a], 531
 Thomas, 531

Kent
 George, 531
 Matthew. 532

Keo, 532

Kerby, Robert, 532

Kernick, John, 532

Keroha, 532

Kettlo, 532

Keuvero, John, 533

Kikapalale, 533

Killeher, Daniel. 533

Kilulawahui, 533

Kimber, Edward, 533

Kimo, James, 115, 533-534

King
 Alexander, 534
 Bill, 534
 Johnson George, 534, 1149, 1163-64

Kingcome, William, 534

Kingston, William, 535

Kinville, Michel, 53, 535

Kiona, 535-536

Kipling
 Charles, 536
 Thomas Pisk, 536

Kirk
 John, 536
 William, 536

Kirorole (Jean), Baptiste, 537

Kirton, Peter, 537

Kittson
 Edwin, 537
 William, 537-538

Klyne, Joseph, 538-539

Knarston
 James, 539
 Samuel, 539

Knight, James, 539

Knudsen, Even, 539

Koa, 539

Koaster, Johann, 540

Konea, 109, 540

Koneva, 540

Korhooa, 540

Kuana, 540-541

Kuawaa, 541

Kula, 541

Kuluailehua, 541

Kupehea, 541

Kyan, John, 541

Kyukichi, 542

La Clare, Gile, 542

La Gasse, Charles, 542

La Grange, Ami, 542-543

La Plant, Abraham, 543

La Plante
 Louis [1], 543
 Louis [2], 543

La Point, Joseph, 543

LaBarre, Edward, 543

LaBatte, Michel, 543-544

Labelle, Isaac, 544

Labelle (Robert), Pierre, 544

Labonte
 Augustine, 544
 Bernadin, 544
 Charleson , 544-545
 Jean Baptiste, 545
 Louis, 54, 61, 545

Lachance, William, 545

Lachapelle
 Andre [1], 546
 Andre [2], 546

LaChapitre, Andre, 546-547

Lacharite
 Henri, 547
 Joseph, 547

Lackey, William, 547

LaCompte, Alexis, 547

Lacourse
 Amable, 547
 Claude, 548
 Francois, 548
 Pierre, 54, 548
 Theodore, 548-549

Lacroix, Michel, 549

Ladebouche, Pierre, 549

Laoitte, 549

Laferte
 Joachim, 549-550
 Louis, 550

Lafleur
 Jean Baptiste [b], 550
 Joachim, 550
 Michel, 550

Lafleur (Gagnon), Jean Baptiste, 551

Lafontasie
 Charles, 551
 Jacques, 61, 551
 Louis, 552
 Marie, 552

Laforte, (Placide), 552

Laforte (Plassis), Andre, 552

Lafosin, Charles, 553

Laframboise
 Francois [b], 553
 Michel, 553-554

Lafrance, Francois, 554

Lafreniere, Charles, 554
 Lagace
 Charles, 554
 Peter Jr., 554-555
 Pierre Sr., 116, 555
 Lagarde, Joseph, 100, 556
 Lagrave,
 Godfroi, 556
 Jean Baptiste, 556
 Lahaie (Jardenier), Louis, 556
 Lahaina, 556-557
 Laharnai, Joseph, 557
 Lahowbalow, 557
 Lajeunesse, Augustine, 557
 Lajoie, Jean Baptiste, 557
 Laliberte
 Baptiste, 557-558
 Louis, 558
 Lamb, Joe, 558
 Lambert
 Augustin, 558-559
 Etienne, 559
 Felix, 559
 John, 559
 Pierre, 560
 Lambroise (Lorimier Martineau, McIntyre),
 Michel, 560
 Lamotte, Paul, 560
 Lamplugh, William, 560
 Lamprant, Antoine, 560-561
 Lanctot, Camille, 561
 Landreville, Charles, 561
 Landrie
 Alexis, 561
 Amable, 561
 Francois [1], 562
 Francois [2], 562
 Joseph, 562
 Joseph [a], 562
 Joseph [b], 562
 Landry, Joseph, 563
 Lane
 Richard, 563
 William Fletcher, 563
 Lang, Richard, 563
 Langley, George, 564
 Langtry, Joseph Millar, 564
 Langurn, Gulbrand, 564
 Lanoix, Jean Baptiste, 564
 Lanson, Michel, 564
 Laowala, 564-565
 Laperdoux blanche
 Jacques, 565
 Pierre, 565
 Lapham, Lewis L., 565
 Lapierre
 Jean Baptiste [a], 565-566, 1146

 Jean Baptiste [b], 566
 Joseph [1], 566
 Joseph [2], 566
 Joseph [3], 566-567
 Lapierre (Brilliant), Louis, 567
 Laplante, Xavier, 567
 Laprade, Alexis, 567
 Larance
 Bazil, 568
 Supplie, 568
 Theodore, 568
 Larente, Izidore, 568
 Larison, John, 568-569
 Larocque, Joseph Sebastien, 100, 569
 Laroque, Joseph Felix, 569
 Larose, Isidore, 569-570
 Larpenteur, Charles, 570
 Larrett, Henry, 570
 Larsen, Martin, 570
 Larson
 Ole, 570
 Peter, 571
 Lasserre, Guillaume, 97, 571
 Latendre, Joseph [a], 571
 Latour, Francois, 572
 Latour (Ballard), Louis, 100, 572
 Latrielle
 Alexander, 572
 Antoine, 572
 Lattey, Alexander, 573
 Lattie, Alexander Jr., 573
 Laturn, Paul, 573
 Laughton, Thomas, 573-574
 Launge, Jacques, 574
 Laurent
 Francois, 574
 Isadore, 574
 Lavalle
 Andre, 574
 Louis [1], 574-575
 Louis [2], 575
 Louis [b], 575
 Martial, 575
 Pierre[a], 575-576
 Pierre, 576
 Laverdure, Joseph (Xavier ?), 106-07, 576
 Lavoie
 Jean Baptiste, 576
 Maxime, 576
 Lawler, Jack, 576-577
 Lawrence, Robert, 108, 577
 Lawrenceson, William, 577
 Lawson, Peter, 577
 Layland, Richard, 577
 Lazarus, Manuel, 578
 L'Amoureux, Jean Baptiste, 578
 L'Ecuyer [b], Francois, 578

L'Etang, Pierre, 578-579
 L'Hussier, Antoine, 579
 Le Clair, Francois, 579
 Le Compte, Alexis, 579
 Le Course, Pierre, 579
 Leach, John, 580
 Learhenard (possibly Leonard or Leharnai), 580
 Leask, James, 580
 Lebine, Leon, 580
 Leblanc
 Louis, 581
 Pierre, 581
 Lebrun
 Benjamin, 581
 Felix, 581
 Hercule, 582
 Joseph, 582
 Leclaire
 Aime, 582
 Isadore or Theodore, 583
 Louis [a], 583
 Leclerc, Giles, 583
 Lecompte, Alex [2], 583
 Lecuyer, Francois [a], 584
 Ledoux, Jean Baptiste, 584
 Lefevre, Laurent, 584
 Lefevre
 Jean Baptiste, 584
 Joseph [a], 585
 Louis, 585
 Michel, 585
 T., 585
 Lefevre (Bonnin), Joseph [b], 585
 Lefevre (Beaulac), Pierre, 585-586
 Legg, William L., 586
 Leigh, William, 586
 Leland, Richard, 587
 Lennon, John, 587
 Lentier, Joseph, 587
 Leolo
 Edouard, 587
 Jean Baptiste, 587-588
 Leonard
 Jean Baptiste, 588
 Zenas, 588
 Lepain, Abraham, 588
 Lepicier, Pierre, 588
 Lepine
 Francois, 589
 Gonzaque, 589
 Joaquim, 589
 Joseph [b], 589
 William, 589
 Lesieur, Toussaint, 589-590
 Lesley, Thomas, 590
 Leslie, Colin, 590
 Letendre
 Antoine, 590
 Jean Baptiste, 590-591
 Pierre, 591
 Levaille, Baptiste, 591
 Levigne
 Augustin, 591
 Jean Baptiste, 591
 Lewes
 Adolphus Lee, 591-592
 John Lee, 592
 Lewis
 Charles, 592
 Herbert George, 592-593
 James, 593
 Peter, 593
 Richard, 593
 Samuel, 593
 Thomas Peregrine, 594
 Liard
 Francis Xavier, 594
 Thamire, 100, 594
 Light, William, 595
 Like, 595
 Limehouse, Andrew, 595
 Linklater
 James, 595
 John [b], 595
 Thomas, 596
 Linnett, Joseph, 596
 Linniard, John, 596
 Linton, George, 597
 Liston, Francis, 597
 Little
 John, 597-598
 Thomas, 598
 William Coffin, 598
 Littlehales, Baker Joseph, 598
 Livingston, Duncan, 599
 Lizotte, Pierre, 599
 Loader, Charles, 599
 Lobb, Charles, 112, 599
 Lockyear, Thomas, 600
 Lodge, Martin, 600
 Logan
 Kenneth, 600
 Mr., 600-601
 Robert Jr., 601
 Lohiau, 601
 Lonctain, Andre, 601
 Loncteau, Francois, 601-602
 Lonctin
 Antoine, 602
 Etienne, 602
 Eustache, 602
 Long
 Ira, 602
 Joseph, 602

Lord, Elbridge, 603
 Lorkins, Thomas, 603
 Louis, Joseph, 603
 Louisson
 Jean Baptiste, 603
 Julien, 603
 Louttit, Andrew, 604
 Low
 John Jr. [b], 604
 John Sr. [a], 604
 Thomas D., 604-605
 Lowdell, Sydney P., 605
 Lowe
 Thomas, 100, 605
 William, 605
 Lowpirani, 605
 Loyer, Charles, 606
 Lozeau, Charles, 606
 Loziere, Ignace, 100, 606
 Lucas, John, 607
 Lucier
 Basile, 67, 607
 Charles, 607
 Etienne (Amable), 61, 90, 92, 607-608
 Louis, 608
 Lymon, John, 608-609
 Lynch, John, 609
 Maalo, 609
 Maayo, Joseph, 609
 Macdonald, William John, 609-610
 Macdougall, John G., 610
 Macey, Edmund, 610
 Mackaina, 67, 610
 Mackenzie, Sir Alexander, 47-48, 49, 610-611
 MacLennan, Joseph, 611
 Mactavish, Dugald, 611-612
 Madotehisam, Ignace, 612
 Mafinoa, 612
 Magee, Robert, 612
 Mahavius, 612
 Mahoe, 612
 Mahow, 612-613
 Mahoy [a], 613
 Mahoy [b], 613
 Mahoy
 Jemmy, 613
 William (Bill) [a], 613
 Maikai, 614
 Mair, Peter S., 614
 Majeau, Ambroise, 614
 Majeau
 Louis, 614
 Pierre, 614-615
 Makaoura, 615
 Malcolm
 John, 615
 William, 615

Mallery, Benjamin, 615
 Mallette, Joseph [c], 615
 Malois, Fabien, 615-616
 Mamuka, Jem, 616
 Manene, 616
 Manero, 616
 Maniso, 616-617
 Mankelow, Henry, 617
 Manno, 617
 Mannock
 Francis, 617
 William Bonner, 618
 Manoa, Joe, 618
 Mansfield, James, 618
 Manson
 Donald, 117, 618-619
 John Duncan, 619
 Phineas, 619
 William, 620
 Mardell, Henry, 620
 Marden, William, 620
 Mardotehisane, Ignace, 620
 Mareau, Joseph, 620-621
 Marechal, Touissant, 621
 Margary, Herbert West Ogle, 621
 Markus, Harry, 621
 Marouna, 621-622
 Marouna, Mungo, 622
 Marro, 622
 Marrow, 622
 Marsh, Isaac, 622
 Marshall, Thomas, 623
 Martel
 Augustin, 623
 Joseph [a], 623
 Joseph [b], 623
 Octave, 100, 623
 Martial, Francois, 624
 Martin
 Alexis, 624
 Charles, 624
 Donald, 624
 Edouard, 624
 Harry, 624-625
 Iroquois, 625
 John [1], 625
 John [2], 625
 John [3], 625
 Jonathan, 625-626
 Meaquin, 53, 626
 Norman [a], 626
 Pierre, 626-627
 Martindale, William, 627
 Martineau
 Alexis, 627
 Olivier, 627
 Pierre, 628

Mascon, Alexis, 628
 Mason, George, 628
 Masta, Antoine, 629
 Matheson
 Murdo, 629
 Peter, 629
 Mathu, Louis, 629
 Matte, 629-630
 Matte, Maxime, 630
 Matthews, William Wallace, 54, 630
 Matthieu, Francois Xavier, 92, 630-631
 Maurice
 Joseph, 631
 Maxwell
 Henry, 631
 John, 632
 May, William, 632
 Maydle, William, 632
 McArthur, Neil McLean, 118, 632
 McAskill, Norman, 633
 McAulay
 Donald [a], 113, 633
 Donald [b], 633-634
 John [a], 634
 Neil, 634
 McBain, John, 634
 McBean
 William, 634-635, 1145-46
 William Scott, 77, 635
 McBeath
 Hugh, 635
 William, 636
 McCarthy
 Jeremiah, 636
 John, 636
 McCarty, William, 92, 636
 McClellan, Robert, 58, 61, 637
 McCoy, Martin, 637
 McDermid, Archibald, 637
 McDonald
 Alexander [b], 637
 Anawiscum, 100, 638
 Angus [a], 638
 Angus [b], 638-639
 Angus [c], 639
 Angus [e], 639
 Archibald [a], 77, 639-640
 Donald [d], 640
 Donald [e], 640
 Donald [f], 640-641
 Farquhar, 641
 Finan, 65-66, 67, 77, 641-642
 John, 642
 John [c], 642
 John [e], 642
 Kenneth, 642
 Murdoch [b], 643

 Ranald, 77, 118, 121, 643
 William [1], 643
 William [2], 644
 McDonald of Garth, John, 644
 McDonell
 John [b], 77, 644
 Pierre [1], 644-645
 Pierre [2], 645
 McDonnell, Eneas, 645
 McDougall
 Duncan, 59, 70, 645
 George, 77, 645-46
 Hugh, 646
 James, 51, 77, 646
 John, 118, 647
 McDuff, James, 647
 McFaddin, James, 648
 McGarry, William, 648
 McGillis, Donald, 648
 McGillivray
 Duncan, 648
 Hector, 649
 Joseph, 68, 649
 Montrose, 649
 Napoleon Buonaparte, 650
 Simon Jr., 650, 1144-45
 William, 650
 McGruer, Alexander, 651
 McIntosh
 Archibald, 651
 John [1], 651
 John Jr. [2], 651
 McIntyre
 James, 652
 John, 652
 McIsaac, Allen, 652
 McIver
 Donald [c], 652
 James, 652-653
 John [a], 653
 John [d], 653
 McIvor, Norman, 653
 McKay
 Alexander [1], 48, 57, 653-654,
 Alexander [2], 654
 Charles, 654
 Dr. William, 654
 George, 655
 James [1], 655
 James [2], 655
 Jean Amable, 655
 Jean Baptiste, 655
 Jean Baptiste Depatie, 91, 656
 John [a], 100, 656-657
 John [b], 657
 John [e or f], 657
 Joseph William, 113, 657-658

- Kenneth (Kenny), 658
 Malcolm, 658
 Murdoch, 659
 Philip, 659
 Thomas, 48, 61, 92, 108, 659-660
- McKenzie
 Alexander [2], 660
 Alexander [3], 660
 Benjamin, 660
 Donald, 58, 59, 61, 63, 66, 77, 661
 Donald Jr. [a], 661
 Ferdinand, 661-662
 George, 114, 662
 Hector, 662
 Patrick, 662-663
- McKinlay, Archibald, 100, 663, 1149, 1161-63
- McLachlan, Robert, 663
- McLacon, Daniel, 663
- McLaren, John, 664
- McLaughlin, James, 664
- McLean
 Donald [c], 100, 117, 118, 664
 John [c], 664-665
 John [d], 665
- McLennan
 Donald [1], 665
 Donald [2], 666
 Francis, 666
 John, 666
- McLeod
 Alexander Roderick, 666-667
 Allan, 110, 667
 Angus, 667
 Angus [c], 667
 Archibald, 667
 Donald [a], 667-668
 Donald [b], 110, 668
 Ewan, 668
 Jack, 669
 John [1], 669
 John [d], 669
 John [e], 669
 John [f], 670
 John [2], 670
 John Jr. [3], 670
 Malcolm, 670
 Murdo [d], 670-671
 Murdo [e], 671
 Murdoch [c], 671
 Murdoch G. [a], 671-672
 Neil [a], 672
 Roderick, 672
 William, 672
- McLoughlin
 David, 86, 110, 672
 Dr. John, 77, 79, 82, 92, 94, 673
 John Jr., 97-98, 673-674
- Joseph, 54, 72, 93, 674
- McMillan
 James, 54, 75, 674-675
 Neil, 675
- McMullin, Daniel, 675
- McNeil, Hector, 675
- McNeill
 Alfred, 675-676
 George, 676
 Henry, 676
 William Henry, 113, 119, 676-677
 William Henry Jr., 677
- McPhail
 Angus, 677-678
 John, 678
- McPherson
 Angus, 678
 John, 679
 Thomas, 679
- McRae John, 679
- McTavish
 Alexander, 679
 Donald, 60, 63, 680
 James Chisholm, 680
 John George, 65, 113, 680-681
- Mebius, Charles Frederick Ernest, 681
- Mecuras, Magnus, 681
- Meek
 Joseph LaFayette, 91, 681-682
 Stephen Hall L., 682
- Megan, John, 682
- Meheula, 682
- Mellostod, Lars, 682
- Meloche
 Antoine [1], 682-683
 Antoine [2], 683
- Menard, Jean, 683
- Merriman, Peter, 683
- Merrit, Josiah, 683
- Merritt, Josiah, 683-684
- Merryman, William [a], 684
- Methode, Francois, 684
- Meyer, Heinrich, 684
- Meyet, Pascal, 684
- Miataronai, Michel, 685
- Michon, Charles, 685
- Mickeljohn, John, 685
- Miheula, 685
- Mikapako, 685
- Mikiloah, 685
- Mild, John, 685-686
- Miles
 James, 686
 John, 686
- Millar
 James [c], 686
 Joseph, 686-687

Millejours, Augustin, 687
 Miller
 Alfred Jacob, 687
 David, 687
 Frederick C., 688
 John, 688
 Joseph [1], 688
 Joseph [2], 688
 Milligan, Richard, 61, 688-689
 Mills, John Powell, 689
 Milwood, 689
 Minie, Frederique, 115, 689
 Miniroe, Alexander, 689
 Minors, John, 690
 Miny, Louis, 690
 Miron, Louis, 690
 Mistacroock, Joseph, 690
 Mistickukanish, 690
 Mitchell
 George, 691
 William, 691
 Moa, 691
 Moar
 Andrew (Henry), 691-692
 Jonathan, 692
 Mochuman, Joseph, 692
 Mocuman, Louis, 692
 Moffatt, Hamilton, 113, 692-93
 Moineau, Antoine, 693
 Moir, John, 693
 Moison, Pierre, 693
 Mokowhehe, 693
 Moku, 694
 Molaly, James, 694
 Molle, Jean Marie, 694
 Moller, Frederick C., 694
 Moloney, John, 694
 Momuto, George, 694-695
 Monde, Jean, 695
 Mongrain, David, 695
 Monique
 Dominique [1], 695
 Dominique [2], 696
 Joseph [1], 696
 Joseph [2], 696
 Nicholas, 696
 Monjon, Francois Xavier, 696
 Monk, Edward, 697
 Montgomery
 Angus, 697
 John [b], 697
 Montigny
 Edouard, 697
 Narcisse, 110, 697
 Ovide de, 61, 697-98
 Montour, Nicholas Jr., 698-699
 Montrais, Jean Baptiste, 699

Montret, Louis, 699
 Moo, 699
 Moore
 Edward, 700
 James [1], 700
 James [2], 700
 Samuel, 700
 Morand, Baptiste, 700
 More, John, 700-701
 Moreau, Joseph, 701
 Morel, Leon, 118, 701
 Morelle, Joseph, 701
 Moreno, Thomas, 701-702
 Morgan, Josiah, 702
 Morigeau, Francois, 702
 Morin
 Baptiste, 702
 Joseph, 702
 Morris, Enoch, 702
 Morrisette
 Joseph, 703
 Toussaint, 703
 Morrison
 Alexander [a], 703
 Alexander [b], 703
 Allan, 703
 J. S., 704
 Kenneth, 120, 704
 Thomas, 704
 Morrow, Thomas, 704
 Mortensen, Matthias, 705
 Morwick, William, 705
 Moses, 705
 Moss
 Alfred A., 705
 John, 705
 Joseph, 705-706
 Mott
 Andrew, 706
 Andrew Cook, 706
 Charles W., 706
 Mouat William Alexander, 113, 706-707
 Moumouto, 707
 Mousette
 Joseph, 708
 Narcisse, 708
 Mousseau, Louis, 708
 Mousseau (Desilet), Eustache, 708
 Mowat
 Andrew [b], 709
 Hugh, 709
 Mowatt, Henry, 709
 Mowee, 709
 Muir, Alexander, 709
 Mumford, William P., 710
 Munro
 David, 710

Donald, 710
 Murphy
 Henry, 710
 Samuel, 711
 William, 711
 Murray
 Alfred, 711
 Daniel, 711
 Lewis, 711
 William [1], 712
 William [2], 109, 712
 Myers, John, 712
 Mytie, 712
 Naaco, George, 712
 Nadeau Joseph, 57, 713
 Naeve, 713
 Naharou, 713
 Naheeti, Peter, 713
 Nahoa, 713-714
 Nahoua, 714
 Nahouree, 714
 Nahu, 714
 Nahua, 715
 Nakahene, Bob, 715
 Nakai, 715
 Namacoouroria, 715
 Namahana, 715
 Namakokyan, 716
 Namaurooa, 716
 Namhallow, 716
 Namotto, 716
 Napahay, Alick, 716-717
 Napoua, 717
 Napuko, Henry, 717
 Naremarou, Francois Xavier, 717
 Narimma, 717
 Narkafoa, 718
 Narkaraketa
 Thomas Jr., 718
 Thomas Sr., 718
 Narua, 718
 Nauka, 718
 Naukana, William, 718-19
 Naunton
 George, 719
 Robert Henry, 719
 Nehanou, 720
 Neil, David, 720
 Neilson, Johan, 720
 Nelson
 John, 720
 Thomas, 720
 Nelu, 721
 Neman (Taylor), 721
 Neo, 721
 Nerin, Augustin, 721
 Newanna, William, 109, 721-722

Newberd, James, 722
 Newell
 Charles, 722
 Robert, 91, 722
 Newman
 Alfred, 723
 Jonas, 723
 Newton
 John, 723
 William Henry, 121, 723
 Nichols
 John, 724
 Robert, 724
 Nicholson
 John, 724
 Murdoch, 724-725
 Nickaloe, 725
 Nicoll Charles A., 725
 Nigre, 725
 Nisbet
 James, 725
 John, 726
 Niven, Charles A., 726
 Noah, Harry Bell, 726
 Nohiau, 726
 Nono, 727
 Noowow, 727
 Norgate, Abraham, 727
 Norman, John, 727
 Normandin, Antoine, 727
 Norn, Samuel, 727-728
 Norquay
 William [1], 728
 William [2], 728
 Noth, Albert, 728
 Nott, Samuel, 728
 Nouhee, 729
 Nugent, Thomas, 729
 Nutt
 George Milford, 729
 Robert, 729
 Nuttal, Thomas, 729
 Nyholm, Peter, 730
 Nyoray, Peter, 730
 Oagh, Richard, 730
 O'Brien
 John, 730-731
 P., 731
 O'Doharty, William St. George, 731
 O'Neill, James A., 731
 Obichon
 Jean Baptiste, 731-732
 Louis, 732
 Ogden
 Charles, 117, 732
 Isaac, 117, 732
 Michael, 117, 732-33

Peter Jr., 117, 733
 Peter Skene, 104, 116, 117, 733-734
 Oghnawera, Charles, 72, 734
 Ogilvy
 James, 734
 John Drummond Buchanan, 734-735
 Ohia [1], 735
 Ohia [2], 735
 Ohpoonuy, 735
 Ohule, Peter, 736
 Okaia, 736
 Okanaya, 737
 Oketown, Harry, 737
 Olau, 737
 Oliver
 John, 737
 Robert L., 737
 Olsen
 Andreas, 737
 Lars, 738
 Omai, 738
 Oman, Edward [b], 738
 Omidse, Etienne, 738
 Onaharashan, Charles, 738
 Onaharyou, Lasard, 739
 Onawanoron, Joseph, 739
 Onearste, Lazard, 739
 Oniaze
 Baptiste, 739
 Etienne, 740
 Onskanha (Monique), Louis, 93, 740
 Opunoui [b], 740
 Opunui [a], 741
 Oraquenandagan, Thomas, 741
 Ord, Thomas, 741
 Orighogowin, Paul, 741
 Oroheey, Alexander, 741
 Orohuay, 742
 Oroora, 742
 Orouku, 742
 Osborne, James, 742
 Oskononton, Nicolas, 742-743
 Ossin, Louis, 743
 Ostaryou, Ignace, 743
 Ostiserico, Jacques, 743-744
 Ostteargar, Carl Edward, 744
 Oteakori, Louis, 120, 744
 Otoetanie, (Little) Michel, 744
 Michel, 744-745
 Otokichi, 745
 Ottehoh, 67, 746
 Otto, John, 746
 Ouamtany
 Michel (Old Michel), 746
 Thomas, 115, 746-747
 Oui, Patrick, 747
 Ouimette, Ignace, 747

Oullet, Joseph, 747
 Oulu, 747
 Outred, Aaron, 747
 Ouvre, Jean Baptiste, 62, 748
 Overall, John, 748
 Owtii, 748
 Oxley, John, 749
 Pa-ay-lay, 749
 Pacquin, Louis, 54, 749
 Paget (Basteny), Antoine, 749-750
 Paget, Charles, 749
 Pahwack, Racoon, 750
 Pakee [1], 750
 Pakee [2], 114, 750-751
 Pakeeknaak, Thomas, 751
 Pakeokeo, 751
 Paledin, 751
 Palmer
 George, 751
 Joseph, 751
 Palupalu, 752
 Pambrun
 Alexander, 752
 Andrew Dominique, 87, 752
 Pierre Chrysologue, 752-753
 Thomas, 753
 Pansonault, Jos. B., 753
 Paow, Dick, 753
 Paparee, Jem, 754
 Paplay, Alexander, 754
 Paquet
 Andre, 754
 Jean Baptiste [a], 754-755
 Jean Baptiste [b], 755
 Paraou, 755
 Pareil, Pierre, 755
 Parente, Louis Leandre, 755-756
 Paris, Joseph, 756
 Pariseau, Pierre, 109, 756
 Parisien, Charles, 756
 Park, Alfred, 756
 Parker
 George, 757
 Harry, 757
 Parks, John, 757
 Parr, Joseph, 757
 Parsons
 Samuel, 757-758
 Valentine, 758
 William, 758
 Patele, 758
 Patterson
 George, 758
 John, 61, 758-759
 Paul
 Charles, 759
 Hus Emanuel, 759

- Joseph, 759-760
 Long, 760
 Louis Hus, 760
 Pierre [1], 760
 Pierre [2], 760
 Payette, Francois, 62, 760-761
 Paynee, 761
 Peace, James, 761
 Peaennau, Joe, 761-762
 Pearce, Samuel, 762
 Pearson, John, 762
 Pedersen, Ole [a], 762
 Pederson, Rund, 762
 Pee, 762
 Peeo, 763
 Peeopeeoh, 67, 763
 Peeopeeoh, Henry, 763
 Peers, Henry Newsham, 113, 764
 Peleraint, Alexis, 764
 Pelland
 Alexis, 764
 Elie, 764-765
 Pellant, Alexis, 765
 Pelly
 Augustus, 765
 George, 765
 Robert, 766
 Peltier
 Louis, 766
 Toussaint, 766
 Pelton, Archibald or Joseph, 60, 766-767
 Pembrilliant, Antoine, 767
 Pensonant, J. Benoit, 767
 Penwell, Lieven, 767
 Pepin
 Antoine, 767
 Etienne, 767-768
 Pierre (Lachance), 768
 Pepper, Samuel, 768
 Perea, Pierre, 768
 Perrault
 Antoine, 769
 Jacques, 769
 Jean Baptiste, 769
 Joseph, 769-770
 Louis, 770
 William, 770
 Perrier, Moyse, 770
 Perry
 Daniel, 770
 Thomas, 771
 William, 771
 Petain, Jacques, 771
 Peter [1], 771
 Peter [2], 771
 Peter [3], 772
 Peterson
 Charles F., 772
 John [1], 772
 John [2], 772
 Petit, Amable, 88, 772-773
 Thomas, 773
 Petit (Gobin),
 Antoine [a], 773
 Antoine [b], 774
 Jean Baptiste, 773
 Petrain, Joseph, 774
 Petrelius, Peter, 109, 774
 Petty, Charles H., 774
 Philips, Charles, 774-775
 Phillips
 James M., 775
 John, 775
 John [b], 109, 775
 John [a], 775
 William, 775
 Picard
 Abraham, 776
 Andre, 776
 Piccard, Maurice, 776
 Pichette (Dupré), Louis, 776-777
 Picotte, Augustine, 777
 Piercy, George Frederick, 777
 Piette (Francant), Francois, 777-778
 Pike, Jonas, 778
 Pilcher, Joshua, 778
 Pill, Charles, 778
 Pillet, Francois Benjamin, 779
 Pillon
 Jean Baptiste, 779
 Paul, 779
 Pin, Joseph, 779-780
 Pincing, Charles, 780
 Pineau, Joseph, 780
 Pion
 Louis, 780-781
 William, 118, 781
 Pitt, William, 781
 Plante
 Antoine [1], 781-782
 Antoine [2], 109, 782
 Charles, 107, 782-783
 Michel, 783
 Plomer, Harry, 783
 Plomondo, Simon, 783-784
 Plouff, Joseph [1], 784
 Plouffe, Antoine, 784
 Plouffe (Carillon), Joseph [2], 108, 117, 784-785
 Ploughboy, Joe, 785
 Poah, Paul, 785
 Poirier
 Antoine, 785
 Bazil, 88, 785-786
 Jean Baptiste, 786

Joseph, 786
 Toussaint, 786-787
 Pollard, Charles, 787
 Pollock, Robert, 787
 Pookarakara, Bob, 787
 Poonoroara, 787
 Poopoo, 788
 Pope, George, 788
 Popoay, 788
 Pora, 788
 Portelance, Narcisse, 788
 Porteur, Joseph, 788-789
 Porteus, William, 789
 Portneuf
 Ignace, 789
 Joseph, 789
 Louis, 790
 Potter, Henry, 790
 Pottinger, William [a], 790
 Potts, Daniel T., 790
 Potvin
 Jacques, 790-791
 Jean Baptiste, 791
 Pierre, 791
 Poucher, William, 791
 Pouhow, 791-792
 Pourere, 792
 Powell, Charles, 792
 Powers, Gilbert, 792
 Powlins, 792
 Powrowie, Joseph, 792
 Powrowrie, Jack, 793
 Prattent, George, 793
 Predith, Walter, 793
 Presse, Francois, 794
 Preston, William [a], 794
 Prevost
 Joseph, 794
 Toussaint, 795
 Proulx
 Charles, 795
 Francois, 795
 Proveau
 Jean Baptiste [a], 795
 Jean Baptiste [b], 100, 796
 Louis, 796
 Provero, 796
 Provost
 Etienne, 796
 Jean Baptiste, 797
 Prudhomme
 Bazil, 797
 Francois, 797
 Gabriel, 797
 Puahili
 Jim [a], 797-798
 Jim [b], 798

Puili, 798
 Pulhelee, George, 798
 Punebaka, 798
 Purchase, George, 798-799
 Purvis, James, 799
 Queenville, Colvile, 53, 799
 Querry, Jean Baptiste, 799
 Quesnel
 Amable, 799
 Jules Maurice, 50, 800
 Quintal (Dubois), Francois, 800
 Quintal, Laurent, 800-801
 Raby, Abraham (Payan), 801
 Raby, James, 801
 Racine (Noyer), Jean, 801
 Raddon
 Lewis, 109, 802
 Robert, 109, 802
 Rae
 William Glen, 802-803
 Y. W., 803
 Rahilee, Columbia, 803
 Raine, Benjamin, 803
 Ralph, Joseph, 803
 Ramsay
 George, 61, 804
 Old, 804
 Ramsey, Jack, 804-805
 Randal, John, 805
 Ranne, Peter, 805
 Ransom, Samuel, 805
 Rappa, Moniday, 805
 Rashihitita, Michel, 806
 Rassunssen, Lars, 806
 Rattine, 806
 Raven, George, 806
 Rayaume
 Joseph, 806
 Julian, 806
 Raymond
 Camille, 115, 807
 Joseph, 807
 Narcisse, 807-808
 William, 808
 Rea, Frederick W., 808
 Read, John, 808
 Reay, Archibald, 809
 Redler, William, 809
 Redsull, Thomas Timms, 809
 Reed
 James [1], 809-810
 James [2], 810
 John, 58, 60, 810
 Reeder, Nicholas, 810
 Regner, Jacob, 810-811
 Reid
 James, 811

James Murray, 811
 John, 811
 Robert, 811-812
 Reitch, Peter, 812
 Rendall, James, 812
 Reubascan, John, 812
 Reveau, John, 812-813
 Reynolds, Robert, 813
 Rhene (Selahony), Jean Baptiste, 813
 Rhodes
 Benjamin, 813
 Godfrey, 813-814
 Ribbins, Richard, 814
 Rice, Arden H., 814
 Richard, 814
 Richard, Joseph, 85, 814-815
 Richards
 John, 815
 William, 815
 Richardson
 Benjamin, 815
 Thomas, 815
 Riche (Lafleche), Augustin, 815-816
 Ritchmond, Rev. John P., 816
 Richmonds, William, 816
 Ricknell, William, 816
 Ridley
 James Henry, 816
 Robert, 817
 Riley, Samuel, 817
 Rising, Horace, 817
 Ritchie
 Andrew, 817-818
 John, 818
 Robert, 818
 Ritmire, William, 818
 Rivard, (Huard) Jean, 818
 Rivet
 Francois, 50, 819
 Francois Jr., 819
 Robere, Francois, 819
 Robert
 Francois, 820
 Joseph, 820
 Roberts
 Charles, 820
 Edwin, 109, 820-821
 George Barber, 87, 100, 821
 John, 821
 Owen, 821
 Peter, 822
 Robertson
 David [a], 822
 David [b], 822
 Francis, 823
 James [1], 823
 James [2], 823

Robert, 823
 Samuel [1], 121, 823-824
 Samuel [2], 824
 William, 824-825
 Robillard (Lambert), Cuthbert, 825
 Robillard, Joseph, 825
 Robin, Francois, 825
 Robinson
 Edward, 825-826
 George, 826
 James, 826
 John Fisher, 86, 87, 826-827
 Robson
 Anthony, 827
 James, 827
 Rocher, Joseph, 827
 Rochquelaure, 828
 Rocquebrune
 Antoine Jr., 828
 Antoine Sr., 828
 Joseph, 828
 Olivier, 829
 Rodgers
 William, 829
 Yachens, 829
 Roe, Charles, 829
 Rogers
 Harrison G., 829-830
 Thomas, 830
 Roi
 Jean Baptiste, 830
 Pierre, 830
 Roi (Portelance), Olivier, 830-831
 Rollin, Joseph, 831
 Romney, Charles, 831
 Rondeau
 Antoine, 831
 Charles, 831
 Joseph, 831-832
 Louis, 832
 Pierre, 832
 Roots
 George, 832
 Jem, 832-833
 Ropeyarn, Jack, 833
 Rosindale, William, 833
 Ross
 Alexander, 61, 62, 63, 70, 77, 833
 Bernard Rogan, 834
 Charles, 834
 Charles George, 834-835
 Clarke, 835
 Daniel, 835
 David, 835
 Donald, 835
 Isabella Mainville, 836
 Jacques, 836

John, 114, 836
 Robert, 837
 Walter Phipps, 837
 Ross, (Rocque) George, 837
 Rost, Peter, 837
 Roussain, Charles, 837-838
 Roussel (Sanssoucis), Benjamin, 61, 838
 Roussil
 Augustin [1], 838
 Augustine Jr. [2], 838-839
 Rowand
 Dr. Alexander, 839
 John Sr., 839
 Rowland, William, 840
 Roy (Lapensee)
 Bazile, 840
 Ignace, 840
 Joseph, 841
 Olivier, 841
 Roy,
 Etienne, 72, 840
 Ignace, 840
 Jean Baptiste, 840
 Joseph [c], 841
 Thomas [1], 841
 Thomas [2], 841-842
 Royal
 Langley, 842
 Robert, 842
 Roye, Simon, 842
 Rudland, William, 842-843
 Russel, Edward, 843
 Russell, Osborne, 91, 843
 Rutherford, Thomas, 843
 Ryan, William, 843-844
 Rye, Edwin, 844
 Sabiston
 James, 844
 John [a], 845
 John [b], 845
 Joseph, 845
 Peter, 845-846
 Sacahandsta, Thomas, 846
 Saganakei, Jean Baptiste, 846
 Sago, Frank, 846
 Sagoganiukas, Ignace, 847
 Sagogetsta, Charles, 847
 Sagohandsta, Louis [1], 847
 Sagohanosta, Louis [2], 847
 Sagoshaneuchta, Louis, 847-848
 Sagoyawatha (Big Tomo), Thomas, 115, 848
 Sagoyenhas, Joseph, 848
 Sakoereka, Baptiste, 848
 Sakoiarokon, Pierre, 848-849
 Salioheni
 Ignace, 60-61, 849
 Ignace's stepson, 849

Sam, 849
 Samuel, 849-850
 Samuelson, Matthias, 850
 Samuhumu, 850
 Sancisse Michel, 850
 Sangster James, 850-851
 Sanicce, Lardemarke, 851
 Sans Facon, Francois, 851
 Sanson, Michel, 61, 62, 851
 Sansouce, Joseph, 851-852
 Saondaquequa, Lazard, 852
 Sassanare, Francois Xavier, 852
 Satakarass, Pierre, 93, 852-853
 Satakarata (Rabesca)
 Francois, 853
 Louis, 853
 Saucier, Norbert, 853
 Saunders
 Charles, 854
 John Alexander, 854
 John N., 854
 Palm, 854-855
 Richard, 855
 Saurenrego, Jean Baptiste, 855
 Sauve (Laplane)
 Laurent, 107, 855
 Leon, 856
 Savage, Frederick, 856
 Savard, Joseph, 856
 Savoie, Jean Baptiste, 856
 Sawagata (Sagogetsa), Charles, 856
 Sayer
 Pierre Guillaume, 857
 Robert, 857
 Scarborough, James Allan, 857-858
 Scarth, James, 858
 Schmidt, John, 858
 Schriver, Charles, 858-859
 Schuyler, Robert Sutton, 859
 Scott
 Hiram, 859
 John, 859
 John [b], 859
 Thomas, 859-860
 Scouler, Dr. John, 860
 Scudder, Thomas, 860
 Seguin (Laderoute), Xavier, 92, 860-861
 Seirer, Toussaint, 861
 Selahoanay, Rhene, 861
 Sereurier, Jeremie, 861-862
 Servant, Jacques, 862
 Seton, Alfred, 61, 862-863
 Seutchineele, Pierre, 863
 Sevaret, Lewis, 863
 Sevigny, Augustin, 863
 Shaegoskatsta (La Frise), Louis, 863
 Shanagrate, Louis, 93, 111, 863-864

Shannon, James, 864
 Sharing, 864
 Shatackoani, Jacques, 864
 Shatagaronishe, Pierre, 864-865
 Shaw
 Andrew, 865
 Angus, 865
 William, 865
 Shepard, Cyrus, 86, 87, 865
 Shoosmith, Stephen F., 866
 Shorienton, Jean Baptiste, 866
 Shuttleworth, Henry Hardinge Digby, 866
 Sicard (Anvarfal ?), Xavier, 866-867
 Silvaille, Antoine, 867
 Silvestre
 Jean Baptiste, 867
 Xavier, 867
 Simcoe, Thomas, 867
 Simpson
 Aemilius, 868
 Alexander, 868
 George Stewart, 113, 868-869
 Horatio Nelson, 869
 James, 869
 John, 869-870
 John Jr., 870
 Sir George, 75, 76, 81, 85, 870
 Sinclair
 Captain Alexander, 870-871
 Gordon, 871
 James [a], 871
 James [c], 871
 James, 871-872
 John, 872
 John Logan, 872
 Magnus, 873
 Thomas [a], 873
 William Jr., 873
 Sirard, Joseph, 874
 Sivigny, Joseph, 874
 Slaughter, Aaron, 874
 Slater
 James, 874
 John B., 874
 Thomas, 874-875
 Sloat, Benjamin, 875
 Smith
 Angus, 875
 Charles [1], 875
 Charles [2], 875
 Charles [3], 875
 David, 875
 Donald [a], 876
 George, 876
 J., 876
 Jedediah Strong, 84, 876
 John [1], 876-877
 John [a], 877
 John [b], 877
 John [2], 877
 John [b2], 877
 John [3], 878
 Malcolm [b], 878
 Norman [b], 878
 Philip, 878-879
 Robert, 879
 Solomon Howard, 86, 87, 879
 Thomas [1], 879-880
 Thomas [2], 880
 Thomas [3], 880
 William [a], 880
 William [b], 880
 William [c], 880-881
 William [a1], 881
 William, 881
 Smyth, Charles, 881
 Sonart, George, 881
 Soncisse, Michel, 881
 Soto, 881-882
 Soulliere, Francois, 882
 Spence
 John [c/a], 882
 John [c], 119, 883
 Joseph, 883
 Peter, 883
 William [c], 883
 Spenser
 Edward, 884
 John, 884
 William, 884
 Spicer, Henry, 884
 Spillet, James R., 885
 Spindelov, William, 885
 Spring, John, 885
 Spunyan [1], 885
 Spunyan [2], 885-886
 Spunyan [3], 886
 Ssanonton, Louis, 886
 St. Amant, Joseph, 886
 St. Andre, Pierre, 886
 St. Arnaude, Joseph, 887
 St. Aubin, Guillaume, 887
 St. Denis, Hyacinth, 887
 St. Dennis, Hyacinth, 887
 St. Gelin, Alexis, 887
 St. Germain
 Adolphe, 888
 Saulteux, 888
 St. Gre
 Gabriel, 888
 Louis, 888
 St. Martin
 Joseph, 888-889
 Sauveur, 889

St. Michel, Louis, 889
 St. Pierre
 Francois, 88, 889
 Olivier, 889-890
 Stagseold, Peter, 890
 Stanfield, Thomas, 890
 Staniford, Benjamin, 890
 Stanton
 George, 890
 William, 890
 Steensholdt, Ole Larson, 891
 Stensgair
 John [b], 891
 Thomas, 891
 Sterling, James, 891
 Sterne, Henry, 892
 Stewart
 Alexander, 892
 John, 892
 Robert, 892
 William Drummond, 892-893
 Stockand, James, 893
 Stockwell, William, 893
 Stoddard, Walter, 893-894
 Stokes, James, 894
 Stokum, Richard, 107, 894
 Stone, Peter, 894
 Storey, Thomas, 894
 Stripe, Thomas, 895
 Stuart
 Charles Edward, 895
 David, 895
 John [1], 51, 77, 895-896
 John [2], 896
 Robert, 55, 58, 896
 Stubbs, Thomas, 896-897
 Sublette
 Andrew, 110, 897
 Milton G., 897
 Pinckney W., 897
 William Lewis, 897-898
 Sutherland
 John, 898
 Joseph, 898
 Swain, William, 898
 Swan, John Pearson, 898-899
 Swancoe, Thomas, 899
 Swanson
 John, 899
 Joseph, 900
 William, 900
 Sweden, Charles, 900
 Swift, Charles, 900
 Ta-i, 900-901
 Taceaipou, 901
 Taceanui, 901
 Tagauche, Thomas, 901

Tahako, 901
 Tahanoe, 901
 Tahayree, 901-902
 Taheenou, 902
 Taheerinai, 902
 Tahenna, 902
 Tahetsaronsari, Jacques, 902
 Tahooru, 902
 Tahouay, 903
 Tahowna, 903
 Tai-a-nui, Jem, 903
 Tait
 John [b], 903
 John [new "b"], 903-904
 Takakenrat, Ignace, 904
 Talao, 904
 Tamaherry, 904
 Tamoree
 George, 904
 Joe, 905
 Tanarison, Joseph, 905
 Tanero, 905
 Taoutu, 905
 Tapow, Joseph, 905-906
 Tappage (Regnier)
 Alexander, 906
 Jean Baptiste, 906
 Joseph, 906
 Tarantanta, Louis, 907
 Tareaepou, 907
 Tarihongo, Francois Xavier, 907
 Taroua, 907
 Tarpaulin, 907-908
 Tasitaharie, Henrie, 908
 Tasitayerie, Alexis, 908
 Tatooa, 908
 Tatouira, 908
 Tauriton, Thomas, 909
 Tawanarion, Michel, 909
 Tayapapa, 909
 Tayarouyokarari, Michel, 909
 Tayba, 909
 Tayentas, Joseph, 909-910
 Taylor
 George, 910
 Henry, 910
 James [b], 910
 James [a/b], 910
 James [d], 911
 James [e], 911
 James, 911
 John, 911-912
 Peter, 912
 Richard, 912
 Thomas, 912
 William, 912-913
 Tcharongwatie, Michel, 913

- Tchigt, Charles, 91, 93, 913
 Teaheererey, 913
 Tean, Isaac, 913
 Tecanarane, Michel, 914
 Tecanasogan, Pierre, 914
 Tecanatassin, Pierre, 914
 Tecanosegon, Joseph, 914
 Tecawatiron, Charles (Gros Charles), 914-915
 Teela, 915
 Tehongagarate, Joseph, 93, 915
 Tehotarachten, Jacques, 915-916
 Tellier
 George, 915-916
 Maxime, 916
 Tenetoresere, Francois Xavier, 916
 Tenonwatase, Thomas, 916
 Teonetaneka, Joseph, 916
 Teonsarakonta, Charles, 916
 Teouee, 917
 Teow, Isaac, 917
 Terepoena, 917
 Terry, Stephen, 917
 Tetreau, Louis, 917-918
 Tevanitagon
 Charles, 917-918
 Ignace, 918
 Pierre, 918
 Tewatcon, Thomas, 93, 918-919
 Tewhattohewnie, George, 75, 919
 Teyecaleyeeaoeye, Lazard, 919
 Teyoharate, Joachim, 919
 Theroux (Laferte), Olivier, 920
 Therrien, Pierre, 920
 Thestironsara, Pierre, 920
 Thew, William, 920-921
 Thibeault
 Francois, 921
 George, 921
 Isaac, 921
 Joachim, 88, 921
 Joseph, 922
 Thing, Joseph, 922
 Thirouac, Damase, 922
 Thomas
 Daniel [1], 922
 Daniel [2], 923
 Dr. William, 923
 John [1], 923
 John [2], 923
 William H. 923
 Thompson
 Andrew, 924
 Charles, 924
 David, 52-54, 59, 62, 64, 924
 Dixey Wildes, 925
 James [1], 925
 James [2], 925
 John [1], 925
 John [2], 925
 John [3], 109, 925-926
 John [4], 926
 Niels, 926
 Thorn, James, 926
 Thornburg, Mr., 926-927
 Thornhill, Thomas, 927
 Thorsen, Johannes, 927
 Tiainno, 927
 Tiaroniaksentenion, Joseph, 927
 Tibbets, Calvin, 90, 927-928
 Tiegne, Thomas, 928
 Timeoy [a], 928
 Timeoy [b], 928
 Timmer, John, 928
 Tobias, James, 929
 Tocagerunton, Joseph, 929
 Tod
 James, 929
 John, 113, 929-930
 Todd
 Robert, 930
 William, 930
 William Jr., 931
 Tohem, 931
 Toherongenghiton, Charles, 931
 Tohoeangta, Paul, 931
 Toi-o-foe, 931
 Tokatani, Michel, 932
 Tolloway, Robert R., 932
 Tolmie, William Fraser, 82, 86, 96, 103, 112, 113, 932-933, 1149, 1157-61
 Tolyah, John, 933
 Tom [1], 933
 Tom [2], 933
 Tomkins, James, 933
 Tommo, 934
 Tommy, 934
 Too, Toby, 934
 Tooa, 934
 Tooharamokoo, 934
 Toohareroa, 935
 Toopanche, 935
 Toovyooora, 935
 Topa, 935
 Toro, 935-936
 Toronheanenton, Jacques, 936
 Torstensen, Ole, 936
 Touai, 936
 Touin, Charles, 936-937, 1146-47
 Toupin, Jean, 937
 Touramano, 937
 Touranguash, Jacques, 937
 Tourawhyheine, 67, 938
 Tourgeon, Michel, 938
 Touron, Joseph, 938

Towai, 939
 Towello, 939
 Towhay, 939
 Townsend
 John Kirk, 939
 William, 939-940
 Trask, Elbridge, 940
 Traveller, Francis, 940
 Trembly
 Narcisse, 940
 Raphael, 940
 Trenchemontagne
 Francois M., 941
 Joseph, 941
 Trepagnier, Francois, 941
 Trivett, John Frederick, 941
 Trottier, Antoine, 942
 Trudeau, Felix, 942
 Trudelle
 Jean Baptiste, 942
 Louis, 942
 True, Alfred, 943
 Trueman, James, 943
 Truman, Nicholas, 943
 Trumbull, Guy, 943
 Tsoo, Tom, 943
 Tuaha, 944
 Tuana, Thomas, 944
 Tuarumaku, Jack, 944
 Tubb, George, 944
 Tucker, Nathaniel, 945
 Tulloch, Samuel, 945
 Tupy, 945
 Turcot, Pierre, 120, 945
 Turcotte, Jean Baptiste, 946
 Turgeon, Joseph, 946
 Turnbull, Charles, 946
 Turner, John, 946
 Tuwia, Jack, 946-947
 Tuzo, Henry, 947
 Tyah, 947
 Tye
 John [1], 947
 John [2], 947
 Tyeguariche, Jean Baptiste, 93, 947-948
 Tyler, William, 948
 Ula Ula, 948
 Ulderich, William, 948-949
 Umi Umi, 949
 Umpreville
 Canote, 949
 John, 949
 Pierre (Waccan), 949-950
 Underwood, Thomas, 950
 Uneau, Michel, 950
 Upahee, 950
 Upay, 950

Urno, Pierre, 950-951
 Urquhart, William, 951
 Ussagore, Ignace, 951
 Vagnier, Louis Joseph, 951
 Vallade, Rehene, 951
 Valle
 Andre, 951-952
 Antoine, 952
 Vallette, Joseph, 952
 Valois, Jean Baptiste, 952
 Van Dervere, Peter, 952-953
 Vandalle
 Louis [a], 953
 Louis [b], 953
 Vanderburgh, William Henry, 953
 Vanderhoof, Egbert, 954
 Varasen, Jens, 954
 Vasquez, Pierre Louis, 954
 Vassal
 Louis, 954
 Stanislas, 954-955
 Vaudry, Pierre, 955
 Vaughan, Edward, 955
 Vaureur, Onesemie, 955
 Vautrin
 Francois Xavier, 955-956
 Jean Baptiste, 111, 956
 Venn, John, 956
 Vennance, Maxim, 957
 Verboncaur, Amable, 957
 Vergel, Thomas, 957
 Versailles
 Baptiste, 957
 Pierre, 957
 Verstille, Peter, 958
 Viau, Olivier, 958
 Vielle, Andre, 958
 Villandrie
 Alexis, 958
 Pierre, 958
 Vincent
 Abraham, 959
 Joseph [1], 959
 Joseph [2], 959
 Vine, Edward, 959
 Vinette (Larente), Felix, 959
 Virgin, Thomas, 960
 Vital, Fabien, 960
 Vivet (Sanschagrin), Louis, 960
 Vivier, Olivier, 960
 Vizina, Simon, 960-961
 Voyer, Pierre, 961
 Waahela, 961
 Wade
 Thomas, 961
 William, 961
 Wadsworth, William, 962

Wagner, Peter, 962
 Waha, 962
 Wahaila, 963
 Wahaloola, 963
 Wahinahulu, 963
 Waiakanalooa, 963
 Waihaikia, 963
 Wain
 George, 963-964
 Henry, 964
 Walia, 964
 Walker
 Andrew, 964
 Courtney Meade, 964-965
 Donald, 965
 George, 965
 Joel P., 966
 Joseph Reddeford, 966
 William, 966
 Wall, Richard, 966
 Wallace
 Robert, 967
 William, 967
 Wallis
 Charles, 967
 Richard, 967
 Walls, William, 968
 Walsh, Thomas, 968
 Walter, Richard, 968
 Wang, Christian, 968
 Wany, Samuel H., 968
 Wapastooten, Murdoch, 969
 Wapping, John, 969
 Ward
 James, 969
 John, 969
 John [2], 969
 John C. [1], 969
 Luke, 970
 Thomas [1], 970
 Thomas [2], 970
 Wards, Henry, 970
 Wark, John McAdoo, 113, 970
 Washington, George, 971
 Wassantoolin, Murdoch, 971
 Watkins, John, 971
 Watson
 George [1], 972
 George [2], 972
 John, 972
 Wavicareea, 972
 Wavickareea, Robert, 972-973
 Webster, Robert, 973
 Weeks
 Henry, 973
 Stephen, 973-974
 Weinbourne, Robert, 974

Weller, Joseph, 974
 Wentzel, William, 974
 Westcott, Edward, 974
 Westthorp, Samuel, 974-975
 Weston, William [a], 975
 Weyland, James, 112, 975
 Weynton
 Alexander John, 975
 Stephenson, 975-976
 Wheaton, Edward, 976
 Wheeler, Josiah, 976
 Whitaker, Robert, 976
 Whitbread, John, 976
 White
 Alfred E., 976
 John [1], 977
 John [2], 977
 Mr., 977
 Thomas, 977
 William, 977
 Whiteway, James, 977-978
 Whitford, John, 978
 Whiting, James, 978
 Whitman
 Dr. Marcus, 89, 978, 1149
 Joseph, 979
 Whittier, Phineas, 979
 Whycanne, 979
 Wiappeoo, 979
 Wilkes, Lieutenant Charles, 979-980
 Wilkins, William, 980
 Wilkinson, James, 980
 Willey, John, 108, 980
 William, 980
 Williams
 Frederick, 980-981
 George, 981
 Henry, 981
 John [a], 981
 John [b], 981-982
 John [c], 982
 Richard, 982
 Robert, 982
 Thomas [1], 982-983
 Thomas [2], 983
 William (Old Bill) Sherley, 983
 Williamson
 David, 983
 James, 983
 Joseph, 983
 Robert, 983-984
 Willing, Augustin, 984
 Wilmot, John, 984
 Wilson
 Andrew, 984
 Charles, 984-985
 Edward, 985

- James, 985
- James [a], 985
- Robert [1], 985
- Robert [2], 985
- William, 986
- William [b], 986
- William [c1], 986
- William [c2], 986-987
- Winchcomb, Henry, 987
- Wishart
 - David Durham, 987
 - George, 112, 987
 - James, 988
- Woahoo, 988
- Wood
 - Harry, 988
 - Thomas, 988
 - William, 989
- Woodman, John, 989
- Woodworth, John, 989
- Work
 - John, 113, 116, 989-990
 - John Jr., 990
- Worth, John, 990
- Wright, Augustus, 990
- Wyeth, Nathaniel Jarvis, 87, 90, 990-991
- Yale, James Murray, 74, 77, 113, 120, 991-992
- Yates
 - James, 992
 - William, 992-993
- Yorke, George, 993
- Yorston, Magnus, 993
- Young
 - Ewing, 90, 993
 - Francis, 993
 - Robert, 994
- Zastre, Gonzaque, 994

Sources and Codes

Primary Archival Sources

Archival Sources: Full Entry

Code

Anglican Provincial Synod of British Columbia and Yukon Archives, Vancouver School of Theology, UBC, Vancouver, B. C.

AngProvS

Hills, Bishop George, Diary of...

Hills

Anglican Church Archives, Victoria, B. C.

AngCAVic

Anglican Church Mission Records of Fort Rupert

MissFtRup

Archives Canada, Ottawa, Ontario

ArCan

Correspondence, Foreign Office, 1899

Corres-1899

The Journal of John MacDonell, 1793-95, Masson Papers

MacDonnell

Ashcroft Museum

AshM

Ashcroft Journal

Ashcroft Journal

Bancroft Library, University of California, Berkley

CU-B

Anonymous, Logs of the Ships Atabualpa,

Atabualpa

Isabella

Isabella

brig Pedler

Pedler

John C. Jones Honolulu papers

Jones

Hancock, Samuel, Thirteen Years Residence on the Northwest Coast: Containing an Account of the Travels and Adventures Among the Indians, their Manners and Customs and their Treatment of Prisoners and also a Description of the Country, Whidbey Island, Washington Territory, February 17, 1860, (MS. P-B29)

Hancock

Log of the brig Inore and Journal Aboard the schooner Eagle, 1820-22

Inore/Eagle

Phelps, William Dane, "Solid men of Boston in the Northwest" (Ms. P-C 31)

Phelps

"Journal of the Hudson's Bay Company at Fort Simpson, 1834-37" (Ms P-C 23)

Ft. Simpson

Bishop Museum, Honolulu, HA

Bishop-Hon

The Royal Lineages of Hawaii

Royal

British Columbia Archives

BCA

British Columbia Church Records

BCCR

Christ Church Cathedral Records, Births, Marriages, Deaths, A834

CCCath

Ebenezer Methodist Church Records, Nanaimo, 1859-1881, E/D/H88

EbMCNan

Fort Simpson Wesleyan Mission, Fort Simpson & Northwest Coast, (Weslyan Methodist), Microfil Reel 31 A

FtSimpWM

Kincolith Anglican Indian Mission, Microfilm Reel 25A

Kincolith

Our Lady of Good Hope (Catholic), Fort St. James, Microfilm Reel 22A

OLofGH

Reformed Episcopal Church, BCA, H/I/C47

RefEC

St. Andrew's Cathedral, Victoria, Births, Marriages, Deaths, Microfilm Reel 1A

StAndC

St. Elizabeth Roman Catholic Marriages, Sydney, B. C.

StElizRC

Records of St. John the Divine Anglican Church, Derby, 1859-1900, Reel 25A

StJohDivDerb

St. John's Anglican Church, Victoria

StJohVic

Records of St. Joseph's Mission, William's Lake, Oblate House, Vancouver, B. C.

StJosMiss

St. Luke's Anglican Church, Cedar Hill

StLukCH

St. Mary's Church, Lillooet	StMarLill
St. Paul's Anglican Church Records, Esquimalt	StPaulEsqu
St. Paul's Anglican Church Records, Nanaimo	StPaulNan
St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church Records, Stuart's Lake	StPetStLk
St. Peter's Anglican Church Records, Cowichan	StPetCow
St. Steven's Anglican Church Records, Saanich	StStevSan
Edward White's Wesleyan Methodist Church marriage records, New Westminster Reel 118A	WesMeth
Saanich Mission (with St. Elizabeth's Roman Catholic Church) Sydney	SaanMiss
British Columbia Government Records	BCGR-
British Columbia Colonial Secretary, Pre-Confederation Marriage records, 1859-72	GR-3044
Colonial Secretary, Vancouver Island, Death Certificates in BCA, C/AA/30.1/1	Deaths
British Columbia Vital Statistics	BCVS
Registration of Births, Deaths and Marriages	RBDM
Vancouver Island Colonial Secretary; Marriage Licences Issued June 1, 1859- September 1, 1861, BCA C/AA/30.1/1	VICSMarriageL
Department of Lands and Works, Pre-emption records for the west coast land, 1861-1886, GR766, BCA, boxes 1-8;	Pre-emption
Court and Legal Records	CrtR-
Vancouver Island, Epitome of Land Sales, 26 Dec. 1854, C/AA/30.7.1,2	Land
Abstract of Land Sales...to March 31 st , 1860, I/171/1	AbstLnd
Vancouver Island, Police and Prisons Department, 1858-59, GR 848	Prisons
Att. General Inspector of Gaols, 1859-1914, GR0308	Gaols
Victoria County Court, Naturalization Papers, 1867, GR 1554	Naturalization
Minute Book of Inferior Court of Civil Justice, Summary Court, Vancouver Island, in BCA, C/AA/30.35 P/1	MBInfCrt
British Columbia, Miscellaneous Court Records 1851-1915, G38-86.81	Misc
Plaint Book of the Inferior of Summary Court, 1857-59, GR2716, vols. 1 & 2	PlaintBook
Police Register extracts	PoliceRE
School report of James Manion, teacher at Stuart's Lake, to C. C. McKenzie, Superintendent of Education, Stuart's Lake, Dec. 31, 1878, in BC Superintendent of Education, Inward Correspondence	Manion
Ross Bay Cemetery Records, 1871-1881	RossBayCem
Alfred Waddington's, Report on Schools , July 20, 1866	Schools1866
Newspapers
The Evening Express [1864]	Evening Express
The Evening Post	Evening Post
The Victoria Daily Times	Vic. Daily Times
The Victoria Gazette	Vic. Gazette
New Westminster Mainland Guardian , (vertical files, reel 2, #2358)	Guardian
Nanaimo Free Press	Nanaimo Free
Additional Manuscripts (extensive)	ADD MSS
Yale Family letters 182	YFL
Ship's Records, Correspondence, etc.	Log of--
McNeill, William H., "Journal of a Voyage to the N. W. Coast of North America kept on Board Brig Convoy ... April 1, 1825-Oct. 18, 1825" (Ms AB20.5 C762)	Convoy
List of Passengers from England on Barque Harpooner , 1849 A/B/20/54H	Harpooner
Anonymous, "Journal of a Voyage kept on Brig Lama ...1830-32"	Lama 1
McNeill, William H., "Journal of a Voyage kept onboard the Honourable Hudson's Bay Brig Lama during the years 1832, 1833" (Ms AB20.5 L16j)	Lama 2
McNeill, William H., Journal of a Voyage kept onboard Brig Lama ..." (Ms AB20.5 c76)	Lama 3
Bishop, Charles, "Commercial Journal. Copies of letters and accts of Ship Ruby 's Voyage to NW Coast of America and China, 1794.5.6"	Ruby
Underwood, Ebenezer, "Journal on board Brig Tally Ho " (MS AB20.5 C76.2)	Tally Ho

Affidavit on loss of Vancouver, AC20.5/V27m

Vancouver [4]

Post Journals, Accounts, Correspondence

List of Servants on Beaver, at Forts McLoughlin, Nisqually, Simpson, Southern Party, Snake Country, Stikine, Taku, Langley

[1839] A/B/20/v

Fort Alexandria, Papers relating to

[1850-51] A/C/20/A12

Babine Lake, Men's Orders

[1833, 1834 & 1838] A/B/20/B 11.3

Fort Chilcotin, HBCA compiled research notes

MM C43

Fort Langley Servants

[1856] A/C/20/L/26 (Servants, June 10, 1856)

[1847-58] A/b/20/L3YK/A (Correspondence Inward)

Fort Lanley Post Journal

June 27, 1827 to July 30, 1830

Nanaimo Journal (J. W. McKay's Journal)

[1855-57] A/C.20.1/N15.2

Nanaimo Correspondence, James Douglas-Joseph McKay

1853-53, A/C/20.1/N15 (original in Nanaimo Community Archives)

New Caledonia Post Accounts

[1828-31] A/B/20/N42

Fort Rupert Correspondence Book

[1859-63] A/B.20/R2

Fort St. James Accounts and Private Orders of People attached to H.B.C. Post, 1838-48, A/B/20/St.9.1

Fort Simpson Post Journal

[1859-62] A/C/20/S

Thompson River Journal

[1841-43] A/B/20/K12A

[1859-71] A/B/20/R2 (Correspondence)

Fort Vancouver Correspondence, July 13, 1840-May 24, 1841

[1840-41] A/B.20/V

Fort Victoria Account Book,

1853-58 BCA A/C 15 H86

Puget Sound Agricultural Co., Claims of Employees at Fort Nisqually, A/B/25/1

Report of the Agents of PSAC AGM, Dec. 26, 1856, A.E/M19/B45

John Work's Journal of a Voyage from Fort George to the Northward, Winter 1824

A/B/40 W89.2

Anonymous, "Directions for entering the Principal Harbours on the North West Coast of America, by different Commanders. (Ms AB20.5 C76)

Diaries, Reminiscences, HBC Contracts

Allard, Jason, Notes, 1928, E/E. A 1 52

Anderson, Alexander Caulfield "History of the Northwest Coast",

Victoria, B.C., 1878 (from the copy in the Academy of Pacific Coast History, University of California, Berkeley, California)

Anderson, James Robert, "Notes and Comments on Early Days and Events in British Columbia, Washington and Oregon," 1925, p. 230,

Add. Ms., 1912, Box 9/18

Francois Noel Annance's letter of March 20, 1832, to Lord Aylmer,

Governor General of Canada, E.A.An.7

William Beinston's Nov. 22, 1850 contract, written by HBC Stromness Agent,

PJ

1839 List

1

FtAlex

1

FtBab

1

FtChil

1

FtLanS

1

2

FtLanPJ

1

NanJ

1

NanCorr

1

NCPA

1

FtRupCP

1

FtStJmsA

1

FtSimp[N]PJ

1

FtKamPJ

1

2

FtVanCB

1

FtVicAB

1

PSACFtNis

PSACReport

Work 1824

1

Directions

Diar-Rem

Allard

Anderson

AndersonJR

Annance

Beinston

Edward Clouston, BCA A.E.M19/P96.1
George Bond's HBC contract of Oct. 24, 1850, A.E.M19/P96.1	Bond
Boss, Martha Washington (O'Neill), "A Tale of Northern B.C. from Cariboo to Cassiar," Add M 771	Boss
Compton, P. N., "Forts and Fort Life in New Caledonia under Hudson's Bay Company Regime," unpublished manuscript	Compton
Cook, William, Reminiscences E/B/C782	Cook
Cooper, James, "Maritime Matters on the Northwest Coast and Affairs of the Hudson's Bay Company in Early Times" (original manuscript in Bancroft Library) photocopy in Archives of British Columbia	Cooper
Finlayson, Roderick, "Biography of Roderick Finlayson", A/B/30/F49A	Finlayson1
Finlayson, Roderick, "History of Vancouver Island and the Northwest Coast," A/B/30 F.491	Finlayson2
Firth, Robert, 1865-66	Firth
Grant, James Andrew, "An Unsung Pioneer: Life and Letters of James Murray Yale and his 30 years at Fort Langley," BCA, Add. Ms. 182, pt. 3	Grant
Hawkins, George notes by Mary Dean on Hawkins family, E/E/D34	Hawkins
Helmcken, John S., Letters from Fort Rupert, C/A/a/40.3/R3	Helmcken
Horne, Adam Grant, Diary, 1854-55, 1856 E/B/H18A, 1854-56	Horne 1
Horne, Adam Grant, Diary, 1859 E/B/H78A 1859	Horne 2
Huggins, Edward, July 14, 1905 Fort Nisqually letter to John W. Tolmie, E/D/H88	Huggins
Jayness, V. E., "John and Jane Flett, Early Settling of Vancouver Island", (1986 draft), Wellington, New Zealand, manuscript copy	Flett
Lewis, Herbert George, Notes, E/B/C 58.2	Lewis
Lidgate, Duncan, HBC contract of May 3, 1852, A.E.M19/P96.1	Lidgate
Lowe, Thomas, Private Journal kept at Fort Vancouver, 1843-50, E/F/L 95A	Lowe 1
Lowe, Thomas Journal of a Voyage from Vancouver to Walla Walla and back, 1849Lowe 2 -50
Lowe, Thomas, Journal of a trip from Vancouver to York Factory, ...Hudson Bay Express, BCA A/B/20.4/L95	Lowe 3
Kenneth McKenzie Papers, A.E/M19/--	McKenzie
"List of men, woman and children engaged to go to Vancouver's Island with Mr. McKenzie, A 1852", McKenzie, daybook, 1867-68	McKenList
Margary, Herbert W. O., HBC/PSAC contract of Sept. 16, 1854, A.E/M19/M33.9 Margary
Melrose, Robert Diary	Melrose 1
Melrose, Robert, HBC contract of May 24, 1852, A.E.M19/P96.1	Melrose 2
Moar, John Spenser Logan, HBC contract of Nov. 11, 1850, A.E.M19/P96.1	Moar
Morison, Charles Frederic, Reminiscences of the Early Days of British Columbia 1862-1876	Morison
Muir, Andrew, private diary, E/B/M91A	Muir
Pearse, B. W., Reminiscences, Dec. 7, 1900, Meeting, Historical Society, "Early Settlement of Vancouver Island"	Pearse
a handwritten playbill for production of Richard Sheridan's "The Rivals", January 14, 1857 (S/C/AM1)	playbill
Roberts, G. B., "Recollections" 1878, (transcript) manuscript in the Bancroft Library	Roberts
Robertson, Samuel, Diary, 204A	Robertson
Stockand, William, HBC contract of July 26, 1852, BCA A.E.M19/P96.1	Stockand
Tod, John, "History of New Caledonia & the Northwest Coast", transcript	Tod
Yale, James Murray, "An Unsung Pioneer: Life and Letters of James Murray Yale and his 30 years at Fort Langley," p. 128, typescript of James Andrew Grant, Add. Ms. 182, pt. 3;	Yale
Yates, William, manuscript autobiographical notes, BCA E/E/Y2	Yates

British Library, London

Hargrave Correspondence, (Add MSS 494)

BL

Hargrave

California Historical Society, San Francisco

Anonymous, "Journal of a Voyage in the Brig Owhyhee from Oahu to & from the Northwest Coast," Ms 091 J8

CHS

Owhyhee

Canadian National Archives, Ottawa, Ontario

Correspondence, Foreign Office, 1899

CNA

Corres-1899

Canadian National Archives, Burnaby, B. C.

Penitentiary
404 Victoria Consular

NAC-RD

Penitentiary
Consular

Dauphin County Historical Society, Harrisburg, PA

John Walter's Journal of the Pedlar, 1819-1822 ("Boswain on board the Brig Pedlar Capt John Meek on Voiage to the North West coast of Amarica and round the World")

DCHS

Pedlar

Harvard Business School, Baker Library, Boston, MA

Anonymous, etc., Astor Papers, (Ms 766)
Boardman Letterbook (Ms 766)
Bryant and Sturgis Papers (Ms 766)
Captain Cunningham's Oct. 6, 1801 Kyganee letter to J. & T. H. Perkins
Hunnewell Papers (Ms 733)
Perkins Letterbooks (Ms 766)
Perkins and Company and Russel and Company Papers (Ms 766)

HBS-Bak

Astor
Boardman
Bryant & St.
Cunningham
Hunnewell
Perkins 1
Perkins 2

Harvard University Library, Houghton Library, Cambridge, MA

Lamb, Horatio Appleton, "Notes on Trade with the Northwest Coast, 1790-1810," (Ms AMW 65)
Marshall Manuscript (Ms AMW 63f)
Josiah Marshall Letterbook

HU-HL

Notes

Marshall

JmarshallLB

Harvard University Library, Widener Library, Cambridge, MA

Columbian Centinel newspaper, 1790-1825

HU-Wid

ColCent

Hawaiian Historical Society, Honolulu, HA

The Friend, a Monthly Journal Devoted to Temperance, Seamen, Marine and General Intelligence, Published and Edited by Samuel C. Damon, Seamen's Chaplain, Honolulu, Oahu, 1844-

HHS

Friend

Mission Homes Cemetery Records, Honolulu

Sandwich Island Gazette & Journal of Commerce

The Temperance Advocate and Seaman's Friend, Honolulu, Jan. – Dec. 1843

Mission

SandwichIs

Temperance

Hawaiian Mission Children's Society Library, Honolulu, HA

Captain Stephen Reynolds Journal, November 1823- August 1855 (transcript, original in Peabody Museum of Salem, MA)

HMCS

SReynoldsJ

Hawaii State Archives, Honolulu, HA

Alexander Adams Journal, 1814-1846

Bruce Cartwright Collection

Biographical Information about "Haole Families"

Historical Genealogical Notes

HSA

Adams

Cartwright 1

Cartwright 2

Memo presenting a theory about the Disappearance of Capt. John Dominis (A May 28, 1917 submission by Hon. C. P. Iaukea, Ex-Queen's Secretary), 401/2/17, #208	Dominis
List of British Subjects (c.1856-58) Pacific Commercial Advertiser Daily , Honolulu	List PacificCA

Hudson's Bay Company Archives

HBCA

North West Company Miscellaneous Accounts, 1808-27, F.4/61	NWCMA
North West Company Account Books	NWCAB
[1815-17] F.4/7 (Crew of the Columbia , etc.)	1
[1817-18] F.4/10	2
[1818-19] F.4/14	3
[1818-19] F.4/15	4
[1815-17] F.4/17 (Crew of the Columbia , etc.)	5
[1811-21] F.4/32	5a
[1820] F.4/33	6
[1817-21] F.4/34	7
[1820-21] F.4/45	8
[1821] F.4/46 (List of NWC 1821 Transfers to HBC)	9
[1813-14] F.4/61 (List of People on the Columbia for Winter 1813-14 and list of clerks and men from the former Pacific Fur Co., Oct. 18, 1813)	10

York Factory Abstracts of Servants' Accounts [1821-1854]	YFASA
[1821-22] B.239/g/1	1
[1822-23] B.239/g/2	2
[1823-24] B.239/g/3	3
[1824-25] B.239/g/4	4
[1825-26] B.239/g/5	5
[1826-27] B.239/g/6	6
[1827-28] B.239/g/7	7
[1828-29] B.239/g/8	8
[1829-30] B.239/g/9	9
[1830-31] B.239/g/10	10
[1831-32] B.239/g/11	11
[1832-33] B.239/g/12	12
[1833-34] B.239/g/13	13
[1834-35] B.239/g/14	14
[1835-36] B.239/g/15	15
[1836-37] B.239/g/16	16
[1837-38] B.239/g/17	17
[1838-39] B.239/g/18	18
[1839-40] B.239/g/19	19
[1840-41] B.239/g/20	20
[1841-42] B.239/g/21	21
[1842-43] B.239/g/22	22
[1843-44] B.239/g/23	23
[1844-45] B.239/g/24	24
[1845-46] B.239/g/25	25
[1846-47] B.239/g/26	26
[1847-48] B.239/g/27	27
[1848-49] B.239/g/28	28
[1849-50] B.239/g/29	29
[1850-51] B.239/g/30	30

[1851-52] B.239/g/31	31
[1852-53] B.239/g/32	32
[1853-54] B.239/g/33	33
York Factory District Statements	YFDS
[1823-24] B.239/1/1a	1a
[1825-26] B.239/1/1b	1b
[1826-27] B.239/1/2	2a
[1827-28] B.239/1/2	2b
[1828-29] B.239/1/3	3a
[1829-30] B.239/1/3	3b
[1830-31] B.239/1/4	4a
[1831-32] B.239/1/4	4b
[1832-33] B.239/1/5	5a
[1833-34] B.239/1/5	5b
[1834-35] B.239/1/5	5c
[1835-36] B.239/1/6	6
[1836-37] B.239/1/7	7
[1837-38] B.239/1/8	8
[1838-39] B.239/1/9	9
[1839-40] B.239/1/10	10
[1840-41] B.239/1/11	11
[1841-42] B.239/1/12	12
[1842-43] B.239/1/13	13
[1843-44] B.239/1/14	14
[1844-45] B.239/1/15	15
[1845-46] B.239/1/16	16
[1846-47] B.239/1/17	17
[1847-48] B.239/1/18	18
[1848-49] B.239/1/19	19
[1849-50] B.239/1/20	20
[1850-51] B.239/1/21	21
[1851-52] B.239/1/22	22
[1852-53] B.239/1/23	23
HBC Servants' Contracts [1820-1925] A.32/18-A.32/60 (A-Z)	HBCCont
HBCA Compiled biographies of officers and servants	HBCABio
Commissioned Officers' Indentures and Agreements	COI&A
Officers and Servants' Wills A.36/3	Wills
Simpson's Character Book A.34/2, fo. 55 (see also HBRS XXX, p. 167-236)	SimpsonCB
Fort Alexandria [New Caledonia]	FtAlex
Fort Alexandria Post Journals [1824-67]	FtAlexPJ
[1824-25] B.5/a/1	1
[1827-28] B.5/a/2	2
[1833-34] B.5/a/3	3
[1837-39] B.5/a/4	4
[1842-43] B.5/a/5	5
[1843-45] B.5/a/6	6
[1845-48] B.5/a/7	7
[1848-51] B.5/a/8	8
[1851-55] B.5/a/9	9
[1858-64] B.5/a/10	10
[1864-67] B.5/a/11	11

Fort Alexandria Correspondence Books [1860-67]	FtAlexCB
[1860-65] B.5/b/1	1
[1865-67] B.5/b/2	2
Fort Alexandria Account Books [1829-65]	FtAlexAB
[1829-32] B.5/d/1	1
[1864-65] B.5/d/2	2
Fort Alexandria District Report [1827-28] (Joseph McGillivray's Report)	FtAlexDR
[1827-28] B.5/e/1	1
(also see MI 1)
Fort Alexandria Miscellaneous Items	FtAlexM
[1845] B.5/z/1	1
Fort Babine	FtBab
Fort Babine Post Journals [1822-25]	FtBabPJ
[1822-23] B.11/a/1	1
[1823] B.11/a/2	2
[1825] B.11/a/3	3
[1852] B.11/a/4	4
Fort Babine Correspondence [1825-42]	FtBabCorr
[1825-26] B.11/b/1 (outward)	1
[1842] B.11/c/1 (inward)	2
Reports on Districts [1822-1900]	3
Belle Vue Sheep Farm
Belle Vue Sheep Farm Post Journals [1854-60]	BelleVuePJ
[1854-55] B.15/a/1	1
[1858-62] B.15/a/2	2
Belle Vue Sheep Farm Account Book [1853-58]	BelleVueAB
[1853-58] B.15/d/1	1
Fort Colville	FtCol
Fort Colville Post Journal [1830-31]	FtColPJ
[1830-31] B.45/a/1	1
Fort Colville Correspondence Inward	FtColC
[1826-50] B.45/c/1	1
Fort Colville Reports on Districts [1827-30]	FtColRD
[1827-28] B.45/e/1	1
[1828-29] B.45/e/2	2
[1829-30] B.45/e/3	3
Fort Colville Miscellaneous Items	FtColMis
[1828-56] B.4/z/1	1
Cowlitz Farm	CowF
Cowlitz Farm Account Books	CowFAB
[1840] B.47/d/1	1
Cowlitz Farm Miscellaneous Items	CowFMI
[1842] B.47/z/1	1
Flathead Post	FlatP
Flathead Post Journal [1824-25]	FlatPPJ
[1824-25] B.69/a/1	1
Flathead Post Report on District [1824-25]	FlatPRD
[1824-25] B.69/e/1	1

Fraser Lake Fraser Lake Post Journal [1822-24] [1822-24] B.74/a/1	FtFras FtFrasPJ 1
Fort George [Columbia River/Astoria] Fort George [Columbia River/Astoria] Account Books [1821-25] [1821] B.76/d/1 [1821] B.76/d/2 [1820-22] B.76/d/3 [1820-22] B.76/d/4 [1821-22] B.76/d/5 [1821-22] B.76/d/6 [1821-22] B.76/d/7 [1821-22] B.76/d/8a [1821-22] B.76/d/8b [1822] B.76/d/9 [1822-23] B.76/d/10 [1823-24] B.76/d/11 [1824-25] B.76/d/12	FtGeo[Ast] FtGeo[Ast]AB 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8a 8b 9 10 11 12
A Journal of a Voyage from Fort George Columbia River to Fraser River in the winter of 1824 and 1825 by Francis N. Annance [1824-25] B/76/a	Annance
Fort George [Fraser River/New Caledonia] (no surviving records before 1858)	FtGeo[NC]
Fort Kamloops (Thompson River) Fort Kamloops Post Journals [1822-46] [1822-23] B.97/a/1 [1826-27] B.97/a/2 [1846] B.97/a/3	FtKam FtKamPJ 1 2 3
Fort Langley Fort Langley Post Journals [1827-30] [1827-28] B.113/a/1 [1828-29] B.113/a/2 [1829-30] B.113/a/3 Fort Langley Correspondence Book [1830-1844] [1830] B.113/b/1 (outward) [1844-70] B.113/c/1 (inward) Fort Langley Miscellaneous Items [1830-58] [1830-58] B.113/z/1	FtLang FtLangPJ 1 2 3 FtLangCB 1 2 FtLangMI 1
McLeod Lake McLeod Lake Post Journals [1823-1911] [1823-24] B.119/a/1 [1824] B.119/a/2 [1823-24] B.119/a/3 [1824] B.119/a/4 McLeod Lake Correspondence Book [1823-24] [1823-24] B.119/b/1 McLeod Lake Report on District [1824] [1824] B.119/e/1	McLLk McLLkPJ 1 2 3 4 McLLkCB 1 McLLkRD

Fort McLoughlin	FtMcLou
Fort McLoughlin Post Journal, Extracts from Diary [1833]	FtMcLouPJ
[1833] B.120/a/1	1
Fort McLoughlin District Report [1834]	FtMcLouDR
[1834] B.120/e/1	1
Fort Nez Perces	FtNP
Fort Nez Perces Post Journals [1831-32]	FtNPPJ
[1831] B.146/a/1	1
[1832-32] B.146/a/2	2
Fort Nez Perces Correspondence [1827-29] (Inward)	FtNPC
[1827-29] B.146/c/1	1
Fort Nez Perces Reports on District [1827]	FtNPRD
B.146/e/1	1
B.146/e/2 (Report to Queries on Natural History)	2
Fort Nisqually	FtNis
Fort Nisqually Correspondence [1850-55] (outward)	FtNisCBout
[1850-52] B.151/b/1	1
[1852-54] B.151/b/2	2
[1854-55] B.151/b/3	3
Fort Nisqually Correspondence [1842-59] (inward)	FtNisCBin
[1842-62] B.151/c/1	1
[1857-59] B.226/b/30	30
(1833-87 Post Records, Huntington Library, San Marino, Calif.; copies in Seattle; also see Dickie [1989])
Fort Okanagan
(see FtSpokRD 1)
Puget Sound Agricultural Company	PSAC
Puget Sound Agricultural Company Correspondence Book	PSACCB
[1839-1856] F.11/1 (correspondence outward)	1
[1843-53] F.12/2 (correspondence inward)	2
Puget Sound Agricultural Company Account Books	PSACAB
[1844-45] F.15/8	8
[1844-46] F.15/9	9
[1845-47] F.15/10	10
[1847-48] F.15/11	11
[1847-48] F.15/12	12
[1848-49] F.15/13	13
[1848-50] F.15/14	14
[1849-51] F.15/15	15
[1850-52] F.15/16	16
[1850-52] F.15/17	17
[1850-53] F.15/18	18
[1851-53] F.15/19	19
[1851-53] F.15/20	20
[1853-54] F.15/21	21
[1853-54] F.15/22a	22a
[1854-55] F.15/22b	22b
[1851-58] F.15/23	23
[1856-58] F.15/24	24
[1857-58] F.15/25	25

[1857-58] F.15/26	26
[1857-58] F.15/27	27
[1858-60] F.15/28	28
[1839-61] F.15/29	29
[1859-61] F.15/30	30
[1842-69] F.15/31	31
[1867-74] F.15/32	32
[1868-1909] F.15/36	36
Puget's Sound Agricultural Company Miscellaneous Accounts	PSACAB
[1840-55] F.15/37	37
[1855-59] F.15/38	38
[1855-70] F.15/39	39
PSAC Register Book of Wills and Administrations of Proprietors	PSACWills
[1842-1942] F.21/1	1
[1848-1906] F.21/2	2
PSAC – Evidence on behalf of PSAC given before British and American Joint Commission for Settlement of Claims	PSACJCom
[1846-1869] F.24/2	2
Puget's Sound Agricultural Company Maps and Plans	PSACMaps
[1843-1910] F.25/1	1
Puget's Sound Agricultural Company Miscellaneous Papers	PSACMisc
[1840-1910] F.26/1	1
Fort Rupert	FtRup
Fort Rupert Post Journal	FtRupPJ
[1849-50] B.185.a/1	1
For Rupert Miscellaneous [1852]	FtRupM
Fort St. James	FtStJms
Fort St. James Post Journals [1820-56]	Ft StJmsPJ
[1820-21] B.188/a/1	1
[1823-24] B.188/a/2	2
[1824-25] B.188/a/3	3
[1824-25] B.188/a/4	4
[1825-26] B.188/a/5	5
...
[1827-29] B.188/a/15	15
[1830-32] B.188/a/16	16
[1831-32] B.188/a/17	17
...
[1846-51] B.188/a/20	20
[1851-56] B.188/a/21	21
Fort St. James Reports on District [1822-1900]	FtStJmsRD
[1822-23] B.188/e/1	1
[undated] B.188/e/2	2
[1824-25] B.188/e/3	3
[1826-27] B.188/e/4	4
[1834] B.188/e/5	5
Fort St. James List of Servants	FtStJmsLS
[1824-25] B.188/f/1	1
Fort St. James Correspondence [1821-68]	FtStJmsCB
[1826-27] B.188/b/5	5
[1828-29] B.188/b/6	6
[1829-30] B.188/b/7	7

[1829-30] B.188/b/8	8
[1833] B.188/b/9	9
Fort St. James Account Books [1821-37]	FtStJmsAB
[1821-22] B.188/d/1	1
[1822-23] B.188/d/2	2
[1823-24] B.188/d/3	3
[1824-25] B.188/d/4	4
[1825-26] B.188/d/5	5
[1826-27] B.188/d/6	6
[1827-28] B.188/d/7	7
[1828-29] B.188/d/8	8
[1829-30] B.188/d/9	9
[1830-31] B.188/d/10	10
[1831-32] B.188/d/11	11
[1832-33] B.188/d/12	12
[1833-34] B.188/d/13	13
[1834-35] B.188/d/14	14
[1835-37] B.188/d/15	15
Fort St. James Miscellaneous [1825-67]	FtStJmsM
[1825-76] B.188/z/1	1
Fort St. John	FtStJohn
Fort St. John Correspondence Book	FtStJohnCB
[1821] B.188.b.1	1
Fort Simpson [Nass]	FtSimp[N]
Fort Simpson Post Journals [1832-66]	FtSimp[N]PJ
[1834-38] B.201/a/3	3
[1838-40] B.201/a/4	4
[1840] B.201/a/5	5
[1841-42] B.201/a/6	6
[1852-53] B.201/a/7	7
[1855-59] B.201/a/8	8
(for 1859-62 see BCA FtSimp[N]PJ 1)
[1863-66] B.201/a/9	9
Fort Simpson Correspondence Inward	FtSimpC
[1841-1900] B.201/c/1	1
Fort Simpson Miscellaneous	FtSimpM
[1831-1926] B.201/z/1	1
Snake Country	SnkCo
Snake Country Post Journal [1824-32]	SnkCoPJ
[1824] B.202/a/1 (Ross' Snake Country Journal)	1
[1824-25] B.202/a/2 (Ogden's Snake Country Journal)	2
[1824-25] B.202/a/3a (Kittson's Snake Country Journal)	3
[1825-26] B.202/a/4 (Ogden's Snake Country Journal)	4
[1826-27] B.202/a/6 (Ogden's Snake Country Journal)	6
[1827-28] B.202/a/7 (Ogden's Snake Country Journal)	7
[1828-29] B.202/a/8 (Ogden's Snake Country Journal)	8
[1830-31] B.202/a/9 (Work's Snake Country Journal)	9
[1830-31] B.202/a/10 (Work's Snake Country Journal)	10
[1831-32] B.202/a/11 (Work's Snake Country Journal)	11
Snake Country Reports on District	SnkCoRD
[1823-24] B.202/e/1	1

[1825-26] B.202/e/2	2
Southern Expeditions [1826-28] (see FtVanPJ 1, 4)
Fort Spokane	FtSpok
Fort Spokane Post Journal [1822-23] [1822-23] B.208/a/1	FtSpokPJ 1
Fort Spokane Report on District [1822-23] [1822-23] B.208/e/1 (Alexander Kennedy's Report) [1825-26] B.208/e/2	FtSpokRD 1 2
Fort Stikine	FtStik
Fort Stikine Post Journals [1840-42] [1840] B.209/a/1 [1841] B.209/a/2 [1842] B.209/a/3	FtStikPJ 1 2 3
Sandwich Islands	SandIs
Sandwich Islands Account Books	SandIsAB
[1836-37] B.191/d/1 (George Pelly's Woahoo Accounts)	1
[1838-39] B.191/d/2 (Sandwich Islands Account Book)	2
[1844-45] B.191/d/3 (Sandwich Islands Account Book)	3
[1844-45] B.191/d/4 (Sandwich Islands Account Book)	4
[1845-46] B.191/d/5 (Sandwich Islands Account Book)	5
[1846-47] B.191/d/6 (Sandwich Islands Account Book)	6
[1847-48] B.191/d/7 (Sandwich Islands Account Book)	7
[1847-48] B.191/d/8 (Sandwich Islands Account Book)	8
[1848-49] B.191/d/9 (Sandwich Islands Account Book)	9
[1849-50] B.191/d/10 (Sandwich Islands Account Book)	10
[1850-51] B.191/d/11 (Sandwich Islands Account Book)	11
[1852-53] B.191/d/12 (Sandwich Islands Account Book)	12
Report on District [1860] [1860] B.191/e/1	SandIsRD 1
Sandwich Islands Miscellaneous Items	SandIsM
[1834-67] B.191/z/1	1
Sandwich Islands Correspondence Inward	SandIsCI
[1844-61] B.191/c/1	1
Sandwich Islands London Inward Correspondence	SandIsLonIC
[1835-40] A.11/61	1
[1843-52] A.11/62	2
[1853-61] A.11/63	3
Fort Vancouver [Columbia]	FtVan
Fort Vancouver "Post Journals" [1825-28]	FtVanPJ
[1825] B.223/a/1 (Alexander Mckenzie's William & Ann journal Mar. 28-Sept. 4, 1825)	1
[1826] B.223/a/2 (A. R. McLeod's journal south of Columbia May 5-August 17, 1826)	2
[1826] B.223/a/3 (Aemilius Simpson's journal overland from York Factory to Fort Vancouver, July 14-November 2, 1826)	3
[1826-27] B.223/a/4 (Alexander Roderick McLeod's South Expedition to the Umpqua, Sept. 15, 1826-March 13, 1827)	4

[1828] B.223/a/5 (incomplete A. R. McLeod's South Expedition journal to recover J. Smith's goods, Sept. 6, 1828-Oct. 16, 1828)	5
[1828] B.223/a/6 (incomplete A. R. McLeod's South Expedition Journal to recover J. Smith's goods, Sept. 6-Nov. 10, 1828)	6
[1828] B.223/a/7 (George B. Roberts Thermometrical Register, Jan. 1-Dec. 31, 1838]	7
Fort Vancouver Account Books	FtVanAB
[1825] B.223/d/1 (Equipment book, Summer 1825)	1
[1825-26] B.223/d/2a (Officers & Men's accounts)	2a
[1826] B.223/d/2b (Inventory of Forts Vancouver, Nez Perces, Thompson's River, Spokane)	2b
[1826] B.223/d/4 (Men's advances at York Factory, summer 1826)	4
[1826-27] B.223/d/5 (Inventory, library books)	5
[1827] B.223/d/8 (Goods from William & Ann, Cadboro)	8
[1827-28] B.223/d/10	10
[1826-28] B.223/d/12 (Seamen's Accounts)	12
[1828] B.223/d/15 (Servants' Advances at York Factory, Summer 1828)	15
[1828] B.223/d/16 (Invoice of Furs Shipped at Fort Vancouver, 1828)	16
[1828-29] B.223/d/18 (Columbia District Returns, Outfit 1828)	18
[1828-29] B.223/d/19	19
[1828-30] B.223/d/21b (Sales to trappers)	21b
[1829] B.223/d/23 (Transfers, sales, etc.)	23
[1830] B.223/d/26 (Columbia & Montreal Goers and Comers' Advances at York Factory, summer 1830)	26
[1830] B.223/d/28	28
[1830] B.223/d/31 (Goods from Isabella, Eagle, Dryad , Captains' purchases)	31
[1830] B.223/d/32a (Goods supplied to Wm. Johnson in service of David Douglas)	32a
[1831] B.223/d/34 (Fort Van. Transfers, David Douglas' account)	34
Fort Vancouver [Columbia] Abstracts of Servants' Accounts	FtVanASA
[1827-28] B.223/g/1	1
[1830-31] B.223/g/2	2
[1836-37] B.223/g/3	3
[1837-38] B.223/g/4	4
[1838-39] B.223/g/5	5
[1841-42] B.223/g/6	6
[1842-43] B.223/g/7	7
[1843-44] B.223/g/8	8
[1853-54] B.223/g/9	9
[1854-55] B.223/g/10	10
[1855-56] B.223/g/11	11
[1856-57] B.223/g/12	12
[1857-58] B.223/g/13	13
[1858-59] B.223/g/14	14
[1859-60] B.223/g/15	15
[1860-61] B.223/g/16	16
[1861-62] B.223/g/17	17
Fort Vancouver [Columbia] Correspondence Book [1825-]	FtVanCB
[1825] B.223/b/1	1
[1826] B.223/b/2	2
[1827-28] B.223/b/3	3
[1828-29] B.223/b/4	4
[1829-30] B.223/b/5	5
[1830] B.223/b/6	6

[1831-32] B.223/b/7	7
[1832-33] B.223/b/8	8
[1833-34] B.223/b/9	9
[1834-35] B.223/b/10	10
[1834-36] B.223/b/11	11
[1836] B.223/b/12	12
[1836] B.223/b/13	13
[1836] B.223/b/14	14
[1836-37] B.223/b/15	15
[1836-37] B.223/b/16	16
[1837] B.223/b/17	17
[1837-38] B.223/b/18	18
[1837-38] B.223/b/19	19
[1838] B.223/b/20	20
[1838] B.223/b/21	21
[1838-39] B.223/b/22	22
[1839] B.223/b/23	23
[1839-40] B.223/b/24	24
[1840] B.223/b/25	25
[1840] B.223/b/26	26
[1840-41] B.223/b/27	27
[1840-41] B.223/b/28	28
[1842-43] B.223/b/29	29
[1842-43] B.223/b/30	30
[1843-44] B.223/b/31	31
[1844-45] B.223/b/32	32
[1845-47] B.223/b/33	33
[1846] B.223/b/34	34
[1845-47] B.223/b/35	35
[1847] B.223/b/36	36
[1848] B.223/b/37	37
[1847-49] B.223/b/38	38
[1850-52] B.223/b/39	39
[1852-53] B.223/b/40	40
[1853-57] B.223/b/41	41
[1852-60] B.223/b/42	42
[1850-53] B.223/b/43	43
Vancouver Island Coal Mining Company, Ltd., (Nanaimo) – Correspondence Deeds and Agreements, etc.	VICMC
[1861-1900] F.33.1	1
Vancouver Island Steam Sawmill Company – Correspondence, etc.	VISSC
[1852-56] F.32/1	1
Fort Victoria [V. I.]	FtVic
Fort Victoria Account Books	FtVicAB
[1850] B.226/d/1	1
[1852] B.226/d/2	2
[1846-53] B.226/d/3a	3a
[1852] B.226/d/4	4
[1862-64] B.226/d/5	5
[1874] B.226/d/6	6
Fort Victoria [V.I.] Abstracts of Servants' Accounts	FtVicASA

[1853-54] B.226/g/1	1
[1854-55] B.226/g/2	2
[1855-56] B.226/g/3	3
[1856-57] B.226/g/4	4
[1857-58] B.226/g/5	5
[1858-59] B.226/g/6	6
[1859-60] B.226/g/7	7
[1860-61] B.226/g/8	8
[1861-62] B.226/g/9	9
[1862-63] B.226/g/10	10
[1864-64] B.226/g/11	11
[1864-65] B.226/g/12	12
[1865-66] B.226/g/13	13
[1866-67] B.226/g/14	14
[1867-68] B.226/g/15	15
[1868-69] B.226/g/16	16
[1869-70] B.226/g/17	17
[1870-71] B.226/g/18	18
[1871-72] B.226/g/19	19
[1872-73] B.226/g/20	20
[1873-74] B.226/g/21	21
[1874-75] B.226/g/22	22
[1875-76] B.226/g/23	23
[1876-77] B.226/g/24	24
[1877-78] B.226/g/25	25
[1878-79] B.226/g/26	26
[1879-80] B.226/g/27	27
[1880-81] B.226/g/28	28
[1881-82] B.226/g/29	29
[1882-83] B.226/g/30	30
[1883-84] B.226/g/31	31
[1884-85] B.226/g/32	32
[1885-86] B.226/g/33	33
[1886-87] B.226/g/34	34
[1887-88] B.226/g/35	35
[1888-89] B.226/g/36	36
[1889-90] B.226/g/37	37
[1890-91] B.226/g/38	38
[1891-92] B.226/g/39	39
Fort Victoria Post Journal	FtVicPJ
[1846-50] B.226/a/1	1
Fort Victoria [V.I.] District Statements	FtVicDS
[1852-53] B.226/l/1	1
Fort Victoria [V.I.] Correspondence Book	FtVicCB
[1844-45] B.226/b/1	1
[1848-49] B.226/b/2	2
[1850-51] B.226/b/3	3
[1851-52] B.226/b/4	4
[1851-52] B.226/b/5a	5a
[1851-53] B.226/b/5b	5b
[1852-53] B.226/b/6	6
[1852-53] B.226/b/7	7
[1849-54] B.226/b/8	8
[1850-54] B.226/b/9	9

[1850-54] B.226/b/10	10
[1853-54] B.226/b/11	11
[1853-55] B.226/b/12	12
[1855-57] B.226/b/13	13
[1853-59] B.226/b/14	14
[1857-59] B.226/b/15	15
[1858-59] B.226/b/16	16
[1858-59] B.226/b/17	17
[1859-60] B.226/b/18	18
[1859-61] B.226/b/19	19
[1859-63] B.226/b/20	20
[1859-63] B.226/b/21	21
[1860-63] B.226/b/22	22
[1862-64] B.226/b/23	23
[1863-64] B.226/b/24	24
[1862-65] B.226/b/25	25
[1864-65] B.226/b/26	26
[1863-66] B.226/b/27	27
[1864-66] B.226/b/28	28
[1865-66] B.226/b/29	29
[1857-64] B.226/b/30 (focus on Nisqually)	30
District Fur Returns [1849-54], Miscellaneous [1845-1901]
Miscellaneous Items	MiscI
[1845] B.5/z/1 (Fort Alexandria)	1
[1830-1858] B.113/z/1 (Fort Langley)	2
[1825-67] B.188/z/1 (Fort St. James)	3
[1834-67] B.191/z/1 (Sandwich Islands)	4
West Coast Correspondence, 1832-1857, E.31/2/1 (Undelivered)	5
Voyageurs, 1823-1850, E.31/2/3 (Undelivered Correspondence)	6
Miscellaneous (Undelivered Correspondence), 1824-1873, E.31/2/4	7
Ships' compiled information	Search file
Beaver, Cadboro, Colinda, Columbia, Cowlitz, Diamond, Dryad, Eagle, Forager, Ganymede, Harpooner, Isabella, Lama, Livey, Mary Dare, Nereide, Otter, Prince Albert, Prince of Wales, Princess Royal, Recovery, Una, Vancouver [1], Vancouver [2], Vancouver [3], William and Ann
Ships' Logs	log(s) of
Beaver [1835-62]	Beaver
[1847-49] C.1/207	1
[1850-52] C.1/208	2
[1859-60] C.1/209	3
(also see ShMPap 1-3, 14)
Cadboro [1826-62]	Cadboro
[1826-27] C.1/217	1
[1827] C.1/218	2
[1828] C.1/219	3
[1835] C.1/220	4
[1843-46] C.1/221	5
[1846-50] C.1/222	6
Colinda [1853-54] (journal of Dr. H. W. A. Coleman)	Colinda
[1853] C.1/242	1
Colonel Allan (1816)	--

(no logs survive, see NWCAB 1, 3)	--
Columbia (1813-18)	--
(no logs survive, see NWCAB 3)	--
Columbia [1835-50]	Columbia
[1835-37] C.1/243	1
[1836-37] C.1/244	2
[1837-39] C.1/245	3
[1839-42] C.1/246	4
[1842] C.1/247	5
[1842-45] C.1/248	6
[1844-45] C.1/1064	7
[1845] C.1/249	8
[1845-48] C.1/250	9
[1848-50] C.1/254	10
Conlitz [1840-50]	Conlitz
[1840-42] C.1/257	1
[1843-46] C.1/259	2
[1846] C.1/260	3
[1846] C.1/261	4
[1845-46] C.1/262	5
[1846-49] C.1/263	6
[1849] C.1/264	7
[1849-51] C.1/265	8
[1849-50] C.1/266	9
Dryad [1825-36]	Dryad
[1832-34] C.1/281	1
[1834-36] C.1/282	2
Eagle [1827-35]	Eagle
[1827-29] C.1/283	1
[1833-35] C.1/284	2
[1836-37] C.1/285	3
Forager [1840-41]	Forager
(no surviving logs)
Ganymede [1828-37]	Ganymede
[1832-34] C.1/333	1
[1834] C.1/334	2
[1834-36] C.1/337	3
[1836-37] C.1/338	4
Harpooner	Harpooner
(no surviving logs)
Isabella [2] [1830]	Isabella
[1829-30] C.1/355	1
Lama [1832-(40)]	Lama
(see BCA Lama 1-3)
Lively [1822-24]	Lively
[1822-24] C.1/452	1
Mary Dare [1846-53]	Mary Dare
[1850-52] C.1/459	1
[1852] C.1/460	2
[1852-53] C.1/461	3
[1853-54] C.1/462	4
Nereide [1833-40]	Nereide
[1833-34] C.1/609	1
[1839-40] C.1/610	2

Norman Morison [1849-53]	Norman Morison
[1849-51] C.1/613	1
[1851] C.1/614	3
[1849-53] C.7/99 (List of passengers)	4
Otter [1853-90]	Otter
[1852-61] C.1/625	1
Prince Albert [1842-?] (Hudson Bay run)	Prince Albert
[1842] C.1/667	1
[1843] C.1/670	2
[1844] C.1/673	3
[1845] C.1/676	4
[1846] C.1/679	5
[1847] C.1/680	6
[1848] C.1/683	7
[1849] C.1/686	8
[1850] C.1/689	9
[1851] C.1/692	10
[1852] C.1/695	11
Prince of Wales [1845-50's] (Columbia River schooner)	Prince of Wales
(no surviving logs)
Prince of Wales [I] [1793-1838] (Hudson Bay run)	Prince of Wales [I]
[1822] C.1/799	1
[1823] C.1/800	2
[1824] C.1/803	3
[1825] C.1/806	4
[1826] C.1/809	5
[1827] C.1/812	6
[1828] C.1/815	7
[1829] C.1/818	8
[1830-31] C.1/821	9
[1833] C.1/825	10
[1835] C.1/827	11
[1835] C.1/828	12
[1836] C.1/830	13
[1836] C.1/831	14
[1837] C.1/833	15
[1838] C.1/834	16
Prince of Wales [II] [1850-?] (Hudson Bay run)	Prince of Wales [II]
[1850] C.1/836	1
[1851] C.1/837	2
Prince Rupert IV [1827-37] (Hudson Bay run)	Prince Rupert IV
[1827] C.1/910	1
[1828] C.1/912	2
[1829] C.1/915	3
[1830] C.1/918	4
[1831] C.1/921	5
[1832] C.1/923	6
[1833-34] C.1/925	7
[1835] C.1/927	8
[1836] C.1/929	9
[1837] C.1/931	10
[1838] C.1/933	11
Prince Rupert V [1842-50] (Hudson Bay run)	Prince Rupert V
[1842] C.1/934	1

[1842] C.1/936	2
[1843] C.1/938	3
[1844] C.1/942	4
[1844] C.1/943	5
[1845] C.1/946	6
[1846] C.1/949	7
[1847] C.1/952	8
[1848] C.1/956	9
[1849] C.1/959	10
[1850] C.1/963	11
[1853] C.1/964	12
Princess Royal [2] [1854-58]	Princess Royal [2]
[1854-55] C.1/975	1
[1855-56] C.1/976	2
[1856-57] C.1/977	3
[1857-58] C.1/978	4
[1858-59] C.1/979	5
[1859-65] C.1/981	6
[1861-62] C.1/982	7
[1862-63] C.1/983	8
Recovery [1852-59] (no surviving logs)	Recovery
Sumatra [1837-38]	Sumatra
[1837-38] C.1/1061	1
Una (no surviving logs, see ShMPap 10, PortB 1)	Una
Valleyfield [1841-43] (no surviving logs, see ShMPap 12)	Valleyfield
Vancouver [2] [1826-34]	Vancouver [2]
[1831-32] C.1/1062	1
Vancouver [3] [1839-48]	Vancouver [3]
[1841-44] C.1/1063	1
[1844-47] C.1/1065	2
Vancouver [4] [1852] (see BCA Vancouver [4])	Vancouver [4]
Vigilant [1823-25] (no surviving logs)	Vigilant
William & Ann [1824-29]	William & Ann
[1824-25] C.1/1066	1
[1825-26] C.1/1068	2
[1825-26] C.1/1069	3
[1826-28] C.1/1070	4
Ship's Miscellaneous Papers	ShMiscPap
[1834-35] C.7/14 (Beaver)	1
[1851] C.7/16 (Beaver)	2
[1835-72] C.7/17 (Beaver)	3
[1826-33] C.7/21 (Cadboro)	4
[1835] C.7/25 (Columbia)	4ab
[1853] C.7/21 (Colinda)	4aa
[1835-50] C.7/32 (Columbia)	4a
[1836-49] C.7/38 (Cowlitz)	5
[1836] C.7/42 (Dryad)	6
[1836-38] C.7/44 (Eagle)	6a
[1832-37] C.7/59 (Ganymede)	7

[1846-48] C.7/92 (Mary Dare)	8
[1833-40] C.7/98 (Nereide)	9
[1850-52] C.7/99 (Norman Morison)	9a
[1840-56] C.7/99 (Prince Albert)	9aa
[1850-52] C.7/163 (Una)	10
[1836-49] C.7/164 (Vancouver [2])	11
[1843] C.7.165 (Valleyfield)	12
[1851] C.7/175 (Princess Royal)	13
[1828-41] C.7/177 (Beaver, Cadboro, Columbia [3] Dryad, Eagle, Ganymede, Lama, Nereide, Sumatra, Vancouver [2], Vancouver [3])	14
[1825-42] C.7/178 (Eagle, Columbia [3])	15
[1831] C.7/187 (Dryad)	16
Portledge Book	PortB
[1844-60] C.3/7 (Columbia [3], Cowlitz, Mary Dare, Otter, Prince Albert, Prince Rupert, Una, Vancouver [3], Vancouver [4])	1
HBCA Ships' Extracts	ShipExt
Huntington Library, Pasadena (San Marino, CA)	HL
Nisqually Journal of Occurrences, 1833-59	Nisqually 1
Servants' Accounts, 1843-1869	Nisqually 2
Tlithlow Journal	Tlithlow
Idaho Historical Society	IdHS
Thomas Redsull affidavit, July 7, 1911, 972.64 F821	Red
"Old Fort Boise; A Lost But Not Forgotten Trading Post of Idaho," typewritten manuscript, no author; 979.64 F82 (8 pages)	OldFB
"Old Fort Boise and Old Fort Hall," by Lloyd Lehrbas, typewritten manuscript, 979.64 F82	OldFBH
"Old Fort Boise Ephemeral Structure, Three times Rebuilt," undated newspaper clipping	OldFBES
National Register of Historic Places Inventory – Nomination Form, prepared April 1, 1974	NR
John Carter Brown Library, Providence, RI	JCBL-Prov
Dorr, Ebenezer, "A Journal of a Voyage from Boston round the World..."	Dorr
Kamloops Archives, Kamloops, B. C.	KamA
Fort Kamloops Journal, 1860	FtKamloops
Paul Fraser's Thompson River Journal, Book I, 1851-52	Fraser
Oblate Church Records	Oblate
Molly Forbes, untitled typescript about Archibald McKinlay, February 28, 1972	Forbes
Records of St. Jean Baptiste Forche du nord (North Fork), St. Joseph, Kamloops, Ste. Marie and St. Louis	StJean
Massachusetts Historical Society, Boston, MA	MassHS
Suter, John, "Log of the ship Atahualpa , 1811-15"	Atahualpa
Perkins, James and Thomas H. Foreign letters, 3 April 1807-5 January 1815	Perkins
Missouri Historical Society, St. Louis, Miss.	MHS
William H. Ashley Papers	Ashley
Inventory of Goods, 1825 Rendezvous	1
Ashley's Accounts, July 1825	2
A Narrative of Colonel Robert Campbell's Experiences in the Rocky Mountain Fur Trade from 1825 to 1835	Campbell

Papers of the St. Louis Fur Trade Part 1: The Chouteau Collection, 1752-1925 Articles of Association and partnership between Benjamin Wilkinson, Pierre Chouteau (senior), Manuel Lisa, Auguste Chouteau (junior), Reuben Lewis, William Clark, Silvestre Labadie all of the town of St. Louis, Louisiana and Pierre Menard and William Morrison of the town of Kaskaskia in the territory of Indiana, and also Andrew Henry of Louisiana for hunting and trading in the Upper Missouri to its sources to be known as the St. Louis, Missouri Fur Company, March 7, 1809; "Benjamin Clapp's Journal, 1811-1821," manuscript transcription Andrew Drips' Papers Robert Newell's Notebook	Chouteau Chouteau 1809 Clapp Drips Newell
Nanaimo Community Archives Nanaimo Correspondence, James Douglas-Joseph McKay, Aug. 1852- Sept. 53, HBC Fonds – 1852-1857, AR/8	NanCA NCB
National Archives, Washington, D. C. Despatches from United States Consuls in Canton, 1790-1906 (USNARS, DespCant File Microcopies of Records, no. 101, roll 1) Despatches from United States Consuls in Honolulu, 1820-1903, Vol. 1 (File Microcopies of Records, no. 144, roll 1) Maury Abstract Logs 1796-1861, Roll 71, target 4, vol. 251 ("Ship Levant "); Roll 72 target 1, vol. 271 ("Ship America ") Miscellaneous Letters of the Department of State, 1 August-31 December, 1816, (File Microcopies of Records, no. 179, roll 35) Spanish Spoilation Claims, Dept. of State Port of New York List of Officers and Men of the Ship Tonquin , Sept. 3, 1810	USNA DespHon Maury Misc Spanish Tonquin
National Archives of Canada, Ottawa, Ontario A-41, Keith, James, microfilm A-676, A-2: Memorandum Book [at Fort George, Spring, 1820] p. 44	NAC Keith
New York Public Library MS Log of the Opehlia Lee's Log of the Levant , 1819-21 New York Gazette and General Advertiser , June 30, 1817	NY-PL Opehlia Levant Gaz/Adver
Oblate House, Vancouver Marriages, St. Joseph's Mission, Williams Lake, 1869-1901	OblH-Van MarrStJoWL
Oregon Historical Society, Portland OR Censuses E. White's 1842 Census south of Columbia of males over 21 years of age 1849 Census, Oregon Territory, (Clackamas Co., Yamhill Co., Champoege) 1850 US Census, Oregon Territory (Clackamas Co., Clark Co., Lewis Co.) Newspapers Oregon Argus (Salem) The Oregonian Oregon Sentinel (Jacksonville) Oregon Spectator Oregon Statesman Newspaper clippings file Numbered scrapbooks mostly with newspaper clippings pasted on numbered pagesSB# Indian War Pension Papers	OHS 1842 Census 1849 Census 1850 US Census Argus Oregonian Sentinel Spectator Statesman NCF IWPP

Lorraine Benski, The Pierre Belleque Family Tree, 1797-1981	Belleque
T. J. Hubbard September 24, 1858 letter to James W. Nesmith	Hubbard
Ingraham, Joseph, "Joseph Ingraham to Jose Esteban Martinez, May 1789, Nootka Sound," (copy of typescript)	Ingraham
Sturgis, Josiah "Extract from the Journal of Josiah Sturgis kept on board the Ship Levant on the voyage from Boston to the North West Coast and China in the Year 1818," (MS. 153)	Levant
Reminiscences of Mrs. Eloisa McLoughlin Rae Harvey , manuscript	Rae Harvey
Account Books of Fort Hall, 1834-1839	FtHallAB
Ledger # 1 (initial instructions to Robert Evans followed by entries ranging from April 15, 1834-August 14, 1837)
Ledger #2 (entries range from December 14, 1834-January 1, 1839)
Journal (sequential entries from August 4, 1834-December 26, 1835)
Columbia River Fishing & Trading Company Letterbook, 1833-1837 (R 576B)	CRFTCLet
Oregon State Archives, Salem	OSA
Censuses
1845 Yamhill and Tualatin Co (Washington Co.) Clackamas Co., Champoie Co, (Marion Co., Clatsop Co.)	Cen1845
1849 Champoege Co. (Marion Co.), Clackamas Co. Clatsop, Lewis (now Washington State), Linn Co., Polk co., Tuality Co. (now Washington Co.), Vancouver Co. (now Washington State), Yamhill Co.	Cen1849
Orkney Archives, Kirkwall, Orkney	OrkA
Old Parish Registers, Baptisms and Marriages, 1657-1819	OPR
Censuses, Orkney 1821-51	Cen1821-
Thomas Humphrey will, dated July 24 and 27, a copy of which is in "Sederunt Book, The Humphrey Bequest, Stromness"	Humphrey
Louttit, Tom J. "The Louttit Saga," Australia, 1970 (manuscript)	Louttit
Peabody Essex Museum, Salem, MA	PEM
"Bill of Lading of the Ship Active , July 20, 1826"	Active
Anonymous, "Journal of a voyage perform'd on the Ship Amethyst . Seth Smith Camman Jr. From Boston to the coast of California. &c." (Logbook 43)	Amethyst
Anonymous, "Return of American Vessels that have entered the Port of Canton in China from June 6, 1816-May 25, 1817 with an Abstract of their Cargoes." (Frederick Townsend Ward China Collection, Ms C380 R439)	Canton
Isaac Whittemore's journal of the Caroline , 1803-05	Caroline
Anonymous, " Griffon , Brig, Shipping Journal, October 1824-July 1827." (Log. 1824 G4)	Griffon
Anonymous, Allen, Peter, Log of the Ship Hamilton , Captain William Mart[a]in, from Boston towards the Northwest Coast of America, 1819-1823,"	Hamilton 1
Martain, William, "Ship Hamilton Log book, 1809-1815"	Hamilton 2
Martain, William, "Ship Louisa Log Book, 1826-1829"	Hamilton 3
Anonymous, " Joseph Peabody , Brig, Shipping Logbook, January 1836-May 1838," (Log 1836 J)	Joseph Peabody
"Bill of Lading of the Ship Louisa , Oct. 5, 1826"	Louisa
[Liscome, Otis?], "Extracts from the log of the Ship Margaret"	Margaret
Bartlett, John, "John Bartlett's journal to North West Coast and China, 1790 on the ship Massachusetts "	Massachusetts
Suter, John, "Log of John Suter, Captain, on the Ship Mentor of Boston toward the Northwest Coast of America, 1816-1820"	Mentor

Reynolds, Capt. Stephen, A Voyage of the New Hazard to the Northwest Coast...1810-1813 by Stephen Reynolds...	New Hazard
Kemp, Robert, Journal of the Otter , 1809-11	Otter
Roman Catholic Diocese of Prince George, Chancery Office, Prince George, B. C. Marriage, Baptism records	RCDioPG MarBap
Rosenbach Library, Philadelphia McDougall, Duncan, Astoria Journal, 1811-1813	RosL-Ph Astoria
St. Edward's Church, Duncan, B. C. St. Ann's Baptisms-Marriages, 1886-1896	StEdC Bapt/Marr.
Societe Historique de Saint-Boniface, Saint-Boniface, MB "Liste des Voyageurs, 1788-1822" (NWC/HBC contracts) St. Boniface Cathedral Records	SHdeSB Liste SBCR
Sooke Regional Museum, Sooke, B. C. MS notes "From George MacKenzie" newspaper clippings anonymous notes of January 1956	SookeRM MacKenzie newspapercl anonymous
South Oregon Historical Society Marriage and road taxes records Democratic Times (Jacksonville) Oregon Sentinel (Jacksonville)	SOHS MarriageRT Democratic Sentinel
Tacoma Library The Daily Ledger , Tacoma Tacoma News	Tac-L Daily Ledger Tacoma News
Tacoma Parks, Fort Nisqually Living History Museum "Letters Outward: The Letters of Edward Huggins 1862-1907," (ms) Joseph H. Huntsman ed., Tacoma "Journal of Occurrences on Puget's Sound Agricultural Coy's Farm at Muck 1858," unpaginated typescript	TacP-FtNis Huggins Muck
University of British Columbia Koerner Library David Thompson Journals [microfilm]	UBC-Koer Thompson
University of British Columbia Special Collections William Duncan Papers, Community Education Registers, 1857-1860 The Ermatinger Paper (transcript of Ermatinger letters) Hamilton, Gavin, handwritten notes, 115 Mile House, Lac La Hache, May 19, 1909 Hamilton	UBC-SC Duncan Ermatinger
Vancouver Archives, Vancouver, B. C. Memorandum of conversation with Captain Frederick William Pamphlet, May 6, 1838.	Van-A Pamphlet
Vancouver Public Library, Vancouver, B. C. Newspapers The Colonist [1858-] The Vancouver Sun The Vancouver Province	Van-PL Colonist Sun Province

Vancouver School of Theology

United Church B.C. Conference Archives

VanSTheo

UCConArch

Washington State Archives, Olympia, Washington*Tacoma Sunday LedgerMorning OlympianPuget Sound Weekly Courier*, OlympiaJohn M. Wark's July 6, 1860 Victoria letter to E. Huggins, Nisqually
Papers, Reel 2WSATacomaOlympianPugetSWC*

Wark

Yale University Beinecke Library New Haven, CTAnderson, Alexander Caulfield, "Historical Notes on the Commerce of the Columbia River, 1824-1848,"Clinton, Ebenezer, "Journal of ships Vancouver and Atabualpa, 1804-06" (Western Americana, Ms 92)YU-Bein

Anderson

Clinton

Private Collections

Winship, Jonathan, Jr., "Particular occurrences, Ship O'Cain,," 1803-1815 (98 pp.)

Winship, Jonathan, Jr., "Journal of a Voyage from Boston to the North Pacific Ocean, from there to China back to Boston 1805.6.7.8" (320 pp.)Gale, William A., "A Journal Kept on Board the Ship Albatross, Nathan Winship, Commander, On a Voyage from Boston to the Northwest Coast of America and China in the Years 1809, 10, 11, 12" (450 pp.)PrivMSO'Cain*

Winship

*AlbatrossPublished Primary Sources*British Columbia Genealogical Society, Richmond, B. C.British Columbia Gulf Island Cemeteries*

BCGenSoc-

GIsCem

Champlain Society, Toronto, Ontario*John McLean's Notes of a Twenty-Five Year's Service in the Hudson's Bay Territory*, (W. S. Wallace, ed., Toronto, 1932)Documents Relating to the Northwest Company, (W. S. Wallace, ed., 1934)The Hargrave Correspondence, 1821-43, (G. P. de T. Glazebrook, ed., Toronto, 1938)David Thompson's Narrative, 1784-1812, (Richard Glover, ed., 1962)Gabriel Franchere's Journal of a Voyage on the North West Coast of North America During the Years 1811, 1812, 1813, and 1814, (W. Kaye Lamb, ed., Toronto, 1969)Alexander Henry The Younger's Journal, 1799-1814, Vol. IAlexander Henry The Younger's Journal, 1799-1814, Vol. II

ChSoc XIX

ChSoc XXII

ChSoc XXIV

ChSoc XL

ChSoc XLV

ChSoc LVI

ChSoc LVII

Catholic Church Records of the Pacific Northwest, Harriet Duncan Munnick, ed.,

French Prairie Press (FPP), and Binford & Mort (B&M), Portland

Vancouver, 1838-44, vol. 1 (FPP, 1972)Vancouver, 1842-56, vol. 2 (FPP, 1972)Stellamaris Mission, Point Chinook, 1848 (FPP, 1972)St. Paul, 1839-47, vol. 1 (B&M, 1979)

CCR

1a

1b

1c

2a

St. Paul, 1847-64 , vol. 2 (B&M, 1979)	2b
St. Paul, 1865-98 , vol. 3 (B&M, 1979)	2c
St. Louis, 1845-68 , vol. 1 (B&M, 1982)	3a
St. Louis, 1869-1900 , vol. 2 (B&M, 1982)	3b
Gervais, 1875-1893 (B&M, 1982)	3c
Brooks, 1893-1909 (B&M, 1982)	3d
Oregon City Register, 1842-1890 (B&M, 1984)	4a
Salem Register, 1864-85 (B&M, 1984)	4b
Jacksonville Register, 1854-85 (B&M, 1984)	4c
Roseburg, Oregon and The Southern Oregon Missions, 1858-1862 (B&M, 1986)	5a
Roseburg, Oregon and Missions to the Seacoast, 1866-1911 (B&M, 1986)	5b
Portland, Oregon Immaculate Conception Church & Cathedral, 1852-1871 (B&M, 1986)	5c
Grand Ronde Register, 1860-85 , vol. 1 (B&M, 1987)	6a
Grand Ronde Register, 1886-98 , vol. 2 (B&M, 1987)	6b
Missions of St. Ann and St. Rose of the Cayouse, 1847-88 (B&M, 1989)	7a
Walla Walla and Frenchtown, 1859-72 (B&M, 1989)	7b
Frenchtown, & St. Rose of Lima, 1872-88 (B&M, 1989)	7c
Hakluyt Society Publications, Cambridge University Press	HakSP
The Journal and Letters of Captain Charles Bishop on the North-west Coast of America...1794-1799 , (Michael Roe, ed., 1967)	Bishop
The Journals and Letters of Sir Alexander Mackenzie , W. Kaye Lamb, ed, Cambridge University Press for the Hakluyt Society, London 1970	Mackenzie
Hudson's Bay Record/Champlain Societies	HBRS
Simpson's Athabaska Journal and Report, 1821-22	HBRS I
Colin Robertson's Letters, 1817-22 , (E. E. Rich, ed., 1939)	HBRS II
Minutes of Council of the Northern Department, 1821-31	HBRS III
McLoughlin's Fort Vancouver Letters, 1825-38 (E. E. Rich, ed., 1941)	HBRS IV
McLoughlin's Fort Vancouver Letters, 1839-44 (E. E. Rich, ed., 1943)	HBRS VI
McLoughlin's Fort Vancouver Letters, 1844-46 (E. E. Rich, ed., 1944)	HBRS VII
Simpson's 1828 Journey to the Columbia , (E. E. Rich, ed., 1947)	HBRS X
Peter Skene Ogden's Snake Country Journals, 1824-25 and 1825-26 (E. E. Rich, Ed., 1950)	HBRS XIII
John Rae's Correspondence, 1844-45	HBRS XVI
Samuel Black's Exploration of Finlay River, 1824	HBRS XVIII
Eden Colvile's Letter, 1849-52	HBRS XIX
History of Hudson's Bay Company, Vol. I, 1670-1763 by E. E. Rich	HBRS XXI
History of Hudson's Bay Company, Vol II, 1763-1870 by E. E. Rich	HBRS XII
Peter Skene Ogden's Snake Country Journal, 1826-27 , (K. G. Davies ed., 1961)	HBRS XXIII
Peter Skene Ogden's Snake Country Journals, 1827-29 , (Glyndwr Williams, ed., 1971)	HBRS XXVIII
Simpson's Letters to London, 1841-42 , (Glyndwr Williams, ed., 1973)	HBRS XXIX
Hudson's Bay Miscellany, 1670-1870	HBRS XXX
Fort Victoria Letters, 1846-1851 , (Hartwell Bowsfield, ed., 1979)	HBRS XXXII
Allard, Jason. Daily World . August 10, 1915
Allison, Susan. A Pioneer Gentlewoman in British Columbia, The Recollections of Susan Allison . Margaret A. Ormsby, ed., U.B.C. Press, c. 1975.
Anderson, William Marshall. The Rocky Mountain Journals of William Marshall Anderson . Dale L. Morgan

- and Eleanor Towle Harris, ed. Lincoln: University of Nebraska Press, 1987.
- Astorian Adventure, The Journal of Alfred Seton, 1811-1815*. Robert F. Jones, ed. New York: Fordham University Press, 1993.
- Atkinson, George H. "The Diary of Rev. George H. Atkinson, D. D., 1847-1858." E. Ruth Rockwood, ed. Oregon Historical Quarterly. 40 (1939): 52-63, 168-87, 265-82, 345-61.
- Ball, John.
John Ball, Member of the Wyeth Expedition to the Pacific Northwest, 1832; and Pioneer to the Old Northwest: Autobiography (compiled by his daughters Kate Ball Powers, Flora Ball Hopkins, and Lucy Ball. Glendale, CA: Arthur H. Clark Company, 1925.
 "Across the Continent Seventy Years ago, Extracts from the Journal of John Ball of his trip across the Rocky Mountains, and his life in Oregon, compiled by his daughter." Oregon Historical Quarterly, 3, (1902) p. 82-106
- Ballou, Howard Malcolm. "Methodist Annual Reports Relating to the Willamette Mission, 1834-48." Oregon Historical Quarterly 23, 1 (March 192-December 1922); ibid 23, 2: 95-110.
- Barnard, Charles H. "A Narrative of the Adventures of Capt. Charles H. Barnard of New York, during a voyage round the world (1812-1816), with an account of his abandonment and solitary life for two years on one of the Falkland Islands." The Sea, The Ship and the Sailor: tales of adventure from logbooks and original narratives. Elliot Snow, ed. Salem, MA: Maritime Research Society, 1925.
- Bartlett, John. "A Narrative of Events in the Life of John Bartlett of Boston, Massachusetts, in the Years 1790-1793, During Voyages to Canton and the North West coast of North America." The Sea, The Ship and the Sailor: tales of adventure from logbooks and original narratives. Elliot Snow, ed. Salem, MA: Maritime Research Society, 1925.
- Beattie, Judith Hudson and Helen M. Buss, ed. Undelivered Letters to Hudson's Bay Company Men on the Northwest Coast of America, 1830-57. Vancouver: University of British Columbia Press, 2003.
- Beaver, Herbert. Reports and Letters of Herbert Beaver, 1836-1838. Thomas E. Jessett, ed., Champoe Press, 1959.
- Beckwourth, James P. The Life and Adventures of James P. Beckwourth, Mountaineer, Scout, Pioneer, and Chief of the Crow Nation of Indians. London: Fisher Unwin, 1892.
- Belyea, Barbara, ed. Columbia Journals: David Thompson. Montreal: McGill-Queen's University Press, 1994.
- Boelen, Jacobus. A Merchant's Perspective: Captain Jacobus Boelen's Narrative of his visit to Hawaii'i in 1828, Frank J. A Broeze, trans. & introd. Honolulu: Hawaiian Historical Society, 1988.
- Brosnan, Cornelius. "The Signers of the Oregon Memorial of 1838." Washington Historical Quarterly 23, 2 (July 1933): 174-89.
- Camp, Charles L. ed. James Clyman, American frontiersman, 1792-1881; the adventures of a trapper and coveredwagon emigrant as told in his own reminiscences and diaries. San Francisco: California Historical Society, 1928
- Campbell, Robert. The Journal of Robert Campbell. John W. Todd, Jr. ed., Seattle Washington, nd
- Carey, Charles Henry, ed.
 "Introduction to the Mission Record Book of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Willamette Station, Oregon Territory, 1834." Oregon Historical Quarterly 23 (1922): 230-66.
 "Introduction to Methodist Annual Reports Relating to the Willamette Mission." Oregon Historical Quarterly 23 (1922): 303-364.
- Carson, Kit. Kit Carson's Autobiography, Milo M. Quaife, ed., Lincoln, 1965.
- Chardon, F. A. Chardon's Journal at Fort Clark, 1834-1839. Annie H. Abel, ed., Pierre, South Dakota: Department of History, 1932.
- Coues, Elliot, ed. New Light on the Early History of the Greater Northwest, 1897. (reprint: Minneapolis: Ross & Haines, 1965)
- Corney, Peter. Early Voyages in the North Pacific, 1813-1818. Fairfield, WA: Ye Galleon Press, 1965.
- Corney, Peter. Voyages in the Northern Pacific: narrative of several trading voyages from 1813 to 1818.... Honolulu: Thos. G. Thrum, 1896.
- Cox, Ross. Adventures on the Columbia River, Including the Narrative of a Residence of Six Years' on the West Side of the Rocky Mountains among Various Tribes of Indians Hitherto Unknown: Together with A Journey Across the American Continent. J & J. Harper, New York, 1832.
- Cracroft, Sophia. Lady Franklin Visits the Pacific Northwest: Being Extracts from the Letters of Miss Sophia Cracroft, Sir John Franklin's Niece, February to April 1861 and April to July 1870, Dorothy Blakey Smith, ed. Victoria, BC: Provincial Archive of British Columbia Memoir No. XI, 1974.
- Dana, R. H. Jr. Two Years Before the Mast. Philadelphia: Henry Altemus, 1895.
- Death Records of Pierce County, Washington, 1887-1907*. Tacoma, WA: Tacoma-Pierce County Genealogical Society, 1987.

- De Smet, Pierre-Jean, S. J. Oregon Missions and Travels over the Rocky Mountains. Thwaites, ed., in Early Western Travels, vol. 29. Cleveland: Clark, 1906.
- DeVoto, Bernard, ed. The Journals of Lewis & Clarke. Boston: Houghton Mifflin Co., 1953.
- Dickey, George, ed. The Journal of Occurrences at Fort Nisqually, May 30, 1833- September 27, 1859. Tacoma, WA, Fort Nisqually Association, 1989.
- Dorr, Ebenezer. affidavit, November 16, 1839. Historical Magazine, (September 1870): 171
- Douglas, David.
Journal Kept by David Douglas, during his travels in North America, 1823-1827 together with a particular description of thirty-three species of American Oaks and Eighteen Species of Pinus.... New York: Antiquarian Press, 1959.
A sketch of a journey to the north-western parts of the continent of North America during the years 1824, 5, 6, and 7 in W. J. Hooker, Companion to the Botanical Magazine (London, 1836), II, 83-140, reprinted in Hawaiian Spectator (Honolulu) 1839), II, also in Oregon Historical Quarterly 5 and 6: 76-77.
- Douglas, Jesse S. "Matthews' Adventures on the Columbia, A Pacific Fur Company Document", Oregon Historical Quarterly 40: 105-148.
- Drury, C.M. ed. The Mountains We have Crossed, Diaries and Letters of the Oregon Mission, 1838. Lincoln: University of Nebraska Press, 1999.
- Ella, Martha Cheney. "The Diary of Martha Cheney Ella, 1853-1856", James K. Nesbitt, ed., British Columbia Historical Quarterly 13, 2 (1949): 91-112, 257-270.
- Elliot, T. C. "Last Will and Testament of John Day." Oregon Historical Quarterly 17 (1916): 373-79.
- Ermatinger, Edward. "Edward Ermatinger's York Factory Express Journal Express Journal, Being a Record of Journeys Made Between Fort Vancouver and Hudson Bay in the Years 1827-1828", C. O. Ermatinger, ed., Proceedings and Transactions of the Royal Society of Canada, Third Series, vol. VI, Sect II (1912): 67-132.
- Ermatinger, Francis. Fur Trade Letters of Francis Ermatinger. Lois McDonald, ed. Glendale, CA: Arthur H. Clark, 1980.
- Farnham, Thomas J. Travels in the Great Western Prairies, the Anabua and Rocky Mountains and the Oregon Territory, vol. I. New York; London: Wiley and Putnam, 1843.
- Ferris, Warren Angus. Life in the Rocky Mountains, 1830-1835. Herbert S. Auerbach, arranger, J. Cecil Alter, annotator. Salt Lake City: Rocky Mountain Book Shop, 1940.
- Finlayson, Roderick. "History of Vancouver Island and the Northwest Coast." St. Louis, Missouri: St. Louis University Studies, 1945.
- Franchère, Gabriel. Adventure at Astoria, 1810-1814. Hoyt C. Franchère, ed. Norman: University of Oklahoma Press, 1967.
- Fraser, Simon. Simon Fraser, Letters & Journals, 1806-1808. W. Kaye Lamb, ed. Toronto: MacMillan, 1966.
- Gass, Patrick. Gass's Journal of the Lewis and Clark Expedition, by Sergeant Patrick Gass, one of the persons employed in the expedition... James K. Hosmer, ed. Chicago: A. C. McLurg & Co., 1904.
- Gray, William H.
History of Oregon, 1792-1849, drawn from personal observation and authentic information. Portland: Harris and Holman, 1870.
 "The Unpublished Journal of W. H. Gray," in The Whitman College Quarterly (June 1913): 55-61.
 "Gray's Journal of 1838" Pacific Northwest Quarterly (July 1938): 277-82.
William H. Gray, Journal of His Journey East, 1836-37. Fairfield, WA: Ye Galleon Press, 1980.
- Genealogical Material in Oregon Donation Land Claims*, vol. 1, Genealogical Forum of Portland, Oregon, 1957, 1959.
- Green, Jonathan S. Journal of a Tour on North West Coast of America in the year 1829. New York: C. F. Heartman, 1915.
- Haines, Francis D. Jr., ed. The Snake Country Expedition of 1830-1831, John Work's Field Journal. Norman: University of Oklahoma Press, 1971.
- Harmon, Daniel Williams.
. A Journal of Voyages and Travels in the Interior of North American between the 47th and 58th degrees of north latitude, extending from Montreal nearly to the Pacific, a Distance of about 5,000 miles, Toronto: The Courier Press, 1911.
Harmon's Journal, 1800-1819, W. Kaye Lamb, ed., Surrey, BC: TouchWood, 2006.
- Helmcken, John S. The Reminiscences of Doctor John Sebastian Helmcken. Smith, Dorothy Blakey, ed. Vancouver: University of British Columbia Press, 1975.
- Henry, Alexander Jr. Alexander Henry the Younger's Journal, 1799-1814, vol. II. Barry M. Gough, ed., The Champlain Society, vol. LVII, 1992.
- Hines, Rev. Gustavus. Oregon, Its History, Condition and Prospects. New York: Hurst and Co., 1881.
- Hopwood, Victor G., ed. Travels in Western North America, 1784-1812. Toronto: Macmillan of Canada, 1971.

- Howay, Frederic W. ed. Voyages of the "Columbia" to the Northwest Coast 1787-1790 and 1790-1793. Boston: Massachusetts Historical Society, 1941.
- Hunt, Wilson Price. The Overland Diary of Wilson Price Hunt, Hoyt C. Franchere, trans., Ashland, OR: The Oregon Book Society, 1973.
- Hussey, John A., ed. Voyage of the "Raccoon": A Secret Journal of a Visit to Oregon, California and Hawaii, 1813-1814. San Francisco: Book Club of California, 1958.
- Ii, John Papa. Fragments of Hawaiian History. Honolulu: Bishop Museum Press, 1983.
- In the Supreme Court of Washington Territory. January Term, A. D. 1889. The Corporation of the Catholic Bishop of Nesqually, in the Territory of Washington, Plaintiff and Appellant, v. John Gibbon, T. M. Anderson, and R. T. Yeatman, Defendants and Appellees. Brief on Behalf of the Appellees, and the United States of American, the Real party in Interest.* Kent State University Library, Kent, Ohio
- Jewitt, John R. Narrative of the Adventure and Sufferings of John R. Jewitt; Only Survivor of the Crew of the Ship Boston, During a Captivity of Nearly Three Years Among the Savages of Nootka Sound: With An Account of the Manners, Mode of Living, and Religious Opinions of the Natives, New York, c. 1815; Fairfield, WA: Ye Galleon Press reprint, 1967.
- Kane, Paul. Wanderings of an Artist Among the Indians of North America from Canada to Vancouver's Island and Oregon Through the Hudson's Bay Company's Territory and Back Again. Toronto: The Radisson Society of Canada, 1925.
- Kelley, Hall J. A History of the Settlement of Oregon and the interior of Upper California: and of persecutions and afflictions of forty years' continance endured by the author. Springfield, MA: Union Printing, 1868.
- Labonte, Louis. "Louis Labonte's Recollections of Men", H. W. Lyman, ed. Oregon Historical Quarterly 4 (1903): 264-66.
- Lamb, W. Kaye, ed. The Journals and Letters of Sir Alexander Mackenzie. London: Hakluyt Society, Cambridge University Press, 1970.
- Larpeur, Charles. Forty Years a Fur Trader on the Upper Missouri: The Personal Narrative of Charles Larpeur 1833-1872, Milo Milton Quaife, ed. Chicago: Lakeside Press, 1933.
- Leonard, Zenas. Zenas Leonard, Fur Trader, John C. Ewers, ed. Norman: University of Oklahoma Press, 1959.
- MacDonald, Benjamin. "Narrative of Benjamin MacDonald." Washington Historical Quarterly 16, 3 (July 1925): 186-97.
- McDonald, Archibald. This Blessed Wilderness: Archibald McDonald's Letters from the Columbia, 1822-44. Jean Murray Cole, ed. Vancouver: University of British Columbia Press, 2001.
- MacDonald, Ranald. Ranald MacDonald, The Narrative of His Life, 1824-1894. W. S. Lewis & N. Murakami, eds. Portland: Oregon Historical Society Press, 1990.
- Macdonald, Senator William J., "Notes by a Pioneer", (publisher and date unknown, 30 pages)
- McDonnell, Anne, ed. "The Fort Benton Journal, 1854-1856, and the Fort Sary Journal, 1855-1856." Contributions to the Historical Society of Montana, vol. 10 (1940): 254-255.
- McDougall, Duncan. Annals of Astoria, The Headquarters Log of the Pacific Fur Company on the Columbia River, 1811-15. Robert F. Jones, ed. New York: Fordham University Press, 1999.
- McKenney's Pacific Coast Directory for 1883-84*. San Francisco; Oakland, CA: L. M. McKenney, December 1882.
- MacLachlan, Morag, ed. Fort Langley Journals, 1827-30. Vancouver: University of British Columbia Press, 1998.
- McLoughlin, John.
Letters of Dr. John McLoughlin Written at Fort Vancouver, 1829-1832. Dr. Burt Barker, ed. Portland: Binford & Mort for the Oregon Historical Society, 1948.
John McLoughlin's Business Correspondence, 1847-48. William R. Sampson, ed., Seattle: University of Washington Press, 1973.
- Masson, Louis Francois Rodrigue. Bourgeois de la Compagnie du Nord-Ouest: recits de voyages, lettres et rapports inedits relatifs au North-Ouest canadien. Publies avec une esquisse historique et les annotations par L. R. Masson. Quebec: Imp. Generale A. Cote et Cie 1889-90.
- Mullan, Captain John. Report on the Construction of a Military Road from Fort Walla Walla to Fort Benton, U. S. A. Washington, D.C.: Government Printing Office, 1863, 37th Congress, 3rd Session, Senate Exec. Doc. No. 43.
- Munger, Asakel. "Asahel Munger's Journal." Oregon Historical Quarterly 8 (1907): 387-405.
- Narrative of John Pritchard, Pierre Chrysologue Pambrum and Frederick Damien Heurter Respecting the Aggressions of the NWC, London: 1819*
- Nicol, John. The Life and Adventures of John Nicol, Mariner. Blackwood and Cadell, 1822, reprint, New York: Farrar & Rinehart, 1936.
- Notices and Voyages of the Famed Quebec Mission to the Pacific Northwest*. Portland, OR: Oregon Historical Society, 1956.
- Owen, John. The Journals and Letters of Major John Owen, Pioneer of the Northwest, 1850-1870. Seymour Dunbar and Paul C. Phillips, eds. New York: Edward Eberstadt, 1927.

- Pemberton, J. D. Facts and Figures Relating to Vancouver Islands and British Columbia: showing what to expect and how to get there; with illustrative maps. London, Green, Longman, and Roberts, 1860.
- Reynolds, Stephen. The Voyage of the New Hazard to the Northwest Coast, Hawaii and China, 1810-1813. F. W. Howay, ed. Fairfield, WA: Ye Galleon Press, 1970.
- Roquefeuil, Camille de. Voyage Around the World, 1816-19. Fairfield, WA: Ye Galleon Press, 1981 reprint of 1823 edition.
- Ross, Alexander,
Adventures of the First Settlers on the Oregon or Columbia River: Being A Narrative of the Expedition Fitted Out by John Jacob Astor, to Establish the "Pacific Fur Company;" with an Account of some Indian Tribes on the Coast of the Pacific. London: Smith, Elder and Co., 1849.
- The Fur Hunters of the Far West.* Kenneth A. Spaulding, ed. Norman: University of Oklahoma Press, 1956.
- Russell, Osborne. Journal of a Trapper. Aubrey L. Haines, ed., University of Nebraska Press, 1986.
- Schafer, Jose. "Documents Relative to Warre and Vavasour's Military Reconnaissance in Oregon, 1845-46. Oregon Historical Quarterly X (1909), 1-99
- Scott, L. M. "Report of Lieutenant Peel on Oregon in 1845-46." Oregon Historical Quarterly 29 (1928): 51-76.
- Scouler, John.
 "Journal of a Voyage to N. W. America: Dr. Scouler's Journal of a Voyage to North West America (1824, 1825, 1826)", Oregon Historical Quarterly 6 (1905): 54-75, 159-205 and 276-87.
 "Account of a Voyage to Madeira, Brazil, Juan Ferandez, and the Gallipagos Islands, Performed in 1824 and 1825..." Edinburgh Journal of Science 5 (April-October, 1826): 195-214; ibid, 6, 1, (January, 1827): 51-73; ibid 7, 2, (April, 1827): 228-36.
 "Observations on the Indigenous Tribes of the N. W. Coast of America", Journal of the Royal Geographic Society, vol. 11, 1841, p. 215-50.
- Scouler, John and David Douglas. "Notices Respecting Mr. Scouler's and Mr. Douglas's Recent Voyage to the North West Coast of America," Edinburgh Journal of Science vol. 5, (April-October, 1826): 378-80.
- Seton, Alfred,
 "Life on the Oregon", The American Monthly Magazine 5, no. 3 (May, 1835): 215-20; ibid, 5, no. 5 (July 1835): 368-75.
 "Life on the Oregon." Oregon Historical Quarterly 36 (1935): 187-204
- Shephard, Cyrus. Diary of Cyrus Shephard, March 4, 1831-December 20, 1835. Vancouver, WA: Clark County Genealogical Society, 1986.
- Simpson, George
Narrative of a Journey Round the World, During the Years 1841 and 1842, Henry Colburn, London, 1847.
Fur Trade and Empire, George Simpson's Journal, 1824-25, Frederick Merk, ed., Harvard University Press, 1968.
- Slacum, W. A. "Slacum's Report on Oregon, 1836-37." Oregon Historical Quarterly 13 (1912): 175-224.
- Stanley, George F. G., ed. Mapping the Frontier: Charles Wilson's Diary of the Survey of the 49th Parallel, 1858-1862 White Secretary of the British Boundary Commission. Toronto: MacMillan of Canada, 1970.
- Thwaites, Reuben Gold, ed. Original Journals of Lewis and Clark Expedition, 1804-1806. New York: Dodd, Mead & Company, 1905.
- Thwaites, Rueben G., ed. The Jesuit Relations and Allied Documents, 73 volumes. Cleveland, Barrows Brothers, 1896-1901.
- Tolmie, William Fraser. The Journals of William Fraser Tolmie: Physician and Fur Trader. Vancouver, B.C.: Mitchell Press Limited, 1963.
- Townsend, John K. "Narrative of a Journey Across the Rocky Mountains to the Columbia River." Early Western Travels 1748-1846, Reuben Gold Thwaites, ed., Glendale, CA: Arthur H. Clark Co. 1905.
- Townsend, John Kirk, Narrative of a Journey Across the Rocky Mountains to the Columbia River, and a visit to the Sandwich Islands, Chili, &c.: with a scientific appendix. Philadelphia: Henry Perkins; Boston: Perkins & Marvin, 1839.
- A Tribute to the Past.* Quesnel: Old Age Pensioners' Association, 1985.
- Vital Records of Billerica, Massachusetts, to the year 1850.* Boston: New England Historic Genealogical Society, 1908.
- Vital Records of Essex, Massachusetts to the end of the year 1849.* Salem, MA: Essex Institute, 1908.
- Vital Records of Medford, Massachusetts to the year 1850.* Boston, MA: New England Genealogical Society, 1907.
- Vital Records of Roxbury, Massachusetts to the end of the year 1849.* Salem, MA: The Essex Institute, 1925.
- "Voter's List for the Rock Creek Polling Division, 1875," Okanagan Historical Society, Report V, (1931), p. 19-21.
- Walker, Alexander. An Account of a Voyage to the North West Coast of America in 1785 & 1786 by Alexander Walker. Robin Fisher and J. M. Bumstead eds. Vancouver: Douglas & McIntyre, 1982.

- Walker, Elkanah. Nine Years with the Spokane Indians, The Diary of Elkanah Walker, 1838-1848, C. M. Drury, ed. Glendale: The Arthur H. Clark Co., 1976.
- Washington Territory Donation Land Claims*. Seattle: Seattle Genealogical Society, 1980.
- Wilkes, Charles.
Narrative of the United States Exploring Expedition: during the Years 1838, 1839, 1840, 1841, 1842, 5 vols. Philadelphia: Lea and Blanchard, 1845.
 "The Diary of Wilkes in the Northwest." Edmond S. Meany, ed. Washington Historical Quarterly 16, 3 (July 1925): 206-23; ibid 17, 2 (April 1926): 129-44.
- Work, John.
 "The Journal of John Work, November and December, 1824." T. C. Elliott, ed. Washington Historical Quarterly 3, 3 (July 1912): 198-228.
 "The Journal of John Work, Sept. 7th – Dec. 14th, 1825, T. C. Elliott, ed. Washington Historical Quarterly 5, 3 (July 1914): 163-91.
Fur Brigade to the Bonaventura: John Work's California Expedition 1832-1833 for the HBC, Alice B. Maloney, ed. San Francisco: California Historical Society 1945
The Journal of John Work, January to October, 1835. Henry Drummond Dee, intro. Victoria: Archives of British Columbia, Memoir No. X, 1945.
- Wyeth, N. J. The Correspondence and Journals of Captain Nathaniel J. Wyeth, 1831-36, F. G. Young, ed., Oregon Historical Society, 1899.
- Wyeth, John B., "Oregon – A Short History of a Long Journey," in Early Western Travels, 1748-1846, Reuben Gold Thwaites, ed. Glendale: Arthur H. Clark Co., 1905.
- Yendall, Samuel. "Samuel Yendell's Affidavit, November 1, 1838." Historical Magazine, September 1870: 172.

Secondary Sources

Dictionary of American Biography, Charles Schribner & Sons, N.Y DAB:

Dale, Harrison C., (James P. Beckworth) vol. 2, p. 122	Dale
Drumm, Stella, M. (Michael Sylvester Cerre) vol. 3, p. 582-83 (Donald McKenzie) vol. 12, p. 91 (Joshua Pilcher) vol. 14, p. 601 (Etienne Prevost) vol. 15, pp. 250-51 (Joseph Reddeford Walker) vol. 19 p. 189 (William Lewis Sublette) vol. 18, p. 189	Drumm
Ghent, W. J. (Robert Campbell) vol. 3, 462-63 (Christopher H. Carson) vol. 3, p. 530-32 (Russell Farnham) vol. 6, p. 282-83 (Daniel Williams Harmon) vol. 8, p. 276 (Wilson Price Hunt) vol. 9, p. 398-99 (Charles Larpenteur) vol. 11, p. 4-5 (Robert McClennan) vol. 11, p. 586 (Jason Lee) vol. 11, p. 111 (Robert Newell) vol. 13, p. 453 (Osborn Russell) vol. 16, p. 248-49 (Jedediah Smith) vol. 3, p. 462-63 (Robert Stuart) vol. 18, p. 175-76 (Joseph R. Walker) vol. 19, p. 350-51 (Ewing Young) vol. 20, p. 627	Ghent
Shafer, Joseph,

(John McLoughlin) vol. 12, p. 134-35	Shafer
(Father Pierre Jean de Smet) vol. 5, p. 255-56	Shafer
(Dr. Marcus Whitman) vol. 20, pp. 141-43	Shafer
(Nathaniel J. Wyeth) vol. 20, pp. 576-77	Shafer
Skinner, Constance Lindsay
(Gabriel Franchere) vol. 6, p. 575	Skinner

Dictionary of Canadian Biography,

DCB:

Balf, Mary,
(Donald McLean) vol. IX, p. 513-13	Balf
(Lolo [Leolo]) vol. IX, p. 473	Balf
Barman, Jean
(William Naukanna) vol. XIII, p.	Barman
Béland, Francois,
(Nicholas Montour, Jr.) vol. V, p. 602-04	Béland
Voisine, Nive
(Augustine Magloire Blanchet) vol. XI, p. 84-85	Blanchet
Brown, J. S. & Van Kirk, S. M.
(George Barnston) vol. XI, p. 52-53	Brown
Cole, Jean Murray
(Archibald McDonald) vol. VIII, p. 526-28	Cole
Deslauriers, Peter
(Jules Maurice Quesnel) vol. VII, p. 716-18	Deslauriers
Fisher, Robin A.
(Muquinna) vol. V, p. 618-19	Fisher
Friesen, Gerard,
(Duncan Finlayson) vol. IX, p. 260-61	Friesen
Galbraith, John S.
(Sir George Simpson) vol. VIII, p.	Galbraith
Goldring, Philip,
(James Keith), vol. VIII, p. 454-55	Goldring
Gough, Barry,
(John Meares) vol. V, p. 585-87	Gough
Harper, J. Russell,
(Paul Kane) vol. X, p. 389-94	Harper
Holmes, Kenneth L.,
(Donald Manson) vol. X, p. 495-96	Holmes
Holmgren, Eric J.,
(Jacques Raphael Finlay) vol. X, p. 273-74	Holmgren
Lamb, W. Kaye,
(Dr. John McLoughlin) vol. VIII, p.	Lamb
(Simon Fraser) vol. IX, p. 282-86	Lamb
(James Murray Yale, vol. X, p. 719-20	Lamb
(Alexander Grant Dallas) vol. XI, p.	Lamb
Livermore, C. M. & Anick, N.
(John McDonald of Garth) vol. IX, p. 481-83	Livermore/Anick
Mackie, Richard,
(Joseph D. Pemberton) vol. XII, p. 832-34	Mackie
Morrison, Jean,
(Donald McTavish) vol. V, p. 559-60	Morrison
Morton, W. L.
(Pierre Guillaume Sayer, vol. VII, p. 776-77	Morton
Nicks, John

(David Thompson) vol. VIII, p.	Nicks
Ormsby, Margaret
(James Cooper) vol. X, p. 196-97	Ormsby
(Sir James Douglas) vol. X, p. 238-49	Ormsby
(John Tod) vol. X, p.	Ormsby
Pannekoek, Frits
(Alexander Ross) vol. 8, p. 765-66	Pannekoek
Peel, Bruce
(William Connolly) vol. VII, p. 204-06	Peel
Russell, Hilary
(Angus Bethune) vol. VIII, p. 85-86	Russell
Sampson, William R.
(Dugald Mactavish) vol. X, p. 485-87	Sampson
Smith, Dorothy Blakey
(Ovid Allard) vol. X, p. 5-6	Smith, D. B.
(Sir James Douglas) vol X, p. 238-49	Smith, D. B.
Smith, Shirlee Anne
(John Stuart) vol. VII, p. 837-38	Smith, S. A.
Thomas, L. G.
(Edward Ermatinger) vol. X, p. 273-74	Thomas
Tyrwhitt-Drake, M. L.,
(David Douglas) vol. VI, p. 218-20	Tyrwhitt-Drake
Usher, Jean,
(Modeste Demers) vol. X, p. 221-22	Usher
Van Kirk, Sylvia
(John Dugald Cameron) vol. VIII, p. 121-22	Van Kirk
(John George McTavish) vol. VII, p. 577-58	Van Kirk
Wallace, David A.
(Ranald MacDonald) vol. XII, p. ???	Wallace
Williams, Glyndwr,
(James Cook) vol. IV, p. 162-67	Williams
(Alexander Roderick McLeod) vol. VII, p.	Williams
(Peter Skene Ogden) vol. VIII, p.	Williams
Wolfenden, Madge
(John Tod) vol. XI, p. 881-83	Wolfenden
Woodcock, George
(Samuel Black) vol. VII, p. 788-79	Woodcock

Acheson, Steven R. "Ninstints' Village: A Case of Mistaken Identity." BC Studies 67, (Autumn 1985): 47-54.

Adams, Ian and Somerville, Meredyth. Cargoes of Despair and Hope: Scottish Emigration to North America 1602-1802. Edinburgh: John Donald Publishers, 1993.

Adney, Edwin Tappan and Chappelle, Howard I. Bark Canoes and Skin Boats of North America. Washington: Smithsonian Institution, 1964.

Akrigg, G. P. V. & Helen B. British Columbia Chronicle - 1778-1846 - Adventures by Sea and Land. Vancouver, BC: Discovery Press, 1976.

Alekseev, A. I. The Destiny of Russian America, 1741-1867. Kingston, Limestone Press, 1990.

Allen, Opal Sweazea. Narcissa Whitman: an historical biography. Portland, OR: Binford & Mort, 1959.

Alter, J. Cecil. James Bridger, trapper, frontiersman, scout and guide; a historical narrative. With which is incorporated a verbatim copy, annotated, of James Bridger, a biographical sketch...by Maj. Gen. M. Dodge. Salt Lake City, Utah: Shepherd, c. 1925.

Anderson, Steven A.

The Physical Structure of Fort Nisqually. Tacoma, WA: Metropolitan Park District of Tacoma, 1988.

"The William F. Tolmie Library: A Supplemental Furnishings Study Illuminating the Laboratus

- Corpus of Books Historically Associated with Fort Nisqually's Physician and Fur Trader, Circa 1820-1859, and now Documented by Author, Title, Description and Source." (MS) Tacoma, WA: 1988.
- Andrews, Clarence Leroy. "The Wreck of the St. Nicholas", Pacific Northwest Quarterly 13, no. 1 (January 1922): 27-31.
- Arnett, Chris. The Terror of the Coast: Land Alienation and Colonial War on Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands, 1849-1863. Burnaby, B. C.: Talonbooks, 1999.
- Audubon, Maria R., ed. Audubon and His Journals. New York: Dover Publications, 1986.
- Bagley, Clarence. Early Catholic Missions in Old Oregon. Seattle: Lowman & Hanford, 1932.
- Bailey, Robert C. Twentieth Biennial Report, 1945-46 of the Idaho Historical Society
- Ball, Georgiana. "The Monopoly System of Wildlife Management of the Indians and the Hudson's Bay Company in the Early History of British Columbia," BC Studies 66 (Summer 1985): 38-58
- Ball, Tim. "Company Town." The Beaver 68, 3 (June-July 1988): 43-52
- Baker, William A. A History of the Boston Marine Society, 1742-1981. Boston, MA: Boston Marine Society, 1982
- Balf, Mary. A History of the District up to 1914. Kamloops, BC: Kamloops Museum, 1989.
- Bancroft, H. H. Native Races of the Pacific States of North America. (5 vols) New York: D. Appleton, 1875-76. History of California. (5 vols) San Francisco: History Company, 1882-90. History of Oregon, 1834-1888. (2 vols) San Francisco: History Company, 1886-88. History of the Northwest Coast, 1543-1846. (2 vols) San Francisco: History Company, 1886. History of Alaska, 1730-1885. San Francisco: History Company, 1886. History of British Columbia 1792-1887. San Francisco: History Company, 1887. History of Washington, Idaho and Montana, 1845-1889. San Francisco: History Company, 1890.
- Barbeau, Marius. Totem Poles, Bulletin No. 119 - Volume II, Totem Poles According to Location, National Museum, Ottawa, 1950, 1964 reprint.
- Barker, Burt Brown. The McLoughlin Empire and Its Rulers, The Arthur H. Clark Co., Glendale, California, 1959.
- Barman, Jean. "Whatever Happened to the Kanakas? 'They're alive and well in British Columbia'." The Beaver 77, 6 (December 1997-January 1998): 12-19. "Family Life at Fort Langley." British Columbia Historical News 32, No. 4 (Fall 1999): 16-23
- Barman, Jean with McCallum, Roxane. "Part 1: Lampreau Family as Reconstructed from 1881, 1891 and 1901 censuses and information from Roxane McCallum," July 4, 1993.
- Barman, Jean with Watson, Bruce. Leaving Paradise: Indigenous Hawaiians in the Pacific Northwest, 1787-1898. Honolulu: University of Hawai'i Press, 2006. "Fort Colville's Fur Trade families and the Dynamics of Race in the Pacific Northwest." Pacific Northwest Quarterly 90, No. 3 (Summer 1999): 140-153.
- Barry, J. Neilson, Old Fort William, 1835: Established by Nathaniel J. Wyeth of Boston, Massachusetts. The Beginning of American Occupancy of Oregon Territory. Portland: Hill Military Academy, 1927. "Archibald Pelton, the First Follower of Lewis and Clark." Washington Historical Quarterly 19, 3 (July 1928): 199-201. "Madame Dorion of the Astorians." Oregon Historical Quarterly 30 (1929): 272-77. "What Became of Benjamin Clapp?" Washington Historical Quarterly 21, 1 (January 1930): 13-17. "Peter Corney's Voyages, 1814-17." Oregon Historical Quarterly 33 (1932): 355-68. "Astorians Who Became Permanent Settlers." Washington Historical Quarterly 24, 3 (July 1933): 221-231; ibid 24, 4 (October 1933): 282-301. "Donald McKenzie in the Snake Country fur trade, 1816-1821." Pacific Northwest Quarterly 31 (1940): 161-79. "Site of Wallace House, 1812-1814, One Mile from Salem." Oregon Historical Quarterly, 42 (September 1941): 204-207.
- Bate, Mark. "Reminiscences of Early Nanaimo Days." The Nanaimo Free Press, 1907.
- Beechart, Edward D. Working In Hawai'i: a labor history. Honolulu, University of Hawaii Press, c. 1985.
- Beidleman, Richard G. "Nathaniel Wyeth's Fort Hall." Oregon Historical Quarterly 58 (1957): 196-250.
- Bell, W. S. Old Fort Benton: What it was and How it came to be, Helena, Montana, 1909
- Belyk, Robert C. John Tod, Rebel in the Ranks. Victoria: Horsdal & Shubart, 1995.

- Belshaw, John Douglas. "The Standard of Living of British Miners on Vancouver Island, 1848-1900." BC Studies 84 (Winter 1989-90): 37-64.
- Bennett, Guy Vernon. "Early relations of the Sandwich Islands to the Old Oregon Territory." Washington Historical Quarterly 4, 2 (April 1913): 116-126.
- Bennett, Richard and Arran Jewsbury. "The Lion and the Emperor: The Mormons, The Hudson's Bay Company, and Vancouver Island, 1846-1858, BC Studies 128 (Winter 2000-01): 37-62
- Benski, Lorraine. The Pierre Bellegue Family Tree, 1797-1981, (undated, found at Oregon Historical Society Library)
- Berry, Don. A Majority of Scoundrels: An Informal History of the Rocky Mountain Fur Company. New York: Harper Brothers, 1961.
- Bingham, Hiram. A Residence of Twenty-One Years in the Sandwich Islands; OR, The civil, religious, and political history of those islands... Hartford: H. Huntington; New York: S. Converse, 1847.
- Binnema, Theodore et al, ed. From Rupert's Land to Canada, Edmonton: University of Alberta Press, 2001.
- Binns, Archie. Peter Skene Ogden: Fur Trader. Portland: Binford & Mort, 1967.
- Bishchoff, William Norbert. Jesuits in Old Oregon. Caldwell, Id., Caxton Printers, 1945.
- Blake, A. S. "The Hudson's Bay Company in San Francisco." California Historical Society Quarterly 28 (1949): 97-112, 243-58.
- Boit, Robert A. Chronicles of the Boit Family, private edition, 1915.
- Bolt, Clarence. Thomas Crosby and the Tsimshian, Small Shoes for Feet Too Large. Vancouver: University of British Columbia, 1992.
- Bona, Milton. "Richard Ough's Princess." Clark County History, 1977
- Bonner, T. D. The Life and Adventures of James P. Beckwourth. New York: Harper & Brothers, 1856.
- Borthwick, John David. Three Years in California [1851-1854]. Edinburgh and London: W. Blackwood and Sons, 1857.
- Bowen, Lynne. "Independent Colliers at Fort Rupert." The Beaver 69, 2 (April-May 1989) 25-31.
- Boyd, Robert T.
People of the Dalles, The Indians of Wascopam Mission, Lincoln: University of Nebraska Press, 1996.
 "Smallpox in the Pacific Northwest, The First Epidemics." BC Studies 101 (Spring 1994): 5-40.
The coming of the spirit of pestilence: introduced infectious diseases and population decline among Northwest Coast Indians, 1774-1874. Vancouver, BC: UBC Press, 1999
- Braches, Fred. "Cemeteries in Whonnock." Whonnock, BC: Whonnock Notes 2, 1997.
- Bradley, Harold Whitman.
 "The Hawaiian Island and the Pacific fur trade, 1785-1813", Pacific Northwest Quarterly 30 (1939): 275-299.
The American Frontier in Hawaii, The Pioneers, 1789-1843, Gloucester, Mass: Peter Smith, 1968.
- Brandon, William. "Wilson Price Hunt." Mountain Men and Fur Traders of the Far West. L. Hafen, ed. Lincoln: University of Nebraska Press, (1982): 57-78
- Brazier, Graham. "How the Queen's Law Came to Cowichan." The Beaver 81, 6 (December 2001-January 2002): 31-36.
- Briggs, L. Vernon. History and Genealogy of the Cabot Family 1425-1927. Boston: Charles Goodspeed & Co., 1927.
The British Columbia Genealogist. Richmond, B.C.: British Columbia Genealogical Society
- Brooks, Charles E. The Henry's Fork. New York: Winchester Press, 1986
- Brosnan, Cornelius J. Jason Lee, Prophet of the New Oregon. New York: MacMillan Co., 1932.
- Brown, George D. & W. Kaye Lamb. "Captain St. Paul of Kamloops." British Columbia Historical Quarterly 3 (1939): 115-127.
- Brown, Jennifer S. H.
Strangers in Blood: Fur Trade Families in Indian Fur Trade Country. Vancouver, University of British Columbia Press, 1980.
 "A Parcel of Upstart Scotchmen." The Beaver 68, 1 (February-March 1988): 4-11.
- Brown, Stephen R. "In the Footsteps of David Thompson." The Beaver 82, 3 (June-July 2002):13-19
- Brown, Vinson. Native Americans of the Pacific Coast: peoples of the sea wind. Happy Camp, CA, Naturegraph Publishers Inc., c. 1985.
- Buck, Ruth Matheson. The Doctor Rode Side-Saddle, Toronto: McClelland and Stewart, c.1974.
- Buckland, Frank M. "Ogopogo's Vigil, A History of Kelowna and District." (1948 unpublished manuscript).
 "Settlement at L'Anse au Sable," Okanagan Historical Society, Report vol. II, 1956
- Bulley, Anne. The Bombay Country Ships, 1790-1833. Surrey, Eng.: Curzon Press, 2000.
- Bumsted, J. M.

- The Scots in Canada*, Winnipeg: University of Manitoba, c. 1960
- The People's Clearance, 1770-1815*, Winnipeg: University of Manitoba Press, 1982
- Burgher, Jeff. Burghers O' Westray, Reynella, South Australia: Personal Publications, 1992.
- Burley, David and Hamilton, Scott. "Rocky Mountain Fort: Archaeological Research and the Late Eighteenth-century North West Company Expansion into British Columbia," BC Studies 88 (Winter 1990-91): 3-18.
- Burley, Edith I. Servants of the Honourable Company: Work, Discipline, and Conflict in the Hudson's Bay Company, 1770-1879. Toronto: Oxford University Press, 1997.
- Calder, Jenni. Scots In Canada, Edinburgh: Luath Press Limited, 2004
- Campey, Lucille H. An Unstoppable Force, The Scottish Exodus to Canada. Toronto: Natural Heritage Books, 2008
- Campbell, John V. "The Sinclair Party, an Emigration Overland along the Old Hudson's Bay Company Route from Manitoba to the Spokane Country in 1854." Washington Historical Quarterly 7, 3 (July 1916): 187-201.
- Campbell, Marjorie Wilkins. The North West Company. Toronto: Macmillan Co., 1957.
- Canse, John N. Pilgrim and Pioneer, Dawn in the Northwest. New York: Abingdon Press, 1930.
- Carlson, Keith T. "Natives in the Fur Trade: Looking at the Fort Langley Journals." British Columbia Historical News 32, No. 4 (Fall 1999): 13-15.
- Carey, Charles H. A General History of Oregon prior to 1861 vol. 1. Portland: Metropolitan Press, 1935.
- Carpenter, Cecelia Svinth. Fort Nisqually, A Documented History of Indian and British Interaction, Tacoma, WA, Tahoma Research Service, 1986.
- "A Source Book of the Indian History of the Fort Nisqually – Dupont Site." Unpublished Weyerhaeuser Corporation's Environmental Impact Study of the Dupont site, 1980.
- Carter, Harvey L.
- "William H. Ashley." Mountain Men and Fur Traders of the Far West. LeRoy R. Hafen, ed., Lincoln: University of Nebraska Press, 1982.
- "Kit Carson." Mountain Men and Fur Traders of the Far West, LeRoy R. Hafen, ed., University of Nebraska Press, 1982: 166-92.
- "Andrew Drips." Mountain Men and Fur Traders of the Far West. Lincoln: University of Nebraska Press, 1982: 332-45.
- "Jedediah Smith." Mountain Men and Fur Traders of the Far West. LeRoy R. Hafen, ed., Lincoln: University of Nebraska Press, 1982: 97-104.
- "William H. Vandenberg." Mountain Men and Fur Traders of the Far West, vol. VII, Lincoln: University of Nebraska Press, 1982: ????
- Cebula, Larry. Plateau Indians and the Quest for Spiritual Power, 1700-1850. Lincoln: University of Nebraska Press, 2003.
- Chalfant, Stuart A. "Interior Salish and Eastern Washington Indians." American Indian ethnohistory: Indians of the Northwest. New York: Garland Publishing Co., 1974.
- Chamberlain, Alexander F. "Iroquois in Northwestern Canada." American Anthropologist 6, 4 (1904): 459-63.
- Chance, David H. "Influences of the Hudson's Bay Company on the Native Cultures of the Colville District." Northwest Anthropological Research Notes, Memoir No. 2, Moscow, ID: University of Idaho, 1973.
- Chandler, Ann. "Trading Talk." The Beaver 82, 5 (October-November 1002): 33-36.
- Chandler, Graham. "A Slave Among the Nootka." The Beaver 83, 1 (February-March 2003): 39-43.
- Chappell, David A. Double Ghosts: Oceanian Voyagers on Euroamerican Ships. New York: M. E. Sharpe, 1997.
- Chittenden, Hiram Martin. A History of the American Fur Trade of the Far West, vols. I & II. Stanford, CA: Academic Reprints, 1954.
- Chittenden, H. M. and Richardson. Life Letters and Travels of Pierre Jean De Smet, S. J., New York: 1905.
- Clark, Ella E. & Margot Edmonds. Sacagawea of the Lewis and Clark Expedition. Berkeley: University of California Press, 1979.
- Clark, Robert Carlton.
- "Vessels trading on the Northwest Coast of America, 1804-1914", Pacific Northwest Quarterly 19, 4 (October 1928): 294-295.
- History of the Willamette Valley, Oregon*. Chicago: S. J. Clarke Pub. Co., 1927.
- Clarke, Adele Prescella Cecilia. Old Montreal: John Clarke, His Adventures, Firends and Family. Montreal: Herald Publisher, 1906.
- Clarke, Charles G.
- "The Roster of the Expedition of Lewis and Clark." Oregon Historical Quarterly 45 (1944): 289-305.
- The Men of the Lewis and Clarke Expedition*, California: Arthur H. Clark Co., 1970.

- Clement, Eaton W. "Nathaniel Wyeth's Oregon Expeditions." The Pacific Historical Review 4, 2 (June 1935).
- Clements, Louis, J. "History of the Upper Snake Area to 1840" [1974 manuscript]
- Cline, Gloria Griffen. Peter Skene Ogden and the Hudson's Bay Company. Norman, Oklahoma, University of Oklahoma Press, 1974.
- Coates, Kenneth. "Furs Along the Yukon: Hudson's Bay Company – Native Trade in the Yukon River Basin, 1830-1893." BC Studies 55 (Autumn 1982): 50-78.
- Cole, Jean Murray,
 "Exile in the Wilderness, Archibald McDonald's ten years at Fort Colvile." The Beaver, (Summer, 1972): 7-14.
Exile in the Wilderness, The Biography of Chief Factor Archibald McDonald, 1790-1853, Don Mills, Ont.: Burns & MacEachern, 1979.
- "Archibald McDonald's Fort Langley Letters." British Columbia Historical News 32, No. 4 (Fall 1999): 31-36.
- Conrad, Margaret and Finkel, Alvin. Canada, A National History. Toronto: Longman, 2003
- Conrad, Margaret, et al. History of the Canadian Peoples, Beginnings to 1867. Toronto: Copp Clark Ltd, 1998
- Cook, Warren L. Flood Tide of Empire: Spain and the Pacific Northwest, 1543-1819, New Haven and London: Yale University Press, 1973.
- Cormack, Maribelle. The Cormacks of Eday, Orkney Islands, Scotland: The Families of Blackbanks, Red Banks, Heatherbrae, Quoyfaulds and of Breck, 1786-1969, Providence, Rhode Island: Park Museum, 1969.
- Corning, Howard McKinlay.
Willamette Landings, Portland: 1947.
Dictionary of Oregon history, compiled from the research files of the former Oregon Writers' Project with much added material. Portland: Binford & Mort, c.1956.
- Courchane, David C. Jocko's People, The Descendants of James Finlay and his son, Jacques Raphael Finlay, #9, 1997.
- Coxe, William. Account of the Russian Discoveries Between Asia and America. London: Cadell & Davies, 1803.
- Crooks, Drew W.,
 "From the Orkney Islands to Tenalquot Prairie: The Life of Thomas Linklater." Occurrences, 10, No. 3 (Fall, 1991): 10-12.
 "The Story of John Edgar." Occurrences, 11, no. 1 (spring 1993): 3-10.
 "George Edwards of Yelm Prairie: A Biographical Sketch." (1997 unpublished article).
Past Reflections: Essays on the Hudson's Bay Company in the Southern Puget Sound Region, Fort Nisqually Foundation, 2001.
- Cullen, Mary,
The History of Fort Langley, 1827-96. Occasional Papers in Archaeology and History 20, Parks Canada, Ottawa, 1979, [includes Aurelia Manson's, "Reminiscences of Old Langley," appendix B].
 "Outfitting New Caledonia, 1821-58," Old Trails and New Directions: Papers of the Third North American Fur Trade Conference, eds., Carol M. Judd and Arthur J. Ray. Toronto: University of Toronto Press, 1980: 241-42.
- Dalzell, Kathleen E. The Queen Charlotte Islands, Book 2, Of Places and Names, Cove Press, Prince Rupert, B. C., 1973.
- D'Arcy, Jenish. Epic Wanderer: David Thompson and the Mapping of the Canadian West. Toronto: Doubleday Canada, 2003
- Day, Gordon M. The Identity of the Saint Francis Indians. Ottawa: National Museum of Man, 1981.
- Deal, M. D. A History of Southeastern Idaho, An intimate narative of peaceful conquest by empire builders. The fruits of their labors along toruous rivers and valleys now sparkle like pearls in the diadem that is Idaho, the Gem of the Mountains. Caldwell, ID: the Caxton Printers, Ltd, 1942.
- Delgado, James P. The Beaver: first steamship on the West Coast. Victoria: Horsdal & Schubart, 1993
- Dean, Jonathan R. "These Rascally Spackaloids," The Rise of Gispaxlots Hegemony at Fort Simpson, 1832-40, BC Studies 101 (Spring 1994): 41-78.
- Devine, Edward James. Historic Caughnavaga. Montreal: Messenger Press, 1922.
- Devine, Heather. People Who Own themselves: Aboriginal Ethnogenesis in a Canadian Family, 1660-1960. Calgary: University of Calgary Press, 2004.
- Dickinson, John A. and Young, Brian. A Short History of Quebec, second edition. Toronto: Copp Clark Pitman Ltd, 1993
- Dickinson, Susan. "Edward Cridge and George Hills: doctrinal conflict 1872-1874, and the founding of Church of Our Lord in Victoria, British Columbia, 1875." M. A. thesis, University of Victoria.
- Dictionnaire Généalogique des Familles Canadiennes*. Montreal: Eusèbe Senécal & Fils, Impimeurs - Éditeurs, 1975.
- Dobbs, Caroline C. Men of Champoeg: a record of the lives of the pioneers who founded the Oregon government. Portland, OR: Metropolitan Press, 1932.

- Dodge, Major General Grenville M. Biographical Sketch of James Bridger: mountaineer, trapper and guide. New York: Unz, 1905.
- Dougan, R. I. Cowichan My Valley, 2nd ed. Cobble Hill, B.C.: author, 1973.
- Douglas, J. S., "Jeremy Pinch and the War Department," Oregon Historical Quarterly 39 (1938): 425-31
- Druke, Mary A.
 "Iroquois and Iroquoian in Canada." Native Peoples: The Canadian Experience. Morrison & Wilson, ed. Toronto: McClelland and Stewart, 1986, 302-24.
 "Linking Arms: The Structure of Iroquois Intertribal Diplomacy." Beyond the Covenant Chain: The Iroquois and Their Neighbors in Indian North America, 1600-1800. D. K. Richter and J. H. Merrell, eds., Syracuse: Syracuse University Press, 1987: 29-39
- Drury, Clifford Merrill,
 Marcus Whitman, M.D., Pioneer and Martyr. Caldwell, ID: Caxton, 1937.
 The Diaries and Letters of Henry H. Spalding and Asa Bowen Smith relating to the Nez Perce Mission 1838-1842, Glendale, CA, 1938.
 Elkanah and Mary Walker, Pioneers among the Spokanes. Caldwell, Idaho, Caxton, 1940.
 "The Columbia Maternal Association", Oregon Historical Quarterly 39 (1938): 99-122.
 Marcus and Narcissa Whitman and the Opening of Old Oregon, vols. I & II. Glendale, CA: The Arthur H. Clark Co., 1973.
- Dunn, Rev. A. Experiences in Langley and Memoirs of Prominent Pioneers. New Westminster, B.C.: Jackson Printing, 1913.
- Dunn, John.
 The History of the Oregon Territory and British North-American fur trade: with an account of the habits and customs of the principle native tribes of the northern continent, London, Edwards and Hughes, 1844.
 The Oregon Territory and the British North American Fur Trade. With an account of the habits and customs of the principle native tribes of the northern continent. Philadelphia, G. B. Zieber & Co., 1845.
- Dyer, Gwynne & Tina Viljoen. The Defence of Canada: In the Arms of the Empire, 1760-1939. Toronto: McClelland & Stewart Inc., 1990.
- Eaton, W. Clement. "Nathaniel Wyeth's Oregon Expeditions", The Pacific Historical Review 4, no. 2, California, June 1935
- Eells, Myron. Transactions of the Oregon Pioneer Association, 1897.
- Elliot, David R. "Robert Dunsmuir", The Canadian Encyclopedia, Edmonton: Hurtig Publishers, 1985: 524.
- Elliot, Gordon R. Quesnel, Commercial Centre of the Cariboo Gold Rush. Quesnel: Cariboo Historical Society, 1958.
- Elliot, Thompson Coit.
 "Doctor Robert Newell: Pioneer," Oregon Historical Quarterly 9 (1908): 103-26.
 "Peter Skene Ogden," Oregon Historical Quarterly 11 (1920): 229-78
 "The Surrender at Astoria in 1818." Oregon Historical Quarterly 19 (1918): 271-82.
 "The Fur Trade in the Columbia River Basin Prior to 1811." Oregon Historical Quarterly 15, (1914), p. 241-251.
 "The fur trade in the Columbia River basin prior to 1811." Washington Historical Quarterly 6, 1 (January 1915): 3-10.
 "In the Land of the Kootenay." Oregon Historical Quarterly 27 (1926): 279-291.
 "British Values in Oregon, 1847." Oregon Historical Quarterly 32 (1831): 27-45.
 "Richard (Captain Johnny) Grant." Oregon Historical Quarterly 36 (1935): 1-13.
 "The Strange Case of David Thompson and Jeremy Pinch" Oregon Historical Society XL (1939): 188-199.
- Emmons, George Thornton and de Laguna, Frederica. The Tlingit Indians, Seattle: University of Washington Press, 1991.
- Essig, E. O, Adele Ogden, & Clarence J. DuFour. Fort Ross, California Outpost of Russian Alaska, 1812-1841. Richard A. Pierce, ed., Kingston: Limestone Press, 1991.
- Estergren, M. Marion. Kit Carson: A Portrait in Courage. Norman: University of Oklahoma Press, 1962.
- Evans, Elwood, et al. History of the Pacific Northwest: Oregon and Washington, vol. 1. Portland: North Pacific History Company, 1889.
- Ewers, John C. "Iroquois Indians in the Far West." Montana, the Magazine of Western History 13, 2 (Spring 1963): 2-10.
- Farnham, Thomas J. History of Oregon Territory, It Being A Demonstration of These United States of North America to the Same. New York: New World Press, 1844.
- Favrholdt, Ken.
 "Cumcloups' and the River of Time." The Beaver 67, 4 (August-September 1987): 19-21.
 "Fort Simpson, B. C.: An Investigation of the Original H.B.C. Establishment Located on the Nass River, 1831-1834." August 1978 (Held in BCA AD MSS 1152)

- Fawcett, Edgar. Some Reminiscences of Old Victoria. Toronto: William Briggs, 1912.
- Fedorova, Svetlana G. The Russian Population in Alaska and California, late 18th Century – 1867. Richard A Pierce and Alton S. Donnelly, trans & eds., Kingston, ON: Limestone, c. 1973.
- Fisher, Robin. Contact & Conflict: Indian-European Relations in British Columbia, 1774-1890. Vancouver: University of British Columbia Press, 1980.
- Fereday, R. P. "The Lairds and Eighteenth-Century Orkney." The People of Orkney. Kirkwall: The Orkney Press, 1988.
- Fogdall, Alberta Brooks. Royal Family of the Columbia: Dr. John McLoughlin and His Family. Fairfield, WA: Ye Galleon Press, 1978.
- Forbush, Harold. "The 'Camp Henry Rocks'", Snake River Echoes, vol. 10, no. 4, 1981
- Forbes, Molly. Lac La Hache: Historical Notes on the Early Settlers. Quesnel: Big Country Printers, 1970.
- Forrest, Earle E. "Patrick Gass, Carpenter of the Lewis and Clark Expedition." Bulletin of the Missouri Historical Society 4 (July 1948): 217-22.
- French, C. H. & Ware, Wm. "British Columbia Posts" The Beaver (April 1924): 254.
- Galbraith, John S.
 "The British and Americans at Fort Nisqually 1845-1859." Pacific Northwest Quarterly (April 1950): 109-120;
 The Hudson's Bay Company as an Imperial Factor, 1821-1869. Toronto: University of Toronto, 1957.
- Galois, R. M. "Measles, 1847-1850: The First Modern Epidemic in British Columbia." BC Studies 109 (Spring 1996): 31-43.
- Gast, R. H. Don Francisco de Paula Marin: a Biography; the Letters and Journal of Francisco de Paula Marin. Agnes C. Conrad, ed. Honolulu: University Press of Hawaii, 1973.
- Gaston, Joseph. The Centennial History of Oregon 1811-1912. Chicago: S. J. Clarke Pub Co., 1912.
- Gaul, R. W. "Death of the Thunderbolt: Some Notes on the Final Illness of Milton Sublette." Bulletin of the Missouri Historical Society 18, no. 1 (October, 1961)
- Geer, Theodore T. Fifty Years in Oregon: Experiences, Observations, and Commentaries Upon Men, Measures, and Customs in Pioneer Days and Later Times, New York, The Neale Publishing Company, 1912
- Gellatly, Dorothy Hewlett. A Bit of Okanagan History. Kelowna Printing Co., 1932.
- Gehri, Alfred L. "Fort Nisqually Lives Again." The Beaver, 265 No. 2 (September, 1834)
- Ghent, W. H. "'Jeremy Pinch' Again", Oregon Historical Society XL (1939): 307-14.
- Gibbons, James. "Iroquois in the North West Territories." Annual Archaeological Report (1903): 125-26.
- Gibson, James R.
 "Bostonians and Muscovites on the Northwest Coast, 1788-1841." British Columbia: Historical Readings. Peter W. Ward, ed. Vancouver: Douglas & McIntyre, 1981.
 "Smallpox on the Northwest Coast, 1835-1838," BC Studies 56 (Winter 1982-83): 61-81
Otter Skins, Boston Ships, and China Goods; The Maritime Fur Trade of the Northwest Coast, 1785-1841. Quebec: McGill University Press, 1992.
- Giesecke, E. W.,
Search for the Tonquin. Clatsop Co., Oregon: Clatsop County Historical Society, 1990.
 "Search for the Settlement Ship Tonquin, Astor's Lost Vessel of 1811" [Olympia, WA]: [s.n.], 1998.
- Gilbert, Bil. Westering Man: The Life of Joseph Walker. New York: Atheneum, 1983.
- Girard, Charlotte S. M.
 "Sir James Douglas' School Days." BC Studies 35 (Autumn 1977): 56-63.
 "Sir James Douglas' Mother and Grandmother," BC Studies 44 (Winter 1979-80): 25-31.
 "Some Further Notes on the Douglas Family," BC Studies 72 (Winter 1986-87): 3-27.
- Glegg, Evelyn. A Harmsworth Saga of the Nineteenth Century, privately printed, 1984. (a copy in HBCA)
- Goodman, Walt. E. Chewelah and Vicinity, Before 1968, Chewelah, WA: n. p., 1971.
- Gough, Barry M.
The Royal Navy and the Northwest Coast of North America 1810-1914: A Study of British Maritime Ascendancy. Vancouver: University of British Columbia Press, 1971.
 "Sir James Douglas as Seen by his Contemporaries: A Preliminary List," BC Studies, 44 (Winter 1979-80): 32-40.
The Northwest Coast, British Navigation, Trade and Discoveries to 1812, UBC Press, 1992.
- Goult, Barrie H. E. "First and Last Days of the Princess Royal." British Columbia Historical Quarterly III (1839): 15-24.
- Gowans, Fred R. Rocky Mountain Rendezvous, A History of the Fur Trade Rendevous, 1825-1840. Layton, UT: Gibbs Smith, 1985.

- Grabowski, Jan & Nicole St-Onge. "Montreal Iroquois engagés in the Western Fur Trade, 1800-1821." From Rupert's Land to Canada, Theodore Binnema et al, eds. Edmonton: The University of Alberta Press (2001): 23-49.
- Graham, Patrick J. Colville Collection Book I...a collection of historical articles and stories about Colville and northeastern Washington. Colville, Washington, Statesman-Examiner, Inc, 1989
- Green, George. "The Fort Builder", The Vancouver Province, January 24, 1953.
- Greening, Margaret. "Anthony Caroso, pioneer Kelowna Rancher," The Thirty Second Report of the Okanagan Historical Society 1968. Kelowna: Okanagan Historical Society, 1968
- Gustapson, Lillian. Memories of the Chemanus Valley, A History of People. Chemanus, BC: Chemanus Valley Historical Society, 1978.
- Hacking, Norman R. and W. Kaye Lamb. The Princess Story: a Century and a Half of West Coast Shipping, Vancouver: Mitchell Press, 1976.
- Haeger, John D. John Jacob Astor: Business and Finance in the Early Republic. Detroit: Wayne State University Press, c. 1991.
- Hafen, L. R., ed.
Mountain Men and Fur Traders of the Far West, Lincoln, University of Nebraska Press, 1982.
French Fur Traders & Voyageurs in the American West, Lincoln, University of Nebraska Press, 1997.
- Hafen, L. R. & W. J. Ghent. Broken Hand; the Life Story of Thomas Fitzpatrick, Chief of the Mountain Men, Denver, 1931.
- Hafen L. R. & Ann W. "Thomas Fitzpatrick," Mountain Men and Fur Traders of the Far West. Lincoln: University of Nebraska Press (1982) 236-52.
- Haines, Francis D. Jr. "Francois Payette, Master of Fort Boise", Pacific Northwest Quarterly 47, no. 2 (April 1956: 57-61.
- Hamilton, Beatrice. Salt Spring Island. Vancouver: Mitchell Press, 1969.
- Hanna, Christopher. "George Mason/George Balls." (unpublished manuscript), 1996.
- Harris, Burton. John Colter, his years in the Rockies. New York: Scribner's, 1952.
- Harvey A. G.
 "Okanagan Place Names: Their Origin and Meaning", The Twelfth Report of the Okanagan Historical Society, 1948. Kelowna: Okanagan Historical Society, 1948.
 "David Stuart: Okanagan Pathfinder and Founder of Kamloops." British Columbia Historical Quarterly IX: 277-288
- Hart, Herbert M. Old Forts of the Northwest. Seattle: Superior Publishing Company, 1963.
- Hatfield, H. R.
 "On the Brigade Trail." The Beaver, Summer, 1974.
 "Chief Trader Paul Fraser: His Parentage and Grave." Okanagan Historical Society 44, (1988): 23-24.
- Haynes, Bessie Doak. "Gold on Queen Charlotte's Island." The Beaver (Winter 1966, Outfit 297): 4-11.
- Hebard, Grace Raymond. Sacajawea, a guide and interpreter of the Lewis and Clark Expedition, with an account of the travels of Toussaint Charboneau, and of Jean Baptiste, the expedition papoose. Glendale, CA: Arthur H. Clark Co., 1933.
- Hendrickson, James E. "Two Letters from Walter Colquhoun Grant," BC Studies 26 (Summer 1975): 3-15.
- Henning, Robert A., ed, "The Stikine River." The Alaska Geographic Society 6, (No. 4, 1979) 44-47, 88
- Henry, John Frazier. Early Maritime Artists of the Pacific Northwest Coast, 1741-1841. Vancouver: Douglas & McIntyre, 1984.
- Hill, Beth.
The Remarkable World of Frances Barkley: 1769-1845, Sidney, B.C.: Gray's Publishing, 1978.
Times Past: Salt Spring Island Houses and History before the turn of the century, Ganges, B. C.: Community Arts Council, 1983.
- Hill, Douglas. Great Emigrations I, The Scots to Canada, London: Gentry Books, 1972
- Hill, J. M. "The most Reverend Mosteste Demers, D. D., first Bishop of Vancouver Island," CCHA Report, 1953.
- Himes, G. H. "History of the Press of Oregon, 1839-1850", Oregon Historical Quarterly 3 (1902): 327-70.
- Hines, Rev. G.
Oregon: its History, Condition and Prospects: containing a description of the geography, climate and productions with personal adventures among the Indians during a residence of the author on the Plains bordering the Pacific while connected with the Oregon Mission; embracing extended notes on a voyage around the world. Buffalo, NY: G. H. Derby, 1851.
The History of North Washington: An Illustrated History of Stevens, Ferry, Okanogan and Chelan Counties, State of Washington. [Spokane, WA]: Western Historical Publishing Co., 1904.
- Holliday, J. S. The World Rushed In: The California Gold Rush Experience. New York: Simon and Shuster, 1981.
- Holman, Frederick V. "A Brief History of the Oregon Provisional Government and What Caused its Formation." Oregon Historical Quarterly 13 (1912): 89-139.

- Holmes, Kenneth L. Ewing Young, Master Trapper. Binford & Mort, 1967.
- Homick, Teresa. A Social History of Fort St. James, 1896, Ottawa: Parks Canada, 1984.
- Howay, F. W., W. N. Sage and H F. Angus. British Columbia and the United States, The North Pacific Slope from Fur Trade to Aviation. H. F. Angus, ed. Toronto: Ryerson Press, 1942.
- Howay, Frederick William.
 "Angus McDonald: A Few Items of the West." Washington Historical Quarterly 8, 3 (July 1917): 189-229.
 "A List of Trading Vessels in Maritime Fur Trade, 1785-1825." Transactions of the Royal Society of Canada, 3rd Series, Section II. Ottawa: Royal Society of Canada (1930-34).
 "The Loss of the Tonquin." Washington Historical Quarterly 13, 2 (1922): 83-92.
 "An Outline Sketch of the Maritime Fur Trade." Annual Report of the Canadian Historical Association, 1932.
 "Brig Owhyhee in the Columbia, 1827." Oregon Historical Quarterly 34 (1933): 324-29.
 "The Brig Owhyhee in the Columbia, 1829-30." Oregon Historical Quarterly 35 (1934): 10-21.
A List of Trading Vessels in the Maritime Fur Trade, 1785-1825, Richard Pierce, ed., Limestone Press, Kingston, 1973.
The Hawaiian Islands, Early Relations with the Pacific Northwest, Honolulu: Captain Cook Sesquicentennial Commission, Archives of Hawaii Commission, 1930.
- Hubbard, Margurite (articles), Citizen, Prince George, "Granny Seymour Story," June 6, 1960; "Mariya's Bold Look Arouses Abductor," June 7, 1960; "Bouchey Orders Hunt For Missing Daughter," June 8, 1960; "Abducted Woman Too Proud For Her Own Good", June 9, 1960; "Scouts Recount Story of Days with Indians", June 23, 1960.
- Huggins, Edward.
 "Reminiscences of Puget Sound," Portland Oregonian, 1900-1901, Gary Fuller Reese, ed., Tacoma, 1984.
Tacoma Weekly Ledger, March 4, 1892.
- Hulbert, Archer Butler and Dorothy Printup. Marcus Whitman, Crusader, vol. 2-3 Denver, CO: Stewart Commission of Colorado College and Denver Public Library, 1938-41.
- Hunter, James. Glencoe and the Indians, Edinburgh: Mainstream Publishing, 1996.
- Hunter, Martin. Canadian Wilds. Columbus: A. R. Harding, 1935.
- Hussey, J. A.
A history of Fort Vancouver and its physical structure. Tacoma: Washington State Historical Society, c. 1957.
Chinook Point and the Story of Fort Columbia, State Parks, Olympia, 1957.
Champoeg: Place of Transition, A Disputed History. Portland, Oregon: Oregon Historical Society, 1967.
Fort Vancouver, Historic Structures Report, Historical Data, Volume 1, National Historic Site, 1972.
 "Unpretending' but not 'Indecent': Living Quarters at Mid-19th Century HBC Posts." The Beaver (Spring 1975, Outfit 305:4): 12-17.
Fort Vancouver, Historic Structures Report, Historical Data, Volume 2, National Historic Site, 1976.
 Imser, Cornelius M., "James Bridger." Mountain Men and Fur Traders of the Far West. Leroy R. Hafen, ed., Lincoln: University of Nebraska Press, 1982: 252-271.
- Innis, Harold Adams.
The Fur Trade of Canada, University of Toronto Library, 1927.
 "The North West Company." Canadian Historical Review 7, Toronto: University of Toronto Press, 1927.
- Ireland, Willard E. "Captain Walter Colquhoun Grant," British Columbia Historical Quarterly 17 (January-April 1953): 87-125.
- Irving, Washington.
Astoria, Binford & Mort, Portland, (no date) (2)
The Adventures of Captain Bonneville, New York: Bracebridge Hall, The Co-Operative Publication Society, Inc., n.d.
- Jacob, John G. The life and times of Patrick Gass, the sole survivor of the overland expedition to the Pacific, under Lewis and Clark, in 1804-5-6, Wellsburg. Virginia: Jacob & Smith, 1859.
- Jenish, D'Arcy. "The Great Map." The Beaver 84, 1 (February-March 2004): 36-39.
- Jenson, Philip.
 "The Sisters of St. Ann & Their Vancouver Island Mission." The Beaver 78, 4 (August-September 1998): 29-34.
 "Odyssey: B. C.'s Black Pioneers." The Beaver 79, 1 (February-March 1999): 28-32.
 "Strange Voyage." The Beaver 84, 2 (April-May 2004): 38-40.
- Jerzyk, Anna. "Winship Settlement in 1810 was Oregon's Jamestown." Oregon Historical Quarterly 41 (1940): 175-81.

- Johnson, Alice M., "Edward and Frances Hopkins of Montreal", The Beaver, (Autumn, 1971): 4-17.
- Johnson, F. Henry. "Fur Trading Days at Kamloops." British Columbia Historical Quarterly I (July 1937): 171-185.
- Johnson, Olga Weydemeyer. Flathead and Kootenay: The Rivers, the Tribes and the Region's Traders, Glendale, CA: Arthur H. Clark, 1969.
- Johnson, Patricia, M.
A Short History of Nanaimo, Nanaimo: City of Nanaimo Centennial Committee, 1958.
 "Fort Rupert," Beaver, Spring 1972
- Johnson, Robert C. John McLoughlin: "Father of Oregon." Portland, OR: Binford & Mort, 1958.
- Jones, Larry. "Location of Fort Hall." (manuscript) Idaho State Historical Society, nd.
- Judd, Laura Fish. Honolulu: Sketches of Life in the Hawaiian Islands from 1828 to 1861, Dale L. Morgan, ed., Chicago: The Lakeside Press, R. R. Donnelley & Sons Company, 1966.
- Judson, Katharine B. "The British Side of the Restoration of Fort Astoria." Oregon Historical Quarterly 20, 4 (December 1919): 305-33.
- Karamanski, Theodore J.
 "The Iroquois and the Fur Trade of the Far West", The Beaver, 314 (4), 1982.
Fur Trade and Exploration: Opening the Far Northwest, 1821-1852, University of Oklahoma Press, Norman, 1983.
- Kardas, S. "The People Brought This and the Clatsop became Rich; A view of Nineteenth Century Fur Trade Relationships on the Lower Columbia between Chinookan Speakers, Whites and Kanakas." PhD Dissertation, Bryn Mawr College, 1971.
- Kayser, Manfred et al. "Melanesian Origin of Polynesian Y Chromosomes." Current Biology, 10 (20), p. 1237-1246. 2000.
- Kerr, J. B. Biographical Dictionary of Well Known British Columbians, Vancouver, B.C.: Kerr & Begg, 1890.
- Kingston, C. S.
 "Spokane House State Park in Retrospect." Pacific Northwest Quarterly 39, 3 (July 1948): 181-99.
 "Colville Road...Oldest of the Pioneer Highways." Colville Collection, Book I. Colville, Statesman-Examiner, 1989, p. 75-78
- Kittson, James Gordon. The History of the Kittson Family in Canada. North Vancouver: author, 1986.
- Klan, Yvonne Mearns. "Kanaka William." The Beaver (Spring 1979): 38-43
- Klan, Yvonne Mearns & Trower, Peter. "Chala-oo-chick, the First Fort George." British Columbia History 38, 2 (2005): 19-20
- Klippenstein, Frieda Esau. "Myth-Making at Fort St. James." The Beaver 74, 4 (August-September 1994): 22-29.
- Knight, Rolf. Indians at Work, An Informal History of Native Indian Labour in British Columbia 1858-1930. Vancouver: New Star Books Ltd., 1978.
- Kohl, Stephen W. "Strangers in a Strange Land", Pacific Northwest Quarterly 73 (January 1982): 20-28.
- Koppel, Tom. Kanaka: The Untold Story of Hawaiian Pioneers in British Columbia and the Pacific Northwest, Vancouver: Whitecap Books, 1995.
- Kovačević, Dr. Ante. "On the Descent of John Owen Dominis, Prince Consort of Queen Liliuokalani," The Hawaiian Journal of History 10 (1976): 3-24.
- Kuykendall, Ralph. S.
 "An Hawaiian in Mexico, 1789-1790," 32nd Annual Report, Hawaiian Historical Society, 1923 ???
 "James Colnett and the 'Princess Royal'", Oregon Historical Quarterly 25 (1924): 36-52.
- Kuykendall, R. S. & A. G. Day. Hawaii: A History. New York: Prentice Hall, 1948.
- Laing, F. W. Colonial Farm Settlers on the Mainland of British Columbia, 1858-1871. Victoria, B. C., 1939.
- Lamb, W. Kaye,
 "Early Lumbering on Vancouver Island", Part 1, British Columbia Historical Quarterly 2 (1938): 31-53.
 "The Mystery of Mrs. Barkley's Diary," BC Historical Quarterly 6 (1942): 31-59.
 "The Founding of Fort Victoria." British Columbia Historical Quarterly 7, 2 (April 1943): 71-92.
 "The Governorship of Richard Blanshard," British Columbia Historical Quarterly 14, (January-April 1950): 1-40.
 "Some Notes on the Douglas Family," British Columbia Historical Quarterly 17 (Jan-Apr. 1953): 41-51.
- Landy, Lauries. "A Hudson's Bay Post at Keremeos." Forty Fifth Report of the Okanagan Historical Society, 1981.
- Lang, Herbert O. ed. History of the Willamette Valley: being a description of the valley and its resources with an account of its discovery and settlement by white men, and its subsequent history, together with personal reminiscences of its early pioneers. Portland, OR: Himes & Lang, 1885.
- Langford, N. P. Vigilante Days and Ways, Missoula, Mont.: Montana University Press, 1957.
- Large, R. Geddes,

- The Skeena, River of Destiny*, Mitchell Press Limited, Vancouver, B. C. 1957, Drums and Scalpel: From Native Healers to Physicians on the North Pacific Coast. Vancouver, B. C.: Mitchell Press Limited, 1968.
- Larsell, Olaf. The Doctor in Oregon: a medical history. Portland: Binford & Mort, 1947.
- Lavender, David. The Fist in the Wilderness. New York: Doubleday, 1964.
- Lee, D. and Frost, J. H. Ten Years in Oregon, New York: authors, 1844.
- Lent, D. Geneva. West of the Mountains, James Sinclair and the Hudson's Bay Company. Seattle: University of Washington Press, 1963.
- Lewis & Dryden. Marine History of the Pacific Northwest, E. W. Wright, ed., Portland: Lewis & Dryden Printing Co., 1895.
- Lewis, Palmer G. "Babine Lake." The Beaver (summer 1968): 26-34.
- Lewis, William S. "Archibald McDonald: Biography and Genealogy." Washington Historical Quarterly 9, 2 (April 1918): 93-102.
- Little, C. H. 18th Century Maritime Influences on the History and Place Names of British Columbia. Madrid, España: Editorial Naval, Museo Naval, 1991.
- Loewenberg, Robert J. Equality on the Oregon Frontier: Jason Lee and the Methodist Mission, 1834-43. Seattle: University of Washington Press, 1976.
- Louis, Shirley. We Heard it in the Bushes. Calgary: The Word is Out Press, 1996.
- Lugrin, N. de Bertrand. Pioneer Women of Vancouver Islands, 1843-1866, vol. 1. Victoria, B. C.: The Women's Canadian Club of Vancouver Island, 1928.
- Lyman, Horace. S.,
 "Reminiscences of Louis Labonte [Jr.]", Oregon Historical Quarterly 1, 2 (1899): 169-88
History of Oregon; the growth of an American State. New York: North Pacific Pub. Society, 1903.
- McArthur, Lewis A.
Oregon Geographic Names, Portland: Binford & Mort, 1952.
 "Oregon Geographic Names Supplement to Book." Oregon Historical Society 43 (1942): 299-317; ibid 44 (1943): 1-18; 176-218; 286-312; 339-60; ibid 45 (1944): 42-74.
- McClung, Quantrille D. Carson-Bent-Boggs Genealogy. Denver: Denver Public Library, 1962
- MacGillivray, Royce. A History of Glengarry. Belleville, Ont., Mike Pub. Co., 1979.
- McGregor, D. A. "Old Whitehead'-Peter Skene Ogden," British Columbia Historical Quarterly 17 (1963): 195.
- McKay, Harvey, J. St. Paul, Oregon, 1830-1890. Portland: Binford & Mort, 1980.
- McKay, John, et al. The Hudson's Bay Company's 1835 steam ship Beaver. St. Catherines, Ont: Vanwell, 2001
- McKelvie, B.A.
Pageant of B.C.: Glimpses into the Romantic Development of Canada's Far Western Province, Toronto: Thomas Nelson & Sons (Canada) Ltd, 1956.
Tales of Conflict: Indian-White Murders and Massacres in Pioneer British Columbia, Surrey, B. C. Heritage House Publishing Company Ltd., 1949.
 "Jason Allard: fur trader, Prince and Gentleman." B. C. Historical Quarterly 9 no. 4 (October 1945): 243-257.
- McMillan, Alan D. Native Peoples and Cultures of Canada. Vancouver: Douglas & McIntyre, 1995.
- Mackenzie, Cecil W. Donald Mackenzie, "King of the Northwest"; The story of an international hero of the Oregon country and the Red River Settlement at Lower Fort Garry. Los Angeles: Ivan Deach, Jr., 1937.
- Mackie, Richard S.
 "The Colonization of Vancouver Island, 1849-1858." BC Studies, 96. Winter 1992-93: 3-40.
Trading Beyond the Mountains, The British Fur Trade in the Pacific, 1793-1843, Vancouver: UBC Press, 1997.
- MacLachlin, M.
 "The Founding of Fort Langley." The Company on the Coast. E. Blanche Norcross, ed. Nanaimo: Nanaimo Historical Society, 1983: 9-28.
 "The Founding of Fort Langley." British Columbia Historical News 32, No. 4 (Fall 1999): 4-8
 "The Case for Francis Annance." The Beaver (April May 1993): 35-39.
- McLean, John. Notes of a Twenty Five Year's Service in the Hudson's Bay Territory, vol. I, London: Richard Bentley, 1949.
- McLean, Marianne. The People of Glengarry: Highlanders in Transition, 1745-1820, Montreal: McGill-Queen's University Press, 1991.
- McNamee, Sister Mary Dominica. "F. X. Matthieu, Refugee, Trapper & Settler, Salem, Oregon, June 14, 1878, Oregon Historical Society", Willamette Interlude. Palo Alto, CA: Pacific Books, 1959.
- Mallandaine, E.

- First Victoria Directories, 1860-71, Victoria, B. C.
- Malloy, Mary. "Boston Men" on the Northwest Coast the American Maritime Fur Trade, 1788-1844. Kingston: Limestone Press, 1998.
- Maloney, Alice B.
 "Alexander Carson, Wilhamot Freeman." Oregon Historical Quarterly 39 (1938): 16-21.
Fur Brigade to the Bonaventura: John Work's California Expedition 1832-1833 for the HBC, Alice B. Maloney, ed. San Francisco: California Historical Society, 1945
- Manery, Sam, B. "Keremeos Chronicles." The Twelfth Report of the Okanagan Historical Society, 1948.
- Meggs, Geoff. Salmon: The Decline of the British Columbia Fishery. Vancouver: Douglas and McIntyre, 1991.
- Meilleur, Helen. A Pour of Rain: Stories from a West Coast Fort. Victoria, B. C.: Sono Nis, 1980.
- Meinig, D.W. The Great Columbia Plain: A Historical Geography, 1805-1910. Seattle: University of Washington Press, 1968.
- Meyers, J. A.,
 "Jacques Raphael Finlay." Washington Historical Quarterly 10, 3 (July 1919): 163-67.
 "Finan Macdonald - Explorer, Fur Trader and Legislator." Washington Historical Quarterly 13, 3 (1922): 196-208.
- Miller, Emma Gene. Clatsop County, Oregon: Its History, Legends and Industries. Portland, Oregon: Binford & Mort, 1958.
- Mitchell, Ross. "John Rowand Chief Factor," The Beaver, (1935): 37-40.
- Morgan, Dale L.
The West of William H. Ashley. Denver: The Old West Publishing Company, 1964.
Jedediah Smith and the Opening of the West. Lincoln, NB: University of Nebraska Press, 1964.
 Morgan, Ellen. "The Story of Julia Hamburger Apnaut", Indian Time, vol. 2 #1, September-December, Summer, 1953, vol. 2, #11, Summer 1854.
- Morice, A.G.
The History of the Northern Interior of British Columbia, (Formerly New Caledonia) [1660 to 1880], (1905). Smithers, B. C.: Interior Stationery (1970), 1978.
Disparus et Survivants: Etudes Ethnographiques Sur Les Indiens de L'Amerique du Nord. Winnipeg: Author, 1928.
Du Lac Stuart a L'Ocean Pacifique. Extrait du "Bulletin de la Societ Neuchateloise de geographie", Tome SV, 1904.
Neuchatel: Attinger, 1904.
Dictionnaire Historique Des Canadiens et des Metis Francis de L'Ouest, Kamloops: author, 1908.
- Morin, Gail. Metis Families. Pawtucket, RI: Quintin Publications, c. 2001.
- Morrison, Brad.
 "Duncan Lidgate: Skillful in building a fledgling community." The Beachcomber. Saanich, Jan. 21, 1998.
 "From HBC middleman to Victoria's first bigtime milkman." The Beachcomber. Saanich: Nov. 19, 1997.
 "Hudson's Bay workers played role in Victoria militia." The Beachcomber, Saanich, Nov. 26, 1997.
 "'The best accomodation for man or beast...'" The Beachcomber, Saanich, July 9, 1997.
 "Henry Wain, Man of Distinction." The Beachcomber, Saanich, B. C., June 4, 1997: 7. June 18, 1997: 7.
- Morrison, Samuel Elliott.
 "Boston traders in Hawaiian Islands, 1789-1823." Washington Historical Quarterly 12, 3 (July 1921): 166-201.
 "New England and the Opening of the Columbia River Salmon trade, 1830." Oregon Historical Quarterly 28 (1927): 111-32.
- Morse, John Jesse.
Cumloops. Kamloops: Kamloops High School 1948.
Kamloops, The Inland Capital: a condensed history. Kamloops: Kamloops Museum Association, 1958.
- Morton, Jamie. Fort Langley, An Overview of the Operations of a Diversified Fur Trade Post, 1848-1858 and the Physical Context in 1858. Ottawa: Parks Canada, 1980.
- Mouat, A. N. "Notes on the Norman Morison." B. C. Historical Quarterly 3, (1939): 213-14
- Munnick, Harriet. "Mission Role Call," in Marion County History 11, (1972-76): 23-26.
- Murray, Peter. The Vagabond Fleet: A Chronicle of the North Pacific Schooner Trade. Victoria, B. C.: Sono Nis, 1988.
- Neatby, Hilda. Quebec, The Revolutionary Age, 1760-1791, Toronto: McClelland and Stewart Ltd, 1966
- Nelson, Denys. Fort Langley 1827-1927; A Century of Settlement in the Valley of the Lower Fraser River, Vancouver: Art, Historical and Scientific Association of Vancouver, B. C., July 1927.
- Newman, Peter C.,
Caesars of the Wilderness, Markham, Ontario: Penguin, 1987.
Company of Adventurers, Markham, Ontario: Penguin, 1987.
- Newsome, Eric. The Coal Coast, The History of Coal Mining in B. C. - 1835-1900. Victoria: Orca, 1989.

- Nicks, Trudy. "The Iroquois and the Fur Trade in Western Canada." Old Trails and New Directions. Arthur J. Ray and Carol Judd, eds. Toronto and Buffalo: University of Toronto Press (1980): 88-101.
- Nisbet, Jack.
Sources of the River: Tracking David Thompson Across Western North America. Seattle: Sasquatch Books, 1994.
The Mapmakers's Eye: David Thompson on the Columbia Plateau. Pullman: Washington State University Press, 2005
- Nokes, Richard J. Almost a Hero: The Voyages of John Meares, R.N., to China, Hawaii and the Northwest Coast. Pullman, WA: Washington State University Press, 1998.
- Norcross, E. Blanche.
The Warm Land. Duncan, B. C.: author, 1959.
Nanaimo Retrospective, Nanaimo: Nanaimo Historical Society, 1979.
Company on the Coast, Nanaimo: Nanaimo Historical Society, 1983.
- Nute, Grace Lee. "A Botanist at Fort Colville." The Beaver, 277 (Sept. 1946): 28-31.
- O'Byrne, William. A Naval Biographical Dictionary Comprising the Life and Services of Every Living Officer in Her Majesty's Navy, from the Rank of Admiral of the Fleet to That of Lieutenant Inclusive. London: John Murray, 1849.
- Ogden, Adele. The California Sea Otter Trade, 1784-1843. Berkeley: University of California Press, 1941.
- Ogden, William. The Ogden Family in America, Elizabethtown Branch and Their English Ancestry; John Ogden, The Pilgrim and His Descendants, 1640-1906, Their History, Biography and Genealogy. Lawrence Van Alstyne & Rev. Charles Burr Ogden, Phd, ed., Philadelphia: L.B. Lippincott Company, 1908.
- O'Grady, Alix. "Russians on the West Coast." The Beaver, 68, 6 (December 1988-January 1989): 23-29.
- O'Hara, Edwin Vincent. Pioneer Catholic History of Oregon. Portland: Glass & Prudhomme Co., 1911.
- Okun, S. B. The Russian American Company. Carl Ginsburg, trans. New York: Octagon Books, 1979.
- Olipant, J. Orin.
 "The Library of Archibald McKinlay, Oregon Fur Trader." Washington Historical Quarterly, 25 (Jan. 1934): 23-36.
 "The Library of a Fur Trader at Fort Umpqua." Oregon Historical Quarterly, 54 (1953) 27-34.
- Oliver, E. H. ed. The Canadian North-West, vol. II, Ottawa, 1915
- O'Neil, Marion. "The maritime activities of the North West Company, 1813-1821." Washington Historical Quarterly 21, 4 (October 1930): 243-267.
- Olson, Wallace M. A History of Fort Durham: Hudson's Bay Company Trading Post Located in Taku Harbor, 1840-1843 Within the boundary of present day Juneau, Alaska. Juneau: Heritage Research, 1994.
- Overmeyer, Philip H. "Members of First Wyeth Expedition." Oregon Historical Quarterly 36 (1935): 95-101.
- Pambrun, Andrew Dominique. Sixty Years on the Frontier in the Pacific Northwest. Fairfield, WA: Ye Galleon Press, 1978.
- Partoll, Albert J. "Fort Connah: A Frontier Trading Post, 1847-1871." Pacific Northwest Quarterly 30 (1939): 399-415.
- Paterson, T. W.
 "British Columbia Answer to Davy Crockett", The Victoria Daily Colonist (magazine section), November 25, 1995: 4-5.
Outlaws of Western Canada. Langley, B. C.: Mr. Paperback, 1982.
- Patterson, R. M. Trail to the Interior. Toronto: MacMillan, 1966.
- Peers, Elida. "A grandmother of the West." Sooke Mirror, June 24, 1992.
101 Historical Buildings of the Sooke Region. Sooke, BC: Sooke Region Historical Society, 2005.
The Sooke Story: The History and the Heartbeat. Sooke, BC: Sooke Region Museum, 2004
- Pelchat, André. "Ginseng Rush." The Beaver 83, 1 (December 2003-January 2004): 14-17.
- Peltier, Jerome.
Antoine Plante, The Mountain Men and the Fur Trade of the Far West. LeRoy R. Hafen, ed., vol. 5, p. 291-296, Glendale: The Arthur H. Clark Company, 1968.
Antoine Plante - Mountain Man, Rancher, Miner, Guide, Hostler, and Ferryman. Fairfield, WA: Ye Galleon Press, 1983.
 "Neglected Spokane House." The Pacific Northwesterner 5, No. 3, p. 33-41;
- Perrine, Fred S. "Early Days on the Willamette." Oregon Historical Quarterly 25 (1924): 295-312.
- Pethick, Derek.
Victoria, The Fort. Vancouver: Mitchell Press, 1968.
Servant of Two Empires. Vancouver: Mitchell Press, 1969.
S.S. Beaver: The Ship that Saved the West. Vancouver: Mitchell Press, 1970.
First Approaches to the Northwest Coast. Vancouver: Douglas & McIntyre, 1976.

- Petit, S. W. "The Trials and Tribulations of Edward Edwards Langford", British Columbia Historical Quarterly, 17 (January-April, 1953): 5-40.
- Pfaller, Rev. Louis, O.S.B., "Charles Larpenteur", French Fur Traders & Voyageurs in the American West, LeRoy R. Hafen, ed., Lincoln, NB; University of Nebraska Press, 1993, 159-175.
- Phelps, William Dane. Fore and Aft, Leaves from the Life of an Old Sailor. Boston, MA: Nichols & Hall, 1871.
- Philps, Dawson A. "The tragic death of Meriwether Lewis." William and Mary Quarterly, July 1956, ser. 3. vol. 13: 305-18.
- Phillips, Paul Chrisler. The Fur Trade, vols I & II, Norman: University of Oklahoma Press 1961
- Pierce, Richard A.
Russia's Hawaiian Adventure, 1815-1817. Berkeley, CA: University of California Press, 1965.
Russian America, A Biographical Dictionary. Kingston, Ontario: Limestone, 1990.
- Pierce, William Henry. From Potlatch to Pulpit. Vancouver: Vancouver Bindery, 1933.
The Place Between: Aldergrove & Communities. Aldergrove, B. C.: Aldergrove Heritage Society, 1993.
- Peltier, Jerome. Antoine Plante, Mountain Man, Rancher, Miner, Guide, Hostler and Ferryman. Fairfield WA: Ye Galleon Press, 1983.
- Pollard, Juliet Thelma. The Making of the Metis in the Pacific Northwest, Fur Trade Children: Race, Class, and Gender. University of British Columbia Thesis, 1990.
- Porter, Kenneth Wiggins.
"The cruise of the Forester; some new highlights on the Astoria enterprise." Pacific Northwest Quarterly 23, 4 (October 1932): 261-285.
"Joseph Ashton, Astorian Sailor, 1812-15." Oregon Historical Quarterly 31 (1930): 343-50.
John Jacob Astor: Business Man. vol. 1. Cambridge, MA: Harvard University Press, 1931.
"Cruise of the Brig Pedlar." Oregon Historical Quarterly 31 (1930): 223-230
"More about the Brig Pedlar." Oregon Historical Quarterly 33 (1932): 311-312.
"Roll of Overland Astorians, 1810-12." Oregon Historical Quarterly 34 (1933): 103-12.
"Benjamin Clapp: Notes on His Later Life." Washington Historical Quarterly 25, 2 (April 1924): 108-13.
- Porter, Mae Reed & Odessa Davenport, Scotsman in Buckskin: Sir William Drummond Stewart and The Rocky Mountain Fur Trade. New York: Hastings House Publishers, 1963.
Portrait and Biographical Record of the Willamette Valley, Chicago, 1903.
- Powers, Alfred. History of Oregon Literature. Portland OR: Metropolitan Press, 1935.
- "Québécois in Orégon", Memoires de la Societe Genealogique Canadienne-Francaise, vol. 46, #4, hiver 1995.
- Ralston, H. Keith. "Miners and Managers: The Organization of Coal Production on Vancouver Island by the Hudson's Bay Company, 1848-1862" The Company on the Coast. Nanaimo: Nanaimo Historical Society, 1983.
- Ray, Verne F. "Cultural Relations in the Plateau of Northwestern America." Frederick Webb Hodge Anniversary Publication Fund III. Los Angeles: The Southwest Museum, 1939.
- Reed, Henry E. "William Johnson." Oregon Historical Quarterly 34 (1933): 314-23.
- Reese, Gary Fuller, ed. Reminiscences of Puget Sound. Tacoma, 1984.
- Reid, Russell. Sakakawea, the Bird Woman. Bismark, ND: State Historical Society of North Dakota, 1950.
- Reksten, Terry. The Dunsmuir Saga. Vancouver, B. C.: Douglas & McIntyre, 1991.
- Restarick, Rev. H. B. "The First Clergyman Resident in Hawaii." Hawaiian Historical Society 32nd Annual Report, (1923): 54-61.
- Reynolds, Stephen. Journal of Stephen Reynolds, Volume I: 1823-1829. Pauline N. King, ed., Ku Pa'a Incorporated, Honolulu and The Peabody Museum of Salem, 1989.
- Rich, E. E. The History of the Hudson's Bay Company, 1670-1870. London: Hudson's Bay Record Society, 1858-59.
- Richards, Rhys. "United States Trade with China, 1784-1814." The American Neptune, 54, 1994.
- Rickard, T. A. Historic Backgrounds of British Columbia. Vancouver, B. C.: author, 1948.
- Roberts, Eric A. Salt Spring Saga. Ganges, B. C.: Driftwood, 1962.
- Roberts, George B. "The Round Hand of George B. Roberts, The Cowlitz Farm Journal," Thomas Vaughan, ed., Oregon Historical Quarterly, 63: 100-241.
- Robinson, Noel. "Jason Allard Passes", Museum and Art Notes, September 1931, Vol. VI, No. 3: 95.
- Ross, Alexander. The Fur Hunters of the Far West. Kenneth A. Spaulding, ed. Norman: University of Oklahoma Press, 1956.
- Ross, Marvin C. The West of Alfred Jacob Miller (1837) from the Notes and Water Colors in The Walters Art Gallery. Norman: University of Oklahoma Press, 1951.

- Rothenburger, Mel. The Wild McLeans, Victoria: Orca, 1993.
- Ruby, R. and J. A. Brown.
The Chinook Indians: Traders of the Lower Columbia River. Norman: University of Oklahoma Press, 1976.
A Guide to the Indian Tribes of the Pacific Northwest. Norman: University of Oklahoma Press, 1986.
- Runnals, Rev. F. E. The History of Prince George. Vancouver: Wrigley Printing Co., 1946
- Russell, Peter Groundwater. "A Strife of Blood", The Orkney View, Kirkwall, Aug, 1996.
- Sage, Walter N.
Sir James Douglas and British Columbia. Toronto: University of Toronto Press, 1930.
 "Peter Skene Ogden's Notes on Western Caledonia." BCHQ, January 1937, p. 45-56.
- Schlesser, Norman Dennis. Bastion of Empire: The Hudson's Bay Company's Fort Umpqua beng a narrative of the early explorations and the fur trade in Douglas County. Oakland: Oakland Printing Co., 1973
- Schodt, Frederik L & Shel Zolkewich. "Ranald MacDonald's Excellent Adventure." The Beaver 83, 4 (August-September 2003): 29-33.
- Scott, Harvey W.
 "Jason Lee's Place in History." Washington Historical Quarterly 1 (October 1906-July 1907): 21-33.
History of the Oregon Country, vols. I-V. Cambridge: Riverside Press, 1924.
- Scott, Leslie M. "John Work's Journey to the Umpqua River in 1834." Oregon Historical Quarterly 24, (1923).
- Scruggs, Marc. "Anthony D. Allen: A Prosperous American of African Descent in Early 19th Century Hawaii." The Hawaiian Journal of History, 26 (1992): 55-93.
- Sedgwick, Kent. "Chala-oo-chick Revisited." British Columbia History 38, 3 (2005): 26
- Seguin, Margaret, ed. The Tsimshian: Images of the Past; Views for the Present. Vancouver, BC: University of British Columbia Press, 1993.
- Sevenson, J. A. "Disaster in the Dalles." The Beaver (September 1942): 19-21.
- Shaw, William. Golden Dreams and Waking Realities; Being the Adventures of a Gold-Seeker in California and the Pacific Islands. London: Smith, Elder and Co., 1851.
- Silva, Richard. Atlas of Siskiyou County Mines: Register of Mines and Minerals of Kiskiyou County Included. Siskiyou County Historical Society & Museum, 2001.
- Simmons, Deidre. "Annals of the Fur Trade, '...if it can bee Soe Soone done', The making of the Hudson's Bay Company Archives." The Beaver 74, 3 (June-July 1994): 4-12.
- Simpson, Charles E. "The Snake Country Freeman, British Free Traders in Idaho." M.A. Thesis, University of Idaho, 1990.
- Sismey, Eric B. "The Shuttleworths of Okanagan Falls," Thirty Fifth Report of the Okanagan Historical Society, 1971. p. 136-139.
- Skarsten, M. O. George Drouillard, Hunter and Interpreter for Lewis and Clark. Glendale, CA: Arthur H. Clark, 1964.
- Skelton, Robin. They call it the Cariboo. Victoria: Sono Nis, 1980.
- Slater, G. Hollis,
 "New Light on Herbert Beaver." British Columbia Historical Quarterly 6 (Jan. 1942): 13-29.
 "Reverend Robert John Staines: Pioneer Priest, Pedagogue and Political Agitator", British Columbia Historical Quarterly 14 (October 1950): 187-240.
- Smiley, H. D. "The Dalliance of David Thompson," The Beaver (Winter 1972): 40-47
- Smith, Allan H. "The Location of Flathead Post." Pacific Northwest Quarterly 48: 47-54
- Smith, Dorothy Blakey. James Douglas: Father of British Columbia. Toronto: Oxford University Press, 1971.
- Smith, James K. David Thompson: fur trader, explorer, geographer. Toronto: Oxford University Press, 1971.
- Smith, Mary Larratt. Prologue to Norman: The Canadian Bethunes. Oakville, Ont: Mosaie Press/Valley Editions, c. 1976.
- Smyth, David.
 "The Yellowhead Pass and the Fur Trade." BC Studies 64 (Winter 1984-85): 48-73.
 "Tête Jaune," Alberta History, 32, no. 1 (Winter 1984): 1-8.
- Snow, Dean R.
The Iroquois. New York: Blackwell Publishers, 1996.
In Mohawk Country: Early Narratives about a Native People. Dean R. Snow, Charles T. Gehring and William Starna, eds. Syracuse, N.Y.: Syracuse University Press, 1996.
- Spencer, Omar C. The Story of Sauvies Island. Portland: Binford & Mort, 1950
- Spoehr, Alexander. "Fur Traders in Hawaii: The Hudson's Bay Company in Honolulu, 1829-1861," Hawaiian Journal of History 20 (1986): 27-66.

- Sprague, D. N. & R. P. Frye. The genealogy of the first Metis nation: the development and dispersal of the first Red River Settlement, 1820-1900. Winnipeg: Pemmican Publications, c. 1983.
- Spry, Irene M. "Routes Through the Rockies." The Beaver, Outfit 294 (Autumn 1963): 26-39.
- Stangoe, Irene. Looking Back at the Cariboo-Chilcotin. Nanoose Bay, B.C.: Heritage House, 1997.
- Stathers, Mary Lou. Unpublished manuscript on Colinda.
- Stenger, Alison & Steve Hollender. The Logie Dairy, A Surface Collection, Portland: authors, 1987.
- Stewart, W. Brian. The Ermatingers: A 19th-Century Ojibwa-Canadian Family. Vancouver: UBC Press, 2007
- Stoller, Ruth. "Alexander Carson", The Mountain Men and the Fur Trade of the Far West 9. LeRoy R. Hafen, ed., Glendale: Arthur H. Clark., 1972: 43-52.
- Storey, Alice A. et al. "Radiocarbon and DNA Evidence for a pre-Columbian Introduction of Polynesian Chickens to Chile." Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences of the United States of America. 2007.
- Sunder, John E. "William Lewis Sublette." Mountain Men and Fur Traders of the Far West. Lincoln: University of Nebraska Press, 1982.
- Sullivan, Maurice S. Jedediah Smith, Trader and Trailbreaker. New York: Press of the Pioneers, Inc., 1936.
- Swagerty, William R. "Marriage and Settlement Patterns of Rocky Mountain Trappers and Traders." Western Historical Quarterly 11 (1980): 159-180.
- Swanton, John R. Indian Tribes of Washington, Oregon and Idaho. Fairfield, WA: Ye Galleon Press, 1968 (a reprint of Indian Tribes of North America. Washington, D.C.: Smithsonian Institution, Bureau of American Ethnology, 1952 [Bulletin no. 145])
- Terrell, John Upton. Furs By Astor: A Full Story of the Founding of a Great American Fortune. New York: Willam Morrow and Co., 1963.
- Teller, Walter. Five Sea Captains: Amasa Delano, Edmund Fanning, Richard Cleveland, George Coggeshall, Joshua Slocum: Their Own Accounts of voyages Under Sail. New York: Atheneum, 1960.
- Thompson, Erwin N. Whitman Mission National Historic Site. Washington, DC: US Dept. of the Interior, National Parks Service, 1964.
- Shallow Grave at Waiilatpu: The Sagers West. Portland: Oregon Historical Society, 1969.
- Thorn, Charles E. Heroic Life and Tragic Death of Lieutenant Jonathan Thorn, United States Navy. New York: author, 1944.
- Thurman, Michael E. The Naval Department of San Blas: New Spain's Bastion for Alta California and Nootka, 1767-1798. Glendale, CA, Arthur H. Clark Co., 1967.
- Tikhmenev, P. A. The History of the Russian American Company. Richard A. Pierce and Alton S. Donnelly, trans. & eds. Seattle: University of Washington Press, 1978.
- Tobie, Harvey E. "Joseph L. Meek." Mountain Men and Fur Traders of the Far West. L. R. Hafen, ed., Lincoln: University of Nebraska Press, 1965.
- Tolmie, Simon Fraser. "My Father: William Fraser Tolmie, 1812-1886." British Columbia Historical Quarterly, 1 (1937): 227-40.
- Tooker, Elizabeth, ed. An Iroquois Source Book. New York: Garland Publishers, 1985.
- Toynbee, Richard Mouat. Snapshots of Early Salt Spring and other Favoured Islands. Ganges, BC: Mouat's Trading Company Ltd., 1978.
- Transactions of the Nineteenth Annual Reunion of the Oregon Pioneer Association for 1891, Oregon. A Tribute to the Past. Quesnel, BC: Old Age Pensioner's Association, 1985.
- Trigger, Bruce G., ed. Handbook of North American Indians, vol. 15, Northeast, Smithsonian Institution, Washington, 1978.
- Tyrell, J. B. "Letter of Roseman and Perch," Oregon Historical Quarterly 38 (1937): 391-97.
- Upton, Primrose. "Father Pandosy Mission Restoration," Thirty Fifth Report of the Okanagan Historical Society, 1971. Kelowna: Okanagan Historical Society, 1971
- Van Kirk, Sylvia, "Many Tender Ties", Woman in Fur-Trade Society, 1670-1870. Winnipeg, MB: Watson & Dwyer, 1980.
- "Tracing the Fortunes of Five Founding Families of Victoria", BC Studies 115 & 116 (Autumn/Winter, 1997/98): 149-180.
- Vestal, Stanley [Walter Campbell]. Kit Carson: Happy Warrior of the Old West. Boston: Houghton Mifflin Co., 1928.
- Victor, Frances Fuller. River of the West, life and adventure in the Rocky Mountains and Oregon, embracing events in the life-time of a mountain man and pioneer...etc. Hartford Conn., Columbian Book Co.; Newark, N. J., Bliss & Co., 1870.
- The Early Indian Wars of Oregon Compiled from the Oregon Archives and other Original Sources with Muster Rolls*, F. C. Baker, Salem, Oregon, 1894.

- "Flotsom and Jetsom of the Pacific – The Onwhybee, The Sultana and the May Dacre," in Oregon Historical Quarterly 2: 36-54.
- Virgin, Victor E. History of North and South Saanich Pioneers and District. Saanich, BC: Saanich Pioneer Society, 1985.
- Voelker, Frederic E. "William Sherley (Old Bill) Williams." Mountain Men and Fur Traders of the Far West, Leroy R. Hafen, ed., Lincoln, NB: University of Nebraska Press, 1982.
- Wadia, Ruttonjee Ardesir. The Bombay Dockyard and the Wadia Master Builders, Bombay: author, 1955.
- Waite, Donald E. The Langley Story Illustrated: An Early History of the Municipality of Langley. Langley: B.C.: Altona, Friesen, 1977.
- Walbran, Captain John T. British Columbia Coast Names, 1592-1906, Vancouver: Douglas and McIntyre, 1977.
- Walker, Ardis M. "Joseph R. Walker" in Mountain Men and Fur Traders of the Far West. Lincoln: University of Nebraska Press, 1982.
- Wallin, Deborah. "A Very Pretty Man: The Life of Simon Plamondon," M.A. Thesis, Western Washington University, Bellingham, Washington, 1987.
- Walter, Margaret. Early Days Among the Gulf Islands of British Columbia, Victoria, BC: Diggon-Hibben, 1946.
- Ward, David A. "The Old Complaint of Stephen Reynolds." Hawaiian Journal of History 7 (1993): 87-92
- Warne, Douglas. "George Prince Kaumuali'i, the Forgotten Prince." The Hawaiian Journal of History, 36 (2002): 59-71.
- Watson, Bruce M.,
 "Family Life at Fort Langley." British Columbia Historical News 32, No. 4 (Fall 1999): 24-30.
 "Scots on the Coast Before Alexander Mackenzie." British Columbia Historical News 37, No. 4 (Winter 2004): 17-20.
 "Pacific Ocean Interconnectedness: The Story of Three Japanese and a Man out of the Fur Trade", ricepaper 12, 2 (Summer 2007), 64-67
 "Pacific Ocean Interconnectedness: The Story of Chinese Craftsmen and a Mexican connection." ricepaper 12, 3 (Fall 2007), 60-62
 "Pacific Ocean Interconnectedness: The story of the Hawaiians and the Pacific Northwest." ricepaper 12, 4 (Winter 2007), 54-57
- Relevant Talks and Unpublished Papers
- "Finding Your Ancestors in the Fur Trade," (Stevens County Historical Society, Colville, Washington, July 8, 1998)
- "Fur Traders and the Colony of Vancouver Island: A Romp Though the Records," (Vancouver Island Colonial Conference, Fulford Harbour, Salt Spring Island, B. C., January 10, 1999)
- "The Iroquois and the Grande Ronde Reservation," (Grand Ronde Confederated Tribes Symposium, Grande Ronde, Oregon, July 16, 1999)
- "The Effects of the 1847-48 Measles Epidemic on the Servants of the Hudson's Bay Company Working on the Pacific Slopes," (Rupert's Land 2000 Conference, Vancouver, Washington, March 2000.)
- "Early Asians on the Pacific Coast," (Asian North American History Reconsidered, UBC, Vancouver, B. C., May 4, 2002)
- "The Re-Emergence of Descendant Fur Trade Identity at Forts Langley and Nisqually," (Fort Langley: Outpost of Empire gathering, Fort Langley, B. C. August 24, 2002)
- "Diversity of Activity on the Pacific Slopes Before Lewis and Clark," (Washington State Museum, Tacoma, Washington, Lewis and Clark Celebrations, March 13, 2004)
- "Intermingling Cultures: Fur Trade Families," (presented with Jean Barman to Envisioning the David Thompson Bicentennial, Northwest Museum of Arts and Culture, Spokane, Washington, March 18, 2006)
- "The effects of Maritime Fur Trading on the Pacific Slopes before Lewis and Clark," (9th North American Fur Trade Conference & 12th Rupert's Land Colloquium, given at St. Louis, Missouri May 25, 2006)
- "Strategic Topography and other factors which determined the placement of fur trade posts in The Pacific Northwest," (Historical Map Society of British Columbia, University of British Columbia, Vancouver, May 12, 2008)
- "Tough and Independent: Iroquois in the Pacific Northwest during the fur trade,"(Rupert's Land Colloquium, 2008 at Rocky Mountain House, Alberta, May 16, 2008)
- Watson, Bruce with Barman.
Leaving Paradise: Indigenous Hawaiians in the Pacific Northwest, 1787-1898. Honolulu: University of Hawai'i Press, 2006.

- "Fort Colville's Fur Trade families and the Dynamics of Race in the Pacific Northwest." Pacific Northwest Quarterly 90, No. 3 (Summer 1999): 140-153.
- Watson, Douglas Sloan. West Wind: The Life of Joseph Reddeford Walker. Los Angeles: Percy H. Booth, 1934.
- Wells, Merle,
 "James Craigie." Mountain Men and The Fur Trade. Leroy R. Hafen, ed. Glendale, CA: Arthur H. Clark, 1963: 133-137.
- "Ignace Hatchiorauquasha (John Grey)." The Mountain Men and the Fur Trade of the Far West, LeRoy R. Hafen, ed., vol. VII, Glendale, California, Arthur H. Clark: 161-175.
- White, Catherine M. "Saleesh House, The First Trading Post among the Flathead" Pacific Northwest Quarterly, vol. 33, p. 251-263
- Williams, Christina M. "The Daughter of Angus MacDonald." Washington Historical Quarterly 13, 1 (January 1922): 107-117.
- Williams, Glyndwr. "The Hudson's Bay Company and the Fur Trade: 1670-1870." The Beaver (Autumn 1983, Outfit 314:2): 4-82.
- Willis, Douglas. The Story of Crofting in Scotland, Edinburgh: John Donald Publishers Ltd, 1991
- Wilson, Bruce A. Late Frontier. A History of Okanogan County, Washington. Okanogan Historical Society, Washington, 1990.
- Wilson, Clifford. Campbell of the Yukon, Toronto, ONT: Macmillan of Canada, 1970.
- Wilson, Rev. E. F. Salt Spring Island. 1895.
- Winther, Oscar Osburne. The Old Oregon Country: A History of Frontier Trade, Transportation and Travel. Lincoln: University of Nebraska Press, 1969.
- Wolfenden, Madge. "The Naming of Holland Point." British Columbia Historical Quarterly 18, 1& 2 (January-April 1954) No. 1 & 2: 117-21.
- Wright, Ronald. Stolen Continents: The "New World" Through Indian Eyes Since 1492. New York: Viking Press, 1992.
- Young, F. G. "Ewing Young and His Estate." Oregon Historical Quarterly 21 (1920): 171-315.

